

THE COAL TAX.

A "Book-dollager" for Sir "Onderdonk" Tupper.

Able Exposition of the Coal Question by Mr. S. C. Cameron, M. P. for South Huron.

Mr. Cameron (Huron). Mr. Speaker, if my memory does not deceive me very much, not very long ago the hon. gentleman, who has just taken his seat, was not such a pronounced advocate of the policy of the Government as he appears to be to-night. If I am not very much mistaken, within a period of two years, that hon. gentleman declared, upon the floor of Parliament, that the policy of the Government was injurious to the Province he represented. If I am not much mistaken, he made a most pathetic appeal to hon. gentlemen opposite to consider the claims of the Island of Prince Edward, because the Tariff was most injurious to the best interest of that Province.

Mr. Hackett. No such thing. Mr. Cameron (Huron). I have just drawn on his dark mind and to-night we find him a pronounced advocate of the policy of Protection. I did not pay sufficient attention to the remarks of the hon. gentleman to be able to follow him through his whole speech, not do I propose doing so. I paid more attention, a good deal, as you may do, to the speech of the hon. Minister of Public Works. However one may disagree with the propositions that hon. gentleman lays down, and with the conclusions that he arrives at—and sometimes he arrives at extraordinary conclusions—one cannot help, at all events, cannot help, admiring his good deal, as you may do, to the speech of the hon. Minister of Public Works. However one may disagree with the propositions that hon. gentleman lays down, and with the conclusions that he arrives at—and sometimes he arrives at extraordinary conclusions—one cannot help, at all events, cannot help, admiring his good deal, as you may do, to the speech of the hon. Minister of Public Works.

pose proving that those figures were calculated and calculated to mislead, and that they did mislead, and that the premises on which he based his argument were all wrong, and, of course, propose following that up by proving that the conclusions which the hon. gentleman arrived at were equally wrong. Now, the hon. gentleman started out with the proposition that the price of coal from the United States is fixed and governed by the competition it has to meet with in the United States, and the other was that the imposition of the duty, or the coal tax, has not increased the price of coal to the Canadian consumer; or, in other words, that owing to this competition, about which the hon. gentleman spoke so vehemently and so loudly the other night, the price of coal has been reduced in the American market, to the Canadian purchaser, and of course to the Canadian consumer. The hon. gentleman said, in his speech, speaking in his colleague's name, the Minister of Finance, who said that the people of this country paid a portion of the coal tax:

"I am satisfied my hon. friend has not given me the clearest and exhaustive study that I have given to it, or he would have arrived at the opinion I now unhesitatingly state, that the imposition of the duty has not cost the people of this country anything, but the reverse. Now, Sir, my first position is that the price of coal from the United States is fixed and governed by the competition that coal has to meet with."

Now, Sir, the hon. gentleman's first position is, that the price of coal in the United States is fixed by the competition there. Now, the argument of the hon. gentleman was that, by the imposition of the duty, the price of coal to the Canadian consumer is fixed, and that the coal coming into Ontario for consumption, its cost is necessarily reduced. Let us see what are the facts, and then we will be able to decide whether the premises laid down and the conclusions arrived at by the hon. gentleman are right or wrong. To make his argument work, the hon. gentleman was bound to show that the competition met with by the Americans in the Canadian market was much keener during the past three years than during the three or any number of years preceding the introduction of the National Policy. But competition has not been keener during the last three years than during the three years preceding the introduction of the National Policy, that portion of the argument falls to the ground. Let us see how the facts sustain the contention. According to the statement of the Minister of Finance, the production of Nova Scotia mines in 1873 amounted to 881,106 tons. In 1877, as appears by the report of the Commissioner of Mines, they amounted to 687,065 tons; in 1878 to 693,511 tons; in 1879 to 688,624 tons; in 1880 to 954,659 tons; in 1881 to 1,034,800 tons. This shows that in 1880, with the National Policy, and, I suppose, the Nova Scotia mines in full blast, the increase of sales of Nova Scotia coal was only 73,533 tons over the sales in 1873; and that, in 1881, when the Nova Scotia coal mines still in full blast, and the country prosperous, and everything flourishing as we hear continually from hon. gentlemen opposite, the increase was only 153,694 tons over the sales of 1873. Does the hon. gentleman mean to say that because, in 1880, 73,000 tons of Nova Scotia coal were sold more than in 1873, the price of American coal was thereby reduced to the slightest possible degree? There is still another way by which one can test the correctness of the propositions of the hon. gentleman. If the Nova Scotia coal has come into sharper competition with the American coal, during the last three years than formerly, the former must have displaced the latter in our markets to a great extent, and the importation from the United States must necessarily have fallen off. But what are the facts? This table shows that, instead of there being a falling off, the importation of American coal has greatly increased during the last few years, and especially since the introduction of the National Policy. I do not desire to trouble the House with figures, but as the hon. gentleman has submitted to the House figures with the intent of convincing the House and the country that the position he took was correct, I am going to trouble the House with a few figures to show that his position is a false and incorrect one. In 1876, the importations of coal, both hard and soft, into Ontario from the United States, were 472,706 tons; in 1877, they amounted to 607,747 tons; in 1878, to 588,412 tons; in 1879, to 643,385 tons; in 1880, to 677,164 tons; and, in 1881, despite the marvellous competition from the Nova Scotia mines, spoken of by the Minister of Railways, that affected the price of American coal and reduced the price to the Canadian consumer, the number of tons imported from the United States reached 810,370 tons. In other words, we imported 337,664 tons more in 1881 than in 1876, before the National Policy was ever heard of. But the hon. gentleman argued that the imposition of this duty stimulated production, that production caused competition, and that competition reduced the price of coal. Does the hon. gentleman mean to tell us that because, in 1880, we sold 73,000 tons more than in 1873, that therefore the price of 66,000,000 tons, the coal production of the United States in 1880, was thereby affected in the slightest degree? The hon. gentleman might just as well say that the price of the 297,000,000 tons, the coal production of the world in 1879, were affected by the extra 73,000 tons of Nova Scotia coal above on the market in 1880 over and above the amount put on the market in 1873. The hon. gentleman must know and admit, if he only has the candor to admit it, that this unappreciable amount of coal which we put on the market in 1880 over 1873, cannot in the slightest possible degree have affected the price of coal in the American market to the Canadian purchaser and consumer. But, Sir, there is still another way by which I propose to show the fallacy of the tables submitted by the hon. gentleman. I do not know who prepared those tables for him, nor do I care. The hon. gentleman is responsible for them as he submitted them to Parliament. I pronounce those tables to be, from beginning to end, false and delusive, calculated to mislead the public, and I propose now to prove that they are false and delusive. To establish this proposition let us take the price of coal in the three great markets of the United States, to the world—not simply to the United States, but to the world. The coal dealers make no distinction there. They do not ask where the coal is going to, who is the purchaser, or who is going to consume it. They simply fix their prices and get them. Does the hon. gentleman know that, on the first day of every month in every year, the coal dealers of the United States fix the price of coal, and that price remains fixed until the first day of the next month? Does the hon. gentleman know that the price of hard coal is always fixed in the city of Buffalo, that of soft coal in Cleveland, and that the prices of both classes are, to some extent, fixed in Oswego, the three great coal markets of the United States, where every Canadian dealer, who wants to purchase coal, goes to supply his wants? If I can show you, by the clearest possible testimony, that, for the last three years or since the imposition of the duty, the price has gone steadily up instead of going down, year by year, in the American markets, notwithstanding that competition the hon. gentleman has laid such stress on, I have disposed of his argument. I am not submitting these figures without authority. I am not taking the figures prepared for a purpose by the clerks of the public Department, or the evidence of unskilled men open to the inspection of any body. The figures I am quoting are from the Secretary of the Board of Trade in Oswego, the Secretary of the Board of Trade in Cleveland, and from the manager of the coal companies at Buffalo. I have got their documents and letters in my hand, and their statements are open to the inspection of any body. I find, according to these returns, that in the price of the best hard coal, not coal, in Buffalo, where the price is always regulated, was on the 1st September, 1876, $4.90. What is the price now—is it less? No; it is $5.55 the long ton, $4.95 the short ton, while every body knows, I recall another circumstance that indicates the utter dishonesty of the statements submitted by the hon. gentleman—I do not charge intentional dishonesty in the hon. gentleman. The hon. gentleman took the quotations on the other side of the line for the long ton, while every body knows, he recall another circumstance that indicates the utter dishonesty of the statements submitted by the hon. gentleman—I do not charge intentional dishonesty in the hon. gentleman. I have still another table that will convince the most sceptical that my position is unimpeachable and that his position is available from every standpoint. This table gives the price of grate coal, egg coal, stoke and nut coal; all the different grades sold in the market of Buffalo, which are sold to the Canadian consumer. Let us see whether a single one of these grades brought to the Canadian market has been reduced within the last few years. If those grades have been reduced, the conclusions of the Minister of Railways are correct; if they have been increased, his conclusions are false and his deductions misleading, and calculated to mislead. The following table shows the price of the different varieties of hard coal at Buffalo since 1877, on 1st September, each year, 2,000, F. O. B.—

leville 40 cents, harbor dues and unloading 28 cents, making $6.43, and he says, that in Belleville this coal sells at $6.50, leaving a margin of 7 cents a ton to cover interest, insurance, warehouse rates, contingencies, etc. The seller gets 7 cents, according to the hon. gentleman's statement, over and above what he paid for coal. Does any man believe for a single moment that that is the case? The thing is absurd. Let me give you the true facts, and I verify them in the same way I verified the facts given a moment ago—by the tables for the Board of Trade for the city of Oswego. The hon. gentleman takes Oswego as the starting point. He says, coal sold in Oswego for $5.75 and in Belleville for $6.50. Let us see upon what facts that is based? On the last of November, 1881, the price of the very best hard coal in the city of Oswego per long ton of 2,240 lbs. was $5.30; the price per short ton was $4.73. The freight I assume to be correct, 40 cents a ton; harbor dues and unloading, 28 cents; add duty to these three items, and you bring it up to $5.91. The vendor in Belleville sells to his customers, according to the hon. Minister's statement, that same coal at $6.50, leaving a profit, after paying duty, of 56 cents a ton. It is manifestly clear from this that the consumer pays the duty. The hon. gentleman is unable to show to the House that, during any portion of the year 1880, his coal was sold in Oswego, by the short ton, at any such figure as the hon. gentleman has stated, and it was at no period of the year more, by the short ton, than $4.73. Again, the hon. gentleman says that the price of coal is regulated by the competition in the Canadian market has reduced the price of coal to the Canadian purchaser on the other side. I say that is wholly incorrect, and I propose to establish that fact by the letter I have in my hand from the Secretary of the Board of Trade, Oswego, which is as follows:

"I am in receipt of your favor of 10th instant. I am unable to give you the price of coal for the month of September in the years mentioned, but have obtained from A. S. Cook, agent of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Coal Company, the prices for 1st November of the same year, which, I trust, will answer your purpose. Mr. Cook also wishes me to state that your Tariff has not the slightest influence on the coal trade here, as that expense necessarily falls on the consumer. Prices are made here without reference to the Tariff."

Words of Wisdom.

Noise is the music of industry. The greatest factor of eloquence is sincerity. Let us respect gray hairs, especially our own. Affection, like the ironsmith, shapes as it smites. The two noblest things are sweetness and light. Difficulty enlists the strong, but it is then the weak desert. Beware, oh beware of the mother of a man that despises a woman. Wounds of the heart are the only ones that are healed by the opening. Jealousy is the sentiment of property, but envy is the instinct of theft. Life is so short that it is the worst of stupidities to waste an hour of it. It is a most degraded nature that will betray an honorable confidence. The clue of our destiny, wander where we will, lies at the cradle foot. When nature is sovereign there is no need of austerities and self-denial. Kisses by people who no longer love each other are merely collated yawns. In love, women go to the length of folly and men to the extreme of silliness. If common sense has not the brilliancy of the sun, it has the fixity of the stars. In the present age mortality is a figurative rule, while custom is a practical law. Little minds are tamed and subdued by misfortune, but great minds rise above it. To have the reputation of a bitter tongue get your enemies and invitation to dinner. Experience is trophy composed of all the weapons that we have been wounded with. Habit is cable. We weave a thread of it each day, and it becomes so strong we cannot break it. Man has still more desire for beauty than the knowledge of it; hence the capriciousness of the world. It is better to do the most trifling thing in the world for half an hour than to think half an hour a trifling thing. The universe is but one great city, full of beloved ones, divine and human, by nature endeared to each other. Platonic love is like a march-out in time of peace; there is much music and a good deal of dust, but no danger.

The Gore Factory.

The other day a stout woman, armed with an umbrella, and leading a small urchin, called at the office of a New York boys' story paper. "Is this the place where they fight Indians?" she inquired of the gentleman in charge. "Is this the locality where the brave boy charges up the canyon and spears a bullet to the heart of the dusky red-skin?" and she jerked the urchin around by the ear, and brought her umbrella down on the desk. "We publish stories for boys," replied the young man evasively. "I want to know if these are the premises on which the daring lad springs upon his fiery mustang and, darting through the circle of thunderstruck savages, cuts the captive's cords and bears him away before the wondering Indians have recovered from their astonishment! That's the information I'm after, I want to know if that sort of thing is perpetrated here?" and she swung the umbrella around her head and launched a crack at the young man's head. "I don't remember those specific acts," protested the young man. "I want to know if this is the precinct where the adventurous boy jumps on the back of a buffalo, and with unerring aim picks off one by one the bloodthirsty pursuers who bite the dust at every crack of his faithful rifle! I'm looking for the place where this sort of thing happens!" and this time she brought the unlucky young man a tremendous whack across the back. "I think—" commenced the dodging victim. "I'm in search of the shop in which the boy road agent holds the quivering sage driver powerless with his glittering eye, while he robs the male passengers with an adroitness born of tried and long experience, and kisses the hand of the lady-passengers with a gallantry of bearing that bespeaks noble birth and a chivalrous nature!" screamed the woman, driving the young man to the corner. "I'm looking for the apartment in which the business is transacted!" and down came the umbrella with trip hammer force on the young man's head. "Upon my soul, man!" grasped the wretched youth. "I want to be introduced to the jars in which you keep the boy scouts of the Sierras! Show me the bins full of the boy detectives of the prairie! Point out to me the barrels full of boy pirates of the Spanish main!" and with each demand she dropped the umbrellas on the young man's skull, until he skipped over the desk, and sought safety in a neighboring canyon. "I'll teach 'em!" she panted, grasping the urchin by the ear and leading him off, "I'll teach 'em to make it good or dance. Want to go fight Indians any more? Want to stand proudly upon the pinnacle of the mountain and scatter the plain with the bleeding bodies of uncounted slain? Want to say 'hist' in a note that brooks no contradiction?"

Propose to spring upon the taffail and with a ringing word of command send a broadside into a richly laden galley, and then mercifully spare the beautiful maiden in the cabin that she may become your bride? Eh! Going to do it any more?" With each question she hampered the yelping urchin until his bones were sore and he protested his permanent abandonment of all the glories enumerated. "Then come along," said she, taking him by the collar. "Let me catch you around with any more ramrods and carving knives, and you'll think the leaping, curling, resistless prairie fire has swept with a ferocious roar of triumph across the trembling plains and lodged in your pantaloons to stay.—[Brooklyn Eagle.]

From J. A. Abernethy, of Brantford, Ont. Gentlemen,—It gives me much pleasure to bear witness to a cure effected by Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. My wife having been afflicted for a number of years with diseased lungs I was prompted to try Wistar's Balsam. I did so, and to my utmost satisfaction, for it effected a permanent cure in her for which I heartily recommend it to the public at large as a true and most reliable cure for diseases of the lungs. In conclusion I beg to ask you to accept my thanks, also my hearty wishes for your success with your valuable remedy, believing it to be the only medicine adapted to such cases. 50 cents and $1 a bottle. The Utterly Disengaged Bachelor. He is generally under five and twenty, for we do not allude to old bachelors. He dresses well but not anxiously. It does not so much matter to him if his gloves are unbuttoned, or if the parting of his back hair is not quite straight. His whole manner is that of a man who owns himself, who has one to think of when he does anything, or wears anything, or says anything. He consorts with gay fellows who smoke a great deal, and he smokes a great deal himself. He doesn't mind owing to having been out very late last night, and being unable to find a place for his latch key when he reached home. He changes his boarding frequently, and is generally ahead of his salary. He laughs at engaged fellows, and pities married ones. He is off-hand in his manner, and pays great attention in a way to the last new pretty girl. He patronizes the burlesque opera, goes alone with bouquets to fling to the most fascinating performer. Even there he is jolky; and the sly with black hair, who is his idol one night is quite forgotten the next, for the blonde in blue and silver. On the whole he is extremely happy—has bright eyes fresher lips and nicer hair than any other kind of man you meet, and seems to have "disengaged" and "not in love" written in every dimple.

Newspaper Laws.

We call the special attention of postmasters and subscribers to the following synopsis of the newspaper laws:

1. A postmaster is required to give notice by letter (returning a paper does not answer the law) when a subscriber does not take his paper out of the office, and state the reasons for its not being taken. Any neglect to do so makes the postmaster responsible to the publishers for payment.

2. If any person orders his paper discontinued, he must pay all arrears, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount, whether it be taken from the office or not. There can be no legal discontinuance until the payment is made.

3. Any person who takes a paper from the post-office, whether directed to his name or another, or whether he has subscribed or not, is responsible for the paper. If a subscriber orders his paper to be stopped at a certain time, and the publisher continues to send, the subscriber is bound to pay for it if he takes it out of the post-office. This proceeds upon the ground that a man must pay for what he uses.

4. The courts have decided that refusing to take a newspaper and periodicals from the post-office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

Phosphatine. Is a wonderful thing, yet so natural, so reasonable. Why? If you have feelings of goneness; too weak and dragging to rally; too nervous to sleep; an appetite hardly sufficient to keep body and soul together; headache, with pains across the back; the whole system relaxed; perhaps coughs and sore lungs; and will use one to six bottles of Dr. G. L. Austin's Phosphatine as the case may demand; it will not fail to make you an enthusiastic friend. Why do we say thus? Because Phosphatine supplies a want, the very properties the system lacks, and is not a medicine, but a nutriment; instantly converted into blood, bone and tissue. It is also delicious to the taste. Try it. The result is as certain as that cause and effect go hand in hand. All druggists, Lowrey & Co., Sole agents for the Dominion, 55 Front St. East, Toronto.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALM. It excites expectoration and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; changes the secretions and gives life to the blood; breaks the indurated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. SUCH IS THE IMMEDIATE AND SATISFACTORY EFFECT that it is warranted to break up the most distressing cough in a few hours time. If not of too long standing. It is warranted to GIVE ENTIRE SATISFACTION, EXCEPT IN THE MOST CONSIDERABLE CASES OF CONSUMPTION. It is warranted not to produce constipation which is the case with most remedies; or affect the head, as it contains no opium in any form. It is warranted to be perfectly harmless to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. There is no need of a doctor's prescription. Physicians having consumptive patients, and who, having failed to cure them with their own medicine, we would recommend to give ALLEN'S LUNG BALM a trial. Sold by all Druggists.

THE BONUS QUESTION.

A couple of weeks ago we published an article on the bonus question, which excited considerable comment among the residents of Goderich. In it we laid down certain principles, and took exception to too great haste in grasping at business offers, and the exhibiting of too great anxiety to offer bonuses to business enterprises proposing to locate in our town.

That special and increasing responsibilities devolve upon the Government and Parliament of Canada in connection with the development of her resources, the improvement of her condition, her general progress in the scale of nations, and her geographical situation, which render her even more responsible than the Government of the United Kingdom for the maintenance of international relations with the United States.

That having regard to these considerations, there is no possession of the Crown beyond the limits of the United Kingdom which is entitled to such a simple measure of self-government or so full an application of the principle of constitutional freedom as the Dominion of Canada.

That it would be for the interest of Canada to obtain freer access to the markets of the world, and that a more extended interchange of commodities with other countries would augment the national prosperity.

That in most of the treaties of commerce entered into by England, reference has only been had to their effect on the United Kingdom, and the Colonies have been excluded from their operation—a fact which has been attended with unfortunate results to Canada, especially as relates to France.

That the condition of Canada, and the system on which her duties of customs have been and are now imposed, vary widely from those existing in the United Kingdom, and often, in relation to the basis and negotiation of commercial arrangements, with other States or British possessions, views and considerations, which do not apply to the case of, or harmonize with, the policy of the United Kingdom, which it is difficult for the Government of the United Kingdom to advance, and which can be best realized and presented by the Government of Canada through a negotiation named by her for the purpose of providing separate trade conventions with countries with which Canada has or may expect distinct trade.

That the complication and delays involved in the reference to the Department of the Government of the United Kingdom of points arising in the course of trade negotiations, enhance the difficulties of the situation and diminish the chances of success that have already resulted in loss to Canada.

CANADA'S TREATY RIGHTS.

We give below the text of the resolutions moved by Hon. E. Blake with regard to Canada's independent action to make commercial treaties with foreign powers. The motion was voted down by a majority of 101 to 58, but Mr. Blake succeeded in creating a defection in the Tory ranks—some seven members of that party voting for the motion, which was, in every sense of the term, a vote of want of confidence in the Government.

That Canada no longer occupies the position of an ordinary dependency of the Crown. She numbers over four millions of free men trained in the principles of constitutional government. She comprises one-half of the North American Continent, including seven Provinces federated under an Imperial Charter, which recites that her Constitution is to be similar in principle to that of the United Kingdom; and she possesses executive and legislative authority over vast areas in the North-west, out of which a Province has already been created, and in time others will be found.

That special and increasing responsibilities devolve upon the Government and Parliament of Canada in connection with the development of her resources, the improvement of her condition, her general progress in the scale of nations, and her geographical situation, which render her even more responsible than the Government of the United Kingdom for the maintenance of international relations with the United States.

That having regard to these considerations, there is no possession of the Crown beyond the limits of the United Kingdom which is entitled to such a simple measure of self-government or so full an application of the principle of constitutional freedom as the Dominion of Canada.

That it would be for the interest of Canada to obtain freer access to the markets of the world, and that a more extended interchange of commodities with other countries would augment the national prosperity.

That in most of the treaties of commerce entered into by England, reference has only been had to their effect on the United Kingdom, and the Colonies have been excluded from their operation—a fact which has been attended with unfortunate results to Canada, especially as relates to France.

That the condition of Canada, and the system on which her duties of customs have been and are now imposed, vary widely from those existing in the United Kingdom, and often, in relation to the basis and negotiation of commercial arrangements, with other States or British possessions, views and considerations, which do not apply to the case of, or harmonize with, the policy of the United Kingdom, which it is difficult for the Government of the United Kingdom to advance, and which can be best realized and presented by the Government of Canada through a negotiation named by her for the purpose of providing separate trade conventions with countries with which Canada has or may expect distinct trade.

That the complication and delays involved in the reference to the Department of the Government of the United Kingdom of points arising in the course of trade negotiations, enhance the difficulties of the situation and diminish the chances of success that have already resulted in loss to Canada.

That it is expedient to obtain all necessary powers to enable Her Majesty, through her representative, the Governor General of Canada, acting by and with the advice of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada, to enter by an agent or representative of Canada into direct communication with any British possession or foreign state for the purpose of negotiating commercial arrangements tending to the advantage of Canada, subject to the prior consent of the subsequent approval of the Parliament of Canada, signified by Act.

Very Uncertain.

The liberals went into the election of 1878 very hopeful; they sustained a crushing defeat. The conservatives enter upon the coming struggle in much confidence with much hectoring; will history repeat itself as the darkey said to the carpet-bagger, "De ballot may be uncertain, but de white man will be de victor."

The Debate on Home Rule. To Mr. Mills we are indebted for a review of Irish legislation which showed how the present demands of the Irish people are the natural result of preceding causes, and if Ireland is miserable to-day the fact is owing entirely to the cruel and unjust laws forced upon her by the English Government. (Ottawa Free Press.)

Jealous John A. Sir John says that Mr. Blake's speech on the Irish question was demagogic. When Sir John bewailed the hard times and lyingly declared that he could better be that than demagogic! He said that he could produce "tall chimneys" everywhere; that villages would become towns and towns develop into cities—that demagogic! The reader may answer for himself. (Advertiser.)

Ireland's Friend. The Knights in the Cabinet handed Mr. Cestiga's resolutions expressing sympathy with the Irish tenants, very gingerly. Mr. Blake having declined the shilling offered him by the British Government, in his shape of knighthood, he himself free to speak what was in his mind and heart in regard to the Irish. His speech will find an echo in the hearts of all who sympathize with an oppressed people. (Evening Telegram.)

A Weak Argument. Some conservative journals must think the people of Ontario are wanting in common sense when they tell them that the course pursued by Sir John Macdonald on the boundary question is one that will give to Ontario more territory than she claims. What Ontario wants is what she would get if she were to have no boundary at all. The Tories are on the wrong side on this question and no amount of special pleading and tugging at their boot straps will lift them over to the other. (World.)

Slandering the Irish. The Irish resolutions adopted by the Canadian Commons declare that the Irish in Canada are the most loyal, contented and happy of her Majesty's subjects in the colony. This does not agree with the opinions expressed by the Mail and its evening echo, both of which journals delight in maligning the Irish. The other day one of them declared that all national societies established by Irishmen were disloyal at bottom—a slander of which several Irish societies in Toronto are a perpetual repudiation. (Telegraph.)

A Well Deserved Tribute. To whom should we look for a display of sympathy for the Irish people in the Canadian Parliament if not the son of the most generous and patriotic Irishman that ever lived in Canada. The Irish people expected this from Mr. Blake, and they can now point with pride to the fact that when the occasion arose he was equal to it, and gave them the assurance that Irish love liberty, Irish eloquence, Irish genius, burns as brightly in Canada to-day as in the most famous periods of the history of Irish oratory. (Ottawa Free Press.)

Not the Cheese. The disgust with the N. P. expressed by some of our farmer-readers has disturbed the Howick Enterprise. "There are no tall chimneys in Gorrie," said one of the farmers as a reason why he should be discontented with the N. P. The Enterprise endeavors to prove there is a tall chimney—namely cheese factory. This cheese factory we are informed by a friend, was running six months before the last election. We should like the Enterprise to explain what the N. P. has done for the cheese industry. The duty on cheese was not changed by the N. P. Nine-tenths of our produce goes abroad, and the price here would be regulated by the exported produce if only one-tenth went abroad. Every manufactured article used by the dairyman was increased in price by the tariff. His cheese-cloth is subject to a vindictive duty of 60 per cent, and is all imported. And, to cap the climax, the N. P. Government has just put a heavy tax on dairy salt. (Globe.)

Sir John's Poor Health. When the Shields payment for the settlement of the Hewson-Macdonald claim was announced a few weeks ago by the Globe Sir John Macdonald, in his defence of himself in Parliament, made an ostentatious show of his poverty. He was "only a poor man," he said, and his followers have from time to time put forward the same story that Sir John, though so long in power, is still poor. In this connection the question has been raised, is Sir John a poor man? And if so, ought he to be poor? An evening paper discussing this question, which has been much talked of about the lobbies of late, gives the following statement of the Premier's annual receipts:—

Table with 2 columns: Item and Amount. As Prime Minister: $8,000. Seasonal allowance: 1,200. From the Trust and Loan Co.: 4,000. Interest on $50,000 gratuity: 6,000. Income tax: 3,000. Total per year: $20,200.

But in addition to this it appears that during the past three years the country has paid travelling and other expenses of Sir John amounting to $5,000 per annum. All the residents of Ottawa are familiar with the fact the Premier has but a small family, lives plainly, gives few entertainments and these on a comparatively small scale. If these statements be true what becomes of the poor man story? The majority of the people of Canada would think themselves rich if the each had half this annual income, and they will read with some surprise Sir John's plaintive talk about being a poor man.

A Stipulated Effort.

The speech of the leader of the Opposition by all odds—even judging from a scanty summary—one of the best presentations of the claim of Ireland to Home Rule that we have so far seen, and its effect on the Mother Country. (Montreal Herald.)

"Our Side" Committee. The character of Dr. Orton's wonderful Committee was further demonstrated this morning. At the close of the evidence Dr. Orton proposed to call Mr. N. C. Wallace in relation to the milling business. Mr. Trow remarked that he thought the Committee had had sufficient evidence in this industry, when Dr. Orton rejoined that he proposed to call an other witness "our side" and an "our side" principle committee has been running all through.

COMMUNICATIONS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions of our Correspondents. Contributors to this department are requested to confine themselves to public questions, and be brief.

A Reminiscence of Thirty Years Ago.

DEAR SIR,—In the Mail of last Saturday, I read these words, "there is nothing that brings people together sooner than a little nonsense." A truism which brought to my mind one such incident of the most ludicrous and yet most successful sort I ever met with, and if you will kindly permit me space, I shall relate it for the amusement of your readers, some of whom will yet remember and take another laugh over it. On the day before the meeting of the United Comm. of Huron, Perth and Bruce June, 1852, a general meeting of the settlement had been called to discuss the merits of the then proposed railway. There was a large meeting in the Square, with delegates from Buffalo, Brantford, Paris and Toronto. The latter, however, came to oppose the scheme. At the supper afterwards given to the strangers in the evening, it was rather carefully arranged to set certain of our townsmen in certain places to entertain the guests. Mr. John Clark, the Crown Land agent, was placed between the Mayor of Buffalo and one of their Aldermen, and soon after the hot whiskey had been served, Clark, marked to his neighbors that they must have a queer sort of editors in Buffalo, or they certainly were a queer sort of folk altogether. His neighbors, of course, wanted to know what he meant, when without a smile on his face, he drew a then recent Buffalo paper from his pocket, and pointed to a certain paragraph in it, asking if that was really true, placing the paper in their hands. Both gentlemen read the paragraph, and handed it back, saying that they saw nothing wrong in it; when Clark rose, and without a grin on his face read aloud that Buffalo had so many "hundreds of beautiful houses, and so many thousands of inhabitants, all having their backs ends to the street." There was audible silence for a moment, and then there was no more railroad talk that night. Mr. Clement, from Brantford, a gentleman just as fond of fun as Clark was, gave a story about hens, but after that it did not take much of a joke to give cause for another cheer and another drink. One stout gentleman, Reeve from Stratford, could not sit over five minutes on his chair at a time when he would rise and propose the same toast, "The Mayor of Buffalo," at least a dozen times, and without being in the least disconcerted that no one joined him, for every body was too much engaged on the subject to take a sip himself, and down again. Well, Sir, the next morning there had to be biters, of course, and the "Gable ends" over again, and before noon the United Council, with only one dissentient voice, voted just double the amount of what our corresponding committee had led the strangers to expect.

WARM MILK AS A BEVERAGE.—Milk that is heated to much above a hundred degrees Fahrenheit loses for a time a degree of its sweetness and its density. No one who, fatigued by over-exertion of body and mind, has ever experienced the reviving influence of a tumbler of this beverage, heated as hot as it can be sipped will willingly forgo a resort to it because of its having been rendered somewhat less acceptable to the palate. The promptness with which its cordial influence is felt is indeed surprising. Some portion of it seems to be digested and appropriated almost immediately; and those who fancy that they need alcoholic stimulants when exhausted by fatigue will find in this simple draught an equivalent that shall be abundantly satisfying and more enduring in its effects.

A writ has been issued by Mr. Lynch claiming $3000 damages, for falling and breaking her leg on a defective sidewalk on Curzon street, Toronto.

A train load of immigrants has arrived at Winnipeg. The passengers were transferred across the prairie from St. Vincent to Emerson, by steamer Selkirk. The latest news from Winnipeg reports the water still rising at Emerson and Niverville, and people are leaving their homes. A train load of settlers was stopped west of Winnipeg by washouts on the Canada Pacific, caused by the Assiniboine breaking up, and the train in standing in three feet of water. A train with provisions has been despatched to their relief.

How to Train a Child Mentally. Children think much more deeply than we imagine; we should therefore answer their questions to the best of our ability, unless evidently asked in a spirit of frivolity, and try to explain to them reasons for things they see occurring around them, and for the acts which you yourself perform. But gain their confidence in every way in your power. A mother should be more a monitor than a teacher, or rather she ought to be both combined. You like to see your boy clever, doubtless, but do not make a show child of him. Do not even let him know you think him clever, and discourage all pertness in conversation, for this too often borders on impertinence. Never permit him to contradict you. If he contradicts his mother, may he not, when old enough to go out, be guilty at table of very great rudeness? At the same time, mothers should never deserve contradiction. When you have occasion to reprove, beware of doing so angrily. It is far better to speak gently and make the child feel ashamed of himself, because shame breeds sorrow and contrition, and this in its turn, the desire to behave better in the time to come.

MORTGAGE SALE OF A VALUABLE FARM IN THE TOWNSHIP OF ASHFIELD IN THE COUNTY OF HURON. Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain indenture of mortgage, which will be produced at the time of sale, made by James Finn. This is to be sold by public auction, by John C. Currie, auctioneer, at Belmont's Hotel, in the village of Port Albert, on Tuesday, the 16th day of May, 1880, at 12 o'clock, noon, for the purpose of raising property, viz: the south half of the South half of lot number three in the fifth concession, western division of the township of Ashfield, in the County of Huron, containing fifty acres of land, more or less, of which 30 acres are cleared, fenced, and in a fair state of cultivation, and the remainder bush land, wooded with hard wood and hemlock, and is capable of being easily cleared. The building consists of a frame dwelling house 18x24. The soil is a clay loam of good quality. This farm is advantageously situated, being about 12 miles from the town of Goderich, and within half a mile of the gravel road leading from Goderich to Kincardine, and within 2 miles of the village of Port Albert. Terms of sale: Ten per cent on the day of sale and the balance in one month thereafter. A portion of the purchase money may, at the option of the purchaser, remain on mortgage on the said lands. The property will be put up subject to a power of sale, and the conditions of sale are similar to the standing conditions of sale of the High Court of Justice. For further particulars, apply to the auctioneer, or the Vendor's Solicitor. Dated at Goderich, this 15th day of April A. D. 1880. GARROW & PROUTOFF, J. C. CURRIE, Vendor's Solicitor. Auctioneer. 1880-81.

SHERIFF'S SALE OF LANDS. COUNTY OF HURON. By virtue of a Writ of Fieri Facias, issued out of Her Majesty's Court of the County of Huron, and to me directed against the Lands and Tenements of the late John C. Currie, deceased, I have received and taken in execution all the right, title and interest, remains on mortgage of the above named deceased in and to the north half of lot number ten in the third concession of the township of Ashfield, in the County of Huron, containing 100 acres of land, more or less, which shall offer for sale, at my office in the Court House, in the Town of Goderich, on FRIDAY, THE 29th DAY OF MAY next, at the hour of twelve of the clock, noon. ROBERT GIBBONS, Sheriff of Huron.

Leedon.

There have been several cases of inflammation and bad colds about here of late.

PERSONALS.—Mr. Wm. McManus has returned home from visiting friends in the state of New York. Miss Currie, of Goderich, has been the guest of Mrs. J. J. Wright, of the Point Farm.

HARD AT IT.—Spring work has been begun in real earnest. Mr. Harry Horton got in the first peas on the 17th at 5 a. m., and a few days before Mr. Hugh Chisholm sowed the first oats on his farm on Butternut Row. In twelve months Mr. Chisholm has got about 60 acres of his new farm under cultivation.

OBITUARY.—On Sunday evening last, at the Bible Christian Church, Rev. Mr. Broad, in a few remarks, announced the death of Mary, only child of the former pastor, Rev. Mr. Mason. Many of her young friends who knew her when she resided here would be happy to know that she died happy trusting in the Lord Jesus. In the loss of his daughter, Rev. Mr. Mason has the sympathy of a large circle of friends in this locality.

HOME AGAIN.—After a sojourn of seven weeks in Toronto, Mr. Archibald Hodge of the firm of Hodge & Haynes, has returned, and settled down to business at the mill. He is much improved in health and spirits.

The patients down with the measles keep our "sick committee" on the hop. Owing to over care, one of our oldest nurses succumbed to illness, from sheer anxiety. The other nurses miss her advice, but are looking after her, and we are glad to hear that she is getting better. 11 cases of measles have been discharged as cured, 10 are laid up, and 8 more are convalescing. "The tonic" as a remedy has been largely used, and Sir Astley Cooper and Holloway are in the shade.

ASSESSMENT COMPLETED.—After eighteen days' work, Mr. George McKee, township assessor, has finished his work. His duties were heavier than usual, this year having had to ask 35 questions at each house. The number of births during the year was 44; deaths 23. Fall plowing for spring work, 4,806 acres. There are 4,438 acres in fall wheat. He is pleased to see great improvements in buildings and fences during the past year, and observe careful and scientific farming among many of our intelligent yeomen. The population has increased 142. He holds great hope out to our young men, in saying that there are yet a goodly number of handsome, active girls in the township who do not care about Manitobah weather, and are willing to make our own Colborne lads happy and helpful partners in life.

A Valuable Secret.

It is related of Franklin that from the window of his office in Philadelphia he noticed a mechanic, among a number of others, at work on a house which was being erected close by, who appeared to be in a merry humor, and who had a kind and cheerful smile for every one he met. Let the day be ever so cold, gloomy, or unless the happy smile danced like a sunbeam on his cheerful countenance. Meeting him one day, Franklin inquired to know the secret of his happy flow of spirits. "It's no secret, doctor," the man replied. "I've got one of the best wives, and when I go to work she always gives me a kind word of encouragement and a blessing, with a parting kiss; and when I go home she is sure to meet me with a smile and a kiss of welcome; and then tea is sure to be ready; and as we chat in the evening, I find she has been doing so many little things during the day to please me that I cannot find it in my heart to speak an unkind word or geing an unkind look to anybody.

And Franklin added: "What an influence, then, hath woman over the heart of man, to soften it, and make it the fountain of cheerful emotions. Speak gently, then; a happy smile and a kind word of greeting after the toils of the day are over cost nothing, and go far towards making home happy and peaceful."

By casual observation, we find all land speculators have a clear head and watch the ups and downs of property, thus making large fortunes. But the whole secret is, they keep the system in a healthy condition by the use of THE PRIDE OF THE VALLEY MEDICINE. We can safely say that hundreds come to us for the great lung and blood purifier before going west. Read the following statement. We could give thousands of the same kind if it were necessary.
"I certify that I was troubled with Catarrh in the head, gathering of phlegm in the throat, choking and coughing at night for years, so I could not sleep, often troubled with dull, lifeless feelings, pains in the chest and back. After giving hundreds of dollars to doctors, and giving up all hopes, I tried the PRIDE OF THE VALLEY, and am now able to do my work after seven years' sickness."

CHARLES R. DARWIN.

Death of the World's Great Scientist. Natural Selection and Evolution—A Lifetime Devoted to Science.
On the 20th ult., Charles Robert Darwin, the great scientist and distinguished naturalist, died at his residence, Down House, near Orpington, England.

THE DARWINIAN THEORY.
In its widest significance, the Evolution theory of Darwin is a hypothesis which regards all natural, physical and biological, as the result of a development from the general to the special from the simple to the complex at the same time.

THE DARWINIAN THEORY.
Phosphatine, or Nerve Food, a Phosphate Element based upon Scientific Facts, Formulated by Professor Austin M. D. of Boston, Mass., cures Pulmonary Consumption, Sick Headache, Nervous Attacks, Vertigo and Neuralgia and all wasting diseases of the human system.

CAREER OF DARWIN.
Charles Robert Darwin, LL, D., F.R.S., was born at Shrewsbury, Eng., February 12th, 1809. He was educated first at the Shrewsbury grammar school; he then went to the University of Edinburgh, and next to Christ Church, Cambridge, where he graduated B.A. in 1832 and M.A. in 1837.

been an indefatigable student. The highest honors have been conferred upon him by almost every university in Europe. He has written much, many of his works having been translated into other languages.

The bright spring days, because warmer than winter, delude children with the idea that summer has come, and this delusion often keeps the doctors uncommonly busy in the early spring months. A little more care and exercise of common sense, would prevent half the cases of sickness.

Few parents properly teach children the use of head-covering. It would be a safe rule to impress upon them that some covering on the head should always be worn out of doors, when the air is cool or damp, as well as the bright sunshine, at any season of year—in short, fix the habit of putting something on the head whenever they step out of doors.

Some warm April days tempt the inexperienced to take under-flannels, but it is seldom safe in April to remove the winter flannels unless thinner ones are substituted. For the children it seems most reasonable, if the weather favors the change, to leave off flannels on Saturday night, when the weekly bath is taken.

To the Medical Profession, and all whom it may concern.

Phosphatine, or Nerve Food, a Phosphate Element based upon Scientific Facts, Formulated by Professor Austin M. D. of Boston, Mass., cures Pulmonary Consumption, Sick Headache, Nervous Attacks, Vertigo and Neuralgia and all wasting diseases of the human system.

People have no more right to become dyspeptic, and remain gloomy and miserable, than they have to take poison and commit suicide. If the stomach becomes weak and fails to perform its functions, Bardsell Blood Bitters will speedily remedy the trouble.

No house should be without a bottle of Hayward's Yellow Oil, in case of accident. There is no preparation offered to suffering humanity that has made so many permanent cures, or relieved so much pain and misery.

Rescued From the Grave.
Mrs. Helen Parviz, No. 331 Dayton at Chicago, Ill., is now in her sixty-eighth year, and states that she has suffered with Consumption for about ten years, was treated by nine physicians, all of whom pronounced her case hopeless.

Household Hints.

There are four teaspoonfuls of flour in a pead. Don't boil mellow without the help of fat of some kind. Macaroni is very nutritious in soup, as it is made of the wheat. You require very little butchers' meat the day you have pea soup, as it contains the same nutriment. Always parboil onions for mixtures, or else they will be half raw when the other vegetables are cooked. Bean soup is very nourishing. Don't put bread in your pea soup, if it is to be used the second day, as the bread will have turned sour. Wash your pudding-cloth with a little soda as soon as used - never use soap. In selecting beef, press your finger on it. If it retains the imprint of the finger reject it. There is a great deal of nutriment in bones. Eggs and fish make a good brain food. Wash your vegetables, especially potatoes, before cutting them. Never buy a chickens with yellow legs, if you want a tender one. Such paste is exceedingly wholesome if it is well boiled. Frying bacon, turn it frequently till it is nice and crisp. Immincing suet, use a little flour to prevent softer portions from adhering together. When cleaning haddock always remove the scales against the grain, but do not use hot water as it destroys the flavor of the fish. Never bake fish in a tasty oven. Herring contain as much nutriment as salmon, and are much cheaper. Kidney are difficult of digestion.

Power of Tastelessness.

The best bred people never think of themselves - or do not appear to do so - but only of the pleasure they give to others. In all French history no woman had a stronger fascination for admirer than within her reach than Madame de Sevigne. She was beautiful, her portraits proved that her beauty was not to be compared with that of many less charming women. And even when attraction of person had long passed away, and she was an old woman, her way over the hearts of others was as powerful as ever. What was her secret? It was this one thing - she was genuine and unaffected in the good and ill fortunes of her friends. She was ever ready with her sympathy and counsel. Authors came to her and read their books; painters came to her with their pictures; statesmen with their projects. She was sweet and simple, unconsciously, as a rose is sweet. She really cared for the happiness and success of others, and they felt the genuineness of her sympathy. It surrounded her with an immortal charm. Let any girl try Madame Recamiers experiment. Let her go into society thinking nothing of the admiration she may win; but everything of the happiness she can confer. It matters little whether her face is beautiful, or her toilet costly. Before the three months she will be a happy girl herself; for the world likes unshined and sympathy, and turns to them as the flowers that bask in the sun of June.

John Plouman's Sayings.

Judge not a ship as she lies on the stocks. One door never shuts but another opens. He who hath a trade hath an estate. Linings, paid for, keep out cold, silks on credit sour grow old. Grumbling makes the loaf no larger. Monday gained to-day (Sunday) is a loss. No grains without pains. Much laughter, little wit. A calm hour with God is worth a lifetime with man. He who keeps off the ice will not slip through. Every apron nowadays thinks itself a herring. Better slip with the foot than tongue. Exercise is the best fire for cold limbs. Shrouds have no pockets.

IT IS NOT WHAT YOU EAT, BUT what you digest, that maintains the nutrition of the body. There may be dyspepsia without apparent stomach trouble, as those pallid, anemic cases with general debility and want of nerve power are positive evidence of systematic impoverishment from failure of the DIGESTIVE APPARATUS to convert food enough into blood to supply the daily wants of the body. Here WHEELER'S Phosphates and Calava is indicated to restore the DIGESTIVE TRIPUD - the STOMACH, LIVER and PANCREAS - to their normal working power.

Why is the discovery of the north pole like an illicit whiskey manufacture? Because it is a secret still.

Fun and Fancy.

Not suitable for a clothes line - A cord of wood. Every man has his fort if he can only hold it. A boomerang: "I tell you the truth, I assure you," said Brown, quite earnestly. "Would that your truth were equal to your assurance," replied Fogg; "then nobody could doubt your word." A dull old lady being told that a certain lawyer was "lying the point of death," exclaimed: "Dear me, even death won't stop this man's lying!" A lady with a young infant was recently presented with handsome basket bearing on its lining the words, "Welcome, Little Stranger." The basket was greatly admired, especially the painted letters in green and gold, but the nurse, an Irish woman, put in a veto against the salutation, "for sure that was wrong, for the baby is not a stranger, but one of the family." A Dundee Quandy Settled - A juice manufacturer in Dundee consigned goods to a house, and they lay a long time undisposed of. At length he received a letter from the consignees, intimating that the goods were in statu quo; and, mistaking this for the name of a place, he joyfully informed a neighbor that the goods were now in statu quo, where he hoped they would speedily find a purchaser. "But I never heard of that place," said his neighbor. "Nor I either," replied the manufacturer; "I looked at the map, but couldn't find it; and I just concluded it's a small town up the kintira!" When Romenyi was playing one of the softest passages in Schubert's serenade at Scrantons, Pa., the other night, a man in the gallery took a handful of peanuts out of his pocket and began to eat the same in a particularly boisterous manner, whereupon the fiddler stopped his bow and made a little speech, thus: "Ladies and gentlemen, I now make use of a little speech. That peanut eater is very much amny, and think he enjoys himself very much as nobody else in the house. When he gets through with his peanut solo I go on." The speech was loudly applauded, and the peanut feed was crashed for the evening.

In the month of April almost everyone requires a good and reliable Blood Purifier. We know of none so safe and effective as Dr. Carson's Stomach and Constipation Bitters. They act directly on all the secretions, their purgative action carrying off all impurities from the system, they invigorate the Liver and Kidneys, purify the Stomach, cleanse the Bowels, and give strength and tone to the whole system. Try a course of this valuable, safe and reliable vegetable preparation, Dr. Carson's Stomach and Constipation Bitters. In large bottles at 50 cents. Geo. Rhyinas, agent for Goderich.

Woman's True Friend. A friend in need is a friend indeed. This none can deny, especially when assistance is rendered when one is sorely afflicted with disease, more particularly those complaints and weaknesses so common to our female population. Every woman should know that Electric Bitters are woman's true friend, and will positively restore her to health, even when all other remedies fail. A single trial always proves our assertion. They are pleasant to the taste and only cost fifty cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS. The address-label on the first page will show each subscriber the state of his account with THE SIGNAL, and (it may be hinted) that this is an appropriate season for making an alteration in the figures. There are other figures in our books, also, which might very appropriately be adjusted before the end of this month. "Oce no man anything," has been wisely enjoined upon all, and this injunction is especially binding upon all who do business with newspaper men. A word to the wise is sufficient, and we will say no more at present, for we detest dunning.

Going to His Grave. There he goes again direct to a saloon and pours down another heavy draught of strong drink, not so much because his appetite demands it, but for the artificial buoyancy it produces - the after effects of which leave him more miserable than before; it is this dreadful practice that is daily sending thousands to their graves. A remedy for all this is found in the true friend of temperance, - the best and purest of all medicines, - Electric Bitters. Sold by Geo. Rhyinas at 50 cents.

Fortunes for Farmers and Mechanics. Thousands of dollars can be saved by using proper judgment in taking care of the health of yourself and family. If you are Bilious, have a slow complexion, poor appetite, low and depressed spirits, and generally debilitated, do not delay a moment, but go at once and procure a bottle of those wonderful Electric Bitters, which never fail to cure, and that for the trifling sum of fifty cents. - [Trimbune. Sold by Geo. Rhyinas at 50c. ]

The Doctor's Last Happy Resort. EVANSVILLE, Ind., Jan. 11, 1882. I recently had a very difficult case of Consumption. I treated it in the most scientific manner possible, but to no effect; patient grew gradually weaker. Rather than give up, and as a last resort, I decided, much against my wish, to use a remedy that had cured one of my former patients. Greatly to my surprise, the patient began to gain, and in a much shorter time than I dared to expect, she was completely cured. This remarkable remedy is Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. I now use it altogether in my practice. - [Leading M. D., Evansville. Trial bottles free at Rhyinas' drug store. Large size $1. ]

FINE HORSES.—Mr. Alex. Young, of this place is travelling his fine Clydesdale stallions "Netherby" and "Dunmore." These animals rank high as first-class draught horses, and we expect that Mr. Young will make money on them this season. He is also largely interested in "Pride of Carron," a horse which will travel in the lower part of the county. We are pleased to have so enthusiastic a lover of superior horse flesh in our midst.

FARM SOLD.—Mr. W. H. Best of Goderich township, sold his farm on the Huron Road to Mr. Henry Tennant, of W. St. Lynn, Manitoba for $4,000. The sale was brought about by an advertisement in THE SIGNAL, which Mr. Tennant saw while living in Manitoba. Mr. Tennant is going to remain in the Northwest, but will send his family to reside on the Best farm, so that they can avail themselves of the excellent educational privileges which Goderich boasts of.

Grits and Tories up here are anxious to have the elections brought on soon, so that the agony may be over.

Our genial "Boniface," Mr. Delong, intends to give his hearers early "garden sass." He rejoices now in cabbage plants, three inches tall grown in the open air. Mr. A. C. Hawkins has been taking out material for some time past for the purpose of repairing the break on the pier at our harbor. An extension of the lake pier 200 or 300 feet, and the dredging of the basin would give us an excellent harbor, and vessels of deep draft would have no difficulty in doing trade at this point.

While waiting for a car, we called at the Smith Medicine Co., 45 Bleury-st., Montreal, and found it a place well worth a visit. While there a Mr. John Reynolds, living at 102 Canoe-st., came in with a monster tape worm, some 45 feet in length, which he had expelled the day before, after taking Dr. Smith's Great German Worm Remedy, and he spoke of it in terms of the highest praise, having tried numerous other remedies and doctors without success. We were also shown eleven large stomach worms, removed from a little child of Patrick Smith, 96 Chenyville-st., with one dose of the remedy. They have thousands of testimonials, and before our car came along we were fully convinced of the wonderful merits of Dr. Smith's Great German Worm Remedy. [Montreal Star, Price 25c. a box. A TERRIBLE BURNING ACCIDENT.—The Kincaid Reporter says: On Monday morning Robt. Chambers a young man employed as fireman at Rightmyer's salt block, met with an accident which might have resulted fatally. As it is he will be laid up for some time, and has been suffering great pain. It is necessary for the fireman to shut down the furnaces every few weeks for the purpose of cleaning out the coal dust which lodges at the back of the grates. This is an operation which requires great care, 'live dust' when disturbed will move rapidly as quicksilver. The fires were closed on Saturday night, and on Monday morning the week of cleaning commenced. Chambers entered the furnace, the front part which was cool, and with the hose from a force pump proceeded to lay upon the live coal dust. Unfortunately he had not taken the precaution to build a dam of wet clay in front of where he was standing. As soon as the water touched the coal dust it moved rapidly towards him and eventually ran out the furnace door.

The only place of exit. Fearing that he would be consumed if he remained where he was standing, Chambers resolutely crawled through the red hot burning dust and out the door, where he was promptly assisted by his fellow-firemen. In escaping from the furnace his hands and arms were terribly burned, and he received a severe scorching of his face. Chambers was removed to W. Fleming's residence near the salt block, where his wounds were treated by Dr. McCombs.

We pray that the blessings of Your Majesty's reign may for your people's sake be long continued.

The resolution had been read from the chair; there was a brief pause. It seemed as if the motion would be passed without further discussion, as the Minister, a ringing cheer on the Opposition side greeted Mr. Blake as he rose. There was apparent surprise on the Ministerial side, which deepened into concern as with a comprehensive grasp of his subject Mr. Blake took a bold course, which was characteristic of his speech. Never yet has a Canadian statesman in any deliverance taken stronger hold upon the attention of Parliament. At first he was repeatedly cheered on the Liberal side of the House, but soon the infection caught on the other side, and cheers became general on both sides of the House. At this stage there came to be visible some symptoms of confusion on the Conservative camp. The managers could be seen consulting together. They afterward seemed to frown upon the spontaneous applause which again and again broke from the entire House. Mr. Blake recalled that he had two years ago pointed out the necessity for some measure of local self-government for Ireland. Looking over the condition of that unhappy country before the Union, he showed that under the Union Ireland had not been pacified by her condition, ameliorated as it should have been. At that time he pointed to reach Catholic emancipation and fifty years to reach the disestablishment of the Irish Church. Looking over the remedial legislation proposed from time to time in the English Parliament, he showed that this had been too long delayed, and only passed under pressure of emergency. Legislation had been too much in effect to give luxury to absentee landlords and misery for resident tenants. Turning from the remedial legislation, which was the brighter side, Mr. Blake turned to consider the darker side of coercion acts and government by force, declaring that the English government of Ireland had proved a disastrous failure. It had not been government in accord with the wishes of the people, but government by force. He pointed out that the British Parliament could not properly legislate for Ireland while overweighed with other matters and the interests of a majority of its member-ships was not in line with Irish interests. He quoted Gladstone's utterances when out of power in favor of some system of local self-government for Ireland. He also quoted Gladstone's subsequent utterances in Parliament, in which he stated that the Home Rulers had proposed no plan for practically carrying out their object. This he characterized in strong language, and asserted that it was Gladstone's duty to have grappled with the question, and by a well-considered measure of right and justice to have pacified Ireland. Before closing Mr. Blake quoted with marked effect the resolutions with regard to the disestablishment of the Irish Church, which were moved by Mr. Holton in the Canadian Parliament of 1870, and which Sir John Macdonald's Government had then choked off by moving the previous question. He quoted Sir John's speech on that occasion, in which he had declared the impropriety of bringing up such questions in the Canadian House. From this doctrine Mr. Blake warmly dissented. He declared our right to pronounce opinions and to aid Her Majesty's Government in carrying out the best interests of the Empire, whose glories and whose shame we were alike called to share. Before sitting down he characterized forcibly the manner in which Mr. Costigan had emasculated his resolution after giving notice of it. No mere synopsis can give any impression of the breadth, scope, force, fullness of detail, and convincing effect of Mr. Blake's speech. It is one which will be read and challenge attention wherever English language is spoken. It carried conviction with it, and no one who heard it doubted the candid earnestness and sincerity which prompted its utterance. An ovation of applause testified the approval of the House when Mr. Blake resumed his seat.

Sir John rejoined. He was cheered by his followers on rising. He began by expressing his interest in the question, and eulogizing Mr. Costigan for his moderation and his devotion to Ireland. This was in preparation for an attack upon Mr. Blake, whose speech he characterized as improper and unworthy of him. His speech of a denigatory, mere trap-desires catch. In reply Mr. Blake declared that Mr. Blake's speech would injure and not promote the object of the resolutions. He reiterated that he and those acting with him (Sir John) were the real friends of the Irish people. Sir John's speech was particularly rambling. It was brief and ineffective. He at first made some national attempts to elicit applause, which were attempted. Some of his characterizations were greeted with loud cries of "Oh" from various parts of the House, but further on, by the usual means, he aroused a fair amount of enthusiasm among his followers.

Sir R. J. Cartwright followed, pointing out, how ill it became the Premier to charge Mr. Blake with insincerity after his conduct in the Riel matter, when he privately professed his private furnishing the outlaw, he cast him out of the country. At this stage, an attempt was made by sundry spirits on the Tory side to interrupt the speaker, but the House would not permit such a course, besides members and spectators, of which there was a great throng in the gallery were desirous of hearing all that was said. He proceeded to discuss the general question at some length.

Mr. Alonzo Wright, on rising to follow, was very warmly received. He poured out in eloquent words the disgraceful condition of Ireland, warmly endorsed Mr. Blake's declaration of the Canadian Parliament's right to give its voice in this matter, spoke strongly for Home Rule, and said, he believed that the real remedy for Irish grievances was the recognition of the fact that land was made for the many and not for the few. Mr. Counsel followed in support of the resolutions. He characterized Mr. Blake's speech as a magnificent oration (cheers), and paid a warm eulogy to fishermen, for whom, in their native land, justice had been too long delayed. Mr. Counsel deprecated the attempt to

CANADA AND ERIN.

Debate on Mr. Costigan's Irish Resolutions.

Hon. Edward Blake Makes a Magnificent Speech in Favor of Irish Home Rule.

In the House of Commons, on the afternoon of Thursday, the 20th ult., the attendance both of members and spectators was unusually large in consequence of the expected debate on Mr. Costigan's Irish resolutions. Mr. Costigan, who had moved to the centre of the Ministerial side of the House in order to be better heard, rose amid solemn silence to move the resolutions of which he had given notice. He moved it as an amendment to Sir Leonard Tilley's motion to go into Committee of Supply. It might be mentioned that while Ministers have complained of the Opposition obstructing supplies, two of these motions have emanated from Messrs. Plumb and Costigan. The latter made a speech moderate in tone, the first part of which was, however, needlessly egotistical, and seemed intended rather to bolster up his claims as the representative of Irish Canadians than to benefit the cause he professed to promote, and turning half round he seemed to be speaking to the Hon. John O'Connor, who went sweetly to sleep under his soothing eloquence. Possibly, however, he was looking for Mr. Mackenzie Bowell, who was conveniently absent from the House. He dealt with the Irish grievances and seemed unusually nervous lest it should be made a question of Catholic and Protestant. He repeatedly remarked that he was quoting from Protestant authorities. He had evidently been schooled by his leaders to avoid saying too much. Mr. Costigan usually speaks well, but was this time under more than usual restraint. His speech evoked no enthusiasm. Once or twice, three or four cried "hear, hear," and once when it was thought he had concluded there was a feeble applause on the Ministerial side, but he was left at last, in a most unusual thing, to take his seat in the same solemn silence amid which he began. The resolutions as moved by Mr. Costigan were as follows, the original wording being given in italics:—

Most GRACIOUS SOVEREIGN.—We, Your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Commons of Canada, in Parliament assembled, desire most earnestly, in our name and on behalf of the people whom we represent, to renew the expression of our unwavering loyalty and devotion to Your Majesty's person and Government.

(1) We have observed, may it please Your Majesty, with feelings of profound regret and concern the distress and discontent which have prevailed for some time among Your Majesty's subjects in Ireland.

(2) We would respectfully represent to Your Majesty that your Irish subjects in the Empire of Canada, who may be deemed the most loyal, most prosperous, and most contented of Your Majesty's subjects.

(3) We would further respectfully represent to Your Majesty that the Dominion of Canada, while offering the greatest advantages and attractions for those of our fellow subjects who may desire to make their homes among us, does not receive that proportion of emigrants from Ireland which might reasonably be expected, and that this is due in a great measure in the case of those of our Irish fellow-subjects who have sought foreign homes to their feeling of estrangement towards the Imperial Government, whom they consider responsible for the existing state of affairs in their native country.

(4) We would further most respectfully represent to Your Majesty that in the interests of this your loyal Dominion and of the entire Empire, it is extremely to be desired that Your Majesty may not be further deprived, in the development of Your Majesty's Irish subjects, who may feel disposed to leave their native land to seek more prosperous homes.

(5) We would most respectfully pray, may it please Your Majesty, that some such favour of local self-government may be extended to Ireland as is now enjoyed by the Provinces comprising the Dominion of Canada, and under which Your Majesty's Canadian subjects have prospered exceedingly, so that Ireland may become a source of strength to Your Majesty's Empire, and that Your Majesty's Irish subjects at home and abroad may feel the same veneration for the justice of Your Majesty's rule, and the same devotion to and affection for our common flag which are now felt by all classes of Your Majesty's loyal subjects in this Dominion.

(6) We would, therefore, most respectfully pray that Your Majesty would be graciously pleased to take into Your Majesty's favorable consideration the cases of those persons who are now suffering imprisonment in Ireland, charged with political offences, with a view of extending to them Your Most Gracious Majesty's royal clemency, so that with their release the inestimable blessing of Your Majesty's Empire.

We desire respectfully to suggest to Your Majesty that Canada and its inhabitants have prospered exceedingly under a federal system, allowing to each Province of the Dominion considerable powers of self-government, and would venture to express a hope, that if consistent with the integrity and well-being of the Empire, and if the rights and status of the minority are fully protected, and secured, a same means may be found of meeting the expressed desire of so many of Your Irish subjects in that regard, so that Ireland may become a source of strength to Your Majesty's Empire, and that Your Majesty's Irish subjects at home and abroad may feel the same pride in the greatness of Your Majesty's Empire, the same veneration for the justice of Your Majesty's rule, and the same devotion to and affection for our common flag as are now felt by all classes of Your Majesty's loyal subjects in this Dominion.

(6) We would further express a hope that the time has come when Your Majesty's clemency may be extended to those persons who are now imprisoned in Ireland charged with political offences only, and the inestimable blessing of personal liberty restored to them.

We pray that the blessings of Your Majesty's reign may for your people's sake be long continued.

The resolution had been read from the chair; there was a brief pause. It seemed as if the motion would be passed without further discussion, as the Minister, a ringing cheer on the Opposition side greeted Mr. Blake as he rose. There was apparent surprise on the Ministerial side, which deepened into concern as with a comprehensive grasp of his subject Mr. Blake took a bold course, which was characteristic of his speech. Never yet has a Canadian statesman in any deliverance taken stronger hold upon the attention of Parliament. At first he was repeatedly cheered on the Liberal side of the House, but soon the infection caught on the other side, and cheers became general on both sides of the House. At this stage there came to be visible some symptoms of confusion on the Conservative camp. The managers could be seen consulting together. They afterward seemed to frown upon the spontaneous applause which again and again broke from the entire House. Mr. Blake recalled that he had two years ago pointed out the necessity for some measure of local self-government for Ireland. Looking over the condition of that unhappy country before the Union, he showed that under the Union Ireland had not been pacified by her condition, ameliorated as it should have been. At that time he pointed to reach Catholic emancipation and fifty years to reach the disestablishment of the Irish Church. Looking over the remedial legislation proposed from time to time in the English Parliament, he showed that this had been too long delayed, and only passed under pressure of emergency. Legislation had been too much in effect to give luxury to absentee landlords and misery for resident tenants. Turning from the remedial legislation, which was the brighter side, Mr. Blake turned to consider the darker side of coercion acts and government by force, declaring that the English government of Ireland had proved a disastrous failure. It had not been government in accord with the wishes of the people, but government by force. He pointed out that the British Parliament could not properly legislate for Ireland while overweighed with other matters and the interests of a majority of its member-ships was not in line with Irish interests. He quoted Gladstone's utterances when out of power in favor of some system of local self-government for Ireland. He also quoted Gladstone's subsequent utterances in Parliament, in which he stated that the Home Rulers had proposed no plan for practically carrying out their object. This he characterized in strong language, and asserted that it was Gladstone's duty to have grappled with the question, and by a well-considered measure of right and justice to have pacified Ireland. Before closing Mr. Blake quoted with marked effect the resolutions with regard to the disestablishment of the Irish Church, which were moved by Mr. Holton in the Canadian Parliament of 1870, and which Sir John Macdonald's Government had then choked off by moving the previous question. He quoted Sir John's speech on that occasion, in which he had declared the impropriety of bringing up such questions in the Canadian House. From this doctrine Mr. Blake warmly dissented. He declared our right to pronounce opinions and to aid Her Majesty's Government in carrying out the best interests of the Empire, whose glories and whose shame we were alike called to share. Before sitting down he characterized forcibly the manner in which Mr. Costigan had emasculated his resolution after giving notice of it. No mere synopsis can give any impression of the breadth, scope, force, fullness of detail, and convincing effect of Mr. Blake's speech. It is one which will be read and challenge attention wherever English language is spoken. It carried conviction with it, and no one who heard it doubted the candid earnestness and sincerity which prompted its utterance. An ovation of applause testified the approval of the House when Mr. Blake resumed his seat.

Sir John rejoined. He was cheered by his followers on rising. He began by expressing his interest in the question, and eulogizing Mr. Costigan for his moderation and his devotion to Ireland. This was in preparation for an attack upon Mr. Blake, whose speech he characterized as improper and unworthy of him. His speech of a denigatory, mere trap-desires catch. In reply Mr. Blake declared that Mr. Blake's speech would injure and not promote the object of the resolutions. He reiterated that he and those acting with him (Sir John) were the real friends of the Irish people. Sir John's speech was particularly rambling. It was brief and ineffective. He at first made some national attempts to elicit applause, which were attempted. Some of his characterizations were greeted with loud cries of "Oh" from various parts of the House, but further on, by the usual means, he aroused a fair amount of enthusiasm among his followers.

Sir R. J. Cartwright followed, pointing out, how ill it became the Premier to charge Mr. Blake with insincerity after his conduct in the Riel matter, when he privately professed his private furnishing the outlaw, he cast him out of the country. At this stage, an attempt was made by sundry spirits on the Tory side to interrupt the speaker, but the House would not permit such a course, besides members and spectators, of which there was a great throng in the gallery were desirous of hearing all that was said. He proceeded to discuss the general question at some length.

Mr. Alonzo Wright, on rising to follow, was very warmly received. He poured out in eloquent words the disgraceful condition of Ireland, warmly endorsed Mr. Blake's declaration of the Canadian Parliament's right to give its voice in this matter, spoke strongly for Home Rule, and said, he believed that the real remedy for Irish grievances was the recognition of the fact that land was made for the many and not for the few. Mr. Counsel followed in support of the resolutions. He characterized Mr. Blake's speech as a magnificent oration (cheers), and paid a warm eulogy to fishermen, for whom, in their native land, justice had been too long delayed. Mr. Counsel deprecated the attempt to fasten on the leader of the Opposition a charge of having sought to make political capital out of the question.

Mr. Paterson (Essex), occupier of the resolutions, advocated local government for Ireland, and paid a high tribute to the patriotic speeches of Mr. Blake and members opposite.

The debate was continued by Hon. Mr. Mills, who pointed out that Ireland suffered not only from troubles with land but from a partial and defective administration of general law.

Hon. Mr. Anglin objected to the resolutions because it had no clause inserted for the protection of the minority.

Mr. White (Hastings) believed the resolutions were introduced for political purposes.

After speeches from Messrs. Landry, Wallace (York), and Costigan the resolutions were carried on a division.

Cast a Line for Yourself.

A young man stood listlessly watching some anglers on a bridge. He was poor and uneducated. At last approaching a basket filled with wholesome looking fish he sighed:

"If now I had these I would be happy I could sell them at a very fair price and buy me food and lodging."

"I will give you just as many and just as good fish," said the owner, who had had chance to overhear his words, "if you will do me a trifling favor."

"What is it?" asked the other.

"Only to tend to this line till I come back; I wish to go on a short errand."

The proposal was gladly accepted. The old man was gone so long that the young man began to get impatient. Meanwhile the hungry fish snapped greedily at the baited hook, and the young man lost all his depression in the excitement of pulling them in; and when shooting himself through the head he had caught a large number. Counting out from them as many fish as were in the basket, and presenting them to the young man the old fisherman said: I fulfil my promise, from the fish you have caught, to teach you, whenever you see others earning what you need to waste no time in foolish wishing, but cast a line for yourself.
