EDWARD BLAKE

Baseless Story Regarding His Leaving the Nationalist Party Denied.

London, March 7 .- The story regarding Hon. Edward Blake, which was cabled to a Montreal paper on Feb. 20, to the effect that he was returning to take part in Canadian public life, is altogether devoid of foundation.

Mr. Blake is not leaving the Nationalist party; he has not fixed a time for a permanent return to Canada; he has no appeals from Canadian Liberals to return to Canada for the purpose of "reorganizing the Liberal party."

A SECESSION

Lord Claud John Hamilton Leaves the Conservative Party.

London, March 7.-Lord Claude John Hamilton, chairman of the Great Eastern Railway, and brother of Lord George Hamilton, secretary of state for India, has ruffled the political waters by suddenly seceding from the Conservative party. In an open letter of explanation he asserts that while the foreign and colonial policy of the government has his entire approval, its fiscal policy, home legislation and continual attacks upon property and capital are "beneath contempt." Therefore, he says, he can no longer support the administration. Lord Claude Hamilton, who is the second son of the first Duke of Abercorn and Lady Louisa Russell, the second daughter of the Duke of Bedford, represented Londonderry in the Conservative interest in the House of Commons from 1865; King's Lynn from 1869 to 1880, and Liverpool from 1880 to 1888. In 1886 he was a lord of the treasury.

As chairman of one of the principal railway companies his secession was largely dictated by opposition to the automatic couplings bill, which involves what he considers a superfluous capital expenditure on railways. Nevertheless, his action is very disagreeable to the government.

The Standard, commenting editorialupon the secession of Lord Claude Hamilton from the Conservative party, "It cannot be denied that he gives expression to a sentiment which does exist among a section of Lord Salisbury's followers."

Fifty-Four Persons Killed in Sunday's Disaster,

Rejection of Italy's Request. Official Version of the Muscat Incident -The Queen of Belgium's Condition Improved.

Paris, March 7.-The deaths resulting from the Toulon explosion of Sunday morning number 54, and 130 persons were injured. The reports that the guard being killed. catastrophe was the result of a crime are renewed. The Petit Journal asserts that a fuse five feet long has been found in the ruins of the magazine. M. Lockroy, minister of marine, in the course of an interview had with him by a representative of the Gaulois, said that none of the theories advanced was admissible. "Imprudence on the part of the personnel," he added, "was impossible, as the explosions occurred several hours after the gates had been NEGOTIATIONS BROKEN OFF. The London Times publishes the following dispatch from Shanghai: The British, American and German consuls today (Monday) declined to hold further negotiations with the taotai of Shanghai on the question of the exhe Hospital staff during the summer tension of the foreign settlement, owing to the evasive and obstructive tactics months will please apply to R. Lewis, to which he has resorted. They will dedeputy to arrange the matter.

The Pekin correspondent of the Times says: The Tsung Li Yamen's rejection of Italy's demands was couched in studiously contemptuous and minatory tones. I find that the French minister, a fortnight ago, warned the Tsung Li Yamen that Italy was about to present a demand, and counseled its rejection. Signor Marteno's dispatch used the very words, "sphere of influence," which, owing to difficulty in the translation, were rendered "protectorate" in Chinese.

Owing to the insulting manner in which the Chinese Government has refused the request of the Italian Government, the Italian minister declines to hold direct communication with the Tsung Li Yamen.

THE MUSCAT INCIDENT. Paris, March 7 .- In the chamber of deputies M. Brunet, Progressive Republican, questioned the government on the Muscat incident. The minister of foreign affairs, M. Delcasse, declared that the facts were that the British residents summoned the sultan to withdraw a concession to France of a coal depot on a creek near Muscat. The sultan thereupon asked France to return the deed of the concession, and France refused. The sultan then cancelled the concession. Great Britain, however, quickly admitted France's right to the coal depot, and expressed deep regret at the incident. France thus obtained prompt and complete satisfaction, and the incident was considered closed. The foreign minister corroborated the statement that negotiations were proceeding between France and Great Britain for a delimitation of the African frontier "in a sincere spirit of conciliation and with the view of reaching an arrangement which will guarantee a lasting understanding between the two countries." SPAIN SELLING ISLANDS. confirmation of the reports that negotiations are taking place between Madrid and Berlin for the sale to Germany of the Caroline, Pelew, and Ladrone Islands.

STORMY SESSIONS.

Madrid. March 7 .- The initial appearance in the senate of Senor Silvela. the premier, was marked by a somewhat stormy session. He attempted to read the decree of dissolution, and Count d'Almenas attempted to talk, but his voice was drowned by cries of "Conspuez!" The president of the house vainly endeavored to quell the disturbance, but finally the premier fin-ished. The session was declared closed amid an uproar. There were similar scenes in the chamber of deputies, and shouts of "Down with the Jesuand cheers for the republic and for liberty. Gen. Otis Will Wage Offensive War on the Rebels - 41,000 Men Will Soon Be Ready to Help Him and Dewey.

Manila, March 7-11:25 a.m.-At daylight this morning the enemy was discovered trying to mount a gun across the river from San Pedro, and the Sixth Artillery promptly shelled the rebel battery, temporarily stopping work, the enemy poured a fusillade of musketry across the river, but the gunboat moved up and cleared the banks of the river with rapid-fire

All was quiet during the night. Postoffices have been established at Negros. Cebu and Iloilo, and the clerks left yesterday for their respective posts by the steamer Espana. 2:50 p.m.—While the rebels had concentrated their forces with the evident purpose of attacking the waterworks, no direct attempt was made to capture the American position there. Detachments from Gen Hale's and Gen. Wheaton's brigades cleared the country today.

AMBUSHED.

Manila, March 7.-The rebels have been concentrating in the vicinity of the reservoir. A patrol of Company G, Second Oregon Volunteers, was taken in ambush. Two men were wounded, but the Oregonians held their ground under the heavy fire until the remainder of the company, assisted by two companies of the First Nebraska Regiment, flanked the enemy, killing 30 and wounding several more. All the native huts have been destroyed at Mariquina.

MEANS BUSINESS.

Washington, March 7.-There is some reason to expect important news from Manila within the next fortnight. is said Gen. Otis has practically completed plans for a grand onslaught on the insurgents, which is expected to deprive them of offensive power at least. It is probable that he will form a large part of his force into columns, as soon as his reinforcements are all at hand, and will push these in parallel lines straight through the jungles, clearing out the insurgents in every direction as the troops go forward. The American troops are getting restless and nervous under the sharpshooting of the Filipinos, and are so anxious to put a stop to it that Gen. Otis has yielded to their desire. 41,000 TO HELP DEWEY. Forty-one thousand officers and men of the combined army and navy forces comprise the approximate total American strength now at, en route and under orders for service at the Philippine Islands. Nineteen vessels with an aggregate of 297 officers, 2,990 men and 253 marines make up the naval contingent. This is exclusive of the transport Solace, with 162 officers and men all told, which is constantly passing back and forth from Manila.

There are about 4,800 army reinforcements on the way to Manila, making as rapid progress as possible, and there are, roughly, 7,500 men in the force under orders to proceed to the Philippines. Madrid, March 7 .- There is apparent THE PHILIPPINES COMMISSION.

New York, March 7.-A dispatch from Washington says: Renewed interest in the situation in the Philippines is awakened by the establishment at Manila of the civilian members of the commission which has been designated by the president to represent him in the archipelago. The military government of the islands under Gen. Otis will be continued without interference until congress makes other provisions, and the commission's powers, while important, are largely advisory. Jacob G. Schurman, Rear-Admiral George Dewey, Major-Gen. Elwell S. Otis, Charles Denby and Dean C. Worcester constitute the commission.

Washington, March 7 .- The body of Lord Herschell was taken to New York last night, whence it is to be taken to England on the British cruiser Talbot. Arrangements have been made for a guard of honor from the Brooklyn Navy Yards and proper salutes when the Talbot sails. The following message from Queen Victoria to the president has been received at the executive mansion:

"Windsor, March 6.—The president Berlin, March 7.—A high official of of the United States: I thank you the German navy department says the sincerely and the American nation for appointment of Prince Henry of Prusthe honors paid to the memory of sia, brother of Emperor William, to Lord Herschell, and for the friendly the command of the East Atlantic sympathy shown to my country in its squadron, was decided upon because bereavement. On Wednesday morning Mrs. Charles Bean, of the fourth concession of Mc-Gillivray, was in Clandeboye shopping, and apparently in the pest of health, but before daylight had gone she was dead. The deceased was the wife of Charles Bean, a well-known farmer, and was 59 years of age. Her sudden demise came as a terrible shock to her relatives and friends. In the evening she went to the barn to milk the cows, when she was suddenly taken ill and before a doctor could be summoned she was dead. Death was caused from heart disease. troubles last night. He had not forgotten the reply the head nurse at the city hospital made him when he asked her about a certain time he saw her going to Lawyer Purdom's office, and he told the council about it. The council proved excellent consolers. With a few exceptions, the city fathers were unit- willing to sustain the mayor, but I ed in their protests against the rebuil think it would have become the honor to their chief magnate, and a resolution was passed expressing their indignation over the matter. [The young lady had told the mayor that what he asked about "was none of his business."]

There were several other matters, more or less important, handled at last night's session also. Among them was the passing of a motion to apply to the legislature for permission to issue de-bentures amounting to $10,000 if the agreement with the county is ratified, and $25,000 if it is not, for the completion of the Victoria Hospital. Some of the contracts for the board of works' supplies were not ratified by the council, as the committee had recommended. All the members but Ald. Wilkey were present. The meeting adourned at 12:30. It was a choice between Ald. Jolly's motion re permanent improvements and adjournment. It was decided to hold a special meeting next Monday night to consider the permanent improvement question.

THE MAYOR'S COMPLAINT. When all the written communications had been disposed of, the mayor said: "I, as your representative on the hospital trust, have a communication to make. When I was at Toronto on the hospital deputation, I was told by Mr. Thomas H. Purdom that it was very doubtful if I was a member of the hospital trust, and I judge from subsequent actions that he and others are of the opinion I am not. At the meeting of the trust last Friday, I asked a simple question of the head nursewanted to fix a date, and I asked if it was the day that she went to Mr. Purdom's office-and she told me that it was none of my business. I want to know before going back to the trust hether I am or not a member.' Ald. McPhillips was the first to take up the cudgels in the mayor's behalf. "That is a matter that does not require discussion. Anyone knows,' said, and his voice fairly bulged with conviction, "that you are a member de

But Ald. McPhillips would have acted too summarily for Ald. Jolly's part of the programme. Ald. Jolly had a motion—a long one—ready for the oc-casion. The mayor's communication had not come as a surprise to at least one member of the board. The way Ald. Jolly was prepared to act upon it was as follows:

"That having learned of the gross insult offered his Worship Mayor Wilson, chief magistrate of the city of London, by an employe under con-trol of the board of hospital trustees, at a recent meeting held by said board of trustees, we, the members of the city council, feel indignant that the members of the hospital trust should allow the said employe under their control to speak to his worship, one of the members of the said trust, in such an unladylike manner, without reprimand from said hospital trust; and that we consider his Worship Mayor Wilson is the legal representative from the council on the board of hospital trustees, and we urgently request his worship to continue to represent the city council on the board of hospital trustees: and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the chairman of the hospital trust." Ald. McPhillips again showed his willingness to uphold the mayor's dignity. 'I will support that motion," he said, if Ald. Jolly will add the request that that carticular nurse apologize to his worship.

Ald, Plant objected. He wanted to know more about the affair. It was something which they could not decide so hastily. People sometimes asked questions not bearing on the facts under consideration, and an answer could be expected accordingly. From what he had learned of the matter. Ald. Plant believed that it was not in the best interest of the community to take any such notice of the incident,
Ald. Jolly—Suppose Ald. Plant were at the head of a large company, and asked a question of one of his employes, and were told it was none of his business, would he think it right that any employe should give such an answer? The mayor has been grossly insulted, and I think the council should make a motion of indignation.

Ald. Garratt was extremely wrathful. Not only did he feel it was an indig-nity to the mayor, but also to himself. "When I read the account in the pa-pers, I felt it like a knife," he said. The mayor should have had her dismisssed on the spot. Who were paying the hospital trust? The citizens were. The council represented the citizens, and the mayor was the chief magnate of the council. An insult to him was an insult to all citizens. Thus Ald. Gar-ratt justified that "knifelike" feeling. Ald. McPhillips has a way of looking on the bright side of things. "It was a good job," he said, in his accustomed Mayor Wilson's Reference to the tone, so pleasantly convincing, "that that employe was a lady and not a man, or he would have gone out of the front door or the back."

Ald. Pritchard tried to express his indignation, caused by the insult to the movement of the property of the movement of the movement.

the mayor and the citizens generally. But with the effort his indignation seemed to increase, and at last he had to admit that he "couldn't use language strong enough for his purpose." Undaunted by Ald. Pritchard's failure, Ald. Douglass rose to give vent to his feelings of indignation. The mayor had been insulted, he said, and not only for $25,000 if It Does Not Go Through

Ald. Greenlees—It seems to me that we are making a mountain out of a The mayor told the city council his tion asked by the mayor, nor his demeanor. I don't know the exact question asked by the mayor, nor his demeanor. I don't know the exact reply made by the nurse, nor her demeanor. I am not ready to condemn the lady in the wholesale and hearty manner mentioned in the resolution. It all depends upon the circumstances of the case. If the mayor asked this young lady a question bordering on the impertinent, then it cannot be wondered at that she retorted in a like manner. I am quite and dignity of the council to have let the matter go. So far as an expression of opinion upon the mayor being a member of the hospital trust, I am quite ready to say that I think he is. The mayor recounted for Ald. Green-lees' benefit the circumstances which gave rise to the "insult," and added: 'If you expect me to put up with that sort of thing, I cannot represent you on the trust."

Ald. Rumball called attention to the folly of putting a rider to the motion about apologizing. If the nurse refused to apologize, what sort of a fix would the council be in? he asked. "I wouldn't have a rider on," said the mayor, hastily.

Ald. Carrothers said that any young lady who would insult the chief magistrate of the city and not apologize for it, was not fit to be head nurse of the city hospital.

Ald. O'Meara told a good story. It was of Dean Swift, who said that Englishmen, when they went to Ireland, soon became more Irish than the Irish. There were some people, said Ald. O'Meara, who when they were made officials became more saucy

But Ald. O'Meara stopped short in the application of his illustration. Ald. Jolly's resolution was adopted, eleven aldermen voting for it. The yeas and nays were not called.

A petition signed by 100 residents in the vicinity of the drill shed aske the council to communicate with the minister of militia and defense, and point out that the extension of the drill shed to the street line west, as proposed, would be a distinct injury to adjacent property. Dr. Roome and Mr. Thomas Coffey spoke in behalf of the petitioners. They felt that an injustice would be done them if the extensions were made. The residents were.not, said Dr. Roome, asking that the drill shed be removed, although they believed it would have been in the interest of the city if it had been removed some time ago.

Ald. Winnett and Ald. O'Meara wanted to send the petition to the minister, but Ald. Greenlees wanted further information on the matter. Whether or not the extension would be unsightly, would depend upon the style of a building. There were also other facts to be considered, he said, and he favored referring the matter to No. 2 committee. Ald. Graham said the commandant of the Seventh should be consulted before action was taken. The matter was referred to No. 2 committee, and meanwhile the government will be asked to defer action until the council is heard from. AT THE WRONG PLACE.

No. 3 committee wanted John Murphy's account for services as market constable filed, the appointment having been made by Ald. Carrothers during his membership on the board of health. Several of the aldermen voted to pay the account, but it was finally referred to the board of health.

The appointment of an extra fireman was laid over until the north end hall is considered. NUMBER TWO COMMITTEE.

ANOTHER VICTORY. The Forest City curling club added another victory last night to the lengthy list of winnings by defeating the London club in a contest for the Carling gold medal. Out of 21 games, Forest City this year has been defeated only twice, once in Detroit in the match for the Cadillac medal, and once by Thamesville in the contest for the Walker trophy. THREE STRAIGHT DEFEATS. The "famous" National kickers, of Guelph, received a drubbing at the hands of the Frontenacs, of Kingston, last night. The aggregation from Guelph were never in the game after play had been resumed in the second half. Kingston found them "dead easy." The "famous" Nationals' two-years' reputation is receiving some hard knocks. They imagined that they were the only genuine hockey team on earth until they met their superiors in the London boys. What a sad tale to be repeated in Guelph. Three straight defeats in so short a time! Will those poor sports of the Royal City survive the shock? The Frontenacs may expect a protest in about two days. It is reported that the Guelph aggregation are offering the badges and streamers inscribed "We win our games on ice" to Kingston or London very cheap. The caboose and three freight cars were derailed, and pretty badly smashed up, and engine No. 331 also received more or less damage. Conductor T. Mann and Brakeman M. Jones, of Sarnia, who were in the caboose at the time, were pretty badly bruised and shaken up, but fortunately were not seriously injured. Enginee Yallop and his fireman escaped without any mishaps.

The injured men, Conductor Mann and Brakeman Jones, were brought to Sarnia and attended to. The accident was caused, no doubt, by the freight train not making as good headway as was expected, and the light engine being able to run at a much higher rate of speed. Not only that, but in such a snowstorm as was raging at the time, an object could not be seen 25 yards away. The telegraph wires were blown down, and the news of the accident could not be forwarded with dispatch, and trainmen on the road could not be notified that there was a smashup. Shortly after the light engine had crashed into the caboose of train No. 293, a heavy freight train, in charge of Engineer Carruthers, came along, and before it could be stopped, had crashed into the tender of engine No. 331. The tender of the above engine was somewhat damaged, and the pilot of Driver Carruthers' engine was taken off. Before the auxiliary arrived on the scene the wreck caught fire, and the caboose and one freight car were burned.

The Last of a Terrible Domestic Tragedy.

A dispatch from Ottawa announces that his Excellency the Governor-General-in-Council has refused to intervene in the case of Cordelia Vicau and Sam Parslow, now under sentence of death in the prison at St. Scholastique, and that the sentence of the court will be carried out on both prisoners on Fri-

The crime of which the condemned man and woman were found guilty was one of the most revolting in the homicidal annals. Cordelia Vieau, the Isidore Poirier, who had a good reputahad in his employ from time to time a if the prospects were bright to send back for his wife. Before he went, there had been some talk about the conduct of his wife and Parslow, and while he was gone the parish priest wrote to him that he should either come back or send for her. The assumption of the neighbors, from the conduct of the couple, was that they were illicit lovers, and it is apparent that the priest also had his suspicions. Poirier came back, but he refused to believe that his wife was not the faithful woman that at the altar she had pledged herself to be. He therefore again took Sam Parslow into his employ, and in the week prior to Sunday, Nov. 21, on the afternoon of which the murder was committed, the two men were working together on a church about nine miles from their home in the hamlet of St. Canute. Before this, however, the condemned woman had been in the habit of calling for Sam Parslow, and has been made out. unknown to her husband took him driving. She told her intimate female acquaintances that Sam Parslow was one of her beaux. It was also shown at the trial that the two prisoners, committed, made wills in favor of each other. The murdered man had his life insured for $1,000 at the instance of his wife, and much against his will, she arranged a short time before the crime be increased to $2,000, she herself conmoney would be paid if her husband result of crime, or if he died of poison or by violent means. It was proved at the trial that the woman, but a few days before the murder, spoke even to strangers about her husband as if she disliked and despised him. She called him a good-for-nothing, a drunkard, and a loafer. These epithets were wholly unwarranted, as Poirier was

On the day of the murder, Poirier and his wife and Sam Parslow were at mass, as usual, in the parish church, Cordelia Vieau (Mrs. Poirier) presiding at the organ, and Sam singing in the choir. That afternoon, Poirier was murdered. After committing the deed, the guilty pair separated, but both met again, as usual, in the choir, and the murderess played the organ, and her guilty associate sang with his wonted fervor. Next morning, too, this woman of nerve again went to the church, having spent the night at her father's house in the neighborhood, and officiating at a wedding, playing the wedding march as if nothing had happened. Then she aided in breaking in a window in her home, and in making the discovery that her husband was influential petition in favor of Dolying cold and stiff on the floor of the house, with his head almost severed from his body, and half a dozen ugly wounds on other parts of his person. For a day or two the theory of suicide got abroad, and it was eagerly promoted by both the guilty pairperhaps with too much eagerness, in view of their previous behavior; for no sooner did detectives set on foot inquiries and view the remains than they came to the conclusion that the accused had been assassinated. Both Cordelia Vieau and her associate in crime were accordingly arrested on suspicion, and as is usual after such atrocities, each was afraid the other would be the first to confess. The woman was especially eager to have Parslow exonerate her. Placed where they could talk, she whispered to Parslow, "Say I was not there, Sam." Both to the detective who arrested her, and to the sheriff who had charge of the jail in which she was confined, Cordelia Vicau made confession of her share in the crime. She alleged that as her husband lay the nurses. sleeping in bed, she and Sam entered, and that Sam attacked him, and killed him. The male assassin, on his part, says that he stabbed Poirier at the woman's request, and that he went out immediately afterwards. Neither of the two prisoners have publicly confessed to the severing of the head from the body. The doctors say this cutting was deliberately done with the butcher-knife used by the murderers, as if to make went back, and finding life in the body-discovering the victim trying to stand up, in fact-seized the knife, and practically cut off his head, every muscle and artery, except the vertebral column, being severed. From these confessions there can be no doubt that both the prisoners had a hand in it, though both may not have been equally culpable.

It is this shocking crime which Cordelia Vieau and Sam Parslow will be called upon to explate on the gallows on Friday next. It can not be doubted months been urging him to commit it, and that he refrained until the woman hypnotized him, and so binding him under her influence, compelled him to aid her in the atrocity. Here we have the old excuse made by the male first parent of the race: "The woman tempted me." Cordelia Vieau had two trials, certain evidence in the first trial having been admitted that ought not to have been received. But on each occasion the jury found her guilty. Parsdaughter of a well-to-do farmer in the low was tried but once, and the jury parish of St. Canute, Quebec, married refused, and rightly so, to take any stock in his plea, that the woman was tion as a carpenter and builder. He his hypnotizer. Even though it were true that Cordelia Vieau was all that young man named Sam Parslow. Poir- Parslow's defenders say she is-and ler went to California about three her share in this terrible crime was years ago, to try his fortune, intending bad enough, in all conscience—that would be no extenuation of Sam Parslow's conduct. He was well aware of the monstrous nature of the crime in which he was a willing participant, and his fate could not fairly have been other than it is.

Fortunate it is for the reputation of the Dominion that crimes of this nature are comparatively rare. That the can be no doubt. There has been, we He 'low he'll sen' a blizzard den, are glad to observe, no clamor from the neighboring province for the commutation of the woman's sentence on the ground that she is a woman, and but few have heeded her confederate's excuses. On the other hand, there has been a just recognition on all hands of the fact that there is no sex in crime, and the Minister of Justice, after full consideration of all the circumstances in the case, has rightly coincided in this view, and has recommended to his Excellency that no case for the extension of the clemency of the Crown

The Council on Its Dignity.

The City Council last night rose in its majesty and might. The clergy about a year before the murder was during last week had been asking prayers for it. Some of the aldermen had been openly charged with disgraceful conduct. It was natural that such a high-spirited body should take was committed, that the sum should the first occasion to assert its dignity. This it did last night. How? By cenducting all the negotiations. Then she suring the offending members and so was very anxious to know from the wiping out the reproach? Not a bit insurance agents whether or not the of it. That might have involved an attack on one or two men. It was much was killed either by accident, or as a safer to attack a woman. The mayor imagined a slight had been put upon him by the head nurse of the hospital. The majority of the council thereupon dutifully burned with indignation. It was a touching exhibition of loyalty to the chief magistrate. Such rare chivalry, too. They were altogether self-sacrificing. They did not whimper when clergymen held them up to public reprobation, but when his a decent, hard-working man. To a worship the mayor fancied his dignity young lady who was about to get marhad been ruffled, they throbbed with ried, she said: "If ever you get marwounded sensibility. They were "indigried, marry a man for love; one is too nant." They were "grossly insulted." unhappy with a man one does not They wanted to dismiss the nurse.

The aldermen may rest assured that the community is not at all disturbed because of the suppositious slight on its official head. Most people would say that the head nurse did perfectly right in resenting an impertinence, that the Hospital Trust did a manly thing in upholding her. In fact, the whole proceeding of the City Council was childish in the extreme, and unworthy of grown-up men. If they are so sensitive on the score of dignity, there is another vay in which they can show it. The clergymen will

School Board Tonight.

The proper thing tonight for the School Board to do with the large and mestic Science, is to appoint a fair and capable special committee to bring in a report; or, if its members cannot agree, a majority and minority report. If it is a good thing and practicable as well, that can be demonstrated. If it is not a good thing, and not practicable, that also can be shown. It is certainly not a matter for personal feeling or prejudgment. Let the project be discussed in all its aspects, and an intelligent report presented. Is the proposed study practicable? If not, why not? If not practicable to the full extent proposed, to what extent is it practicable? A careful finding, after careful consideration, is the least that an intelligent board owes to an intelligent community.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE

A Few Replies to Objections.

A few replies to questions asked concerning the petition which will shortly be presented to the board of education:

COOKING AND HOUSEWIFERY. Domestic science is more than mere cooking and sewing, although, for the by asphyxiation by gas the police would sake of brevity, those terms are more generally used.

It is the knowledge of how to keep a house healthy, orderly and comfortable, with the least possible expenditure of time, labor and money, so that a girl taking this course may be able to make her father's or her husband's wages go much farther than she otherwise could Domestic science develops executive ability, promptness to meet emergencies, and to achieve good results, even if the resources be but very limited, whilst it insists upon cleanliness, neatness and economy in the use of all material, and in the preparation of every kind of food. Domestic science teaches not only how to cook, but what to cook, to suit the various needs of the system, and what quality and quantity of food to purchase to meet the daily requirements of the family.

SEWING. In asking for sewing as part of the course in domestic science in the public schools, we seek to continue the valuable finger-training which our children have already had in our admirable kindergarten department, and which otherwise is liable to be wholly forgotten by them. The various stitches, hemming, stitching, gathering, patching, buttonholing, etc., will be taught, and specimens of the child's work kept to encourage neatness and skill, until perfection is reached. The plea for domestic science which the petition urges, is a plea on behalf of our girls, for whom no special training is provided, although it would be about as reasonable to suppose that a man can be born a lawyer, a doctor, or a merchant, as that a girl, merely because she is a girl, should be born a housekeeper or a cook. The man who earns the wages must understand his business, and so should the wife know how to economically control those wages when given into her charge for home support. A practical training in the school before the girl takes upon herself the responsibilities of a housekeeper and homemaker, will save her from much injudicious outlay, and from possible recrimination, if not positive disaster in the future.

It is also contended that the present system of education for boys and girls alike tends to the overcrowding of the professions, and girls are blamed for taking the places of men in offices and stores. How can it be otherwise, when the girls have not only had no special training for home duties, but who leave the public school with a positive distaste for them?

The probable cost of introducing domestic science has been greatly exag-gerated. The sum which will be asked for in the estimates, $1,500, will provide the rent of at least one fully equipped cooking class-room, should the school board find it impossible to allot space in one of the schools, in which case there will be no rent to pay. It will provide salaries for the teacher and her assistant, the former being the principal instructor and supervisor over both departments. It will meet the outlay for material. much of which may, as in the case of schools elsewhere, be met by the sale at cost price of the articles prepared and cooked at the class. In Montreal, the teachers are glad to have a wellcooked, warm dinner, at 10 cents each, and the parents let the children bring home dishes they have prepared during the lesson. The cost of material required for the instruction of the children in sewing is very small-averagaging less than 17 cents per child per annum. To introduce domestic science into the curriculum could be easily ar-

A STRANGE STORY

Of How Magdalene Dorn Died in New York-The Narrator Arrested.

New York, N. Y., March 6. - Miss Magdalen Dorn, twenty years old, of No. 1,505 Avenue A, died last night in a room occupied by James J. Connolly, at No. 211 West Eighty-second avenue, under circumstances so suspicious that Connolly was locked up, pending an investigation by the coroner. Connolly called at the home of Dr. Brickner, and urged him to accompany him at once to his room to attend a young woman who he said had fallen seriously ill while visiting him.

Dr. Brickner found Miss Dorn lying on the bed dead. Gas was flowing from two gas-jets, Connolly seeming greatly agitated, and explained that the young woman had been visiting him, and was suddenly taken ill. He left at once to go for the doctor. He says she must have turned on the gas during his absence. Whether death was caused not say.

Connolly said that he and Miss Dorn were soon to have been married, and he was showing her his undertaking establishment and the rooms overhead, which were to have been their home, when she was taken ill, as told above.

Second Floor.

In Floor Coverings, Curtains, Curtain Poles, Window Shades, etc., you'li find patterns here in fresh new goods that appeal to your taste, however refined—to your means, however small. As a matter of course one gets most for their money where things are new-coming and going every day, where designs are better and prices least for standard goods. As our capacity in this department will not permit us to enter into all the different grades of high class goods, we therefore confine ourselves to the more medium grades. And so with extensive research and careful selection at the manufacturing centers has resulted in a collection of beautiful new Floor Coverings and Draperies, Rugs, Curtains, etc., far beyond the large successes that have marked our past. These few hints show the trend of values:

A TRUE STATEMENT

By Foreman White, or the Hamilton Screw Works.

Hamilton, March 6 .- If a vote of the people were to be taken to ascertain which is the most popular medicine on the market, Dodd's Kidney Pills would lead by a large majority.

One of the latest cures by that grand remedy is that of Foreman T. H. White, of the Screw Works here, who testifies that he was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills of Kidney Disease of eight years' standing, after other medicines had failed.

Mr. White says: "One box of Dodd's Kidney Pills relieved me, four boxes cured me. Publish this statement if you wish. It is true in every particular.'

GENERAL HOSPITAL

For His Wounded Feelings, the Mayor Has Only Himself to Blame.

The Free Press is lately very much exercised over the general hospital and the woes of Mayor Wilson.

That Mayor Wilson was told in reply to a question put by him to Miss Lind, the lady superintendent, that it was "none of his business," appears to have carved him to the heart, and through the Free Press he wails because the trustees unanimously approved of it by

The facts are that Mayor Wilson, at the previous meeting, made statements which induced the trustees to sanction the appointment of a graduate nurse to assist at the hospital; chief among his statements being that the head nurse was working from sixteen to eighteen hours a day, and that Miss Murray, one of the nurses, was staggering at her work through weakness. As soon as the lady superintendent heard of the intention to appoint a graduate nurse, she protested that one was not needed, and that there was no sleeping accommodation. The chairman, by letter, the next day, deferred the appointment till the next meeting.

At that meeting all the trustees were present. The lady superintendent denied that such a nurse was needed. Miss Murray said she was in better health than when Dr. Wilson had himself examined her upon her application to become a nurse. Why did not Dr. Wilson accept the statements made by these ladies? What motive could he have had in attempting to discredit Miss Lind? Why accuse by instnuation Col. Lewis of ante-dating the letter deferring the appointment for only two weeks? The mayor's conduct cannot be justified either at that meeting or the previous one. Even if the state-ments made by him at the previous meeting had been substantially true, he should, in view of their statements to the contrary, and of the utterly trivial nature of the matter of a twoweeks' postponement of the appoint-ment of a nurse, have at once accepted them; and if his statements were not correct, and if he was attempting to browbeat these ladies into admissions which they did not desire to make, our readers can judge how little justifica-tion there was for his conduct. It would be as improper as his insinuation that Col. Lewis, the chairman, had inserted an untruthful date in the let-It was after this insinuationafter he had asked a question implying that the date of the letter was not the true date, asking if that was the day he saw her going to Mr. Purdom's office; after he had refused to accept as truth statements made by both the

she did not think it was any of his business. What the rest of the members of the trust thought was expressed in a resolution unanimously passed after the mayor had left in high dudgeon. This resolution approved of the conduct of the chairman in deferring the appoint-lady superintendent and Miss Murray—that the lady superintendent told him ment, and rescinded the resolution. That Mayor Wilson's pride has been wounded is his own fault. Miss Lind would have been justified in giving him a sharper answer at an earlier time. That she did not do so is creditable to her, and it is to be hoped that this experience will teach Mayor Wilson to respect the rights of others.

AMUSEMENTS

WONDERFUL ROSENTHAL At the first concert of Moriz Rosenthal, the King of Pianists, the crowd was so great that the sale of tickets had to be stopped, a thing which has not happened at a piano recital since the days of Rubenstein. After the playing of each number the audience cheered and waved handkerchiefs. Sometimes his playing borders on the

"No; but Oi like to shmoke," retorts Policeman Michael Mulcahy, who furnishes no little amusement in "The Sleeping City," which will be seen at the Grand (matinee and night) tomorrow. This is a realistic four-act comedy-drama, intensely human and powerfully written, with a plot of thrilling interest, rich dramatic incident and original humor, necessitating a cast of more than ordinary ability, which requirement is amply met in the company that Manager A. Q. Scammon has provided. Dullness holds no place any scene in "The Sleeping City," and its parts are adjusted in an artistic manner. THE BANDA ROSSA.

That matchless concert band, the famous Banda Rossa, known commonly as the Imperial Red Band of Italy, and composed of 50 master musicians, under the leadership of the great Sorrentino, will give one of their superb concerts at the Grand on Thursday. The band is without question the best concert band that has ever been heard in this country, and is now making its second tour of America, traveling on one of the finest special trains that human ingenuity could devise, and, so James McShane has been appointed far, the tour has been one continual postmaster, in succession to Mr. Danwhere has been that this is the greatest concert band on earth. The impression that the band creates is like that of hearing an orchestra of Titans amid the vast remoteness of nature, so large and yet so fine is the tone and color given to the works of the great masters. The rich body of tone produced by these 50 master musicians, of whom every man is a soloist: the excellent ensemble work, the precision and the other characteristic features, give the band a special distinction, and the pe-culiar combinations and varieties of instruments produce a sweetness, richness and mellow tone never before heard in a military band. Popular prices will prevail-25 cents to $1. one who enjoys good music perfectly rendered, can afford to miss the rare treat that this concert will offer.

G. T. R. OBJECTS.

Toronto, March 7 .- Messrs. Wainwright, Biggar and B. B. Osler, representing the G. T. R., also waited upon the government with reference to the clause taxing the railways, which does not meet with the approval of that railway. The ground upon which the objection is based is that many of the roads operated by the G. T. R. were originally constructed as pioneer or colonization roads in new districts, and that they never have and do not now pay, but are operated at a loss. The company contends that these roads should not be taxed under the circum stances.

The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment, it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Parmlee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convey the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with indigestion. Itinerant knife-grinders say business is best when things are dull. Catarrh and Hay Fever.

If it's Hay Fever that is the bugbear of your life, you won't know the pleasure of freedom from it till you've tried Dr. Chase's Catarrh Cure.

The lawyer earns his fee by words, but frequently takes it out in deeds. Why will you allow a cough to lacerate your throat or lungs and run the risk of filling a consumptive's grave, when, by the Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the pain can be allayed and the danger avoided? This syrup is pleasant to the taste, and unsurpassed for releiving, healing and curing the affections of the throat and lungs, coughs, colds, bronchitis, etc.

CITY HALL NOTES

The civic deputation left the city this morning for Toronto with the hospital bill securely packed. Mayor Wilson, Solicitor T. G. Meredith, Ald. Rumball and Ald. Jolly form the London flank of the deputation. Warden Hardy, ex-Warden Elson, County Auditor Stanley, and County Solicitor Purdom, the Middlesex wing. The city representatives left, confidently expecting to accomplish something. It will not be a case of "Turn again, W—n, Lord Mayor of London," the second time, they hope. Ald. Jolly's motion last night provided for a good many contingencies. Fortunately, it was not so comprehensive as when the mover first presented it. The motion was originally to authorize the city's representatives to withdraw the bill if it was amended in any particular. This would have given them power to withdraw the bill if objection were made to the clauses relating to aldermanic representation on the police commission and medical representa-

Swollen Rivers Cause Serious Damage -Fully $1,000,000 Worth of Logs Lost.

Charleston, W. Va., March 7 .- The night was one of discomfort and suffering. The slow falling of the water added to the low temperature made the situation a gloomy one. Many business men were compelled to use boats to seek provisions and fuel. Even the governor was forced to use a boat to go from the executive mansion to his graciousness of his reception. office to the state house. The loss to timbermen up Elk River will be heavy. That river traverses the heaviest logging district of the state. Immense rafts are torn loose, and go rushing down into the Kanawha, sometimes doing heavy damage to coal docks, barges and tipples. The Winifred coal docks are gone with several barges, and an expensive tipple between the east bank and Belmont has been blown away. An almost unprecedented loss follows the breaking up of booms in the Kentucky River. It is estimated that fully one million dollars' worth of logs have been lost at Jacksonville, Beattyville, Valley View and other points. The Lexington and Eastern Railway has been a heavy loser. Above Celay City its tracks were submerged in some places to the depth of five feet, while in some places the tracks were washed awoke this morning to find a March bilzzard blowing thick and strong. Three inches of soggy snow lay upon the ground and fine, damp particles, as dense as a winter fog, in the grasp of a capricious wind that seemed to come fiercely from all directions at once, swept under umbrellas and into pockets and coat collars and made pedestrians extremely uncomfortable. Street traffic was rendered difficult vexing and the river pilots had anything but an easy time. On the bay the wind came mainly from the northeast and the snowfall was so thick that nothing could be seen from shore but an opaque swirling mass of white. It was known, however, that a large fleet of southbound sailing ves-sels had taken alarm at the suspicious look of the barometer yesterday afternoon, and before night set in they had put back and anchored safely inside. The effect of this condition of the weather was emphasized by the sudden transition from a balmy spring aspect with in 24 hours. The fall of the mer-

C., March 7.—After a balmy, bright spring day the people of Washington and vicinity awakened this morning to find the city again clad in a mantle of snow. About three o'clock this morning a blizzard-like snowstorm started, and before nine o'clock the snow was three or four inches on the level, and in places was drifted to a foot or more in depth. The wind was blowing almost a gale. Surprised as well as flattered by such an invitation from a lady who had hitherto treated her with supercilious indifference. Eden had only contrived to stammer something with reference to consulting her mother's wishes, when, with a bend of her stately head, Mrs. Merstham moved on, saying as she went:

"At 8 o'clock, remember, not later." "You walk back to Aldenby with us, don't you Lyss?" asked Capt. Vinson half an hour afterwards, as he was conning his ulster in the hall at the Beeches, and waiting with exemplary carrying her so nicely patience while Major Haliss, Ensign her scarcely at all. "No, don't go with them, Frank," bawled Mr. Stretby. "They are all recreants, and won't stop to dine with me: and I know because I let slip the sad truth that we shall have to put side of the Atlantic.'

"I don't care if I do," said Lyssendon; "but you must let me try first if a few minutes in the air will not carry off a miserable headache. I will keep within hearing of the dinner-

He snatched up his hat and, lighting cigar, lounged away at once. Verna Meradam had detained him beside her carriage with her dark orbs looking into his, her lips dangerously near to his cheek, her voice softened to its tenderest tones, her burning hand resting on his arm. Could he help seeing that she loved him still? That she was eager to atone for the past by becoming his wife, and endowing him with the riches she had received from her first husband? Or could he forget that his mother had hinted how much she wished this, reminding him that he was, and always might be, comparatively a poor man.

What wonder that as he crossed the Aubrey, the chaster image of the young girl esfaced the widow's. Just here Eden had looked up at him with one of the arch smiles that brought into sight the dimples lurking around the mouth. Just here she had flushed into indignant womanhood, when he accosted her in too familiar a fashion: and here-where the path took this abrupt turn- But hark! what sound has scattered his musings, and made him stand still and hold his breath that he may hear v tether it is repeated.

Childish sobs of pain; and then a voice, broken by tears of terror, or perhaps both endeavoring to speak soothingly. Why, surely, that was Eden Aubrey who spoke; and, springing forward, in another minute Frank Lyssendon was standing before her. She was sitting on a fallen tree, holding Lottie in her arms, her own shawl wrapped round the weeping, shivering child; and at the sight of Capt. Lyssendon she uttered such a fervent exclamation, that he comprehended the agony of plarm and nerhended the agony of alarm and per-plexity she had been enduring.

In her haste to reach home and de-scribe to her mother what she had seen, Lottie had insisted on running on before her sister, and, catching her foot in the projecting root of a tree, she had fallen to the ground with such violence that she lay for some minutes quite stunned. Believing her to be dead, the horrified Eden was flying back to the Beeches, when a low moan from the child relieved her of this worst fear. But, though Lottie soon recovered her senses, she had either twisted or broken her ankle, and shrieked so violently, whenever she atsister knew not what to do. The child was too big for Eden to carry, and too timorous to be left; every minute seemed an age to the helpless girls, who knew that no one was likely to come that way until their mother should be sufficiently uneasy at their absence to send to The Beeches, when a search would, of course, be immediately made.

"I could have borne the cold and the long term of waiting," Eden faltered, "if Lottie were not suffering. Oh, Capt. Lyssenden, do you think she is very much hurt?"

"I hope not," he said, kneeling down beside the child, and examining her foot as well as the obscurity permitted. The ankle is very much swollen, but no bones are broken; and, when he had cheered both sisters with this assurance, and converted his handkerchief into a tolerably efficient band-age, he relieved Eden of her burden.

'No more tears, little Lottle," said kindly, as he carefully raised her. 'I am going to carry you home for mamma to cure."

But the movement from her sister's lap to his arms was not effected without so much pain that the delicate and exhausted child fainted; and, as her head dropped on the young officer's

"Have patience, my dear Miss Aubrey," Capt. Lyssendon exclaimed. "De- A Week of Moose-Hunting Prompend on it she has only tainted, and would revive if we had some water, or some smelling-salts. Is there no cot-tage nearer than your own?"

But Eden had now remembered, and produced the flacon of eau-de-Cologne, with which she bathed her sister's temples, sobbing the while so wildly, that how could the susceptible Frank Lyssendon heip doing his utmost to

"I am very glad I was able to be of little use to you," he said, as she faltered her thanks, and permitted him to take both her hands in his. Is there anything else I can do? Anyone I can summon to Mrs. Aubrey's assistance?

"No, no; mamma is so sensible, so experienced; she will not lose her wits like her foolish daughter, and make matters worse by ringing her hands and weeping."

'Poor little Eden! It was a terrible situation for you," was the sympathetic reply. "It was a lucky chance that led me that way. But I must not keep you here. Good-night, good-night."

He rapidly drew the young girl towards him, kissed her cheek, and as quickly released her; Eden, flying back to the cottage, panting with self-reproach that she had not only permitted this caress, but suffered herself to loiter, though it was but for a minlawn, Verna's liquid voice, and Verna's glorious beauty, seemed to hold him in their spell, and make his pulse beat and quiver with feverish heat. But, as half-unconsciously he struck into the path he had followed with Eden was filling her thoughts, and every her naturally loving nature, Eden had was filling her thoughts, and every word he had spoken to her, no matter how trivial, haunted her continually. Did she never ask herself what it would cost her if she discovered that he was only indulging in a passing flirtation? Or did he, on his side, pause to think that there was mischief in their intercourse, and that there might be depths in the girlish nature, and slumbering passions in that young heart, which it might be dangerous to > arouse. We fear not; a soldier's life in time of peace, and especially when he is stationed in an obscure town, far from his friends, is too often an idle one, and any excitement is welcomed. Eden, with her innocent vivacity and bewitching girlish beauty, had stirred him from his ordinary indifference to femnine charms, and it was a longing to see her again more than any real interest in Lottie, that led him to Mrs. Aubrey's on the following morning to

Mrs. Aubrey herself answered his inquiries with a cold politeness, that gave him no encouragement to prolong or repeat his visit. Her little girl was much better; the injury to her ankle would confine her to the sofa for some days, but it was less serious than she had at first apprehended.

Eden did not appear, and as Mrs. Aubrey merely answered his hope that she had not felt any ill-effects from her terrors, with a curt assurance that her daughter was quite well, he bowed him-self out, inclined to think that the self out, inclined to think that the quiet, graceful little woman, who had neither seemed flattered nor obliged by his call of inquiry, had purposely kept pretty Eden out of his way.

But just as he reacced the stile, en route for The Beeches, Eden herself stepped nimbly over it: She carried a small basket in her hand, and the start she gave at the sight of him jerked

The prospect held out by the honorable commissioner that he would probably be able to relax the prohibition of moose-hunting for a week in 1900 will arouse the enthusiasm of sportsmen of all classes, and great will be the preparations for the week's sport should the anticipations be fulfilled. The number of moose has increased immensely in Eastern Ontario.

ELECTRIC RAILWAY BILL. Mr. W. J. Hill has given notice of a bill to amend the electric street railway act, which, if adopted, will materially alter the existing law with respect to the electric railways operating in the province. The first clause of the bill provides that the companies must equip each car with a proper and sufficient fender to prevent any person being run over by the car; fine of $100 per day is payable by the company to the municipal corporation for every day the railway is operated without having proper ground wires provided, and a fine of $10 per day for each car operated without a fender. BICYCLE PATHS.

The last clause, which is the most important, perhaps, provides that unless the municipal corporation has agreed to construct and maintain and keep in repair that portion of the highway over which the railway is carried. the street railway company shall, where the tracks are located on the public highway, keep the space between the rails filled up with cinders or gravel, and the crossings over culverts or ditches bridged and the rails flush with the remaining portion of the highway, and shall maintain such space between the rails at all times in such condition as to be suitable for bicycles; further, that unless the municipality otherwise decided by bylaw, such space is not to be used except by foot passengers and bicyclists.

THE DOUBLE LIABILITY. Mr. Carscallen has given notice that A Disease of Common Ocupon the third reading of the bill to authorize and confirm the deed of agreement between the Toronto General Trusts Company and the Trusts Corporation of Ontario he will move that the following clause be added: "In the event of the property and assets of the said The Toronto General Trusts Corporation being insufficient to pay its debts and liabilities, each shareholder of the said The Toronto General Trusts Corporation shall be liable for the deficiency to an amount equal to the par value of the shares held by him, in addition to any amount not paid up on such shares."

MR. KIPLING

Continues to Improve-Precautions Against Relapse-Josephine's Funeral.

New York, March 7 .- Rudyard Kipling's condition continues to improve. Doubleday, who has been with the author almost constantly since he was prostrated, said early today that the night had been a restful one for Mr. Kipling. The patient, however, is as closely watched as ever, to guard against a possible relapse, to which he will be liable for a fortnight or more. Elsie, Mr. Kipling's 3-year-old daughter, is reported as progressing very favorably, having slept well last night.

Mr. Doubleday, in deference to the wishes of Mrs. Kipling, refused to give any information regarding the arrangements for the funeral of Josephine Kipling. It is the mother's wish that the funeral be private. The child, Mrs. Kipling says, in no sense belonged to the public, and she wishes to avoid having the funeral take on the character of a spectacle.

BREWERS DON'T KICK

On the New License Fee-They Ask Some Privileges-Shop Licenses.

Toronto, March 7 .- Yesterday a deputation representing the brewers waited upon the government in reference to the license bill. Among those who composed the deputation were Messrs. Eugene O'Keefe, Robert Davies, Hume Blake, L. J. Cosgrave and Secretary Kernaghan, Toronto, and Mr. Taylor St. Catharines. The chief object of the visit was to ask the government to insert a clause providing that brewers may sell in wholesale quantities within the municipality where the brewery is situate to other than license-holders. If they are refused this they will in cities suffer a loss of the profit they now derive from the sale to householders of beer in kegs, which, in some cases, forms quite a large item of business. The deputation also discussed not unfavorably the proposed license fee, with which they found no serious fault. They are also not entirely in accord with the clause which provides for a fine of 50 per cent of the duty in cases where the brewer makes an incorrect return under the act. It was pointed out to them, however, that the bill also contains a clause remitting the fine where it is found that the error was not made for the purpose of defrauding the government.

THE LICENSE LAW. Mr. Marter gives notice of a bill to amend the liquor license law. The object is to require a petition signed by two-thirds of the ratepayers in a polling subdivision before granting an application for a shop license. At present such is the law with regard to tavern

Mrs. W. Bennet, Crewson's Corners, Ont., had 3 running sores on the neck. B.B.B. healed them up in 1894.

They have never broken out to this day.

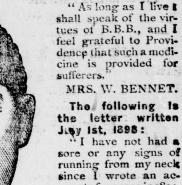

THE story of Mrs. Bennet's cure of Scrofula, is simply another of those remarkable instances where Burdock Blood Bitters has not only been the means of giving relief for the time, but has made a cure, so effective and permanent that after the lapse of five years there has been no sign of the disease returning.

Principal Baker Dissents.

To the Editors of City Papers:

In a petition to be presented to the board of education tonight, it is stated that domestic science is taught in the schools in England. This is scarcely true. In the new code of instructions to inspectors, 1898, it is stated, page 124, that pupils of standards 6 and 7, forms corresponding to our high school, Form I., shall learn the operation of cooking, baking, broiling, stewing, grilling, steaming, frying and roasting, the "dishes taught" must "be suited to the wants of the working classes.' There is no domestic science-the domestic arts, with simple precepts on the science, is taught. It is stated that the educational authorities are highly in favor of it. Mr. Kellar, the secretary of the National Union of Teachers, says on page 49 of his report on this matter: "There is some danger of overloading the curriculum of girls' schools, and damaging the general education of the scholars." But as we have no public school leaving classes in London, the words of commendation scarcely apply to the introduction in London public schools.

Then there is no general demand for domestic science. It does not satisfy the demand of the people. What people want is less cramming scientific theories and more training, that when pupils are pitched into the world "they may alight on their feet." What they want is a similar training in trades to that given the professions in the high schools.

If the petition be granted, the money will be wasted, because domestic science cannot direct the taste or talent towards home duties, because the subject is too abstruse, the arts attempted cannot be taught in 18 days, and the granolithic. neglection of the subject after the public school course is completed would result in all being forgotten. The promoters have no practical scheme outlined; they are attempting too much in so short a time; their aim is chimerical, and they neglect the introduction of the part that might be adapted without any expense to the city for a better sounding subject, "scientific cooking." It would be interesting to know how many of the parents on the list send their pupils to the public schools.

The board of education will do wisely if they refuse the request for some time yet, until a more workable scheme be introduced. Yours truly, S. BAKER.

799 Waterloo street.

London, March 7, 1899. [Note by The Advertiser.-The general impression is that Principal Baker is manifesting the fault deprecated by the famous diplomatist, namely, too much zeal; and that many of his scarecrow warnings against the teaching in the public schools of what is most needed, are quite beside the mark.]

Among them were several overdue steamers. Wm. Webster. As soon as the weather permits the engineer will have the present land tile drain on Piccadilly street taken up and cleaned out, and relaid at a greater depth. The report was adopted. Tenders will be called for the work. The city engineer will be instructed to prepare specifications for the work recommended by Architect Moore to be done to put the city hall in a safe condition; also for a vault for the engineer's department. Instead of W. H. Gould, as recommended, Baldwin & Baldwin were given the contract for supplying gravel in ward 5. No other changes were made in the gravel contracts. Contractor George Smart's figures for delivering broken stone were shown to be the lowest, and he was awarded the contract in place of Robert Turn-The committee recommended that A. Graham's tender for artificial stone walks-11 cents for sand finish, and 15 cents for granolithic-be accepted. Ald. Garratt moved to accept the Silica Barytic Company's tender at 11 cents a square yard for sand finish. Ald. Parnell seconded. All the walks in the city were of sand finish, he said, and the tender he supported was clearly half a cent a yard lower than the tender recommended.

Ald. Pritchard and Ald. McPhillips spoke in favor of Graham's tender, and Ald. Douglass suggested the post ity of all the walks this year being Ald. Greenlees moved to accept the tender of A. Graham for granolithic walks, and the Silica Barytic Company's tender for sand finish. Lost. Ald. O'Meara wanted the committee to call for separate tenders. Ald. Jolly moved to divide the contract. He was hopeful that more permanent walks would be required this year than one contractor could attend The motion carried 8 to 7. Dundas street will be the dividing line, and Mr. Graham will do all the work in the north half of the city. Citizens may get the style of a walk they want when they petition.

The tenders for laying stone crossings was referred back to the commit-

The street railway timetable approved of by the city engineer was adopted by the council. Much fault was found with the schedule by Ald. Carrothers and Ald. Plant.

Ald. O'Meara-If the street railway company keeps making timetables to suit the public their lease will be up before they succeed in pleasing everybody

Ald. Winnett said another switch was needed on the Hamilton road, and Ald. Douglass informed him that the company intended putting the switch down. The material had already been sent for Ald. Dreaney held that the company could not act upon the new timetable in the face of the timetable made by last year's council, and which should have stood for six months.

HELPING THE ART SCHOOL In connection with the finance committee's report, Very Rev. Dean Innes and Mr. R. W. Puddicombe addressed the council. They asked an increase in the proposed grant to the Western School of Art and Design. Ald. Greenlees strongly urged that the grant be $400 instead of $250. The. school would be a lasting benefit to many a young man, he said. Ald. Plant seconded Ald. Greenlees' motion make the grant $400. Ald. Pritchard was opposed to increasing the grant. "The city is going wildly into debt on educational matters," he said. A motion by Ald. Carrothers to refer the matter back to the committee until the estimates come in was lost, and the grant of $250 went through. The committee's recommendation to file the petition of the W. C. A. for the remission of taxes on some vacant lots, was not adopted. The taxes were remitted on a close vote.

HOSPITAL COMMITTEE.

Ald. Jolly presented the report of the hospital committee. Mr. R. R. Bland's contract for mantels was ratified. The recommendation that an electric light not to cost more than $3,500, be installed in the hospital, was adopted. When the clause recommending the retention of the clerk of works until completion of the building was read, some discussion ensued. It was finally decided to retain the clerk of works, and the committee will see what arrangements can be made with Mr. Mc-Bride about paying him.

THE AMENDED BILL.

The report also included the amended hospital bill, which the city solicitor read. It is now known as a bill respecting the Victoria Hospital. The prayer in which both the county and the city join is defined. Two new clausbeen added. One provides for the raising of the $15,000 by the county out of unappropriated funds or at their option, by debenture issue. The other clause gives the city the same option, if the amount becomes repay-

The bill was adopted without discussion.

Then Ald. Jolly made another motion, not at all calculated to disturb the mayor's peace of mind. It was: "That in the event of an amendment being made or offered to the first six clauses of the bill by any party, not satisfactory to the representatives of the city council, or any unsatisfactory additions thereto, that the said representatives be authorized to withdraw the whole or any portion of the said bill. Also that the city solicitor be authorized to frame a petition to the lieutenant-governor in council, asking permission for the city, upon a vote of the ratepayers to issue debentures not exceeding the sum of $10,000 to complete the Victoria Hospital, and that the amount be left blank in the petition, so that in case the hospital agreement is not ratified by the legislature that the city solicitor be authorized to fill in the amount $25,000. Ald. Garratt-Don't you think it would be unwise to leave that $25,000 there when it will take $35,000 or $40,000 to complete the hospital?

Ald. Jolly—$25,000 will be enough.
Ald. Garratt—Oh, you think so. Well, I don't.

Ald. Jolly's motion passed 7 to 4, and the appointment of a deputation to go to Toronto was next dealt with. Ald. Carrothers moved, that the mayor, the city solicitor and the hospital building committee compose the deputation. Ald. Winnett named the mayor, the city solicitor, the chairman of No. 1 committee. Carried.

At Ald. O'Meara's suggestion the chairman of the hospital committee was added.

SEWER COMMITTEE. The sewer committee recommended the acceptance of the tender of Harding & Leathorne for constructing an embankment along the steel conduit crossing the Cove, at $946. Adopted. No action was taken in reference to Mr. Chipman's advice to stop work on the north end sewer. Ald. McPhillips' suggestion, re drop or catch net for fire brigade was referred to No. 3 committee. His motion to obtain certain information from the police commissioners, re the reward for the capture of Policeman Toohey's murderer was agreed to. A motion to pay the scrutineers on the breakwater bylaw passed. A bylaw confirming the appointment of ex-Ald. Stevely to the board of health was carried.

Adjourned. QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

UBLEY, MICH .- I was married by an Episcopal-Methodist minister in Middlesex county, Ontario, Canada, on the 16th of June, 1858. Where is the marriage recorded? Ans.-The Advertiser's answer to this question was incomplete. The correct answer is as follows: Registration of marriage returns to registrars by ministers authorized to solemnize marriages in Upper Canada. The act of 1858 for the above purpose was repealed in or about 1870, and returns have now to be made to the clerks of municipalities, by clergymen, of each marriage they solemnize. By an act of 1897, all the returns of marriages filed under the act of 1858 in registry offices were directed to be handed over to the registrar-general for Ontario, and which has been done accordingly. The entry of the marriage you refer to should be found in the returns of some minister, sent to the registrar of the city of London, or to the registrar of the county of Middlesex; and the fact of its having been registered can be ascertained by addressing Dr. Bryce, registrar-general, Toronto, and inclosing 50 cents for a certificate.
