Some of the Ships Have Gone What Will the Turkish Fleet Do?

If the Queen Elizabeth and consorts get thru the Dardanelles, what will the Turkish fleet do? Fight, or blow up, or leak into a Bulgarian port on the Bla TURKISH SHIPS GATHER Sea and intern? The German soldiers and sallors will make a rush for Bulgarla n the hope of getting into Austria.

'And Where the Turk?

The Turkish army may remain and fight, but most likely it will go with the Sultan and government across the Straits into Asia Minor. The Turk's day has come to get out of Europe, at least as a nation, as a persecutor of Europeans. The Moor in Spain, the Turk north of the Straits of Bosphorus were always a misfit. Not only must the Turk get out of Constantinople and out of Europe, but any sovereignty he has left in Asia Minor will have to be dropped, too, and any sovereignty he has left in Asia Minor will have to be dropped, too, and he move still further east, perhaps into the deserts of Arabia; and if he does not see fit to do this he will have to swear allegiance to the flag under which he finds himself. But no more Turkish government! He's already out of Egypt

The greatest literature the world ever knew. especially in the way of poetry, of drama, of sacred writing, of prophetic vision, came from the shores of the Mediterranean. So also in the way of art; and there is every reason to believe that art and literature will come back to their former glories in that land of ancient civilization and history.

Nearer Home.

The rising spirits of the people of Great Britain can be seen, but there is no shoutng, only a pulling at the collar load with more determination than ever: New and greater super-Dreadnoughts will soon be out of the yards and at sea; new and greater armies with immense supplies of ammunition are being crowded into France in marvelous despatch, and the empire and her allies grow in moral force and fighting power. Great Britain has grown in these two essentials, moral in the night. And well that it is so.

It was now Monday, and again nothing happened until I was taken downstairs and asked another thousand or so questions, all of which were faithfully entered in a ledger built extra large for the purpose. By this time I was eating sparingly at times of the food they brought me.

On Monday, at noon, they gave me permission to write to the consulate, where I had many good friends, and I sent that letter off by special messenger, and it was delayed until the next day at 5. The consul general's reply was likewise delayed eighteen hours.

They asked me so many irrelevant, ridiculous questions that I used to sit thru the seances with only a sily idea in my head: "In a minute they are going to ask me if I have ever heard of Anna Held."

I told them my every amusement since I had arrived in Germany, every question I had ever directed to any one, how much my salary was and how I received it, what my sentiments were toward the ailies, if I played poker; had my paper sent me there to deny Mr. Bennett's stories?—and a thousand more.

Patriotism and Production Meeting in Dundas Town Hall

'GET TOGETHER' PLAN

Farmers, Business Men and Manufacturers Should Cooperate for People

By a Staff Reporter.

DUNDAS, Ont., March 6.—On Wednesday a patriotism and production agricultural conference was held in the town hall under the auspices of the Dominion and Ontario Departments of Agriculture. In the afternoon the chair was occupied by Warden John Douglas and addresses were delivered by A. R. Smith of New Hamburg, president of the Waterloo Board of Agriculture, and R. W. Wade, director of the live stock branch of the Ontarlo department. Mr. Smith gave a most interesting address on "The Duty and Opportunity of Canadian a most interesting address on 'The Duty and Opportunity of Canadian Farmers," in which he called upon all the farmers to sink their political and other differences and to get together and work for the common good in

Mr. Wade dealt with the question of food supplies from the live stock standpoint. He expressed the opinion that Canadians are a rule were not as united as they might be and stated that now there were reconstructed. that now there was a splendid opportunity for the farmers, business men sistance.

Pavlowa Academy Has Many Advantages Over the Old Fashion Way.

A great many people nowadays are talking about the benefits to be derived from the modern dances. That health, grace and style are improved by these dances where the proper conditions exist there can be no doubt. Good ventilation is important to any indoor exercise, and here is where Pavlowa Academy has such big advantage over the small places with low ceilings. The high arched roof at this academy, coupled with the perfect ventilation, always ensures a large volume of pure fresh air at all times.

Pavlowa Academy is getting big crowds these nights, and the class of people that attend this place are counted among the best in the city. It is very doubtful if there is another amusement of any kind in Canada, where the class of patronage equals Pavlowa Academy.

At the very beginning, when this academy first opened, it was made and the class of patronage equals the content of the content of the proper of food. Were every householder of food. Were e where the class of patronage equals Pavlowa Academy.

At the very beginning, when this academy first opened, it was made known that Pavlowa would cater only to the very best people in this city, and this policy has always been in force. The Pavlowa School of Dancing is an excellent school to learn the new dances. You will find superfor conditions for pupils and a system in vogue which enables you to learn the Fox Trot; Hesitation or One-step in a remarkable short time and at a moderate cost.

MAKING TROUSERS FOR THE TROOPS

Women and Girls Respond to Appeal by Walkerville

WINDSOR, Ont. March 6. — The Peabody Company, Walkerville, which has a contract for making 200,000 pairs of trousers for the British soldiers, has sent out an appeal to any woman or girl who can sew, by hand, to come to the factory and assist in getting out the work, which calls for 5000 pairs a day.

Many married women of the border municipalities have given their services, deeming it an act of patriotism, as the sooner the trousers are made the sooner the men can get to the firing line. Several wives of volunteers are working at the plant now. Everybody who works at the plant is being well paid their their efforts.

The confession of Mr. Carter's independence came as somewhat of a surprise to the house. In response to a government gibe, espring to his feet and declared that he offered no defence for the Liberal party. He came in to abolish the bar, but apart from that no party held him in leash. A Conservative wag has suggested that he sit beside Allan Studholme to save confusion when the division bells ring.

Gustave Evanturel, the French-Canadian member from Prescott, is still in the chouse and likely to remain there. The notoriety he achieved a year ago is not forgotten by the members, as their actions show. Liberal supporters clam that he son the outside looking in, but he denies it vigorously. "I was elected a straight Liberal," he declares, "and I will vote Liberal," he declares, "and I will vote Liberal," he declares, "and I will vote Liberal at all times." As a matter of fact, he is playing a lone hand in the house. Distinguished by a brilliant tie, he sits all day at his desk writing endless letters.

Ontario will enjoy all the benefits of a mild moratorium without enduring the disadvantages of advertisment which such a name would bring. There was hardly a dissenting voice raised in committee against the changing of the name to the Mortgagors' and Purchasers' Relief Act. The significance of the measure can hardly be overestimated. It affects the workman in his cottage and the capitalist on the hill. In Toronto which of late years has focussed the bulk of provincial real estate activities the new act will have an unusually wide field of application.

On Sunday afternoon "A Festival of Praise" will be held, at which Hon. Thomas Crawford, M.L.A., with preside. Under the title of "The World's Redeemer," a pictorial service will be given on Thursday, March 11, when 100 exceptionally fine stereoptican slides will be shown.

The campaign will conclude on Monday, March 15, with a United Praise Festival by the staff songsters, the Lisgar Citadel Silver Band and Lisgar Songster Brigade.

It appears from the bookings of the Parker Entertainment Bureau, that in spite of the war times the day on which green rules supreme is to be celebrated in the same festive manner cussion when the bill lay on the table during the week. Mark Irish of Toronto urged that the responsibility of proving inability to pay principal amounts should rest upon the mortgaas in the past. The artists are all fully prepared with complete repertoires which will bring back memories of gor instead of the mortgagee, and that he should have to apply for extension instead of the mortgagee being forced to secure court approval before fore-closing. The point stood unchanged, old Erin. At the present rate of booking they will all be engaged for the 17th, so that St. Patrick concert committees desiring the services of any of them should act quickly if they wish to avoid disappointment.

CHICAGO, March 6.—Suspension of building operations in Chicago is said to be threatened by a lockout of 900 lathers, which was declared by contractors today, as their reply to a demand for higher wages. Seven buildcases men could not prove whether the war was responsible or not. Allan Studholme, the labor member, in great agitation declared that the restriction rendered the measure useless to the workingman. The stand of the attorney-general was that interference with business contracts was only warrantable under exceptional circumstances, and these the war supplied. Judges were given wide powers and would be disposed in all cases to grant what relief was necessary.

"For a long time. I have thought of writing you regarding what I term a most remarkable cure effected by your remedy 'Fruit-a-tives' I suffered from Rheumatism, especially, in my hands I have spent a lot of money without any good results. I have taken 'Fruit-a-tives' for 18 months now, and am pleased to tell you that I am cured. All the enlargement has not left my hands and perhaps never will, but the soreness is all gone and I can do any kind of work I have gained 35 pounds in 18 months."

CHALONS - SUR - MARNE, France, March 6.—(iaV Paris, 5.45 p.m.)—A fleet of aeroplanes, many of the machines driven by the better known of the military aviators in this region, flew slowly above the cemetery at Lepine today during the burial of Lieut. Mouchard and Sapper Maillard. The two men were killed when their aeroplane caught fire and fell. The accident occurred during the night patrol, and the flames from the burning aircraft were seen for miles.

In the years when it is said that we were disloyal, many years ago, he was one of us, and if we were disloyal, the minister of finance laid the foundation of that disloyalty, or was a party to it. We are not disloyal. The people of Canada from Prince Rupert and the Yukon across to the Atlantic Ocean are as patriotic and as loyal as any people in the British domains, England herself not excepted. I think the minister of finance rather forgot England herself not excepted. I think the minister of finance rather forgot himself when he lectured us along that line. Sir. the hon member for Red Deer (Mr. M. Clark) has shown whether or not he is loyal; he has a son with the Princess Patricias, fighting in France at this moment in de-fence of his country. That empty seat to my left, once occupied by the Hon. Dr. Beland, attests more forcibly than any words of the finance minister or of anybody else the loyalty of that son of French Canada. Another hon, gentleman, a French-Canadian member (Mr. Gauvreau) has a son defending the great countries to which fending the great empire to which we belong. Is this a time, when we are asking men of all races and of all nationalities in this country to stand shoulder to shoulder in the fight for shoulder to shoulder in the fight for liberty, for a minister of the crown to stand up and fling across the floor of the house the taunt that we are not selzed of the importance of the fact that Britain and her allies are forcing that many that Barbanelles? their way thru the Dardanelles?

M R. WHITE and his friends, of course, protest that Mr. Graham had no provocation and that his onslaught was entirely uncalled for. It must be admitted that the word "disloyalty" was not used by the fi-nance minister. On the other hand he certainly opened the door for Mr. Graham's vigorous protest by saying, in effect, that the Liberals took so lit-tle interest in the war that they were taking up the time of the house discussing petty changes in tariff taxation. He was endeavoring to raise a laugh rather than a disturbance when he recalled Mr. Pugsley's contention that "squid," a fish balt, was some kind of an insecticide but many tragedies have been precipitated by what was intended to be a humorous sally. We quote from Hansard just what was said by Mr. White and the reader must judge for himself to what extent the Graham retort was justified. Mr.

White said: "I am surprised to learn that hon gentlemen opposite do not seem to be aware that a war is now proceeding. It has been borne in on me on many occasions; it was borne in on me yesterday. Intellectual as my hon, friend the member for St. John is, he lacks the vision and imagination. While the great allied fleet has been smashing its way thru the Dardanelles on the way to Constantinople, and, according to the despatches, the allies and Turkish troops are in conflict on the Plains of Troy, where gods and heroes contended in phehistoric times, what was by hon, friend discussing in this house? The duty upon squid. Reduction ad ab-The duty upon squid. Reductio ad absurdum—fertilizers and squid. Having regard to the fact that there is in progress a war not only greater than any that has ever occurred in the history of the world, but greater than the aggregate of all wars that have ever taken place, I would point out that the people will expect hon, gentlemen to get a proper sense of the perspective of the situation."

GRAHAM really seems to be no point in digging up the dreadnought question in a speech on the budget nor is much to be gained by historical reminiscences dating back to Alexander Mackenzle and Sir John Macdonald. Mr. Scott did not transgress in either

In view of the fact that the new government program will gridiron the province with macadam roads, which are of high standard quality, but very prone to dust, the problem of dust prevention will obtain the special attention of Major Crosby, consulting en-gineer of the Maryland Geological Commission. He will also deal with the most efficient methods of coping with the dust nuisance in cities.

By a Staff Seporter.

HAMILTON, Ont., March 6.—Another meeting between representatives of the C. P. R., T. H. & B., the city of the C. P. R., T. H. & B., the city officials and representatives of southwest end residents interested in the question of grade separation in connection with the T. H. & B. tracks along Hunter street, will likely be held in the office of George A. Mountain, chief engineer of the Dordinion Raliway Board of Commissioners, at Ottawa next week some time, according to information given out by R. L. Latham, chief engineer of the T. H. & B. Company, and A. F. Macallum, city engineer, vesterday.

A conference of those interested in the question was held a short time ago, but the various engineers did not agree as to some of the estimates, and suggestions for changes in the various plans were made and the engineers instructed to draw up new plans. The most of the revised plans have been prepared and yesterday City Engineer Macallum received those prepared by the T. H. & B engineers, showing a revised scheme for separating street and railway grades by track elevation along Hunter street.

showing a revised scheme for separating street and railway grades by track elevation along Hunter street. The estimated cost of the elevated scheme is placed at $648.103, exclusive of land damages and legal expenses. The revised plans provide for track elevation from the east end of the tunnel to a point immediately east of Wellington street, the highest point of elevation, which will be between John and Catherine streets, being fifteen feet.

"The supply is exhausted. Others Macallum and other city officials, and struggle still who tomorrow will be without bread.

An Event of Commanding Importance

Is Proving a Consistent Success

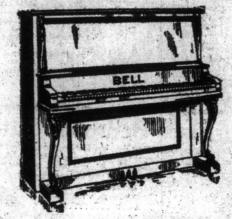

Right from the opening day of this vast clearance sale there has been a stream of visitors in our showrooms, who have frankly expressed their appreciation of the values and bought. We have also had over a dozen letters from pleased purchasers expressing their entire satisfaction with their instrument, and voluntarily assuring us that they will tell their friends of their uncommonly good bargain.

Time is rapidly passing, and the shipment of hundreds of Pianos and Player-Pianos may be sent on any day from the factory, where there is considerable over-produc occasioned by our endeavors to keep running full time during the winter months.

We emphatically repeat that never in the history of Canadian Piano selling have such deeply cut prices and extremely easy terms been offered on such high-class instruments as are included in this gigantic clearing sale. You should assuredly come in and inspect before the showing becomes too restricted, if in the least interested or likely to be making a purchase during 1915.

"Yellow Crest" kindly sent us by his owner Mr. Willis Sharpe Rilmer. "Yellow Crest" is a thorobred stallion, 17 hands by "Yellow Tail" who was by "Imp. Watercress." When racing on the flat he was known as "Captain John." The first time shown he took first prize in the thorobred stallion class at New Yory city. Mr. Kilmer has a very neatly gotten up book describing the Kilmer stud, with photos. Jasper Red Heart is the ideal type of thorobred hunter sire, 16.2 hands in height, a years old and winner in many hunter classes in England. He is by the great thorobred sire, Red Heart one of the best sires of Hunters in England and combines the most fashionable strains including several Derby and St. Leger winners; his dam is the noted Diamond, one of the greatest show mares ever bred. Some others in the book are Lady Elleen by St. Simon and his dam a daughter of Kermit. Others are "Tip Toe" a wonderful breedy looking mare who showed at Olympia and was the only mare in over 700 entries to finish with a perfect, score and was placed second. She was foaled in 1905, stands 16.1 and her breeder is the noted cross-country rider and authority, Mr. William Lane; "Monte" a bay mare, a natural jumper who has hunted for some time with the Kilmer hounds; "Transport" 16.1; "Lady Golden" 15.3. Monte, Lady Golden and India all have fine foals by Yellow Crest and Tip Toe and will be shown at all the leading shows this season. Mr. Kilmer has a place in Virginia also.

He has named the place in honor of his wonderful mare "Lady Seaton," who, with other innumerable prizes, won the championship at London for the best harness horse in the show. Mr. Moore's place is at the old driving park where fifty years ago Dexter (2.17%) and Ethan Allen (2.25%) trotted.

On March 9, Mr. Walter H. Hanley, will sell all his prize-winning horses at Van Tassell and Kearney's.

Not much more than half a dozen two-year-olds bred by the late James R. Keene will be on the turf next season. The crop of foals at the Castleton stud was extremely light in 1913, and most of these, with their dams, were destroyed by fire in the year they were foaled. Foxhall P. But in order to make a good showing against his conqueror lie must be keyed up to his best. He lost to Welsh because he was less speedy, and his eye for distance was less keen. These are just the qualities that are affected most by a long absence from the ring.

Judging by past performances, however, the chances of a knockout are not worth mentioning. No real champion has ever lost his title in a no decision bout, and from the present outlook it will be many years before such a thing does happen. BOYS AND GIRLS BUSY AT CITY REC REATION CENTRES

Indoor Athletics Hold the Board-Girls' Standing Broad Jump a New Feature—The Doings at McCormick, East Riverdale, Morse Street and Moss Park Centres

since the boys and girls are doing their share in the entertaining. This Saturday the sailors' hormpipe and Swedish singing game are the specials for the girls.

The McCormick Centre Circle meets next Wednesday. This meeting is to be in the form of a wish party. The members are looking forward to this, and each is preparing a special surprise.

The finals in the Easketball House League are to be played off next week. Unusual activities have held sway at McCormick Recreation Centre during the past week. Every night has seen a feature started, with the result that the multitudinous impulses of all the boys have had ample scope for development.

For the first time in the history of playground work in Toronto, social dancing has been started. So successful has this departure become that a dancing class is conducted every Monday evening for the benefit of the boys and girls of the playground. Already a large number have learned to dance, and many more are learning.

have learned to dance, and many more are learning.

A circulating library has also been added to she many departments at this busy centre, and from the well-filled bookcases the boys and girls are able to choose scores of interesting and educating books. So popular has this library become that plans are being laid for its enlargement and improvement next season. The billiard tournaments, which are in progress, for every class, are fast narrowing down into the finals and some very exciting games have been witnessed. In the juvenile section, Jack Fleming looks like the winner, and in the junior Nort Clarke appears to have the edge on his rivals. The seniors have not yet reached the stage where a winner could be picked.

Last Saturday evening at the moving picture performence the stage where a winner could be picked.

standing broad jump is a decidedly new feature on the City Playgrounds, and, judging from the enthusiasm with which it was greeted, it is likely to become a Special triangelo competitions have also junior and senior classes. This game promises to rival billiards, of which the McCormick boys are so proud.

The Morse Street Recreation Centre had a record attendance last Friday, when an afternoon party was held for the school girls. A number of good old games were played, and just at the right time refreshments arrived on the scene, and things moved along merrily until it was time to go home.

Just at present much interest is being taken by Morse street recreation centre in folk dancing. The girls are preparing to render some of these pretty dances at a concert to be held in the Morse Street Public School towards the end of the month.

the clubs' players, over seventy-five boys witnessing the consest. It was a bit surprise that Sammy went down to defeat, but Choate played the steadies game and won quite handily by 500 points to 403.

The Indoor Baseball League, too, is attracting at ention, not only of the boys who are playing the game, but each team has its particular followers, who turn out to cheer their favorites on to victory. Two good games were played on Thursday evening, the first between the Maple Leafs and Ontarios, the former winning their game by 19 runs to 5. The second game was close and keenly contested thruout, the Canadians defeating the Beavers 12-11.

There will be indoor baseball teams entered in all divisions of the Playground League, which begins this coming week. The boys who are trying sto make the team are working hard with this end in view.

the boys who are trying to make the team are working hard with this end in view.

There is still room for more boys in the wrestling classes on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, and any of the boys of this centre who intend to compete in the championships to be held at the end of this month should not fall to attend these classes and get all the instruction possible before that time.

Marbles, marbles everywhere, that is the impression that one gets upon entering the front door of this centre. Marble week has proven itself to be well worth while, judging from the enthusiasm of the boys, and the numbers who are engaged in rolling the small spheres. Over two hundred boys, large and small (including the supervisors) are enjoying this great boys' game, and visitors as they stop at the club to watch the games in progress and listen to the joyous laughter of the boys say that activities of this nature are well worth while.

Osler Recreation Centre.

Close to one hundred boys took part in the games at the centre Friday night. The Junior Basketball House League played their scheduled games. In the first contest Kelley's team had an off night, Willie having no trouble piling up a large score on him. The second game resulted in one of the most exciting games ever played at the centre. Calaway and sands were the opposing teams, and at full time the score read 19 all. After two minutes overtime Wilson dropped in a clever side shot, and Galaway came out on top 21-19. into Hungary. With all their new formations that could be raised, and with a strong backing of Germans. they brought a great new army thru Bukowina and again attempted to envelop the Russian left, which lies facing southward near the Roumanian border.

New Army Oriven Back.

This new army under Archduke Joseph Ferdinand pushed northward thru Nadvorna by forced marches upon Stanislau, an old Polish town of many historical monuments. The Russians, who have had a small force there for six months, were reinforced and had their dispositions chosen for a great battle. They drew outside of the town and entrenched themselves eight miles north while another Russian army crossed to the eastward from the Wyszkow Pass against the advancing Austrians. The earlier fighting among the bushy hills was conducted entirely by infantry until the Austrian flank protections were driven into the more open country. Then the Russians brought forward all, arms for an attack. The Austrians retreated eastward from the Lomnitza River and their left wing was threatened with an envelopment. It began to break away from the main column and, to hasten backwards on the Nadvorna and the River Pruth, suffering terribly under the magnificent charge of the Russian troops.

LONDON, March 6th. — Exportations from Germany of such goods as Great Britain desires and is able to obtain from that country will be permitted by the British Government, notwithstanding the declaration of Premier Asquith that Great Britain and her allies would prevent commodities of any kind from reaching or leaving Germany. This point was made clear in a statement respecting the blockade policy which was delivered in the house of commons today by Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade.

"If it is necessary that we should get, and if we can get some goods from Germany—for instance, if we require explosives and can get them from Germany—we certainly shall do so," he

That surgeon was the now famous Catarrh Specialist Sproule. His keen brain had early seen in the then new disease. Catarrh, a menace to the life and happiness of the civilized world. While other physicians were neglecting it as unimportant, Specialist Sproule world. While other physicians were neglecting if as unimportant, Specialist Sproule that foreseen, Catarrh spread with frightful rapidity. Thirty years ago Catarrh was almost unknown. Now no age or sex is exempt from it. No climate or locality is a cure for it. It is in many cases the forerunner of Consumption. Vital statistics show that deaths from Consumption in this country have increased in the last five years in startling mahlon. Altogether too many of these cases have been traced back to Catarrh as their starting point.

Catarrh Specialist Sproule, the first to make Catarrh a specialty, has perfected a scientific, constitutional treatment which has cured hundreds and hundreds of cases of Catarrh. Many hundreds of Canadian people, throughout the provinces, bless the day they saw his advertisement fifteen or twenty years ago.

The widely advertised so-called "Catarrh cures" often do more harm than good, by driving the Catarrh germs deeper into the system. Painful stomach disorders and even more serious troubles have thus originated.

LIOUOR LAW IS NO PROTECTION

Dominion Alliance Will Send Full Delegation to Premier Hearst.

TEMPERANCE IN WEST

T. H. Miller of Alberta Says His Province Will Be Dry by July.

Great applause greeted the announcement of Rev. Canon Greene at the alliance convention at Massey Hall yesterday afternoon that Premier Hearst would receive the convention delegates in a body as a deputation at the parliament buildings at 11.15 today.

the parliament buildings at 11.15 today.

Rev. Dr. Shearer startled the convention when he presented the report of the committee on legislation, which asked for immediate provincial prohibition or another provincial referendum on the question of its adoption.
F. S. Spence declared that the people of Ontario were sick and tired of referenda and plebiscites. To ask for another one would lower the stand taken last year. It was less than the Liberal party now offered. The Rowell policy was chiefly criticized by Conservative speakers because it was not strong enough. Instead of asking for another plebiscite, he moved:

"That this convention respectfully calls the attention of the government to the fact that the Untario liquor law as it stands today neither protects the people from the evils of liquor selling nor gives them adequate power to protect themselves, and respectfully declares that no legislation can be considered satisfactory that does not provide such protection in practical and effective form."

county Local Option.

Rev. William Kettlewell made an earnest appeal to the convention to ask the government for county local option on a majority basis.

Indications of an old-time split in the convention were manifested, but it was averted by a prompt reference back of the committee's report for an agreed upon policy to be prepared for this morning's session.

Mrs. May R. Thornley urged the convention to send a petition to Premier Borden to protest against the Canadian troops being given the "wet" canteen once they leave the Dominion. The question was referred to the resolution committee.

Alberta Dry—July.

"Alberta dry next July is the slogan in my province now," said T. H. Miller of Alberta. He stated that this coming July would see that province vote on a prohibition plebiscite. He prophesied that Alberta would go dry. The only portion of Alberta now under prohibition was the Mormon colony.

Forty per cent of the counties of

H. R. Grant of Nova Scotia said that the licenses in that province were now confined to Hallfax. With sevennow confined to Halifax. With seventeen prohibitionists in the legislature there was reason to believe that a demand shortly to be made on that body for provincial prohibition would be granted. If not obtained, prohibition would be made the issue at the next provincial election in eighteen months. "That prohibition had emptied the jails in Prince Edward Island." declared Rew Donald McDonald of that province. The prohibitionists there were now working for Dominion prohibition.

A response to the greetings from the other provinces was made on be-half of the Ontario Alliance by Joseph

CARLTON ANNIVERSARY.

Carlton Street Methodist Church anniversary services held last Sunday and Tuesday evenings were among the most successful in the history of the church. On Sunday morning and evening the services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. R. J. D. Simpson. Tuesday evening an old-fashioned tea meeting was held, and a feature was the address by the pastor. The financial results were especially gratifying.

THE ROYAL ONTARIO MUSEUM

BY MARGARET MACLEAN ARTICLE I

Miss Margaret Maclean has writ-ten especially for The Sunday World a series of four articles on the Royal Ontario Museum. Little has been published about this museum. The collections there are fine, in many respects equal to anything of the kind in Europe. There is no catalog as yet, and people really do not know what good things they have at their own doors. Miss Maclean's articles doors. Miss Maclean's articles will describe some of the best features of the museum, which is situated at the southwest corner of Bloor and Avenue road.

These voyages had taken place so long ago that Queen Hatshepshut only knew of them by a hearsay so vague as to be almost a fairy tale. One day, when the queen was in the temple of her favorite god, Amen, she felt a sudden inspiration and knew that it was the god commanding her to send an expedition to this almost forgotten land. In obedience she at once equipped her galleys, fitted them with picked crews, and with a roval envoy in command, ordered them to search or the "Divine Land," or Punt. These ships, very similar to the ones shown in the case of "models from tombs" in

In due time the ships reached the mouth of what the party the Elephant Biver in Somelia. is now the Elephant River in Somaliis now the Elephant River in Somali-land and safled up to a village of the Punites. The royal envoy landed and, to show that he had come in peace, laid out five bracelets, two gold necklaces, a dagger with a belt and sheath, a battle-axe and eleven strings of a battle-axe and eleven strings glass beads; just such a present as a European explorer would give today to an African chief. Their return cargo was varied and valuable—elephant tusks, gold. ebony, apes, greyhounds, leopard skins and silver (called white gold.) The most important part of the cargo was the incense gum and sycamore trees from which it exudes. An unexpected piece of freight was a an unexpected piece of freight was a giraffe, the most curious creature the good folk of Thebes had ever seen. It required much nautical skill to bring such heavily laden boats safely back, but this was accomplished and the voyage of discovery was declared so great a success that a grand proceson was organized in its honor. A part of this procession is shown in the long line of pictures labelled "The Expedition to Punt," on the first floor in one of the east rooms of the mus-

Paradise for Amen. In a nook in the limestone cliffs across the river from Thebes, Queen across the river from Theoes, Queen Hatshepshut's father, being somewhat of an archaeologist, had begun a very wonderful temple based on the lines of a near-by sanctuary that had stood there for hundreds of years, but the superstructure was unlike any other in Egypt. From the desert sands it rose by terrace after terrace, each layer bordered with rows of beautiful limestone pillars, until at last the cliffs were reached and chamber after chamber was cut in the living rock, the most sacred of all, the Holy of Holies was farthest from the entrance. Queen Hatshepshut, who succeeded to the throne on the death of her father, decided to make this wonderful temple even more wonderful and cell the even more wonderful and call it a "Paradise for Amen," the god who had ugges ed to her the voyage to Punt.

So she planted the sacred incense-trees, brought from the "Divine Land," on the terraces, and then on the walls of the temple had her artists carve and paint the full story which can be read to this day. The names of the artists could not come down to us for religious reasons, but the name of the architest is known. It is Sen-Mut.

CHICAGO, March 6.—Steve. Well Steve before I write you an other letter I wont be single no more, but I will be married and its comes off next Wednesday night. & getting ready to get married is as good is a transing trip Steve because it keeps a man husling a round so they ain't no chance for him to stay fat the of corse I dent never get fat because I all ways take good care of my self and dent never take a drink out side of beer & onct in a wile a little skee & gin when I dent feel good. But I bet Im down to wait now because I must of tooken off 5 or 10 lbs. in the passed wk. troting a round & doing this in that.

I finely got threw at the taylor & I wisht some of the people at home could see me when Im married Steve because Im going to look swell & that aint no conseat neither but a man should ought to look swell when you get robbed by 1 of them taylors. All as he made for me was a dress sute of evening close & a extra pare of trousers to ware with the blue sute I got last fall and the new trousers & the sute aint quiet exactly the same coller of blue but so close that you cant tell them a like a t night & thats when a man wants to look good. And soaked me $50.00 dollars. Im going to ware the new trousers & my blue sute when we go a way after the weding & wear going to racine and Milwaukee and then come back here on acct I dont dare stay a way from Chicago to long because Bresnahan might want I should go south a head of the club and may be help him brake in the new out fielders.

I still got a hole lot left to do includeing to get the lisence & they will stick me up $2.00 for that and the land lady where I bord at says I should ought to buy a new sute case but nothing doing because the 1. I got is good enough and besides its got my inishuls on it and labbles from all the diffrunt hotels where the clubs stops at on the road and may be some of the peopl where we go on our honey moon will reckonize me but if they do and try and talk to me I wont say nothing but oretend like I dident think they was talking to me but I guess that wont fool them none eh Steve espesially when it will of been in all the papers a bout me getting married.

Gussys runing a round like a chicken with out their head cut off & acts like she was as busy is a danceing teacher or some thing but I dont see where shes got anything to do out side of get her close nied and her old close mend it up and anser a few letters and so 4th. The presents have beggin comeing & the peopl that sent the most of them we got so far could of kept them with out makeing me sore at them but some of far could of kept them with out makeing me sore at them but some of them is O. K. includeing a cut glass dish that will be O. K. to lay the ciggars in when we have Co. & 1 big chair that it just a about fits me but thats only 1 & Gussy cant set on my lap all the wile and 1 guess she wil half to do her setting down wile Im to the ball pk. practiceing in the A. M. unlest some body comes acrost with an other chair. I sent a invatation to pres. Thomas the pres. of the club and to both C. P. Taff & C. W. Murphy so as to be sure Id get the man that owns the club because some peopl say I owns it & some the other. But nothing has came some peopl say I owns it & some the other. But nothing has came from nether 1 of them yet or nothing from pres. Thomas & probly there all going in to gether & get me some thing handsome may be a sute of close or a sofa or a davenport & of corse that ain't the same davenport that pitched for Cinncinatti for a while but this is some thing you lie on and its no wonder the other davenport jumped to the federal because if he had stayed in our league I would of drove him back to the bushs if they had of gave me a chance to hit against him because all as he had was a little speed and thats my meet eh Steve.

Well Steve your present hasent showed up yet & probly you made your mind up to not send nothing & if you did all right & dont worry a bout it only I thot may be you might of send some thing and may be send it to the wrong a dress & thats why we dident get it but dont worry a bout giveing me nothing and we will say no more a bout it only if you had in mind to send us some thing & havent send it yet you better get it right off because wear libel to be gode all ready when it gets here.

Well Steve I bet your wishing you was in my place & you would if Well Steve I bet your wishing you was in my place & you would if you seen the girl & I hope you can find your self a girl some wheres & get married because its grate stuff only of corse you cant find none a round home like Gussy & that not to be expect it.

Wish me luck Steve & I will write & tell you all a bout it.

HAMILTON STARTING FUND FOR TROOPS

CIVIC PHONE QUESTION

Committee Will Seek Hydro Co-operation to Establish Systems

By a Staff Reporter.

HAMILTON, March 6 -- Acting on the suggestion of a number of prominent citizens, who have been assured of the support and co-operation of the local press, Mayor Walters announced today that he would call a meeting on Wednesday night in the city council chamber, which representative men and women interested in particitic matters will be invited to attend. The object will be to launch an appeal for subscriptions to a fund to be handed to Lieut-Col. McLaren, to be distributed by him for the benefit of the men of his battalion.

Orders are expected almost at any hour calling for the movement of the troops stationed at Toronto. From the moment that the men begin to move on active service their needs multiply and the responsibilities of multiply and the responsibilities of officers increase accordingly. Even while in camp many emergencies arise which make demands upon the private purses of the officers, who are all concerned in being able to keep the men in the best condition, mentally and physically.

Other Cities Doing It.

In various Canadian cities monetary testimonials, which have been given to commanding officers by appreciative citizens, have been applied in the most satisfactory manner. On active service there will be many occasions on which a fund such as is suggested should be raised will be of the greatest assistance.

It also is felt that the donating of such a fund for the boys will be very gratifying to Col. McLaren, one of Hamilton's citizens, who has made such important sacrifices for the cause of his country. If the appeal meets with a response that justifies it, the fund will be amplified to take in any contingents that have already gone from here, and which may go in the future.

2nd Dragoons Leave.

After much waiting and delay, lieut. Gianelli and the members of C squadron, 2nd Dragoons, left last evening via the Grand Trunk for Toronto where they will be outfitted and later sent to Ottawa, where the mounted regiment will be mobilized. Major Ross, the commanding officer of this squadron, and the other officers, were present at the armories prior to the departure of the unit, and Major Ross

Civic 'Phone Proposals.

The proposal to establish one system by the hydro partment was the chief topic of discussion at the meeting of the board this morning. The question was introduced by Chairman Ellis, who suggested that a committee be appointed to approach Hon. Adam Beck, with a view of securing legislation to the riew of securing legislation for the installation of hydro services to municipalities which installed private systems. He said that it would be necessary that sary that each municipality install its own system and then have the government supply the connecting links This, he stated, had been one of Mr Beck's ideas, but nothing had been done in the matter. Chairman Ellis said that, aitho the matter had been discussed by the board, no official recognition had been given to it by the board of control or the city council, and he thought it was up to the City of Hamilton to make a move in the matter and not wait for some other municipality to do so. He was satisfied in his own mind that the proposition would be approved of by the majority of the citizens, for he had had numberless enquiries as to what action the hydro board would take in he matter. He had discussed the question with the members of the board of control and the city council. and nearly all of them approved of it and he asked the mayor to bring the matter before both boards officially.

Council Will Consider. Mayor Walters said that if the mater was gone into it should be done thoroly and the best possible plan should be provided. He and Controller Morris had discussed the question at some length, and he found that Mr. Morris was very heartily in favor of municipal ownership of all public uti-lities, and he said that he would take the matter to the city council on Tuesday evening next. T. J. Stewart did not approve of taking the matter up until the hydro commission had secured data from all parts of the province, but Mr. Ellis said that if the city was going to do anything in the matter at all there was any delay A Big Power Contract. Following negotiations that have been going on for some time between the hydro department and the Proctor and Gamble Company, which is erecting a million and a half dollar plant here, Hydro Engineer Sifton went to Cincinnati to the head office of the company several days ago and closed a contract with the company for all the power it will use in its local plant. It is expected that the company will require about 400 horsepower. This is one of the biggest power contracts closed in Hamilton for a long time

Car Service Will Improve.

Fir some time past civic officials Fir some time past civic officials have made efforts to have the street railway officials improve the street ar service, and this morning George Waller, traffic manager, announced that by April! every man in the em-pley of the company would be put on at full time, which will mean that many cars will be added to the service and that a better service will be introduced on all lines.

Grant Snoe Contract.
Included in the orders the government intends to distribute fro shoes for the army in for the army is an order for the John McPherson Company, this city, for 8000 pairs of shoes. The final orders for commencement on the work are being held up in cases pending the result of the investigation now being carried on. The government is of e opinion that the investigation will weal conditions which will enable it earn whether the firms now so to learn whether the firms now selected are capable of carrying cut the contracts and efficient enough to follow the specifications.

There's an extraordinary demand for Overland cars here in Toronto—never before have we experienced such activity—sales so far this season eclipse all past records, which fact speaks emphatically as to the superlative quality, style and value of the new models. Up to this time we have received from the factory one hundred and fifty-three new cars, and there are twenty-two more in transit.

From day to day our sales list is being substantially augmented. We are beginning to realize that in limiting our contract with the factory to three hundred and fifty cars we have been ultra-conservative—WE HAVE BEEN TOO CAUTIOUS.

ployed in wrecking the old Waldorf Hotel.

The jury were unable to reach a verdict in the case of Searey v. Nevilles for $1000 damages for injuries sus amed by the plaintiff when he was struck on Nov. 10, 1914, by an automobile owned by Nevilles. They were sent back to reconsider the case and returned a verdict in favor of the defendant. In case of an appeal the damages were fixed at $150.

A sealed verdict which will be read this morning was returned in the case of Tamborine v. Hamilton St. Railway.

Mrs. Julia Tamborine claimed damages for injuries she received while stepping off a street car at the corner of Melbourne and Locke streets. She alleged that the conductor rang the bell for the car io start before she shad properly alighted. The defence alleged the plaintiff attempted to alight from the car while in motion.

The action of Lee v. Capadian Waster

COLLEGIATE PRINCIPAL LIES CRITICALLY ILL

Special to The Toronto World. ST. CATHARINES, March 6 .- The illness of Principal A. E. Coombs of the St. Catharines Collegiate Institute has become critical, and it is feared he may not recover.

A stirring address on "Patriotism and Production" was delivered in Collegiate Hall before an audience of citizens by Justice Riddell this evening. The fruit growers were addressed this afternoon by John Fixter of the department of agriculture, Ottawa, and A. W. Peart of Burlington.

To Call Men From Egypt.
The Turkish Government has decidto recall the German and Ottoman mons in Palestine for the invasion of Egypt, so that it is not improbable that the final stand will be made in the neighborhood of Constantinopie. that the final stand will be made in the neighborhood of Constantinople. It would not be strange to see history repeating itself under those historic walls where the Byzantine Empire went out in the seige of 1453, against to the end. But in this case it is inconceivable that the effete Turksh ruler will die se gloriously as the last of the Caesars. Rather more probable is the suspicion in some minds that he will fiee to Germany minds that he will flee to Germany and become a pretender to his ancient Russia's Black Sea Fleet.

The fall of Constantinople to the ltes would be of extreme importance in determining the end of the war.

Russia has four dreadnoughts, one launched and probably finished, and the others well under way in the Black Sea, and in addition she has an effi-tient fleet of torpedo boats and light cruisers. These would be released for service on the North Sea or elsewhere, they might be required, and would aterially strengthen the allied opening of a southern port for Russia will also enable her to import many necessities of war. It is significant of her confidence of ability to force these straits and enter the Bosphorus that she has just let a control for several million dollars' worth of American locomotives. These will probably be delivered at Sevastopol.

Turks in Panic.

Latest stories from the seat of Turkish Government tell of the dismantling of forts in the Dardanelles, and the mounting of their guns on islands in the Sea of Marmora, It can hardly be counted of value for defence to rely on batteries of this extempore character. The truth is probably that the artillery is being transferred to the main Turkish forces, so as to enble them to make a final stand. It would not be improbable that the battle to be fought will be the Armageddon of the Turkish Empire. If the Turks are then defeated, and the allies will make sure that they will be, the whole of Turkey in both continents will lie open to the appropriation of Russians Fight Magnificently.

Two other significant features of the week's developments are the continued signs that the German empire is suffering from a shortage of bread and of fodder for cattle, and the magnificent way in which the Russians have rallied and driven the German invaders from North Polands while throwing an arm in the other direction which has forced the Austral throws attempting to recapture with the williams Plano Club will all patents as the will be made the declaration that this would be an event of the past. Buried to Be Definitely Known Thru Society.

Over six hundred cases of supplies left he head office of the Canadian Red cross Society this week. Thus even the last record has been broken, and the largest shipment in the history of the ociety has left for London, England, This enormous shipment consists of 61 eses from London, Ont., 34 from Calgary, 25 from Regina, 12 from Cobalt, and 10 from Hamilton. This also includes 1000 doses of anti-tetanus serum. Altho this amount of supplies sent from Toronto sounds very large, it is impossible to exaggerate the great and immediate needs of the society, both in the matter of money and material. The society hopes in the near future to send no ess than 1000 cases in one shipment Now is the time to help.

To Mark Graves.

wherever possible a wooden cross is erected, and the name and regiment of the dead warrior is marked upon it. By this means the relatives of the soldiers who have died will not only know that they have had a Christian burlal, but will be able to visit their graves after the close of the war.

They will to only require every ounce for their own consumption, but will be compelled to purchase largely from neutral countries. Grea Britain above all, will have to be fed and clad, and Canada being her largest, nearest and absolute ally, will have in a great measure to furnish the necessities. Nor will great nish the necessities. Nor will great Britain be the only member of our SCOPE OF CAMPAIGN.

While the war and the demand it is causing for supplies, especially foodstuffs, are the main reasons for the "Patriotism" and Production" campaign, the subject matters discussed have a wider aspect than the immediate present. WOMAN on whose face is written the story of long ours of patient scientific research, and who has been whitely worn by the boundary-breaking of her affection, to which all of her knowledge of science could afford no relief: and another, in the rose-flush of youth, full of enthusiasms and a devoted student of the hidden mysteries of creation-these two, groping slowly, painfully along the way stand at last on the threshold of the door whose opening will reveal the secret of life. This seems to be the belief of a commentator who has dealt with the vital significance of the discoveries of Mme. Curie, the revealer of radium, and Mme. Victor Henri, who has demonstrated that the action of the ultraviolet rays has the power of changing certain forms of life.

As Haeckel would have us believe that all of life began with the minute starting point, the monad, which has its triumphant development in man, we grow dizzy trying to form some estimate of the aeons and aeons that have intervened between that infinitely dim 'yesterday and the present. Mathematics has no term to comprehend it. And what were all of the transformations during that time? Science can only guess, and the brilliant and other carbohydrates. Hence, it is not too rash to work of Mme. Henri, has brought speculation again to this very

Mme. Henris before whose wondering eyes the transformation took place, inquired whether, in the course of time, microbes have not submitted to the law of evolution, and if the multitude of forms they assume do not come quest of woman, who has gone forward from primitive forms which, under the action of light-and the unfalteringly toward the Source, has a ultra-violet rays exist in the sunlight have been transformed broader and deeper significance. An extraordinary and new field was opened to speculation, fitting thing could be than. writes an authority. If different microbes, as they become transformed into new and strange varieties, cause new and strange diseases, may it not be that originally all microbes were of one species, and that in millions of ages they became transformed into an infinite variety, causing at the same time an endless

Carrying the speculation further, one might have arrived at the hypothesis that in the beginning there was only one species of mierobe and only one mortal disease. Some of these speculations were hinted at by Dr. Roux in his communication to the

Mme. Henri is described as "a beautiful woman of about 24 years of age." She is the wife of the assistant director of the laboratory of the Sorbonne, and the announcement of her discovery was first made public last spring by Dr Roux, director of the Institute, in a communication to the Academy of Science. She is as modest as she is charming, and the distinction she has achieved has accentuated this charm. "No, I am not a woman doctor," she took pains to make clear to a recent visitor. "I only have my degree as doctor of natural science. My husband also is a doctor of natural science, and he is assistant director of the laboratory at the Sorbonne. We study science a good deal together, and I spend half my time here at the Institute.

and the other half at the laboratory of the Sorbonne. "I have not specialized always in the study of microbes. Here, it is true, I follow the special researches into cancer conducted by Dr. Borel, the chief of this laboratory, but before I devoted myself principally to investigations into light. Some five years ago some of my researches on ultra-violet and ultrared rays were published. My husband and I still take a great interest in that branch." May Save Life and Destroy It.

If the ultra-violet ray transforms certain forms of life,"it is destructive in other directions and exerts disastrous action on higher organisms, especially on man. It makes foodstuffs out of air and can digest them, sealed in vessels of quartz, as thoroughly as the healthiest of stemachs. All of this is told by Prof. Daniel Berthelot, a compatriot of Mesdames Curie and Henri, whose experiments form a striking complement to mose of the pretty young scientist of the Sorbonne, for he himself says, in speaking of his demonstration in artificial digestion: "It seems to me that I have here touched one of the mys-

Eye weaknesses are thought to have little to do with digestion, but digestion plays an important part in diseases of the eye, many of which have been traced back directly to an absorption of poisons from the intestinal Here 18

In one case reported from England a man who had suffered from recuiring inflammation of the eye was cured by the removal of his large inestine. Such radical treatment is not regarded advisable or necessary, but it is a clear indication of the relation existing between intestinal and eye disorders.

Griffiths, the Safe Man

A sthe title indicates, this story deals with the safeness of Griffiths the safe man, the secure person, the reliable individual, the sort of man you would bank with. I am proud to write about Griffiths, for I owe him a pleasant day. This story is dedicated to my friend Griffiths, the remarkably trustworthy mortal.

In the beginning there were points about Griffiths.
He quoted proverbs. A man who quotes proverbs is confounded by proverbs. He is also confounded by his friends. But I never confounded Griffiths—not even in that supreme moment when the sweat stood on his brow in agony and his teeth were fixed like bayonets and he swore horribly. Even then, I say. I sat on my own trunk, the trunk that opened, and told : Grimths that al' had always respected him, but never more than at the present moment. He was so safe, y' know.

Safeness is a matter of no importance to me. If my trunk won't lock when I jump on it thrice I strap. it up and go on to something else. If my carpet bag is too full I let the tails of shirts and the ends of ties bubble over and go down the street with the affair. It all comes right in the end; and if it does not, what is a man that he should fight against Fate?

But Griffiths is not constructed in that manner. He mys: "Safe bind is safe find." That, rather, is what he used to say. He has seen reason to alter his views. Everything about Griffiths is safe-entirely safe. His trunk is locked by two hermetical gunmetal double end Chubbs; his bedding roll opens to a letter padlock capable of two million combinations, his hatbox has a lever patent safety on it; and the grief of his life is that he cannot lock up the ribs of his umbrella safely. If you could get at his soul you would find it ready strapped up and labelled for heaven. That is Griffiths.

When we went to Japan together Griffiths kept all his money under lock and key. I carried mine in my coat, tail pocket. But all Griffiths' contraptions did not prevent him from spending exactly as much as I You see, when he had worried his way thru the big strap, and the little strap, and the slide valve, and the spring lock, and the key that turned-twice and a quarter, he felt as the he had earned any money he found, whereas I could get masses of sinful wealth by merely pulling out my handkerchief—dollars and five dollars, and ten dollars, all mixed up with the obacco or flying down the road. They looked much too pretty to spende

"Safe bind, safe find," said Griffiths in the treaty

He never really began to lock things up severely till we got our passports to travel up country. He took charge of mine for me, on the ground that I was every other shop, all the hotels, most of the places of ement and on the top of each hill, I got to appreciate Griffiths' self-sacrifice. He would be bit a strap with his teeth or calculating the combinati of his padlocks among a ring of admiring Japanese while I went for a walk into the interior.

"Safe bind, safe find," said Griffiths. That was true, because I was bound to find Griffiths somewhere near his beloved keys and straps. He never seemed to see that half the pleasure of his trip was being strapped and keyed out of him.

We never had any serious difficulty about the passports in the whole course of our wanderings. What I purpose to describe now is merely an incident of travel. It had no effect on myself, but it nearly broke Griffiths' heart. We were travelling from Kyoto to Ostu, along a very dusty road full of pretty girls. Every time I stopped to play with one of them Griffiths grew impatient. He had telegraphed for rooms at the only hotel in Otsu and was afraid that there would be no accommodation. There were only three rooms in the hotel, and "Safe bind, safe find," said Griffiths. He was telegraphing ahead for something. Our hotel was three-quarters Japanese and onequarter European. If you walked across it it shook. and if you laughed the roof fell off. Strange Japanese came in and dined with you and Jap maidens looked thru the windows of the bathroom while you were bathing

We had hardly put the luggage down before the proprietor asked for our passports. He asked me, of all people in the world. "I have the passports," said Griffiths with pride. "They are in the yellow hide oag. Turn it very carefully onto the right side, my od man. You have no such locks in Japan, I'm uite certain." : Then he knelt down and brought out bunch of keys as big as his fist. You must know that every Japanese carries a little belaiti made handbag with nickel fastenings. They take an interest in handbags, with nickel fastenings. They take an interest in handbags.

"Safe bind, safe-D-n the key! What's wrong with it?" said Griffiths.

The hotel proprietor bowed and smiled very politely for at least five minutes, Griffiths crawling over and under and round and about his bag the while. "It's a percussating compensator," said he. half to himself, "I've never known a percussating compensator do this before." He was getting heated and red in the face.

"Key stuck, eh? I told you those fooling little spring locks are sure to go wrong sooner or later." "Fooling little devils. It's a percussating comp-There goes the key. Now it won't move either way. I'll give you the passport tomorrow. Passport kul demang manana-catchee in a little time. Won't

Griffiths was getting really angry. The proprietor was more polite than ever. He bowed and left the room. "That's a good little chap," said Griffiths. "Now, we'll settle down and see what the mischier's wrong with this bag. You catch one end."

"Not in the least." I said. "Safe bind, safe find." You did the binding. How can you expect me to do the finding? I'm an imbecile unfit to be trusted with a passport, and now I'm going for a walk." The Japanese are really the politest nation in the world, When the hotel proprietor returned with a policeman he did not at once thrust the man on Griffiths' notice. He put him in the verandah and let him clank his sword gently once or twice.

"Little chap's brought a blacksmith," said Griffiths, but when he saw the policeman his face became ugly. The policeman came into the room and tried to assist, Have you ever seen a four-foot policeman in white cotton gloves and a standup collar lunging percussating compensator lock with a five-foot sword? enjoyed the sight for a few minutes before I went out Third of a Series of Little Known Stories by the Famous Author Appearing in The Sunday World Each Week, Which Represent His Earlier Style.

to look at Otsu, which is a nice town. No one hindered me. Griffiths was so completely the head of the firm that had I set the town on fire he would the firm that had I set the town on fire he would have been held responsible.

I went to a temple, and a policeman said: "Passport," I said: "The other gentleman has got." "Where is the other gentleman?" said the policeman syllable by syllable, in the Ollendorfian style. "In the ho-tel," said I; and he waddled off to catch him. It seemed to me that I could do a great deal toward cheering Griffiths all alone in his bedroom with that wicked, bad lock, the hotel proprietor, the policeman, the room boy and the girl who helped one to bathe. With this idea I stood in front of four policemen, and they all asked for my passport and were all sent to the hotel syllable by syllable—I mean one by one.

Some soldiers of the Ninth N. I. were strolling about the streets, and they were idle. It is unwise to let a soldier be idle. He may get drunk. When the fourth policeman said! "Where is other gentleman?" I said: "In the hotel, and take soldiers-those

"How many soldiers?" said the policeman firmly. "Take all soldiers," I said. There were four files in the street just then. The policeman spoke to them, and they caught up their big sword bayonets, nearly as long as themselves, and waddled after him. I followed them, but first I bought some sweets and gave one to a child. That was enough. Long before I had reached the hotel I had a tail of fifty bables. These I seduced into the long passage that ran thru the house, and then I slid the grating that answers to the big hall door. That house was fullpit, boxes and galleries-for Griffiths had created at audience of his own, and I also had not been idle.

The four files of soldiers and the five policemen were marking time on the boards of Griffiths room, while the landlord and the landlord's wife and the two ons, and the bath girl, and the cook boy, and the boy who spoke English, and the boy who didn't, and the boy who tried to, and the cook, filled all the space that wasn't devoted to babies asking the foreigner for more sweets.

Somewhere in the centre of the mess was Griffiths and a Yellow hide bag. I don't think he had looked up once since I left, for as he raised his eyes at my voice I heard him cry: "Good heavens, are they going to train the guns of the city on me? What's the meaning of the regiment? I'm a British subject,"

"What are you looking for?" I asked. "The passports—your passports—the double dyed passports! Oh, give a man room to use his arms Get me a hatchet.

"The passports, the passports!" I said. "Have you looked in your greatcoat? It's on the bed, and there's a blue envelope in it that looks like a pass-You put it there before you left Kyoto"

Griffiths looked. The landlord lookedlandlord took the passport and bowed. The five policemen bowed and went out one by one; the Math N. I. formed fours and went out; the house and there was a long silence. Then the bath girl began to giggle.

When Griffiths wanted to speak to me I was on the other side of the regiment of children in the passage and he had time to reflect before he could work his way thru them. They formed his guard of honor when he took the hag to the locksmith. I abode on the mountains of Otsu till dinner time.

HERE was no talk of it for a fortnight We spoke of latitude and longitude and the proper manufacture of sherry cobblers, while the steamer cut open a glassy smooth sea. Then we turned toward China and drank farewell to the nearest east. "We shall reach Hongkong without being it," said the nervous lady. "Nobody of ordinary strength of mind ever was aid the big fat man with the voice. I kept my eye on the big fat man. He boasted too much, The China seas are governed neither by wind nor calm. Deep down under the sapphire water sits a green and yellow devil who suffers from indigestion perpetually. When he is unwell he troubles the waters above with his twisting and writhings. Thus it happens that it is never calm in the China seas. The sun was shining brightly when the big fat man with the voice came up the companion and looked at the horizon.

"Hah!" said he, "calm as ditch water! Now I remember when I was in the Florida in '80, meeting a tidal wave that turned us upside down for five minutes and most of the people inside out, by Jove!" He expatiated at length on the heroism displayed by himself when "even the captain was down, sir!" I said nothing, but I kept my eyes upon the strong

The sun continued to shine brightly, and it also kept an eye in the same direction. I went to the faroff fo'c'sle, where the sheep and the cow and the bo'sun and the second class passengers dwell together in amity. "Bo'sun," said I, "how's her head?"

"Direckly in front of her, sir," replied the ill-mannered soul, "but we shall be meetin' a head sea in half an hour that'll put your head atween of your legs, Go aft an' tell that to them first-class passengers."

I went aft, but said nothing. We went, later, to tiffin, and there was a fine funereal small of stale curries and tinned meats in the air. Conversation was animated, for most of the passengers had been together for five weeks and had developed two or three promising flirtations. I was a stranger - a minnow among Tritons—a third man in the cabin. Only those who have been a third man in the cabin know what this means. Suddenly and without warning our ship curtsted. It was neither a boo nor a duck, nor a lurch, but a long, sweeping, stately old-fashioned curtsy. Followed a lull in the conversation. I was distinctly conscious that I had left my stomach two feet in the air and waited for the return roll to join it. "Prettily the old hooper rides. doesn't she?" said the strong man. "I hope she won't do it often," said the pretty lady with the changing complexion,

"Wha-hoop! What wha willy whoop!" said the screw that had managed to come out of the water and was racing wildly.

"Good heavens! is the ship going down?" said the fat lady, clutching her own private claret bottle that she might not die athirst. The ship went down ut PAGE FOUR the word-with a drunken lurch down she went, and a smothered yell from one of the cabins showed that there was water in the sea. The port holes closed and fell on the sy the bo'sun's head sea. The conversation died out. Some complained that the saloon was stuffy and fled upstairs to the deck. The strong man brought up the rear.

"Ooshy—ooshy—wooshy—weggle wop!" cried a big wave without a head. "Get up, old girl!" and he smacked the ship most disrespectfully under the counter, and she squirmed as she took the drift of the next sea "She-ah-rides very prettily," repeated the strong man as the companion stairs spurned him from them and he wound his arms round the nearest steward. "Damn prettily," said the necked officer. "I'm going to lie down. Never could stand the China seas."

"Most refreshing thing in the world," said the strong man faintly. I took counsel purely with myself, which is to say my stomach, and perceived that the worst would not befall me. "Come to the fo'c'sle then and feel the wind." said I to the strong man. The plover's egg eyes of three yellowish green girls were upon him.

"With pleasure," said he, and I bore him away to where the cutwater was pulling up the scared flying fishes as a spaniel flushes game. In front of us was the illimitable blue, lightly ridged by the procession of the big blind rollers. Up rose the stem till six feet of the red paint stood clear above the blue from twenty-three feet to eighteen I could count as 1 leaned over. Then the sapphire crashed into splinted crystal with a musical jar, and the white spray licked the anchor channels as we drove down and down, sucking at the sea. I kept my eye upon the strong man, and I noticed that his mouth was slightly open, the better to inhale the rushing wind. When I looked a second time he was gone. The driven spray was scarcely quicker in its flight. My excellent stomach behaved with temperance and chastity. I enjoyed the fo'c'sle, and my delight was less I was much mistaken he would know all about it in half an hour. I went aft and a lull between two waves heard the petulant pop of a champagne cork. No one drinks

the greater when I reflected on the strong man. Un-champagne after tiffin except-It. The strong man had ordered the champagne. There were bottles of it flying about the quarterdeck. The engaged couple were sipping it out of one glass, but their faces were averted like our parents of old. They were ashamed. "You may go! You may go to Hongkong for me!" shouted haif a dozen little waves together, pulling the ship several ways at once. She rolled stately, and from that moment settled down to the work of the evening. I cannot blame her, for I am sure she did not know her own strength. It didn't hurt her to be on her side, and play cat and mouse, and puss in the corner, and hide and seek, but it destroyed the passengers. One by one they sank into long chairs and gazed at the sky, ' But even there the little white moved, and there was not one stable thing in heaven above or waters beneath. My virtuous and very respectable stomach behaved with integrity and resolution. I treated it to a gin cocktail, which I sucked by the side of the strong man, who told me in confidence that he had been overcome by the sun at the fo'c'sle. Sun fever does not make people cold and clammy and blue. I sat with him and tried to make him talk about the Florida and his voyage in the past. He evaded me and went down below. Three minutes later I followed him with a thick cheroot Into his bunk I went, for I knew he would be helpess, He was he was he was. He wallowed supine, and I stood in the doorway smoking, "What is it?" said I,

Tiglath Pileser

HANK heaven he is dead. The municipality sent a cart and a man only this morning and all to servants aiding with ropes and tackle, the ca cass of Tiglath was borne away—a wabbling lump. His ad was thrust over the tailboard of the cart. Upon it was stamped an expression of horror and surprise, nutterable and grotesque. I have put away my rifle, I have cheered my heart with wine and I sit down now to write the story of Tiglath, the Utter Brute. His own kind, alas! will not read it, and thus it will be shorn of instruction; but owners will kindly take notice and when it pleases heaven to inflict them with such an animal as Tiglath they will know what

To begin with, I bought him, his vices thick as his barsati, for 170 rupees, a five-chambered, muzzle-loading revolver and a Cawnpore saddle. "Of course, for that price," said Staveley, can't expect everything. He's not what one would call absolutely sound, y' know, but there's no end of work in him, and if you only give him the butt he'll go like a steam engine."

"Staveley," I answered, "when you admit that he is not perfection I perceive that I am in for a really good thing. Don't hurt your conscience, Staveley. Tell me what is his chief vice-weakness, partialityanything you choose to call it. I shall get to know the minor defects in the course of nature; but what is Tiglath's real shouk?"

Staveley reflected a moment. "Well, really, I can't quite say, old man, straight off the reel, y' know. He's a oner to go when his head's turned to He's a regular feeder and vaseline will cure home. that little eruption"-with its malignant barsati-"in no time. Oh, I forgot his shouk; I don't know exactly how to describe it, but he yaws a good deal," said Staveley.

"He how muches?" I asked. "Yaws," said Staveley; "goes a bit wide upon oceasions, but a good ccachwan will cure that in one drive. My man let him do what he liked. One fifty and a hundred, ten and ten is twenty-one-seventy. Many thanks, indeed. I'll send over his bedding and ropes. He's a powerful upstanding horse, the rather picked up just at present."

Staveley departed and I was left alone with Tiglath. I called him Tiglath because he resembled a lathy pig. Later on I called him Pileser on account of his shouk; but my coachwan, a strong, masterless man, called him "haramzada chor, shaitan ke bap" and "oont ki beta." He certainly was a powerful horse, being full fifteen-two at the witners, with the girth of a waler and at first the docility of an Arab, There was something wrong with his feet-permanently-but he was a considerate beast and never had more than one leg in hospital at a time. The other three were still movable and Tigiath never grudged them in my service. I write this in justice to his memory; the creaking of the wheels of the municipal cart being still in my ears.

For a season some twelve days-Tiglath was beyond reproach. He had not a cheerful disposition, nor did his pendulous under lip add to his personal beauty; but he mad no complaints and moved swiftly and from office. The hot weather gave place to the cool breezes of October and with the turn of the year the slumbering devil in the soul of Tigiath spread its wings and crowed aloud. I fed him well, I had aided his barsati, I had lapped his lame legs in thanda putties and adorned his sinful body with new harness. He rewarded me upon a day with an exhibition so new and strange that I feared for the moment his reason had been unhinged. Slowly, with a malevolent grin, Tigiath, the pampered, turned at right angles to the carriago—a newly varnished one—and backed the front wheels up the verandal steps, letting them down with a bump. He then whosled round and round in the portice and all but

I would have avoid the Judge and I did not love each other, but shafts of my carriage were thru the circular front his brougham and Tigiath was rubbing the boss his headstall tenderly against the newly-varnished panels of the same. I am and no one was more astonished than he when backed on the Balumon road and dropped the carri into a nullah on the night of the Jamabundi moguli I did not go to the dance. I was bent con y, and one side of the coachwan's face way yed. When he had pieced the wreck together he only said, "Sahib!" and I said only, "Bohat acha." But we each knew what the other meant. Nex morn Tigiath was stiff and strained. I gave him time to recover and to enjoy life. When I heard him squealing to the grass cutter's ponies I knew that the hour had come. I ordered the carriage and myself superintended the funeral toilet of Tigiath. His harness brasses shone like gold, his coat like a bottle and he lifted his feet daintily. Had he even then at the eleventh hour given promise of amendment I should have held my hand. But as I entered the carriage I saw the hunching of his quarters that presaged trouble. "Go forward, Tiglath, my love, my pride, my delight," I murmured. "For a surety it is matter of life and death this day." The sais ran to his head with a fragment of chupatti, saved from his all-too-scanty rations: the man loved him. And Tiglath swung round to the left in the portico; round and round swung he, till the near ear touched the muzzle of the shotgun that waited his coming. He never flinched; he pressed his fate. The coachwan threw down the reins as, with four ounces of No. 5 shot behind the hollow of the root of the ear, Tigath fell. In his death he accomplished the desire of his life, for he fell upon the shaft and broke it into three pieces. I looked on him as he lay, and of a sudden the reason of the horror in his eyes was made clear. Tiglath, the breaker of carriages, the strong, the rebellious, had passed into the shadowy spirit land, where there was nought to destroy and no power to destroy it with. The ghastly foreknowledge of

· It was a snowy morning out of doors, ust the kind of a day when the little in an ordinary kindergarten would be casting longing eyes out of wide windows curtained with strings of colored papers, but small group of tiny tots who clusd around the teacher as she stood a blackboard on which hung many red pictures were not half interested in the snow outside as in interesting things which the eacher was doing. They had all the usual child's love for a game, and all orts of games were at hand to amuse and at the same time to teach them. The first thing we have got to teach them," said the little teacher, "is to feel to strengthen their sense of touch, for on that depends their ability to speak. The first step, taking out a box of colored wools, is to get them to ik. More evidence of German duplicity accomplishing its own ruin. This picture being circulated in Germany, purports to show a Russian car loaded with ammunition that was using the Red Cross for safety. The lie was easy to pose. After gathering ammunition left behind by the Russians, the Germans went out of their way to sieze a Red Cross train being used for legitimate and merciful purposes. The whole thing has been shown up.

THAT PEOPLE TODAY ARE SERIOUS MINDED SHOWS IN CHURCHES

Lent Never So Well Observed in Annals of Toronto Churches, Declare Leading Toronto Divines - A Deepening Sense of Spiritual and Personal Responsibility Caused by War.

BY IRENE B. WRENSHALL. ENT IS a season which is usually only considered deeply by the members of two of the churches, the Roman Catholic and Anglican Church, but this even those churches which have never observed Lent in any great degree are feeiing the influence of the shadow cast by the war, while in the various Anglican and Roman Catholic Churches there has spread over a wave of seriousness, which, the clergymen tell you, has never been equalled in the annals of the churches.

there is a seriousness working in all parts of the services, and all parts of the congregation. Its is among the men too, as well as the women. I had a preacher with me here a Sunday agp, and he said that he did not think he ever saw a congregation with so great a percentage of men."

ago and he said that he did not think he ever saw a congregation with so great a percentage of men."

The same idea of a growth in serious feeling is evident in the mind of the Rev. Lawrence Skey of St. Anne's Church who said recently. "There seems to be a deepening sense of responsibility among my people, a questioning in their own hearts of the depths of their religion. It is just heginning; as the war comes home to them, the feeling will deepen and strengthen. It will make our people more thoughtful But we continue unabatedly. Beginning at a time when the war was in the first excitement of its commencement, it would not be a matter of wonder if the attendance had greatly fallen off by now, since the tragedy of the war has become almost an old story, and the horrible reality of it has not sunk into the hearts as it will later on but instead there is a strong expeciation that the quiet season of Lent will bring an increased sense of our responsibility here in Canada.

But if there is a greater tendence will continue unabatedly. out it's no good for St. Anne's. Th who need the services most couldn't get here at noon hour.

Father Carey of St. Peter's says there is noticeable in his church a strengthening of Lenten devotion this year, and a splendid attendance at the Wednesday and Friday Lenten services. He see the deepening of serious feeling this year from the smallest children up to the grown men and women.

"The little children are giving up their mite this year, even their little bits of candy," he said, "and the older ones are abstaining from the theatre-The percentage of men at the services too, is very large, and the we have no noonday services, such as they have at St Michael's Cathedral, we have our church filled to overflowing at the other Lenten services. their has spread over a wave or seriousness, which, the clergymen tent you, has never been equalled in the annals of the churches.

Talking to Canon Dixon the energetic minister of Old Trinity Church, the Canon said. If don't know whether it is to be attributed to the war or mot, but to my mind a seriousness; that I have never seen before has spread over the church people. Lent is a different subject from ever best as the shave inever been before, and I am glad of it. We all want a shaking up. Our Wednesday and Friday services are attended this year as they have inever been before, and this in spite of the fact that my own district is crowded up with illnesses. We have put on no other special services.

Tradition has it that he interfered with the trial of one of his boon companions to the point of striking the chief justice, who, thereupon, committed the prince for contempt of court. court that he narrowly escaped im-peachment, and congress then sought to curb the judges by defining con-tempt of court as follows:

"The said courts shall have power to punish . . . contempts of their authority; provided, that such power shall not be construed to extend to any cases except misbehavior of any person in their presence, or so near thereto as to obstruct the administration of justice,"

Judge Killits has driven a coach and four thru this statute by holding a newspaper publication to be an act done in the presence of the court.

The News-Bee, it appears, was a flerce partisan of municipal ownership and three-cent fares, and commented quite freely upon an injunction lodged in the federal court by the local street car company. Incidently it reflected from time to time upon the intellectual ability of Judge Killits, so that it is impossible to escape the conviction that the judge, as a man, was nettled. In his opinion he refers to the celebrated case in which Alan O. Myers, cinnati Enquirer was sen lampooning a judge. I to jail for lampoening a judge. In that case it was held that the abusive article obstructed the administration of justice because its tendency was to irritate the judge, inflame his mind and unhinge his judicial equilibrium. Myers, who was a brilliant writer, seized upon this statement, and argued that it might therefore be contempt in some cases for a man to gued that it might therefore be contempt in some cases for a man to appear in the court-room wearing a red necktie, smeiling of onions, or wearing squeaky shoes if, thereby, the presiding dogberry was likely to be irritated or otherwise thrown off his judicial balance. So galling were his comments, published every day in many newspapers, and so heartly were his sallies of wit enjoyed by the people at large that he was quietly released after having zerved about ten days of his four months' sentence.

The World Offers You the Greatest of War Books

The London Times History of the War has been written to stand the test of generations. Twenty-eight military, naval, diplomatic and financial experts have contributed in its production—besides dozens of trained writers, editors and war correspondents. Its four hundred illustrations cost thousands of dollars. Its many maps and plans were drawn with the utmost care.

Cost $70,000 to Produce

You must know the real, rock-bottom facts about this tremendous conflict - why it began - what powerful, hidden forces set it in motion — exactly what happened in the early operations that sent the French and English pell-mell in retreat to Paris—what secrets of warfare were locked in the minds of the silent generals. The London Times History of the War will tell you all this—and more. It gives, for the first time, hundreds of important facts about the war that have never before been in print.

Relic of Days Long Gone

The point, of course, is that when a court punishes contempt "summarily," the judge is often prosecutor, witness, jury and executioner. Indeed, it is a relic of the prerogative which existed when kings in person dispensed justice.

It seems at first quite reasonable from the server and purple that anyone who insuits a presiding judge should be summarily dealt with, as the judge on the bench personifies for a time his sovereign, or the sovereign power of the peoper or the sovereign power or the sovereign power or the sovereign power or the sovereign power or the peoper or the sovereign power or the sovere judges are seldom associated with efforts to uphold this prerogative. The respect inspired by the purity of their lives, and the volume of their erudition sufficiently guards them against anything like public contempt. Of recent years the subject has been only of academic interest in Canada, where immediate outcry if an editor was sent to jail by the prime minister, or even the governor-general, no matter how unfairly he might comment upon those high officials.

Many judges hold that the power of the court to punish summarily for contempt is an inherent power, of which it cannot be deprived. No doubt, sometimes it is a useful powguarant upholding the Turk as master of the Golden Horn. But the blind and fatal obstinacy of Turkey's rulers, influenced it is also said by their readiness to accept German bribes, cast Turkey into the melting pot when she joined Germany, and this absolved Great Britain from all obligation to support the sick man of Europe.

The bringing of the British and French fleets to forct the Dardenelles as the preliminary step to an advance on Constantinopht is therefore the fulfilment of the dictum of Gladstone that the Turk should be driven "bag and baggage" from Europe.

While Contantinophe does not possess the importance it once did when Europe meant the civilized world, it is yet true that no event of this great war will have greater political meaning or bring about wider economic changes than the downfall of Turkish dominion on these shores. The seal of these great changes is affixed by the declaration of the British premier that Great Britain will no longer stand in the way of Russia obtaining a "warm water" port with a share at least in the control of Turkey's capital.

Few Canadians yet appreciate what this means in an industrial sense to the people of Canada. It will meanfirst an immediate and immense increase in the trade of Canada with Russia direct via the Mediterranean, instead of largely thru Germany, as hithesto.

Canada and Russia

Canadians export to Russia much more than they buy from Russia and these exports to Russia are largely Canadian manufactures. For instance in 1914 Canada imported from Russia goods to the total value of about half a million dollars, of which about $430-000 consisted of turs and hides and skins, the balance being made up of flax, hemp, wool, and other fibres. On the other side of the account we did a business which has had a remarkable growth in recent years. And this has been almost wholly in goods of Canadian manufacture. In 1896 Canada shipped to Russia direct goods to the value of $42,967; in ten years from that date they had amounted to $222,415 per year and in 1914 they had grown to $1,431,580, and this was below the previous year owing to the disturbances due to the coming storm. In 1918 Canada shipped to Russia goods to the value of $1,841,488 in agricultural implements alone. The figures for 1914, in Canadian-made cultural implements alone. The figures for 1914, in Canadian-made implements were $1,140,470, and the tulk of these came from one Toronto firm, the Massey-Harris Company
Other Items of export to Russia in 1914 were: Cereals, such its flour, oatmeal, and other manufactures of cereals, $195,109; cordage, $17.817; manufactures of wood, $22,900.

Germany have found their way to Russia thru the medium of German shipping agencies. Since the war there has been an interesting disclosure of the methods by which some of these agencies have built up German trade under the guise of "commercial service" bureaus. These houses, doing business in Russia, would undertake to act as a sort of intelligence bureau, furnishing the Russian manufacturer or merchant information as to where and by what means, and at what price, any kind of goods may be obtained The Last is the and by what means, and at what price, any kind of goods may be obtained from any country in the world. For this service only a nominal fee was charged. The scheme worked well, but it was found that where foreign goods were demanded, it was sooner or later discovered that goods of German make were recommended and man make were recommended and substituted, so that the work of the bureau was not impartial. There was this to be said, however, that the German manufacturers, merchants and agents, were painstaking, and not only studied the wants of their Russian customers, but extended credits and met the wishes of buyers in every way possible. If the British had ex-erted half the efforts the Germans erted half the efforts the Germans made, the trade of Germany with Russia would not have grown to a value of £37,270,000, against htat of £7,610,000, with Great Britain. So assiduous has been the attention of the Germans that from Petrograd to Persia there has not been a branch of

In fact, at times I did not knew I had it on; it just adapted itself to the shape of the body and seemed to be a part of the body, as it clung to the spot, no matter what position I was in.

It would be a veritable God-send to the unfortunate who suffer from rupture if all could procure the Brooks Rupture Appliance and wear it. They would certainly never regret it.

My rupture is now all healed up and nothing ever did it but your Appliance. Whenever the opportunity presents itself I will say a good word for your Appliance, and also the honorable way in which you deal with ruptured people. Toronto Women Who Have Made Good In the World of Work Miss Mary O'Brien

If there is one profession above all of the regular work is on contracts, but on the special work,—that is to such the seems particularly adapted to a woman, it is that of advertising, and it is not astonishing that so many women have adopted the writing of advertisements as their life writing of advertisements as their life there were one mistakes in the copy, for, you know, that if there were one mistakes in the copy, for, you know, that if there were one mistakes in the copy. writing of advertisements as their life work, but there is another phase of advertising which has in it more of the business quality, and, possibly, for that reason, does not seem to possess the same attraction for comen,—that of advertising solicitor. That at least one woman in Toronto has found this a paying and very pleasant work is evidenced by Miss Mary O'Brien, who, as a business free lance, divides her time between soliciting all the advertisements for several weekly papers, among them being The Record and The Bulletin of London and The Transition of the subscription is a little difference in the late. sia there has not been a branch of trade in which German merchants and manufacturers have not had an important hand, until Germany, at the opening of the war, had gained one-half of the total trade of the Russian bility of the financial end of a great

Miss O'Brien started her business career in the office of The World, but the call of the out-of-door work proved too strong for her and she accepted a position of advertising solicitor for a small weeklly, about seven years ago, from which she has gone on to her present work. She has all the qualifications of an excellent ad-getter, and to the looker-on, would have decidedly missed her vocation had she chosen any other line of work. "Enthusiastic. persistent, without ever being insistent always cheerful and happy, and with a clear eye for a good business proposition," that's what the business men with whom she deals with, say about

"There is a little difference in the way you go about the regular and the special advertising," she went on "For instance, with the regular work, my part is to get just as much advertising as I possibly can each week, and get as many contracts closed as possible.

"The more advertising I get the mro I have of percentage, so you can imagine it pays to be as energetic as possible. With the special work I usually sible. With the special work I usually find out the expense of getting out the booklet before I begin. Say it costs $2000. Then you feel that you have $2000. Then you feel that you have sot to make at least $2000 worth of advertising. The whole financial responsibility of it then rests with me, and I have to fill the book with advertising, so placed and so displayed that it will give the best returns to the advertiser. Then I look after the advertising entirely until it appears,—looking after the printing and everything."

Ugly toys unfortunately lose their repulsiveness for children if they become accustomed to such things from an early age, so that soon they dorget the ugliness. And it is a bad thing when a child takes ugliness for granted.

Then there is this aspect of the question. Little girls—and little boys as well—use their dolls to cultivate the dynamatic instinct that all children granted.

The Prince Charming and Cinderella of the story are to be embedied in their dolls, and for many years of their after life they retain in their minds the picture of the hero or heroine of their early days.

It is because of the lasting qualities of the childhood impressions, then, those should be made beautiful and not repulsive.

Recipes for the Odd and Really Delightful Dishes Served in Toronto's Chinese Restaurants.

THE dishes of the Japanese and the the Chinese are more different from ours than those of other nations. We have in no way taken to them as we have done to the cooking of France and Italy. They are odd, icate and attractive to most Candians only as curiosities. Yet chop suey has won a certain amount of popularity.

It is less mysterious than it looks, Going into the spotless kitchens that are to be found back of Queen street restaurants you can see these foods prepared deftly and with a certain wax-like neatness in the meats, vegetables, and even the cooks themselves white chop suey is made from a pound and a half of the white threat of chicken, a tablespoonful of chicken fat, a pound of fresh mushrooms, a few stalks of celery, a dozen water chestmus, two white onions half a can of bamboo shoots, two pounds of bean sprouts, one and a half teaspoonfuls of syou, a Chinese sauce.

Cut the chicken meat in small bits and put it with the fat in a deep frying pan stirring it as it browns to prevent burning. Have the vegetables ready, all sliced and with the stalks the small piece of garlio. Add cayenne pepper, finally putting in the beamboo shoots and fry, with the bean sprouts added last. And if I took him out for a little walk he was lired before we had gone many yards. But it was the low nervous state he was in that was his worst trouble. He would jump at a sound, and any unusual noise used to set him screaming. His appetite was very poor, and his flesh lest all firmness and became quite soft and flabby. If he stooped it hurt him to get up again. Of course, we did everything we possibly could; we had bottle after bottle of medicine, but it did ne good, in fact I thought the child was setting worse. One day my wife told me he had not used his left arm all day. This alarmed me! I began to fear that he would be crippled. However, with the help of a toy drum we got him to use his arm again. But his health was no better, so as the ordinary methods of treatment had quite failed, I decided to try Dr. Cassell's Tablets. It was not long before improvement came. DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I have been keeping house for my father for a number of years as my mother is dead, but he objects to my receiving the visits of the young man whom I love. He wants me to go to live with a lady friend of his. As I am out of work and cannot get a position, my fiance has offered to pay my board and give me money when I want it. I told him that I did not want him to do that, but he insists. Should I accept this money from him?

UNDER no circumstances should you accept money from any man except your father or brother. You know this as well as I do. Every word in your letter shows it. You must make up your mind to bear the unhappiness under which you are suffering until your flance can give himself the right to give you money by marrying you. Until them be as brave as you can be. Be very sure that many of your troubles at home are not your own fault. Many of our troubles for which we blame others are really caused by ourselves, you know.

have been keeping company with a young man for some time, and I like him very much. He keeps company with another young girl. But I know I think more of him than she does, for when he asks her to go out with him she mostly says she has another engagement. In fact, he has only had her out one Sunday evening. He asked her to got out with him last Sunday and she said she had an engagement with a girl friend. Now, con't you think if she thought much of him she would go out more with him?

He comes up to our place about twice a week. He does not act lovey-dovey with me. All he wants is a kiss when he is going. Can you please tell me how I can show him that I think more of him than his other friend does? Tell me, should I let him kiss me good-bye as long as he is going with the other girl?

I have been going with a young man for the past four months,

I returned to the city, and my friend has entirely changed. He made an engagement with me, and a few hours before he was to meet me he broke it and made one for a few days later, but in the meantime has filled engagements with my girl friend.

What shall I do, and should I keep the engagement? I am very young to go with a boy.

Please do not tell me I am too

And greatly oblige.

OUR father certainly distinguished himself with his good manners, didn't he?

However, I den't think that has anything to do with your friend's behavior. It seems to me the explanation for that is very simple. The man is taken with your friend, and she is taken with him, and they have both forgotten all about you.

Why not? You weren't engaged to the man, were you, and just because you knew him and liked him that gave you no mortgage upon him, did it?

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am twenty-one years old and trave been keeping company with a nice young girl of nineteen for the past three years. During all this time I have not wasked even as far as across the street with another girl. I find, by studying her, she is the one girl in the world for me as she is not extravagant nor does she want to be going out somewhere all the time.

I have been in business five years and hope to start in for myself shortly. I have all the influence that I need and am sure I could give her a good home. But there is hardly a night when we do not quarrel over mere trifles see me. She always seems cross when anyone comes, but it seems to me I ought to be allowed to have a boy friend once in a while; it is only in the kitchen but my employer objects to it. He has a good home, but I don't think it proper to go to a boy's place, do you? He has asked me to do so since he cannot come here. Please tell me what to do, I like the place very much only for the one reason that she objects to my one reason that she objects to my having a boy friend call.

Why not? You weren't engaged to the man, were you, and just because you knew him and liked him that gave you no mortgage upon him, did it?

I don't see what you can do about the matter except have a few other engagements yourself and forget that you were in the least bit serious about him.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am twenty-one years old and trave been keeping company with a nice young girl of nineteen for the past three years. During all this time I have not wasked even as few as agrees the street of the man, but that you are not going to be married for four years? Perhaps, if she understands it thoroly, she will not object any more.

No. I do not thirk in yourself.

No, I do not think in your case four years are too long to watt—you are only nineteen. Long engagements, as a rule, are not best—but you are so young it seems to me the wisest and best thing that you should walt. Three times a week is not too often to see the man whom you are going to marry. I wish you all the happiness in the world and hope your mistress will understand better, after you have had your talk with her.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I have been keeping company with a lady for three years. I love her very much, and she tells me that she loves me. I have asked her to marry me, and she told me she would, but when I asked her to set the time she said that I had not been true to her. I have not told her a lie for a long time, and I have told her that if she ever caught me in a lie, that I would not complain if she refused to see me again.

She is a good woman and will make a good wife for any man who wins her. I love her with all my heart, and she knows it as well as I do, and still I am not true in her eyes. Please tell me what I should do? I would like you to send the answer to the address given below.

EAR F. D. T.

DEAR E. B.—You see I have dis-guised your real name. I sympthize with you in your difficulty in making the woman you love set a date for your marriage, but I can only help you with a word of advice. If I were you I would tell her very frankly all you have told me, assure her that I had been absolutely true to her, and give her her choice between setting a day for the wedding or losing me altogether. Firmness and decision are what women admire in men—show her that you can be decided and firm, and I wish you luck and happiness in her answer, which I am sure will be "yes." My dear Charlie, it is an inspiration to receive a letter so frank and manly as yours. It isn't often I get a letter that I like half as well. You acknowledge frankly that you are much at fault in these quarrels you have with the girl you love—and you don't plead her thoughtlessness as an excuse.

and you don't plead her thoughtlessness as an excuse.

May I inquire if you have asked the girl to marry you? If you haven't, why don't you ask her tonight? And when you ask her, tell her just what you have told me—tell her that you love her; that you are heartbroken over your quarrels, that you are doing all in your power to overcome your fault and ask her to help you by not bringing up the things that she knows anger.

First of all, there should be the jar of cleansing cream to be used every time the face is exposed to the dust and grime of outdoors. It contains:

White wax ... 2 ounces Spermaceti 2 ounces Sweet almond oil 12 ounces Distilled water 2 ounces Glycerin 2 ounces application will then remove every article of dust which clogs the pores Excellent Massage Cream

Next in importance is the massage cream, which should be used before retiring to keep the tissues nourished and pliable. It should always be worked well into the flesh until the skin refuses to absorb any more. An excellent massage cream contains the following ingredients:

Cocoanut oil2 ounces Sweet almond oil2 ounces Tincture of benzoin... ½ dram
To mix this cream properly melt the dirst five ingredients together and heat until the mass concretes. Now drops of your favorite perfume will scent the cream.

I would never be without a bottle of the soothing cucumber lotion that softens, whitens and cleanses the skin. It is also excellent for the hands, arms and neck. The following recipe is splendid:

How Science Now Conquers The Dread Pneumonia Peril

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A.B., M.A., M.D. (Johns Hopkins).

(Copyright, 1914, News paper Feature Service.) YTHAGORAS, who flourished 500 B. C., said: "Every man has either had pneumonia, has it now or will have it ultimately." Altho this phrase of Phythagoras is not wholly true, it has much in it, and was, in a fashion, the foundation of an equally inaccurate phrase of Sir William Osler, who said that "pnumonia is the old man's friend," meaning that it prevented their living

The newest scientific treatment of pneumonia has just been made known. As soon as the dark, particular family of pneumo-cocci, or pneumonia germs, is found in the sputum of the patient—this must be done at once without a moment's unnecessary delay—the appropriate type of anti-pneumonia serum is begun. As yet this serum is not for sale, but can be obtained quickly from the Rocke-feller Institute of Medical Research. Dr. Rufus I. Cole is the discoverer of this serum and has it under his charge.

Eighty to ninety cubic centimeters or three ounces of the serum is inoculated into the sufferer. Twelve hours later a similar injection is repeated. The next day the same double treatment is continued, and for several days Verifying the Diagnosis

Before this Cole serum is injected, pneumonia bacteria can be cultivated from the pneumonia patient's blood. Since this is one of the causes of death in this lung malady, a good sign is the disappearance of the germs from the In every victim examined, immediately after the pneumonia serum was injected, there were no more microbes to be found in the blood. This is a sufficient proof of the serum's efficacy.

Another demonstration of the benefits derived from the use of the anti-pneumonia serum is the fact that blood taken from a patient so treated immediately makes white mice immune to the disease. Yet ordinarily every mouse infected with pneumococci dies within a few hours. mouse infected with pneumo-cocci dies within a few hours.

Finally and best of all, a large percentage of lives are now saved with this new anti-serum, who would have been doomed before.

New Shipping Methods Dr. Avery, one of the assistants of the Rockefeller Institute Hospital, recently devised a way whereby large amounts of this anti-pneumonia serum—made from horses vaccinated with the digested germs—can be used and shipped. In fine, he has concentrated the serum by clotting and coagulating it. The coagulum is an albumen-like substance called a globulin. Its use pains the patient less, because there is decidedly less bulk; it avoids the hives and other chance eruptions, which cause "serum sicknesses," and larger amounts may be given safely without disturbing the distribution and pressure of the patient's

Dr. Rufus I. Cole. who made this great discovery, is a most conservative and modest research worker. His experiments cover several year's work. Some of it was begun at the Johns Hopkins University, where his early studies were made. There is little doubt but that his findings will take historic rank with those of Flexner, Noguchi and Von Behring, the discoverer of diphtheria

HAMBOURGS TO GIVE RUSSIAN PROGRAM

MUSICAL DIRECTOR

Three Celebrated Brothers to Play Tschaikowsky With Assistance of Symphony Orchestra.

What promises to be the outstanding musical event of 1915 will take place on Thursday, March 18, at Massey Hall, when Mark Hambours, the fillustrious Russian planist, will be associated with his brothers. Jan Hambourg and Boris Hambourg, the celebrated violinist and 'cellist, in a program of surpassing interest. Their performance of the great Tschaikowsky Trio in A Minor has been proclaimed all over Europe as the ideal one and Toronto will have the privilege of being the first city on this continent to hear it. Mark Hambourg's most recent performance of the Tschaikowsky B Flat Minor Concerto in New York last week, earned him no less than twenty recalls. Jan Hambourg made his debut in Brussels under the baton of Ysaye, with the Tschaikowsky D Major Violin Concerto, and since that time has invariably gained great successes with his interpretation of it. Recently he has written a special cadenza for the first movement. Boris Hambourg was specially engaged for the Tschaikowsky Festival at Pyrmont, Germany, to perform the Roccoco Variations for cello and orchestra, He achieved a marked success with this melodious and brilliant work and is at present playing it on each program of his western tour. A picked symphony orchestra of forty players, under the baton of Luigl von Kunits, has been specially engaged.

UNIQUE PROGRAM BY PAUL WELLS

Clever Planist to Play Own Compositions and Chopin Etudes With String Accompaniments.

The seat sale for the Paul Wells concert on next Monday evening at the Conservatory Hall is progressing rapidly and the indications are that there will be a large audience for one of the most unique plane recitals given in most unique plano recitals given in Toronto for a long time.

The most important work on the program is the Liszt E Flat Concerto,

Those of Mr. Wells' friends who have heard these compositions privately agreed that he has accomplished his best achievement in the fourth number of the set. It is named "1914," the meaning heing left to the imagination meaning being left to the imagination of the listener.

Another number on the program which is exciting considerable interest which is exciting considerable interest is a group of nine Chopin Etudes, to which Mr. Wells has arranged accompaniments for string quartet and flute. These will be played by the Toronto String Quartet and Mr. Dineen, flautist.

Before coming to Toronte, Mr. Wells appeared successfully in concert both in Europe and in the States, and since then has played in many cities in Can-

The first of the Causeries Musicales given by Hope Morgan and Grace Smith this season took place as Government House last Saturday afternoon, and was a most emphatic success. On Monday, March 8, at three o'clock, "Ardwold," the beautiful home of Mrs. J. C. Eaton, throws its drawing rooms open for the second of the series, when Chopin will be the subject.

Emma Calve has been engaged appear fifteen weeks in vaudeville New York, for which she is to ceive $45,000.

Fritz Kreisler is said to have lost many thousand dollars on his timberland investments in Galiola, the forests having been destroyed by the Russian troups

Russian troops.

A violin recital of more than passing interest was given in Conservatory Hall, on February 25, by Marjoris K. Jones of Brantford a talented pupil of Frank Blachford In a well belanced program which embraced the Mendelssohn Trio No. 1, the seldom-heard D minor concerto of Bruch, and two groups of lighter pieces, Miss Jones proved herself the possessor of a splendid technic, and a tone which the not large is of exceptionally fine quality. There is a dignity and poise about her work which promise well for her future, and with a little more brilliance added to what she has already accomplished she will undoubtedly make a splendid artist. Miss Jones reflects very great credit upon her instructor, and will be listened to with interest at any future appearances.

March 21 Handel's "Messiah."

The choir of Parkdale Presbyterian Church gave its annual concert in the church on the evening of Tuesday, February 28, before a most appreciative audience. Special mention should be made of Gounod's "By Habylon's Wave." i Tschaikowski's "Cherubio Hymn." Elgars 'Lullaby" from the Bavarian Highlands, and Eaton Faning's "Moonlight" and "The Miller's Wooing." In these pieces the choir sang with great beauty of tone, and artistic perception. The solosits were Anna Tait, Clara Breckenridge, Bruce Bradley and Norman McKibbin, all of whom delighted the audience with their selections. Irene Weaver, made an excellent accompanist in the choir numbers, and aroused much enthusiasm by her splendid rendering of Schutt's Paraphrase on a Straus Waltz, op. 10. Two Items of special interest were the pianoforte and organ duets, Widor's 'Serenade." and Greig's "Wedding Day" (the latter arranged by D. D. Slater). This is the first concert appearance of the choir under the conductorship of the recently appointed organist, David Dick Slater, A.R.C.M., London. recently appointed organist, David Dick Slater, A.R.C.M., London

A distinctly successful piano recttal was given before an exceptionally large adulence last Saturday evening, by a few of F. S. Welsman's pupils, in the Conservatory of Music Hall. Mr. Welsman's work is well known for sureness of rendition, exceptional thoroness of detail, and artistic and musicianly grasp of the works given. The program consisted of Moszkowski's Caprice Espagnol by Miss Cooper. Chopin's Nocturne in E flat by Master Bert Procter, a very youthful planist with a remarkably promising future, Liszt's Concerto in E flat by Miss Murray, a charming El flat by Miss Murray, a charming Macdowell group by Miss Spencer, Schutt's Carnival Mignon by Miss Schutt's Carnival Mignon by Miss Potter, Chopin's Nocturne in B amd and Polonaise in A flat by Miss Harper, and was concluded by Miss Coyne's finished and artistic playing of the Brahms Scherzo Opus 4. Sydney Aird, a pupil of Ethel Shepherd, assisted in giving a most en-loyable program by her singing of Debussy's Recitative et Air de Lia from L'Enfant Prodigue, and a group of sengs by Gena Branscombe and Mrs. H. Two clever young students, Mariorie Martin and Douglas Stanbury, gave an interesting recital on Saturday last at the Canadian Academy of Music. Miss Martin, who is a pupil of Peter C. Kennedy, played the Beethoven sonata, Op. 13, Schriabine prelude No. 2, Choopin prelude D flat major, Moszkowski Valse, op. 40, and two Liszt numbers. She displayed a good, clean technique and a distinctive sense of tone values. A superabundance of poetic temperament was evinced here and there, but that is a youthful tendency which will gradually be restrained. Douglas Stanbury, youthful tendency which will gradually be restrained. Douglas Stanbury, a pupil of Signor Morando, was very recently a notable example of the youthful choir boy par excellence. In a surprisingly short time he has emerged from that stage into a full blown baritone, or at least a wonderful imitation, for he has not yet reached the years of manhood, which are generally associated with such a voice. The astonishing art he displays is in many respects remarkable. He sang Wagner's "Star of Eve" and Godard's "Berceuse." The latter number lost all traces of insipidity in the youth's rendering. Whatever the future has in store for him remains to be seen, but there is no doubt he already has started well on the road to artistic success.

A young Toronto girl who promises to become a leading figure in musical circles has recently returned from England in the person of Margaret McCollum. Still in her teens, she has proven her ability by securing the degree of L. R. A. M., which she took after studying the Matthay method for several years under Mrs. Farnell-Watson at Bournemouth. Her recal appearances have been marked by a sympathetic interpretation that gives much promise for the future.

BIG SOCIETY EVENT

March 16 and 17 by the Toronto Musical and Dramatic Club are to be under the auspices of the Women's Art Association, and a number of the most prominent society women in Toronto have extended their patronage.

Rehearsals have been in progress for some time, the uptown club-rooms and the Strollers' Club being used for that purpose, and a finished and artistic performance is assured the club's patrons. In Lawrence Lugsdin and Basil Morgan the club have two of the finest amateur actors in the Dominion, their many appearances with the Dickens' Players having given them wide prominence. Mr. Lugsdin is appearing in "The Heiress," a farce-comedy written by Arthur Baxter and which is in "The Heiress," a farce-comedy writ-ten by Arthur Baxter and which is heing produced by Campbell Duncan, and Basil Morgan is producing and playing in the short Crama, "Houses of Clay," written by J. The club is fortunate in being able to present the same cast as last year, including Mabel Doherty, Laura Homuth, Marjorie Gray. Nelley Gill, George Dixon, in the title roll; Goldwin Stewart, Frank Fulton, Jack Lonie, Douglas Gray and Wallace Sault. Many new features have been added to the operetta and a particularly good chorus and orchestra of symphony players will round out a brilliant cast. The directors of the operetta are: Mrs. W. D. Barren, Dr. Marshall and Mr. Baxter. The reserve seat plan will open at Nordheimer's on March 11.

THE TANGO CRAZE AND DEMOCRACY

The dance craze, according to an exchange, has been worth $50,000,000 to the hotel and restaurant business in gratulating themselves over the news that the Waldorf-Astoria is about to open a tango garden on its roof. Louis Fischer, who introduced "the dansant" to this country, by way of Reisen-weber's, says he could not tell the smount of money the tango has been worth to him, but that he does know it is the best thing that ever happened to the hotel and restaurant business. He says that people eat and drink less as they spend much of their lunche hours tangoing between the courses. He declares, too, that it has lessened the demand for intoxicating drinks, this being partly due to the fact—that there are so many more women in public restaurants now than formerly and that lemonade, tea and chocolate consumed in enormous quantities. consumed in enormous quantities. He says, further, that "the dansant" has taught us a lesson in democracy. Society is less formal. Tango levels all ranks. Everybody dances with

CORRESPONDENT ADVISES WOMEN to READ MORE BEFORE ASKING VOTING PRIVILEGES

N publishing the following from "A Woman Observer," we in turn should like to observe, that while we give her credit for a good deal of the philosophy which carries one happily thru life, it seems to us that she has made her observations from a wrong angle and that a change of position would undoubtedly give her an entirely different perspective.

Our correspondent has seemingly, without knowing it, got into a "rest cure" asylum and the "representative" women she quotes, have become hope-

Change your boarding house, "Woman Observer," and then write us again

A woman observer who has recently lived in the same boarding house with seven representative women is led very seriously to question whether women, if they had the privilege of voting, could vote intelligently? would they not depend on some man creature to tell them how to vote?

Of those seven/women, two, a widow and her daughter, were living on a pension, which came to them because of the services of the husband and father in some worthy calling, and they were what would be called, "woman of leisure." A third woman, another widow, also had an independant income, and could spend her time much as she chose. The fourth of this group was a kindergarten teacher, engaged in chose. The fourth of this group was a kindergarten teacher, engaged in what is supposed to be an intellectual work. The fifth a professional musician, the sixth a trained nurse, and the seventh the leisurely wife of a rich man. Among all these women not one received or read a daily paper. Even in these tragic times, when our empire's life is at stake, they seemed to show toward the tremendous everyday occurring events the indifference of children.

Corasionally at the dinner table

Occasionally at the dinner table Occasionally at the dinner table the observing woman—who received her daily newspaper regularly—would talk about some of the great events transpiring in the war area, and perhaps afterward a tap would come to her door, and one of the women would say: "Would you please lend me your newspaper when you are done with it? I would like to read that incident you were talking about at dinner."

But even this much interest was only evinced on an average of once a week. The paper was borrowed more frequently to see the bargains, or read of the change of styles than for any other purpose. The women seemed satisfied to learn all they knew about the war from hearing their men friends talk.

Some months after the Bussians their men friends talk.

Some months after the Russians had joined their forces with the allies, one of the seven representative women remarked to the observing woman that it was a "terrible war," "They say," she continued, "that the Russians are going to be in it soon." "Why, the Russians have been in it for a long time," returned the observing woman.

"Have they?" said the first speaker, feeling a little embarassed, "I haven't been reading the war news lately."

While women are so indifferent

While women are so indifferent (or should we say ignorant or dependent?) when their country's affairs are in such jeopardy as the present, would it be safe to put the ballot into their hands, by which ballot they could control important questions? Would they not be simply the tools of some other person or persons, and form their opinions as to how they should vote by what others said?

The observing woman came to the conclusion that women should read infinitely more, and do infinitely more thinking for themselves before they can intelligently use the ballot. It might be said that the same is true regarding men voters. But the observing woman has to sorrowfully admit that she thinks that the same degree of ignorance and indifference to the country's interests, altho it might be found among a certain class of men, would not be found among the class in which the seven representative women walked.

Then go with me to the farm. It may be a beautiful spring day, when nature is bursting with joyous life. The trees have taken on the tender green. The air is full of the sweet scented blossoms. The men rise early, after the usual morning preparations, they have their breakfast in a comfortable airy dining hall, then to the fields, plowing, sewing, attending to the horses, cows, the poultry and dairy. The air of the prison farm is healthful and invigorating. They are a rugged lot not all comely, but all healthy and better for the day's work, and we get a stronger and truer picture of a humane plan for the remaking of men. INDETERMINATE SENTENCE HAS DECIDED ADVANTAGE OVER OLD DEFINITE SYSTEM punishment, the definite sentence and the indeterminate and parole system.

"The definite sentence," says Mrs. Clendenan, "attemps to measure off so much penalty for so much crime, which means that it deals with the past, which is irrevocable, and not with the future, which contains a possibility, often a splendid possibility. Formerly a man sentenced to prison for a certain offence, the judge names a stated period which, in his mind, will condone for the offence. Does be study the criminal?

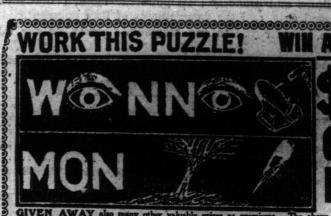

"Defenceless childhood is surrounded by fragile walls which all open into vice and crime. The state has to do for this class, unfortunately, in a prison what the parents and lome falled to do. Treated by the definite sentence, the great majority become habitual criminals, a menace to society, and permanent wards of the state. The indeterminate sentence and parole system is the only reasonable and humane method of developing this most promising and deserving class into valuable citizenship. There are more come to prison thru weakness Chan thru wickedness. Victor Hugo sound-

A WEIL thought out paper on a subject in which many women as well as men are interested, that of prison reform,—was written for the last meeting of the women's Liberal Club by Mrs. G. W. Clendenan. We are sorry that space permits but a few extracts from this very informing address:

In bringing this subject before you, shall we first notice the reforms which have been introduced during recent years? In the police court we have two great improvements, namely, the juvenile court and the separate court for women. We have two spiendid industrial farms, one for men, and one for women, and three prison farms situated at Guelph, Sudbury and Fort William.

The indeterminate sentence and parole system has been introduced in the Ontario Reformatory, formerly known as the Central Prison. From the case of the child delinquent to the professional criminal, a new system has been adopted. In sentencing men to prison the three chief cosiderations in the mind of the judge are the protection of society, punishment for the offence, and reformation of the delinquent. Let us analyze the two methods of punishment, the definite sentence and the indeterminate and parcie system.

Hippodrome

NE of the cleverest musical offerings that has ever appeared at the Hippodrome Theatre has been billed for this week, when that royal pair, "King and Queen," versatile musicians will headline the bill. Talented artists, both performers are unusually clever with a number of instruments, while their vocal offerings are far and above the ordinary. They have a repertoire of the newest and best songs, both popular and classical. The fifth episode of the film serial "Runaway June," will be the feature attraction.

A unique attraction for the bill will be Marke's Cockaspos. The little feathers are farly and Grotte.

Coland West's prettiest and best musical comedy production "The Dairy Maids," the girl act supreme, will top the bill the coming week at Marcus Loew's Yonge Street Theatre. This production is remarkable for its beauty chorus of eight girls, every one a Broadway beauty, selected with great care by Mr. West and placed under contract at a time when it was difficult for even the best chorus girls to obtain positions. The playlet is headed by Eddle Foley, a clever young comedian, late star of "The Red Canary," and Lea Letore, one of the prettiest, daintiest little ladies in musical comedy.

The mysterious "413" is the head of a band of smugglers, and he is also the father of the heroine. He is chased by a detective, and steals a train, and attempts escape when capture appears imminent. The ensuing chase at sixty miles an hour is of the most hair-raising description. It ends in the wreck of the train which "413" has commandeered. This spectacle is of the most thrilling kind. The train is switched, and there is a head-on view of it pitching over the embankment. The wreck, complete and utter as it is, comes as a surprise, and it is realistic to the limit.

This is one of the most appealing pictures that has ever been produced.

shown. This is one of the most appealing pictures that has ever been produced.

"The Girl of the Golden West" is an orphan who keeps the saloon in the Californian mining town of Cloudy during the days of the '49 gold rush. Her utter honesty and fearlessness command the respect of all the "boys." of her many suitors, the one she is most disposed to favor is Jack Rance, the sheriff-gambler from New Orleans, who is somewhat less rough than the rest of the men.

At the time when the story begins the community is at a high pitch of excitement concerning the exploits of a city-bred road-agent, whose real name is Johnson but who is known as Ramerrez and leads a particularly desperate band of Mexicans. In spite of the fact that $5000 has been offered for his capture. Ramerrez holds up the Weils-Fargo stage, robbing all the passengers. While doing this, he receives a slight wound on the wrist and when his band disperses with the booty remains behind to bathe the injury. The "Girl" chances to ride by, is interested by her very first glimpse of the fascinating stranger, comes to his aid and binds up the wound with part of her bonnet string.

This is the beginning of the romance between the "Girl" and the road-agent whom she knows only as "Mr. Johnson." Not knowing that the "Girl" is the proprietor of the Polka saloon in Cloudy, but having heard that the miners leave their gold in the care of the woman who runs that place, Ramerrez plans to rob the establishment. He goes to the saloon himself in advance, and there meets Rance, the sheriff-gambler, whose jealousy at once becomes apparent and who is prevented from making trouble for the stranger then and there only because the "Girl" vouches for him.

The World Window

Already many are speculating on what is going to be the end of this war. Perhaps that is putting the point too broadly, at least in an English speaking country. It should rather be-what change is the end of this war going to make in Europe? Is there going to be a renewal of the race after world supremacy, or are the warring nations going to adopt the motto of "Live and Let Live?" Is Germany to be eliminated for the time being merely in order to rebuild the huge machine and make better provisions for its success, or will it merge itself into a comity of nations that recognize the enormous futility of war and the advantage that comes from a world at peace and from the free exchange of products, subject only to such ararngements as enable each country to make the best use possible of its national resources. The world will not have domination, but is ready and willing to have domination superseded by

For years, many able pens have been advocating disarmament as the vital need of the world. But minds that are not obsessed by the dominion of a single idea see insuperable difficulties in the way.

Disarmament Possible ?

The problem it represents is tremendously intensified by the difference in the stages of civilization presented by the leading world powers. The trouble with Germany is that it has become infatuated with the obsession that it has been created to rule the world and to impose its "Kultur" on all other nations irrespective of their wishes or national ideas. That idea is foredoomed to failure, even if it achieved temporary supremacy. Nationalities and national sentiment cannot be blotted out, nor can they be supermeded. Britain learned that after many severe experiences and the idea of the British Empire is no longer domination, but copartnership and voluntary at that. Britons have been wrought by the inevitable logic of experience to realize that the more of intelligent self-government, the more of loyal co-operation for the reneral good.

The Origin Militarism

Militarism rightly interpreted depends on the existence of a separate military class. Nations that have no standing armies, even if the whole manhood is trained to arms, are the least likely to dream of world conquest. This war is likely to deepen that impression, but it can only be established when the profession of arms and all that it implies, ceases to exist. Germany, either , or in the separate states of which it is composed. has had the burden of sustaining a military caste to which all other sections of the state were subordinated. Its supremacy has been felt thruout the whole fabric of the German state. Its spirit is that of war and conquest by war. Its whole ideal is one of offence, not of defence, and it rests in the end on the doctrine of the diwine right of certain chosen individuals to lord it over their fellowmen. The first step towards a real world peace lies in the establishment of democratic principles—in the fact that the great issues of peace and war ought not be in the hands of autocrats or the servants of autocrats, but should rest with the people who bear the brunt and suffer the penalty. Democracy cannot ensure immunity from war, but it at least secures that war is the act of the nation and only after all the resources of civilization have tained even among the European powers. Years must elapse before the smaller and weaker nations, jealous of their independence and their right to a place in the sun, are satisfied that they are secure from aggression. The first step towards restoring confidence will be the passing of the militarists by profession—the professional soldiers who look to war as their business and for the promotion and glory that it brings. They have been the curse of Germany and from them have come the doctrines which have so completely changed the character of the German people. For a quarter of a century, under the express order of the Kaiser, the educational sysem of Germany has been diverted from its proper purpose—that of humanizing the masses of the people—to a glorification of the imperial dynasty, to the inculcation of the dogma of divine right and to spreading the delusion that Germany's happiness and prosperity depended on conquering and pillaging all countries that would not accept Prussian domination. Before a better order can come, the eyes of the German people must be opened and their sanity

Militarism The Curse of Germany

German professional soldiers despised British army officers because they only wore their uniforms when on duty. Germany was the only country in the world where the uniform entitled its wearer to disregard every kind of courtesy due from the young to the old, from men to women. On the street, every civilian had to give place to the uniform on penalty of being rudely cast aside or slashed with a riding whip. That arrogance and brutality is the mark of Prussian militarism seen at its ripest fruit in the horrible outrages perpetrated in Belgium and Northern France. Men compelled to submit to the extremity of physical violence from commissioned and non-commissioned officers, take it out of unfortunate civilians men, women and children—a common trait of human nature, but fortunately, not so common today in really civilized countries es it was in earlier days. The idea of the Sacro-Sanct character of the uniform must be worked out of Germany, but it can only happen by the act of the German people. This war will have accomplished much if it is followed by a real revolution in the mind of Germany, a determination on the part of the German people to subordinate the army to the higher requirements of civilization.

BREAKING UP

The Cause of Labor Unrest

Not the public alone, but the presumed leaders of public opinion have been very slow to perceive the evils, directly and indirectly, caused by overcapitalization. But of late, a quite extraordinary awakening has come. A movement, originally directed against stock manipulation in public service companies, now includes in its scope, ordinary business concerns. What is even more surprising is that among the present opponents of over-capitalization are many who only a few years ago could see nothing objectionable in loading a business with all the capital it could bear. They then failed to realize that the capitalization of earning power was simply an anticipation of profits and imposed a load on all subsequent operations which the business often failed to carry and so ended in disaster.

Henry Ford, of Detroit, with his plan of giving every man in his employ a wage enabling him to maintain a high standard of living and at the same time to make provisions for his future, has made himself one of the most talked of men on the continent. Not only is he distributing a large share of the profits of his automobile manufactory among his workmen, but he has reduced the hours of labor and in other ways materially aided their welfare. Failure of his scheme was freely prophesied when it was first announced. Results have shown that apprehension to be without foundation. Even with the reduced hours of labor, the output has been greater, the product superior in quality and the profits much more considerable.

The secret of Henry Ford's success is simple. He has permitted his business to grow naturally and has never yielded to the temptation to anticipate its earning power by adding to its capital stock. On a capitalization of $2,000,000, the corporation owned by Henry Ford and seven other stockholders, The Financial World of New York remarks editorially, did a business last year of between $80,000,000 and $90,000,000, but of this there remained for the profit side of the ledger over $25,000,000. On this basis each dollar of original capital was able last year to multiply itself twelve and one-half times. No wonder, therefore, Henry Ford has been able to introduce his profit sharing system and to create "an almost perfect spirit of concord between the owners of the business and their employees."

In his testimony before the Walsh Industrial Commission, Henry Ford attributed the existing industrial unrest to the influence of watered capital. In this he is surely right. When a business is loaded up with a capitalization that has anticipated, or more than anticipated its earning power, the cost of production must be reduced to the lowest figure possible or it will go into bankruptcy. Every department has to scrimp and scrape in order to provide dividends. Wages are lowered on the slightest pretext, hours of labor are long and men are hard driven. Thus is sown the seeds of industrial unrest ultimately yielding a fine harvest of strikes and revolutionary violence. In the case of public service companies, the evils of over-capitalization are seen in high rates, public inconvenience and inefficient service. Years ago, Mr. W. F. Maclean, M.P., for South York, pointed these things out, both in the House of Commons and in the columns of The Daily and Sunday World. His arguments were met with impattence and ridicule, but have now been abundantly justified. Henry Ford is indeed right when he declares watered capital responsible, mainly, for labor unrest, and the other troubles from which indus-

War Sufferers in France

France deserves the heartfelt sympathy of the allied powers. Each has done nobly in this supreme effort to destroy the plague of Prussian militarism, but some have suffered and are suffering more than others in the common cause. Belgium is a grave, given over to silence and tears. The fairest regions of France present scenes of the direst devastation and oppression. Wherever the trail of the modern Hun has passed, it has left behind it nothing but ruin and suffering. Every crime possible has been committed—not a dictate of international law or of religion or humanity, but has been violated and trampled under foot. France has borne by far the heavier brunt of the western campaign. Every ablebodied man has been called to the colors. The wheels of industry have practically ceased except for the supply of the necessary munitions of war, The aged men and the women of France are today doing their best to fill the vacant places, but the strain is great and suffering general among the poorer classes. A voluntary organization, the "Secours National" or National Relief is doing much to alleviate the distress and a branch has been opened in Toronto in order to afford Canadians an opportunity to assist the work. Contributions of all kinds can be sent to 51 West King street, or of money, to Mr. W. R. Johnston, corner Front and York streets. The appeal will have wide and general response.

Sanctity of Human Life

Because of the very special circumstances attending the case of the young girl recently tried on a murder charge, the verdict of acquittal returned by the jury was generally approved. What had even more significance was that the presiding judge took occasion to express his concurrence. It can be taken therefore that the case was of an entirely exceptional character not so much in the causes that provoked the indicted act as in the temperament of the accused. This the chief justice noticed in his sympathetic and appreciative comment. Judge, jury and the public were all evidently impressed with the belief that the act was one for which, at the moment, this girl could not be justly held responsible.

Still it would not have been surprising had the jury reduced the charge to one of manslaughter and the judge imposed a nominal sentence. The taking of life is rightly regarded by British law as among the most serious of crimes and only to be justified by real and vital necessity. On this continent the rigidity of justice in this respect has been to some extent modifiedperhaps in the United States the sanctity of life is too lightly regarded, as is shown by the large percentage of homicides in certain districts. But on the whole, in the recent case, with its very peculiar features, the ends of justice were sufficently safeguarded.

ONVENTIONAL religion and conventional politics have done more progress of real democracy. The unfortunate wording of the American Declaration of Independence, which asserts that "all men are born free and equal." has led many unthinking peo-ple to accept this obvious fallacy. All men are created free and equal or originated free and equal, perhaps, but in the course of many permutations, transmigrations, rebirths and descents into the life of the senses, we lose our primal equality and, as in a race, string ourselves out along the illimitable path of evolution. We are of all degrees of development at present or of obscuration, according to the point of view one takes, for I take it that it is clear that it can only be the bodily vehicle which develops, the light within shining as it has opportunity. It is astonishing how bitterly these views are opposed by some who conceive that they were created from superior clay. or for purposes they esteem more worthy than others. The pilgrimage of the soul does not appeal to them. They cannot understand why, to have all knowledge, they must undergo all experience, and that infinite compassion and infinite wisdom are inseparable from infinite expressionwhich are embodied in the mystical conception of the Word made flesh. Equality can, evidently, only be found in the supreme perfection, and while we are striving towards the realization of that perfection we must be unequal in all but potentiality, or shall we say spiritual possibility. Only very ignorant people claim equality with others. but it must not be forgotten also that only very ignorant people deny equal rights to others. Those who have attained to any degree of perfection have done so throu service, and the real Lords and Masters of mankind have always insisted upon the virtue of service as supreme. And so Jesus Christ tells us that he who would be greatest among us must be servant of all, and that not every one that calleth Lord, Lord, shall enter the Kingdom of Heaven, but only he that doetn the will of the Fatner—service to the supreme, both in the height and in the depth.
