DRESS and MANTLE MAKING

The Fashionable West End.
To the Ladies:
We have during the past two years completed the establishment of a Dress and Mantle Department, in connection with our other branches. The difficulty of obtaining a suitable person to take charge, has up to the present time, only prevented us from doing so.

We have now great pleasure in informing you that we have secured the services of Miss Morrison, of Toronto, a lady of first-class abilities, highly recommended to us, and we believe eminently qualified to give complete satisfaction in every respect. Miss Morrison has for the past ten years occupied the position of cutter and fitter in one of the leading Fashionable Dress-making Establishments in the City of Toronto.

Miss Morrison is also an experienced Mantle maker, and all orders entrusted to her will be executed in a style equal to anything that can be obtained in the largest cities.

Orders for these departments will be received on and after Monday next, the 4th of May.

Guelph Evening Mercury
THURSDAY EV'NG, MAY 1, 1873

Town and County News.
Y. M. C. A.—This being the first Thursday in the month, the meeting this evening will consist of devotional exercises, and is open to all.

TEAS AND SUGARS.—We direct the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Messrs. O'Donnell & Co., which appears in another column.

FOR THE PENITENTIARY.—Thomas Kinney sentenced some 10 days ago to the Penitentiary for two years for committing a brutal assault on his father, was taken down to that institution this morning.

ACCIDENT.—The early morning train going east was delayed for several hours, greatly to the annoyance of intending passengers, in consequence of the axle of the engine having broken when about a mile and a half east of Breslau.

LECTURE.—The lecture last night was not at all so well attended as we expected, for which we are sorry, as the lecture was a very able one, containing a great deal of information that proved of much interest to the hearers. Mr. Moulton occupied the chair.

RAILWAY EXTENSION W. G. & B.—The Hamilton Times says:—A deputation of the leading men of Egremont, Normanby and Mount Forest had an interview with the Board of the Wellington, Grey & Bruce Railway Company on Tuesday, in regard to the extension of the line from a point on the main line, through Mount Forest to Holstein, and to Durham, if licenses could be made available. An important deputation from Durham was also present. After a lengthened and pleasant interview, the President and others stated that the Company were pledged to the project from Cliffton to Durham and could not entertain any other.

TEESWATER.—This village, which is now progressing rapidly, bids fair to become the most flourishing and prosperous in the County of Bruce. Every kind of business, and has been for some time past, most satisfactory, and when the Toronto, Grey & Bruce Railway send in their "iron horse" (which will not be long as they are pushing on the work energetically) and when the Teeswater Salt Company have their works in full blast, and the numerous saw, grist and planing mills, and sash and door factory, &c., &c., now in course of erection, get into good working order, combined with the healthy and picturesque situation, and the fine farming country all around, there is every reason to believe that Teeswater will be the most attractive spot in this County. There are at the present time more than twenty-five new buildings going up, and there would be more were it not for the scarcity of hands.

DOW BELLS FOR MAY.—can now be had at Day's Bookstore. In addition to the usual number of tales, sketches and general information, the new number contains the opening chapters of a new and original romance, entitled "Link Your Chain," which offers a fair opportunity for new subscribers to commence.

MR. JOHN ANDERSON has sent us a copy of Dow Bells for May, which has just arrived. The new number fully sustains the reputation which the magazine has gained, as being the best ladies magazine published.

THIS MORNING'S DESPATCHES

Annexation Bill Passed.
Railway Rioting.
The Vienna Exposition.
Rioting in Jerusalem.
The Newmarket Races.
Threatened Indian War.
Doings in Spain.
Terrible Land Slide—50 Men Killed.

Boston April 30.—The Massachusetts Legislature passed a Bill authorizing the annexation of Charlestown and Brooklyn to Boston. It now goes to the people.

Pittsburg, April 30.—This afternoon the Pittsburg and Connellsville Railway Company sent a force of men to restore the track on the Bradford branch, which was destroyed some weeks since, as charged by parties acting under the direction of the Penna Railway Company. The laborers were met by a force from the Penna Railway Company, 200 strong, who prevented the accomplishment of the work by demonstrations of violence. They also burned two small bridges. The Connellsville force withdrew. The interruption to travel has been the cause of serious complaints from persons doing business on the Branch road. The Connellsville Company have filed a Bill in equity to prevent further interference with their alleged rights.

Cleveland, April 30.—The propellers Richmond and Tweed that left Buffalo on the 29th inst., arrived here to-day. They followed the north shore, and encountered considerable ice until they reached Port Colborne, passing through a stretch of about twenty miles of almost solid ice.

New York, April 30.—Weather fine. Vienna specials state that the Prince of Wales, accompanied by Prince Arthur, visited the Exposition Building yesterday. There are over 7,000 loads of articles yet to be unladen for the Exposition, only 200 of which can be unladen per day, and it will be the end of June before the exhibition will be in full alacr. The opening ceremonies will be devoid of military display.

At a meeting of the American exhibitors at Vienna yesterday, great indignation was expressed at the fact that the late commissioners had left no list of exhibitors nor the plan of arrangement of places for American exhibitors. Every thing American is in confusion. The exhibition managers, however, are affording all facilities for the classification of American goods.

Special despatches state that the disturbance among the different churches in Jerusalem has culminated in disturbances and rioting.

London, April 30.—The race for the 2,000 guineas at Newmarket to-day was won by Gang Forward. Kaiser was second; Suleiman third. Betting just before the start was 6 to 1 against Gang Forward; 2 to 1 against Kaiser; and even on Suleiman against the field. Ten horses ran.

San Francisco, California, April 30.—A despatch from Yreka to-night says that the people of that place and immediate neighbourhood are leaving, and that the men are arming, under the apprehension that there will shortly be a general Indian war.

London, April 30th.—Late advices from Jerusalem state that severe fighting has occurred in Bethleem between the Latin and Greek monks. Five of the former and six of the latter were killed.

Paris, April 30th.—It is reported in Bayonne to-day that the Carlist troops which invest the Spanish Province of almost defenceless.

New York, April 30.—A Rio Janeiro letter of the 1st inst. states that owing to the late rains there, a landslide occurred, which crashed and threw down a massive stone wall on to a building in the Navy Yard, instantly killing 50 workmen and wounding some 50 more.

Washington, April 30.—General Crook's manner of carrying out the peace policy in Arizona is strongly endorsed, especially in military circles. It is known that two of the most formidable bands of Apaches have recently surrendered through absolute fear of his troops, one of the chiefs saying in council that he first thought General Crook, then God, for holding forth the olive branch and permitting his people to come in under the whitest rag in the band.

New Orleans, April 30.—The metropolitanians are returning from Port Vincent. The difficulty has been amicably adjusted.

A HARD CASE.—A particular case of hardship came before Ald. Baxter as Police Magistrate, on Wednesday. Mrs. Ingram was turned out of doors by her husband and ill-treated by him. She took away her wearing apparel, and the husband appeared before the magistrate and asked for a warrant for the recovery of the articles, on pretence of their being stolen. This was granted, and apart from the hardship of the case, the law is doubtful, as it is understood that dresses and clothing of the wife are legally her own. The decision is to be appealed from. He is a well-to-do architectural moulder.

SAD ACCIDENT.—The youngest son of Mr. Peter Begg, proprietor of the Brighton Ensign, nearly two years of age, died in a few minutes from accidentally getting a screw nail in his mouth on Wednesday, with which he was playing. The doctor was on hand in a few minutes but his skill was of no avail.

A Gull Bird Flogged a Second Time.

On Wednesday afternoon Levi Gillies received his second instalment of thirty lashes in the county gaol yard, being part of his punishment for committing an assault with intent on the person of Mrs. Hurson, living on the track of the W. G. & B. R., near Elora, in the winter of 1872. Gillies was tried and convicted at the Spring Assizes of that year, sentenced to one year and eleven months imprisonment in gaol, to receive thirty lashes immediately after receiving his sentence, thirty a year from that time, and thirty more a week before the expiry of the term of his incarceration.

The prisoner seems to be a hardened scoundrel, with a little of the fool in him, and a great deal of the rogue. He surveyed the preparations made for the flogging with the utmost composure, coolly remarking to some of the bystanders that he would take a hundred lashes without wincing if he could be set at liberty. The "triangle" was set up in the yard, the prisoner securely strapped to it, and his back bared. The person who flogged him—who came from Toronto on purpose—seemed to understand his business well, and laid on the cane with considerable skill and force. At the first two or three strokes Gillies howled, but as the savage work proceeded he seemed to become less sensible to the blows, and only now and then wined as each stroke fell. By the time the thirty lashes were administered his back was pretty well marked, each blow leaving a deep red inflamed skin, which will no doubt smart for some days to come. Gillies, however, walked coolly off to his cell as though nothing had happened.

The flogging took place under the supervision of the jail surgeon and Deputy Sheriff, and in the presence of a representative of the press and a few spectators.

A Survivor of the Atlantic Tragedy.
Mr. William Glenfield, one of the survivors of the Atlantic, arrived in Hamilton on Saturday. Mr. Glenfield is a bricklayer, and formerly worked in Hamilton. He is 26 years of age. He went to England in December last, and while there he married, and was returning with his wife to Canada, which she, alas, was not destined to see. Glenfield and his wife were in the "after storage," and were roused from sleep by the striking of the vessel; his wife asked him what it meant, and he had just time to reply that he supposed the anchor had been let go, when they felt another bump of the vessel against the rocks. At his wife's request he rushed up to the deck to see what was wrong. On gaining the hurricane deck he found it a scene of confusion, and comprehending what had happened, he attempted to return to bring up his wife, but on reaching the main deck he found that the water had already blocked the way, and that his return was impossible. He mounted the hurricane deck again and found the others endeavoring to lower some of the boats. He got into the boat but still clung to the iron davits, and it was well he did so. A wave breaking over the vessel swung the boat as far as its fastenings would permit and in its return his right fore arm was pretty badly jammed. With the keeling over to lower the boat was swept clean away and three sailors in it perished. Glenfield had retained his hold upon the davits and was able from there to get into the mizen rigging, which, owing to the keeling over of the vessel was so nearly horizontal as to enable him to sit on it. In this position he was close to the woman which the accounts have told us died there. He and her husband endeavored to keep her warm by rubbing her limbs and when Glenfield left her in his position she was still alive. In the mizen rigging he remained for about five hours, and then by a desperate effort crawling along the outside of the vessel and clinging to the bulwarks, he reached the main rigging farther forward, and near the point of rescue. Here he found a ladder of some 14 or 15 years of age with no rope on except a shirt and jacket, and moaning piteously. In the hope of bringing a little warmth to both, Glenfield took him in his arms, but the little fellow was too far spent, and he died in that position. Even after his death, says Glenfield, "I hugged his body close to me in the hope of getting a little warmth from it, or at least to break the piercing wind." He remained in the main rigging for two hours and a-half before he was rescued. At the end of that time the clearing of the forward part of the vessel by the other-ward, and into one of the boats, he was taken of more dead than alive. After arriving in New York, he had to remain fifteen days in the hospital before he had strength to proceed farther. He lost everything he had, his trunk was washed ashore, he was riddled of its contents by the sailors, he affirms. He is now rapidly regaining his strength, and expects to be able to work at his trade after another week's rest.—Spectator.

The Untried Murderer.

The case of Louis Biel was last night once more the theme of discussion in the House of Commons, on a motion by Mr. Rymal for papers touching an amnesty in his favor, or in favor of others, connected with the murder with which his hands are red. The mover, with his downright plain speaking and power of irony, reviewed the history of the crime and the policy of the Government in regard thereto, in a manner that must have made the Premier and his associates in the Cabinet feel rather mean. Sir John sought refuge in an attempt to point out inconsistency in Mr. Rymal's argument. The fine glow of patriotic fervor which he displayed at the elections in Ontario last summer, when he called Heaven to witness how much he wished he could catch Biel, seems to have cooled down. And now we have Mr. Cunningham, the member for Marquette and editor of the Manitoba, coming forward to eulogize the murderer as a high-souled patriot, who resisted the attempts to extend the authority of the Dominion over Manitoba without previous negotiations with him and those put him forward, and whose killing of Scott was no murder! Sir John A. Macdonald did not choose to state plainly whether an amnesty had been granted or not, although he must be very well aware of the facts, and his course in this respect was justly censured. It is a disgrace to the Dominion of Canada that a man accused of deliberate murder, not to speak of treason and rebellion, should be allowed to go at large within his borders in the very locality disgraced by his crime, and that Government should administer oaths not having received the royal assent, which was justly censured. News From Ottawa.
(Special to The Evening Mercury.)
OTTAWA, May 1, 2 p.m.

The Public Accounts Committee this morning commenced an investigation into the alleged delay on the part of the Militia Department in dealing with some of the officers at Point Levis, who had been guilty of certain irregularities in willfully misrepresenting their real state when occupied by the Adjutant-General. After examining Col. Ross, Col. Powell, Col. Panet, Col. Stewart and other witnesses the Committee adjourned till Monday.

The Pacific R. R. Committee met this morning, but the bill to enable them to administer oaths not having received the royal assent, they adjourned.

EXTRAORDINARY SURGICAL CASE.—By the kindness of Dr. McGuire, we were to-day enabled to examine a very curious and rare surgical case, which he has now under his care. It may be remembered that some two months or so ago, a little boy, son of Mr. John Pilgrim, about eight years old, was accidentally run over by a cutter, the runner of the hind boot passing obliquely over the knee and moid round the limb, bruising the tissues badly, and making a wound which gaped seven inches. Dr. McGuire was called in, and after consultation and a good deal of consideration, he determined, in order, if possible, to save the leg, to try an experiment which is somewhat rare in the annals of surgery. This was to inoculate the injured limb with some skin from the boy's father's leg. He croached the subject to the father, who was perfectly willing to submit to the experiment, if the child's leg could thereby be saved. Accordingly, about a fortnight ago, the first steps in the experiment were made. The Dr. took from the father's leg six pieces of flesh—each piece being scarcely as large as a five cent piece—and immediately transplanted them, so to speak, to the boy's injured leg. The doctor tells us that he cut the full depth of the skin, and that he believes the result consists of the success of his experiment. For that it has proved successful were enabled to judge for ourselves to-day, having, in company with the Dr., paid a visit to the little sufferer, and examined the limb—the appearance of which simply defies description. We may say, however, that the pieces of flesh thus inoculated, have taken root, so to speak, and are rapidly growing larger, and spreading over a greater surface, and that they will shortly push out in every direction, until they ultimately meet and join one another. It is the doctor's intention to make a further inoculation, so as to insure the more rapid healing of the leg, which, is, however, progressing in every way most favorably. As a surgical experiment it has proved as successful, as it is unique and rare—being, we believe, the first case tried in this country, while the cases elsewhere have been very few and far between, and we cannot therefore wonder if Dr. McGuire takes a natural and professional pride in its successful issue.

BRUCE ASSIZES.—The Assizes for the County of Bruce opened at Walkerton on Monday, Mr. Justice Wilson presiding. Mr. C. MacFayden, of Owen Sound, Crown Officer. The number of civil cases on the docket was eleven, five of which are undefended. None of the others are of much importance. The Grand Jury have found a True Bill against James Johnson, James Best, Arthur Best, Edward Johnson and John Kerr, all of the township of Bruce, for the murder of George Price of the same township, at the said Township of Bruce, on the 17th day of March last. On their arraignment the prisoners pleaded Not Guilty, and their trial was fixed for Thursday morning. The Grand Jury also brought in True Bills against John McDonald for assault, and James D. Parsill for false pretences.

Mr. Maitland Young of Hamilton has just made an extended tour through the County of Simcoe, and brings highly favourable reports of the prospects of the by-law granting a bonus to the Hamilton and North Western Railway being carried.

Queen's Counsel.

It will be remembered by our readers what a long and warm dispute took place between the Dominion Government and the Ontario Legislature as to the right to appoint Queen's Counsel. In consequence of this dispute, and to set the matter at rest, a correspondence took place between the Minister of Justice and Colonial Office on the subject, all of which has been laid on the table; and we learn from it first, that the Governor-General has the power, as Her Majesty's representative, to appoint Queen's Counsel; second, that a Lieutenant-Governor appointed since the union has also such power; but, third, that the Legislature of a Province can confer by statute on its Lieutenant-Governor the power of appointing Queen's Counsel, and, with respect to precedence or pre-audience in the Courts of the Province, has power to decide as between Queen's Counsel appointed by the Governor-General and the Lieutenant-Governor, as above explained.

The Minister of Justice, under date September 28th, 1872, calls attention to the appointment made in the Province of Ontario by the Lieutenant-Governor, and expresses grave doubts as to the validity of such appointment. He mentions that by the law of Upper Canada, Queen's Counsel can, in certain cases, perform certain judicial duties; and recommends, under the circumstances, that commissions be issued by the Canadian Government to such of those gentlemen as wish to receive them.

This document is followed by a despatch from the Ontario Government, dated Oct. 25, 1872, which refers to the extraordinary private circular sent to the newly appointed Queen's Counsel by the Minister of Justice; and expresses regret that the Government of Canada had not seen fit to transmit a copy of the opinion of the law officers of the Crown to the Government of Ontario; and suggesting that before any further action is taken a joint one should be submitted for the decision of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council in England.

The last document of importance is a minute in Council enclosed to the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, which, after alluding to the documents already referred to, concludes as follows:

"The Committee of the Council do not apprehend that any inconvenience or complications can arise from the Queen's representative exercising the Royal prerogative in making such appointments. It is obvious that when the Supreme Court or other Dominion Courts are established, commissions issued by the Lieutenant-Governors would not, as a right, give precedence or position in those Courts. At the same time it might be advisable that such commissions should be recognized. The Committee of Council, are, therefore, of the opinion that his Excellency the Governor-General, as the Queen's representative, should not refrain from appointing Her Majesty's Counsel, but they think an arrangement might advantageously be made between the Government of the Dominion and the several Provinces by which Queen's Counsel appointed by the Governor-General would receive proper status and position in the Provincial Courts, and commissions issued under statutory authority by the Lieutenant-Governor would be recognized in the Courts of the Dominion."

It will thus be seen, that the action taken by Mr. Blake, in the appointment of Queen's Counsel, has been sustained, and that the gentlemen so appointed have exactly the same status as those appointed by the Dominion Government.

A Tempest in a Teapot.

Rip Van Winkle is awake again. In his last week's issue—the old fellow prints a weekly paper—He becomes eloquently wrathful over the fact that the Crown Lands Agency is about to be moved to Fergus, charges our local member with neglect of the interests of his "borough"—meaning thereby the village of Elora—and predicts a day of reckoning for such horrible misconduct. The motive for the attack is apparent, but a plain statement of facts will show that Mr. Clarke cannot fairly be called to account for the action of the Government. The Crown Land Agency for Wellington has been in existence for many years, and located in Elora during that time. Upon the death of Mr. A. Geddes, the office was given to Mr. J. Ross, and upon the death of Mr. Ross, it was transferred to Mr. A. Cadenhead, of Fergus. Mr. Cadenhead came regularly to Elora every morning, and returned home at night, receiving about $1,200 per annum for his services, in the shape of commission upon sales and payments, whether made in the Crown Lands Department in Toronto or here. Last year he received about $1,015 commission, and $12 for postage, although the greater portion of the work properly appertaining to his office was done by Mr. McKim, M. P., in Toronto. To all intents and purposes—perhaps unavoidably under recent valuations of land—the office had become a sinecure. A list of reductions in prices of lands could not be sent from Toronto here, as each case had to be separately considered by the Commissioner, and it was found impossible to obtain desired information in Elora by those wishing to purchase or obtain a reduction upon the price of their lots. The work of the office, therefore, has fallen principally upon the local members. As in Wellington, so with the Lands in other Counties. Under these circumstances—and especially as the Crown Lands business under the efficient and thorough management of Mr. Scott, is being rapidly wound up—it has been recently determined by the Crown Lands Department, we believe, to either close many of the various agencies in the other sections of the country, or to pay agents a commission on the business actually transacted by them. Mr. Cadenhead received such a notification a short time ago, and promptly stated that under the new management his commission for the last quarter—one of the best for many years—would have amounted to $31 instead of $300, or more. He does not

ANNABEL

THE TEMPTATION.

CHAPTER XVII.

THE DEATH OF ELLEN MATTOCK.

The scene now changes to a quiet isolated farm-house in the south of France, and four months have elapsed since the events narrated in the foregoing chapter.

In this exposed house were located those personages of our story, who, had, in pursuance of Mrs. Langton's deep-laid scheme, quitted England under fair but fearfully false pretences.

And Dick, knowing the part he had to play, was cunning enough to conduct himself with such propriety that not only were Ellen's hopes raised concerning him, but Annabel had no reason to suspect that he had been the abandoned man which he actually was.

What tended to the furtherance of the evil design was the fact that Mrs. Langton was the only one of the four who could speak French, and as none of the people of the house knew a word of English, she had it in her power to make them believe exactly what she chose.

There were several other points of her wide, comprehensive scheme which Mrs. Langton had to guard vigilantly in order its successful prosecution, and its less subtle, less fertile-minded, less watchful woman would have found the difficulties so numerous that she would have failed to provide for one or other of them, or allowed through inadvertence or otherwise something inopportune to transpire by which the whole plot would have been perilled.
