DOWN ON FOOD TAXES.

Cape Town, Oct. 12.-A large public mass meeting was held here Friday evening to protest against the imposition of duties upon articles of food. After the meeting a crowd of 3,000 men, bearing torches, marched in procession to the residence of Sir J. G. Jordan Sprigg, Prime Minister and Treasurer of Cape Colony, to whom their spokesman stated the ob ject of their coming. The Premier addressed the crowd, saying it would be mpossible to abolish the duties im mediately, owing to the fact that the onvention with the Orange Free State required one year's notice of its abrogation.

One of the leaders of the crowd openly declared that the reply of the Premier was evasive, and another called attention to the crowd outside the grounds of the Premier's residence, who, he said, were ready to fight unless relief should be forth-The Premier deprecated any resort

PETROLEA VS. LONDON. At Tecumseh Park Saturday after-noon the London and Petrolea Juniors played Rugby football, with the result that the home team were beaten by a score of 7 to 2. A game was to have been played between the Seniors also, out the Petrolea team defaulted. At 3:30 the game between the Juniors At 3:30 the game between the Juniors commenced, and it was apparent at the the visitors were too ning and Wilmot cannot agree upon heavy for the local team. All the players were supposed to be under 20 years of age, but many sympathizers the three with the Londons expressed grave doubts as to the qualifications of some of the visitors. In the first half the Petroleas were favored with the wind, and succeeded in scoring 6 points, while the Londons made only 1. After half time London, with the advantage the wind, scored another point, and held their opponents down to the same number. Russell Screaton, in a tackle with Scott, of the Petroleas, sprained his ankle near the commencement of the game, but stayed in the field until the second half was started, when he had to retire. J. Collins was laid off at the same time by the visitors. Shortly after Screaton gave in a swift kick raised the ball into R. Hueston's face, scraping it badly. He had to quit the field. Fred Macfie played a brilliant game. His tackles were fearless and very successful. Hobbs and Reid also did particularly good work. For the visitors the work of Scott was notable.

The London players were: Back,

AT THE ASYLUM. The City Association Football League game that was scheduled for Saturday on the Asylum grounds be-tween the Asylum and Collegiate Institute clubs was defaulted by the latter on account of their withdrawal from the league, but to prevent disappointment to the Asylum players the Collegiate Institute team was on hand at 3 o'clock and offered to play practice match, which offer was heartily accepted and greatly appreciated by the Asylum men. The score at the close of the game was 11 to 0 favor of the instituters, who during the afternoon put up some football as fine as anyone could desire. Their team work as a whole was excellent, and some of the individual play was of high order, Mr. Byant, of Glad-stone, and Mr. Downing, of Dela-ware, doing great service. As a club, they would be a credit to any city, and to find a team to beat them in Canada one would have to do some pretty tall searching. A PROTESTED GAME.

The first games of the City Association football series were played on Saturday, the chief one being between the Western University and the Wolseley Barracks teams. The result was satisfactory to neither side, though the match was holly contested to the last. 'Varsity scored the first goal in about 20 minutes, by a high kick which sent the ball through the goal keeper's fingers. Very soon afterwards a play occurred on which 'Varsity now hangs a protest. One of the Varsity forwards again sent the ball Through the posts from the front. The referee called a foul on the ground that it was an off-side play. This the 'Varsity boys denied, and the game proceeded under protest. Sergt. Dunevy was acting referee in the absence of the official referee, who arrived late. 'Varsity wished the latter to act after the first half, but Capt. Hall, of the Barracks team, objected.

In the second half Hall scored the Barracks' first goal, after an exciting scrimmage in front of the posts. Time was called at 4:40 p.m.

The referee declared the game a tie-1 to 1. The 'Varsity boys claim th victory by a score of 2 to 1, and will appeal through the regular channels against the referee's decision. The arracks' eleven were much the heavier, and the 'Varsity boys complain edcoats again for fear of broken ones. The Barracks' men say that they could have claimed the game Konie 2, from the first, because 'Varsity was 2:17 3-4. 40 minutes late in arriving. The officials and teams were:

Reed, the American expert, says it was the silver agitation which forced him to abandon his match with Jordan, of Edinburgh, his backers being unable to raise the money they had promised him. In any case, he adds, he had intended to give up playing after the match, no matter how it resulted. Even Reed's friends are not satisfied with the explanation.

Mr. Ferrie gave an exhibition at the Bridgeton Club, Glasgow, recently. He played 41 games, of which he won 26, lost 2, and drew 13. At the single board he lost one to the blind player, W. K. Campbell. Then he played 12 games simultaneously, and was defeated in one of them, P. Hughes be-

The World's Supply of These Great Staples.

Large Decrease in This Year's Crop Grain,

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—A report received at the State Department from Consul Germain, stationed at Zurich, gives the estimates of the world's sugar crop for the season of woted to sugar interests. The estimate places the crop at 7,069,756 tons, against 8,208,361 tons for the previous season. In the estimate the beet sugar producing countries, excluding the United States participated be 1,331,306 tons, as against 1,500,413 tons last year this time.

THE WORLD'S WHEAT. tics of the world's wheat harvest of 1896. His figures show that in general the harvest of this year decreased The harvest in the United States, Canada, Argentine, Uruguay, Chili, Australia and the East Indies show a decrease of 165,392,959 bushels.

Of the European producing countries Russia only shows a large decrease of 56,575,467 bushels. The countries of consumption harvested 37,-205,123 bushels more than last year. The rye harvest shows a still greater decrease proportionately, it being estimated at 154,765,714 bushels.

A decrease in oats and barley is also noticeable, but not to so great an extent. The exports of cereals from Russia during the first eight months of 1896 show a big decrease compared with the preceding year, being 192,440,651 bushels, as against 241,254,578 bushels.

A LUCKY SURPRISE. "Talking of surprises," said the oldest man in the company, a 49r, with a fine head of gray hair and a patriarchal beard, "I remember one that was one of the most welcome I ever was jeopardized by its absence. It was like this: "We were a party of min-ers from the States-four of us-and we had left everything we needed in a camping outfit that had gone to our destination by another route, when we stopped for the night on the bank of the Feather River. "There was a stream of running water there, ice cold, that came down from the Sierra Nevada Mountains, and I was delighted to wash the dishes in it after supper. Now, supper didn't mean much variety of grub in those days. There were no canned goods, and our stores were of the lowest just then, for we had been for a long time on the trail.

"Washing a few tin dishes was not much of a chore, but the one who was dishwasher for the camp often First race, 5 furlongs-Paramount 1, struck it rich for all hands and the With one eye on the dishes I kept the other on the sand at the bottom of the stream."

"Looking for gold?" "You're right, pard; looking for gold. And that night as I stared into the "A nugget?"

"Naw, a fish. A beautiful, speckled sparkling mountain trout that played about as if just asking me to catch "Was that your surprise?" "Wait a little bit just. The boys came tearing down from the camp, and says I, Get me a grass hopper and a cord off some of our bundles, and put the pan over the coals, for I have a New York hunger for fish this blessed minute.' "'Where's your hook?' says one of the boys.

"'Bend a pin,' says I, and with that he did, and put a fat grasshopper on, and I scooped that fish in before you could wink an eye. And, gentlemen, when I came to dress that hishand this isn't any fairy story, either—I found as neat a fishhook in its interior as you ever saw. And the interior as you ever saw. And the frost, etc. Besides these daily forest, etc. Besides these daily forest, etc. "Gentlemen," said the old miner, with a look of reproach, "that is another story."—Detroit Free Press.

Plenty of Information for the Superstitious.

Lucky and Unlucky Days Set Forth With Great Minuteness.

Almanacs that profess to tell us the Almanacs that profess to tell us the weather on particular days, a year or so ahead of time, although they still appear, are not so numerous as they were formerly. They are relics of the old astrological prophetic almanacs of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, which were in great vogue and which ventured on the most remarkable predictions. M. Gaston Tissandier, editor of La Nature, contributes to that paper a description of some of these curious old almanacs, of of these curious old almanacs, of which he has a large collection. We translate from his account the para- 6, con. 11; G. K. Easton, $6, for cleantranslate from his account the paragraph that follows:
"Before the invention of the barometer and the thermometer, which are the basis of meteorology, there could be no question of weather predictions; prophetic almanacs existed none the less, but their authors confined themselves to speaking of the infined themselves to speaking of the influence of the planets or of the signs of the zodiac; they also spoke of the character of the individuals who 1895-96, as calculated by a paper de- should be born in such and such a

The "tree and branches of the vices' noted above, is given at length in the book, a page being devoted to each vice. Afterward are enumerated the punishments awarded to each in hell, purported to be described according to Lazarus. We give a specimen: "'First,' says Lazarus, 'I saw wheels of iron, very high, placed on a mountain like unto mills, continually turning with great impetus; these wheels a division of time, and a rule which shepherds may use according as weather and season require." One of those salutary rules runs as follows: "Rule for spring: March, April and May. In the spring shepherds should see that they are clad in habiliments neither too cold nor too warm, such as tartan and doublets of fustianrobes of medium length."

The book next proceeds to describe the various planets, and the charac-teristics of the persons who are born

"He who is born under the sign Taurus, or from mid-April to mid-May, will be very hardy and will possess wealth given by another. What he wishes to do will be accomplished,

This sort of thing, which is yet to be found in more than one popular almanac, is, according to M. Tissandier, extremely ancient, and goes back to "the earliest periods of history, to the origin of nations." But weather-prediction, enlarged the sphere of the prophets, and they now began to foretell not only weather but all kinds of things. As an example is cited "The Faithful Almanac," pub-lished in 1781 at Troyes by the Sieur Maribas, "astrologer and mathematician." Says M. Tissandier: "A special page was devoted to practical advice and good council, and to receipts, corresponding to each day of the year. We read, for example: "Pentecost, June 8, Trinity, June 9 -Good to cut the nails. 'Septuagesima, Feb. 11-Very good to bleed. "'Ash Wednesday, Feb. 28-Good to use the cupping-glass.

"'Pentecost, June 8—Good to do up the hair."

casts, the almanac published general predictions for the four seasons. "Another curious prophetic almanac of the 17th century is the following: on the second monday willie, Clerk. 'Almanac for the year of grace 1686, by M. Claude Ternet-Champenois Paris, published by the widow Nicholas Oudet, Rue Veille Boucherie.' Each day in the almanac is accompanied by a meteorologic prediction and a prophecy. . . Sometimes the predictions are replaced by prophecies of quite another kind, such as he following: "'March 12—Thieves pursued.

"'March 20—Good news.
"'March 27—Lawsuit won

" May 18—An unfaithful wife.
" June 16—Severe illness.
" July 22—Hidden treasures found. "'Sept. 26-A ridiculous oration. "Such naviete is surprising, and considerable dose of credulity must have been taken by the reader who would accept such predictions; the author apparently wrote them haphazard as his fancy dictated.

"But we must not make too much fun of our ancestors. In the year of grace 1891 there were still prophetic almanacs that found publishers—and numerous purchasers.
"Common sense and sound reason have always regions to conquer."

JOKE ON PROF. BLACKIE. St. Louis Republic.

The late Prof. Blackie used to rewith great gusto the following story against himself. As everyone knows, the genial old professor used to be a picturesque and striking figure in the streets of modern Athens. A wiry-framed old patriarch, with strikingly-handsome features, and long hair that fell in ringlets about his shoulders, no one once having seen him could forget him. Passing along one of the principal Edinburgh streets, he was accosted one day by a very dirty little street-gamin with: "Shine for a girls' home by simply i your boots, sir?"
The urchin was very imperative, and the professor, being impressed, with volition sympathetically atl the extreme filthiness of the boy's face, remarked: "I don't want a shine, my lad, but who in turn operate upon if you go and wash your face I'll give "A' right, sir," was the lad's reply, and, going over to an adjacent fountain, he made his ablution. Return-ing, he held out his hand for the nition of evolution. money.

shows a Scratch On His Hand to Provi the Truth of His Story.

A Superior, Wis., telegram says That there are panthers in the forests of North Wisconsin has now been set-tied beyond a doubt. The hair-raising cry of this dreaded beast has been heard by hunters and woodsmen frequently during the past two years ac-cording to reports, but it has always been difficult to convince people that the cries heard were not those of some other beast or bird, as no on had, until yesterday, come in contact with one of the animals, and it was generally believed that they were ex-

Yesterday a settler named John Henderson, living upon a claim out in the woods, seven miles from Maple Station, on the Northern Pacific road, while hunting partridges and other game in the thickest of a dense pine forest, had an adventure which prov-ed beyond doubt that there is a least one panther in this section. Hender-son was walking about 200 eet in advance of his companion, sparated from his view by the closely custered trees and thick tangled unerbrush, when a piercing shriek, not wike that of a woman in distress, ren the air. WHAT IT MEANS

London is learning it. Learning it fast. Proof not lacking. Everybody has it. That tired feeling. Don't know what it means. T Keeps you awake at night. Destroys daily comfort. Wearies the body, worries the mind. You would shake it off. You would be healthful and strong. So you can. If you get at it right. First learn what it means. Some say it is bad blood. Others say it is a lazy liver.

They're all wrong. Tired feeling means tired kidneys. And backache means kidney ache. How do we know it? Because Doan's Kidney Pills cure it. And they are for kidneys only. How can we prove it? Because London people say sc.

Here is a case in point: Perhaps you don't know Mrs. Chas. Cooper, of 93 Horton street, London, Ont., and perhaps you do. That is neither here nor there in what we have to tell. This is the story as she tells it. It is worth reading: "For ten years I have been troubled backache and pain in the right side. Have been growing worse, and suffered very much from dizziness and general debility. I became exceedingly nervous, completely tired out, had no appetite, and could not get rest because of pain in my back and other kidney troubles. At times I was almost doubled up with the excruciating pain and could get no relief. 'My husband got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills from Strong's drug store, and from the time I first commenced taking them the improvement in my health was rapid and constant. I am very decidedly better and stronger in every way. They have removed my back and side trouble, and my appetite is good. I sleep well and am rested. My nervousness is almost entirely gone. I must say that the change for the better is remarkable."

"Washing made graceful."

(After a sketch in New York Truth.)
We want to show it, because this seems to be a woman who uses Pearline (use with-). She's doing no work to speak of, you seeshe doesn't look as if she ever had to. She appears to be rinsing out the clothes, after letting them soak in Pearline (no soap) and water, which is about all the labor required.

The washboard we don't understand unless she's washing it. Women who use Pearline (use with-out soap) don't need a washboard. They don't have that tiresome, wearing rubbing over it. But for cleaning washboards or wood work or paint or anything of the kind, then they want Pearline. Washing can't be made graceful unless it is made easy. Of all the ways of washing that are perfectly harmless, the easiest, quickest, most economical, is with Pearline.

The Liberal Leadership.

The resignation of Lord Rosebery as liberal leader in Great Britain has not caused the sensation which its announcement would have created if a general election had been impending. There is plenty of time between now and next general election for the British Liberals to consider the whole situation and get the party into the best fighting position both in the House of Commons and in the country. The probability is that meanwhile Sir William Vernon Harcourt, who has been leader of the Liberals in the House of Commons since Mr. Gladstone's retirement from public life, will become leader of the party. But he is 70 years of age, troubled with poor eyesight, and otherwise not in the best of health, though a giant mentally and one of the best debaters in Parliament. The probable coming man is Hon. Mr. Asquith. He is young, a man of great ability, a speaker of the first rank, and in easy circum-

Mr. Asquith will be Prime Minister of Great Britain in the near future, of all portents mislead.

Says the Toronto Week: "Be their stay in Canada long or short, Lord and Lady Aberdeen will always be kindly emembered by those with whom they came in contact during this tour."

A Fat Office Vacant.

The late Honorable and Most Rev. Edward White Benson, D.D., Archbishop of Canterbury and Primate of All England, whose sudden death in Hawarden Parish Church, yesterday, is chronicled in our cablegrams, was probably the highest paid clergyman in the world. He had an income of $75,000 a year, with two official residences-Lambeth Palace, S. E., and Addington Park, Croydon. The Archbishop of York and the Bishop of London have each $50,000 a year, and a palace to live in. The average Eng-Msh bishop enjoys a stipend of $25,000 per annum. Neither the First Lord of the Treasury, nor the Lord Chancellor, receive as much remuneration for their services as does the Archbishop of Canterbury. The First Lord naid $25,000 and the Lord Chancel-selves. It will be interesting to note who will receive appointment to the vacant archbishopric. The office is the gift | blessedness, all opposition to their of the crown, which means that Lord Salisbury will nominate the lucky man, Mr. Gladstone was Premier when Dr. Benson was elevated.

Cause of Typhoid Fever. The dangers arising from an impure water supply are strongly emphasized by the Indiana State Board of Health, which has been investigating a remarkable condition of affairs at Rock Lane, where 75 per cent of he population have suffered at some ime during the last year from typhoid. It was found that all those sho had been ill had been attendants at the Rock Lane Church, where there s a well, from which the worshipers have been in the habit of drinking. A microscopical examination of the waer from this well shows it full of pacteria, and a chemical analysis shows the water to be badly polluted. The well has been condemned and

It is safe to say that a large proportion of the typhoid fever outbreaks in rural districts could be traced to similar cases. Pure water for man and beast cannot too strongly be insisted on, or at all events, as pure as it can be made by keeping it free from contaminating substances.

SOME QUEER DOINGS. Not long after the election the Fredericton (N. B.) Herald published the

To the Agent of the Conservatives at Chipman:
Dear Sir,—Mr. —— is on your voters' list; he voted for Mr. Wilmot here. Let him vote at Chipman. He will show you his ballot, and you can, after seeing his ballot, use him well. Yours truly. (Signed) Fred St. J. Bliss.

Mr. Bliss was an active worker for Ar. Wilmot, and, seemingly, he had his own ideas of how to conduct a sampaign on lines of electoral honesty and purity. The authenticity of the letter has never been questioned in the press. Now, the Herald publishes a letter which is even more characterisof the methods of these men:

It is perhaps hardly necessary, remarks the St. John Globe, to say that Mr. Dunn is a leader in the Conservative party. He was one of Mr. J. D. Hazen's lieutenants in the St. John and he was very promincampaign, and he was very promin-ent in the Queens election. Is comment

Strange Reason Attributed for Lord Rosebery's Resignation -- A Woman in the

The Czar's Tact - The New Triple Alliance-Growls From Germany - The Occupation of Egypt-Ireland in Hard Luck.

Rosebery's resignation of the Liberal leadership is the topic of the hour. A correspondent cables as follows: Paradoxical though it is, Lord Rosebery's resignation has given him a power and force in his party greater than it has been at any moment before since he came into the Premiership. His speech at Edinburgh confirms his renewed leadership, except that he obviously will be the actual leader hereafter, whoever may be the nom-inal leader of the party, instead of occupying the disputed, anxious, in-effective position he has heretofore held. His extraordinary statement of the obstacles by which he has been opposed within his own ranks not only explains his half-humorous cynicism of the past two years, but is a revelation of inside politics, unprecedent-ed, probably, in English history. But the exposition he makes of his views on the Armenian question puts him in a night in the position of the leading statesman of Great Britain. He spoke two hours, and it was probably the greatest speech he ever made. In its dealings with personal questions Rosebery placed great stress upon the horrors of war, and little upon its glories and righteousness the cause is righteous.

IS THERE A WOMAN IN THE CASE?

One cannot well leave this subject some reference to the strange reason for Lord Roseresignation assigned in quarters which are often well inin such matters, although possibly it is not more than a re-vival of an old report. It is that the resignation is connected with his lordship's matrimonial intentions. It will be remembered that rumor persistently connected Lord Rosebery's name with that of one of the Prince of Wales' daughters, since happly married. Now it is declared that a mistake was then made, and that the lady whose hand the noble earl had ventured to ask in marriage was actually the Prince's daughter Vic-toria. The story goes that the Prince did not regard the match with much disfavor, but that it had to be abandoned in consequence of opposition from a higher quarter. That is to say, the Queen disapproved. The lady, although 28 years old, remains unmarried, and the earl is still the est preserved unmarried peer in the matrimoniai mart; but according to the report referred to they will not much longer remain in single union having been removed on condiactive participation in politics. Another version, not widely different from the foregoing, names the Ger-world is asking, in calmer mood, "What is the meaning of all the noise and splendor of the past week?" If one should point out that England was swept by storm and rain, while Paris rejoiced under smilling skies Paris rejoiced under smiling skies during the three days of the Czar's visit to the French capital, and should deduce therefrom dark auguries for tive. Great Britain, and happy ones for Frand and Russia, he would be doing as wise a thing as most of the political prophets, whose voices are loud in Europe today. The strongest impression seems to be that the paramount object to the Czar's visit was to make an alliance with the French people themselves, and not with their rulers. He accomplished that object with wonderful cleverness. He recognized fully and publicly that France is a democracy, and that the people and the people only are the source of power. He testified in a dozen different ways his acceptance of that fact. Not only did he visit every great shrine of national pride and patriotism, but to the direct representatives of the people, such as President Brisson, of the Chamber, and President Baudin, of the Paris Municipal Council, he expressed his appreciation of republican institutions. To M. Brisson he said at once on receiving him. that he was glad to meet a man who represented the real source of power in France, and in saying that he bound to himself the great radical party, which was beginning to question rather loudly the congruity of an al-

FRANCO-RUSSIAN UNITY. Discussion has been revived in the past day or two over the ques-Russia. It is entirely immaterial. The Czar evidently knows that his alliance must rest upon the affection of the French masses, for without it a treaty would be of no value. There is no question that he has secured it, nor is it doubtful that he will be able to hold it yet awhile. The attitude of the rest of Europe, while the great in progress, has been mightily interesting. No one has attempted to minimize the importance of the great watching so keenly, but there has been an almost amusing attempt in each country to point the finger of significance in some other direction. In Paris itself one did not hear a whisper of any present ambition toward of an alliance with Russia, which was suggested. was in connection with the Turkish and Egyptian situations,

A GERMAN VIEW. The reception of the Czar in France during he past week has engrossed public atention in Germany, to the exclusion of everything else. The views exressed on the subject differ greatly. he preponderance of opin-ion, however, is that it bodes no good to Europen peace. THE LIBERAL POSITION. Thomas Wemyss Reid, editor of the Speaker, the Liberal organ, savs h an article in that paper that the position of Liberalism is graver now than it has been in a generation. He extols Lord Rosebery's honorable conduct, and concludes by declaring that Sir William Harcourt's chances of leading continental revenge or aggrandize-ment. The only immediate advantage a united Liberal party are absolutely nil, adding that some startling dis-plays of antipathy for him have already come from unexpected quarters.

The Dominion Government has been asked by the Montreal Board of Trade to fix Thanksgiving Day for the fourth Thursday in November. The customary date is the third-Thursday of that month, but it is held that as navigation is closing about that time, business is on the rush, and it is detrimental to trade to cease operations. It so happens that the fourth Thursday is Thanksgiving Day in the United States. The awful question comes up as to whether or not it would be perfectly proper for Canadians to give thanks for bountiful harvests on the same day as their neighbors. There are some people who think it would never do

Mr. Dewar leaves a wife and Sir William, asked his opinion as to one child, Florence. His mother the Crow's Nest Pass Railway, to conthe Crow's Nest Pass Railway, to conand Miss Alice Dewar, of Stratford, nect Eastern Ontario with the great mineral resources of the Rocky Mountains, said he had no doubt the new Government would take the matter up and deal with it. The C. P. R. was ready to build the new line, if satisfactory arrangements could be made. In Sir William's opinion, the greatest addition to the wealth of the Dominion in the future should come from the region to be tapped by the Crow's Nest Pass road and would come if necessary steps were taken to secure it; otherwise it will continue to drift to the south, as it is doing. Speaking on the proposed fast Atlantic service, Sir William said that if grain and other traffic from the west is to be hauled over Canadian lines and to Canadian ports exclusively there must be a change in the Atlantic freight service, and 'he first step towards effecting the clange desired is the establishment of a fast Atlantic passenger service. The diversion of the grain traffic is solely a question of ocean freights. So long as the present type of vessels in use on the Canadian routes is maintained, so long will grain rates rule higher and so long will business go via New York. The fast steamships should only carry passengers and high-class freight; the freight steamships should be arranged to carry freight at the lowest possible cost. The many friends of the family will deeply sympathize with Sir Richard and Lady Cartwright in the loss of their youngest son, Lewis, which took place at Lindsay on Sunday morning. Deceased was a bright and promising young man of eighteen, and had only been sick a few days of inflammation of the bowels. He was attached to the Bank of Montreal, and was a general favorite.

His Daughter Florence Arrives a Day Too Late.

Died at a Friend's House in Scotland

His wide circle of friends in London and the west will hear with regret, but not surprise, that Mr. Daniel Dewar, proprietor of the Albion Restaurant, here, died in Scotland on Sept. 28. Relatives received the sad news today by mail, which accounts for the lateness of the announcement.

Mr. Dewar left the city on June 23 to place himself under the care of eminent physicians in Scotland, He was suffering from a malignant tumor, which had long affected health. Mr. Dewar underwent an ex-amination at the Royal Infirmary, Glasgow, and it was found that the tumor could not be removed without fatal results. He then went to Gore Lochead, on the coast, near Glasgow, and for a time seemed to be improv-ing, but he took a sudden turn for the worse, and quickly sank.

It was a sad circumstance that his only daughter Florence arrived just one day too late to cheer his dying hours. She was summoned by cable about Sept. 16 or 17, and left with all possible haste, reaching Gore Lochead only to find that Mr Dewar had died the night before, He was not entirely among strangers, having passed away in the home of a kind friend, Mr. Bennet, brother of Ald. Bennet, of this city, where deceased spent the last two weeks of his life. The bereaved wife and daughter, left for home with the body on Oct. 8, by the Montreal route. It was Mr. Dewar's wish to be buried at St. Marys by the Masons.

The deceased was born in Perth. Scotland, about 48 years ago, and came to London with his parents when a boy. He learned the carriage trade in this city at Wm. Thomp-son's, and afterwards entered into partnership in that business with W. Moyes, of St. Marys. He remained there for a long period, and about five years ago removed to London. He was a strong Liberal, and took and Mrs. Jerry McDonald, and Mrs.

W. Avey, of London, are sisters. Mr. R. S. Dewar, school teacher, Minneapolis, Minn, is a brother.

The deceased was a respected mem ber of Fidelity Lodge, A. O. U. and of the Independent Order of Odd-fellows. Cigarmakers' Strike

The Cubans at the Vallens Factory Quit Work.

Would Not Accept a Reduction in Wages -Both Sides of the Case.

At the Vallens cigar factory, on Ridout street, the expert Cubans who have been employed there for the past year have left work in a body, because of the proposition to reduce their scale of wages $2 per 1,000 ci-

The men were brought here by Manager Otto Brener from Chicago and other American cities, because of their peculiar skill, acquired at the home of the tobacco industry, Cuba. Their workmanship was particularly desired by the proprietor for the manufacture of higher-priced cigars. The cigars turned out by the Vallens Company are Havanas, and the rebellion in Cuba has caused a scarcity of pure Havana leaf; consequently, the price has materially increased. "We offered to cut from $18 per 1,000 to $16 on only one size of cigar, the Londras," Manager Brener told an Advertiser reporter this morning. "There are some fifteen or sixteen brands of cigars made at the factory, and each turing. "On all sizes but the Londras we have been paying the same scale of wages as is paid in Chicago and New York," added Mr. Brener, "and on that size we were paying $2 more per 1,000. At the proposed reduction the men would be getting the American scale of wages. Over 40 cigarmakers were employed at the factory, but of the number only eleven were Cubans. All of the latter went out on strike. The strikers say the Canadian workmen were not affected by the reduction, because they were employed on the cheaper class

When it was made known to the men on Saturday that the cut of $2 per 1,000 had been decided, the Cubans appointed a committee to wait on Manager Brener and state their case. An agreement was not reached, and the men refused positively to accept any reduction in wages. They state that the union scale is $20 per 1,000 on the other side, but they came here for $18 per 1,000, because the cost of living here was less. A Cuban of ability can make 1,000 cigars in four days. Jose Rodriguer and Jose Jouzalez two Cubans, came here from Chicago a week ago, and say they have remained in the city upon promises of work at the Vallens factory, and were to have begun today. But when they learned of the proposed cut they Unenviable Characters.

A SOUTH OF CALL Squire Lacey Deals with a Motley Aggregation.

A Band of Vagrants Who Lived on What They Could Steal.

Squire Lacey's little court in London West contained a motley aggregation this morning. On Saturday night Detectives' Ward and Northgreaves, in company with Constables Clarke and Sonley, made a raid on a party of five vags who were encamped on the sideroad between the first and second concessions of London township. They were Louis Whitehead, Frederick Hart, Frederick Snyder. Mrs. Shea and Maggie Carey. They were alleged to have pilfered hen roosts, barns, and taken posses-sion of empty houses along the route of their travel. For two or three days they were encamped along the bank of the "old channel." Their tent was of a very rude character, made of old bags and a bed quilt. In this was a stove, which Whitehead is alleged to have stolen from the house of Florence McGinnis, on Piccadilly street, and who had a warrant issued for his arrest, charging him with assault and theft. When found by the constable the whole party were huddled up in a bunch. They are all vell-known characters. Mrs. Shea has figured in the police court on several serious charges, and sentence was suspended on two occasions, once on condition that she should take the pledge. She has also served six months in the Mercer. Hart is wanted on a charge the dam gave way, carrying of contempt of court.

The party had an old unshed horse, which is a veritable parcel of bones.

The harness is tied up with ropes and strings. The wagon is a sorrowful sight, the wheels being loose the tires fastened on with wire, and the box repaired with remnants of farm fences. The vehicle contained a lot of old clothing, boots, shoes, etc. The party were all arraigned before Squire Lacey. He addressed each one separately on the serious character of the charges laid against them, and remanded them until the 19th for trial. The other three were Frank Smith, Robert Smith and Charles Graham. They have been loitering around Hyde Park, and at night have taken possession of the section men's shanty on the G. T. R. near that place. They were arrested in the shanty about 1 o'clock this morning by Detectives Ward and Northgreaves. The trio were also remanded for a week. trio

A Great Gale

Sweeping Along the Atlantic Coast

Much Damage Done at New Jersey able, and that the fighting continues. Points.

New York, Oct. 12.—The flerce gale which began late Saturday night still continues this morning. The wind is strong from the northeast and shows no signs of abatement. No vessels left this port this morning, and probably will not until more moderate weather prevails.

At Atlantic City, N. J., about 200 feet of the iron pier at the foot of Massachusetts avenue have been battered away. The bulkhead at Chelsea has been destroyed. Railroad travel on the Camden and Atlantic Railway has been suspended, owing to the high water submerging the tracks. The cottages on the meadow side of the city have been surrounded by water, and the occupants have been compelled to use boats to get to and from their homes. The wind reached a velocity of 55 miles an hour.

PECULIARITIES OF THE CHINESE John Wesley described the Chine language as an invention of the devil to keep the missionaries out of China. It has not altogether succeeded in keeping them out, but it has made their work very difficult and often ridiculous. Dr. J. F. Masters, one of the few foreigners who have mastered the language, tells of a missionary who was explaining the goodness of the Heavenly Father. The word for heavenly is "teen," with an aspirate on the vowels. The missionary left out the aspirate, with the result that the word meant "crazy." After Dr. Mas-ters had studied Cantonese a few months he endeavored to preach a sermon. He wrote it our carefully, but made so many blunders in tones, vowel quantities, and aspirates that some of the Chinese remarked how much the English language resembled the Chinese. They supposed that he had been preaching in English! On another occasion he meant to order a roast chicken, and told his cook to go out and set fire to the street. The Chinese language has 44,700 characters in the standard dictionary. There are, more-over, 700 distinct sounds, to each of which is attached a sort of metrical scale, ranging from an octave to an octave and a half, giving a variety of tones which only a musical ear can detect. The tone is all-important. For instance, the sound "stung" may mean grasshopper, oar, elephant, mechanic, or pickles, according to the tone. Put an aspirate into the middle of the word and it may mean examine, good luck, wall, spear, or gun, and a variety of other meanings, depending on the tone given. A man is a man only when the correct tone is give. Change the tone and the man becomes a nightingale, a carrot, and many other ridiculous

An old and highly esteemed resident of Westminster township Mrs. Elizabath Kernohan, wife of Mr. Wm. Kernohan, died Saturday morning at the family residence, near Derwent, at the age of 74 years. Mrs. Kernohan (then Miss Russell) was a native of the county of Antrim, Ireland, and came to Canada about 50 years ago, preceding Mr. Kernohan some four years. They were married in this country 41 years ago on Oct. 29, and their family of four children (two sons and two daughters, all are married) survive, and were present along with their father at their mother's decease.

-Dr. A. Hotson, of the Collegiate Institute, will have the deepest sympathy in the death of his estimable wife yesterday at the family residence, Princess avenue. The immediate cause of death was hemogrhage, the climax of a long illness from consumption. Four children survive—one son Arthur, in New York, and three daughters at home. Mr. and Mrs. Hotson had enjoyed 25 years of happy married life. The deceased was the daughter of Mr. Thomas Jones, of Parkhill, formerly of McGillivray township. Mr. Justice Street has given judgment in the second trial of Cerri vs. Ancient Order of Foresters, awarding Mrs. Cerri, the widow of a furrier on Richmond street, Toronto, the $1,000 together with the costs of the action. The case was first heard at the win-ter assiezs of 1895, the contention of the A. O. F. being that Mr. Cerri knew he had dropsy before he applied for the insurance policy, and that he then gave incorrect answers, both about his age, and the state of his health. A judgment was given for Mrs. Cerri, but a new trial was obtained on the ground that Mr. Cerri had stated that the was born in 1847, whilst 1846 was the real date. The judgment just given by Mr. Justice Street, however, decides that this mistake was made in good faith, and that, therefore, it did not vitiate the policy.

The deceased gentleman, who was 80 years of age, was born in Scotland, and left the land of the heather at 18 years of age, for Blenheim township. He resided there until seventeen years ago, when he removed to Brantford. The family consists of Mrs. Patton, two daughters at home, Misses Lizzie and Mary; Mrs. Miller, of Freeport, Mich.; Mrs. Hutchison, of London, and another; and three sons, Wm., residing in Buffalo, and John and Robert in Chesterfield. Tuesday the body will be taken to Chesterfield for interment. A sad coincidence in this connection is the fact that on Tuesday, the day fixed for the burial, Mr. and Mrs. Patton would have celebrated their golden wedding. WM. OWEN COMPANY.

Unfortunately, his military duties were only on very rare occasions any restraint to him. His days were mainly spent in dangling after Lady | And this is what they say to me: Suffolk and other fair dames. It was auctions at Christie's, and morning concerts and afternoon rides, and plays and dinners and balls, and masks at Ranelagh's. It was sails up the river to Richmond, and trips to Wells, and one perpetual round of flirting and folly, of dressing and dancing, and dining and gaming.

And it must be remembered that the Englishwomen of that day were such as England may well hope never to see again. They had little educationmany very great ladies could hardly read and spell properly. Their sole accomplishments were dressing and embroidery, the ability to make a few delicate dishes for the table and scents and pomade for the toilet. In the higher classes they married for money or position, and gave themselves up to intrigue. They drank deeply, they played high, they very seldom went to church, for Sunday was the fashionable day for all kinds of frivolity and amuser...ent. And as the men of any generation are just what the wome make them, England never had sons so profligate, so profane and drunken. The clubs, especially Brookes', were the nightly scenes of indescribable orgies; gambling was their serious occupation; duels were of constant oc-

Such a life could not be lived except at a frightful and generally ruinous expense. Hyde was soon embarrassed His pay was small and uncertain, and the allowance which his brother William added to it, in order that the heir apparent to the earldom might live in becoming style, had not been calculated on the squandering basis of Hyde's expenditure. Towards Christmas, bills began to pour in, creditors became importunate, and for the first time in his life creditors really troubled him. Lady Capel was not likely to pay debts any more. The Earl, in settling debts any more. The Earl, in settling Hyde's American obligations, had I ought to have asked Katherine."

"No, sir; you ought to take what and had frankly told him he would permit him to go to jall rather than pay any such wicked and foolish bills again. The income from Hyde Manor had never been more than was required for the expenses of the place | close?" and the interest on Katherine's money had gone, though he could not tell and he foresaw he would have to borrow some from Lady Capel or some other accommodating friend. He returned to the barracks one Sunday afternoon, and was moodily thinking over these things, when his orderly brought him a letter which had arrived during his absence. It was from Katherine. His face flushed with delight as he read it—so sweet and tender, and pure was the neat epistle. He compared it mentally with some of the shameless, scented billet-doux he was in the habit of receiving, and he felt as if his hands were unworthy to touch the white wings of his Katherine's wants to me! Oh, the dear one! Not more than I want to see her! Fool! Villain that I am! I will go to her! Katherine! Kate! My dear little Kate!" So he ejaculated as he paced als narrow quarters and tried to arrange his plans for a Christmas visit

First, he went to his colonel's lodging, and easily obtained two weeks' absence; then he dressed carefully and went to his club for dinner. He had determined to ask Lady Capel for £100, and he thought it would be the best plan to make his request when she was surrounded by company, and winning rubber. And if the circumstances proved adverse then he could morning retirement tapping of gold snuff-boxes, and the fluttering of fame, and the sharp technical calls of the gamesters, and the hollow laughter of hollow hearts. There was a hired singing girl with a lute at one end of the room, babbling of Cupid and Daphne, and green meadows and larks. But she was poorly ws and larks. But she was poorly dressed and indifferent looking, and she sang with a sad, mechanical air, as if her thoughts were far off. They say there is a happy land Where husbands never prove untrue; Where lovely maids may give their hearts.

And never need the gift to rue; Where men can make and keep a vow, And wives are never in despair-I'm very fond of seeing sights,

The question seemed so directly addressed to Hyde that he hesitated a moment and looked at the girl, who then, with a mocking smile, continued:

"They say there really is a land, Where husbands never are untrue; Where wives are always beautiful, And the old love is always new. I've asked the wise to tell me how A loving woman could get there: 'If you that happy land would see, There's only one way to get there. Go straight along the crooked lane, And all around the square."

The scornful little song followed him and conveyed a certain meaning to his mind. The girl must have taken her cue from the gossip of those who pass-ed her to and fro. He burned with indignation, not for himself, but for his sweet, pure Katherine. He was deter-mined that the world should in the future know that he held her peerless sive mood he approached Lady Capel She had been unfortunate all the evening, and was not amiable. Discoveries Talked About at the British Association Meeting.

The Present Generation Is Drunken With Writing.

Largest Market in the World to be Found in Africa,

Dragon Flies With Two-Foot Wings Shown to Have Existed.

A London correspondent writes: The British Association at Liverpool during the past ten days has made an unusually interesting summary of the year's progress in human knowledge, for that is the scope of investi-gation now undertaken by this institution. The time was, not so very long ago, when some of the principal scientific discoveries of the year were first announced from its annual platform. Now the world declines to wait so long for its news or to delay putting its newly acquired knowledge into practical use. Nevertheless, the British Association meetings are still full of novelty and interest for layman and specialist alike, and this year's gathering was no exception to the rule.

Two papers, which were presented were noteworthy in a remarkable de-gree. The first was the inaugural address of the president, Sir Joseph Lister, who for the first time made public the history of his investiga-tions which resulted in that inestimable boon to humanity-anti-septic surgery. The second was Prof. Flinders Petrie's paper, entitled, "Man Bebut, perhaps, too technical subject, which the great surgeon, Lister, dis-cusses, and his modesty still forbids him to make it clear how gigantic is the debt which this and future generations owe to him for epoch-making discovery.

DRUNKEN WITH WRITING. Prof. Petrie's address was upon more popular lines. He began by controverting successfully the theory generally held that thought without word and language is impossible. It that Prof. Petrie is the highest authority of the day on archaeology. His specialty has been the study of hunan records, older than the birth of language-or written language at east. His investigations have given him a certain contempt for mere words as the vehicles of ideas, and he does not hesitate to give free expression to his conclusions. The present generation, he affirms, is "drunken with writing." We let it override the growth of our minds and the common use of our senses. The servant, speech, has come to be mistaken for the master, thought." One is almost led to believe that Prof. Petrie must have been pursuing some "cross gold" literature from the political campaign in the United States when gold" he made these observation. The suggestion grows stronger when we read his citation of the Baconian aphorism that words are the money of fools,

Very interesting is Prof. Petrie's description of the formation of ideas prior to speech and the development of art prior to language. The ob-servation of children and animals, he points out, furnishes convincing knowledge of the former, but a little introspection will yield additional

"Who does not recall" he asks. "anything which has once been seen without a single word passing in the mind. In combinations yet unmade, does the engineer describe the work before he imagines its action? In considering the motions is there not first before the mind the feeling of the vision of a face or a person who is subject to that feeling before we frame the words? And does not the very fact that it is often most hard to choose the night words to express our thoughts-the fact that we search for our words as if we spoke a foreign tongue, and that for even one single thought we have to use several words to add or subtract one or the other-does not this prove most clearly that those thoughts are wider and deeper than our speech, and are not subjected to it?

Prof. Petrie is enthusiastic in his appreciation of the development of an art prior to language. The pictorial writings of the ancient Egyptians furnish him his illustrations. These records certainly antedate the discovery of alphabetical writing, and are a splendid monument of intelligent expression apart from words. Prof. Petrie finds in them far greater truth according to nature, and in the best sense artistic merit as well, than is discoverable through long ages after man began to use arbitrary signs, symbols, and wrote to express his meaning. A STARTLING ASSERTION. Prof. Petrie does not hesitate to hold language responsible for certain serious mental shortcomings of mankind. He makes a somewhat startling assertion, for instance, in this

"We must always remember that however needful writing may be to tell of what cannot be learned otherwise, it is but a hugtful hindrance when it takes the place of the direct knowledge of the senses. As the awakening of the Renaissance taught men that words were but counters, and that no knowledge could be reached by dealing with words alone; so the awakening of this century has begun to teach us that the senses cannot grow and feed the mind when the fetters of writing are allowed to hold them back from the living touch of nature. Nay, more. As there is no growth of the mind in one way but at the end of its fullness in another, so this trust in writing has plainly dead-LIFE SAVED.—Mr. James Bryson cameron writes: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the my bed with inflammation of the physi-

BIG DRAGON FLIES. The latest discoveries among the older rocks of the Palaeozoic age show the existence of dragon flies measur ing over two feet in the expanse of wings. These are much larger than the reported tracts of enormous insects discovered about a year ago The whole known fauna of that luxuriant period was upon the same gigantic scale.

Recent discoveries of representations of the process of oyster culture show that the ancient Romans were more advanced than modern methods in this respect.

Mr. C. D. Sherborn, who has been engaged for five years in preparing an index of the forms of animal life known to man, has registered thus far 135,000 different species, and the work is not finished.

Mr. J. Logan Lobley read a carefully argued paper to show that small olumns of lava cannot pass through 30 miles of earth crust, and that therefore the source of lava cannot be at that distance from the surface, as is so often assumed. From the pressure of overlying rocks there could be no fissures of lava below ten miles from the surface. A column of lava 300 feet in diameter and 30 miles deep would, by contact with cooler rock masses, lose its fluidity at 20 miles from the surface. A column of lava 300 feet in diameter and 30 miles high would require a dynamite force of 820,800,000 tons to sustain it even without ejection. His conclusion was that lava is not derived from a central source, but that by combined physical and chemical action rocks are fused and lava produced within the outer rind of the globe of ten miles in thickness.

A BIG MARKET. The largest market in the world is tended by 25,000 to 30,000 persons daily. There may be some readers who never heard of Kano, which is the principal town in the land of the Hausa. In case there should be anybody so ignorant as not to know where Hausaland is I will explain further that it is in the vast region south of the Great Sahara and north of the equator and stretching from the River Nile in the east to the At-lantic in the west. J. C. Robinson, who told the British Association about his recent trip there, said that the majority of the inhabitants of Kano are engaged in the manufacture of cloth. If their literature was to be elied on, the inhabitants had been so ngaged for the past 900 years. The Tausa language was the most spoken f any language in Africa, as it was believed that within Hausaland itself 15,000,000 spoke it.
Turning to the question of the development of the country, Mr. Robinson said that three things were necessary—namely, a better currency, improvement in transport, and the abolition of slave raiding. The currency was in shells, 2,000 of them being equal to only 25 cents, and the white man's patience was sorely tried thereby. At present everything had to be carried on men's heads, and if the resources of the country were to be properly developed it could only be by means of a railway. On the question of the slave trade he urged that there was no part of the world where slave raiding was so unchecked, and the responsibility for that state of things rested with England alone, the country being within the British sphere of influence.

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhea and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Casa toria is the Children's Panacea-the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves.'

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

It appears that Mr. Crawse and another party unknown were speeding their horses on the way home, and Mr. Armstrong, in the darkness, was unable to get out of the way. Crawse's horse plunged into Armstrong's rig, the shoulder of the animal striking the young girl heavily on the chest. In the tangle of horses, rigs and occupants, the animals were fortunately brought under control. It was found that Armstrong's buggy was pretty well damaged, while one of the shafts entered the side of the chest of Crawse's horse and passed out behind the front leg. The animal was Knox College at the great celebration

The route lay along Dundas street to Wellington, along Wellington through Victoria Park to Richmond, turning at St. James street. As the line passed through the park the sight was particularly pleasing. Over 300 brethren were in the parade, and as a body of men were of exceptionally fine physique. They were the badges of the order and white gloves. While the men were entering the church the band played "Nearer, My God, to Thee," very im-

His sermon was brief, occupying less than twenty minutes, but very earnest and said it was a great pleasure to welcome the brothers of the A. O. U. W., not only because he himself was a member, but their order was founded on the teachings of Christ and of the apostle after whom the church was named. The order comprised 362,000 members, and was not measured by financial strength but since its incorporation $65,000,000 had been paid out to the widows and orphans. der was good outside of figures. It was helpful to build up the edifice of the Great Master Workman-the grand edifice of the brotherhood of manthe carrying out of which was at the foundation of the Gospel of Christ. It was also a brotherhood that was national and international, that was not affected by distances and made no distinction between the masses and classes. From Maine's rock-bound coast to the grain fields of California, and in Ontario, they were all one, united and indissoluble. The thing most necessary to a woman's comfort is a well-fitting Corset. There is no firm in London that can give you such satisfaction in this line. But, why can we guarantee a more comfortable Corset than our competitors? Simply because we carry a far larger assortment, and in contrast to them handle only the very best makes. There's less profit in handling a good make of corset, but far more satisfaction, both to our customers and to ourselves. There are a couple of lines which we specially recommend as ones which are particular favorites. These are Thompson's English Gracella Corset at $2, and, in a cheaper grade, Kingsmill's Special at 55c. We are not above copying the good points in all makes, and have had combined what we could learn as regards comfort, durability and economy, in our Specials manufactured solely and expressly for us. The tale is told below:

INSPECTING THEIR NEW CHURCH. At the close of yesterday morning's service in Wesley Hall, Rev. Dr. Daniel invited the congregation to go in and see the new church. The people gladly accepted, and while collectively admiring the substantial beauty of the edifice, individually hunted out their locations in the allotment of pews. The dedication of the new church will take place on Sunday morning next, when the trustees and building committee will be relieved of their onerous but successfully performed duties. Four Sabbaths will be devoted to opening services, and besides all the city ministers. Rev. Dr. Carman, Rev. Dr. Potts, and Rev. Mr. Millburn, the blind chaplain of the United States Congress; are to take part THE BISHOP ON GIVING. The Bishop of Huron delivered a powerful and striking sermon on "Christian Giving" at St. James' Church, South London, last night, before a congregation that filled the edifice. The bishop dealt not only with the necessity, but with the manner of giving. Incidentally, he deprecated certain methods of raising money for church purposes, and he censured those people who seldom or never contributed to such except when they received a quid pro quo in the form of an entertainment, a lecture, a something that appealed to their worldly senses. He made a strong plea for free will offering to God, out of the fullness of a grateful heart, brated an anniversary yesterday. Rev. H. D. Moyer, of Thamesford, preached at the regular services, and a sunrise prayer meeting was also held. Rev. W. J. Clark, of First Presbyterian Church, London, yesterday exchanged pulpits with Rev. E. Cockburn, M.A., of Paris. Mr. Clark lectures in Paris tonight on "Some Types of Church Members.'

The sermon at the First Congregational Church was preached last evening by Rev. A. F. McGregor, B.A., of Woodstock, president of the Ontario Christian Endeavorers. He described the recent provincial convention. One week from next Sunday Dundas Street Methodist Church Sunday school anniversary will be held. The services will be conducted by Mr. Wm. Reynolds, Peoria, Ill., and Mrs. Ford, Troy, N. Y. well known Sunday school workers.

Tomorrow evening the delegates who attended the Domnion convention of Christian Endeavor at Ottawa will give their reports at Knox Church. Rev. Robert Johnston, Mr. H. J. Brown (president of the Local Union), Miss Kirkpatrick (superintendent of junior work), and Mr. W. J. Doherty (provincial treasurer), are expected to be present, and a pleasant and profitable evening is expect-

The congregation of St James' Presbyterian Church will this year depart from the old custom of giving a thanksgiving entertainment. They intend, instead, to give a thanksgiving dinner, which will be held on the evening of Thanksgiving Day. On Sunday evening next the subject of Rev. M. P. Talling's address to his congregation will be "The character of Jephtha." It will be remembered by those who have read the Field-Ingersoll and Gladstone-Ingersoll controversy that in these celebrated discussions the actions and character of Jephtha played a conspicuous part, particular stress being laid upon his pledge to the Lord, which ended in the sacrifice of his daughter. Hopeville, treasurer. Elder R. C. Evans was elected delegate to the General Sunday School Association. Yesterday was Communion Sunday in the King Street Presbyterian The attendance at its table was the largest in the history of the congregation. This was the first communion since the induction of Mr. Wilson. The sermon was based on the question, "Ought not Christ to have suffered these things, and to have entered into his glory?" in the Door of the House. Frank Hill, a carpenter employed at the Michigan Central shops, St Thomas, and who resides on Lila street, reported to the police that he was the victim of a daring robbery on Saturday morning. He states that at 1 o'clock Saturday morning he heard a noise, and on awakening found a man in his bedroom. The fellow pointed a revolver at his head and demanded his money. Hill grabbed the re-volver and held it so the burglar could not shoot. While this was going on Mrs. Hill jumped out of the window and ran for help. The man then made off. Hill investigated, and found that his trousers, which he had hung up in the bedroom, were missing. He found them in the dining room, but $52 that was in the pocket was gone. Mr. Hill is of the opinion that two men did the work. He thinks one held the revolver at his head while the other rifled his pockets. Entrance was effected to the house by hreating in
