Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Parker, of South Ste. Marie, have sent out invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Martha (Mossie) to Mr. Harry A. Workman, of South Ste. Marie, the marriage will take place on the 20th of November. As Miss Parker is a niece of Mrs. David Gillies, and a native of Carleton Place, her friends here will doubtless be interested in this item.

The editor's requests for free publicity are becoming more and more numerous each week. This week over twenty such requests were received. If the publisher gives his advertising space away each week it is only a question of time until he will have nothing more to give. Surely if a cause is worth advertising the beneficiaries should be willing to pay the moderate fees asked for the publicity.

The new regulation to close the bars at 8 p.m. went into effect last night. Mrs. (Dr.) J. A. McEwen, will receive on Friday afternoon of this week.

Among the Halloween pranks was the suspension of a dummy from the flagstaff on the high school tower—presumably representing the apostle of German Kultur—a rather wind sight. How the perpetrators reached the tower is not known.

The promoters and workers of the Military Fair at Smiths Falls reported that the net receipts amounted to $1,600. It was decided to divide the money equally between the Red Cross Society, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire and the Woman's Patriotic League.

Col. B. K. Barker, of Toronto, who has been commissioned to organize the 95th Battalion, is a son-in-law of Mrs. Joe's Labron of Carleton Place. The Col. is a South African veteran, and anticipates no difficulty in raising the new regiment. Already sufficient officers have been enrolled, and quite a number of privates.

By the new C.P.R. time table that went into effect on the 1st November, the afternoon trains to and from the west are discontinued and the night and morning trains to and from Toronto, known as the "Cannon-ball," have been cut off. The change is certainly not to the convenience of the travelling public from Carleton Place, and all commercial travellers and week-end-home comers are cut off by the new arrangement.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

Pleasant Evening Reveries dedicated to tired Mothers as they join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

BEDTIME.
Wee Golden Hair is sleepy,
As tired as she can be,
So she says, with many a sigh,
And climbs upon my knee,
She coaxes for a story,
In drowsy tones and sweet,
I hug her close up to my heart,
And oft-told tales repeat.
At last the joyous laughter
Is hushed in dreamless rest;
I clasp the little dimpled feet
That no rough paths have pressed.
I smooth the tangled tresses,
I kiss her cheek and brow,
And I pray life's evening time may come
As peacefully as now.

SWEET-MINDED WOMEN.
So great is the influence of sweet-minded woman on those around her that it is almost boundless. It is her that folks come in seasons of sorrow and sickness for help and comfort, one soothing touch of her kindly hand works wonders in the feverish child; a few words let fall from her lips in the ear of a sorrowing sister do much to raise the load of grief that is bowing its victim down to the dust in anguish. The husband comes home worn out with the pressure of business, and feeling irritable with the world in general; but when he enters the cozy sitting room, and sees the blaze of the bright fire, and meets his wife's smiling face, he succumbs in a moment to the soothing influences which acts as the balm of Gilead to his wounded spirits, that are wearied with combating with the stern realities of life. The rough school boy flies in a rage from the taunts of his companions to find solace in his mother's smile; the little one, full of grief with its own large trouble, finds a haven of rest in its mother's breast; and so one might go on with instances of the influence that a sweet minded woman has on the social life with which she is connected. Beauty is an insignificant power compared with hers.

Never carry your business home with you. Transact it at your store or office, and leave its cares, perplexities and strains there. Do not let its worries influence you at home, to fret yourself and those around you. The mind at home should be drawn away from business cares and directed in a channel to interest and instruct and freshen and strengthen and prepare it for the duties of the morrow. All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy, and all business and no recreation lessens the capacity, power and strength of the mind to do the necessary thinking for conducting business successfully.

REAL HOMES.
There are husbands and wives, whose love is so deep that each cares only to

THE JAPANESE RED CROSS.

Japan is a country which might very conceivably, if the present war is prolonged, play a very important part in its final settlement. If Japanese troops were sent to Europe, they would of course be accompanied by the Japanese Red Cross and that Society would have an opportunity of demonstrating to the world the perfection of its organization. It has a permanent fund of 15,000,000 yen, and a membership of 1,632,752, over one thirty-fourth of the total population. It possesses a trained corps of nurses to the number of 3,000, and its total active personnel amounts to nearly 5,000 persons.

The strength of the Japanese Red Cross is due to the fact that it is a national institution, actively favored and supported by the State Government and the Imperial Court. The Society was founded in 1887, by the Empress. Its badge is modelled on a design of a comb worn by the latter—a cross surrounded by bamboo leaves.

The Central Hospital at Tokio was presented to the Society by the Emperor as well as the land on which the Executive Building is situated. The President and Vice President of the Society are directly chosen by the Emperor.

It is thus apparent that the Red Cross is a definite and vital part of the State machinery in Japan. The Society proved its national value in the Russian War, and Japan is thoroughly convinced that no nation can successfully conduct a great war without an efficient and well-endowed Red Cross organization.

Fruit Roll.

Nothing is nicer in the way of pastry desserts than the various fruit-rolls. Make a good baking powder biscuit pastry. Roll in a long sheet, and spread with thinly sliced peaches, apples, or any kind of berries. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Roll up like a jelly roll, then bake in a moderate oven for 20 minutes. Serve either hot or cold, and with or without cream or pudding sauce. Fruit dumplings are made of the same pastry as the above, rolling out into a half inch sheet, then cutting into squares, and placing in the center sliced apples, peaches, or a few spoons of berries, bringing the corners of the pastry together at the top, pressing together firmly, placing the dumplings in a buttered pan, adding a little water, and basting frequently with the liquor in the pan. Bake until the fruit and pastry are well done. These are very nice for a change.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

have what will go best for the other and for their children. These men and women belong to no particular class; they are to be found among the highly educated and luxurious classes, in the great middle classes and among the laboring people. Such folks are honest in their affections, honest with each other and honest with the world. Their homes are not places for show, but what the name implies—places of rest, happiness and inspiration of good work. These homes may consist of only two or three rooms or they may be places, yet the influence is always good. It is such homes that make the world sweeter and better, and experiences shows us that they are common in our country.

Oftentimes the most discouraging criticism is received at home, the very last place from which it should come. As a flower loves the dew, and as it turns its face to the sun, so the soul seeks appreciation and yearns for sympathy. No one can do his best work unless there is someone believes in him. Encouragement is the best known tonic. It strengthens the soul as well as the body. Then never be afraid, oh woman, of being too lavish of praise of husband or children. If a loved one does something well, do not be afraid to say so, or if you must criticize do it gently, lovingly, at the same time showing him that you believe he can do better.

Remember, when assailed by affliction, that every cloud has a silver lining, and, could we but see aright, many apparent calamities are but blessings in disguise. Hope is a better companion than fear, and morning is ever the daughter of night. Whatever is right; presumption alone would avert the hand of Providence. Give us, oh, give us, the man who sings at his work. Be his occupation what it may be superior to those who follow the same pursuit in silent sullenness. He will do more in the same time, he will do it better, he will persevere longer. One is scarcely sensible of fatigue while one marches to music. The very stars are said to make harmony as they revolve in their spheres.

It is hard for a mother to believe that her children are made of the same kind of clay as those across the street.

No household is complete without a sister. She gives the finish to the family.

We see scores of handsome faces where we find one that is truly happy.

American People Tiring of Giving.

The flood of American gold that has kept American Red Cross nurses at the front in France and Russia has ended, and the physicians, surgeons, and ministering women are leaving Europe according to Miss Sarah A. Lee, who has just returned from the battlefields of Russia. Miss Lee said that while she would have willingly remained in Russia, her return to the United States was made necessary by the fact that American contributions toward the cause of suffering humanity in Europe were practically at an end.

Shot a Black Fox.

The Rideau Record says: It is not often that one goes out to shoot partridges and gets a black fox but this was the bit of luck that came to Mr. Wilson McCue on Saturday. He and Mr. Sparham went into the country that day to hunt for partridges, and while skirting a bush near the home of Mr. Robert Ferguson, they saw a small animal in the open nearby and Mr. McCue shot it. It proved to be a fox; but to their delight it was more like a black fox than the common red kind. Its legs are quite black while the fur of its body is a kind of cross between a grey and a black. If it should prove to be a black fox, it will be a good day's pay, even for a lawyer.

W.C.T.U. Votes $10,000 to Aid Prohibition.

The members of the Ontario Women's Christian Temperance Union, in annual convention in Ottawa, pledged themselves to raise, between now and the end of March, 1916, approximately $10,000 for the Citizens Committee of One Hundred, recently organized in Toronto, consisting mostly of representative business men from all parts of the province of Ontario, for a purpose of making a determined effort to get the Ontario government to submit a referendum to the people of the province on the question of total prohibition.

When a Whole Village Volunteered.

We have heard a good many stories since the war began of the number of men who have gone to the war from some church or community in England or Canada. But none of these records approaches that made by the village of Nelson, in New Hampshire, in the American Civil War. When the Civil War began, Nelson had 231 inhabitants, and 124 of these went to the front. But the people of Nelson felt, in common with the whole North, that the very existence of their nation, as well as the cause of freedom, was at stake.

RAMSAY COUNCIL.

Council Chamber, Almonte, Oct. 23rd, 1915.
Pursuant to adjournment the council met in the town hall, Almonte, at 10 o'clock today, all the members being present.

The minutes of last meeting were read and adopted.

A communication was read from Sir John Hendrie, Lieutenant Governor of Ontario, soliciting a contribution in aid of the Red Cross work.

Mr. Arch. Rosamond, treasurer of the R. M. Hospital, applied to the Council for a renewal of the township's agreement with the directors of the hospital regarding indigent patients.

Mr. W. H. Stafford applied for a grant for the North Lanark Agricultural Society.

Mr. W. L. Cochrane applied for a bonus for a wire fence opposite lot 24, in the 5th concession.

On motion of Messrs. Cochrane and James, the sum of $500 was granted in aid of the Red Cross work.

On motion of Messrs. Young and Syme, the sum of $100 was granted the R. M. Hospital.

On motion of Messrs. James and Cochrane, the sum of $50 was granted to the North Lanark Agricultural Society.

Councillor Syme gave notice that he would at next meeting of Council introduce a bylaw appointing deputy returning officers, poll clerks and polling places for the ensuing municipal elections.

The following accounts were ordered to be paid, viz:

CARLETON PLACE DRUGGIST HAS VALUABLE AGENCY.

W. J. Hughes, has the Carleton Place agency for the simple mixture of buck-thorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-i-ka, the remedy which became famous by curing appendicitis. This simple remedy has powerful action and drains such surprising amounts of old matter from the body that JUST ONE DOSE relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach, and constipation almost IMMEDIATELY. The QUICK action of Adler-i-ka is astonishing. W. J. Hughes, druggist.

Rural Fair Winners.

The winners in the recent School Fair held in the Township of Ramsay are announced as follows: Winner of the boy's medal, donated by Mr. J. L. P. McLaren, Alex. Snedden, S.S. No. 10 Ramsay. Winner of the girl's medal, donated by Mr. J. L. P. McLaren, Marion Chapman, S.S. No. 14, Ramsay. Winner of the cup donated by Dr. R. F. Preston to the school scoring highest on exhibits, S.S. No. 14 Ramsay (Greig's School). A year's subscription to The Farmer's Magazine, donated by the McLean Publishing Co., to the pupil doing the best work at the fair, was won by Alex. Snedden, S.S. No. 10 Ramsay.—Almonte Times.

Useful Inventions.

The following Canadian patents have been recently secured through the agency of Messrs. Marion & Marion, Patent Attorneys, Montreal and Washington: Donna Quintal, Montreal, Lock with seal; James A. McQuarrie, New Glasgow, N.S., Miner's trousers; Birger Ljungstrom, Stockholm, Sweden, Comnutator provided with segments and rings; Paul Gonsrat, Angouleme, France, Case for cigarette papers; John C. Green, Dempster, South Dak., U.S., Rotary tooth brush; Emanuel I. Propser, Bienne, Switzerland, Hollow walls with hooked stones; Frans J. H. Rustige, Stockholm, Sweden, Means for relighting unintentionally extinguished gas flames; William F. Spurling, London, Eng., Hoods for road vehicles.

Mental Dry Rot.

The brain can shrink as well as expand. It is a muscle, and an atrophy, in parts out of use, like the shrunken muscles of an arm that is out of commission. Plenty of people use their brains only incidentally, and when they can't very well help doing so. Mental dry rot may affect future generations—and these people have all kinds of "hard luck" in their own proper persons. A report has been prepared by a body of librarians, school teachers, and so on, who investigated average sections of the Middle West and New York State. Fifty per cent. of some communities did not own a single book. Twenty-five per cent. of the same people did not even take a local paper. They're not far from being dead and buried; just walking ghosts of real live human beings. Probably they never heard that the main difference between an animal and a human being is that the latter has a brain and uses it, declares the J. B. Lippincott Company.

RIPE FOR THE SILO.

When Corn and Other Crops Should Be Harvested.

[W. R. Dobson, Louisiana station.]

Corn is ready to harvest for filling the silo about the same time it is ready for harvesting the fodder. The grains should be well dented and glazed and a few of the lower leaves turned brown. If the corn is cut too green the silage will be sour and the feeding value decreased, while, on the other hand, if the corn is too ripe it will not pack well in the silo. Sorghum should be harvested for the silo while the seed are in the dough stage. Like corn, if it is left in the field until it has become too dry the silage will contain a large amount of indigestible material and will not make a good quality of silage.

The time of harvesting the crop for filling the silo—that is, the stage in which the crops should be harvested—must be given great consideration if a good quality is to be obtained.

Pea vines, soy beans and other hay crops should be harvested for the silo at the same time as for making hay—that is, when in full bloom and few of the heads are ripe.

Wheat After Fallow.

At the Rothamsted experiment station in England wheat has been grown continuously and also alternating with fallow for fifty-eight years. The records of the station have the following to say regarding the work:

"It will be seen that the produce of wheat after fallow is considerably higher than when it is grown continuously, 171 bushels against 127 bushels per acre, but it reckoned as produce over the whole area, half in crop and half in fallow, the whole area grows much less of both grain and straw than where the crop is grown year after year on the same land. A given area of land would therefore be more productive when cropped every year than if the crop were alternated with fallow. The superior yield of the portion in crop after a fallowing may in some degree be attributed to the greater freedom from weeds, but in the main it is due to the production of nitrates from the humus of the soil during the summer when it is fallow, a process which is much stimulated by the stirring it receives and the consequent aeration. The success of a fallowing depends upon these nitrates remaining for the succeeding crop. They may be entirely washed away by heavy autumnal rains."

Sod and Insects.

To guarantee against insects do not follow a grass sod with such a grain crop as corn. It is well to keep the land fallow for a time.

AVOID SILO ACCIDENTS.

With the opening of the silo filling season there will be frequent reports of serious and fatal accidents. The manufacturers of silage cutters have greatly improved their construction in recent years, and most accidents nowadays are the result of carelessness. Practically all of them can be avoided by the exercise of reasonable care. In addition to the exercise of common sense at the feeding end of the machine, here are some things that the inexperienced man should do: Be sure that the machine is being run at the proper speed. Take care that corn is never put into the machine until the motion is up to full speed. In stopping be careful not to shut off the power until the elevator is empty. If the elevator is not empty the cut material will fall back and lodge in the fans. Then when the machine is started again the cut corn jams the fans, and as a result they are bent or broken.

Quaker Wit.

"Somewhere in France" there is at work a group of English Quakers, whose cool courage and tireless devotion in rescuing and tending the wounded on many a battlefield have won them, despite their peace principles, the hearty respect and liking of both "Tommys" and "piou-pious." Among them is one young man whose ancestors for several generations have been notable more for wit and spirit than for the virtues of piety associated with drab coats and broad hat brims.

It was a member of that family, a century or more ago, that found himself by chance in a carriage with a very fine lady attired in the low-necked, short-sleeved muslin dress then in the height of fashion, adorned by a profusion of jewels and trinkets, and protected only by a lace shawl as light as a cobweb. A chilly wind blew up suddenly, and she exclaimed, shivering, "What shall I do to get warm?"

"I really don't know," said the Quaker sympathetically, "unless thee put on another breast pin."

An Italian Fireless Cooker.

One difficulty of the Italian commissariat is to get food from the valleys to the camps in the mountains. The difficulty has, however, been solved and twice a day hot food is carried on the backs of mules in "cooking cases" designed by an Italian.

The food is contained in a huge pan of aluminum with a circular opening, which can be closed hermetically by screws. The pan is enclosed in a case lined with cotton and cork and the food keeps hot for more than ten hours.

Beistol, N.B., July 25th, 1914.
"I had a stroke of Paralysis in March, and this left me unable to walk or help myself and the Constipation was terrible. Finally, I took 'Fruit-a-lives' for the Constipation. This fruit medicine gradually toned up the nerves and actually relieved the paralysis. By the use of 'Fruit-a-lives' I grew stronger until all the palsy left me. I am now well and attend my store every day."

Fruit juice is nature's own remedy and 'Fruit-a-lives' is made from fruit juices. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa.

Paper Kettles in Japan.

Every soldier in the Japanese army is provided with a kettle made of paper of the ordinary Japanese variety. Before hanging his kettle over the fire the Jap soldier fills it with water, after having poured water all over it. When screws. The pan is enclosed in a case lined with cotton and cork and the food keeps hot for more than ten hours. The kettle costs sixpence and is good to use eight or ten times.

THE TASK OF THE RED CROSS.

It is a truism that war is a ruinous and destructive operation. It is one thing however to give mental assent to that proposition. It is quite another to feel it in every nerve and fibre of your being and to let your giving to the Red Cross funds be dictated by that intense emotional consciousness as if war's destructiveness were visible in your own town and your own street.

Every citizen at the present time should cultivate an imaginative sensitiveness to the grim realities of Europe. It is very easy to be stoical and confident, complacent and self indulgent. The sights and sounds of war are far away. All its horrors are only distant echoes. It is only by an effort of sympathetic imagination that we can feel the intense human woe that constitutes the dark background to every Red Cross appeal.

When an earthquake has destroyed a town or a volcano devastated whole districts the whole world has felt a keen emotion and has been lavish with its generosity. But war is an operation far more productive of loss of life and wounds and misery than innumerable tidal waves or earthquakes or volcanoes.

It is difficult to form a sane estimate of the probable casualties of the present war. It is known however that the British casualties have exceeded 250,000. That is certainly at a reasonable estimate much more than ten per cent of the forces engaged at the front. It can easily be seen from this average that the British and Canadian Red Cross Societies face an immense task in the future.

Think of what three or four hundred thousand sick and wounded means. Imagine the entire population of one of our largest cities, occupying each one a bed in some gigantic hospital. The thing staggers the imagination. And yet such a condition is not far from a reality at present.

Certainly any one who takes the trouble to reflect will instantly recognize the immense need which confronts the Red Cross. And the natural result of such reflection is generous and unhesitating contribution to the funds of the society.

TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY STORIES.

And every story a good one. They are entertaining, but that is not all you can say about them. You know there is hardly a periodical published that is not full of time-wasting stories, but not a single story in The Youth's Companion is a time waster. Take the stories of C. A. Stephens. It would be hard to pick out one from which you cannot learn something useful and yet entertaining.

Some of The Companion stories refresh your knowledge of geography; some tell you the mysteries of chemistry, some reveal the secrets of forestry and of general farming. They cover a wide range. They are chosen with an eye to the possible likings of every member of a Companion family—stories of vigorous action and stirring adventure for boys, stories of college life and domestic vicissitudes for girls, stories that range all the way from sheer drollery to deep seriousness for men and women. There are no stories quite like those in The Companion.

If you are not familiar with The Companion as it is to-day, let us send you sample copies and the Forecast for 1916.

New subscribers who send $2.25 for 1916 will receive free a copy of The Companion Home Calendar for 1916, in addition to all the remaining 1915 issues from the time the subscription is received.

One of the oldest and best known residents of Jasper passed away a week ago Sunday morning, when Mrs. Edward Haggerty was called to her reward. She was 88 years old and for some time had been declining under the burden of her years and the disabilities that come with age. She had lived an active useful life, earning the confidence and esteem of all who knew her.

Report from the Department of Agriculture.

The report of the Minister of Agriculture for Canada for 1915 is a full and complete story of the operations of the Department in all its divisions and branches, and consequently a very informative publication. Indeed there is a deal in the Report of which every municipal officer as well as every one interested in agriculture and the public health might advantageously become possessed. In particular has this reference to the regulations relating to tuberculosis, formulated for the purpose of ensuring a pure and wholesome milk supply for cities and towns, and especially to prevent the sale of milk from tuberculous cows. In this connection it might be mentioned that the Department undertakes, through the Veterinary Director-General, to aid any city or town acting under the regulations to carry them out and to control bovine tuberculosis. Owners and managers of cold storage plants are reminded that under an order-in-council of 20th June, 1914, they must give the public the preference in the use of refrigerated space, and must not contract to give said space to one firm to the exclusion of the general public. Particulars are given of amendments to the Destructive Insects and Pest Act. Information is also conveyed relative to trading with the enemy. Summaries of reports regarding dairy operations will be found of value, especially as regards arrangements for refrigerator car service, for the proper carrying out of which by the railway companies the Department holds itself responsible. From May to October the railways in Ontario, Quebec and Nova Scotia must run refrigerator cars weekly or fortnightly for the carriage of butter at regular rates and without extra charge for icing. Commencing from the middle of June and for eleven weeks hence the Department pays icing charges up to $5 per car for the conveyance of cheese. Similar arrangements are in force for the carriage of fruit from August 1st to October 1st. The work of the Seed Commissioners' Branch, which gains in importance yearly, is told in detail, as is that of the live stock branch. A full account of the grading of wool is given. Reports from all the Dominion Experimental Farms and Stations indicate the wide scope of the work what is being done and the remarkable variety of tests and experiments that are undertaken. Details of the proceedings of the Fruit and Entomological branches are deserving of minute attention, being both instructive and useful. The Publications Branch, from which the complete report can be obtained free, also receives attention as does the Branch of the Canadian Commissioner of the International Institute of Agriculture. Particulars are given regarding the issuing of patents of invention and a summary of the work of the Public Health and also of the Health of Animals Branch under the direction of the veterinary inspector general, Dr. Torrance. An appendix contains the reports of the Director-General of Public Health and his staff and of Canadian Exhibition Commissioner, Wm. Hutchison, relating to Canada's exhibit at the Panama Exposition, San Francisco. It also gives the text of the British order-in-council restricting the importation of dogs, all of which have now to be licensed to land.

Renfrew Soldier Killed.

Pembroke friends of Police Magistrate S. J. Dempsey, former sheriff of Renfrew county, will sympathize with him in the bereavement which has come to him through the death in France of his eldest son, Samuel John Dempsey, who went from Renfrew with the first contingent as a private in the 42nd Regiment and was attached to the second Brigade. He was one of the few Renfrew boys of the first contingent left and his name was published among the killed on Tuesday, his death taking place on Oct. 10th. We understand that Mr. Dempsey has two other sons under arms, the third existing only a short time ago.—Observer.

New C.P.R. Train by Smiths Falls.

The train service over the C.P.R. in and out of Smiths Falls in all directions has been considered by the public to be about all that could be desired but it is to be still further improved by the addition of another through day train from Ottawa to Toronto, says the Rideau Record. Mr. Brett, the company's energetic travelling passenger agent in this district, was in town yesterday and gave the Record the particulars of the new train. The new service will begin on Monday, November 1st, with a train leaving the Sparks street station, Ottawa, at 1.15 p.m. running via Kempton, Merrickville, Smiths Falls and the Lake Shore road to Toronto. It will run daily except Sunday, will leave Smiths Falls at 2.55 p.m. and reach Toronto at 9.30. The new train going west will be called the "York" and its mate coming east from Toronto will be known as the "Rideau." This last will leave Toronto daily except Sunday at 1.45 p.m. and Smiths Falls at 8.30 for Ottawa by way of Kempton. They will make ideal trains for day travellers and will carry standard day coaches, and a buffet-library-observation-parlor car. This new service will make six trains out of Smiths Falls every week day over the C.P.R. for Toronto, five for Ottawa, and six for Montreal. It is a splendid bit of enterprise on the part of the C.P.R. and is sure to meet with popular favor.

An Apt Pupil.

"Girs' rate, Miss Betty, I been greabably 'sprized in d u man."

"Does he treat you all right?"

"Yessum. He sho do, and I ain't had ter hit 'im but one time. I never seed er nigger learn as quick as he do."

Englishwomen in Shell Factories.

Canada's armed forces now number nearly 200,000 about twenty new battalions having been formed during the past month or so, adding some 25,000 men.

Captain Rene Girouard, who was with the Canadian forces in France, cabled to his mother at Smiths Falls that he had been wounded and was in a hospital in London.

Mr. M. Workman, of Montreal, has subscribed $5,000.00 to the Jewish Fund of the British Red Cross Society, and has promised $1,000.00 a month to the fund as long as the war lasts.

The open season for black and grey squirrels is from Nov. 15th to the 1st of December, both days inclusive. This will probably be news to some people who are not aware that squirrels are protected.

Major-General Hughes stated that machine guns are being made as rapidly as possible, and deliveries are to begin within the next few days, also that no battalion has been refused the right to take gun over strength.

Two Italians were suffocated by sewage fumes in Toronto after they were trapped in a trunk-sewer to which they had run for shelter when the walls of a sewer in which they were working at Ethel and Dods avenues collapsed.

The Canadian Patriotic Fund Association expended for relief to the 31st of August $2,716,960, at a cost of administration of 2 1/3 per cent, or $64,257, exclusive of $6,482 campaign expenses, and bank interest on funds deposited, was $53,156, nearly sufficient to cover expenses.

The death occurred a few days ago in St. Francis General Hospital, Smiths Falls, of Michael J. Bowes, after a brief illness. The deceased was a prosperous young farmer of Balderson's Corners and while ploughing was seized with a sudden illness. He was immediately brought to St. Francis Hospital, but death resulted on Friday morning, due to acute meningitis. His remains were taken to his home for burial.

LOCAL AND OTHERWISE.

British submarines are extending their war on enemy shipping in the Baltic Sea.

Several British knighted-officers have been specially gazetted for distinguished service.

Mr. Hugh Bowland, of Almonte, has been appointed registrar of North Lanark.

United States authorities are seeking "higher up" men in the German bomb conspiracy.

Frederick Fleisheuer jumped from the roof of St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, and was killed.

The Rotterdam "Courant" estimates the Anstra-German losses to date at 5,000,000 men.

Andrew Fisher, Premier of Australia, has accepted the High Commissioner-ship in London.

Another battalion, headed by Major Barker, of Toronto, is to be raised in the 2nd Division.

Toronto hotels and liquor shops are out of bounds for soldiers from October 30 to November 11.

More Italian troops are being called to the colors; an army will be sent to the Balkan war zone.

Premier Sir Robert Borden rescinded a woman from under a moving train at the station at Moncton, N.B.

North Bay's 1915 assessment is $7,055,000, an increase of $350,000. The population has decreased 188.

Premier Norris, of Manitoba said "free" wheat would put $15,000,000 in the pockets of western farmers.

Hotels and liquor stores on the route from Niagara to Toronto were temporarily placed out of bounds for soldiers.

A typhoon in the Philippines has killed 170 people and injured nearly 800. Hemp and rice crops are ruined.

Gen. Dimitrieff, a Bulgarian, will command the Russian forces in attack on his former country. He has a fine military record.

A modified form of conscription, in the compulsory enlistment of single men, may be tried in Great Britain if Lord Derby's scheme fails.

A vote is to be taken on license reduction in Ottawa on January 3, the proposal to cut off twenty-eight tavern and ten shop licenses.

Eastern Ontario Women's Institutes have contributed about $85,000 for patriotic purposes, one group of forty women raising $2,353.

Hamilton Recruiting League is planning to raise a Cavell Company, securing recruits on the appeal to avenge the slaying of the British nurse.

The Canadian Northern train inaugurating the company's transcontinental service reached Toronto on the return trip across Canada last week.

It is probable that the whole shell and munitions manufacturing in Canada will be reorganized, cutting out entirely middlemen and political pull.

A regulation will shortly be issued providing that the National Anthem shall be sung daily in every school in Ontario, as part of the morning exercises.

A marked increase is reported in the allowance of ammunition to the Canadian artillery, which is now better able to give adequate support to the infantry units.

Canada's armed forces now number nearly 200,000 about twenty new battalions having been formed during the past month or so, adding some 25,000 men.

Conserving the Joy of Life.

The most hopeful feature of the development of a new attitude toward youth is the willingness to conserve the spirit of the joy of life—the great gift which youth has to offer to life. To youth has been given this great joy of life, and it is the right of the individual to carry its spirit on into age, making it fuller and deeper as the years roll on. The new movement is asserting the right of youth to its joy, recognizing that this is the creative force which will raise life from a dull level. It means less of the disenchantments of age, a keeping alive of the glow of life, cultivating an ever deepening optimism, so admirably expressed by those simple lines of Browning:

Grow old along with me,
For the best is yet to be.

GERMANS FEAR WINTER.

Spectre of 1812 Stares Invaders in the Face.

When Russia capitalizes her climate, her geography, and the temperament of her people, she commands a military asset which promises to prove a barrier against which the human mechanism of the Germans, with all its protection of machinery and efficiency, will wreck itself, writes Stanley Washburn from Petrograd.

In traveling here from Moscow by motor I purposely covered many back roads in order to question the peasants so that I might form some conclusions as to whether the war was really backed by the people themselves. On the high roads I passed, without exaggeration, about 100,000 refugees, and have questioned great numbers of these poor people as to their opinion of the war and its outcome.

In one town there were camped 83,000 refugees. Practically all of them had abandoned their homes before the German invasion, and the majority accepted their lot absolutely without complaint, recognizing that it was a necessary incident to a military move designed to impede the enemy and delay his advance.

The Russian Government is straining every nerve to relieve the condition of these refugees, preparing shelters all along the highways. It is estimated that the refugees number approximately 2,000,000. The task of the Government has been greatly lightened by the docility and patience of the peasants, whose behavior has been absolutely perfect in their hour of misery and hardship.

Already the nip of coming winter is in the air, and the spectre of 1812 looms behind every German soldier to-day. When a group of German prisoners was met on the road marching eastwards the first questions asked, as they gazed apprehensively at the landscape, grey and desolate beneath the leaden sky, were of the Russian winter, when it would fall and how long it would endure.

The most hopeful feature of the development of a new attitude toward youth is the willingness to conserve the spirit of the joy of life—the great gift which youth has to offer to life. To youth has been given this great joy of life, and it is the right of the individual to carry its spirit on into age, making it fuller and deeper as the years roll on. The new movement is asserting the right of youth to its joy, recognizing that this is the creative force which will raise life from a dull level. It means less of the disenchantments of age, a keeping alive of the glow of life, cultivating an ever deepening optimism, so admirably expressed by those simple lines of Browning:

Grow old along with me,
For the best is yet to be.

"WORTHY to stand by the side of her great sister Florence Nightingale, the name of Edith Cavell shall be blessed by countless generations of Englishmen. She was strong in a faith that was greater than war lords and judges and we, her countrymen, believe in spite of all evidence to the contrary, that against this, the gates of hell shall not prevail." This is the fine tribute of Miss Dorothy Todd, a well known English writer who was a next door neighbor to Miss Cavell in Brussels for three years.

THE FATALITY AT PETAWAWA.

How Fred Negus Met His Death—Buried with Military Honors.

The particulars of how Fred Negus met his death at Petawawa did not reach here until the body reached Carleton Place on Wednesday evening last from Pembroke in charge of his brother-in-law, Mrs. F. Tinsley, also a guard at the military camp.

It appears that the deceased was engaged in some work in the pantry about 9:15 on Monday evening, and his room mate, Pte. Leach, a young man of 19 years of age, was cleaning an officer's revolver in the cook's bedroom adjoining, separated by a board partition. Having cleaned the weapon, and, as he thought, emptied it of all cartridges, he was snapping the trigger to see that the chamber revolved freely when to his amazement the unexpected report gave evidence of a loaded chamber, and as it afterwards transpired the bullet pierced the partition and caught Negus in the stomach as he was in a stooping attitude and made an awful wound in his inside, that ultimately proved fatal. The alarm was at once given and first aid was rendered without delay by the camp surgeon, but from the nature of the injury it was deemed advisable to remove the patient to the hospital at Pembroke, so he was sent down by the first train, and here everything possible was done, but to no avail, and the young man died early on Wednesday morning.

Fred Negus was born in Mitcham, Eng., being a son of Walter and Sarah Ann Negus, and was 32 years of age and unmarried. He came to Canada twelve years ago, and for several years worked among the farmers. He came to Carleton Place and for three years worked in the moulding department of the Findlay foundry. He left this position two months ago for Petawawa. Whilst here he resided with his brother-in-law, Mr. F. Tinsley, who is also doing duty now at the military camp. The deceased was of a quiet disposition, much attached to his sister and her family. Was very fond of music, and quite a musician.

His funeral took place on Friday afternoon, from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tinsley, to Zion Church, and was under military auspices. A detachment of ten men came down from camp, two captains, two buglers and six of a firing party, and they were joined here by the high and public school cadets and the boy scouts, who formed the escort. The procession moved slowly to the church, the casket, enshrouded in the union jack, being borne by a sextette of cadets, the firing squad marching with guns reversed (all members of the 42nd detachment and mostly Carleton Place boys). At the church, which was overcrowded, the service was conducted by Rev. A. A. Scott, assisted by Rev. Mr. Monds, and was most impressive. Interment was made in Pine Grove cemetery. The sympathy of the whole community flows out to the bereaved sister and other relatives in their sudden bereavement, which is further enhanced as it follows closely upon the death of the bereaved father in the old land only a few weeks previous.

TABURE HILL RETAKEN

Enemy in Desperate Attack Recapture Position.

Four Other Attacks Launched in the Champagne District Are Repulsed With Heavy Loss—Important Action Fought Near Neuville-St. Vaast in Artois, Where Bavarian Troops Took Trenches.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—As a net result of two days of the most violent fighting yet seen on the Champagne front the Germans have recaptured Tabure Hill, from which the French batteries menaced the Chalange-Bazancourt railway, the main supply line of all the German troops in the Soissons salient. The Germans attacked on a five-mile front, with strong reinforcements of veterans from the Russian front fighting in the first line.

Following this success the Germans yesterday made four successive assaults on the French defences in an effort to enlarge their gains and take the village of Tabure, a mile south of the hill. Despite minute artillery preparations and heavily massed attacks, the Germans were thrown back in each of these assaults. According to Paris, they suffered heavy losses. French reports detail the capture of 356 unwounded prisoners, against 1,215 prisoners claimed to have been taken by the Germans in the two days' operations.

Though military interests centres for the moment on the fighting in Champagne, there is another important action fought to the north-east of Neuville-St. Vaast, in Artois, while the Champagne battle was going on. Here the Bavarian troops captured nearly 1,200 yards of French trenches, taking 200 prisoners, four machine guns and three anti-aircraft guns. The French quickly recovered, however, and counter-attacking, expelled the Germans from a section of the lost trenches. Fighting for possession of the remainder of the works still is in progress.

Big Artillery Duels.

PARIS, Nov. 1.—The official statement issued last night reads as follows: "In the course of spirited artillery actions in the region of Lombaertzyde our batteries demolished several enemy observation posts.

"In Artois an artillery duel has continued to the north and to the east of Souchez, being particularly marked in the neighborhood of the Bois en Hache.

"To the north-east of Neuville-St. Vaast the struggle continues with great obstinacy for possession of those sections of trenches where the enemy penetrated Saturday. We have retaken part of them.

"In Champagne the Germans, after a fresh artillery preparation, with the employment of large quantities of suffocating shells of large calibre, renewed their attacks in the region to the north of Le Mesnil. They attempted during the course of the day four successive assaults—the first at six o'clock, on the extreme east of 'La Courtine'; the second at midday against Tabure; the third at two o'clock, to the south of the village; the fourth at four o'clock, against the ridges to the north-east.

"Everywhere our artillery and infantry fire stopped their progress and obliged them to retreat in disorder to the trenches which they had left. Their losses were again very heavy. Three hundred and fifty-six unwounded prisoners, of whom three were officers, remained in our hands.

"Artillery engagements are reported in the Vosges. They were particularly violent in the regions of the Bar-de-Sapt and Viotiu."

TRANSPORTS REACH ENGLAND.

"Saxonia" and "Lapland" Arrive With 4,803 Canadians.

OTTAWA, Nov. 1.—The arrival in England of two more Canadian troops, the Saxonia and the Lapland, with 161 officers and 4,642 men on board, is officially announced.

The Saxonia, which sailed from Canada on October 18, arrived at the English port of disembarkation on Friday last with the following troops: 40th Nova Scotia Battalion, 40 officers and 1,090 men; 41st French-Canadian Battalion, 36 officers and 1,082 men, drafts; Fort Garry Horse, 3 officers and 100 men; Royal Canadian Regiment, 2 officers and 67 men; Medical Corps, 1 officer and 55 men; detail, 2 officers and 6 men.

The Lapland sailed on Oct. 23, and arrived in England on Saturday. She carried the following complement: 44th Manitoba Battalion, 36 officers and 1,076 men; 46th Saskatchewan Battalion, 36 officers and 1,115 men; draft of Mounted Rifles, 1 officer and 50 men; detail, 4 officers and 1 man.

The King Recovering Slowly.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—King George, who was injured by a fall from his horse on Thursday last, is suffering less pain, but is yet weak from the effects of his hurts, this afternoon's official bulletin stated. The bulletin read:

"The King makes slow progress. The pain is diminishing, but his Majesty is still weak. Pulse and temperature normal.

(Signed) "Anthony Bowlby," "Bertrand Dawson."

Officers and Men Called to Report.

OTTAWA, Nov. 1.—The Minister of Militia has issued a call to all officers, non-commissioned officers, and men available for military service to report to divisional officers commanding, at once. All such officers who are not able to go overseas, but are willing to lend their services at home for instructional purposes, are also asked to report without delay.

Japan to Play Part in Europe Affairs.

TOKIO, Nov. 1.—Japan's adherence to the agreement among the great powers of the Entente not to conclude a separate peace, is regarded here as strengthening the future of the nation. Incidentally it has removed any fear that a German refusal to accept the Entente would keep Japan in a state of war after peace had been restored in Europe. Japan expects to take part in the discussion of both European and Oriental questions. Premier Okuma has informed inquiring members of Parliament.

ALLIED FLEET ACTIVE

It Has Again Bombarded Bulgarian Towns on Aegean.

Little Definite Information is at Hand Regarding the Movements of the Allied Land Forces Sent to the Aid of Serbia—Pilot Has Been Taken by the Bulgarians—Germans Realize That Task is Heavy.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The Allied fleet have again bombarded the Bulgarian towns on the Aegean Sea. While these efforts take some of the strain off heavily-ried Serbia, there is no reliable information as to the movements of the greater forces which, it is hoped, will save her. Reports continue to circulate, chiefly from German sources, of a Russian army which is to march across Roumania to the rescue.

The Anglo-French troops are firmly establishing themselves along the southern end of the Nish railway, and, crossing into Bulgaria, have occupied the hills surrounding Strumitza, although the capture of that town, which has been reported as taking place yesterday, is not officially confirmed.

Bulgars Take Pilot.

That the Serbian fortress of Pirot, described as the key to Nish, is in the hands of the Bulgarians, is now admitted by the Serbs, while the Austro-Germans, advancing from the north, are endeavoring to form a ring around Kragujevatz, where the Serbian arsenal is situated. Thus, besides endangering both the Serbian war capital and the town where the Serbian munitions are manufactured, the central powers, with Bulgaria, are narrowing the gap through which the Serbian army in the north-east must escape. The Germans have taken Milanovac, forty miles south of the Save River.

Simultaneously, the Austrians are attacking Montenegro to remove, if possible, the danger of having an enemy army on their flank. Little has been said about the fighting between the Austrians and Montenegrins along the Drina River, but apparently it is of a most sanguinary character, as it took the Austrians, with far superior equipment, more than a week to force a crossing of the river at one point alone, that south of Visegrad.

German newspapers lay stress on the fierce opposition of the Serbians against the Teuton armies in north-western Serbia. Here the central empire forces in crescent formation are attempting to advance eastward, an operation essential to their plan of enveloping the Serbian forces. The great obstacle is the fortress of Kragujevatz, where the Serbians are making magnificent resistance in the face of greatly superior forces.

The Berliner Tageblatt correspondent sends an interesting summary of the course of the Teuton campaign against Kragujevatz. So far the Austro-Germans, despite their immense strength of guns and men, have failed to break the Serbians' stubborn defence. He says:

"After an offensive begun at Shabatz and further developed toward Valjevo, the chief forces of the invading armies advanced in a great bend toward the defence works of Kragujevatz. This former residence of the Serbian Princes is the chief arsenal of Serbia.

"Around the town rise steep and easily defended mountains like a natural fortress ring, which formerly successfully resisted an Austrian offensive. But the bravery of our troops, supported by heavy artillery, will overcome this defence work.

"After the Bulgarians have swept the open road from Zaitchar and Knishevatz and from Timok valley to Morava Valley the Serbian troops which are in the north-eastern mountainous country may by quick retreat escape from the pressure from north and south."

French Front Quiet.

PARIS, Nov. 1.—An Athens despatch to the Havas Agency, dated Sunday, says:

"The Bulgarians have succeeded in occupying part of Veles, situated on the right bank of the Tarnar, notwithstanding the heroic resistance of the Serbians, according to Saloniki advices.

"The other part of the town remains in the hands of the Serbians. The Bulgarian losses are placed at 25,000 men.

"There has been no important engagement on the French front. Gen. Sarrail (commander-in-chief of the French forces in the Orient) has inspected the Anglo-French lines from Guegeli to Krivolak, including Demir Kapu, which are now strongly fortified.

"The Allies continue to land forces at Saloniki."

Botha Wins Suit.

JOHANNESBURG, Nov. 1.—The jury in the case brought by Premier Botha against a Nationalist candidate for Parliament in the recent election, named Mannik, rendered a verdict against the defendant yesterday.

Mannik was charged with having slandered the Premier during the campaign by asking what he had done with gold bars valued at $3,750,000 left in possession of Botha and two other persons on the departure of Paul Kruger from South Africa. Mannik asserted the gold never had been accounted for. He was sentenced to imprisonment for three months or to pay a fine of $250. The case will be appealed.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and insuring nature in doing its work. The proposition has so much faith in the curative powers of Hall's Catarrh Cure that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

LANARK.

From the Era.
Miss I. B. Wilson is visiting relatives in Carleton Place and vicinity.
Butter making will be commenced at the Lanark and Drummond factory on Nov. 1st.
Mr. Wm. Taylor, of Carleton Place, was in town Monday on his way home from a visit of a couple of weeks with his brother-in-law, Mr. Matt. Donald, Dalhousie.
Miss Annie Craig, daughter of Mrs. Andrew Craig of this village, who has been employed as stenographer in Lindsay's Store, Ottawa, for the past couple of years, is now a clerk in the Department of Naval Service. On the eve of her departure from Lindsay's, Annie's fellow-employees presented her with a gold pendant set with pearls.
Mr. Thos. L. Closs, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Closs, Prestonvale, has heard the call of the Motherland, and gave up a good position with a railroad company to enlist with the 1st Canadian Pioneers at Prince Rupert, B.C. The battalion was mobilized in British Columbia, but is now at Winnipeg, where a few more recruits are being taken on. Only miners, lumber jacks, prospectors, railroad construction men and others accustomed to a rough outdoor life are accepted. The Pioneers expect to come east in a short time.
Dr. A. B. Roberts, a well-known practicing physician of Saskatoon, received word last night of his appointment in the Royal Army Medical Corps, and will leave in a few days to join his new regiment. He will proceed to Camp Hughes and expects to be sent abroad with little delay. Dr. Roberts is unmarried and came here about five years ago. Before coming to Saskatoon he practised in Dawson City, Yukon territory, for over four years, leaving the north to take a post graduate course at Toronto and Montreal before settling here. Dr. Roberts is a native of Lanark, Ont.—Saskatoon Star.

ALMONTE.

From the Gazette.
Mr. Thos. Rollins, of Almonte, and Miss Mary Binnie, of Ramsay, were quietly married at the Presbyterian manse on Thursday last by Rev. S. G. Brown. They will live in Almonte.

Word has been received of the death of Mr. Edward James Smith, eldest son of the late E. W. Smith. The deceased had been in failing health for the past three or four years, his death taking place in California, where he had gone in the hope of improvement in health.

Death this week claimed another old resident of the town in the person of Mr. Thomas Gray, who passed away in her 80th year. She was born in Sydenham, England, in 1836, and came to Canada with her parents, the late Wm. Abbott and his wife, when she was five years of age. They located in Brockville, and in 1855 Miss Elizabeth Abbott was married to Mr. Thos. Gray, of Lisbon, N.Y. Mrs. Gray, who was the eldest of her father's family, was also the last one to pass away, four brothers having predeceased her. She came to Almonte nearly fifty years ago, and has since had her home here, the latter years of her life being spent with her daughters, Mrs. R. Needham, Mrs. F. J. Blake and Mrs. W. S. Boyd. Besides these three there is one other daughter, Mrs. R. N. Willoughby, of Brandon, and two sons, Robt., last heard from in the far west, and Wm. J., at Lawrence, Mass.

On Sunday last Mr. John Crawford passed away, at the age of 91 years. Mrs. Crawford was born in the town of Laarags, in Ayrshire, Scotland, in 1824, and after learning the trade of baker he came to Canada in 1850, on the Marchmont, a sailing vessel, and after a five weeks' voyage landed at Quebec, where he spent four years. Later he spent a similar period at Montreal and Perth before coming to Almonte. While in Perth he was married to Marion Gray, and with her came to Almonte in 1863. Here he started in business with such good results that in 1861 he disposed of his bakery and built the comfortable cottage where he and Mrs. Crawford enjoyed the fruits of their thrift and energy. In March, 1888, Mrs. Crawford died, and a couple of years later Mr. Crawford was married to Elizabeth Fulton, daughter of the late John Fulton of Cedar Hill, who survives him. Mr. Crawford was a Presbyterian in religion, and until declining years forbade his doing so he was a regular attendant at St. Andrew's church.

PERTH.

From the Courier.
George Meighen, of town, has enlisted with the 87th Battalion, Canadian Grenadier Guards, with headquarters at Montreal.

In Monday's casualty list the name of Private William Arthur Bailey, of Portland, member of the 2nd Battalion, was given as wounded.

Mr. T. J. Devlin shipped forty-two horses to Ottawa on Wednesday. They were all for the French army, providing they all passed inspection.

Mr. Wm. Fletcher, engineer with the Carpet Company, left on Tuesday for Barriefield camp, Kingston, where he will take a position with one of the brass bands. His brother Thomas is at Barriefield and he also has four brothers at the front.

Mr. Thomas Blackhall of Minnesota, has returned to his home after spending a month with his sisters, the Misses Blackhall of Perth, and Mrs. Tobin of Westport. Thirty years ago he was a resident of Perth, but he notices many changes in the old town since that time.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Charlton received a letter from their son Wilfred, this week stating that his improvement in health was marked since the bullet has been extracted from his spine. He is in France yet, but hopes to be home for Christmas.

A new 6-ton boiler for the Clyde Woolen Mills at Lanark, arrived in Perth this week and was taken to Lanark on Wednesday.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Norris of Althorpe, was the scene of a very happy event last Wednesday when they celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their married life.

Another of the old pioneers of the Scotch Line passed away last Thursday evening, Oct. 21st, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Robt. Armour, in the person of Mr. Samuel Thompson. The deceased was born in the town of Perth in 1828, and was the son of William John Thompson, who with his father and brothers, conducted a large boot and shoe and wholesale leather business in the early part of last century. In 1855 he married Henrietta Cowie, who died in a few years, leaving one son, Robert. In 1865 he married Mary McKinley, who died in January, 1910. After her death he came to live with his daughter, Mrs. Armour.

From the Expositor.
Rev. Mr. Scott had a letter from his son, Clyde, within the past few days. Clyde kept the extent of his injuries from his parents until he was well on the way to recovery, and only now is he giving them an idea of the agony that he suffered in those first weeks after he was left for dead by his own troops, and picked up by the Germans. His hip was broken, and his body was covered with shot wounds. Unskilled treatment in the early stages of his wound is responsible for the prolonged recovery, but Clyde writes that he is getting the best of care and attention, and skilled surgical treatment now. He is still in bed with a weight to his foot, and he expects to come through the ordeal with but a slight lameness.

In the school fire at Peabody, Mass., the lives of 50 children are said to have been lost. The dead were on the upper floors.

HUGE SHELL ORDERS.

Half a Billion Will Be Spent in Canada, Says D. A. Thomas.

OTTAWA, Nov. 1.—With the original Shell Committee, appointed by the Canadian Government and the Minister of Militia, reorganized into the Canadian Munitions Committee, under the direct control of the Imperial Ministry of Munitions, and with a new system of tendering adopted, Mr. D. A. Thomas, who has been for five months on this side of the Atlantic as the special representative of Mr. Lloyd George, Minister of Munitions, left for New York yesterday afternoon en route for home, evidently well pleased with the reorganization which had been effected. In an interview given yesterday afternoon before leaving he briefly reviewed what had been accomplished; declined to discuss in any detail the criticisms which had been made as to the high prices allowed to the manufacturers in Canada hitherto; propounded an immense stimulus to the whole munitions industry in Canada in the near future, and referred to very large orders which were coming from Great Britain.

D. A. THOMAS.

For Canada, he said, the estimated value of the total war orders either already placed or coming was close to half a billion, or over sixty dollars per head of population. These orders, with the great harvest of this year, should spell industrial prosperity for the Dominion for some time to come.

SIR CHARLES TUPPER DEAD.

Last Father of Confederation Passes Away at Bexley Heath.

OTTAWA, Nov. 1.—A cablegram Saturday from Sir George Perley, in London, to Sir Robert Borden announced the death of Sir Charles Tupper, which occurred in the morning at Bexley Heath. The official cablegram reads:

"Sir Charles Tupper died peacefully this morning."

Charles Stewart Tupper of Winnipeg, son of the late James Stewart Tupper, and grandson of the late Sir Charles, succeeds to the Baronetcy. He is a son-in-law of Dr. Charles Morse, Registrar of the Exchequer Court of Ottawa, and is about to leave for the front, having obtained a commission in the Cameron Highlanders.

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper of Victoria is a son. The last of the Fathers of Confederation will be brought to the land he loved so well, and to which he gave all his energy, intellect, and enterprise. Sir Charles Tupper was the last to sleep in Amherst, his birthplace, the scene of his many political battles and victories. To Cumberland County will be brought "the war horse of Cumberland."

Britain will pay a last tribute to the great Imperialist of the overseas dominions. A warship will be sent to convey the remains of the great statesman to Halifax. Twenty years ago the battleship "Blenheim" performed a similar duty when the body of Sir John Thompson was brought from London to the same city.

Canada will give a national funeral to the last of the Fathers of Confederation, and a national memorial to him will be erected in the capital. This will be done at once, so that it may be completed and unveiled in 1917, on the fiftieth anniversary of the confederation of the provinces in which Sir Charles played a part not even second to Macdonald, Brown, or Cartier.

SHORT OF SHELLS.

Germans Are Slackening Their Thrust at Riga.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—"The slackening of the German thrust at Riga is attributed by the Reich to an insufficiency of shells, owing to the activity of Allied submarines in the Baltic," a Reuter despatch from Petrograd states.

"Parties of Bulgarian deserters who have arrived in Petrograd asked to be enlisted in the Russian army, provided they were not required to fight their compatriots.

"Vigorous measures have been taken to combat the propagation of Germanophilism by many persons who recently have acquired citizenship." Sixty such persons already have been sent to the government of Irkutsk for a term of years.

"Petrograd and Moscow banks have agreed to participate to the extent of 600,000,000 roubles in the Russian 1,000,000,000 rouble loan."

Leaves Decision With Parliament.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—A despatch to The Daily Telegraph from Bucharest, says that last Wednesday, at an audience granted Minister of the Interior Joseph W. M. Filipescu, leader of the Conservative party, King Ferdinand declared that he was not opposed to the realization of the aspirations of the Roumanian people and that in this matter he placed himself in the hands of Parliament and the Government.

General Botha won his suit for slander against a Nationalist candidate. The University of Toronto Base Hospital has located at Alexandria.

The Saxonia and the Lapland, carrying 161 officers and 4,642 men, have arrived in England.

Rumania's army leaders are in favor of attacking Austria and Bulgaria at once; all plans are ready.

British soldiers are being issued light steel helmets, similar to the French headgear, but not so ornamental.

Mr. D. A. Thomas, representative of Mr. Lloyd George, Minister of Munitions, has left to return to England.

Donald Guthrie, K.C., ex-M.P., prominent in Guelph life for many years, died in his 75th year, after a few days' illness of heart trouble.

The Canadian customs revenue for the month of October showed an increase of no less than $2,504,092, one of the largest increases for a month on record.

The paper mill of the MacLeod Pulp & Paper Company, Limited, situated at Milton, near Liverpool, N.S., and valued at about $250,000, was totally destroyed by fire yesterday.

A GENTLE LAXATIVE FOR LITTLE ONES.

Baby's Own Tablets are a gentle laxative. They are absolutely safe and are so pleasant in action that often the mother has used them for her little ones she will never again resort to that harsh, ill-smelling, bad tasting castor oil, which baby always fought against taking. Baby will take the Tablets with a smile and thousands of mothers tell us their little ones will coo for them. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

STRANGE STORIES EXTRACTED FROM NEWS OF THE WORLD WAR

League of Night Watchers Is the Newest and Oddest Society.

A STRIKING commentary on the effect of the great war upon the public at large is found in the fact that news stories which a few months ago would have achieved big headlines in the papers of the world are now overlooked in the general run of the news, and are given minor positions, if indeed they are published at all.

Odd Missionary Society.
The Christian, a religious journal, says the newest and oddest of all missionary societies in the world is the League of Night Watchers. Because of worry over fate of friends in the trenches and on battleships, vast numbers of English people found it impossible to sleep at night. Some of them discovered that knowledge that others similarly afflicted were praying or perhaps merely thinking of them helped them to pass the hours and bring cheer.

Means were taken to let each other know names, circumstances, and causes of worries, and now the league numbers thousands, and is growing rapidly.

The leaders held a convention recently and decided to welcome contributions for work to help soldiers, believing that the formation of plans for relief might divert attention and induce sleep. It was decided also to form two branches, one composed of members who cannot sleep because of war worries, and other of those who must not sleep because of duty as nurses, guardsmen, physicians, or military officers.

Aviatress With the Army.

One of the most interesting figures along the western front is Mille Dutrieu, the aviatress who has been rendering excellent service as a pilot in the French flying corps. Mille Dutrieu is an intrepid airwoman and has won signal honors.

Eight Left Out of Forty.

How Corp. Stephen Hobday, of the First Regiment Grenadier Guards (14th Battalion), won the Distinguished Conduct Medal, is described in a letter received from Hobday:

"We moved up to the line of trenches immediately behind the fire trench. Some other battalions were going to make a charge, and we were a working party with picks and shovels to go forward and reconstruct the first line of enemy trenches. The artillery did some wonderful work all afternoon, and, at one minute past six, our engineers blew up a section of the enemy's trenches. This mine exploding was to be a signal for our infantry to advance and for our artillery to lengthen their range to the enemy's reserve trench.

"Our men carried three trenches, but advanced too far, were unsupported and had to retire, losing all three. While we were waiting a 'Jack Johnson' shell burst immediately to the rear of our trench, plowing four men to pieces, and at the same time filling in our trench above the level of the parapet, completely burying our lieutenant and six men under an enormous weight of earth.

"We commenced digging them out from both ends of the fill-in and from the top. Of course the top was exposed to the enemy's rifle fire and our first man up was killed in about thirty seconds. A pal of mine took his place, and he was shot through the leg, but continued digging until his other leg was shattered. His place was taken by one of our corporals, and he was killed at once.

"We got out six alive, one being smothered before we could get to him. I was working all that night, and next morning (we were in the fire-trench by this time) we buried the dead chaps and moved a couple of guns (18 pounders) to a place of safety."

Describing the second charge, Corp Hobday says: "We passed the somewhat vague instructions on, and at the appointed moment our lieutenant blew his whistle, and we charged toward the enemy's trenches. Once over the parapet we were met with a perfect hurricane of lead, but not a man wavered (though they dropped all around) and we reached an old German communication trench, which we lined, and from which we at once opened fire. We peppered them for about an hour, and then our lieutenant gave the order 'prepare for charge.'

"We were going on. But our S. M. (sergeant-major) says: 'Good God, man! are ye crazy? Do you see how many men you have?'

"He looked around, and we had eight left of about forty. Soon afterward we got the order to retire. When a couple of German trench mortar shells fell between the trenches we managed to sneak through the smoke and dust safely."

Lassoed a General.

Corporal Salvatore Sardina, who captured an Austrian general with a lasso on the Isonzo front is the hero of Rome.

Details of his exploit, published in the Tribuna, state that he had climbed a tree when the Austrian general left a group of officers and came under the tree. The corporal dropped from the tree upon the general, subsequently throwing a cord around his neck. The general fired his revolver, wounding the Italian in the hand. The corporal nevertheless compelled him to surrender and took him to an Italian trench.

Soon afterward the King and Gen. Cadorna arrived, and the King, seeing the general, asked him why, as he was so robust, he had been captured by a single man. The general shrugged his shoulders. Sardina was promoted and awarded the medal for valor and 1,000 lire.

Baby's Hands in Knapsacks!

In London, Eng., a good deal has been heard lately from the permissionnaires, or men back on short leave from the front. One of these who when he was last in Paris was full of enthusiasm for the life at the front, seemed somewhat changed this time.

He was asked whether he was still as fond of trench making and taking as ever, and he replied that he was as keen as ever on doing his bit of fighting, but he looked on the job somewhat differently now. The reason was that he had been taken prisoner with two of his comrades, and the same evening they had made good their escape.

But they were chased, and he had barely time to hide in a shell crater. There he saw the Germans catch his two fellow soldiers and crucify one and burn the other alive before his horrified eyes. "That has made me perhaps more careful," he remarked. The same man told me that out of about thirty German prisoners they had once taken, all but two or three had children's hands in their knapsacks! Another permissionnaire, who has had a great deal of police work and guarding to do, declared that it was incredible how many spies were daily caught. He said that the morale of the men he met near the front was generally most excellent.

What the permissionnaire said about the reserve officers is also remarkable. These old soldiers, who might have been thought to have grown rusty, have continually distinguished themselves along the whole of the front. As a matter of fact, the continuous fighting has now found out the weak and the strong vessels, and gradually the whole army is being leavened with the finest influences.

A Strange Privilege.

Russia's Cross of St. Andrew has a remarkable peculiarity attached to it. All who are decorated with it have the right once to demand a pardon for a Russian subject condemned to death.

Britain's Defence Army.

Two hundred thousand soldiers could be concentrated on any given line of defence in Britain within 48 hours, thanks to our system of railways.

Britain's National Debt.

The British national debt at the end of March this year was £1,161,951,706. This is the first time that the figure has turned the thousand millions.

Brigadier-General F. S. MEIGHEN C.P.R. New Director

IT was the most logical thing for the greatest transportation corporation in the world to reach out and pick Frank Stephen Meighen off the financial landscape. When the shareholders of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, at its recent annual meeting, held in Montreal, voted "Yes" to the addition of this "coming" young Canadian to its Directorate, the business world the wide world over nodded its approval. Back from the trenches of France and Flanders, the smell of the powder still on him, his ear-drums still quivering with the shock of the bursting shrapnel, Brigadier-General Meighen—such is his title—makes a picturesque entry into the larger field. Well, he has served his bleeding country. The best evidence of this could probably be obtained from the few surviving Germans who engaged the then Colonel Meighen's Fourteenth Battalion at St. Julien. Called home to lend his experienced advice to the Militia authorities of Canada, the honors of war gained only by duty well done have overtaken the young regimental commander.

But military prowess is not essential to the make up of the Canadian Pacific Railway Director, and men do not graduate in the service of their country in an industrial way by leading gallant Canadian soldiers to victory in Europe. In the veins of this man runs the blood of Mount Stephen. The first President of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, Lord Mount Stephen, was General Meighen's uncle. Robert Meighen, father of the new Director, was a railway associate of Mount Stephen, and himself a Director of the road. Here, then, is the Meighen pedigree: it is a piece of the C. P. R.'s family tree.

Robert Meighen was a big man in his day and he left his imprint on the country. His C. P. R. affiliations were extensive, and it is appropriate that his son should resume the connection direct. One of the father's achievements was the founding of the Lake of the Woods Milling Company, and in more recent years Frank S. Meighen has been widely known as its President. In addition to the large interest held by the Robert Meighen estate in the great railway company, this Lake of the Woods Milling Company, one of the largest of its kind in the world, has been for many years one of the biggest of the railway's customers.

Let no one imagine, however, that this new member of a galaxy of Canada's captains of industry, is without merit of his own, or that he is riding into the C. P. R. board room on family prestige. At the present time he holds the following important offices: President of the Lake of the Woods Milling Company; a Director of the Bank of Toronto; President of the New Brunswick Railway Company; a Director of the Canadian North-West Land Company; President of the Montreal Opera Company; a Director of the Paon Manufacturing Company. To figure thus prominently in the business life of the Dominion is to prove his great personal ability and mental acumen. "Leveheaded" is the adjective that the big business men of Canada apply to Frank S. Meighen.

While filling so large a place as this, General Meighen has still found time to play. Throughout Eastern Canada he is noted as an expert exponent of the hazardous game of pony polo, and many a careering battle has been won by his own skill and daring. He is an enthusiastic sportsman in many directions, as is evident in his membership in the following clubs: The Forest and Stream, the Montreal Hunt, the Back River Polo, the Montreal Jockey, the Toronto Hunt, and others.

General Meighen was born at Montreal, December 24, 1869. He was educated at Montreal High School and graduated in Arts from McGill University in 1889. He began his business life in the steamship office of the Robert Reford Company, later entering the service of the Lake of the Woods Milling Company, in their Montreal office. For many years he was Treasurer of the Company, succeeding to the Presidency on the death of his father in 1911.

Besides the clubs mentioned General Meighen is a member of the St. James and University Clubs of Montreal; the York Club of Toronto; the Junior Athenaeum, of London, England; and the Point Judith Club, of Narragansett Pier. His public-spiritedness is indicated in the fact that he was Honorary Treasurer of the local committee for the Quebec Tercentenary Celebration in 1908, and was one of the principal promoters of the Typhoid Emergency Hospital, in Montreal, in 1910. For most of his life General Meighen has served in the militia of Canada. He was formerly adjutant of the 5th Royal Highlanders and became Lieutenant-Colonel commanding the regiment in 1906. He volunteered for service in South Africa. When the present war broke out he went to the front in command of the 14th Battalion, leading his men through several of the most famous and important engagements of the war on the west-front. He was recalled in an advisory capacity, and is now engaged in organizing and recruiting the 37th Overseas Battalion, Canadian Grenadier Guards. His promotion has taken place since returning to Canada.

BERLIN HARD HIT.

Life Seems Normal But Real Suffering is Under Cover.

A Swiss merchant who has just returned from Berlin confirms what already has been said several times regarding life in the German capital, at first sight appearing quite normal, but afterward, especially to those who have been there before, showing many and obvious symptoms of being very different from ordinary times. Business is at a standstill, traffic has enormously decreased, no building is being done, comparatively little male labor is employed, and there is an increasing number of women workers. All these and many other signs testify to abnormal conditions. Nevertheless, the Berlin population still is very optimistic, and any one sitting in a frequented cafe of an evening may often hear the words, "We are invincible." If the English are mentioned it is a sure sign for the clenching of fists and the raising of voices, which immediately become harsh. The conclusion is always the same: "We must get to Calais."

Calais, says the Swiss merchant, is still the German goal, and the French, Russians, Serbians, and Italians hardly count in the war, being considered as merely temporary enemies. The detested, abhorred, hereditary and permanent enemy still is England.

"There is more joy in Berlin over one Englishman killed than over ten thousand Russians made prisoners." This explains the popularity of the submarine warfare and of Zeppelin murders, these being German's sole weapons for hitting direct at England, although in certain quarters it is the opinion that the submarine warfare is in reality injuring her more than England. The government, however, according to this man, does not dare put an end to it for fear of popular discontent and to a certain extent admitting that a mistake has been committed.

Hon. Mr. Duff Helping.

Assistance given by the Agricultural Department of Ontario to the plans of the Militia Department is outlined in a letter to the Minister of Militia from Hon. James Duff, Provincial Minister of Agriculture.

At the present time the department has in hand plans to add to the comfort of the soldiers in the hospitals. It is intended to send forward consignments of apples up to five thousand boxes or more and four hundred boxes have already been sent. In addition there is being prepared at Vineland some twenty thousand gallons of preserved peaches.

Mr. Duff adds that at the Ontario Agricultural College a system of drill is being carried out. Every man in the first year has to participate in military drill, while an officer's training corps is being conducted for those of mature years.

The Italian soldier is armed with a Mannlicher-Carcano rifle. It is 6 inches longer than the British rifle and 4 ounces heavier.

Gordon Craig SOLDIER OF FORTUNE

By RANDALL FARRISH Copyright, 1912, by A. C. McClurg & Co.

"What! Oh, I hardly know," a touch of hysteria in the nervous exclamation. "I was compelled to choose instantly between his mercy and yours. The difference seemed small enough then, but—but I realized you were frightened also, and—and so I preferred to trust you. That was all. It was my fate, and—and, well I didn't care much how it ended."

"But you endeavored to escape from me. You sought to compel my leaving you?"

She lifted her face again, flushing, saddened, slightly indignant, the brown eyes widening.

"Perhaps the soul was not all dead," she returned gravely. "Perhaps womanhood was not all gone. I did not know you. I was in terror. But now I am not afraid. I believe I have found a man—and a friend."

I was conscious of a sudden wild throbbing of the heart, a swift rush of blood through my veins.

"I might have doubted that myself awhile ago," I acknowledged almost bitterly, "but now I am going to make good. Lord, how a fellow can run to seed when he lets himself go! Don't you know you are helping me as much as I am you? You didn't find much out there—only a drunken discharged soldier, an ex-hobo with a laborer's job. I've wasted my chance in life and been an infernal fool. I can see that plain enough and despise myself for it. I knew it before you came. The difference was then I didn't care, while now I do. You have made me care. Yes, you have, girl," as she glanced up again, plainly startled by this unexpected avowal. "You see, you belong to my class, little girl, and—and you are the first of them to speak a kind word to me in five years. It's—it's a bit tough to be cut dead by your own class."

"Oh, but it does! Now I am not quite so badly off as you suppose. All I ask is a chance to think, to arrange some plan. Won't you sit quietly there until I puzzle it out?"

For a few moments as we sat in silence the obvious way out never once occurred to me. Somehow the memory of my own position had become blotted out in contemplation of the serious predicament of my companion. How could I assist her in spite of her pride and her determination to continue the struggle alone? I could not take her to my boarding house, which was exclusively for men, nor did I have any acquaintance able to furnish her employment. I shoved my hands deep into my pockets, and my fingers touched the two bills handed me by Vall. For an instant I failed to realize their significance, and then the recollection of my own engagement came swiftly back. At first the memory was a disgust. The very presence of the girl and her tale of struggle made me realize the sordidness of this plot in which I was involved. Somehow it struck me then as a dirty, underhanded scheme. Yet, as I reviewed the details, this conception largely vanished. The feeling of resentment died away, but I doubted if she could be made to look at it in the same light. I glanced across to where she sat, the gray dawn giving me clear view. Her head rested back upon an arm, and she was asleep.

We remained undisturbed, our settee removed from the main pathway, along which a few early workmen passed. She was the very one to act the part of Philip Henley's wife, if she would consent. Her refinement, the clear innocence of her face, would be convincing, and I began already to long for her company. Yet she would have to be told every detail, convinced the apparent fraud was justifiable. I rather dreaded the look in her eyes when she first heard the proposal and her questioning me. While I still hesitated, fearful of refusal, the sun shined upon her face awoke her suddenly. She straightened up instantly, but her eyes smiled as they met mine. "I was asleep," she said in surprise. "For how long?"

"Nearly two hours."

"And you have sat there quietly all that time?"

"That is nothing. I was tired, but not sleepy. Besides, I had so much to think about."

"You mean regarding what you shall do with me," and she arose to her feet. "It is time now I did something for myself."

"Wait, please," and I extended my hand, almost forcing her back upon the settee. "Let me say a word first before you decide to go. All I told you last night about myself is true, with one exception. I have money and profitable work in view. See" and I held before her the two bills.

She gazed at them with wide open eyes, half convinced of some legerdemain.

"A thousand dollars!" she exclaimed bewildered. "You! Why, what does it all mean?"

"Yes, and $9,000 more promised when I complete work that ought not to require to exceed two months. I was not without money in the restaurant, only I could not ask the cashier to change so large a bill. Sit down again, please, and let me tell you the story."

myself alone, yet all at once the duty fronts me to double my responsibilities."

Her cheeks reddened. "No, you are not. Is that, then, your conception of me? Let me tell you differently. I will never accept money from you. Just so soon as this city wakes up I am going to start forth again and seek work. I have regained my courage, and I am no longer afraid. All I needed was to know that I was not all alone. I can fight for the rest."

"Mrs. Bernard," I began quietly, realizing her spirit, "you have given a wrong meaning to my words. I respect you, believe in you and merely desire to help you to the best of my ability. Sit down here and let us face this thing squarely together. We mustn't act like children or close our eyes to facts. For instance, we have

"I—I hardly know," with slow hesitation. "It is very strange."

She pressed one hand to her forehead, her eyes on the ground. I watched her an unasked question trembling on my lips. Suddenly she looked up again, her cheeks flushed.

"You were going to suggest that I go with you, were you not?" she asked swiftly. "That I play the wife's part? Why didn't you ask it?"

"Because I lacked courage," I replied frankly yet leaning eagerly toward her. "I was afraid you would take such a proposition wrongly."

"And you see nothing wrong in carrying out your part? You mean to go to Carleton with some one—a woman?"

"I—I agreed to the terms—yes."

She drew a long breath, her eyes upon mine.

"Then I will go also," she said soberly and held out her hand.

"You mean that?"

"Yes—why not? Surely it is as right for me as for you. You wished me to say yes, did you not?"

"My face must have answered, as my lips failed, but she went on swiftly:

"Then I will go; only remember it is acting, a mere play in which I have a certain part to perform. We are to be friends throughout it all—actors on the stage. There must be no misunderstanding about this."

I had recovered my voice now, realizing all she meant and anxious to reassure her.

"Certainly. There will be no mistake, Mrs. Bernard. That was why I hesitated to ask you, for fear you might misinterpret my purpose."

"We go tonight? I shall need clothing."

"Of course. That was what this money was advanced for, to outfit us. How much will you need?"

She thought a moment, a little line of perplexity between her eyes, finally naming a sum which surprised me.

"Not more than that?" I exclaimed. "Surely that is not enough."

"Oh, yes, it is," laughing. "There will be no dressing. All I need do is appear neat."

We sat there and talked it over, deciding exactly our course of action. At 9 o'clock I left her, hunted up the nearest bank and got change for my bill. Then I gave her the amount asked, and we separated, to meet again late that afternoon at the depot. I felt no doubt as to her being there on time. My day was a busy one, as I had to visit my boarding house, buy needful clothing and arrange for transportation.

At the very moment specified I called up Vall on the phone, and he responded instantly, the very tone of his voice evidencing the relief he felt at hearing from me.

"Began to think I had skipped with the thousand?" I asked. "Well, I haven't, for the other nine looks too good. I've found the right woman to go along with me."

"Good! Who is she?"

"Oh, never mind her name. She is all right. A friend of mine."

"Not likely any one I know. Where are you?"

SUNDAY SCHOOL. THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Lesson VI.—Fourth Quarter, For Nov. 7, 1915.

Text of the Lesson, II Kings xii, 4-15. Memory Verse, 9—Golden Text, II Cor. ix, 7—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Among the many things I do not yet know there is this—why we should know the names of some mothers and not know the name of David's mother and some others. Both in our Lesson chapter and in Chronicles we are told that the mother of Joash was Zibiah of Beersheba. Now, the meaning of Beersheba is "the well of the oath" and always suggests the faithfulness of God (Gen. xxi, 31, margin). It was at Beersheba that Abraham dwelt when he went to Moriah with Isaac to offer him up, and to that home he brought him back as alive from the dead (Gen. xxii, 1-19). So I am reminded that all blessing depends upon the death and resurrection of the Lord Jesus Christ. It was a good thing for Joash that he had such a friend as Jehoiada the priest, who must have been a remarkable man in many ways, living to be 130 years of age, so he must have been 100 or nearly so when he caused Joash to be proclaimed king, just about 100 years after the death of Solomon.

Joash did right in the sight of the Lord as long as he had Jehoiada for counselor, but the people still sacrificed and burnt incense in high places (verses 2, 3; II Chron. xxiv, 2, 3). We cannot think of Israel (whether the ten tribes or the two or the twelve) being right with God apart from a right relation to the tabernacle or temple, for those buildings stood for God in their midst (Ex. xxv, 8; I Kings vi, 12, 13). So we read that Joash was minded to repair the house of the Lord, which Athaliah, that wicked woman, had broken up (II Chron. xxiv, 4, 7). The great fact about the Lord Jesus, the true tabernacle and temple, was that He was God manifest in the flesh, God was in Christ. The church, the body of Christ now being builded, is wholly for God. Each individual believer is a temple and should be wholly for God. The repairs which Joash desired to make, like all work today, needed funds, and he thought of the tabernacle of Moses and of the willing offerings (II Chron. xxiv, 6), but he did not seem to remember that these willing offerings were brought in, not sent for. He sent the priests and Levites out to gather the necessary money, but the plan did not work, for after twenty-three years the funds had not been gathered and the repairs not made (verses 4-8; II Chron. xxiv, 5-7). Then Jehoiada the priest, the king agreeing, put a chest, with a hole in the lid of it, beside the altar as one cometh into the house of the Lord, and a proclamation was made through Judah and Jerusalem to bring in to the Lord the offering that Moses, the servant of God, had commanded Israel in the wilderness. Then the princes and the people rejoiced and brought in day by day, and thus money was gathered in abundance (verses 7-10; II Chron. xxiv, 8-11).

Notice that the chest to receive the offerings was placed beside the altar of burnt offering, the brazen altar, on which the lambs were offered morning and evening, typical of Golgotha and the one great sacrifice offered once for all. The one constraining motive in the love of Christ, the Son of God, who loved the church and gave Himself for it; no duty about it, but just love constraining. Then notice that there was no further effort to raise the money—no personal appeals, no soliciting from individuals, but all was brought in joyfully and willingly. Note carefully Ex. xxxv, 21, 29; I Chron. xxix, 9, 17, and lay it to heart.—On this principle I have received for home and foreign missions in the last twenty-five and a half years (up to July 1, 1914) over $756,000 and in the same way have seen for thirty-four years all current expenses of a congregation easily met.

The Lord God of Israel still liveth and is ready to hold strongly with hearts that are whole toward Him as it is written in II Chron. xvi, 9, margin. The money was given to the overseers of the work, and they laid it out to the carpenters and builders that wrought upon the house of the Lord, but no reckoning was kept with the men to whom the money was given, for they dealt faithfully (verses 11-15; II Chron. xxiv, 12-14). This method of handling money could not be safely carried on in our day unless we could find some workmen as faithfully honest. There are such, but they are like whole-hearted Christians—few and far between—and in very small bunches here and there. We would all do well to keep in mind the day when every one of us shall give account of himself to God (Rom. xiv, 12) and live now accordingly. The conduct, or rather, the misconduct, of Joash after the death of Jehoiada in listening to the princes of Judah and in leaving the house of the Lord God and worshipping idols and in refusing to listen to the prophets who were sent unto him is a sad and almost unbelievable record, or would be if we did not know how desperately wicked the human heart is. But what shall we say when we see Joash commanding to stone to death the son of Jehoiada because he was reproved by him? (II Chron. xxiv, 20-22.) The Lord did look upon it (Matt. xxiii, 35).

"A thousand dollars!" she exclaimed, bewildered.

both been up all night. That isn't specially new for me, but it is to you, and the exposure and strain show. You are not fit to go out hunting employment."

"Poverty has no choice," bitterly. "The fact that I am tired does not matter."

She gazed at them with wide open eyes, half convinced of some legerdemain.

"A thousand dollars!" she exclaimed bewildered. "You! Why, what does it all mean?"

"Yes, and $9,000 more promised when I complete work that ought not to require to exceed two months. I was not without money in the restaurant, only I could not ask the cashier to change so large a bill. Sit down again, please, and let me tell you the story."

REMARKABLE CASE of Mrs. HAM

Declares Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her Life and Sanity.

Shamrock, Mo.—"I feel it my duty to tell the public the condition of my health before using your medicine. I had falling, inflammation and congestion, female weakness, pains in both sides, backaches and bearing down pains, was short of memory, nervous, impatient, passed sleepless nights, and had neither strength nor energy. There was always a fear and dread in my mind, I had cold, nervous, weak spells, hot flashes over my body. I had a place in my right side that was so sore that I could hardly bear the weight of my clothes. I tried medicines and doctors, but they did me little good, and I never expected to get out again. I got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier, and I certainly would have been in grave or in an asylum if your medicines had not saved me. But now I can work all day, sleep well at night, eat anything I want, have no hot flashes or weak, nervous spells. All pains, aches, fevers and dreads are gone, my house, children and husband are no longer neglected, as I am almost entirely free of the bad symptoms I had before taking your remedies, and all pleasure and happiness in my home."

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

CHEERED HIM UP.

A CRITIC sat beside his desk, and he was thin and pale, impatiently he turned the page and read a simple tale and said, "The author of this book deserves to go to jail."

The critic's wife was rated as about the poorest cook that ever o'er the frying pan. The salt and pepper shook, and he had breakfasted with her before he read the book.

A friend dropped in to have a chat and said: "Come out to dine. I know a place not far from here where everything is fine. Come, have a beefsteak and a smoke before you write a line."

The critic saw his work and knew he had no time to play. He had to read a dozen books before the close of day, but still he grabbed his hat and said, "I'll do it anyway."

They found the pleasant little joint where things were cooked just right. The waitress had a pleasant smile, and everything was bright, and here he found the place to stop. He ate an awful sight.

Returning then, the selfsame book he lifted from the pile, and as he ran the pages o'er his face broke in a smile. "That goodness!" he observed. "At last I've found a book worth while!"

Generally, "There is a lot of difference in the money a man can save if he chores around the house himself and that he can't save if he doesn't."

"Sounds complicated."

"Maybe it is. But did you ever try it?"

"Unkerng round?"

"Yes."

"I've tried it."

"Was it a success?"

"Yes—for my tailor. I had to get two new suits of clothes to replace those I spoiled in cheating the plumber and wood sawyer out of their jobs."

Would Be Equal to It.

"What would your wife say if she saw you flirting with the pretty waitress?"

"What would she say?"

"Yes."

"Say, I haven't got time to repeat all of the words in the dictionary and invent a lot of new ones."

Pessimism is aptly described as the dyspeptic's delight.

Being able to make a failure is often a thing that affords success.

The trouble with most aspirations is that they are so easily blown away.

HAVE YOU BEEN SICK?

Then you realize the utter weakness that robs ambition, destroys appetite, and makes work a burden.

To restore that strength and stamina that is so essential, nothing has ever equaled or compared with Scott's Emulsion, because its strength-sustaining nourishment invigorates the blood to distribute energy throughout the body while its tonic value sharpens the appetite and restores health in a natural, permanent way.

If you are run down, tired, nervous, overworked or lack strength, get Scott's Emulsion to-day. At any drug store.

METHODIST ANNIVERSARY.

Sir Sam Hughes Draws a Large Audience to the Social Gathering.

The anniversary services in connection with the Carleton Place Methodist Church were observed on Sunday last, with the usual social gathering last evening, and proved a season of refreshing to the congregation. A new departure was made on the Sabbath, the new pastor, Rev. W. G. Henderson, being the preacher of the day, and delivering two very able discourses, that were fully appreciated by the large congregations present.

The choir, in their most becoming new gowns, rendered an excellent musical programme, appropriate to the occasion. In the morning the special numbers were a solo "Abide With Me," by Mr. S. Hale; male quartet, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," Messrs. S. and F. DeGhuan, A. Hill and G. Lowe, the choir rendering the anthem, "Prayer for Peace," Mrs. Boyd taking the solo. In the evening the choir sang "Ninety and Nine," Mrs. Boyd being the soloist; Messrs. Taber, Hale, McFadden and McCann rendered a male quartet and as a double quartet, "The Radiant Morn" was rendered.

Monday evening the ladies served supper from 5 to 7 o'clock, the people afterwards assembling in the church, where the pastor presiding, the meeting was opened by the choir singing "O Canada," after which Sir Sam Hughes, minister of war received an ovation on rising, which he acknowledged most becomingly, and immediately went into the vital issue of the hour—the Great European War. He rapidly reviewed incidents that led to the outbreak, going back 50 years in his review, and told how unexpectedly the war broke out and how unprepared Great Britain was, her army at that moment being about equal to that of Canada to-day. Gave incidents of the big push made by the enemy to overrun France and how the British stayed the march to Paris. The speaker then pointed to Canada's part in the defence of the empire. How 5,000 men were at first thought a large contingent, how quickly the spirit grew, and how the first draft was 35,000 instead of the smaller figure stated. Now 250,000 was the estimate, and already this vast number was in sight—of the best soldiers the world had ever seen. Sir Sam related incidents of his visit to France, told of the bravery of the Canadian boys, and made a very touching reference to the part Capt. Hooper and his brave lads played, holding out till all were wounded and their ammunition given out before giving up.

The speaker was frequently applauded and at the close of his address received a splendid ovation. A vote of thanks was moved by Hon. Dr. Preston, seconded by Mr. Robt. Patterson, in very appropriate terms, and gracefully tendered to Sir Sam by the chairman, who acknowledged it briefly, and then hurriedly left the church to catch his train for the city, having still another appointment for the evening.

Rev. Mr. Scott was called upon who expressed words of greeting, the chairman thanked all who had assisted in making the anniversary a success, and the meeting was closed with the singing of the national anthem and the benediction.

Canadian troops in France were decorated by King George.

Japan became a party to the agreement to oppose a separate peace.

It is estimated $1,500,000 will be raised in Ontario for the British Red Cross.

PAIN IN THE BACK.

Usually Comes from Muscular Rheumatism.

Do not worry about a pain in the back. The worry will do you more harm than the pain. The cause of most backaches is muscular rheumatism, so is a stiff neck. Sufferers from any form of rheumatism should keep their general health up to the highest standard by the use of a blood building tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, while taking good, nourishing food, without too much meat. Proper nutrition and pure blood are the best means of fighting rheumatism. Rheumatism comes from an acid in the blood, build it up, strengthen the system, and drive out the poisonous acid that causes rheumatism. In this way sufferers have found complete recovery as is shown by the following case: Mrs. Samuel Childhouse, Orillia, Ont., says: "About three years ago I was greatly afflicted with a severe pain in the back, which I thought at first was due to kidney trouble. I tried a number of remedies but they did not help me any, in fact the pain was growing worse, and got so bad that I was quite unable to do my housework. I could not even sweep a floor. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I am glad I acted upon the advice, for before I had been taking the Pills long the pain began to subside, and under the continued use disappeared entirely, and I have not since been bothered with it in any way. My husband was also cured of a severe attack of indigestion by this same medicine so that we both have much reason to be grateful for it."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

British casualties from the beginning of the war to Oct. 9 were 493,294. His Majesty the King was thrown from his horse and was severely bruised. He is resting quietly.

Seattle police believe German agents set on fire a warehouse and pier filled with war supplies for Russia.

Free wheat is the one great need of the west at present, said Hon. Walter Scott, Premier of Saskatchewan.

One Russian army has reported in five months the capture of 103,000 Germans, 65 guns and 445 machine guns. The enemy, in his five months' drive on Russia, has lost 550,000 men. Over 50,000 were lost in the Pripet marshes.

A fifth French-Canadian battalion has been authorized at Sherbrooke, another Highland battalion at Saskatoon, and a county battalion at North Bay.

Athens and London say Rumania, being promised part of Bessarabia, will allow Russian troops to cross her territory. Greece may also join the Allies.

The Canadian Red Cross Society has decided to duplicate the fifty motor ambulances which were lost when a British ship was torpedoed by the Germans.

Ontario's gift of machine guns is being made, Provincial Government officials say, but private subscriptions may be used for another purpose owing to inability to secure guns.

The 80th Battalion, now in Barriefield Camp, will be distributed for the winter in Belleville, Picton and Napanee. If the 59th Battalion does not go overseas this fall it will likely be retained in Kingston.

Politics and the middlemen are to disappear from the munitions contracts given to Canadian manufacturers by the British Government. This decision has been reached through the intervention of the British diplomats. D. A. Thomas, the personal representative of Lloyd-George, has not been working in vain.—Kingston Whig.

Capt. G. Gordon Lewis of the 87th Battalion, Grenadier Guards, under command of Brigadier-General F. S. Meighen, of Montreal, was in town one day last week. This new all Canadian regiment is to consist of picked men, all to be over 5 feet 5 inches and with good chest measurement. Capt. Lewis does not think there will be any trouble in obtaining all the men required to make up this crack regiment.
