

CRUISER AT BELFAST TO GUARD PORT

Mayor MacSwiney Growing Weaker Steadily and Feels Very Tired.

MORE SOLDIERS ARE SENT TO IRELAND

British Labor Leaders Urge Lloyd George to Free the Mayor.

Belfast, Sept. 3.—A light cruiser and the torpedo boat destroyer Tyrone have arrived in Belfast harbor to protect the city against a possible surprise in the event of a recurrence of rioting. Another battalion of troops reached Belfast this morning from England.

MacSwiney is Weaker

London, Sept. 3.—The condition of Lord Mayor MacSwiney showed no radical change tonight, although the patient was said gradually to be growing weaker. Seen MacSwiney, his brother, remained at the prison tonight.

The Gaelic League announced tonight that for the first time during his hunger strike, the Lord Mayor had complied to his wife of feeling very tired. The prisoner was unable to converse with his relatives. He was still quite conscious however, and his mind was as clear as his will was strong as ever.

Labor leaders this morning addressed an appeal to Premier Lloyd George, asking the Lord Mayor's release. Among the signers of the appeal were: William Adamson, Labor Member of Parliament; Robert Smillie, President of the Miners' Federation; Robert Williams, of the Transport Workers' Union, and George Lansbury, Editor of the Daily Herald, organ of labor.

New York Labor Appeals

New York, Sept. 3.—A resolution asking Secretary of State Coby to demand the release of Terence MacSwiney, was adopted tonight by the Central Federation of Labor Unions. Announcement also was made that union warehouse workers will refuse to handle British goods until the Lord Mayor of Cork is given his liberty. An appeal to Premier Lloyd George, of England, at London, Switzerland, for the release from prison of Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork, was called by Mayor Hylan today.

Delayed Ship 72 Hours

Another Death in Belfast
Belfast, Sept. 3.—The city was quiet throughout this morning. Another man died during the day, making the death toll as a result of the rioting, twenty-one.

Appeal for Sympathy

London, Sept. 3.—Another appeal to the Premier from the Executive Committee of the Society of Friends says: "In the name of our common master have faith and seize this opportunity to release the Lord Mayor of Cork." The Irish Conciliation Committee, representing both parties in Parliament have sent a similar appeal to the Premier, while the London branch of the Irish Dominion League is seeking to enlist the support of the Archbishop of Canterbury in mediation with the Government.

Keep Councils Secret

Belfast, Sept. 3.—The proceedings of the meeting of the Ulster Unionist Council today were strictly secret. The decisions arrived at were provisional. There is no foundation for the rumor that the Government contemplates recognizing the Ulster volunteers. It was pointed out that such recognition would be regarded by the Catholics throughout the country as tantamount to a declaration of civil war.

The question of enrolling armed special constables was discussed at the conference, but it is declared that as the result of sectarian trouble again was involved no decision was reached on the point.

Honolulu, Sept. 3.—Japan has declared her intention of keeping troops at Vladivostok until security of life and property is guaranteed, according to Vladivostok reports in Tokyo cabled to a Japanese language newspaper here.

Mine Men Want Wilson To Reopen Wage Scale Talk

Seranton, Pa., Sept. 3.—The United Mine Workers of America today telegraphed President Wilson, requesting him to direct that the wage agreement, signed yesterday by operators and miners, be reopened for the purpose of giving the miners an additional increase in wages. A telegram was also sent to Secretary of Labor Wilson, urging the mine workers stand ready to meet the anthracite operators separately or jointly.

PELICAN LAKE LIZARDS OFF ON ANNUAL CRAWL

Roads So Covered Autos Can Run Only With Skid Chains.

Winnipeg, Sept. 3.—A plague of lizards has overrun the Pelican Lake district on their annual trek from the lake to winter quarters, and automobile drivers are obliged to put chains on their tires to prevent skidding when they strike surfaces made slippery by their presence in large numbers. The lizards are four to eighteen inches long and travel only at night. Two thousand of them were shovelled out of one basement window shaft at the Ninette Sanatorium.

NEARLY SLEW THIEF BUSY AT HIS SHOP

Daring Merchant Stabs Burglar Who Shot at Him Three Times.

Montreal, Sept. 3.—A would-be burglar was tendered a warm reception when he entered the store of Mr. Sam Sahani, a St. Catherine street East merchant in the early hours this morning, and he is lying at the St. Joseph Hospital with a knife wound in each lung and a deep gash in his left arm.

Sahani, who had been sleeping in the store lately, owing to recent raids by thieves, awakened around five o'clock to find a burglar, armed with a revolver and a pair of pincers, headed for his safe. The marauder, who gives his name as Harry Pison, shot at Sahani three times, missing him on each occasion.

MINERS REFUSE NEW SCALE AND QUIT THE PITS

Leaders Told All Protests of Workingmen Cannot Keep Men Working.

Seranton Pa., Sept. 3.—It is estimated that about 100,000 mine workers throughout the anthracite regions have quit work because, it is declared, they are not satisfied with the terms of the coal commission's award.

The "inequalities in the award," an appeal made to the president, stated are so apparent that voluntary uprisings have taken place in opposition and protest in all of the mining districts despite every effort that has been put forth by the officers of the United Mine Workers of America to prevent those disturbances.

Want Soft Coal Pay
The miners virtually ask that the wages of the hard coal men be placed on about the same basis as those in the bituminous fields. The award of the commission gave the anthracite men increases ranging from 17 to 25 per cent., whereas, the miners asked for a uniform advance of about 27 per cent. for the several classes of workers.

Union leaders insist the award given the men virtually nothing more than the operators offered them last spring which was rejected.

Deignan, to whom Miss MacKenna was engaged to be married, told the coroner, before he lost consciousness, that while driving his car homeward from Barrington Beach, he was accosted by a tall, thin man, who, with face covered by a handkerchief, stepped from the bushes and cried "Hands up." Instantly the man, according to Deignan, fired several shots into the car.

LEGAL CLASH ON WEDDINGS AND SALARIES

Delegates at Bar Association in Fighting Mood on Two Issues.

HON. MR. RANEY "REGULAR FADDIST"
Member Objects to Fifteen Lawyers Deciding Such Large Issues.

Ottawa, Sept. 3.—The Monkey-wrench of discord was suddenly thrown into the machinery of the Canadian Bar Association this afternoon, just as members were looking at their watches and hoping for an early adjournment.

N. B. Gash, H. C. Tomlin, introduced a resolution on union marriage laws in Canada. This resolution states "the Canadian Bar Association affirms and records its opinion that it is highly expedient that a general law applicable, so far as it is practicable, throughout Canada, upon the subjects of marriage and divorce, should be passed at an early date by the parliament of Canada, and for this purpose we hereby respectfully recommend that the government of Canada take such steps before the next session of parliament as will ensure a careful study and investigation of the matter and the framing of a well considered and moderate bill upon the subjects of marriage and divorce for submission to parliament at its next session."

Few Present at Time
Mr. Day said it was ridiculous for the few present to deal with the subject. Mr. Gash had moved that the association concur in this, and Mr. Day moved that it be referred to the committee. He referred to the fifteen members of the committee as the "three tailors of Tooley street" and asked that if a vote were taken it be recorded.

On the vote the principle was adopted, eight voting for it and seven for the motion.
The question that caused the furor was that of the recommendation that judges' salaries should be raised and that they should not be subject to income tax collections. This question came up at the morning session, and there was evidence both that the association was widely divided on the question and that there was considerable hidden feeling in the matter.

Against Further Increases
In discussing the matter, Mr. Gregory, K.C., Toronto, said that justice had just received an increase in salary. The country was against any further increase. The association might better devote its attention to the present social unrest, the matter of re-estimating the soldier, and other vital problems.

Hartley Dewar, Opposition leader in Ontario, made a fiery speech, in which he referred to the attorney-general of Ontario and to Mr. Gregory as "regular faddists." They were in a judicial position, and had no right to throw the apple of discord into the meetings of the Canadian Bar Association in the manner they had. Government had accepted a position under the crown had no right to come here and dictate their views which were possibly not of the greatest value, he said. After some debate, a motion to refer the matter to a committee was accepted by Sir James Aikins, carried.

ANTI-BRITISH STRIKE MORE ALARMING

Boston and New York Docks Practically Tied up by the Longshoremen.

STRIKERS DENOUNCED BY LEADERS

Announced Strike of Brooklyn Longshoremen Failed to Materialize Yesterday.

Boston, Sept. 3.—The strike of longshoremen against work on British vessels, as a protest against the British Government's attitude toward Ireland gained strength today.

Only forty of a normal force of 250 men reported for work on three steamers, and the action of the steamship agents in sending other men to fill the longshoremen's places, costumed most of the union freight handlers to refuse to work.

Leaders Against Strike.
New York, Sept. 3.—The announced strike of 3,000 longshoremen employed on British steamship piers in Brooklyn failed to materialize today. Officials of virtually all lines announced no shortage from their customary number of workers. Further defections from the ranks of striking longshoremen on the North River piers, who walked out last week, in sympathy with the cause of Irish freedom, also were apparent today.

Both strikes have been denounced in statements from headquarters of the International Longshoremen's Association.

STRIKERS STOLE FREIGHT TRAIN

Engineer Driven from His Train and Fireman Beaten Seriously.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—A freight train derailed here tonight by a band of men believed to be members of the striking "outlaw" switchmen, was found early today near Bensenville, Ill., with the throttle wide open and the twenty-one freight cars unloosed. Several battles between freight crews and hands of the striking switchmen, who never regained their jobs, preceded the theft of the train which occurred shortly before midnight last night in the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul yards at Cicero, a suburb.

Drove Engineer from Train.
Thomas White, the engineer, was driven from his post at the point of a gun, and when Bert Zimmerman, a fireman, resisted, he was badly beaten. White immediately gave the alarm and after several hours search the train was found. Railroad officials believe the throttle had been pulled wide open and the train then abandoned by the band who stole it. It had apparently run down for lack of steam.

Uneasiness is felt regarding the safety of the French Commission there.

DOLLAR MORE EACH DAY FOR C.P.R. WORKERS

Total Amount Agreed Upon Will Involve Additional Outlay of '60 Millions.

Montreal, Sept. 3.—Negotiations were this afternoon concluded between a committee representing the Canadian Pacific Railway and a series of committees representing the different employees of the company, with regard to wages. The general conclusion arrived at was for an increase averaging $1 a day for each employee on the Eastern division, this increase to be retroactive from May 1st last, when the negotiations started. This will mean millions of dollars of increased expenditure to the company, which will be included in the pending demand for an increase in freight rates by thirty per cent.

Involves $60,000,000 Pay.
George Hodge, assistant to the vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, stated that the arrangement arrived at included every branch of the service except the engineers, firemen and telegraphers, with whom negotiations are still in progress. The total additional expenditure involved would probably amount to $60,000,000 annually.

Mr. Hodge further stated that the C. P. R. committee had concluded its agreements with representatives of the conductors and train men on the Eastern lines for an increase in pay practically in accord with the recent award of the United States Railway Labor Board to similar classes of labor on the United States railways.

GOETHALS' ENGINEERS SAVED CREW

Their Heroic Work Provided Air and a Chance to Escape for Submarine Crew.

New York, Sept. 3.—The plight of the disabled submarine S-5, whose crew of thirty men was rescued early today after being submerged for 44 hours, was first learned by the steamship Atlantis, which, accidentally, discovered the submarine off the Delaware Capes yesterday. With thirty feet of her bow protruding above the water, Captain E. O. Swinson, of the steamship General George W. Goethals reported upon his arrival at Hoboken tonight. Earlier reports were that the General Goethals had located the distressed undersea vessel by means of a telephone buoy located from the submerged craft.

The crew of the submarine owe their lives, he said, to the work of Chief Engineer W. H. Grace, of the General Goethals, and his assistant, R. A. McWilliams.

These men, by the use of a small hold ratchet drill, working in turns from 6 p. m. till 12 a. m., succeeded in boring a hole in the submarine large enough for the imprisoned crew to escape. Captain Swinson said the men from the submarine revived quickly, after being put aboard the Atlantis which stood by and were given hot supper and put to bed. Many were bleeding at the mouth and noses, their faces were swollen and their eyes were bloodshot, but they still had plenty of spirit.

All credit for the rescue belongs to Grace and McWilliams. If any men were heroes they were.

The submarine crew was later transferred to the battleship Ohio and the Atlantis steamed towards Norfolk.

COVERED RING IF RAIN SHOULD COME

Two Thousand Fans Watched Champion in Lively Bout at Camp.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Sept. 3.—Jack Dempsy and Billy Miske today finished hard training for their fight Monday, and from now on expect to do only light work. Each fighter limited himself to four rounds of boxing, but put in a strenuous day shadow boxing, hiking and bag-punching. More than 2,000 persons gathered at Dempsy's camp in anticipation of another lively bout between the champion and Harry Greb, but they were disappointed. Greb accidentally bit Dempsy yesterday, cutting the champion's tongue, so they were rather careful today.

Miske Poses for Pictures
Miske posed for the movies today and then went two rounds each with Jack Heinen and George Wilson. The challenger wore a felt head gear to protect the old wound over one eye, which was opened recently by a punch from one of his sparring mates. Miske weighed 190 pounds today, and Dempsy 189.

Rain will not cause a postponement of the battle for the championship. Promoter Fitzsimmons announced today. The ring and a large part of the open air arena will be covered with a huge canvas early on the day of the fight if the weather is threatening, and the heavyweight rivals will go in to the ring on schedule time, no matter if there is a downpour.

The referee situation is expected to be cleared up today with the arrival of Thomas Bigler, chairman of the state athletic commission. Jack Kearns, manager of the champion, said that he would insist upon naming an official of his own selection.

Promoter Fitzsimmons said that the advance sale has reached fifty thousand dollars, and that indications were favorable for a total gate of $150,000.

BREAK IN RANKS OF BROOKLYN STRIKERS

Over Hundred Men Returned to Work and Cars Were Moved More Freely.

New York, Sept. 3.—The "first break" in the ranks of the striking Brooklyn Rapid Transit men was announced by Bert Zimmerman, after 146 men who had been employed fifteen or more years returned to work. Of these, 95 were employed on surface lines and 51 as subway and elevated guards and conductors. The break was attributed by company officials to Judge Mayer's announcement that seniority rights would be restored if the men returned to work.

Eighty additional surface lines were operated there, more than 390 trolleys were returned in use.
Congestion on the interborough subway was increased today by a fifteen minute delay in the return-bound train had run down and killed a man crowded off the Astor Place station. Power was shut off while a wrecking crew extricated the body.

GERMANY'S COMPULSORY SERVICE ENDS

Means End of German Empire Says Reactionary Hun Newspaper.

PHYSICAL AND MORAL LOSS TO THE NATION

Without Universal Training Germany Can Never Regain Place Lost in War.

By MAURICE LANGE.

(Copyright 1920, by Cross-Atlantic.)

Munich, Sept. 3.—The "Neueste Nachrichten," the chauvinist advocate of Bismarck's "Blood and Iron" policy, and a staunch supporter of "Kultur," militarism and Prussianism in its worst aspects prints the following:— "The sitting of the Reichstag on July 30, 1920, will for ever live in the memory of the German people as an event of paramount importance. On that day, acting under the pressure of the harsh Versailles terms, the Reichstag found itself under the necessity of abolishing general military service. The decision of the Reichstag—if it is to be the result of a free and inevitable decision—found the joyful assent of the radical Left, their speaker, Dr. Rosenfeld, having gone so far as to thank the Reichstag for the banishment of the military service they had rendered us.

German Empire Done.

"With the cessation of general military service the structure of the German empire does not only lose the strongest and most unassailable pillar of its external strength and might—it loses far more: a factor of culture and education of priceless importance, a factor ensuring the moral and physical health of the people. General military service was the necessary consequence of national needs after the catastrophe of 1918. In the years following France's defeat, Schaarhorst and Boyen created in Prussia a military organization based on general military duty and embracing all classes, creeds and professions. "The war of 1866 led to the adoption of general military service in all German states; soon all other European states followed their example with the exception of England, who relied on her naval strength until the war made compulsory service an imperative necessity. The fortune of war has been against us; after heroic resistance we are defeated. But the perseverance to resist heroically which even our enemies appreciated and admired was the result of the general military duty, it was the source of our strength. Hence they have forced us in Versailles to drop up this spring with our own hands.

People Awakening.

"After our collapse in 1918, many true and false friends of the people attacked our military system and it cannot be denied that distress, the horrible experience of warfare and personal disappointment swelled the number of their partisans. But the great majority of our people have now begun to reason (Versailles has opened their eyes) and they find that the elimination of military duty enabled us to an extent which cannot be sufficiently recanted and appreciated. "So far the question concerns the whole nation. But it concerns personally the millions who have worn the German uniform. It concerns those who in their own person experienced the strict but always just schooling of the barracks the transformation of a plaything 'walk through life' into a virile reasoning member of the great people's association. It was not the school alone. After all it was the military service which strengthened in our young hearts the feeling of oneness, the feeling for the fatherland. There the student met the workman, the businessman, the farmer—their services and their tasks were the same and here it was where the youth was wrought into a man. True, it was not always 'jolly' and yet no one ever regrets it. Shows me the man who has 'served' and who does not like to talk about it.

Physical and Moral Loss.

"No such experience for the new German youth. It means a great physical and moral loss. Granted that there were shortcomings and abuses, the system was good. It was a blessing; it taught the young German that the individual must be taught to fit in the general frame, that a collective strong will must be recognized and obeyed. In the August days of 1914 we saw and felt the moral elevating triumph of general service. I shall never forget how wonderfully we felt like one being when we marched out—officers and privates. We had never met before and yet we were brothers and comrades, sons of one great and beautiful country which was in danger. And today we are silent onlookers when this source of German strength is dried up.

Other Nations Rejoice.

"Over there, in Paris, in Brussels and in London, they will triumph at the funeral of German militarism. Will this hypocrisy not cause a smile of derision? After all German militarism was nothing but the organized, brilliantly constructed will of the German people for strong defence; the German army was a people's army in the best meaning of the word. And those who at last ran to earth this dangerous German militarism, they do not only arm their own countrymen, they mobilize colored races to let them command and superintend white men. Their foreign legion is a troop of mercenaries serving military-imperial purposes and they are not ashamed to press Germans, even Germans under age, into this service. German militarism is welcome when clad in a French uniform."

JAPANESE STOP "JUNKETER" FROM DELIVERING ADDRESS

California Member of Congressional Party Ordered to Leave Y. M. C. A. Hall in Seoul—He Refuses and Sees His Korean Audience Safely on Way Home.

(Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger Company.)

By GLEN ABB.

Tokio, Sept. 3.—The Japanese Government of Korea heaved a sigh of relief yesterday morning when the American congressional party finally left Korean territory, sailing from Pusan for Japan.

During the entire stay of the party in Korea, from its entrance at Aomori to its departure from Pusan, the situation was characterized by tension and anxiety, especially on the part of the Japanese who feared outbreaks and demonstrations by Koreans calculated to embarrass the Japanese and impress the Americans by the intensity of the desire of the Koreans for freedom. Simultaneously Japan was afraid to use severe measures for preventing such demonstrations lest the Americans get the impression that Japan's rule in Korea was harsh.

The efforts of the Japanese to keep down all demonstrations were largely successful. During the ride from the Manchurian border to Seoul there were only three small demonstrations at wayside stations, but the Americans took these for a welcome and not protests against Japan as the Koreans intended.

Arriving at Seoul the Americans found the streets cleared from the station to their hotel with a strong police cordon protecting the route. The party gathered earlier in the day around the station and had been dispersed by the police without disturbances.

Representative Hugh S. Hersman of California was the hero of an incident embarrassing to the Japanese. He dropped into the Y. M. C. A. building for a scheduled meeting between the Americans and Koreans which, known to him, had been canceled by his Japanese hosts.

Finding the Koreans gathered there, Hersman, at their request, made a short speech, saying: "I am glad to see something of the Koreans before leaving Korea."

His hearers cheered and the police rushed in and stopped the meeting. They arrested some of the Koreans and asked Hersman to leave the building, but he refused until all the Koreans were liberated. He stayed an hour until the last Korean was freed.

Throughout Wednesday all Korean shops in Seoul were closed, a silent demonstration for the benefit of the Americans. Feeling throughout the day was most tense and the atmosphere was filled with fear of violence and rumors of frustrated plots. The Japanese state they discovered one ambitious Korean bomb plot and arrested the ringleaders before the Americans arrived in Seoul.

While virtually no demonstrations were allowed to come to the attention of the Americans, the attitude of the Japanese authorities was one of great uneasiness. The success of the Japanese efforts has been due largely to the fact that the strongest national leaders have left the country and now are working in Shanghai and Mukden, also to the elaborate police precautions taken to insure the safety of Japan's American visitors.

The party will arrive at Kobe tomorrow, passing the week in western Japan and arriving in Tokyo September 12, sailing for America September 15.

GERMANS PAY JOBLESS 1,400,000,000 MARKS

Government Fees Increase as Coal Shortage Puts Many Wage Earners Out of Work—Business Needs Money.

(Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger Company.)

Berlin, Sept. 3.—Unemployment, as a direct result of the coal shortage, is increasing with astounding rapidity, and more amazing still is the preposterous rate with which the government is paying out change money—government allowances to the unemployed.

Figures furnished your correspondent by the minister of finance show that more than 1,400,000,000 marks have been distributed in change fees since the revolution. Those who are employed in any industrial community in Germany today are receiving the most prodigious wages, which also contributes considerably to the actual economic crisis. Wages, your correspondent is informed by competent business men, consist of 75 per cent of the cost of nearly everything produced in Germany today. In peace times, they were a little more than 50 per cent, but then, raw materials and shipping charges were comparatively lower, and Germany could compete in the world markets. It is instructive to study the foreign correspondence of some of the leading export concerns, which proves beyond doubt that Germany, for a long time to come, is eliminated from the field of keen competition in the finished products markets of the world. A Hamburg firm received a letter the other day from an old customer in Brazil, saying that German goods came too high and that in spite of the difference in exchange they could not compete successfully with the products of America and England. A Chilean importer wrote the same thing to a Berlin concern, adding that the United States and Japan were getting the bulk of old German trade in South America.

The need for capital to carry on German industries is so urgent that the Reichsbank finds itself facing a demand for drafts exceeding 45,000,000,000 marks, as compared with 10,000,000,000 last year and 15,000,000,000 two years ago. The General Electrical Co., the most powerful of German manufacturing corporations, has been forced to issue 20,000,000 marks in stocks each week and hundreds of smaller establishments are doing likewise. The result is an inflation greater than ever.

The latest figures show 57,000,000,000 marks in paper money have been issued to date this year, as compared with 28,500,000,000 last year. The high prices are bringing on an increased inflation which, in turn, decreases the value of currency; wages go up and exports cease. In brief there is a vicious circle from which there apparently is no escape for the moment.

RUSS-POLE SITUATION DISCUSSED

Colonel House Talks on Conditions Due to Polish Victory.

FAVORS ELECTION FOR RUSSIANS

Thinks Now is Time for League to Get Busy and Establish World Order.

(Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger.)

Paris, Sept. 3.—Colonel E. M. House today made the following statement for the Public Ledger foreign service: "Selon in history has a change come in an international situation so swiftly as that brought by the victory of the Poles over the Russians.

"Three weeks ago there loomed over eastern Europe a feeling of depression unequalled since the military operations of the war. Poland was all but submerged by the Red tide, and Germany was apparently waiting to welcome it.

"Labor in nearly every country from which Poland might expect help had given notice that no help should be forthcoming. It was increasingly difficult to move munitions by either land or sea, and the military brought protests from labor and threats of a general strike.

"Worse still, there was no agreement among the Allies as to policy. Great Britain and France were in complete discord and the world for the moment hung in the balance.

Word That Tide Was Turning.

"Then came word that the tide was turning and that there was great hope of a smashing victory. Premier Millerand had sent General Weygand, with several hundred French officers, to Poland to direct the military operations, and this great strategist justified the faith his government had in him. The opposing forces were flung back long several kilometers, and General Weygand, concentrating the Polish army, went through the Russian lines without difficulty and by a rapid developing movement captured or destroyed the larger part of the Soviet troops.

"It is said that General Weygand pays a fine tribute to the Poles as soldiers in Europe. The Poles feel that with reason, that they are the defenders of civilization, and being such are entitled to more material and moral assistance than they have received. They appreciate the recent note of our government, because it stiffened the morale of the people and helped to give them the impulse which has led to success.

Situation Demands Statesmanship

"Their victories, however, have created a situation which demands the highest order of statesmanship. It is always difficult to bring about a just settlement where one of the parties at interest holds a dominating position. While the Russians were winning their public announcement of terms which seemed fair, it is believed that it was their intention to force Poland to accept conditions which would foster bolshevism. It is hoped now that Poland has a position of advantage, that she will be amenable to reason.

"Much speculation is being indulged in as to her possible course of action. Will the Poles stop within their own borders or will they venture to follow the enemy into the broad plains of Russia? The Allies have sounded a note of warning, but there is a strong feeling throughout Poland that her task is not finished and that in order to obtain security she must follow up her victory.

"Her policy toward the Ukraine, which she abandoned, may also be revived, but what is more certain is her attitude toward Danzig. The Polish people have never been satisfied with the Versailles decision in regard to their outlet to the sea. The recent difficulties at Danzig regarding the transportation of munitions have accentuated their desire to follow the enemy into the broad plains of Russia? The Allies have sounded a note of warning, but there is a strong feeling throughout Poland that her task is not finished and that in order to obtain security she must follow up her victory.

The Allies have sounded a note of warning, but there is a strong feeling throughout Poland that her task is not finished and that in order to obtain security she must follow up her victory.

"Give Russian People a Voice. "What is needed most is close cooperation among the Allies and the formation of a policy to which they can constantly and consistently work in both good and evil days. The statement given by Wythe Williams, of the Public Ledger foreign service, by M. Padoa-Schioppa, acting minister of foreign affairs, strikes at the heart of the Russian situation and suggests a policy toward that country which should commend itself to all the world. Speaking for the French people, Premier Padoa-Schioppa says that if the present Soviet government will permit the Russian people to express their free opinion in a general election, France is ready to accept the result and recognize whatever form of government such an expression brings forth. This puts the issue in a direct and understandable form.

"The mistakes that have been made have been in trying to combat an idea by force. The facts in the controversy have largely been lost sight of, and we have found ourselves following the fortunes of Kolchak, Denikin and various other military leaders whom the Allies have sought to aid in their efforts to win the mastery of Russia. These efforts have failed in their purpose, but have strengthened and solidified the government they have sought to overthrow and have made it possible for it to survive.

"Bertrand Russell, Mrs. Philip Snowden and their colleagues, who are now giving their observations of Russia as they saw it when recently there have done more to strike a vital blow for bolshevism than all the combined military and naval efforts of the Allies.

"It would also be well to realize that Bolshevik Russia is not yet finished. It has merely passed a momentary setback. If their defeat fails to overthrow Lenin and Trotsky and the council which is the real governing power, then other armies will be formed and the conflict will be renewed. "Give Russian People a Voice. "What is needed now is close cooperation among the Allies and the formation of a policy to which they can constantly and consistently work in both good and evil days. EX-CIGAR MAKER'S UNIQUE CAREER

Mederic Martin, Mayor of Montreal, An M. P. and Legislative Councillor.

MEDERIC MARTIN.

Mederic Martin, for four terms Mayor of Montreal, has just announced that he intends to seek re-election. Three times in succession he has swamped his opponents in the race for the chief magistracy of the city, while his fourth term—his present one—is by grace of the Provincial Legislature, which at its last session lengthened the terms of aldermen and mayor for two years, so that they would pass out of office at the time the Administrative Commission quits its work. Then the city can pick its own leaders and pass from provincial government control.

His Four Ambitions.

Mayor Martin has just passed the half century mark. At the age of fourteen he left school and entered a cigar shop as a wrapper. But as he worked three ambitions took possession of him. Montreal lured him, and he decided he ought to be mayor of that city. He has been now for eight years. He wanted to be a member of the House of Commons, and later that was realized when he got for years for St. Mary's, Montreal. His third ambition was to have a seat in the Legislative Council of Quebec, and now he is a member of that body. In more recent months he has declared that he intends to finish his unusual career by being Lieutenant-Governor of the French-Canadian provinces. That of course, is still unrealized, but stranger things have happened than that the ex-cigar maker should go to the Quebec post.

an allied agreement on policy but also a co-ordination of all forces that stand for law, order and justice. We have at hand the instrument for this co-ordination—the League of Nations—but it is not being used with the vigor necessary to bring a distracted world back to peace. Whether rightly or wrongly, the fault is being laid at our door, for it is said that we are the only disinterested nation with sufficient economic, political and physical power to bring order out of chaos. "It is useless to say that Europe's troubles are not our troubles, for if they are not at the start, they will become so later, for have them we must, in one form or another. There are questions which our people need to consider, and consider quickly, for the world is in flux and delay is dangerous. "Our republic was fashioned in a big and splendid way and was destined for a great part in the world's affairs. This is an heroic age, and we should bear ourselves worthily so that the name of America shall stand in every land for liberty, justice and unselfish endeavor."

Cases In The Police Court Has Warm Feeling For New Brunswick

Dr. H. D. Murray, Providence, R. I., Officer of British Empire Club, Delighted With Visit to St. John.

Dr. H. D. Murray, of Providence, R. I., who has been a visitor in the city for a week, leaves today for his home. Dr. Murray is an officer of the British Empire Club of Providence, which corresponds very closely to the Canadian Clubs of the Dominion. His object, Dr. Murray said, in talking to the Standard yesterday, is to develop a better understanding between the two nations. In its membership are comprised a large number of the most influential men of Providence, and it has accomplished a wonderful amount of good. Seven dinners a year are held, at which speakers from the United States, Canada or Great Britain are heard, and these addresses have done much to promote good feeling. Dr. Murray is also a member of the Victoria Club of Boston, and hopes to become a member of the Canadian Club of St. John. He was a worker on the British Recruiting Mission during the war, being one of the executive council. Dr. Murray is a native of Nova Scotia, but left that province at an early age, and his visits have been to the province of New Brunswick for which he has a warm feeling.

The doctor has many warm friends in St. John who hope that he will not forget to return to the Loyalist city at the first opportunity.

BEING CONSIDERED. A member of the Centenary church congregation stated yesterday that Rev. R. G. Fulton is one of several ministers who are being considered for the vacancy in this church, which will occur when the term of Rev. Mr. Goodwin expires next year, but as yet there has been no final decision.

Rev. Mr. Fulton is an able clergyman, a former resident of West St. John, and is now pastor of Gratton street church in Halifax. His father was the late Robert Fulton, of the Customs service here.

THE CANADIAN CLUB. Viscount Cave, of London, England, who has been at Ottawa attending the Barristers' Association's Convention, was asked to come to St. John and address the members of the Canadian Club. Secretary Romans received a letter from the distinguished person yesterday, in which he stated that he appreciated the invitation of the St. John Club, but unfortunately his time in Canada is limited and he will be unable to visit St. John.

John Copp, Edgar and Carmichael Dixon, have returned from Fort Monckton, where they spent the past week at Dr. Copp's cottage. The party was chaperoned by Mrs. J. L. Dixon.

Rev. F. Clark Hartley and wife, Truro, were in the city yesterday on their return from a month's vacation spent in Houlton, Me.

THE POLICE ARE ON THE ALERT In addition to the special force of thirty men who will be on duty at the Exhibition grounds all next week, the regular force of the city will be on the look out for any violations of the law which are apt to occur when the large crowds of visitors begin to arrive. Some of the men will do extra duty and the would be criminal will be trying long chances if he tries to start anything either at the Fair or about the city.

Promptly at 4 o'clock the bride and groom, who were unattended, entered the parlor, which was tastefully and daintily decorated with white flowers and asparagus fern. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. W. W. Malcolm of the Presbyterian Church. The bride looked very winsome in her travelling suit of dark blue silvertone, with hat of black silk beaver and ostrich trimmings. She carried a bouquet of brides' roses and maiden hair fern. After the ceremony congratulations were extended and a delicious buffet luncheon was served. Mr. and Mrs. Saunders left on the evening train for a wedding tour through Nova Scotia, and on their return they will be at home to their friends at their home on Duke street. The wedding gifts were numerous and handsome and the good wishes of many friends follow this popular young couple.

This Afternoon at 3.30

ST. JOHN AND ALL-EASTERN CANADA, FOR THAT MATTER, is eager for the doors to be thrown open today for the historic St. John Exhibition—a pleasant feature in the Maritime Provinces for decades. With a six-years' lapse, due to the war, the old Loyalist City is going to put up the best Exposition argument of its career, and all the pent-up energy and enthusiasm of the days when the show-plant in South End was being put to patriotic purposes, will be displayed when the merry throngs foregather this coming week. As usual, the opening today will be much of a form—nature, though most of the big fair is ready, especially the Pike and Midway attractions. However, on Monday (Labor Day), it is expected records of attendance will go to smash, and with fine weather the pre-war spirit will break out anew. It is felt that everybody should join in the great re-construction effort, a fresh get-together, and this very idea is going to make this year's Exhibition a hummer.

SINN FEIN JUSTICE IN EMBRYO STAGE

Investigator Finds Little Civil Business is Being Transacted.

JURY TRIALS HAVE BEEN ABOLISHED

Their Present Haphazard System is Cramped by Ignorant Personnel.

(Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger Company.)
By C. H. BRETHERTON.
(Special Cable Despatch.)

Dublin, Sept. 3.—As the result of a month's observation, I am able to give a coherent account of the activities of the Irish republican courts. At the time of writing these courts have entirely superseded the king's courts in the management and conduct, and partially superseded them in the management and conduct of the national courts of Donegal.

Litigants will not, or dare not, file civil suits in the county courts or set them down for trial before the assize benches. Petitioners and grand jurors will not, or dare not, attend the assizes, preferring to have their cases disposed of on their own terms. The king's courts are not, or dare not, attend the assizes, preferring to have their cases disposed of on their own terms. The king's courts are not, or dare not, attend the assizes, preferring to have their cases disposed of on their own terms.

Have Little Work to Do.

Outside of the work of the Sinn Fein arbitration courts, which are not really courts but boards of reference, no civil business is being transacted by any republican tribunal. Here and there a little case is staged for the benefit of Sinn Fein newspaper correspondents, but that is all.

Accounts that appear in the Irish and English papers of the activities of the Sinn Fein courts must be discounted about 50 per cent. before an accurate idea of what is actually being accomplished can be arrived at. The result, even under these circumstances, is sufficiently striking. I cannot find, however, in any of the published reports—and I do not doubt that if such cases had occurred they would have been made the most of by Sinn Fein propagandists—a case in which a judgment has been given in a civil action against a defendant who did not voluntarily appear before the court.

Terrorism Would Be Boomerang.

The whole essence of sovereignty—and the Irish republic claims to be sovereign—is that the sovereign courts compel parties to appear before them as defendants in civil actions whether they want to or not, and give judgments against them in default of appearance. Sinn Fein has only one means of enforcing the decrees of its courts, the Irish Volunteers, or, to put it bluntly, terrorism. It is well enough to use this weapon against a malefactor or one who has gone back on his agreement to abide by the court's decision. To use it against parties to civil suits who have neither recognized nor submitted to the Sinn Fein tribunals would be to drive a large section of the now apathetic bourgeoisie into the opposite camp.

Land Cases Only Civil Actions.

One brief report states that a magistrate in West Clare "summoned for trespass to a Sinn Fein court" refused to recognize it and was removed by volunteers to an unknown destination. In another case reported from Mayo, a Sinn Fein court awarded 150 pounds damages against a man "charged" with seduction. It does not appear that he agreed to be bound by the court's decision, the matter being apparently treated as a criminal action.

Not can I find any record of a civil action being tried in a Sinn Fein court by agreement of the parties other than land disputes.

Up to the present, then, the activities of the Sinn Fein courts may be said to have been confined to the trial of criminals and the arbitration of land disputes. The rest, however, is merely a question of time.

Sinn Fein Faces Task.

A judicial system cannot be organized overnight under the most favorable circumstances. When the work has to be done under a cloud of conspiratorial silence and by brainless barristers and reputationless young solicitors with little legal knowledge and no experience, the task is doubly hard. Sinn Fein would have infinitely preferred, if such a thing had been possible, to take over the existing legal machinery in the same manner as it captured the machinery of local government. But what was manifestly impossible. Whether, when the twenty-six counties get their dominion some rule, they will prefer to keep the old legal machinery that has taken decades to build up, or the new apparatus set up by Sinn Fein, which will doubtless have the benefit of up-to-date methods, is an interesting question that the future must decide.

Present System Haphazard.

Originally intended as a sort of propaganda, Sinn Fein courts set a good while before any attempt was made by the central Sinn Fein authorities to establish a properly organized judicial system. These tribunals were, and still are, to a large extent haphazard, meeting when it seemed good, trying such cases as looked like good advertising, inflicting sentences that bore no relation to one another or to any existing penal code. In particular, great care was taken to try only cases that offered no difficulty, in all the criminal cases tried by Sinn Fein courts in May and June, the percentage of acquittals to convictions was only something like one in fifty. There were no regular judges appointed to sit in these courts, the parish priest, if he happened to be a Sinn Feiner, and one or more officers of the Irish Volunteers occupying the bench.

Jury Trials Abolished.

In no case has the prisoner ever been tried by a jury. This means one of two things. Either the Sinn Fein judicial system proposes to abolish trial by jury, a step which would cause it to be condemned out of hand as uncivilized, or the Sinn Fein criminal courts, whatever they may be called by Dail Eireann, are and will remain in effect no courts but courts-martial.

It was not until June 29 that Dail Eireann met in Dublin—according to the Irish Bulletin, the Sinn Fein propagandist medium—and passed decrees establishing "Courts of Justice and Equity and Courts of Criminal Jurisdiction." A National Land Commission was also provided for, and it appears that the Sinn Fein arbitration courts, by which the land disputes are now being tried, must be considered not as a part of the "Department of Justice of Dail Eireann" but as a part of this Land Commission. They are, not of course, courts in the ordinary sense, as the disputants must agree beforehand to abide by the court's award. They are in fact boards of reference.

Two Lower Courts.

According to the Irish Bulletin, the Irish Courts are established "under the authority of the 'Department of Justice of Dail Eireann.'" The idea of a Department of Justice having to do with the establishment or control of a nation's tribunals is a distinct novelty and seems to involve one or two fundamental misconceptions of constitutional law. The lowest court is the parish court, of which there are apparently two, a civil and a criminal court. Each is to be presided over by three "members" picked by a body of representative persons which is to include one representative of each Sinn Fein club, one representative of each company of Irish volunteers, a representative of each trade union branch, a clergyman of each denomination, the M. P. for the constituency in which the parish is the country, and one representative of the urban district councilors, the rural district councilors and the poor law guardians. It seems a lot of people to elect a magistrate with civil jurisdiction over suits involving not more than $50.

District Courts Superior.

Above the parish courts come the district courts, also having both a civil and a criminal branch. The district judges are to sit five to a court, and are nominated by all the members of the parish courts. There is to be a district court for each parliamentary constituency. The object of preserving so essentially British an institution as the parliamentary subdivision of the country is not known. The district civil courts will try cases involving title to land, other presumably than those which go before the land courts, and other suits involving more than $50. They will also hear appeals from the parish courts which must be lodged within four days.

Women May Be Judges.

Women and clergymen are eligible as members of both parish and district courts. Appeals from the district courts will apparently lie to "appeal judges appointed by the republican minister of justice." All the facts available about this newly devised republican judicial system are extremely vague and difficult to ascertain and there can be little doubt that for some time to come it will represent a paper idea rather than an actuality.

Personnel Often Ignorant.

The personnel of all these Sinn Fein courts, with the possible exception of some of the land courts, is inexperienced and often ignorant. On the other hand, it consists of men who are by no means devoid of intelligence and who are anxious to be scrupulously fair and to make a good record. Their composite acumen is certainly considerably higher than that of the land courts. It would be higher still if the Sinn Fein authorities had not immensely curtailed the field of choice by requiring all members of parish and district courts to speak Irish. As the men in Ireland who really can speak Irish to amount to anything would not fill a small church, it is pretty clear that this rule will have to be modified if the courts are to be really representative.

Oath of Fealty Not Required.

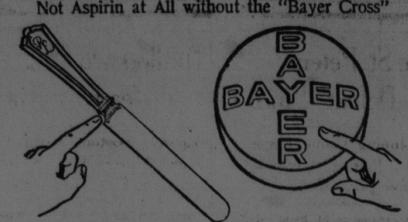

There is one other point. It has been asserted by many quarters that all parties who appear before the Sinn Fein courts and in particular before the land courts must swear allegiance to the Irish Republic. This is not correct. It is an important item, because at the moment the Irish bar and Irish solicitors are asking if they have the right to appear before the Sinn Fein courts. The bar council has decided that barristers cannot do so. The ruling body of the lower (solicitors') branch of the profession has so far evaded the question but will probably be obliged to decide one way or another next week. Naturally both barristers and solicitors who see their livelihoods slipping away from them wish to have the right to appear before the republican tribunals.

Meanwhile the government has belatedly conceived that it ought to do something and in the last day or so has "disappeared" a Sinn Fein land court. This may be regarded as no more than a formal protest.

Not Aspirin at All without the "Bayer Cross"

The name "Bayer" on Aspirin is like Sterling on silver. It positively identifies the only genuine Aspirin—Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Neuritis, Joint Pains, and Pain generally, made in Canada. Always buy an unbroken package—a few cents. Larger "Bayer" packages. There is only one Aspirin—"Bayer"—You must say "Bayer" Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacture of Mono-aceticacid of salicylicacid. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assist the public against imitations, the Tablets of Bayer Company will be stamped with their general trade mark, the "Bayer Cross."

Moosepath Park Entries To Date

Stumpy races are assured for Moosepath Monday and Tuesday. Despite the fact the Maritime Racing Association, a society which sprang up in the night and faded away with the fog, said there would be no races Moosepath promises the best sport of the season beginning Labor Day. Local promoters, men in whom the public has confidence and faith are behind the proposition, and have been working hard and successfully that St. John may not be deprived of what the "Moosehorn Society" promised the best of racing.

Arrangements were received from Houlton, Me., that a string of record bookers would leave that city by special train Sunday in order to get here in time for the opening on Monday. St. Stephen will send its best bets, and from other racing stables there are coming horses of provincial reputation. There are now at the track many horses that make last week's racing interesting, and they are primed and ready for the word.

The classes on Monday are filled, and the public are assured more interesting brushups than were had last week as the entries in each event are more evenly balanced.

The Free-for-All will be a corker, and any body's race to the finish will be Peter Farren, White Sox, Bay Volo, Tong and others will come to the wire for the go.

Local men are to put St. John on the racing map and endeavor to complete the job that others, with a great flare of trumpets said they were going to do. They should have, and undoubtedly will receive wholehearted public support.

Power Boat Club Races Last Evening

The Anzac Won First for Premier Foster's Cup — The Wannamaker Cup Won by the Greta L.

Great interest was shown in the races put on by the St. John Power Boat Club last evening on the Indian-harbor course.

The first event was that for speed boats, which raced for Premier Foster's cup. There were two entries, the Anzac, owned by Harry Baker, and the Patricia, owned by Robert McAllister. The Anzac proved the winner, having covered the ten-mile course in thirty-five minutes. This race is the best out of three to prove a winner, and the other races will be called on in the near future. The time for the Patricia was thirty-seven minutes.

Wannamaker Cup.
 The second race called for the six-horsepower boats to race for the Wannamaker cup, and as a result of last evening's contest the Greta L, owned by Alex. Long, won the contest. This being the third win, her owner becomes the owner of the cup.

The course was from Indian-harbor Wharf to Swift Point for three round trips, and her time was one hour and six minutes. The Clara B, owned by Archie King, was second; Erol M, owned by George Parker, was third, and Edna M, owned by James Goie, was fourth.

The officials for the races were as follows: Robert Roberts, starter; H. A. Machum and Herb Roberts, timers; George Reynolds and J. V. Cwan, judges.

Considerable interest was taken in the races, and there was quite a large number of spectators on the Indian-harbor wharves.

The dates for other motor boat races will be announced during the week.

The Only Survivor Of The Paris Crew

Information has been received by the committee of the Renforth Outing Association that all competing crews are hard at it this week, devoting every spare moment of their time to getting in trim for the big regatta. The crews are coming around in fine shape and this race promises to be the best of its kind ever witnessed in these waters.

An invitation has been extended to Elizabeth Ross, who is the only survivor of the famous Paris crew of years ago. Mr. Ross, although considerably advanced in years, still shows considerable interest in aquatic sports, and Mr. Ross is sending down a dainty, high-topper with them on Labor Day.

Dr. McVey has entered his yacht "The Tanaw" for the yacht race, and Millidgeville have confirmed each of their entries, namely: Novice Four Oar, Double Canoe.

THE EXHIBITION.

Today will see the opening once again of the St. John Exhibition Association's biennial show after a lapse of six years. Conditions brought about by the war caused a period of suspended animation, but it is very satisfactory to know that after the "rest," the Association is now better prepared than ever to maintain the excellent record that it had succeeded in establishing for itself. We understand that there is a very full list of exhibits in practically all lines, and some very excellent exhibits may be expected.

While, no doubt, the great majority of people who patronize the Exhibition will do so from motives of pleasure chiefly, it must not be overlooked that pleasure is not the principal motive for which it is held. It is desired to have the "show" illustrative of educational features in the more technical and materialistic sense. Hundreds of people every day will know more about Canadian productions when they leave the grounds than they did when they entered the gates. They will see examples of what their fellow-countrymen are accomplishing in industry and agriculture, and learn something of the advancement that has been made in the science of the factory and the farm. They will see also the products of some of the lesser industries, those of the home, for instance, which, in their way, are quite as interesting.

The purely pleasure-seeker will find plenty to occupy his time for this feature has been well looked after. But it is to be hoped that whether the average visitor attends more for pleasure than anything else or not, no one will go away without having found something to enlarge his mind, and learning something that he did not know before. Fine weather is all that is needed to make the Exhibition a huge success, and we trust the Clerk of the Weather will endeavor to put on his best brand for the occasion.

MR. TAFT ON THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

The Hon. W. H. Taft, ex-President of the United States, was accorded a very warm welcome by the members of the Canadian Bar Association, when he was called upon to address them at their annual meeting on Ottawa on Wednesday. His address on the League of Nations, with more particular reference to the United States' attitude towards it, was an admirable contribution to a topic which is causing considerable discussion at the present time. Few men are better able to deal authoritatively with this subject than Mr. Taft, and for that reason his words are entitled to every respect.

Mr. Taft was emphatic in refuting the claims of those United States public men who assert that the ratification of the League of Nations would mean the relinquishing of the sovereign powers of the Republic, and declared that there was nothing in the arguments which said that acceptance of the covenant of the League meant curtailment of the power of Congress to make war. Starting out with the statement that it was important to understand thoroughly what the covenant of the League really was, Mr. Taft said it was not an instrument establishing a government. It was a partnership agreement, made up of two kinds of stipulations. The first kind were self-restraining covenants. They bound the nations not to do things likely to lead to war; to respect the territorial integrity and independence of every other member of the League of Nations; not to begin war over any differences with another nation; to submit such differences to arbitration; to turn such differences over to the executive council or the assembly of the League; and not to begin war until three months after recommendations had been made. They also included the open diplomacy covenants. There were the others directed towards penalizing and enforcing of restraining covenants, through united obligation. This was left to the conscience and good faith of the members of the League. The strength of the League of Nations must, to be efficient, depend on the spirit of co-operation to perform its functions.

Dealing with the statements that by accepting the covenant the United States would have to part with some of its sovereign powers, Mr. Taft declared that a promise to do one thing which did not run up the facilities of the treaty-making power was not a departure from sovereignty. The element of sovereignty was the power to break as well as make a contract. The treaty-making power was the promising power of the government. Congress was the performing power of the government. There was nothing in the promise in the League covenants which curtailed the discretion of Congress to declare war or the universal boyhood. The point had been urged that by promising to make or not to make war was taking away from Congress its power. He asserted there was nothing in that contention. If it came to precedents there were many. Concluding, Mr. Taft said: "I do not think that those people who contend against the power of the United States to make contracts and to enter into obligations with other nations fully realize how completely such a construction of the constitution would reduce that government to the limbo of infants and of persons irresponsible, who may not make obligations that are binding upon them."

PUTTING THE BOOT ON THE OTHER FOOT.

The decision of the British industrial leaders to shut down their factories if any further strikes take place is a wise one; it will teach the labor leaders that two can play at the game they want to call on. While every fair-minded man has every sympathy with the reasonable demands of labor, and recognizes the right of labor to get all that it is fairly entitled to, at the same time labor must be made to understand that other bodies and individuals have some rights also that are equally entitled to respect and recognition. Hence it is with this principle before them that the National Union of British Manufacturers, having consulted its membership throughout the country, finds that sentiment is unanimous for closing all their works the moment the coal miners hand in their strike notices.

Hope has not yet been abandoned that mediation may produce a compromise in the critical situation brought about by the vote of the Miners' Federation in favor of a strike for nationalization of the mines. This hope is held despite the fact that the chiefs of the "Triple Alliance"—railwaymen, transport workers and miners—have formally endorsed the miners' demands as just and declared they should not be abated.

CANADA NO PLACE FOR THEM.

There is no country in the world in which there is less excuse for the existence of unrest than in the Dominion of Canada. This nation should be a great hive of contented workers. Only by an extremely small percentage of its people is there any aping of the ugly unrest-mongers of the devastated countries of Europe. We have some professional agitators and some desperate politicians and some people incapable of loyalty to any country who are doing their best to wear down the nerve system of society and bring on confusion. The sooner such trouble-makers are restrained the better it will be for the country.

As the Mail and Empire says, the state of the world would go far better today if democratic governments were always in the hands of strong representatives of the people. There must be mastery somewhere, and not for a moment should constituted Government in any democracy let it be questioned whether it or the agents of revolution hold the balance of power. Ireland would not be torn by strife today, murder would not be proclaimed and practiced as a policy as it now is by the Sinn Feiners, if the British Government had never weakened in the face of rebellion. It is a mistake to go upon the idea that because Government is democratic it must be weak. The advocates of Sinn Feinism, Bolshevism, or any other form of anarchism should have short shrift in this country, and care should be taken that our doors are kept tightly closed against immigrants of their kind.

This country of nine million souls is not obliged to suffer these incendiaries. Its people are not in the helpless position of a coachful of unarmed railway passengers held up by a bandit with a revolver in each hand. The pleaders for free speech ask too much when they expect the Canadian public to put up with the inflammatory utterances of Sinn Fein agitators and Bolshevik spouters and other enemies of the British Empire.

Sir George Foster says that our people ought to take more about the things they have reason to be thankful for. If every Canadian of good phylaxis—"It's a lie! I never swore in my life."

WHAT OTHERS SAY

The "Old Gang" in Command.
 "We may have new parties spring up here and there but after all the forces that are going to count in the long run are not the new forces that have just come into being, but the old forces that have come with us through the centuries, replenished, renewed and revived by new springs of life and power which come with changing times and seasons."

And as exhibits "A" and "B" of the replenishment, renewal and revival of Canadian Liberalism, Mr. King presents—Mr. Jacques, Huxson and Mr. George F. Graham. The spectacle of these two ancient members of the "Old Gang" as heroes in a resounding procession about "dancing times and seasons," was enough (in Mr. Pugsley's historic phrase) to "make a horse laugh," and it must have been only by a special effort that Mr. Graham, who is not without a sense of humor, escaped from uproarious laughter. Elber that, or else the Honorable George has become a trifle faded, and regards his periodical "conversion" of his party to its alleged principles as pretty much of an ancient joke.

And, come to think of it, the story of a Liberal regeneration, when there are no regenerates in sight, is getting a bit stale. Ever since 1911, when most of the old guard were submerged, it has been drummed into the public ears. Always and ever the party was being purified and purged, but somehow or other the "Old Gang" managed to survive, and the old saga of hypocrisy and humbug went on. Last summer a big revival was staged. The country was told that the old spurious Liberalism was dead, that the old Bourbons and reactionaries were no more, and that a new and sanctified Liberalism, a Liberalism purged by the fires of adversity, was at last to make its place. For a time it did seem as though the conversion was real, as though a party of political Magdalens and honest reformers had been born, but, alas for hopeful radicals, the promise was unfulfilled. What had appeared to be genuine contrition turned out to be the rankest of humbug; and with Mr. King for window-dressing, the same old guard, impudent and incriminably dishonest, remained in command.

Obviously the leader of his party, Mr. King, whether he knows it or not, is but the tool of the "Old Gang." Where sits McGregor, is "the head of the table." And where sits Mr. Jacques Bureau, with sixty-three Quebec votes at his back, is the leadership of the Liberal party. Mr. King may talk about progress and Liberalism as much as he likes, but Mr. Bureau will see to it that the "new springs of life and power" do not infringe upon the interests of reaction which he so well knows how to shield.—Ottawa Journal.

A BIT OF VERSE

FOR THE SUMMER.

"Where shall we go?"
 Said he to she;
 "To inland farm
 Or by the sea?"
 "Some place," said she,
 "With prices low—
 That has an end,
 Less bungalow."

"Oh, yes," said he;
 "I also guess
 You'd excess pay:
 For extra dress,
 And water hot,
 I only know
 Of one such spot."

"It is a place
 Where milk is sweet;
 Dew-drops of flies,
 And also heat,
 And where in ice,
 They do not skim,
 Where thrice a day
 One does not primp."

"Oh, Oh!" she cried,
 In ecstasy,
 "That is the place
 I long to be."
 "All right," said he,
 "We will not roam;
 The only place
 Like that is home."

Benny's Note Book

BY LEE PAPE

I was talking to Mary Watkins on her front steps yesterday afternoon, and I made a date with her to come around after supper and talk to her on them again, and while I was eating supper I had a queer idea, and I got throo eating the ferret and went up to my sister Gladie's room and sprinkled a lot of her cologne on my handkerchief, making it smell grate, and then I started to hunt for my hat and while I was looking in the setting room ma and pop came up, pop smelling upwards and saying, My O my, wat a fragrant we have with us this evening.

O, do you smell it, I smell it too, sed ma. Wich jest then I started to quik go out of the room, pop saying, With away, Benny? Meaning ware was I going, and I sed, Out.

Out is a big place, sed pop. Meaning he wanted to know exactly ware, and I sed, I got a engagement to see Mary Watkins.

O, him, sed pop. Wich jest then Gladie ran down stairs from her room and came in looking mad, saying, Mother, this has to stop, I jest looked at my new 7 dollar a bottle perfume and about a quarter of it is gone, it must be Nora that's taking it and I wish you would speak to her about it, I think its perfectly dishonest.

Haw haw haw, Marry Watkins, haw haw haw, sed pop laughing.

Hee hee, I never herd anything so funny in my life, hee hee, sed ma.

Well if youll kindly explain ware the joke comes in maybe I'll laff too, sed Gladie. Pop and ma jest laffing more instead of less, and Gladie looked ever madder and went down to the kitchen to tell Nora herself and I quik went out without my hat and Mary Watkins was on her front steps already and the first thing she did was smell the cologne, saying it smelled bewtiffil, and I rubbed my handkerchief on hers, making hers smell pritty near as much as mine without changing the smell of mine hardly any.

TRADE WITH WEST INDIES IS HOPEFUL

Promising Markets There for Products of the Dominion.

A booklet on "The British West Indies and British Guiana," just issued by the Bank of Montreal, is a most timely publication in view of the new trade agreement between Canada and the West Indies, now awaiting the ratification of the respective governments. The booklet gives a concise and interesting description of the salient features of the various colonies, which are party to the agreement, including the physical characteristics, area, population and principal exports and imports. It shows that there are most promising markets awaiting development by enterprising Canadian merchants and industrial firms.

At the present time, it is stated, the British West Indies, British Guiana and British Honduras have a total population of over 2,000,000, with natural resources that have really only just begun to be developed. It is officially estimated that there are at least 20,000,000 acres of fertile land in the British West Indies not yet beneficially occupied, whereas the area under cultivation is only one and a half million acres.

Big Need is Population

The opinion is expressed that under the system of preferences granted by Canada and the United Kingdom, and with the growing world-demand for such commodities as the West Indies produce, the development of these colonies will proceed apace. There is every prospect of consideration and progressive increase of the population. If all the fertile land there were brought under cultivation, the colonies which are in the new agreement could easily support a population of between 30,000,000 and 50,000,000.

The fact that the Bank of Montreal is now directly represented in the British West Indies, through its alliance with the Colonial Bank, places this institution in an advantageous and authoritative position for assisting Canadian firms in their trade relations with the various colonies.

ST. JOHN KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS OBSERVED MEMORIAL DAY

Many Members With Over Two Thousand Bouquets Paraded to Graves of Departed Brothers — About 150 Graves Decorated—Scripture Read by Rev. D. Hutchinson—Address by Past Supreme Prelate James Moulson.

The St. John Knights of Pythias yesterday observed their Memorial Day, when it is their custom to lay on the graves of departed brothers bouquets of flowers as a tribute to their lives and memories, and the event was most successful in every way. The weather was all that could be desired, just right for marching; the flowers, so necessary for the occasion, were donated in large quantities, and the members of the order turned out in good numbers. Altogether, it was one of the best Memorial Days in the history of the St. John Knights.

Over 2,300 bouquets were made up by the large corps of workers, and in this they had the efficient assistance of a large number of ladies. These were loaded on two barouches. During the day a committee visited Cedar Hill, Church of England and Methodist cemeteries and placed flowers on the Pythian graves there.

At six o'clock the procession formed up in front of Castle Hall, Union street, the order of the march being: Barouches with flowers; St. Mary's Band, Victoria Co., No. 1; Cymet Co., No. 2; New Brunswick Lodge, No. 1; Martello Band; Union Lodge, No. 2; St. John Lodge, No. 30; Carleton Tower Lodge, No. 37; auto containing older members of the order. The route of march going out was by way of Union, German, King, Charlotte, South Side King Square, Sydney, Waterloo streets and Old Westmorland Road to Fernhill. Coming back it was by way of Marsh Road, Brussels, Union, Sydney, South Side King Square, Charlotte and Union to the hall.

The Service.

After the graves had been decorated, during which selections were rendered by St. Mary's Band, the following service was held, the Martello Band playing the accompaniment to the hymns.

The first number was the hymn "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." This was followed by the Scripture reading by Knight Rev. D. Hutchinson, who read the following portions: 1st Samuel xviii, 1-4, xix, 1-7; 2nd Samuel i, 20-27, and Galatians vi, 1-9. After this came the address by Past Supreme Prelate James Moulson. Mr. Moulson, who has performed this duty for many years, said:

At the outset of my remarks I wish to say that we are deeply indebted to the public for flowers, without these donations we could not observe the day as we do. On behalf of the Knights of Pythias I thank them and all who assisted in arranging the flowers. I also thank the superintendent of Fernhill and those in charge of other burial places for valuable assistance.

Memorial day is to me, and I presume it is to many, a sad one. It brings to mind in an intensified degree thoughts of partings with those of our family circles who made our homes bright and happy. It causes thoughts of the uncertainty of human life and the certainty of death, and impresses those who attend the ceremony with the necessity of being prepared to give a good account of themselves at the bar of the Great Judge before all must appear.

Moving Onward

All are moving onward toward the end of life's way. It may be near, or it may be distant. Time is winging all away to their eternal home. There is much to remind you of how speedily time passes. The sowing and reaping, the change of the seasons, the morning and evening and the ticking of the clock all these indicate its fleeing.

In some instances the reminders lead to good results, but in too many cases they are unheeded as if life had no ending.

But I must pass on to other thoughts. You are here at this time as members of the Knights of Pythias which is founded in Friendship, Charity and Benevolence. It strives to gather into one mighty fraternity worthy men, who appreciate the true meaning of friendship, who are cautious in word and act; who love truth; who are brave in defending right; whose honor is untarnished; whose sense of justice will prevent to the best of their ability a personal act or word injurious to the worthy; whose loyalty is princely, to family, to friends, to their country and to the constituted authority under which they enjoy citizenship is undoubted, and who at all times are prepared to do unto others as they would that others should do unto them.

Teaching of Pythianism

These are the teachings of Pythianism. Do you practice them as you move around among your friends and brethren? Since you became a pythian, have you so lived as to show a desire to practice the highest ideals of life? If not, why not? The obligations assumed by you and the teachings of pythianism call for such a life and if any are not living it, they are pythians only in name.

There are many young men in your lines today, those just starting on manhood's journey; what the future has in store for them none know, but they will find temptations and pitfalls all along the way. Remember your obligations and the teachings of pythianism, and they will strengthen and help you to resist yielding to the evil that exists all along the journey. As I look along your lines again, I see some who have reached the summit of the hill and are now traveling toward the valley below. To them I say get ready. You may be enjoying good health, and many young men may reach the end of the journey before you. But under the most favorable conditions you cannot stay much longer. The walk to the foot of the hill does not seem as long as to the top.

City of the Dead

You have marched to the City of the Dead today, in a few moments the purpose of your coming will be accomplished and you will return to your homes. Let me remind you that you are on another march, which is ever onward, always in the same direction. There is no halting, you must keep on. All are on the way to the Silent Tomb. We are told there is a grand prize beyond. The winning post is this side of the river. Do you want it? Are you striving for it? All cannot secure the prizes of this world, but those of the other are free. The former must be left this side of the river, but the latter can be forever possessed.

In a few moments you leave the city of the dead, but you will return. It may be to take part in a repetition of the ceremony of today, or to say over some of your brethren: We lay thee now to rest. We loved thee here and our remembrance of thee shall be always pleasant.

Let all leave here with these solemn thoughts indelibly impressed upon their minds, and may all so live that when they are called upon to enter the dark valley of the shadow of death, they may leave this earthly sphere with malice toward none and at peace with the whole world and the Great Judge of all.

May all so live that when their membership is severed with the lodge here below they may be considered worthy of admission to that better lodge above.

Following the address came the hymn "Asleep in Jesus" and prayer by Knight Rev. D. Hutchinson, the Doxology and the Benediction. The playing by the band of God Save the King brought the service to a close, after which ranks were once more formed up and the members returned to the city.

In all about one hundred and fifty graves were decorated, and in memory of the men who fell on active service during the great war flowers were placed on the "field of honor."

PERSONALS.

FURTHER ADJOURNED.

The special meeting of the School Board which was to have been held last evening to consider the securing of land for the building of new schools in the North End and West Side, was further adjourned to the 17th, as the committee which has the proposition in hand were not ready to submit their report.

HOUSING PROBLEM QUICKLY SOLVED

Houses Shipped Complete.

St. John, N. B., Sept. 4.—Among the more interesting attractions at the New Brunswick Provincial Exhibition this year will be the exhibit for the Canadian Aladdin Company's Ready-Cut dwellings. Solving the problem of the shortage of dwellings in this country has given various governmental organizations serious concern, the persistent increase in cost of construction interfering with a practical policy of State aid.

Many employers and others affected by the shortage of dwellings have adopted an independent policy. They recognized that Aladdin Ready-Cut dwellings could be obtained at the minimum of cost for labor and material, and at the maximum of speed in readiness for habitation.

The Strath River Pulp and Paper Mills, Ltd., resorted in a hurry a large number of dwellings for employees. The company placed an order with the Canadian Aladdin Co., and the result was the erection at Espanola, Ont., of so many dwellings in a few days that the place was more than doubled in size and population. Other employers and individuals are also solving the housing problem by ordering Aladdin Ready-Cut dwellings.

Waste of material is eliminated in the Ready-Cut process at the company's mills. Waste of time and labor is eliminated in the Ready-Cut process of construction at the building site. By this combination the buyer has a good dwelling at a scientifically lessened cost. These dwellings are being erected in large numbers in Canada.

Some people are so constituted that they are unhappy unless they have something to worry about.

HOLIDAY HURTS NEW YORK TRADE

Industrials Pass Rails as Feature in Market With Slight Advances.

New York, Sept. 3.—The approach of the holiday left its impression on the stock market today, dealings falling away to a marked extent during the forenoon when traders were most intent upon converting their profits into cash.

Bears evinced little disposition to extend their commitments in spite of these manoeuvres, developments of the session, particularly the greater ease of money and impending extensive gold imports, offering little inducement to the short circuit.

Not all of the day's advances were favorable, however. Cables from Brazil suggested economic disturbances in that country while the weekly surveys of domestic trade and orders again stressed cancellation of orders in many branches of business.

Rails fortified their recent advances, but yielded in preference to favorites of the industrial division. These included food, chemical paper and metal issues, in which some gain assumed substantial dimensions and denoted the renewed activity of pools.

Among the seasoned stocks, oils of the higher grades were most favored, notably Mexican, Pan-American and California Petroleum, Houston Oil and Texas Company. Coppers were most responsive to reports of prospective sales for export, but stocks and equipments abated with specialties at the close. Sales amounted to 650,000 shares.

A seven per cent. opening rate for call loans running into next week and a later quotation of six per cent. for the same accommodation testified to the further relaxation of money. Local banks were reported to have made time loans extending over the year's end as a shade under prevailing rates.

Buying of railroad bonds continued with firmness in Liberty issues and the foreign group, especially United Kingdoms of 1927. Total sales, par value, were $7,750,000.

Oil-Industrial States bonds were unchanged on call.

Montreal, Sept. 3.—The best turnover of the day in the trading in listed securities on the local stock exchange today was furnished by Spanish River common with sales of 2,775 shares.

The preferred sold up to 135 and closed at 124 1/2, being 2 1/2 points up. In the remaining paper stocks, Wayagmack made the largest advance, rising eight points to 122, and closing at the high with no stock offered under 124.

EXPORT TRADE IN SPLENDID STATE

Trade Balance of Almost $30,000,000 for First Four Months of Year.

Ottawa, Sept. 3.—Canadian export trade in animals and animal produce during the first ten months of the present fiscal year shows a favorable trade balance amounting to $29,071,145, representing eight per cent. of the total trade value of agriculture.

The export trade, however, shows a reduction in value of approximately fifty per cent. when compared with the exports of the same period of 1919. Export figures for the first four months of the present fiscal year were: $50,445,119 against $90,528,285 for the corresponding period of last year. Imports in 1920, totaled $27,373,871 against $27,792,712. The trade balance in Canada's favor in 1920 was $29,071,145 against $62,528,573 for the corresponding four months of 1919.

The figures are: Four months 1919, exports, $238,805,924; imports, $82,845,345; trade balance, $155,960,579. For 1920, exports, $185,943,123; imports, $124,447,212; trade balance, $61,495,911.

While agriculture has been able to maintain a favorable balance of trade, the total trade in all classes during the first four months of the fiscal year, as compared with the same period of 1919, shows a reduction of over $4,000,000, and a reduction during the first four months of the present fiscal year, in the net trade value of exports as compared with imports, of approximately $4,800,000.

STEEL CO. OUTPUT LOWER THIS MONTH

Special to The Standard. Hamilton, Sept. 3.—The operations of the Steel Co. of Canada, Limited, up to this time, taking into account the difficulties of securing a supply of coal, have been fairly satisfactory, but the company has not been able to operate one of its blast furnaces, and this of course has made a big difference in production. The plants therefore have not been fully employed, and because of this the output has been restricted.

BRAZIL'S FINANCES MUCH UNSETTLED

Rio Janeiro, Sept. 3.—Financial conditions in Brazil have become so serious and exchange rates so erratic that North American banks and merchants are refusing further credits to Brazil. The situation is such that the Brazilian government is unable to obtain loans from the United States. The American buyers under-estimated the best sugar resources of Europe, it is said, and speculated on a world shortage, which failed to come about. Prices are expected to go still lower shortly.

THE COLE TEAM WON ANOTHER GAME

The H. W. Cole, Ltd., team continued its string of victories when it defeated the W. F. Kewley Co. team on the Edin street diamond last evening by a score of 10 to 4. The game was fast and interesting and was featured by good fielding on the part of McGowan for the winning team. Smith was in the box for Cole's and he turned in another fine game, holding his opponents down to one hit. He received good support from his team mates. Maxwell started in the box for Hatheway's but was hit heavily and Seely replaced him. It did not make any difference to the Cole team as they hammered him also for several of his runs.

Kirksey of San Francisco, one of the American sprinters, was assaulted, handcuffed and taken to the police station this afternoon by Belgian gendarmes, who, unable to speak English, blocked Kirksey from entering the American dressing rooms at the stadium. Kirksey had just returned with Claus W. Paddock of Los Angeles, another sprinter, from Paris for the medal presentations. He had tickets, but when he tried to enter the dressing rooms he was attacked by the gendarmes, who apparently had orders, which were unknown to the Americans, to the effect that the rooms were to be used only city by football players.

Touring British Bowlers Coming

Visit Canada Next July—Preliminary Arrangements Made—Special Committee Picked

At a meeting of the Dominion Lawn Bowling Association held in Toronto Thursday preliminary arrangements were made for the tour of the British bowlers next summer. It is probable that the Old Country team of six men will arrive about July 15th and remain till the beginning of September.

In order to avoid unnecessary travel for the visitors and ensure the best possible accommodation it was decided to arrange as many games as possible in the larger centres. After spending a couple of days in Montreal the team will proceed to Ottawa for at least three days in order to play as many games as possible in the eastern district at the point. Ten days will be spent in Toronto, five days in Hamilton, four days in London, and two days in Guelph. Games with other clubs will be arranged to be played at these centres or the visitors will move to additional places and play an afternoon game and return the same night to headquarters.

Carry Out Arrangements.

On motion of Mr. MacCaffery of Ottawa and R. B. Rice, a special committee consisting of the executive of the D. L. B. A. and the following well-known bowlers was appointed to complete and carry out all arrangements for the tour: T. Hennis, C. S. Robertson, G. M. Bege, E. T. MacLennan, Dr. F. J. Gellanough, H. J. A. Bart, Frank O'Leary, Toronto; D. J. O'Connor, P. MacCaffery, R. R. Farrow, Ottawa; Dr. J. N. Wood, John Macpherson, Edmund West, London; Bert Ingles, J. A. O'Brien, Brantford; Dr. English, Dr. Crawford, R. Cassels, Hamilton, and George Chapman, Guelph. C. S. Robertson was appointed treasurer and C. O. Knowles secretary of the committee.

Law Legalizing Boxing In Effect

Church Federation Fails to Get a Referendum—Boston Fans Welcome the Act.

Boston, Sept. 3.—The Legislative act legalizing boxing, signed by Gov. Coolidge on June 11, goes into effect today, which means that manly pugilists may accept the bill if they choose and allow boxing. The Massachusetts Legislature of the Church Federation held up the operation of the bill for 90 days and today by its attempt to have it submitted to a referendum, but not enough signatures were secured and the referendum call for good. It is said that only 1600 of the required 10,000 signatures required were obtained.

Rev. E. Tallmadge Root blamed the lack of signatures on the absence of so many church members on their vacations. "They preferred vacation to victory," he asserted. The act provides for a commission of three, one to be the Commissioner of Public Safety, The Governor or appoints the other two at salaries not to exceed $500. All boxing matches where admission is charged at a fee varying from $25 to $500 each, according to the size of the community. Every exhibitor must deposit with the commission a bond for $5000. All physicians, referees, judges, timekeepers, boxers, managers, trainers and seconds participating in professional matches must be licensed for a fee not exceeding $25. A licensed referee will be in charge of every match and two judges must also be present to render the decision. If they cannot agree the referee must decide the match.

No boxer will be permitted to enter the ring unless, not more than three hours previously he has been examined by a physician and found to be in good condition. The referee may not exceed 10 rounds and the rounds three minutes. The gloves must weigh at least six ounces each. Losses must vary from 5 per cent of the gross receipts of every match to the commission.

The Fredericton Fall Race Meet

Nine Classes on Card for September 21st, 22nd and 23rd—Entries Close Wednesday

Fredericton, N. B., Sept. 3.—A complete new programme for Fredericton's fall race meeting on September 21, 22 and 23 was announced today by the Fredericton Park Association. The new card is made up of a variety of class races and promises to make a meeting which will be equally as notable as that held here in July. The horses have now raced themselves pretty well into the classes where they belong and entries will close on Wednesday Sept. 8th, but records made on and after September 6th will be no bar. The programme follows: Free-for-all pace, $500; 2:15, 2:17, 2:19 and 2:21 trot; 2:29 trot; 2:24 pace; and 2:25 trot, each $400.

Local Baseball Today And Monday

Some good baseball is in store for the fans, both today and Labor Day, when the St. Peter's meet the Crescents in Halifax. The Halifax team has the reputation of being one of the best in the Blue-nose province, and they are bringing their strongest line-up to the city. There will be games this afternoon and evening, while on Labor Day the teams will meet in the morning and afternoon.

The Green Shirts have five pitchers available for series—Hansen, Chestnut, King, Kirkpatrick, of the Vets, and Corvey, the star pitcher from the Industrial League. In view of his fine showing in Halifax, when he held the Crescents to three hits in ten innings, Corvey will very likely be on the mound for the St. Peter's in the opening fixture while either "Kirk" or Ray Hansen will do the heaving in the evening. The Crescents will probably start Campaign. He is their big gun and has a great reputation. The games today are at 2:30 and 6 o'clock.

BRITISH OLYMPIC TEAM OPPOSES

London, Sept. 3.—The entire British Olympic team has jointly written a letter to the London Times protesting vigorously against the movement in England favoring the withdrawal of Great Britain from future Olympic meets. The letter declares that, contrary to the statements of Sir Theodore Cook, member of the British Olympic Council, and others, not a single example of bad sportsmanship or ill feeling resulted from the present Olympic games or in the last international gathering at Stockholm. "These contests," says the letter, "were run in a spirit of fairness and good sportsmanship equal to the highest standards of British tradition, and so far as bad feeling being engendered, we have been the witnesses of most general international camaraderie and good fellowship among the individual athletes and teams competing."

"The withdrawal of Great Britain would not be understood by any other nation. But, if, instead of withdrawing, we do our best to make participation a truly national effort, we are convinced the Great Britain may do much, not only to advance sports throughout the world but also to promote good feeling among all peoples."

London, Sept. 3.—(By Canadian Associated Press.)—English football results today follow: Second Division of the League. Leicester, 4; Bury, 0. Third Division. Queen's Park, 1; Northampton, 2. Swansea, 2; Watford, 1.

An Interesting Report Given

At Monthly Meeting of Playgrounds Association Supervisor Presented Report of Attendance.

The report of Miss Heffer, general supervisor of playgrounds, was given at the regular monthly meeting of the Playgrounds Association held last evening in the Y. M. C. A. Miss Heffer gave a comprehensive account for the month of August, and presented the following figures showing the splendid attendance at the different playgrounds:

	Total	Daily	Average
Allison	2,385	85	85
Centennial	2,170	91	91
Aberdeen	2,387	95	95
King George	1,400	63	63
Alexandra	2,534	110	110

The supervisor made twelve weekly calls, or forty-eight during the month at the various grounds. A booth at the Exhibition, in charge of the association, will be looked after each day by the ladies of the association, and in the evening by the men. Parents will be welcome to leave their children at the booth while visiting the exhibition, and a practical demonstration of supervised playground work will be given.

The Trades and Labor Council, through their representative, W. E. Searle, donated a large silver cup to the association for an open competition. The president of the association, W. K. Halsey and K. J. Macfabe, were appointed to interview the Trades and Labor Council and ascertain in what particular branch of sport they desire that the cup shall be competed for.

W. K. Halsey presided at last evening's meeting.

Great Race Horse Ready For Today

Man o' War at Belmont Park—Worked a Mile and a Half in 2.09 2-5 Thursday.

New York, Sept. 3.—Man o' War, the great race horse, in preparation for his appearance in Saturday's race at Belmont Park, worked a mile and a half in 2.09 2-5 yesterday.

This was one-fifth of a second faster than the American record established by the three-year-old Thunderclap, with 106 pounds up, at Laurel, Maryland, September 13, 1919.

Man o' War, who worked under the heavy impost he will carry in Saturday's race, was never fully let out.

THE CHAMPIONSHIP CRICKET FINISHED

London, Sept. 3.—(Canadian Associated Press.)—Championship cricket finished today in the final matches between Notts and Kent, which was drawn; and that between Somerset and Derbyshire in which the latter was beaten 9 wickets, while Hampshire and Leicestershire drew. Derbyshire have not won a match this season.

GOSSIP AROUND THE MARKETS

Shoe Company Dividend. At a meeting of the Board of Directors of Ames-Holden, McCready, Ltd., the regular quarterly dividend of 1 3-4 per cent, was declared on the preferred stock, payable October 1 to record September 17.

Directors of the Canadian Crocker Wheeler Company have declared the usual 1 3-4 per cent, on the common and 1 3-4 on the preferred for the year ending September 30 to record September 20.

Laurentide's Big Year. Although little has been heard of the results being obtained by the Laurentide Company during the past year the statements is heard in quarters close to the company that shareholders will have every reason to feel satisfied with the financial report which will be presented to them at the annual meeting this month. The indications are that the report will show somewhere in the vicinity of 11 per cent, earned on the new capital, being the equivalent of 33 per cent, on the old.

Steel Mills Hit Hard. The Canadian Steel Mills are making better deliveries now in several lines, but they are still having trouble in getting anything like the capacity production of their plants. Increased freight rates, and the fact that freight charges from points of origin in the steel and iron trade are paid all the way in New York funds are some of the causes that seem likely to bring in their wake an upward revision in prices of steel and iron stocks, having special reference to the warehousing trade. This will probably amount to between $2, $3 per ton all around.

Coal Roads Improve. The coal road stocks were probably the first to show improvement in Wall Street following the announcement of the wage increases to miners of seven to ten per cent. But the coal roads were not alone in the advance, such issues as Rock Island, St. Paul and St. Louis Southwestern moving forward substantially. The reception of the new rate schedules, both by passengers and shippers, without serious opposition, has been considered as a hopeful sign.

THIRD BASEMAN SOLD Durham, N. C., Sept. 3.—Sheley Clayton, third baseman on the Durham team, Piedmont League, has been sold to the Dabno's Americans. He will not report to the Tigers until next spring.

LOWER PRICES FOR HARD COAL WILL PREVAIL

Montreal Dealers Optimistic and Look for Drop in Not Far Distant Future.

Montreal, Sept. 3.—That he was reasonably sure lower prices for hard coal would prevail in the not far distant future, was the statement made by a local coal dealer this morning. He also said that the soft coal situation was easier, and that there were more freight cars now available than had been the case for some time, but that the demand for the bituminous variety would more than take care of the supply.

Dealers explain that, while the price for anthracite coal has recently been raised to $18, to which will be added another thirty cents a ton should the railroads be granted the increased freight rates which they are now seeking, two dollars out of every eighteen is accounted for by the exchange situation, and they state that immediately this situation rights itself, the public will be given the benefit thereof.

The reports, coming from the United States that seventy thousand to eighty thousand miners are on strike, are characterized as exaggerations. Coal men state that they are receiving their usual supplies, and that as a matter of fact, these supplies increased yesterday, whereas, were operations at the mines so badly disorganized, there would be a decided decrease or possibly no coal at all. They assert that reports direct from the United States lead them to conclude that ten or fifteen per cent, of idleness is an outside figure among the coal workers.

"Production is improving," they say, "and in all likelihood, the situation will soon straighten out."

Montreal, Sept. 2.—The Cassandra, of the Anchor-Donaldson Line, was reported today 200 miles east of Belle Isle, and is expected to arrive at Quebec, Sunday noon. She carries 230 cabin and 682 third-class passengers.

RECORD FLIGHT BY CAPT. JOHNSTON

Flying from Ottawa to Camp Borden, a distance of approximately 300 miles, with two passengers, in two and a half hours, Captain G. O. Johnston of the Canadian Air Force set what is probably a record for rapid transportation in Canada. The same journey by train means leaving Ottawa at 10 p.m. and, if all train connections are made and trains arrive on time, arriving at Camp Borden at one o'clock the next afternoon.

Flying a Bristol, Colonel Scott, director of civilian flying, of the Air Board, accompanied by Captain Johnston in a D. H. 9, made the journey from Camp Borden in three hours, and on the return to Camp Borden Colonel Scott and his two passengers covered the same distance in half an hour less. Leaving Ottawa at 2:30 p.m. the party arrived at the hangars at Camp Borden in time for dinner at six o'clock.

ROBBED CHINAMAN NOT OPIUM OWNER

Montreal, Sept. 3.—Enquete in the case of Charles Jackson, charged with robbing the safe of the Chinese Merchants' Club, 41 LaGauchetière street, West, with two other men who are still at large, of the sum of $11,000, was heard before Judge Cusson. The defence severely cross-examined See Wah, the complainant in the case, asking if there were not opium in the safe, and if the $11,000 were not for the purchase of opium. The reply to both questions was in the negative.

The Miracle Man Makes Your Dollars Do Double Duty

YOU men who've fallen into the idea that a 1920 dollar was like a dime of the pre-war days when it came to buying clothes will increase your respect for that dollar when you see what The Miracle Man makes it do.

The purchasing power of your dollar assumes new proportions here. It's knocking our profits "galley west" but it's accomplishing our purpose of Stock Clearance. That's the big idea with us. That's the idea back of the greatest clothing economy event ever staged in this town.

Good Roads is The Gospel of N.B.A.A.

T. P. Regan, President of Provincial Association, Points Out Clearly the Good of an Association.

In an interview with the Standard yesterday, T. P. Regan, president of the New Brunswick Automobile Association, and who has held that position for the past ten years, explained clearly the good to be derived by all

J. P. REGAN.

Automobile owners being members of an association. He pointed out that there was at present over eleven hundred motor cars in New Brunswick, and the revenue received by the provincial governments from the car owners is very close on to two hundred thousand dollars. Every year shows a remarkable increase in the number of cars purchased by provincialists, and there is no person who drives an automobile but knows the need for good roads. A real smooth highway, said Mr. Regan, not only makes touring delightful, but proves less expensive to the car owner; tires wear longer, and there is not so much fear of punctures, breaking of springs, the rocking of the car and many other things that are bound to happen on a rough road.

Patrol System.

For a number of years the N. B. A. A. has advocated the great need for a patrol system on the provincial highways. The association has purchased road drugs, paid men to take them on certain stretches, and have also loaned the drugs to the government employees to place the roads in better condition. Considerable good has resulted in this work, but a proper patrol system is the only thing that will keep a good piece of highway always in excellent condition, as the men so employed are constantly on the job, and there should be no day if any depression on the surface. With this system there would be less bumps and danger in driving both at day or night.

What Association Means.

When asked what good automobilists gained by being a member of an association, President Regan became more interested and explained as follows:

The New Brunswick Automobile Association is an organization of motor car owners, conducted not for profit, but to protect the interests and work for the benefit of its members. With the exception of the secretary-treasurer, who devotes his entire time to the work, none of the officers receive compensation. This results in practically every penny paid in by the members being devoted to the objects for which they are handed together.

The Association was organized in 1909, and since that time has consistently labored to bring about better road conditions for motorists. The funds of the club have been sufficient to meet the demands made upon it; but with the enormous increase in the number of motor vehicles, there have arisen many new problems which demand the attention of this association. Every automobile owner in New Brunswick who joins the association will be benefited in direct proportion to the number who become members, because each additional member gives additional funds with which to widen the scope of its work.

Good Roads.

Since its organization in 1906 the N. B. Automobile Association has continuously supported the Good Roads movement by methods both direct and indirect, in ways too numerous to mention.

This association was in the vanguard of the fight for Federal aid and was the only Maritime association represented at the meeting held in Ottawa to confer with the Dominion Government, and assisted in obtaining the Federal grant for good roads. In the early days of the automobile, there existed in the outlying districts a strong prejudice against it. The farmers, in particular, were against the city man and his machine, which frightened their stock and threw dirt in the eyes. Continued and widespread propaganda was required (and, in fact, is still required in some districts) to overcome this feeling. In many ways (some of them not obvious) the N. B. A. A. has spread the gospel of good roads.

The N. B. A. A. is the strongest motor organization in the Maritime Provinces. Our association has been in the forefront of the Good Roads movement since its inception, but its task is by no means completed. Good roads sentiment has grown to such an extent that what a few years ago seemed but a dream is now on the verge of becoming a reality.

The Federal Grant.

The Federal Government has already appropriated many millions, apportioned among the provinces, to be expended for good road purposes, under the supervision of a Government

FRIENDS ADVICE MADE MAN OF HIM SAYS NOEL

Was About All in When They Urged Him To Take Tanlac — Feels Like Old Time Self Now.

"Yes, sir, I'm only too glad to tell you what I think about Tanlac. This is the fourth bottle I have bought, and if it wasn't doing me good I wouldn't be wasting my time on it." The above statement was made recently by Charles Noel, of 31 Meadow street, St. John, N. B. Mr. Noel, who was three years in France with the Fifth Canadian Siege Battery and saw considerable fighting, is now in the employ of the Canadian National Railway.

"When I returned from overseas, my digestion was so upset I couldn't eat a thing scarcely without suffering the worst kind of distress and pain afterwards. After every meal I had a heavy feeling like I had swallowed a lump of lead, and my food would sour and bloat me up till I was in perfect misery and the pains in the pit of my stomach were awful. I also had such pains in the back I could hardly get around and could sleep no more on this account I often heard the clock strike every hour of the night. I was tired and weary all the time and, in fact, became so run-down I was just about all in when I started on Tanlac. "When my friends saw what a terrible shape I was in they urged me to try Tanlac and I'm mighty glad I took their advice for it has made a new man of me. By the time I had taken two bottles my strength was in fine condition and I could eat anything I wanted and never suffer the least ill-effects. I have gained ten pounds in weight and am so much stronger I can do as much work in one day as I used to be able to do in two. I am no longer bothered with pains in the back. I sleep like a log all night, and get up in the mornings feeling ready for work. Folks tell me how well I am looking now, and I can honestly say I never felt better in my life. Tanlac is certainly one fine medicine, and I'm glad of the chance to tell others about what it did for me."

Tanlac is sold in St. John by Ross Drug Co. and P. W. Munro under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative.—Adv.

A MOTHER'S TRIALS

Care of Home and Children Often Causes a Breakdown.

The woman at home, deep in household duties and the cares of motherhood, needs occasional help to keep her in good health. The demands upon a mother's health are many and severe. Her own health trials and her children's welfare exact heavy tolls, while hurried meals, broken rest and much indoor living tend to weaken her constitution. No wonder that the woman at home is often indisposed through weakness, headaches, backaches and nervousness. Too many women have grown to accept these visitations as a part of the lot of motherhood. But many and varied as are her health troubles, the cause is simple and relief at hand. When well, it is the woman's good blood that keeps her well; when ill she must make her blood rich to renew her health. The nursing mother more than any other woman in the world needs rich blood and plenty of it. There is one way to get this good blood as necessary to perfect health, and that is through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills make new blood, and through their use thousands of weak, ailing wives and mothers have been made bright, cheerful and strong. If you are ailing, easily tired or depressed, it is a duty you owe yourself and your family to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial. What this medicine has done for others it will surely do for you.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

My Dear Little Friends:— Does it not seem a very short time since we hailed with such delight the approach of summer with all its pleasures? That is surely my impression, yet the full time in days and weeks and months, has actually come and gone and we must extend the welcome to the first autumn month.

Lucky, perhaps, that September is such a lovely month or we might mourn the passing of summer more. We do, for when—unless in June—does the outdoor world look lovelier than in September. The changing of color on the trees and shrubs is such a pretty contrast to the green shades we view in June, yet we are forced to admit that the fields and gardens are not as attractive to the eye at this end of the season as they are in June.

With the last public holiday over, sounds the clanging of the school bell and I shall be thinking of all of you as you trade about the call of the bell. Do not be like "Billy" in our little story in today's page, and be as unprepared as he was, but "take time by the forelock" and gather up the necessary books, pencils and slates before the first day of school begins.

Then, whatever you do start off with a smiling face no matter how you feel personally about school beginning. Think of the effect on teacher and scholars if you go to that first lesson with a sour sulky, gloomy look instead of a bright cheery and thankful expression showing on your face. For after all if you are the right sort you will go home the first day feeling just as Billy in our little story did.

Just one thing I wish you to be firm about and that is to do your best not the first day, but every day right through the term. "Make the best of everything" is a good motto for us all, and if we live up to both school, home and every spot where people meet would be happy places. Indeed, I am reminded of a motto written by George Stephenson and it says: "Make the best of everything, think the best of everybody, hope the best of yourself." How glorious it would be if we could live up to that which seems to cover all in true form. At any rate you can do your best and no more will be expected.

It has been good to read in letters from little folks and to hear others actually say (as I have during the last few days) that they will be so glad when school begins. Those little friends will go with happy smiles and will help many others to feel glad in spite of their many regrets. Perhaps some of you are looking forward to visiting some of the Exhibitions about us, if so, we will welcome your letters telling of what impressed you most at the fair, anyway, here's hoping that the last holiday will be celebrated in real jolly style to wind up a delightful vacation. As ever, your best wisher, UNCLE DICK.

SCHOOL DAYS. Vacation Days are over, the school bell rings once more. And through of happy children go knocking through the door—Hearts high with new ambition, and eyes that this new term shall stand for work accomplished, with lessons new to learn. Vacation days are over, but dreams of hours of play. Are with us through the Autumn, throughout the long school day, and thoughts of Summer gladness and hours free from care. Make pleasant the hours that we must spend in school. Vacation Days are over, School Days are here again. We're time for work and time for play; that much is very plain; If life here only playtime, we'd quickly tire of joy. But too much work, they tell us, "makes Jack a stupid boy."

Sandy (newly arrive in Canadian forest-land): "Whistna beast's you?" Native: "A young moose." Sandy: "Oh, hand yer tongue! If that's a young moose, I'd like to see one o' yer auld rats!"—Punch.

Answers To Letters

CORA R. S.—So glad to hear from you once more and to learn of your busy times. With so many cousins visiting you, I am sure your time has been much occupied. You write a very good letter indeed, and I did enjoy it. Hope to have another some day soon.

HARRY W.—Thanks for your kind words, it was a treat to see such a nicely written letter as you sent. Hope you are not having bad weather, for your camping trip, as that might spoil the greatly anticipated pleasure. Good luck anyway.

JRAN R.—Too bad your summer has been dreary for you but cheer up there is sure to be a better time coming for you.

HELEN B.—It was so good of you to remember me when distributing your snapshots, I do think they are splendid and you have reason to be proud of your success. Glad you are having such good times.

BASIL J.—So you are among the chaps who regret that the holidays are nearly over, well perhaps the dread in your thoughts is the worst for you after all. When cool autumn days arrive much of the outdoor fun ceases and after the first few days of school you will feel quite content with the nice rest I am sure. Here's hoping.

MILDRED L.—It is always encouraging to have the ladies say they enjoy the C. C., but when they add, "more than ever" it just tickles all over. With so many dolls you must be like the "old woman who lived in the shoe." Glad the party was such a success and that you had a good time at it too.

ESTHER T.—You seem to be a stranger to the C. C., for I am sure you hadn't written before for a long time. Glad your holidays have been so joyous and full of pleasures for you will feel satisfied to work again.

ABRAHAM F.—Your news was very exciting indeed and such experiences as you had were very unusual for even grown-ups. Your writing must be improved for it is very hard to make out many of the words and the spelling is not always correct, so you are at least one of the chaps who will need to work very hard at school this year so that your letters will be as good and correct as the other members of your age send.

DORIS F.—Yes, I did think we were all just about forgotten by you when along comes your cheery letter. You are quite right about spending most of your holidays outdoors. That is what they are for and it is surely the way to get most good and most fun out of them. I never expect to hear from the members regularly in the summer time, though they do very well indeed—thanks to the wet days. Strange your birthday was left out for you are listed in our book correctly, but it was just little accident for which I am quite sorry. Hope to hear again some day.

EDWARD C.—Your plans read well and I hope they turn out satisfactory. Glad to hear you say you welcome the school days—that's always a sign of a good scholar. Good luck.

MARIE J.—Your letter was a very neat one indeed and I did enjoy every bit of it. So you had lots of picnics too, well they give as good times as anything could in the summer. Your garden was a great success I am sure, and how nice of you to distribute the flowers to all. They carry so much love and thought. Write often.

TOM R.—So many of the boys have been camping too, this summer, and I wonder if you appreciated home and all it's comforts as much as some chaps did which I heard about. Nevertheless the experience is a splendid one for you all, and teaches you much you might never otherwise learn. Yes, we have a great many boys in our C. C. but it is really hard to keep count because as some drop out on their sixteenth birthday, others are continually joining. Your little friend will be very welcome and I shall hope to hear from him soon.

ANNIE G.—Thanks for your nice encouraging letter. It was good to read and think over. Sorry of the illnesses in your home and hope all are well by now. You must be very useful as a nurse.

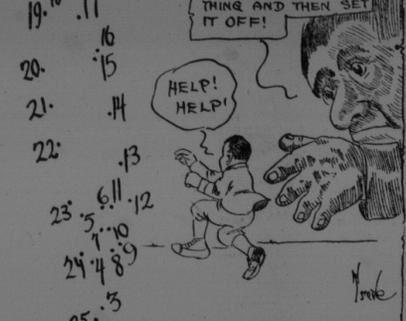

Cholly (to shopman): "I say—aw—could you take that yellow tie with the pink spots out of the window?" Shopman: "Ten, sir. Pleased to take anything out of the window, sir." Cholly: "Thanks, awfy. The bestest thing bothers me every time I pass. Good mawning."

Murphy soon told the story as he had gleaned it from Leslie after meet-

How "Cinders" Went to School

He was called "Cinders" because they found him on the cinder heap, and he was a brown dog, with more brown showing through his skin than you could count, with two brown eyes which could both cry and smile, and with four thin legs—so thin that he could scarcely stand upon them.

"What's the good of a dog like that?" said Jimmy's father. "But it will be good some day," said Jimmy, and he sat down by the fire with the puppy on his knee, and fed it with a teaspoon from a cup of warm milk which his mother gave him.

And sure enough, the dog was good some day. He grew so strong that he could stand upon his legs without wobbling, and his bones did not show through his skin quite so much, and he was always ready to oblige anybody. Why, once when Jimmy's mother had drawing lessons, Cinders thought she wanted to go out for a walk—and so he fetched her hat. And where do you think he fetched it from? He fetched it out of his own kennel, where he had kept it only the day before, without anybody knowing.

Now Jimmy went to a big school, and in the big school, on Fridays, they had drawing lessons. One day the master said: "I want you to learn to draw animals from living models. Who can bring something to draw?" Jimmy stood up. "Please, Sir," he said, "I could bring 'Cinders.' He's my dog."

And the next day, Jimmy took Cinders to school. He took him on a leash, because he was not sure if he might run away, and he tied the leash to a desk in the middle of the school-room. Cinders seemed to understand that he had to sit quite still to be drawn. He just yawned once, and then sat down, and scarcely moved at all.

Why, he's a splendid model," said the schoolmaster, and he gave Cinders two biscuits. There was another lesson after drawing, and Jimmy took Cinders into the playground, and put him in the bicycle shed. There was nothing to tie Cinders to there, and Jimmy said: "Cinders—you wait here for me!" And Cinders wagged his stumpy little tail, and he was waiting for Jimmy a piece of meat, and when school time was over—there was Cinders fast asleep.

"Cinders been to school?" said Jimmy's father, when he came home that night. "Well, after all, it's not sure if that can't be of some use in the world."

So this Mrs. had tickled to death and said let us try it beginning next Well she set down with a paper and pencil and figured out that they had been throwing away pretty near $2.00 per wk. on luxuries that wasn't getting them nowhere and was dressing the children too heavy and they were all eating too much rich food and she read in the paper somewhere that it was a great saving of brains and time and money if the house wife would make out her bill of fare for the wk. on say, a typical expenses as that she made out for a wk.

By RING W. LARDNER. To the Editor:— These days most everybody are preaching economy in living, and etc. but the great majority don't know how to go about it to lay something a side for a rainy day of which god knows we have had enough of them on Long's Island this summer, but as way I run across a married couple that man and wife the other day that he got 3 children all under 60 yrs. of age and the man showed me where he had solved the high cost problem and was saving enough every wk. so as in a few yrs. he can quit work and not half to worry as they will be enough in the bank to insure he and his family vs. want in their old age. This man is a plasterer by trade and only making $250 per wk. as the union don't allow him to work Mondays, Wednesdays, Friday, Sundays and holidays and only a 1-2 day Saturday. A. M. Well I might this man and the old lady, as he called his wife, set down and had a serious talk and begin to figure things out and found they was only laying $190 per wk. to I side and spending all the rest of it. In a few yrs. at that rate they would be living on the bounty of the county.

So this bird said to the wife, you have got to economize somewhere or ruin is staring us in the face as I can scripp up in my profession is $250 per wk. and we ain't saving only $190 of it and wife we are living in the lap of luxury, why suppose something should happen to me so as I couldn't plaster no more, where would you and the kids be at? So I propose that we start and run the house on the budget system.

A Ban on Luxuries. So the Mrs. who had never seen the insides of a college asked him what was the budget system. "Well," he says, "the word budget comes from 3 Lithuanian words bread and et and it means I will give you $10 per wk. to buy the food and clothes and pay the rent and washing and servants and etc. and I will take the other $140 and stick it in the old savings bank every wk. and in a few yrs. we can give the world the laugh even if I can't plaster or get plastered no more.

THE COWLICK.

The cowllick is a rebellious act on the part of a man's hair, and in many cases is harder to subdue than an outbreak of bibulous patriotism in Mexico.
While our great physicians and surgeons are able to do wonderful things with and to the human body, such as removing the stomach and allowing it to secure a well-earned rest, they are completely baffled by the Cowllick. Science is able to curb the hereditary mole, the canine wart and the roaming eyewinker, but in the face of a proud and determined Cowllick it is helpless. This teaches us that altogether too much reverence is paid to the medical profession in this country.
The Cowllick is caused by two or more hairs growing where there is standing room for only one. It begins to manifest itself in childhood and imparts a weird, depressed aspect to the photographs of our youth. When once a Cowllick has received a good start and has been nourished day by day with hair oil and dandruff ex-

BRINGING SOLOMON DOWN TO DATE

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS.
The International Sunday School Lesson for Sept. "The Glory of Solomon's Reign."
—1 Kings 10:1-13, 23-25.

Yonder goes a big red automobile. It is ostentatiously fitted up with musical instruments and trappings and huge monograms, all to make it "different." It is less a car in which to ride than a possession to display. It is meant to excite comment and envy and admiration. Behold, Solomon up to date! Who is the Queen of Sheba of whom this showy automobile will make conquest?
For the spirit of Solomon which was the primitive oriental spirit of extravagance and display, shines forth from the possession of a machine unlike that of this man's neighbors. It is the same sort of exaltation and self-glorification that binds ornate mansions and wears elaborate jewelry and keeps the multi-millionaire rich by providing original gowns for women who want to win the envious glances of their women.
Of course we have improved a bit upon Solomon, carrying self-adoration and self-glorification a step further, by means of the hired press-agent, who nowadays is indispensable to the "society leader" and the "big" business man.
What a bit Solomon would have made in New York, with all of its avenues of news-dissemination and publicity-promotion! Our first complaint upon this strangely-chosen lesson is that the persistence of vulgar pride and vainglory and display throughout the long centuries is a depressing fact with which all shapers of thought must reckon. The lesson of the twentieth century will be that the persistence of vulgar pride and vainglory and display throughout the long centuries is a depressing fact with which all shapers of thought must reckon.

so that she paid a price beyond the huge treasures she bore for her journey, by vast camel-train to the king of Israel. Then, as now, Arabia was turbulent; the Yeminites today are fighting the British; and an army of Bedouin attended her majesty on her way.
But what a visit she had! Let us hope that there were women-folk in the family back home to whom she could relate the wonders of her sojourn in Jerusalem. All the stories that had reached the distant capital of the Queen of Sheba concerning Solomon's splendor proved more than true. "The half had not been told."
In material state, as well as in personal wisdom, and in lavish hospitality the king of the Jews was more wonderful than report had represented him. There was no room for rivalry with him. He was king of the age.
Naturally, the heathen Queen of Sheba, in a land that has forever been essentially religious, gave Solomon's God credit, and admitted His superiority to her native gods. Jewish tradition has it that she became a proselyte to the religion of Jehovah.
It is as a parable that the Lesson has its greatest significance. When applied to a Greater man Solomon, it represents His munificence and riches, concerning which "The half has not been told." All who seek Jesus, find

Premier to Speak at Sherbrooke

Ottawa, Sept. 3.—The first public meeting in Quebec province at which Premier Meighen will speak will be held at Sherbrooke, it is understood, during the third week of September.

Manly Men Are Always in the Game.

The word budget comes from 2 Lithuanian words budg and et.

few yrs. he can quit work and not half to worry as they will be enough in the bank to insure he and his family vs. want in their old age.
This man is a plasterer by trade and only making $250 per wk. as the union don't allow him to work Mondays, Wednesdays, Friday, Sundays and holidays and only a 1-2 day Saturday A. M. Well I night this man and the old lady, as he called his wife, set down and had a serious talk and begin to figure things out and found they was only laying $190 per wk to 1 side and spending all the rest of it. In a few yrs. at that rate they would be living on the bounty of the county.
So this bird said to the wife, We have got to economize somewhere or ruin is staring us in the face as all I can scrip up in my profession is $250 per wk. and we ain't saving only $190 of it and while we are living in the lap of luxury, why suppose something should happen to me so as I couldn't plaster no more, where would you and the kiddies be at? So I propose that we start and run the house on the budget system.

A Ban on Luxuries.
So the Mrs. who hadn't never seen the inside of a college asked him what was the budget system.
"Well," he says, "the word budget was a hasty affair and was nearly anything at all. Besides, Billy was in for a good deal of that, he had managed most of his books during a long and simply couldn't find time to picture which he had had to do with a big budget. Certainly a bad beginning, but went on things showing of continuing in the time, however, Billy's sky lighted and he tackled his 24¢ and stick it in the old savings bank every wk. and in a few yrs. we can give the world the laugh even if I can't plaster or get plastered no more.

So his Mrs. was tickled to death and said let us try it beginning next Monday.

Well she set down with a paper and pencil and figured out that they had been throwing away pretty near $2.00 per wk. on luxuries that wasn't getting them nowhere and was dressing the children too heavy and they was all eating too much rich food and she read in the paper somewhere that it was a great saving of brains and time and money if the house wife would make out her bill of fare for the wk. on say, a Sunday night, so every Sunday night, instead of her going to a gambling hell, she would stay home and make out her menu card for the incoming wk. and after a couple wks. practice not only was she running the house on the $10.00 budget but she was laying a $1 a wk. aside for a rainy day to buy an umbrella.

Following is a typical expense list, that she made out for a wk.

Monday breakfast—Anchovies, ripe the quality of the goods in which they

Thursday they was all too sick to eat anything.
Friday breakfast—Butterfish, weakfish, school, halibut, sea bass. Friday luncheon—Brook trout, perch, whitefish, catfish, dogfish, whale meat, coffee and cigars, sherry. Friday dinner—Oysters, clams, crawfish, smelts, shrimps, redhubs, blue gills, hok, line and sinkers. Total expense $1.25.
Saturday breakfast—Talcum powder, porthouse, smothered onions, Long and black prairie dogs, snips, squash, quail, pheasant, Waterbury geese, bacon and eggs, soup and fish. Saturday luncheon—Robins, thrush, larks, bob-o-link, parrots, canaries, owl eyes, coffee and cigars. Saturday dinner—Sherry and eggs. Total expense $1.25.
Sunday breakfast—Ice cream, cold cream, vaseline. Cigars and coffee. Sunday dinner—Crackerjack, popcorn, peanuts, caramels, night supper—Belgian police dogs, Pomeranians, York-shire terriers, spaniels, mastiffs, Boston baked bulls, greyhounds, wolf hounds, airedales, setters, pointers, water and cigars, cognac. Total expense $1.25.
This left Mrs. Plasterer with $5.00 bucks per wk. to throw away on her and the kids as the husband could get along O. K. on his plasterer's uniform, so she decided that the best way to do would be to leave the kids run around bare and that left her $4.00 per wk. to buy shoes, or 1 pair a wk. and still leave her $1.00 to stick in the savings bank.
As for the clothes outside of the shoes and etc., my friend the plasterer's wife saved enough shells off of the sea food to keep her children in shell gowns as they was all near sighted, and she saved enough bones off of the fish to keep herself in corsets, and she saved enough fat off of the dogs to make herself a coat and enough feathers off of the birds to keep her in hats and enough leaves off of the lettuce and anchovies to make her dresses, and all and all it will take a whole lot of tough luck for this family to find themselves in the realms of poverty and I give the details to your readers in the hopes that they profit by it, as all person needs to beat the cost of living is a budget system and a thrifty wife.

deal, and about the stationery which they use, permit their letters to go out filled with grammatical errors and errors in punctuation.

THROUGH YOUR WINDOW.
If you stand before a mirror, you'll see all you see,
But get you to a window and you'll see your neighbors pass.
You will look on living creatures, each one happy in his place,
And catch a broader vision than is prisoned in your glass.
Oh, your mirror makes you selfish, but your window sets you free,
It shows you greater marvels than your hands shall ever do,
It tells you that you're living here in a glorious company,
And lets you catch a vision of the God who fashioned you.

Arabic Nights Fashion.
We must not be too hard upon Solomon. His times and his tendencies must be taken into account; this boastful picture of the Hebrew monarch in his posing and exaltation displays him not at his best but at his worst. He is simply the vain and strutting oriental potentate. It was and is the way of the East and its peoples to love magnificence and might and state and pomp. The man of power there surrounds himself with trappings of splendor. The Arabian Nights and the story of the Queen of Sheba's visit to Solomon are cut out of the same piece of cloth. Both are essentially of the East, eastern—though the new-rich "rotter"—goulish millionaire, they call him in Scandinavian—coarsely boasting of his wealth and purchases and possessions, is so thoroughly at one with them that a person wonders whether, after all, there are any geographical limitations to vanity and vulgarity.

Solomon was undoubtedly the foremost monarch of his generation. His personal sagacity built dazzlingly upon the solid foundations left him by his father David. His greatness filled the eye of his world. In his court, he possessed a wisdom in addition to the resplendent state of his court, he possessed a wisdom and intellectual brilliance and subtlety which appealed strongly to people who have ever honored wisdom.

An interesting echo of that fact is the prevalence throughout the Near East today of tales of Solomon's cunning and shrewdness, and even of his magical gifts; for the eastern folk associate him with jinn and spirits and other-world powers. All manner of grotesque and extravagant stories concerning Solomon are to be heard in oriental cafes and camps.

A King and a Builder.
Traces of Solomon's building may be found afar. He extended Israel to its widest borders. No one familiar with the region can withhold admiration from the king who ruled from the Red Sea to the Anti-Lebanon mountains. "Tadmor in the wilderness" and other-world powers. All manner of grotesque and extravagant stories concerning Solomon are to be heard in oriental cafes and camps.

By present standards, Solomon's splendor would be condemned as socially inequitable, being merely for his own glory, and not for the welfare of the people. All his buildings were at the cost and by the toll of the common folk who had cause to complain bitterly at the burdens they bore. Later, when Rehoboam came to the throne we get a glimpse from beneath of the magnificence of Solomon in the toll he took of his subjects.

"Her Majesty, the Queen."
History, however, was written in those days in terms of the common people; so we have at length the story of the impressions made by Solomon's glory upon another monarch, a woman, the Queen of Sheba, whose feminine and royal curiosity led her to cross Arabia to see for herself. The inter-royal visits of Europe before the war have ancient precedents.

And the Queen of Sheba, whose country was the hot and sandy land of spices near the lower Red Sea, which we now know as the Yemen, had a weary way to travel before she reached the city of Jerusalem. She had to go by camel—and I can testify that camel-riding is not like a trip in a private car or yacht. Moreover, the blazing sun of Arabia makes no distinction between royalty and camel.

COAL PRICES SHOW SIGNS OF COLLAPSE

Slump is Reaction from the Unbridled Manipulation of Past Months.

PROFITTEERS GOT ALL THEY COULD

Blame for Gouging is Laid at Door of the Independent Operators.

(Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger.)

By RICHARD SPILLANE.

Philadelphia, Sept. 3.—Somebody good at solving puzzles is here in America, for the coal problem. Here are some of its features: A few months ago there apparently was coal shortage everywhere on the continent. Here in America, where as much coal is mined as in nearly all the other nations combined, there was a shortage. Here in America, where the coal mines were producing more than enough to supply the needs of the continent, there was a shortage. Here in America, where the coal mines were producing more than enough to supply the needs of the continent, there was a shortage.

No Foreign Buying.

Today what do we see? A pronounced slump in coal prices and a sudden absence of export buying. Not only that, but the latter seems to be dropping out of the export market. What makes this latter feature peculiar is the fact that Great Britain is facing a general coal strike, which threatens not only to check its already limited exports but create a pronounced domestic shortage. Assuredly there has not been enough coal exported from America to cover the needs of the continent. The coal mines of the continent have been producing more than enough to supply the needs of the continent, there was a shortage.

There must be a great shortage in coal in the continent.

Slump in Reaction.

It is not unlikely the slump is a violent reaction from the unbridled manipulation to which the coal market was subjected, and which Attorney General Palmer now is investigating. The findings of the Federal Trade Board show some costs, including a fair measure of profit, were obtained, yet some operators have been charging all the way from $8 to $15 a ton at month of mine. To cover up manipulation there have been no end of "wash" sales. John sold to Jim and Jim to Tom, and Tom to Dick and Dick to Harry, and so on, each transaction at a higher price and each transaction with the intention of only to conceal profiteering. Some operators whose books would not bear scrutiny would not show them to the Federal Trade Board.

Break Coming.

At the same time the British shut down on exports in order to take care of their domestic needs and to supply their foreign customers, determined to buy in America and ship from America. British buyers dropped up suddenly in competition with the Americans, and it seemed to the mine operators that they had the world by the tail. Having a firm hold on the tail they pulled it and twisted it for the limit of profit. It didn't matter to them how much wrong they did to the public.

Break Coming.

A coal man who is well informed says the market is ripe for a while break and a goodly number of operators and wholesalers will welcome it.

Illustrative of what some profiteers have done the coal man in question says: "Take, for example, a wagon mbe getting out two cars of coal daily. The coal can be put on the cars easily for $3 to $4 and in some instances, for $2.50. For a month or two this staff has been selling for $12 to $15. Two cars means 100 tons daily, at a profit of approximately $10 per ton. In a word, this is a profit of about $1,000 per day to some pifers with picks and shovels."

Broadly speaking, the coal market

TUXIS BOYS AND TRAIL RANGERS

WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT SNAKES?

With the exception of rattlesnakes, none of the twenty-seven or so species, found in Canada, are poisonous and, such as they feed chiefly on insect pests and destructive rodents, they are far more useful to the farmer than most of us realize. The principal food are slugs, snails, insect larvae, beetles, crickets, grasshoppers, caterpillars, frogs, toads, small fish (suckers, catfish, etc.) cray-fish, gophers, meadow snakes, house mice and young rats, which accounts for the presence of snakes about barns and granaries. Small snakes are sometimes eaten by larger ones and some species eat rattlesnakes without suffering ill effects. The outer skin does not grow large along with the snake, therefore it must be replaced from time to time by one of more ample proportions. An adult snake sheds its skin three or four times in a season, while young, growing specimens require a new skin more frequently.

A snake's forked tongue is absolutely harmless, as also are the short backward-curving teeth. Located in the upper jaw of poisonous species are two long hollow fangs, which are connected with the poison glands, situated in the sides of the head. Near the point of each fang is a slit through which the poison is ejected into the wound. When not in use the fangs fold back against the roof of the mouth. If shed or broken, they are soon replaced. A venomous snake never strikes boldly at its victim and it is physically impossible for one to strike more than two-thirds of its length.

It is estimated that only two per cent. of the persons bitten by venomous North American snakes die as a result.

ST. JOHN-BOSTON TRAIN SERVICE

On and after Monday, Sept. 27, the day train between Vancouver and Boston, and vice versa, will be withdrawn.

has run wild. It ran wild at a time when our export opportunities were better than ever before. Many of the features that served to create a seemingly extraordinary demand were features—such as duplication or triplication of orders—and unstable, such as the effort of the British to fill orders from America while they were getting their domestic situation in order. As it today, America must appear to the foreign buyer in profiteering guise. Scarcity, this country got overhauled. It possibly could be produced of the distressed state and urgent need of the foreigner. That is not going to add to America's prestige abroad. That is not the way to build up an enduring export business.

Europe Must Be Short.

But even if not only the foreigner but the local buyer was exploited, it is not quite plain how the foreigners are going to get along with present coal supplies. The American exports for this year will be under 20,000,000 tons. Normally, Great Britain exports 10,000,000 tons. This year her coal production on the continent is low, much below normal. Despite the increased use of oil as fuel, the needs of shipping will be up to the average.

America needs and should have a big broad export coal trade. An enduring business can be built up on honest margin of profit, but never on such a profiteering basis as that of the last six months.

BOLSHEVIKI ENLIST AID OF SCIENCE

Gathering Russian Scientists Together to Help Them Solve Problem of Ruling.

(Copyright, 1920, by Cross-Atlantic.)

SIDNEY CAVE.

London, Sept. 3.—Soviet Russia is planning to take science into partnership and make the most modern scientific knowledge in all lines of the Bolsheviki government. To accomplish this they are furnishing laboratories, libraries and living quarters free to Russian scientists, on their agreement to make their discoveries available to this government, according to information which came to me today from Petrograd outlining the scheme.

Gerki in Charge.

The famous author, Maxim Gorki, one of the few Russian intellectuals to come to terms with the Bolsheviki, has been appointed administrator of the new Russian scientists' sanitarium at Petrograd. The government has turned over to him a magnificent place, formerly the home of Grand Duke Vladimir, on the banks of the Neva, opposite the celebrated Peter and Paul fortress and political prison.

Two Conditions Imposed.

The soviet impose two conditions on their scientist guests; first, they must abstain from counter-revolutionary propaganda, and, second, they must place the results of their research and services at the disposal of the communists.

Already ninety of the leading Russian scientists are housed there and the government is purchasing scientific apparatus and literature through out western Europe. The soviet have promised the scientists freedom from any trouble.

Synopsis.
Robert Hervey Randolph, who has in possession of the income of the Poppy Club for a year pending the finding of Miss Imogene Patricia Thornton, is thrown over by Miss Madge Van Teller, who wants the things big money buy and hints at getting her out of Beacher's.

On the way home he sees Tremont trying to force a girl to take a taxi ride with him and showing him out of the way taking the girl to his room, where he discovers she is the lost heiress to his ten thousand a year. He leaves her there and blames the driver of the taxi to change clothes and places with him. The next morning he reads the news and hears her name in the papers. He goes to her room to see the heiress and drops out of sight himself, working away as a taxi driver, known as "Miss Hervey." In this capacity he saves several people from themselves and hands them back on the straight and narrow path. All the time he is waiting for Madge to fall for Tremont and cue him to be called by her name, being sure to take her and himself to the wood house. Instead of taking them there, however, he stopped at Greenwood Cemetery and when Tremont got out of the cab he took her to the city with Madge, leaving her companion cursing him and wondering how he was to reach home again. In the meantime Pamela had been enjoying herself. First thing she had done was to have a hot bath and then to read for a good while. Next morning she was up at six o'clock and found her maid, Mrs. Milvins, had her of the fortune left her. Mrs. Milvins and her daughter, Elisea, called and the other tells Pamela she must have a female companion. The young lady looks at the suggestion and informs the world that Tomlinson is the only companion she intends to have. In this she is backed up by Elisea.

"So there you are," said Mr. Milvins to the very much excited Pamela. "We've got the fat and by a fluke entirely unaccounted for by the two slugs I have been pensioning in advance of their lifelong service. Robert is driving one of the sixty-three thousand tax-cabs that infest the streets of New York."

"Pamela," said Pamela, tears filling her eyes. "Then she dismissed Mr. Milvins, who would gladly have lingered. 'I have to go now. I'm so sorry, but thank you very, very much.'"

"Can't I drop you wherever you're going?" asked the very human mind of the leading legal authority on corporation and stock laws.

"Oh, Mr. Milvins," Pamela, translucent as love itself, "I shall go in taxi."

"How many vulgar vehicles for hire were blinded by the transient presence of Miss Thornton during the past seven hours a matter of gross malpractice and consequently be liable to the best of an intelligence than any other thing in the city."

"Oh, Mr. Milvins, this is Pamela and I've found him. . . . Yes; he's Robert Hervey Randolph. . . . No; he's gone away."

"Yes. He's going under the name of Slim Hervey and he was driving the Village Cab Company's No. 1893, and he smashed it on the curb just in front of that horrid Poppy Club, and when he saw me, he ran. . . . Oh, you will never believe it, won't you? Please hurry. And now, if you'll hang up, I have a few words to say to that new telephone girl of yours. . . . Oh, no; you needn't tell her. I can feel her sagging the wire. . . . Oh, will you? Oh, thank you! It isn't as if she didn't deserve it."

PART IV.
The Ascent to Mars.
When Mr. Robert Hervey Randolph, alias Slim Hervey, chauffeur, vice Patrick O'Reilly, ex-driver of the Village Cab Company's No. 1893, skidded that vehicle disastrously to the curb in front of the Poppy Club, and as a result of his criminal negligence, in conjunction with Miss Imogene Patricia Thornton's reprehensible pecking occupation, buried that young lady to the middle of the sidewalk on her hands and knees, he leaped from his seat on a spontaneous impulse to help her to her feet and administer every kind of first comfort that the occasion seemed to demand.

Two considerations, however, shot from the double-barreled blunderbuss of Ridicule and Honor, caught him on the wing, as it were, and deflected his flight from west to east with a shiftness due south at the corner of Fifty-seventh Street and Sixth Avenue. In the first place, out of the corner of his eye he had seen his one-time friends, Mr. Nearton, Mr. Verries and Mr. Berry descending the shallow club front steps in an attitude, in the second place, he suddenly recollected that Miss Thornton was an heiress, and that his present station and intent, as he had gathered from her own lines in various advertisements in the local press referring to the location of his person, on thanking an otherwise recompensing him for turning the right in a matter of ten thousand dollars a year, unearned increment.

As he gazed for one too brief seconds down into the pleading eyes and adorably eager face of this lovable vision on her hands and knees, which it seemed unbelievable he had once held in his arms, only the oft-repeated favorite poem of his nurse:

I could not love thee, dear, so much
Loved I honor more,
Keep him from facing the avalanche of ridicule and giving the eternally searching Diogenes with his lantern a run for his money. As previously stated, it was not to be. Mr. Randolph turned from the waiting arms of the sweetest temptation ever reneged by man and made his swift way to the sanctum of Mr. Tourke O'Shaughnessy, foreman-manager of the Village Cab Company.

"Tourke," said Mr. Randolph, "I'm through. Smaashed up the two off wheels of my wagon on the curb in front of the Poppy Club. Dock me thirty, please, and make me my pay-check."

"Through, Slim? Whadda ya mean?" said Mr. O'Shaughnessy. "Think I'm going to sack you for a skid on a day like this? Pay for your tax, kid, but three personal near-youths dashed down the steps of Poppy Club to the assistance of the loveliest trouble that had ever sent out an S. O. S. signal in the face of ready help to the falling, individually and collectively, they raised the curly-haired vision to its feet.

"It was Mr. Randolph," gasped the maiden, in evident distress, "and I've been looking for him for weeks."

"Not Bobby!" exclaimed Mr. Nearton. "Not Bobby!" ejaculated Mr. Verries. "Not Randy!" interjected Mr. Berry.

Pamela nodded three times, but her eyes failed to show wonder. Nowdays, everybody she ran into seemed to know everybody she knew by his first name.

"Excuse me," said Mr. Nearton, in an effort to get the first with a real mark-any remark; "does he owe you money, too?"

The effect was electrical. Miss Thornton assumed a freezing dignity. She fixed Mr. Nearton with steady eyes.

"How much does Mr. Randolph owe you?" she asked.

"Only tw-twent-y," bubbled Mr. Nearton.

"Well, here it is," said Pamela, drawing a yellowback from her chatelaine and thrusting it into Mr. Nearton's nerveless hand. "It happen to owe Mr. Randolph a great deal more than that?" Wherewith she turned to the girl but at the disappearing silver.

"William," said Mr. Verries sadly to Mr. Berry, "look at him! Took the cash as usual and let the credit go. The narcissist Mr. Nearton gazed not at the girl but at the disappearing silver."

Pamela was short of breath when she reached the telephone, but she managed to get Mr. Milvins' residence on the wire and learned that he was detained at the office. She called up that safe den of the would-be undisturbed and connected with a new strange drawl.

"You've got the wrong number, lady. This Mr. Milvins went home early to celebrate his silver wedding."

"Will you put me through to Mr. Borien Milvins," asked Pamela, in a sun-sweet voice, "or do you really want to start looking for another job?"

"How do I know you know him?—Miss Hurry, did you say? The office-boy ain't here, so I can't ask him. Leave me your number, and I'll have him call you."

"Kaow him!" gulped Pamela, in a rare. "Why, I've kissed him. . . . Kissed Mr. Milvins!" responded the voice, taking sudden notice. "Well, do you, why didn't you say so? I thought you was one of them high-brow dames. If it's a matter of kisses, the boss over the wire, why just you go to it. I won't listen—oh, no!"

And a moment later, Pamela, in a streamlining body:

"Oh, Mr. Milvins, this is Pamela and I've found him. . . . Yes; he's Robert Hervey Randolph. . . . No; he's gone away."

was entered simultaneously. The indictment charged and the petition for the writ alleged that the defendants on Jan. 1, 1917, conspired and have since continuously violated the Sherman law by restraining interstate trade and foreign commerce in grain, oil, lumber, coal and other commodities, and manufactured articles produced throughout the United States and in foreign countries.

BEING DELAYED

Boston, Sept. 3.—The five-masted schooner Jane Palmer, which put into this port July 20 in a leaky condition, while on a passage from Newport News for Buenos Aires, has been detained more than a month waiting for her coal to dry. The vessel's cargo consisted of 3,400 tons, which was unloading in order to permit necessary repairs. The coal was wet and it was decided to wait until it dried before re-loading. Yesterday the schooner was towed to an anchorage in the lower harbor, where it will remain until the cargo is in condition to be put into the hold.

FOREIGN COMMERCE

Heavy increase in Boston's foreign commerce and also in the passenger business of the port is shown in the statistics for August, which have just been compiled by the customs officials. During August 122 vessels arrived from foreign ports, including 101 steamers and 21 schooners. For the corresponding month last year, 77 vessels arrived from foreign ports, of which 62 were steamers, 3 barkes, 10 schooners and one barge.

AROUND THE CITY

SPECIALS SWORN IN. Eighteen special constables were sworn in yesterday afternoon for duty at the exhibition grounds.

CIVIC PAY DAY. On account of Monday being a holiday, the civic employees will be paid at 1 o'clock today.

STREET CAR DERAILED. Yesterday morning one of the Fairville street cars jumped the track at the junction point and the entire car was blocked for about three quarters of an hour.

BOSTON EXPRESS LATE. The Boston train was over an hour late, arriving in the city about 1:10 this morning, and the Halifax train did not wait for her, but proceeded out on time, according to orders recently issued whereby the Halifax is not to wait for the Boston when the latter is over thirty minutes late.

THE NORTHERN LIGHTS. The Northern Lights were quite active last night, and as they blazed and burned with their bursts of burning colors caused much pleasure to lovers of the beautiful in nature who observed the phenomena.

JUMPED THE RAILS. One of the East St. John street cars ran off the track at the corner of King Square and Charlotte street shortly before seven o'clock last evening and held up traffic for a short while before the crew were able to get it back on again.

THE ROBBERY. No arrests have yet been made in connection with the robbery late Thursday night when a car loaded with money standing on a siding near the Three Mile House, was broken into and four tires taken off the car. The C. N. R. detective department are working on the case.

THE PARKING PLACE. Special arrangements have been made for the convenience of motorists attending the big fair at the Exhibition grounds, parking space has been secured on Broad street. From Car park in the centre of the street, from Carmarthen to Sydney they are to park on both sides of the street and with their rear wheels against the curb.

PROBATE COURT. In the matter of the estate of Patrick J. Milin, who died intestate, personality $500, his widow, Annie Milin, was appointed administratrix, S. A. M. Skinner was proctor.

Hon. R. W. Wigmore Left For St. John. Word was received from Ottawa last night that Hon. R. W. Wigmore, minister of customs, left yesterday for St. John, to be present at the opening of the exhibition on Monday. Unless the unexpected happens the event will prove to be an acclamation, and the new minister will be able to return to his duties at the capital without a contest.

SPECIALS FOR EXHIBITION WEEK. Eighteen special constables are to be sworn in by the police magistrate this morning to do duty in and about the Exhibition grounds during the time the big fair is on. Twelve have already taken the oath, making a special force of thirty who will be on duty next week.

THE VACCINATION CLINIC CLOSED. The free vaccination clinic which has been held at the Board of Health rooms for the last three weeks was open for the last time yesterday until school starts. Over three hundred children have attended and the majority have received the certificate of a successful vaccination without which they will not be admitted to the schools when they open Tuesday. The clinic will probably be held again next week, and those children who have not already attended will be required to undergo vaccination before they may take up their studies.

Thousands Present At O'Connell's Picnic

St. John Youngsters Had Very Pleasant Outing at Rockwood — "Orphans' Friend" Delighted.

Friday has always been considered an unlucky day, but the kiddies of St. John will never think so again, because, after three postponements, J. D. O'Connell's picnic, the event that they have been looking forward to for weeks, materialized yesterday.

Though it was primarily for the children, there were probably as many grown-ups at Rockwood Park as there were kiddies. All roads led to the Park, and it is estimated that between five and six thousand took part in the festivities and received of the beneficence of the large-hearted Mr. O'Connell. Many of the grown-ups cast aside all thoughts of age and entered into the spirit of the picnic with all the abandon of youth, while on all sides could be seen many a wistful look, and there was hardly a one who did not long to be a child again.

Taken in Automobiles. The children from the institutions were brought to King Square, and from there they were dispatched in cars to the picnic grounds. Cars were provided by the Rotary Club and members of the New Brunswick Automobile Association, and other citizens also generously provided their cars and assisted in transporting the children to the grounds. Even at that there were not enough cars, and two or three trips had to be made. Mayor Schofield was in charge of the ceremonies at the Square, and he was ably assisted by R. D. Paterson, Fred Barbour, Fred Elkin, and others. There were a large number of interested spectators present, and many comments were heard on Mr. O'Connell's generosity.

Reached the Grounds. As soon as the children reached the grounds, the orphans and the children in charge of social workers marched up to the platform and were given their treat, while each was given a crisp, new twenty-five cent script and five new Canadian pennies. Then all the other boys and girls formed in line and passing through a lane on either side of the platform each received a bag of peanuts, some cake and a box of candy and fruit. This occupied practically all the afternoon, and during the whole proceedings a constant stream of pennies being thrown to the children. Thousands and thousands were given away—in fact, one prominent banker who was assisting said that he never threw away so much money in his life before. Every boy had at least ten pennies, while some of the older ones who were the more persistent captured ten times that many.

Address by Mayor. Before the picnic closed, Mayor Schofield addressed the boys and girls briefly. He told them that Mr. O'Connell had come to St. John at great expense to himself, and had given this picnic just to make the kiddies of this city happy. He sincerely hoped that they would appreciate to the full what Mr. O'Connell in the kindness of his heart had done for them. He then called for three cheers for Mr. O'Connell. This was a very signal for demonstration, and the evident sincerity of it must have touched Mr. O'Connell and told him that his kindness was appreciated. A movie operator was on hand all the afternoon and filmed the picnic at different stages. Panoramic pictures were also taken. Mr. O'Connell is presenting a film to the city, and he will also present one of the panoramic pictures to the different institutions. While Mr. O'Connell directed all the proceedings, he was ably assisted by a large number of assistants, who distributed the gifts Mr. O'Connell provided, and to whose unselfish work the success of the picnic is in some measure due.

MEMBERS OF THE RED CROSS. All members of the Red Cross for both city and province, will be most heartily welcomed at the Red Cross Booth at the Exhibition. Officers will be on hand in both departments, on the grounds and upstairs in the main building to give information or show the exhibit to visiting members.

E. E. PUDDINGTON HAD HEAVY LOSS. The many friends of E. E. Puddington in St. John and Kings County, and elsewhere sincerely sympathize with him in his heavy loss by the electrical storm on Sept. 1, in which he lost his valuable horse, five cows, barn, hay of both places, a new lumber wagon, and a quantity of other things, pigsty, wood-house, etc., and not any insurance, which is to be much regretted, as Mr. Puddington has been in such poor health for a number of years. But it is understood his kind friends in surrounding districts did splendid, strenuous work in saving his dwelling house.

Big Seizure Of Liquors

Chief Inspector Wilson Reports That 49 Barrels Were Seized at St. Hilaire.

Chief Inspector Wilson reported to the Standard yesterday another seizure of liquor, made by Sub-Inspector Dagle at St. Hilaire, Madawaska county. There were 49 barrels in the lot, all billed to A. Cyr, St. Hilaire, and shipped from Montreal. The goods, it is learned, were intended for parched throats in the State of Maine, and the distributing centre was to have been Presque Isle, when the big Maine fair takes place next week.

St. Hilaire is a very convenient spot on the St. John river when liquors and other goods that smugglers are wont to rush across the river to Arrowscook county, are frequently sent. It has been a rendezvous for run rangers during the summer, but the last seizure will make it less popular in the future, according to Mr. Wilson's view. In the lot seized there were 12 barrels of alcohol, or one hundred and fifty-four gallons; six barrels of rye whiskey, or 540 quart bottles (Vancouver); eleven barrels of Scotch whiskey, six barrels of brandy and fourteen barrels of gin.

Instead of following the thirt of State of Maine the liquor would find a home in the storage room at Fredericton.

KNOCKED DOWN BY STREET CAR

John Gillen, Elderly Man Residing on Smyth Street, Was Injured Last Evening on Mill Street Crossing.

John Gillen, 76 years old, living at 59 Smyth street, was struck and knocked down by street car No. 106 when he was crossing the Mill street in front of the car at 8:40 o'clock last evening. Mr. Gillen was picked up and taken to O'Hara's barber shop, where he was attended by a nurse who was called to cut his hands. These were dressed and the aged man was taken to his home. The victim of the accident said that the motorman of the car was in no way responsible, as he had heard the warning bell and had crossed directly in the path of the car. Witnesses of the accident afterwards stated that the motorman was applying his brakes that Mr. Gillen was saved from being struck soundly by the car, instead of only receiving a glancing blow.

HANDSOME BOOTH OF MURRAY & GREGORY, LTD. IS THE FINEST AT THE BIG FAIR

Beautiful "Tacoma" Bungalow designed by The Canadian Aladdin Co. and built by Murray & Gregory, Ltd., to show how easily and reasonably you may build your own home. What is easily the finest booth at the exhibition, that of Messrs. Murray & Gregory, Ltd., takes the form of a beautiful bungalow, of the "Tacoma" design, built by the Murray & Gregory people, planned by the Canadian Aladdin Company whose rental houses are so largely favored by home-builders. The object of the exhibit is to demonstrate how easily and reasonably one may build and own a pretty, comfortable home that is continuously paying rent. A particularly effective feature is the tasteful employment of art and bevelled plate glass from the firm's own factory. The building, which is constructed with a full sized front, differs to some extent from the Aladdin houses in being suited to a comparatively narrow lot, a 35 foot lot being all that is necessary to fit the booth.

The verandah, under the main roof, with battlement railing, readily screened in if desired, sheltered on two sides from the sun, and is a welcome and shelter to the arriving guest and, supplied with porch chairs and hammock, is an important feature of this bungalow. The weather vane on the front door is an exquisitely designed and beautifully executed panel of wheel-cut glass. The top and side panels of the window overlooking the verandah are artistically fashioned of bevelled plate glass set in copper.

The large airy diningroom, with its delicately tinted Beaver Board walls and ceiling is amply lighted from the front by four large windows with upper panels of richly colored art glass also from the Murray & Gregory factory. A polished oak mantel, with fireplace, completes the cosy, "homey" effect. The entire bungalow, which will be brilliantly lighted at night, is attractive and inviting throughout. For the benefit of those contemplating the erection of a home, Mr. Murray, architect of the Canadian Aladdin Co. is present at the booth, and will gladly offer suggestions as to plans. Mr. Robertson of the Standard and Pat. Co. is in attendance to assist and will be pleased to discuss color schemes, exterior and interior finishes.

Another attractive feature of the Murray & Gregory booth is a model of the "Zouli" Metal Store Front which is rendered absolutely waterproof by means of copper corners, tops and sides. The sides of the window being shown in both copper and slate. The tops of the windows are of prismatic glass which furnishes additional light to the store.

The Murray & Gregory booth, which forms one of the most interesting features of the big fair, is well worthy of careful inspection.

Estimates of Province's Crop

Government Experts State 1920 Crop Below Last Year and About Average of Other Years.

Estimates of the province's crop this year were made by the Standard yesterday from several government experts, they state that the 1920 crop in general is somewhat below that of last year, and about an average crop compared with other years.

Hay and Grain. The hay crop is below the average, with a shortage of twenty per cent. in the northern parts of the province. In Kings, Westmorland and Albert counties the crop is a fair one, but does not compare with the bumper crop of last year. The grain crop in all parts of the province is looking exceedingly well, and is superior to that of last year. Potatoes enjoyed a good growing season and look very promising. Some sections have been affected by rust, but there has been no rot as yet, although the recent spell of wet weather may have had effect.

Shortage of Fertilizer. Notwithstanding the flourishing appearance of the potato crop, it is claimed, that it will be forty per cent below that of last year. The shortage is due to the fact that the farmers did not get in for potato growing as extensively this year as last, the smaller acreage being caused by a shortage of fertilizer and the high price of seed. In addition to this, the seed failed to germinate; this also occurred in the neighboring counties of Maine where potato raising is carried on extensively. The failure of the seed is said to have been due to a period of dry weather which followed seeding time and prevented the fertilizer from dissolving so that it had a detrimental rather than beneficial effect on the seed. This year's apple crop is only sixty per cent. that of last year, but is of a superior quality. It will give a yield of about 30,000 barrels. The shrinkage occurs chiefly in the winter varieties, a large number of the trees having been killed.

The Apple Crop. In speaking of the apple crop the expert said that apple raising was receiving more attention in the province each year, and large orchards were beginning to yield, especially those on the St. John river from Gagetown to Fredericton, and in Westmorland and Albert counties. He said there were several large orchards in those sections, and that the Welling orchard outside of Shediac would produce over two thousand barrels this year. The apple output of this province is far below that of Nova Scotia, where this year's crop is estimated at from eight to nine hundred thousand barrels, but in point of quality it compares very favorably with it. Pippins North Star and Duncans are said to be better of cleaner apples, although Nova Scotia still lead in Gravensteins.
