Technical Schools.

At a recent meeting of the Winnipeg Trades and Labor Council the Typographical union delegates informed that body that the printers union was about to start a technical school for the benefit of the apprentices who were learning the trade.

Such a step on the part of the Typos is in perfect accord with their former history, and union printers may well be proud of their organization, which is ever foremost in the voicing of reforms and in the inaugural work of campaigns of education and progress.

There are many things of which the wage earners of Western Canada stand in urgent need, but foremost amongst them all is the pressing need of technical institutes. In this respect we are away behind the countries of Switzerland, Germany, Great Britain and the United States, where schools of science and technology abound, in which working men can, at very small cost, become thoroughly acquainted with the technicalities with which every trade and profession is surrounded, and a knowledge of which is indispensable in order to qualify the worker to fill those higher branches of the trade with credit to himself and with satisfaction to his employer.

It has been stated on many occasions by Canadian manufacturers that the average Canadian workman is ahead of most competitors for skill and craftsmanship but that he is away behind in the matter of technical education and is therefore not qualified to fill those higher positions which are more congenial and much more lucrative.

This, of course, is a condition of affairs greatly to be deplored, and the fact that thousands of Canadians are sending huge sums of money out of the country every year to correspondence schools and colleges to attain that technical education is sufficient proof of the need for such institutions in Canada, and is a satisfactory guarantee that the outlay necessary for the erection and equipment of such schools would be a profitable investment.

We heartily endorse the action of the Winnipeg Typographical Union, and wish them that success which the project deserves and with which it should be rewarded.

John Burns and the Unemployed Bill.

THE debate on the Unemployed Bill in the British House of Commons was, productive of much wordy warfare if nothing else.

This bill was mentioned long ago, in the King's speech from the Throne in 1906, and the member who moved it mentioned, amid applause from the Labor Party, that it was long overdue. On the motion for the second reading of the bill being put to the house it was defeated by a majority of 149. The total vote being 118 for and 267 against.

During the discussion, John Burns, President of the Local Government Board, showed himself in his true colors. It is evident that the man who was honored with the confidence and support of the Socialists is now endeavoring to sever his connection with the party that made him its representative, and is prepared to sweep away all old ties and traditions in order to curry favor from higher position donors no matter what their politics or sympathies might be.

The Right Honourable Gentleman's efforts to forget the days when he was a straight Socialist—the days when he carried the red flag through the streets of London—are sublime, though pathetic, and if ever the H-o-n-o-u-r-a-b-l-e Gentleman has the temerity to appeal to the electors again he will do so with the full assurance that the Socialists will do all in their power to assist him to forget. Just as surely as it is the prerogative of the people to make representatives, so also is it their privilege to un-make, and as the great heart of the world is ever the same, shams and hypocrites will be paid their reward in this generation with the same full measure that has been their portion in former generations and it is hoped that when the next batch of medals are handed out, John will receive his amongst the rest, with many thanks from a grateful and appreciative public.

Many complaints were made concerning the tone of one of his recent speeches, and the following extracts from the Labor Leader show how he dealt with his critics:

"Talking of the complaints about the 'tone' of his last speech, the 'Man of the Red Flag' broke forth into bitter taunts. 'Fancy these Revolutionaries,' said he, pointing at the Labor benches, 'talking about tone.' Then, with swelling breast and measured intonation, he proceeded, like little Jack Horner, to tell the house 'what a good boy am I.' 'Nothing can be said against my administration,' 'Just you look at the country! How it has progressed! Never was country like this one, and if you pass this Bill all these improvements will be arrested!' 'Humbug!' interjected Jowett at this stage. He had been listening to the President with gradually growing impatience. Mr. Burns stopped, quoted the doings of the Bradford Town Council; but 'we will change that.' 'We will alter that!' was flung back at him each time by the Labor M.P. Then the President wound up with the astonishing deduction that because the Daily Telegraph had one thousand applications for women workers in a single week there was no unemployed problem in the case of women. At times the Liberals gave a fainthearted cheer whilst Mr. Burns was speaking, but generally he failed to carry the House with him. There was rather the feeling that here was a man frittering away in petty personalities a great opportunity, and in conversation outside members have told their neighbours how Mr. John Burns has made enemies in the cabinet, and how a certain prominent Welshman has come out into the lists against him. It will be for the future to show us the truth.

The Railwaymen And the Companies

Open Shop Notices Posted—Men Invoke the Aid of the Lemieux Act—Jas. Somerville appointed.

Notwithstanding the many reports which have appeared in the press, little or no real progress has been made in Winnipeg between the railway officials and the shop organizations which received notice of termination of schedules at the end of April.

It is of course impossible to conjecture what the real intentions of the companies are, but the many conferences which are being held, and which appear to have no other object than that of gaining time, have only served the purpose of awakening the men to a fuller consciousness of impending trouble which has resulted in the men strengthening their position by consolidating their forces all along the line.

The memorandum of conditions which the companies propose shall hereafter prevail, and which have been posted in the different railway shops, is to all intents and purposes an open shop notice. Under it the nine hour day is recognised and the company propose to treat with the men individually in the matter of wages instead of through the Brotherhoods, which is the natural process where the union is recognised.

Latest dispatches state that the trouble between the companies and the men will be settled by a board of arbitrators. This was decided by the men on Saturday and an application was filed at Ottawa for a board to be appointed, covering the disputes of the different organisations under the Lemieux act. James Somerville, second Vice-president of the machinists, has been appointed by the mechanics as their arbitrator.

Now that application for a board of arbitration has been made, the new schedule proposed by the railway companies will not be in operation at the end of April, as the old schedule must be maintained until the decision of the board of arbitration is reached.

The C.N.R. men will very likely also apply for a board of arbitration.

Notes and Comments.

It is reported that John F. Leheney, late organiser of the Socialist Party of Alberta, has resigned from the Socialist party in favor of the Anarchists. Farewell, a long farewell to all thy usefulness.

The Brandon Trades and Labor Council is doing things in the Wheat City. It was decided at their last meeting to seek the enforcement of the Factory Act and the appointment of a Factory inspector. A resolution to build a new Trades Hall was introduced by Del. Fulcher, and the consensus of opinion was that the time had arrived when the local unions of Brandon should possess a hall of their own. The resolution was referred back to the unions for consideration and support.

Of a total of 347 homestead entries made in February, 1908, by persons coming from the United States, there were 120 from North Dakota, 52 from Minnesota, and 22 from Wisconsin.

The representatives of the Stonecutters' Union regarding the work to be done on the stone for the new Parliament Buildings are being considered by the Government, and it is confidently hoped that favorable consideration will be given to their request.

The Bricklayers' Union has called the attention of the Trades' and Labor Council to the fact that laborers are being employed by the City to build manholes. Many competent bricklayers are walking about in search of jobs, and the Council will no doubt send a deputation to the City officials on behalf of the Bricklayers.

Advertisers in the REALM are requested to send in their changes of advertisements to the Caxton Press not later than Wednesday morning in each week, so as to ensure prompt publication of the paper on Friday morning. This is necessary in order to keep the men posted on the Saturday sales.

At the annual meeting of the Lincoln Paper Mills Co., Ltd., of Merriton, Ont., a bonus of gratuity was voted to the employees of the Company amounting to six per cent. of their wages. The gratuity was awarded as a tangible expression of appreciation on the part of the company of the faithful services of its employees, the directors reporting that the greatest amity and good feeling prevails in every department of the company's mills. The practice was first introduced by the company at the beginning of the present decade, and has been continued each year since.

In British Columbia the amendment of the Master and Servant Act passed in 1902, having reference to deductions from the wages of employees for medical attendance, was originally made applicable only to cities and towns of more than 3,000 inhabitants. This limitation is now removed.

There will be a meeting of Regina Typographical Union No. 657 on Saturday, May 2. Members should turn out in full force.

Moose Jaw Trades Council

Petition City Council for Fair Wage Clause in Contracts

The regular meeting of the Moose Jaw Trades and Labor Council was held in the Trades Hall on April 21; President Fred Gray in the chair.

A communication from the Upholsters' Union of Guelph, Ont., was read containing information regarding the strike in the shop of Morlach Bros. in that city. It was the feeling of the council that as there were still a few firms left in that line of business who employ union men, the news should be circulated and the letter itself posted on the Bulletin Board.

The municipal committee were instructed to appear before the city council and present a written application for the use of Crescent Park for a provincial labor day celebration on Sept. 7th, and to ask for a grant of $200 towards that event. The committee was also instructed to petition the city council to enact a bylaw as follows:

"That from and after the passing of this bylaw, every contract to which the city council is a party, which may involve the employment of workmen or mechanics shall contain a stipulation that no workman or mechanic in the employ of the contractor or sub-contractor or other person doing or contracting to do the whole or any part of the work contemplated by the contract shall be permitted or required to work for less than the established rate of wages as the trade unions shall agree to."

Delegate Stephenson tendered his resignation from the office of statistician and chairman of the organization committee, which was accepted.

PRISON LABOR

The special committee appointed by the Ontario government to investigate the question of prison labor, has presented its report, in which the whole subject is treated as it affects the Central Prison of Ontario. It is pointed out that the industries of the central prison are operated at a loss to the province, while at all times they have afforded more or less serious competition to outside enterprises. The industries of the prison are three in number, the woodenware manufacturing, conducted under the contract system, the manufacture of supplies for public institutions, and the cordage mill, operated under the piece price system. It is pointed out that prisoners must be employed at productive work, as enforced idleness causes physical, mental and moral deterioration. An account is given of the system adopted in the penal and reformatory institutions of the United States, which were visited by the committee.

In the conclusion of the report, recommendations are made that the Central Prison be replaced by a provincial reformatory, and that the inmates be employed only in the cultivation of the land, the caring of live stock etc., and making supplies for public institutions. It is also recommended that the striped suits be abolished, and that a system of technical education be introduced, as well as instruction in elementary subjects and calisthenic exercises. —Labour Gazette.

Labor Leader Dead

Charles March Called to Well-earned Rest

Charles March, labor leader and second vice president of the International Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators of America, died in the Notre Dame Hospital yesterday after an illness of two weeks.

"Charlie" March was one of the best known labor men in Canada, and was universally liked. By trade a painter and decorator, being in the employ of the same firm for the last twenty or more years.

The Toronto Trades and Labor Council was organized in 1881, and on broader lines than those underlying the old Trades Assembly. The year 1883 found Mr. March president of the Toronto Trades and Labor Council, and it is not over much to say that to his advocacy and foresight in that capacity was due the fact that that body assumed the responsibility and duty of summoning together a congress of delegates from labor organizations, wherever existing in Canada, with the object of still further unifying and centralizing efforts to secure justice for the otherwise almost uncared for working elements of the Dominion. The effort was conspicuously successful, and Mr. March was unanimously chosen chairman and subsequently elected president.

At the next meeting of the Congress held in Toronto in 1886, Mr. March was unanimously selected as president, and then again, for the third time in 1887 when the Congress met in Hamilton. From 1883 to the present Mr. March has been a representative nearly every year at each congress. For fourteen years he held the office of treasurer, and for many years also that of chairman of the Legislative Committee.

As an evidence of the esteem in which Mr. March was held by his fellow townsmen and fellow workmen in the Queen City, it is worthy of mention that in 1886 he was a candidate for one of the city constituencies for the Ontario legislature. Although unsuccessful, he polled almost five thousand, no small tribute to the merits of the simple workingman in that municipality at that time.

The deceased was present at the Winnipeg convention of the Trades and Labor Congress last autumn, and was given a warm welcome by the delegates from all parts of the country.

Being Unto One's Job

(By Rev. Charles Stelzle.)

To be the master of one's self is the first and most fundamental thing in this connection. Therefore let's put first things first. It's a question of personal calibre and equipment. In almost every case, this is a matter of development. Few of us may not attain the position which we desire to reach. But there are so very few who are willing to pay the price. It's so much easier to stop when the job becomes difficult and to find a really legitimate excuse—one that will be accepted by our friends and be a comfort to ourselves.

Those who do succeed get there principally because they hung on when others let go, and not because they actually possessed more original power. There are, of course, the great mass of drifters, who will never attempt to swim against the tide, but I have in mind the average fellow whose honest purpose it is to excel.

Furthermore, it is in the little things that most men fall down. Not in the big obstacles—we'll surmount that and win out. Sometimes it is only a word spoken, at a critical moment which either makes or unmakes a fellow. An opinion expressed, a criticism made, a judgment given—and the keen judge of men sizes you up and puts you where you belong. Not always, true enough, but it's usually a character and a life that is back of your remarks, and your alert man of the world knows it. You will undoubtedly get another chance, but for the present you've lost it.

Sometimes it's a matter of dress. A frayed linen collar, worth, at the time, less than a nickel, has cost many a man a chance of a lifetime. "Cheap," "careless," "slouchy"—was the verdict of the relentless judge, and the opportunity was gone. There are geniuses who can afford to be slouches, but you've got to prove that you are a genius before you can afford to be a slouch.

In the end, it's the man who really is on the job seven days in the week who will win out. Not in the same way of course, for if he has good sense, he'll get strength for his job on the first day before he starts in for the week's work. But always, whether he works or plays, whether he reads or writes, whether he talks or thinks, or thinks and talks—to be always on the job—that's the fellow who will make his way to the front while others step aside.

Local and General

The principle of co-operation has been established and proved very satisfactory in the firm of Stanley Mills & Co., Ltd., operators of departmental stores at Hamilton, Ont.

At the annual meeting held recently it was reported that the savings bank department has at present 89 depositors, having $2,600 to their credit. The capital stock of the company owing to the turn-over above referred to, was increased from $100,000 to $500,000. In speaking of the co-operative management the president of the company said: "We have found this co-operative scheme to be very satisfactory. It has brought our employees closer to us and has increased their interest in the business, so that not only they but we have benefited by it."

The number of trade disputes during March was two less than in the month of February, but there was an increase of approximately 5,220 in the number of working days lost. An inspector of factories has been appointed by the government of Nova Scotia.

A deputation representing the Ontario executive of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada waited upon the Ontario government last month and asked for legislation with regard to child labor, an eight hour day for miners, restriction of employment of detective agencies, the use of centre isles in summer street cars, the enforcement of the fair wage clause in government contracts, the amendment of the factories act, the abolition of fees on immigration, and the amelioration of the conditions of telephone operators.

WORKING MEN

The merchant who advertises in the columns of the labor press seeks your patronage or he would not advertise there.

The merchant who advertises in every other paper but the labor papers may want your trade, but he is evidently not going out of his way to get it.

All the merchants who advertise in Labor's Realm have made special efforts to meet your demands and are carrying the goods you want.

It is therefore up to you to help those who are helping you by purchasing goods from those merchants, who are helping on the cause of labor by selling the product of union manufacture.

It is a rare occurrence nowadays to find the ministry and especially the Catholic ministry opposed to trade unions and the legitimate efforts of the working class to obtain better working conditions. The recent denunciation of trade unions by the Archbishop of St. John's, Dr. M. F. Howley, comes, therefore, as a great surprise. Not only did he denounce trade unions but expressed the belief that the old days of the truck system when men were paid in goods instead of cash, were better days. Almost two-thirds of the members of the labor unions in Newfoundland belong to the Roman Catholic church, and the Archbishop's statement has caused widespread consternation and surprise. Everyone will concede that the Archbishop is justly entitled to his own convictions but a public pronouncement in favor of the abominable Truck Act is to be deplored, and a return to those days would not only be a retrograde movement, but would be social suicide.

The president of the Trades and Labor Council, Thos. M. Molloy, has been elected to the position of secretary of the new local union of tailors and it has been taken for granted that he is the secretary of that organization, and figures as such in the official journal of the Tailors union.

An important decision has been given by the police magistrate at Ottawa in a wage case brought by a workman against a contractor. The magistrate ruled that the man should be paid for hours he had not been given by the contractor. The decision was in favor of the workman, and was a landmark case in the history of labor law in Canada.

Local and General

Geo. T. Walker has finished his exile in Moose Jaw and his familiar face will be seen in the halls of the council once again.

Edmonton Carpenters' Union is sending out notices warning the craft to stay away from there. Out of a membership of 82, there are no less than 67 men unemployed and still more men are pouring into the city.

Jas. Somerville, of Moose Jaw, has been elected to represent the machinists on the board of arbitration to be held in Winnipeg under the Lemieux Act.

Several bricklayers and carpenters have returned to the city after the winter vacation on the homestead. They are well pleased with the winter they have passed, as they may well be after the experience of the previous winter.

The Moral and Social Reform Council of Saskatchewan are keenly interested in the efforts of the working men of the province who are endeavoring to secure legislation regarding workmen's compensation and the adoption of a factory act.

The condition of trade in the building industry is a little better, but it will be sometime yet before building operations are sufficiently advanced to furnish employment for the large number of men still unemployed.

The secretary of the Trades Council is still anxiously awaiting remittance of per capita tax from local secretaries. It is only a small item but the needs of the council are great, and an early remittance will be greatly esteemed.

For a booster of the union label, the recording secretary of the Trades Council is without peer. If every man in the City was as conscientious and steadfast to the principles of trade unionism, the abuses that exist would soon be a thing of the past.

What about your costumes for Labor day? Remember the difficulty that was experienced last year in procuring goods with the Union Label and get your orders in in good time so that every man taking part in the parade on Labor Day, 1908, will be fully equipped with a costume manufactured under union and therefore sanitary conditions.

R. P. Pettipiece, western organizer for the Typographical Union, has been elected to take charge of the circulation, editorial, news and correspondence columns of the Trade Unionist, Vancouver. The paper is now under the direction of the Vancouver Trades and Labor Council, and all communications must be addressed to The Editor, 2138 Westminster Ave., Vancouver, B.C.

The local printers' union has been successful in negotiating a wage scale and working conditions for the ensuing twelve months. The chief alteration was the advance of the job compositors scale from $15 to $18 per week. This concession was made by the employing printers of the city without dispute, and it is a subject for congratulation that the feelings existing between employer and employee in this city are of the most friendly nature.

The Builders' Exchange no longer exists, so that the trade unions will now have to make arrangements with the contractors separately. It is to be regretted the working schedules for all the unions in the city could not have been negotiated through the Builders' Exchange, but that was evidently impossible, and the unions are now in the same position as they were before the negotiations, with the exception that less difficulty will be experienced by some of the unions in having their working schedules signed.
