PTE. NICHOL MCLACHLAN

A Brooke Boy Killed In Action

Still another young man from this district is added to the list of the heroes who have made the supreme sacrifice in the great world war now raging. On Saturday, July 21st, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McLachlan of the 12th line, Brooke, received official notice from the casualty department that their youngest son, Nichol, had been killed in action on July 6th.

Pte. Nichol McLachlan was born on the 12th line homestead 23 years ago. After leaving school he went sailing on the D. & C. line of boats, his father being a pilot with that line. Afterwards he followed threshing for a time. He enlisted in the 135th Battalion on Nov. 19th, 1915, and after going overseas was transferred to the machine gun section of the Fourth Battalion. He was wounded at Vimy Ridge in April last and sent to No. 3 military hospital at Boulogne. After recovery he returned to the firing line but was only there a short time before the end came. Pte. McLachlan had many friends, who while mourning his loss and sympathizing with his aged parents and family, have the satisfaction of knowing that he did his duty and laid down his life for home and country.

SEVERAL cases of violation of the Canada Temperance Act were brought before J. P. Brown and Falloon by Inspector McCallum last week. Stanley Maw was fined, Les, Geo. and Andrew McKay pleaded guilty, judgment being deferred, and the case against Ernest McKay was adjourned.

As most of the members of the O. P. club are away from home for the holidays and consequently will not make another collection, waste paper for some time, they urgently request all householders and business firms to save and store for them all old newspapers and other waste till a call can be made.

JUST as an instance of the extent of the business done by the Watford Wire Works we might mention that on Wednesday morning's mail they received orders from Winnipeg for one thousand and fifty gross of horse nose guards, one of the scores of articles manufactured by the firm.

THAT a general election will be held this fall seems certain. Whether the appeal will be made by Sir Robert Borden with a union Government and a new party, or with a reorganized Conservative Cabinet and a revitalized party, remains to be seen.

The funeral of the late James Styles was held from his late residence, Warwick St. on Saturday afternoon, the Revs. Tiffin and Sawers taking the service. The remains were interred in Mount Carmel Cemetery. The pallbearers were H. Lett, J. S. Williams, W. Styles, W. Kelly, R. Carrol and J. Carrol.

A BUSY afternoon was spent July 17 at Mrs. Newell's sewing and knitting for the Red Cross. A nice lot of work finished. The parcel sent to Hyman Hall, London, contained 4 suits pyjamas valued at $8.00 to Mrs. McPhedran, Toronto, 12 pairs socks including two pair knit by Mrs. Acton who is now in her 85th year. The contribution amounted to $7.00.

RELATIVES and friends writing to or sending parcels to soldiers are asked to spell out and not abbreviate either Battalion or Battery. Do not write "Batt." This will go hard with some people who write "Sat." for Saturday, "Meth." for Methodist, "Pres." for Presbyterian, etc.

It makes for correctness and is good form to write out in full all words. Avoid abbreviations in writing for the press or in addressing letters.

LAST SUMMER we published a list of unclaimed balances belonging to depositors in the Watford branch of the Merchants Bank. These balances totalled $1,149.49, divided among eleven depositors, and the amount would have reverted to the government had not the depositors read the item in the Guide-Advocate and put in a claim for the amount due them, which was paid. Thus eleven men received an average of one hundred dollars through the publication of the item. And yet, you will occasionally come across a beighted person who will claim that a local paper is dear at $1.50.

A LITTLE more civic pride would be a good thing for Watford. Our Main street has been in a deplorable condition this summer until the recent hot spell. Little has been done in the way of repairs for some years and the frequent rains this summer made the street a collection of mud holes. Oil is bright when the road is in good shape to apply it, but this year it did not seem to work well. A substantial pavement put down on a twenty or thirty year debenture payment would not cost any more than is now paid yearly for the since the price of this commodity has advanced to an almost prohibitory figure. Would it not be well for the property owners on Main street to get together and consider the matter?

CIRCULARS have been received by the local banks regarding the people's savings, and what action the Government would take in respect thereto. Many inquiries have been made by citizens regarding the safety of their deposits, owing to the debates in Parliament and by other public bodies regarding the conservation of wealth. The circular states that there need be no apprehension on the part of the public that any action of a detrimental character with respect to the savings of the public will be taken by the government. On the contrary, it will be the policy of the Government in the future, as in the past, to encourage the exercise of thrift and economy resulting in national savings, which have enabled Canada to maintain her credit and improve her economic position during the war.

THE news of the death of Miss Isabella Nesbitt on Friday morning, July 20th, came as a surprise to the community. Although it was known that she was under a doctor's care, having been taken ill several weeks ago while visiting in Warwick, her death was quite unexpected. Miss Nesbitt was a lady highly esteemed by all who knew her. She has resided in Watford for many years, making her home with her son, Mr. Thos. Brent. She followed the profession of an artist and showed considerable ability, her services being in much demand locally. For some years she had not been in very robust health, but was always cheerful and energetic, and had many warm friends. The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon to Bethel Cemetery, Rev. R. M. Stephenson conducting the service. Besides Mrs. T. Brent of Watford she leaves another sister, Mrs. George Brent of Warwick.

MRS. DUNCAN DUNLOP

Passing of a Pioneer

On Friday, July 20th, there passed away to a better land Mrs. Duncan Dunlop (nee Eliza Smith) at the advanced age of 97 years less one month. Deceased was born in Kent county, England, in 1822 and at the age of 12 years came to Canada with her parents, three brothers and three sisters. The family settled on 18 sideroad, Warwick, that part of the country being then a dense bush. At the age of 20 she married Duncan Dunlop, of Warwick, who predeceased her thirteen years ago. Together they passed through all the trials and hardships incident to a pioneer life. There were thirteen children born to them and all but one survive her. Since her husband's death she has made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Jonas Zavitz, of Brooke.

Kindly natured and of a bright disposition, Mrs. Dunlop made firm friends of all with whom she made acquaintance. She was a woman of saintly memory. Her large-heartedness was always in evidence, and friends in trouble found practical help and ready sympathy at her hands. Early in her youth she united with the Congregational church, and although deprived of fellowship with the church of her choice she maintained until the very last day of her long life a deep love for her Bible and her Saviour. The interest she acquired in youth in all things pertaining to the church and the cause of God, also the welfare of her friends, remained with her until the day of her death. The Rev. D. Brittain, while pastor of the Alvinston and Brooke churches, visited her often, and there grew up a friendship which made her feel that when the end came she would prefer him to perform the last rites. So, in accordance with her desire, Mr. Brittain, now of Caledonia, came at the request of the friends, and on Sunday, assisted by the Rev. J. Pollock, of Alvinston, the service was held at the home of her daughter. A large concourse of friends gathered to pay their last respects to a grand and noble life. Mr. Brittain took for his text II. Cor. 5:1. The remains were taken to Arkona and there left to rest until the resurrection, when the trumpet shall sound and loved ones shall again be united. The pall bearers were Jonas Zavitz, Shedrick Gale, sons-in-law, and four sons, Charles, James, John and Malcolm Dunlop.

Of the thirteen children born to Mr. and Mrs. Dunlop only one, William, of Warwick is dead. The surviving members of the family are Mrs. Eliza Beards, Bailey, Mich.; Mrs. Jonas Zavitz, Brooke; Mrs. Andrew Cutler, Gardena, Sask.; Mrs. N. Boyd, Forest; Mrs. Jas. Spearman, Bosanquet; Mrs. Rufus Russell, Arkona; Mrs. S. T. S. Gale, London; A. S. Dundy, Chatham; Malcolm, Windsor; Charles, Forest; James, Forest, and John, Kinglake, Ont. Deceased is also survived by 60 grandchildren, ninety-five great-grandchildren and 13 great-great-grandchildren, also by one sister, Mrs. William Maxfield, of McLeod, Alberta.

The Old Man

Backward, turn backward,
O time, in thy flight,
Make me a boy again,
So I can fight.
Make me a boy again
Just Twenty-One,
So I can shoulder
A knapsack and gun,
Give me the muscles
I had years ago,
Give me the step that's
Not wobbly and slow,
Give me the strength that
I may play my part
All that I have now for
War is my heart,
Give me the vim and
That vigor of youth,
I'll fight until doomsday, and
That is the truth.
Turn back the decades and
Give me a chance
To sail with the legions for Far-away France,
What a chastisement it is to be told:
"Back to the fireside,
You're no good—too old."
Time, you're a criminal,
That's plain to see,
You've made a confounded
Old slacker of me.

HUSBAND SAVED HIS WIFE

Stopped Most Terrible Suffering by Getting Her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Denison, Texas. — "After my little girl was born two years ago I began suffering with female trouble and could hardly do my work. I was very nervous but just kept dragging on until last summer when I got where I could not do my work. I would have a chill every day and hot flashes and dizzy spells and my head would almost burst. I got where I was almost a walking skeleton and life was a burden to me until one day my husband's step-sister told my husband if he did not do something for me I would not last long and told him to get your medicine. So he got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for me, and after taking the first three doses I began to improve. I continued its use, and I have never had any female trouble since. I feel that I owe my life to you and your remedies. They did for me what doctors could not do and I will always praise it wherever I go."—Mrs. G. O. LOWERY, 419 W. Monterey Street, Denison, Texas.

If you are suffering from any form of female ills, get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and commence the treatment without delay.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Nicholas, Constantine and the young ex-ruler of China will agree that this is a poor year for emperors.

Only two members of Ontario opposed conscription and these two, Murphy and Proulx, represent French-Canadian ridings—Russell and Prescott.

London Daily Telegraph: The Allies are fighting not merely for today, but for to-morrow, and if that be not safeguarded all the sacrifices of blood and treasure of the many past months will have been in vain.

An old prophecy of a Japanese dating back to 1793 is recalled. It reads: "When men fly like birds, ten kings will go to war against one another and the universe will be under arms."

A porter in an Atchison barber-shop predicts confidently that the war will not last longer than six weeks. He says his brother has enlisted, and he never held a job longer than six weeks in his whole life.

Hon. Mr. Pugsley's suggestion that if a man wants to be exempted from military service to work in a munition factory, he accept the same pay as if on military service, is a good one, and will result in a greater degree of fair play for the soldier.

"The Liberty Loan has been a potent influence in the education of the masses, both in city and country. It has brought the Government closer to the individual, and has taught him to regard himself as a part proprietor in our great governmental plant. Hitherto he has paid his Federal taxes, most of them indirectly, without realizing that fact. Now he has lent money to the Government, and every six months, when he cuts his coupons and cashes them in, he will feel the thrill of that proprietorship."

I am a slice of Bread. I measure three inches by two and a half, and my thickness is half an inch. My weight is exactly an ounce. I am wanted once a day by 48,000,000 people of Britain. I am "the bit left over," the slice eaten absent-mindedly really I wasn't needed; I am the crust. If you collected me and my companions for a whole week you would find that we amounted to 9,380 tons of good bread—wasted. Almost as much—striking an average—as twenty German submarines could sink—even if they had good luck. When you throw me away or waste me you are adding twenty submarines to the German navy.—London Dispatch.

Protection of Potato Tops from Insects

It is very important to prevent the tops of potatoes from being eaten by insects, particularly by the Colorado Potato Beetle. The old "bugs" do not do much harm to the foliage, as a rule, and usually the plants are not sprayed to destroy these, although the fewer there are to lay eggs the less difficulty there will be in destroying the young ones. These begin to eat rapidly soon after hatching, and close watch should be kept so that the vines may be sprayed before much harm is done. Paris green kills more rapidly than arsenate of lead but does not adhere so well, and in rainy weather it is desirable to have something that will stay on the leaves so that they will be protected until it stops raining and thus prevent the tops being eaten. At the Central Experimental Farm a mixture of Paris green and arsenate of lead is used in the proportion of 8 ounces Paris green, 1 1/2 pounds paste arsenate of lead (or 12 ounces dry arsenate of lead) to 40 gallons of water in order to get the advantage of both poisons. It may be that it is not convenient to get both poisons when either 12 ounces of Paris green or 3 pounds paste arsenate of lead (or 1 1/2 pounds dry arsenate of lead) to 40 gallons water could be used, or in smaller quantities, say 1 ounce Paris green to 3 gallons or 3 1/2 ounces paste arsenate of lead or half that quantity of dry to 3 gallons of water. An experiment conducted for six years at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, showed that on the average where the tops were sprayed to kill "bugs" the yield was 186.9 bushels per acre, while when the tops were not sprayed and allowed to be eaten the yield was only 98.2 bushels per acre. It is desirable not to stop with one spraying which usually does not kill all the bugs but to spray several times if necessary so that as little foliage as possible is eaten.

Battle Song of The U. S. Farmerette

(Tune-Tipperary)
Nellie was a pedagogue
And Sue a social light,
But when the Germans sank our boats
They both set out to fight.
Grabbing up a rake and hoe
They joined the food armee;
Now they're out at Farmingdale,
A-fighting for the free.

Chorus
It's a hard job to plant potatoes,
It's a darn sight worse to hoe,
It's a hard job to weed tomatoes,
When the pesky things do grow.
Farewell to all the bright lights,
Good-bye old Broadway.
We are all out here to serve our country,
And you bet we'll stay.
The sun beats down upon their heads,
Their hands were rough and sore,
No wonder that Bill Sherman said,
That Hell was same as war.
But they kept right on aworking
Until the day was done,
And they'll keep on farming
Until the war is won.

QUICK WORK ON SHIPS.

Twenty-one Months Required to Build Battleship in England.

There is no exaggeration in the statement sometimes made that this war has given England's industries, all of them put together, a new speed—a new enthusiasm for organization and for investigations and for education—really almost a new life. If there ever was a case of a phoenix rising from its ashes, it is the case of this England, the mother of modern industry, very old and very tired, rising from the pyre of war again renewing its youth.

I have seen a battleship, a battleship of first-class size and of more than first-class engine-power, steaming to the Grand Fleet ready for action, on the twentieth day of the twenty-first month from the day on which the drawings for her were received by the shipyard!

I talked with one of the engineers who helped to build her. He had no notion that England, "the world's workshop," had nothing to learn from other countries. That sort of complacency in England had received a body-blow. When he found that I knew something about the methods used by a certain firm in New England, I had to promise him to go to that firm and, if possible, get their latest results and send them to him.

Such interest in scientific management in organizations existed only scantily in England two years ago. It begins to exist here now mightily. I know a Canadian who spent many years in the United States and there became greatly skilled in methods of organization for factories and offices. He now has a large office, a large scientific-management school in London. He and his assistants conduct "surveys" and install "systems" and give courses of instruction for employers and for employees not only in London but in many other places all over England. He is very busy and very successful. Two years ago he would have been lucky to have one-tenth of his present clientele.—William Hard in the Metropolitan.

The Bitter Orange.

The bitter orange-tree was originally introduced to the shores of the Mediterranean by travellers from India and China. Most of the Spanish and Sicilian crop goes to London to be made into marmalade, since very few people in the south of Europe seem to understand the simple art of composing their preserves. There is also a valuable oil contained in the rind, known as essence de bigarade, to distinguish it from that of the sweet orange, essence de Portugal. The distillers extract it by pressing the rind forcibly against a flat sponge, which absorbs the contents of the crushed oil-cells. They wring out the sponge under water and skim off the floating oil. This oil, after careful purification, is used as a flavoring agent in curacao and orange bitters; it is one of the ingredients of eau-de-Cologne and other perfumes; and a drop of it on sugar in a tumblerful of hot water makes the popular eau sucree of the Parisians. Like oil of lemon, it cannot be extracted by distillation in the usual way, since a high temperature injures its flavor. The fruit-buds of the bitter orange also give an essential oil known as essence de petit grain; and from the white flowers is extracted a delightful perfume called essence de Neroli. That is prepared chiefly at Nice, Cannes, and Grasse, in the south of France. All the flowers of a fine tree will yield only a single ounce of Neroli oil. The peel also yields an aromatic principle that the ancient Arab physicians esteemed highly as a tonic; it is still considered a useful stomachic.

Gratitude!

An unusual form of testamentary gratitude is recorded in the diary of Henry Greville. "A man who had spent much of his time in fishing left a direction in his will that as he had derived much nourishment as well as pleasure from the fish he had caught at Chertsey it was only fair to the descendants of those fish that he in return should become their food. He therefore desired that his body should be cast into the Thames at Chertsey."

Had to Say Something.

Jack Timid (presumptuously in love with his employer's daughter)—Is Mr. Cashleigh in? Butler—Yes, sir. Jack Timid (horribly disappointed)—Well, I'm glad to hear it. He might catch cold outside—beastly weather. Good night.

A Good Reason.

"Why don't you buy a car, Walker?" "I will tell you. All my neighbors think I can afford one, and I don't want them to find out that I can't."

Mostly True.

"What is the initiative and referendum?"

"Another name for wives."

The fine art of living is to draw from each person his best.

English Rulers
And Their Meals

WILLIAM THE FIRST loved the tall deer as if he were their father; his favorite dish was venison. William the Second ate venison like his father, but preferred boar's head. Henry the First was so fond of lampreys that he eventually died of a surfeit of them. Stephen was the first king to introduce foreign cookery, that of the Empire, in an abridged form. Henry the Second returned to the old fish and vegetable diet of the Church with an occasional game pie as an interlude. In the reign of Richard the First meat and game and venison pasties were fashionable, and the preparers were called "Pastelers." King John was exceedingly fond of lampreys and a royal lamprey pie with the Arms of Gloucester on it was presented at Court annually from his reign to the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria.

During the reign of Henry the Third the Ancient Company of Cooks, founded in 1211, first became powerful, and roasting and boiling superseded pasties. Edward the First was very fond of roast ox, and introduced Welsh mutton into England after his conquest. Edward the Second favored French cooking as then known, a connoisseur of the kitchens, and pioneered the custom of householders having their meals professionally cooked. Henry the Seventh opposed the Continental modes of roasting and pies, especially lark pie. The Eighth dined at 11 a.m. and started with roast beef. Edward the Sixth was very fond of eggs and omelettes; he also named a dish of beef after his mother, Jane Seymour. Queen Mary was partial to sherry long before she married Philip the Second, and introduced garlic into English cookery. Queen Elizabeth's favorite dish at the Kenilworth festivities was peacock pie, and she loved the dainties of the Netherlands. James the First introduced baggis into England, and was more partial to French than German or Spanish dishes. For the merit of roast beef Charles the First knighted it, and with his sword over the joint, said, "Arise, thou famed Sir Loin!" The knighting of the sirloin is also ascribed to James the First and Charles the Second. Sturgeon has always been a royal fish, the king's perquisite without payment, and Charles the Second kept fisher-boats to catch them in the Thames for himself. James the Second attempted to introduce la haute cuisine of the Louis the Fourteenth period, William the Third introduced Dutch cookery—salads, cured and smoked fish—under a Dutch chef, Ulrich Hortfner. Queen Anna was a great culinary artist and inventor of maids of honor cakes, as sold at Richmond, so called because an archbishop calling on the Queen surprised her and her maids making cakes. George the First introduced German dishes, both ate and spoke German, was a gourmand, not a gourmet; in his reign catering first became international, and the English cuisine known as that of Queen Anne died out. George the Second was very fond of mutton pies, and in his reign the Kit Kat Club was founded by Christopher Katt, a famous mutton-pie cook, who supplied the Duke of Marlborough, Addison, Walpole, and others. George the Third liked boiled mutton, carrots, and turnip best; in his younger days tENCH, mullets, and doreys attracted him, and he made "blonanges" fashionable. George the Fourth employed the famous chef Careme and set the fashion of French cuisine in England; his kitchen at Brighton, says the "Restaurateur," was the most up-to-date in England, and, according to John Wilson Croker, "possessed contrivances for roasting, boiling, stewing, and frying, steaming and heating, hot plates, hot closets, hot air, with all manner of coaks for hot water and cold water and warm water and steam, and twenty saucepans all decorated and labelled, placed up to their necks in a vapour bottle." His favorite dish was roast neck of mutton and bubb and squeak.

William the Fourth was partial to whitebait dinners, which soon came fashionable at Greenwich. A pie dumplings and roast pork, with kidneys and bacon for breakfast, was the diet of the sailor Prince, Queen Victoria. In her younger days, she was partial to turbot with festoons lobster and a saddle of mutton; she gave her name to a consommé, sauce, a garnish for lobster, and pudding. King Edward had a great partiality for tripe suppers, and gave his name to a mode of serving game with tripe.

Mazeppa.
Mazeppa, according to some authorities, was by birth a Cossack, becoming when very young a page at the Court of John Casimer, King of Poland. Being discovered in an intrigue with a noble lady, the jealous husband caused him to be bound to the back of a wild horse. The animal bore him off to his native woods in the Ukraine, where some Cossacks released the exhausted youth. He became their leader, was made a noble by Peter the Great, but deserted the cause of Russia during the invasion of the Swedes under Charles the Twelfth, and after the disastrous battle of Poltava killed himself by poison. Pushkin made Mazeppa the hero of his drama, "Poltava," and Victor Hugo wrote a poem on the subject. A portrait of Mazeppa, painted from life, was discovered in 1886 at Kiev, in Southern Russia.

Worms sap the strength and under mine the vitality of children. Strengthen them by using Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator to drive out the parasites.

The Model for "Peer Gynt."

There are many models back of "Peer Gynt," and among them a young Dane. Ibsen met the young man frequently in Italy. He was a peculiarly concealed and affected young bluffer. He used to tell the Italian girls at Ischia and Capri that his father, a school teacher in reality, was the best friend of the king of Denmark, and that he himself was one of the greatest men in Denmark. To prove this, he often appeared in entire suits of white satin. He called himself a poet, but could find poetical inspiration only in the wilderness or in desolate, dreary spots. He once went to Crete to write, he said, a great drama or tragedy. He returned, however, without having accomplished his purpose. He averred that he could feel tragic emotion only in the mountains, and lived in self-delusion and illusion.

Some of his characteristics have passed in "Peer Gynt." Otherwise "Peer Gynt" is supposed to be an incarnation of Norwegian foibles. Peer's lies are not really falsehoods, if this implies the intention to deceive others. They are rather self-deceptions. "Peer Gynt" has something in common with Cervantes' "Don Quixote," and is more closely related to Daudet's "Tartarin."

An Interesting Russian City.

Kieff, more familiarly known as Kiev, is the earliest seat of Christianity in Russia. As the most ancient capital of the Empire it has earned the title of mother of cities. Its monastery of Peteherskaya Lavra, with its far-reaching grounds, is one of the wonders of the world. With many a church and chapel and innumerable monks' cells within its high wall, the "City of Caves" forms a town by itself. To the catacombs cut out of the solid rock every year go pilgrims from all over Russia to worship at the shrines of the saints who went years ago from Byzantium. But Kieff is not a typically Russian city. It has lost its early Byzantine character without gaining the modern Russian spirit—a result attributed to the rule of the Poles, who kept the city under their influence for centuries. It has been said one may call the Kieff people Little Russians, who differ from the Great Russians as much as the English do from the Scots. Imperialists did their best seventy years ago by establishing a local university to Russify the town, but most writers agree that ancient elements are still alive.

A Kissless People.

The Maori women of New Zealand know nothing about kissing. Nose-rubbing is their form of salutation, and when two friends meet they hold each other by the hands, bend their heads until their noses touch, and then rub them gently from side to side. This form of greeting is not confined to the women, but is practised by the men; they seldom meet without rubbing noses. In times of lamentation the Maori women will sit for hours with their noses touching, and moan for the loss of some child in a constant state of unrest, and, if not attended to, endanger life. The child can be spared much suffering and the mother much anxiety by the best worm remedy that can be got, Miller's Worm-Powder, which are sure death to worms in any shape.

COOKING POTATOES.

Waste That Comes With Paring and Soaking Before Boiling.
Paring and cooking is the most wasteful method, and added to this some cooks soak the potatoes in water after they are pared. Starting to cook them in cold water also adds to the amount of waste. Twice as much nutritive matter is lost if paring is done before boiling as there is if it is done after boiling, not figuring the waste in cutting away the potato. The juices of the potato contain 85 per cent of the protein and 85 per cent of the ash, and these substances are easily extracted when the protection of the skin has been removed. A pared potato soaked from three to five hours loses about three times as much of its mineral matter and seven times as much of its protein as one that is pared and immediately cooked. In the most wasteful method of cooking, paring, soaking and starting to cook in cold water the loss of protein is 51 per cent and 39 per cent of ash. When cooked with the skins on potatoes not soaked and dropped into boiling water lose only 1.6 per cent of protein and only 4.9 per cent of ash. Baking and steaming are the most economical methods of cooking potatoes when food is considered. Potatoes cannot be baked well in a slow oven.

A Power of its Own.—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil has a subtle power of its own that other oils cannot pretend to, though there are many pretenders. THE NEWEST REMEDY

FOR Backache, Rheumatism and Dropsy.

Kidney, Bladder and Uric Acid troubles bring misery to many. When the kidneys are weak or diseased, these natural filters do not cleanse the blood sufficiently, and the poisons are carried to all parts of the body. There follow depression, aches and pains, heaviness, drowsiness, irritability, headaches, chilliness and rheumatism. In some people there are sharp pains in the back and loins, distressing bladder disorders and sometimes obstinate dropsy. The uric acid sometimes forms into gravel or kidney stones. When the uric acid affects the muscles and joints, it causes lumbago, rheumatism, gout or sciatica. This is the time to try "Anurie." Send 10c for trial package.

During digestion uric acid is absorbed into the system from meat eaten, and even from some vegetables. The poor kidneys get tired and backache begins. This is a good time to take "Anurie," the new discovery of Dr. Pierce for Kidney trouble and Backache. Neglected kidney trouble is responsible for many deaths, and Insurance Company examining doctors always test the water of an applicant before a policy will be issued. Have you ever set aside a bottle of water for twenty-four hours? A heavy sediment or settling sometimes indicates kidney trouble. The true nature and character of diseases, especially those of the kidneys and urinary organs, can often be determined by a careful chemical analysis and microscopic examination—this is done by expert chemists of the Medical Staff of the Invalids' Hotel. If you wish to know your condition send a sample of your water to Doctor Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., and describe your symptoms. It will be examined without any expense to you, and Doctor Pierce or his Staff of Assisting Physicians will inform you truthfully.

KNOW YOURSELF!
Read all about yourself, your system, physiology, anatomy, hygiene, simple home cures, etc., in the "Common Sense Medical Adviser," a book of 1008 pages. Send to Dr. V. M. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 50 cents in one-cent stamps for a cloth-bound copy. Customs prepaid.

KEEP CHILDREN WELL DURING HOT WEATHER

Every mother knows how fatal the hot summer months are to small children. Cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentery and stomach troubles are rife at this time and often a precious little life is lost after a few hours illness. The occasional use of the Tablets prevent stomach and bowel troubles, or if trouble comes suddenly—as it generally does—the Tablets will bring the baby safely through. Inwood Man Badly Injured at Waterloo

Waterloo, July 22.—King street, Waterloo, was the scene of a serious accident at 9:40 o'clock to-night, when a car driven by an Inwood man crashed into that of Mr. W. G. Crowe, of Waterloo, in which he and Mrs. Crowe were riding.

The Inwood man's car hit a telegraph pole, then shot across the street and into the other machine. The Inwood car is said to have been going at a rapid rate at the time. Both cars were overturned and badly damaged. The Inwood man was pinned beneath his machine and when extricated was unconscious. His name is unknown. His condition is serious.

for their day's work when working by the dav. With this method they have no trouble in getting help.

Edward Humphries, of Port Frank, while hitching up his horse, Manbrino, at Mr. G. Laird's the animal attacked him, biting him severely on the arm and throwing him down. He would undoubtedly have been killed had not a man who was standing by attacked the animal with a piece of scantling and drove him away.

Trying to keep her horse under control when it took fright at a wagon standing in the roadside ditch, Miss Shirley Kerr, daughter of Mrs. Barbara Kerr, of North Dunwich, had her wrist broken. The accident was an unusual one. The sawing of the reins apparently pulled the bones of the wrist out of place.

CHOP STUFF

Several Sarnia school teachers have gone to Grimsby, where they will be engaged in picking cherries.

John Thomas, of Camlachie, has bought the Wilkie farm of 200 acres, lake shore, Sarnia township, for $9,000, and the stock, implements, etc., for $3,000.

Boring holes into the stumps of hardwood trees and filling these holes with equal parts of nitric and sulphuric acid will so soften the wood that it can be removed by ordinary picks. This has been demonstrated in Germany, and is the common treatment there of hardwood stumps.

Boy labor is a great assistance to the farmers, vegetable and fruit growers of the vicinity of Kingsville. Hundreds of them are employed at various kinds of work they are able to do. The stores and banks are being scoured for 5 and 10-cent pieces. The growers have found that nothing pleases the boys as much as to know that if they earn only 5 cents, that they will be paid spot cash for their labor when completed, when working piecework, or to be paid every evening

Midge has been found in the wheat in some parts of the county of Welland and some crops are said to be almost entirely destroyed. The Provincial Department of Agriculture however has not been informed of any general outbreak throughout the province. If the midge pest gains a foothold it will utterly destroy one of the finest crops of wheat ever produced in Ontario.

While standing under a tree near Amherstburg where he had taken refuge from a storm Tuesday, a young English farmhand by the name of Shepley was struck by lightning and rendered unconscious. He was found in this condition some time later and taken to his home. He did not regain consciousness for twenty-four hours, and it is feared that the sight of one of his eyes is gone, besides other injuries.

Fred, the 14-year-old son of John F. Grimes, M. C. R. agent, Bridgen, was painfully hurt when taking a short cut through the yards of the Hayne Milling Co. He ran into a heap of hot ashes, severely burning both feet. He was barefoot at the time, and was taken to the home of S. Walker, where first aid was rendered, and immediately removed to his home. Dr. Galbraith dressed the wounds.

Help to Save Canada's Fruit Crop
A Practical Thrift Suggestion

This year, as never before, every quart of Canada's fruit crop should be used to the very best advantage. Though it all ripens within four months, it can be made to supply every table, every day in the year, at moderate cost.

Canning and preserving, done at home at the time when each fruit is cheapest, provide in delicious and economical form the daily fruit so necessary in a wholesome diet. Fruit put up at home is much cheaper than that which you buy, and the slight increase in its cost, due to the higher price of sugar, is small compared with the mounting cost of other foods.

Successful preserving and canning are by no means difficult, either, if you are careful to boil everything, and use

Redpath SUGAR

In Canadian homes, for the last Sixty Years, REDPATH Sugar has been the standby for preserving. It is always absolutely pure, and can be depended upon to do everything that sugar can do to ensure success.

How the Scale Was Turned

An Incident of the Russian Revolution

By F. A. MITCHEL

I.

Stephan Mikhailof left the duma, where he had been working hard for days to bring about a change in the government which had endured without break for many centuries. Calling a drosky, he entered it, telling the coachman to drive him to his home, and throwing himself back on the cushion behind him, closed his eyes and remained in a position denoting exhaustion till the vehicle drew up before his house on a broad avenue lining the Neva. Descending from the drosky, he paid the driver his fare and entered his home.

He was met in the hall by his daughter Marya, a girl not long turned seventeen. Marya was a typical Russian. Her eyes were a pale blue, her complexion soft white with a faint tinge of rose, her hair so light that had it not been for her youthful face it might have almost been mistaken for the whiteness of age.

"Oh, father," she said, "I am so glad that you have come. Sergius Ivanovitch is in Petrograd, his regiment having arrived last night. He has been to see me and begs me to intercede with you to gain your consent to our betrothal."

"Why do you trouble me about this matter," replied the father angrily, "at such a time? Do you not know that we are on the eve of a consummation of efforts that have been working for half a century to throw off the despotism which sucks the lifeblood of our people? Besides, it is impossible that you, the descendant of a long line of nobles, should unite with a commoner."

"But, papa, are you not working for the cause of the people?"

"Yes, but that is no reason why I should take one of the people into my family."

"Sergius is an officer, the youngest captain in his regiment."

"He was a common soldier in the ranks."

"And was promoted on account of his having more influence over his comrades than all the other officers of the regiment together."

"Enough, I have neither time nor inclination to argue with you on this point while engaged in the great work of pulling down the tottering bureaucracy. You know that the czar, aware of our efforts to free Russia, dissolved the representative assembly which we wrung from him in the last revolution. You know that we refused to be dissolved. This from the government's point of view is revolution, treason. Had the czar the power his predecessors had every member of the duma would either be sent to Siberia or executed. Even as it is, remember that your father is in jeopardy. If we succeed we will free our country; if we fail we will be proscribed. Our chains will be so riveted that the sledge of a Titan cannot break them."

"But surely you will win."

"Not if the czar continues to pour troops into the capital. All autocratic governments are supported by bayonets. The officers are usually chosen from the aristocratic classes, and the officers control the men. When the war began the bureaucracy controlled the appointment of officers and took care to appoint those upon whom they could rely to support the throne. Many of these officers have gone down in the struggle with the central powers, and their places have been filled by men from the people."

"It is to be supposed that the czar has concentrated such regiments in Petrograd as are officered by a superfluity of men upon whom he can rely. We are secretly arranging for a coup d'etat. Tomorrow morning the people will turn out in the streets and demand food. Their clamor will increase till the troops are called upon to quell the disturbance. That will be the critical moment. The revolution will commence, and its success depends upon whether the troops can be relied upon to shoot down the revolutionists. Now, my child, I must get some rest. I have not slept for two nights. Do not mention again the name of Captain Ivanovitch. I will never consent to a union between you and any man who is not your equal in social rank."

The father was about to turn away when the daughter stopped him.

"But, papa," she said anxiously, "is not this a too dangerous move in which you are engaged? What course will our generals at the front take? Will they not protect the czarina and her children with their lives?"

"The czarina," cried Mikhailof angrily.

ly. "It is this German woman who has brought about this grave crisis. She has been furnishing our enemies with information of our movements and our necessities. Through her influence trains laden with our stores have been sent from west to east instead of from east to west. In league with the detestable Rasputin she has baffled the efforts of those very generals at the front who you are thinking may protect her."

"It is they who have called upon us here to bring about this revolution. They have arranged that the czar shall be arrested and forced to abdicate for himself and for his son. The members of the imperial family are to be held prisoners in the palace. The best men in Russia are watching and waiting to form a new government."

While Mikhailof had been talking Marya had been listening intently, at the same time thinking of her lover, who on the morrow would take part in this great movement, anxious both for him and her father.

Stephan Mikhailof staggered upstairs to his room and without removing his clothes threw himself on the bed and was asleep the moment he touched it.

A few minutes later there was a summons at the street door, and Captain Ivanovitch entered the house. Marya joined him immediately.

"Have you seen your father?" the captain asked anxiously.

"Yes," replied Marya in a voice that trembled. "He has refused his consent."

Marya ran over what her father had told her as to that which was expected to occur the next day. When she had finished she asked her lover whether, when the revolution occurred, the troops would fire on the people.

"That is a matter of uncertainty. The men are in sympathy with the crowds they will be ordered to shoot down. Some of the officers are revolutionists, and some are loyal to the czar. This is the case in my regiment, and I believe it is true of the others unless it may be some of the more aristocratic commanders, where the officers all support the bureaucracy. Success or failure depends upon whether the people or the bureaucracy can win over the troops to their side."

II.

The next morning there was a feeling in Petrograd that momentous events were to be enacted. For a long while speculators had tied up food or the railroads had been overburdened transporting munitions of war, or the bureaucracy, which must receive its sop from the sale of everything the people needed, had been working its game. At any rate, while Russia was suffering in provisions there was a dearth of eatables in Petrograd. Crowds began to collect in the streets, and such places as were intended for the sale of food were surrounded. It seemed that every one living in the capital was interested in what was going on. Then regiments of soldiers were marched through the thoroughfares to positions to which they had been assigned. As they passed the crowds they were cheered, and they answered the salutes good naturedly. But their commanders remained rigid.

The troops of the 4th regiment, of which Sergius Ivanovitch was a captain, were ordered to attack a number of laborers who had revolted. Their colonel, having drawn them up in line, gave the order to aim and was about to follow it with the word "Fire!" when Captain Ivanovitch stepped out before the soldiers and said:

"Soldiers, if you fire on these men, who are simply demanding bread that is denied them by the bureaucracy, you shall first kill me."

There were sounds of the dropping of the butts of rifles along the line, first a few, then an increase, followed by hundreds together. Then the workmen advanced and shook hands with the soldiers, and the crisis had passed.

The events of that memorable day followed in rapid succession, and the next day it was announced that the long line of Russian rulers, including so many despots—Ivan the Terrible, Catherine, whose immoral character had so stained the imperial ermine—had for the first time been broken if not ended.

Stephan Mikhailof, who went to sleep at his home the night before the revolution, did not awaken till the next afternoon. He was aroused by shouts and cheers without. Going to a window, he saw a large concourse of people standing in the street looking up at his house. Raising the sash, he bent forward and, looking down, saw that the center of the crowd's attraction was an officer in uniform standing on the landing of the steps leading up to the front door. While the crowd waved hats and handkerchiefs the officer was bowing his acknowledgments.

Mikhailof, having been clothed, was sufficiently presentable to go downstairs to learn what all this meant. He was met by his daughter.

"Who is the officer without?" he asked.

"Sergius Ivanovitch."

"And why is the crowd cheering him?"

"Because papa, while you have been

Every 10c Packet of WILSON'S FLY PADS WILL KILL MORE FLIES THAN $8.00 WORTH OF ANY STICKY FLY CATCHER

Clean to handle. Sold by all Drug-gists, Grocers and General Stores.

Asleep there has been a revolution. The turning point came when Sergius' regiment was ordered to fire on some workmen. It was at an aim, ready to mow down the rebels, when Sergius stood between the regiment and the workmen and told the soldiers that if they fired on men who were simply demanding bread denied them by the bureaucracy they must first kill him.

That turned the scale. The workmen and the soldiers fraternized, and from that moment regiment after regiment took the part of the people."

Marya's last words were drowned by a prolonged cheer without. Captain Ivanovitch turned and entered the house. The crowd dispersed.

Ivanovitch, seeing Mikhailof, paused. "He came to see me, papa," said Marya, "and the crowd followed him here."

"It appears," said Mikhailof to the captain, "that while I have been sleeping the revolution has taken place and you have performed no small part of it."

"He stepped in at the crisis," said Marya, "and brought the soldiers to espouse the cause of the people."

"You mean I turned my regiment to the cause of the people," said Sergius modestly.

Mikhailof advanced to Ivanovitch and, putting both arms about him, kissed him, according to the Russian custom, first on one cheek, then on the other.

Asthma No Longer Dreaded.—The dread of renewed attacks from asthma has no hold upon those who have learned to rely upon Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. So safe do they feel that complete reliance is placed on this true specific with the certainty that it will always do all that its makers claim. If you have not learned how safe you are with this preparation at hand get it today and know for yourself.

The Disappearing Desert. At the present time there are many young Australians who are reaping good crops from areas which were marked on the maps as "deserts" when these young fellows went to school in Australia; in fact, some of the most prosperous districts were not long ago shown on the school maps as "deserts" or uninhabited spaces, but, as settlement has pushed on, and the land-seeker has had to go farther for his selection, these blanks have been filled with prosperous settlements. Thriving towns are growing here and there, and, instead of being shown "deserts," the school children in Australia are being taught the names of these agricultural towns. The same thing applies to Australia as a whole. Maps get out of date rapidly on account of the changes being effected throughout the country. Active railway construction policies are assisting the settler, and before many years have passed spaces now uninhabited—though being almost inaccessible—will be shown as scenes of activity and prosperity.

Had Lots of Fun. An ardent uplift worker sat in the midst of the McNamara family, ex-patiating with them in a pained voice, says Harper's. "You should provide some kind of wholesome amusement for your family," said the philanthropist, sternly, to the abashed McNamara. "You should do something to lighten the burden of toil. Every life needs a little sunshine in it." "Oh, missus," chimed up one of the girls, "we has lots of fun. There's always a fight or something 'entertainin' goin' on in the tenement. Why only last week a gentleman stabbed a woman, then shot her and dragged her past our door."

Wild Dogs. In New South Wales wild dogs are almost as numerous as rabbits, and do considerably more damage. The farmers have petitioned the Government of New South Wales to erect a dog-proof wire fence along the boundary between New South Wales and South Australia, a distance of one hundred and thirty-five miles. It will supplement the rabbit-proof fences already erected.

Wonderful Man. "Where is he from?" "I don't know, but I think he was raised on a desert island."

"What in the world makes you think that?" "He says no woman ever made a fool of him."

Tripled Her Baking Capacity. "One day, when baking cookies," says a housewife in the Woman's Home Companion, "I expressed a wish for larger pans. My husband said, 'Why not have some made to fit the oven?' He then measured the grate and went down to the hardware store. In a few days I had two Russia iron pans 13 1/2 by 13 1/2 inches and one inch deep. As these pans hold three dozens of cookies I can do my baking very much more quickly than I could with the old pans, which only held twelve cookies."

In the Woman's Home Companion G. H. Claudy describes the photographic trick of having one person appear twice in the same picture and tells the amateur photographer how to accomplish it.

"What you actually do is this: Cut from a piece of thick, stiff pasteboard a piece which will fit into the inside of the camera and be held in place by the folds of the bellows. It should be fitted in the fold of the bellows which will hold it about an inch or an inch and a half in front of the plate opening and a trifle more—say one-eighth of an inch.

"Make this piece of cardboard thoroughly black on both sides by dipping it in ink and letting it dry. See that the cardboard is well 'seated' in the bellows folds so that light does not leak past the joints.

"Pose your subject and proceed to focus so that the image appears on the right side of the ground glass in the camera (left side of the finished picture will be the result). The left side of the ground glass appears blank, because it is kept from exposure by the cardboard. Insert the plate holder, take a picture, put back the slide and remove the plate holder; on no account move the camera, however. Very gently slide the cardboard from the left side to the right and replace the ground glass. Pose the subject on the opposite side of the center this time. Then replace the plate holder, remove the slide and make a second exposure exactly the same length as the first."

HISTORIC KAVALA.

The Grecian Seaport Was Known as Neapolis in St. Paul's Time.

Kavala, the Grecian seaport which has figured so often in press dispatches during recent years, is noted as the birthplace of Mehmet Ali, the remarkable son of an Albanian farmer whose career as viceroy of Egypt during the first half of the nineteenth century almost precipitated Europe into a war of nations. The house in which this witty, wily pasha was born in 1769 is in a narrow, crooked street not far from the Turkish school which he founded, although he himself never learned to read or write.

In Roman days Kavala was known as Neapolis, and it was here that St. Paul, handed on his way from Samothrace to Philippi, where there was a thriving colony of Christians, to whom the Apostle to the Philippians was addressed.

Prior to the beginning of the Christian era Neapolis was the seaport of Philippi, whose ruins are to be found some ten miles from shore on the highway from Kavala to Thessaly. Here the fleet of Brutus and Cassius was anchored during the famous conflict on the fields of Philippi in 42 B. C., when the assassins of Julius Caesar met defeat at the hands of the legions commanded by Antony and Octavian.

Practically all that remains to connect ancient Neapolis with modern Kavala is a Roman aqueduct, whose two tier arches still convey water from Mount Pangaea to the town and citadel.

Our Sleep. As a race we sleep too little. An infant's life is nearly all sleep. Gradually as the child grows older the hours of sleep are shortened. Youth till the age of twenty is reached requires fully ten hours' sleep. Although nature demands fewer hours' sleep in summer than in winter, it has been proved that eight hours of sleep are required for the average adult in good health. By this is meant not simply eight hours in bed, but that amount of good, sound, restful sleep night after night. Our power to work is intimately related to our ability to sleep, and there is no more reliable indication of sound health than the capacity to sleep naturally, and the more active and energetic the waking life the deeper the sleep.

Ammonia water, instead of soap, for cleaning white paint, will clean it perfectly without dulling.
Three years imprisonment will be the punishment meted out to deserters under the proposed conscription bill.
Motorists who are going away on trips, should see that they have their passports before leaving. Then where they cross to the United States they should see the customs officials about their cars so that they will not have to pay any duty when they return. If this is done they will not find any trouble crossing the borders.

Hard and soft corns both yield to Holloway's Corn Cure, which is entirely safe to use, and certain and satisfactory in its action.

A PATRON OF ART.
He Was a Good Bluffer, but De Wint Called His Hand.
Peter de Wint, the English landscape painter, was accustomed each year to have a semiprivate show of his pictures before sending them to the Water Color society's exhibition. On such occasions his friends frequently bought pictures, which, of course, appeared at the public exhibition marked "Sold."
Among the painter's friends was a wealthy man who wanted to appear a patron of art and at the same time to keep his money. He managed this by loudly admiring the paintings already sold. He was always a bit too late to buy the pictures that pleased him most and, having seen them, he could never content himself with less beautiful works.
De Wint at last suspected the man's sincerity, and when the next show day came round he concluded to test him. After plenty of time had been allowed for De Wint's friends to make their purchases, the rich man arrived. As usual, his eye soon fell on two "perfect gems" marked "Sold." Turning to the artist, he said, "Now, De Wint, those are exactly the things I should like to possess; what a pity they are not to be had."
"My dear sir," said the painter, slapping him on the back, "I knew you would like them, so I put the tickets on them to keep them for you."

A LESSON IN THRIFT.
How a Young Man Can Lay the Foundation of an Old Age Income.
In "The Family's Money" in the American Magazine a father asks his son why he does not increase his income every year in the following manner: "Suppose you save $250 a year, or about $5 a week. You could do that and not suffer. Invest that money in a sound 6 per cent security. During the second year it will earn for you $15, giving you an increase of $1.25 a month. Add your interest gain to the principal, and at the end of the second year you will have $515 working for you.
"At the close of the fourth year you will have a capital invested of $1,092, which during the fifth year will give you $65, or more than $5 a month. Of course each year is adding to your principal and your income. When the eighth year comes to an end you will possess capital of $2,470, which during the ninth year will earn $148, or more than $12 a month, and that is not an amount to laugh at.
"At the end of the twentieth year you have $4,150, which during the following year will earn $250, or more than $20 a month. When that year closes you will possess capital of practically $10,000, which will give you an income increase of $900 per annum, or $75 a month."

Trial is Inexpensive.—To those who suffer from dyspepsia, indigestion, rheumatism or any ailment arising from derangement of the digestive system, a trial of Parnee's Vegetable Pills is recommended, should the sufferer be unacquainted with them. The pills are inexpensive and the result will be another customer for this excellent medicine. So effective is their action that many cures can certainly be traced to their use where other pills have proved ineffective.

Boys and Girls.
The difference is apparent early. A boy has as much fun in stoning a cat as a girl has in hunting for violets. A boy's curiosity is directed to the ice box; a girl would like to see what is in the top bureau drawer.
A girl can give the impression when away from home that her parents are wealthy; a boy cannot.
A girl is never so young that she will reveal to guests at a party that the spoons-are borrowed; a boy child never grows so old that he falls to.
Give a boy a dollar, and he will eat it; give his sister one, and she will wear it.
When brothers fight it is over the larger share of pie. When sisters quarrel one has worn something belonging to the other without asking permission.
A Woman Did It.
A lesson to landladies is this. A woman did it. She wanted the house papered. The landlord talked about the paper shortage and took his rent and went.
The next month when he called he found the house beautifully papered. He was pleased and said so. The woman smiled. She walked to the wall and moved a picture aside. Beneath the picture was a grimy square of the old paper. The woman had papered around every picture in the house. As she said the month's rent she gave notice that she would move the next month.

Appeals From Court of Revision

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a Court will be held by His Honor the Judge of the County Court of the County of Lambton at the

COUNCIL CHAMBER, WATFORD

—ON—

TUESDAY, the 31st day of JULY, 1917 at Three o'clock in the afternoon to hear and determine complaints of errors and omissions in the assessment of the Municipality of the Village of Watford for 1917.

W. S. FULLER,
Clerk of the Municipality of the Village of Watford.
Dated the 21st day of July, 1917.

THE STORY OF THE STAIRS

Every time you go up stairs you can test the state of your health—the conditions of your blood.

Do you arrive at the top of the stairs breathless and distressed? Does your heart palpitate violently? Do you have a pain in your side? Perhaps you have to stop half way up, with limbs trembling and head dizzy, too exhausted to go further without resting.

These are unfailing signs of anaemia. As soon as your blood becomes impoverished or impure the stair-case becomes an instrument of torture. When this is so you are unfit for work; your blood is watery and your nerves exhausted, you are losing the joy of an active life and paving the way for a further break down and decline. In this condition only one thing can save you. You must put new rich, red blood into your veins without further delay and so build up your health anew.

To get this new rich blood give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial, and they will give you new vitality, sound health, and the power to resist and throw off disease. For more than a generation this favorite medicine has been in use throughout the world and has made many thousands of weak, despondent men and women bright, active and strong.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Presentations to Old Watford Boys

After four years pastor of Carman Methodist Church, Toronto, Rev. A. W. Hone has been stationed at Cobalt, Ont., to which church he accepted an invitation some time ago. At a largely attended meeting of the Toronto congregation, held on June 21, Mr. and Mrs. Hone were presented with an address and seventy-five dollars in gold.

The Sunday School of Trinity Methodist Church, Peterboro., of which Gunner A. D. Hone, M. A., who recently enlisted in the Cobourg heavy battery, was superintendent, presented him with a gold wrist watch, and the pupils and staff of the Collegiate Institute with a pair of field glasses.

Another brother Sgt. P. W. Hone is with the Army Dental Corps, and is stationed at the hospital, Shorncliffe, England.

The first two mentioned were old Watford boys and all three are sons of Mrs. W. A. Hone, Petrolia, and nephews of Mrs. J. E. Collier, 2nd line.

An effort is being made to revive the Alvinston bowling club.

WHILE scores of teachers are being advertised for at the present time for public and high schools in all parts of the Province, officials of the Department declares that the situation is not in the least alarming. "There is nothing like the shortage of teachers that there used to be," Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, states. "There are different reasons for the large number of teachers being sought at this particular time of the year. The chief of these is said to be that a large number of the pedagogues move about at the end of the school term. Some of them during the summer vacation endeavor to secure positions nearer home, and others seek more remunerative positions elsewhere."
