The Intrepid Cavalryman Does His Work Well.

Fought the Boers Throughout His March North of Johannesburg and Took Their Positions—Nice Quarters Prepared for Kruger in Amsterdam—Speculations Regarding Boer Intentions.

London, June 2.—1:30 a.m.—Lord Roberts reports to the secretary of state of war, the Marquis of Lansdowne, as follows:

"Johannesburg, May 31—9:40 a.m.—French's report of his operations during May 28 and 29, reached me at 3 a.m. today. He was opposed throughout his march, but managed to drive off the enemy from the strong positions they successively held, with very little loss, and is now holding the place to which I directed him, north of Johannesburg.

"Two officers were wounded and two men were killed and 27 wounded."

NOTHING ABOUT PRETORIA.

London, Saturday, June 2.—3:45 a.m.—Lord Roberts continues silent regarding Pretoria, probably because he cannot write of events from his knowledge. Lorenzo Marquez, where all the news from the Boer side is handled, cables that communication with Pretoria is now suspended. Some messages by courier have reached Lorenzo Marquez, but none of later date than Wednesday. These assert that the burghers are in a state of panic, and that Pretoria is being controlled by a vigilance committee.

Lorenzo Marquez again sends the report that President Kruger has been captured.

This news blank gives rise to a suspicion that the citizens' committee at Pretoria may not have been able to carry out their plan of securing the peaceful entry of Lord Roberts and sparing the city the horrors of a siege.

THE PEACE PARTY appeared to be in the ascendant, and as soon as President Kruger and his cabinet left Pretoria to organize a new capital, the citizens' committee persuaded the commandants of the forts to withdraw some of the troops from the defenses, perhaps with the view of keeping order in the town.

If messengers were sent to the British, or if the British, being two hours' march from Pretoria on Wednesday, entered it then or at any time prior to Friday, Lord Roberts would certainly have telegraphed the fact.

MAY HAVE HARD FIGHTING.

Hence it looks as if there was a Boer force between Pretoria and Johannesburg. These soldiers, falling back toward Pretoria, some of them fresh from the fight with Gen. Ian Hamilton, would have brought a new element into the situation, and would probably over-rule the peace committee, taking the direction of affairs out of their hands. If this has happened, the British may, as the Daily Chronicle says, see some hard fighting before the British flag flies over Pretoria; for even if the Boers held only three forts, standing close together on the hills south of the town, they would be in a position to stand a siege.

Butler

MOVING AGAIN THE BOER FIANKS.

Gen. Butler is moving slowly against the Boer flanks.

The Boers, according to a special dispatch from Lorenzo Marquez, have re-entered the northeastern territory of the Free State, and are engaged with the British near Ventersburg and Harpersburg.

Winburg, May 31.—After considerable fighting the Boers, with two guns and several Maxim-Nordenfledt guns, are making a plucky stand eight miles east of Senekel. Gen. Rundle has succeeded in driving off the federals, thus permitting, unopposed, the reoccupation of Lindley.

BOER PLANS.

The London Times' correspondent at Lorenzo Marquez states that enormous quantities of provisions are being collected by the Boers in the Lydenburg district. It has been said by believers in the determination of President Kruger to fight to the end, that this mountainous region would be his last stronghold. The present stories about the collection of provisions may be merely an echo of these predictions, or they may point to actual preparations. In the latter case it would seem that the Boers no longer entertain the hope of carrying on a successful struggle, since retreat into the mountains can only be a counsel of despair. The Lydenburg district may be all very well so long as provisions can be got through Delagoa Bay, but if the Boer resistance were once confined to these mountains the railway would be promptly cut in Transvaal territory and the consumption of their stocks would only be a question of time. Resistance of the kind would ruin tens of thousands of Boers, and would probably cost a great many lives, but it would not alter the final result to be a Boer's death. What that result is to be is settled by the determination not only of the mother country, but by that of all the colonies who have shed their blood in the imperial quarrel.

BOUND TO GET THERE.

Although Consul Hay's cable to the United States ambassador, Mr. Joseph H. Choate, does not mention the conditions prevailing at Pretoria, there is a disposition here to regard it in some measure as a kind of semi-official endorsement of the statements made in Lord Roberts's dispatch to the Daily Mail, of London, announcing the imminent surrender of Pretoria to the British.

NEW QUARTERS FOR KRUGER.

It is reported from Amsterdam that the best rooms at Net Haseje, one of the principal hotels there, have been engaged for President Kruger's occupancy from June 25.

Dr. Heiman, President Kruger's physician, and Friche Eloff, President Kruger's son-in-law, have arrived at Lorenzo Marquez.

PEOPLE'S CONGRESS

Interesting Gathering at Graaf Reinet—The Delegates Don't Seem to Have Read the Papers.

Graaf Reinet, Cape Colony, Thursday, May 31.—The Peoples' Congress here today. Of those present many were Dutch origin, commoners and bondsmen. Mr. De Villiers, brother of Chief Justice De Villiers, president. Mr. Pretorius, a member of the Legislative Assembly, offered a resolution that the colonies be allowed a voice in the appointment of the governor of Cape Colony, thus obviating the necessity for keeping a standing army, as the republicans would be prepared to assist the colonists to resist any foreign inroads in South Africa, unity would be insured and loyalty to Great Britain cemented.

A delegation was appointed to visit Great Britain, Canada and Australasia to explain the views of those represented at the congress.

Other resolutions presented affirmed that if the republics were annexed, the peace and prosperity of the country would be irretrievably wrecked, and that in order to insure lasting friendship and prosperity the settlement must include the restoration of unqualified freedom and independence to the republics and the colonies be allowed a voice in the appointment of the governor of Cape Colony, thus obviating the necessity for keeping a standing army, as the republicans would be prepared to assist the colonists to resist any foreign inroads in South Africa, unity would be insured and loyalty to Great Britain cemented.

Reached by Gen. Colville After Hard Fighting.

General Dispersal of Boers in New-castle District—Orange River Staters Did Not Cross the Vaal.

London, June 2.—3:02 p.m.—It is officially announced that Gen. Colville has arrived at Heilbrun, northeast of Kromstad, in the Orange River Colony, after meeting with great opposition.

WAR IS NO PICNIC.

London, June 2.—3:14 p.m.—The war office has received the following dispatch from Lord Roberts: "Johannesburg, June 1.—9:25 p.m.—Sir Henry Colville, in reporting the arrival of the Highland Brigade at Heilbrun, May 29, states that he was opposed more or less the whole way from Ventersburg. Eight men were killed, and 4 officers and 32 men were wounded. Colville says the Lancashire battery of field artillery did excellent work. Grant's natural guns were most valuable, and the troops behaved in a most soldierly manner throughout the trying march. "Rundle telegraphs that his casualties were 32 killed and 150 men wounded."

IN NATAL.

There is a general dispersal of the Boers in the Newcastle District. Large numbers of the burghers surrender daily. Trustworthy reports say the Boers are totally demoralized.

An Englishman named James Torpey has been sentenced by the British authorities to serve five years in prison, and to pay a fine of £100, for grinding medals for the Boers. The charge against him was treason.

DIDN'T CROSS THE VAAL.

London, Saturday, June 2.—According to a dispatch from Vereeniging, dated May 27, none of the Free State Boers crossed the Vaal River. President Steyn and a certain number of his followers are reported to have fled to Vrede.

OUTRAGES BY THE BOXERS

Party of 30 Foreigners Attacked and Several Killed.

Presence of International Guards at Peking Has Good Effect—Cabinet Crisis in Japan.

Tien Tsin, June 1.—The French consulate has received information from priests at Pao-Ting-Fu that 30 foreigners, including six ladies and a child, who were attempting to escape from Pao-Ting-Fu to Tien Tsin in boats, were attacked by over 700 Boxers armed with rifles and spears. Many of the foreigners were wounded, four were killed outright, but the fate of the remainder of the party is unknown. Having little ammunition, however, it is considered impossible that they could hold out against their assailants.

Yokohama, June 2.—The cabinet crisis continues. The Marquis Ito will probably be called upon to form a ministry.

Peking, Friday, June 1.—The Americans and other foreign guards, numbering 349, arrived here in the midst of the dragon festival. The streets were unusually crowded, and though the people were excited, no manifestation of hostility was made. The presence of the guards has already had a marked effect upon the behavior of the Chinese towards foreigners. The excitement in the adjacent country has been much allayed, but many Christian refugees are still flocking into the city.

The Boxers are evidently moving off. Unfortunately no leaders of the Boxers have been arrested, though their capture would have been easy.

22 WARSHIPS AT TAKU.

London, Saturday, June 2.—A news agency dispatch from Shanghai says that nine Russian, three British, three German, two American, two Japanese, one Italian and three French warships are at Taku. The Russian warships have 11,000 troops on board.

LABOR MATTERS.

Ottawa, June 2.—Ottawa is threatened with a strike of the type which will seriously interfere with building and manufacturing operations, unless a settlement is reached. The Builders' Laborers' Union have intimated to the bosses that they will order their members out unless an increase in wages to 20 cents an hour is granted.

Now the union maulers and machinists and the Amalgamated Sheet Metal and Ironworkers' Union are agitating for an increase in pay. The maulers and machinists ask for a 15 per cent increase, and the employers offered 10 per cent. This is not considered satisfactory, and it is said that unless the bosses meet the men's demands today, they will not return to work on Monday. The Sheet Metal and Iron Workers' Union are asking for a minimum wage of $2, extending up to $2.50 and over. At present the wages run from $1.50 to $2. They will hold a meeting next week to consider what course they shall adopt in the event of their demands being refused.

FAGGED OUT.—None but those who have become fagged out know what a depressed, miserable feeling it is. All strength has gone, and despondency has taken hold of the sufferers. They feel as though there was nothing to live for. There, however, is a cure—one box of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will do wonders in restoring health and strength. Mandrake and Dandelion are two of the articles entering into the composition of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills.

The Copyright Bill Given a Second Reading—The Appointment of Colonels and Major-Generals.

Ottawa, June 1.—Sir Charles Tupper seemingly is anxious that the government shall not get the credit for the legislation on the copyright question, and immediately the house met this afternoon raised a discussion on the measure introduced by Hon. Sydney Fisher, which now stands for second reading. The opposition leader, in a rather patronizing manner, suggested that the government obtain the opinion of the department of justice as to whether Lord Monckwell's copyright bill now before the Imperial Parliament contains the same protection for Canadian rights as were embodied in the bill prepared by the late Lord Listerdale. The premier, however, in the view that the Dominion Parliament enjoyed paramount power in regard to the question of Canadian copyright, although that power was disputed by the Imperial authorities. The bill before the house was quite consistent with the position assumed by the government before. He suggested a discussion of the bill at the proper time, and promised to get an opinion later on from the department of justice as to the merits of the bill.

Mr. Fisher added that his measure dealt with one single phase of a complex subject, which ought to be disposed of without touching upon the broad question of copyright, otherwise the fate of the measure might be imperiled. He could state emphatically that the government did not base this legislation upon the authority of the Imperial Parliament.

Dr. Borden's bill to permit the appointment of colonels in the militia, and giving power to appoint major-generals in time of war, was discussed in committee for almost the entire afternoon, and demonstrated the ability and readiness of the opposition to waste time over the merest trifles. The bill, in addition to the objects mentioned, makes provision for recognizing the long services of lieutenant-colonels by making them honorary colonels of their regiment on retirement. The honor is not to be restricted to officers in the militia, but may be extended to distinguished citizens. It transpired during the discussion that a number of distinguished civilians have already been appointed honorary lieutenant-colonels, and opposition members, led by Sir Charles Tupper, Dr. Montague, Mr. Macdougall, and Mr. Macdougall, incessantly against the practice of admitting those who did not possess a military training to honorary colonelcies, and also questioned the legality of the procedure. The response of the minister to this was that the best way of securing office upon wealthy patrons of a regiment is desired by the officers themselves, as it is considered an advantage to have these gentlemen associated with the militia. That there was no authority for such appointments, Dr. Borden showed by quoting from the Queen's regulations, which are applicable with the militia act, and the bill was passed. This explanation failed, however, to commend itself to the Conservative critics, and Mr. Osler, who frequently professes political independence and makes the most partisan utterances in the same breath, introduced a personal motion into the discussion. He attacked civilian appointments, on the ground that they would be converted into mediums for political favoritism, and intimated that if the practice were continued they might expect to have the celebrated Capt. Sullivan raised to the rank of colonel. Sir Wilfrid Laurier administered a stinging rebuke to the member for the practice, asserting that the latter was talking in entire ignorance of the subject. The practice of appointing civilians to the honorary command of regiments was one that obtained in all countries. Before the talk ended, Mr. Laurier said that he reported, Mr. Davin referred in these terms to Col. Domville: "There is need of a change in the act when such things as we have listened to can be tolerated."

The bill to incorporate the St. Lawrence and Terminal Steamship Company and the act changing the name of Merchants' Bank of Halifax to the Royal Bank of Canada were read a third time and passed.

The bill to incorporate the Canadian National Railway and Transportation Company was passed through committee and stands for a third reading. An amendment by Mr. Clarke to insert a clause that the government might at any time expropriate the road on one month's notice was defeated.

The house then went into committee on the bank act and put it through without amendment.

The house then went into committee on supply, passed several items and adjourned at 2:10 a.m.

The Largest Arched Bridges in the World.

The largest arched bridges on the Continent of Europe, which span the Rhine, represent a type of bridge which, although very popular on the Continent for large spans, has not found much application in Great Britain. Although it originates in the old-iron arch of the Coalbrookdale bridge of 1779, over the Severn, which has a span of 102 feet. Up to 1893 the Dom Luiz bridge over the Douro, with its arch span of 95 feet, was the largest bridge of its kind in the world. The Bonn mild steel bridge, with its one arch of 616 feet span, and the Dusseldorf bridge, with two arches of 594 feet 3 inch span, now ranks first in Europe. But the Niagara and Clifton bridge of 1398 surpasses them all with its span of 840 feet. The Rhine, according to "Engineering," has but few bridges, considering its great length. At Bonn it extends to 450 yards wide, and although the town has 50,000 inhabitants, and Poppelsdorf, adjoining, 22,000 inhabitants, there is no bridge. Railway lines run along both banks; but up to recently there was no bridge on either bank. Coblenz and Cologne, a distance of 55 miles, and the cross traffic depended upon ferries, and further upon a railway trestle, two miles above Bonn, consisting of three ferryboats, each carrying 200 tons, worked by engines and cables. Caesar's much disputed wooden-bridge is now supposed to have been, not at Bonn, but considerably higher up the river. Near Welschbarm, where important Roman fortifications have recently been discovered. The ferryboats and the pontoon bridges of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, when Bonn was still the residence of the sovereign Archbishop of Cologne, suffered much during the recent wars. The French revolutionary army of 1795 requisitioned all the ships of the district and placed bridge over them. Over which the army crossed the Rhine—to return a few days later and to destroy their work.

LIQUOR DISGUISED AS INNOCENT SODA

Complaint Made to the License Department that Druggists Are Mixing Wine Flavors With Drinks.

Complaints have been made to the Ontario license department by a number of prominent people that druggists and confectioners, who have got in improved formulas, are selling soda water and other effervescent drinks with wine flavors. This is contrary to law. Druggists are specially prohibited from selling liquor with soda water, Apollinaris, or any effervescent drink, under a penalty of $50, while confectioners are subject to a fine of the same amount under the general act. Young persons, it is said, are taking advantage of the opportunity to obtain liquor under the guise of cooling drinks.

HOW CARELESS.

A father and son were standing at the end of the Old Chain Pier at Brighton, when the dear little boy tumbled into the dancing waves. A bystander, accoutred as he was, plunged into the sea, and buffeting the waves with lusty sinews, succeeded at last in setting the dripping child at his father's feet. "And what has ye done wit his skey-rocket," said papa.—Globe, London, England.

A Well-Grounded Fear.

[London British Empire Review.] We fear, however, that a section of the British population has not hesitated to utilize the materials of race antagonism for purely partisan ends, by bringing against the French-Canadians a general charge of disloyalty. Englishmen at home it is certain, and something more than difficult in regarding Sir Wilfrid Laurier, whose popularity in this country is exceptional, in such a character, which they would dismiss summarily as a mere caricature; and it is evident to the friendly looker-on that if Canada is to maintain her position, both as a great "power in the west" of the Empire, and as a great "power in the north" of the American continent, the time has come for all her patriotic sons, of whatever origin, to close their ranks, and by a common effort to make renunciation of those disintegrating elements which threaten otherwise to prove fatal to the realization of her ideal as a united nation.

THE FIGHTER OF THE FLAMES

The firemen of our city are a brave and hardy body of men, and have often proved their worth in time of disaster. Yet the fireman, like any other individual, must be in good health to do properly his arduous and oftentimes dangerous work. When the stomach is deranged, when indigestion, constipation and kindred ills have fastened their clutches on the body, good work and contentment are impossible. Here is where our foods, GRANOSE and GRANOLA, prove their excellence. They cure these ills where they already exist, and prevent them attacking the healthy. Taken in conjunction with CAMEL CEREAL, a harmless and palatable substitute for tea and coffee, they insure happiness and the contentment that comes therefrom. One of London's brave and efficient firemen writes us:

GENTLEMEN.—I am pleased to assert that I have been entirely cured of indigestion by using your Health Food.

PUGILISTIC PLAYERS.

Philadelphia, June 1.—The absence of Lajoie and Flick from their usual positions in the ball game between Philadelphia and Chicago yesterday led to a statement that they had been injured in practice. It developed today that they had a fist fight, in which Lajoie broke his thumb and received a black eye. Flick is said, left the club house, vowing he would not again play on the team. The club management, in admitting the cause for the two players' absence, said that Flick will play tomorrow. Lajoie, of course, with a broken thumb, will not be able to play for some weeks.

RAN IN THE MIST.

Toronto, June 1.—For the first time in the history of the Woodbine track racing was carried on today in a dense mist that the spectators could not see the horses start, and most cases could not see them until after they turned into the home stretch and were well down toward the finishing post. The rain came too late to prevent a very large attendance, but the mist took away much of the enjoyment of those present. The track had been very dry, and the rain so improved it that the best time of the meeting was set in the various races, and the stewards state that even with rain tomorrow the meeting as a whole will be far the most successful ever held at the Woodbine. Following is the summary of today's races:

First race, purse $400, 3-year-olds, 6 furlongs.—Royal Sterling, 108 (A. Weber), 2 to 1; Pharoah, 113 (Powers), 3 to 1; Jucoma, 111 (Irvin), 2 to 1; Time, 1:16. Waterwick, Edinburgh and Dwyer, Tamarisk, Silver Locks, Alfred C. and Joe Martin also ran.

Second race, Kempton purse, $400, for 2-year-olds, 5 furlongs.—Terminus, 103 (J. Martin), 5 to 1; Donna Leay, 105 (McQuade), even; Germantown, 105 (Sullivan), 10 to 1; Time, 1:04. Lightning Flash, Lady Berkeley, Antithesis also ran.

Third race, Danforth purse, $400, for horses, owned, foaled and raised in Canada that have never won a race, 6 furlongs.—Pillidist, 108 (Pillit), 2 to 1; 1. Adagio, 106 (McQuade), 1 to 1; 2. Play Fun, 107 (Pemberton), 3 to 1; 3. Time, 1:19. Tartan, Devil's Own, Vint Lakefield, Gordon M. also ran. Pillidist and Lakefield were coupled in the betting.

A TERRIBLE AFFLICTION.

Tortured Mr. James Pethick, of Toronto, Until Timely Help Came

In the Form of Dr. Arnold's English Toxin Pills—His Affliction Was Diabetes—Dr. Arnold's English Toxin Pills Cured Him, After All Other Medicines Failed.

32 Duke Street, Toronto, Dec. 16, 1899. Arnold Chemical Co., Limited, Toronto: Gentlemen: For several years I have been a victim of that terrible affliction, Diabetes. All the special symptoms of the disease were present. Urination caused severe cutting pain; the urine was unnaturally dark colored; I suffered with intense headaches and with twitching of the nerves. The quantity of urine discharged was greatly increased; my lips were always dry; I was tormented by perpetual and intense thirst; carabouder braked; I suffered with my body, and I wasted to a mere skeleton, in spite of all the doctors I could do. In despair I resorted to patent medicines, and tried one after another, but was disappointed by each.

My wife persuaded me, much against my will, to try Dr. Arnold's English Toxin Pills. I thank God now that she did so, for this wonderful, Heaven-sent medicine has cured me completely. I am today enjoying perfect health, and every organ does its duty thoroughly, and I am now using Dr. Arnold's English Toxin Pills.

JAMES PETHICK, barber. The thousands of persons in Canada who suffer with this frightful disease, Diabetes, will read with interest the letter with genuine pleasure, for heretofore every remedy has failed to cure me. Dr. Arnold's English Toxin Pills have proved themselves to be the one and only medicine that will cure it.

They cure it in the only possible way—by killing the germs that cause it. They are a positive cure—have never failed—cannot fail, because they remove the cause of the disease. A trial will convince.

Dr. Arnold's English Toxin Pills are sold by all druggists; jar box 75c; small box 25c, or sent postpaid on receipt of price by the Arnold Chemical Co., Limited, Canada Life Building, 42 King Street West, Toronto.

FAMILY POISONED

Atte Rhubarb That Had Grown Under Sprayed Trees—Fatal Explosion—Five Killed.

FAMILY POISONED.

Hamilton, June 2.—The members of the family of Mr. Wm. Cope, marble polisher, Prospect street, East Hamilton, had a narrow escape a day or two ago. After partaking of rhubarb grown in their own garden, they became sick. Dr. Husband was called in and found the younger members quite dangerously ill, and the older ones not so bad. All were apparently suffering from the effects of an irritant poison, having violent pains and vomiting. Fortunately all recovered. Dr. Husband found it hard to trace the cause, but discovered at last that the rhubarb grew under fruit trees that had been sprinkled with paris green about a week before. The quantity was enough of the poison to make it dangerous. The case should be a warning to those who grow table stuff under fruit trees.

ARTISTIC AND LUXURIANT

Are the New Offices of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company at Liverpool.

ARTISTIC AND LUXURIANT.

Liverpool Journal of Commerce: Another instance of the enterprise which characterizes the great trans-American railway move, familiarly known as the C. P. R., is afforded in this company's offices in Liverpool. The head agency for Europe is, of course, in London. But as Liverpool is the principal Canadian port it follows that the local office of the railway is second only in importance to that presided over by Mr. Archer Baker, the European traffic manager. The Liverpool interests of the Canadian Pacific Railway are in the capable hands of Mr. J. J. Gilbertson, a gentleman prominently identified with all Canadian trade matters both on this and the other side of the Atlantic. For some time past it has been felt that the Liverpool office has been altogether too small for the increased volume of passenger travel which is booked to points on the C. P. R. via Liverpool. Larger offices were accordingly resolved upon, and no expense has been spared in making the C. P. R. offices, No. 9 James street, to be known as Canadian Buildings, thoroughly typical of the luxury and enterprise which is characteristic of the whole Canadian Pacific Railway system. The work was entrusted to a well-known firm of office specialists, of Liverpool, with results which reflect the greatest credit upon all concerned. The outer office is in the Elizabethan style, with pale figured fumed oak wainscot, while the walls are covered with steel stamped paper of chaste renaissance pattern, in old ivory tones, and surmounted by a handsome frieze of somewhat warmer shade. The ceiling is in low relief plaster work, and from it are suspended eighteen electric lights. The counter is of the standard C. P. R. type, with solid West African mahogany top, the supporting oak being richly carved and delicately turned, while the desks, which are surmounted by brass rails, are also of mahogany, and the ends of oak with beveled glass, the oak being similar to the wainscot. Inset in the counter and glazed with plate-glass is a map of the C. P. R. system, so that, including the travel system, can see exactly the location of their destination and the route to be followed. The screen which separates the outer from the inner office is of pale fumed oak, with carved and turned pillars, and headed cathedral style. The private office is quite an apartment de luxe in ivory white, and here and in the outer office are hung some magnificent views of the natural mountain scenery, and canons scenery through which the C. P. R. system runs. The external appearance of the office is quite in keeping with the tastefulness of the interior decorations. The plate-glass window is one of the largest in Liverpool, and is framed in teak and between it and the curtain of old gold which shuts it from the outer office are displayed samples of Canadian produce and pictures of Dominion scenery, etc. The entrance hall is paneled in gray granite, and the floor is of rich mahogany. The basement is used for stores and parcels, and is reached by a separate entrance at the back of the premises. It is paved with wood blocks, lighted with electricity, and provided with hydraulic lift. Altogether this magnificent suite of offices is quite in keeping with the high-class character of Canadian Pacific Railway arrangements in general, and reflect the highest credit upon the taste and taste displayed by the firm entrusted with the work of carrying out Mr. Gilbertson's designs.

erection of so artistic a suite of offices should go far to removing the blot which is supposed by many to rest upon the mightiest port in the world, that here the commercial spirit predominates to so large an extent that there is neither time nor money for the artistic. Numerous instances there are that go to show that in our public buildings and in the interior of our houses the opposite is the case, and that regard is paid to the artistic and luxuriant.

THE MARKETS

Local Market.

London, Saturday, June 2.
The rain that was the cause of Thursday's poorly-attended market was also the cause of a bright and attractive market. Both country and city folk appeared to welcome the sunshine of today after the gloom of the past few days, and consequently they turned out in great numbers. The farmers especially had reason to be glad because of the beneficial effects that the rains will have. In different localities roundabout it was badly needed, and they say that if no severely cold weather comes, the crops will be abundant. For this reason, then, they were in a particularly pleasant frame of mind, a condition that is always welcomed by purchasers. Very large numbers of both classes were on the square, and although the number of vehicles was not exceptionally great, yet many people from near-by came into the city to attend to their shopping. In no article was there much disagreement as to prices. The buying public cannot well object to those that now prevail, especially of the staples that are in the keenest demand. Such, for instance, as eggs, vegetables and butter. For some time past, and today was no exception, the prices of these articles have been very moderate, with the result that they are most freely purchased. It might almost be said that the market today was a vegetable and butter market so large was the supply and so keen the demand. The prices of the former have dropped considerably recently. The offerings of dairy produce were again fairly large, but as yesterday the supply cannot exceed the demand. Both eggs and butter are bought up very rapidly. This morning a good trade was carried on in poultry, in which line the prices are showing a tendency to recede, number of interested parties report that there is every prospect for a splendid fruit crop this season, and many are making preparations for a large trade. The reports received from the Niagara district go to show that the growers there are confident of large crops.

REV. ALEX. BURNS

The Catholic Register's Tribute to His Memory.

By the death of the Rev. Dr. Burns, Toronto has lost one of her most eminent citizens; the province, and indeed the Dominion, the leading spirit of the times. A man of broad, sound principles, clear judgment and fearless character; his voice and pen, through an active life, were ever employed for high and noble purposes. As an educator, preacher, lecturer and writer, he had few superiors in the Dominion.

While true to the principles and teachings of the Methodist Church, he ever evinced a fund of ready sympathy with those who differed from him in creed, and to our own positive knowledge, and to that of thousands of our co-religionists in Canada, to none was he more friendly and kindly considerate in every way than to his Catholic fellow-citizens.

He was an Irishman by birth, a Canadian in his life, and by his earnest and enthusiastic championing of Ireland's cause, at the time of Parnell's great and effective agitation and parliamentary policy, he won a warm place in the hearts of the Irish people and supporters of Irish home rule in Canada. In his advocacy of the Irish national cause, he spared not himself, nor did he allow religious or other considerations which, of necessity, presented themselves, to stand between him and his purpose.

To those who had the privilege of his friendship or acquaintance he was a true friend and adviser, possessed of true vision, ripe experience and steadfastness.

To the last, Ireland's cause was with him a favorite subject of conversation. Speaking casually upon the subject, just when the tide of war with the South African republics was at its height, he gloried in the leadership of the Irish troops, and warmly asserted the possibility of home rule for Ireland, only to keep her head, go to the people of the United Kingdom upon the wave of goodwill which he predicted and which came, and as he expressed it, no government could refuse her just and cherished demands.

His death, after a short illness, came as a shock to the community, but his memory will be long cherished as a distinguished citizen, a man of ripe scholarship, a learned and earnest divine, and a warm-hearted Irish patriot.

By-Election June 26—West Huron Liberals Meet.

A writ has been issued for an election to fill the vacancy in the legislature, caused by the death of Andrew L. Wain, of North Huron. Examination will be on June 19 and election on June 26th.

The West Elgin commission resumed its sitting at the parliament building, Friday. The evidence given by the witnesses at Osgoode Hall as to the condition of the ballot boxes and of the box sent to the building containing all the votes cast in the election, J. S. Cartwright, clerk of the crown in chancery, who examined the ballots that were destroyed, said there was no evidence to show that the ballots had been tampered with.

The annual meeting of the West Huron Reform Association was held on Friday at Duncannon. There was a large representation from every part of the riding. The old executive was unanimously elected and organization effected. Addresses were given by Messrs. Holmes, of West Huron; McMullen, of North Wellington; McClure, of Colchester, N. S. and J. T. Garrow, and resolutions endorsing the Dominion and local governments were unanimously passed, and the proceedings closed with cheers for the Queen, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Premier George W. Ross.

Premier Marchand was taken ill at the government buildings, St. Gabriel street, Montreal, on Friday. His illness is not considered serious.

THE APPROACHING CAMP.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Many of the kind people of London were good enough during the camp to send me illustrated papers and magazines for the use of our men. They were much enjoyed. Might I again, through your columns, solicit similar kindnesses for the approaching camp? Pictures and papers concerning the present war would be much appreciated. I shall arrange to have them called for, if donors or lenders will kindly drop me a line. Yours faithfully, ALFRED S. DANN, Honorary Chaplain, 25th Regt.

LOOKING INTO THE FUTURE

Trouble May Yet Be in Store for the Army in Africa.

A Forecast of Developments in the Transvaal.

What About Kruger?—Buller in the Background—Roberts the Idol of the British People.

[Special London, Cable Letter.]

London, June 2.—Popular opinion has proclaimed the advent of victory in South Africa. The nation has made up its mind that the war is over, that the prestige of British arms is restored, that President Kruger is vanquished, that priceless territory has been annexed, that humanity has not been staggered, and that, led by that little Sir Galsahed, "Bobs," Great Britain's army has fulfilled the most optimistic expectations.

It is scarcely surprising, in view of the bewildering rapidity of Lord Roberts' progress during the past week, that the troubles still ahead of the army in South Africa are really only a passing thought. Nevertheless among the few more serious-minded who have intimate knowledge of the Boers and the plans of the war office, there exist

GRAVE APPREHENSIONS of developments in the near future. In the systematic retreat of the Boers they see the possibility of long drawn out guerrilla fighting, treks into Rhodesia, internal disorganization in the Transvaal, due to landitis, and a thousand and one lawless elements that would threaten the safety of the organized body.

Some of the most acute authorities on South African matters say Major-General Sir Frederick Carrington and Lord Roberts may only begin when Lord Roberts finishes. Such speculation, however, can only be left for time to prove, and this war, so far, has abounded in surprises which have completely upset the surmises of those best fitted to express opinions. Probably of immediate developments in the Transvaal can be gained by reviewing the events in the Free State, or Orange River Colony. There, though the country is formally annexed, and is subjected to a winnowing process by a long line of British troops, certain of the most serious elements of the population are bound to eventually reduce the inhabitants to subjection, and so it will be, probably, with the Transvaal, the occupation of Pretoria and Johannesburg being followed by operations similar to those undertaken by Gens. Buller and Brabant in the Orange River Colony.

STATUS OF KRUGER.

The personal status of President Kruger since he left the capital is creating some discussion. A reporter of the Associated Press learns that Lord Salisbury will consider him to be president of the South African Republic until Lord Roberts is ready to annex that territory. Hence, wherever President Kruger may be (even if he goes into Portuguese territory), and any communication which he may make to the British or other governments looking to a cessation of hostilities, would receive official recognition and be answered, though it is safe to say Lord Salisbury would merely refer President Kruger to Lord Roberts. Some such message from "Oom Paul" is now expected at the foreign office. If the indicated line of procedure in answering it is carried out, it can result in nothing unless President Kruger is willing to assist Lord Roberts in persuading the people to lay down their arms. On one thing the British government is determined—that is, Kruger.

CANNOT STAY IN THE TRANSVAAL.

In the event of his capture he must be transported, not necessarily in duress, but he must be got out of the territory, which Lord Salisbury expects will shortly be part of the British Empire. Every effort will be made to capture President Kruger, but the government officials are inclined to believe he will manage to get into Portuguese territory where the British will be unable to touch him.

BULLER IN THE BACKGROUND.

One of the most curious features of the closing chapters of the great war is the oblivion into which Gen. Buller has fallen. Gens. French, Hamilton and others are all more frequently talked of and cheered than the former commander-in-chief, who seems to have become an unknown quantity in the shadow of the Big game.

THE IDOL OF THE HOUR.

Words fail to describe the national gratefulness to Lord Roberts. Wellington never was to England what Roberts is today in the eyes of the general public. A dukedom and the Order of the Garter, at the Queen's disposal through the death of the Duke of Argyll, are the least rewards that could be bestowed on him. Already people are talking of the scenes which will mark his home-coming. Conscientious critics occasionally try to bring out Lord Kitchener's name, but their efforts have small effect on the popular sentiments. One evidence of Lord Roberts' capability is the uses to which he puts

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY.

While Buller, White and other generals failed to develop the plant sent out to them, and looked askance at the innovation, relying solely on the old-time heliograph, Lord Roberts always has with him a body of wireless telegraphists, by which he keeps in constant communication with the various units of his enormous army. Several messages have been sent over 60 miles. The reports of naval experiments with this device are also satisfactory. The British battleship Hannibal, while under way, clearly reading the battleship Jupiter's messages at 32 miles distant. Other severe tests have resulted favorably to Marconi.

AN EXTRAORDINARY INCIDENT

in connection with the battering of the coast defense ironclad Belle Isle by the battleship Majestic has just leaked out. It appears that the loaded bow torpedo of the Belle Isle was discharged by the shells of the Majestic, and only timely maneuvering on the part of the modern warship saved her from being blown up by the self-released projectile of the old hulk.

ROYAL RESIDENCE IN IRELAND.

The fact of the Duke of Connaught having taken Lord Francis Clinton Hope's Castle Blaney, county Monaghan, for the season, with the option for five years, seems to indicate the establishment of a royal residence in Ireland. But whether the Queen will occupy the residence which Lady Yoxe (the American actress) otherwise Lady Hope, has just vacated, in order to fulfill theatrical engagements in Australia, it is impossible to say. But Connaught is one of the finest properties in Ireland, and it is understood that if the Duke and Duchess of Connaught are satisfied with it they will take it for a long term.

The Duke of Argyll announces that Inverary Castle, with its immense domain, is for rent.

A SCANDAL AHEAD IN COURT.

A most remarkable case came up in court when Mrs. Brinkworth sued the estate of the late Wm. Beckett, a former member of parliament, for continued support of herself and her alleged children. Mr. Beckett was head of one of the wealthiest private banks in England, and eminently respected in parliament and in society. It transpires that Mrs. Brinkworth lived as his mistress for many years, and that the couple amused themselves by buying children whom they passed off as their own, as Beckett wished to use the children to "bluff" his own family into consenting to the payment of large sums to his mistress.

Mrs. Brinkworth was not suited and criminal proceedings may be commenced against her for trying to pass off the children as Beckett's.

The executor of the estate sued is Mr. Ernest Beckett, son of the man who lived such a double life. He is also a member of parliament, and owns one of the finest houses in Piccadilly.

The Great Repudiator.

[Hamilton Times.]

Sir Charles Tupper is a well-served old man, strong fighter, hard hitter, etc., but those qualifications do not exempt him from the obligations of common honesty. It may have been very courageous for him to telegraph to Robert Birmingham: "Your message of May 22 received. You will never receive another dollar from any fund which I can control," but the publications of Mr. Birmingham's letter to Sir Charles gives the other view of the case. Here is what Birmingham wrote:

"My family think it is about time that my long overdue salary and expenses should be paid, a statement of which I sent you July 6th, 1899, and a further statement of my indebtedness that you will have no difficulty in placing the necessary funds at Mr. Haggart's disposal to do so. You will, of course, remember that it was at your request and personal request that I withdrew from the office to which I had been practically appointed, and that you personally pledged yourself to pay me the very modest salary of $1,500 per annum, and was agreed to in your office in the presence of four days after the general election of June, 1896, in the presence of one of your colleagues and another member of the House of Commons, and which promise has remained unfulfilled to this day. I shall be very glad to give you any further explanation when you are in Toronto next week, or could go to Ottawa any time replete with facts very sincerely, Robert Birmingham."

Sir Charles Tupper is not a poor man. As he boasted the other day, on the forty-fifth anniversary of his entrance into public life, he has spent the greater part of the forty-five years in office, enjoying a good salary. As a Dominion Minister, he got $8,000 a year; when High Commissioner in London he drew $12,000. There are plenty of rich men in the Conservative party, and Sir Charles can call upon his "millionaire friends" without any degradation of dignity or fear of refusal. Why, then, should he "do" poor Birmingham out of $1,500 a year which he gave his personal pledge to pay? It appears that Birmingham had been appointed to a permanent office under the Government, the salary of which would support his family, but Sir Charles wanted his help after the 1896 elections, and gave his personal pledge that those services would be paid for. That promise was broken. Birmingham's salary was unpaid, and new organizers were appointed in his place. Now, when he presents his account to Sir Charles for payment, that hoary-headed repudiator impudently repudiates it. Will he never pay the one dollar from any fund which I can control?"

Sir Charles may have the best of reasons for disliking Birmingham, but his first duty is to pay the debt he owes. After he will be at liberty to denounce the "danged sounder" to his heart's content. But the fact that a creditor is a "danged sounder" does not release a debtor from the obligation to pay his debt. It does not justify repudiation or the breaking of one's pledged word. There are a good many Canadian Conservatives who would prefer a leader whom they could respect, and some of them are secret admirers of the man whose party can never hope to resume office while Sir Charles Tupper remains at the head of it. The Birmingham episode will not make Sir Charles more popular with the rank and file. If the lender would not loan faith with the party organizer, what other Tory could trust him?

AN ELEPHANT AGAINST THE BAGPIPES.

It is a fact that pipers in Highland regiments are posted to companies, and always follow them wherever they go. In one occasion a company of the 9th, on a march, was marching to a place called Jellunder to Fort Kangra, situated on one of the lower ranges of the Himalayas. Accompanying them was an elephant, on which were placed six men, and a bagpiper. The elephant was exhausted and had been deprived of music on account of the piper's feet becoming blistered, and he was relegated to the back of the elephant. On the last day's march, before entering a new station, the piper was told that in order to brighten up the piper might be requested to play on the elephant's back at the head of the company. To this the officer assented, and accordingly the piper was marched to the elephant, and he began to tune them. It was evident that the elephant had no appreciation of such sounds, for he shook his head, flapped his ears menacingly, raised his trunk, with which he waved the piper, and then he threw him into a ditch as a mark of his disapproval of such music.

Kincardine Review: Last week Mr. Ed. Dawson did the proper thing. He went down to Parkhill on the 24th of May and made a Benedict of himself. The lady of his choice was Miss Estella Maud Patrick, of Parkhill. Her bridesmaid was Miss Durnand, of London. Mr. Will Bradley, of Petrolia, helped the groom through the wedding ceremony, which was solemnized by the Rev. James Ford. Mr. Dawson is a highly-esteemed farmer, and is known over a large section of Canada as an able advocate of temperance. He has a good farm and a fine house, and with a wife to help him enjoy his possessions and prospects he ought to be—and no doubt is—a very happy man.

The Poets.

WHEN TOMMY COMES SAILING HOME.

When Tommy comes sailing home, Tom tries to him all will pay. The boys will shout, and the bands will play, And he'll be the hero of the day— When Tommy comes sailing home.

When Tommy comes sailing home, The thronging crowds will cheer the while, The streets with flags and wreaths will smile, And they'll welcome him in royal style. When Tommy comes sailing home.

When Tommy comes sailing home, Some anxious hearts will be made glad. To see again their soldier lad! But others, O how sad! how sad! When Tommy comes sailing home.

When Tommy comes sailing home, The comrades brave who fight he'll tell For that dear land they loved so well, When Tommy comes sailing home.

When Tommy comes sailing home, Shall mingle with the deafening cheers, When Tommy comes sailing home, —M. Louis Swart.

FOREVER.

[Annette Kohn, in The Independent.] Every golden beam of light Leaves a shadow to the night; Every dewdrop on the rose, To the ocean's bosom goes. Every star that ever shone Somewhere has a gladness thrown, That that lives goes on forever, Forever and forever.

Every link in friendship's chain Forged another link again; Every throb that love has cost Made a heaven and was not lost. Every look and every tone Has a seed in memory sown. All that lives goes on forever, Forever and forever.

Never yet a spoken word But in echo it was heard; Never was a living thought, But some magic it has wrought, And no deed was ever done That has died from under sun. All that lives goes on forever, Forever and forever.

So, O soul, there's no farewell Where souls come together dwell; Have no fear of leaving heart, There is no such word as part. Hands that meet and closely clasp Shall forever feel the grasp. All that lives goes on forever, Forever and forever.

THE UNSUCCESSFUL.

We met them on the common way; They passed and gave no sign— The heroes that had lost the day, The failures, half divine.

Ranged in a quiet place we see Their mighty ranks contain Figures too great for victory, Hearts too unspooled for gain.

Here are earth's splendid failures, come From glorious foughten fields; Some bear the wounds of combat, some Are prone upon their shields.

To us, that still do battle here, If we in anguish prevail, Grant, God, a triumph not too dear, Or strength, like theirs, to fail. —Elizabeth C. Cardozo.

—In Dundas Center, Methodist Church tomorrow night, a patriotic thanksgiving service will be held. Dr. Saunders will preach, and appropriate music will be rendered by the choir.

—Three young men who gave the names of Alfred Burns, John Mackay and George Parnell, claiming to hail from this city, were arrested at Welland during the week for trespassing on the G. T. R., and remanded to jail.

—A meeting of the Maple Leaf League was held at Nordheimer Hall yesterday afternoon. The league decided to hold an excursion to Springbank on Wednesday afternoon, the anniversary of the death of Sir John Macdonald. The regular meetings of the league are adjourned until October.

—The many friends in London of Rev. Dr. Grant, of Orillia, well known under the literary title of "Knox-onian," will be pleased to learn that he is exchanging pulpits with Rev. A. J. McMillan, of St. James' Presbyterian Church, who preaches anniversary services in Orillia next Sunday.

—Yesterday afternoon Detective Ward arrested and brought to the city Wm. Robinson, of con. St. London town-ship, charged with assaulting and causing grievous bodily harm to Joseph Davis, a neighbor. Davis alleges that on Thursday last, while quarrelling with the accused over a rooster, he was knocked down and injured about the head. Squire Lacey remanded Robinson to jail for a week.

—The remains of the late Mrs. (Capt.) D. Millar were laid at rest yesterday afternoon in Woodland Cemetery.

The funeral took place from the residence of her son, Mr. R. D. Millar, Elmwood avenue, South London. Rev. Dr. Saunders, of the Dundas Center Methodist Church, conducted the services. The pall-bearers were the three sons of deceased—Robert D., city, and John and David, of Toronto, and Messrs. John Cameron, D. A. McDermid, city, and Harry Rowland, of Ingersoll.

PUBLIC LIBRARY BOARD.

A special meeting of the library board, to take the place of the regular meeting next week, was held last night. A quantity of routine business was transacted. It was decided to discontinue the purchase of all medical periodicals. One hundred and sixty-six new books will be purchased, at a cost of $106. The average circulation of books per day in May was 252; of magazines, 23. The receipts for May were $36 86; average fines per day, 89 cents. The cards issued to date total 7,817. Chairman Thomas Macbeth presided and Messrs. R. J. Dignan, James Egan and A. O. Jeffery were also present.

KING'S DAUGHTERS AND SONS.

Last night, in the Y. W. C. A. rooms, the city union of the King's Daughters and Sons held its annual meeting, which was presided over by the president, Mrs. (Rev.) G. B. Sage. The evidence of the industry of the local circles, and of their charitable work during the year, was contained in the number of gratifying reports that were submitted. The election of officers resulted as follows: regular president, Mrs. Tilley; president, Mrs. Sage; first vice-president, Mrs. Winnett; second vice-president, Mrs. Heritage; recording secretary, Miss Brown; corresponding secretary, Miss McBride; treasurer, Mrs. Lawson; Miss Christie and Mrs. W. H. Winnett were appointed delegates to the annual provincial convention to be held in Kingston. The union will be represented on the London branch of the National Council of Women by Mrs. Winnett, Mrs. Escott, Mrs. Lawson, Mrs. McMillan, Mrs. Heritage, Mrs. Hopkirk, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. (Dr.) Waugh, Miss Christie and Mrs. A. Smith.

Mrs. H. A. Boomer, who was present, gave an interesting talk about the work of this latter organization.

JUBILATION!

Arrangements for Celebrating the Fall of Pretoria.

Discussed by Local Civic and Military Authorities—London Wants to Make It a Record-Breaker.

Last night an enthusiastic meeting of aldermen, military men and citizens was held in the city hall to arrange for a monster jubilation to celebrate the fall of Pretoria when that occasion arrives. In introducing this subject, Mayor Rumball, who presided, said that it was the intention to have such a celebration as would never be forgotten in this city—one that would be worthy of the time and of the city.

Lieut.-Col. Stacey, of Wolsley Barracks, considered that it would be a splendid method of celebrating the fall of Pretoria if it occurred before the camp opened, to delay it until the militia came to this city, and that it be held then. Then, if a holiday were proclaimed, the 3,000 men in camp could assist. A military tattoo might also be held in the evening.

Ald. Winnett heartily endorsed this plan, as it would give the militia high-spirited and cheerful on their way out the country, and cheap railway rates were procured, then he believed large numbers of people would come from surrounding places. Thus the greatest celebration ever held in the city might be witnessed.

The following committee was then appointed to complete arrangements: Lieut.-Col. Holmes, D.O.C.; Lieut.-Col. Smith, M.C.; S. Hyman, Sir John Carr-Saunders, Mayor Rumball, Ald. Pritchard, Jolly, Stevenson, Garratt, Plant, Dreaney, Wray, Winnett, ex-Mayor Wilson, Mr. Charles S. Hyman, Sir John Carr-Saunders, Major Beattie, M.P., Col. Lyle, M.P.P., Mr. R. Shaw-Wood, M.P., J. W. Jones, Thomas Gilleen, E. J. MacRobert, F. Cooper. The committee has power to add to their number. It will meet on Monday afternoon.

EXTENSION

Of Street Railway Tracks on South Street Suggested—Requests for Tax Remission Dealt With.

At a meeting of No. 1 committee, held last night, which was presided over by Ald. Jolly, and attended by Ald. Bamed, Stevenson, Dreaney, Winder, Mayor Rumball and Secretary Pope, the chairman and Ald. Stevenson were appointed to consult the street railway company in regard to an extension of its tracks on South street, east of Wellington street. A large deputation of interested citizens appeared, who were strongly in favor of the proposed change.

Progress will be reported in the consideration of the school board's supplementary estimates for the year of May 15, 1900, to May 15, 1901, amounting to $223,089 56.

The committee reaffirmed its former decision in regard to a communication from Mr. Albert Smith, re a tax on personal property amounting to $5,000, which was once recommended to be filed, and was referred back by the council.

J. W. T. Parke's request for a remission of taxes alleged to have been wrongly charged was granted. A similar request from W. H. Irwin, of Dufferin avenue, was met by a decision to charge the taxes against the property.

Catherine Bremner's request for remission of taxes was refused.

THE JUDGE'S JOKE.

While Judge Gary, of Chicago, was trying a case recently, he was disturbed by a young man who kept moving about in the rear of the room, lifting chairs and looking under things.

"Young man," Judge Gary called out, "you are making a great deal of unnecessary noise. What are you about?"

"Your honor," replied the young man,

"I have lost my overcoat and am trying to find it."

"Well," said the venerable jurist, "people often lose whole suits in here without making all that disturbance."

THE RELIEF OF KUMASSIE

British Relief Force Believed to Have Got There.

Important Letter From Lord Rosebery—Decision Against Assurance Companies.

London, June 1.—7:47 p.m.—The colonial office has received a dispatch from Cape Coast Castle, dated May 21, saying it is believed that Capt. Hall, with a relief party, entered Kumassie May 26. The governor, Sir Frederick Mitchell Hodgson, with the sick, wounded and refugees, was expected to arrive at Fumusi May 30. Troops, it is added, have been concentrated at Fumusi to overcome any possible resistance by the rebels who are reported to be to the north. If the report of the relief of Kumassie is correct it greatly improves the military situation.

Notwithstanding the optimistic tone of the dispatch from Cape Coast Castle, it reveals a somewhat serious situation, inasmuch as apart from the possibility of Gov. Hodgson's party being cut off by the enemy at Fumusi, it practically announces the evacuation of Kumassie, which will be interpreted by the hostile tribes as a British retreat, and thus tend to spread the rising. The rainy season is now in full swing, and no punitive expedition can be successfully undertaken until the autumn.

It is understood that Capt. Hall has with him a force of 300 men, and that altogether 3,000 men have been marching to the relief of the beleaguered town.

The Spectator, commenting upon the situation there, says: "We hope authority will soon be re-established. Nigeria has been partially stripped of troops to provide a relieving force, and if the latter were defeated or even checked we might have the whole of Western Africa to reconquer."

PIRATES ATTACK A STEAMER.

Hong Kong, June 2.—For the first time in years a large steamer has been attacked on the Yangtze, near Ching King, by pirates. The American Capt. Flagg drove them off. The attack took place at the junction of the Great Canal from Tien Tsin. This indicates that the "Boxer" movement around Peking is spreading south, but people realize that there is no danger, because the "Boxers" are not armed. The only danger is to property and isolated foreigners in the interior. The whole movement will collapse with the first effort to suppress it. American, British, Italian, French, Russian and Japanese marines, a total of 255 men, were allowed to proceed past Taku forts yesterday to go to Peking to guard their respective legations. Berlin reports say the powers have resolved on intervention.

MUST PAY.

London, June 2.—By the judgment of Justice Matthews in the Queen's bench division of the high court of justice, insurance companies will have to pay the policies on gold regulations by the Transvaal just prior to the outbreak of the war. Two claims, each for $500,000, have been decided in favor of the plaintiffs, mining companies. The Transvaal government is now in a state of war with the gold-mining companies of the Transvaal.

HOW PINOS TREAT PRISONERS.

Manila, June 2.—Capt. Roberts, of the 35th Regiment, and his two missing companions, captured at San Miguel de Mayaguez, in the Province of Balak, Island of Luzon, May 29, are still in the hands of the rebels, who have communicated to the Americans their intention to treat the prisoners well, and in accordance with the laws of war. During the night of May 31 Captain Roberts' wife, who was at San Miguel de Mayaguez, received a note announcing the capture of her husband. The good treatment of prisoners is continued, and Captain Roberts believes the rebels will exchange him and his companions. The first report of the capture of Captain Roberts and his companions was erroneous. The rebels, who were surprised while lunching. Three of the party were killed, four were captured, and one of the latter was wounded. Captain Abbott, of the 42nd Regiment, recently met 250 Ladrones near Sinaloa. One American was killed, and the Filipinos had eight men killed and four wounded.

When Vitality Is Lacking

The Complicated Machinery of the Body Is Deranged and All Sorts of Pains, Aches and Weaknesses Are Experienced—Get New Vitality by Using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

The human body may be compared to one great and complicated machine, all parts of which work in unison, and the failure of one part to perform its duty deranges the whole mechanism.

Vitality is the key to all health. Just as soon as vitality runs low there are pains and aches, weaknesses and irregularities in all parts.

The amount of vitality in the body is dependent on the richness of the blood and the supply of nerve force. When these essentials of health are lacking they can best be supplied by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. E. McLaughlin, 95 Parliament Street, Toronto, states: "My daughter was pale, weak, languid and very nervous, her appetite was poor and changeable, she could scarcely drag herself about the house, and her nerves were completely unstrung; she could not sleep for more than half an hour at a time without starting up and crying out in excitement."

"As she was growing weaker and weaker I became alarmed, and got a box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. She used this treatment for some weeks, and from the first we noticed a decided improvement. Her appetite became better, she gained in weight, the color returned to her face, and she gradually became strong and well. I cannot say too much in favor of this wonderful treatment since it has proven such a blessing to my daughter."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is a blood purifier and nerve restorer of most unusual merit, which overcomes disease by strengthening and invigorating the whole system. As a spring restorative it is unsurpassed by any remedy known to man. 50 cents a box, at all druggists, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., 110

ROSEBERY'S PLATFORM.

London, June 1.—In connection with the rumors current of Lord Rosebery's willingness to resume the leadership of the Liberal party, it is reported that the party desires it, he is regarded as having embodied his principles in the following letter, sent to the Plymouth Mercury, a Liberal organ, on the occasion of its fortieth anniversary. After formally congratulating the paper, Lord Rosebery proceeds:

"This anniversary comes at a remarkable moment. It finds faction annihilated by the war, in which the great mass of the nation desires to stand shoulder to shoulder for the war. With all its curses, it may ultimately bring a blessing; it may

BRACE UP THE NATION.

It may mold a nation; it may unite a nation. It must make a nation take stock of itself and examine its deficiencies. Under these circumstances the function of the press, always important, has supreme value at such a juncture. It must be sincere. It must divest itself of the mere catchwords and slogans of the party. It must be prepared to discard the obsolete shibboleths, to search out abuses, to disregard persons, to be insistent in pressing for necessary reforms, social, educational, and administrative, and if need be, constitutional, and moreover, with regard to sane appreciation of the destinies and responsibilities of the empire.

AT THE PARTING OF THE WAYS.

We stand at the parting of the ways. Will Britain flinch or falter in her world-wide task? How is she best to pursue it? What new forces and inspiration will it need? What changes does it involve? These are questions requiring clear-sighted, cool courage and freedom from formula. It is because I believe the Mercury is facing this crisis in our fortunes in a bold, liberal spirit that I send it a message of hearty goodwill."

CABLE NOTES.

Austria has adopted the policy of expelling all naturalized American citizens of Austrian birth. United States Minister Conger, at Pekin, reports to the state department that the arrival of 350 guards for the legations of Russia, France, Great Britain, Italy, Japan and the United States has had the effect of improving the situation. He says that the situation is much quieter, but that the "Boxers" are still active in the surrounding country.

Professor Richardson, director of the American School of Archaeology, Athens, reports: "We have just made an important discovery at Corinth. In the Agora, at a depth of twenty feet, an ancient Greek fountain has been found. Enough of the great propylaea has been laid open to make it possible to restore the topography of Corinth."

SOUTH AFRICAN WESLEYANS

And the War in the Transvaal—Letter From the President of the Conference in That Country.

Mr. Rudyard Kipling brought to England a letter from the Rev. E. Nuttall, of Cape Town, addressed to the president of the Wesleyan Methodist Conference, the Rev. F. W. Macdonald, containing a message about the war from the Wesleyans of South Africa to their co-religionists at home.

WHAT KIPLING SAYS.

Mr. Kipling, in sending on the letter, wrote himself to Mr. Macdonald: "I think the enclosed speaks for itself. As Mr. Nuttall says, the Wesleyan Congregationalists, Methodists, Presbyterians and Lutherans throughout the colony have delivered their views as congregations in a manner which should leave no possible doubt as to the attitude of the Wesleyans in England. I am glad to see that in England prefer to tackle our emotions by being generous once again at other people's expense when the settlement comes, all this weary, bloody work will have to be done by the beginning five or ten years hence. I assume that you have full knowledge of the situation in the south, but I do not think you can realize how passionately and eagerly the Wesleyans look to England for a sign that the mother country will neither desert nor betray them to the Dutch."

MR. NUTTALL'S LETTER.

Mr. Nuttall's letter read as follows: "Cape Town, April 10, 1900.—Dear Mr. President.—Mr. Rudyard Kipling has, on the spot, satisfied himself as to the practical unanimity of the English-speaking churches with the laws of war. During the night of May 31 Captain Roberts' wife, who was at San Miguel de Mayaguez, received a note announcing the capture of her husband. The good treatment of prisoners is continued, and Captain Roberts believes the rebels will exchange him and his companions. The first report of the capture of Captain Roberts and his companions was erroneous. The rebels, who were surprised while lunching. Three of the party were killed, four were captured, and one of the latter was wounded. Captain Abbott, of the 42nd Regiment, recently met 250 Ladrones near Sinaloa. One American was killed, and the Filipinos had eight men killed and four wounded."

WHEN THE CAMPAIGN CLOSES.

"The all-important question, however, is that of the settlement when the campaign closes. We are not anxious concerning the particular work that may be used, although after our experience of the fearful word 'superannuation,' we cannot affect indifference as to the terms that may be employed. You may call it 'annexation' or 'incorporation' or 'inclusion,' or any such name, but there must be no remnant or semblance of independence left to the late republics. The sovereignty of the States must be entirely abolished, and when that fact is accomplished a sound policy will dictate the bestowment of free institutions upon the people who now inhabit, or who may come to reside in, those territories. The establishment of British government therein will mean the well-being of all classes, without distinction of race or language. In a very few years the Boers of the country districts will recognize the blessings which accompany British rule, and their pecuniary interests, which are exclusively pastoral and agricultural, will develop at a rapid rate. The native population will have a freedom and a security to which they have hitherto been strangers."

THE NATIVES.

"In this connection I ought to add that the natives must be safeguarded against the drink curse to the utmost possibility. The educational claims of the people will receive the attention that has all along been denied them, and there will be altogether new possibilities for the Christian churches that I scarcely need to say that the industries and commerce of the country will receive a new, healthy and powerful impulse."

"We cannot believe that the people of Great Britain will shrink the duty they owe to South Africa and to the other provinces of the empire, or that they will not assert and maintain the right that has been won by the heroic sacrifice and service of their sons and ours. We cordially rely upon Mr. President, and such leaders as Mr. Watkinson and Mr. Hughes, to enlighten our people as to the real and vital issues that are involved in this struggle. You and we are alike concerned in the final answer that must be given to the world as to the forfeited independence of the republics, and the benign sovereignty of our gracious Queen in South Africa."

I am, dear Mr. President, yours sincerely,

"E. NUTTALL."

MARCH OF BATTERY.

[From the Midland (S.A.) News, April 16th.]

De Aar, Saturday, April 14.—The Canadian Artillery and Mounted Rifles, Western Australians and Derbyshire Yeomanry, under the command of Col. Drury, arrived early this morning at the main body, Carnarvon field force, Col. Parsons commanding.

The whole left Victoria road nearly five weeks ago, marched to Kenhardt and thence, over 200 miles, made under many adverse circumstances, the heavy roads, the results of unprecedented rains, and difficulties of obtaining supplies. Nevertheless, in-land halts, the column averaged 100 miles a week, and encountered no active opposition, but pacified a large district previously in an active state of rebellion and dispersed and arrested ringleaders and effectually stamping out the rebellion, which, if neglected, would rapidly have spread a conflagration throughout the colony.

Men and horses stood the hardships and fatigue well, although naturally not without a small proportion of loss among horses and among men. All are now in good spirits at the prospect of service against more resolute foes.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK

In Canada and the United States—Summary of Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s review for this week says: Conditions show improvement in many parts of Canada this week. St. John reports wholesale trade fairly active and city retail trade satisfactory. The busy season is well advanced. A decrease is noticed at Halifax, the volume is still large and collections satisfactory, with prospects bright. Wholesale trade is good at Quebec, and retailers have profited by warm weather, particularly in dry goods and kindred lines. Business is seasonably quiet at Montreal, and buyers in many lines are anticipating further declines in price, which hold back orders, but the general situation is satisfactory and collections prompt. The supply of money is ample, and lower rates are expected. Trade is active and prospects bright at Toronto, while payments are promptly met. Trade conditions are favorable, most lines at Hamilton and collections are good. No change is reported in business conditions at Victoria, and collections are only fairly satisfactory.

OVER THE LINE.

While returns of failures in May by branches of business in the United States cannot be given until next week, it can be said that not over six months in more than six years have shown as large defaulted liabilities as May will show, owing to the failure of a firm principally engaged in cotton brokerage. The reported liabilities of this one firm exceeded those of all firms failing in every month but three in 1898. The most conspicuous feature of domestic news is the steady progress toward a lower level of prices for the chief materials of industry, without excitement and with very small sales, it is believed the smallest ever recorded in May at the three chief eastern markets, except in 1898. Prices of wool have declined so that the one hundred quotations in the Coates Brothers' circular would average about 21.84 cents against 24.72 cents at the highest point Feb. 1, and 18.94 cents a year ago, the British government has marked progress also, the average at Chicago declining over 3 per cent for the past week. The decline in pig-iron continues. Only small changes have appeared during the week in prices of finished products, but these are toward lower figures. Other exports are heavy. New York, again exceeding last year's by about $9,100,000 in May; while imports are still a little smaller than last year. The earnings of railroads are steadily proving that the solid business of the country is not measured by the stock market. In three weeks of May the earnings were 8.1 per cent larger than last year and 16.0 per cent larger than in 1898.

CLODBURST AND LIGHTNING

Havoc Created by the Storm in Amherstburg—Freaks of Flashes.

Windsor, June 1.—A cloudburst at Amherstburg yesterday afternoon spread panic among the inhabitants, tore up trees and sidewalks, flooded houses and created general havoc.

It rained heavily during the morning, but cleared at noon. An hour later three clouds appeared in the sky. They were small when first seen, but increased in size as they approached one another, and their junction was followed by rain in drops about as large as marbles. Then the water began falling in sheets, and for three hours there was a steady downpour. The inhabitants became panic-stricken, fearing a big flood. Debris, Silex and wooden walks were torn up all over the town, cellars were flooded, and in many houses the water rose so high that the occupants sought safety in the upper stories. In the house of a man named Deice the water rose two feet, and Frank Primeau was another man with the same experience. Hundreds of chickens and other fowls were drowned. The grain in Wiggins' fields was badly damaged. In the country near Amherstburg the crops were washed out and bridges and culverts swept away by the deluge of water. The loss will be heavy.

LIGHTNING'S FREAKS.

Arcaida, Mich., June 1.—While the family of Chas. Ross was peacefully sleeping about 3 o'clock in the morning the house was struck by lightning and totally wrecked. Chaos reigned in every room, pictures being ruined, the furniture torn to smithereens and every window broken. The family slept in three beds. These were torn to splinters, and the state being broken, yet strange to say the family were not injured in the least.

Clio, Mich., June 1.—A bolt of lightning struck the house of E. A. Kelsey, tore the corner off, then jumped into the flowing well and knocked the bottom out, drying it up.

Olivet, Mich., June 1.—The roof of the high school was filled full of holes by lightning.

Midland, Mich., June 1.—Geo. Dunn's house at Sly, seven miles from here, was struck by lightning and practically ruined. The bolts entered the bedroom of two boys, knocking the bed from under them, leaving the boys and the mother on the floor, and setting fire to the quilts. It entered every other room in the house and tore things to pieces, but strange to say none of the six occupants of the building were injured.

HONEST WORK BRINGS HAPPINESS.

But Overwork Takes All the Joy Out of Life.

If the Stomach Is Overworked It Also Becomes Unhappy—It Sends Grumbling Telegrams by the Nerves All Over the Body—These It Translated Would Read, "Send a Dose of Dyspepsia Tablet With Each Meal."

No honest right-thinking man objects to work. There is joy in working, and in the result of work that amply repays a man for the trouble and pains he puts into it.

But overwork is a different thing. Overwork kills. It takes away all chance for proper rest and recreation, and rest is necessary for the proper performance of work.

All this is recognized and understood in the case of the man as a man. But does that part of the man that keeps him alive—the stomach—get a fair share of rest?

The stomach works on when he is sleeping. The stomach works when his mind is playing.

When we consider how much unnecessary work we give it to do, in the shape of unwholesome and harmful kinds of food, is it any wonder it suffers?

Dyspepsia is caused by an overworked stomach. The juices that digest the food turn dry. There is either too great a bulk to digest, or the materials of which the food is composed are too difficult of digestion.

Thus both the wealthy man who has on the table everything money can buy and the poor day laborer who has a supper on cheap, unwholesome food, are alike victims of Dyspepsia. Dose of Dyspepsia Tablets take charge of the work of digestion and give the stomach a much needed rest. Dose of Dyspepsia Tablets cure Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Catarrh of the Stomach, Bilious Headache, and all other stomach complaints.

In Iceland, men and women are in every respect political equals. The nation, which numbers about 70,000 people, is governed by representatives elected by men and women together.

LIFE SAVED.—Mr. James Bryson Cameron writes: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs, and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on the advice I procured the medicine, and less than half a bottle cured me; I certainly believe it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, and I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me good."

A suggestion has been made that the temporary gateway at Dublin, at which Queen Victoria received the city keys from the lord mayor and corporation, should be erected permanently in stone as a memorial of an historic event.

A DINNER PILL.—Many persons suffering excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healing nutriment, it becomes a poison to the system. MAN-KILLING ELEPHANTS

Are Generally Influenced by Resentment Against Cruelty.

Many of Them Should Be Allowed to Plead "Justifiable Homicide"—Character of Mahouts.

[From the Spectator.]

Last Sunday afternoon, while a concert was being held at the Crystal Palace, an elephant belonging to a circus which had been performing there broke from its tetherings and killed its keeper. It then rushed through various partitions of wood and glass, and appeared in the main building, where a great number of persons were listening to the music. It did not attempt to hurt any of the crowd, though it broke off with its trunk the uplifted arm of a statue, probably under the idea that this represented a man about to strike. After some time it allowed itself to be secured by another elephant. It was then decided to kill the animal, and after a dose of poison had failed a London gunmaker was sent for as executioner, and shot the animal dead.

On the following Wednesday an inquest was held on the body of the man. If it had been one of the trials of animals held by jurists in the middle ages for the exhibition of legal subtlety the evidence in favor of the elephant could not have been more clearly put. Mr. Sanger, its owner, admitted that the animal had once before killed a former keeper, and he gave the facts which led to the death of the second. The facts speak for themselves. The first man had been discharged by Mr. Sanger fifteen months previously for gross brutality to the animals. He came back and asked to be employed again. This was granted, and he was taken on, not as a keeper, but as a laborer. The very first time he went into the stable the elephant, though it was quite dark at the time, instantly recognized the man's voice, and at once crushed him to death against a stall. That the creature had acted only in a panic of horror at the reappearance of a tormentor was so well established at the previous inquest that it was retained in the menagerie. It was exceptionally docile, and was taken through towns and villages all over England. Why, then, did he kill the second keeper? Because this second man, after his Sunday dinner, declared that he would "pay out" the elephant for striking him with his trunk. He actually took a lance, one of those taken from the Arabs in the Sudan. (Those who have seen the trophies taken from the mahdi's followers, now kept in the United Service Institution, will realize what a horrible weapon this was.) Followed by another keeper, also armed with a lance, he proceeded to "prod"—i.e., pierce—the chained elephant. The tortured creature, after backing as far as it could, "at length rushed forward to escape the lance, broke its chains, threw down the keeper and trampled on him." If the elephant had been a man and had been put on his trial afterward, would it be too much to anticipate that the verdict would have been one of justifiable homicide?

All these facts, it is worth remembering, were sworn to on oath. They leave a very unpleasant impression as to the management of the "elephant herd" in this country. It is perfectly clear that the animal was in each case influenced by resentment caused by the cruelty of one individual. Male elephants, apart from their occasional attacks of frenzy, are not as unaccountably docile and submissive as the females, and most accidents which do occur in their long lives are due to the gradual forgetfulness of this difference of sex and temper by men who are so accustomed to witnessing the unhesitating obedience of the one that they make too great demands on the forbearance of the other. At the present time the Indian Government, with the exception of a few males kept for parade, only employs female elephants for this reason; even so it is believed that the pay or pensions of mahouts are calculated with reference to the conviction that they pursue a dangerous trade. The native princes, on the contrary, keep male elephants in large numbers for purposes of state, and it is among the attendants of these animals that "accidents" most commonly happen. Experience, as well as common report, which declares that every elephant kills a mahout in his lifetime, shows that in far the greater number of cases the person attacked is the animal's own attendant.

This at first sight seems a contradiction to the general behavior of animals in captivity or even in domestication. Generally speaking, they are specially attached to the person who feeds them and gives them exercise, and if disposed to be savage vent their anger on strangers. There are a few instances on record of horses attacking their grooms, but this, as a rule, is only because the attendant happened to be the only person near when the horse was in a bad temper. The only domestic animals which habitually attack their attendants are the bulls kept for stock breeding in England, which are responsible for most intentional homicides caused by animals in this country. The grounds for the ill will which the elephant often harbors toward its Indian mahout lie partly in the animal's temperament, partly in the character of these men. As most elephants have with propriety to their drives, we must believe that either the greater number of mahouts do their duty by the beasts or that the latter are exceptionally forgiving. But there must be more than mere hearsay in the general belief that the mahouts commonly steal and appropriate a very large part of the elephant's allowance of food, that they are in consequence often half starved and hungry and that the men use their steel-hooked and spiked "ankus" in a very merciless way on animals which are often not in condition to do the work which is set them. As the cost of an elephant's keep is from £4 to £8 a month, in proportion to the food given him, a proportion and quality which is fixed in reference to the work to be done, the margin for stealing is very great, being reckoned between the minimum necessary to keep the animal alive on low diet, and that required for keeping him in fine condition on the march in a campaign, when he is allowed extra rations, and even a bottle of rum per diem. No other animal is clever enough to know that overwork and underfeeding are probably caused by the direct agency of the man who maintains him. But it is pretty certain that the extraordinary intelligence of the elephant does enable him to put two and two together and to conclude that the person who gives him little food ought not to punish him for not being up to his work. In any case, the elephant bears no grudge to the man who, if he can, gives him starvation rations and is his daily slave driver; and as long as native usage holds that "the driver and three generations of his family shall live on the beast he is paid to punish," it must be expected that the animal will occasionally try the experiment as to whether the next generation can possibly be worse than its present tormentor. It is sometimes forgotten that an elephant may live for 70 or 80 years, or even longer, in the service of man, and that in the unchanging east he may, through this long life, be farmed as a kind of property by the same family of mahouts; that the brutality of the father, if he be a brute, is learned by the children and grandchildren, and that, if the wretched elephant is in bad hands, he has to put up with practically two of our working lives of ill-treatment and semi-starvation. The wonder is, not that its temper occasionally goes amiss, but that it does not "break out" oftener.

The inference is that the natural temper of the elephant is almost the best and most easy-going of that of any beast. All Hindoo traditions and folk-lore agree in this. The elephant is the type of benevolence and easy gentility. It is this belief which encourages the "public" to take liberties with it on which they would venture with no other animal whatever.

CONCERNING NOSEBLEED

Facts That Are Useful to Know About a Common Affliction.

[From the Medical Journal.]

Nosebleed is so common in childhood that little account is ordinarily made of it. Where it occurs repeatedly without apparent provocation, however, effort should be made not only to check the immediate attack, but to ascertain the cause of the trouble. It is well known that heart disease, congestion of the liver and other conditions affected by, or affecting the circulation of the blood predispose to nosebleed, and considerable anxiety is frequently felt lest the nosebleed of childhood may be the result of serious constitutional causes. Most commonly the cause is local.

The best means of checking the immediate attack is pressure with the finger on the upper lip, just beneath the nostrils. A small pad of absorbent cotton or a piece of handkerchief may be placed inside the lip and tightly pressed against the gum from without, thus compressing the two small arteries of the upper lip that supply the nose. These can ordinarily be felt pulsating in this locality.

If the bleeding is profuse or prolonged the child should be placed in a recumbent position, but with the head elevated, while he may be held to the forehead or the back of the neck. To decrease still further the blood pressure within the vessels of the nose a mustard footbath is of service.

In the meantime blowing the nose is to be avoided. Plugging the nostrils both in front and back is a last resort to keep the sufferer from actual peril.

The predisposing causes of nosebleed are, as has been said, commonly local. Careful examination of the nose by the physician is, therefore, always necessary in recurrent attacks. Diseased areas in the nose are usually found, in which the vessels are spongy and unnaturally turgid.

The depression of the child's health caused by repeated attacks of nosebleed not infrequently requires attention. If the trouble is due to systematic weakness, attention is especially directed to an improvement of the general condition; while if the lungs are themselves weak, repeated attacks of nosebleed are sometimes indications of the need of a change of climate, or of proper physical exercises at home.

The formation of scabs or crusts, often attended in childhood with picking of the nose, must not be overlooked as a cause of nosebleed. Watchfulness may be required to prevent the formation of an unfortunate habit, but the affected spots must also be treated with ointment or other simple means of healing.

The City's Farewell Of the Horse.

Hudson Maxim, the famous inventor, in a contribution to the editorial forum of May Success, says:

It has not been long since one would have been pronounced a dreamer in predicting the disappearance of the horse from all industrial uses in large cities. Yet most thoughtful people now not only believe in the possibility of such a realization, but deem it inevitable and near at hand.

We have been accustomed to look upon the horse as a very noble, wholesome animal—noble because he has been so indispensably useful. Civilization so much depends upon the ease and speed with which individuals can get from place to place, and the facility and dispatch with which burdens may be transported, that the horse has been necessarily very intimately linked with the industrial and social elevation of mankind. The value of the horse, and our intimate and constant association with him, have caused us very largely to ignore, if not, in reality, to become blinded to the many inconveniences, disadvantages and real nuisances of which he is the author.

But for the clatter and din of horses' feet, of the soon-to-be-obsolete horse-drawn vehicle, the city would have much of the restful stillness of the country, while it is common knowledge that all the dust, dirt and noxious disease-laden refuse of our streets emanates from the horse, with the attendant flies and other insect life.

The analysis of a breath of dust-burdened air of the streets on a windy day would, alone, condemn the horse and banish him forever from all our cities.

It seems but yesterday that the question rested upon the lips of the multitude: "Is the horseless vehicle but a transient fad, or has it come to stay?" With the practical engineer the question was then already correctly settled, and now the same view has become a settled conviction in the popular mind, remains only to be determined by the test of service what kind of motor propulsion will best serve the purpose. Will it be steam, compressed air, petroleum, or electricity? Or, will each and all maintain a proper sphere of usefulness? It is safe to say that, were there nothing better possible than what may be accomplished by any one of these systems, the horseless vehicle would still be destined to win the same victory over the horse.

What the Nations Drink.

[Youth's Companion.]

A report recently rendered to the British Parliament contains matter which ought to lead to a searching of hearts by the people of many nations. The report deals with the production and consumption of alcoholic beverages in Europe, the United States and the British colonies. In such a publication stupendous figures, although melancholy, are to be expected; but some of the facts here disclosed are astounding.

Take for instance the consumption of wine. In Great Britain each person consumes, on an average, less than half a gallon a year; in Germany, a little more than three-fourths of a gallon; in the United States less than a quarter of a gallon; in France, more than 24 gallons! The total amount consumed in France, which has a population of 38,000,000, is more than 940,000,000 gallons a year—eight times as much as is used by the 160,000,000 people of Great Britain, Germany and the United States taken together.

It is often said, the French drink wine while other nations drink beer or spirituous liquors. Of beer alone the statement is, indeed, partially true. The annual consumption per capita in Great Britain is about 31 gallons; in Germany 27 gallons; in the United States 13 gallons; and in France 5½ gallons. But the French people consume more spirits per inhabitant than any of the other countries. The figures are: For Great Britain, 1 gallon; the United States, less than 1 gallon; Germany, 1½ gallons; and France, more than 2 gallons for each person.

The report also shows the interesting fact that the consumption of alcoholic beverages in Canada is smaller than in any other country from which statistics are obtainable.

Our own showing is not a bad one, but every earnest lover of his country will wish that it were better.

"Delays are dangerous." Those who have poor, weak, impure blood should take Hood's Sarsaparilla at once. It never disappoints.

Pale and Bloodless.

Anæmia is the term which doctors use to indicate poverty of the blood. Probably 90 per cent. of the girls and women of to-day suffer from anæmia. This is a startling statement—but it is true. It is easy to distinguish anæmic women. They have a dark semi-circle under the eyes; a sallow or waxy complexion; thin limbs, weak chests and ill developed forms. They are languid and tired; subject to backaches and headaches, and sometimes to hysteria and fainting spells. If the poor and watery blood is not enriched, and the tired and jaded nerves strengthened, consumption must almost inevitably follow. In this emergency there is only one medicine that will promptly and effectively create new blood and strengthen the nerves, and that is

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS FOR PALE PEOPLE.

This remedy has cured more cases of anæmia than all other medicines combined. Read what an eminent Australian physician, J. G. Bouchier, M. D., F. S. Sc. (London) and late government medical officer says:—

Manager Dr Williams' Med. Co.

127 Redfern St., Sydney, N. S. W.

Dear Sir:—For some time I have been in the habit of recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to my patients with excellent results. As a tonic their effect is most satisfactory and permanent. In Anæmia, Chlorosis, and allied diseases I have found them very valuable, and in irregularities of the menstrual period they are unequalled.

A SEVERE CASE OF ANÆMIA CURED.

Miss Mabel J. Taylor, living at 1334 City Hall Avenue, Montreal, writes: "I write to give you the honest testimonial of a young girl who believes her life was saved by the use of your Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. In November, 1897, I was suddenly stricken with loss of voice, and for eight months could only speak in a whisper. At the time I was completely run down. I had no appetite, no energy; suffered from headaches, palpitation of the heart, and shortness of breath. I was not able to walk up or down stairs. I was given up by the best doctors, and the different remedies I took did me no good. While in this condition I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. By the time I had taken four boxes my voice was restored, and after the use of eight boxes I am feeling perfectly well. I cannot find words to express my thanks for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me, and you are at liberty to publish this letter, in the hope that it may be of benefit to some other sufferer."

Young Man in Business.

A young man in business nowadays, with an ambition to be successful, must also be careful of his social life. It is not enough that he should take care of himself during the day. To social dissipation at night can be traced the downfall of hundreds upon hundreds of young men. The idea that an employer has no control of a young man's time away from the office is a dangerous fallacy. An employer has every right to ask that those into whose hands he intrusts responsibilities shall follow social habits which will not endanger his interests upon the morrow.

So far as social life is concerned, young men generally run to both extremes. Either they do not go out at all, which is stagnating, or they go out too much, which is deadly. Only here and there is one who knows the happy medium. A certain amount of social diversion is essential to everybody—boy, man, girl or woman—and particularly so to a young man with a career to make. To come into contact with the social side of people is broadening; it is educative.

"To know people," says a writer, "you must see them at play." Social life can be made a study at the same time that it is made a pleasure. To know the wants of people, to learn their softer side, you must come in contact with their social natures. No young man can afford to deny himself certain pleasures of a reasonable amount of contact with people in the outer world. It is to his advantage that people should know that he exists—what his aims and aspirations are. It is well for a young man to keep himself honorably in the eyes of the public. His evening occupation should be as widely different from those which occupy him during the day as possible. The mind needs a change of thought as well as the body a change of raiment. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" contains a vast amount of truth.

stallion lens, etc., removed from the eyeball. I may remark that my experiments lasted a whole year, and I have therefore tried frogs at all seasons. He finally gives directions for keeping the animal quiet. If the frog is not curarized, the sciatic and cranial nerves are cut through. It is, however, sufficient to fasten the head completely to the cork to immobilize the animal. The dissection of the trigeminal nerve is difficult.

"Prof. Brucke says ('Lectures on Physiology,' vol. II, page 78: 'The first sign that the trigeminal is divided is a loud piercing shriek from the animal. Rabbits we know are not very sensitive, but in this operation they invariably send forth a prolonged shriek.'"

"In Pfleger's 'Archives,' vol. II, page 234, are accounts of similar experiments on curarized cats, a large number of them having the nerves cut, dissected out and stimulated, the spine opened, spinal marrow cut, etc."

"I could quote still more shameful vivisection records from this paper, but I leave the stomach for it. Very truly yours, MARK TWAIN. (Signed), MARK TWAIN. 'Vienna, May 26, 1899.'"

STAMPS SPREAD DISEASE

Dangers Which Confront Philatelists in Pursuing Their Fad.

It is stated by a responsible medical journal that a surgeon in the French army has just discovered that stamp collectors may be the means of disseminating tuberculosis by means of the stamps, says the Chicago Chronicle. A man in his employ was a great stamp collector, and occupied his spare time in fixing the stamps in albums or on sheets of gummed paper for sale, moistening the stamps for the purpose with his tongue.

Three hundred of the stamps were placed in sterilized water, and with some of the water eight guinea pigs were inoculated. Each died with characteristic tuberculous lesions. Children, says the journal, should be warned against placing any stamps near their mouths in order to moisten them, and foreign stamps should be disinfected in a 5 per cent solution of carbolic acid before adding them to collections.

The observations of Dr. Boyd, however, may well be pondered by golfers outside of the Evanstonians. They cannot be indifferently dismissed by those who have been wont to regard golf as a sport for the educated and the refined. Can this exhilarating pastime maintain its standing against the encroachments of the Sabbath-breaker?

There can be no doubt that men of intelligence and of rational life, churchmen and those who belong to no church, look with apprehension upon the increasing tendency to pervert the Sabbath into a day devoted to bicycling, baseball, golf or some form of sport.

The Sunday golfer would never vote to destroy the Sabbath. If put to the test he would vigorously defend the Christian Sabbath.

Against a day of universal labor, revelry and outdoor sports. And yet can he deny that he is doing his part to usher in the Sunday that has no rest or peace or calm in it for anybody?

FOR INDIA'S RELIEF.

USED HIS KNIFE.
Toronto, Ont., June 1.—Early this morning some Pretoria day revellers were making fun of a colored man named David C. Johnston at a Queen street eat restaurant, when Johnston rushed out, and with his pocket knife stabbed John Gordon in the head behind the right ear. The stroke severed an artery, and Johnston followed it up by stabbing Gordon in the leg as he turned to run. Gordon was taken to the General Hospital and Johnston was arrested. The doctors say that Gordon will probably die.

Melrose Rifle Club.

The Melrose Rifle Club celebrated her majesty's birthday at the club ranges. The Roudledge Band was present and furnished excellent music. Two prizes were given for each event in the contest with rifles at moving objects. At the dog the first prize was won by F. Harrison, second by E. Westlake; at the pendulum, first prize by E. J. Shaw, second by E. Westlake. A special prize of a set of dishes was given by Mr. Alex. McNell, of Lobo, to the club member who scored the highest points in both events. This was taken by F. Harrison. Mr. E. Westlake scored the highest points, but was not a member of the club. The events were open to all, and about 30 competed in each. Tea was served on Mr. J. K. Morris' lawn. The club again thank Mr. and Mrs. Morris for their kindness throughout the day. The club here wish to thank their esteemed friend, Dr. McDonald, dentist, of London, for the beautiful gold medal which he presented the club. The medal is to be given every May 24 to the member who has attended not less than thirteen meets during the year and scored the highest percentage. James Harrison has the honor of keeping it until May 24, 1901. Following is the percentage for last year for members who attended thirteen meets and over:

THE SUMMER CONFERENCES

If the Drain Pipe in Your Kitchen Clogs

Up, what is the result? You must remove the stuff or it will decay and fill your house with evil odors of putrefaction. That's precisely what happens in your own body when you become constipated, and the poisonous matter is taken up by the blood and carried back into your system, only it is much worse, because you are unconscious of the effects, but every one who comes near you literally smells you. I know, slightly, two ladies, both of them amiable and attractive women otherwise, who are veritable walking charnel houses. Could I use a more expressive or truthful term? These ladies are so saturated with the poisonous effluvia from their internal economy that they are habituated to it; their sense of smell is blunted. I wonder how their husbands endure them! Both of these women suffer from Constipation; their complexions are muddy and their breaths nauseating to sensitive people. I wish I knew them intimately enough to advise them to try Karl's Clover Root Tea, the most wonderful medicine I have ever known for the regulation of the bowels, purifying of the blood and sweetening of the breath.

My dear sisters, I wish to tell you that your health depends entirely on the state of your blood. Your blood makes you whatever you are, for through the blood every organ in your body is kept in repair. If your blood is poisoned by the waste material that is retained in your body because of your constipation, you are not being built up as you should be.

Karl's Clover Root Tea is a truly wonderful tissue builder. It produces healthy digestive organs, allowing your food to nourish you, and induces sound, refreshing sleep.

Ask your druggist for a sample, or write to S. C. Wells & Co., 52 Colburn Street, Toronto, Ont., who will mail you one. Sold in the United States and Canada at 25c. and 50c., and in England at 6d. and 2s. 6d.

LITTLE VIXEN

CHAPTER XVII.

The day after the funeral Lettie tidied up the house and set to work on Joseph's simple wardrobe, stowing away in an old box the few garments of the dead. In the performance of the task she came across a package neatly sewed up in a bag of figured calico, and addressed to "Aurora." This she unsearched from the bottom of Joseph's trunk, and it at once awakened her curiosity.

"Aurora—Aurora," she repeated, wondering. "Oh, I do know! She means Rory—Vixen. Now what can it be?" She clipped the stitches that held the bag together, and hastily shook out its contents—a suit of clothes belonging to a child about a year old. Dainty linen underclothing, richly embroidered, a lovely white lace dress, with a blue silk slip; two blue silken socks and white kid slippers. Every article of the linen was stamped with the simple name—Aurora.

While Lettie was examining the dainty articles of linen, she saw a letter pinned to them in Joseph's angular writing. She tore open the sealed envelope and made herself mistress of the contents:

"My dear little Rory," the good old maid had written, "these garments are the only ones you wore on the night you were left at the cottage door, with a little purse of two hundred dollars, and a note that gave you into my care. I have kept them carefully, thinking that they might be needed to prove your identity some time; for I believe you are the child of rich parents, although they certainly deserted you in a strange way. Whoever you are, your parents must have known something about me, and guessed I would be kind to you, or they never would have left you with me. I feel confident they will some time claim you, and if I am dead, then you must tell them, dear, that Joseph loved and cared for you as if you had been her sister. I have not an idea whom you belong to, my child, but sometime you make me think of a wild, handsome young man who was brother to a lady I once lived with as lady's maid. You have features like his; but it may be only a fancy of mine that he might have had something to do with bringing you here. Anyway, I have heard that he went abroad fifteen years ago and never returned. Maybe he is dead, so I will not mention his name, for fear of exciting false hopes. It is most probable, after all, that you were deserted for all time, and that you will never have any name but that my father gave you, and guess I would be kind to you, my dear little girl, do not let these mysteries disturb your peace, but try to be content in the station you now fill, and thank God that you are good and pretty, and kind, and have three blessings that ought to make your life, however lowly, be a happy one."

"I did not think Joseph capable of so much romance," Lettie said, looking at the letter with an angry curl of the lip. "So then Vixen was not my sister after all, but a foundling, and as Joseph intimates here, most likely the child of rich people."

A heavy frown gloomed her dark brows. Instead of being relieved at the knowledge that the girl she hated and envied equally was not her sister, she was angry. There was a savor of romance about it that she begrudged Vixen.

"What if she should turn out to be somebody rich and great. It would be just like her good luck," she muttered enviously. "Then, too, she would be Tracy Tempest's equal, and they would marry."

The thought was unendurable. Lettie flung the letter and the baby garments back into the bag, and burst into angry, envious tears, wishing devoutly that she and not little Vixen had been left at the door with a prospect of turning out a great heiress some day.

By and by she dried her tears and went down to question her father. He admitted the truth of what Joseph had written, and expressed pleasure in the knowledge that the misguided girl was not of his blood.

"But you were as fond of her as you were of me, father," the brunette remarked resentfully.

"I was, for she was a winning little lass," old Jarvis said a little dearily, his thoughts running back into the past. "I ken own I was a bit proud to claim the little beauty for my daughter. I took pains she shouldn't know the truth, and it's been so long I've almost forgot it myself, and I doubt the townsfolk had, too. She was raised to me and I staid seemed my darter to me and to all. But, Lettie, child, because I hope some day she'll be left at the door with a prospect of turning out a great heiress some day."

AROUND THE LAMP.

Both the mind and body are so constituted that they require constant but varied action. Utter idleness, of either body or mind, unless they be in a more or less diseased state, is not only unnecessary, but harmful in the extreme. It is a habit which, once indulged in, will grow upon the individual. Change of occupation for the muscles, change of the current of thought for the brain, is what will promote the fullest and most healthful development of both.

JUNE

When the clover is deep in the orchard, And the grass waves fresh and free; When the strawberry sweet in sunny retreat

Waits for the robin or me; When the bobolink down in the meadow

Is singing his rollicking song; When skies are blue and clouds are few

And the days are happy and long; When the butterfly wooes the wild-rose,

And everything seems in tune; Oh, then you may hear the clock of the year

Striking the hour of June.

HOW TO WRITE YOUR NAME ON IRON OR STEEL.

Take one tablespoonful of blue vitriol and put in a small bottle, putting in about one-third more water. Allow it to stand about an hour; then take and coat over any smooth surface of either iron or steel with lard, tallow, soap, or beeswax, spreading evenly. Then take a sharp-pointed stick and write your name, where you have coated over with above. Then apply the blue vitriol by dipping the pointed stick in the bottle, and applying to the letters marked out. Let it stand until the letters turn red, then wash off. It will be seen that as soon as the water touches it it will turn black. It burns the name right into a knife, so that years of wear cannot take it out. Try it, and see for yourself.

FRILLS OF FASHION.

The display of dainty, expensive things for the neck is so irresistible this season that they seem to be a positive necessity as an accessory of every well regulated outfit. Added to all the smaller fancies in neck wear are the fichu berthe of expensive lace, the little pelerines with long ends and the most charming silk scarves with applique lace on the ends. The pretty fichu is made of cream mousseline de sole, trimmed with black Chantilly lace alternated with groups of tucks. Another fichu, very stylish, is made of chiffon in gathered frills separated by rows of lace. Insertion run with bebe ribbon. This is made on a shaped foundation of the chiffon fitting the shoulders carefully. There are cape collars of Venetian and renaisance lace; dainty collars of lawn, trimmed with lace; pretty, inexpensive stocks of duck with narrow white lawn ties, ties of wash net finished with lace-edged ruffles, and little turned-down collars of India muslin, finished with a narrow insertion.

Black taffeta silk Eton coats are ornamented with rows of white stitching.

The Arasco sunshine, supplied with a whole wardrobe of different covers, which are adjustable with very little trouble, is one of the novelties of fashion.

Low-crowned, wide-brimmed hats trimmed with lace-flowers and fruit have blossomed out in such profusion that toques and turbans seem to be doomed.

White foulard, spotted with black, makes a very striking gown with a blouse waist fastened at one side with a rosette of pale green liberty silk and a belt of the same silk. A wide collar of foulard is covered with black lace, and the skirt has a deep-tucked flounce with insertions of black Chantilly set in squares.

Suede gloves are very much worn, as they are always in summer, for the reason that they are much cooler than the glove glove. Pastel tints are the popular shades.

Colored lawn petticoats have not ousted the place occupied by silk skirts, but they are a very welcome feature in this department of dress as they are much cooler than silk. They are worn with cotton gowns chiefly and ought to match the gown in color. Some of them are elaborately trimmed with lace.

WHAT ONE WOMAN THINKS. To be happy is better than to be great.

A woman's greatest strength is in her weakness. The weather man is generally way up in the clouds.

A young man is generally bent on business when he goes to court. The man who generally toots his own horn usually does a great deal of blowing.

A good servant is a rare jewel, but jewels, it must not be forgotten, come high. The feather pillow, it is claimed, is the most fruitful source of ill-shaped faces.

The woman with a sharp tongue should not be surprised if her acquaintances, in turn, cut her.—Philadelphia Times.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS. An appetizing combination of pepper and meat is the famous Mexican dish of chile con carne. Cut cold meat—lamb, beef or veal—into dice, and season with a little onion juice and a little grated nutmeg and sweet marjoram mixed. Heat a large heaping tablespoonful of butter in a frying pan and when it bubbles stir in a cupful of soup stock, left over gravy or even hot water, and add a teaspoonful of salt, but no pepper. Put the meat and onion into the sauce and lastly add a small sweet red pepper cut into rings. Simmer together for five or ten minutes and serve on squares of buttered toast.

And this was grandmother's cosmetic: "Take of the oil of almonds," says grandmother, "two ounces of spermaceti half an ounce, and white wax half an ounce. Put them in a close vessel in a skillet of boiling water. When melted beat the ingredients with rose water until nearly cold, and pour in an egg shell or wide-mouthed bottle."

A "tip salve" which also bears the flavor of antiquity, is made in this wise: Dissolve a small lump of white sugar in a tablespoonful of rose water. Mix it with two full tablespoonfuls of olive oil and a piece of spermaceti half the size of a butternut. Simmer the whole well together for eight or ten minutes, and then turn into a small cup, or, again, the eggshell.

The possibilities of oleoeth seem never to have reached their limit. The last use to be made of this fabric is the papering of the kitchen ceiling, and the bathroom walls. Its smooth surface affords no lurking place for germs, and dust and smoke can be readily wiped off.

At English tables spoons are sent about with bananas, the fruit being scooped out like the pulp of the orange. When bananas are served as a fruit course, sherry is also furnished, a few drops being poured upon the fruit plate, and the banana, stripped by line of its skin, dipped into this and then eaten.

DON'T CARRY YOUR BUSINESS HOME.

If men and women who are obliged to work hard during the day, declares Orison Sweet Marden in May Success, would only learn to drop their business when they leave the office, store or factory, and not carry it, with its attendant worry and anxiety, into the home, it would work a revolution in the American character. If business men and women, and wage-earners of all kinds, would look up their businesses or occupations when they leave them in the evening, and free their minds from all care concerning them until they open the doors the next morning, what a change would be wrought in the home atmosphere, in the mental, moral and physical well-being of the workers themselves!

There is nothing whatever to be gained, and everything to be lost by perpetually thinking and planning about one's business out of office hours. It is a trite saying that the bow that is bent all the time soon loses its elasticity and tension. The man who is everlastingly thinking of his business affairs soon loses his elasticity and buoyancy of spirits, and becomes faded and worn out before he has reached middle life. On the other hand, the man who leaves his business at the store or office in the evening, brings a fresh mind and a clear head to it the next morning, and, consequently, makes fewer mistakes and accomplishes much more than if he had dragged it into the home and made himself and everybody about him irritable and unhappy by his incessant worrying over his daily cares.

TOBACCO SMOKE BAD FOR THE HAIR.

It seems that all the nice, comfortable and good comradeship things that women like to do—that is, some women—are just the things that they can't do without bad results. That nice, pretty young wife, who sits by her husband's side when he smokes, and holds the matches or his cigars and pipes, and tells him how she loves the smell of smoke in her parlor curtains, and that the odor is much more attractive than that of violets when it lingers in her hair, as it is sure to do if she stays long in the room in the smoke, has got to give up this amiable habit of hers if she wishes to keep her hair and not become entirely bald.

There was one young woman, a model of wifely devotion, and with all the good traits a nice comfortable wife should have, who was obliged to go to the hair dresser the other day to consult an expert upon what could be the matter with her beautiful tresses. She had an unusually beautiful head of hair, long, and thick and curly, and beside which the hair of the seven sisters who use a certain hair restorer or preserver and adorn windows to show its results was as a candle to an electric light. All this beautiful hair was coming out, and no one could tell what was the trouble. But the hair expert could. It was all tobacco smoke. He said that it was very bad for the hair, and that if the young woman persisted in assisting her husband in his daily smokes she would be very likely to lose it all.

Times are becoming very hard for a woman. She can't rock her baby now, because the doctors say if she does she will add to its poor little pate. She can't cuddle it up to her or let it sleep with her, because that is unhygienic. She mustn't take it up when it cries, for if she does it will lose character and self-control, and now she can't even help her husband to smoke.

Doctors have been saying for a long time that when a woman smokes, her nerves and her temper with fine sewing, and what is a poor woman to do? It is no wonder she goes into politics and woman suffrage.—New York Times.

Young Matrons

Who preserve the charms of face and figure in spite of an increasing family and the care of growing children are always to be envied. As a preservative of health and beauty Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been hailed by women as "a God-send" to their sex. It gives the strength and health upon which happy motherhood depends. It practically does away with the pains of maternity. It enables the mother to nourish the infant life depending on her, and enjoy the hourly happiness of watching the development of a perfectly healthy child.

Mrs. Orrin Stiles, of Downing, Dunn Co., Wis., writes: "I have been intending to write you ever since my baby was born in regard to what your 'Favorite Prescription' has done for me. I cannot praise it enough for I have not been as well for five years as I now am. In July last I had a baby boy, weight 10 pounds, and I was only sick a short time, and since I got up have not had one sick day. I have not had any internal trouble since I got up. I was not only surprised myself but all my friends here are surprised to see me so well."

"PERFECTION"

"I always dread the ironing days." A tired woman said: "And if I don't soon get relief I'm sure that I'll be dead."

Two little girls were puzzled one day To know what they would do To iron Dolly's dresses out, So that they'd look like new.

Mamma, however, surprised them: She'd been the day before And bought a "Perfection" Gas Iron And brought it from the store.

No more sweltering over stoves: The old way's a thing of the past. So simple a child can use it— Relief has come at last.
