STRANGE CASE OF BOY MURDER

Farm Youth Confesses to Slaying Chum

Says Devil Drove Him to It and That Is All Explanation—Struck Him With Bar and Placed Him on Track.

Warsaw, Ind., March 19.—Officials of Kosciusko county today continued their efforts to draw from Virgil Decker, 19-year old farmer boy of Atwood, Ind., the reasons for an attack upon his chum, Leroy Lovett, of Elkhart, Ind., which led to the latter's death.

Decker confessed he had struck his chum on the head with an iron bar in a cottage on the Tippecanoe River, near here, while Lovett was asleep and several hours later returned to the cottage with a horse and buggy, taking Lovett's unconscious form to a nearby railroad crossing, where it was struck by a train.

"The devil drove me to it," Decker told Sheriff Moon, after signing his confession, but he would add no other explanation.

He contradicted his previous statement that a man named "Guy" was with him, finally admitting he had committed the crime unaided.

He denied that his transfer of his own clothes to a nearby body had been part of a plan to collect insurance by telling nearly $30,000, payable to Fred Decker, his brother, in event of the death of Virgil Decker by accident.

Several times, he said, he drove across the railroad crossing nearby trying to make up his mind to leave Lovett on the crossing.

"Finally I saw a train coming from the east," he confessed, "and drove down on the railroad track, unhitched the horse, leaving the buggy with Leroy lying in the seat on the track, and I ran down the south to the road in the direction the horse went."

Lovett died later from the injuries he sustained as first believed he sustained only in the railroad crossing accident.

"The reason I placed my suit of overalls and shoes on Lovett was that I thought when the train struck the buggy, Lovett would be cut so badly he could be identified and some of my clothes would be found on him and they would think it was me, and I would have a chance to get away."

As Hiram Sees It

"Hiram," said the Times reporter to Mr. Hiram Hornbeam, "how would you like to be Johnny Wilson?"

"Well," said Hiram, "I'd like to be a good 'ol better'n politics—yes, sir."

"I had no idea," said the reporter, "that you approved of prize-fighting."

"Who says I did?" demanded Hiram. "Johnny Wilson ain't no prize-fighter. I don't believe he ever had a scrap in his life—even when he was in politics."

"Got all that fer one fight?" queried Hiram.

"He did," said the reporter.

"Why, that 'ud pay our preacher's salary fer forty years," said Hiram.

"He is not living up to his opportunities," said the reporter.

"I take boxing lessons and challenge some one of Belal to a fifteen-round bout at ten dollars a seat? We'd all go out."

"I believe you would," said Hiram.

"An' I ain't sure but maybe it's a good idea. When he got the gang there he'd see a good chance to tell 'em about fightin' the good fight. They say the 'toronto voters' lists next week."

"There will be a house to house canvass by the temperance workers and public meetings will be held. Of the $50,000 required in this city to carry on the fight in the next month, it was reported yesterday that $22,000 had been subscribed. Collections are to be taken in 199 churches."

POLICE COURT

Using abusive and insulting language to William Petrie, was the charge read to Mrs. Mary Brannan of Erin street, in the police court this morning.

The complainant said there had been some trouble over rent, and she had called him abusive names. She denied using the language and on cross-examination said there had been no trouble about rent although she was willing to quit the premises on April 6.

A case against Louis Daley, charged with being drunk and resisting the police, was taken up and Policeman Devolving testified. Daley was fined $8 for being drunk and $80 for resisting the police, but as he could not pay his fine at Guy Northrup, on suspicion of breaking and entering the store of Byron Brewster, was again before the court and remanded for sentence.

Supplementary estimates for a total of $1,272,317 were brought down. This is for the year to end on June 30, 1925. This is an amount of $686,292 for roads, public health and $150,000 for administration of justice.

THROWING A SCARE INTO "HOOTCH" DRUNKS

Pennsylvania Chief Adopts Novel Plan—Toronto Workers Into Fight on Prohibition Referendum.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 19.—In an effort to reform the "hooch chasers" of McKees Rocks, a nearby borough, upon whom fines and jail sentences are having little effect, Chief of Police C. Street has imported six Mexican pine and bull-head snakes, with which he expects to bring about the reformation of the hardened "farm hounds."

The snakes, harmless, are six feet in length, and extremely dangerous looking. A specially constructed cell, called "the terror box," houses the reptiles, and when a drunk is brought in he is given a berth with the snakes. When he awakes from his sleep and finds himself among them he is inevitably in panic-stricken. However, he can obtain his release only by signing a pledge and promising reform.

The snakes are fed on mice.

TORONTO CAMPAIGN

Toronto, March 19.—Temperance workers in this city yesterday perfected their organization for the referendum campaign. More than 4,500 workers will begin a revision of the Toronto voters' lists next week.

The Problems of The Canadian National Rys.

HON. W. F. A. TURGEON

Attorney-General of Saskatchewan, who has been appointed a Justice. He is a son of G. Turgeon, M. P. of Gloucester Co., N. B.

Ottawa, March 19.—In the course of a front page article on the present railway situation as disclosed by the 1921-22 railway estimates, as well as by the statement on national lines submitted to parliament on Thursday, the Journal says in part:

"What measures the government has in view to deal with the problem is not definitely known. It is not unlikely, however, that re-organization of the board of directors of the National Railways is under consideration. It is not that the board is blamed for the large deficit shown, nor that it is in any way regarded as incompetent. On the contrary, the opinion in government circles seems to be that, considering the magnitude of the task undertaken, Mr. Hanna and his associates achieved creditable results. The task of administering the national railways, however, is becoming progressively greater. It will become vastly greater when the Grand Trunk is added to the national lines, because the addition will involve new problems of co-ordination and operation, and it is felt that before the new era is entered upon re-organization of the present board should take place."

Attorney-General of Saskatchewan, who has been appointed a Justice. He is a son of G. Turgeon, M. P. of Gloucester Co., N. B.

SMALLER BONUS THIS YEAR FOR CIVIL SERVICE

Ottawa, March 19.—The Journal's parliamentary correspondent says today: "The bonus to be paid the civil service this year will not be so large as last year. While the matter is still under consideration, and will not be definitely determined until the beginning of next week, there is reason for stating that there will be a decrease in the amounts paid, as nearly as possible proportionate to the decrease in the cost of living."

Later the king and queen shook hands with Carpentier, and the king wished him good luck in his coming fight for the world's championship with Jack Dempsey.

ALL RIGHT IF GERMANY PAYS

Statement on Financial Position of France Made in the Senate.

Paris, March 19.—If Germany pays, France will emerge from her financial difficulties, notwithstanding the colossal burdens left by the war; if she does not pay, the problem is insoluble.

This statement was made in the senate yesterday by Harry Cheron, in presenting the senate finance committee's report on the 1921 budget.

The French debt, which in August, 1914, stood at 27,000,000,000 francs, he explained, amounted on March 1 of this year to 30,000,000,000 francs, to which must be added in the future pensions and war damages estimated at another 215,000,000,000 francs.

France thus far, said Mr. Cheron, had paid out 88,000,000,000 francs to German account; consequently there would be 180,000,000,000 francs more, with interest, to be added to her obligations if Germany did not pay.

MORE WAGE REDUCTIONS

REDUCE SERVICE IN FRENCH ARMY

Paris, March 19.—The army commission of the chamber of deputies today eliminated the government's reservation from the service clause of the army bill and approved eighteen months' service with the colors beginning with the class of 1922. The commission called on the government to report the results to parliament at the end of 1923 with the view to further reduction in the length of service.

NOT GUILTY

GOOD THINGS COMING TO THEATRES OF ST. JOHN.

OPERA HOUSE BILL IS FASCINATING

Oriental Mystery and Magic Caused Mild Sensation—
Snappy Comedy Skit,
Clever Gymnastics, Etc.

The 1921 review of Oriental mystery and magic, which was one of the feature attractions of the new week-end programme at the Opera House last evening, caused a mild sensation among the large number of patrons present. Toy Ling Foo and company appeared in this offering and their clever feats were fascinating. The act is highly entertaining and made a hit with all.

Mindell Kingston and George Ebner scored a hit in their snappy comedy skit, "Getting acquainted." It was a laughing with mirth and was ably enacted. The laughs were well brought out and the participants were accorded hearty applause.

Grant and Wallace were popular favorites in their clever gymnastic and acrobatic offering. They performed numerous feats which combined both strength and skill and also interspersed their act with catchy musical bits. Some of their acrobatic feats were thrilling and they received hearty applause.

Joseph McCormack and Blille Regay well merited applause in their high class vocal and dancing offerings, which they termed "Step-as-a-cante." They are talented entertainers and their song hits and dance steps were of a high order.

Britt and Mace, in a comedy singing, chat and dancing skit were also well received. Their amusing chatter evoked hearty laughter.

In addition to the vaudeville programme there was another episode of "Bole 13," which was featuring with exciting incidents and held undivided interest. This programme will be repeated tonight and again on Monday afternoon and evening.

ROARING COMEDY GLITTER AND MUSIC!

"The Girl From Nowhere"

A Big Clean Show on Monday.

Saturdays are usually rush days at the Imperial box office when coming road-shows are being booked. Therefore it is quite probable that up to closing time tonight the remaining number of good seats for Monday's big English musical revue will be greatly diminished.

Since yesterday morning there has been a steady demand for tickets and E. Stuart-Whyte is assured of bumper houses.

"The Girl From Nowhere" is a high-class popular musical melange of songs, dancing, refined comedy patter and those delightful English grotesques as well as by rendered by that ludicrous comedian, R. V. Barrett-Lennard and his new and equally funny rival, Billie Oswald, allowed to be the best laugh-getter from Scotland since Harry Lauder. Then, course that charming singing star, Zara Clinton, backed up by a large chorus and a score of male chorists and dancers. The programme includes twenty-five new song hits and as many dances and ensembles. Scenic and costuming qualities of the show are elaborate and costly.

Mention of the names of Lloyd George or of Sir Hamar Greenwood was greeted with loud boos and hisses. J. S. O'Donoghue, labor lawyer, dealt with the Irish question, and blamed "official England" for a lot of the trouble and sorrow that had been brought to the people of Ireland.

HOW FIDDLES MAY BECOME VIOLINS

Readers who occasionally glance at the front page before hurdling litter on the street, will remember a dispatch from Berlin which announced an amusing German discovery. ON TO BERLIN?

As the Germans will respond to nothing but force and as they mistake moderation for irresolution and kindness for timidity, several publicists are urging the Allies to push their forces on to Berlin and occupy the capital until the German people realize—as they do not yet—that there is no escape from the terms imposed by the victors.

PLUCKY SHERIFF SOON RETAKES JAIL BREAKERS

Four of seven Kings County Prisoners, Armed, Recaptured After Escape From Hampton Cells.

Four of the seven men charged with various acts of outlaws in Kings county have been determined to escape from the county jail at Hampton last evening. These four, Frank Williams, Theodore Hansen, Fred Shaffer and Percy Wilkinson, broke from jail about 5 o'clock and started off on the track in the direction of Sussex. Deputy Sheriff Isaac Campbell went in pursuit, revolver in hand, and as soon as he caught sight of them, opened fire with the result that all single-handedly returned to the jail.

TRANSCONTINENTAL MAIL BY AIR. (New York Evening Post.) Back in the fifties the first regular mail carriage between the Pacific and Atlantic required at least twenty-three days. In summer the central route, via the Platte, Salt Lake City, and Sacramento, was best; in winter, when snow choked the Rockies, the "Butterfield" route from St. Louis southward, when the Pony Express cut the time down to ten days in April, 1860, the cities of California, the plains and Missouri staged enthusiastic celebrations. In 1869 the completion of the Union Pacific showed that the time might again soon be halved. By 1914 men were proud to deliver San Francisco mail in New York after four and a half days. Yesterday afternoon, 1914 men were proud to deliver San Francisco mail in New York after three hours and twenty minutes earlier.

FISCAL POLICY
CONTROVERSY
IN MOTHERLAND

It's Looming Up On The Political Horizon

Government Members Not Well Known by German People—Lloyd George's Hobby—The Future of Egypt—News Topics of London.

(From Our Own Correspondent.) London, Feb. 24.—What a troubling minister at this moment, and what serious politicians are thinking about, is not the pending by-elections and anti-waste talk, but the looming of another big fiscal controversy. The situation rapidly developing today reminds me very much of the currency vagaries of the last year. There is a movement to secure something far more drastic.

The real threat to the successful conclusion of the coalition's task now to be apprehended comes from the resuscitation of the old whole-hogger programme. The danger is that the cabinet's attempt to grapple practically with the abnormal problems presented in those times by the dumping of goods far below their normal value, partly owing to home limitation and partly owing to currency depreciation, may split the coalition simply because some uncompromising free traders will oppose the policy on principle, and many strong tariff advocates will object to it as a mere pretence at what they personally actually desire and apparently expect.

The Great Unknown. In spite of the glowing locks of the minister, and that curious expression which makes Mr. Churchill as if his whiskers had not been but pulled out, this government is less than a year old. It is not known by many of its predecessors in years. The other day I was looking at a series of photographs of Mr. Gladstone's cabinet in 1880. In that year Mr. Gladstone came in with a terrific majority and much eclat, and his government fell ignominiously five years afterwards. I never understood that till I looked at the pictures. The reason was, of course, that, except for the Grand Old Man himself and Mr. Chamberlain, there was not one member of the cabinet who could have been even moderately successfully caricatured.

This political difficulty is already engendering the minds of the more thoughtful amongst our politicians, or perhaps it should say the mind because the gentleman in question is Sir Robert Horne. His friends have been urging him to wear check trousers or a spotted tie or a monocle or a flower in his button-hole or to take to a motor-scooter, or even, suppose, if the thing were taken really seriously, to wear a kiln. The thing is urgent for the man is a certain prime minister, and he should be identified by the mob. At present, however, he looks so like other distinguished Scotsmen in any sort of profession or trade that it cannot be picked out.

The Essential Thing. Seriously, this kind of thing has a lot to do with political prominence. In his youth Joseph Chamberlain wore pin-cenes and never put his head inside a greenhouse. Now his particular adjuncts dreams, could only be imagined.

Suits, Coats, Wraps, Frocks

All Are Fresh and Lovely in Our Pre-Easter Display

COATS FOR MANY PURPOSES—One outstanding feature in the new Wraps and Coats is their undeniable practicality. For Motoring, Sport Wear, Street and Vacation needs they are unusually well suited. Our Spring Assortments include new styles, colors and fabrics which will command your attention. They are mostly loose and free hanging models. Some are in Russian Blouse effects, and some are smartly belted.

AFTERNOON FROCKS HAVE A YOUTHFUL AIR

—Many influences are evident in the newest afternoon frocks. Spanish, Oriental and Princess are favorite effects, and are found developed in Serges, Tricotines and smart combinations of Satins and Wool materials. Crisp Taffeta, Frocks with frilly skirts are practical and pretty and are showing in black and colors. Colored ribbons, embroideries and appliques combine to make the gayest of trimmings.

SPRING SUITS WITH DISTINGUISHING LINES

—An interesting note is the prevalence of the box coat, so becoming to youthful figures; for those who prefer slightly fitted models there is plenty of room for choice. Embroidery, braid and elaborate girde effects make these suits greatly to be desired.

FLOWER TRIMMED HATS FOR EASTER

—Nothing quite completes the Easter Costume as does the flower-trimmed hat. This year the flowers are in many cases handmade; others are embroidered or appliqued. Crowns of taffeta or crepe-de-chine and brims of fine Milan are seen in many of the new models. Among the prominent colors are: Tangerine, Henna, Zinc, and many shades of blue. There are shapes for every type of face.

of popularity are not merely historical but hereditary, and they have conditioned the success of his family. Austin Chamberlain survives the concentrated attacks of the city and Lord Beaverbrook because he wears a monocle and occasionally has an orchid. Neville Chamberlain, at least as able a man, went down before the attacks of the newspapers during the war because, though he was much more like his father's face, he made up like an ordinary Birmingham citizen. In Paris, where they understand these things, the prime minister is widely admired for this quality alone. He wears, and has for years worn, that deplorable garment—the red-tinted dinner jacket. When he put it on in Paris the other day to entertain Marshall Foch and some other delegates, it was widely said that he was modeling himself on Disraeli. This is the right spirit. Even Mr. Asquith does not disdain it, at witness his slightly cockatoe method of hair-dressing which is, no doubt, a secret of the barber of the Reform Club, which I trust he will keep from other people.

Fraticide! Monsieur Clemenceau is on his way back from India to Europe, and in spite of the number of his illnesses—fourteen as he said himself to a friend—and as many as President Wilson had points, he is coming back in health and vigor. During his visit to India he stayed with the Maharajah of Bikaner, who was the chief Indian delegate at the peace conference, and whose retinue of squawking servants used to frighten late-comers returning to their quarters at the Hotel Majestic, and also with the Maharajah of Kuntalpur, who loves to be considered the most Parsian of Maharajahs. In fact, he paid France the compliment of imitating it in India to a fantastic extent.

While Mr. Clemenceau was staying with the Maharajah of Bikaner he shot two tigers, which is really a feat of fraticide. When he was with the Maharajah of Kuntalpur he stayed in a palace which was designed to be an exact replica of Versailles, in defiance of the Indian climatic and every other sort of appropriateness. What Mr. Clemenceau, who likes to produce a Buddhist atmosphere in Paris, thought about this transference of eighteenth-century France into the country of his greenhouse. Now his particular adjuncts dreams, could only be imagined.

Lloyd George's Hobby.

Gladstone felled trees at Harwardon, and Palmerston hung over his case of rare coins, while Lord Salisbury (taken by Queen Victoria) said that his distraction from politics was to go to bed for a week. So it is not surprising that even Lloyd-George has taken to cultivating a hobby. It is an old-fashioned one—almost Victorian. I saw the other day a gentleman who keeps a large sports shop much patronized by the natives of the principality. He mentioned that the present king had taken up "poker-work"—there is an elaborate name for this genteel pastime of burning patterns into wood with the end of a wet needle, but I forgot it. He expressed surprise that the "Walsh Wizard" should have adopted this curious pastime. But I think I can shed a little light on it. It is not generally known that, beside the attractions of the stamp-album, King George is much fascinated by poker-work, and has executed some very beautiful designs. It is not inconceivable that, upon one of his visits to the palace, the premier has been shown specimens—and the rest is obvious.

Self-Government in Egypt.

The report of Lord Milner and the very able coadjutors who went with him over a year ago on a special mission to Egypt is now being discussed in London, and its recommendations are of vast and urgent importance. The government cannot defer dealing with it much longer without incurring the gravest risks of trouble in the kingdom of the Nile. The report calls attention to the general state of Egyptian discontent, "discovered on their arrival, and their conclusion that it could not be met by any revolutionary or merely departmental reforms.

Subject to safeguards for Britain's special interests and foreign rights indicated in detail, the commissioners recommend a government—in fact as it has always been in theory—for the Egyptians. They agree that Egypt cannot dispense with British assistance, but the Egyptians recognize it as a necessary and helpful help which is essential, more particularly since, under the home rule system recommended, the British rule, and the credit for success would be theirs also. The report is a bold and statesmanlike attempt to forestall in Egypt the egregious situation created by past blundering in some other parts of the empire nearer home.

Jutland Prize Bounty.

The prize bounty awards for the Jutland action, which I hear are now ready for payment, reveal the inequalities of this system, dating from Queen Anne's reign, of rewarding the crews of our men-of-war by a grant at the rate of £2 for every man on board enemy warships sunk. Prize bounty, which goes to those actually engaged in the fight, must be compared with prize money, the proceeds of captured merchant ships, which goes into a common fund for all the navy.

For Jutland, the greatest action of the sea war, the large number of officers and men engaged admits of only a very small share for each person. Thus an ordinary seaman gets 2s. 1d., a leading seaman 2s. 8d., and an on up to 2s. 1s. 1d. for a commander, and 8 s. 3d. for a senior captain. As compared with the rate of £2 for every man on board enemy warships, which had the good fortune to destroy a Turkish transport in the Sea of Marmora, with a crew of 300 and 6,000 troops on board, shared more than £30,000 among them.

The late Admiral Farrer fared much better than those at Jutland, because, of course, not only did they destroy more ships and so earn a larger sum in bounty, but parliament made a special grant of £300,000 to the fleet, in recognition of its services in the action.

STOMACH O. K.

Indigestion, Acidity, Sourness and Gases ended with "Pape's Diapepsin"

Millions of people know that it is needless to be bothered with indigestion, dyspepsia or a disordered stomach. A few tablets of Pape's Diapepsin neutralize acidity and give relief at once. When your meals don't fit and you feel uncomfortable, when you belch gases, acids or raise sour, undigested food. When you feel lumps of indigestion, pain, heartburn or headache, from acidity, just eat a tablet of Pape's Diapepsin and the stomach distress is gone. The cost is so little. The benefits so great. You, too, will be a Diapepsin enthusiast afterwards.

Royal Economies.

Some very far-reaching economies have been gradually introduced by the King in the royal household. It must be remembered that the rise in the cost of living is felt in the palace just as much as in less exalted circles, while, on the other hand, His Majesty has had no expansion in the civil list. The day has long gone by when monarchs wallowed in a sea of debts, extravagance, and hopeless financial confusion. George IV. (which had thrice "paid his debts in full") had to foot another big bill. William IV. "never paid a bill and never had any money." This was the testimony of his court chamberlain. The prince consort should be gratefully remembered for the example he set in royal house-keeping on business-like lines, and, of course, thereby earned the reproach of being stingy. Right to the end, Queen Victoria was averse to waste, and she left a fortune of two millions. But during the last few years the king's household expenses have mounted with terrific velocity, and that is why a drastic programme of economies has been introduced for the example he set in royal house-keeping on business-like lines, and, of course, thereby earned the reproach of being stingy. Mental Diversion at a Profit

You own a business. It is your "child." You have nursed it through infancy, poured brain and money and energy—your life blood almost—into it, to bring it to its present position.

And, if the truth be known, the ambition is still with you to carry it to greater heights; not altogether for profit, perhaps, because there is a streak of altruism in every great business man.

Let us say, then, for the glory of achievement.

Granting this, will you not sit down after dinner this evening and figure out whether you can use advertising—Daily Newspaper Advertising—to accomplish your purpose?

It is unfortunately true that a great deal of daily newspaper advertising is not as well done as it should be; but, even allowing for this, the overpowering commercial successes that have been assisted in their achievement by the persistent force of Daily Newspaper Advertising are sufficient evidence to justify your earnest consideration.

If you have ever thought you would like to advertise, if you could get proper advice on how to go about it, write to this Association. We will give you the benefit of our experience in starting you on the road to successful publicity. Or, consult a recognized advertising agency. A list supplied on request.

CANADIANS CHOSEN FOR WEST AFRICAN PIONEER BUILDING

Stewart's Firm to Construct Harbor and Railway Lines—Rich Natural Products.

Ottawa, March 19.—In 1914 Canada sent its first military expedition to Europe. This year will witness Canada's industrial invasion of Africa. The latter is the direct result of the success of the former. Canadian initiative, adaptability and industry in war railway construction has resulted in Canadians being selected by the British Government to give effect to its policy of development of the great natural resources of West Africa. General J. W. Stewart, D.S.O., M.C., whose railway construction work in France was such an important factor in the success of the Allied forces, will have complete charge of the old coast development. The Gold Coast colony in West Africa, one of the richest sections of that continent in natural resources. There is to be found the greatest manganese on mines in the world. Owing to inadequate facilities, they have never been fully developed, and what has been produced, about 12,000 tons annually, has gone to the United States. They are capable of being developed to 1,000 tons a day, and Britain wants this ore for her steel plants. Malagany in almost inexhaustible quantities, is there also, as well as rubber, cotton, gold and palm oil. But this great country, as well as contiguous territory in Nigeria and Togoland, has neither harbor nor railway facilities. The British Government will build a great harbor at Tagordi, and this will be followed by the construction of railways to tap the various rich areas of that part of tropical Africa. It is estimated that the initial cost being estimated at $20,000,000, that General Stewart and his Canadian lieutenants will undertake.

Men in Charge.

A team of which General Stewart is head, and which has done much work in Canada, has been appointed as consulting and construction engineers. General Stewart, who is in Ottawa, told The Tablet today how this work developed and the immediate plans. "I was asked by the British Government to look over the work on the coast," he said, "and I met him in London. We were then appointed consulting and construction engineers. Already we are sending thirty of the chief employees in our firm to Tagordi. They are engineers, construction men, medical men and others. Our first work is sanitation. We will make the area as healthful as the Panama canal area. It is not the terrible climate that has been pictured. There is not the intense heat that has been imagined. Within a hundred miles of the coast is a magnificent country around Coomassie, famed in British history. Of course it will be native labor under Canadian direction. Harbor development is the essential, and after that it rests with the authorities what further work will be undertaken. It will require from three to six years to complete the programme outlined. The men being sent from Canada have all been associated with me in my work in Canada or in France. They have proven their worth at home and abroad, and I am confident that they will make an equally good reputation in Africa.

Governor is Canadian.

"It may be of interest to Canadians," continued General Stewart, "to know that the governor of the Gold Coast is a Canadian, Major-General Guggisberg, who was born near Oakville, Ont., and who made a splendid record in the British army during the war. Canadians will always remember with deep gratitude the great work of his wife in their behalf. Before her marriage she was Miss Declina Moore, the famous actress, and a sister of Miss Eva Moore, now playing in Canada with her husband, Mr. H. V. Esmond. During the war Mrs. Guggisberg instituted and supervised the British Military and Naval League Club in Paris, which was a home for all British soldiers on leave in that city. More Canadian took advantage of this splendid institution than any of the other races of the Empire."

It is considered here a great compliment to Canada that a Canadian firm has been selected for this important work, for which Canadians are particularly adapted, as years of rapid development in a new country have lifted them to be the pioneers in opening West Africa to British trade. Canadians are widening the scope of their activities, and are repeating British history. "Two centuries ago Britain's sons went forth to conquer the wilderness in many parts of the earth for British commerce. Now the sons of the British Dominions are doing the same thing. It is believed that Canadian trade will follow Canadian enterprise in foreign lands. Already there is a Canadian steamship service to West Africa, and this will bring to Canada the riches of the tropics developed by Canadian industry. General Stewart is one of the pioneers in the extension of the activity of Canadians in great development enterprises to other lands.

SHIPBUILDING FLAT IN BALLAST AND U. S.

Not a single new order for an ocean-going vessel has been reported in the United States since last fall. The British shipyards are now feeling the same depression. In The Liverpool Journal of Commerce the following is reported in its meaning, appeared: "It is reported that not a single shipbuilding order has been placed on the Clyde so far this year. Scandinavian orders are going to Germany, where the cost of production is half the British rate, and the repair orders are being secured by Holland and France."

After this drab and bare announcement, a report was taken to the estimate that the German yards are building at the rate of 100,000 tons the British. One of the leading shipbuilders admitted, however, that the has been placed on the Clyde so far this year. Scandinavian orders are going to under the United Kingdom.

RECUPERATION OF GERMANY

Prussians Repair War Ravages While Austria Waits to Be "Spoon-fed."

London, March 2.—(Associated Press by mail)—Sir Harry Brittain, member of the British parliament, who has just returned after a tour in Germany, Austria and Czechoslovakia, was much impressed by the contrast between the two former countries.

"The Austrian," he said to an interviewer, "is waiting to be spoon-fed at every angle. The German is pulling and in many cases has pulled himself together and the great machine is getting into full swing right across the country. I was in villages and small towns in Eastern Prussia and Bavaria, as well as in Berlin and everywhere one could not put down the feeling that this once great and powerful nation would be great and powerful again."

A BOOST FOR CRICKET.

The outlook for cricket in St. John this year is excellent, and Tuesday evening's smother is expected to give further boost. There are now almost enough players to make up three elevens, and these with Robt. Day, and matches with Fredericton, Digby and Yarmouth, should ensure a lively season. The friends of the game are urged to rally to its support, so that the matter of grounds and all others may be arranged in good time.

DREW CASE NEXT WEEK.

Only two criminal matters are to come before the March session of the Circuit Court, which will open here on Tuesday morning next, but they are both cases which excited considerable interest. The prisoners are George Drew and William Nearn. In both little girls are witnesses. The arrests took place some time ago, but the cases were not in readiness to be heard at the last session of court. Other criminal matters which might otherwise have been brought before this court have been disposed of in the interim. His Honor Mr. Justice Crockett will preside at the hearing.

EMPRESS HAD ROUGH VOYAGE

First Four Days Were Very Stormy

France in Port With 1,304 Passengers, Including Some for Maritime Provinces—Melita and Pretorian Next Week.

After battling through mountainous seas and facing strong head winds, the C. P. O. S. liner Empress of France reached port this morning direct from Liverpool, completing one of the most stormy passages of the season in the remarkable fast time of seven days. She sailed from Liverpool on March 11 and for 1,000 miles was forced to face a storm which raged unabatingly for four days. The large compasses tossed the liner about to such an extent that a large number of the crew suffered from the much dreaded sea sickness as well as the vast majority of the passengers. Nothing of interest transpired on the voyage and no icebergs were sighted.

The Empress carried 1,304 passengers, comprising sixty-five cabins, 294 second cabin, five members of an orchestra, and 700 third class. In addition she had 1,268 tons of general cargo, of which 857 tons were consigned to merchants in this city; 2,658 bags of mail and 1,903 packages of parcel post.

The passengers were a fine looking lot and seemed glad to have completed the first leg of their journey. There was a special party on board for the Ontario government which was in charge of Major J. Clarke, of Tillamook, Ontario. These people will settle in the Province of Ontario.

Shortly after the steamer docked a steward, named Wright, was sent ashore and rushed to the public hospital to be operated on for appendicitis, which he contracted shortly before reaching port. Aside from this one case there was no sickness reported and nothing eventful happened on the voyage.

Among the cabin passengers was W. R. Little, of Ottawa, commissioner of immigration, who was on a visit to the Old Country and is returning to his home. Other notable passengers on board were Major General W. H. Greenly of Toronto, and Major C. G. Johnson of Vancouver, B. C.

There were some maritime province passengers, including Mr. and Mrs. Mearns of this city, Captain R. Parker, who was listed for St. John; Dr. N. S. Bailey and W. J. Busch of Halifax, and Mrs. W. C. Clarke of Fredericton.

The passengers were conveyed to their destinations throughout Canada in three special trains, the first getting away at 2.30 o'clock for Montreal and Ontario points. The second was due to leave at four o'clock and the third at six o'clock. The last taking the third class passengers and the others the first and second cabin.

This is the first sailing the Empress made for nearly two months, having been laid up in Liverpool, E. Cook is in command.

Others Next Week.

The C. P. O. S. liner Melita is due here on Monday morning from Liverpool with 440 cabin and 890 third class passengers, in addition to 600 tons of general cargo, 508 bags of mail and 159 packages of parcel post.

The Pretorian is due here on Tuesday from Glasgow with 179 cabin and 165 third class passengers, in addition to 1288 tons of general cargo.

My Own Particular Chair

"A chair that is comfortable, a chair to cheer, a chair with distinctive personality—it is exactly what I wanted, and I found it nowhere in St. John except at Everett's."

"This chair was bought for me individually, and the price why, the price was even less than the dreary old, clumsy, dumb-looking leather abominations. This is more than a chair; it is a relief."

No, reader, this is not overdrawn. This is exactly what she said, besides a lot more in the same vein which it is unnecessary for us to print here. Won't you come in and let us get better acquainted?

STILL STICK TO DUELLING CUSTOM

Students Look On Scars As Diplomas of Sword Prowess — Man With Fewest Stitches Wins.

Heidelberg, Germany, March 1.—(Associated Press by mail)—Sword duelling in the University of Heidelberg is as popular and as common today as it was more than 500 years ago, when this oldest of German schools was founded.

Duels do not always arise from anger or quarrels, but out of the necessity of providing the student with the diploma of sword prowess, or to give him sword practice which affords the students great delight.

"Should, at any time during the encounter, a contestant dodge a sword stroke his opponent is immediately declared winner. That is the unforgivable thing in the students duelling code—to dodge a stroke."

Except in frequent combats between older students, when heavy swords are used, duelling in Heidelberg is not dangerous. The heads and necks of the fighters, and the abdomens, are protected by leather guards.

Some of the favorite duelling places are ancient cafes and beer rooms, the walls of which are always covered with sand, and the walls lined with huge mugs and hung with sagravings, old pictures, and trophies of the fight. These places are sacred to students and it would be a serious offense against custom of half a thousand years for a stranger to wander in and sit down in some storied chair.

The university is still a law unto itself, and the civil authorities of the town of Heidelberg never, under any pretext, interfere with the students duelling, which is administered to refractory students by university authorities. The univers-

SAYS U. K. MANUFACTURERS CAN HOLD THEIR GROUND: "There is some talk going about these days of the British manufacturer being beaten in competition on his own ground, but don't believe it!"

Rotarian Kelly of Halifax and Rotarian J. King Kelley of St. John do not belong to the same lodge, but they were much together yesterday and both seemed to like it.

W. H. Golding took a moving picture of the conference in front of Pythian Hall. At the end of the moving picture certain Rotarians pranced along with a group of the girls who had served the luncheon, and the picture should create a sensation in Halifax.

While not yet formally announced, next year's conference will undoubtedly be held in Moncton. The Rotarians from New England assured the conference they would be glad to send a delegation to the prospect on any special occasion, as they desired the feeling to be truly international, and would welcome provincial Rotarians at any and all times.

SLUMP IN PARIS REALTY VALUES

Paris, March 1.—(Associated Press by mail)—The boom seems to have departed from Paris real estate values. It was widespread expectation in the decline in the cost of living and to opposition of capitalists to invest in real estate.

During the boom, fantastic prices were paid for sites for moving picture houses and dance halls, ten times the prices of 1914 were paid for apartment houses and suburban property was up seven times its former value.

The stagnation is attributed to measures taken by the government to curb the exactions of the landlords, to the wide spread expectation in the decline in the cost of living and to opposition of capitalists to invest in real estate.

DEBATE IN THE REPLY TO THE THRONE SPEECH

Messrs. Baxter and Fawcett Indulge in Mild Criticism of Foster Government.

Fredericton, March 18.—The debate on the reply to the speech from the throne was continued in the legislature this afternoon with Hon. J. B. M. Baxter, leader of the official opposition, and A. Chase Fawcett, leader of the farmer group, as speakers.

Hon. Mr. Baxter introduced a bill to provide an annuity for W. M. McLean. He explained that the McLean had been in the employ of the educational department for forty-nine years, and had recently retired. It was proposed to pay him an annuity of $800.

Mr. Baxter, on the order of the day being called, resumed the debate on the address. He said that he always regarded it more or less of a perfunctory duty to discuss the speech delivered at the opening of the legislature. It was not expected that any immediate results could follow such a debate, and any tendency to abbreviate remarks would be a mercy.

REJOICES OVER GOOD FORTUNE

Verdun Woman Restored to Health by Tanlac After 7 Years Suffering.

"It's enough to make anybody rejoice to see the wonderful way in which Tanlac is restoring my health," said Mrs. Ada Champion, a highly esteemed resident of 557 A. Langle Road, Verdun, P. Q.

"For seven or eight years I suffered from nervousness, loss of appetite, indigestion and general weakness. The least noise would make me so nervous I could hardly stand it, and I was almost unable to get the sleep I needed. I suffered terribly from constipation, and felt dull and languid all the time. My strength seemed to be slipping away from me, and it was more than I could do to take care of my children and after my household duties. I just felt so bad that life seemed hardly worth living.

"In a very short time Tanlac has built me up so that I can eat and sleep as well as I ever could and never have any trouble from indigestion, constipation, or nervousness. I feel the good of Tanlac to my fingers tips and can look after my children and my household with ease and an like an entirely different person. My gratitude to Tanlac is unbounded."

Tanlac is sold by F. W. Munro, and the Ross Drug Co., L. C. Allingham, Campbell, N. B.; T. H. Wilson, Fairville, N. B.—(Advt.)

TO BE DYSPLECTIC IS TO BE MISERABLE

The poor dyspeptic suffers untold agony at every meal and after one who has dyspepsia knows what joy it would give to eat three square meals a day and not be punished for eating them.

Before you can eat heartily, and not pile on pounds, your food, you must put your stomach into such a condition that it will manufacture its own digestive juices.

For over forty years Burdock Blood Bitters has been building up and restoring the system to normal healthy condition so that the food no longer causes distress, but is thoroughly digested and assimilated, and enables one to partake all the wholesome food required without fear of any unpleasant after effects.

He Used Them Years Ago For Heart Trouble and Pain in the Back, and the Results Have Made Him a Firm Friend of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

A JAPANESE LEGEND

Kappa is Known as "Child of the River" (The Montreal Gazette).

Stories and legends concerning rivers abound in Japan. One reason is that the rivers are generally treacherous streams which a greater part of the year are little more than dry gravelly beds, but which sometimes suddenly overflow their banks, carrying destruction to the fields and to the houses along their way.

The story of the Kappa is told on the occasion of river festivals, which are held in July.

The Kappa is supposed to be a hairy creature with scaly limbs and the body of a tortoise; his head resembles that of an ape, and in the top of it is a cavity containing a mysterious fluid, said to be the source of the Kappa's power. The chief delight of the Kappa, who is fierce and quarrelsome, is to challenge human beings to combat, an invitation that cannot be refused. To defeat a kappa is as unfortunate as to be wounded by him, as the victor begins immediately to waste away.

The Kappa always lives in rivers, and there were Kappas in some districts which demanded two victims a year. A person being suddenly to grow pale, ill, or to die, was taken as a sign that the Kappa means "Child of the River."

There is a shrine in Izu, called Kawako-miya which is said to contain a document signed by the Kappa who once lived in a neighboring stream. This goblin was exceedingly ferocious, and many a villager or a villager's animal fell victim. One day the Kappa attacked a horse which had stepped into the river. In doing so the Kappa waded its neck, but still clinging to the frightened horse, which dashed out of the river and to his master's aid. The villagers captured the Kappa and wanted to kill it, but the owner of the horse protested that he had a better plan. The Kappa was tightly bound and presented with a document which promised that he would never molest the villagers or their animals again. The Kappa, in order to save his life, promised and affixed his seal to the document by slipping his hand into the ink and pressing it to the paper. He was then allowed to return to the river, and from that day to this he has never harmed the villagers.

Any Japanese today will acknowledge that he has heard of Kappa, but few have seen one.

OTTAWA WANTS UNIT OF NAVAL BRIGADE

Why Should Not St. John Do What Other Cities Are Doing?

(Ottawa Journal) Will you give a dollar to help establish a unit of the Boys Naval Brigade in Ottawa?

This is the request which is being made to all people of Ottawa today by the Kiwanis Club, the members of which have resumed the responsibility of raising a fund of $48,000 to place a division of the naval brigade on its feet in the Capital. The decision has been reached to make the campaign popular one by placing the amount of a regular subscription from each person at $1. In this way, a considerable number of people will acquire a direct and personal interest in the activities of the new unit, the chief purpose of which is to assist the proper idea of discipline.

The Kiwanis Club of Ottawa has lined up behind the project because of its desirability as a community feature. The Boys Naval Brigade is also fostered by the Naval League of Canada and is encouraged by men in public life because of the advantages it gives the boy who is fortunate enough to become identified with the courses offered. Qualified instructors teach members of the brigade a practical knowledge of seaman ship but no demand is made that the trained boy follow the life of a sailor unless he so desires.

The training is in keeping, however, with British traditions of the sea and it gives prominence of the influence which commerce has had in the development and expansion of the British Empire. The boy who successfully passes the examinations at the conclusion of the regular term is entitled to a second mate's certificate and the activities, generally, of the Boys Naval Brigade draw attention to the need for manning Canada's mercantile marine with Canadian seamen.

The proposed equipment for the Kiwanis Boys Naval Brigade of Ottawa comprises two sixteen-oared cutters, together with necessary facilities for the training quarters of the division. The boys will also be provided with appropriate uniforms. The cutters are to be used on the rivers adjacent to Ottawa. Once each year, the boys may enjoy a cruise on the "Uman," a trading ship on Lake Ontario. The boys will attend classes several nights each week when they will be taught details of seamanship, life-saving, signalling and various forms of drill. They are taught to use their hands as well as their brains, but in all undertakings which require absence from home, parents, school teachers, clergymen and others who have interest or authority over the boys are invariably consulted to obtain the necessary consent. This is done so that the boy will not be taken from home, school or church life.

Sub-divisions of the Boys Naval Brigade have proved to be highly popular at Kingston, Toronto, London and many other centres, some of which are looked upon unquestionably as inland cities. The presence of Naval Brigade units in these places serves to emphasize the importance of the sea, from trade and national viewpoints, upon all citizens of Canada.

Boys Naval Brigade work does not overlap any other form of community welfare, semi-military, athletic or spiritual activity for the boy and it deserves the wholehearted support and consideration of the people.

Although many of them had been out of work for months, due to the depression in the shipping industry, they did not leap to their feet. Mate for a tanker, indeed, they thought—men who had felt the Overrun with "Red Ink" Sailors. "And the whole Shipping Board is overrun with 'red ink' sailors," another man threw in, with the explanation that a 'red ink' sailor is an alien who has a temporary war job as ship master. "Now, I had two as good wooden ships as ever walked the sea," the old man continued. "We are about to turn out good ships if we try. Look at the last one Donald McKay built in 1864. She's still as sound as she was. There's the Dashing Whale, built in '47. She was sunk off Sandy Hook, raised again and made into a barge. I tell you she'd stand reggin' right now, and I would take her myself. Good boat that!"

"Why not build wooden ships?" he went on as though that, and not getting a job, was the real thing at issue. "Out on the coast they can take a stick and dig a ship out of it. I sailed one of them 18,000 miles and never had a bit of trouble."

"Are any of you fellows going into other work?" he was asked. "Oh, I suppose some of the young ones are. But when the sea gets into into you, you can't leave. I've been at it thirty-five years now. It's like Sing Sing once you get started, you can't stop. You know the sea."

Minard's Lintment For Dandruff. AGRICULTURAL MISSIONARY FOR WEST CHINA UNIVERSITY

Guelph, March 18.—Rundle M. Lewis of the fourth-year class at the Ontario Agricultural College has been appointed an agricultural missionary in the West China University. He intends leaving this fall for Hong Kong, where he will take a two-year's course in languages before commencing his duties in West China. On completing his third year in 1918 he enlisted with the University Company of the Princess Patricia's Regiment and saw considerable service overseas, returning in 1919, when he took his third year over again in order to get refreshed on the work which he had forgotten while overseas. Before coming to Guelph he was graduated from Fruro Agricultural College, Nova Scotia.

A splendid programme was carried out last night at the meeting of the St. David's Old Country Club in the church school room. About sixty people were present and enjoyed the social and concert. There were songs by Mrs. McCarty, Mrs. and Miss Aird, Misses McPherson and Mr. Porter. Mrs. McPherson gave a recitation. It was decided to have a social and concert on April 1. Miss McPherson and Miss Aird were the accompanists of the evening. Captain R. Pollock was chairman.

Can Germany Pay?

Germany must pay, say the Allied bayonets in Dusseldorf, Duisburg, and Ruhrort; Germany must pay, said Premier Lloyd George, speaking for the Allies at the London Reparations Conference; Germany must pay, agree the newspaper editors in this country as well as in France and England. But can Germany pay? Is Germany ready to make an honest effort to pay? Most editorial observers comment on the lack of accurate post-war statistics on German trade and finance. Every careful newspaper reader has been puzzled by the contradictory stories coming from Germany. One investigator reports marvelous industrial recovery, and another, apparently equally reliable, describes Germany as a land of hunger and poverty and complete industrial collapse. The view of the Kansas City Times is that "Germany is a dishonest bankrupt hiding her assets and dodging her obligations while pretending to hand over her all." Germany, says the London Economist, "has been letting her state finances fall into disorder with a view to showing an economic weakness. Her state services have been run at a loss, and she has used the printing-press with a freedom that has aroused the admiring envy of British inflationists. But her industry is in much better shape than her state finances, and on her industry her power to pay is ultimately based."

The leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week, March 19th, deals with all phases of the Reparations problem, and presents the views of European and American editors. The article is illustrated by a map showing the cities and other territory in Germany now occupied by the Allied armies.

SALVATION ARMY
ATTACKS NIGHT
LIFE OF LONDON

London, March 2.—(A. P., by mail.)—Two hundred "picked troops" of the Salvation Army, headed by a brass band, made an attack on London night life recently. The forces gathered in Regent street shortly before midnight and appeared suddenly in Piccadilly Circus, seizing the crowd in the cafes and other places of amusement.

Without warning the strains of "Shall We Gather at the River?" burst upon the ears of the revellers and the cafe revellers. Pedestrian traffic practically stopped while the marchers passed up the Grosvenor avenue into Leicester square, thence to Charing Cross.

When the battalion reached Leicester

Rheumatic Pains

Are relieved in a few days by taking 30 drops of Mother Seigel's Syrup after meals and on retiring. It dissolves the lime and acid accumulation in the muscles and joints so these deposits can be expelled, thus relieving pain and soreness. Seigel's Syrup, also known as "Extract of Roots," contains no dope nor other strong drugs to kill or mask the pain of rheumatism or lumbago. It removes the cause. 50c a bottle at drugists.

Square, four young women in fur, silk stockings and Piccadilly complexion brought up the rear of the column.

"Things have been in a very bad way here for some time past," said Commissioner Cox, who led the attack. "An outcry has gone up that nobody is doing anything in behalf of the young women and girls who are found on the streets nightly in greater numbers."

"Why there should be so many more children on the streets it is difficult to say, but probably the war has had a great deal to do with it. It gave them a taste, not for wickedness, but for "life" as they understand it. They want too much dancing and pleasure, and that very often leads to sorrow."

STRIKE AGAINST HIGH TEXT BOOK PRICES

Naples, March 1.—(By Associated Press by mail.)—The students of Naples University have gone out on a strike in protest against the over-rising price of scientific text books. Marching round the city to the book-shops they presented a demand that each publisher should grant an all-round 50 per cent. reduction.

Those who refused had their stores raided and their stock torn to pieces or pitched into the streets from balconies.

HOLLAND SNUBS THE DRY MOVEMENT

The Hague, March 1.—(Associated Press by Mail.)—Efforts of Dutch prohibition advocates to obtain passage of a local option law this year have met with such small success that action apparently has been postponed until a more favorable time.

Copeland declared he had led Reeves into the crime, and asked to be allowed to bear the boy's sentence.

SAW DISHONOR IN WRECK OF MOTOR

Menier's Chauffeur Drowned Himself After Smashing Employer's Car.

Paris, March 18.—The history of the cook, Vatel, who ran a sword through his heart because the fresh fish did not arrive in time for the king's dinner, has been repeated in the case of a French chauffeur, which is told in the Paris press this morning. So great was his sense of professional honor that he refused to survive the disgrace of having smashed up his master's automobile. The whole drama was played out on the road between Paris and Villers-Cotterets two days ago. The owner of the car, Georges Menier, on arriving at the latter place on a business trip, decided that he would return by train, and so ordered his chauffeur to take the car back to Paris. By the time M. Menier's brother the same afternoon was motoring along the road to Villers-Cotterets, and found a wrecked car abandoned by the roadside. On examining it he found it was his brother's car and, fearful that a tragedy had overtaken the occupants, he drove at once to the next villa to make inquiries. Here he was informed that the car, driven by the chauffeur, but with no other occupant, had passed early in the afternoon, and that the chauffeur had been seen later on foot in the village. He had stopped at a cafe and written a letter to his employer. This letter ran as follows:

"Monsieur,—You entrusted your new car to me, and I have had the misfortune to damage it irreparably. I cannot survive such dishonor."

Enclosed with the letter was a will, in which the unfortunate man arranged for the disposal of his small savings of some 1,500 francs.

A search was organized at once in the district in the hope that he would be found before he could carry out his intention, but after a few hours his lifeless body was dragged from a river.

To add to the irony of the story, because in his tragic letter the man had seemed to admit that the wreck of the car was his fault, the insurance company with which the car was insured now refuses to pay compensation to the owner.

MEMORIAL IN HONOR OF WILSON

A movement was launched at New York on Tuesday to establish a perpetual memorial in honor of Woodrow Wilson—the man who projected into the world the idea of the League of Nations.

After listening to eulogy of the former President, by John Drinkwater, English playwright, some five hundred men and women voted unanimously to appoint a temporary committee to work out details of the memorial. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic Vice President candidate in the last election who presided at the gathering, was appointed chairman and the former ambassador to Turkey, treasurer.

Although the form the memorial is to take was not definitely decided upon, it was suggested that a minimum sum of $800,000 be raised as a trust fund, the proceeds from which shall be awarded each year to the person who during the year has made the greatest contribution toward international amity.

Mr. Drinkwater's address was frequently interrupted by applause, particularly when he declared that Mr. Wilson "conceived beyond his executive capacity a thing that is generally true of all great historical figures."

"Most men," said the speaker, "are prone to bow in submission at the first assault of expediency. It is the tragedy and the glory of Woodrow Wilson that he clung tenaciously to his ideal regardless of personal consequences."

"It is generally agreed," he continued, "that his tactics were by no means perfect. But the strategy back of them

Are you naturally attractive?

WHERE can you find a more pleasing picture than a group of young, healthy, vigorous girls playing tennis?

Alert, quick to think, and quick to act, their faces aglow with enthusiasm and radiant with health.

How many there are, however, among our growing girls of whom this cannot be said. You see them sitting on the side benches looking on, or loitering around in a listless, careless manner, and, as a rule, irritable and nervous.

Nature intended women to be strong, and healthy and happy as the day is long. MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS have proved so beneficial in such a multitude of cases, that they can be recommended without hesitation.

They give sound, restful sleep, tone up the nerves, make the heart beat regular and strong, create new red blood corpuscles, and impart that sense of buoyancy to the spirits that is only possible when enjoying mental and physical vigor.

Mrs. Fred Lee, Almonte, Ont., writes:—"My oldest daughter was so bad for over a year, with her heart and nerves, that she was compelled to give up her work. I was very discouraged about her, as I had her to two doctors, but they did not seem to do her much good. She could not sleep at night, would have to walk the floor, and felt as if she would go out of her mind. One day a friend told me to use Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and I cannot speak too highly of them. She used three boxes and is feeling fine, and started back to work again two months ago."

Loss of Weight and Vigor

Far-reaching Effects of Kidney Disease

If you are losing strength, weight and vigor, it is highly probable that your kidneys are not performing their natural functions in a proper manner. In many cases, people have allowed themselves to be sapped of their vitality before realizing the true cause. A backache, constant headaches, painful urination, and other similar pains are frequently signs of kidney derangement. Indifference, or delayed treatment, will surely result in loss of weight and vigor, and in the development of more serious ailments, such as rheumatism or sciatica, lumbago, swollen joints or stone in the bladder.

Gin Pills FOR THE KIDNEYS

Gin has always been recognized as a remedy for kidney and bladder troubles. Gin Pills, however, contain none of the harmful alcohol, but all the healing qualities of the Juniper Berry. These properties are compounded with seven other diuretics and antiseptics, and the result is a pill which stands out as the finest restorative and corrective for deranged kidneys. If you have any of the dreaded symptoms, get a box at once from your druggist or dealer—60c. If you obtain no relief, we will refund your money. Or, write to us for a free sample, sufficient to convince you of their value. Act without delay.

The Vatican at Rome Recommends Nuxated Iron

If you lack BODILY or MENTAL VIGOR; if you are WEAK; NERVOUS or IRRITABLE, TRY NUXATED IRON TODAY.

Nuxated Iron CONTAINS ORGANIC IRON LIKE THE IRON IN YOUR BLOOD AND LIKE THE IRON IN SPINACH, LENTILS AND APPLES.

NUXATED IRON also contains a remarkable product, brought to the attention of the French Academy of Medicine by the celebrated Dr. Robin, which represents the principal chemical constituent of acrobatic living nerve force FOR FEEDING THE NERVES, so that NUXATED IRON might be said to be both a BLOOD and a NERVE FOOD.

THERE ARE 30,000,000,000,000 RED BLOOD CORPUSCLES in your blood and each one must have iron.

Today about one person out of every three is said to suffer more or less from the great devitalizing weakness brought on by malnutrition or lack of sufficient nourishment; which is caused NOT BY LACK OF FOOD but often by LACK OF SUFFICIENT ORGANIC IRON in the blood to enable us to GET THE STRENGTH OUT of our food.

IRON IS THE MASTER PRINCIPLE OF THE BLOOD AND BLOOD IS LIFE. Our forefathers ate the husks of grains and the skins and peels of vegetables and fruits, rich in strength-giving organic iron, but modern methods of cooking throw all these things away—hence the alarming increase, in recent years, in Anemia—iron starvation of the blood with all its attendant ills.

When, as a result of iron starvation, you get up feeling tired in the morning, when you find yourself nervous, irritable and easily upset; when you can no longer do your day's work without being all fagged out at night; when your digestion all goes wrong, or you have pains across the back, shortness of breath, heart palpitation or your face looks pale and drawn, do not wait until you go all to pieces and collapse in a state of nervous prostration or in your weakened condition you contract some serious disease, but co-act your physician and have him take a specimen of your blood and make a "blood count" of your red blood corpuscles. Next test the iron-power of your blood yourself by adding plenty of spinach, carrots, or other iron-containing fruits and vegetables to your daily food and take organic iron—Nuxated Iron—with them for a while and see how much your condition improves. Thousands of people have surprisingly increased their strength, energy and endurance in two weeks time by this simple experiment. But be sure the iron you take is organic Nuxated Iron and not metallic iron which people usually take and which is made merely by the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron—an entirely different iron from Nuxated Iron. The fact that you may have taken metallic iron without receiving any benefit does not prove that Nuxated Iron will not help you. Nuxated Iron represents organic iron in such a highly concentrated form that one dose is estimated to be approximately equivalent (in organic iron content) to eating half a quart of spinach or one quart of green vegetables. It is like taking extract of beef instead of eating pounds of meat. Nuxated Iron is used by over 4,000,000 people annually.

WHAT THE VATICAN SAYS ABOUT NUXATED IRON

"I am happy to inform you that your gift of Nuxated Iron has been accepted with particular gratitude by the Holy Father, who, persuaded by its beneficial effects, and AFTER HAVING IT SPECIALLY ANALYZED BY THE DIRECTOR OF THE PHARMACY OF THE VATICAN, formulates the most sincere wishes that your product may become famous and be as appreciated by the public AS ITS VALUE CERTAINLY MERITS."

(J. Tedeschi, Institute of the Secretary of State—Vatican)

"The composition of Nuxated Iron is such that the physiological and therapeutic effects cannot fail to be produced, as is usually the case in the prescription of pharmaceutical products of this kind."

(F. Narciso Duribichelin, Director of the Pharmacy of the Vatican.)

Be sure of authenticity. Look for the letters N.L. on every tablet. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturer if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. At all druggists.

IRON, STEEL, METAL AND MACHINERY MARKET
In its summary of the iron, steel, metal and machinery markets for the week ended March 17, Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News, Toronto, makes the following comment:
A survey of the leading markets for the week shows that machine tools, iron, steel and metals are quiet and weaker in price. Just to what extent the price has weakened is impossible to state because several instances the word "price" indicates now what the buyer thinks he should pay rather than what the seller is asking.

THE EVENING TIMES AND STAR, ST. JOHN, N. B., SATURDAY, MARCH 19, 1921

MONARCHISM IS DYING IN AUSTRIA

Spasmodic Royalist Activity is Apparent, However Stronger in Some Provinces—Farm Element is Prosperous—Not Much Hope of Restoration of the Throne.

Vienna, Feb. 15.—(By the Associated Press).—If monarchism is to come to Austria it must, like Bolshevism, come from without. This is the opinion of men whose business it is to watch and weigh royalist activity.

That there is royalist activity goes without saying. Carl (formerly emperor) and his followers, the little circle of men and near royalists and adventurous gentlemen of many nationalities he has about him in Switzerland, still intrigue and plot and perhaps hope. Here and in the other successor states a portion of the old aristocracy and great land owners and military swashbucklers keep up a more or less concealed restoration movement, but on the whole the monarchist sentiment is receding.

It dies here because it has powerful support in Austria from sources that come into intimate contact with the people in the daily life, and from exterior quarters as well, but observers say it has lessened decidedly in the past six months.

They attribute that condition to several causes. The royalist leaders are, to say the least, hardly an enterprising or very daring lot and also they are sensible enough to realize that even an anointed Hapsburg must have a treasury to successfully run government and would present a sorry spectacle with bankrupt Austria and an estranged Kaim. Then the assiduous propaganda and teachings of the socialist and other liberal elements have begun to take effect on the great body of the peasantry, always considered the backbone of the royalist movement.

From this statement may be expected the provinces of Upper Austria, the Tyrol and Vorarlberg. According to the best information the monarchist movement still centres there and the mass of the peasant population supports it. This may be attributed to the fact that these provinces lie open not only to the direct efforts of the Carlism propaganda from Switzerland, but the equally strong monarchist emanations from Bavaria.

Farmers Well Off.

While it has been two years of hard sledding for the republic as a whole and apparently there is a very rough road still ahead, the agrarian element has not been very badly off at any time. The farmers have made more money than they can spend and none of the many governments up to now have been able to take any very considerable part of it from them by taxes. They are enjoying luxuries for the first time in their lives because they can get their own price for their products, and together the lessons of the new liberty are seeping into the valleys and hills as well as into the factories and mines.

Every now and then the Vienna press gives prominence in a scary way to the alleged plots of the reactionaries, to the comings and goings and meetings of Carl and his satellites in Switzerland, of the former archbishops and the princes of Parma and Bourbon, the former Emperor Zita's two brothers, who turn up occasionally in Vienna with little attempt at concealing their presence, of the former Austrian generalissimo Friedrich, in Berne, his cousin Eugene in Basle; of the Chamberlains Chlumsky and the Counts Berchtold, Fongtsch, Andray, Prince Windischgratz and all the other worthies whose vocations and privileges departed when Carl fled.

Great prominence has just now been given a reported joint protest by the Czechoslovakian and Jugoslavian governments to the Helvetic Federal Council against the liberty of intrigue enjoyed by the Carlism refugees in Switzerland. The Vienna government keeps a pretty good watch on the group in Switzerland and much of the prominence given their activities is said to be inspired by the foreign office for its deterrent effect.

Even the formation of a new royalist party here headed by Count Ressegger and having for its avowed object the closer co-ordination of the various restoration movements attracted very little attention.

Little Hope of Restoration.

In fact the general belief of foreign observers here is that in Austria at least the activity of the royalists has for its purpose more the holding together of their class and the protection of their common interests rather than any real belief they can put the yellow and black banner of the House of Hapsburg back on the Hofburg. Behind this, of course, lies the hope of some turn in European affairs that may give them a chance, and here lies the danger from without.

Should Hungary crown a king, or rather if she can find one to crown in view of Great Britain's veto of Carl, which has rather upset the movement, there, or should reaction effect a successful stroke in Bavaria, what the restoration here would be is a matter of conjecture.

It is well known that the aim of the more ardent Hungarian monarchists is another dual kingdom, and they might try a bold coup on Austria. But there is no conjecture about the cold fact that any attempt to restore the monarchy or a monarchy in this republic would mean bloodshed. Not only would the liberal elements fight, but there is no concealment of the programme that Czechoslovakia is to throw troops into Austria in such an event, and if she becomes engaged with Hungary the South Slavs are to come to her aid.

PLANS TO MAKE NEW FARMERS & FARMS

A. W. Husband Explains How Department of Immigration Can Help United States.

Washington, March 18.—Plans to divert immigrants from the cities and industrial centers and to coordinate agencies of the departments of interior, agriculture and labor to place the new comers on small farms were announced Monday by A.

W. Husband, commissioner-general of immigration.

The new commissioner-general made public a plan approved by Secretary of Labor Davis, which he declared would help solve the immigration problem and at the same time correct the economic situation arising from the flow of population to the large cities.

"There is land enough in this country for millions of small farms," Commissioner Husband said, "and that the department of interior is opening in the west for entry, lands in the south and elsewhere that are now swamps, but that can be drained and put to use, and still other lands in the east that have been abandoned as farms by the drift of our population to the cities.

"Our plan is not to replace American farmers with foreigners but to create new farms and make new farmers, thereby increasing the resources of the nation. Our immigration problem is largely a problem of distribution of the immigrants.

"Our plan is not to scatter these people out in sparsely settled sections and put them up against the problems that our pioneers went through. Neither do we plan to start foreign settlement communities in the strict sense of the term, but we plan to group them somewhat in the European village plan, and offer them the advantages of expert agricultural and home demonstration instruction through the department of agriculture, and aid them in taking advantage of the farm loan act.

"By handling the immigration problem in this manner, we will do away with the 'Red' danger. The farm with the advantages we can offer will be the best sort of an Americanization school.

"We must divert immigration from the crowded industrial centers. The change from European rural life to conditions in some of our big factory cities is too much for human nature to stand."

BRITAIN FIGHTS TRADE DEPRESSION

Economic Outlook Difficult—Industries Anxious Over New Business—Total of Unemployment Increased—General Belief That Worst is Passed.

Britain's economic position is little changed. The depression that settled down in greater or lesser degree in practically all industries and trades continues to prevail, and there is little actual improvement to report. The chief causes appear to be, first, the world's difficult economic position, and secondly the uncertainty with regard to future prices both of which factors have so seriously reduced the world's buying power. The department of overseas trade of the imperial government finds the economic outlook to Britain in practically the same position as it was several weeks ago, but there is a general belief that the worst has been passed.

It is extremely difficult to speak with any feeling of confidence with regard to future price movements. Prices of raw materials have, in several cases, declined materially of late, and such movements might indicate the probability of early reductions in prices of manufactured goods, but in many instances stocks on hand were purchased at the high level of prices and the holders are not disposed to anticipate a general fall in price by making heavy reductions in stock, in some cases, notably in the retail trades, where stocks so rapidly become "dead" this course has been followed. A prevalence of the low costs of raw material would probably, however, bring about reductions as high-priced stocks were worked off.

On the other hand, overhead charges, the cost of labor, etc., generally remain high, and offset, to a considerable degree, the decline in raw material prices. It would, therefore, appear likely with stocks gradually dwindling and production costs remaining practically stable any steady rise of raw material prices and revival of buying would bring about firmer prices in most cases, as those reductions which have occurred have frequently brought the margin between profit and loss almost to a minimum, or entirely eliminated it, and the seller would be justified in taking advantage of any improvement which would enable him to render his position more secure.

In the meantime reductions made by several industries (where raw materials have declined) in an endeavor to stimulate trade and shake off the depression, have met with insufficient response to bring about any pronounced improvement, while those industries less severely affected by the depression at the moment, are growing increasingly anxious owing to the unsatisfactory volume of new orders.

HEART OF EMBRYO CHICKEN LIVES FOR EIGHT YEARS

New York, March 19.—Tissues, which constitute ninety per cent of the present-day mortal man, are endowed with immortality. Going beyond the experiments of Dr. Serge Voronoff of France in the work of rejuvenating mankind, through transplantation of interstitial glands, Dr. Alexis Carrel of the Rockefeller Institute, has brought to attention what is described as the surgical marvel of the age. It is the heart of a chicken which never lives—but the heart does. The vital organ was removed from the embryo in 1912. It still maintains its regular beats and what is more it adds to its tissue in a special container at the laboratory. For over eight years this organ has been nourished artificially.

General deductions from the Carrel experiment, it was said tonight, indicate that bodily tissue is not subject to the ravages of time.

"If we were to exclude accidents," Dr. Carrel had stated, "nourished tissues in hitherto described mortals may live indefinitely."

FINDS LOST ART TREASURE IN N. Y.

Panels Missing From Siena in Metropolitan Museum

Italian Consul Seeks Information—Asks Directors to Tell How They Acquired Relics of the Renaissance.

(New York Times.)

How were the Pinturicchio ceiling panels from the Palazzo del Mangia in Siena, now among the rarest treasures in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, smuggled out of Italy in defiance of the laws of that country? The Italian government has started an eager inquiry, it was learned yesterday, and the executive staff of the museum was in session for some time discussing the request for information passed on to it by Italian Consul General Bernardi.

Officers and trustees of the museum said last night that they had not been interrogated by representatives of the Italian government, nor had their own executives yet asked them to pass upon the propriety of disclosing the source of these priceless, and irreplaceable gems of Renaissance art which experts have described as the choicest of their kind.

It was said quite frankly, however, that it was not the custom of the museum to disclose the prices it paid for objects, nor to tell the processes through which they came into its hands. Hence it would be extraordinary if in this case the trustees should decide to gratify the curiosity of the Italian government.

Italy Seeks to Discover Leak.

People familiar with the undertaking of Italy, so far as it had progressed, said the immediate purpose of the government was to discover the leak that had made possible the surreptitious exportation of the panels, despite the vigilance of officials charged with preventing the nation from being despoiled of its heirlooms of ancient art.

Nonetheless it was said to be not at all unlikely that the Italian government would make representations to the Metropolitan Museum, at least informally, that the panels had been sent from the country unlawfully, that they were a priceless heritage of the nation and that the government stood ready to make restitution of every penny invested in them by the Metropolitan if the museum would consent to their restoration.

In the absence of actual receipt of such a request, no person in authority in the museum's organization was willing to hazard an opinion as to what reply would be made.

Regardless of whether the Italian government tried to get the Pinturicchio panels back, art dealers here who long have been familiar with the losing struggle for that nation to retain its invaluable antiquities in the face of the eager acquisitiveness of the wealthy in other countries, expressed confidence that Italy's very recent discovery of the whereabouts of the panels would lead to diplomatic representations. These, it was believed, would take the initial form of informal conversations between the Italian ambassador at Washington and the state department, seeking to learn whether some arrangement could not be made whereby the laws of Italy could be respected in this country.

Willing to Pay Huge Sum.

Alessandro Olivetti, a New York art dealer who is aiding the Italian consul general in his inquiry, admitted that there existed no process in law whereby the Italian government could recover the relics. He said, however, that, despite its post-war impoverishment, the nation had available enormous funds in the hands of the under secretary of state for fine art, raised partly by taxation and partly by the exportation of luxuries. Such funds could be used on yin connection with art, and Mr. Olivetti had no doubt the government would be glad to pay a huge sum for recovery of the panels.

Mr. Olivetti said further that it was the misfortune of Italy that the panels, acquired by the Metropolitan in France early in 1914, had not left the country where they were executed during the actual progress of the conflict. In that case their exportation might have been traced to enemy sources and there would have existed excellent ground for recovery proceedings.

Under the existing circumstances he believed, from his acquaintance with the status of all such antiquities and the methods frequently employed in getting them into the hands of American collectors, that there existed no shadow of legal basis for an effort to recover them. Unquestionably, he said, the Metropolitan had bought them in Paris in good faith, even though it might see fit to adhere to its usual custom of not disclosing the sources of its treasures. He said the panels were "literally priceless," and that beyond a doubt the museum's agents must have paid a fabulous sum for them.

Panels Exhibited This Year.

As to the prospect of this country losing the treasures, Mr. Alessandro would venture no opinion, since his as-association with the Italian Consul in the matter had not brought him any information as to the disposition of the Metropolitan management. He was confident earnest consideration would be given to any representations which the Italian government might see fit to make, but he gave the impression of being more impressed with the possibility of some arrangement regarding future exportations, whether direct or indirect, than with the probability that the Museum would surrender so precious a collection.

Although the panels had been in the possession of the Metropolitan for seven years they were not placed on exhibition until early this year. That was due in part to the reconstruction of Gallery 52, the Gold Room, into a chamber with the dimensions and the approximate arrangement of arches and windows as the hall from which they came originally. Moldings and ornaments from the original "stucco" were inserted around the paintings, of which there were twenty-two panels, originally in fresco, but later transferred to canvas. A further cause of delay in placing them on exhibition was the extreme hazard of transporting them across the ocean in war-time in view of the activities of enemy submarines.

It appeared that the panels were in their places in the palace in 1902. That was the last definite date that their presence was established so far as could be learned. Several years later they were missed, but evidently the Italian government, despite diligent investigation, could get no trace of them, until the fact that they had been placed on exhibition in New York was published. Museum Executives Meet.

Soon thereafter the Italian government sent its cabled inquiry, which resulted in the consul general engaging Mr. Alessandro and in the two visiting the museum to establish formally the presence of the panels and their genuineness, which never has been called into question.

Next came the request for information as to how the panels were acquired, followed by the meeting yesterday at which Joseph Brock, assistant director, presided in the absence of Dr. Edward Robinson, director of the museum.

What action was taken at the meeting could not be discovered, but it was understood that the result of the executive deliberations would be communicated to the trustees before any action was taken. Robert W. De Forest, head of the board, is in the south on a vacation.

The panels are among the most important works in the history of Renaissance decoration and examples of its most winsome and light-hearted aspect. A description of them is given in the following remarks of Corrado Vivanti, late director of Italian museums:

"It was supposed that Pinturicchio's works in the Petrucci palace were lost. But, fortunately, a great part of the valued ceilings survives, although hidden by the ceilings and partition walls of the chambers which were built into the room about a century ago. This fact was made known by the distinguished Professor Pranchi, director of the Institute of Fine Arts at Siena, to whose courtesy we owed an account and an inspection of the reliefs and designs, the latter made with very great discomfort as we were obliged to crawl along on all fours in the dark and narrow space between the vaulting and the later ceiling.

"He told us that over the loftiest of the modern rooms the old vaulting was used as a ceiling, and, therefore plastered over. The ceiling is separated from the walls by two brackets, and three arches on each side. On the brackets upon a background of blue dotted with gold, are a sort of gilt candelabra, each supporting tablets, each having a motto. Among these are the muses—Terpsichore, stretched upon the ground writing with one hand and resting her head thoughtfully upon the other; Zeuxo, with the cymials and the swan; Caliope seated upon the ground playing a trumpet. In the panels of the central quadrangle are mythological subjects—Antiope asleep near a herma, while Iove, transported into a satyr, bends over her; Bacchus and Pan; Hercules spinning, seated humbly among the sheep and cattle, vanquished by Omphale, who holds his club derisively; the yoked; a nymph seated upon a rim with arms in a chariot, which is driven by a winged genius, drawn by two horses and traced, il Magiastico, or Tyrant of Siena, followed by soldiers; the triumph of Peace, to whose chariot two lions are
