CHAPTER XXXI.

Mrs. Mildmay had shaken hands with Mr. Thaxton, and invited them to be seated.

"Miss Mildmay," said Mr. Thaxton, "did I not feel sure that you are as strong of heart as you are true, I should approach the task before me with dread. As it is, I do so with reluctance."

"Stay!" said Violet, growing pale. "Answer me one question, and answer it truly. Is the business you have come about in any way connected with my marriage?"

"It is," said Mr. Thaxton, "and with something which I know weighs heavily on you, though the reality has passed long since."

Violet grew paler still. "Mr. Thaxton," she said, "I am no weak-minded schoolgirl. I have suffered much, and still live, and can bear more than you think. Be plain with me, I entreat you. You have come to speak to me of that dreadful time long past but ever present in my mind."

"I have come to speak to you of Penruddie," said Mr. Thaxton.

Violet repressed a shudder, and closed her eyes for a moment.

The three watchers knew that she was putting up a prayer for strength.

"You have come to tell me that you have discovered something in connection with that terrible, cruel time. Have you found the—the—"

"We have found the man who was guilty of that crime," said Mr. Thaxton.

Violet shuddered, but sighed.

"It is dreadful," she said, faintly.

"And I had hoped—forgive me—"

"Speak plainly on your part," said the lawyer.

"I had hoped that you might have found some trace of him who was wrongfully, cruelly accused of that crime. The noble soul whom I loved and helped to slay!"

And she clasped her hands.

"I have found more than that," said Mr. Thaxton.

Violet rose with wild eyes.

"Tell me!" she cried. "You have found him?"

"Hush!" said Mr. Thaxton. "You promised to be strong."

Violet sank back and covered her face with her hands.

Mr. Thaxton bent over to her and took her hand.

"A great part of my task is done," he said. "I come to prepare you for a great and terrible trial, perhaps of sorrow, perhaps of joy. Tell me, are you strong enough to bear it? Are you strong enough to see the guilty punished, though that guilty were one whom you held dear? Are you strong enough to witness what in your eyes, unprepared, might seem a miracle? Are you strong enough for a great and fearful, a sudden and tremendous joy?"

There was a moment's pause. "I am!" said Violet, and once more she looked up with her deep, beautiful eyes.

"Then," said Mr. Thaxton, pulling out his watch, "your trial is near at hand. To-night and within ten minutes you expect Mr. and Mrs. Dodson and Mr. Howard Murpoint?"

Violet inclined her head.

"You may also expect Mr. and Mrs. Lennox Fairfax."

"Bertie and Ethel?" said Violet.

Mr. Thaxton nodded.

"They have returned at my wish and suddenly," he said.

At that moment there was a loud knock at the door.

"There are some of the guests," he said, rising. "My friend and I will conceal ourselves behind that curtain recess. You trust all to me; and you promise to be strong?"

"I trust all to you, and I will be strong!" said Violet.

The two men quickly drew the curtain aside and concealed themselves in the recess.

Scarcely had they done so when Howard Murpoint and the Dodsons entered.

He came up to Violet and kissed her hand with his subtle courtliness and murmured some soft greeting, then, as he shook hands with Mrs. Mildmay, he said:

"I met our dear friends and managed that we should all come together."

Mrs. Mildmay was about to touch the bell, when at a gesture from Violet she paused and said:

"Shall we have a cup of tea by moonlight? See, it is rising rapidly."

"Delightful!" said the captain. "A charming idea. I can unfold our delicious plans in a congenial light. My dear Violet, I think I have sketched out a really agreeable tour. We shall run through Italy, see everything of any importance, and then come back by—"

At that moment, and as he rose to cross over to Violet, who sat pale and silent, nerving herself for she knew not what catastrophe, the curtain drew aside and Mr. Dockett stepped out.

Howard Murpoint turned with his teacup in his hand, and frowned. The sudden entrance had startled him.

Mr. Dockett came across the room softly and, with a slight bow to the rest, touched the captain on the shoulder.

"Captain Howard Murpoint, I arrest you upon a charge of conspiracy."

The captain turned pale for a moment, then looked round with a rather displeased laugh.

"Is this a piece of premeditated fun?" he said. "If so, don't let me spoil it. What shall I say? Make a confession!"

"Ay, make a confession," said Mr. Dockett. "Here's a man who will help you."

And as he said the words Mr. Giles stepped from behind the curtain.

Makes Stubborn Coughs Vanish in a Hurry

Surprisingly Good Cough Syrup
Easily and Cheaply
Made at Home

If some one in your family has an obstinate cough or a bad throat or chest cold that has been hanging on and refuses to yield to treatment, get from any drug store 2½ ounces of Pinex and make it into 16 ounces of cough syrup, and watch that cough vanish.

Pour the 2½ ounces Pinex (50 cents worth) into a 16-ounce bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. The total cost is about 54 cents, and gives you 16 ounces—a family supply—of a most effective remedy, at a saving of $2. A day's use will usually overcome a severe cough. Easily prepared in 5 minutes—full directions with Pinex. Keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste. Children like it.

It's really remarkable how promptly and easily it loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals the inflamed membranes in a painful cough. It also stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough. A splendid remedy for bronchitis, winter coughs, bronchial asthma and whooping cough.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in guaiacol, which is so healing to the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction goes with this preparation or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Aubrey's Revenge.

CHAPTER II.

A sudden sound, faintly heard above the clamor of the storm, brought this pleasant pastime to an end.

Boom! boom! boom!

The old lighthouse keeper dropped his fiddle and leaped to his feet. At the same moment one of the men rushed in with an excited face, crying:

"Good land, cap'n! there's a wreck out beyond the breakwater, and it's going to pieces!"

"Run out the boats, and tell the men to get ready," commanded the captain, "and be quick about it, my good fellow."

"Get a move on you! Storm's a-brewin'!" screamed Pete the Prophet, ruffling up his green feathers.

A great bustle followed. The boats from the life-saving station were got out, life preservers collected, life lines thrown out, and then the men set out to execute their perilous task.

Kelpie pulled an oilskin cap on her head and followed in their wake.

It was Tom Holland who discovered her crouching down in the bottom of the boat, concealed under a lot of canvas, after they had left the shore.

"Heavens above, Kelpie! you here?" he cried. "We must put about and take you back."

"If you do, I'll never speak to you again as long as I live!" she answered, facing him with glowing eyes.

"Oh, Tom," she added, with her next breath, clasping his arm with both hands, "please, please let me go and see the fun."

The touch of her soft hands conquered poor Tom, and reaching forth his strong right arm, he drew the wayward girl down beside him.

Out beyond the breakwater, on the dreadful shoals, there was terrible work. The Ocean Queen was already going down, and the tossing sea was dotted in all directions with human beings—men, women and even helpless little children struggling for life against fearful odds.

The rescuers worked with a will, and many were saved; but alas a number went down to darkness and death before helping hands could reach them.

Tom Holland made a fine record that night, and so did his pretty companion. No persuasions on his part could induce the daring little lighthouse girl to keep out of danger, and, at the risk of her own life, she lent a helping hand in the rescue of more than one perishing soul.

Once, while Tom was doing all he could to save the half-crazed victims who were going down with the sinking wreck, taking her life in her hands, she plunged headlong into the seething sea, and swimming far out, brought in a little infant, bound by its frantic mother to a life preserver, and left to the mercy of the storm-swept sea.

But the work of mercy was done, the wreck had gone down, and the life-saving boats had made their last trip when the events upon which our story hinges took place.

Tom Holland, spent and pallid, with

Kelpie safely ensconced at his feet, was beating his way through the breakers, when a piteous cry was heard above the commotion of the storm.

"Help! Help, for God's sake!"

It was a man's voice, and, almost in the same breath, a man's head and shoulders shot up above the seething foam—a shapely blond head clearly defined in the strong glow of the New Castle Light, and at the same moment there was seen a beseeching hand, on which a diamond solitaire blazed like a fallen star.

Kelpie heard the cry and caught a glimpse of the agonized face.

"Stop, Tom," she entreated, "we can't leave the poor fellow to perish."

"Of course we can't," he answered simply.

Tom Holland's heart was the kindest that ever beat in a man's breast; but more than once, in the days that followed, he said to himself, in the bitterness of his pain and heartache:

"Why didn't I let him go down that night?"

It was the work of a moment, however, to put the boat about and rescue the drowning man.

A little later they had him in comfortable quarters at the lighthouse, and, before the week ended, although his left arm was broken and there was an ugly wound on his head, he was so far recovered that the captain sent him over to the cottage on Thatcher's Rock, and consigned him to his old housekeeper's care.

How it came about nobody seemed to quite understand, but it turned out that Kelpie followed the very next day. She was tired of the old tower, and, besides, the poor young man wanted some one to read to him, and to write letters to his mother. So Kelpie insisted upon going over to Thatcher's Rock, and, as usual, she had her way about it. This was the beginning of her romance; but, alas! poor, inexperienced, foolish little girl, she had not the faintest foreshadowing of what the end would be.

A fortnight went by—two short little weeks, and then, on a capricious April day, when the sky was bathed in tears one moment and bright with sunshine the next, an extremely high-bred old lady, wrapped in sables and wearing costly gems on her fair old hands, came down from New York, accompanied by a manservant, and took her only and dearly beloved son home.

She was all sweetness and gratitude to Kelpie when she had heard her son's story.

"My dear child," she said, patting the girl's flushed cheek with her soft hand, "Carroll says he owes his life to you, and I am sure it is true. We shall not forget you, my dear, and if we should ever have a chance to serve you in any way, we shall be only too delighted to do so."

And then, patting Kelpie's shoulder caressingly, she slipped a well-filled purse in her hand, begging her to accept it as a slight token of gratitude from herself and her son.

Kelpie flushed with anger, and, rudely tossing the purse at the grand old lady's feet, hurried away choking with indignation.

The young man followed her, however, and they had a few parting words together.

"Don't mind my mother, sweetheart," he said, getting possession of her hands and looking down at her flushed face with tender, dark-bite half-smiling eyes. "She means well, but she doesn't understand. But you and I understand each other, don't we, sweet? You saved my life, and it belongs to you. You won't refuse the poor gift, will you, dear?"

Kelpie blushed and was silent, and the handsome young stranger put his arm about her and drew her close to his breast.

"Good-by," he whispered, and would have kissed her on the lips, but Kelpie drew herself away.

"What you refuse to kiss me, my shy little mermaid," he said, with a gay laugh. "Well, I shall come back before long, all the same. You'll suffer me to kiss your hand? Adieu, little sweetheart, until we meet again."

A moment later he had joined his mother and the smart manservant, and Kelpie stood alone amid the desolate rocks, pressing the hand on which his kisses still burned against her heart.

Notes on Patrol The Meeting

CHAPTER XV.

On arriving at Harbour Breton, found that Magistrate Way had arrangements completed for our meeting, and that he had selected Parish Hall for the purpose, and spread the news far and near in favour. This proved a great benefit, and when the meeting was called, every seat was filled and many people were standing in the aisles. The Magistrate acted as Chairman and spoke very highly of the meeting, and of the support of the people of Harbour Breton.

All the speaking at this meeting was very good, and the music of the pipers, as usual, was highly enjoyed, and though there was but one speaker there were impressions which cannot be easily forgotten. Men, women, and children, were earnest to hear something new. The war, and while they had been instructed by the leaders of the meeting, there was still plenty of room for what our meeting accomplished. Local Patriotic Association, and especially the ladies' branch of it, did excellent work, and too many praise cannot be given the good work of our country in general for splendid service which they have rendered.

At many homes along our town, the women and girls busily engaged as they piled their knitted needles, and checked off how many they had done towards the comfort of our boys at the front. At Harbour Breton the good work of the ladies seemed to have come more prominently before us, and their zeal was unflinching indeed. To make the most of the occasion these good ladies had arranged a supper to be held at the close of the meeting, and we are pleased to say that the tables were liberally furnished, and that the good ladies carried out victorious in their enterprise.

When our meeting was over, work at Harbour Breton was done, and our good captain made preparations for getting under weigh. A signal for help was heard, and our good captain readily responded to the call. It was from a banking schooner which had grounded, was making port at midnight. In a short time lines and cables were sent out, and every preparation to float the vessel was provided. The first attempt proved fruitless as the cables snapped when the strain increased, but in short time a new cable was borrowed from a sister ship nearby, and the meantime seven dory-loads of sand had been removed from the strand.

ANOTHER DEFEAT FOR THE TURKS.

Petrograd, Feb. 23.—The reinforced Turkish army that is renewing its offensive against the Russians has met with another reverse, according to official advices received from Tiflis today. The commander of the Russian army in the Caucasus reported to the War Office that the Ottoman troops had been repulsed in the Transilichorokh region on Sunday, being thrown back across the Olty-Tchal.

Notes on the Patriotic Tour. The Meeting at Harbor Breton.

L. C. M.
CHAPTER XV.
On arriving at Harbour Breton we found that Magistrate Vay had all arrangements completed for our meeting, and that he had selected the Parish Hall for the purpose, and had spread the news far and near in our favour. This proved a great benefit and when the meeting was called to order, every seat was filled and very many people were standing in the rear of the building. The Magistrate acted as Chairman and spoke very highly of what was being done for the Empire, and assured the visitors of his own personal loyalty, and of the support of the people of Harbour Breton.

All the speaking at this meeting was very good, and the music of the pipes, as usual, was highly enjoyed, and though there was but one volunteer there were impressions made which cannot be easily forgotten. Men, women, and children, were in earnest to hear something new upon the war, and while they had been well instructed by the leaders of the place, there was still plenty of room for our meeting accomplished. The local Patriotic Association, and especially the ladies' branch of it, had done excellent work, and too much praise cannot be given the good ladies of our country in general for the splendid service which they have rendered.

At many homes along our tour we saw the women and girls busily engaged as they plied their knitting needles, and checked off how much they had done towards the comfort of our boys at the front. At Harbour Breton the good work of the ladies seemed to have come more prominently before us, and their zeal was very frank indeed. To make the most of our meeting, a supper was held at the close of the meeting, and we are pleased to say that the tables were liberally patronized, and that the good ladies came out victorious in their enterprise.

When our meeting was over our good captain made preparations for getting under weigh. Just as a signal for help was heard and our good captain readily responded to the call. It was from a banking schooner which had grounded while making port at midnight. In a short time the lines and cables were sent out and every preparation to float the vessel was provided. The first attempt was fruitless as the cables snapped and the strain increased, but in a short time a new cable was borrowed from a sister ship nearby, and in the meantime seven dory-loads of salt had been removed from the stranded ship, and then a steady pull from the Fiona soon placed the schooner in safe anchorage. The ship was not damaged but was able to resume her voyage without any undue delay. The Fiona has many good marks to her account in rendering help to disabled vessels but we do not hear much about it—she seems to be like many of our public men, the good is seldom spoken of, but their failures are shouted from the house tops.

The Fiona can well afford to take a leaf out of the Strathcona's log book, and tell the public what she is doing. As I have stated, our party joined the Fiona at Channel where she had just arrived from Bay of Islands, at which place she had done good service, and had towed a large schooner of one hundred and forty tons register, and carrying near two hundred tons of coal, from Bonne Bay to the latter place. The weather at the time, being severe the Fiona had a very difficult task, but Captain English stuck to his post and accomplished his task. Not only did this mean a good deal to the schooner, as it brought her to an open port, but it also meant a great deal to Bay of Islands where the two hundred tons of coal were necessary for the winter consumption.

When at Ramea an urgent call for a doctor reached Capt. English and the nearest place at which one could be procured was Burgeo, a distance of about twelve miles. The good captain immediately got up full steam, and hastened off and about three hours afterwards was back to Ramea with a doctor on board. On the surface of it there may not appear to be much in these things, but in reality they represent a great deal that is humane and good.

Just before leaving Harbour Breton the Glouce arrived, and left port shortly after our departure. Near English Harbour she overtook us, and for a while the two ships steamed along broad sides. The scene was very interesting, the day being fine and the sea smooth there was every opportunity for the passengers to keep on deck. To enliven the scene the pipers rendered some of their best selections, and for the space of half an hour a very pleasant time was spent by both ships' companies. It was a rather unusual sight to see along our coast in mid-winter; and the smoke belching from the two ships and the nearby cliffs of Fortune Bay in relief, and the weird notes of the pipers, gave a picture and a study that was of interest to all.

ANOTHER DEFEAT FOR THE TURKS.
Petrograd, Feb. 23.—The reinforced Turkish army that is renewing its offensive against the Russians has met with another reverse, according to official advices received from Tiflis today. The commander of the Russian army in the Caucasus reported to the War Office that the Ottoman troops had been repulsed in the Transcaucasian region on Sunday, being driven back across the Oly-Tchai.

CONTROLLING LOANS.
London Daily Mail.—The annual surplus of the British public in normal times may reach 300 millions sterling. But these times are not normal, and some diminution in the capital available for investment is to be expected, so that there may be no great margin left between the sum annually saved and that needed to meet the outlay in the fight for freedom. Abroad in Germany and France loans are not permitted without the authorization of the Government.

TEMPLETON'S Spring CLEANING SALE

Here is a Short Sharp Statement.

IT SHOWS THAT DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS ARE NO FAITH CURE.
Patrice Cote had Kidney Disease—He Sent for Dodd's Kidney Pills Just to Try Them—They Made Him Well.
Petite Vallee, Gaspé Co., Que., March 3. (Special.)—Patrice Cote, well known here, makes the following statement:
"For five months I suffered from Kidney Disease. I sent for two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills to try them. They made me well."
Mr. Cote's experience is similar to that of scores of others in their neighborhood. They had Kidney Disease, they tried Dodd's Kidney Pills and they found health. They have proved for themselves that no matter how far advanced the Kidney Disease is, the cure is the same—Dodd's Kidney Pills.
Dodd's Kidney Pills are no faith cure; neither are they any cure-all. Thousands of sufferers have tried them who had little faith in them. They found the cure just the same. Dodd's Kidney Pills simply cure the Kidneys. To be sure you hear of them curing Rheumatism, Dropsy, Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Gravel and other diseases, but that is because these are all diseases of the Kidneys or caused by sick Kidneys. The natural way to cure them is to cure the Kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills cure the Kidneys.

Bruce Reaches Trepassey.
The Reid Nfld. Co. were advised by the Postal Telegraphs last night that their steamers Bruce, Glouce and Home were at Trepassey, having arrived there during the afternoon. The ship is now twelve days on the run from Port aux Basques, nine days of which was spent at St. Lawrence. The ships will remain at Trepassey until the wind changes, and under favorable conditions the run from that port to St. John's should be made in about ten or twelve hours.

"OURS" IN THE WEST END.

Crowded to the doors at every performance is Ours of the West End. Mr. Rossley hopes to have his East End Theatre ready by Easter and it will be the best place in town when the alterations are completed; it can't be finished in time for St. Patrick's Day but they will give their usual attractive show just the same. Mr. Rossley could not have those extensive alterations made at any other time, it also means work for quite a goodly number of people, painters, carpenters, decorators, electricians, scrubbers and others. It long needed this attention and now all connected are working hard to try and have it complete by Easter. We think there are other surprises in store for patrons.

At the sides of the skirts the greatest changes have taken place. Gathers, plaits, circular insets and even pockets are introduced.

THURSDAY, March 4th, 1915.

Forcing the Dardanelles.

The British and French fleets assigned to the work of reducing the forts of the Dardanelles appear to have been divided and are reported conducting independent operations. The French ships are operating in the Gulf of Saros in the north of the Aegean Sea off Bulair and are directing their fire on the forts and lines of communication on the isthmus which connects the peninsula of Gallipoli with mainland Turkey. The objective of this action is probably the seizure of this isthmus to cut off communication by rail and road between Turkey and the forts and forces in Gallipoli and at other points on the European side of the Dardanelles. It is probable that the allies will seize this isthmus and hold it by force to isolate the Turkish forces on the peninsula. The British fleet seems to have been assigned to the work of reducing the forts from the inside of the Dardanelles. Six second class battleships and other units such as destroyers and mine sweepers are mentioned as continuing the work in which they were aided last week by the Queen Elizabeth, the most recent and the most powerful Super-Dreadnought in the world. The Queen Elizabeth took part in the reduction of the forts at the entrance of the Dardanelles, but there is no mention of her in the operations of Monday and Tuesday. Mine sweepers aided by destroyers have swept the Straits of its approaches to a point a mile and a half from Cape Kephez and about five miles from the great forts at Kilia Bahr and Kall-i-Sultanye, which protect a narrow of about a mile wide in a bend in the Straits. Apparently these are the forts which are being attacked by the British fleet. There is no official news of their reduction, although the reduction is reported from Athens. About four or five miles further on is another narrow and another bend. This portion of the Straits is particularly strongly fortified and presents the most difficult part of the problem. When the British fleet dominates these two narrows and have reduced the fortifications in their neighborhood, the most considerable part of their task, so far as the Dardanelles is concerned will be accomplished. Along both sides of the Straits are railways, crossing many streams. No doubt as the ships of war pass along they take care to destroy railway bridges and cut all land communication so far as possible. Once the fleet has forced the Dardanelles, the Sea of Marmora will present fewer difficulties and Constantinople will be dominated by the guns of the allies. The problem remaining will then be the forcing of the Bosphorus, straits from a mile to two miles wide and about 15 miles long. No doubt Russia will be able to aid in these operations from the Black Sea.

Last Night's Lecture.

Rev. Mr. Guy lectured last night in the basement of George Street Church to a good representative audience on the interesting topic "Jean Valjean." The work involved in such an undertaking was indeed very great and in limiting his remarks to one hour gave an outline of "Jean Valjean" which would take thirty hours to read in Victor Hugo's own words. In a pleasing manner and a clear and distinct voice, Mr. Guy held the attention of all present in a most remarkable way. The instrumental duet, by Misses Joliffe and Mabel Christian and the solos by Miss G. Christian and Mr. Courtenay contributed in no small way to the success of the program. Mr.

Straits, already reported, have resulted in the destruction of nineteen guns, ranging from six to eleven inches; eleven guns below six inches, and four Nordenfolt guns and two searchlights. The magazines of Forts Six and Three also have been demolished. A further report received states that on Tuesday the Canopus, Swiftsure and Cornwallis engaged Fort Number Eight and heavy fire was opened on them by Fort Number Nine, together with field batteries and howitzers. Fort Number Nine was damaged and ceased firing at 5.30 in the afternoon. Although three ships were hit, the only casualty was one man slightly wounded. A seaplane reconnaissance is impossible owing to weather. Mine sweeping operations were continued throughout the day and the attack progressed. The Russian cruiser Askold has joined the allied fleet off the Dardanelles.

THE KING'S CONFIDENCE IN THE BRITISH NAVY.

LONDON, To-day. King George on his return from his visit to the fleet sent a message to Admiral Jellicoe, in which he said: I have been on representative ships of all classes and I am much impressed by the state of their efficiency and the spirit which animates both officers and men. I have not the slightest doubt that my navy will uphold its great traditions.

WILL FLY BRITISH FLAG.

NEW YORK, To-day. The White Star steamer Baltic, carrying 18,000 tons of war supplies, sailed for Liverpool to-day. Her commander said that as far as he was concerned he would fly the British flag, notwithstanding German submarines.

RUNCIMAN ON EXPORTS FROM GERMANY.

LONDON, To-day. The exportation of Germany of such goods as Great Britain desires and is able to obtain from that country will be permitted by the British Government, notwithstanding the declaration of Asquith that Great Britain and her Allies would prevent commodities of any kind from reaching or leaving Germany. This point was made clear in a statement respecting the blockade policy, which was delivered in the Commons yesterday by Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade. Admiral Besefford asked whether anti-line dyes from Germany would be admitted to England. Runciman replied that persons licensed by the government to import anti-line dyes would be permitted to continue and bring them in, since these dyes were necessary for the purposes of the War Office, Admiralty and civil industry. It was suggested that if German goods continued to be brought in, it would be impossible for Great Britain to prevent Germany from exporting goods to America. Runciman declined to discuss this point. He added if it is necessary that we should get such goods as we require from Germany, for instance if we require explosives, and can get them from Germany we certainly shall do so.

CANADIAN BRIGADES BEHAVE WELL IN FIRING LINE.

OTTAWA, To-day. The First, Second and Third Brigades of the First Canadian Contingent and artillery are on the firing line in Europe, according to a statement in the Commons yesterday by Major General Sam Hughes. Reports indicated, he said, that the Contingent of Canadian soldiers had been just what was expected. They had behaved in a manner creditable to their country; their fire had been accurate, deadly and well sustained.

GERMANY'S POSITION IN BELGIUM HOPELESS.

LONDON, To-day. A correspondent of the London Express (under date of Belgium frontier, Wednesday) says: That Germany's position in Belgium is hopeless. He frankly confessed by a German Staff Officer, "We have no illusions about the Yser campaign," he said; "it would have been a wise thing to have retired weeks ago and have utilized our strength in other directions. We dared not do so as our Government would not let us recede an inch fearing the effect on the people at home. As long as the German armies go forward, or at least hold their own, it is possible to keep the nation in a hopeful frame of mind, or at least keep it from despair; but news of our relinquishing territory in which so many lives have been sacrificed would have a terrible effect. Internal troubles are feared far more than mere defeat of our armies in the field. If the people ever believe they have made sacrifices in vain and that Germany is beaten, look out for earthquakes. They do not think so despite the growing economic pressure put on them by England. The air and sea raids and new submarine campaign against England stimulated public opinion. The loss of the Blicher did not cause the slightest reaction. General von Hindenburg's victory in the East was simply procedural. Our people are tired of meagre bulletins and we are starving for victories. Incidentally General von Hindenburg surprised us as much as he surprised the Russians."

10.00 A.M.

FURTHER BOMBARDMENT OF DARDANELLES FORTS.

LONDON, To-day. The Admiralty late last night issued the following report regarding the bombardment of Turkish forts by Anglo-French fleet. Operations in Dardanelles resumed at 11 o'clock this morning (probably Monday), when the Triumph, Ocean and Albion entered the Straits and attacked forth Number Eight and the batteries of the White Cliff. The fire was returned by the forts and also by field guns and howitzers. An air reconnaissance made by naval sea planes in the evening brought the report that several new gun positions had been prepared by the enemy but that no guns were erected on them. Seaplanes also located surface mines. During Monday night the force of mine sweepers covered by destroyers swept within a mile and a half of Cape Kephez. Their work which was carried out under fire is reported to have been excellent. The casualties sustained during the day were slight, amounting to only six wounded. Four French battleships operated off Bulair and bombarded the batteries and communications. The operations at the entrance of the Straits.

Accident. WOUNDED BY BAYONET. Private Willie McGilvary, the youngest volunteer of the Contingent, was accidentally wounded by a bayonet at the C.L.B. A yesterday afternoon and now in the General Hospital. The accident happened between 2 o'clock and 3 p.m., and just before ranks were formed after dinner. Private McGilvary was amusing with a provided roller skate on which he was going around the Armoury. On occasion he ran into a guard snow and before the latter could get to the point of his bayoneted Private McGilvary's side, he had a bad wound. He was at once taken to the hospital where he operated on by the staff. He is now in a serious condition. Last night was restless for a while and it is hoped that his condition will improve.

WOUNDED BY BAYONET.
Private Willie McGillivray, one of the youngest volunteers of the Second Contingent, was accidentally wounded by a bayonet at the C.L.B. Armoury yesterday afternoon and now lies at the General Hospital. The accident happened between 2 o'clock and 2.30 p.m. and just before ranks were reformed after dinner. Private McGillivray was amusing with an improvised roller skate on which he was going around the Armoury. On this occasion he ran into a guard named snow and before the latter could avoid injury, the point of his bayonet entered Private McGillivray's side, inflicting a bad wound. He was at once attended by Dr. Macpherson who ordered the wounded volunteer to hospital, where he was taken in the ambulance and operated on immediately, as it was feared serious complications may set in. Last night was restful for the patient and it is hoped that his injury is not serious.

Last Night's Sociable.

The sociable held in connection with Wesley Bible Class last night was a great success. Judging from the large numbers present the influence and popularity of the class is being disseminated throughout the city. The programme, under the direction of Mr. Pratt, was excellent. The following took part: Misses J. Diamond, Christina, Russell, Curtis, Kendall (2), Mrs. R. A. Squires; Messrs. Cornick, Courtenay, Wheeler and Towan. One of the features worth commenting on was the decorations. The flags of the allied nations, with patriotic colours, roses and foliage, were arranged to good effect, and spoke well for the artistic skill of Mr. R. W. The S. S. Boethic, Capt. Faulk, arrived here at an early hour this morning from Glasgow, which port she left nine days ago. The ship made an excellent run and but for the ice encountered would have reached port yesterday.

ADDRESS

Presented by the Parishioners of St. Patrick's, St. John's, N. F., to Rev. J. J. McDermott, March 3rd, 1915.

Dear Rev. Father:—

We, the parishioners of St. Patrick's, desire to offer our respectful and hearty congratulations upon your appointment as Administrator of the Cathedral Parish, and Vicar General of the Archdiocese of St. John's. We rejoice that your high talents and saintly life have won for you not only this preferment, but the additional honor of being the first to receive a mark of favor from our newly-appointed Archbishop.

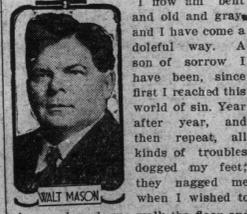

Closely mingled with, however, and almost overpowering our joy, is keen regret that this well-deserved promotion means for you departure from St. Patrick's, which you had grown to regard as a home, and from a people in whose hearts affection and veneration for you have grown daily deeper during your fourteen years residence amongst them.

Since your appointment as Rector of St. Patrick's six years ago, your high administrative abilities have been proved in the restoration and completion of our beautiful Church, which had for many years remained incomplete and in poor repair, but which stands to-day a church of which all may be proud, and a lasting memorial of your energy and resourcefulness.

The extension of the Holy Cross Schools is another proof of your ability in this direction, as well as of your great desire for the spread of education. But it is for our distinctively priestly qualities that you have earned so large a share of our affection. To every one of us you have proven the kindest of spiritual fathers as well as the truest of friends. To you, your people turned for practical assistance in need, advice in difficulty and consolation in bereavement and affliction, and you have never failed them. With full hearts then, we ask you to accept this address and a small souvenir which will be presented within a few days. We wish you Godspeed upon the important and onerous work which will henceforth be yours, and we trust that the coming years may bring you still greater advancement in the service of the Church. We shall daily pray for strength and guidance for you; and we ask in return that in the Holy Sacrifice you will sometimes remember the people who have loved you during fourteen years, and whose love your absence will only intensify.

MAN OF GRIEF.

I now am bent and old and gray, and I have come a doleful way. A son of sorrow I have been, since first I reached this world of sin. Year after year, and then repeat, all kinds of troubles dogged my feet; they nagged me when I wished to sleep and made me walk the floor and weep. I had all troubles man can find—and most of them were in my mind. When I would number all the cares which gave me worry and gray hairs, I can't remember one so bad that it should bother any lad. And often, looking back, I say, "I wonder why I wasn't gay, when I had youth and strength and health, and all I lacked on earth was wealth? I wonder why I didn't yip with gladness

THURSDAY, March 4, 1915.
The Seed season will very soon be here again especially if, as we hope, we shall have an early spring. This year everyone who has a piece of arable land should cultivate it. Every pound of potatoes, turnips, beet, carrot, parsnip or cabbage grown in this Colony will help to solve the food problem that is likely to be even more difficult next winter than it has been this winter. The most reliable and prolific seeds in the market are those put out by Messrs. Sutton & Sons, of Reading, England, for which house we are sole agents in Newfoundland. We shall have in a couple of weeks, our usual good stock of these fine seeds, of which due notice will then be given.

Corrosive Cargo of the Desola

CAUSES CONSIDERABLE ALARM.

At 10.30 p.m. yesterday, the Central and Western Fire Companies were summoned to the s.s. Desola, lying at the dry dock pier where a fire was reported to be in progress. The alarm was given by the crew of the ship who were driven from their quarters by the fumes of sulphuric acid which emanated from that portion of the cargo stored in the fore peak. The firemen were on the scene promptly and thinking that the fire was an ordinary one directed a stream of water but this only had the effect of generating more heat. The fumes from the acid were almost suffocating, and in vain the firemen endeavored to cope with the situation. They did their best, working in relays all through the night and until seven o'clock this morning. Inspector General Sullivan was present with a squad of police and reservists from the Calypso also offered their assistance. At the instance of Mr. W. G. Gosling, Chairman of the Civic Commission, Mr. Davies, I.C.S., was consulted and that gentleman reported that there was no danger of a conflagration, but the application of water should be discontinued. A remarkable feature of the fire was the unusually small attendance. The police had no difficulty whatever in keeping the crowd back, as the overpowering fumes of the sulphuric acid were very effective in neutralizing the curiosity of the crowd that rushed to the scene when the alarm was sounded. Authorities on the subject have informed us that the whole trouble with the cargo of the Desola is that it is put up in packages altogether unsuitable. At the time of writing the fumes are still escaping from the hold of the ship.

Select Medicine Carefully.

Purgatives are dangerous. They gripe, cause burbling pains and make the constipated condition worse. Physicians say the most ideal laxative is Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut; they are exceedingly mild, composed only of health-giving vegetable extracts. Dr. Hamilton's Pills restore activity to the bowels, strengthen the stomach, and purify the blood. For constipation, sick headache, biliousness and disordered digestion no medicine on earth makes such remarkable cures as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Try a 25c. box yourself.

On Simplifying.

By RUTH CAMERON.

Where can I simplify my work? and "How can I get out of the food rut I am in?" are two questions which over-driven, monotonously-worn housewives frequently ask themselves.

Though I am not a housekeeping expert I want to make one suggestion which, it seems to me, would help answer both these questions.

Why Not a Simple Dessert?

Couldn't you simplify and at the same time vary your desserts without working a hardship to your family?

Many housewives seem to feel that the pleasure experienced from a dessert is in direct ratio to the cost, and the time it takes to prepare it. I don't think this is necessarily so.

Suppose some night, instead of a pudding or pie, you try serving toast and honey or marmalade, and tea or coffee, and see if your family does not enjoy the change.

Whipped cream is a luxury in the average family. Cookies and cocoa with plenty of fluffy whip cream isn't such a bad dessert.

A very simple though rather inexpensive dessert for children is sweetened white of egg beaten up stiff, and orange juice.

It is my personal experience that after a hearty meal a hearty pie or pudding is really more than the stomach requires. We eat it because we are used to it but I don't think you would find yourself hungry or dissatisfied if some light little top-off were occasionally substituted.

Balancing Meat and Dessert.

I know of one family where the housekeeper makes it a rule to balance the meat course and dessert. If she is to have a rather light dinner such as a stew or cold meat she serves an especially hearty first course such as a hot roast, or steak, potatoes and two vegetables, she serves simply cheese, common crackers and coffee, or fancy crackers and tea, or salted nuts and crackers, or simply fruit for a top-off.

In another family where they are fond of salads, dessert is often entirely omitted and the meal finished off with a salad and coffee.

The best time to eat candy is directly after a meal. In a family where there are children why not occasionally substitute a dish of fudge or molasses candy for the regular dessert. The children will probably be glad to make it themselves.

Questions and Answers.

Question. Mrs. F. O. B. wants to know where I can get a simple inexpensive book on food values.

Answer. You can get an excellent little book on this subject that will cost you nothing but a postcard. The United States Department of Agriculture publishes a pamphlet called "Principles of Nutrition and the Nutritive Value of Food." It is very simple, very clear and will be very helpful, if after you get it you will really study it. Write to the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington and ask for Farm Bulletin No. 142.

Question. A letter friend wants to know the birthstones of the various months.

Answer. I usually answer questions seeking my personal opinion rather than those dealing with matters of precise information which the inquirer could look up for himself. But in this case I happen to have a list at hand. January, garnet; February, amethyst; March, bloodstone; April, diamond; May, emerald; June, agate; July, ruby; August, sardonyx; September, sapphire; October, opal; November, topaz; December, turquoise.

Ruth Cameron
"Come and Do It."

London, Feb. 27.—Miss Jessie Pope, the clever English poetess, has contributed the following to the London press:

When Germany, six months ago, Observed our fighting force in France,

How bravely she began to crow, While laughter creased her countenance.

"That British army makes for mirth," She cried: "with utter scorn we view it.

"We're going to wipe it off the earth!" And England answered: "Come and do it!"

But German programmes change at will, New schemes Teutonic bosoms fired

The sack of England filled the bill, While Berlin shouted and admired.

"We'll smash your land with bomb and shell!" They cried: "in little bits we'll hew it.

"We'll turn your London into hell!" And England answered: "Come and do it!"

Once more their plans they readjust, To-day another tune is played.

"We'll make you British bite the dust!" They cry, "by means of a blockade! An iron belt we'll set about Your shores, and tighter still we'll screw it. Until, like rats, we starve you out!"

And England answers: "Come and do it!"

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

A mother cannot be too careful about overcoming foul breath in her children. Strangers cannot with decency comment upon it, and it remains for the members of one's family to mutually guard the general public by preventing it in the home circle.

A charcoal tablet will temporarily remove the offense, until the stomach can be put to rights, and the mouth should be rinsed out frequently with a weak solution of soda—a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda to a pint of water.

Sometimes a foul breath is the result of decayed teeth and a visit to the family dentist is advisable.

Things Seldom Just "Happen."

There are sound reasons if you look for them. Homestead Tea is as distinctive in cup quality as it is in name.

This didn't just "happen." The reason is that in Homestead we use a proportion of the rich, strong teas of Northern India—teas grown in the district of Assam, where the tea bush is said to have had its origin.

These teas when blended with the finer sorts of Ceylon teas give that rich strength and pleasing flavour possessed by Homestead.

Charity Ice Sports.

The committee in charge of the Ice Sports, which will be run off on next Monday evening, weather permitting, held another meeting at the C.C.C. hand rooms yesterday afternoon.

The sub-committee, appointed at the previous meeting, submitted their reports, which were most favorable. The ladies of the Avon Nursing Brigade, have kindly offered to serve teas and give the proceeds to the benefit fund.

This announcement was hailed with much enthusiasm. The first item on the programme outlined will be an inter-collegiate hockey match between the Methodists and a picked team from St. Bon's and B. F. Col-legs. For the one mile race for boys under 16 and also for the all-comers 1 mile two prizes are offered through the kindness of Messrs. T. J. Daky, F. J. Martin, E. W. Ayre and Percy Johnson.

Probably the most exciting event for the evening will be the ladies' hockey match for which special provision is being made. The fifth event will be a hockey match between six of the Feildian team and a picked

FERRO

Kerosene Engines can be purchased on easy terms which will give a man two years to pay for his Engine, and if fish are plentiful a Ferro Engine will more than pay for itself.

FATHER TIME A SEVERE BUT HONEST JUDGE.

For seven years the Ferro Engine has held the leading place among the Engines used in the Newfoundland fishery. Other Engines have been introduced and have been claimed to be the "ONLY". But Father Time has been their Judge and they fell by the wayside. Hundreds of satisfied users all over Newfoundland declare the Ferro to be the best Engine on the market to-day. Such an enviable and widespread reputation can only be based upon one thing—Actual Merit.

Ferro Users are Ferro Boosters.

The following are a few among the many unsolicited testimonials we are continually receiving from users:—

(Copy.) La Scie, Oct. 13, 1914.

THE L. M. TRASK CO.

Dear Sirs,—I saw by Advocate where you stated you would wish to hear from every user of a FERRO engine, and receive the number of same, and you would send a spark plug of your own make, or your own make, so I thought I would let you know the number. The number is 43283; it is a 7½ H.P., and to just give you the truth about the engine, it is the best one made. We used it last summer in a large motor boat, a deck boat about 7½ ft. wide, and about 3½ ft. deep, and towed a trap skiff that would bring about 16 or 17 barrels round fish after her, and did good work fast enough, too good for the 9 H.P. F—; and this year we have the engine in a new trap skiff about 30 ft. long, 6 ft. 10 inches wide, 33 inches deep, and carries for nothing here, and there is lots of engines here of different quality.

The 8 H.P. A— is here in a boat about the same size and they cannot do it, and for some time the A—, F— and all is here have plenty of trouble, and we have not had one hour's trouble since we had the FERRO engine. I say it is the best here.

Wishing you every success, I am,
Yours sincerely,
(Signed) MOSES BURTON.

Fishermen intending to purchase Engines should write for descriptive literature on our Kerosene Oil Engines and get prices on four payment terms.

ST. PIERRE BULLETIN.

PARIS, via St. Pierre, March 2. Between the sea and the Oise rather fierce artillery contests took place in which we scored the advantage. On the entire front of Rheims section, especially near Alger farms and Pommelle fort, the enemy delivered this morning several attacks which were easily repulsed. In Beau-sejour district our progress is continuing on several points, and we have taken foot in the woods which the enemy had fortified, and even advanced beyond. In the district of Vauquois, in Argonne, we have maintained yesterday's gains and made 100 prisoners. A night attack delivered by the Germans on Le Perthe woods, failed.

The Minister of War announces that the efforts of the French aviators during the past fifteen days have been successful. Following is one of their exploits: On February 17th a French aviator discovered the positions of 21 German batteries. Next day he gave the position of a heavy German battery, which was immediately bombarded and its caissons destroyed. The bombardment of Metz barracks is also recorded as another excellent aviating exploit. The report closes by declaring that the military value of Zeppelins is considered very small and gives a list of four German airships brought down recently.

PIERCE FIGHTING IN FRANCE.

PARIS, March 3. A stubborn battle is raging over a thirty mile front in Champagne district, where the French and Germans are struggling for possession of strategic positions. Both sides have lost heavily in that region, and at some points both sides claim victory. French official despatches state that French troops have captured a number of German artillery supports, as well as trenches and barricades constructed of fallen trees and bags of earth. The features of the fighting along the northern end of the battle line is the heavy artillery fire. The French and British are now on equal terms with the Germans in the matter of big guns, and the German artillery is kept on the move from position to position, avoiding the accurate fire of the Allies' cannonade. Stormy weather conditions prevail, and at some points the soldiers are lying in trenches that are nearly half full of water. This has led to a great increase in cases of rheumatism and pneumonia in the hospitals. A severe snow storm is raging over the Vosges. At some places the snow is so thick that soldiers in the opposing armies fight without seeing each other.

AUSTRIAN SUBMARINES OFF CORFU.

GENEVA, March 3. An Austrian fleet consisting of six Austro-German submarines, accompanied by several torpedo boats and torpedo boat destroyers, left Pola yesterday for the Mediterranean bound for the Dardanelles, according to a telegram which bases its report upon what it characterizes as information received from a reliable source from Trieste by way of Innsbruck. The fleet is said to have been last reported off Corfu.

IN THE DARDANELLES.

LONDON, March 3. A despatch from Athens states that the batteries of Kalia Bahr and Fort Sultan, guarding the narrow part of the Dardanelles, have been silenced, but this is not officially confirmed. It is said that the losses of the British and French in killed and wounded are less than 600, despite the fierceness of the fire to which the Allies' fleet was subjected.

RECIPROCTY.

AMSTERDAM, March 3. The Cologne Gazette, commenting on Asquith's recent speech in the Commons, in which he outlined Great Britain's retaliatory measures for Germany's submarine blockade in the British Isles, says: Our submarines will now, we hope, endeavour to destroy all goods destined for Great Britain. Great Britain wishes war to the knife. She will have it.

BRITISH STEAMER ATTACKED.

DUNDEE, March 3. The British steamer Dalblair reports it was attacked off the Essex coast by two hostile aeroplanes that dropped bombs. This is the first aerial attack upon British merchant ships reported from British war zone.

ST. THOMAS'S PARISH.—The members of St. Thomas's congregation met at Canon Wood Hall last night to consider the nomination of a Rector to succeed the late Rev. G. R. Godden. Mr. F. Rendell presided and a committee of twenty-one was appointed to deal with the matter of selection and report at a meeting to be held later.

Representatives of the Star of the Sea, B. I. S., C. E. I. and Total Abstinence Societies held a meeting at the T. A. Armoury last night to consider the advisability of holding an inter-club tournament, such as was held some seven years ago. Much enthusiasm was displayed but nothing definite decided on, as only preliminary matters were dealt with.

C. E. T. S. Annual.

The annual meeting of the C.E.T.S. took place on Monday night last, Rev. Canon White presiding. The committee in entering upon another year do so with the hope that it will be one of increased activity in temperance work, and to that end will mainly direct their efforts.

CALOMEL SALIVATES

Calomel makes you sick and you lose a day's work. Calomel is a nasty, dangerous chemical. To live your sluggish liver and bowels when constipated, headachy, bilious, just get a 10-cent box of harmless Cascarets. They work while you sleep, don't gripe, sicken or salivate.

Mechanics' Annual.

The 88th anniversary meeting of the St. John's Mechanics' Society was held in their hall last night, President Scott in the chair.

The Treasurer's yearly report showed the Society to be in a flourishing condition and was well received and adopted by the meeting. The installation then followed, Mr. E. Dohoney being selected as chairman had much pleasure in installing the following officers for the ensuing year:

President, John P. Scott; Vice-President, Maurice Colbert; 1st Asst. V. P., Andrew H. O'Keefe; 2nd Asst. V. P., Francis Gushue; 1st Treasurer, M. W. Myrick; 2nd Treasurer, Thomas Dunn; 3rd Treasurer, William Mackey; Secretary, James A. Leahy; Grand Marshal, John Preston.

Auditors for the coming year are: Patrick Wadden, William Brien and Francis Stapleton. Votes of thanks were then passed to the chairman and the press for their kindness during the past year.
Meeting then adjourned.

A Voice From the Far North.

A ST. JOHN'S MAN WRITES FROM PORT NELSON—TWO MEN KILLED BY EXPLOSION.

Sergeant Levi Caines, of the Eastern Fire Hall, is just in receipt of an interesting letter from his son Dan, who is at present engaged with the Hudson Bay Company at Port Nelson cutting railway ties for the new railroad. About this time last year Dan joined the Canadian Government steamer W. E. Watts, at Sydney, and then went to the far-north in her. His letter was dated February 1st and up to that time the winter was very severe and said to be the coldest ever experienced by the oldest liviers at Port Nelson. The average daily temperature was between fifty-five and sixty degrees below zero. Many workmen were frostbitten and had to discontinue work for a time, but Dan was more fortunate and escaped well, with the exception of a frostburn nose. Accompanying the letter received by Sergeant Caines was several photographs of his son at work clad in Indian garb and with not less than half a dozen pairs of socks on. He is and has been enjoying the best of health ever since he went to Port Nelson over a year ago and wishes to be remembered to all his shipmates in St. John's. He says the construction work of the railroad is progressing well and next summer an extra gang of workmen will be employed. Though only meagrely, Mr. Caines' letter told of a tragedy that occurred at Port Nelson in January last and in which two men were killed. Their names were not given but they belonged to Nova Scotia. While blasting they were killed instantly, following an explosion of dynamite. The sad event cast a deep gloom over the place ever since.

Warning!

It having come to our notice that certain unscrupulous engine dealers in Newfoundland, when unable to dispose of engines they are agents for, and jealous of the popularity of "MIANUS" among fishermen, are offering Mianus Engines for sale without our authority.

We now notify the public that JOHN BARRON & CO., of St. John's, are our SOLE REPRESENTATIVES IN NEWFOUNDLAND and LABRADOR for the sale of Mianus Oil Engines, and all orders must come through them.

We will not hold ourselves responsible for any engines except those purchased through our authorized agents.

Important to Horse Owners.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Would you please allow me space in your widely circulated journal to call the attention of those in authority to the drinking troughs for horses in the city. There are at the present time several horses suffering from sore throat, and the disease seems to be spreading rapidly. I believe the water being shut off from those troughs helps to spread the disease. One of the symptoms of the disease is the water coming back through the horse's nostrils while he is trying to drink. Now this is left in the trough and the next horse coming to drink have every chance of taking it in. I've consulted a Veterinary Surgeon on the matter and he says the trough should be kept running, or the disease is likely to spread.
I remain, yours truly,
JONAS BARTER,
President T.P.U.

North Sea Fight

WAS FOUGHT AT A RANGE OF OVER TEN MILES.

London, Feb. 26.—The report of Admiral Beatty's action in the North Sea on January 24 states that the first shot was fired at a range of 18,000 yards, and hits were made at 17,000 yards, which is about ten miles. Discussing this plan of the fight an expert on naval affairs writes as follows:

"Assuming that the freeboard to the weather decks in the rival squadrons is in both cases seventeen feet, then the whole of the hull of one is below the horizon when viewed from the level of the weather deck of the other at this range of ten miles. By ascending to a point on the mast 50 feet above the water level rather more than one-half of the enemy's hull can, theoretically, be seen, and by ascending 100 feet the whole of the hull can be seen, theoretically, and with dead calm water.

"Even under the most favorable conditions that could reasonably be expected at this time of the year in the North Sea the enemy's vessels could certainly not have been more than a blur on the horizon to the gunner, and even the men at the range finders could have seen but little more. With anything like a swell or sea running neither the gunners nor the range takers could have seen the enemy's hull at all for half the time of the opening action; it therefore shows the wonderful skill of the British sailors and is intensely gratifying to the layman to learn that the guns of our magnificent battle cruisers can hit hard, hit first and keep on hitting an enemy that they practically cannot see, while the vessels are tearing through the water at a rate of thirty-four land miles an hour.

"It would appear that at no time was the range much less than 12,000 yards, i.e., practically the range at which it had been frequently thought the opening rounds would be fired. Owing to the enormous range and the consequent comparatively steep angle of descent it is probable that few projectiles got through the armour of the Derfflinger, Sedyitz and Moltke, and hence their engines were not seriously damaged, thus allowing them to keep up nearly full speed. The havoc caused on the decks and upper works, however, must have been frightful.

"In the action off the Falkland Islands it appears that the Invincible opened fire at a range of about 35,000 yards, and the Scharnhorst was sunk, while a distance of between 10,000 and 11,000 yards separated her from the Carnarvon, the vessel which administered the coup de grace to her."

WOULD LET OUT RUSSIA'S WHEAT.

(New Haven Register.)

Russia is the only rival of America in quantity of wheat product. Last year, by estimate, Russia produced about a billion bushels against 1,142,717,000 bushels from the United States and Canada. But a greater share of that wheat is locked up in eastern Europe, cut off from the markets which seek it, and the people who starve for it, by reason of a Turkish blockade of the Dardanelles against Russia.

The forces of Russia and England are co-operating to break that blockade. Probably they need no urging, but are doing everything in their power. But surely it is no breach of neutrality to wish for their early success. Let the Dardanelles once be opened to let out the stream of Russian wheat, and watch the market bulls scurrying to cover. Watch the corners break. Watch the fictitious prices tumble—not back to their July level, but to a living scale. Watch the poor rejoice at bread once more at the old weight and at the old price. This is a feature of the war for whose relaxation, let us hope, we have no need to wait Kitchener's three years.
