of whom gave short but much appreciated addresses.

In St. Augustine's Church yesterday morning Rev. Father Feeny preached on "Sabbath Observance." His sermon was a calm and rational survey of the question. His contention was that to follow one's secular avocation on the Sabbath day for greed of money getting was a direct blow at the fundamental purpose of the day, and should be resisted by all who are desirous of following the teachings of the founder of our Christianity. As much to be deprecated, however, the speaker contended, as the violation of God's holy day by greedy gain getters, was the effort in the other direction, of shutting out from innocent pleasures and amusements on that day, from all people, many of whom, working in mills and factories during the week, have no other opportunity of getting fresh air and enjoying a few hours free from the toil and fatigue of their every day occupation. The address was listened to with close attention, and created an impression that will undoubtedly be lasting and beneficial.

Dealers Looking For Advance at Any Minute.

Now that the heat of the sun is not quite so great, naturally people begin to look at the stove and incidentally at the coal bin. Every year the price takes on a firmer tone about the month of September, as the prices by that time have been increased at the mine, owing to the larger demand. In the spring the to the larger demand. In the spring the price is lowered 50 cents a ton, and from then on increases at the rate of 10 cents a ton until September. When spoken to this morning the manager of one of the largest coal firms in the city said that although prices had not yet advanced there was little doubt but that it would do so before very long, but he did not think it would go above the usual winter price of $7 a ton, with discount for cash.

He explained that the reason the price had not advanced as yet was because the demand was not very strong and was only enough to keep the teams at work. When the price is advanced at the mines, which is expected at any time, the price will be higher.

The other case was where a team of light horms were forced to do work too heavy for them. The driver was warned that either the load would have to be made lighter or heavier horses used.

LIVELY RUNAWAY.

A runaway on Saturday afternoon in the centre part of the city caused considerable excitement. The horse was a small grey, but its spirit and speed were not in proportion to its size, for of both it had plenty. It dashed up James street, running in the centre of the car tracks, crossed King street and kept straight up James street until it came to the hill, where the work proved a little too hard, and it was easily caught. No damage was caused by its lively run. Harry Robinson has left the employ of the Grand Trunk Railway Company and has entered the law firm of Lee & Farmer as a student. MAY SOLVE THE PROBLEM.

White House to be Used For Scarlet Fever Cases.

Smallpox Patients Removed to the New Hospital.

Temperance People Opposed to Club Licenses.

As a result of an arrangement made on Saturday by the Board of Health at a special meeting to provide acco dation for the overflow from the scarlet fever wards at the City Hospital it is possible that the scheme to enlarge the old isolation buildings at a cost of $10,ond notation buildings at a cost of $10,000, which the council and Board of Hospital Governors have already approved of, may be delayed or cancelled. The Board of Health is strongly opposed to the money being spent on the hospital grounds, contending that the increased accommodation will only be temporary. The Board of Health decided to use the Holland A. White house in the southwest end, recently purchased as park property, for the accommodation of scarlet fever patients, provided the Parks Board consented. Last night Acting Chairman Quinn and Dr. McGillivray, the acting Medical Health Officer, called on Chairman Bruce, and he expressed the opinion that the Parks Commissioners would be quite agreeable to the house being used to take care of the scarlet fever patients. "This means," said the doctor to-day, "that we have plenty of accommodation now. The diphtheria cases can be moved over to the scarlet fever rooms at the hospital as soon as they are disinfected, and if it is thought advisable there will be no need at present to enlarge the building." 000, which the council and Board of at present to enlarge the building.

Arrangements were also made at the meeting to isolate the three smallpox cases discovered on Canada street in the new smallpox hospital, which has not been used yet. Men were busy there all day saturday and yesterday getting the building ready, and the patients will be moved there this afternoon. No new cases have been discovered. Efforts so far to locate the young woman who is supposed to have brought the disease here have failed. If she was really suffering from smallpox it is feared she may have spread the disease far and wide in her travels. Arrangements were also made at the

It is understood that the temperance people, if they secure control of the Council next year, will not only endeavor to have the licenses out down to fifty, but will also make an effort to have the licenses of the Hamilton Club and the Commercial Club, in so far as the serving of liquor is concerned, cancelled. The Executive of the Citizens' League, Toornto, in mapping out an aggressive plan for the whole Province, decided to try and stop the serving of liquor in clubs.

The urgent necessity of increased pumping capacity at the Beach pumping station was again forcibly impressed upon the city officials to-day when the returns for the amount of water pumped during August were received from Engineer McFarlane. "More nor three weeks, yer honer," and then Jim went over the whole story again, how he was travelling in Ath-shire, and one evening put up at a place called Fraser's Mine, near Ledstone, and shire, and one evening put up at a piace called Fraser's Mine, near Ledstone, and just as he was fixing everything for the night he heard a groaning coming from somewhere about the mouth of the pit, and, having conquered his fright, he had leaned over the old shaft, and looking down with his lantern, had seen a man clinging with all his strength to a broad beam, part of the woodwork that had been built up near the top, and how he had shouted encouragement to the poor creature, and he and his wife had flung stout ropes over the edge, and by the greatest difficulty managed to drag the wretched man to the surface, where he had fallen down in a faint, and then had gone on growing worse and worse, until they feared that he could last no longer.

"But why did you not carry him back to Ledstone? No doubt he is an inhabitant of the place; you would have saved yourself much trouble if you had done this."

"Well," confessed Jim, as he knocked the ashes out of his pipe, "it were like this: My Missis and I both got the same notion into our 'eads as he was a cove as was a-hidin' for somethin', and

"Hallo!" was Jim's response, turning his head to look backward.

"Jim!" A woman emerged with a bundle of wet rags she had been washing in her well-browned hands. "Jim, he's orful bad to-night."

"I heerd 'im," replied Jim. "What's he a-doin' now? Is he a-sleepin', missis?"
The woman wrung out her rags of garments and flung them on the hedge to dry. She shook her head.

"No, he's in one of them faint likes. Jim, I don't feel comfortable about 'im. He don't get no better, and that's just the blessed truth."

Jim scratched his head, took out his pipe, and, put it back again between his teeth.

"Well, what's to be done, Marie? We can't chuck the poor cove out ere to die. We've done our best for him so long, we might go on a little while longer."

The woman wiped her brow with her apron, but she looked undecided.

"I tell you I ain't comfortable like, Jim. It was all very well at the beginnin.' we epexciir' every minit as he'd be better and hisself agin, but wot are we to do if he gets worser? Wot then? We can't pay mo funeral, and that yer know as well as I does, Jim."

Well, I must do what I can for him, and perhaps in a few days he will be able to speak for himself; that is, if my theory about his belonging to Ledstone should prove to be incorrect."

The woman winged her brow with her approached the proper should be about the belonging to Ledstone should prove to be incorrect."

The analyse of the cart passed through the village, and stopped at a building that bore un-Toar, dear friend, if only i count asy 'yes,' but I cannot," she said, with deep emotion.

How could she live beneath this roof, bearing such a secret as 'she did within her breast? How bring the taint of murder, of sin, in this pure, fresh home? Besides, she could not rest in Northminster—she must get away—miles away—from any chance of meeting Marian Adair, miles away from Ledstone and the hörrible past.

She let Miss Weston see some of this eagerness in her next words, which dwelt on her determination to put an end to her hitherto lazy life, and to earn her living.

Miss Weston stroked the beautiful hair from the girl's brow.

Jim smoked on quietly, and hammered at his chair for aumoment, then he looked up again.

"Wot's to be done, Maria?"

The woman paused.

"I'll tell you," she said, slowly, as with an air of a pegaon arrived at a conclusion after much deliberation. 'You'll just march down to the village and fetch up the doctor chap, and then we'll put 'im," with a jerk of the thumb backward. "into the work'us infirmary, or the 'splum. I know there's one 'ere." Jim was silent for amother spell.

"Well," he said at last, pushing back the chair and surveying it with much satisfaction, "I suppose you're right, as per usual, Maria, and after all we've stuck by the foy so long it's only fair some one should take a turn now. Father J. J. Roach, of the Sacred Heart Church at Niagara Falls. The ceremony was performed in the study of the pastor.

The very young couple then went to Buffalo, where they sent a message to the bridegroom's father at Pittsburg asking forgiveness. Mr. Mugele sent a message telling the young couple he would spank them both. When the father reached Buffalo, however, he postponed the punishment, bringing them both to Pitttsburg, where they are now. Mrs. Tallot, mother of the bride, who lives at 955 Niagara avenue, Niagara Falls, N. Y., has declined, to date, to reply to tearful messages asking for giveness from her daughter.

He pushed his long arms into the non-descript garment called by courtesy a coat, then lifting the child up kissed it before giving it into the mother's hands, and with his pipe still between his teeth, turned down the lane and was soon out of sight.

The doctor, a kind-hearted man, whose interest and sympathy were keenly aroused by the unusual case brought thus suddenly under his notice, made every arrangement for the invalid's comfort, and helped himself to carry the now senseless form up to one of the private rooms set apart for extreme case like this.

And so, while Lord Otway was searching in every direction, while Gordon Smythe, back in his old haunts, was endeavoring to stifle conscience, and fear at one and the same time, while Lady Blanche Bellairs and the poor deformed Marian were waiting anxiously for news, and Katharine Brereton lay with wide, agonized eves and beating with wide, agonized eyes and beating brain, thinking—always thinking— of the same awful subject, Craven Adair, the cause of this search, this fear, this the cause or this search, this fear, this grief, and this hopeless despair, was carried into a shelter that was sustained by the indifferent charity of a very fortunate woman by name Barbara Mostyn.

Such is the irony of fate!

CHAPTER IX. The old proverb of man proposes and God disposes came true once again to Katharine. As she had lain—wretched weak, and all—in bed after that interview with Lord Otway, she had determned that, come what might, she determined that, come what might, she would leave Northminster at once. The thought of seeing poor Marian Adair, being a witness to her grief, was more than she could bear, she said to herself passionately. She would return more than she could bear, she said to herself passionately. She would return to Ledstone for a few days, and then— well, then! Katharine had no settled plans, only the rugged determination that henceforth she would call Lucy Smythe's house her home no longer. With her modest fifty pounds a year she could not starve, and she had brains and hands to make more.

ner modest firty pounds a year she could not starve, and she had brains and hands to make more.

All this she had settled in her mind, and was just on the point of telling Mrs. Smythe they must prepare to start for Ledstone the next day, when the latter rushed into her room, full of excitement.

"Oh, Katharine, love, I am afraid I must leave you, and go home at once. I have just had a telegram from my darling; he has run down for a few days, and so, you see, I must go. You don't mind, dear, do you!"

Katharine had shuddered at the mere mention of Gordon's name.

How dare he, how could he go so close to the scene of his horrible cruelty, his orime? was the question that forced itself into her mind.

Mrs. Smythe repeated her eager words, and Katharine roused herself to answer

Her tone was rather snort and curt, but Mrs. Smythe sid not notice it, she was so full of delight at the thought of seeing her boy again, and in less time than can be imagined, she had bustled off to the station, and caught a train

He states the cost per passenger and per kilo will be much less than surface or underground transit, and greater speed will be possible.

The proposition of Laur has not yet awakened the ridicule which might have been expected at the present stage of the development of aviation. The journal which first published the statement takes it in absolute seriousness. The French are optimists for the future of human flight. Indeed, it appears they know no ultima thule. her great devotion."

Katharine lay staring out at the twilight sky, and made no answer to this.

No tongue could tell the unutterable loathing, the dread, the horror, she had for Gordon Smythe. She seemed debased in her own sight, insomuch as she had permitted herself to become his wife and save him from a shameful death.

Over and over again the memory of save him from a shameful death.

Over and over again the memory of her beloved father would rise, and a pang would go through her heart at the pain his proud, honorable nature would have experienced could he have known her present agony and degradation.

Miss Weston was a sensible soul; she saw at once what Mrs. Smythe had never seen, that Katharine was going through some mental crisis, and she pitied her accordingly. Already she had grown to love this beautiful-faced girl, and to appreciate her broad, intellectual character, preciate her broad, intellectual character her noble, generous heart, as something rare and exquisite.

down beside the bed, and stroked Katharine's hand.

"If I had your sweet face always before me I should be grateful indeed," she said, softly. "Katharine, do you think you could be happy with me? I should not have said this, my dear, had I not known that you are an orphan, and that were you to leave Mrs. Smythe's she still has her boy to fall back upon, but I have grown very fond of you, my child. I am a rich, lonely old woman, and if you care to make your home with me, why..."

Katharine carried the kind, withered hand to her lips auddenly, while two hot tears rolled down her cheeks and dropped on it.

"Dear, dear friend, if only I could say 'yes,' but I cannot," she said, with deep emotion.

MURDER FEARED.

Body of Man Found in Little Stur geen River.

North Bay, Sept. 18.—The body of a man aged about thirty-five years was found in Little Sturgeon River near North Bay, and on being taken from the water evidences of murder were found. There was a gaping wound in the neck, evidently a stab wound.

The body was observed first by a brakeman on a train passing over the bridge, and a sectionman was notified, and he brought the body ashore. Provincial Constable Connor took charge of the case, and an inquest is being held by Coroner McMurchy. Nothing was found on the body to identify it, and the pockets were bare of money or other valuables.

Various theories were held, one that the man was killed and thrown from the railway bridge, and another that he met his death at some lumber camp farther up the river, but nothing definite can be ascertained until identity is established.

The Lackawanna was coming down through the upper rapids, at the head of the river, when her steering gear gave way. She sheered against the Hall, which was tied to a dock, glanced out into the steam, and struck the bow of the Chieftain, which was upbound, in tow of the steamer Shenandoah. The collision with the Hall did little injury, collision with the Hall did little injury but the Chieftain sustained considera ble damage, and the Lackawanna had a big hole torn in her starboard bow when she struck the Chieftain. COW TESTING ASSOCIATIONS' LESS ENED PRODUCTION.

Dominion Department of Agriculture, Branch of the Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner.

August records received at Ottawa from members of cow testing associations indicate that in most districts the tions indicate that in most districts the flow of milk is well up to the average. In some localities there is but a very slight decrease from July yield of milk, so light that the increasing richness shows a trifle higher yield of fat.

In other localities, unfortunately, there is a very marked shrinkage, as much at 120 lbs. and even 180 lbs. of milk per cow less than in July. Many dairy farmers have accordingly owed that next yeaf will not see them caught that next year will not see them caught that next yeaf will not see them caught without any provision for maintaining the flow, but they have determined to provide some soiling crop, and if possible build a silo, so as to ensure succulent feed for probable hot spells in July and August. Such men are wise. Some districts have as high averages as 870 lbs. of milk and 29 lbs. of fat in August. Such wise dairymen had made provision of suitable feed. Others, leas provision of suitable feed. Others, less provident, had to be content with a yield of 580 lbs. milk and 21 lbs. fat yield of 580 lbs. milk and 21 lbs. fat per cow; while here and there the aver-age yield was down to 390 lbs. milk and 16 lbs. fat. Such men might well copy the methods of their brothers farmers who regularly secure the larger yields. Selection of the best cows can be made intelligently when records are least of each cow.

BEER FREE AS WATER

At Sunday Carousal In Local Option District.

(Special to the Times.)

Beamsville, Sept. 20.— After several adjournments the Kupitz case came to trial on Saturday afternon. The court was not ready in the morning and the large number of farmers that packed the hall had to go home and back again after the noon hour.

It was the most interesting of the slong line of liquor cases that has kept the district in the lime light. T. C. Robinette, Toronto, was present for Kupitz, and Crown Attorney Brennan gave all those interested in the debauch a grilling.

The charge against defendant was that on Sunday, the 29th of August, he sold liquor without a license.

When Constable Jay D. Book, of Grimsby, arrived on the scene he found six empty beer kegs, glasses, taps and

When Constable Jay D. Book, of Grimsby, arrived on the scene he found six empty beer kegs, glasses, taps and a whiskey bottle. There were men lying around the premises of O'Hare, Kupitz's brother-in-law. Others were on the road home; some were sleeping. The picnic started on Saturday night and finished up about 4 o'clock on Sunday, just when the constables got there.

Jacob Book was the first witness called. He had been invited by Kupitz to go over. He did not know there was going to be any beer there. John Running asked him to have a drink; it was as free as air. There were no ladies there, and he saw no money paid.

Arthur Marsh went out to Kupitz's place on Saturday night on a dray. It was a pienic previously arranged; no-body slept much; there were ten on hand. The beer lasted until about 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon. More men came that day. He had paid Jas. Coots $1.50 for expenses. Coots was to buy and pay for everything. They had pickles, biscuits, cheese and beefsteak for breakfast. There was no indecency and no noise, he said.

for breakfast. There was no indecency and no noise, he said.
It didn't cost Wm. Downs a cent; he had all he cauld wink.
Fred Kupitz, the thirteen-year-old son of defendant, proved an apt witness. In a breezy manner he told the Crown Attorney that the boys were only having a few glasses of beer; they were Germans, and it was their belief to drink heer.

only having a few guisses of near heard were Germans, and it was their belief to drink beer.

Expenses cost Scott Marlatt $1.50, 'paid to Coots. He saw nothing gived to Kupitz for the drinks.'

Tom Flood was another who enjoyed the picnic. He contributed the same as the rest. The party met by appointment at Grimsby Park and went over the mountain on Kupitz's dray along with the beer and eatables. The wet goods were consigned to Coots, and he got it out of the express office in Grimsby on the Saturday night. He gave the following statement of the cost of the big time: Express charges, $1.45; beefsteak. $1.40; crackers, cheese and pickles. $1.25; bread, 50c.; beer, $3.45 and $6.75.

BISHOP DEAD IN JAPAN.

Tokio, Sept. 20.—Bishop Seth Ward, of the Methodist Episcopal Church south, died this afternoon. The bishop arrived in Kobe last month on his regular tour of inspection of the Methodist missions of Japan and he was taken ill shortly after his arrival. Last week he was reported as gradually sinking and the fatal termination of his illness was not expected.

Bishop Ward, whose home was in Houston, Texas, sailed from San Francisco late in July to make his annual inspection work of his churches' foreign missionary work. He was in poor health, and his friends attempted to dissuade him from making the trip. The bishop was 51 years old. The schooner Charles J. Willard, of Portland, has been sunk off the Sow and Pigs shoals, Mass. It is believed the crew is safe. The Willard is a vessel of two hundred tons net and carries a crew of five men.

Mr. Wright declined to say whether he would attempt to fly to Albany during the celebration. "The public demand for new sensations is debauching the science of aviation," he said. Any attempt on my part to fly to Albany will depend on conditions—the weather, how the engine is running, and my judgment."

BRACE UP, EOYS!

"The Civilian" is the name of a fort ghtly journal published at Ottawa, rporting to be issued in the interests the Civil Service of Canada. Recently t complained that the newspapers and the general public of Canada do not reat the civil service with that degree consideration which it merits. This part of its complaint:

s part of its complaint:

Newspapers seldom or never talk of the control of the c

We doubt the wisdom of such an ppeal to public sympathy, viewed from the standpoint of the civil servant. Taken on the whole, they are, it is rue, regarded by the general public as newhat fortunate in their lot, and the everage Canadian has not felt that it was his duty to offer them periodical votes of thanks, or expressions of sympathy. Toronto Saturday night puts it in this way:

civil servant that he must needs be patted on the back at regular intervals In his life work more righteous and In his life work more righteous and upright than other callings? Is his diligence and his watchfulness greater than that of plain John Smith, sub-foreman in the foundry? Smith does his work the best he can, and draws his pay, and so do hundreds of thousands of other people here in Canada, with no idea that people here in Canada, with no idea that either the boss or the public are coming around to jolly them along at pre-scribed intervals. The public has opened scribed intervals. The public has opened workshops at Ottawa presumably on broad business lines, and has hired the necessary men and women to fill the benches. These men and women are fairly well paid for their work, and so far as I am aware they do their tasks with diligence. But why not? That's what they are paid for.

The fact of the matter is that it will take more than the editorial ability "The Civilian" has at its disposa to convince the general public of Canada that the Ottawa civil servants are en during martyrdom— sacrificing them-selves for their beloved country and its ungrateful people. The everyday Cana dian is not unappreciative of faithful service; but he cannot get rid of the notion that the average civil servant is tolerably well rewarded in a material way as compared with the private employee. He knows that these civil servants as a rule made the greatest posendeavors to make their calling and election sure. He knows that if one of them talks of throwing up his tob. hundreds of men are eager to take his place, and endure the discomforts which he complains. He knows that if the entire service had to be duplicated work, ten applications for each position would be in the Government's hands be fore the public had the news twenty four hours. And knowing these things his tears do not well up at the though of civil service hardships.

"The Civilian" will do well, we fancy, not to fall into a carping mood; not to cultivate the idea that as soon as a man gets a job from the Government and re noves to Ottawa he should be set upon wned with a halo, and regarded as a special benefactor of his country. If he does his work faithfully and well, he should not forget that that service is paid for by the people; and that he was eager enough to accept office on those conditions. The account is square As for the complaint about jests at the expense of the civil service, "The to heart. Few people are more jested about than the editors, and they do not suffer because of it; certainly, they will not whine or beg for protection. Let "The Civilian" profit by the somewhat apt illustration of how its article is viewed by this story from Saturday

THOSE TYPHOID CASES.

There has been a good deal of misdirected criticism with reference to the appearance of a number of cases of ty aid fever at the City Hospital: and a good many who have discussed the matter seem to labor under the mistaken communicated by contact from patient to patient, and that somebody is cenble for the primary case not being

The principal source of danger is co tamination of food and drink. Water in which colon bacilli are found is always to be suspected, as the typhoid bacillus is one of that numerous family. Contanrinated milk is another source of danger; and once a single bacillus gets into millions. Imperfectly cleaned roots, fruits and vegetables, especially when eaten raw or only partly cooked, may also be mediums for conveying the germs. But however they are borne, we may be quite confident that the sufferer from typhoid has taken them into the ali-

The examination of the food and drink supply is a matter of no small difficulty. Obviously all that microscopical chemical tests can do is to indicate that the samples tested contain or do not contain the typhoid germs-that they are "positive" or "negative." A dozen tested specimens may prove "negative," but although that fact raises a strong presumption that the article the samples of which were tested is safe, it can never be certain that the thirteenth, or some later sample, will not show the presence of the bacillus. Thus while a 'positive" result of the tests is conclu sive, a number of "negative" results can-

The safeguard against typhoid when the water supply is suspected is to thoroughly boil the water. Boiling kills the typhoid bacillus. But it must be boiled, not merely heated; the little fiend endures a high temperature for a considerable time. Those in charge of typhoid patients should be carefully instructed as to their duties with regard to disinfection. That attended to, there is nothing about such cases to endange attendants and friends.

Benjamin waited until his accuser had quite done. Then he arose from his seat advanced to the front rail of the platform and said in those melodious tones which the world afterward learned to know so well: "The honorable gentleman has denounced me as a Jew. In those days such a reply might have been expected to provoke a challenge to a duel; but it did not. Benjamin was known to be as straight and as brave as his words: he won the cheers of the crowd, and his election.

Cook Says Peary is Bluffing and Demands Proof.

Traces of Former Expeditions Found in Abundance.

Sydney, Sept. 19. - Commander Peary's main evidence to support his charge that Dr. Cook never reached the North Pole will be the testimony of two Eskimos who accompanied Cook on his expedition. Etukishook and Ahwelch admitted to him, so Peary says that Cook never went out of sight of Cape Columbia, and that they were never farther than two "sleeps" from land. For the past week Peary has absolutely declined to discuss details of his charge that Dr. Cook had "gold-bricked" the public, and this reticence is believed to be in response to a message from the Peary Arctic Club, telling him not to say anything until he got back to civilization and fully understood how the controversy is looked upon.

To neither the Associated Press nor the correspondents of Canadian and American papers who reached him at Battle Harbor has Commander Peary discussed Dr. Cook's claim. He nas contented himself with merely repeating that he is the discoverer of the Pole. But with the Newfoundland newspaperman, P. McGrath, who reached him on Friday. September 10th, at Battle Harbor, both Commander Peary and Capt. Bartlett discussed the Cook controversy freely, and Commander Peary stated that he had personally interviewed the Eskimos who accompanied Cook, and that after first asserting that Cook's story was correct, they finally broke down and admitted the Brooklyn physician had never been out of sight of land. "They marched 'two sleeps' from Cape Columbia northward and never lost sight of it," Commander Peary is quoted as saying to Mr. McGrath. Mr. McGrath, in his despatch to The St. John's Chronicle, says:—"With respect to the Cook controversy, Peary and Bartlett say that Cook, on his arrival at Etah, informed Harry Whitney, the musk-ox hunter, who wintered there, and Boatswain Murphy, who was in charge of Peary's depot of supplies at the same place, that he had reached the Pole on April 21st of the previous year with his two Eskimos, Etukishook and Ahwelch. After Cook left Etah to continue around Melville Bay to Upernavik, the Danish settlement in southern Greenland, these Eskimos 'remained in Etah, and when Peary came south and cross-examined them, the natives, who had previously confirmed Cook's story, broke down and admitted that they had only gone two "sleeps' from land and that they had never been out of sight of Cape Columbia.

It was at first thought that this would bring the Roosevelt into Sydney some time on Tuesday afternoon, but there is a very strong northerly wind blowing to-day, and by clapping some canvas on the Roosevelt she will be able to get here sooner than that.

The party of correspondents who went up to Battle Harbor on the Government steamer Tyrian arrived back here at 3 o'clock this morning after a unique experience. They were compelled to sleep in all sorts of places, as there was absolutely no accommodation for the number who went on board, and the man who was able to secure a shelf in the steward's pantry or a section of the cebir table went on board, and the High washed to secure a shelf in the stepantry or a section of the cabic considered himself extremely ate. PEARY'S LEVEE The correspondents were taken ashore at Battle Harbor in a surf boat, and Commander Peary faced a battery of cameras. Then he appointed a time for meeting the correspondents, and at 10 o'clock, he held his first levee in the loft of a fish house. The first questions hurled at him were about Dr. Cook, and these he emphatically refused to answer. Then the correspondents went over the the correspondents went over the Roosevelt, inspected the wireless sta nonsevelt, inspected the wireless sta-tion and endeavored to get something from the crew about Dr. Cook's claims, but none of the members of the party would talk. Pritchard had not spoken to any one on board of Dr. Cook's achievement, but when confronted yesterday, just prior to the sailing of the Roosevelt from Battle Harbor, with a wireless message from mid-ocean that Dr. Cook said Pritchard knew the whole story of his dash for the pole, the youth admitted that he had learned from Dr. Cook the details of the final march, and that Dr. details of the final march, and that Dr Cook had explained to him the route

Whether Boatswain Murphy also was informed of Dr. Cook's success, Pritchard did not know, but unquestionably Harry Whitney, who was at the storehouse when Dr. Cook returned from his dash with the two Esuimaux, is conversant with all the facts. Whitney did not disclose this interesting piece of news to Commander Peary, and Pritchard kept it from Peary during the entire voyage of the Roosevelt to Battle Harbor.

Pritchard said that he was at the house at Annatock with Whitney and Cook, while Murphy was at Beta. He heard Dr. Cook describe to the New Haven sportsman how he went to the pole and remained there. REPLIES TO THE CRITIC.

Dr. McKenzie, of Japan, Defends Missionary Work.

Stoutly Champions Church and Tells of Achievements.

Rally Services Yesterday-Harvest Home at Zion.

At the morning service yesterday at Barton Street Methodist Church Rev. Dr. McKenzie, of Japan, a missionary of twenty-two years' experience in that country, replied to the criticism of W. T. R. Preston made in a lecture last Tuesday evening in Parkdale Presbyterian Church, Toronto.

The keynote of Dr. McKenzie's reply was one of optimism and confidence that a strong foundation has already been laid for the erection of a splendid uperstructure of Christianity.

superstructure of Christianity.

Dr. McKenzie said he would rather not touch directly on the remarks made by Mr. Preston for two reasons, first, because the remarks made had not been fully reported, as it was impossible to put into half a column of a newspaper a speech of over an hour's duration, and, secondly, the statements are so sweeping that they will defeat their own purpose, and men of thoughtful minds will reserve their judgment. Yet, the public is asking all kinds of questions and wanting to know if no defence is to be made against such a sweeping indictment.

The statement that there was only The statement that there was only one missionary capable of delivering a sermon that an educated Japanese auditence could understand was wrong, though it must be admitted that there are few missionaries in Japan who can speak the language fluently.

"We are told that many of the missionaries and the Japanese experienced"

"We are told that many of the missionaries sent to Japan are experienced slum workers over forty years of age. I am not so sure the slum workers, by means of an interpreter, can do much good amongst the agricultural population of Japan, and the chances are in favor of a man who has learned the language doing the most good. I do not say that a man from a city here cannot do a great deal of good," said Dr. McKenzie. He said that there was a great request now for men to be sent who have made a name for themselves as theologians. The church has not made as theologians. The church has not made as theologians. The cource has not make a mistake in sending young men as missionaries, for they could learn the language more easily than older men, and the Japanese language was most difficult to learn, as it takes five or six guage more easily than the Japanese language was most difficult to learn, as it takes five or six years' hard study to acquire a good knowledge of it, and it is essential that missionaries should be able to take part in discussions with the native.

Mr. Preston said the work of Christianizing the nation is dependent on the natives. "I agree with him in that," said the speaker, but he pointed out that the reason natives are not doing the defired work is that the number of Christian natives is so limited and the missionaries are needed to help them. In a population of 50,000,000 there were only 500 ordained Japanese ministers and 250 Protestant missionaries. The criticism also says that the efforts of the missionaries have been focussed on the intelligent classes in Japan, without any thought to the masses. There was some truth in it, though only half truth, as it is inevitable to begin with the educated, the same

Japan, without any thought to the masses. There was some truth in it, though only half truth, as it is inevitable to begin with the educated, the same as here, because that class are the most ready to receive, whereas the masses are suspicious, but the plans of the Protestant churches were to reach all classes as quickly as possible.

In conclusion Dr. McKenzie told of some of the positive things accomplished by the Protestant missionaries, chief of which was the placing of the Bible given to the Japanese in their own language, and, if nothing else had been accomplished by them, it would be sufficient to prove that their work was not a failure, as to-day it has the greatest circulation of any book in Japan. Then there was the Japanese hymn book, with 400 of the best hymns known to Christendom, set to the old tunes. There was also a great deal of Christian literature given to the Japs, People forget ture given to the Japs. of ingathering after the long vacation and of the renewal of the work of the young people. In the morning the scholars, in classes, occupied the gallery, and filled it. Rev. E. B. Lanceley, the pastor, spoke to them on "Lion Hunting," impressing young the young minds the various sorts of lions they would find in their lives that must be slain if they were to become good men and women.

At the open session of the school in the afternoon there was a record attendance for the year, 587 being present. Short addresses and an interesting programme were given. The speakers were two new workers in the Sunday school, Mr. J. A. Freeman, who recently came from Lindsay to join the faculty of the Collegiate Institute, and Mr. Matchett, who came from Peterboro a few months who came from reteriors ago.

Mr. Freeman spoke to the children about the magnet. He showed what an attractive power it has, and how easily it can draw to itself little tacks and nails, but how it become more and more difficult to attract them the larger and heavier they are. So it is easy to reach the little children when brought within reach of the magnet, Jesus, but as they grow older it becomes more and more attractive.

Mr. Matchett spoke on the word "Rally," and impressed upon the children one word for each letter, the five words one word for each letter, the five words being reverence, attention, loyalty, lib-erality and youthfulness. Solos were sung by Miss Alma Tall-man, Miss Gerta Hill and Miss Edna Chagnon, and Mr. Allan Yates played a violin solo.

At the evening service Mr. Lanceley preached an especially powerful sermon on "Jephtha's Rash Vow."

Two new soloists were heard at the services. Miss Hill sang "I Was Wandering and Weary" at the morning service. She has a sweet soprano voice, and sang with excellent taste. In the evening Miss Kathleen Lanceley sang "Thy Will Be Done." Miss Lanceley is a decided acquisition to Hamilton's singing talent. She has a clear and sympathetic voice, rich and well trained, and sings with perfect articulation. She gave sings with perfect articulation. She gave an artistic rendering of the favorite old

CHEERFUL AND GRUMBLE.

CHEERFUL AND GRUMBLE.

An earnest and deeply interested congregation attended the evening service of the First Congregational Church yesterday. The pastor, Rev. Ernest H. Tippett, spoke on the topic, "Two Wellkown Men.—Mr. Cheerful and Mr. Grumble, "taking for his texts: "Vanity of vanities. All is vanity" (Sceles, xii. 8), and "I am come that they might have life and that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly", John X. 10). He said everybody knows Mr. Cheerful and Mr. Grumble. Mr. Cheerful and Mr. Grumble. Mr. Cheerful with "the smile that, won't come off," whom you are glad to meet on the street or to welcome to your home. In every discouragement and trial he remembers the silver lining to the dark cloud. His cheerfulness is contagious, and one always feels better for meeting him.

Mr. Grumble meets you with a scowl and a complaint. The only good times he knows are "the good old times," The poor world is growing worse all the time. Life is not worth living. Mr. Grumble is not a new development, as he comes of the same line as the one who many hundreds of years ago said, the 'ext was a very appropriate one. Mr. Grumble is not a new development, as he comes of the same line as the one who many hundreds of years ago said, "Vamity of vanities. All is vanity." The times were prosperous when this was written, so the trouble is not with the environment, but with the point of view. The preacher then explained that the difference between the Cheerful family and the Grumble family was a difference of belief. He impressed his audience with the fact that if the belief is wrong the life can't be right. He said it was not necessary for every person to have the same theory, but it was necessary for every person to have the same theory, but it was necessary for every person to have the same theory, but it was necessary for every person to have the same theory, but it was necessary for every person to have the same belief in Jesus Christ. What Mr. Grumble wanted was a complete conversion.

The speaker closed by telling Dickens' story of the conversion of Old Scrooge.

CENTRAL METHODIST RALLY.
Yesterday was rally day at Central Methodist Church. The services were largely attended. Rev. A. E. Mitcherll, of Knox Presbyterian Church, occupied the pulpit in the morning, and preached a sermon which created a marked interest in the minds of the congregation, and proved very helpful to all interested in the development of Christian character. The rally of the two Sunday schools took place at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. This was the first time since the union of the two churches that the two met as one school. At 2.45 the Wesley scholars assembled at Central Church and marched in a body to Gore Street Church. The ed in a body to Gore Street Church. After the opening hymn, a Scripture lesson was read and nymi, a Scripture lesson was read and prayer offered up by Rev. I. There were also many other great philanthropic institutions founded by the Protestant churches, chief among which was the Methodist Episcopal orphanage in the city of Sendai, North Japan.

They have also effected a widespread sentiment that cannot be put into satisfies. The fact that Japanese leaders are asking for more missionaries is ample corroborative proof that their work is not a failure, and is the most favorable answer to all criticism, Dr. McKenzie says.

KNOX RALLY SERVICE.

The rally services in Knox Mission yesterday were bright and attractive, and well attended. In the afternoon the scholars and their parents were present in large numbers. Mr. J. Special music was provided. At the mass meeting of the school solos were sang by Miss R. McLean and Miss Bertan Carey. The evening service was conducted by Rev. L. W. Hill, B. A., pastor of Burlington Methodist Church. With regard to the general working of the union prospects are very bright and promising in every department of the church. The organization of all the different societies have now been completed and are ready for active operations.

The annual harvest home service was celebrated at Zion Tabernacie Methodist Church yesterday. The church was handsomely decorated with the products of the orchard farm and garden, and the effect produced was a most divinely suggestive one. A very large congregation assembled to join in the service. Special music was provided by the choir, augmented by outside talent. Miss Van Every, of Toronto, sang, "Thy Will be Done," very sweetly in the morning service.

The committee in charge of the decorations and day's services were: Mrs. Vansickle, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. T. M. Elliott, Mrs. G. F. Elliott, Mrs. Tresham, Mrs. Fleak, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Williams.

VICTORIA BAPTIST RALLY. H. Edgar Allen. He said that the Rev. H. Edgar Allen. He said that the reason there were not more missionaries to-day was because the young people would not hearken to the call, because their main desire was for earthly gains. A missionary Sunday school or even a missionary church was bound to be a progressive church, because God's special blessing would be upon it. "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel." If you cannot go yourself you can send a substitute, and this is the work our Sunday schools and churches ought to endeavor to do.

The roll was then called, and the attendance reported.

Mr. J. Jones, Assistant Superintendent, in a brief address, said the motto ought to be "I am only one, but I am one; I cannot do everything, but I can do something. What I can do I ought to do, and by the grace of God I will do." After a selection by the orchestra, Mr. J. Amusements

It is doubtful if the production of 'Faust," seen at the Grand Opera House on Saturday would have pleased its fam-ous author, Goethe, had he been alive to have witnessed it. The house was well filled, and, although the playgoers did not go into ecstasies over the produc-tion, the majority seemed pleased with it. In most drawings and pictures of his satanic majesty, Mephisto is caricatured as a tall, slim, fear-inspiring individual with curling eyebrows and moustache but it was no such individual that faced but it was no such individual that faced the audience when the curtain was rolled up on Saturday. Oh, no. "Twas a well-fed Mephisto, with portly girth and twinkling eye, that stepped on the stage in a suit of gaudy red. In afct, the only thing in which George S. Trimble resembled what one would suppose the devil to be was height. However, notwithstanding the air of philanthropy that seem to radiate from his substantial person, he played the part well and was the one real actor of the company. Miss Edna Porter, as Marguerite, had beauty and grace, but of dramatic feeling little. Carlyle Shelley, in the role of Faust, was not overly bright, and the remaining members of the cast were only fair.

RECITAL AT CENTENARY.

There was a large attendance on Saturday afternoon at the recital given by Mr. Thomas Darwin, organist of Wellington Street Methodist Church, Brantford, and a talented pupil of Mr. W. H. Hewless, assisted by Mrs. Le Roy Grimes, soprano, and Mr. Robert Symmers, baritone, under the auspices of the Hamilton Conservatory of Music. Mr. Darwin has a very sympathetic touch, and under his skillful fingers the music seems to have an entrancing effect. In his fortissimo he has a vigorous masterful way of bringing out the best of round, full tones. In his number, "The Answer," his diminuendos and crescendos were played so smoothly as to almost make one wonder when the change began. RECITAL AT CENTENARY.

GAMBLING

Denounced by Rev. A. E. Mitchell at Knox Church.

Preaching in Knox Presbyterian Church last evening on "The Enlarging of Our Borders," Rev. A. E. Mitchell denounced gambling.

He said if the borders were to be en-He said if the borders were to be enlarged by violence it would be considered as robbing, if by stealth, thieves; and then gambling, although it may not be considered as robbing or thieving, is dishonest because it takes from another without giving an equivalent. It may be done by stocks, cards or grain, the method matters not as the dishonesty remains the same, and according to Spencer that dishonesty, not being equivalent to general good, the man who gambles takes from the pocket of another without contributing to his store of human intelligence.

Gambling, he said, destroys self-respect; develops meanness, ministers to selfishness, destroys industry, take away reverence for God, destroys respect of days, law and home, and is opposed to the spirit of Jesus Christ, good society and good morals. Mr. Mitchell said he was sorry that Canada had not as good laws as the States in respect to gambling, where in some States, gambling is put down, while here it is allowed to continue.

NAVIGATION.

Ferry Co. and Turbinia Have Closed the Season.

Most of the steamboats will soon dock for the winter, as the weather is becoming very uncertain. On Saturday the Turbinia had her last trip of the season, as did also the Ferry boats John R. and Ivan R. The Hamilton Steam-A. and Ivan R. The Hamilton Steamboat Company will continue its service until December, and this morning the boats had a large number of passengers and a large amount of freight. The Inland Navigation Company's boats will likely make about six more trips, which will make it about six weeks before they stop. They may possibly run until December.

The Lakefield Portland Cement Company, Montreal, Quebec.

The Western Canada Cement and Coal Company, Limited, Exshaw, Alberta, and The Eastern Canada Portland Cement Company, Limited, Quebec.

The plants, which will be owned or controlled by the new company, are believed to be among the best constructed and most efficiently equipped on this continent; and, under a competent central management, not only will a uniform standard of quality be secured in the combined product, but an equable standard of prices may be maintained throughout the whole country. These plants will have a total capacity in excess of 4,500,000 barrels of Portland cement per annum.

ESTIMATED EARNINGS

The following may be regarded as a conservative estimate of the earnings of the Company:-

NET EARNINGS.

The estimated annual net earnings of the Company, based on the quantities of cement being sold, during the present year, by the companies comprised in the merger, and on the costs of manufacture under existing conditions, amount to... $1,900,000 FIXED CHARGES.

The Canadian Market for Portland Cement

Leaving available for dividends on Ordinary Shares of the Company

The demand for Portland Cement in Canada has increased remarkably during the last five years. In 1904 the total consumption of Portland Company in the Deminion was 1 694 988 harrels of which 784 630 harrels were imported. In 1908 the consumption tion of Portland Cement in the Dominion was 1,694,988 barrels, of which 784,630 barrels were imported. In 1908 the consumption, notwithstanding the general industrial depression, was 3,134,338 barrels, and no less than 3,495,961 barrels were manufactured in Canada. Existing trade conditions indicate that the consumption during 1909 will largely exceed that of 1908.

The increase is not abnormal, nor due to merely local causes. In the year 1888, it is estimated that less than 200,000 barrels of cement were manufactured on the North American continent; and the enormous growth of the business is shown by the fact that in 1908 approximately 55,000,000 barrels were there produced. The manufacture of Portland Cement commenced in Canada in 1888, but until 1904 the importations into Canada of the foreign product exceeded the Canadian production.

The report of John McLeish, B.A., chief of the Division of Mineral Resources and Statistics of the Department of Mines, Canada, on the production of cement in Canada during the calendar year 1908, furnishes the following comparative statement:—

|--------------------------------------|---|---|---|---|--|
| Calender Year. | Manufactured. | Consumed. | - Imported into Canada. | Consumed i Canada. | |
| NAMES OF THE PARTY OF | Barrels. | Barrels. | Barrels. | Barrels, | |

Great as has been the development of the Portland Cement industry in Canada since 1904, it is only reasonable to assume that this growth will be largely exceeded in the immediate future, and for many years to come. The enormous public works in progress and in contemplation, including Railways, Canals, Bridges, Harbor Improvements, Piers, Wharves, Docks, Piles, Pavements, Building Foundations, and Buildings, etc., will all require proportionately large quantities of the manufactured products of the new Company. The Hydro-Electric developments throughout the country will increase the demand, while the rapid substitution of reinforced concrete for other materials in the building trades will render necessary an increased production on the part of the new

Objects of the Merger

According to the returns made to the Dominion Government by the cement manufacturers, the average price at their works betained by them in 1908 was $1.39 per_barrel. This was the lowest price ever reported by the Canadian mills. In 1906 the average price was from $1.65 to $1.70, and in 1907 about $1.60. At the beginning of the present year it was realized by a number of the manufacturers that, even without any increase in prices, the business could be rendered much more profitable by a merger of several of the large competing companies on a conservative basis. The Canada Cement Company, Limited, is the outcome. The new Company will own or control cement-producing plants at the central points of distribution from the St. Lawrence River west to the Rocky Mountains; and, by securing a more efficient organization will be able to regulate the Listribution of the manufactured product from these central points to the centres of consumption, large economies in the present cost of freight, which represents a large percentage of the ultimate cost to the consumer, will undoubtedly be effected. The establishment of one executive office in the City of Montreal, and the elimination of competitive salesmen, middlemen, and brokers is also expected to effect a considerable saving in the costs of the Sales Department under the new management.

Mr. G. T. Bell, the retiring president It is a marvel of ingenuity and historical combinations, ambracing the New England Passenger Association, and three marvel to fingenuity and with the savel.

It is the custom to present the retiring president of this, the oldest railway organization in the world, with a gavel, to be retained by him to commemorate his term of office. Mr. Bell is the first Canadian who has been elected to the presidency of this association. The Grand Trunk Railway being recognized as a great international route, and having lines extending through a number of the New England States, is therefore a member of a number of the territorial passenger association elected to present the gave to Mr. Bell. It is a marvel of ingenuity and historical combinations, embracing the history of the association from the commencement, and even anticipating airships as a modern means of transportation, and it, and the case which contains it, were put together with the best skill and art of Tiffany, New York. In presenting the gavel to Mr. Bell. The Rell, Chairman Weeks, of the New England Passenger Association, made the following address:

"Mr. President and members of the American Association of General Passenger and Ticket Agents:

"New England is not unmindful of the privileges it has enjoyed at your hands, or unappreciative of the honor of presenting the retiring President with something that will remind him of those he has served so faithfully and well. Put yourselves in the committee's place, and we can hear you ask, 'What would we appropriate for our versatile President? Must it be identified with transportation?" (Certainly.' 'What can we get?' and there is no

I do not know what inventions are in the brain of the future: I do not know what garments of glory may be woven for the world in the loom of the years to be. We are just on the edge of the great ocean of discovery."

"Did our friend, A. J. Smith, picture man's mastery of the atmosphere? Did he anticipate the revision of our constitution and by-laws so that air lines would be eligible for membership? Let us believe he did, and let us proceed upon those broad liens which have made our association what it is. Our token of esteem must represent Canada, Mexico, and the United States. It must be connected with rail, water and air transportation. It should mutely proclaim our represent Canada, Mexico, and the United States. "We are glad to say that the various parts of his gavel are bound together with one of the strands of steel from the causes of the Suspension Bridge referred to by Mr. Bell. GREED OF GAIN

Poignant Letter Written by Gamb ler Suicide.

Had Lost His Money and His Character and Was Disgraced.

London, Sept. 18 .- An inquest. which a remarkable letter was read by the Coroner, was held at Maidenhead re cently on the body of Bernard Bramstone Baker, 25, who had acted as mana ger of his father's hostelry, the Queen's Hotel, Reading.

The young man was killed on the Great Western Railway at Maidenhead station, and the suicidal nature of the occurrence was made plain by the letter which was handed to the first witness, the brother of the deceased, for identification of handwriting. It began:

Maidenhead, Sept. 2, 1909.

My Dear Father,—By the time you receive this letter I shall be far away from this earth, and may God forgive me for the fearful act I am going to do after I have written this to you and Alf. I pray the Lord that you will eventually look over my terrible sins.

The curse of gambling has taken hold of me, and has brought me to this. No one in Reading has had much to do with me in this matter, and it will do no good to anyone if I tell you who has had the money. I will say it is a well known London firm.

money. I will say it is a well known London firm.

The writer went on to say that he could not face the world again in his dishonor, and continued:

In another half an hour I shall be answering another judge, but I consider it far better for you and myself that I should do this.  It is only the fact should do this. * * * It is only the fact that I am unable to face my downfall that I am going to do the crime. Now, I must soon end, as the time approaches for my death, on which I look with calmness, because I cannot realize that hell can be any worse than the torture I that early worse than the torture I have undergone in my conscience during the last six months. They say opportunity makes the thief, and there never tunity makes the thief, and there never was a truer saying.

There was a closing pathetic reference to the writer's mother:

If my darling mother had only been spared this would not have happened, but God willed otherwise, and this is the consequence. I intend to fortify myself with the cursed drink to be able to commit this crime. Good-bye to you both and all my true friends in Reading, none of whom are to blame for my conduct. I remain, your dishonored and disgraced son,

The jury found a veredict of suicide while temporarily insane, and expressed sympathy with the family.

English Working Classes Using It In-

New York, Sept. 19.—A cable despatch to the Sun from London says: British customs receipts from tea for the last financial year show an increase of $1,-190,000 as compared with the preceding year. According to the annual report the amount retained for home consumption was 11,500,000 pounds greater than in the previous year. This is due to the fact that in a time of industrial depression, like the present, the English working classes often make tea take the place of solid food.

DILLON GUILTY.

SENTENCED TO BE HANGED NOV-EMBER NINETEENTH.

Trial of the Man Who Shot Constable Shea at Montreal a Year Ago Last April-Question of Sanity Raised by His Counsel.

Montreal, Sept. 19. -John Dillon, alias Jas. Smith, who shot and killed Constable Shea on April 6, 1908, was found guilty of murder in the court of King's Bench on Saturday. He was sentenced by Judge Cross to be hanged on Nov. 19.

All Friday afternoon Mr. A. Papin-All Friday afternoon Mr. A. Papin-eau Mathieu, counsel for the defence, addressed the jury, and before a crowded court room on Saturday con-tinued his address, appealing to the jury to bring in a verdiet of not guilty on the ground that Dillon did not known what he was doing when Con-stable George Shea was shot dead and know what he was doing when Con-stable Foucault wounded in the Mance street affair. street affair.

Mr. Justice Cross summed up the evidence carefully, stating there was no serious conflict between the evidence of the medical experts. To his mind there was only one question for the jury, namely: "Did John Dillon, alias James Smith, book agent, know that he was doing wrong?" He said all his actions, despite the medical evidence of the experts, would indicate that he was rational. After the accused had had a dispute with his landlady, he sent for his lawyer, and after the fight he wrote a note which in his lordship's opinion would indicate that the accused knew what he was doing. The crime for which Dillon was convicted was committed on April 6, 1908, when Constable George Shea was shot and killed at 34 Mance street. Mr. Papineau Mathieu, counsel for Dillon, seen after the trial, said that as the jury had made a recommendation to mercy in bringing in their verdict, they had given the right to the Minister of Justice for a commutation of sentence. The amplication would be of sentence. The application would be made immediately, and Mr. Mathieu felt that it would probably be granted. RACING TO SEATTLE.

C.- SHORT RATIONS IN ARCTIC.

With eight men the Snowdrop had left Dundee, Scotland, early in June, 1908, for a season's trading among the Eskimos of Baffinland. She made a good trip and secured a cargo of bearskins, walrus hides, and one whale, and was returning when she was wrecked in Frobisher Strait.

The crew managed to reach the coast of Baffinland in an open boat, short of provisions. The Arctic winter was approaching, cutting off the last small chance of a stray whaler coming along to pick them up. Desperate efforts were made to cross Hudson Strait to the northern coast of Labrador in an open boat, but each time gales or big icefields drove them back to the barren shores of Baffinland. The men were put on an allowance of one ship's biscuit a day, and were suffering bitterly when they reached an Eskimo settlement, where they spent the winter.

In view of his intention of joining the Toronto club, the fans watched his work with much interest. All were of the opinion that he would easily make good in faster company. Saturday's game at Philadelphia furnished a record in point of attendance, 35,000, when the Athletics gained on Detroit. There wasn't the slightest disturbance during the day, and the anti-Cobb crusade seems to have spent itself, says a despatch. Baker shook hands with Ty when the latter stole third on Saturday, and took occasion to deny absolutely that he had ever said that he thought the Georgia boy tried to get him at Detroit. Cobb was generously applauded when he singled first time up, and when he pulled off a fine fielding play on Collins' second hit, the efforts of a few holiday fans in the bleachers to jeer him were drowned out by the applause from the stands.

Brantford, Sept. 90. (Special).—Veritys lined un several juniors against the Gould, Shapley & Mulr team here Saturday and the result was pretty much of a lunch for the Windmillers by the score of 12-8. Up to the 7th the winners had the game 12-1, O'Rellly being pounded hard in the 6th inning. A feature of the game was Siemin's all round good work for the Verity's. Philadelphia Swamped Gentlemen of Ireland.

Winners Had the Game by an Inning and 168 Runs.

Philadelphia, Sept. 18.—Philadelphia cricket representatives overwhelmingly defeated the Gentlemen of Ireland by an innings and 168 runs on the spacious grounds of the Merion Cricket Club at Haverford yesterday. The Philadelphians found the Irish bowlers very much to their liking when the game was resumed at 11.30, and they found the wicket very much improved and a cloudless sky, which made the condition sperfect for scoring. F. S. White, the Germantown youngster, covered himself with glory by topping the century without giving the semblance of a chance, which marks the first time in his experience in international cricket that he has performed this feat.

The Irishmen failed dismally in their second innings, but King this time divided the honors ith Hordern, he found the faster wicket much more to his liking. Nevertheless King added one more trophy to his list and obtained the hat trick. Morrow, Browning and Aston falling victims to three successive balls. The summary:

The Indians made as run right off the reel on Kelly's two-base hit and Gettman's single, but thereafter they could do nothing with McGinley. McGinley sent in Wilson to do the twirling. He was all right for three innings and then blew. Joe Kelley, McDonald, Houser and Mullen hit for successive bingles in the fourth, which resulted in four runs. Then the Iron Man took the slab again himself and held the Leafs hitless for the remainder of the game. HUNT CLUB HELD ITS SECOND AUTUMN RUN.

able Afterneon for Members of the Riding Club.

Weather of the most auspicious kind favored the second autumn hunt of the Hamilton Riding and Cross Country Club, which was held on Saturday afternoon. Despite the fact that the roads were unusually dusty, this did not interfere unduly with the pleasure of the riders, as their path lay more throught the newly harvested fields than on the public highways. The exceptionally fine weather brought out a large number of the members, no less than twenty-two equestrians and equestriennes making up the party. Happily no accidents of any nature occurred, and with the exception of one or two instances the horses took all the jumps readily. The hurdles were somewhat higher than on the previous Saturday's run, but, as intimated above, the horses leaped them in fine style. The rendervous was on the mountain top near the East End Incline, and sharp at 3 o'clock the party cantered south, and with Master James A. Thomson and Huntsman Yeo in the lead, broke in a field directly south of Cotter's Hotel. The hunt lasted about two hours and a half, about seven miles were covered, and approximately twenty-five obstacless of various kinds were jumped. The Master took a southwesterly direction from the break in for a couple of miles, and then turned east. The last fence was cleared near the Barton Presbyterian Church on the stone road. The party kept well to gether, and this, combined with the absence of accidents or balky horses, made the run one of the most enjoyable in the history of the club. weather brought out a large number of Needless to say, the sight of so large a party of horsemen galloping across the fields over ditch, hedge and fence caused quite a stir in the country. Many an honest farmer rested on his plowshare, and many a hard-working dairymaid stopped her churning, to gaze in admiration at the daring young lady riders of the party, who cleared the hurdles with the ease and grace which belongs only to the fair sex.

The Irish Gentlemen were badly beaten by the Gentlemen of Philadelphia, being defeated by an inning and 163 runs to spare. Hordern and King must have bowled well for Philadelphia, the Irishmen making only 74 runs in their second inning, King getting four wickets for 39 runs and Hordern five for thirty. King's bowling in the first inning was most unusual, he capturing all the Irishmen, who scored only 54 off him. In the second inning he did the hat thick-3 wickets in three successive balls. TIGERS HAD A GOOD PRACTICE ON SATURDAY.

Jack Williams Will Play With Ottawas This Season-Toronto Press Says That Bargette Will Turu Out With Arges.

No complaint could be found with the manner in which the Tigers turned out to practice on Saturday. Practically all the seniors were out together with a big bunch of intermediates, juniors an candidates for all three teams. big crowd of enthusiastic fans watche the practice from the touch-lines, and the concensus of opinion among them was that the Tigers would have a stronger team than ever this year.

The probable line up for the first game in Ottawa will be:

Full back—Kid Smith.
Halves—Moore, Biggs, Simpson.
Quarter—Awrey or Burton.
Scrimmage —Husky Craig, Pfeiffer and Craig of Dundas, or Bramer of Hamilton.

Hamilton.
Wings—Barron, Isbister, Grey, Wigle,
Turner and Lyon.
The scrimmage will be as strong as ever despite the changes, the big wing line, considered almost invincible, remains practically intact, and certainly there will be no reason for fault-finding with the booting brigade on the half-back division.
That big wing line is what Hamilton

Ing with the booting brigade on the half-back division.

That big wing line is what Hamilton pins its faith to. It remains practically un-roken. With Don Lyon and Art Turner, the former Queen's player, as outside wings the Tigers will have a flying squadron that will be hard to beat, Barron, Isbister, Grey and Wigle, the ag fou of the team, will be at their old positions.

Kid Smith, who is slated to replace Tope at full back, played brilliant football last season with the intermediate team. He is a heady player, has a sure pair of hands, is a hard man to stop when he gets under way, and can boot the bal' with the best of them.

Tom Clancy is playing centre scrimmage for the Ottawa football team. This doesn't mean "the king" has broken out a la Barney Quinn. In the absence of George Kennedy, he gets down in practice and heels the ball out to his pupils.

King Clancy is looking for a full-back for the Ottawas. Stuart Christie may be tried out there.

Chaucer Elliott has his Montreal bunch out practising at night, in the glare of big are lights. Stars shine better in the dark.

Ottawa Journal—Jack Williams, Ottawa's star centre half back, will be in his place for the first league match the locals play. This announcement was made by an officer of the Ottawa Rugby Football club last night. Williams will not be out at practice for a while yet as he is not in a position to take chances with his tad knee, but he will be on hand in uniform as usual when the whistle blows on Varsity Oyal on Saturwhistle blows on Varsity Oval on Satur day, Oct. 2nd.

Toronto Telegram:—Argos wound up their first week's practice Saturday in a strenuous manner. Two teams were picked and the formalities of a real game were played. They practiced this way for a full hour and a half, and wound it up with a run twice around the park.

The only absentees from practice were Norcross and Corkery, who were feeling a trifle stiff and sore from their first night's practice.

Norcross and Corkery, who were feeling a trifle stiff and sore from their first night's practice.

Capreol, the Ottawa intermediate captain, showed his running and dodging qualities. His hand was cut by a piece of glass and this hampered his catching a little.

Mert Kent was in uniform on the back division and is kicking the ball farther than ever. He will have a good partner in Corkery.

Alex. Sinclair, the big wing man, will be out next week, as will Jeff Taylor, who is coming down from the Cobalt country.

Frank Bargette will also play with Argos instead of the Tigers, as stated from the Hamilton press. Barge is coming down Monday. These players will give the oarsmen a wing line second to none in the union, and the only back division with some promising new material to pick from.

Westinghouse Won Only Soccer Game

Defeating the International Scots ba Score of 3--0.

Only one game of soccer was played on Saturday and that was between the two favorite teams, the Westinghouse and the Internation Scota. The fans were anxiously waiting for the game as some new players were to appear on both sides. The Scots, although they played good football, were doomed to be defeated, the Westinghouse winning by a score of 2-0. Although the score was one-sided the play was fairly even.

As soon as the ball was put in motion the battle for supremacy began and both sides worked hard. The Scots seemed to be strong at the start but the Westinghouse checked them well and they were unable to de much.

In the second half the Scots worked to-sether better and made a good try for a goal but failed. Although they worked hard to hold the play on Westinghouse ground, they could make but little impression on the opposing line. The play was then car-ried into the Scots' ground and the West-ried into the Scots' ground and the Westried into the Scots' ground and the West-ing house managed to score another goal before the final whistle sounded, making the score 3-0 favor Westinghouse. Liverpool Minister Says Windy City Has Been Slandered.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—Chicago is a much maligned city according to Rev. John Thomas, B. A., of Liverpool, Eng., who came to Chicago a week ago full of misgivings because he had been reading the writings of W. T. Steed and had come to the conclusion that Chicago was a bell on earth, to use a common expression. Other foreign writers and lecturers had belped along the delusion. After a week's search for surface indications of the existence of wholesale vice among the people of Chicago, he says that he is compelled to confess that he found none. He says that from his investigations he believes that Mr. Stead was greatly mistaken and that conditions are not as bad in Chicago as they are bad in the larger cities of Great Britain.

Two weeks from Saturday will see the opening of junior football leagues in this city, and from present indications it should be the most successful on record. The teams are getting down to real hard practise now, and are quickly rounding into form. On Saturday all the teams held practises, and unusually large crowds were in attendance. The fans seem to be taking much interest in these work outs, and during the week the attendance is also good. As a curtain raiser to the big game at Britannia Park on Saturday afternoon, the deciding game for the championship of the East End Soft Ball League was played between the East End Y. M. C. The St. Patricks held their practise on the church grounds. Manager Reveil gave his team a work out, and from their showing it will be no surprise if the sweaters are won by the Irishmen. They showed up well in all departments of the game, and especially their tackling, which was the feature of the practise. All that is necessary now is a little exertion to take off extra weight. There is much speculation going on concerning the First Church team. They were supposed to be out of the running, but recent despatches from their training quarters state that the First Church will be one of the best teams. They have setured the services of a few of Highfield's best players, and with such acquisition should turn out a good team. But not content with this, they have signed Harding, "Red" Fisher and a few more Alert cubs. The First Church are going to make a desperate attempt to do something this season, and from the start they are making it looks as though they will be able to accomplish the task. It is a very difficult task to get a line on the players. The managers will not give out any information about their teams, and are keeping this back with the intention of fooling dopesters on the opening day.

Nelson's Church League should be a classy affair this season. Four strong teams have signified their intention of entering, and all are evenly matched, with the result that some fast games should be played this year.

The Keystones, of Corktown, will not enter a team in the City League. The Victoria Park League will be organized shortly. All of last year's teams are entering, and no doubt there will be some rattling good games. At the meeting of the Church League on Saturday night the following officers were elected: J. W. Nelson, Hon. President; V. Sringstead, President; Mr. Mc. Kelvey, Vice-President; R. Springstead. Secretary. The Executive is composed of the manager or representatives from each team. DISEASE OF MODERN AGE.

Dean DuMoulin So Describes Present Day Worry.

Declares It to be Unchristian and Almost Insane.

Discusses Christ's Diagnosis and the Cure.

An inspiring message, and a timely one for people who move in this age of speed and frenzy was conveyed in the sermon preached in Christ's Church Cathedral yesterday morning by Rev. Dean DuMoulin, of Cleveland, the gifted son of his Lordship the Bishop of Niagara Like his father, a brilliant speaker, with a fine command of language, an impres a fine command of language, an impressive style, a pleasing delivery and possessing a personality that makes itself felt, Dean DuMoulin is a commanding figure in the pulpit. With unqualified admiration the congregation listened to his eloquent discourse.

"Be not anxious," was his text. "The enduring character of the teaching of Cirist," he said, "is seldom better seen or found than in the permanent value of the Sermon on the Mount."

Contrasting the two ages, the socaler declared that the text was even more applicable to present day conditions that the time when the people listened to Christ's teaching in person. That age could not have been one as hysterical, nervous and anxious as to-day. It was a quiet age, a calm age, a time when men lived in close touch with nature and crne in contact with the influences that rude for calmness. It had not the fever and restlessness hast, the hurrying forward, the fast and furious living, the betteric and fearners that marked the ward, the fast and furious living, hysteria and frenzy that marked condition to-day. Christ, in centuries long ago, referred to it when he took on his lips the word "anxiety."

"Let us examine," he said, "Christ's diagnosis of this modern disease. Let us regard it as he does, not something purely physical or mental, but go down deeper into life. Take anything concerning the mind of man, go deep enough, and you will reach into the profound depths of man's nature, what he calls religious soil. This mental attitude, against which men and women seen almose hopeless, is illogical and unvise. It lays man open to any crisis that may come. Every part of nature is played on by the habit of anxiety. No wonder Christ warns us. But he goes further and shows the absolute futility of it. It is the only thing in the consciousness of humanity that has no location, no purpose and no object."

Personality, character, marhood, instead of rising to the majestic grandeur of humanity spends its precious time and vitiates the divine forces by the evil Christ condemned years ago. "Be not any instead on the condemned years ago."

Christ condemned years ago. Christ even went further and showed anxious."

Christ even went further and showed it to be unchristian. It was a monstrous form of selfishness and a type of cowardice and fear. Christianity came to life to drive out fear, as emphasized in the wonderful manifestations of old, which were always accompanied with the injunction, "Fear not."

The only efficient and ultimate remedy for this modern disease was the religious one. It remained for a message from the soul to rectify conditions. The man who gave himself unselfishly to the thousand fold tasks allotted to humanity was advancing to Christ's kingdom. If he gave himself unselfishly to the thousand fold tasks allotted to humanity was advancing to Christ's kingdom. If he gave himself over to worry, frenzy and hysteria he was forgetting the primary purpose for which he was put on earth. The man who would accomplish must hold before him the aspirations and high ideals laid down by Christ. If he would be calm, sane, peaceful, full of praise and not tormented by the day to come he must have consciousness of the presence of God. With this realization a man went through life, a conqueror by the terms of nature and by the very creation, not driven off his feet by any ill wind. His was the master of the life God gave him and not its very creation, not driven off his any ill wind. His was the mas feet by any ill wind. His was the mas-ter of the life God gave him and not its

"This is the only effective, permanent and convincing cure for this great mod ern disease," said Dean DuMoulin, in nclusion. "Anxiety is unchristian, im may take Him to our own souls and heed His injunction, 'Let not your heart be troubled.'"

New York, Sept. 20.-Following the Damage to Extent of $1,700 at A. Nelson, as she was put through a third degree beside the body of her husband, a Democratic politician, whose body, riddled with buckshot, was found near his home near Central Isip, L. I., on Thursday morning. Mrs. Nelson and Augustus Schwartz, a boarder in her home, are being held by the police today in an effort to solve the mystery. Saturday midnight the police led Mrs. Nelson unexpectedly into the room where was the corpec of her murdered husband. She turned white and blurted out: "Gus Schwartz was not in the house Thursday from 2 to 5 o'clock." She declared that when he came in he would not tell her where he had been. The murder was committed between body, riddled with buckshot, was found The murder was committed between these hours, but Schwartz is still firm in his denial that he had any part in it. The police say to-day that Nelson car-ried a $3.000 life insurance policy, made in his wife's favor.

AFTER COLONIAL

George F. Driscoll, manager of Bennett's Theatre, Montreal, and formerly manager of the Bennett house here, was in Hamilton to-day negotiating for the purchase of the Colonial Theatre, a moving picture house on James street north. A director of the company said the deal had not been completed yet.

said that he and two other defendants entered the house uninvited.

G. T. R. Constable Darroch said a woman rushed into the G.T.R. Stuart street station at an early hour Sunday morning, and asked him to go to 15 Harriett street to stop the row going on there. He went, and on arrival found stones flying around, knives being flourished and blood flowing freely. The police were sent for, and on their arrival order was restored, and the wounded, nine in number, were looked after. The more seriously injured were taken to the City Hospital, where their wounds, which were many, were dressed.

A whole army of Pole witnesses told different tales, but the intelligible story was got from Constable Darroch. After the evidence, M. J. O'Reilly, for the defence, submitted it was merely a case of drunk and disorderly, and asked to have the charge altered. He had previously pleaded not guilty to cutting and wounding and declined to elect.

Crown Attorney Washington and the Magistrate agreed to alter the charge, and Mr. O'Reilly pleaded guilty for his clients. They were each fined $10 and costs. The police say that there were no less than nine wounded in the house.

ONF IN EAST END.

Drink and jealousy were the cause of another serious stabbing affray in the foreigners' quarters in the east end on Saturday night. The mix-up was between eight and nine o'clock on Saturday in the cause of th day night, at 396 Sherman avenue north, and as a result, John Dare, a Pole, is in the City Hospital, in a serious condition, having been beaten and carved with weapons ranging from a shovel to a razor. When he was taken to the hospital it was found that he had a big gash on his head, caused by the sharp edge of a shovel, another gash from shoulder to shoulder, one on the left arm and one on the right side, just above that hip, which was made with such force that if it had not been for the clothing it might have almost cut the man in day night, at 396 Sherman avenue north it might have almost cut the man in two. As it was, the wound was a bad one. The razor had cut his clothes into ribbons. The trouble, according to the injured man, was that three Poles entered the store at 396 Sherman avenue north, with the intention of getting some tobacco, when some Italians in the store used insulting language to the Pollocks and ordered them out of the store. They naturally resented and a row started. Bottles began to fly, and then figured shovels, razors, knives, etc., and John Dare was knocked down and savagely attacked. it might have almost cut the man

John Dare was knocked down and savagely attacked.
Foreigners poured in the store and the fight would have been long and bitter but-for the timely intervention of the police. P. C. Springer was on duty near by, when an army of foreigners rushed up and informed him there was murder being perpetrated. He summoned P. C. James Clark, who was near by, and the two sent for the patrol.
However, when they arrived all was quiet. The lights in the store were out and all the Italians had left. The constables followed a trail of blood for a block and found Dare in his boarding house. He was at once removed to the hospital and efforts to find the proprietors of the store were unavailable. The police learned all about the affair from Dare, who though in a very exhausted condition, was conscious. Warrants have been issued for the arrest of the alleged offenders, whose names were given to the police by Dare.

The affair was the outcome of the usual Saturday night orgies that have become famous.

TAFT TALKS

President Spoke on Interstate Commerce at Des Moines.

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 20.-President Taft spent a little more than four hours in Des Moines to-day and during that time breakfasted with U. S. Senator Cummins, one of the "insurgent" leaders in Congress, reviewed an imposing par-ade of nearly 5,000 federal troops, en-gaged in a military tournament here, and made an open air address to an imand made an open air address to an immense crowd gathered from all the surrounding country, in which he discussed in detail the changes he will recommend to Congress in the interstate commerce and anti trust laws.

The President announced that he would urge the establishment of an interstate commerce court of five members, to consider appeals from rates fixed by the interstate commerce commission.

He will also recommend legislation He will also recommend legislation to prevent one inter-state railroad company from owning stock in a competing line, and compelling roads thus owning stock to dispose of their holdings within a given time. The President also disapproved of the proposal to exempt labor unions and farmers' organizations from the operation of the anti-trust law. Specifically to except those organizations, he declared, would be vicious legislation, but he pointed a way in which they could be relieved of some of the onerous restrictions placed upon them, but at the same time be held amenable to injunctions, which form of procedure he believes adequate to deal with any violations by the unions.

COOK HELD BACK FOR BIG POW-WOW

Nearly 2,000 tickets have been sold for the steamer Grand Republic, on which the committee from the Arctic Club will go down the bay to-morrow. Slightly in advance of the steamer will go a tug bearing Mrs. Cook and her children and the explorer's two brothers, with two or three members of the committee. The plan is to take Dr. Cook from the liner aboard this tug, thus enabling him to spend the first few minutes following his arrival at quarantine with his family. Then the tug will go alongside the Grand Republic and the explorer will be taken on board for the last stage of the trip. No public events have been planned for the interval between the first welcome and the dinner to occur at the Waldorf-Astoria on Thursday night. Mrs. Cook and her children have taken rooms at that hotel, so the explorer can be in close touch with those who are anxious to see him regarding the scientific and business features of his trip north. Official arrangements for Dr. Cook's homecoming have not yet gone beyond this banquet. Nearly 2,000 tickets have been sold for the steamer Grand Republic, on which
