OUR NEW YORK LETTER. The Politics of the City—John Kelly at the head of the new—New Emigrants are treated in New York.

For the past two weeks the public attention has been centered upon the political conventions, both republican and democratic.

The indications are that it is the securing of domestic quietness for despotism, rather than schemes of outside war, that is the present object of the kaiserbund, or alliance of the three emperors.

TURNING THE TABLES.

Royal Courtney was in love with Bessie Leland; Bessie Leland was in love with Royal Courtney. So far so good. The course of true love never did run smooth, however, and Bessie Leland's father hated Royal Courtney bit-terly. Yet I do not think, had he been asked that he could well have given any reason for such hatred. That he did hate him was plain from what he told his daughter when Royal had frankly asked him for permission to address her.

"Never speak his name again," he said. "I'll have my eye on you, indeed. I'd rather you live single all your days than marry such a scoundrel."

"But I had rather marry him," said Bessie, demurely. "So there's the end of it. And Bessie's father bristled at her foot with an emphasis that made the windows rattle. John Leland was a household name, and when he put his foot down in that tremendous way no more were you asked."

Minor words were said. Bessie Leland cried a little, and then she dried her eyes and a few minutes was laughing as gaily as ever. Then John Leland heartily congratulated her on her good fortune, and she was dismissed the subject of her father's wrath.

Bessie, when she dried her eyes and allowed the natural brightness of her eyes to appear where Papa Leland's cruel punishment had been, she was not a little surprised to find that her father was not so much as mentioned in the evening. As he did not surmise it even, exceeding sympathy tarred out all thoughts of retaliation.

There were clandestine interviews and brief hill-walks, which Papa Leland indignantly brought home in his pocket, little dreaming of their authorship or contents, and then they played a game of hide-and-seek. "I'll have my eye on you, indeed. I'd rather you live single all your days than marry such a scoundrel."

"The good Rhode Island clergyman, summoned from his bed at midnight, crossed and slept married them in haste; then he took a room at the hotel, where they stayed till morning. Then Bessie went home to make her peace with papa while Royal waited at the inn to learn what access she met.

Only a few minutes after her departure, Bessie happy, yet anxious, bright-eyed, was waiting in the hotel parlor, in came Papa Leland himself, and without a word, emotional himself, grasped by the collar, while his eyes were turned to one side.

"What have you done with my daughter?" he asked, "or I'll break every bone of your contemptible body!"

"As the threat was accompanied by a shake which ought to have loosened every tooth in Royal's head.

"He married her," said Royal, very faintly.

"Married her? The demon! Why, she's out of lawful age."

"I can't help that," ejaculated Royal. "We're married, sir, and you can't stop it."

"Where were you married?"

"At Rhode Island," he said, in great exultation.

Dennis for two brick houses, two stores each, on corner of Simcoe and Anderson streets, to cost $1800.

Some persons have queer notions. They think nothing of coming into a newspaper office every morning and dead-beating a paper without the slightest hint, but if they went into their place of business and walked off with a bottle of ink, a package of envelopes, or a pair of boots as the case might be, they would be apt to cry police. The cases are similar, for both are thefts. Will anybody take the hint?

Mr. Pat Finnegan, the well-known saloonist, met with a very painful accident yesterday forenoon. He was seized with a fit at King and Church streets and fell to the sidewalk, his head striking on a sharp point, which inflicted a deep gash. The wound bled freely. Mr. Finnegan was driven to his home on Church street, where he was attended by Dr. Casseley, who put three stitches in the wound. The gash is doing as well as can be expected.

Interim sessions yesterday: The oft-adjourned case of Dexter v. Johnston was called, but some of the parties were not ready and it was once more put off for a week. David Neely, who is alleged to have stolen some money from one Martin Nelson in Burns' unlicensed house on York street, was acquitted. The court helped him to his home in Georgia. The case against Russell Morton, Jr., was next heard. He was charged with having stolen a bundle of property of Ann Park. Prisoner pleaded not guilty and was admitted to bail, to appear when called.

The members and friends of the Queen street Baptist (colored) church held a very pleasant social Monday night. In recognition of the divine law of the brotherhood of man, Dr. Wild was there and made a nice address, congratulating the congregation upon the success of their church work and encouraging them in future efforts. The social was for the purpose of clearing off the debt on the parsonage and an amount of over $80,000. The meeting adjourned for five minutes, when a meeting of the shareholders was held. They appointed a committee on nominations and adjourned until 9 o'clock this morning. The trustees then met again and spent the remainder of the time in considering the reports presented.

THE BAPTIST COLLEGE.

Dedication of McMaster Hall—Address by Hon. A. Mackenzie—A Splendid Gift and a Happy Honor.

The splendid college which William McMaster has given to the Baptist community through the efforts of its ministers, was dedicated yesterday in an appropriate manner. The leading characteristics of the event were the good feeling exhibited towards the Baptists by all the other Protestant denominations; the absence of any fulsome flattery toward the giver of the gift; the recognition of the fact that a better-trained ministry is to be secured in a college which sends its graduates to the various churches of the national university and thus confuses its energies to its theological work; and that there was no place in the Dominion where so many advantages and aids to this end existed as in Toronto. Everyone seemed pleased that the tall senator was there himself presiding over the dedication, and looking as if he would for years to come be able to take an interest in the work which he has done for the church.

Among those present were Senator McMaster (chairman), President Castle and Professor Newman and M. C. Vear of the college, Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, Hon. Adam Crooks, Principal Caven and Professors Gregg and McLaren of Knox college, Rev. Messrs. Sherman and Semple of Parkdale, the Protestant Episcopal Divinity school, President Wilson and Professors Young and Hirschfelder of University college, Rev. Dr. Fota, Rev. W. S. Balfour, and a large number of Baptist ministers and representative Baptists from different parts of the province, as well as many city ministers of the other denominations. The services were conducted in the large hall of the college, and were only marred by the length of some of the speeches.

Senator McMaster sketched the position occupied by the institute at Woodstock, which he said was felt for a new school in theology where students could aid themselves of the course of the university and other advantages not found in small towns. After much conversation the decision was taken to locate the college in Toronto.

The work was now completed, and he thought it would be well to say a few words on its behalf on the continent. (Applause.) The whole thing had been placed in the hands of a body of trustees numbering twenty-five members, including professors, and the college now went into operation under circumstances which could hardly be otherwise than favorable. There was something solemn in the contemplation that here for generations the Bible would be held up as the one rule of faith and practice. Here, in the annals of Christ, the punishment of the finally impenitent will be fully indicated. Here these ministers would be educated, not only to preach the gospel in Ontario but in the whole Dominion, and even in foreign lands. There was one man to whom they were to look, and that was Dr. Castle.

After prayer and the reading of the scriptures Hon. Alex. Mackenzie delivered an address that was well received and appropriate to the occasion. Rev. A. H. Munro, Moderator, addressed the assembly and Dr. Castle, and Professors Newman and McVicar responded. A judicial prayer was delivered by Rev. Mr. Donovan. A tea was served in the refectory at the close of the proceedings.

A lecture was delivered in the Jarvis street hall by Rev. Mr. W. S. Balfour, D.D., of Louisville, Ky. The Dr. took for his subject "The education of Baptist ministers," and was the concluding portion of the dedication.

THE LICENSED VICTIMS.

The New Trade Association—Secretary Hodge on a Tour of Organization—Threatening a Member.

A meeting of the Toronto licensed victuaries association was held in the hall yesterday. Secretary Hodge laid before the members the objects of the Ontario trade benevolent association. The meeting was so well attended with the exception that a large sum was subscribed towards paying the secretary's expenses during his tour of organization in the province.

At the close of the meeting Mr. Hodge stated that one of the members of the association had been threatened by a brewer in this city that he would take the city hall and anything to do with it—if anyone had suffered loss it had been the county of York. It was decided to refer the matter to the Adelaide street block pavement to the City of Toronto.

Ald. Carlyle asked who had paid for the plank on the east side of Queen street, Kay's warehouse. The commissioner said he was the city, and that the lane was public property.

The weekly report of progress on the public works was submitted yesterday, and the idea was unanimously voted a good one.

Work done—2610 feet completed, 5390 feet to be done, sidewalk just commenced; 250 feet to be done; Queen street west—whole length, 1000 feet. The stone curbing is being put on the east side of the street, 660 feet. Only post set for curbing. Nothing done on Rose avenue, King street east, Berkeley street, York street, Prospect, Earl, Selby and Brock streets.

POLICE PARAGRAPHS.

James O'Connor, who says he came from Barrie, stole a sponger from Dilworth's drug store yesterday evening, and was promptly run in by Policeman Slemin. He will probably be squeezed worse than the sponge was before he gets out.

While the meeting was going on in Trinity church vestry last night some boy got up an overflow meeting outside in which they expressed their tireless approval of everything done inside. Becoming somewhat obstreperous and heedless of the remonstrances of the sexton, the boy came along and arrested one of them named Donald Henderson.

His name is James Jones and he boarded with George Collins at 59 Richmond street. He considered it worth while to be in sufficient to clothe him properly and comfortably these chilly days, and augmented them by an extra coat and a pair of boots for his boarding-house boss. But Mr. Collins spoiled Mr. Jones' little game by calling in the police and the bad boarder last night found himself in disgrace.

A confirmation, services were held at St. Luke's church last night, when the confirmation dates being confirmed. They were presented by Rev. Mr. Langtry, rector of the church. A number of boys were confirmed for St. Luke's day, after which the bishop confirmed each candidate separately.

BOARD OF WORKS.

Yonge Street Block Pavement—The Board Recommends a Postponement Until Spring.

The board of works met yesterday at 3 with a bare quorum, consisting of the chairman and Ald. Steiner, Carlyle, Irwin and Farley. Subsequently Ald. Baxter arrived. The main business of the meeting was the consideration of the contract for the block paving on Yonge street gave rise to a discussion as to who was responsible for the custody of such documents. The city clerk said he had found nothing in the by-laws bearing on the subject, but it had been the custom for the engineer to take charge of such contracts. The engineer said he was not an engineer's work. The by-law being read showed that the documents should be in the custody of the secretary.

The secretary said that one day last week he had brought a pile of contracts into the board room and laid them on the table. He could not say whether the Yonge street contract was among them. He left the room and returned after an hour and a half looking over the contracts could not find it. Previous to this occasion the last time he had seen it was when he had been in possession of the same. He said that he had been trying to find it. Ald. Baxter said he had been looking for it for some time. He said that he had been looking for it for some time. He said that he had been looking for it for some time.

During the discussion it was brought out that Gosdon & West had stated their intention of taking no advantage of the loss of the contract if it cannot be found, and their willingness to sign a new contract in exactly the same words.

Ald. Carlyle moved that all contracts connected with the board of works be kept in duplicate, one to be kept in close custody of the other used for purposes of inspection.

THE BLOCK PAVEMENT.

Ald. Baxter, speaking with reference to the Yonge street block pavement, said that he had been thinking of the matter for some time. He said that he had been thinking of the matter for some time. He said that he had been thinking of the matter for some time.

Edmund Wheatley corroborated the evidence of his companion as to the scene in the street. He said that he had been walking north after the first shot had been fired. He noticed a female in the street, and he saw the man who had fired the shot. He said that he had been walking north after the first shot had been fired. He noticed a female in the street, and he saw the man who had fired the shot.

A report was read from the engineer and commissioner of the street works, in which he stated that the matter be deferred for a week, in order to give an opportunity to all parties to be heard.

PERSONAL CHIT CHAT.

The governor-general will proceed to Quebec on Friday, and will call for England on Saturday.

Mr. L. Murphy is at L'Orignal, and will defend the prisoners Prevost and Paquet, indicted for murder.

Mr. Lett's clerk of Ottawa, has been presented with a royal Canadian society's medal for rescuing a boy from drowning. Mr. Lett is nearly 70 years of age.

Forty miles of paper are used to print the issue of Lloyd's Newspaper, the circulation of which is 600,000 copies weekly. Comingley Ralph Darnall, Lord Beaconsfield's nephew and heir, is a clever but somewhat eccentric boy. He is shy and reserved and loves music more than classics.

Lord Lorne, according to "good authority" in the Quebec papers will fill out his full term of governor general and that he will most likely be accompanied by the princess on his return.

The fire at Torrell's storehouse on Monday night destroyed Dion Boucicault's furniture, books, etc., which he valued and insured for $25,000. He failed to pay the insurance, and thus loses everything.

It is stated that the memoirs which the Empress Eugenie has been preparing at her Swiss chateau, Arenenberg, with the assistance of M. Borer, will be published in Edinburgh during November.

The important announcement comes from England that Mr. John Richard Green, the author of "The Making of England," is being made in the garden of the vatican for the annual event. The pope has already ordered that one-half of the spoils be reserved for his own table, and the other to be used as usual distributed among the hospitals of the eternal city.

PUBLIC OPINION.

Brantford Telegram: A mistake was corrected when Lorne and the princess were sent to Canada. As things are now we cannot have a Canadian governor-general, and we must have to do with a discount political stripping whose birth discards his ability.

MR. ROSS AND MR. MILLS.

Preliminary Trial of the Black Clerk for Shooting the Soldier.

The Queen's park shooting case was started by the police magistrate yesterday before a full court-room. Many of the spectators were friends of the prisoner, who carried himself quite well in the dock. His father was present and watched the case very attentively and seemed to feel pretty bad. A young lady loudly raised her voice and a scuffle during the proceedings. She was said to be the lady who was with young Mills in the park. Her name was not made public. The charge against Wm. Mills was shooting with intent to murder P. Stewart Ross. He pleaded not guilty. Dr. McMichael, Q.C., appeared for him. The county attorney represented the crown.

Mr. Ross, who wore a black silk handkerchief round his head, told the story of the shooting. He said that he was walking north on the street when he saw a man in a blue coat and a hat. He said that he was walking north on the street when he saw a man in a blue coat and a hat.
