

about 45 per cent. of the total of paving on all streets on which operates a double track and approximately 20 per cent of the total of paving on all the streets on which it operates a single track, and it is considered that this paving cost to the Street Railway is $6,729.04. This covering the Street Railway's proportion of Brantford, Market Street and Colborne street only, it must be admitted that in twenty years from now the Street Railway would under private ownership be compelled to pay a much greater sum when the half of the streets on which its lines are operated are paved. Any discussion which this may cause, allow me to express the hope that the gentlemen on the site side of this question will for the purpose of enlightening the ratepayers take the facts and figures which I have given and endeavor to prove or disprove their accuracy, leaving aside entirely any personal issues.

Respectfully submitted, WILLIAM P. KELLETT.

Brantford Should Sign Death Warrant Of The 38 Year Free Franchise On Monday

CANADIANS ARE TOO PROUD TO LET THE MOTHER COUNTRY BEAR ENTIRE NAVY BURDEN

Mr. H. B. Ames, M. P., of Montreal Delivers a Stirring Address on British Navy at Victoria Hall Last Evening - A Historical Review of the Greatest of All Fleets.

Last night Mr. Ames, M.P., of Montreal, delivered his lecture, "Why Three Dreadnoughts," illustrated with lantern slides to a large and appreciative audience in Victoria Hall. Mr. R. T. Hall occupied the chair and opened the meeting in a splendid eulogy to the military resources which Brantford possesses in her 38th regiment. He also referred to the newly formed battery R.H.A., and spoke for a realization of the fact that every man should be able to bear arms for his country. Calling upon Mr. W. F. Cockshutt, M.P., to speak, the member for Brantford rose and in introducing Mr. Ames paid a high tribute to the memory of the dead statesman, to whom both parties unite in doing homage. Mr. Ames as a man of high aims, a statesman and one of the most conscientious gentlemen in the House at Ottawa. He had the confidence of His Majesty's Government on his visit and the admiralty had given him every assistance to see the inner life of naval power. A splendid reception was accorded the speaker of the evening, who was given three rousing cheers at the conclusion of his address. Brief addresses were delivered by Mr. W. S. Brewster, M.P.P., and Ald. W. M. Charlton. Why Three Dreadnoughts The text of the address of Mr. Ames was as follows: "One of the most interesting sights in the harbor of Portsmouth is Nelson's famous ship, the "Victory," still doing duty as the flagship of the commander-in-chief. Although more than a century and a half have passed since this battleship was built, her timbers are still staunch and she is yet in daily use as a training ship. Nelson's line of battleships were of wood, propelled by sails and armed with smooth bore guns. They depended for success on close range fighting, on their ability to deliver, and to withstand punishment. Nelson won the battle of Trafalgar by piercing the enemy's line at its centre and then raking the opposing vessels with both his broadsides. Having destroyed the centre he smashed the wings. It was at close quarters that the combat was finally decided. The "Victory" was 50 years old at the time of the battle of Trafalgar, and for half a century after that famous sea fight, there was comparatively little change in battleship construction. Modern battleship history may be said to commence with the Crimean war, when for the first time ships propelled by steam were used. The "Wanderer" was the last sailing ship of the British navy. About the same time between 1850 and 1860 iron replaced wood as a material for the construction of hulls. Armor. But the vulnerability of an iron vessel soon became apparent. The memorable contest between the "Monitor" and the "Merrimac" during the American Civil war ushered in the new era of battleship building. In this engagement the value of protective armor was demonstrated. After 1863 we find battleships being given a complete belt of iron armor. From that time onward the never ending rivalry between the armor and the gun has continued. There has been of late years great improvement in protective armor. The "Devastation" in 1869 carried a wrought iron belt 18 inches thick. This made so great a weight that one third of her displacement was accounted for by her protective covering. Improvements in armor followed until the Krupp steel plate, six inches thick, in use to-day, offers as much resistance to a projectile as

TAX RATE IS REDUCED BY HALF MILL THIS YEAR--COMMITTEE MEETS AND TRIMS DOWN THE ESTIMATES

The tax rate of Brantford for the current year will be 22 1/2 mills on the dollar. The announcement was made this morning by Treasurer Bunnell following a meeting of the estimates committee yesterday. Mr. Bunnell is preparing a statement showing the appropriations granted for various civic departments and boards, and, needless to say, numerous reductions were made. The tax rate this year is thus one-half mill less than in 1913, and it required careful figuring and considerable trimming to effect the reduction. The committee had an increased total assessment to work on, and the revenue of the city will be greater than ever. But the demands for expenditures on public works, schools, etc., and the increase in interest and sinking fund charges on the debenture debt made a formidable array of figures in civic expense. "The members of the committee," said Mayor Spence this morning, "felt that it was a time when only necessary obligations should be incurred by the city, and appropriations of the different boards were dealt with accordingly."

The Joke Is On Mr. Kellett

The joke is on Mr. Kellett. At the meeting in Victoria Hall last night Mayor Spence imparted some information which he had secured from Brandon, Man., the population of which Mr. Kellett gave yesterday as 24,000. Three years ago Brandon had a population of 15,000, and Mr. George Watt, manager of the Bank of B.N.A., gives the information that the population is now between 16,000 and 17,000. Included in this figure is the population, 1,500 strong, of the Manitoba Lunatic asylum. "How can a town with 1,500 lunatics run a street railway successfully?" asked the Mayor, pointed out that there was no amid laughter. It was further pointed out that there was no comparison between Brandon and Brantford.

GOVERNMENT FEARS OUTBREAK

Passions of People Are Aroused and Troops Are Rushed to the Scene--Officers Are Resigning, Rather Than Take Up Arms Against Ulster Men --Late Dispatches Today.

[By Special Wire to The Courier] DUBLIN, March 21.—The immediate despatch of regular cavalry from the Curragh Camp to Ulster had to be cancelled today owing to resignations of officers of the Sixteenth Lancers and Fourth Hussars. CALL TO ARMS ATHLONE, Ireland, March 21.—All the regular artillery stationed in central and southern Ireland have been instructed to hold themselves in readiness to proceed to Ulster at a moment's notice. All leave has been cancelled and officers and men on furlough have been recalled. It is reported that the infantry reservists have been ordered to hold themselves in readiness to join their regiments. OFFICERS RESIGN. DUBLIN, March 21.—It was reported here to-day that Brigadier-General Hubert De La Poer Gough, the commander of the Third Cavalry brigade at the Curragh, composed of the Sixteenth Lancers and the Fourth Hussars, has resigned but this was not confirmed. Large bodies of armed police left to-day for various stations in the north of Ireland. Scores of special magistrates for service in Ulster were sworn in at the castle this morning. A MUTINY. LONDON, March 21.—A mutiny of two companies of the Dorsetshire regiment stationed in Belfast is reported by The Pall Mall Gazette. According to The Pall Mall Gazette's message, when the men of the first battalion of the Dorsetshire regiment were paraded in Belfast and notified that they were being transferred elsewhere they threw down their arms. A sergeant stepped forward saluted the officers and said: "We will have no home rule here." This is thought in some quarters to be an exaggerated version of the reports of unrest among the regular troops in Ulster. LONDON, March 21.—The utmost activity prevails at the war office and in the other departments of the government affected by the apparently grave situation in Ulster. All the secretaries of state to-day cancelled their usual week-end trips to the country. Col. John Seely, secretary of state for war and Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, conferred at the war office this morning. After the conference a statement was issued confirming the report of the resignation of some army officers serving in Ireland, and stating that these cases will be dealt with in due and normal course by General Sir Arthur Paget, the commander-in-chief in Ireland. In the meantime the officers concerned, according to the statement "are performing their duties which duties naturally include obedience to orders." Rumors also were in circulation to-day that other officers of the army serving in the south of Ireland will resign their commission if ordered to Ulster. In the meanwhile General Sir Arthur Paget continues to dispose his troops who have orders to safeguard government property and to maintain law and order. A detachment of 150 men of the regular army arrived this morning at Carrickfergus near Belfast to reinforce the garrison. Large quantities of arms and ammunition are stored there. In order to prevent an outburst the police in Ireland have been told not to take any steps to enforce the gun license act in cases where members of the Ulster volunteers are seen carrying rifles in camp or elsewhere. The act empowers the authorities to seize all unlicensed fire arms. The greatest danger is believed to lie in the possibility of Orange and Nationalist workmen coming to blows, as this might start a general conflict. King George is keeping in closest touch with the situation. He summoned the secretary of state for war to Buckingham Palace at an early hour this morning, and also sent one of his private secretaries to the premier's residence in Downing street to secure the latest official information. All Looks Like War. BELFAST, Ireland, March 21.—Ulster this morning presented a very martial aspect. All the towns were occupied by soldiers of the regular army and other detachments were marching along the country roads with long trains of baggage and ammunition carts on their way to strengthen the various garrisons. In the meanwhile at all the Unionist centres there was great animation among the "Ulster volunteers." Throughout the provinces a feeling of intense excitement prevailed and everybody seemed waiting in anxious expectation for something to occur which they knew not what. Belfast Lough, also displayed considerable activity. Two torpedo boat destroyers, the Pathfinder and the Attentive, arrived there this morning from Kingstown and landed five officers and 150 men of the Yorkshire regiment at Carrickfergus Castle.

BRANTFORD HOTELS ARE QUITE SAFE SAYS FIRE INSPECTOR IN CASE OF FIRE BREAKING OUT

Courier Reporter Conducts an Investigation With Officials--Every Hotel Bedroom Has a Rope to the Ground and Fire Escapes Are Marked by Red Lights--Other Buildings.

Following the disastrous fire at Toronto recently when the Woodbine Hotel was burned down, the question might be asked "Are Brantford hotels and other public places fully equipped with fire escapes and other appliances for the safety of their occupants?" The answer would be according to Chief Lewis of the Fire Department and License Inspector R. J. Eacrett that Brantford's hotels, etc., are very well equipped against danger. The license act requires that every room in a hotel must be equipped with a rope besides fire escapes on the building. Every hotel in the city has these ropes except the Belmont, which has something even better than ropes, an iron ladder set in the wall from every room to the ground. Besides the ropes all the hotels have fire escapes at the ends of their halls. Another precaution Mr. Eacrett has taken for the safety of hotel guests is to have red lights placed over the doors or windows leading to the fire escapes and notices hung over the halls reading "Fire escape at red light." Then again most of the hotels have a night porter, who in a small way looks after the building and is able to sound an alarm should a fire break out. Some hotels are peculiarly laid out and the fire escapes are hard to get at. In one hotel the fire escape is at the window of one of the bedrooms but Mr. Eacrett has taken the precaution to have the red lights placed over the door and thus guests will know exactly where the escape is. The Y.M.C.A., according to Chief D. J. Lewis while not entirely what it should be is by no means a death trap. Chief Lewis inspected the

SIMPLE BUT MOST IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL OF MR. PATERSON TAKES PLACE THIS AFTERNOON

Men Representative of All Walks of Life in Attendance at Obsequies--Fitting Tribute to Memory of the Late Parliamentarian.

The funeral of the late Hon. Wm. Paterson takes place to-day at Farringdon cemetery this afternoon, with simple but impressive services. The outer world was represented by men in every walk of life and the more prominent mourners who will attend the funeral are W. F. Cockshutt, M.P., and Mr. H. B. Ames, M.P., of Montreal, and Mr. J. H. Fisher, M.P., who will represent the Dominion government; W. S. Brewster M.P.P., and J. W. Westbrook, M.P.P. The city council will be fully represented and many public bodies of the city will send a representative. At the late home on Charlotte St., where deceased now lies many visitors were received during the night and this morning, and all are moved by the calm resignation of the features of the late gentleman. Upon the bier and clustered round the room are many magnificent floral tributes, and they include offerings from public dignitaries and bodies. A large wreath is to be seen at the head of the room from Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Cabinet. Upon the black draped coffin are two lovely wreaths from constituents of the deceased. One is marked "Our Member, 1872-1896," and is from the South Brant Liberals, the other bears the words "The North Brant Liberal Association." The Mayor and council have sent in a beautiful token of their appreciation, also Mr. W. F. Cockshutt, Brantford Liberals have contributed a cushion. Many friends of the deceased, and not a few from political opponents, despite the requests for their omittance. Mr. W. F. Paterson, Mr. James Paterson and Mrs. (Dr.) Branscombe of Picton, children of the late gentleman, will be present at the funeral, but the Rev. Charles Gordon Paterson, professor of church history of the San Francisco Theological Col-

DISGRACED MAN AT HAMILTON ENDS LIFE

Hamilton Wholesaler, James N. Gow, Slashed His Throat With Knife.

A SERIOUS CHARGE

HAMILTON, March 21.—A further sensation was sprung in what is known as the MacKay-Gow case yesterday afternoon. About 3.30 a report spread like wildfire throughout the city that James N. Gow, one of the principals in the case, who, along with A. B. MacKay, was committed for trial by Magistrate Jelfs on a serious charge against young girls, had committed suicide. Investigation proved that the report was true, and that the man, who had been despondent and in a highly nervous condition since his release from the cells on bail, yesterday afternoon, had slashed his throat with a sharp knife. The deed was committed in room 12 at the Terminal Hotel, where Gow took up his quarters last evening. Gow had been depressed all morning, and was even more pronounced when he had his dinner. At 2 o'clock he went to his room and this was the last seen of him alive. A maid at the hotel heard a peculiar noise and Mrs. Mullins, wife of the proprietor, and her brother-in-law broke open the door and found Gow lying on the bed with a gaping wound in the throat, and the top of the bed covered with blood. Gow was unconscious. Dr. Griffin was summoned but when he arrived Gow was dead. He was 51 years old, and had for years been connected with the wholesale grocery firm of MacPherson and Glassco. It was stated to-day that Gow was about to sever his connection with the firm but the members refused to make a statement until later. Mrs. Gow has been living separated from her husband for some time, and has been in Buffalo. She came to this city on Monday to take steps to building last October and requested the board of directors to place two fire escapes on the building. One of these was erected on the west end roof but the other one has not yet been put up. However, this is not the fault of the directors who ordered the escape to be made but the company to whom the contract was let have not yet placed it on the building. Then on the inside there are two stairs one in the front and one in the rear end. These stairs are fairly wide, one of them being quite wide. This to a certain extent eliminates any danger of the roomers being cut off in exit. However there are at present about 75 roomers all on the third and fourth floors of the building and should a cry of "fire" be given late some night there is bound to be a rush for the fire escapes and stairs and only by the best kind of luck will every one get out without injury. Therefore, Chief Lewis is going to recommend that ropes be placed in every room on the third and fourth floors which will further protect their occupants in case of fire.

The Y.W.C.A. is in splendid condition for its roomers to effect a speedy exit in case of a fire. The building, besides having two excel- lently situated fire escapes is equip- ped with a standpipe and a line of hose which the officers in charge are well able to handle. Chief Lewis personally instructed them how to handle the hose and now they are quite proficient with it.
Then the building is also equipped with a broad staircase, which amply provides a means of escape from the rooms.
The Hospital is another institution which is well equipped in case of fire. They also have lines of hose which the attendants are qualified to operate and the building is also equipped with fire escapes.
The Commercial Chambers where about twenty-five people reside on the third floor, is also well equipped with fire escapes according to Chief Lewis.
There are a few tenement houses in this city which Chief Lewis has ord-cover the alimony which the courts awarded her some months ago, and had a bailiff put in charge of the home at 194 Hughson St. south.

An inquest was opened last evening, with Dr. Griffin as coroner. The jury viewed the remains at Blachford's undertaking rooms and adjourned until Monday night. The person Gow talked about was his little daughter, Jean, who is with her mother, from whom he was estranged. A picture of the child was found on the dresser.

Surprise for Mackay.

Mr. Mackay was seen in his office in the Clyde block shortly after the suicide of Gow. Mackay had not heard of it until informed by a reporter, although he had walked down King street a few minutes before.

"Are you aware, Mr. Mackay, that James Gow is dead?" he was asked.
"Is that so? Get out!" he said.
Then the reporter explained what had happened, and what the police had done with the body. He said: "Well, that does not surprise me. Jim has had considerable family and financial troubles."

He had a copy of another paper in his hand which told of a girl's suicide.
He said that when he heard the boys calling out "Suicide!" he attached Gow's name to it, but he did not bother looking at the paper until he got in his office.
A visitor then showed him the paper.
A visitor then showed him the paper.
Mackay had just returned from Nesbitt, Gauld and Lang's, where he had been completing arrangements to send Gow to Mackay's farm in Saskiawean next month. He had been at the lawyer's office since 11 o'clock in the morning. He was responsible for Gow being at the hotel after Gow had requested his company at his home on Hughson street. Mackay said he persuaded him to go to the hotel as he thought he would be better off down there. He had breakfast with him in the morning. It was the last time he had seen him. Mackay called up a number of his friends and lawyer, George S. Kerr, but Mr. Kerr had already heard the news.

Mr. Mackay remarked to Mr. Kerr that it was a pretty unexpected climax. He explained to the lawyer Gow's financial and family troubles.
There were several others in the room and Mr. Mackay asked them and a reporter what they thought it was best for him to do, and whether he should go down and see the remains.
He answered his own question by saying "I could never stand and look at the remains."

Mackay Agitated.

Mackay appeared to be greatly agitated and doing his best to restrain himself. When the reporter left Mackay was still calling up friends, telling them of Gow's tragic death.

Mrs. Mullens, wife of the proprietor of the hotel, who knew Gow quite well, said that Mr. Gow arrived here at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and later on moved his trunks to the hotel, where he apparently intended to stay for some time. He was greatly agitated during the afternoon and arose about 10 o'clock this morning, but did not put in an appearance until he arrived in the hotel dining-room shortly before 2 o'clock. The maid who waited on him remarked on his agitated manner and said that he had very little dinner. He went up to his room shortly afterwards, and was heard pacing up and down all night.
The maid, in passing his room a few minutes later, heard some peculiar noises and, suspecting that something unusual had taken place, notified the hotel proprietor. "I ran up to his room and found the door locked, and I called other people. They succeeded in gaining entrance to the room through an outer window, as it was found impossible to open the door as Gow had left the key turned on the inside. It is a terrible, terrible thing!"

The business section of Dunrea, Man., was wiped out by a fire which started in the Town Hall. Property loss $30,000.

In The World Of Labor

A Budget of News For Those Interested in Labor

By G. A. M.

Cleaned From the Exchanges and Other Sources

United textile workers are rapidly organizing in knitting mills in the vicinity of Philadelphia, Pa.

Stationary firemen at the Boston, Mass., Opera House, have gained an increase in wages of $3.50 per week.

Statistics show that the rate of wages for girl confectionery workers in Greater New York is but $5 per week, and this amount is frequently reduced by an iniquitous system of fines and docking.

Through arbitration, trainmen of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railway have secured a new wage agreement that will net them an aggregate increase of over one hundred thousand dollars per year.

Only union labor is to be employed upon the erection of the numerous new court houses in Edwarsville, N. Y. These instructions have been handed out to the various contractors by the County Board of supervisors.

The members of the Coal Harvesters' Local No. 810, St. John, N.B., International Longshoremen, made a new record recently in loading the Teutonic, putting 1,950 tons aboard in 22-1/2 hours.

The Retail Clerks and Union Barbers of Springfield, Ohio, have succeeded in securing reduced hours upon Saturday evenings, and commencing January, 1915, the clerks will not be required to work upon this evening.

The United States Federal Department of Labor has arrested 500 Romanian laborers of the Calumet and Hecla Mining Company, at Houghton, Mich., on the charge of being foreign contract laborers.

On the last day of February, the leaders in charge of the railway strike in Portugal issued orders for the strikers to return to work at present. No intimation is given in press despatches as to whether the men have won, compromised or lost.

The three Chicago local divisions of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees expended $190,640.17 last year and out of this amount only $3,747 was used for strike purposes.

The stationary firemen employed at the Hotel Vendome, Boston, Mass., who formerly worked 12 hours, and who struck to enforce their demand for eight hour day, have won out. The old rate of wages is to be paid.

Industrial pressure which forces children of tender years from their homes into the factories is blamed as a cause of commercialized vice in Massachusetts, according to a report of a "white slave" investigating committee, made public recently. Poverty is also stated to be the cause of much vice.

American residents of Buenos Ayres have requested American newspapers to warn their countrymen against coming to Argentina without money on the promise of employment. The many charities of the city are now more than taxed to the limit by the number of destitute cases who receive assistance.

The Harris-Brown Co. of Chicago which came out of the open shop and reduced the wages of its union workers from $23 to $16 per week, met with such a determined protest from trades unionists in Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, that it fired all its strike-breakers and reinstated the old staff at the former rate of wages. It will use the union label on its entire output.

During the present week the Canadian District Council of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (Reid section), is holding its annual convention in the city of Winnipeg, as announced last week, the organization has re-elected by an overwhelming vote the terms upon which it was proposed to amalgamate with the McNulty wing. The present session is therefore certain to be a most important one, and the result of its deliberations will be awaited with a considerable amount of interest.

Daughters Of The Dominion

Over 2,000 visits to parents were made in one month by the nurses belonging to the Ottawa branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses.

A delightful programme of song, and story, delicious refreshments, and a social half hour combined to make the last meeting of the Elford Women's Institute a very enjoyable gathering.

Strawberry Hill, B. C., has a new organization in a recently formed branch of the Women's Institute. There was much enthusiasm at the initial meeting, thirty ladies joining on this occasion.

W. J. O'Connell, "Cereals" was given by Mr. William Wilson at a recent meeting of the Port Arthur Women's Institute, in which he gave with minutest detail the history of each important variety of grain.

Over a thousand dollars was spent last year by the St. Thomas Chapter I. O. D. E. on furnishings for isolation cottages at Hopewell, and further expenditures on hospital work are planned.

Improving the school is the present action of the Women's Institute of Norboro P.E.I. Individual cups have been provided for the children, and two new chairs are to be given shortly.

Much interest is shown in the sewing classes arranged by the Nelson Woman's Institute, and several members are taking advantage of the lessons in dress-making to be given by the Provincial Government Supervisor.

With Chatham ladies to think is to act. So when a branch of the Woman's Canadian Club was mooted, a gathering of ladies was called, and at this meeting an enthusiastic branch of the club was launched, with sixty members enrolled.

A splendid course in Home Nursing was given last month at the Manitoba Agricultural College, when women in rural districts were given instruction in first aid, which should prove invaluable in the sparsely-settled prairie districts.

Law and medicine were under discussion at the last meeting of the St. Mary's Women's Institute, when excellent papers were given on "The Injustice of Laws Concerning Women and Children," and on "First Aid for Asthma."

That intelligent trained workers are necessary to the making of a great nation was the gist of a splendid address given to the Woman's Canadian Club of London by Dr. Robertson, Chairman of the Royal Commission of Industrial Education.

To specially mark Paardeberg Day, when in the South African War, fourteen years ago, a band of Canadians, under the leadership of General Cronje, and routed his forces, the Girls' Chapter of the I. O. D. E. at Regina arranged a splendid concert, which was most successful from every point of view.

The Fight Against Tuberculosis

In addition to its Home and Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Colorado Springs, the International Typographical Union has been in the forefront of the battle against tuberculosis that is being waged for the elimination of this curse on the white race.

Through The Typographical Journal, the official organ of the International Typographical Union, the membership is advised each month of the progress that is being made in the prevention, treatment and cure of tuberculosis, and the editors are diligent in searching for the latest and most approved thought on this subject. The Typographical Journal reaches each one of the sixty thousand members of the International Typographical Union, and is thus an effective agent in the campaign against tuberculosis.

Local unions of the International Typographical Union, of which there are more than seven hundred, are working through tuberculosis committees, and these committees aim to get before the local members the great danger of working in filthy and poorly ventilated composing rooms, and to also urge upon employers the necessity for reforms in this respect. Where employers refuse to act, our unions are advised to instruct their tuberculosis committees to go direct to the boards of health and insist on action by these official bureaus. As a result, the physical character of the composing rooms is improving, and employers are realizing that healthy workmen are a good business asset. This may be a selfish view, but if selfishness will accomplish the object sought, it will all rebound to the

NEW HOUSED LIFEBOAT WITH WIRELESS.

THE LUNDIN CABIN LIFEBOAT OFF SANDY HOOK LIGHT SHIP WITH FIFTY MEN STOWED BELOW.

This boat, known as the Lundin housed lifeboat, can be entirely closed in by watertight iron doors and ports, and in tests of stability she carried fifty men inside the cabin with seventeen hanging to the guard rail on one side. Rowlocks just below the port lights permit of her being rowed with six sweeps. Her propeller works in a tunnel, well protected from drift. Forward and aft she carries large reels, on which life lines are wound, and they can be shot aboard a ship.

The boat's bottom is double, with air compartments and scuppers making her self-bailing. Such a boat, as the tests demonstrated, can pass a towline and pull a whole string of other lifeboats.

The sides of these boats are heavily padded with Balsa wood, which enables them to stand heavy bumping without damage. A small compartment within the cabin of the boat is virtually insulated, so far as sound is concerned, from the rest of the boat. This is called the silence cabin and is set aside for the wireless operator.

benefit of the wage-worker, in that it will secure for him healthy, pleasant and comfortable quarters in which to earn his livelihood.

The various conventions of the International Typographical Union, held annually, have considered the prevention and cure of tuberculosis, and the committee reports on this subject have been given wide circulation.

One of the conventions adopted the following resolution: "Resolved: That subordinate unions are urged to discuss sanitary and unsanitary conditions of composing rooms, and that they use every endeavor to secure the co-operation of proprietors to improve any unhealthy conditions in composing rooms."

And It Is All For Profit

Employment Agents Send Women to Disorderly Houses.

It is shown in the report of the State Immigration Commission, which has just been submitted to Governor Fielding of New Jersey, that the most heartless swindling is practised by cabmen, porters and runners on immigrants in the State. As few of the stream of aliens moving through the railway terminals and steamship docks speak English or know anything about city ways it is easy to give the wrong change or take them to the wrong places. Almost a score of employment agencies were in operation which did not scruple to send immigrant women to disorderly houses as servants, and to procure unsuspecting girls as inmates. Many agencies were also being operated without licenses, and in bedrooms and in saloons and other places forbidden by law. There is no doubt that what is transpiring in this section of the country is taking place in all the

RHEUMATISM SCIATICA AND LUMBAGO QUICKLY CURED BY "KEPHALDOL"

A druggist in Toronto said that he was asking an Old Country customer of his about KEPHALDOL TABLETS. This customer told him "I suffered from severe Rheumatism and Sciatica for twenty years, hardly ever being free from these troubles. I read about KEPHALDOL in the Glasgow papers and sent home for some. Three hours after taking two tablets, the pain was almost gone, and after taking six or seven, I hadn't a bit of pain."

This druggist went in to see his doctor about his wife and asked him if he had ever heard of KEPHALDOL. The doctor said "I understand KEPHALDOL is a reliable sedative and anodyne; relieving pain without affecting the heart or vital organs. Since KEPHALDOL has been introduced into Canada I have prescribed in cases of severe Headache and Neuralgia and just recently succeeded in helping a most severe case of La Grippe with it."

Since then, this druggist has ordered KEPHALDOL and recommended it to those of his customers who wanted something to relieve pain. If you are unable to get KEPHALDOL Tablets at your druggist's, send 50c to Kephaldol Limited, 31 Latour Street, Montreal.

Industrial Canada

The receipts for the Toronto Street Railway Company for the month of February, 1914, amounted to $401,274.45, as against $434,683.17 for the same period in 1913; an increase of $36,887.17.

Chairman McCallum, of the Machinists District Council and secretary treasurer of the C. P. R., system federation, is starting on an organization tour of the Grand Trunk Railway system throughout Canada, and in this work he will be assisted by the vice-presidents and organizers of the other international unions engaged in railroad work.

A number of municipalities in Saskatchewan are up in arms against a measure before the legislature which proposes to remove their power to pass laws to restrain the evil. The bonus system is an unmitigated evil which pits the various industrial centres against each other in an unequal desire to get ahead of the other fellows. If the Saskatchewan municipalities are wise they will support the bill.

The Canadian District Council of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers held a convention in Winnipeg on March 2nd in the Labor Temple. Representatives from all parts of the Dominion were present. The question of affiliating with the McNulty wing was one of the important questions before the gathering.

In British Columbia there are 18,000 miles of roads and trails. Over four million dollars have been expended by the provincial government upon road extension and improvement work during the past year, and the further sum of four hundred thousand dollars has been appropriated for their maintenance during the winter months. This huge outlay has been the means of providing employment for a large number of workers.

The local unions of the various international organizations working on the Canadian Northern are at present voting on the rules and regulations governing the formation of a system federation, and a general meeting will be called to put the same into effect. The men are enthusiastic on the question of federation and the belief in general that a federation of railway federations is only a question of the near future, to bring about uniform rules and schedules governing the various roads in Canada.

Reports from Montreal show that the net profits of the Hillcrest Collieries increased by nearly 25 per cent, and the surplus was nearly doubled during 1913. This strike existed a couple of years ago. It is more than probable if the employees were to ask for an increase in wages out of these big profits they have created in order to meet the increased cost of living they would be turned down, and if they went on strike they would be called malcontent, and have the militia shipped in to overawe them. That's the way they do it in Canada these days.

Saskatoon typos are looking to a good year ahead when business opens out in the spring. There are several big jobs ahead which at present are being held up by the tightness of the money market, but advice is given that for some time to come printers should keep away from this vicinity. The proprietor of The Star has the publishing of the city directory for 1914, and this will give employment to a number of hands otherwise would be on the idle list. This work was formerly done out of the city and is the first large contract to be secured by a local firm.

The following item which is reproduced from the Daily Labor World should make satisfactory reading to this northern side of the border. There is no part of the continent where the maintenance of way employees are better organized than on the big transcontinental Canadian lines and they find it pays. The World puts it thusly:

"It is reported that the Great Northern Railway has reduced the wages of its sectionmen in Minnesota to $1.50 per day. How any man can keep a family in decency at this low wage is beyond understanding. If the sectionmen on the Hill railroads would organize trade unions as they have done in Canada, they would not be compelled to suffer any reduction in wages, but would receive as high wages as are paid there."

On March 6th, Hamilton, Ontario Typographical Union celebrated its sixtieth anniversary, having been organized on that date in 1854, under the name of the Hamilton Typographical Society. Of the original charter members, Richard Butler, of the local United States consulate, is the only known survivor. In those days £ s. d. was the currency of the country, and, as may be imagined, the prices paid to compositors were out of all proportion to presenting existing scales, while ten hours constituted a day's work. The organization was a purely local affair until the year 1869, when a charter was secured from the International Typographical Union, and No. 129, as the present organization is known, came into being. It may be said that the scale of prices and wages set by the old organization remained practically unchanged for nearly a quarter of a century.

Father Auguste Chénier, parish priest of the same place for $2,500 damages for alleged slanderous statements made by him in the latter. Fancies of Fashion Simplicity In Models for Kiddies

By Madge Marvel

MAKING children's clothes is an art by itself and quite distinct from any other branch of dressmaking. In almost every city one or more establishments are given over to clothing the youngest generation, and many a clever needlewoman has found the way not only to a livelihood, but to a substantial prosperity, by designing and making clothes for little folks. Unless one can make her small daughter's clothes, she is confronted by an expensive problem, if she wishes to have the latest and most approved garments, for children's clothes are undeniably expensive if one desires material and smartness. Fortunately simplicity is the aim of the best designers, and it is possible to make garments with the aid of a seamstress which, if bought ready made, or if procured through a specialty shop, would cost a pretty penny. The child of today is picturesque. Old prints must have furnished the inspiration for many of the newest frocks and suits. Look over the pictures of some of the Dickens children and you will see the pattern for the most approved school suit for the modern small boy. Model is Varied There is a straight little blouse cut with scarcely a bit of fullness with the plain little knee length trousers buttoned to it at the waist line. There are variations of this model. For every day wear the suit is made of some of the heavy suitings which are often of corduroy and the blouse of some washable fabric, as linen or tub silk, and for ceremonious occasions the blouse is made of white washable silk or satin, with lace frills at the wrists and collar and with trousers of heavy ribbed silk, bengaline being a favorite weave. Coats for wear over these suits are smart tweed affairs or Russian blouses effect in corduroy. They usually button close at the neck and have the slightly lowered belt. The smart hovers have been wearing funny little peasant-like costumes which I am told will be more used for the summer, as they are so simple, so easily adjusted and so comfortable. These are quite straight and reach the knees. The trousers, which are usually striped, are fastened to the undergarment, and the little girls are just as simple in lines. The straight effect is retained and the sash is as often at the regulation waist line as it is applied nearly to the knees, which has been the accepted belt line. For the young girl, 7 or 8 years, there is a noticeable brevity of skirt and the coats are usually the same length as the frock. When they have the handling of fur the effect is quaint and attractive. Kimono Sleeve Popular The kimono sleeve is used in nearly all the dresses for the small lady. Serge seems the approved material for the street dress. I have seen a tendency to introduce the suit style in some of the best and newest of the spring clothes and it is most attractive and would surely please the wearer. In several models there was a skirt, short and scant, a wide, soft sash and a kimono coat made quite loose. Underneath was a blouse of batiste. The sash frequently becomes part of the frock and fastens at the side. On the very best of the lingerie frocks there is sometimes an appearance of the smoking which was once so fashionable as adornment. When the low belt is chosen the skirt is frequently merely one or two little ruffles of silk contrasting with the serge of the frock. These ruffles are plain if the serge is plain. While the frocks are simple, there is the same demand for style in the clothes for the child today as for his parents, and youthful eyes are wonderfully critical in detecting flaws in the garments of their companions. As for their own apparel, children seem to have a most uncanny idea of what is right and fitting which surprises the onlooker who has no children for whom to buy raiment.

A Tender Smile and a Song

By Adolph Roeder

I PLANTED a smile in the heart of a friend, And it blossomed forth into song; For it rose to his lips in after days, In cadences, low and long. And it winged its way to the twilight woods, Beyond life's hurry and rush; And wove itself into liquid notes, In the throat of the hermit thrush. And it fell on the ears of a sleeping babe, That lay on its mother's breast; And turned again to a tender smile, An earnest of heavenly rest. An angel paused in his heavenward flight To harvest the smile from that face, And it turned in his heart to song again. As he sang at the throne of grace.

THE SONG OF THREE WORDS :: :: By Michelson

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service Great Britain Rights Reserved.

AN old song, if you care to put it that way, but sung in a new way—so new a way that she herself has never discovered that it is an old song. She thinks it never happened before. "I love you" has for her the freshness, the brand new wit, the exquisite novelty, the transcendent cleverness of a mighty creation. This is one of the means by which you know that the song is being sung by the right one at the right time, in the right way. A thing that sounds like a BROMIDE is said by the wrong one, or maybe only in the wrong key—there's something in that. Meanwhile, notice the three words: "I" on one side, "you" on the other, and LOVE between. A wise "I" and "you" keep it there, steadfastly, securely, always.

Are You Afraid of the World?

A MAN killed himself in Los Angeles the other day and left a note telling the mourners what song to sing at his funeral. The man was young, in good health, comparatively speaking; he had enough to eat, and a place to sleep, and no reason whatsoever. But he was a thief. He had embezzled money from the firm for which he was working. When he saw an expert put on his books he went to his room, wrote a good-by letter to his mother, another to his friends, and blew out his brains with a cheap revolver. Both the letters that he left were very sentimental, and supposed to be very touching, especially about the songs he wanted sung at his funeral. Somehow I couldn't weep very tragically over those songs. I kept thinking of the young man's poor old mother, and when I thought of her and what she felt when she found that the boy for whom she had such high hopes had died a thief and a suicide, I couldn't cry so very hard over the man. Sentimental Tommy—that's what they called him, the companions of the man who killed himself. Sentimental Tommy, always talking about the stars and the roses, and shivering when he heard a discord in music, and shuddering at the tones of a harsh voice. And very pleased with himself and with his "sensitive nature" and his "temperament"—I haven't a doubt in the world—if he was anything at all like the Sentimental Tommys of my acquaintance. I know quite a few of them, the Sentimental Tommys, worse luck for me. One of the truths that must be told, I know very little good of them. One of my Sentimental Tommy friends couldn't keep his job because the man he worked for was so rude and coarse. So Sentimental Tommy gave up his position, and went home and let his mother support him for a while. He was not too sensitive to do that. They never are too sensitive to do anything they really want to do—the Sentimental Tommys. Another Sentimental Tommy, who is married to a friend of mine, makes eyes at every girl he meets. The plainer she is the more he makes eyes at her, and if she will let him, he holds her hand and sits in dark corners with her and steps on her foot under the table. And then, if she will let him, he writes her letters—such entrancing letters, all full of stars and moonlight and mocking birds and magnolias! I wondered why he always chose the plain girls. I found out that it was because the plain girls were so grateful. They weren't used to lovers and love making, and they couldn't tell the difference between sentiment and sentimentality. So Sentimental Tommy had a glorious time with them. He's always sad and yearning and misunderstood. One day, when he had made a particularly effulgent and unanimous idiot of himself, he had a talk about it. "This poor little girl you're having such a time about," said I to Sentimental Tommy, "she's really a good deal of a goose, don't you think? She shows your letters to everybody—and then she really isn't the goddess you tell her she is, and people are laughing at her. Can't you see what a cruel, silly thing it is that you are doing?" "Can't you come down out of the clouds for a few minutes, and look at the world as it really is—just for a change?" Sentimental Tommy gave me a look of deep and tragic import. "If I looked at the world as it really is," he said, "I should blow my brains out in an hour." And he couldn't see, poor, Sentimental Tommy, why I wasn't hideously shocked at the idea. Poor Sentimental Tommy—afraid to look the honest world honestly in the face—the good, clean, decent, well-meaning, sad, light-hearted, frivolous, work-a-day world as it really is. He doesn't know what's the matter with him, but I do. It isn't the world he can't look in the face—it's himself. He's built a kind of rosy dream around his own personality, and oh, he can't bear to be awakened. No wonder. Do you remember Hawthorne's story—or was it Hawthorne's—of the man who had a glass through which he could see people as they really were—stripped of all pretense, all fuss and feathers and all hypocrisy. He looked at a great king through this glass and saw sitting on the throne a grinning tiger. He looked at a beautiful woman—and lo, she was a peacock, brainless, heartless and without conscience. He looked at an ugly old woman—and she stood revealed to him a white lily growing in a shady place, pure, sweet and undeffiled. Oh, he had a great time with that glass—the man in the story. He was always chucking to himself and laughing and being so pleased to think that he alone of all the world knew the world as it really was. One day the man with the glass passed through a deep forest, and in the deep forest was a clear, dark pool of water. "What's at the bottom of the pool?" said the man, with the glass, and he looked over, his glass in his hand. And staring him in the face he saw a withered ape holding in his hand a bit of parti-colored glass. "Who is it?" he sobbed, startled almost into common sense. And when he realized that he was looking at himself as he really was he jumped into the calm depths of the deep pool and died. Poor fool! I don't wonder that Sentimental Tommy can't bear to look at the world as it really is. He might, by some miserable chance, catch a glimpse of himself as he really is—no die of cha-grin. His wife has been him for many years as he really is, and people wonder that he has not been more deeply in love with her good-looking husband. Poor woman, I wonder if she sometimes wishes she could be Sentimental Susie for awhile and make herself believe that she is married to a man and not to a vain, strutting popinjay. So you wanted certain songs sung at your funeral did you, Sentimental Tommy? I wonder if you heard them when they were sung?

Secrets of Health and Happiness

One Faint Is Harmless, But Beware the Habit

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B. M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

Copyright, 1914, by L. K. Hirschberg.

HAVE you ever felt like Mark Twain's horse, which was so feeble that it "wanted to lean up against a post to think"? If you have, you belong to the fainting fraternity, even though you have never really swooned. Physiologists now admit that the syncope and instantaneous prostration may be due to many things which are known and a great many others yet to be dug out. The pupil who will completely unloose the Gordian knot responsible for feminine fainting will be sung and honored down the corridors of the ages. Ask savants a day of knowledge of swooning and they will talk like an expert on Athens, Rome, virtue and stuff, but speak little sense. To faint or not to faint is a question as much of digestion, delusion and disease as it is of dress, dreams and discipline. When a fair maid, ruddy with the glow of youth, falls in a swoon, Dr. Cupid prods her with his stethoscope of Syncope then is the sign that you need strength and health the one way or another. To be faintless is to be nappy and strong. But Hercules himself must yield to otitis, and many strokes, though with a little axe, he would and fell the hardest timbered oak. One swoon may be disregarded, but even the strongest cannot afford to neglect fainting if it recurs.

What They Come From Swooning, true enough, comes from "bleeding into the abdominal veins." Indeed, the syncope from shocks, from cold, from want of fresh air, from hunger, from hysteria and from poisoning may be as much an irritation of that part of the medulla oblongata which is the spigot of the red stream as of want of the full blood around the brain. Even so, swooning must be unusual even among women and fair maids. If you are subject to Lady Malaprop's convenient device to decoy sympathy, you are either a hypocrite or truly ailing. The type of stage swooning, once the vogue among scheming old maids, widows and foolish girls, is, I take it, so passé as to be a thing in the limbo of disks, snuff-boxes and oracles. Therefore, if you faint more than once in a year, as permissible as resolutions on New Year's day, either your kidneys are affected in some more or less serious way, your flow of blood or its quality needs correcting, your heart is not up to the hundred mark, or your nervous textile is in serious need of overhauling and renovating.

Absent-Mindedness and Fainting Absent-mindedness, being far-away and distant, when you are not really thinking of something, is a first cousin to fainting. When you scratch your head for want of thought; when you have "to stop and think"; throw your head back; pull your mustache; stroke your beard; smooth the side of your nose with your forefinger; grind your teeth, smoke or chew gum in order the better to complete your appointed task, you have a "strut" which just falls short of swooning. Faint heart never wears a lady, because bravery is the attribute which the tender sex worships. Women know instinctively that a faint-hearted top or youth is one who may be given to fainting. Beauty craves masculine vigor. The habit of taking snuff or sucking another day, is a step toward feebleness. It is actually evidence of weak physical fibre. Hope really do faint, just as weak women do.

Wasting diseases of the nerve fibrils and nervous tissues show themselves in many ways and come from so many causes that you must be more explicit. There is one form of neuritis due to alcoholic degeneration of the nerves, another to arsenic poisoning, another to germ poisons and a legion more. Dr. Hirschberg will answer questions for readers of this paper on medical, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. He will not undertake to prescribe or offer advice for individual cases. Where the subject is not of general interest letters will be answered personally if a stamped and addressed envelope is enclosed. Address all inquiries to Dr. L. K. Hirschberg, care this office.

Sayings of Children

"I know how we walk," said Willie. "We put one foot behind and then do the same thing with the other, and keep doing it." "Mr. Figg-Tommy, I hear you have been telling lies. I never told lies when I was your age." Tommy—When did you begin, paw? "Well, little chap," said the stranger in the family, picking up one of the children, "what are you going to be when you are a man?" "Nothing," said the child. "Nothing? Why so?" asked the stranger. "Because," said the child, "I'm a little girl." Gladys—What are the alien waterloo of the night? Ethel—Ethel—don't know, unless it's those boys they've forgotten to wind up. Kind neighbor (accompanied by a large mastiff, to a little girl very much afraid of him)—It's a good dog; he never hurts any one. Don't you see how he wags his tail? Little girl (telling shrinking back)—Yes, I see; but that isn't the end 'im afraid of.

By GEORGE HENRY SMITH

Daddy's Good Night Story. The brook has gone away," said Charlie Chick to his mother, as he came in the henhouse after something to eat. "It must be frozen over," said Mrs. Cockle. "I guess that is it," replied Charlie. "I walked across where it used to be with the Duck children. We are going skating this afternoon. I do not know what skating is, but the Duck children say it is sliding with sleds on your feet." After Charlie had taken a nap under his mother's wing he started off in search of the Duck children. He found them skating on the brook. "Here you are!" they shouted. "We saved a pair of skates for you." Charlie's skates looked like pieces of wood, but he managed to get them on his feet and soon he was going across the frozen brook with Dick and Danny Duck. Suddenly he raised his wings and he went faster than ever. The Duck children raised their wings, but they were so short they did not catch the wind like Charlie's. They were all having a beautiful time when suddenly Danny Duck went "cher-splash!" right in a big hole in the ice. Down he went, but soon he came up. "Don't worry," said Dick Duck. "You must remember ducks can swim." "I'm not worrying," said Charlie Chick. "Only I don't want to fall in the water." Just then Danny came out of the water and Charlie said: "Didn't you get wet?" "No," replied Danny. "Ducks never get wet." "I forgot," said Charlie, as he skated off.

CARPENTIER MEETS JEANNETTE TO-NIGHT

French Champion in Crucial Bout of His Career--Keen Interest in France.

PARIS, March 20.—No event in French boxing history has aroused as much interest as the contest between Joe Jeannette and George Carpentier, which takes place at Luna Park here just before midnight to-night.

It is expected that nearly six thousand people will be at the ringside. The estimated receipts for admission reach $30,000. Hundreds of tickets have been sold for $25 each. Carpentier and Jeannette agreed to box for a percentage of the takings. Whereof 25 per cent. will be handed to the winner and 20 per cent. to the loser, it is practically assured that there will be a small fortune for each. Jeannette hints that his share of the takings will enable him to retire if beaten.

There is the keenest speculation as to who will win. Carpentier has never yet suffered a knockout, and has met many a big man of repute. One of Jeannette's supporters declared yesterday that nothing short of a crowbar would force Jeannette to give in. Jeannette himself is not inclined to "talk fight." Questioned yesterday, he said "I should win. I believe I will win. I mean to win, but there—let us talk about something else."

FOREIGN LABOR.
KINGSTON, Ont., March 20.—The Trades and Labor Council is raising a row over Foley and Gleason, Ottawa paving contractors, bringing foreign labor here to lay a pavement on Princess and King streets this spring. Mr. Foley announced that he was bringing a regular "circus" of foreigners to Kingston. A deputation of labor men waited on the mayor this morning to demand that a clause be inserted in the contract that local labor be employed wherever possible.

Frank Walker, who was selected for a trip to the Toronto Leaf training camp, has departed with thanks. Walker is in a hurry to get home.

TRAVERS AND HERRESHOFF LEAVE U. S. TO TAKE PART IN INTERNATIONAL GOLF CONTEST IN MAY

MRS. FRED HERRESHOFF—MR. JEROME D. TRAVERS—MR. FRED HERRESHOFF
"Jerry" Travers, four times national amateur champion golfer, and "Fred" Herreshoff, twice runner-up, sailed on the Baltic from New York recently for Liverpool to start training abroad for Europe's turbo big golf meets—the British amateur and open championships and the French amateur tournament—to be played in May and June. Travers and Herreshoff are the first to leave of a party of American golfers that will invade the courses in England and France. National champion Francis Outmol, John Anderson, Heine Schmidt and possibly "Chick" Evans will sail in about two weeks for the other side.

WORLD'S CHAMPIONS TO PLAY HERE AUGUST 11

President Nelson Signs Contract With Connie Mack--Will Insure in Lloyds Against Bad Weather.

Connie Mack's world champions, the Philadelphia Athletics, with the big Bender, the wonderful Collins, the demon Baker, and fleet-footed Strunk will play in Old Home week, August 11.

This announcement was made today by President T. J. Nelson of the Red Sox. Papers have been signed, sealed and delivered, and the attraction will undoubtedly prove the best in a sporting line Brantford has had in many years.

Will Insure Against Weather
The financial end of the proposition would amaze many Brantfordites if they knew the size of the guarantee being offered the Athletics to get them to play a one day stand in Brantford. President Nelson believes that the venture will break even, providing the weather man keeps on his good behaviour. If it rains, however, the guarantee must be paid just the same, and it is well up in four figures. Accordingly the Brantford club president proposes to take a flyer in Lloyds, the celebrated British concern, which will gamble against anything, even the weather. A weather risk will be taken out of course a big premium, and Brantford will be given the opportunity of witnessing the greatest baseball machine of the time in action behind the dyke.

Will Afford Contrast
The contract between the Brantford club and Connie Mack calls for the appearance of the regular team of the world's champions. That means that Plank, Bender, Thomas, Schang, Baker, Collins, Barry, McInnes, Strunk, Oldring and the other big fellows appear in the game. Against these gladiators of the diamond, Rube Deneau will pit his 1914 Red Sox, and it is possible that the Sox will be strengthened by the addition of Canadian League stars picked for the occasion, the same as Hamilton did last year when Detroit visited that city. It will be a grand occasion to compare Canadian League talent with the real best, and it will afford an opportunity to the youngsters to show the big fellows what they can do. This might lead to the disposal of players in the fall by draft or purchase a process which many clubs welcome financially.

Executive Will Help
The old home week executive will assist the Brantford club in the enterprise, although the club is putting up the entire guarantee. As an attraction, however, it is felt that the Athletics will be the biggest of the week, coming here as they do on a general civic holiday with single fare rates from all surrounding centres.

All Enthusiastic
Before closing the deal, Mr. Nelson consulted the old home week executive, and numerous of the baseball fans of the city, and all were unanimous that the deal would be a ten stroke for the re-union and the city. In fact Mayor Spence used his influence with Mr. Ben Shibe to get the deal closed.

Just what the crowd will be depends on the weather. The record attendance at Agricultural Park was something over 10,000 paid admissions when Ottawa and Brantford played lacrosse here a few years ago. Besides that a couple thousand soldiers were packed in the park.

Will Attract Others
The world champions will not only be an attraction to Brantford, but to many in the surrounding cities. It is always the way with the baseball fan. Several hundred journeyed to Hamilton last year to see Detroit play.

Getting Team Together
In the meantime Manager Deneau and the Brantford club officers are doing their best to get a good team together. The chief concern of Manager Deneau is to get the pitchers. He is depending upon two from St. Louis, and one from Chicago. If he gets these the Red Sox, it is confidently hoped, will be a formidable aggregation.

BERLIN WINNERS BY SCORE OF 6-4

The O. H. A. Intermediate Champions Defeat Northern League Winners.

TORONTO, March 21.—Intermediate hockey held sway at the Arena last night, and to tell the truth, the article served put to shame some of the senior games here this season. The contestants were Berlin intermediate champions, and Western University, of London, winners of the Northern League, the former getting the verdict by the score of 6 to 4, after being behind at half time 3 to 2.

Both teams displayed a lot of speed and good stick-handling ability, besides being very clean in their methods. Berlin were the more finished team, and while the lines were evenly matched, the Dutchmen had a good margin on the defence. Dot Reid and Gilles, for Western University, were too easily drawn over after the one man, and in addition did not use their bodies in blocking a man. They were also inclined to roam away from each other, thus leaving their opponents lots of space to go in between them.

It was just the reverse with Truschinski and Siebert of the O. H. A. champions. They played close together and used their weight in stopping rushes. The O. H. A. champions were a considerable heavier team, but they broke fast and together, while Western University were inclined to circle all over the ice in their rushes.

Only a small crowd was on hand, but the fans witnessed a tidy argument, with Berlin getting the verdict through their ability to bore in coupled with bad mistakes by the Western University defence in leaving the mouth of their goal uncovered when the puck was behind the net. Western University had a shade on the O. H. A. champions in the first half, and the score should have been 3 to 1, but the timekeepers failed to ring the gong loud enough for Referee Burgoyne to hear, and Berlin notched a goal after it had been rung.

The light Western University line failed to keep up their good back-checking in the second half, and the O. H. A. champions ran in the first four goals due to getting right in on the nets. Western University were inclined to shoot from too far out, but at that Hainsworth in goal for Berlin was given a busy half hour.

Truschinski and Solomon were the pick for the O. H. A. champions, while McAvoy and Dave Reid were the best for Western University. Both goalkeepers showed excellent form. Chapman of Western University, despite his afflicted lameness being very good.

JUDGE CONFISCATES EGG OF STOLEN HEN

PITTSBURG, March 19.—Whether an egg laid in the court belongs to the defendant accused for stealing the chicken or to the accuser both of whom claim ownership of the fowl, was settled by Justice of the Peace John G. Richards of North Braddock. Delia Garrity of North Braddock, was accused of having stolen two chickens. The information was made by Michael Kitcheth of Bell avenue North Braddock.

The chickens were exhibited in a box. During the discussion one of the hens began to cackle. She had laid an egg and discussion as to the ownership ensued.

LAXATIVE FOR OLD PEOPLE—"CASCARETS"

Salts, calomel, pills act on bowels like pepper acts in nostrils. Get a 10 cents box now.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles.

So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets and they cost only a cent per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep. The ocal council of women are

YANKEE PLAYERS WHO CAUSE SENSATION.

Two of the Yankees' players, "Bill" Holden, outfielding recruit from New London, of the Eastern Association, and Mr. Hale, pitcher, have been the sensation of the trailing camp at Houston. Holden is one of the best fly catcher, in the business, has a wonderful throwing arm and considerable speed. On the bases he was an undesirable last season because of poor judgment, but his one glaring fault seems to have been partially overcome, and there seems to be no danger of clogging up the run route with Holden on the paths.

First Defeat

Dufferin Indoor Ball Team Lost to Hamilton Visitors Last Night.

Before only a small crowd the Dufferin Rifles indoor ball team lost their first game of the season to C. Co. of the 13th Regiment, Hamilton, by the score of 7 to 1. The Duffs were clearly outclassed in every department of the game. Leonard, the 18 year old pitcher of the visitors is the fastest pitcher that has been seen in this city. Last night he made no less than 22 of the local team whiff the atmosphere in vain attempts to connect with the elusive sphere. To say the least, he is a wonder. He has a peculiar delivery. His brother, who catches him, is one of the best back-stops that has ever caught behind the bat. The whole visiting team are fast fielders and hard hitters.

No less credit is due Hetherington, the local pitcher. Hetherington pitched stellar ball and the fault lay with his teammates, who seemed to be possessed of stage fright. Errors were very numerous and all of them were costly. The teams:
Hamilton—Adams, 1st; Wills, 1st; J. Lemmond; C. A. Lemmond, 2nd; McCowell 1st; Harrison 3rd; Mowat, r.f.; Asbaugh r.s.; C. Lemmond p.; Brantford—Marlatt 2nd; Colquhoun r.s.; Newman 1st; Metherington p.; Stuart c; Appell r.f.; Second 1st; Clawsey 3rd; Smith, H. Umpires F. Alton, Hamilton, P. Cancellia, Brantford.

Midland's O.H.A. senior team will lose another of its good players next season. Ernie Lavigne, their speedy rover, will in the near future, move to Schreiber, where he is going into business with his cousin, Eddie Gould will be the other absentee.

WAR TO KNIFE BY THE FEDERALS

Killifer Case Was Taken Into the United States Court.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 20.—The first legal shot of the baseball war of 1914, was fired here to-day by the Federal League in filing a petition with the United States district court for the Western District of Michigan, asking for an injunction to restrain William J. Killifer, Jr., formerly catcher of the Philadelphia Nationals from playing baseball with any other than the Chicago Federals.

Killifer signed a three year contract with the Chicago Federals, but afterward was persuaded that the reserve clause of his old contract with the Philadelphia club held him legally to Philadelphia and he joined his former team. The suit involves the legality of the reserve clause, long regarded as one of the bulwarks of organized baseball. The suit was brought in the Western Michigan district, because Killifer is a resident of Paw-Paw, Mich.

The complaint which was signed by Charles Weegham, president of the Chicago Federal League Baseball club, told of the signing of the contract by Killifer, who agreed to play for three years for the Chicago Federals for a total of $17,500 of $5,833.33 a year. The contract, a copy of which was attached to the petition for an injunction order expressly stipulated the court was informed that Killifer agreed to devote his entire time and attention to the services of the Chicago Federals.

The court was informed that $500 was advanced to Killifer on account, and was accepted by him and is still retained. Failure to report for practice, in accordance with his contract, was alleged against Killifer.

There was little local interest taken in last night's game at the arena, but both teams had many supporters who accompanied them here to witness the game. Western University was accompanied by over two hundred enthusiasts, who came on a special train. About 1500 people were in attendance.

CANADIANS TOO PROUD TO LET MOTHER COUNTRY BEAR THE ENTIRE BURDEN

Organization of the Home Fleet.

The Home Fleet is divisible into three classes in accordance with the preparedness of the several divisions for immediate action.

There is the First Fleet, ever ready, with full complement of men with stores and ammunition aboard, ready to put to sea at an hour's notice.

The Second Fleet has nucleus crews—that is the trained men in the essential positions are ready, but the number of men would require to be increased before the vessel could be ready for active service.

The Third Fleet has reduced nucleus crew—it is well known however, where and how the balance of the complement can be obtained. Probably within a fortnight, the Third Fleet could follow the other divisions.

In the harbors of Portsmouth and Devonport may also be seen ships composing the material reserve, vessels of older design than those now in service—to be called into the fighting line only as a last resort.

It will be noticed that ships of like purpose and power are grouped together into squadrons and flotillas. The old idea of a so-called unit—composed of vessels of various classes—is no longer accepted as good tactics.

Eight battleships, of similar speed and power, form a squadron.

In this picture are seen most of the more recent types dealt with in the early part of the lecture. At sea they observe a uniform distance and travel together under the command of an admiral.

Likewise the battle cruisers capable of making 27 knots an hour form the First Battle—cruiser squadron. These ships, having great fuel capacity, are especially useful for Imperial purposes.

The cruisers are also formed into cruiser squadrons of which, were the navy at full strength, there would be twelve.

Torpedo boats, whose purpose it is to "sting and fly away," and torpedo boat destroyers and submarines are all grouped into flotillas usually accompanied by a parent ship.

The Strength of the Fleet.

What determines the strength of the British navy. The sea power of her strongest possible enemy or combination of enemies.

Safe passage on every sea for merchant vessels that fly the British flag is absolutely essential to the life and continuance of the Empire.

The eight principal powers of the world are all building powerful navies.

While in the statement before us Britain's superiority seems beyond question, it must be remembered that the advent of the "Dreadnaught" greatly reduced the fighting value of earlier ships. Reckoned in terms of modern battleships Britain's navy is none too strong.

Germany was quick to appreciate the revolution brought about by the introduction of the all-big-gun ship. This nation realized that starting on a parity with Britain in ships of this character, she might hope to build a modern fleet of nearly equal strength. Thus we find that, reckoned in terms of super-dreadnaughts, Britain has in the spring of 1913, 22 ships to Germany's 12; this spring (1914) she has 29 to 21, and next spring she will have in commission 35 to 23.

Not long ago Mr. Winston Churchill proposed a naval policy. This offer was rejected by Germany. Admiral Von Tirpitz declared that the naval act of 1912 would be carried out by Germany whatever course other nations might pursue.

Now British naval authorities are agreed that the British fleet must be 60 per cent. more powerful than that of any other power. We know what the strength of the German navy will be in 1920 for it is set forth in their Navy Bill. That fleet will then comprise, built and building, 61 capital ships. To maintain the rate of 10 to 10 Britain then must have by 1920 no less than 96 such ships. She must therefore build four or five more every year.

Does Britain Feel the Strain?

Let us consider whether Great Britain, rich and powerful though she be can indefinitely carry without strain the burden of defending the British Empire. Prior to 1910 the largest sum expended in any given year for new construction was about £11,000,000. It was £7,500,000 in 1908. But during the last three years the expenditure has averaged £15,000,000, or $75,000,000 per year and this figure is maintained in the Estimates announced in March 1914.

The Program of 1913-14 shows that five battleships eight light cruisers, sixteen destroyers, and seven submarine—besides auxiliary craft, costing £15,953,525 were authorized for that year. The British Admiralty regarded this expenditure as absolutely necessary and the British taxpayer feels bound to consent.

A second indication that the British Admiralty feel the gravity of the situation is shown by the policy of concentration—adopted within the past few years and continued to-day. Out of 372 fighting ships no less than 316 were in Home Waters in October of 1913. This means that 90 per cent. of the fighting strength of the British navy is kept at home leaving but 10 per cent. for foreign service.

Britain depends on overseas countries for the greater part of her foodstuffs. The Dominions find in Britain their best market. How these sources of supply are scattered throughout the world may be illustrated by the figures for wheat and flour. Britain grows but 18 per cent of the flour she consumes. 34 per cent comes from eastern sources, 48 per cent from across the Atlantic. The trade routes from these lands must be kept open at any cost.

The Mediterranean is the trade route to India and the Pacific. Britain has always, until recently, kept a powerful fleet in Mediterranean waters.

The island of Malta, with its splendid harbor, has been the midway station between Gibraltar and Suez. Here in times past many a powerful British squadron has lain.

But a comparative study of the Navy list for 1902 and 1913 will show to what extent the British Mediterranean fleet has been depleted.

In Sept. of 1902 there were 132 British ships on foreign service, in March of 1913 there were but 85. As the more powerful warships have been called home the naval force on foreign service was reduced in fighting power to hardly more than one tenth of what it was in 1902.

While eleven years before, fourteen battleships were deemed necessary for the Mediterranean, in 1913 there was but one battleship and three battle cruisers on that service.

When considering Britain's possible enemies it must not be forgotten that Italy and Austria are members of the Triple Alliance. It is conceivable that, in the event of war with Germany, Britain might have to fight their combined fleet as well. As it is to-day—in so far as the Mediterranean is concerned—Britain is dependent upon her ally France to ensure an open sea. France has stationed nearly all her battleships in the Mediterranean and Britain is expected to keep in these waters a reinforcement of adequate strength. Britain's present Mediterranean fleet—with only three capital ships—is obviously insufficient to meet the needs of the situation.

A further indication that the strain is being felt is to be found in the fact that the world wide service has been well nigh stripped of fighting ships. Compare the several stations as shown in the diagram, the solid figures indicate the vessels on station in 1902, the hollow figures those in 1913. It will be seen that all the battleships and most of the powerful cruisers have been called home. Few indeed are the warships which to-day in distant seas show the British flag.

With these facts before us—that the British taxpayer has within the past six years doubled his contribution for warship construction, that British warships which formerly patrolled the trade routes have been called home, that the security of the waterway to India and the Pacific depends upon a foreign alliance—can it be said that no call goes out from the Motherland to her daughters beyond the seas? The conditions demand a putting forth of the united strength of the Empire.

In the Admiralty memorandum of Oct. 1912 a dignified intimation was given to Canada that her assistance would be welcomed, provided such assistance would be of such a nature as to increase the power and mobility of the Imperial Navy.

An Imperial Squadron for World-wide Service.

We have seen how the Admiralty desires that Canada contribute capital ships. Where would they be used and how would Canadian as well as Imperial interests be served thereby? A suggestion to this point was made in March 1913 by Mr. Churchill. It was in effect, that a new squadron be formed—to be called the Imperial Squadron—that should be based on Gibraltar—whence it could reach any portion of the British Empire. Ships of the "Queen Elizabeth" type—already described in this lecture—were to compose this fleet. The Malaya also would here be stationed and Canada's three ships would bring the squadron to the full number of eight ships.

The three Canadian battleships were not desired as an addition to the Home defence fleet. Britain can and will protect the heart of the Empire. They were wanted "to raise the margin of the strength available for the general defence of the Empire."

As a strategic point Gibraltar is well selected. The rock fortress is an impenetrable base of supply.

Within its harbour a fleet could safely lie and if necessary be refitted for sea.

No better scheme could be devised for the defence of the shores of Eastern Canada and the protection of our trade routes across the Atlantic. From Gibraltar to Halifax is a distance of 3040 miles. A vessel like the "Queen Elizabeth" capable of steaming the rate of 25 knots per hour, could traverse this distance in five days. More powerful in armament than any battle cruiser afloat, she could intercept and destroy any possible enemy coming from the North Sea or the South Atlantic. In contributing ships to form a part of such a squadron Canada would effectively serve both Imperial and Canadian interests.

In a speech delivered on March 17th, 1914, Mr. Churchill declared that the Admiralty still adhered to this plan. If in addition to three fast battleships, Canada would establish on the Atlantic seaboard stations, docks and repair plants, and would organize a service of destroyers and submarines (which might be built in Canada and manned by Canadians) to accompany the squadron when in Canadian waters then the Naval question, in so far as the Atlantic is concerned, would be wisely and satisfactorily settled from both an Imperial and Canadian point of view.

The Prime Minister of Canada believes this plan to be in the best interests of Canada and the Empire. He will persevere until it becomes an established fact. He counts on the active support of all patriotic Canadians to see him through.

Finale.

The flag we know as the Union Jack is, as is well known, a combination of emblems. First there was the flag of St. George, borne by the ships of the Royal Navy.

Scotland, up to the time of the Union, had her own flag, the banner of St. Andrew with that of England. We had "The Jack."

The flag of St. Patrick was also incorporated.

So that the Union Jack of to-day is the united flag of the originally separated peoples of the British Isles.

Over a wide-spread Empire this flag floats to-day. English, Irish and Scotch, together with men of many other races are under it building up British institutions and developing a united Empire.

Scattered as are the British possessions, it is absolutely necessary that the paths across the seas be ever open. In securing this necessity, all those who enjoy the benefits should, according to their several ability, share the burden.

Canadians in this 20th century are too proud to let others bear the entire cost of their defence—when they are well able to assume their just share.

Hence, when the highest naval authority of the Empire indicates in what manner Canada may give immediate and effective aid, it is not our patriotic duty to accept that advice and fulfill our part?

With these facts before us—that the British taxpayer has within the past six years doubled his contribution for warship construction, that British warships which formerly patrolled the trade routes have been called home, that the security of the waterway to India and the Pacific depends upon a foreign alliance—can it be said that no call goes out from the Motherland to her daughters beyond the seas? The conditions demand a putting forth of the united strength of the Empire.

In the Admiralty memorandum of Oct. 1912 a dignified intimation was given to Canada that her assistance would be welcomed, provided such assistance would be of such a nature as to increase the power and mobility of the Imperial Navy.

An Imperial Squadron for World-wide Service.

We have seen how the Admiralty desires that Canada contribute capital ships. Where would they be used and how would Canadian as well as Imperial interests be served thereby? A suggestion to this point was made in March 1913 by Mr. Churchill. It was in effect, that a new squadron be formed—to be called the Imperial Squadron—that should be based on Gibraltar—whence it could reach any portion of the British Empire. Ships of the "Queen Elizabeth" type—already described in this lecture—were to compose this fleet. The Malaya also would here be stationed and Canada's three ships would bring the squadron to the full number of eight ships.

The three Canadian battleships were not desired as an addition to the Home defence fleet. Britain can and will protect the heart of the Empire. They were wanted "to raise the margin of the strength available for the general defence of the Empire."

As a strategic point Gibraltar is well selected. The rock fortress is an impenetrable base of supply.

Within its harbour a fleet could safely lie and if necessary be refitted for sea.

No better scheme could be devised for the defence of the shores of Eastern Canada and the protection of our trade routes across the Atlantic. From Gibraltar to Halifax is a distance of 3040 miles. A vessel like the "Queen Elizabeth" capable of steaming the rate of 25 knots per hour, could traverse this distance in five days. More powerful in armament than any battle cruiser afloat, she could intercept and destroy any possible enemy coming from the North Sea or the South Atlantic. In contributing ships to form a part of such a squadron Canada would effectively serve both Imperial and Canadian interests.

In a speech delivered on March 17th, 1914, Mr. Churchill declared that the Admiralty still adhered to this plan. If in addition to three fast battleships, Canada would establish on the Atlantic seaboard stations, docks and repair plants, and would organize a service of destroyers and submarines (which might be built in Canada and manned by Canadians) to accompany the squadron when in Canadian waters then the Naval question, in so far as the Atlantic is concerned, would be wisely and satisfactorily settled from both an Imperial and Canadian point of view.

The Prime Minister of Canada believes this plan to be in the best interests of Canada and the Empire. He will persevere until it becomes an established fact. He counts on the active support of all patriotic Canadians to see him through.

Finale.

The flag we know as the Union Jack is, as is well known, a combination of emblems. First there was the flag of St. George, borne by the ships of the Royal Navy.

Scotland, up to the time of the Union, had her own flag, the banner of St. Andrew with that of England. We had "The Jack."

The flag of St. Patrick was also incorporated.

So that the Union Jack of to-day is the united flag of the originally separated peoples of the British Isles.

Over a wide-spread Empire this flag floats to-day. English, Irish and Scotch, together with men of many other races are under it building up British institutions and developing a united Empire.

Scattered as are the British possessions, it is absolutely necessary that the paths across the seas be ever open. In securing this necessity, all those who enjoy the benefits should, according to their several ability, share the burden.

Canadians in this 20th century are too proud to let others bear the entire cost of their defence—when they are well able to assume their just share.

Hence, when the highest naval authority of the Empire indicates in what manner Canada may give immediate and effective aid, it is not our patriotic duty to accept that advice and fulfill our part?

A well-lighted porch or verandah is a promise of hospitality within, and makes the welcome visitor glad he has come.

We are showing some exceptionally good porch fixtures, and now that electricity is so cheap there is really no excuse for a dark entrance.

How Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured
Mrs. Lance.
Pembroke Woman Suffered for Fifteen Years Before She Found
Quick Relief and a Complete Cure.
PEMBROKE, Ont., Mar. 20.—(Special).—Of peculiar interest to women is the story of the cure of Mrs. Morlie Lance, well known and highly respected here. Let Mrs. Lance tell that story in her own words.
"For about fifteen years I was a very sick woman," she says, "My sleep was broken and unrefreshing and I had a bitter taste in my mouth in the morning. I was often dizzy and flashes of light floated before my eyes. My limbs were heavy and I had a dragging across my loins.
"At last Rheumatism was added to my troubles and I also suffered from lumbago, dropsy and gravel. I felt that my kidneys were the cause of all my troubles and decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. From almost the first they did me good, and after taking twelve boxes I am again a well woman."

Women who suffer should learn that the cause of their troubles is bad kidneys. Having learned that, the rest is easy. Thousands of Canadians will tell you out of their own experience that Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure bad kidneys.

The Officers' quarters at the Armouries were en fete yesterday, when the Military Chapter Dufferin Rifles
I. O. D. E. were at home when a largely attended and successful tea was held for the benefit of the Order.
Mrs. F. A. Howard, Mrs. H. Genet, and Mrs. R. H. Palmer received. A pleasing feature of the afternoon was the piano solo rendered by Miss Gretchen Dunstan, with taste and feeling, as well as Miss White's sym-pathic singing, added to the pleasure of the interesting function. The table was effectively arranged with red and green, the colors of the regiment, crimson carnations and ferns forming a lovely color scheme. The soldiers of the King dropped in at the tea hour for a cup of the favorite brew, added of course to the pleasure of the very pleasant tea.

Mrs. John Rennie of Toronto, was the raison d'etre of two delightful entertainments given for her by Mrs. J.
A. Ogilvie, Pearl street. The rooms on Wednesday at the tea hour were prettily arranged with flowers and many came and went during the afternoon to meet the guest of the hostess. Mrs. Ogilvie wearing a handsome gown of black satin with factors in social life. The entertainment which was under the auspices of the Brant Chapter Daughters of the Empire, was largely attended and obviously much appreciated by those present. The gifted actor of poetic imagination, artistic ideals and fine diction as he sketched the drama from ancient Greece down through the ages, showed what a power for good it was and is. The lecture was listened to with rapt attention and admiration. At the close, Mrs. Gordon Smith, 2nd. Vice Regent, thanked
Mr. Irving on behalf of the Brant Chapter I. O. D. E. for his kindness and courtesy in addressing the meeting. The motion was seconded by Mrs. A. D. Hardy.

Mrs. George Watt, wearing a handsome gown of blue satin, gave a delightful and largely attended tea at her residence, St. Paul's Avenue, Tuesday afternoon. Flowers were prettily arranged in the drawing room, where Mrs. R. Jennings wearing her lovely wedding gown of ivory charmesse draped with shadow lace, received with the hostess, Mrs.
Ramsay and Mrs. F. A. Popplewell were kept busy showing guests to the tea room, where the table was exceedingly pretty, centered with a large bunch of shanrocks abloum.

A pleasant feature was meeting a number of Paris ladies who were present. Mr. Julius Waters and Mrs. F. D. Reville, in smart gowns, poured tea and coffee, assisted by a bevy of charming girls, Miss Lottie Large, Miss Sadie Scarie, Miss
Norah Wallace, Miss Dorothy Wilkes,
Miss Emily Bunell, Miss Marjory
Wilkes.

FRIENDS OF PRESIDENT'S YOUNGEST DAUGHTER, HEAR SHE WILL WED SEC'Y OF TREASURY M'ADOO

MISS ELEANOR
R. WILSON
YOUNGEST DAUGHTER
OF THE PRESIDENT

Prospects of another White House wedding became more definite recently when the persistent renewal of the report that the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. William M. Adoo, and Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, youngest daughter of President and Mrs. Wilson, were engaged, the marriage to take place in June.

There was no announcement from the White House, and when the attention of officials was drawn to the report they refrained from making any comment or denial.

Mr. McAdoo himself said it would be indelicate for him to comment on the subject one way or the other. Nevertheless, official Washington is taking it as a definite fact that another White House wedding will be solemnized in June after the adjournment of Congress.

At the Head of the Profession
One of the most popular writers in England is Miss Mary Frances Billington, who contributes to the Woman's Magazine as well as a regular correspondent on "The Daily Peleg-graph." The great men on The Telegraph began to notice and talk about her work. For about a couple of years the editor there tried her in a dozen directions of descriptive writing and then an exclusive position was made for her on the staff. It does not seem to matter Billingtonparliamentary matters, trade intrigues, the Government of India, conditions in the Argentine, women's movements—she has a fund of facts tucked away somewhere in her marvellous brain and knows the most recent information that will bring her article right up-to-date.

Many things have combined to place Miss Billington at the head of the women journalists of to-day and not the least is her careful attention to detail, her accuracy and absolute reliability. Miss Billington is exceedingly womanly and interest in all things
She knows the world at large and social conditions too well to think that unfettered violence will ever bring about a millennium. Miss Billington is the eldest child and only daughter of the late Rev. G. H. Billington, M.A., who for over forty years was rector of Chalburg Dorsetshire. Her mother was a charming and lovable personality, gifted with a keen and delicious sense of humor. Mary Billington never intended to stop at the recording of fashions and social events.
Her ambitions from the outset ran to first class special correspondence and that she has attained on some of the best papers in the Empire.

SKILL AT PINOCHE CAPTURES A BRIDE

PHILADELPHIA March 19.—Wm.
E. Diener is back running his cleaver after having eloped to Baltimore last week with Miss Margaret A. Getz, 36 years of age. Diener is 25 years of age.

"No I won't say anything about our marriage" he said "We were married and that is all there is to it."

Diener lives with his mother at 2554
South Darien street. He slipped away with Miss Getz without informing any of his friends or relatives. The bride is said to be worth nearly $20,000, and to be one of the largest real estate owners in the southern section of the city. She also is interested in the coal business.

According to friends of the two,
Diener met his wife about a year ago.
Pinocchle games were played every night he called at her home, and several weeks ago Diener asked Miss Getz to marry him. His skill at the game seemed to have captured Miss Getz and she consented.

"I do not believe that it was my son who was married," said Mrs.
Diener, the young man's mother. "He told me that it was probable some practical joke one of his friends had played on him."

MISS WILSON SHOWS ENGAGEMENT RING

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The engagement ring of Miss Eleanor Wilson is in strong contrast to that of her sister, Jessie, now Mrs. Sayre.
Mr. McAdoo's choice for his fiancée is a large diamond solitaire, set in platinum. The stone weighs about 4-1/2 carats and it is blue white. It is set in prongs surrounded by an elaborate and delicate filigree studded with small diamonds on each side of the solitaire. Miss Wilson has shown her ring to all her friends.

Mr. McAdoo takes tea at the White House every day when his fiancée is at home. Mrs. Wilson and her daughters have made it a rule to receive their friends at the tea hour always by appointment since they went to the White House.

The friends of the president and of the secretary of the treasury are busy making dates for entertaining the bride and bridegroom-elect, but as yet none of these has been disclosed.

There is a report that the Grand Trunk Pacific will seek further assistance from the Government probably in the form of a loan, estimated variously at from ten to twenty-five millions.

SLASHING THE PICTURE FAILS TO AROUSE THE NATIVES OF LONDON

Few Persons Outside of Art Circles Are Deeply Stirred by the Act of the Malignant Suffragette—Hotel Proprietors Are Likely to Suffer by Closing of the Galleries.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, March 21.—EXCEPT in art circles it is curious to observe the general apathy with which London has taken the outrage in the National Gallery, where the suffragette Mary Richardson slashed the Rokeby Venus, which cost $225,000, and the closing of all the galleries for fear of further suffragette raids. The average London native seldom sees the galleries. It is travellers in London who will be the sufferers as a result of the senseless vandalism.

Hotel managers chiefly are alarmed and are wondering what will happen with the closing of all places of interest, including the museums and State apartments at Windsor and other public places, for it is Americans who are the chief patrons of these places. The last time the authorities took a similar step, it is remembered, many Americans who were in Europe gave London a miss, so all are now wondering if they will do the same again when London has got nothing to show them except the theatres and music halls, many of which are closed the better part of the summer. So London stands to lose many thousands of dollars through one fanatic's malevolence.

There was only one largely attended social function in London in the week, this being Mrs. Lewis Harcourt's first fortnightly "at home," when there was a constant stream of peers and peeresses and all the notable persons, chiefly supporters of the government, as certain. It was a very brilliant spectacle. The double drawing rooms at No. 14 Berkeley square were gay with fragrant azaleas, tulips and lilies. Mrs. Harcourt wore a modish dress of the new chiffon motif which resembles velvet, a narrow fur edging the collar and a wide tartan ribbon encircling the waist.

The out of town chief event was the National Hunt steppelashes at Cheltenham, which, owing to the wonderfully warm weather, drew a record crowd of noble persons. The Earl and Countess of Coventry came from Cromo Court with a party and the Earl and Countess of Suffolk brought a party from Charlton Park. Others with parties included Princess Hatzfeldt, the Duke of Richmond, the Earl of Essex, the Earl of Sefton, the Earl and Countess of Bathurst and the Marquis of Cholmondeley. In fact, never before was such a crowd of titled personages seen at these races, fashionable though the event be.

Meanwhile the King and Queen keep busy doing their best to make things lively and also calling on the poorer class of their subjects. A hitting of the pall of pomp and solemnity from Buckingham Palace seems beginning. It is known that there already have been parties for young people at the Palace and after Lent there will be more, but there is more entertaining at the present than there has been for years. The King's small bachelor dinners are to be extended and a series of dinners given both by the King and Queen to their intimate friends will be a feature of the season. There were two last week on another evening the King and Queen accompanied a company of select friends at dinner at the house of Lord and Lady Granard, at No. 5 Halkin street, the residence which Mr. Ogden Mills rebuilt and presented to his daughter as a wedding gift.

Bookbinding and Illuminating Art Revived by English Craftsmen

Two Men at Work Eighteen Months in Producing a "Romeo and Juliet," Which, with Four Hundred Precious Stones in the Morocco Cover, Sold for $5,000.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, March 21.—A LITTLE band of craftsmen is reviving the superb bookbinding and illuminating which were the pride of the monks and monks who dwell in old English monasteries. They do not devote a lifetime to a "Horae Beatae Mariae Virginis," but will spend many months in transcribing and binding a "Romeo" or an "Omar Khayyam."

The latest production—and the masterpiece—is a "Romeo and Juliet," which has just been sent off to a Continental collector. It has been prepared by Messrs. Riviere & Son, whose manager told a correspondent that it represented the work of two men for eighteen months. "The illuminating," he said, "was executed by Alberto Sangorci, who is one of the very few artists who understand the work. The borders and miniatures are all quite original. How does it compare with the old 'Horae'?" Well, in those days the borders were certainly very fine, but people's faces were not so good as those of the present. Illuminating has come to the front again only within the last few years, and it is going to be very popular.

"As for the binding, there are four hundred precious stones glittering in the pink Levant Morocco. Altogether the book is our masterpiece. We have sold it to a Continental collector, but we could easily have disposed of it in New York. It is improbable that, unless specially commissioned to do so, any man could produce another book so expensive for three or four years. There is, however, always a sale for such a volume. The difficulty is to produce it. Most of the best examples are bought by

Only one table was used for the distinguished company of thirty-five. The Queen was escorted from the reception room to the dining room by Lord Granard, Lady Granard leaning on the arm of the King. Lady Granard wore a lovely dress of pale mauve chamoisee embroidered with pearls and diamonds.

On another afternoon the King, accompanied by the Queen, Princess Mary and Prince Waldemar of Denmark, went to the hunt show at the Royal Agricultural Hall, when the King presented the championship cup given by himself to the winner.

On another day Queen Mary, on charity bent, went herself to the St. Agnes Home at Croydon, where there are 250 crippled girls, and brought joy to many young hearts with that gentle sympathy so characteristic of her. The Queen walked round the wards, talking now with one little girl and now with another. In the basket making room many cripples were busy making toys and baskets with cane.

"I must have two of these little chairs," said the Queen, picking up two doll house chairs made of cane. Looking round the room she noticed one tiny girl, Kathleen Urwin, was making a basket. Crossing to her, the Queen asked:—"Doesn't the cane hurt your fingers?" Kathleen, looking up at the Queen's gleaming eyes, replied, "No, ma'am." "Turning round, the Queen saw another consumptive little girl with the sun shining straight on her head. "Isn't the sun shining in your eyes?" "Yes, ma'am, it is," was the answer. "Shall I move you round?" asked the Queen. "The girl replied that she would like it, and the Queen gently turned the child round in a more comfortable position. All the girls felt quite at home with the "gentle ma'am," as they described the Queen.

"I'm so proud that I hardly know what to do myself," said Kathleen Urwin. "Fancy the Queen speaking to me!" But it will not be until after Easter that London will wake up. Whatever may be the cause, very few Americans who have come over recently have remained in town, but the increasing list of balls and small dances contemplated after Easter will make an exciting program. Already not a single first night remains in May, and June is almost booked up.

Countess Torby, who has not hitherto given a ball in London, is giving one for her daughters on June 11. Another interesting ball will be that of the Eighty Club, with Mrs. Lewis Harcourt as hostess. It is many years since Lansdowne House has been the scene of a big ball, so that a ball there is eagerly welcomed by the youthful members of society. The ball will be given to celebrate the debut of Lord and Lady Lansdowne's eldest granddaughter, the second child of the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire, Lady Maud Cavendish, who is a handsome, dark haired girl who has enjoyed the society of Princess Mary since her nursery days.

Of even greater importance will be a ball at Devonshire House for the coming out of Lady Maud Cavendish, when the King and Queen and Prince of Wales will attend.

"The members of the society are constantly in wireless communication with one another. With the receiver strapped on, indeed, you feel that you have your ear to the keyhole of the world. People are not by any means getting sick of the hobby. There is, you see, so much to be accomplished on the experimental side, and many of our members have patented valuable inventions."

"A wireless outfit that will send ten miles can be made for five dollars. One set which will send from one room to another can be bought for five dollars. The police keep their eyes open very wide for licensed operators. They often find, and if it is not forthcoming notice is given to remove the apparatus within a certain period."

THE TRAINING OF A KING'S DAUGHTER

The King of Italy's eldest child is here seen riding barelegged on the beach. The sisters and their brother are being brought up with a considerable amount of open air training. Princess Yolanda (who also enjoys the possession of the names Margherita Milena Elisabetta Romana Maria) is now twelve years old.

Aerials Everywhere in English Capital and Societies Are Formed to Boom Hobby.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, March 21.—WIRELESS telegraphy is supplanting pigeon keeping and music as the favorite hobby of the suburban artisan. Everywhere in London aerials may be seen, and people are "flapping" the messages that are borne in the air. So popular has the new hobby become that dozens of months ago a wireless society was founded in London. That society now boasts of some five hundred members, and similar clubs have been established in Derby, Manchester, Liverpool and Croydon. "Wireless is booming as the best hobby," said a prominent member of the Wireless Society of London to your correspondent. "Four years ago only about a hundred people applied for licenses in the course of a year. Now there are thousands and in applications annually. In order to check the numbers the government charged a guinea for a license, but that had no effect. Now no one is granted a license unless they are qualified in some respect. In the past there was occasionally some confusion caused by the indiscriminate use of wireless, but now that has been successfully averted."

BARREL ORGAN AT A BALL

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, March 21.—DESCRIBING the annual Savoy fancy ball of the Continental edition of the Daily dress ball at Cairo, the correspondent said:—"When the fun was at its height the door at the far end of the hall was unceremoniously jerked open and a barrel organ was wheeled through the crowd into the middle of the room. The Italian organ grinder with military mustaches—had a weary looking fellow with a scraggy beard, but with a voice reputed to rival Caruso's, a pavement artist who nonchalantly exhibited his wares, and the prettiest of little monkeys ever possessed by the street music fraternity. Of course it was at once surrounded by a bevy of beautiful ladies, who petted and cooed until the Italian organ grinder snatched him back—out of sheer envy."

The organ grinder struck up a beautiful old fashioned tune which captivated the dancing spirit of every one present. Spontaneously the men seized their partners and whirled drestly round while the orchestra looked on in silence. And when the tune came to an end the dancers insisted on an encore."

Coat of Arms of Danish Prince

Is Farmhand Nephew of Queen Alexandra Is Learning Agriculture in Gloucestershire Fields.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, March 21.—PRINCE ERIC OF DENMARK, nephew of Queen Alexandra, is living the simple, hard working, hard playing life of an English farmer's son at Putford, in Gloucestershire. His father is Prince Waldemar, Queen Alexandra's youngest brother. He is a third son, and destined, like the sons of English royalty, for a sphere in agreement with the tastes and pursuits of his country. In Denmark these are farming, so twenty-year-old Prince Eric is learning wheat growing, cattle raising, pig farming and pig keeping in the British way, which the Danish Minister of Agriculture most admire. On any day Prince Eric may be seen at work like a farmhand. Putford folk were eager to fete him and spoil him, but hours of leisure are passed with the football match, for the Prince is an ardent footballer, or on a family call to see Queen Alexandra at Sandringham, at none of which he is in danger of being spoiled. Denmark's Minister of Agriculture, who counselled his life for Prince Eric, allows his own daughter to be general-servant to a middle class English family, that she may be practically expert in household duties and so avoid the pitfalls before the mere theorist.

INSTANCE OF DOG'S MATERNAL LOVE

With Litter of Puppies Makes Eight Mile Journey Four Times to Bring Them Home. (Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, March 21.—THERE lived in the village of Aylesbury, says the Cologne Gazette, a countryman who kept a watchdog. The village lies high among the hills of Southern Westphalia, and the air is shrewd, the roads bad, and sometimes almost impassable, as is often the case in mountainous regions. One day this countryman had to go to a neighboring village on matters of business. The road was in a wretched condition and the distance there and back was upward of eight miles. His dog was with young, so he left her behind to spare her the strain of the long journey. But when he had travelled a considerable distance from home, suddenly the dog put in an appearance and insisted on accompanying her master. After doing his business the countryman was starting on his way home, when he noticed that his dog had meanwhile given birth to a litter of puppies. He was a man of tender heart, and thinking the journey back would be too much for the dog in her condition he left her behind, intending to fetch her and her puppies home at some future convenient time. In passing through his yard next morning he came upon the dog lying in a corner of the stable. The brave creature, impelled by the strength of her maternal love, had gone backward and forward four times in order to bring all her puppies home, seeking in this way to reconcile her duties to her master and her puppies. Of course, she was in a pitiable condition, absolutely exhausted, and her feet a mass of sores, but she recovered.

WOMEN PHYSICIANS POPULAR IN LONDON

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, March 21.—FIFTY years ago there was not a single female physician in the United Kingdom, and the total will soon reach four figures. "There is a great and increasing demand among women for the woman physician," said a Harley street woman specialist to a correspondent. "They simply won't go to a man. It is not that they think men less efficient than women, but women feel more comfortable in consulting their own sex, and the women out-patients of the hospitals are quite as sensitive as their richer sisters. "Facilities for training are very good nowadays, but the difficulty is that, once qualified, women get no fair opportunity of holding the higher positions at hospitals. There is a wide field open to women physicians among the poor of their own sex. Established less than a year ago in two humble shops in Newington Causeway, the South London Hospital for Women to-day is known throughout the home counties, and its out-patients come from Essex, Hertford, Kent and Surrey. Wood, which are Battarsea, Hackney and Greenwich, Deptford and Kennington."

MYSTERY OF A MISSING BARONET

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, March 21.—NO information can be obtained by the Registrar as to Sir Henry Burnaby. It is not known whether he is alive.

This is a note appended to the baronetcy of Burnaby, of Broughton Hall, Oxfordshire, in an official roll of the baronets, which has just been issued. "What has become of Sir Henry Burnaby, of Broughton Hall? Is this another tragedy of the 'Lost Sir Maudslayi' type; or is Sir Henry wandering, an old man of nearly ninety, somewhere in Spain, where he had relatives, and among whose people he found his wife?"

The baronetcy appears in the latest issue of "Debrett" without any indication that the holder of the title is missing. That Sir Henry Burnaby has disappeared, however, there cannot be any doubt. "If any one can find him I shall be very much obliged," said Mr. R. F. Reynard, Assistant Registrar of the Baronetage, to a reporter. "I have inquired in every likely direction, but can find no trace of him or even of any of his relatives."

Mr. Reynard added that Sir Henry Burnaby was the only baronet of whom he might say that he was "really lost."

"Others are missing," he said, "but I know they are alive somewhere."

Sir Henry Burnaby has never assumed the title, was formerly in the navy. He was born in 1828, so that if he is still living he will be eighty-five years old. No heir can be traced, but he had Spanish relations, for in 1850 he married Carmen Maria, only daughter of the late Señor Mariano Torrente, of Madrid.

HOW "OBEY" CREPT IN MARRIAGE CEREMONY

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, March 21.—THE researches initiated by the Bishop of Oxford into the word "obey" in the marriage service are now nearly complete. Before the Bishop of Lincoln brought up the question of the deletion of "obey" in the Canterbury Convocation, the Bishop of Oxford asked Dr. Percy Dearmer, vicar of St. Mary's, Primrose Hill, to investigate the point.

"The Church of England," said Dr. Dearmer to a representative of the press, "is the only historic Church which has unequal vows in its marriage service. The word 'obey' is quite exceptional in Christian liturgies. As far as I have discovered, up to the thirteenth century there was no example of unequal vows. The man said what the woman said. In the late Middle Ages they began to appear in certain North German service books and in certain English ones, but they do not appear in the Roman Catholic books nor in those of the Eastern, the Greek and the Russian churches."

"Before the Reformation there were a number of books in use in England; the principal were those of York, Sarum and Hereford. The only one which contained the principle of unequal vows was that of Sarum, yet the Reformers, who wanted to do away with mediæval abuses, adopted that very one."

"Now that the history of 'obey' is known I do not think it has any chance of standing."

King George Has Collection of 2,000 Famous Walking Sticks

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, March 21.—A CABLE despatch from New York published in the London newspapers tells how President Wilson has been presented with Andrew Jackson's heavy stick, which recalls that King George is among those who treasure sticks of the famous. No fewer than two thousand of these, which belonged to his father, are now in his possession.

King Edward, like many famous men, regarded his stick almost as a friend, and was rarely seen without one. His favorite was regularly carried by Queen Victoria. This remarkable stick was fashioned from a branch of the Hove oak which once concealed Charles II. when escaping from the Cromwell's soldiers. Queen Victoria had it altered somewhat, and a little idol from Serapiapattan was inserted as a knob. Naturally enough, this is greatly treasured by King George.

A PRIVATE MAUSOLEUM FOR EACH INDIVIDUAL AT A COST NO GREATER THAN THAT FOR COMMON EARTH INTERMENTS

Dominion Mausoleum Company, Limited

BRANTFORD, Ont., March 21st. 1914

TO THE CITIZENS OF BRANTFORD AND VICINITY:

The Dominion Mausoleum Company, Limited, of BRANTFORD, Ont., believing there is a desire on the part of the people of BRANTFORD for a better method of taking care of their dead than that provided by earth burial, have entered into an agreement with the city officials to erect in the Mount Hope Cemetery a Community Mausoleum.

Plans and specifications as to the style of architecture, method of construction and material to be used have been submitted and accepted by the city officials, and we believe the style and character of building selected will meet with the approval of the citizens of BRANTFORD.

The walls of the building are to be of granite and the interior is to be finished in polished marble and bronze.

Before the construction of the building is begun, or any demand made for any payments from the subscribers for Crypts, a GOOD and SUFFICIENT BOND must be filed covering the entire cost of building, GUARANTEEING the completion of the structure in accordance with plans and specifications, thereby ASSURING THE FULFILLMENT OF ALL CONTRACTS made with subscribers for crypts.

Provision is made in our contracts for a SUBSTANTIAL ENDOWMENT fund, which guarantees the maintenance and care of the building FOREVER WITHOUT ANY ADDITIONAL COST to the owners of crypts.

After the building is completed it will be under the control and supervision of the City of BRANTFORD.

We recommend the whole proposition to the consideration of those of our citizens who desire this method of taking care of the dead in preference to earth interment.

Very truly yours,
THE DOMINION MAUSOLEUM COMPANY, LIMITED.

Historical Crypt Which Will Be Opened at End of a Century

We are the heirs of the ages, and we have a duty to perform for those who will take our places in the days to come. No one can over-estimate the teaching of history in the building up of national character, and while we look with awe and veneration on the ancient sacred fane which mark throughout the world the progress of the arrest of religious and superstitious thought; while we look abroad over our marathons and recall the deeds of dead heroes, or in some Valhalla stand and ponder over their monuments in brass and stone; there is always so much that one wishes could have been preserved to tell us more of the personal history and appearance of those who have left such an indelible mark on their time and for all time, and to utter anathemas or want of thought which have created many a grievous hiatus. The English-speaking world has her Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's Cathedral, where her honored sons in war and peace, in poetry and romance, in business and teaching, are laid to rest. Their bones are not left to bleach on a far distant soil, but, like Livingstone's, taken "home." This is the magic word to peoples of all nations and climes; and how the patriotic hearts in Brant County throb at their own history and the name of its gallant warrior of the pioneer days, is well shown at the meetings of the Brant Historical Society. Yet how much that is merely untruths and exaggerations have already in a century's time darkened our perception of the true and loyal Brant! However, this lack of reliable data for the historian and archeologist and genealogist is to be a reproach no more in our Province; and BRANTFORD has taken a lead which all lovers of their country will be proud to acclaim with praise.

In Mount Hope Cemetery is being erected by the Dominion Mausoleum Company, Limited, a community Mausoleum on such a dignified and permanent scale as will in the passing of the days be another Westminster Abbey. The noble edifice is of purely Greek design, is being endowed with money enough to maintain it through the succeeding ages, and while being erected by prominent citizens of the town, is not for their own personal use altogether, the beautiful chapel being open to the entire community at burial, a most gracious and thoughtful act.

The new Mausoleum will stand on ground near the entrance to the Cemetery, and in one of the ventilated crypts will be deposited family histories of the purchasers of the spaces, their biographies, etc. On dedication day the crypt will be sealed up and inscribed to the effect that it shall not be opened until one hundred years from that date, and thus will be a true means of preserving authentic history, and will prevent fertile-brained and imaginative historic writers a century from now from giving a misleading account of the people who exist in this day and age. Pride of birth and to be the possessor of an ancient family tree is engrained in the human breast, and the purpose of the BRANTFORD Mausoleum will wield an influence on the preservation of data which would doubtless in many cases be forever lost, and that cannot be over-estimated.

Another strong point which is associated with the project is that what is called "God's acre" is not adapted to the times in which we live, or the spirit of this age. The graveyard is an institution prejudicial to public health, and the time has arrived when a safer disposition of the dead should be instituted.

The BRANTFORD Mausoleum, like those built thousands of years ago, and which are still in existence, is made entirely of indestructible material—granite, marble and bronze—and this fact, together with the sacred purpose for which it will be used, insures its permanence. Much, if not all, of our very ancient history has come down to us through the medium of the rock-made tomb, and in no surer way can we make a like contribution than by utilizing this opportunity.

Seeing the vast importance of the matter, this opportunity is given you by the Dominion Mausoleum Company, Limited, in behalf of the community and county, having reserved one of the crypts, on which will be erected what will be the corner-stone of the building. It is proposed by the Company to set aside the compartment in the interests of helping to form a collection of Brant County's present-day matter, religious, fraternal, educational, municipal, commercial and artistic, for the edification of those who will be filling our place a hundred years hence, and the Company invites its readers to contribute, without cost, such matter as will be of future interest or historical value.

This COMPARTMENT will be sealed on the day of dedication, after all contributions have been placed within, including a program of the dedicatory service and scroll containing the signatures of all present on that occasion.

The marble-faced slab will bear the inscription:
BRANTFORD MAUSOLEUM
Erected A.D. 1914

This Crypt Contains Present-day Historical Matter, Which is Only Valuable by Reason of its Antiquity. Under no Circumstances Must It be Opened Until the Year 2014.

And there is every reason to believe that its instructions will be fully observed.

All contributions should be securely wrapped and labelled, so that an accurate list may be kept, and delivered to the Dominion Mausoleum Co., Limited, Bank of Hamilton Building, Suite 6, on or before July 1st, 1914.
