SURVIVOR OF C. P. R. WRECK TELLS OF O'CONNOR'S DEATH.

Moncton Man Escaped Injury, But Has Suffered a Great Shock—Italian Laborers on Strike—A Marriage in the Railway Town.

MONCTON, N. B., July 4.—After escaping death by the margin of an hour, Breaux McCreedy, his nervous partially shattered, has been ordered to his home in this city for a week's rest. He was in the recent C. P. R. wreck, near Butler, Ont., in which ten Chinese, Japanese and white men were killed and so fearful were the sights witnessed, and so narrow was his own escape that McCreedy's nerves were completely upset and collapsed while on guard the night after the wreck. His own escape from death was a narrow one. McCreedy was one of the guards in charge of a number of some Chinese en route from Vancouver to Montreal. Thomas O'Connor, of St. John, was the other guard. About an hour before the wreck, O'Connor went on guard and McCreedy retired to a car at the rear of the train to sleep. When the collision took place, the car in which O'Connor was on guard and in which McCreedy would have been had the guard not changed, was telescoped and smashed to pieces, O'Connor being instantly killed.

When the high chief, ranger called the High Court to order it was nearly three o'clock, as a large group photograph of the delegates in front of the old Mechanics' Institute took up quite a little time.

The first business was the report read by D. G. Langley of the special committee on sections 1, 2 and 4 of the H. C. R. ranger's report, and it was as follows:

"That whenever the summons that will come to all came to our beloved, trusted and honored leader, Dr. Oronohyatska, on the third day of March last, our beloved orator lost all that the word leader implies. Seldom does any order owe so much to a single man as our order owes to our late supreme chief. Great hearted and broad minded, yet loving and gentle as a child, he fell asleep. The High Court desires to place on record its love and appreciation of him in life and his deep sorrow because of his death. Your committee would recommend that this resolution be engrossed on the minutes of the High Court and a copy be forwarded to the supreme executive.

COLLINS REMANDED TO JAIL TO STAND HIS TRIAL FOR THE THIRD TIME.

Jury After Being Out All Night Were Still Unable to Agree and at Ten O'clock This Morning, Were Dismissed by Chief Justice Tuck

HOPWELL CAPE, N. B., July 3.—His Honor Chief Justice Tuck in beginning his charge to the jury said the case had been admirably worked by the crown. The counsel for the Crown had left nothing undone and the senior counsel for the defense had made an address that would not fail to make a favorable impression. The prisoner had been most ably defended, Hon. Mr. McKeown cutting short a trip to England and appearing here for a mere pittance where his services could be valued at $500 a day. His Crown to prove the case and the resources it possessed. Could the prisoner if he had wealth, done better than he did or be better defended? Doubtless, he would have done so. The Crown said a more heinous or brutal crime had never come, to his knowledge in the history of this country. It was inconceivably horrible. His Honor cited nearly every murder of past years and said there was no evidence of such brutal character as the present case presented.

The chief justice traced the story of the crime in a very clear manner, speaking very favorably of the witnesses who had testified concerning the paint smear on the axe, their evidence convincing him that the contention that the crown had obtained in such a way was a fact. The movements of the prisoner traced by about fifty witnesses was gone into briefly by his honor, as these things having been proved. There was no testimony that any one was seen committing the murder, that was left to their judgment. If circumstantial evidence of the proper kind was presented, a verdict of guilty would be returned. Murderers did not take anyone with them to witness their crimes. Direct evidence might be given by the witnesses, more persons being convicted wrongly, he believed, in that way than by circumstantial evidence. The honor said, might be a sufficient motive, but the mere motive is not enough. Doubtless the opportunity for committing the crime was there, for murder, as well as robbery. The axe was there, the blood was on the clothing, the medical men that by blows being struck in a certain way this might be possible. The facts of the case, as stated by the witness, and the honor in referring to the doctor's evidence, said that if the evidence were true, Mary Ann McAuley must have been dead when Collins left the jury to decide. His honor here stated that although some rumor had been made about a former robbery there was nothing that pointed to the crime, and could it be possible, said his honor, that the jury would believe that after Collins left with his body some one went in and slew the woman? His honor then stated that he never heard of anything so absurd, and yet this was the argument advanced by the defense. Could the jury possibly believe such a proposition? His honor dealt with the prisoner's own evidence and referred to the reasons given for his not appearing on the stand before, viz., that on the first occasion he was not present, and at the last trial that his counsel felt it was not necessary, as he believed there was not sufficient evidence for him to answer a verdict of guilty, these reasons being given by Mr. McKeown himself. Such reasons did not appear satisfactory to his honor. The judge spoke disparagingly of the prisoner's story as told by himself, and very sarcastically referred to the account of the way in which Collins obtained Miss McAuley's watch. Could anybody, he said, with the rational mind believe such a story? That she would commit a violent act upon her own care to take to Albert when she was going herself. His honor closed his address, eloquently charging the jury to be swayed by no false sympathy.

HOPWELL CAPE, July 4.—Thomas F. Collins, charged with having murdered Mary Ann McAuley, at New Ireland, Albert County, will be tried for the third time in September next. The jury retired at noon yesterday and at supper time last night an agreement had not been reached. On orders of Chief Justice Tuck, the jury was locked up for the night. This morning the jurors reported at different times that they were not able to reach an agreement, and at 10 o'clock Judge Tuck discharged the jury.

He remanded Collins to jail until September 15th, when the third trial will commence. When the jury was locked up last night, they were held for conviction and seven days for acquittal. The jury stood the same this morning.

HUNDREDS HAVE NARROW ESCAPE Cool Act of Toronto Policeman Saved Many.

TORONTO, July 3.—Going at a rate of speed estimated at from 45 to 90 miles an hour, a loaded truck weighing many tons and loaded from end to end with lumber, was heading north on the C. P. R. tracks at the north end of Yonge street this morning, scattering its load of bricks in all directions, twisting a heavy rail like a twig, and finally landing a total wreck a short distance away. No life was lost, but some two hundred people, bound cityward had a narrow escape of their lives. The truck was on the tracks of the Metropolitan Railway at the top of the hill which extends for about half a mile from the station railway crossing to Deer Park. It became loose while making a way for a passing passenger car. The hill is steep, and the truck gained impetus with the half mile of its journey. It was about 3.30 in the morning and Police Constable Harold Wade was in Yonge street, north of the railway tracks. Glancing up the hill he saw the truck coming. It had hardly started, but he already started to run. As it was only a little over a quarter of a mile away, he had but a moment in which to act. At that moment he saw a good many things. The vicinity was literally black with people, for passengers were crossing over from the Metropolitan to the city railway. The Yonge street car was standing just across the railway crossing, and a crowd of people on the street there. Nearer to the policeman were perhaps another hundred, as well as trucks, hay wagons and other obstructions. It seemed impossible that all would escape.

"I was afraid," said Wade afterwards, "that if I ran at the crowd in the ordinary way they would think I was trying to do anything, and they would surely stand where they were. So I snatched off my helmet and ran at them, waving it and shouting. They moved out of the road like a battalion. There is one incident which Wade does not tell about. An old woman, whose name he does not know, was standing in the dangerous spot. Wade saw her, picked her up and in a second she was in safety. Although a young man Wade is a strong one, and possessed a cool head. It was not long before he had the truck switched westward on the tracks, where they would have gone directly down Yonge street, had it not been for Wade. Wade offered his right hand to the street car. Fifty people might have been killed had the switch been otherwise.

The people across the tracks boarding the street car had not as good a chance to see what was happening, and many of them would undoubtedly have been from Tacoma, Washington State, New York, Boston, and other cities of the United States, as well as from Ontario, Montreal, Moncton, Buxess, St. John, Hamilton and other places. The guests met many of the pews reserved for their use and they made a brave show with their bright costumes and lace trimmings. The principals were unsmiling. The bride's dress was of white tulle with lace and ribbon and lace trimmings, and she wore a large white picture hat, and carried a handsome bouquet of flowers. Before the ceremony the choir sang suitable hymns. Mrs. J. M. Barries of St. John, organist, and Mendelssohn's Wedding March formed the repertoire.

Immediately after the ceremony the guests retired to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ruddick, on Main street, where a reception was held and an opportunity afforded for congratulations and good wishes. Refreshments were served and the handsome and costly gifts inspected. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful gold watch and chain, and among the presents were a fine silver brooch, a pair of gold earrings and pearls, silverware, porcelain, cut glass, rich laces, and many valuable articles of use as well as ornament. The bride, having changed her bridal dress for a travelling costume of fine soft grey cloth and hat to the healthy body. There's a Reason. Read "The Road to Wellville" in p. 6.

FIENDISH CRIME STARTLES QUIET QUEBEC VILLAGE

Daughter of Prominent Farmer Lying at Death's Door as a Result of Murderous Assault Committed by Farm Hand—Inferriated Mob in Search of the Criminal—Lynching at First Feared.

MELBOURNE, Que., July 3.—A crime, the fiendishness of which has probably never been equalled in this neighborhood, was committed today near the residence of John Lynn, one of the best known farmers and dairy-men in the county, who lives within a mile of the outskirts of the village of Melbourne, as a result of which a beautiful daughter, Lillian, sixteen years old, lies at death's door. About eight o'clock a. m. Lillian went to the berry field, about a quarter of a mile away. Alfred Greenhill, an Englishman, who has done work about the place for about two years, was at the same time sent to work on the public road. While superintending the shipment of milk to Montreal Mr. and Mrs. Lynn heard the younger child call "Did you hear Lillian scream?" The cry came again, and Lynn, hurrying in his direction, came upon the scene, finding his daughter in a spot showing unmistakable signs of a fierce struggle, while the figure of Alfred Greenhill was seen making off for the woods. Mrs. Lynn, who was in the house, soon arrived from Richmond to face a spectacle to make any man's blood boil. Aside from minor injuries, four or five enormous gashes appeared on the back of the girl's head, having been inflicted with a stone. The report that she had died was spread about at noon, although as a matter of fact a fair degree of hope is entertained for her recovery. At the time of writing she remained unconscious. The news spread like wildfire through Richmond and the countryside, the state of feeling among men and women alike being beyond description.

RUDDICK - BARNES. HAMPTON, Kings Co., N. B., July 3.—At 5 o'clock this afternoon a brilliant wedding took place in the Methodist Church, Hampton Station, when Miss Adella May Ruddick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Barnes, of Saint John, by the Rev. Geo. A. Ross. The church was decorated with flowers and greenery, and a bridal arch had been formed over the central aisle at the front row of seats. The pulpit, platform and communion table were also banked with flowers. The list of invited guests was large and included relatives and friends from Tacoma, Washington State, New York, Boston, and other cities of the United States, as well as from Ontario, Montreal, Moncton, Buxess, St. John, Hamilton and other places. The guests met many of the pews reserved for their use and they made a brave show with their bright costumes and lace trimmings. The principals were unsmiling. WHAT A PITY.

That ambitious people through hard work invariably neglect health. It is pitiful to look into their faces and see plainly written there the evidence of transgressed law. The penalties of over-work are not easily seen as they are hard to bear—sleepless nights—tired mind and body—head that flutters and cause all sorts of uncomfortable feelings. Happily if these symptoms have not been so long established as to be chronic, Ferronine will cure them. Its mode of action is very simple: its curative power very great. It makes people eat more because it creates a wholesome feeling of hunger. If you want strength and endurance, use Ferronine—it will give it to you. No other tonic so full of nutriment and strength-making properties. Even one box will prove its enormous merits. Try Ferronine—50c. per box.

J. H. MAULEY.

At eight o'clock this morning James H. McAuley for seventy-seven years a resident at the Old Fort, on the west side, passed away. Mr. McAuley, who was highly esteemed by many friends, was sick but a short time with heart and liver trouble. He was in his 78th year and his loss is mourned by his sons, William, Thomas, Fred and Jacob; two daughters, Mary and Nellie, and a large circle of friends. The funeral will take place from the house at 4 o'clock, at 2.30 p. m. on Saturday. Rev. M. E. Fletcher will officiate at the station, where a further impressive reception was held, and the customary showers of rice and confetti bestowed upon their persons, with a chorus of good wishes and entering into the suburb train at 7.30 p. m. for Saint John, where they will make their home with Mrs. Jonathan Titus, at 24 Paddock street.

COFFEE COMPLEXION Many Ladies Have Poor Complexions From Coffee. "Coffee caused dark colored blotches on my face and body. I had been drinking it for a long while and these blotches gradually appeared, until finally they became permanent and were about as dark as coffee itself. It formerly had as fine a complexion as one could ask for. "When I became convinced that coffee was the cause of my trouble, I changed and took to using Postum Food Coffee, and as I made it very, according to directions, I liked it very much, and have since that time used it in place of coffee. "I am thankful to say I am not nervous any more, as I was when I was drinking coffee, and my complexion is now as fair and good as it was years ago. It is very plain that coffee caused most bad complexions are caused by some disturbance of the stomach and coffee is the greatest disturber of digestion known. Almost any woman can have a fair complexion if she will leave off coffee and use Postum Food Coffee and nutritious, healthy food in proper quantities. The natural grains from the field that Nature uses to rebuild the nervous system and when that is in good condition, one can depend upon a healthy body. There's a Reason. SUMMER SUNDAYS;

By Dr. J. D. Burrell.

In the Clason Avenue Presbyterian Church, Clason Avenue and Munroe Street, the pastor, the Rev. Joseph Burrill, D. D., preached last evening on "Summer Sundays." He took for his text Isaiah lvi: 12-14: Dr. Burrell said:

Evidently, I shall consider the observance of the Sabbath day a very important matter for the people of God. The summer time has come, although perhaps the temperature does not seem to indicate it. Nevertheless, the days are turning toward summer days, and the attraction of the country and of country recreation on the Sabbath day will be felt by people everywhere. I always feel at this time of the year that it becomes us to think about how we are going to spend the Sabbath day. There is a great deal of uncertainty in people's habits in this country, and it seems to me that it comes us to take a broad view of the subject; to have some definite convictions with regard to it, and then, by the grace of God, to live according to those convictions, no matter what other people may do or say.

Now, the Sabbath day has a threefold relation that we ought to bear in mind. It is important, first, as a day for us as individuals, and obviously, second, as a day for the church, and, third, as a day for the world.

First, as a day for us as individuals. It is important, first, as a day for us as individuals, and obviously, second, as a day for the church, and, third, as a day for the world. Second, as a day for the church. It is important, first, as a day for us as individuals, and obviously, second, as a day for the church, and, third, as a day for the world. region in the world before there was a church, but I say that the existence of religion in the world is a strong and conquering vitality that the possibility of progress throughout the world depends upon the Church of Jesus Christ. The Church of Jesus Christ is the only power that can give the world, through the Bible and other literature for the information of the world, the instruction that gives an impulse to charitable work for the benefit of the body social. I repeat that while there are many who never enter a church and yet are in a degree religious, yet the existence of religion in the world in any strong and triumphant form depends upon the existence of the Church. The second proposition is this: That the existence of the Church depends upon the observance of the Holy Sabbath day. The Church that disowns the observance of the Sabbath day, every church has its week day meetings, but the thing that represents the life of the church is the gaining of God's people in the place twice a day to worship their Father in heaven. That is the center and heart of the Church's life and it is made possible by our release from labor and being free to come together in the house of the Lord. If men had to work every Sunday, where would the hope be for Church life or social religion?

The third point: The importance of the Holy Sabbath day in our national life. One thing that it is necessary to emphasize over and over again is the necessity for every one to try and do his best to live a good life. It is necessary for morality to be taught, and where is it to be taught? It cannot be taught in the public schools except by example and influence. It cannot be taught in the home, unless the father and mother are themselves living a good life. It is necessary for morality to be taught, and where is it to be taught? MR. MOSES M. COADY, of the diocese of Antigonish, student of the Propaganda College, Rome, has recently obtained the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from the Roman Academy of St. Thomas Aquinas. Mr. Coady was the salutatorian of the class of '05 at the recent jubilee celebration of the University of St. Francis Xavier. He went to Rome during the autumn of 1905 and is at present a member of the first year class in theology at the Urban College.

MOST REV. PATRICK VINCENT FLOOD, O. P., Archbishop of Port of Spain, Trinidad, died on May 31. The beloved prelate had been in failing health for some time, necessitating a visit to Europe every year to recruit his strength, which was being slowly undermined by a deadly malaria. The late Archbishop was born in 1844 at Lagana, County Londonderry, Ireland. He entered the Dominican novitiate at Tallaght in 1860.

THE ANGLICAN. IN CONNECTION WITH a discussion of a report on the state of the Church of the Anglican Synod, Ontario, Mr. G. C. Smith, of the Church of Cornwall, declared that the need of the day is that the Church should take a more active part in political matters. The Church, he declared, should endeavor to exert an influence on the choice of members of both the Federal and Provincial Parliaments. He supported the report of the Anglican General Assembly before the Presbyterian General Assembly, and the work has never been more hopeful than it is today." Dr. MacArthur was born and his early training received in Canada.

THE FOREIGN MISSION BOARD of the Southern Baptist convention raised during the year just closing, considerably over $600,000, and discharged every dollar of debt.

REV. R. S. MACARTHUR, D. D., has just celebrated his thirty-seventh anniversary of his pastorate of Calvary church, New York. "A striking feature of his ministry is that this is his only pastorate. The progress of the church has been continuous all through these years, and the work has never been more hopeful than it is today." Dr. MacArthur was born and his early training received in Canada.

THE METHODISTS. SIR HENRY H. FOWLER, M. P., has "blocked" the parliamentary bill for legalizing the union of the Methodist Episcopal Churches and the Bible Christians. The bill, which has already passed through the House of Lords, would probably have gone through "unopposed" and would have resulted in the union of the two churches. Sir Henry's intention, it is understood, is to prevent the union of the two churches.

THE CHRISTIAN WORLD has the following: Rev. S. J. Russell, of Lansing, is sending to Newfoundland next week six Primitive and Wesleyan Methodists as a missionary party. The party will consist of six men and six women, and will be under the leadership of Rev. S. J. Russell.

A REMARKABLE SCENE in the centenary of the Primitive Methodists was witnessed at the session of the conference at Leicester, Eng., recently. The session was opened by a solemn dedicatory service, Mr. W. P. Hartley, a prominent Methodist, rose and offered $45,000. This was received with enthusiastic acclamations, and the delegates after delegate rose and promised generous contributions. At the close of the meeting it was announced that these offerings, with the pledges already made, raised a total of $1,850,000.

THE PRESBYTERIANS. THE BURNING QUESTION in the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland this year was the formula of subscription to the confession of faith. The following is the finding at which the assembly finally arrived: "I hereby subscribe the confession of Faith, the public and avowed confession of the Church, approved by former General Assemblies as most agreeable to the Word of God and ratified by parliament in the year 1690, declaring that I believe the reformed faith therein set forth, to where I will adhere." This finding will be submitted to Presbyteries in terms of the Barrier Act.

BISHOP FOSS, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, has been making a tour of "Astetic lands, especially the mission stations of his church. He spent some time in Swatow, China, of which he says: "In Swatow we found the headquarters of a strong Baptist mission, founded by the now venerable Dr. Ashmore, and in which his son has long been an efficient worker. The founder is now erecting, at his own expense, a noble hall for the Theological Seminary, which has for many years been training native preachers, under whose labors there have been numerous converts in hundreds of villages."

WRITING IN THE Canadian Baptist of the work in the West, D. B. H. says: "In 1855 there were forty-eight speaking Baptist churches in the Northwest, with a total membership of about 2,100. Now, there are over forty non-English Baptist churches with about 2,100 members. In 1855 there was one Scandinavian Baptist church in the West, with a membership of 400. In 1895 there were five German Baptist churches in Western Canada with a total membership of 480; now there are twenty German Baptist churches with a total membership of 1,500. In 1855 there were thirty-four Baptist pastors and missionaries all told in this convention, now 85 pastors among the non-English in the same territory."

THE FOREIGN MISSION BOARD of the Southern Baptist convention raised during the year just closing, considerably over $600,000, and discharged every dollar of debt.

REV. R. S. MACARTHUR, D. D., has just celebrated his thirty-seventh anniversary of his pastorate of Calvary church, New York. "A striking feature of his ministry is that this is his only pastorate. The progress of the church has been continuous all through these years, and the work has never been more hopeful than it is today." Dr. MacArthur was born and his early training received in Canada.

THE METHODISTS. SIR HENRY H. FOWLER, M. P., has "blocked" the parliamentary bill for legalizing the union of the Methodist Episcopal Churches and the Bible Christians. The bill, which has already passed through the House of Lords, would probably have gone through "unopposed" and would have resulted in the union of the two churches. Sir Henry's intention, it is understood, is to prevent the union of the two churches.

THE CHRISTIAN WORLD has the following: Rev. S. J. Russell, of Lansing, is sending to Newfoundland next week six Primitive and Wesleyan Methodists as a missionary party. The party will consist of six men and six women, and will be under the leadership of Rev. S. J. Russell.

A REMARKABLE SCENE in the centenary of the Primitive Methodists was witnessed at the session of the conference at Leicester, Eng., recently. The session was opened by a solemn dedicatory service, Mr. W. P. Hartley, a prominent Methodist, rose and offered $45,000. This was received with enthusiastic acclamations, and the delegates after delegate rose and promised generous contributions. At the close of the meeting it was announced that these offerings, with the pledges already made, raised a total of $1,850,000.

THE PRESBYTERIANS. THE BURNING QUESTION in the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland this year was the formula of subscription to the confession of faith. The following is the finding at which the assembly finally arrived: "I hereby subscribe the confession of Faith, the public and avowed confession of the Church, approved by former General Assemblies as most agreeable to the Word of God and ratified by parliament in the year 1690, declaring that I believe the reformed faith therein set forth, to where I will adhere." This finding will be submitted to Presbyteries in terms of the Barrier Act.

KING ALFONSO SEEMS TO BE GREATLY PLEASED WITH HIS NEW HEIR

MADRID, June 15.—This is the first photograph taken of King Alfonso, since the birth of his son and heir. The young king attended a christening ceremony in the uniform of a general of cavalry. He was deeply moved by the hearty reception of his subjects, and "never lost his perfect smile." One gracious act made a great impression on the public in the galleries. During the procession they were so anxious to get a nearer view of the royal baby that they nearly succeeded in breaking through the files of halberdiers. Seeing this King Alfonso gave a hurried order that the people should be allowed to have their own way, as they were anxious to demonstrate their affection. Accordingly the royal procession was soon passing through a narrow human avenue, and everybody expressed thanks to His Majesty, who by this democratic act did more than any amount of etiquette to win his people's regard.

STARTLING INCREASE IN THE PRICE OF BEEF AND OTHER MEATS; CATTLE VERY SCARCE

The prices of beef and other meats now in is to have a sufficient stock of sirloin roasts and also dispose of the rest of the carcass.

The retail price on lamb, veal, pork and mutton has advanced about twenty per cent. in the past few weeks. An advance in the wholesale price, Mr. Williams said, there was a scarcity of cattle. Many cattle are purchased up river, in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and Ontario are also depots where cattle is purchased by the local wholesalers. The majority of fat cattle come from Ontario, as there is not enough well bred stock in the province.

Owing to the backward spring the cattle are not yet out on the grass, so that the stall bred cattle are being killed later in the season than usual. When the grass cattle are brought to market the prices will probably ease a bit.

The demand for steaks and meat of all kinds is advancing yearly. Mr. Williams says the advance in the past ten years is very noticeable. The working people are in better circumstances than they were five or ten years ago and are eating meat of the same quality as the merchant and wealthier man. In regard to pork Mr. Williams says the price is higher than at any time in the past fifteen years. It is now nine cents a pound, where last year it ranged from seven to eight cents a pound. The retail price of pork has also advanced.

LOST HIS COURAGE AT RECTOR'S DOOR

NEW YORK, June 28.—Parted not quite at the altar, but at the door of the Rev. Dr. Houghton, friend of the homemaker, after a courtship of two weeks, a chance meeting in the Waldorf-Astoria palm room, a sudden proposal of marriage and a prompt acceptance, Miss Elsie Evans and Wm. F. Eastman went different ways last night. Mr. Evans pondering deeply and not very comfortable and Miss Evans laughing. She returned to the Waldorf and there told friend of her unique experience.

"He lost his courage at the church," she said. "Now I am not sorry that he did so."

Miss Evans is the daughter of a New York lawyer who lives at No. 30 West 122d street. She is nineteen years old, attractive and a favorite in the younger social set of the upper west side.

Mr. Eastman is advertising manager of Vogue, a magazine devoted largely to fashions, and is several years the senior of Miss Evans. His devotion to her since they first met, two weeks ago, has attracted the acute interest of the girl's feminine friends and an equally acute but hostile interest in several young men of the neighborhood. This Mr. Eastman's attentions were not welcome was evident to both classes of onlookers.

Thus their courting sped, hastened by the fact that Mr. Eastman planned to go to Europe next week. His opportunities of seeing his sweetheart were growing daily less, and to add one to their number he suggested Tuesday evening when calling on Miss Evans that the stop in the Waldorf-Astoria for tea yesterday afternoon, when he would be able to meet her. They had tea, then went to the palm room and were cozily talking together when by some strange tack the conversation turned to matrimony.

Mr. Eastman had an inspiration and he asked Miss Evans to be his bride and accompany him on his trip abroad. Miss Evans said yes. Mr. Eastman said, "Let us get married now." Miss Evans agreed.

Flushed with pride and happiness, Mr. Eastman instantly suggested that the Church of the Transfiguration, Twenty-ninth street, was very nice and, Miss Evans offering no serious objection, he led her into Fifth avenue and toward Twenty-ninth street.

As he walked the stir of excitement his heart became strangely quiet. He faltered in his words. Possibly he began to hope that the rector of the Church of the Transfiguration would be at home. He was weakening. Mr. Evans, as she noticed her companion changed aspect, interpreted it as evidence of deep feeling, for when she saw Mr. Eastman had mounted the steps of the rectory and stood before the door she pulled the bell. Mr. Eastman seemed too nervous to do so. His eyes were on the door and when a maid opened and he asked in a hoarse voice, "Dr. Houghton at home?"

"Yes, sir. Right in his study," answered the maid.

TWO PRIESTS ORDAINED

In the Cathedral this morning Messrs. Michael O'Brien, of Johnville, and Edward Conway, of Hampton, were ordained deacons. The gentlemen were ordained deacons in the cathedral on Thursday, Messrs. O'Brien and Conway have attained distinction in their academic studies in the Grand Seminary at Quebec. In that institution three important branches of the higher studies are carried on. There are two classes of dogmatic theology, and one of moral. The newly ordained priests succeeded in taking premium in all three branches. Father O'Brien taking the premium for moral theology and for one dogmatic class, Father Conway winning the premium for the other dogmatic class.

At the service on Thursday when Messrs. O'Brien and Conway were ordained deacons, His Lordship Bishop Casey officiated, assisted by Rev. Frs. Meahan and Holland. At this morning's ordination, Bishop Casey, raised the two young men to the priesthood. He was attended by Fathers Meahan and O'Keefe. Father Conway will celebrate his first mass at Hampton tomorrow, and Father O'Brien will celebrate his first mass in the cathedral at eleven o'clock tomorrow.

The ordination service was one of great solemnity. In beginning the bishop imposed his hands on the heads of the two young men. All present then raised their hands and prayed for the two young men. The consecrating prayer which is as follows: "The priests who are in the second order hold the place of the seventy-two apostles, who were guiding the people; they are the companions and assistants of the Pontiffs, as the children of Aaron assisted their father, and as the Apostles assisted the bishop, the son of God. Therefore, very dear sons guard in your conduct integrity of a chaste and holy life. Comprehend what you do, imitate what you touch."

The bishop then anointed the palm of each of the newly ordained with

LONDON PURITY PEOPLE AGAINST LIVING STATUARY

Big Deputation Protests Against the Nude in Art—The Patents and Designs Bill to be Amended—Many Sports in British Cabinet.

LONDON, June 28.—A "social purity" deputation headed by the Bishop of London has just made a stirring address before the music hall committee of the London County Council regarding the exhibition of living statuary.

Photographs of ladies in statueque poses were shown to the committee and the deputation was promised that the committee would seriously consider the advisability of taking action.

The "social purity" deputation then withdrew and as they filed out it was arranged between them that if the committee continued to take no action the crusaders would march in an open body to the council.

Seldom in fact have such diverse interests been united in a single aim as when this large deputation passed into the presence of the music hall committee.

The Bishop of London walked side by side with Rabbi Morris Joseph representing the Jewish Church with a holy officer and the Salvation Army officer close behind. Free Church ministers and representatives of various societies looked on with interest.

Mr. H. J. Greenwood, the chairman of the committee, received the deputation. The first speaker was the Bishop of London who urged that the young people of both sexes should be protected in their interests.

These exhibitions had been stopped in cities and towns such as Hull, Edinburgh, Glasgow and Birmingham, he said, and he thought London ought to do the same.

Bishop Johnson protested on behalf of the Roman Catholic community and declared "living statuary" of this class ought not to be tolerated on the stage at all.

Mr. Sylvester Horne, representing the Free Church Council of London, declared "living statuary" of this class ought not to be tolerated on the stage at all.

Father Ignatius did not attend the meeting but he did deliver a ringing condemnation of the plan of exhibiting statuary in the purpose of adopting resolutions in condemnation of living statuary at Small Ganges Hall in Langham Place.

"The day is drawing near," he said, "when we shall find England a pagan country."

"Our art in our morals, in our statuary and in our pictures is being degraded," he said, "and I would say against those who appear nude in public. They say they do it in the interests of art, and I must confess that it must be a very great sacrifice for them to do so."

"Living statuary is all right so long as it does not degrade a single woman. I cannot say anything against England as a Christian woman for England is not a Christian."

"The nude in art is diabolical and pagan and one should have nothing to do with it. But because it is a thing that should not be really in any contract relating to a patented article or invention to impose a condition prohibiting or restricting the purchaser or lessee from using another patented article or invention supplied by another patentee or owner."

The clause which in principle was accepted at the previous sitting is intended to prevent the owners of patented articles insisting that for a period of years no other invention of the same class should be used. It was suggested by the state of affairs in the book-making industry that it should be applied to the patents unless under an agreement that after twenty years no other machine shall be employed to do the same work.

Mr. Lloyd-George moved to amend the clause which provides for a contract for the use of a patented article being terminated on three months notice should the party giving notice should be liable to pay to the other party such compensation as falling agreement might be determined by an arbitrator appointed by the Board of Trade. Various agreements were suggested to this amendment, Sir P. Mangus moving that regard should be had to all of the circumstances and conditions of the original contract.

THE SECRET OF THE SEA. Inscrutable and doomful deeps, Where solitude, calm spirit, sleeps, Beyond the restless seeking sunbays ray;

Where Silence, kindred god, abides, And rhythmically restless rides, Clock off th' unreckoned, lightless ocean day;

No temple of the olden time Was ever like to this sublime, Nor from the world of men so all unlinked.

Here broods the Spirit awesomely In his own sanctum of the sea— True Holy of all Holies, God distinct.

So was it when the world began, So in the cycle, God in Man— So when this earth is old and cold 'twill be:

Ought I to wear my Peter Pan? Of course I will! And try this jaunty Panama? Much better still.

Oh, horrors! see the grease stain there, And how the wind does blow my hair, Say, Mr. Smith—hang, pop—oh, dear, It isn't very peaceful here.

There's a living, haunting memory of the sweet wind 'n the pines. And a yearning for the swish of split bamboo. And a never ending longing 'round my hungry heart entwines For the rush of water 'gainst a bark canoe.

Oh, I know the geese have nested, all the laggard leaves are out And the partridge cock is drumming in the spruce. I can smell the fragrant odor of the balsam all about.

SOME EDITORIAL DIFFICULTIES. (From the Denver Republican.) President Roosevelt in his James- town speech advised the newspaper editors of the country to be temperate in their expressions.

The temperate expression is a fine thing admit. And the sanctum's always better for a little of it.

But suppose some gentle poetess of forty years or more Brings in her latest poems and sits down to read them o'er?

And suppose some old subscriber brings a column letter in, And in trying to unroll it you are asking, "What's this?"

Suppose a cub reporter has stirred up the office fire, By falling down completely on the story of a fire?

Or some compositor has knocked an article sky high, But carefully inserting there a line of printer's "g?"

Suppose a wreck or war breaks loose and photo there is none— The editor's "official" was not there with his gun?

While his hated rival's picture man was Johnny-on-the-spot— How's an editor to hold himself from writing things red hot?

Suppose the umpire from our team has stolen one whole game, And the sporting editor sits down to call that ump a name;

Do you think he's going to speak a term of mild and soft reproof, Or will he jump upon the man with spleen in verbal roof?

There are others where it can't be told— He'll draw his language mild, But still to words intemperate he'll strive never to give vent. And be as mild a critic as—well, say our President!

PARIS, June 23.—Returning from his period of military service, a man named Maury learned that his wife had left him for Edouard Haut, her lover. At midnight last night he went to the Hotel St. Marc, where the woman was living, and placed two friends to guard the exit from the hotel courtyard, on which his wife's rooms looked. He then called to his wife to let him in. The woman raised a window, recognized her husband; and shut it hastily. Maury broke the glass and climbed in. Edouard Haut rushed out at the door as he did so.

MAURY was seized by the husband's friends, who held him fast while Maury rushed up, emptied a revolver into the prisoner's body. Maury then surrendered to the police. His wife while being questioned by a magistrate today, went mad, and it is feared that she will not recover.

The fact that the Shore Line terminus is now on C. P. SHIPPING NEWS FOR THE WEEK RECENT DEATHS

COLLINS IN

Tells Straight-forward Career in N

Never Had Any Trouble Says—Mr. Mckeown's Jury—Solicitor General Court Adjourned.

HOPEWELL CAPE, via Albert, June 27.—The Collins murder trial was continued today, court opening at 10 o'clock. Good progress was made, a large number of witnesses being examined during the day.

The attendance at the morning session was very small, the galleries filled up, principally by ladies.

Today's proceedings saw the production in court of the axes, the blood stained overalls and rug and the other articles that figured so largely at the preceding trial.

Prof. Adams, the first witness this morning, gave the results of the tests he had made of the smear on axe No. 1 and the paint on the door of the prisoner's closet that had been broken open.

A number of experiments were made, each confirmative of the other, in showing that the smear on the axe was paint and similar to that on the door.

His honor asked the witness if he could state that the paint on the axe came from the implement being struck on the door, his honor's opinion being that the paint had hardened for months on a door would make a smear on an axe by a blow of the latter.

To this the witness stated that before he experimented that it also had been tested in a practical way he found that a blow would produce such a result, making a smear showing similar characteristics to that on the axe in question.

The witness very fully and explicitly explained the chemical tests to the jury, who asked many questions. In answer to a question of Hon. Mr. Mckeown the witness said that if the axe took a smear of paint from the door the blood on the axe which might have been put on previous to the blow on the door would remain with the smear on the axe and not come off.

To Mr. Mckeown the witness said he could not swear positively that the paint on the axe came from the door, but that his experiments had shown that the paint on the door would make a smear on an axe by a blow of the latter.

Dr. S. C. Murray, the next witness said he was a coroner for the County of Albert and told the jury that if he had been called on to examine the body of the murdered woman on the morning of August 22nd, and also giving the particulars of the condition of the body when he viewed it describing in detail the nature of the wounds which he caused.

The wound on the back of the head was about four inches in length, and was such as might have been made with an axe, and it seemed as if the blow might make such a stain as that on axe No. 1, shown in court. He could not determine the nature of the instrument with which the throat had been cut, but that it seemed as if the blow on the head had been made first, the victim having been felled to the floor of the woodhouse by the blow.

He afterwards being dragged to the woodpile where it was found. His opinion was that the woman had been dead about forty-eight hours when discovered. The witness spoke of the blood stained overalls which had been found in the woodpile, and that he had examined them. The doctor's evidence was practically that already printed.

Dr. Adley of St. John, bacteriologist gave evidence of having made a chemical test of the stains on axe No. 1, applying the blow for blood, which had shown to be present. The witness said, smears of paint on the axe, which he judged to have been put on after the blow. He also corroborated Dr. Murray's evidence as regards the production of the blood stains and the nature of the wounds in relation to the causing of death.

In regard to the distinguishing of human blood from that of an animal the witness stated it was possible if the blood were fresh, but not if it had become fully dry. In the case of the blood on the axe in question it had become dry and there was no way of determining whether it was human blood.

The witness said he had also examined axe known as No. 2, belonging to Mr. Miller, neighbor of Father McAnley and found no blood. The witness was shown by Mr. Mckeown, cross-examination, the articles of wearing apparel found in the valise carried by the prisoner. The articles had the appearance of having been recently washed. Blood stains could be removed by cold water if washed inside of a couple of hours or so, but not after a day or two, unless by chemical means. The first witness after recess was Dr. Murray of Albert, recalled, who stated that the blow that struck the victim's head was an oblique one.

COLLINS TAKES STAND IN HIS OWN BEHALF

Tells Straight-forward Story of His Career in New Ireland

Never Had Any Trouble With Miss McAuley, He Says—Mr. McKewon's Strong Address to the Jury—Solicitor General Jones Talking When Court Adjourned.

HOPEWELL CAPE, via Albert, June 27.—The Collins murder trial, court opening at 10 o'clock. Good progress was made, a large number of witnesses being examined during the day. The attendance at the morning session was very small, but in the afternoon the galleries filled up, principally with ladies.

Today's proceedings saw the production in court of the knife, the blood stained overalls and rug and the other articles that figured so largely at the preceding trial.

Prof. Andrews, the first witness this morning, gave the results of the tests he made on the smearer on axe No. 1 and the paint on the door of the priest's closet that had been broken open. A number of experiments were made, each confirmative of the other, in showing that the smearer on the axe was paint and similar to that on the door.

His honor asked the witness if he could state that the paint on the axe could state that the paint on the door, his honor's opinion being that it did not seem probable that the paint that had hardened for months on a door would make a smear on an axe by a blow on the latter.

To this the witness stated that before he experimented that had also been his opinion, but after making mechanical tests in a practical way, he was now convinced that the smearer on the axe was paint and similar to that on the door.

Mr. McKewon, the witness said, had been told that the smearer on the axe was paint and similar to that on the door. He had been told that the smearer on the axe was paint and similar to that on the door.
