TENDERS!

Valuable Freehold Timber and Farm Land.

Tenders will be received at the Office of the undersigned up to 12 o'clock noon on Tuesday, May 4th, for that large piece of land situate at Maher's

Siding, on the Reid Newfoundland

Railway, only 3 miles from Brigus

Junction, and belonging to the Estate of the late Sir W. V. Whiteway.

This splendid tract of land comprises 8 square miles—4 of which being on each side of the track—and as the railway runs through the centre, is easy of access, and has some splendid stretches of Birches and Spruce thereon—the Birches on one side and the Spruce and Fir on the other.

It is also an ideal spot for farming, and there would be no trouble experienced in loading produce, as there is a siding where cars can be loaded at ease.

Another desirable feature in connection with the property is that the party buying same would be the SOLE owner of all waters on the land, thereby excluding all fishing and shooting over same without license. There is good fishing in the ponds and gullies which abound on same.

It is also an ideal place for Sheep

Raising, being away from the ravages of all dogs.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

CHAPTER IV.

THE FRUITS OF PRIDE.

"Sir—Send the girl and the money to me with your bill by first conveyance.—HARRY DARRELL."

This characteristic epistle he sealed and dispatched, and then trudged round the fields as perfect a specimen of the human mule as any naturalist could desire.

Four days after the date of the squire's letter the stagecoach stopped at the Dale gate, and a young girl was helped down from the seat of honor. This was Miss Grace Darrell.

The squire stood at the hall door, his face twitching with some strong, firmly suppressed emotion, and, when she ran up the steps, took her by the arm and kissed her, speaking never a word until, still holding her arm in a kindly grasp, they reached the drawing-room, then seating himself in his easy-chair he drew her in front of him, and said:

"My girl, let me look at you."

He saw a graceful, strongly built young lady, with a dark complexion, thick, black eyebrows, eyes that had all the Darrell beauty, and a mouth that had something more than the Darrell firmness about it.

Now, her father was the squire's younger brother, whom, until he had made a runaway match with this girl's mother, an actress at a provincial theatre, the squire had loved as David loved Jonathan. When, however, he had committed this crime, the elder brother, though it had cost him as much as it had to show his own son the door, cast him off forever.

"My girl, you are like your father," he said.

The girl dropped her eyes from his face and sighed.

"I do not remember him," she said.

"No, no," said the squire, nodding his head; then hastily, as if to hide the tears that sprang to his eyes, he added: "There, you must be tired; you look dusty and wearied, and no wonder, either. Go with Mrs. Lucas, the housekeeper, to your room."

And kissing her again, he half pushed, half led her to the middle-aged woman who acted in the capacity of housekeeper and general manager at the Dale.

Grace Darrell had been brought up in a small, out-of-the-way place in the North.

Education in the most advanced cities in those days was but meager and unusual, so it is not to be wondered at if the girl, having no guardian but an invalid, broken-spirited mother, should be deficient in the few accomplishments and adornments of the time.

But her lack of accomplishments was somewhat made up by her inborn tact and good spirits, her naturally inquiring mind and a dauntless courage and spirit that, though they led her into many scrapes and got her the reputation of a tom-boy, kept her from being that insignificant being, an uneducated, lifeless woman.

Grace, whatever else she lacked, did not want originality, as the squire soon found out, for at dinner, after a little encouragement, she chatted with the freedom of innocence and old acquaintanceship.

"And is this the Dale, Uncle Darrell? You are my uncle, are you not?"

"Yes," said the squire, amused and somewhat floored by the sudden title.

"It is a very beautiful place—very beautiful. Mrs. Lucas says I may go all over it after dinner; that is, if you will let me. Will you?"

"Yes," said the squire again; "and I'll go with you."

"That's a dear uncle," said the girl, going up to him and laying her hand upon his shoulder; then, looking up suddenly with a naivete that was irresistible: "You will be very kind to me—won't you?"

"Yes," said the squire, adding, as he read a half-doubting look upon her face: "What makes you ask, my dear?"

"Because—she commenced, then stopped.

"Go on," said the squire, drawing her closer to him. "Speak out, my dear; I like people who speak their minds."

And for the moment he thought he was speaking the truth.

"Because," said Grace, "my mother told me you were cruel to poor father—"

She stopped as the squire's face darkened and shrank away a little, but the cloud disappeared, and he said, as cheerily as he could:

"Never mind all that, my girl. I'll be good to you, and you must love me. Eh, that's a bargain?"

"Yes, yes," said Grace, with serious earnestness flinging her arm round his neck. "That's a bargain. And now we'll go around," and she ran to the window.

The squire hadn't finished his wine, but he got his hat, and, with the girl hanging on his arm, strode out of the house into the garden.

At almost every step Grace stopped to utter an exclamation of delight and childish glee, the squire's face puckering into a smile of pleasure, but relapsing into its half-stubborn, half-sad expression at times.

When she reached the stables the girl literally refused to budge another inch.

Her face lighted up with delight and longing.

"Oh, uncle, what splendid horses! Oh, the darlings—oh, the dears! Oh, how I wish—"

"What?" said the squire. "Are you fond of horses?"

"I love 'em," she replied, eagerly.

"Oh, oh!" said the squire. "But you can not ride?"

The girl gave a short laugh, and sprang to the head of Hugh's horse and looked back.

"Can't ride? Yes, I can. Oh, do let me!"

"But you haven't got a saddle," said the squire, staggered at her earnestness.

With the rapidity of thought she caught up a rug, folded it, and flung it across the horse's back.

NERVOUS, THIN, AILING WOMEN

Vinol Will Enrich Your Blood, Banish Nervousness, Make You Strong and Well

Physicians Recommend Vinol and Druggists Guarantee It

Pale, nervous, ailing women always tired, and often fussy, make homes unattractive and unhappy. You can readily change that tired, fringed-out, listless feeling to one of buoyant health by building up your blood, nerve and muscle tissue with VINOL.

It makes red corpuscles and enriches the blood, quickens the circulation, creates a hearty appetite, promotes sound sleep, strengthens the nerves and imparts renewed vitality, energy and vim to every organ in the body. The step quickens, the eyes brighten and a clear, healthy complexion replaces that pale, sallow color.

If such women could only realize the change that VINOL will make in their appearance, by restoring strength and health, they would not rest until they started its use. For all run-down, nervous, anemic conditions, weak women, overworked men, feeble old people and delicate children, there is no remedy like VINOL. Your druggist will return your money if Vinol fails to benefit you.

"There is all the saddle I want," she said. "Do let me ride him across the field—only across the field and back again," she added, coaxingly, running to him and twining her arm within his.

It was useless to stand out against her, and the squire—pulling a rueful face as he thought of what the country folks would say of his niece scampering across the field on a bareback horse—gave her a lift up, and stood to watch the result, not without sundry misgivings.

With a repetition of the short laugh, which rang rather unpleasantly like Hugh's for the squire, she turned the horse's head and, with a touch of her hand, put him in a gallop across the field.

Calling himself an old idiot for letting the child break her neck, the squire ran after her as far as his gait would let him, then pulled up short with a stare of amazement.

She sat the horse like an Amazon, controlling him by the stall bridle as easily as Hugh could have done it himself, and, with a flushed face and a laugh of joy that was good to hear, brought him back to where the squire stood.

"Bravo!" said the squire. "Pray, where did you learn to ride, my fine madam?"

"Oh, I learned myself," replied the girl, jumping down very close to the squire's weak toe and patting the horse's back. "Oh, ain't he a beauty, uncle? But he ain't a lady's horse."

"How do you know?" asked the squire.

"By the way he gallops," replied the girl. "Is he yours, uncle?"

"No," said the squire, shortly.

"Whose is he, then?" she asked, lifting her head from where it had been nestling against the animal's back. "Uncle, you never told me—have you got a son?"

"No!" said the squire, hoarsely. "I had, but—he's dead!"

CHAPTER V. A WOMAN'S WILL.

"Where is the man who has the power and skill To stem the torrent of a woman's will? For if she will she will, you may depend on't. And if she won't she won't, and there's an end on't."

In a very few days Grace Darrell was mistress at the Dale.

The squire, who had hitherto ruled the roost in a most despotic way, found himself most utterly vanquished and put down. His will had to bow before the passionate fury of the young girl's as completely as an old, shabby tree is swayed and bent by the wind.

It was a new sensation, this sudden submission, but the Squire of Dale did not altogether dislike it. Who could help loving the dark-eyed young gypsy who stamped her feet and dared you to your very face when you asked her to do anything she disliked or disapproved of, and then, when, with a sigh, you acknowledge yourself vanquished, threw her arms round your neck and poured a thousand endearments on your head?

Japanese Troops and Civilians Massacred.

Siberian District Scene of Butchery and Bloodshed -- Blockade of Fiume is Severe -- Maoris Demand That Prince Visit Them--German Evasions of Treaty Condemned.

MASSACRE OF JAPANESE.

WASHINGTON, April 28. Japanese guards in the district of Nikolaevsk, eastern Siberia, are believed to have been annihilated and several hundred Japanese residents, including the Japanese Consul there, massacred according to an official statement issued by the Japanese Foreign Office, and made public to-day by the State Department.

SPANISH CABINET RESIGNS.

MADRID, April 28. The Spanish Cabinet, headed by Aldeide Sazar, handed in its resignation to-day.

THE BLOCKADE OF FIUME.

TRIESTE, April 28. The blockade which Fiume is now undergoing is admittedly the most severe to which it has been subjected. The communications of the town have been completely cut off, regular Italian troops are tearing up sections of railway and bringing up numbers of machine guns to guard the frontiers. Passage in and out of the city is absolutely forbidden, not even milk going in and connection with the outside world by sea route has been completely severed.

MAORIS TO WELCOME PRINCE.

LONDON, April 28. New Zealand Maori tribesmen, formerly enemies of the British in the Maori war, refused to be represented at Rotorua, in welcoming the Prince of Wales upon his arrival there, says a central news despatch from Auckland. They pointed out their presence would associate them with other tribes, against which they made a protest. Chiefs of the Maori threatened if the Prince of Wales did not stop at their village to receive them they would hold up his train by lying down in front of it. They finally promised to create no disturbance if permitted to welcome the royal visitor.

TURKISH FRAUD.

PARIS, April 28. Official accounts of the French retreat from Urfa, Asia Minor, confirmed reports that the retreating column was ambushed, although the French had an agreement with the Turks, which they believed would ensure a safe retirement.

CHINESE STUDENTS STRIKE.

PEKING, April 28. (Associated Press.)—Students in Peking schools have declared a strike in sympathy with students in Shanghai and fourteen of the provinces, who several days left their studies. No violence is expected. The Shanghai strike was caused by the refusal of the Peking Government to reply to demands that secret negotiations with Japan, relative to Shantung cease, and that a decree abrogating secret treaties be published.

U. S. TRADE WITH RUSSIA.

ATLANTIC CITY, April 28. The Board of Directors of the United States Chamber of Commerce to-day authorized appointment of a commission to proceed to Europe to investigate the possibility of resumption of trade relations between United States and the Russian people.

MORE HUN TREACHERY.

BERLIN, April 28. In an article commenting on the discovery by the Entente Control Commission of 286 guns at Stettin, the Independent Socialists organ, Die Freiheit, says the incident was discussed at the Cabinet meeting at which General Von Seeckt, Chief of Staff, declared that this secret movement of guns which were intended for Koenigsburg, was undertaken with the full knowledge and approval of the Ministry of Defence. "This statement," says the paper, "is very astounding. Under the Treaty of Versailles, Germany was allowed only 186 guns, and incidents such as this, are bound to inspire the Entente with the deepest disgust."

UP TO GERMANY.

PARIS, April 28. Premier Millerand, in making a declaration to the Chamber of Deputies to-day on the results of the Supreme Council meeting at San Remo, said that Frankfurt and Darmstadt territories would be evacuated by the French as soon as the Allied commission had established that German forces, over the number allowed by the convention of August, 1919, had been withdrawn.

MEXICAN REVOLUTION.

AGUA PREITA, April 28. Approximately four thousand Carranza troops at Parral and Jiminez, Chihuahua, revolted yesterday, according to information given out here to-day by General Calles, commander of the revolutionists in northwest Mexico.

Get Busy.

Gentlemen of the Committee! Editor Evening Telegram
Dear Sir,—If ever there was a display of indifference to public sentiment, it is certainly shown by the studied inactivity of the Committee in charge of the G. P. Cemetery. For a whole year they have taken no notice whatever of the conditions, which both in the public press and in private, have been time and again brought to their notice. Surely a matter of such delicacy, appealing as it does to one of the elemental instincts of our nature—the affection for our dead—should require no second reminder to stir into action those responsible for the care and upkeep of their resting place. The more one thinks of the subject, the greater becomes the wonder that there should be a moments delay in applying the remedy. It is well known that there are thousands amongst the six congregations concerned, who, like the Editor of the Daily News, feel deeply the negligence of those responsible for conditions at that Cemetery—conditions brought about in the first place by the apathy of the Committee, and secondly by everybody responsible for the appointment of that Committee. It seems necessary now to again spur the Committee into wakefulness. I would suggest that as they have proven themselves impervious to repeated public appeals, that they would be well advised to visit the Government Museum and see there an illustration of fidelity, which doubtless will make them do some thinking. There they will see evidence that even the Boethics knew how to honor and respect their departed kindred. The trinkets and playthings shown there were laid in the child's grave with loving care and what a striking reproof is this tenderness to the coldness and indifference which appear to be the accompaniment of our much vaunted modern civilization. The Spring has again come round, and with its approach the opportunity is at hand for the Committee to get busy repairing the dilapidated fences, walks, etc. An aroused and indignant public will soon demand action on this unpleasant matter, and if the Committee find themselves unable or unwilling to do anything—now is the time for them to resign—not at the end of the season—so as to permit their successors to inaugurate the badly needed repairs which have been referred to in detail so often, and with so little effect, in the papers and elsewhere.

Yours truly,
VIGILANT.

FATHERHOOD.
How's the little chap to know
Just the proper roads to go,
If you never travel with him
While he's little, hand in hand?
How's he ever going to learn
Just what corners not to turn
If you never try to tell him
So that he can understand?
Who think you will train him rightly,
Who will watch him daisy, nightly,
Who will take the time to show him
Just the things he ought to do?
Will some stranger or a neighbor
Take upon himself the labor
Which the Lord above intended
As a duty, just for you?
Is it safe to trust another,
Even though he be your brother,
To the molding of his future?
Can you watch him come and go,
Can you go on money-making
Without thought or trouble taking
To discover if he's learning
Just the things you'd have him know?
There's no fortune worth his splendor
Of his youthful days and tender,
There's no goal so bright with glory
Which is worth his happiness;
He's your hope of joy to-morrow,
As you'll find out to your sorrow
If you let him wander from you
While you seek your own success.
Let the fame and mcrey go,
Teach him what he ought to know,
You will find a greater glory
Than the selfish seeker can;
Shape his mind and soul to beauty,
God has given you this duty
And your age shall glow with gladness
When your boy becomes a man.

Atlantic Cable Specimens.

PRESENTED TO MUSEUM.
Yesterday, seven different types of the Commercial Atlantic Cable were placed in the Museum by the Superintendent, H. D. Windeler, Esq., of this city. The different assortments are about eight inches in length and comprise specimens from the large shore end to the smallest of the deep sea type. They are beautifully and neatly mounted in silver, with raised letters, which read, "Telegraph Construction and Maintenance Co., Ltd.", and arranged alphabetically. The shore end particularly is a splendid exhibition of skill, and we, who have a little knowledge of such, have certainly never witnessed such perfection. They are divided into three types, viz: Shore End, Intermediate and Deep Sea. It is indeed the last word in cable construction and is well worth viewing by the general public.

It is pleasing to note that our people are taking greater interest in our Museum, and relics of the past, such as swords, pistols and various curios are being added. It is to be regretted that so many relics of our great industries as well as trophies of our early days, when our people had to fight against the foreign invader, have been lost or sent out of the country. However it is not too late to make up for past carelessness and indifference. In every country the first place visited by the stranger is the Museum, where the resources, art, in fact the history of the country is placed before their eyes in concrete form and would be the best possible advertising medium for the Dominion. The Commercial Cable Co., through their Vice-President and General Manager of New York, Mr. Ward, and Mr. Windeler of this city, are to be commended for their kindness and thoughtfulness.

SOME SEATS LEFT.—The plan of seats for the Sacred Concert to-night shows a large sale of tickets, but some good seats still remain. The plan will be at the Cathedral before the performance and any unsold tickets may be purchased there as also any unsold general admission ones.

COME IN CONTACT WITH SAW.—A young lad named Thomas had his leg badly injured by a small circular saw, at the Daily Star Office yesterday. Dr. Tait was called and after attending to the boys injuries had him conveyed home.

Police Court.

The case against a young man, charged with a breach of Section 3 of the Intoxicating Liquors Act, was postponed till Tuesday next. Mr. Higgins appeared for the accused.

Three young lads were charged with doing damage to two vessels. One of the lads was dismissed. The other two were fined $40 each. It appears that a number of lads boarded two schooners "Dove" and "Florence" at Franklin's, and procuring an axe, broke open the cabin, chopping up the main gear, broke a stove and did considerable other damage to the hull of one, and on the other cut all the hal-yards except one. The damages done is estimated at $250.00.

A boy, aged 11, charged with taking money from an office where he was employed, was allowed to go on suspended sentence at the request of the Inspector General, who informed the court that the boy would be placed where he would be looked after.

Strike Settled.

The firemen's strike was settled yesterday evening. Through the good efforts of the delegate, Mr. Frank Woods, the difference regarding payment was adjusted. The firemen have been granted an increase of $10.00 per month. The men working off articles will receive $20 per week. The Thefts, Neptune, and Eagle will proceed to Sydney for coal cargoes. The crews of all the local ships signed articles to-day. The Diana goes to North West ports with freight and thence to Sydney.

MARTIN-HUNT.
A very pretty wedding was solemnized at 7:45 last evening at the home of Mrs. James Hunt, when her daughter, Hazel, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Walton H. Martin, late of the Reg. Nfld. Co. Rev. Mr. Bugden of Wesley Church officiated. The bride entered the room leaning on the arm of Mr. John Cornick and attended by Miss Meta Martin, sister of the groom, while Mr. MacMorgan supported the groom. The bride and bridesmaid were tastefully attired in dresses of pale blue silk with bouquets of white carnations. After the ceremony a sumptuous repast was partaken of by the guests. The newly wedded couple leave on Saturday by the Sable I. for New London, Ont., where they will make their future home. The bride and groom were the recipients of many valuable and costly presents. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Martin join in wishing them bon voyage and an abundance of happiness in their new home.

Shipping Notes.

S. S. Sable I. was supposed to leave Sydney for here last night.

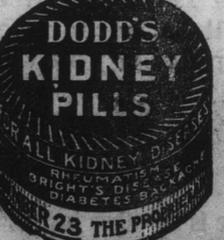

S. S. Edmund Donald was expected to leave Halifax for here to-day.

Schooner W. H. Reinhardt has sailed from Burin for Bahia with 8,838 qts. codfish, shipped by W. T. Hollett.

All this forenoon a ship has been laying up out in the bay, but owing to the dense fog her position could not be made out by the pilots who were out for the W. M. Tupper.

ARTICLE DELAYED.—The article, "Newfoundland's Island of Iron," by J. R. Smallwood, which began on Saturday last, has been unavoidably delayed. The third and concluding part, however, will appear shortly.

BRAKEMAN INJURED.—On Monday last Brakeman Hart was seriously injured at Bishop's siding, in the act of coupling two cars he was caught and badly crushed about the abdomen. He was brought to town on Monday night's train, and sent to hospital for treatment.

Unnecessary for G.P.O.

Editor Evening Telegram
Dear Sir,—The coming of Governments into power always means the creation of some new and unnecessary departments of expenditure, and the case—or cases—now is seen at the G.P.O. I understand that a new motor car has been attached to the Post Office Service, presumably for the delivery of mail, but obviously that some of the more favored officials might enjoy a daily drive. The mail is already being handled by mailman Coughlan and the addition of the motor car is but an expense. Again, a new addition (of expenditure) has been made to the Registration Department. This time the departure is a ridiculous one; a new Registration office for parcels, having been opened, when the work could have been done in the old and original office. The Registered Parcel post is about the smallest of any earning revenue in the service, and to create a new office in connection with it is simply nonsense. The monies thus being spent might have been added to the pay sheet, and help men to live respectably and decently, neither of which the post office official can now do on the salary he is receiving. When will the Government turn its Argus-eyed inspection towards the Post Office, and do what is right by the whole department? Cut out unnecessary items of expense, but allow the worker enough for bread and cheese.

Yours truly,
"WATCHING IT ALL."

W. M. S. Service.

The Missionary meeting at Wesley Church last night was a great success as to programme, attendance and offerings. The President, Mrs. Robt. Joyce, filled the position with grace and ability. After reading of Scripture Lesson by Mr. A. W. Martin, prayer was offered by Mrs. Kenneth Barnes. A most gratifying report for the year followed by the Secretary, Mrs. A. Goobie, membership and finances all going up. Mrs. Miller (of Bell Island), then sang "O Rest in the Lord," (Mendelssohn). Her fine contralto voice has lost none of its power and sweetness. Rev. Dr. Jones of St. Thomas's Church, was introduced and the entire audience accorded him a very hearty welcome, although ladies don't show much applause with hands or feet as men do. The reverend gentleman said he was there for two reasons, first to return the kindness of Mrs. Lindsay, and Rev. Dr. Bond, who had been to St. Thomas's and inspired them so much in their work along similar lines of Christian Missions, and secondly to encourage the women in the western section of the city to continue earnestly in the grand work they were carrying on. He was greatly pleased to see so many ladies present. Dr. Jones then delivered a very able address on "Christian Imperialism." Pen and type fail to convey the fervour and eloquence of the speaker. British imperialism stands for freedom, justice, high morals, true ideals, not merely for Britain, but for its colonies, and wherever its flag flies, showing that the people are under its protectorate, and while we think of the power and influence guaranteed by living under the protection of that flag, in how much more a degree have we the security and privileges of Christian Imperialism. In the most eloquent manner the learned doctor proved, the immense good that resulted from Christian Missions, both in an imperial and economic way. Twenty-eight years ago the careless throwing down of a lit match, caused conflagration, and the larger half of this city to go down in debris with a loss of twenty millions of dollars. Twenty centuries ago the imperial, peerless Christ said to his few followers, "Go ye into all the world," and who shall tell the wonderful, reconstructing, uplifting forces that the Christian Church has created in its onward march through the years, the power of the live giving word that abideth for ever the work of the Medical Missionary, and the hospitals, orphanages and every philanthropy that has grown out of the direction of Christ. Christian Missions are not optional, they are a requirement, a responsibility, we cannot set aside. Space and time fail to convey the effect of the closing part of the address, on "our resources in their enterprise."—The Holy Spirit, the unparalleled fortitude of the heroes who have conquered in the fight. Their incentive taken here in sending their own missionaries and supporting them in China and Japan, and saying "go on, we will follow you," the speaker said of this "live giving word," who shall tell the wonderful, reconstructing, uplifting forces that the Christian Church has created in its onward march through the years, the power of the live giving word that abideth for ever the work of the Medical Missionary, and the hospitals, orphanages and every philanthropy that has grown out of the direction of Christ. Christian Missions are not optional, they are a requirement, a responsibility, we cannot set aside. BETTER BIRTHDAYS FOR MEN.

RUTH CAMERON

Why is it that the birthdays of the male members of the family seem to receive so much less attention than female birthdays? Perhaps I am starting with a false assumption, but I have asked several people if I am right in this feeling and they say that in their experience it has been mostly true. The sister's birthday is the occasion for far more stir than big brother's. The father's birthday is a greater event to lay more stress on wives' birthdays than is put on theirs.

Of course, when folks are very little, sex doesn't make so much difference. Little sister and little brother get about the same amount of presents, birthday cake, parties and attention in general, on their birthdays.

The change comes about very gradually. Sister makes a lot of girl friends in high school who all exchange presents with her, thus making her birthday a much better packaged occasion. Women are stronger on exchanging small gifts with their friends than men are.

Why Female Birthdays Are Greater Events.

Suppose there are really three main reasons why female birthdays receive more attention.

First, women think more of anniversaries of all kinds than men do. Men's lives as a rule are so much more full of outside interest than women's, their routine is so much more monotonous, that they do not set much store by these occasions.

In the second place, the average man earns money, and the average woman does not; and so a gift from her to him is more in order than one from him to her—since the latter simply means that she gives back to him something that he has given her. The fact that she has earned it is something more generally recognized, and it has not been so in times past.

Women are easier to give to. In the third place, women are so much easier to give to, than men, their wardrobes do not have the

King George's Wardrobe

The late King Edward was reputed to be the best-dressed monarch in the world, and, naturally, being continually in the public eye, he was often responsible for setting new masculine fashions.

It has been said that he was accustomed to as many as six changes a day, not including those for special functions.

King George, however, is noted for the simplicity of his attire, and has the habit that is so dear to Englishmen of wearing his clothes for a considerable period. His Majesty has always an extremely neat and tidy appearance, and seems to favour a grey lounge suit for his indoor hours, whilst his favourite outdoor dress is that of an admiral in the Navy, which suits him so well.

The Royal Wardrobe is a very large one, and contains more than one hundred uniforms for wearing on various occasions. For instance, a visit to France to inspect a certain regiment of which His Majesty is colonel necessitates a French uniform, while on his return, another costume must be forthcoming to enable him to take part in some civic function.

Having such a considerable number of clothes to deal with, a system must be employed to store them.

The Royal wardrobe proper is at Buckingham Palace, and one large room is devoted entirely to articles of wearing apparel, which is carefully attended to by a staff of special-are seldom used, as towards the things most likely to be needed.

Of course, His Majesty's collection of foreign uniforms must be kept up to date, and directly the head valet is informed of any slight alteration made in a particular uniform, the old one must be cast aside, and a new one made.

As only the highest skilled labour is employed, a perfect fit is assured, and the King is not subjected to attentions of the tailors, nor does he have to be fitted with all the various additions to his wardrobe.

THE HELPFUL RAIN.

For months our state was dusty, no water fell thereon; the wheat was brown and rusty, dried out the sickly lawn. And oft we got together, with briny in our eyes and cussed the sinful weather and all the forecast gyps.

And pessimism brooded among us, far and near, and it, alas, included much language punk to hear. Sometimes the clouds assembled and made a bluff at rain; then how we stood and trembled, and hoped—and hoped in vain! The fool winds came a-whooping and blew the clouds away; and we, with spirits drooping, went weeping to the hay. And all our faith was shaken in everything below; our world had lost its bacon, our heritage was woe. And then at last the water came tumbling from on high; Old Pluvius, he shot her from somewhere round the sky. All night the rain was pouring and plashing on the sea, and soon the hills were roaring in tumult to the sea. And then you should have seen us, how merrily we strode, the mudholes strewn between us, as we went up the road! Then all our griefs were banished as cheap and tinhorn fakes, and pessimism vanished in less than seven shakes.

The Speech From the Throne.

In the speech from the Throne, with which His Excellency the Governor was pleased to open the first session of the twenty-fourth General Assembly of Newfoundland one week ago yesterday, words were put into the mouth of the King's representative, and spoken by him from the text of the address, which were palpably untrue. His Excellency was made the official mouthpiece of the Government and caused to say "that the establishment of the Fishery Regulations has been attended with much success and substantial benefit to our codfish industry." So little respect had the Government for the exalted position of the Commander-in-Chief of this dominion and its dependencies that they made him responsible for a most glaring mis-statement of the actual result of the enforcement of the greatest executive blunder known in the history of any administration. Disregarding the high office of the Governor and using him as a shield for their egregious error, the Prime Minister and his Cabinet associates proclaimed from the mouth of vice-royalty "that the establishment of the regulations has been attended with much success and substantial benefit." Realising their false position with regard to these pernicious and damnable regulations, they utilised the Governor to publish a sentiment that might receive the favorable regard of the people of this dominion, coming as it did from one vested with vice-regal authority.

What honorable members on the Government side of the House, representing Fishing Districts, thought when they heard this astounding statement made, there are no means of knowing, at the moment, but judging by the significant glances exchanged between them, it was obvious that they were not quite in accord with the expressed sentiment, nor in any way impressed with its veracity or otherwise. Conveniently they did not permit themselves to think of the annoyance and loss caused their constituents in the extern parts because of the putting into force of these obnoxious regulations, thereby depriving the exporters of their dominion to use their own judgment and discretion in disposing of their dry fish cargoes in the markets offering the best prices, without being smothered in red tape routine, and first making known all the terms and conditions of their sales. But no matter what they thought, or how much of the statement they believed or disbelieved, it stands as a record of their spinelessness that they had not the moral courage to enter a protest against such a patent mis-statement. Party exigencies came before the duty they owed their constituents, and, knowing the inaccuracy of the spoken expression, they were content, by their unpardonable silence, to betray those who elected them to defend their rights and safeguard their privileges, and acquiesce to that which they had previously and privately condemned.

These Fish Export Regulations have been a burden, and a curse to Newfoundland since the first day of their promulgation, and they hang around the neck of every fisherman who plies his avocation around our coasts, on the Banks and on Labrador, weighty as a millstone, always dragging down the tilers of the deep, and so long as a stubborn dictator keeps them in force so long will their evil effect work disastrous results to the foreign fish trade of this Colony. Not one iota of benefit, not one grain of success can be brought in evidence of their necessity. On the contrary they have antagonised all the best customers in the Spanish market and buyers in Portugal, Italy and Brazil are turning to other fish producing countries for the necessary supplies to meet demands for consumption. Merchants who have been engaged in supplying for the fisheries for years and have been their own exporters, are amazed over the results which have been the sequence of these regulations. They have no confidence whatever in the future, so long as the Government insists on their obedience to the rules laid down in its November proclamation, and so little faith have they in any change setting in abroad favorable to the marketing and sale of our chief product, without great loss, so long as the regulations have full force and effect, that they have decided to curtail credits on account of fishery supplies, to such an extent that will mean a serious set back to the men who, each spring, secure full outfits from the various firms on Water Street, hitherto engaged in the supplying business to an unlimited extent. The entire closing out of credit accounts will not have a tendency to improve or increase the catch, and those men from the North, who will be coming to St. John's in the next few weeks for the purpose of taking up their outfits for the coming voyage will be sadly disappointed, when they learn the decision of the merchants. To whom then will they turn? The inveterate language of the Speech from the Throne that much success and substantial benefits have resulted to the fisheries, since the establishment of the Export Regulations, will not be of much help to them in getting their fishing supplies. Rather will it be the very thing that prevents them.

Competition in Oporto Market.

A late report to the Board of Trade reports that Norwegian fish, is again in the Oporto market. It is now about 12 months since these stocks were mentioned in the reports. The unusually large consumption 8,000 qtls. of our fish for one week shows, according to some dealers here, that the Norwegians having again entered in to active competition our product is being disposed of at greatly reduced prices.

Fall Daylight Scheme.

INTERFERES WITH FISHMAKING. At a special meeting of the L.S.P.U. held last night, it was decided to ask the Government to have the daylight saving scheme extend from the last Sunday in May till the first Sunday of September, only. It is claimed that after the first of September, the "hours" are so short that the plan interferes with the work on the fish wharves. At six o'clock in the morning, by advanced time, it is impossible to tell how the day will turn out, consequently a lot of confusion is caused in the spreading of fish. It is also claimed that other work along shore is also interfered with, by having the Daylight Bill operating in September month.

Seals at Little Catalina.

The Marine and Fisheries Department had a message yesterday from Catalina saying that the ice was passing up outside the Bay and during the previous day 14 seals had been taken at Little Catalina.

Girls' West End Club.

The sale of work in aid of the Girls' West End Club, which was held on last Tuesday afternoon, was most successful. It was opened at four o'clock by Lady Crosbie, who referred to the object of the sale, and of the good which is being done "quietly and unostentatiously. It is true, but none the less effectively."

The Club is filling a great need in the lives of the young girls of the city.

"Standing with reluctant feet; Where the brook and river meet; Womanhood and childhood feet."

In closing she said, "Is there too much that we can do for these young women to help them to take care of themselves, and to hold themselves in such reverence, that some day they may be worthy to be the mothers of men who are to take the place of those splendid men and boys, who have so nobly within the last few years laid down their lives, that the girls of to-day, and all future generations may live in peace and security. If it is true that a nation can rise no higher than its women, how necessary it is that the girls of to-day should be helped and encouraged."

The various stalls were well patronized, and the goods soon disposed of.

At eight o'clock a concert was held, in the course of which the Methodist Guards Band rendered several fine selections, and Mrs. Harold Ayre gave an interesting, illustrated reading.

A very pleasing incident of the evening, was the presentation of one of the latest Victrola Gramophones to the Club, by a lady friend who is very much interested in this work among the girls.—G.P.

Special to Evening Telegram. CAPE RACE, To-day. Wind E. N. E., light, dense fog; a steamer was heard passing at 10 a. m.; Bar. 29.84; Ther. 45.

S. S. W. M. Tupper 3 days from Halifax arrived in port at 1.30 p.m. to-day with a general cargo to A. E. Hickman & Co. She brought no passengers.

The Restrictions and Brazil.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—My attention having been called by several parties in the city to the fact that the Hon. W. F. Coaker in the course of his speech on his Fish Regulations and Restrictions, last evening, made some rather ill-natured remarks upon Mr. W. S. Monroe and myself, I desire to make a few statements with regard to the same.

Mr. Monroe, being absent from the City, might have been given at least the opportunity of placing his position upon record. As however he is quite at liberty to express his views upon the Fish Regulations on his return as anyone else, it is not my province to intrude upon his prerogative. But as Mr. Monroe was at one time a member of Mr. Coaker's Advisory Board, one can but say that he must have found something inherently bad in these Restrictions to compel him to alter his views regarding the same. That is if he has done so. And from the telegram received from him some little time ago it appears that from being an ardent supporter of Mr. Coaker's Regulations he has become a very strong opponent of them.

I understand that Mr. Coaker in the course of his remarks stated that I had tried to "block" his Regulations on every opportunity. This is absolutely untrue. His Regulations, so far as they attempt to make shipments of fish to Brazil of better quality than they have been, are worthy of all support, and I am quite frank in stating that if he does so succeed, that he will do more to prevent claims on cargo than by any other method ever tried since my connection with the Fishery business, which has lasted for more years perhaps than I care to remember.

But to Mr. Coaker's "Restrictions," as apart from his Regulations, I have ever voiced my dissent and opposition. In the discussion of these restrictions at the Board of Trade I predicted what in my opinion would happen if the very drastic change in the method of business pursued in Brazil regarding payment for cargoes was insisted upon. I regret from the standpoint of one interested in the welfare of the country that my predictions have come true.

Our exports to Brazil for the past two seasons have been as follows, for new fish.

Drums. 1918-19 1919-20
October 24010 17717
November 27182 88944
December 21777 18670
January 59024 22825
February 28006 19173
March 25074 29201
185073 116230

This shows a shortage of 68,743 drums shipped to Brazil this season as compared with the previous one.

An intelligent reading public can easily for themselves decide what amount of benefit has been derived in our trade with Brazil from the drastic change and ill-treatment the important buyers have been subjected to by the enforcement of the ill-considered "Restrictions."

I have to ask your kind permission to allow me to place these few matters before the public and beg to remain,

Your very truly,
CHAS. R. DUDER.

Unsold Fish in Nfld.

Hon. W. F. Coaker stated in the House yesterday that there are not 150,000 qtls. of old fish—not disposed of—in Newfoundland to-day. The following figures, given by one, than whom there is no one more conversant with the facts, will be interesting, to say the least:

St. Anthony 10,000
Grate's Cove 10,000
Bay de Verde 10,000
Old Perlican 10,000
Fort Union and Bonavista 20,000
South Shore 20,000
Placentia Bay 25,000
Green Bay 70,000
St. John's 75,000
Total 250,000

This is exclusive of the fish on the West Coast, which, added to the 250,000 qtls. would make nothing less than 300,000 qtls. still in the country, or exactly double the figures given by the Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

Arrived Safely.

A cable from Mr. Ralph Herder was received by Mr. W. J. Herder this morning, advising that the schr. Huntley, on which the sender is making a health trip, had arrived at Allcote on Tuesday, after a run of nineteen days from port. During the passage across one of the crew, a Scandinavian name Peter Schneck, who was aloft attending to some work, fell from the mast head to the deck and was instantly killed. His body was buried at sea.

LABOR MAN VERY ILL.—Mr. William J. Nauffts, Recording Secretary of the N. I. W. A., who for some months has been unwell, was dangerously ill yesterday and last night. His Unionist comrades sincerely hope for his speedy recovery.

McMurdo's Store News.

THURSDAY, April 29. Thorburn's Special Mixed Sweet Pea holds a high place with gardeners. It is probably better for this climate than any of the more "fancy" boxes. We find wise growers use this mixture, and recommend it. At any rate the popularity of Thorburn's Special Mixed Sweet Pea increases every season, and from what we are told by those who have tried it out, is likely to increase still further. Price $2.20 a pound.

Do not forget that you can always obtain Peppercorn Tooth Paste—the unique dentifrice—at this store. Price 50c. a tube.

BRICK'S TASTELESS COD LIVER OIL.

Price $1.20 bottle. Postage 20c. extra. For sale by Dr. F. Stafford & Son, Wholesale & Retail Chemists & Druggists, St. John's, Nfld. Write us for Wholesale Prices.

Will You Risk Just Twenty Dollars?

A "Eyer" on the New York market very often makes a tidy profit if placed in a promising stock. Here's an example:—
15 Shares
at $3.50 per share costs $52.50
A one-third cash deposit secures and controls 15 shares. One-third of $32.50 is $11.50, and commission and exchange makes it $20.00. We expect the same stock to sell around $4.00 inside four months, netting over $35 profit besides your original investment. Ask us about it and have us suggest a stock to you.

Sacred Concert To-Night

The Grand Sacred Concert, in which all the city choirs are taking part, opens in the Roman Catholic Cathedral at 8 o'clock this evening. Under the conductorship of Professor Hutton, this greatest assembly of vocalists ever heard in St. John's, will deliver some of the finest gems of sacred song in the repertoire of music, and lovers of the most classic muse are assured of the most classic rendition of the art by the various soloists and choruses. The program will be found in our advertising columns to-day.

Young-Adams Co.

REPEAT "EAST LYNNE." Last night's performance of "East Lynne" went with a bang. The Young-Adams Company still retaining their high reputation. The acting of Miss Marjorie Adams and Mr. H. Wilmet Young was splendidly performed, and especially at the closing of the last scene which was very pathetic.

To-night's play is the well-known plantation production, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," from the famous book by Harriet Beecher Stowe, which runs very closely on the lines of the story, but played to a new version, which of course does not include ice or bloodhounds, but is splendidly portrayed with appropriate settings.

Miss Marjorie Adams as Topsy, the mischievous black imp, is one scream of laughter from the rise to the fall of curtain. Mr. Young will appear in the popular role of Uncle Tom, the kindly old negro slave. Miss Marguerite Young will be seen as Little Eva, the little girl who is always in good humor. This production is on for the remaining three days of this week, so as to give everybody the opportunity of seeing this splendid offering.

The Opera "Dorothy" will be produced week beginning Monday, May 24th, by the Pupils and Ex-Pupils of the Christian Bros. Schools.—apr29.11

Moderate Prohibition Committee

SEND MESSAGE OF THANKS. The Chairman of the Moderate Prohibition Committee, Mr. Warwick Smith, has sent the annexed message of thanks to the residents of Middle Brook, Dark Cove and Gambo: "Sam. S. Collins, Abram Pritchett, Jr., Alfred Jerrett, and one hundred and fifteen other residents of Middle Brook, Dark Cove and Gambo.—Your letter demanding reform of the Prohibition Act on the lines suggested by the Moderate Prohibition Committee was published yesterday. The Committee desired to thank you heartily for your action in supporting the movement. As an outport man born and bred, and the son of a native of Bonavista Bay, I am proud of the independent stand you are taking, the more so as your letter was altogether unsolicited. Among the names I recognize those of men of different politics and creeds, and representing each of the four largest denominations, showing that on this question, vital to our country's well-being, men can be above denominationalism and party politics, and act as Newfoundlanders. Petitions are being forwarded you for signature."

no such thing. There people lived harmoniously, without a thought of what each other's denomination was. He blamed the newspapers for most of the sectarianism. People who never gave a thought to such a thing had their minds inflamed by the newspapers. It should be stopped.

It certainly should, and the newspapers that deal in such unsavory wares should be suspended. What Mr. Cheeseman said in that connection is very largely true. A few more earnest haters of sectarianism like Mr. Cheeseman and the thing is quenched. Mr. Cheeseman should really be on the opposite side of the House. He was never meant to sit still and listen to other people talk.

There was no evening session—and no morning either. Evidently the honorable members tired of the like, and decided that, after all, the good old orthodox afternoon session was good enough for anybody.

And, as one who attends regularly, I would not dispute with them!

Faustina's Repairs.

The schooner "Faustina" which was found off Cape Spear, last year, bottom up, and towed into port by tugs Ingraham and John Green, has undergone extensive repairs and will shortly be ready for sea again. The work is being done by Mr. H. J. Taylor. Three spars were stepped last week and the rigging is progressing. With fine weather it is hoped to have the vessel ready for sea about the end of May. Mr. Geo. Penney, manager of the firm of Penney & Sons, Ramea, (owners), arrived here by last Prospero with a crew to take over the vessel, when completed.

Seen From the Lobby.

House of Assembly, April 23.

The honorable members appeared to be fresher yesterday, and probably had a good long sleep yesterday morning.

In the course of presentation of petitions, Hon. W. R. Warren, Minister of Justice, who is member for Fortune, suggested the buying out of the Anglo-American interests on the South coast by the Government. Mr. Small at the time was presenting a petition for telegraphic communication for Renouveau, Burgeo and La Poile District.

"Not 150,000 qts. of old fish remain in the country to be disposed of," said Mr. Coaker, dealing with the fish situation.

It costs $17.70 per quintal to send $12 fish to Italy, was another interesting fact that he gave. That is $29.70. Add to that the merchant's profit, the buyers profit, the retailer's profit, and various other profits, and it is easy to see where the poor old consumer gets off!

The Government intends erecting another Directional Wireless Station, either on Signal Hill or Cape Spear, stated the Minister of Marine. This with the one already at Cape Race, would make it impossible for any ship with wireless to go ashore between here and Cape Race.

Freights for fish, this year, will be 20 per cent. more than those of last year; yet fish will be sold at $1 less expense than last year, he said.

"I have been in Opposition," said Mr. Coaker, "and I know what it is. I know how hard it often is to obtain satisfactory replies to questions. I will do everything in my power to get any information that the members of the Opposition may want. The Opposition seats are filled with men who can well follow the militant footsteps of those who preceded them."

Sir M. P. Cashin, Leader of the Opposition, said, in congratulating Mr. Coaker, "I am glad that there is one man in the Government doing something!"

Mr. John Cheeseman (Burin), made his maiden speech yesterday. When it is stated that he spoke for about an hour, it will be seen that he was at home therein. Mr. Cheeseman is a young business man who evidently knows all about fish.

Twenty-two years ago his father started the business (which is to-day one of the biggest of the West Coast), with a capital of $20.

Mr. Cheeseman is an earnest and persistent advocate of the belief that the Outports deserve more representation than they had been getting.

Referring to hard times in the city, he asked why people did not go to the outports, where there was lots of work, comfortable living and congenial healthy surroundings?

Mr. Higgins laughingly replied that it was just the other way about—outport people were always coming into St. John's.

"And they come in and buy houses outright," he said, "and put the tenants on the street."

"That is when they have made their pile in the Outports," smilingly replied the outport member.

Mr. Cheeseman made a sincere plea for the workingman. Treat the workingman squarely, said he; give him his rights; look upon him as a brother man. Then and only then will you see the workingman contented.

Two other matters he touched on—Profiteering and H. C. L. and Sectarianism. A mistake often made, he said, is that all the profiteering is on food and provisions. As a dealer in everything from a needle to an anchor, he knew that larger profits were made in clothing. "I would rather sell a pair of pants than two barrels of flour," he stated.

The cancer of Sectarianism he handled without gloves. Down on the South West Coast, he said, there was Fishermen!

Here's the Boot for You!

Excel Boots

Have Pliable Uppers. Weather Proof and Weather Resisting. Tire-Tread Soles. Hard to Wear Out. For Men and Boys.

Pliable Uppers, Weatherproof and Wear-Resisting, Tough Tire-Tread Soles. Hard to wear out.

You know from experience what happens to ordinary boots when used in fishing. You've seen how salt water seems to take the life out of the rubber and how the rubbers crack and the soles wear through in a surprisingly short time.

The "EXCEL" is a different and better kind of boot. It has been made especially to stand up under the unusually hard use a fisherman's boot gets.

The rubber and fabric in "EXCEL" boots are of the very highest quality. But it is the special method of curing, under tremendous pressure, that makes the "EXCEL" so wear-resisting. The pressure forces the layers of rubber and fabric together so that they are actually "one-piece", without losing the least bit of the life of resiliency of the rubber. Salt water has practically no effect on "EXCEL" boots. The UPPERS remain pliable and weatherproof, and resist the drying-out action of sun, heat and cold far longer than other boots, consequently they don't crack anywhere so quickly. The SOLES are almost wear-proof, because they are made like an Auto Tire, with 8 plies of rubber and fabric welded by tremendous pressure into a "tire-tread"

These are exclusive features of "EXCEL" boots.

The picture at the left, of an "EXCEL" boot, with every detail of construction visible, shows how "EXCEL" boots are reinforced at every point of strain. There is not a single feature but what has been proved necessary and desirable by tests of severest use. Your own experience will tell you that a boot with these features simply must be a better boot.

Study this picture. Learn these features. Remember them when you compare "EXCEL" boots with ordinary boots. And remember, too, that very important point, which the picture cannot show, namely, that "EXCEL" boots are cured under tremendous pressure which leaves the rubber pliable, weather-proof, and wear-resisting. It is only by the use of this tremendous pressure combined with highest quality materials that the best results are obtained.

Below are listed seven special features which make "EXCEL" boots superior. Read them carefully so that when you need boots you will know how to get the best value for your money.

FEATURE No. 1—The entire boot is cured under heavy pressure, forcing all parts together in "one-piece", and retaining the full life and resiliency of the rubber.

FEATURE No. 2—An 8-ply double sole of tough, durable rubber, made like an Auto Tire, running all the way under the full moulded heel. This sole and heel are so wear-resisting that they are commonly called the "tough on rocks" sole and heel.

FEATURE No. 3—A heavily reinforced boot which will withstand the hardest kind of wear.

FEATURE No. 4—Six plies at the instep relieves strain and prevents wrinkling or cracking.

FEATURE No. 5—Reinforced five-ply leg for extra wear. Just the right amount of strength to stand up, yet not be uncomfortable.

FEATURE No. 6—Four-ply top, very pliable.

FEATURE No. 7—Heavy duck lining, and a heavy insole prevent dampness and keep feet dry and comfortable.

Most reliable dealers sell "EXCEL" boots. Be sure to look for the name "EXCEL". Substitutes and "just as good" boots will not give you "EXCEL" service. If your dealer does not have them in stock, write us for name of nearest dealer.

Shannahan and Tucker at the House.

Some folks go on a visit to the States, or to the other side, see strange and interesting sights, return, and keep it all to themselves. The poor creatures like Shannahan and Tucker who never get, or never expect a trip of this sort, would welcome an account of the wanderings of their more fortunate fellows, but mum is the word. Perhaps 'tis well, for when they do start out to tell us anything, they usually make it so long winded that to read it would bring water to our eyes and hurt our feelings. Unlike our monied friends, Shannahan and Tucker like to tell the common people what we see and what we hear, and having visited the People's House we will tell those, who could not gain admission, what we saw, and reveal the impressions that the scene made upon us. First and foremost we would say that the architect who planned the seating capacity of the House must have thought that the House would never become popular. For if he tried to make it uninviting he certainly did his work well. The seats are as hard as flint, in the gallery. Knotty and rough, you undergo special penance which you can offer up in atonement for the sins of the past. Stern looking door keepers are on the watch, and give you the idea that you must keep as quiet as a mouse in a bale of oakum, or you will be cast out to undergo the tortures of a brisk northeaster. Tucker and myself got in by the skin of our teeth, and were soon sandwiched between a very important looking man on our left, and one of the "bone and sinew," on our right. The important man was evidently too well off to talk to us, but the "bone and sinew" fellow was worse, for he'd talk you to death. Tucker kept him going and he spoke of the olden days, when men in the Assembly dressed themselves in long black coats, standing collars, and black bows. Compared with the style of the members to-day, they were indeed dandies. But had they any more brains? The bone and sinew acquaintance of ours claimed they had, but Tucker expressed doubts on that point. The Leader of the Opposition had the floor and seemed bound to hold it. He gave a very graphic description of trawling, which was indeed a treat, but we longed for a squabble. The House is like a wake, without a wordy war. The Government members read papers, wrote letters and drew out houses and ships and other things, but seemed to have no interest in what was being said by the leader of the opposing forces. Now and again one of them would cock his ears, but realizing that there was no fear of "her going ashore," would resume his drawings with renewed vigour. Now and again one of the members would notice an important man out among the crowd, rise from his seat, approach him very important like, and invite him to a soft cushion seat inside the Bar. Oh how we envied that man. Why should this practice be in vogue? Why discriminate? Our old friend, Mr. Robt. Walsh, looked fine. Governments may come, and Governments may go, but Robert goes on, like Tennyson's brooks, for ever. The members all had glasses of water placed before them, but they remained undisturbed. Tucker says, they don't take to the water as early in the Spring as the whitecoats do. That's enough just now. We'll tell you more later on, for we are going up again.

CARPENTIER'S TEN YEAR BOXING RECORD.

The arrival of Georges Carpentier, heavyweight champion of Europe, and the prospect of a match between the Frenchman and Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, lend interest to an inspection of the record of the best heavyweight from the other side of the Atlantic ocean. Here is how an American reviewer of things fistie, discusses the fighting career of the Frenchman:

According to authentic records, Carpentier was born at Lens, France, January 12, 1892, which would fix his age at 28 years, and he should be at the apex of his physical powers.

He stands five feet eleven and a half inches, an inch and a half shorter than Dempsey, and weighs in condition, 170 pounds, nearly twelve pounds less than the world's champion.

Carpentier began boxing in 1907 when he was but 15 years of age, and a bantam in size. He won the titles of all classes from bantam up to and including heavy in France, which was not a difficult thing to do, and he made himself the middleweight champion of Europe by knocking out a mediocre English boxer named Jim Sullivan.

Carpentier became possessed of the heavyweight championship of Europe through stopping Bombardier Wells, the English title holder.

Carpentier recently solidified his hold on the European title by stopping Joe Beckett, British champion, in fifty-three seconds of the first round of a bout at the Hoborn Stadium in the presence of a notable gathering, including the Prince of Wales.

After four years in the lighter classes Carpentier, who had developed into a middleweight, set sail for the championship of that class. He met and defeated a number of French and English middleweights, and substantiated his claim to the French middleweight title.

Toward the close of 1911 the champion then being 13 years of age, met a really good middleweight in the person of Harry Lewis, of Philadelphia, and the Frenchman won on points at the end of a twenty round bout.

Series of Setbacks.

Carpentier next got into the ring with a clever, hard-hitting negro named Dixie Kid, and was stopped in five rounds.

Carpentier, however, kept on boxing, and was particularly busy in the following year, 1912, when he made himself the middleweight champion of Europe as a result of knocking out Jim Sullivan, English title holder, in the second round.

Carpentier also defeated George Gunther and Willie Lewis in twenty round bouts on points, but was twice stopped by the American middleweights Frank Klaus and Billy Papke.

Klaus, who held the American title, gave Carpentier a severe trouncing and had the Frenchman on the floor in the nineteenth round. Descamps, manager of Carpentier, who saw that his man had small chance of weathering the storm, ran into the ring and carried Carpentier to his corner. The records show that Carpentier lost the bout on the foul committed by Descamps in entering the ring during a round, but Klaus really scored a knockout.

Klaus' body punching was altogether too much for the Frenchman, who was exhausted in the nineteenth round.

Papke, the Illinois thunderbolt, also stopped Carpentier in 1912, the end coming in the seventeenth round, when Papke's terrific hitting wore the Frenchman down to a point where he was compelled to "resign," as boxers say in England.

In explanation of his defeats at the hands of Klaus and Papke, friends of Carpentier have claimed that he was merely a boy at the time, undeveloped and therefore unable to cope with seasoned veterans like Papke and Klaus.

Without question Klaus and Papke were veterans and well seasoned, but Carpentier was well enough developed physically and pugilistically to vanquish all the best European middleweights, and the handlers of the Frenchman matched him with the Americans without a minute's hesitation.

As indicating his rapid development Carpentier jumped into the heavyweight division in 1913, won the championship of his own country, and then made himself the heavyweight champion of Europe by knocking out Bombardier Wells in the fourth round of a bout at Ghent, Belgium. This was on June 1, 1913, and on December 8 of the same year the Frenchman again stopped Wells, this time in the first round.

Among others defeated by Carpentier in 1913 were Bandaman Rice, in eight rounds; George Gunther, in fourteen; Albert Lurie, in three, and Jeff Smith, in twenty on points.

Had Shade on Jeannette.

Carpentier started his campaign of 1914 by knocking out Pat O'Keefe, middleweight champion of England, in three rounds, and the Frenchman's next bout was with Joe Jeannette, and caused more discussion in Europe than any other contest of that time. The bout took place in Paris, was limited to fifteen rounds and the decision went to Jeannette on points.

Many good judges, including A. F. Bettison of the National Sporting Club of London, declared that Carpentier had earned the verdict on points.

This was regarded as the most notable achievement of the Frenchman, as Jeannette in 1914 was a formidable boxer.

Carpentier followed this engagement by stopping Hubert Roe, a French heavyweight, and then followed a contest on the outcome of which is based the general conception of Carpentier's status in the heavyweight division.

Gunboat Smith, once a contender for the American title, was the opponent of the Frenchman, and the meeting was in the National Sporting Club, London, July 16, 1914, with Eugene Corri as the referee. The contest came to an end in the fifth round with a decision of four against Smith, who was declared to have struck Carpentier while the latter was on one knee.

According to the details of the contest, Carpentier looked like a certain winner in the first round, as he brought Smith down for a count of nine with a right-hander to the jaw much after the fashion in which Beckett was felled.

But the gunner refused to stay down, got on his feet before ten had been counted, and grew stronger with each succeeding round. The fifth round was barely under way when the Gunner reached back of his heel with his right, plainly telegraphed his intentions, and then made a rainbow swing for Carpentier's jaw. The blow landed back of the Frenchman's left ear and brought him down in a heap. It was with difficulty Carpentier got on one

Address Delivered at the Annual Meeting of the Nfld. Poultry Association.

(By MR. WALTER REEDS)

"Fishelton" is known as the largest specially White Plymouth Rock farm in the world. I have already said that the farm contains 120 acres, a third part of which is taken up by the poultry yards proper, all of which are surrounded by a five feet wire fencing. Twenty acres are used for breeding yards, they are square in shape and each yard contains eleven hens and one male bird. These yards are quite spacious and allow the birds free range, which is essential to success. The cross fences are five feet high, with a two foot wire netting on the opposite side of the posts, about six inches from the ground to prevent the made birds from fighting. Placed all over and around these forty acres are Apple, Peach, Cherry, Plum and Pear trees, and these not only provide plenty of rich and wholesome food for the birds, but also keep them shaded from the sun.

The incubator cellar is 58 x 18, in which there is one ten-thousand Mammoth incubator and twenty smaller machines. The brooder house is connected with the incubator cellar and is 140 feet long by 16 feet wide. At the east end of the building there is a furnace room, with a wash room above in which all preparations for the show room are made. The remaining floor space is divided as follows:—eight feet of wooden floor on which are set the brooders or hovers, and the remaining five feet is soil, in which green food can be grown for the chicks.

The Shipping House is 16 x 100 feet, a portion of which is double storied, the upper floor being used as an additional conditioning room for the preparation of birds for Exhibition. The lower floor has one large room for cooping and seven rooms with a capacity of about 450 birds. The north wall for the entire length of this building is equipped with exhibition coops in which are placed male birds that are about to be shipped. It has a capacity for about a thousand birds.

While Mr. Fishel has never shipped this number in one day, he has often shipped from three to four hundred. There is another conditioning house measuring 16 x 48 with an "L" 16 x 20. This house has eight pens and single coops that accommodate about one hundred birds. Besides these there are 20 breeding yard houses; 15 scratching sheds; 2 Tollman plan houses; 120 Colony houses made out of piano cases and scattered all over the farm. The coop, storage and private stables are of two stories and measure 40 x 50 feet, and the feed storage and stock barn is 60 x 90 feet with a 16 x 32 feet silo attached. I must not forget to mention the Duck building, prettily perched on a small hill and measuring 100 x 24 feet. There are many other buildings too tedious to mention. Such was Mr. Fishel's farm, and you can imagine what pleasure I derived from all that could be seen there. A couple of weeks went by very quickly, but I felt that possibly my staying there might in some measure inconvenience my kind host and hostess, so I told them I would take my departure. I may say that before leaving St. John's it was my intention to see the Indianapolis Exhibition first, and then call on Mr. Fishel at his home in Hope, Indiana. They would not hear of my leaving "Fishelton," and pressed me to remain over until the Exhibition was held, they could not think of me coming so far without seeing the Exhibition, and accordingly I remained with them for a much longer period than I had intended to do.

You can imagine that a busy man like Mr. Fishel, could not have the time to show all his visitors around his farm, as they were very numerous, and in doing so would be a great tax on his time. In fact he had made it a rule not to do so, but in my case he was kind enough to make an exception, an act of kindness which I appreciated very deeply. During my stay in Hope I received much kindness from friends of his whom I met there.

Hope is a small town, with a population of about 2,000, and is situated on the C. H. & G. Branch of the Big Four New York Central R. R., and about forty miles south of the big city of Indianapolis. It is a very beautiful town, and I was much impressed by the magnificent ornamental trees that shaded the streets. Small as the town is, it is very rich in agricultural possibilities, and in my opinion it is sure to have a splendid future. Like all towns of its size in the States, it has good hotel accommodation, paved streets and electric light. It was through the efforts of the Fishel Brothers in Poultry Industry that this thriving town was put on the map.

Finally my pleasant stay at "Fishelton" came to an end, and we went to Indianapolis to attend the big Poultry Exhibition of the Fan-ciars' Association of Indiana. It opened on February 3rd and continued until the 7th, being attended by very large crowds of people, as it ranks as one of the big shows of the Middle West. Before I speak about the Exhibition I would like to say a few words about the city itself, as it is well worth visiting, because of its importance and natural beauty. The city has a population of over 300,000 people, and it is surprising what little poverty there is in that large number. In fact it has been stated that more workmen own their homes than in any other city in the world. It has eleven Public Parks, covering 1,700 acres, and its streets are shaded by beautiful trees. The street railway system comprises over 175 miles of electric lines. Indianapolis is a great centre for the products of the farm, and at the great central market the people can obtain the choicest vegetables and fruits at minimum cost. So splendid is the railway system that the residents of 86 counties may reach Indianapolis, transact their business and return to their homes, the same day. It also provides splendid facilities for the handling of freight to and from the warehouses and the factories. In the city are ten theatres and seventy-two moving picture shows. There are quite a number of modern hotels and restaurants, and the visitor may be sure to obtain the best of treatment in this beautiful inland city. With this brief glance at the city, let us return to the Exhibition.

Tomlinson Hall, in which it was held, was beautifully decorated for the occasion, and the whole scene was a delight to the onlooker. There were 2,000 single poultry entries, 150 breeding pens, 16 display pens, 700 pigeons and 300 dogs. The district around the city is the home of some of the most famous of poultry breeders and judges, and it was only natural that the birds exhibited were of very superior quality. Mr. Fishel was President of the Association, Mr. C. L. Ruschmann, Vice President, Mr. Frank L. Johnston, Treasurer, and Mr. C. R. Milhous, Secretary. Associated with these gentlemen were others who were experts in their business, and the result of their efforts was a most successful Exhibition, one of the very best ever held by the Association.

The centre of attraction was a display pen of White Plymouth Rocks, the property of my friend, Mr. U. R. Fishel. They were in every way a magnificent display. The Cockerel was a rare bird in shape and as white as the driven snow, and the four pullets were of excellent high standard. These birds were worthy of their owner, and drew from the visitors to the Exhibition many exclamations of delight. Visitors have no trouble whatever in finding the exhibits in which they are particularly interested, for a number of pages were on hand, whose duty it was to guide visitors and to explain the exhibits. Two display pens particularly interested me, one being that of Mr. Percy Cook, the well known English breeder of White Orpingtons, and the other that of Mr. C. E. Spangh, of Barred Plymouth Rock fame. These and the other displays were all carefully examined by me, and I was quite at home with the people whom I met there, for I found them very kind and very interested in poultry. There were big sales of poultry made at the Exhibition. I know that Mr. Fishel sold over $3,000.00 worth of birds and eggs, and Mr. Percy Cook also made good sales, as did Mr. A. B. Carter, who dealt in Buff Orpingtons. It was very interesting to watch the birds being prepared by the different exhibitors just previous to the judging. Competition in all classes were very keen, and no efforts were spared to put the birds before the judges in the best possible condition. The judging is done privately, the Secretary being the only person besides the judges being allowed inside the ropes. Mr. Percy Cook paid me, however, the nice compliment of asking me to witness the judging of the Orpington class, which was assigned to him.

The entry fees are as follows:—Single birds, $1.00 each; Breeding Pens, one male and four females, $3.00 per pen; Turkeys and Geese, 75c. each, the exhibitors in this class to furnish their own coops. The cash prizes for birds were: 1st, $3.00; 2nd, $2.00; 3rd, $1.00, and for Breeding Pens, 1st $4.00; 2nd, $3.00; 3rd, $2.00. If only two entries in a class, the first prize was $2.00 and the second $1.00.

There is one incident in connection with the Exhibition that I can remember very well and, while it had little to do with poultry, it shows how vigilant Mr. Fishel was and how determined to protect the visitors to the Exhibition. On the second day of the show it came to his notice that there was among the visitors a man who was notorious as a "crook." Mr. Fishel immediately took the steps to have this individual at once removed from the Exhibition.

There is one other gentleman whose name I should like to mention in connection with my visit to Indianapolis, and that is Mr. A. B. Carter, who is a close friend of Mr. Fishel's. His speciality is the Buff Orpingtons, and of these he has a splendid collection at his home at "Carmel," which I had the pleasure of visiting as his guest. He was one of the live wires at the Exhibition and I am very grateful to him for much attention and kindness that he extended to me. I enjoyed my stay at Indianapolis very much, and I learnt very much that was of subsequent value to me in the breeding of White Plymouth Rocks.

Finally I had to make preparations for my return home and Mr. Fishel came up to the station with me. I remember that he gave the porter strict instructions to bring me to the observation car in ample time to see the famous "Horse Shoe Bend," these instructions were carried out, and some time before we came to it I was seated in the observation car and subsequently had a seat and could see it well. Others who were less fortunate could not obtain so good a view. In this car I became acquainted with Mr. S. A. Murdock, of Shampaign, Ill., who was most interested in this Colony. After remaining over a few days at New York I came to Boston, thence by rail to North Sydney where I was held up for two weeks because of weather conditions which prevented the s.s. Bruce from calling there. I put up at the Belmont Hotel and met quite a number of Newfoundlanders who were as anxious as myself to return home. I cannot speak of my stay at North Sydney without mentioning the kindness that we all received from Mr. A. W. Shano, who is so well known to all who travel that way for his generosity. When we crossed the Gulf to Port aux Basques, it took us a week to come to St. John's, being held up through heavy snow drifts, and arrived on March 15th after a most pleasant and instructive trip.

After my return from Indianapolis I decided that I would send some birds to the Exhibition to be held there in 1914. When I mentioned my intention to some friends, there were among them those who gave me encouragement, while others looked upon it as a waste of time and effort. I had seen the Exhibition, and as my stock was from the strain of Mr. Fishel's winners, I was confident that I could meet with success. I should be insincere if I did not admit that the result of my doing so caused me great pride, not only because of the honor it brought me, but also because I felt that it brought some credit to this Association, of which I have always been proud to be a member. Gentlemen, this paper has been longer than I expected it to be, and I am very much obliged for the very patient hearing you have given it. I can only hope that it may induce some of my hearers to visit Hope and Indianapolis and to meet such splendid bird fanciers as Mr. Fishel and other gentlemen whom I have named. I feel sure that you will derive a great measure of instruction and pleasure from such a trip, and you will be able to endorse all I have said; it will no doubt increase your interest in poultry and urge you to greater efforts in breeding White Plymouth Rocks from the strain of Mr. U. R. Fishel's. I am a firm believer in the future of poultry raising in this Colony, and in the economic and other advantages that will result to the Island therefrom.

Mrs. J. Ogden Armour and Mrs. Jean Prescott Adams entertained representatives of 13 Chicago clubs to consider the high price of meats. They heard their husbands blamed, and have summoned their husbands to refute the charges or stand command. The ladies acted in unanimity on all phases of the meat question.

House of Assembly.

(Yesterday.)
The House met at 3.15 p.m.
Petitions were presented by Messrs. Small, Scammel, and MacDonnell asking for various matters, and by Hon. W. W. Halyard from the electors of Trinity Bay from Heart's Content down the shore, asking that the Branch Line of Railway be extended from Heart's Content to Old Perlican. Messrs. Targert and Guppy supported the petition.

QUESTIONS.
Mr. MacDonnell was asked to strike out the word "Scavenger" which appeared in his question in the order paper in connection with the service of one J. T. Meaney, whom he alleged ravaged the Public Works Department looking for scandal. Mr. MacDonnell rather than strike out the word asked leave to withdraw the question, as he could not call the work performed by J. T. Meaney in the Public Works Department by any other name than that applied to it by him.

MR. SULLIVAN—I give notice that I will on to-morrow ask the Hon. Colonial Secretary who in the absence of a Minister of Militia is responsible for the Militia Department.
(1) To inform this House how or in what manner confidential documents in the custody of the Militia relating to returned soldiers No. 2553 Michael Doran, No. 8235 Martin Tracey and Private Milley came into the possession of the St. John's Daily Star and was published in that paper on March 12, 1920.

(2) And to inform this House if any enquiry has been or will be held into this regrettable breach of confidence on the part of some person in the Department of Militia.

(3) And to ask him also if he is aware that the only legitimate use an officer or a soldier may make of documents or information of which he becomes possessed in his official capacity is for the furtherance of the public service in the performance of his duty. Publishing official documents or information or using them for personal controversy, or for any private purpose without due authority, should be treated as a breach of the Official Secrets Act, 1911.

(4) And to ask him as head of the Militia Department, if he is aware that the company conduct sheet of a soldier is to be destroyed on his discharge.

Several questions asked by Messrs. Sullivan and Jones were answered or deferred until answers had been prepared.

Mr. Moore asked the Minister of Finance and Customs to furnish the House with a list of officials dismissed from his department in the Outports and St. John's since the present government came into power, with name of each and a statement of charge against each.

The address in reply was then taken up.

HON. MR. COAKER continued his address in defence of the fish regulations and quoted some interesting figures to prove his case. He claimed Earle did not make $44,000 on the cargo of fish sold that there was so much talk about, as the most he could make on a cargo of shore fish bought at $12.00 per qtl. in Fogo and sold in Italy at $17.50 per qtl. was ten cents per qtl., as it cost $5.70 per qtl. for the fish to reach Italy. If it were Labrador fish he sold, then the best profit he could make on the cargo was Eighteen Thousand Dollars.

Mr. Coaker claimed that 200,000 qtls. of fish had been sold in Spain since the regulations came in force. Some other figures quoted to show the comparison of fish shipped in 1918 with that shipped in 1919 were as follows:

Country	1918	1919
Spain	268,000	346,000
Portugal	407,000	470,000
Italy	210,000	200,000
Greece	86,000	90,000
Brazil	280,000	200,000

Total exports to all other countries between the months of July and April 1918-19—1,426,000 qtls. Same period 1919-20—1,444,000 qtls. To Halifax this year was exported 80,000 qtls. Stocks held in Spain now about 70-

000 qtls. In Portugal, ashore and afloat 80,000 qtls. There is no Spanish fish in Newfoundland to-day, and Brazil fish 40,000 qtls. against 110,000 qtls. last year. Portuguese fish in country 40,000 qtls. and Italian less than 100,000 qtls. The Brazil stock now in St. John's was mostly sold. The total catch for 1919 was about 80,000 qtls. less than 1918. He contended that fish sold in Portugal since his last visit for $1a. Conditions in Portugal were now improving and in Brazil prices had advanced from 96c. to 110c. so there was no need for alarm or cold feet. He also stated that the Advisory Board had decided to accept the unanimous resolution of the Board of Trade and consult and seek advice from the fish exporters both in St. John's and the outports. The resolution of the Board he stated would be the key to his actions and that of the Advisory Board in future regulations. He explained that he would introduce a bill to standardize the cull of fish and a commission of eleven experienced men would be appointed to make rules and regulations. The man who bought No. 2 fish for No. 1 would do so at his own risk as he would not be allowed to export it for No. 1 when it was in reality No. 2. The difference in price between No. 1 and No. 2 would be made such that a man making bad fish one year would never want to do so again. A strict inspection will be enforced before any fish is shipped. The man who is to blame for our bad fish is the man who buys because fishermen will not make good fish if they can get just as much for bad as they could for good. The blame of the present system is talqual fish and the new bill would do away with this curse entirely. He appealed to Sir Michael Cashin and Sir John Crosbie to help him in these matters and had no doubt but what they would do the right thing by him in this regard.

Mr. John Cheeseman (Burin) speaking as a practical fisherman, and as a dealer in fish, explained his view of the Fish Regulations. He believed that, although not up to what might have been expected of them, they had done considerable good for the fish trade and the country in general. He was no politician where fish was concerned. Mr. Coaker, Sir Michael Cashin, and Sir John Crosbie were the right men in the right place when it came to discussing this subject.

Mr. R. Hibbs (Fogo) spoke until 6.30, when he moved the adjournment of the House. Mr. Hibbs met with considerable interruption, as his speech took on a militant tone.

The House adjourned until 3 p.m. to-day.

REPLIES TO QUESTIONS.

The following answers to questions by Major Sullivan were tabled yesterday:

(1) No steps have been taken with regard to the cancellation of Timber licenses.

(2) The matter is under consideration of the Government. No decision has yet been made.

(3) The Dominion Iron and Steel Co.'s tax has been paid.

(4) The Nova Scotia Steel Co. have not paid their tax up to the present. They are asking for arbitrators to be appointed by the Government to take this matter up.

CORRESPONDENCE ON RAILWAY TRANSPORTATION.

Reid-Nfld. Company, March 27th, 1920.

Dear Mr. Premier:
My attention has been directed to various discussions before the St. John's Board of Trade and to the proceedings of the Fishermen's Protective Union relative to the matter of improved railway transportation in the Dominion.

During my absence the past few months I have been actively engaged in connection with matters connected with the development of Newfoundland, which I am confident will produce early and beneficial results. The necessity of bringing the standard of the railway up to date, which under our contracts still remains as at the time of construction, is of the greatest importance, and I shall be glad to meet with you or a committee of your Government at any time to fully discuss and consider this question.

I am, Sir,
Your obedient servant,
(Sgd.) H. D. REID,
Pres. Reid-Nfld. Co.
Hon. R. A. Squires,
Premier, City.

30th March, 1920.

Sir—The Prime Minister directs me to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 27th instant, and to say that the same will be brought before the next meeting of the Executive Council.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your obedient servant,
(Sgd.) ARTHUR MEWS,
Dep. Col. Secretary.
H. D. Reid, Esq.,
President, Reid-Nfld. Co.

Department of the Colonial Secretary, April 27th, 1920.

Gypsey Smith, the evangelist, said on his recent voyage from Liverpool: "There are some men who can make a success even of failure. Thus, there was a certain peer once who rose to make his maiden speech—a speech granting to all accused persons the right of counsel—and when he put his hand in his pocket for his notes they weren't there. The peer gulped. He looked about him wildly. Gulped again. Then he said: "If I, my lords, who now rise, only to give an opinion on this bill—if I am so confounded that I am unable to express what I had in mind, what must be the condition of that man, who, without any assistance, has got to plead for his life?" Then the peer sat down to the cheers of a converted chamber, and his bill passed almost unanimously."

The Royal Irish Constabulary.

The Pattern of Newfoundland's Police Force.

The Royal Irish Constabulary is recruited, in the main, from the sons of small farmers and the peasant proprietors. A fairly high standard of education is expected. All candidates must be of fine physique, and of exceptional moral character. Moreover, their family history must be without blemish.

The great care taken by the Royal Irish Constabulary authorities in selecting recruits is amply rewarded by the results obtained. Only men of the highest mental and moral calibre are fitted for a policeman's life in Ireland.

When a man is selected as a recruit, he is given six months' intensive training at the R.I.C. Depot, Phoenix Park, Dublin. Here he is instructed in all the duties of a policeman. This course is not haphazard. All the instructors are experts, and it is their aim to turn out a body of professional policemen.

Particular attention is paid to physical culture. The recruit spends a considerable proportion of his time in the gymnasium, where he quickly loses his country "stouch." It is amazing how soon the young men learn to carry themselves like Guardsmen. All recruits are taught swimming, life-saving, ambulance work, and a host of other accomplishments useful to the guardians of law and order.

As the Royal Irish Constabulary is a semi-military body, the recruits go through a course of instruction in infantry drill. The Constabulary instructors are generally ex-N.C.O.'s who have served in the Irish Guards. Thus the budding constable becomes a highly-trained soldier as well as a policeman. Moreover, no constable is sent to a district until he is proficient in musketry.

The Irish policeman is armed with rifle, bayonet, and revolver. Lately, too, his training includes a course of instruction in the art of using hand grenades to protect him against cowardly attacks of masked men.

It is a most inspiring sight to see a body of the R.I.C. equipped in full marching-order. All their movements are executed with a really military precision.

A few months ago the writer saw a hundred of them marching through the streets of Dublin. They looked magnificent in their dark-green uniforms. Their patent-leather boots and bandoliers flashed in the sun. They all carried rifles. The old chevrons of the sergeants lent a touch of color to the ranks. They were led by an officer whose uniform was somewhat like the full-dress uniform of a Rifle Brigade officer.

The Royal Irish Constabulary has splendid war record. Early in 1915, Colonel Sir Neville Chamberlain, who was at that time Inspector-General of the Force, called for 200 volunteers from among the young single constables. To his amazement 2,000 men applied for permission to join the Irish Guards. Thus practically every eligible man offered his services. The war record of the men who enlisted was glorious. Many made the great sacrifice. But the remainder won fame and honor for the force. A large number were promoted to commissioned rank.

Now that the war is over recruits are being accepted from well-educated men who have served in his Majesty's Forces. These men will, no doubt, make excellent policemen. Moreover their course of instruction at the depot will not be quite so long as the average civilian recruits.

The officers in the R.I.C. are recruited from the professional class in Ireland. In pre-war days many Army officers entered the Constabulary District Inspectors, ranking as captains in the Army.

A certain number of vacancies in the commissioned ranks are filled from the promotion of deserving "rank-and-file" men.

From the time of its formation in 1869, the Royal Irish Constabulary had an eventful history. In 1867, during the progress of the Fenian movement, it saw plenty of fighting, and many police barracks were attacked. For its loyal services during a troublesome period, Queen Victoria was pleased to make the Irish Constabulary the "Royal Irish Constabulary."—Answers.

Count Grey, who was almost absent when he went to Washington as England's special ambassador to the United States, was treated for eye troubles through his teeth. Washington dentists discovered he had abscessed molars. They were cured and now his sight is rapidly returning to him.

The first queen of queens for Mlle. Lucille Batallie, a striking beauty, who won over eight competitors. The judges were senators, deputies, city councillors and newspapermen. The queen attributed victory to her name, Batallie (Battle).

PAIGE
The Most Beautiful Car in America

A New Development in Light Sixes

Before we began experimental work on our new six-cylinder motor three years ago, we made a very thorough investigation of the light six field.

We found out just what qualities car owners desired in the power plants of their motor cars and then we designed an engine to meet these requirements.

The wisdom of our method is attested by the unanimous approval given our five-passenger "Glenbrook" model. With its first appearance, it immediately won the enthusiastic support of motorists.

And, by its dependable and economical performance, it has so clearly demonstrated its high character as an investment value that our production schedule is already proving unequal to the demand.

The "Glenbrook" is a truly remarkable development in five-passenger cars. Won't you arrange for a demonstration while our dealer is in position to meet your requirements as to delivery?

RE-BUILT Piano Case Organs.

(Six Octaves.)
BY FAMOUS MAKERS.

We have in stock a number of Rebuilt Organs, piano case, six octave, by Bell, Doherty, Thomas, etc., which we are offering at the same price practically as five octave parlour organs. Every instrument guaranteed.

Owing to its limited scale the five octave organ is only suitable for sacred music. The advantage of the six octave instrument is apparent since its larger scale will accommodate any piano selection, while the finish, style and tone of these instruments should appeal to everyone.

Rebuilt Piano Case Organs $150 to $175
Rebuilt High Top, 5 Octaves $100
