The copy filmed here has been reproduced thanks to the generosity of:

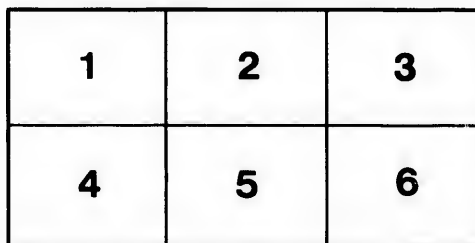

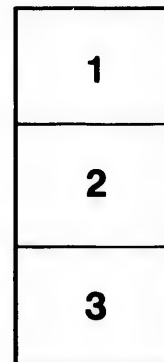

National Library of Canada

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol \rightarrow (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol ∇ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

L'exemplaire filmé fut reproduit grâce à la générosité de:

Bibliothèque nationale du Canada

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole \rightarrow signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ∇ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"These books are a decided improvement upon the character of the works usually adopted in our Common Schools, and will, no doubt, before long, very generally supersede them."—Chronicler.

"We have with pleasure heartily recommending them to the teachers and youth."—Wesleyan.

"The typography is excellent, and in general appearance can hardly be surpassed."—Express.

"We have examined each of these books and have much pleasure in expressing our warm approval of them."—Christian Messenger.

"We have sold the numbers already out of hands from the enterprising publishers Messrs A. & W. Mackinlay, and it is justly due to them to say that they have conferred a boon upon the country."—Recorder.

"The publishers Messrs Mackinlay deserve the thanks and encouragement of every friend of Education, for the style in which they have furnished the above volumes."—Colonist.

The "NOVATOTIA SERIES," so far will compare favourably with any in the world, and is very far in advance of any American Series ever seen in our Schools. For cheapness, for excellence of matter and of paper and print, this Series will distance a competition. The easy gradation with which the book follows book will commend itself to all who have had any experience in the training of youth. It will be a great and permanent advantage to the education of the Province to have a Series such as this within reach of all our Schools. Messrs Mackinlay deserve well of their country for their enterprise, and the very great care and skill with which these works have been prepared. We congratulate teachers and scholars on the innumerable advantages they now enjoy in climbing up the "hill of knowledge;" and when we see these charming juvenile books we are tempted to say or sing "O would I were a boy again!"—Witness.

When the Sun or Moon is, either in whole or in part, obscured by a shadow which gradually comes over their discs, and then glides off, this phenomenon is called an eclipse. The shadow of the moon falling upon any part of the earth produces an eclipse of the Sun, and the shadow of the earth falling upon the moon causes an eclipse of the moon. An eclipse of the moon can only take place at full moon, when the earth is between the sun and the moon.

Eclipses are either of the Moon or of the Sun. The duration of a lunar eclipse lasts all the time the Moon is passing through the earth's shadow; and the shadow being considerably broader than the Moon's diameter, a lunar eclipse sometimes lasts 3 or 4 hours. An eclipse of the Moon is visible to the whole hemisphere of the earth to which the Moon is visible. It begins on her eastern side, and goes off at her western side. When totally eclipsed, the Moon is not invisible if she be above the horizon and the atmosphere clear, but appears generally of a dusky colour. When the Moon is centrally eclipsed (that is, when she passes through the centre of the earth's shadow), and when she is at her greatest from the earth, the duration of the eclipse is 3 hours, 37 minutes, 24 seconds.

An eclipse of the Sun is produced by the Moon passing between the earth and the Sun, and intercepting a part or the whole of his disk from our view. An eclipse of the Sun can only happen when the Moon is in conjunction with the Sun, that is, at the time of new Moon. The eclipse is said to be partial when only a part of his surface is obscured; total, when the whole of the Sun's disk is obscured; and annular, when the Moon cuts off a circle in the middle of the Sun, leaving a ring of light all round the dark figure in the middle, which forms a very beautiful phenomenon. An eclipse of the Sun begins on the western side of the disk and ends on the eastern.

It has been found that in 23 mean lunations, after the Sun, Moon, and nodes have been once in a line of conjunction, they return nearly to the same state again; and, therefore, in that time there will be a regular period of eclipses for many ages. In this period there are 18 Julian years, 11 days, 7 hours, 43 minutes, 31 seconds, when the last day of February in leap years is four times included. Consequently, if to the mean time of any eclipse, either of the Sun or Moon, we add the above period, we shall have the mean time of the return of the same eclipse. And by going back 18,36,54, or 72 years, and searching in old almanacs for the particulars connected with any eclipse, and applying the above period, we may ascertain the period and circumstances which accompany any eclipse which may soon happen.

The number of eclipses in any year cannot be less than two, and those both of the Sun, nor can there be ever more than seven, in which case there will be five of the Sun and two of the Moon, and the Moon's eclipses will be total. The usual number is four in a year, two at each node, and nearly half a year intervenes between the two sets of eclipses. The Sun is seldom totally eclipsed for a period longer than 4 minutes; but the Moon may be totally eclipsed for about 1 hour and 48 minutes.

ERRATA, IN THE ALMANACK FOR 1865.

In the columns for the equation of time in the months of September, October, November and December, a typographical error occurs by having slow placed at the head of each column instead of fast; and in the latter part of December fast instead of slow.

NOTICE.—In future it will be necessary that parties send to the publisher on or before the first of August in each year, the corrections required to be made in "Societies," "Companies," "Agencies," &c., such as those on pages 80, 81, 84 to 91, otherwise they will have to be omitted.

The large and yearly increasing circulation of this Almanack renders it a most desirable medium for advertising, not equalled by any other publication. It is found in all parts of the Province, and is before the public during the whole course of the year, and referred to by them daily. Every one will best consult their interests by referring to the advertisements for the present year, as a guide to assist them in determining where to make their purchases.

Equation of time is the difference between mean and apparent time. There are only four periods of the year when this difference is nothing, namely,—about April 15, June 15, September 1, and December 24, as may be seen by referring to this column.

 - 11—The Moon's place in the Signs or Constellations of the Zodiac.
- The top of the columns of each month gives the Moon's Phases, or times of New and Full Moon, and of the First and Last Quarters or quadratures of the Sun.
- The FARMER'S CALENDAR is placed at the foot of the columns of each month.

SYSTEMATIC labor—with an end in view and a careful consideration of the best means of reaching it—is sure to tell in the prosperity of those who direct and perform it. Let the farmer then carefully consider the best means of attaining this advancement, and employ his means and labor systematically therefor, and he will surely reach success. Better soil and crops, better stock, better fences and buildings, better orchards and garden, should be his constant aim from one year's end to another. To advance in them he needs and seeks also a better knowledge of all their capacities and requirements, and how best to increase and supply them so as to get the highest reward for his thought and labor. No day is so short and stormy but it has its employment—no evening but has its hour of reflective study on some point of his progress as a farmer and a man. It is idle to think of progress without a lively interest in and devotion to the theme. Other trades and professions expect this, and they give their whole energies to the prosecution of their business. They do this or they fail.

DISTANCE AND MAGNITUDE OF THE SUN AND MOON. To find the exact distance of the Sun from the Earth is an object which has much interested and engaged astronomers for a century past. Halley in 1716 suggested what he considered would be a satisfactory method of solution of the difficulty and pointed out the possibility of seeing the transits of Venus across the Sun's disk which were to occur in 1761 and 1769. In 1761 a transit of Venus did occur, which was visible in many parts of Europe; and in 1769 another transit of Venus occurred, which was visible in the North of Lapland, but in no other parts of Europe. (No other transit of Venus will occur till the year 1874, and will be followed by one in 1882, after which there will be none for more than a century.) From these two transits but ☽ The column of the moon's setting gives the time of high water at Parrsboro', Cornwallis, Horton, Hantsport, Windsor, Newport, Exmo, &c.

Horses and cattle like early cut hay better than that which is cut late. They can be fattened on it by giving them what they will eat, while they will barely subsist on that which gets dead ripe before it is cut. Cows who go to pasture early in the spring will make yellow butter, and so they will in winter if fed on early cut hay, if it be well cured. Land lying long in grass needs repeated dressings of manure. There is no occasion for ploughing up our grass lands as frequently, if we would only give them some fertilizer, like composted barn manure, ashes, bone dust, guano, &c., every two or three years. Cultivation and manure work wonders in the improvement of the grass crop—a rich, deep soil, and such alone can produce a large growth of hay or pasture. On a rich, deep and porous soil, drought has very little effect—on a poor, shallow and hard one, the grass or other crop always suffers severely from any lack of rain. A well-drained soil is as much better for growing grass, as it is for any other crop—however well the land may be seeded in the first place, if water remains on the surface late in the spring, the cultivated grasses soon give place to coarser and nearly worthless herbage, or linger with a sickly and stunted growth of very little value for feeding purposes.

especially from that in 1769, the Sun's distance from the Earth was ascertained with great accuracy from the calculations founded upon the observations made on these transits, it was found that the distance is about ninety-five millions of miles. This distance is thirty one thousand six hundred times the space that intervenes between Great Britain and America; and were a locomotive to travel this space at the rate of 1,000 miles every day, it would require 250 years before the journey could be accomplished. The magnitude of this vast luminary is an object which overpowers the imagination. Its diameter is 880,000 miles; its circumference, 2,764,600 miles; its surface contains 2,432,500,000,000 of square miles, which is 12,350 times the area of the terraqueous globe, and nearly 50,000 times the extent of all the habitable parts of the Earth. Were a person to travel along the surface of the Sun, so as to pass along every square mile on its surface, at the rate of thirty miles every day, it would re-

SALT in a regular or frequent supply is a necessity in the animal economy in order to healthy growth and development. The blood contains a considerable percentage of this ingredient, hence to some extent the desire manifested for it by all grazing animals, as their food contains it in almost inappreciable amount. Horses and sheep should frequently be supplied with salt in summer, and the wants of swine should also receive attention. In winter, the first named animals, if not fed with hay which was salted in the mow, should have an occasional feed brined especially for them, in the warm days of winter. Calves should receive the same attention. Swine require salt when penned in order to health, and when fattening, the proper digestion and assimilation of their food cannot go on perfectly and economically without it. In other words, they will fatten faster on the same food salted than if fed to them fresh, and will eat more and grow more rapidly because of the better health and appetite.

It would contain within its circumference more than thirteen hundred thousand globes as large as the Earth and a thousand globes of the size of Jupiter, which is the largest planet of the system. It is more than 500 times larger than all the planets, comets and satellites belonging to our system, vast and extensive as some of them are. Although its density is little more than water, it would weigh 3360 planets such as Saturn, 1037 planets such as Jupiter, 329,000 globes such as the Earth, and more than two millions of globes such as Mercury, although its density is nearly equal to that of lead. Were we to conceive of its surface being peopled with inhabitants in the same proportion as our globe, it

☾ The column of the moon's southing gives the time of high water at Parrsboro', Cornwallis, Horton, Hantsport, Windsor, Newport, Truro, &c.

ONE of the earliest tasks that claims the farmer's attention is repairing fences. The importance of good fences is well understood by those who have observed the difference between crops safe from all intruders, and those occasionally trodden down and ruined; between moving on with the work without interruption, and the frequent annoyance of stopping important operations, to run after intruding cattle, colts and pigs. Sometimes during this month the weather is so favorable that the farmers are able to plough and sow their spring grain; and some seasons the spring is so unfavorable—with so much wet and cold weather—that April glides away before a handful of grain can be put in the soil. As soon as the meadows are dry enough to bear feet without injury to the turf, they should be carefully picked of all loose and projecting stones, which might injure a mowing machine, and then well rolled so as to make the surface as smooth and perfect as possible. Stumps should be dug or pulled out, rubbish removed, and small hillocks levelled.

would contain 681,184,000,000,000, or more than six hundred and eighty billions, which would be equal to the inhabitants of eight hundred and fifty thousand worlds such as ours. Of a globe so vast in its dimensions, the human mind, with all its efforts, can form no adequate conception. We may express its dimensions in figures or in words, but in the present state of our limited powers we can form no mental image or representation of an object so sublime and stupendous. It is not improbable that the largest ideas we have yet acquired, or can represent to our minds, of the immensity of the Universe, are inferior to a full and comprehensive i'ca of the vast globe of the Sun, in all its connexions and dimensions: and therefore not only must the powers of the human mind be invigorated and expanded,

† The column of the moon's setting gives the time of high water at Parrboro', Cornwallis, Horton, Hantsport, Windsor, Newport, Truro, &c.

The culture of white beans as a field crop is of importance. As to varieties, the "medium white bean" stands in good repute, ripens early and evenly, and endures well. A new kind, somewhat resembling it, called the "mountain cranberry," is very early, yields well, and is in good demand both for seed and culinary purposes. Beans may be planted later in the season than almost any other spring crop—they fill up very conveniently the few days between spring seeding and the hoeing which follows. The middle of June is full late for planting most varieties, for it is essential that the crop ripens before the frost comes. The soil most suitable is a warm, light loam, not too rich, and yet of medium fertility. On rich soils the growth runs mostly to vines; on wet soils they incline to rust. Probably the best soil is a sandy loam well swarded, which is turned over immediately before planting, harrowed down, and the beans then drilled in. Beans demand clean culture, but the time when they need hoeing most is generally in the hurry of haying and harvest.

but also the limits of our intellectual and corporeal vision must be indefinitely extended, before we can grasp the objects of overpowering grandeur which exist within the range of creation, and take a comprehensive view of the great creator's empire. In the meantime, however, it may be useful to allow our thoughts to expatiate on such subjects, and to endeavour to form as comprehensive an idea as possible of such a stupendous luminary as the Sun, in order to assist us in forming conceptions of objects still more grand and magnificent; for the Sun which enlightens our day is but one out of countless millions of similar globes, dispersed throughout creation, some of which may far excel it in magnitude and glory.

☾ The column of the moon's southing gives the time of high water at Parrisboro', Cornwallis, Horton, Hantsport, Windsor, Newport, Truro, &c.

To cut a potatoe to advantage for planting requires a little practice. Hold the potatoe in the left hand; cut the root end completely off, as the eye by the root should never be planted; it only produces small and watery potatoes. The next eye cut something like a half moon, observing not to cut through another eye; then turn the potatoe, and the next eye will be angular, the next half moon, and the next angular, and so on. Then the top of the potatoe (where there are a cluster of eyes) will in general be flat, when properly cut; those are to be cut in single eyes—be careful and keep these separate from the other cuts, as they should be planted by themselves, as they will ripen their tubers from a week to a fortnight earlier than the rest. Have two sets of hands to cut—one to cut off the tops and throw them by themselves, and the other to cut from that to the root end, reserving the top to be cut carefully for early use. This to any one who wants early potatoes will be an advantage. To raise potatoes to a profit, it is important to avoid much hard hoeing.

The Moon is the nearest to the Earth of all the celestial bodies, and is a constant attendant upon it at all seasons. Her distance from the centre of the Earth has been found with great accuracy, to be in round numbers, 240,000 miles, or about, 30 times the breadth of the Earth, and a little more than the fourth part of the diameter of the Sun. Small as this distance is compared with that of the other planets, it would require 16½ months for a railway carriage to move over the interval which separates us from the lunar orb, although it were moving day and night at the rate of 20 miles per hour, or at the rate of 1000 miles a day it would take 8 months to reach it. In the motion of the Moon round the Earth every month, she pursues her course at the rate of 2300 miles an hour. But she is carried at the same time, along with the Earth, round the Sun every year, so that her real motion in space is much more rapid than what has now been stated. For while she accompanies the Earth in its motion round the Sun—which is at the rate of 68,000 miles an hour—she also moves thirteen times round the Earth, during the same period, which is equal to a course of nearly twenty millions of miles. The Moon is at different distances from the Earth in different parts of her orbit. When at the greatest distance from the Earth, she is said to be in her apogee; when at the least distance, in her perigee. The nearer the Moon is to the periods of full or change, the greater is her velocity; and the nearer to the quadratures, or the periods of ☽ The column of the moon's southing gives the time of high water at Parrsboro', Cornwalls, Horten, Hantsport, Windsor, Newport, Truro, &c.

☽ The column of the moon's southing gives the time of high water at Parrisboro', Cornwallis, Horton, Hantsport, Windsor, Newport, Truro, &c.

The principal characteristic of the flower garden should be neatness. No matter how much may be expended on new and beautiful plants or how great the number of flowers, yet if neatness be neglected the effect of the whole is spoiled in the eyes of all persons who have been accustomed to see well kept gardens. A beautiful flowering plant may have all its loveliness destroyed by the remains of dead flowers or decaying leaves, or a fine specimen may be devoid of attraction for want of a little care and attention in tying up or training. So too rambling, straggling shrubs, climbers with no provision of strings or trellis, walks filled with weeds, borders foul with grass and noxious plants, are all unsightly to a person with a true perception of the proper keeping of a garden. All flowers and leaves which have begun to decay should be immediately removed, unless seeds are wanted, in which case only the dying petals of the flowers should be taken away.

A good draught of good water is, probably as refreshing to beasts as it is to people; but in this month nearly all domestic animals suffer far more than we imagine, for want of good water. Sheep will thrive far better if they can have access to pure water. Teams will endure the heat far better if they can have a plenty of clean pure water; and if milch cows must drink stagnant water wherever they can find it, how is it possible for them to give their usual flow of good milk? Some people allow water to stand in troughs, day after day, many times, and compel their animals to drink it all up. Did such people ever drink water from an old dirty slop pail, after it had been allowed to stand in the sunshine for two or three days? Milch cows require a vast quantity of pure water in hot weather, in order to produce their usual flow of good milk.

half-moon the slower she moves. When the Earth is in its perihelion, or nearest the Sun, the periodical time of the Moon is greatest. The Earth is at its perihelion in winter, and consequently, at that time the Moon will describe the largest circle about the Earth, and her periodical time will be the longest. But when the Earth is in its aphelion, farthest from the Sun, which happens in summer, she will describe a smaller circle, and her periodical time will be the least: All which circumstances are found to agree with observation. The irregularities of the Moon's motion have frequently puzzled astronomers, and mathematicians, and they render the calculations of eclipses and of her true place in the heavens a work of considerable labour. No less than 30 equations require to be applied to the mean FARMERS at the present understand much better than formerly, the importance of good cultivation to newly transplanted orchards. Many of them have learned that fine, costly, valuable trees from the nursery, might as well be thrown into the brush heap for fire, as left, in total neglect, to take care of themselves, after being transplanted. In an article communicated to the Abeille Pomologique by Professor Henry, he states that for 15 years he remarked that apple trees, the lower part of whose stem was covered with older pressings made double and treble the growth of trees that were not so treated. In applying it he removes the soil from around the trees to the distance of a radius of 21 inches, and as deep as the principal upper roots, and to each tree he puts 3 or 4 forkfuls of the mare or cider pressings, pressing it down with the foot, and covering it slightly with a portion of the removed soil. It is strongly recommended as a manure for fruit trees—thus turning to account a substance heretofore allowed to go to waste.

longitude in order to obtain the true, and about 24 equations for her latitude and parallax. But to enter minutely into such particulars would afford little satisfaction to the general reader. It is found that the real diameter of the Moon is 2180 miles, which is little more than the one fourth of the diameter of the Earth. The real magnitude of the Moon, therefore, is only about one forty-ninth part of that of the Earth. Although the apparent size of the Moon appears equal to that of the Sun, yet the difference of their real bulk is very great, for it would require more than sixty-three millions of globes of the size of the Moon to form a globe equal in magnitude to that of the Sun. Its surface, notwithstanding, contains a very considerable area, comprising nearly 15 millions of square miles, or about one third of the habitable parts of our globe; and were it as densely peo-

☽ The column of the moon's southing gives the time of high water at Parrsboro', Coruwallis, Horton, Hantsport, Windsor, Newport, Truro, &c.

On all parts of the Farmer's premises weeds are now beginning to ripen their myriad seeds, very few can say they have none. The following is the result of an examination of the number of seeds which some of the more common annual weeds ripen on a single plant. The green Fox-tail grass varies from 3,000 to 4,000 seeds; the brown Fox-tail 1,000 to 2,000; the Rag-weed, or Ambrosia, often 15,000; the Pig-weed or Amaranthus, 5,000; and the Lamb's quarters, also called Pig-weed, often at least 20,000. Some of the latter attain a height of 7 feet and upwards, and the number of seeds which each would produce would be from 50,000 to 100,000. A single plant would seed 10 acres! Many farmers wonder where all the weeds come from—they cannot conceive how so many should have become mixed through the soil, and some therefore insist that they grow without seed, spontaneously. Every farmer who passes by a single weed should know what figures say of the increase it may occasion.

pled as England, it would contain a population amounting to four thousand two hundred millions, which is more than five times the population of the Earth; so that the Moon although it ranks among the smallest of the celestial bodies, may contain a population of intelligent beings far more numerous, and perhaps far more elevated in the scale of intellect, than the inhabitants of our globe.

The planets known to the ancients were MERCURY, VENUS, MARS, JUPITER and SATURN—to these the moderns have added URANUS and NEPTUNE. MERCURY is nearest to the Sun of any that have yet been discovered, although a space of no less than 37 millions of miles intervenes between it and the central luminary. Its diameter is estimated at 3200 miles and its surface contains 32,000,000 of square miles.

The first requisite in the application of manure is its thorough pulverization. It is impossible if in lumps or masses to intermix it properly with the soil, and unless intermixed it cannot be of much value. Any one may perceive what would be the difference in the effect of two loads of manure on land, one as fine as saw-dust and diffused through the soil, and the other in lumps as large as one's head. One reason that the sediment deposited by irrigation is so beneficial, is the fineness of the matter; and the efficiency of liquid manuring is owing to the fine diffusion of the fertilizing materials through the soil. Manuring in autumn by spreading on the surface operates in the same way—the soluble parts being washed out and finely intermingled with the soil. In addition to the pulverization effected by harrowing, it would probably be an economical operation to fork over all manure, especially if long or fibrous, before drawing out and spreading, shaking all parts well to pieces, as in preparing it for a hot-bed.

The distance of VENUS from the Sun is about 68 millions of miles, and from the Earth, when nearest us about 27 millions of miles. Of all the luminaries of heaven, the sun and moon excepted, this planet is the most conspicuous and splendid. MARS is ascertained to be about 145 millions of miles from the sun, when at its greatest distance it is 240 millions of miles from the earth, and when nearest the earth it is only 50 millions of miles distant. It is estimated to be about 4200 miles in diameter, and contains more than 38 thousand millions of square miles. JUPITER, when nearest the earth is the most splendid of all the nocturnal orbs, except Venus and the Moon. Its distance from the sun is 495 millions of miles, and the circumference of its orbit 3,110,000,000 miles. When nearest the earth, at the time of its opposition to the sun, it is about 400 millions of miles distant from us. The planet SATURN may be considered in almost every respect as the most magnificent and interesting body within the limits of the planetary system. Its distance from the sun is 906 millions of miles, and when nearest the earth, it is 811 millions of miles distant. URANUS was discovered by Herschel in 1781. Its distance from the sun is 1,800,000,000 millions of miles, which is double the distance of Saturn. The discovery of the planet Neptune forms a remarkable era in the history of astronomy. Its distance from the sun is reckoned about thirty times that of the earth, or 2,850,000,000, and more than a thousand millions of miles beyond the orbit of Uranus. Its diameter is 50,000 miles, 250 times larger than the earth, and three times larger than Uranus, and above a hundred times larger than the earth and Moon, Mars, Venus, Mercury, Ceres, Pallas, Juno and Vesta together.

☽ The column of the moon's southing gives the time of high water at Parraboro', Cornwallis, Horton, Hantsport, Windsor, Newport, Truro, &c

The labours of the season having been devoted to the raising of crops, the period for their consumption has now arrived. As it is important, on the score of economy, to raise heavy crops, so it is equally important now to study the most economical means of feeding. The first point is to prevent loss by good and comfortable shelter. Exposure to freezing winds not only injures the growth and thrift of animals, but requires a greater amount of food to maintain animal heat. Sometimes the loss of animals, by death alone, towards spring, is greater than the cost of ample shelter. Feed regularly, that no loss of flesh may be occasioned by impatient fretting. Grain should be ground whenever practicable, for animals of whatever kind. Straw should be carefully saved, as it has so many uses. It may be employed largely in feeding animals, if a little grain or meal is fed to them at the same time. Be careful to keep cattle and other animals from meadows and pastures when the ground is soft, that they may not spoil the turf.

WHAT IS CATARRH?—It is a Terrific disease of the head,
It is a starting point and fruitful source of Bronchitis and consumption.

It affects the eyesight and causes dimness of vision and blindness.

It affects the organs of hearing and causes deafness and noises in the head.

It impairs the sense of taste and smell, and produces a pain in the head and temples.

It imparts to the breath an offensive odor by the corrupted secretions.

It acts upon the brain, and renders the sufferer forgetful, absent-minded and indifferent.

It obstructs the tear passages, causing the tears to overflow the eyelids and down the cheeks.

Dr Goodale is the first and only person who ever told the world what Catarrh really was—where it commenced, and how to treat and cure it. He is known throughout the Country as the Author of the only true theory of Catarrh ever published. Where its origiu—what it's ravages—mode of treatment—and rapid cure in all its forms.

Dr. Goodale's remedy may be obtained in Halifax at the agency of G. E. MORTON & CO. Descriptive pamphlets supplied free, on application to C. R. Parker, Blecker St. N. York. or the Halifax agents.

"STAR" LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY.

The Agent of this Society continues to effect Insurances on Lives in this Province on the most advantageous terms to the Assured.

As an illustration of the advance of the Company, the following comparative result is given of the four completed cycles of five years which have elapsed:—

	No. of Policies.	Sums Assured.	Premiums.
First Period, to 1848.....	2,204	£660,277	£22,506 15 11
Second Period, to 1853....	2,832	922,156	30,280 9 7
Third Period, to 1858.....	3,191	1,086,040	37,766 14 4
Fourth Period, to 1863....	4,792	1,721,252	60,031 5 0

of this number there remained in existence at the close of the year 9,370 Policies for the assurance of £3,229,841 10.

The Star Life Assurance Society was founded in 1843.

The Annual Revenue, &c., exceeds £120,000, and the accumulated fund on the 31st Decr., 1863, was £557,361 9s. 11d.

CLAIMS PAID.—The total claims arising from death which have been discharged by the Society amount to £309,000, and all claims are paid within 50 days of their being passed the Board.

NINE-TENTHS, OR NINETY PER CENT., of the Profits, ascertained every five years, are divided amongst Policy-holders entitled to participate therein; and Policy-holders to the amount of £500 and upwards are entitled to attend and vote at the Annual General Meetings. The Assured, by this arrangement, are made acquainted with the Management, State, and Prospects of the Society every year.

ASSETS.—The Assured have the security not only of the Capital Stock but of a large invested sum, amounting to more than Half a Million, which, with the well-known character of the Directors of the Society, is a substantial guarantee that all claims will be met with readiness and punctuality.

The following is a comparison of the amount of Income, Assets, and Surplus, at each period of division of Profits:—

	Income.	Assets.	Surplus.
1st Period, ended } Dec. 31, 1848, }	£18,454 7 0	£44,123 11 11	£15,000 0 0
1853.....	41,535 15 2	121,195 7 3	35,000 0 0

1863.....	109,265 4 4	553,326 2 8	122,456 11 4

The Surplus of £122,456 11s. 4d., now available for division, will, after appropriating one-tenth thereof to the Shareholders in accordance with the Deed of Settlement, be divided among the Policy-holders.

Opinions of the Press.

BELCHER'S FARMER'S ALMANACK.—At this gloomy season when "the day is dark and dreary," and coughs and cold are only driven out of the field to give place to the "blue devils," Belcher's Farmer's Almanack for 1865, (a copy of which has been presented to us by the publisher,) breaks through the gloom like a ray of summer sunshine and comes to gladden our hearts and refresh our intellects; with a perusal of its multifarious and varied contents, and although from the nature of the publication a sameness in some respects must continue from year to year; yet, notwithstanding this, the publisher continues to vary it so as to render it almost a new production every year. The Calendar pages are full and complete, and the predictions of the weather are as eagerly sought after as in the beginning of the days of Moore's Almanack, of London celebrity. The Clergy, the various Societies, Companies, Banks, the Legislature and Judiciary, County Offices, Post Office, Light Houses, Tariff of Duties, are all fully given, together with the Army, Navy, Militia and Volunteers.—of the Militia, every Regiment organized contains the names of all the Officers appointed up to the date of publication. As a compendium of useful information that every family should possess, Belcher's Farmer's Almanack need fear no competition; and in all respects the present Volume is, we think, superior to any of its predecessors. We further notice from the number of Advertisements that appear in this issue that the Advertising public are beginning to find the value of it as an advertising medium with its large circulation in all parts and sections of the country, kept and read over and over throughout the whole year; it constitutes the surest mode of publicity that can be had, always saving and excepting the columns of the "Evening Express."—Evening Express.

BELCHER'S FARMER'S ALMANACK, 1865. — A. & W. MacKinlay. Every one buys an Almanack once every year as a matter of course, and Belcher's Almanack is up to its usual mark. The Easter festival of the coming year falls late, within nine days of the latest date wherein it can possibly fall. The Almanack before us, thus prophesies the weather for the coming year:—Jan'y 4. 5. 6—overcast with appearance of snow; 13th,—becomes colder; 15,—continues very cold (worse luck) with (23rd to 31st.) strong symptoms of more snow. Feb. 1st.—clears up (thank Heaven;) 4th to 9th. and becomes very cold; 21st to 23rd continues dull and overcast (God help us;) Feb. 5th to 6th—cold and blustering (oh;) 14th to 19th—becomes colder (confound it;) 24th to 31st—more snow may be expected with sleet and rain (good Heavens!) April 20th warmer and more settled (how nice;) July 26 to 31st—beautifully fine and warm (hurrah!). Upon some matters of trifling importance, this Almanack is all abroad. If it be worth while to note the Imperial Regiments stationed in Halifax, it is surely worth while to give correct information regarding them. To correct the list of Officers quartered in Halifax, would entail more trouble and space than we can afford. It is a matter of very trifling moment, but "what's worth doing, is worth doing well."—The Bull Frog.

"BELCHER'S FARMER'S ALMANACK.—We have carefully perused this favourite annual for 1865, and must confess our surprise at the freedom from errors which characterise its compilation. The proprietor certainly has spared no effort to make the Almanack strictly reliable, and evidence of great care and trouble to this end is clearly indicated in every page. As in previous years we heartily recommend Belcher's Almanack to Farmer, Merchant and Mechanic, as a periodical which they will find eminently useful in the pursuance of their respective vocations. For Sale at Messrs Mackinlay's, Granville Street."—Acadian Recorder.

{BELCHER'S FARMER'S ALMANACK.—The fortieth number of this indispensable Annual has just been laid upon our table by the proprietor. To say that Belcher's compilation contains every thing necessary to render an Almanack useful to the public would be superogatory; and the fact that the work was issued from the press of J. Bowes & Sons is, at all times, a guarantee for its typographical excellence. For sale everywhere throughout the Province."—Halifax Reporter.

WANTED by a Gentleman going into the patriotic line, a few GRIEVANCES of strong manufacture, warranted to wear well. Also some materials for making a good Mob, that will not shrink in the washing, if a shower of rain should come on. Best price given for Old Grievances, if they are not too much worn, and will admit of turning over to the other side. Good substantial Wrongs, to which there are no appropriate Rights, will be taken with alacrity by the advertiser, whose object is chiefly occupation; but he is indifferent as to its being profitable to any body but himself.

Apply to J. ARNOT, Rotten Row.

MATRIMONIAL AGENCY.—Mrs. BRIDGET NORTH begs to inform the connubially disposed portion of the community, that, at the suggestion of several single ladies about thirty, and of numerous juvenile gentlemen who have just attained their majority a second time, she has opened a MATRIMONIAL AGENCY OFFICE at No 1 Huggin Lane, where, from long and successful experineee, she trusts to be honoured by the confidence of the single, and the generous acknowledgments of the married.

Ladies who have lost the registries of their births can be supplied with new ones for any year they please, and the greatest care will be taken to make them accord with the early recollections of the lady's school-fellows and cousins of the same age. Gentlemen who wear wigs, false calves, or artificial teeth, or use hair-dye, &c., will be required to state the same, as no deception can be countenanced by the advertiser. Young gentlemen with large mustachios and small incomes will find the Matrimonial Agency Office well worthy attention; and young ladies who play the piano, speak French, and measure only eighteen inches round the waist, cannot better consult their own interests than by making an early application.

N.B.—Wanted several buxom widows. If in weeds will be preferred.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"These books are a decided improvement upon the character of the works usually adopted in our Common Schools, and will, no doubt, before long, very generally supersede them."—Chronicle.

"We have great pleasure in heartily recommending them to the teachers of youth."—Wesleyan.

"The typography is excellent, and in general appearance can hardly be surpassed."—Express.

"We have examined each of these books and have much pleasure in expressing our warm approval of them."—Christian Messenger.

"We have received the numbers already out of hands from the enterprising publishers Messrs A. & W. Mackinlay, and it is justly due to them to say that they have conferred a boon upon their country."—Recorder.

"The publishers Messrs Mackinlay deserve the thanks and encouragement of every friend of Education, for the style in which they have furnished the above volumes."—Colonist.

The "NOVA SCOTIA SERIES," so far will compare favourably with any in the world, and is very far in advance of any American Series ever seen in our Schools. For cheapness, for excellence of matter and of paper and print, this Series will distance all competition. The easy gradation with which book follows book will commend itself to all who have had any experience in the training of youth. It will be a great and permanent advantage to the education of the Province to have a Series such as this within reach of all our Schools. Messrs Mackinlay deserve well of their country for their enterprise, and the very great care and skill with which these works have been prepared. We congratulate teachers and scholars on the innumerable advantages they now enjoy in climbing up the "hill of knowledge;" and when we see these charming juvenile books we are tempted to say or sing "O would I were a boy again!"—Witness.
