A NARROW ESCAPE. John Moore, Langarth street, an employe of the London tool works, is unable to account for being alive. He reached the floor at the same time as the death-dealing safe, which threatened to topple over on him every moment, and crush him to death. He is confident the floor went first, not the platform, as some people contend. He went down feet first, being jammed in by timber so tightly that he was unable to remove hand or foot until assistance arrived. The sight of the falling people, seen dimly through the dense lust, was horrible enough to remain forever indelibly stamped on one's memory. Mr. Moore's spine is hurt, and besides he suffered some internal injuries of a painful nature. IN A CRITICAL CONDITION. Mr. Walter Ellis, of Alexander street. West London, is in a very critical condition, and the doctors are keeping him under the influence of opiates. He is hurt internally.

MARINE DISASTER. Bermuda, Jan. 6.—Capt. Baker, of the British ship Van Loo, which put in here in distress while on a voyage from Cardiff to St. John, N. B., tells how six of his men lost their lives, and another man was seriously injured during an encounter with a gale. On Nov. 20, the weather indicating the approach of a gale, the crew were or-dered aloft to take in the foresail. Fourteen of the crew were on the foreyard, when the pin of the slings and truss broke, causing the yard to come down on the deck. Three of the men were thrown overboard and were drowned, two were killed, and another man was seriously injured by falling on the deck. On the day previous to the fatal occurrence one of the crew fell from aloft to the deck and was killed. DEATH OF GEN. YEATMAN-BIGGS. London, Jan. 6 .- According to a special dispatch from Peshawur, India, Major-General Arthur Godolphin Yeat-man-Biggs, in command of the second division of the Tirah expedition, on the northwest frontier of India, died on Tuesday of dysentery. The news is confirmed from various sources. Ma-for-General Yeatman-Biggs was born in 1843. He entered the army in 1860, became captain in 1874, major in 1880, lieutenant-colonel in 1882, colonel in 1886 and major-general last year. He served in China in 1862, during the South Africa war in 1879, and with the Egyptian expedition in 1882. From 1895 he had commanded the presidency district of Bengal. Some of the most effective work of the British forces on the northwest frontier of India during the campaign against the rebellious tribesmen has been done by the troops of the second division. The most brilliant exploit of the punitive expedition was the storming and recapture of Dargai ridge, on the Samana range, by the Gurkhas and the Gordon Highlanders of 'the Yeatman-Biggs bri-gade last October.

Many cases have been reported of how invalids who had suffered for years, and whose cases had been given up by the attending physician, have The British Army in India been restored to health and vigor through the now world-famed medicine, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, but we doubt if there is one more startling or convincing than that of Miss Elizabeth Minshull, who resides with her brother, Mr. Thos. Minshull, of this town, an employe of Frost & Wood's agricultural works. The News heard of this remarkable case, and meeting Mr. Minshull, asked him if the story was correct. Grippled With Rheumatism.

Could Not Raise Hither Hand or Foot and Had to Be Fed and Dressed -Doctors Said a Cure Was

tims and has probably caused more pain than any other ill affecting mankind. Among those who have been its victims few have suffered more than Mr. G. W. Coon, now proprietor of a flourishing bakery in Hampton, but for a number of years a resident of Pontypool, where his severe illness occurred. To a reporter who interviewed him Mr. Coon gave the following particulars of his great suffering and nitimate cure: "Some seven or eight years ago," said Mr. Coon, "I felt a touch of rheumatism. At first I did not pay much attention to it, but as it was steadily growing worse I began to doctor for it but to no effect. The trouble went from bad to worse, until three years after the first symptoms had manifested themselves I became utterly helpless, and could do no more for myself than a young child. I could not lift my hands from my side, and my wife was obliged to cut my food and feed me when I felt like eating, which was not often considering the torture I was undergoing. My hands were swollen out of shape, and for weeks were tightly bandaged. My legs and feet were also swollen, and I could not lift my foot two inches from the floor. could not change my clothes and my wife had to dress and wash me. I grew so thin that I looked more like a skeleton than anything else. The pain I suffered was almost past endurance and I got no rest either day or night. I doctored with many doctors, but they did me no good, and some of them told me it was not possible for me to get better. I believe I took besides almost everything that was recommended for rheumatism, but instead of getting better I was constantly getting werse, and I wished many a time that death would end my sufferings. One Day Mr. Perrin, storekeeper at Pontygave me a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and urged me to try them I did so somewhat reluctantly as I did not think any medicine could help me However, I used the pills, then I got another box and before they were gone felt a triffing relief. Before a third box was finished there was no longer any doubt of the improvement they were making in my condition, and be fore I had used three boxes more I began to feel, in view of my former that I was growing quite strong, and the pain was rapidly subsiding. From that out, there was a steady improvement, and for the first time in long weary years I was free from pain, and once more able to take my place among the world's workers. I have not now the slightest pain, and I feel better than I felt for seven years previous to taking the pills. I thank God Dr. Williams' Pink Pills came in my way as I believe they saved my life, and there is no doubt whatever that they rescued me from years of

The Reichsanzeiger says the ceded territory comprises the whole of the inner basin of Kiao Chau Bay, so far as the high water line, the larger headlands situated north and south of the entrance of the bay, to the point where they are bounded by mountain ranges, and also the islands situated within and in front of the bay. The ceded territory comprises an area of several square miles, bounded by a larger zone around the bay, within which no measures or arrangements may be made by China without the consent of Germany. In particular no obstacles are to be raised by China to any measures Germany deems necessary for the regulation of the water courses. London, Jan. 6 .- The Times says, editorially: "It would be simple to assume that the Reichsanzeiger's dispatch tells the whole story, for it quite omits to say what China gets in return. To the world at large, however, the material fact is that Germany, by physical force, has obtained a naval station. This is the fact that must guide other powers in determining their own policy. The talk of a lease is a mere saving of appearances. There is no doubt that both Germany and China are aware that it is a practical cession in full sovereignty. day evening. Five young people had an experience which they will not forget as long as they live, and in consequence of this experience, one of the party may not live long. This person is Miss Amelia Hall, an adopted daughter of Mr. Alex. Hayes, grocer, Victoria avenue, who is bookkeeper in his store. The young lady went to the bay with Mr. Albert Cummer. They had a pleasant skate, and in the course of the evening they met Mr. Herbert Nichols and his sister, Miss Frances Nichols. The quartet accepted an invitation to go for a sail on Mr. James Moran's iceboat. There was a brisk breeze, and the boat glided rapidly over the ice. Suddenly there was a shout; the boat had gone into a hole about half a mile west of Bay street. The young folks floundered in the water, but all but Miss Hall got out in safety. Miss Hall was nowhere to be seen. The big boom of the sail had jibed and struck her on the head, knocking her senseless in the bottom of the boat. Mr. Cummer jumped into the water and worked around the boat, which did not sink, owing to the boom resting on firm ice. He got her out from beneath the sail

The City Hall Tragedy-How London Has Been Grossly Libeled.

It is too bad that while London has suffered and is suffering so much, deand of its inhabitants should, by retailing lying stories, endeavor to create wrong impressions, and to do the people grave injustice.

Here is a specimen of the comment which has been made by ill-informed persons who have written about the recent disaster at the city hall. It is from the editorial columns of the Toronto News, and is headed "The Lesson of the London Disaster":

"The heart-rending disaster which has plunged London in mourning is one of those fatalities which excite more The Great Drama Being Played that, in consequence of the legislation poignant grief from the fact that they might have been avoided. This comment is founded on erroneous information circulated in this city, apparently with a well-defined object which will be better understood as it is developed, and telegraphed by some one to the outside press. It is most unfair because it is untrue, and calculated to prejudice the interests of this fair city in a most unwarrantable manner. The London City Hall is not a "ramshackle." A "penurious policy of patching and mending" has not been carried out. Instead of that, we know that the hall, which was much better built than many erections of of a competent architect, and it was inches by 12 inches was placed under beam was examined by competent builders, along with the writer, immediately after the disaster, and found to be as sound timber as the day on which it was inserted and declared by Col. to the Piggery Issue.

Toronto, Jan. 6.-The pig issue got another airing in the public accounts committee. The main matter of interest was the cross-examination of Newton, the butcher who slaughtered the hogs. He stuck to his story, though it is contradicted by other witnesses in no way under the jurisdiction of the government or its officials. Almost the only new features of the case related to its genesis. As is so frequently the case, the moving agency appears to have been a former employe of the government. Newton stated that last fall a man named McKinnon, who was employed in the Central Prison at the time the hogs were placed in the cold storage room, came to his house inquiring after a horse which he (Newton) had for sale. The horse does not appear to have long engaged the caller's attention, for at their second meeting Newton's share in the holo-caust of hogs was introduced. Mc-Kinnon urged Newton to call on a lawyer named Bradford and tell what he knew about the hogs. He said it would be worth money to him to do so. He did not go to Bradford, however Some time after messengers began arriving from Mr. St. John urging Newton to call on him. Among these messengers was a man named Henderson, who was also at one time employed in the Central Prison. The witness Newton at length went to both Mr. Bradford's and Mr. St. John's offices. The former he saw once, but he had about a dozen interviews with Mr. St. John. He told him the story, he said, much as he had told it to the committee. This was his story as brought out by the cross-examination of Messrs. Garrow and German. A man named Dunn followed. Dunn was one of Newton's assistants, and, so far as he went, told a similar story. Every one of the animals slaughtered, he declared, was diseased. His ex-amination was not concluded when the committe rose. The investigation is retting decidedly wearisome. Not a particle of good will come of it. Mr. St. John and his friends will believe the estimony of Newton and Dunn, and belittle that of Dr. Smith, Prof. Sweetapple and Messrs. Hunter and Harris, while their opponents will reverse this spent a few days at A. McLean's, in process. The government ar Mayfair. They did kill a lot of diseased hogs, and it merely requires a little unconscious exaggeration, superinduced by conferences with biased politicians, to swell the number to the dimensions of all that were killed. In the house, the compensation clause in Mr. Dryden's bill for the ex-tirpation of the San Jose pest was the subject of warm debate in the early afternoon. The bill proposes to compensate fruitmen whose trees have to Komoka, Jan. 5.—Mr. P. Thousands of cases of hasty consumption are traceable directly to impredences connected with this sport. The youth of both sexes skate until their strength is exhausted, their blood over-heated, and perspiration oozes from every pore. In this condition they sit down to rest, or else they walk wearily home, cooling off rapidly. What is the result? A chill; a check of perspiration; a cold which

The first step, when chill is felt, is to equalize the circulation, restore heat and open the pores by a hot mustard foot-bath. The next is to administer a medicine combining healing, tonic and expectorant powers, to soothe and tone up the inflamed air passages and stop the source of the cough. Shiloh's Cough and Consumption Cure is such a medicine. Try it faithfully, and if two-thirds of a bottle does not help you, return it to your druggist and get your money back.

There is no fear," said Honore, quietly; "and this you know." "I told you something else of Gabriel Myddelton, last time we spoke of him," blurted out Mr. Haughton, never trusting himself to pause between the speeches. "I told you he was a married man, and that I can prove-unless he is guilty of another crime, as base in some men's eyes as the murder itself. Ah! you have guessed this?" he cried, excitedly, as he read her face with shrewd intentness; "you are moved at last to feel that you have counted among your friends a criminal and a de-

"You say Gabriel Myddelton is dar-ing his fate under the false name of Royden Keith, of Westleigh Towers? Then is the society in which he is re-ceived so blind, dense, and easily duped as that? Would not any account of the landed gentry show you the pedigree of Royden Keith, of West-

"No," said Lawrence, with a ready sneer, "else do you think I would have been for one hour in doubt? The last possessor of Westleigh Towers, an old man in his dotage, having no heir, left his estate and property to a young man who paid him all sorts of interested attentions during the last few months of his life. They met in Germany, where old Mr. Keith died. He belonged to a good family, and the young man to whom he took this idiotic fancy, and to whom he left his name as well as his wealth, reaps the benefit of that. What is stated as his previous name is, of course, of no importance to us, as it was in his power to give any lie he chose; and, as for the pedigree they may have chosen to invent for this unknown, nameless fellow, why only an idlot would rely upon it."

"Could you not trace it without regard to printed documents?" asked Honore, carried away by her own earnestness. "Could you not prove Royden Keith to have been an honorable English gentleman before he took the honored name he bears?"

"No," returned the lawyer, promptly; "no one could prove that." "Can no one, at any rate, prove who he was? for you have not done so, Law-

"I have satisfied myself," returned Mr. Haughton, betraying his own weak point by the very impatience of his reply; "I can do no more."

"In that case," said Honore, gravely, "I will have it done." He gazed at her steadily and keenly; but the swift thought that she must be in jest could only live for one instant. He read in her face the earnest purpose which (though he did not know it) had been for so long quietly pursued; and he saw that her motive was generous, and that her search would be directed so that no shadow of suspicion should rest where he had crowded it. Reading this, he saw more plainly than he had ever seen them, even in his frequent moments of depression, the flaws in his own evidence, and the yawning chasm which broke his straight advance toward the longed-for identifi-cation of old Myddelton's murderer with Royden Keith. "Honore," he cried, with a sudden, desperate appeal, as if he felt his hold

He tells of eight immense veins of quartz crop-ping out side by side for thirteen hundred feet up a hillside. His find, he says, is located 50 miles east of the News and Opinions.

Between $2,500,000 and $3,000,000 in Gold Taken Out This Year.

Homing Pigeons to and From the Gold Regions.

Ottawa, Jan. 6.-From letters and reports recently received at the department of the interior from Mr. William Ogilvie, the Dominion Yukon surveyor, and the leading authority on matters relating to the Yukon country, some very interesting information may be from $2,500,000 to $3,000,000 in gold was taken out this year. In the creeks already being worked,

Bonanza and Eldorado, there are, he calculates, some $60,000,000 or $70,000,000 in gold, so that for several years to come they will perhaps yield enormously. This, of course, refers only to the discoveries already made, and there is as yet an immense stretch of country as yet untouched. Even when the placer mines are exhausted the quartz discoveries will make mining a permanent business there. Referring to the reports of the wonderful amounts of gold taken out in a single pan, Mr. Ogilvie gives some of his own experiences. In one of the ment as it is possible to be in May and mines owned by Mr. Clarence Berry was never pressed upon Mr. Ogilvie asked to be allowed to pan form, but was a treat and rest, as out a panful of dirt. The pay streak music should be. Conversation never here was very rich, but, standing at the bottom of the shaft, looking at it by and pleasantly passed through the dif- the light of a candle, all that could be seen of the streak was a vellowish-"I should not wonder"-so her lady- looking dirt, with here and there the ship had remarked to her husband sparkle of a little gold. Mr. Ogilvie took when discussing this ball-"if it does a big panful to the surface and started

> "More dirt than gold." he remarked. but as the dirt went out and the gold began to glisten, he writes that he was ompelled to reverse his decision, for when the gold was washed and dried weighed a little over $500. Speaking of the quartz to be found in the Yukon Mr. Ogilvie reports that he made a number of tests roughly for several men. One man brought in a sample from a quartz ledge he had discovered. Mr. Ogilvie weighed out several samples, crushed them, washed out the gold, and found the ore went $1,000 to the ton, even by that crude method. Other samples he tried went as low as $100 to the ton.

Mr. Ogilvie denies the highly-colored reports alleging lawlessness on the part of American miners at Dawson City. In spite of the preponderating number of foreigners, they show a disposition to abide by the Canadian laws. Mr. Ogilvie considers the idea of trying to get relief in by dog train as quite out of the question, as it is utterly impossible for dog trains to carry, on such a long trip, more than enough to feed themselves. In fact, on a long journey a man generally takes two dog trains, calculating that a good many of his dogs will give out on the trip, as the animals have to be pushed ahead as rapidly as possible, and there would probably be only enough of the stronger dogs left to get to the journey's end. FROSTBITTEN BUT WELL OFF.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 6 .- The steamer Conova brought 40 miners who left Dawson City between Nov. 1 and 25. They are all interested in claims or have made money in other speculations, and brought out a large amount in drafts and gold dust. A party of eight, headed by Dr. Van Zant, of Peoria, brought $80,000. Provisions in Dawson are not just si plentiful as might be, but there is no immediate fear of famine, although before spring some will have to go on short rations. All of the men are more or less frost
