NEW PUBLIC HEALTH ACT OUTLINED BY DR. ROBERTS

Minister of Public Health Visits Newcastle and Lays Working of New Act Before Municipal Council—Will Provide for Gathering of Vital Statistics and Medical Inspection of Public Schools.

Hon. Dr. Roberts, Minister of Public Health, paid an official visit to Newcastle, on Friday, and met with the members of the County Council and explained the workings of the new Health Act. Accompanying Dr. Roberts was Dr. Melvin, chief health officer of the province, and Dr. F. J. Desmond, District Medical Officer for the Eastern District of New Brunswick, which comprises the counties of Restigouche, Gloucester, Northumberland, Kent and Westmorland counties.

Warden G. P. Burehill presided and introduced Hon. Dr. Roberts.

Dr. Roberts' first business was to propose to meet with all the Municipal Councils at their annual sessions, and desiring that they should have a full knowledge of the new act, he had taken this means of talking it over with members rather informally.

The need of the Health Act was very apparent. New Brunswick, with a population of 400,000 had over 80,000 persons working for a livelihood, and of these it has been proven that at least five per cent. had been afflicted by diseases that were preventable, and caused the loss in wages alone of many million dollars. Small-pox had for a number of years afflicted the Northern part of the province with epidemics. It was not only a loathsome disease, but caused no end of expense in the lumber camps, not only to the individual, but to the employer and country as well. He had thought that the municipal councils were at fault when they failed to recognize the danger, but they had taken this means of talking it over with members rather informally.

Clavis Bourque Pleaded Guilty to Holding Up C. G. R. Brokeman Before Magistrate—Lawyer on Wednesday—Tries to Escape.

In the police court Wednesday afternoon, Clavis Bourque, of Jogging Mines, N.S., pleaded guilty to stealing a mackinaw coat, a pair of gloves, a pair of boots and muffler and a quantity of cash from a C.G.R. car on November 25, and also with holding up Brokeman Stephen Cameron and threatening him with a revolver. Bourque, who seems to be a mere slip of a youth, told the story of the hold-up in a straightforward manner. He stated while the crew were absent from the car he had taken the mackinaw coat and put it on and also placed the boots and rubbers in his left hand and the gloves in his right. He went into the toilet to try and steal a ride. Cameron came into the toilet and took hold of Bourque, whereupon he pulled a revolver and told him (Cameron) to leave or he would shoot, which Cameron did and Bourque made his escape through the window leaving his coat behind him. Judge Lawrie in passing a sentence of two years in Dorchester, said he regretted having to do so, both owing to the youth of the prisoner and the season of the year, but trusted he would endeavor to follow the right path.

CITIZENS TO BE ASKED TO ASSIST GEAR WORKS

Capital Stock Increased and Fifteen Thousand Dollars Urgently Needed—Name to be Changed to the Miramichi Manufacturing Co., Ltd.

A meeting of the citizens of the town was held in the Town Hall last evening to devise means of inducing citizens to subscribe more stock in the Canadian Gear Works. In order that it may be kept a going concern.

Joseph Ander, manager of the Canadian Gear Works, Ltd., whose name is being changed to Miramichi Manufacturing Co., asked that the subscribers take more stock in the company, in order to keep it afloat. The business had expanded far beyond the point justified by the small capital invested, and some $12,000 to $15,000 additional capital was needed to install sufficient machinery to economically attend to the growing business.

PAULINE FREDERICK IS TIGER WOMAN IN HER NEW PHOTOPLAY

Beautiful Paramount Star Seen in Dual Roles in Latest Picture, "Her Final Reckoning," by Jules Claretie.

Appearing in a remarkable role, or rather, two roles, one of them being a loquacious egyptian girl, represented as a "tiger woman," Pauline Frederick, the beautiful star in Paramount pictures, will be seen in her newest photoplay, "Her Final Reckoning," at the Happy Hour Theatre "Kinas Day" afternoon and evening performances. In the latter part of the picture, Frederick has shown discriminating taste in the selection of costumes, and one that is particularly noteworthy is a tiger's skin. The effect is said to be most startling in the way of accentuating the feline nature of her remarkable characterization.

GRAVES OF OUR HEROES.

The report of Sir Frederic Kenyon, adviser to the Imperial War Graves Commission, has been published under the title of "War Graves: How the Cemeteries Abroad Will be Designed." The policy adopted upon has been approved in the United Kingdom, and will undoubtedly be favored in the other parts of the Empire. The principle of equality is to prevail throughout the whole undertaking. The remains of every hero are to be treated alike. The scattered graves, of which there are about 150,000, are to be removed from their isolation to the various cemeteries to be established under Government supervision. This removal to central places is necessary, as otherwise such graves would be lost trace of, being eventually obliterated by the farmers on whose lands they lie. Now they will be placed in cemeteries, where they will be cared for reverently. The British Army has arranged for this work to be done by volunteers, and at the re-entrants the chaplains of the forces will hold burial services. The Graves Registration officers will take care of the identifications.

As is known, the governments of France, Belgium, Italy and Greece, are to provide land in perpetuity for the British war cemeteries and "adopt" the dead. The mying-out of these God's acres will be in the hands of the architects calling, leaders of which have offered to direct the industry in their task. The extent of the work may be imagined when it is considered that there are hundreds of cemeteries, some with as many as ten thousand interments, and others with but a score. The same kindly care is to be given to each. All are to be enclosed, and adorned with trees and flower plots. There will be a central cross and memorial stone with the verse from Ecclesiasticus suggested by Edward Kipling: "Their name liveth for evermore." A colonnade will shelter the registers of the names of the men sleeping their last and quietest sleep. Over each grave will be a headstone with the regimental or battalion badge, a wooden cross bearing an inscription with name, rank, date of death, etc. The graves of the identified are more than 400,000, spread over the great war zone. The cemeteries will be a lasting memorial.

Following the signing of peace and the return to normal conditions in the transportation business, it is certain that pilgrimages will start from all over the world to the scenes of the fighting. Thousands of relatives and friends of the dead will desire to visit the cemeteries and say a prayer and shed a tear at the graves of those who sacrificed their lives in a cause they were convinced was just. Other persons will go out of curiosity, to all beholders, the sight of these extensive graveyards, giving rest to the best of youth, will be a reminder of the terrible cost of war. They should serve also to spread the lesson that the war makers, or whatever land are enemies of mankind, deserve the fate that has already befallen Wilhelm II. He is the man who should be the Emperor of the German Empire, and the militarists and mad diplomats who encouraged the war in their reckless career.

T. I. L. WOULD HAVE MANY CHANGES

Suggest Town Plan and New Assessment - Truancy Also Discussed.

The Town Improvement League met in the Police Magistrate's room Tuesday night. Charles E. Fish, first vice-president, presided.

Mr. D. Atkinson was admitted to membership.

Rev. L. G. MacLean criticised the rate of Newcastle's municipal taxation. Five per cent was a rate that would scare outsiders from settling in the town. Newcastle's method of assessment was absurd. If property and income were assessed correctly the rate would come down, probably to two or two and a half per cent. The chairman said that assessors here valued real estate by comparison and personal property by suspicion. He would have an act passed that would be mechanical in its effect. The town should go to work and lay out a plan of procedure. By a revamping the tax rate could be brought down to two per cent.

Rev. Mr. MacLean - And nobody would be hurt. With a five per cent rate the town's chance of growing is nil; with two to two and a half per cent, it would have a chance. He had read of a western town, whose taxation before the war had been 13 per cent, objecting to its present rate of 3.1 per cent as fearful.

The chairman said a plan of the town was needed.

It was moved by Rev. L. G. MacLean, seconded by Ald. H. H. Stewart, and carried unanimously, that the following be recommended to the Town Council: In addition to the requests made of that body at last meeting of the League:

1. A new survey and plan of the town appropriation for the same to be made in the estimate for 1919.

2. The appointment of only such persons as assessors for 1919 as will agree to pay attention to the provisions of the assessment law, which provides that all assessable real estate, personal property and income shall be assessed on its full value.

Re the number of liquor vendors for Newcastle having been recently increased to four, the chairman said he understood that the two latest, appointed on account of the influenza, would soon be dismissed, the special reason for their appointment having ceased.

Re compulsory attendance at school, the chairman said that some children in town had not the proper clothing for school; others were needed to work round the house; and some would not go to school.

Rev. Mr. MacLean said that, finding these things so, the town and the state should make it possible for such children to go to school. Education was all that most parents could leave their children. The state should recognize its duty to see that all children had the opportunity of getting education. He knew of children unable to go to school because of clothes. Education would save the state in later years, for the criminal class most largely came from the ignorant.

Andrew McCabe said that children should be educated. Late at night children could be seen at the door of the moving picture theatre and the policeman did not seem to interfere with them. Something should be done about it. Clothing could be got for the poorer children. Uneducated children would make useless men and women.

H. D. Atkinson thought parents were too often careless. Rev. Mr. MacLean said no street was good enough for the children. The T. I. L. meets regularly every fourth Tuesday evening.

Winston Churchill, who presided at the outbreak of the war, were officially identified with the Dardanelles operations, were the guests of honor this afternoon at the Australian and New Zealand Luncheon Club. General Birdwood paid a high tribute to the fighting qualities of the Anzacs in Gallipoli, and said:

"It is obvious that we were unable to achieve the military object at which we aimed, but I am confident that when history has written its verdict on the Dardanelles campaign, the full value will be done in what was accomplished by the Mediterranean Expeditionary Forces. It was at its part in the attainment of the final result. The heart and soul was taken out of the Turkish armies, by the British-Australian force which landed on the Gallipoli peninsula. Never again was the Turk able to present such a battle front. The whole of his organized military strength was ruptured and shattered there, and what we had to deal with afterwards in other theatres was the remnants broken and discouraged by the main blow which had been struck at him."

measure and importance of which it is not even yet possible to judge. "That the effect would have been on the Russian situation, already beginning to crumble on the Roumanian situation, on the Greek and Serbian situation, if Bulgaria had perpetuated her way of operations, is incalculable. The first British armies in 1915, six months, caused by the genius and spirit of Lord Kitchener, came into the field as a new factor. But if Bulgaria had delayed over before we had the situation as it is today, the result would have been different. It is not possible to say what would have been the result of the delay. It is not possible to say what would have been the result of the delay. It is not possible to say what would have been the result of the delay."
