CURRENT COMMENT

Midland Free Press .- The Luxury tax had served its purpose: it reduced the high cost of living by bringing the public to a realization of the stupidity of extravagance. Its abolition will help largely in bringing business back to normal.

Does real farming in Canada pay? Alex. Nelson of Pennant, Sask. should know. Last year he bought a quarter section of land near Swift Current, Sask., for which he paid $3,200. He cropped the land this year and sold 1,500 bushels of wheat at $2.60 a bushel, realizing $3,900 for the product, or $700 more than he paid for the land. This is not all, for he still has 800 bushels of wheat and 1,000 bushels of oats left from the crop which he harvested on his farm this fall.

Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, speaking before the Retail Merchants Association at their annual banquet warned them against under trading with the United States and said that unless Canada swings the balance of trade in her favor by buying more at home or in Great Britain, she is merely postponing the inevitable ruin. Our importations of fruits from the United States jumped from $175,000 in the year 1919 to $374,000 last year; vegetables importations sauces, 50 per cent.; textile pro-66 per cent.; embroideries, 300 per cent. withdraws from the council, will be undertaken by the Provincial Legis lature at its next session. At present if a vacancy occurs on the council before November 1st, another election is necessary, involving consid erable expense to the municipality. The candidate next highest on the list at the previous election is obviously the choice of the electors and there is no need to put the municipality to the additional expense. The Legislature might also while amending the Municipal Act change the date at which the municipal year ends to the first of December, in order to eliminate the rush now necessary to get the financial statements out in time for nomination. If the date of the annual elections were also fixed at any time of the year except during the Christmas holidays, it would also be a pleasing relief to a large majority of the municipalities.

Her mother is doing, from week-end to week-end the same monotonous tasks, sweeping, dusting, cooking; cooking, dust ing, sweeping; getting a little grey er and a little more bent. Her girl comes in from school or college bringing the aggressiveness and bouyancy of youth with her, greets her mother with, "Mother is the dinner ready, I am in a hurry?" or "Mother is my pink gingham laund-ered," or "Hurry mother and help me or I will miss the opening of the show." Never a word of enquiry or thought of helping the uncomplaining burden bearer. She is just the mother, always there for her special benefit. Mother just smiles and shakes her head when anyone suggests that her girl might help her a little, says she has her studies and she is young.

Girls, try and look at life from mother's point of veiw, bring a little of that youthful breeziness into her day, make her sit down for a change your young shoulders to the household wheel for a short time; make her a party to your confidences and plans; knows the horizon with which youth is bounded. Power Farming FORDSON

HE FORDSON TRACTOR is taking care of every power job; it is taking the drudgery out of farm work and solving the labor probtaking the drudgery out of farm work and solving the labor problem. Power farming with the Fordson reduces the cost of preparing land to almost one-half what it would be with horses, and saves a third to a half of the farmer's time. What modern machinery does for the factory, the Fordson Tractor is accomplishing on the farm. It is increasing production at lower costs and making farm life attractive.

Apply this power farming idea to your threshing. More and more farmers are making themselves independent of unfavorable conditions by using the Fordson Tractor linked up with a light thresher. By seizing the right moment and being able to do the job without waiting and in quick time, crop losses are avoided and profits increased.

The Fordson operates with kerosene. When used on belt work, running at full power at 1,000 R.P.M., fuel consumption does not exceed 2% gallons per hour. It will run the electric light plant, operate the milking machines and straw baler-will take care of every kind of belt work.

/ The Fordson plows 6 to 8 acres in a 10 hour day, handling two plows with ease in the average soil. It requires an average of only 11/2 to 2 gallons of kerosene to the acre.

It is the ideal year-round tractor. It will pay for its fall and winter. keep in many ways such as road work, hauling grain to the elevator, pumping water, and moving

SING FARM TRACTORS

Viewing the Matter as a Purely Business Proposition.

sitting Down to Count the Cost-What the Machines Can Do-The Personal Factor In Tractor Management Important. (Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto)

▼ 1E farmer, who is always of conservative nature, is not so readily convinced of the tractor's paying qualities He has seen demonstration machines with one man plough as much ground in an hour as he could plough in a day; he has also seen tractors give a very creditable showing on the belt. Then again he has seen machines which for some reason or other did not give satisfaction; he has also seen instances where machines were tied up for weeks for want of a spare part to replace a broken one. The result is that they are not "falling over each other" to buy tractors. A tractor costs a lot of money, and he is afraid to make the plunge, not being so certain that it will pay 1or itself.

An old saw-miller once said to the writer: "Every second that saw is not actually cutting lumber she is a bill of expense." Manufacturers tell us that the factory which can be kept going twenty-four hours a day is the factory which gives the biggest returns. The same is true of the farm tractor; the most profitable machine is the one which is kept at it for three hundred days of the year. This means that if we have not enough work to keep the machine going for certain length of time each year we will be losing money.

The debt which a tracfor must wipe out when it sets foot upon a farm is a two-fold one. First it must more than repay operating expenses, and second it must pay what the manufacturer calls "overhead expenses."

The machine has no reason to fear the former obligation when it is properly handled. We know that the cost of ploughing with a tractor costs only from $1.25 to $2.00 an acre, while horse-ploughing will come to anywhere between $3.50 and $6.00 per acre, while other work shows an equally favorable comparison for the tractor. Besides the draw-bar work the tractor offers itself as a source of belt power which work horses have long since ceased to perform

The "overhead" expenses which the tractor must face consist mainly of interest on money invested, together with a reasonable allowance for depreciation on the price of itself, plus the price of any machinery bought expressly for use with the tractor. The price of a three-plough tractor is somewhere near $1,400; the ploughs cost $200. To this we must add say $500 for part ownership of a thre and silo-filler. This makes $2,100 in all. The interest on this at 7 per cent. is equal to $147.00, and the decent. is equal to $147.00, and the depreciation of 10 per cent. per annum is equal to $210. or a total of $357, which our tractor must face, no matter how much or how little work it does. If the machine does only ten days of work per year the cost of the overhead per day would be $35.70; if, however, the machine is used for one hundred days the overhead drops to $3.57 per day. So that the greater the number of days in which the tractor is employed per year the more profitable will the machine prove.

There is plenty of work for a tractor on most Ontario farms, but the tor on most Ontario farms, but the work is not in such shape that the tractor can do it satisfactorily. A tractor cannot do good work in small fields. Turning around, even with a small tractor, is laborious work for both the operator and the machine, and is not conducive to the maximum amount of work per day nor to the best quality of work. Most Ontario farms have too many

Most Ontario farms have too many fences for profitable horse-farming, to say nothing of using a tractor. Fences mean waste land; they harbor weeds, and it costs more to keep the usual quota of fences in repair than it does to build a temporary fence when needed and roll it up when not needed. Removing some fences is the first step toward fair play for the tractor. It is hard work to cultivate among stumps and boulders with horses. With a tractor it is impossible to do good work in such conditions. The second step in arranging our work for the tractor is to remove all obstructions. Give the tractor a fair chance at its work and it will not disappoint you.

In summing up the tractor's case

In summing up the tractor's case as a business proposition we must consider the following points:—

1. That the tractor will do farm work more cheapiy than horses can do it, if the work is properly arranged for the tractor.

2. The personal footon in the content of the conten

ed for the tractor.

2. The personal factor in tractor operation is so great that it alone may cause success or failure.

3. When a tractor is kept busy enough, its upkeep and overhead cost per year is far less than the same on the horses, which it is able to substitute for.

4. Belt work constitutes a large portion of the tractor's usefulness.

tion, it must do the farmer's belt work.—L. G. Heimpel, Kemptville Agricultural School Agricultural School.

Save Manure

There has never been a time when There has never been a time when the making, saving, and utilizing of all sorts of farm manure was so essential. All fertilizing material is high in price, and some kinds cannot be had in sufficient quantities at all. Farm manure may be used for a nursber of purposes to a much greater advantage than commercial fer-tilizers. The total quantity of manure can be greatly increased by keeping live stock sheds and stable well bedded with straw, leaves, and other refuse about the farm.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Does it pay better to lower prices a little bit here and a little bit there, a little bit to-day and a little bit tomorrow, or to make only one bite of the price-cutting cherry? It would seem as if the best results have been scored by those who acted decisively and then made a noise about their courageous course. The public like to think they are getting bargains. When they read a big ad. that in a certain store prices have been slashed all round; they are inclined to swoop down and take advantage of the lower prices. The merchant who takes such a stand reaps a lot of credit, whereas another merchant whose price levels may on the whole be just as low will get no applause if his reductions have been made Bills Receivable piece-meal and unspectacularly. There is a story to the effect that a young debutant was placed next to Chauncey M. Depew at a party and that in her nervousness she knocked an egg from the table. Turning to the veteran senator, she nervously exclaimed, "Oh, Mr. Depew, whatever shall I do? I've dropped an egg." "Cackle, madam, cackle!" was his retor. The merchant or manufacturer who drops his prices should do a little cackling these days. It would help to win applause and to move goods.

DRIFTING

(By C. O. Monroe, Manager Sterling Bank, Watford.)

Nearly every man will work when he has some one behind him driving him to it, but the man who is going to get somewhere in this provides his own motive power. He is not contented to drift along, doing just what work has to be done, but on the contrary, does more than what he is expected or supposed to do and, when that is finished, still looks for more and more to do.

There is no grander sight than that of a huge ocean liner breasting the seas at full speed ahead; she has a certain port as her objective and her crew are united in the effort to arranging to place a Provincial Conbring her to that port in the shortest possible time. She seems to throb with life and the waves which break against her sides do not deviate her a hairsbreath from her off from her engines and the great hulk immediately becomes a plaything of the elements, to be tossed about and battered at their will, and unless the engines are started, she will eventually become a wreck on some rock-strewn shore.

And with a man it is exactly the same. Unless he has an objective, to centrated, he will make no progress but will merely float about, here and there, entirely at the mercy of the fates, and will ultimately be listed as another failure.

No one gets ahead by looking back and reviewing what he has done. It is what he is doing, and will do, that is going to count from now on.

During his term in office Mr. Crawford has zealously and faithfully performed his duties. It is well-known that the duties of secretary practically carry the whole responsibility of the management of the school and as we look back over the history of that period we can see his splendid judgment in the careful selection teachers who have taught during his regime. To commerate the event his fellow members treated him to an oyster supper and a very enjoyable time was spent. WINTER WEATHER HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Our Canadian winters are exceedingly hard on the health of little ones. The weather is often so severe that the mother cannot take the little one out for an airing. The consequence is that baby is confined to overheated, badly ventilated rooms; takes cold and becomes cross and peevish. Baby's Own Tablets should be given to keep the little one healthy. They are a mild laxative which regulate the stomach and bowels and thus prevent colds. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail

OF ILL-HEALTH

Three Years of Suffering Quickly Relieved by "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MR. GASPARD DUBORD

159 Avenue Pius IX, Montreal.

"For three years, I was a terrible ufferer from Dyspepsia and my general health was very bad. I consulted a physician and took his medicine and faithfully earried out his instructions; but I did not improve and finally the doctor told me I could not be cured.

At this time, a friend advised me to try 'Fruit-a-tives' and I did so. After taking two boxes of 'Fruit-atimes', I was greatly relieved; and gradually this marvelous fruit medicine made me completely well.

My digestion and general health are splendid—all of which I owe to "Fruit-a-tives".

A Victorious Defeat

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(C), 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Swathed in furs, her soft cheeks rosy with excitement and the tang of the crisp fall day, Margaret Demorest sat on the running board of her fa ther's luxurious car, sipping gratefully aromatic coffee hot from the thermos She was thinking partly of the big game three hours away: partly of the momentous decision she had to make some time before her return.

She had steadily refused to wear any telltale colors or even flowers which might be construed to indicate a preference for either team, even though she sat with her father on the side held by his alma mater.

The decision was forced upon her. so to speak, by the odd coincidence that the two most persistent suitors for Margaret's fair hand were to play that afternoon on opposite sides-Perry Endicott as quarterback, Peter Spaulding as left tackle. Each had begged her to let him know on this occasion her answer to that most vital of all questions, "Would she marty him?"

Yet even in her heart of hearts Margaret could not choose. Both were friends for many years, Each offered her much besides his heart. Perry had more money, quantities of it, and was in a fair way to make more with a sent in the stock exchange awaiting him and any number of influential friends. Peter had less money, but was the descendant of a long line of successful professional men, and himself possessed the training and brains and instincts to carry on their traditions. And Margaret need never marry for money alone. Sometimes she wished that Perry was less handsome and debonair, or Peter less well got up and merry-eyed—anything to swing the balance,

She sighed as she settled back beneath the robes as the chauffeur swung the car back into the unbroken line of traffic headed for the greatest game of the season.

Wrapped in his blankets, Peter Spaulding sat huddled on the side lines waiting the umpire's whistle. He lifted his gaze to the colorful crowded stands opposite, where, rising tier on tier, massed the cheering, singing multitude, come to see him and a small handful of men defeat or go down under an equally meager group of opponents. Somewhere in that throng he knew, sat the girl of his heart. He visualized her from her softly curling hair to her dainty little feet. What wouldn't he give to call her his!

And yet he realized that beyond question Perry Endicott, whom he would presently see out on the white lined field of battle, stood quite as high a chance as he of winning her. Well, she was a prize for some one and—the whistle gave the signal. Throwing off the blanket, Peter ran with his companions to position. The crowd of spectators waited alert, exited. The game was on.

At the end of the third period the teams stood tied. Margaret clasped and unclasped her fingers in the shelter of her huge muff. Her father, his cigar tipped at an angle which suggested jaunty hopes, was confident that the trick would be turned in the final period. If he was right, thought his daughter, Perry Endicott would come to her for his answer with all the subtle influence exerted by the man who has won.

Oddly enough, Peter at the same moment, surreptitiously nursing a strained ankle, was thinking the same thing.

And Margaret's father was right. In the midst of the pandemonium Margaret, her hands beating a tattoo with her muff on her mother's arm, saw the tumbling yellow ball picked up by a man she presently realized was Perry Endicott and borne, all obstacres swept away, behind the goal post 20 yards down the field.

"Touchdown! Touchdown! Touchdown! Endicott! Endicott! 'Rah! 'Rah! The crowd involuntarily brought to its feet when the ball first hit the ground, went wild. The last rays of the sun, setting red in the west, shone on thousands of waving flags and pennants and released balloons. Peggy clapped her gloves

"Wonderful, isn't it?" murmured Peggy's mother, a little later, as the triumphant stream of men flowed zigzagging within the stadium in shouting, surging, singing, hat-throwing ecstasy.

"Yes, indeed, it is!" agreed Margaret. She was telling herself that the decision had been taken out of her hands. There was no question as to whom she wished to marry.

"Let's hunt up Perer" st _____ to mey tound nim presently in the miast of a joyous bunch. He broke away to greet them, but was evidently impatient to get back.

"Great game, wasn't it?" he replied to their congratulations. "Well, the others didn't stand a show when they bucked up against our little team. What are your plans? The fellows are giving the team a sort of love feast, and I've got to be there, of course. I'll see you later somewhere." With nothing more definite than that

Peter they found an hour or so later. "Why, Peggy!" he cried, "and Mrs. Demorest! I've been hunting the whole place over for you. Great game, wasn't it? Sorry we lost, but the other team was a cracker ack and were simply outplayed. Great stunt Perry pulled off! But let's forget about the game. Can't I take you out somewhere? How about dinner at the hotel? I reserved a table for just such an emergency."

Hours later he and Peggy stood apart from the crowd gathered about the mighty bonfire, sending skyward its smoky symbols of victory.

"Watching the other fellow's celebration isn't very cheering," he said. "Let's go." Wandering along the quieter paths of the back campus they found a deserted stone bench in the corner of the massive memorial arch. "I want to ask you something, Peggy," he began as they sat down.

"Wait," said Peggy gently. "Before you ask it, let me tell you that I think I know what you are going to say, and—well, I decided this afternoon what my answer would be."

Peter looked startled. That did not eem favorable. How could any one, especially a young, impressionable girl, do anything else than decide in favor of the hero of the day?

"Margaret," he said huskily, "I know that means but one thing. And I had hoped-'

Margaret threw back her head and laughed a low, delicious laugh. "Peter, you old silly, what do you suppose happened when every one was shout-ing for Perry? I found all of a sudden that I wasn't a bit glad his side had won, because I was being so sorry that you had lost. And so I knew

"Oh, my little sweetheart," breathed Peter, longing to hear the words he hoped were coming.

"That I-I love you," she whispered. Peter gathered her close in his sheltering arms and kissed her.

"Besides," added Peggy, when she had the chance, "the kind of man you want to spend your life with is the one who takes being beaten better than the other man takes being vic-

"I wish." said Peter softly, "that every defeat, of my life could be turned into such a glorious victory!"

BABEL TOWER MERE MYTH

Ascribed to Fact That City of Babylon Had a Great Population of Many Tribes.

The story of the tower of Babel and the confusion of tongues while still taught in many Sunday schools as literal and historical fact, is genrally conceded by theological leaders o be just what science has discovered t to be-a myth and folk lore, based on a very small foundation of fact. The tower in reality was the temple lower north of Marduk temple, and ras but 275 feet in height, being built of six platforms or stages, the lower neing the highest, with 121 feet to its credit, the second 66 feet high and the remaining four but 22 feet in height. At the time it was built it probably was the highest building in the world, and the Babylonians were not slow in bragging about it. The Jews, active enemies, probably seized on this to tell the story of the "false god worshipers" trying to reach heaven. The power of Babylon passed with the suc-cess of Sennacherib, and later, some time between 1110 B. C. and 1004 B. C., an Elamite sought to rebuild the city, and his plans included several

By this time the city had a great population of many tribes, and Sum-erian, Akkadian, Chaldean, Aramaic, Iranian and Hittite was spoken by those affiliated with each of the various races. A Jewish poet observing this, wose the story, and to give it color, declared the name "Babel" meant "confusion" of tongues." In reality, it means "Gate of God," from the words "bab," meaning "gate," and "ilu," meaning a god,—Detroit News.

Internal parasites in the shape of worms in the stomach and bowels of children sap their vitality and retard physical development. They keep the child in a constant state of unrest and, if not attended to, endanger life. The child can be spared much suffering and the mother much anxiety by using a reliable worm remedy such as Miller's Worm Powders, which are sure death to worms.

YOUNG WOMEN AVOID PAIN

This One Tells How She Was Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Regina, Sask.—"For two years I suffered from periodic pains and nauses so I was unable to get around. My mother had me take Lydis E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am much better and able to go about all the time, which I could not do before. I recommend Vegetable Compound to my friends if I know they suffer the same way, and you may publish my letter if it will help any one, as I hope it will."—Miss Z. G. Blackwell, 2078 Osler Place, Regina, Sask.

Slackwell, 2078 Osler Place, Regina, Sask.

If every girl who suffers as Miss Blackwell did, or from irregularities, painful periods, backache, sideache, dragging down pains, inflammation or ulceration would only give this famous root and therb remedy a trial they would soon find relief from such suffering.

It hardly seems possible that there is a woman in this country who will continue to suffer without giving Lydis E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial after all the evidence that is continually being published, proving beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved more suffering among women than any other medicine in the world.

For special advice women are asked to write the Lydis E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of forty years experience is at your service.

Mr. Chas. Andrews Jr., returned to Rockford, Ill., Saturday after spending a few days with the company here.

We are glad to see J. Menzies of our Shipping Department at his accustomed post. "Jimmie" has been impassable during the recent mild confined to his home for the past weather. week with LaGrippe.

When roll was called Thursday morning last several of our members were missing. However, they are at work again and we feel proud to report that even yet "Turkey" isn't too much for our Androck Canadians.

Hey, there! Oh! that's just the bricklayers here again making their final rounds and putting up the partition walls. The cement work has been completed and soon all will be in readiness for us to pick up our bench and walk.

Through the intelligence of our machine shop staff we now have in good working order a four-slide machine which will take straight wire and make it into either % inch rings or % inch squares in one operation, at the rate of seventy per minute.

"Is it customary for a theatrical manager to announce his play in public before he converses privately and personally with his artists?" This is the question that has been uppermost in the minds of the office staff since Wednesday evening last and consequently the play announced has made very little headway.

In order to make the new work room the cleanest, brightest place you ever saw to work in, a prime coat of white paint has been applied to the interior of our new building, and on top of that a coat of pure white gloss enamel. The steam radators are decorated with aluminum bronze.

In looking over the figures below one can see that not only is our plant growing and production increasing but our Pay Roll is also the amount paid out in Watford by 200 and in 1920 $57,500. In addition to this $29,200 was paid to Strathroy employees during the three years.

We now have in stock a complete line of frames for Pyrex glass ovenware. This is a new item which originated in our Rockford plant, and after several experiments patents were applied for. Pyrex is the ovenware of the future, and pros-pects look encouraging for a large business in manufacturing these frames. Samples of both Pyrex and frames are on display at Mr. Class' Jewellery store.

We have recently installed a very ingenious scale which not only weighs accurately but can be used for speedy and accurate counting. A certain number of pieces are placed in a pan suspended from a beam of the scales and when the beam is balanced the scale indicates the quantity in the truck or box on the scales. It will count up to 25,000 pieces and is, as far as we can learn the first of its kind installed in Canada.

There are disadvavntages to having a name like someone else and this not only applies to people but also to towns. Within the last few weeks we have received several letters which had been missent to other towns whose names are similar to ours. Among these we received several from Walford and quite a number from Waterford, and not only mail but quite frequently our freight and express shipments have gone astray to these towns. We can not say just how much inconvenience it causes us sometimes and we are wondering if nearly everyone else in Watford has not at some time been annoyed by this same difficulty.

We are again making Sink Strainers and Carpet Beaters, These items have been off our stock list for considerably over a year.

Cheer up! Cheer up! No, Spring is not here yet but something more welcome than spring is taking its course. The management has decided to do something besides talk about the disgraceful condition of our streets, and has arranged to put in a cement driveway and walk from Wall street to the Shipping room door as soon as the frost is out of the ground. Let us hope that this will be an inspiration to the town to make equally needed improvements to the town streets especially Main and Front which have been almost hold that if the Creator had intended that humanity should know its future, some method would have been provided by which the future could easily be read. Advance information has been the basis of over fifty per cent. of all the great fortunes in the world. It is a historical fact that the fortune of the Rothschilds, the greatest individual fortune in Great Britain, was founded upon advance information secured by a member of that famous family of the defeat of Napoleon at Waterloo. As a stage production it was a thunderous success, as a motion picture it is a creation that will open the eyes in amazement. This attraction comes direct from Allen Theatre, Toronto, with original musical score. As an added attraction, Charlie Chaplin in "The Rink", will be presented. This is one of the best comedy pictures ever made by the Million Dollar Comedian and shows him at his best. Most of the scenes were taken at the wellknown amusement resort, "Coney Island!" You will laugh till your sides ache at the action of Charlie skating. One minute you think he is going to make a success of skating and the next you know he is not.

We might say right here that the said cop has his hands full and Charlie outwits him at every move.

These two wonderful attractions will be shown here at the Lyceum with special music direct from Allen Theatre, Toronto.

INDICATE ANAEMIA New Health Can be Obtained by

Enriching the Blood. When a girl in her 'teens becomes peevish, listless and dull, when nothing seems to interest her and dainties do not tempt her appetite, you may be certain that she needs more good blood than her system is provided with. Before long her pallid cheeks, frequent headaches, breathlessness and heart palpitation will confirm that she is anaemic. Many mothers, as the result of their own girlhood experience, can promptly detect the early signs of anaemia and the wise mother does not wait for the trouble to develop further, but at once gives her daughter a course with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which renews the blood supply and banishes anaemia before it has obtained a hold on the system. Among the many who have benefited by the use of these pills is Miss Dora Kerr, R.R. No. 4, Wiarton, Ont., who says: "For a long time I had been feeling troubled with headache and backache, and would wake up in the morning teeling tired and depressed. I had to walk a considerable distance going to and from school and would feel so tired it seemed I could not go another step. About this time a lady doctor came to the school to examine the children, and she told me I badly needed tonic to build me up. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had been used in our home before this and I began to take them. I can only say that they have greatly helped me. I no longer suffer from the headaches and backaches and I now wake up in the morning feeling rested and refreshed. If ever in need of a tonic again I shall lose no time in taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail post-paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

In the British House of Commons

recently, some valuable information was given relative to the Keil canal. The question was asked whether it compared favorably for merchant Buddha holds sway. Here, long ago, vessels, with the natural waterways tradition has it a meteorite fell, sent in and out of the Baltic; and the by the ruling powers of the mystic answer was that the canal offered the best passage. It is 52 2-3 miles long, its bottom width is 144 feet, its surface width 334 feet, and its depth 36 feet. Lord Pirrie, of the Wolff and Harland shipyards, said that if Germany had adhered to peace for two years longer, her merchant marine would have been the greatest afloat. But the Keil canal was not intended primarily for trade expansion, but for war purposes, and so Germany used it. But now it is possible that the canal will be used for peaceful trade and under Allied management it may help pay some of Germany's debt to the nations. So far there is no definite statement as to what will be done with the canal, but it seems probable that for the time at least it will be internationalized, and managed by representatives of the Allied nations.

An added feature of great importance this year is the School Children's Exhibit. The Lambton Corn Growers' Association last spring supplied each child in the rural schools with one-half peck of corn of any of the well-known varieties: White Cap Yellow Dent, Golden Glow, Longfellow and Salzer's North Dakota. The children made their own selection and grew the corn under field directions. They made a selection of ten choice ears also a single ear for the champion class. This corn has already competed at the Annual School Fairs in the various districts and now will compete in a county and township class at the Corn Show. Three hundred children are taking part in this exhibit.
