CHAPTER XXIII. FRESH POSIES. (Continued.) 'Before Noll bows as he has never bowed before! Ah, here's the nurse—well, dame?'

'What, Master Harold?' was the glad exclamation. 'Is it you? Oh, bring him in!'

'Where's Miss North?' he asked. 'Only gone to her own room to brush the horse's hair off her dress. How could you let him go near her, and she so timid, poor child?'

'What is the matter? Why is she poor child?' asked Harold, smiling. 'Why don't you see how pale she is?' said the dame; 'not like herself she haven't been for this—oh, this week past.'

'Come, nurse, don't be personal,' says Harold, bantering. 'You'll be complimenting me directly on my altered appearance.'

I am so contented. Not too bright—ah, no, it has not been too bright; but clouded—if you only know—' 'Tell me!' he said, on the impulse of the moment; then as a startled, shivering expression crossed her face, he added, instantly: 'I beg your pardon—forgive me! It was not idle curiosity—'

'You will forgive me,' she said, 'but sometimes when I am thinking of you' she coloured faintly, and lowered her head at those words—'I have an idea that you have traveled a great deal.'

'I would not start on a voyage without it, if it cost a dollar a bottle.' 'CAPT. F. R. DESJARDIN, Schr. "Storke," St. Andre, Kamouraska.

'I have been in America,' she said, reluctantly. 'How strange! You know, of course, that I have not long returned from there.'

'What a brute I am!' he exclaimed, earnestly. 'Thick-headed, too, to trouble you like this. I certainly am the stupidest idiot in the world! Any other man would have seen that he was paining you by his cackle. Will you forgive me?' he pleaded, leaning toward her, eagerly. 'I will never do so again; indeed I did not know,

'Not in the least—I am quite contented.' He nodded, with a short laugh. 'Quite content! That's a great thing to say. But you look it, you look quite happy!'

'I am very happy,' she assented. 'Yes, you look it,' he said, thoughtfully, and with a fixed gaze at the sweet face, with its soft, reposeful lips and downcast eyes. 'You look as if the world, with all its fatalities and disappointments, were a sealed book to you; as if life had been one untroubled day, neither too bright nor too cloudy, but—'

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

You seem to be feeling better this afternoon than you were yesterday, I commented, when the lady who had dragged herself listlessly to the door in answer to my ring the day before, came down the hall with a quick, elastic step, and greeted me with an unforced smile.

"Yes, I do feel much better this afternoon, although I've worked just as hard as I did yesterday. I really believe it's because when I got my work done to-day, I just made myself change my dress and fix up, and yesterday I thought I was too tired to," she explained.

"I think the lady hit the nail right on the head. Make yourself smile and you will feel happier, despite yourself they say. Make yourself look better and you will feel better, despite yourself, it is equally true. It is a fact not to be denied that the woman who goes in search of employment of any kind stylishly and becomingly gowned, is twice as apt to be successful, other things being equal, as the woman who is unattractively garbed. And I think the reason for this is not wholly the impression that her attractive appearance makes upon her prospective employer.

I think the impression that it has made on the woman herself is a greater reason. The self confidence and better address that her consciousness of her attractive appearance inspires in her have more to do with her success than the pleasure or admiration they may inspire in him.

Hot weather is a foe to exertion of any kind, but even here I think the close relationship between attractive appearance and attractive feelings holds good.

You don't believe it? Tell me, truly, when you really felt the better—the hot day when you drooped around all day and in a limp, ugly rag of a gown, because it was the thinnest thing you owned, or the day you dressed up in the afternoon in a slightly less slimy but decidedly more attractive gown?

A doctor friend of mine was treating a nervous prostration patient who was wearing mourning. She was a pale thin woman, and looked thoroughly unattractive and dowdy in her black gowns.

"If I could only get that woman to leave off black and buy herself half a dozen pretty frocks, and fix herself up to look attractive, I'd have her half cured," he said.

To be as attractive a part of the landscape as she can, is certainly part of woman's duty to those about her.

And considering the difference it makes in her feelings, I should say it was also a part of her duty to herself.

STOMACH LIVER LUNGS

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the Chain of Life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

The strong man has a strong stomach. Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.

GIVEN AWAY.—Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, new revised Edition, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Fads and Fashions.

The yoke and collar matching the color of the material are not often seen now.

There is a much more noticeable bag at the waistline of the gowns this summer.

Upon all handsome or dressy gowns, sash, girdle, belt, or bow effects of ribbon appear.

Actual draperies are only introduced in suits of silk or lightweight materials.

A good deal of soutaching is seen on some of the suits in odd bands and panel arrangements.

Something unique and exceedingly beautiful is the chrysanthemum opera bag in Irish crochet.

The moire favoured for millinery has a border or hairline stripes on a light or white ground.

A long ribbon fringe is the finish to some of the net or beaded tunics worn over colored garments.

Tinted embroideries, especially those with the ecru or butter shades, are attracting some attention.

Some of the new patent leather belts have insets of gold or silver brocade in front and back.

A fine "ladder work" or Irish lace is effectively used to join different parts of the skirt and corsage.

Serim is a favourite for summer curtains.

The black satin coat of all lengths is favoured.

About nine out of ten handsome gowns are collarless.

Black frills are in demand for black gowns or waists.

Among the new veillings are those with crepe-like borders.

Dyed linen laces are high style for linen and cotton dresses.

Sometimes the Dutch neck is outlined with tiny rosebuds of chiffon.

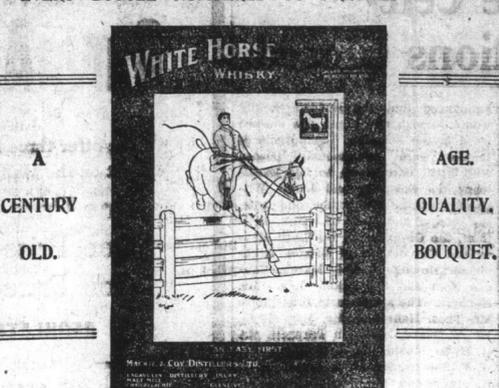

Foulards are much worn as shirt-waists, matching in color the cloth suit.

Eyetele embroidery is a favourite in the handsomest lingerie gowns this season.

Chiffon, voiles, marquisettes and silk crepes are having a wonderful rage.

Tiny little rooster heads are used as trimming for small girls' everyday hats.

Tom Winsor Tells of Broken Promises, and other Matters.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Sir.—With your permission to use your valuable paper for this occasion, I shall endeavour to put before the public the unmanly treatment I received from the hands of two of our representatives. When it became an act that a steamer would run on the Labrador, I asked Capt. W. C. Winsor if a mailman had been appointed, letting the answer in the negative and the promise of his support. I applied for the situation, I also wrote the Hon. Sidney Blandford concerning it, and having occasion to go to St. John's shortly afterwards, I interviewed him on the matter. Our conversation ran thus: "Is the mailman appointed for the steamer running on the lower part of Labrador?" He answered, "Yes, Tom Winsor is the man for that." "Well," I replied, "I suppose I am the man." He said, "Oh! are you Tom Winsor? You have changed since I saw you." That was one month previous. A few more common-place words being exchanged, I left his office. After returning to Westville and the appointment being withheld, I feared deception and said to Capt. Will.—"I have an inclination to go to work, I haven't much faith in those promises." He said, "Oh! don't do that, it will be all right." He went to St. John's in due time for the ship, and on his arrival at Westville he informed me a mailman was on board, but only for one trip, and told me to wire Blandford for my appointment, and consequently I would be taken on for the next trip. I did so and received the answer: "Bartlett has it. Didn't Capt. Winsor tell you?" Now sir, do you envy us our members? I think not. They are unworthy of the name of man. Manliness is something foreign to them.

If Mr. Blandford was working for someone else, and knew Mr. Bartlett was the man for it, then why didn't he say so? I could then have turned in some other direction. Now through his, or I should say, their falsehood, I have lost two months work. I detest this twisting and screwing the truth, or in other words this twisting up of falsehood to make it appear like truth. Undoubtedly Mr. Blandford knew me. Only that is the way he had in sneaking around the corner, unable to face the truth. He had to worm out of it in what he thought a nice way. Nice was it? I know another name for it, I suppose they think because they were carried about in chairs after their election, they can afford to be mean to some of their constituents. But let me take the scales from their eyes. It was not so much in honour of the men, it was honour of party which led up to this action. I will say further, that anything seeking election in Bonaville Bay as a Tory would have been elected. A change they wanted and a change they have. But the change is just the opposite to what they expected. This Bay has been steeped in what is termed Toryism for the past twenty years. At the beginning of those twenty years the majority were illiterate. Allow me to inform those Hon. Members, the illiterate are in the majority now, and even the illiterate of to-day can see further in the future than you think, and some of them have a presentment of what is going to take place at the end of this political term. But we must give them time. They will do good though they do waste a few dollars. They sent a fine horse (Stallion) to Westville and a man to look after it, so that now as the men in and around Westville have their mares grazing at Cape Freels.

One thing to be regretted is, that owing to school examinations and the lobster factories our local photographers have not time to get a snapshot of this fine beast, while it is on exhibition trotting from Westville to Brookfield. We have a variety of hen's eggs—good ones—too—so that our wives and mothers can hatch a better quality than our local hens; I don't think they can improve on our hens unless they could give us one to lay two eggs a day. Oh! I had nearly forgotten to say that like our friends at Kelligrews, we, too, are blessed with seed potatoes, and now that our potatoes are through the ground here ready to be retracted, what a waste of money? Do they think we are blind or asleep. Not a bit of it. We are more awake than ever, and if they are not more awake in the future than they have been in the past, I predict their name will be "Walker." I could write volumes of their doings if I cared to do so, not volumes of abuse or deceit but truth, mark you. I hope at the expiration of this political term our members will be manly, truthful men of whom the residents of any Bay may be proud.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space, I remain yours truly, TOM WINSOR.

Boy Had Fits For 6 Years

Druggist advised DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD—Cure complete and lasting.

Mrs. J. D. Palmer, 33 Park St., Amsterdam, N. Y., writes: "When six years of age my boy began to have fits. They came on in the night. He would make strange noises, stiffen out, froth at mouth, face would twitch and sometimes turned purple. After the fit he could not talk. The family physician said all he could do was to keep them down some what. The second physician pronounced trouble Jeffersonian epilepsy, but could not cure him. He suffered for six years and before beginning the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food had three fits about five days. Our druggist recommended Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food. He has taken seven boxes and has no had the symptom of a fit since. His color has greatly improved; he is no nervous and irritable like he used to be and we consider his cure complete."

Such results are only obtained by the use of the genuine Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food—not from imitations or substitutes. 50 cents a box, all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES GARGET IN COWS.

Eyesores!

Editor Evening Telegram:

Dear Sir,—I think that every unbiased person will admit this little city of our contains very many obnoxious and unsightly objects which might be removed altogether, or at least improved upon, to a very great extent. Take, for instance, the many vacant parcels of land we see here and there throughout the town which I look upon as public eyesores, and used merely as repositories for all of rubbish. Now, if these various lots were enclosed by a decent board fence, say about six or seven feet high, the objectionable articles promiscuously strewn thereon would be almost hidden from sight and the appearance of the localities considerably enhanced.

Now, sir, there is one particular eyesore I wish to call public attention to, and that is the portion of land immediately east of the Custom House and at present used by Mayor Ellis as a receptacle for building material, &c. This place, which is almost the very first to catch the eye of strangers landing here from any one of the foreign steamship lines, is partially surrounded by a dilapidated fence, and as if to make it more despicable and a greater nuisance, a stone crusher has lately been placed on this same piece of ground, and as horses and carts are continually engaged hauling stone, sand, &c., to and from this stock-yard, over the sidewalk on Water and Duckworth Street, pedestrians are put to a great deal of inconvenience by being obliged to wait until the obstacles which bar their passage have moved off, or otherwise to step into the gutter to avoid them, which is not a pleasant proceeding.

The Manifesto published by Mayor Ellis previous to the Municipal Election foreshadowed great things, such as improving the appearance of the city, perfecting our sanitary system, &c.

Well, if the erection and operating of a stone-crusher on Water Street is to be looked upon as "a thing of beauty," I certainly cannot congratulate Mayor Ellis on his initiatory move to improve the appearance of the city.

Come, then, Mr. Ellis, it is up to you to set the example and remove this eyesore by having the place cleaned up and placed in order, then you can say to others whose land requires to be fixed up, "go thou and do likewise," and if at the end of your term of office you are asked what good works have you performed and how have you added to the beauty of the city you will, I trust, be in a position to say with pride and in all sincerity, "SI monumentum quaeris circumspice."

Yours truly,
CITIZEN.

Of this number 200,000 will be visitors, and they will come from every portion of the continent. On Labor Day the rush will begin, and on the day of the procession there will be excursions from every point on the countryside.

Father Morriscy Medicine Co., Ltd.

I am writing to tell you I have been a victim to Rheumatism for several years, and have been treated by seven doctors without making any permanent relief until I got Father Morriscy's medicine. It has cured me so I am able to do my work and find I am as well as ever in my life.

Yours truly,
John Crawford.

Rheumatism cannot exist when the kidneys are in perfect working order for then they take out of the blood all the Uric Acid, which alone causes the Rheumatism.

Father Morriscy's "No. 7" Tablets act directly on the kidneys, toning them up and helping them to clear the blood of the Uric Acid. If the Rheumatism is of long standing it may take some time to clear out all the poison, but almost from the first "No. 7" Tablets relieve the pain, and if used faithfully they rarely fail to cure.

Even if other remedies have done you no good, do not give up till you have tried Father Morriscy's "No. 7" Tablets.

NEW MARKETS FOR OUR FISH.

The Newfoundland is an Islander, and Islanders are insular. They stand on the old ways and hate new-fangled notions. I have been for years a voice crying in the wilderness about our coal, fresh fish and Fulton market. I am of old Devonian stock and the West Country spirit of dogged obstinacy is in me. There are two contingencies before us just now that vitally affect our interests as a fish country—Reciprocity with the States and the opening up of the great Canadian North-West by the new Hudson Bay route. I am aware that a large number of people look upon this new route as utterly impracticable, but if they have read Laurier's speeches they can see that the railway to Hudson Bay is begun and that the route will be opened. The Canadian Premier has unreservedly promised this to the people of the North-West. Now it is clear that if the grain and cattle can be sent by this route, our fish and other products can come in, and our vessels would have return cargoes of grain. I am well acquainted with the Canadian North-West, and I can speak from personal experience that there is a large market there for our fish. In our days the most attractive package helps to sell its contents. For this new market our fish should be put up in neat, handy packages, and of course we should have our agents to handle and distribute our products.

I am quite aware that a number of people in this country look upon the Hudson Bay route as a wild visionary impracticable scheme, just in the same way the Port aux Basques-Sydney route was deemed impossible until R. G. Reid took it up and has put it through without one failure for thirteen years.

That Reciprocity is a live question and will soon be carried out, we can see very clearly. The great majority in Canada are all for full trade in raw materials. The North-West insists upon it. Of course, the Canadian manufacturers are against it, but their opposition will be overcome. Gloucester even advocates it now. They want new fishing grounds; their own is exhausted, and this year their business is a great failure. They recognize that the American millions will no longer eat deer fish to support their crews of foreagers. The Americans are thoroughly well aware that the decision of the Hague Tribunal will be given against them, and that in order to do any profitable business in Newfoundland there must be new arrangements, in short, a Reciprocity Treaty. For this new market we must prepare. With the duty removed and the latest methods for transporting fresh fish there is a large market for us in the States, and especially for our winter fish. As Mr. T. R. Job has noted, if we could send off all this winter fish fresh it would be a great relief to the bulk markets, as just now when prices are good in Portugal, &c., this winter fish comes in and glutts the market.

A Church of the Murphys.

A Catholic church has been erected at Murphy's Corner, four miles below Rigelsville, Pa., for the use of one family, that of Thomas J. Murphy, and a priest has been assigned to say Mass in the church every second Sunday in each month. As it is on top of one of the highest hills in the Delaware Valley, there is but little likelihood of any but members of the Murphy family attending services.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murphy are the parents of eighteen children and the grand parents of thirty-two, all of whom live on the Murphy farm, which consists of five hundred acres of mountainous land. Heretofore the family had to walk fifteen miles to attend Mass each Sunday, and as this was found extremely difficult, the family decided to bear the expense of the erection of a church if the bishop of the diocese would permit a priest to say Mass in the church once a month, the Murphys being willing to walk the fifteen miles to church on the other Sundays.

The church has been completed and dedicated. Father Murphy is the sexton, Moses Murphy is the church undertaker, James and William Murphy, altar boys; George and Henry Murphy, teachers in the Sunday school; the Misses Anna, Bettie, Sarah, Jane, Elizabeth, Susan, Mary, Katherine, Claudia and Esther Murphy are the members of the choir, which is under the direction of Miss Maud Murphy. Rev. George Murphy, a nephew of Mr. Murphy, who is stationed at Doylestown, Pa., has promised to say Mass at the Murphy church whenever he is able to visit this section. The church, which is a wooden structure, is in a picturesque location and can be reached only after a strenuous climb of a three-mile hill.

The West End Water Service.

Every misfortune has its lesson, and it is well when the lesson is taken to heart, and acted on promptly and fully. According to His Honor the Mayor the lesson of the deplorable fire yesterday is the need of a better supply of water for the West End. Apparently the water is forced up the street in lines there from Water Street by the general pressure from Windsor Lake level, and has to make its way against the friction of the inside incrustation of the pipes. To avoid the loss of pressure which results, the Mayor suggests the laying of a large pipe along LeMarchant Road and Cornwall Avenue, with outlets to feed the streets which are in the declivity to Water Street. We must confess that we were under the impression that the course outlined by the Mayor was part of the projected improvement in the Water Service for which a loan was raised from the Government. If it was not, it seems to us it should be, and subject to the opinion of the City Engineer, we are of opinion that the Mayor should impress on the Council the necessity of carrying it out, so that the West End may obtain an increase of volume and pressure of water, and a better all round service. The matter should not end in talk.

The Children's Century

The Twentieth Century will undoubtedly be the Children's Century. There is a real stirring up of the dead hopes of education throughout the world, and it is gradually being realized that the school is but a centralized department to aid the home in building up the character of boys and girls that they may as adults face the world in a manly and womanly way respectively. We are gradually learning that the school is not a mental gymnasium where boy prodigies may be turned out to perform intellectual stunts or merely to pick out a few boys to perform bigger ones at Universities. It is the training ground for the boy and girl of every degree of innate or acquired ability, be the latter forward, average or backward. The personal factor in education is the most influential and lasting. The object then of every educational system should be to obtain a body of teachers, thorough students of child life and of the influence of environ-

Harbor Grace Celebrations Closed.

(Special to Evening Telegram.)
HARBOR GRACE, To-Day.
As the last act in the Guy Tercentenary, the British Band paraded the streets last night, bringing large numbers of visitors and citizens to the Exhibition Hall, which was beautifully illuminated with numerous vari-colored electric lights, interwoven among green trees and arches. After entering the hall, the chairman, Judge Oke, addressed the audience, enumerating the exhibits and thanking the exhibitors for their magnificent booths, and calling the attention of the public to the fact that it should not be necessary to import such goods as there displayed. He entered into the general celebration, and extended hearty thanks to the ladies for their successful efforts for the Hospital, to the band for their well rendered services, to visitors for their patronage, and especially to the general contributors who thus made the proceedings possible. He announced that the Roddick family would furnish and equip one six-bed ward in the hospital. Resolutions of thanks were unanimously passed with great enthusiasm to His Excellency the Governor and Lady Williams, Captain Wolcombe and wife, the officers and crew of H.M.S. Brilliant, the Government, the Lord Mayor and Corporation of Bristol, Archbishop Howley, Bishop March, Canon Noel and Smith and Rev. Mr. Bartlett. The speakers in order were Mr. Thos. Hanrahan, Mr. John Tapp, Mr. W. Ward, Mr. John Trapnell, Mr. H. H. Archibald, Mr. A. G. Munn, Mr. J. P. Shortis, Mr. W. J. James, Mr. J. D. Munn and Mr. Bernard Parsons. Special mention was made of Messrs. W. A. Munn and H. F. Shortis, whose untiring energy contributed so much to the success of the Celebration. After a few closing words from the Chairman the Celebration was closed, the band playing and the vast audience singing "God Save the King."

Sebastian Cabot's Birth and Death.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—When Judge Prowse writes on historical errors he should be careful to consult the authorities, and not write from memory or draw upon his imagination.
In regard to Sebastian Cabot he states (1) that he was of tender years in 1497 and therefore could not have accompanied his father on his famous voyage in that year; (2) that he lived until late in the reign of Queen Elizabeth.
The facts of Sebastian Cabot's birth, life and death were most exhaustively inquired into by M. Henri Harrisse, and are as follows: He was born in Venice, between the years 1475 and 1477, and was therefore a young man in 1497. In 1502 he presented three Eskimos to King Henry VII, thus indicating that he had certainly reached man's estate.
In 1512 he was appointed to an important post in the Spanish Marine thus indicating that he had arrived at mature years. He died between the dates Sept. 29th, and Dec. 25th, 1557, at the age of 80 to 82 years.
Queen Elizabeth ascended the throne in November, 1558, about a year after his death. I may add that the date of his death is clearly indicated by the date of the last payment of his salary or pension, on Sept. 29th, 1557, and the first payment to his successor, Worthington, on Dec. 25th of the same year.
Yours truly, C. C.

Investiture of Prince of Wales.

There has recently been an interesting story on foot in Wales to the King to give his consent to a ceremonial investiture of the Prince of Wales in that country next year. An influential committee, it is understood has been formed to further the movement, consisting of Mr. Lloyd George, Lord Tredegar, Lord Cadwall, Lord Plymouth, the Bishop of St. Asaph, Sir Alfred Thomas, and the Rev. Cadvan Davies. There is a not unnatural rivalry between Carnarvon and Cardiff as to which centre should be honored in this way if the King's consent can be obtained. In influential quarters it is hoped that when the matter has been finally put in train the general feeling will be in favor of an investiture at Carnarvon, and that the petition of the people of Wales will take this form. It is regarded as very desirable that there should be unanimity of feeling and no effort will be spared to secure this. In the olden days an investiture took place in Wales. The first English one was at Lincoln, although afterwards received the homage of chieftains at Chester. The ceremony of the coronation of the Black Prince took place at Westminster. The Prince was crowned with a chaplet of gold made in the form of a garland, a gold ring was set on his finger, a sceptre or wand of silver was put in his hand and he was placed in his seat by the bishops. In the investiture of Prince Henry of Monmouth the sceptre was of gold.

Protection of Rulers From Anarchists.

London, Aug. 5.—At the invitation of Scotland Yard a most remarkable conference is to be held in this city in the middle of September. The delegates to the conference are to be detectives from all civilized countries, whose duty it is to protect the lives of royalty against anarchistic plotters.
The meetings of the conference are to be secret and no reports of the proceedings are to be given to the press, but it is known that the object of the gathering is to discuss new methods of dealing with anarchists, and if possible to put an end to their activity the world over.
Anarchists Unmolested.
At present anarchists are allowed to make their homes in this country unmolested so long as they do not attempt to carry out any of their plots here, but during the funeral of King Edward a very dangerous plan was discovered at the very last moment, and although nothing of it was seen in the papers, it showed an inclination to break the silent truce, and for this reason the conference will take up the question of new ways to deal with the would-be assassins.
Until now the opinion of Scotland Yard has been that it is far better that these men should be allowed to congregate together where their haunts are known and where it is the simplest matter in the world to keep an eye on them than that they should be scattered far and wide over Europe, each plotting in secret and in such a manner that it would be impossible to watch them.
There exists in London at the present day several properly constituted "murder clubs," each of which aims at the life of one or more sovereigns. It is doubtful whether there is any one of these clubs that is not perfectly well known to our police, and where spies of the authorities are not enrolled as members.
At times, of course, some of the less responsible members of these clubs and their allies lose their temper and attack persons suspected of being in the pay of the police, and then some very ugly scurrilous take place in the courts and stuns of Soho, and blood flows and heads are cracked. There is always a very strong force of police close at hand and the tumult is soon put to an end, and it is only in very rare instances that the outside world hears anything about the affray, or if it does it is merely described in the police court as a "drunken brawl."
There are dozens of anarchist clubs in London where the most outrageous talk is indulged in night after night. Here again the police are usually well represented, and next morning the authorities are in possession of the names of the speakers and the general drift of their speeches. All this information is carefully filed for future reference and will probably be subsequently taken down and used in evidence against them should occasion demand.
Experiments made with a thermometer, a temperature of 32 degrees in the sun, and a live man gave a result as follows: Inside the hat 37; a quarter of an hour's wear in the sun a Panama keeps the temperature down to 78 degrees; an ordinary straw boater, 82 degrees; silk hat, 89 degrees; hard felt hat leaves it at 92 degrees; a tweed cap raises it to 91 degrees; a policeman's helmet to 97 degrees.—Men's Wear.

City Council

Discusses Motor Car License Law—
Other Business Considered.

The Council met at 7.30. The Mayor and full Board were present, also representatives of the News and Chronicle.

When the minutes were read Councillor Mullaly rose to register his protest against the statement made by Road Inspector Barnes, that the men employed on Harvey Road were half fed. He considered it a libel on the workmen of St. John's in the month of June were unable to give an honest day's work for an honest day's pay. He had no doubt on his mind but that the Harvey Road job was availed of for electioneering purposes, and in that connection he had much pleasure in complimenting the Mayor on the creditable manner in which he had come out of the enquiry, although in the contest only one vote could be traced to him, which showed that he was quite satisfied to place himself in the hands of the people without using any undue influence to bring about his return. He further assured the Mayor that in any and every matter promoted by him in the interest of the taxpayers no stronger supporter would be found at the Board than he (Mr. M.). He believed the Inspector had been prompted to make these statements, and that it was done with the intention of trying to excite sympathy against him. The Road Inspector could not remember how many notes he had, but he could very well remember a lot of other things in connection with the matter. Some members of the Council objected to his remarks about the old Council, but he wanted it distinctly understood that he was not asking these questions from any unworthy motive, that he simply wanted to know how they did things, so that he might learn, not from their misdeeds, but from their mistakes. In connection with the notes, he had been told by Councillor Ryan that they were destroyed intentionally between the time they were received and pay day.

Councillor Ryan—"I did not say that."

Councillor Mullaly—"You did."

Here Councillor Martin took up the matter, saying that Councillor Mullaly seemed to be particularly anxious to pursue him, he being the only member of the old Council.

Councillor Mullaly disclaimed any such intention, and asked for the meeting to be conducted in a gentlemanly manner, and requested not to be interrupted while he had the floor.

Councillor Ryan repeated his denial of having told Councillor Mullaly that the notes were destroyed, when the matter dropped quietly, and the Council settled down to routine business.

The Mayor remarked that some things that were referred to the Engineer were often lost sight of by the Council, and not thought of after. He requested that such matters be followed up in the future, and care taken that the reports were properly attended to by the Council.

The week's bills and pay sheets were then read by the Secretary.

Councillor Mullaly thought that Councillors should examine pay sheets carefully, and should be given an opportunity of knowing whether the City was getting value for the money paid in this direction before they passed them. The present custom was to simply glance at them during the meeting, when if they took the time to examine them they would have to neglect the business before the meeting. He suggested that they be prepared early enough to give the Councillors a chance to read them carefully before the meeting. He thought this one of the most important part of the Council's work.

The Mayor replied that he had already given notice to the clerks to have all bills prepared on Thursday, for the same reason.

The Mayor made reference to a bill for paint and brushes, purchased for the purpose of painting a small bit of fencing. He thought the work could have been done much cheaper by engaging a regular painter, instead of buying materials that probably would never be used again.

Councillors Mullaly and Channing spoke on the same question. While they recognized that it was a small matter, yet they thought such matters should be managed as economically as one's private business.

The Inspector-General wrote, complaining that he had not received the full list of all motor cars and motor bicycles licensed to date. He asked that the officials of the Council, who reports on fact driving, etc., be instructed to give him (the Inspector) any information they may gather in relation to same. The Inspector pointed out that the regulations passed in 1907 were unworkable and insufficient, and suggested that a new set of rules be framed. It was a surprise to him that accidents did not happen more frequently under the present circumstances, and he offered to confer with the Council and do all in his power to assist in making more effective regulations.

Councillor Mullaly, in reference to this matter, would say that until he became a member of the Council he was under the impression that owners of motor cars had to pay an annual license. In fact he had been so informed by an official of the Council. He had in his possession a copy of the Rules and Regulations adopted by the Council, and advanced the opinion from the standpoint of a layman, that the said regulations gave the Council power to collect. In making this statement he was subject of course to correction, but one thing was certain that he either had the power or he hadn't got it, if we had we should have been collecting from all owners of machines, and if we hadn't got it, it would be in order to refund the money to people who paid; in any case it would be wise to refer the matter to another Solicitor with a view to having the law amended if defective.

The Mayor explained that it was only recently, since the Legislature closed, that they discovered it. He was of the same opinion as Councillor Mullaly, at first in thinking that the Council could collect the fee annually, but their Solicitor had advised them otherwise, and a recent test case showed that there were loopholes in the Act, by which owners of cars could evade the tax.

Councillor Mullaly severely criticized the Solicitor who framed the Act, for the carelessness displayed in wording it, emphasizing the fact that the Council was losing considerable revenue by the blunder. He asked for a statement of licenses issued and fees collected during the past two years, to be prepared for next meeting.

The Secretary reported that the Inspector-General had intimated that he was considering the matter of putting bulbs over the alarm boxes, but had not yet arrived at a decision.

The Mayor suggested that it would be advisable for the Council to have an interview with the Inspector on this matter, and also the motor car question. The Secretary was instructed to make arrangements for same.

Mr. R. R. Wood, of Bishop Field College, asked for an additional supply of water at the College, made necessary by an enlargement of the building.

Councillor Martin asked about the cost of same, and on being informed by the Engineer that it would not cost very much, moved that it be granted. Carried.

The Horwood Lumber Co. wrote in reference to admission to their yard. They will be notified that the West End Road Inspector will keep the key.

The Nfd. Clothing Factory made some suggestions for using carpolie acid as a disinfectant for drains, in place of Jeyes Fluid.

James Byrne wrote, asking for an increase in pension from $16 per month to $20.

The Mayor explained that it had been the custom when pensions were granted to make them half the regular salary; but the Council could please itself about that, and had the right to choose when a pension would be given.

Councillors Mullaly, Channing and Myrick thought that this man's case was a special one, and they asked for all the facts connected with his being pensioned, to be prepared and submitted at next meeting.

W. E. Wood wrote, asking for a three-quarter inch service pipe to his house, and offered to pay for putting it in. Granted.

Robt. J. Marshall made application under Small Homes' Act for sewerage to his house.

Councillor Mullaly thought the public should know why this work, provided for at last session of the Legislature, was not going ahead. He thought it only fair to the Council to explain that it was because the money granted by the Government had not yet been handed over, and not to the carelessness or neglect of the Council.

John Dien made application for extension of water to his factory on Portugal Cove Road. Decided Council give him 60 feet, and charge him $2.00 per year therefor.

Joseph Miller complained of what he considered unfair treatment by Sanitary officials, in connection with horsechoeing.

Councillor Mullaly asked how work was distributed, and who had distribution of it.

The Mayor said he had asked the clerk to prepare a statement, so that the Council may make a fair distribution of patronage.

Kaleem Noah, W. G. Withycombe, and Wm. J. Moore, requested permission to repair or alter dwellings. Referred to Engineer for report.

James Brown and Geo. Best submitted plans of dwellings to be erected on Wood St., Power St. and Atlantic Avenue.

J. Henderson submitted plan of back kitchen to be erected. Approved.

Callahan, Glass & Co. sent plan of stable. Deferred for report.

Councillor Mullaly wished to know who had charge of the Sprinkling Service, and why the Reid Nfd. Co.'s sprinkler had not been out for two or three days.

The Mayor explained that he had communicated with the R. N. Co. and that Supt. Morris thought, as there was no wind, it was not necessary to run the sprinkler during the two days it was not out, but as soon as the Mayor asked him to continue the service he did so.

The Engineer reported as to what was necessary to remedy grievance complained of by T. A. Hall, Rennie's Mill Road, and after some discussion over cost it was decided to see if a surface drain would do to take away the water complained of.

Several minor reports of routine matters were then received.

Councillor Myrick called attention to the state of Bannerman Street, which is all overgrown with grass.

The Mayor did not think it a very serious matter, and that it would not justify the expense necessary to clean it.

Application of Walter Kennedy to build ice-house, was approved.

Several petitions were received from Watermen to increase their wages. On motion of Councillor Myrick, seconded by Councillor Mullaly, it was decided to increase their wages $2 per month.

In connection with yesterday's fire, the Mayor emphasized the necessity of having a better supply of water in the West End. Instead of the water being forced up from Water Street, he thought it a good plan to lay a large pipe along LeMarchant Road and Cornwall Avenue, with outlets to the principal streets running to Water Street. This would increase both the volume and the pressure of the water, and give a much better service.

Jan. Royal reported that there was a considerable falling off in the number of outport cabs driving here on Regatta Day; that he had collected the tax from some of them, and that there was a good prospect of collecting the remainder.

Councillor Mullaly asked if the plan of the Fish Market had been made. The Mayor replied that it hadn't.

The report of the Medical Health Officer showed four new cases and two deaths from diphtheria, and one new case of scarlet fever. At present there are under treatment at home for scarlet fever, 4; typhoid, 2; diphtheria, 2; in hospital, scarlet fever 2; typhoid, 1; diphtheria, 10.

A special meeting will be held on Monday night to discuss the arrears question and several other matters of interest. After the passing of the pay rolls, the meeting adjourned at midnight.

The Elixir of Life.

The "Medrash" (a Hebrew book of Philosophy) tells us that a certain peddler of drugs travelled from one village to another in the vicinity of the city called "Zippore," and wherever he went he used to cry out: "Who wants to buy the Elixir of Life? And when a great crowd gathered around, eager to buy, he opened up his satchel and took out the book of Psalms, then turned to the 34 chapter and read the 13th and 14th paragraph, as follows:—

"Who is the man that desired life, loved many days that he may see happiness?" "Guard thy tongue from evil and thy lips from speaking deceit." This is what we are doing. We are showing these paragraphs: "Who is the man that desires Clothing, Dry Goods and Furniture for Cash or Credit? See Water St.

been the custom when pensions were granted to make them half the regular salary; but the Council could please itself about that, and had the right to choose when a pension would be given.

Councillors Mullaly, Channing and Myrick thought that this man's case was a special one, and they asked for all the facts connected with his being pensioned, to be prepared and submitted at next meeting.

W. E. Wood wrote, asking for a three-quarter inch service pipe to his house, and offered to pay for putting it in. Granted.

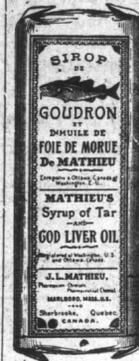

Robt. J. Marshall made application under Small Homes' Act for sewerage to his house.

Councillor Mullaly thought the public should know why this work, provided for at last session of the Legislature, was not going ahead. He thought it only fair to the Council to explain that it was because the money granted by the Government had not yet been handed over, and not to the carelessness or neglect of the Council.

John Dien made application for extension of water to his factory on Portugal Cove Road. Decided Council give him 60 feet, and charge him $2.00 per year therefor.

Municipal Matters.

The Loveliness of Decay.

Editor Evening Telegram:

Dear Sir,—I have the gratification to announce that the lamp of literature has been lit in the most unlikely place, and that its first pale and feeble beams now dimly illuminate our governing classes. If carefully tended and duly replenished we may hope that in the distant future its radiant light may shine over the whole horizon of our public life. Then shall we see how the human letters can soften the manners even of an Executive Councillor and mitigate the ferocity of an Assembly debate. The Municipal Council has formed itself into a Browning Society and has already made such progress in the mis-interpretation of the Master as to sow some seeds of jealousy and envy in the breasts of the members of the parent society. The Council has been reading Sordello and, such is the magical effect of poetry, it has been observed that Mr. Mullaly now sneers rhythmically that Mr. Ellis holds forth with measured cadence, while the rest are inclined to squabble about the relative claims of Mr. John Burke and Mr. James Murphy to the Post Laureateship of the city. I should not, perhaps, have considered that this interesting disposition of our rulers towards the severer literary studies was germane to the subject I treat of in these articles if it were not that our Councillors have invented—and seem inclined to act upon—a new reading of their Post which may involve some very pleasant consequences to the city. These are the lines in Sordello which have so exercised the critical talents of the Councillors:—

"Mere decay
"Produces richer life; and day by day
"New pollen on the lily-petal grows
"And still more labyrinthine buds the rose."

The verse is pregnant with thought and poetry, and its recital has stirred the hearts of the Council to their depths. Nowhere are such possibilities of beauty ready to the hand of the experimenter as in this town of St. John's. Decay is all around us—heaps of it at every corner, material for it in every drain. Why, then, should we not make the most of these opportunities? Why should not our drains be pure with lily-blossoms and rank with rose-bushes? Why should all this wealth of decaying matter, so rich in possibilities of beauty, be dissipated or swept into the sewer? We will be wiser than our neighbors—while they plant trees beside the pavements, let us make our gutters bloom and scatter sweet odours on the air. But to do this, of course, we must have none of this nonsense about concrete drains. How can you sow a flower seed or plant a rose-bush upon the smooth, hard concrete, and hope to bring it to blushing maturity? Why, even the sturdy germ of disease declines to grow upon a concrete drain. The germs of disease are in this respect like the flowers that bloom in the spring, that they must be sown in the dirt, only they require for their proper nourishment a fouler kind of dirt—such dirt as our cobble-stone drains afford. Let us, then, if we are to cultivate that richer life which is born of decay, adhere to the cobblestone drain, especially in the filthy localities of the town. In them every crevice between the stones is a hot-bed, a conservatory, amply provided with just the soil which a growing organism, especially a death-bearing organism, requires for its fullest development. We may not succeed in growing there the lily-bloom or the blushing rose, but we shall make no failure in our cultivation of the germ of disease. All we need do is to take the proper precautions and see that, as the gardener never neglects to use the watering pot, the sanitary man shall use his flushing hose.

What I have written above is nonsense, of course; but is it wholly nonsense? Let us see. The Mayor of this town is reported to have stated gravely at a meeting of the Council that in his opinion the cobble-stone drain is preferable to the concrete drain. And this opinion seems to be unconnected with any question of the relative cost of the two kinds of drains, or with the cleanliness or foulness of the neighborhood where the drain is situated. The concrete drain offers no permanent holding ground for disease germ to strike their roots; it helps to clean itself, and can always be kept clean. The cobble-stone drain is the nursery of the disease germ; it acts as a colander to collect the impurity and discard the water only. It can never, even when in a state of repair, be purified if filth is thrown into it. Indeed its office is to employ the filth to germinate the seeds of consumption, typhoid, scarlet fever, diphtheria and other foul and pestilential diseases. And yet this drain is, in the opinion of the Mayor of St. John's, preferable to the concrete drain which nothing but the foulest neglect can make insanitary. If Mr. Ellis's opinions were founded upon a consideration only of the relative cost of the two kinds of drains I could sympathize with him to a very large extent. If he preferred the cobble-stone drain for cleanly neighborhoods I could go with him heart and soul, but when he expresses a preference for the cobble-stone drain in a locality where drains are used to collect foulness and of all unmentionable corruptions, I must take issue with him at once. I have had an experience this very day which I would that Mr. Ellis could have shared with me. I passed down Colonial Street when the sanitary men were flushing the drain to the northward of Feild College. I saw the black and slimy stream rushing down the drain and into the sewer eddying around the broken and displaced stones as it pursued its obscene way, and I smelt the odours of its impurity. I passed by it again a few hours later and I saw how its stones were still black with the filth which the flood had failed to wash away, and I saw between the stones the collection of mould which the flood deposited and which only need the heat of the sun to germinate with foulness and corruption. I trust that Mr. Ellis will think a little on this subject again and find occasion to modify his views of the subject of the desirability of cobble-stone drains in dirty localities.

Yours truly,
REFORM.

A Strange Sight.

An early riser who came to town by way of Rocky Lane, near Buckmaster's field, Thursday morning last saw a horse attached to a carriage grazing on the roadside. As there appeared to be nobody in charge of the horse he made a further survey of the locality and saw four people lying asleep in the field nearby with the carriage rugs spread over them. A man, who was evidently the driver, was also asleep a little way off from the main bunk.

Young Children thrive on Corn Flour Milk Puddings

Brown and Polson's "Patent"
Corn Flour makes the milk digestible, so that even weakly children easily assimilate it and are nourished by it.

Puddings that are favourites are—plain milk pudding, baked or boiled, baked sultana pudding, and the ever popular blancmange re-heated in the mould, all warm and equally delicious alone or for older children, with stewed fruits, such as figs, apples, etc.

The best Corn Flour is not too good for little stomachs and that is
