Rough-and-Tumble!

Unprecedented Scene in the House of Commons.

Closure of Debate in Committee On the Home Rule Bill.

Conservatives Refuse To Be Ruled by the Chairman.

Chamberlain Stigmatized by O'Connor as "Judas."

And a Regular Rough-and-Tumble Fight Results.

Black Eyes, Battered Countenances and General Demoralization Prevail.

Order Finally Reigns, Apologies Are Tendered, and Amid Uproarious Cheers the Bill Is Reported.

LONDON, July 27.—On the Government programme, 10 o'clock this evening was the hour set for the closure of the debate in committee on the Home Rule Bill. The parts of the bill left over for the discussion of the last week and for the division this evening were the new financial clauses, the schedule and the preamble. The proceedings early in the evening were tame. John Clancy (Parnellite) moved an amendment to the effect that the Imperial Government should guarantee to Ireland £500,000 annually during the provisional period of six years.

Mr. Gladstone declined to accept the amendment. The financial scheme under discussion, he said, provided fully for the equitable, even liberal treatment of the new Irish Government. If the estimates which had been made with the greatest care were realized, Ireland would have £512,000 annually assured her.

Mr. Goschen spoke against Mr. Clancy's motion, and other members continued the debate until 9:45.

Then Joseph Chamberlain rose to deliver the final broadside of the Opposition, He began by giving his opinion of the closure as applied by the Government. The members, he said, were about to witness the last scene in a discreditable farce. The debate on the financial clauses had been a mere sham. The Government had stood over friend and foe alike ready to let fall the guillotine without regard for justice or constitutional rights. The Irish members, as well as the Unionists, were anxious to discuss at length the important financial questions presented by the new clauses, but such discussion was to be cut short. The bill had been changed in its most vital features; still no debate was regarded as necessary, since whatever was altered the bill was always found perfect by the adherents of the Prime Minister.

Jeers from the Irish, cheers from the Unionists and counter-cheers from the Liberals interrupted Mr. Chamberlain at this point. He waited two or three minutes before the confusion abated sufficiently for him to speak. He then proceeded thus: "The Prime Minister calls 'black,' and his adherents say it is good. The Prime Minister calls 'white,' and they say it is better. (Unionist laughter.) It is always the voice of God. Never since the time of Herod has there been such——"

Mr. Chamberlain got no further. Immediately there came from the Nationalists such a roar of indignation as has not been heard in the House since the days of Parnell. Mr. Chamberlain plainly was startled, but he tried to talk on. His voice was inaudible to the members on the next bench. He turned towards the Nationalists and shrill yells of execration sounded above the uproar.

T. P. O'Connor sprang to his feet and leaning toward Mr. Chamberlain shouted "Judas" so loudly that the epithet could be heard throughout the House. The rest of the Irishmen took up the cry, and for half a minute shouted "Judas" in chorus.

Meantime the clock struck 10. Chairman Mellor tried to put the closure, but his voice could not be heard amid the shouts of the Irish and the Unionists.

Then came a scene unprecedented in Parliamentary history. Mr. Mellor gave, in a weak voice, the customary directions to clear the House for a division. As the disorder subsided preparations were made to execute these directions. The Conservatives, however, flatly refused to quit the House. Vicary Gibbs, Gibson Bowles and William Hanbury shouted to the chairman that he must first call Mr. O'Connor to order for having called Mr. Chamberlain names.

Mr. Mellor protested that he had not heard the epithets in question.

Gibbs, Bowles and Hanbury got together, and to make themselves heard shouted in chorus at Mr. Mellor: "Will you direct that those words be taken down?"

Lord Randolph Churchill and Sir Edward Clark got hold of Mr. Gibbs and started him for the front bench that he might elucidate the cause of the row to Mr. Mellor, who was making strenuous but vain efforts to learn what the grievance of the Tory trio was. Mr. Gibbs tried to go forward, but he was so pushed about and confused that he gave up his purpose and Mr. Mellor remained uninformed. Meantime half of the Unionists had climbed to the benches and were shouting "Gag!" "Gag!" Others were struggling in the aisles or between the benches with Radical, Liberal or Irish antagonists. Corner, yells of pain and gross insults were heard on every side.

Somebody smashed Tim Healy's high hat down over his eyes. Healy tore off the hat and sprang into the aisle in full fighting posture just as Mr. Hanbury, still shouting that the chairman must name Mr. O'Connor, was trying to get by. Mr. Hanbury was knocked over a bench by the force of the collision before Mr. Healy got in a blow.

A free fight then broke out at the top of the gangway. The center of it was William Redmond (Parnellite), who had taken advantage of the general license to push over Col. Saunderson, the champion of the men of Ulster. Saunderson was rescued and led an attack on the Parnellites. Blows were struck right and left. Members fell and were picked up by their friends to fight. The whole space between the front benches was filled with a struggling, cursing mass of members, striking, clawing and upsetting each other. Manful efforts were made to separate the combatants. Both sergeants-at-arms forced their way through the thick of the fight, but as soon as one group was pacified another came to blows.

Eventually Mr. Gladstone begged Mr. Edward Majoribanks, a sturdy Liberal, to do something to stop the fight.

Mr. Mrjoribanks dug his way through the tangled mass of belligerents, and by repeated appeals in the name of the Premier succeeded in stemming the conflict.

Col. Saunderson came out of the conflict with a black eye. Just as peace was restored the door leading to the lobby opened and Dr. Tanner, who had been outside and heard of the fight but a minute before, came down the House leaping over benches in his haste to get into the melee. The sergeant-at-arms caught him half way from the door to the first bench and restrained him until he consented to keep the peace.

Chairman Mellor sent for Speaker Peel as soon as order was restored. When the Speaker entered several Conservatives rose, and pointing to Mr. Gladstone, exclaimed: "There sits the author of it all."

The hum of voices died out as Speaker Peel, stern and dignified, took the chair. A slight cheer was given for him, and then Mr. Mellor, as chairman of the committee, reported to Mr. Peel, as Speaker of the House, what had occurred.

In response to the Speaker's request Mr. Gibbs made his complaint in regard to Mr. O'Connor calling Mr. Chamberlain "Judas." Mr. Hanbury and Wm. Johnston (Conservatives) corroborated his statements.

The Speaker asked Mr. O'Connor to say on his word of honor whether or not he used the word "Judas."

Timothy Healy interposed to ask whether no attention would be paid to the refusal of members to enter the lobbies for division, This, he said, was the real reason why the Speaker was summoned. Should it then not be considered first.

The Speaker at once appealed to the party leaders to tell him what had occurred.

Cheers and calls for Mr. Gladstone brought the Premier to his feet. He said: "I regret to say that neither my ears or my eyes enable me to give a very clear account of the affair." He then gravely described the events as they had been reported to him by his lieutenants, and eventually expressed the opinion that the division should be taken before the "Judas" incident should be considered.

Mr. Balfour recounted the version of the fight given him by his colleagues, and at Mr. Healey's request Mr. Mellor again told what he knew of the trouble.

Mr. Peel thanked the leaders and Mr. Mellor for their assistance. He added: "I have arrived at the conclusion that the opprobrious expression alleged to have been used was the original cause of the disorder. I feel certain that the gentleman who used the word did so in the heat and irritation of the moment. If he were simply to say he regrets having used it, then I am quite certain it would be my duty to take no further notice of the affair."

Amid Conservative cries of "Withdraw!" Mr. O'Connor apologized to the Speaker "if any words of his had contributed to bringing about this most regretable state of affairs."

The Speaker said the apology was most ample and that the House could expect no more.

After Col. Saunderson and others had attempted to explain their part in the affray the new clause was adopted by a vote of 312 to 291.

As another clause which had not been discussed was put to vote somebody challenged Mr. Balfour to read it.

In an undertone Mr. Balfour said: "No, no; don't have it read.

The clause was carried by a vote of 321 to 288. The other two financial clauses were carried without division.

The postponement of the fifteenth and sixteenth clauses was adopted by a vote of 316 to 283.

The motion that the first schedule stand a part of the bill was carried by a vote of 310 to 277.

The second schedule was carried by 290 to 273 amid loud Opposition cheers.

The rest of the schedules were adopted without noteworthy incidents. When the committee rose and Chairman Mellor reported the Home Rule Bill as amended in committee, cheer after cheer was given, and all hats were waved for Mr. Gladstone by the Liberals and Irish, which were answered by the Unionists with counter cheers.

The report stage was fixed for Aug. 7.

A Sliding Scale.

The boy was covered with mud to the top of his kilt skirt, there were mud patches on his face and hair, and he had lost his hat, but in his hand he grasped a chicken—a limp, wet and muddy chicken. It was the cause of his trouble, for he had thrown stones in the yard that afternoon, and had accidentally killed the chicken. His sister had declared that she could not love such a cruel boy. Then he had disappeared and had been found stuck in a swamp.

When he saw his mother his feelings overcame him, and he burst into a loud wail.

"My sister doesn't love me! my sister doesn't love me! I want to get losted in the woods, and let the bears eat me!"

"But," said his mother, "you cried when you pinched your finger with the clothes pin, and it would hurt you far more if the bears should eat you."

The boy was interested, and dried his tears. "I mean a kind, tame bear," he said checking a sob.

"But a tame bear has sharp teeth."

The boy rubbed his eyes with his muddy hand, and was lost in thought for a while. Then he raised his head. His countenance was cheerful, there was not a trace of sorrow in his tone, and he cried, "I mean—I mean a nice little curly dog wifout any teef."

Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is earache. The young are especially subject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, to which the young are specially subject.

Verdict of the Valetta Court Martial

In Regard to the Sinking of the Victoria —Admiral Tyron Alone to Blame.

It Was Tryon's Fault.

VALETTA, July 27.—The court martial that was appointed to inquire into the loss of the battleship Victoria to-day rendered its decision in the case of the Hon. Maurice A. Bourke, captain of the Victoria. It found that no responsibility attached to him for the disaster, and he was therefore acquitted of blame. Capt. Bourke in his defense, reviewed the evidence in detail. He said that the question was whether he, with Vice-Admiral Tryon, beside him on the chart house of the Victoria, ought to have acted independently. He could not say what he should have done if Vice-Admiral Tryon had not been there, but his feeling was that he should have taken more strenuous action at an early part of the maneuver without the sanction of the vice-admiral, and should have sent aft and informed him of what he had done. Capt. Bourke paid an eloquent tribute to the behavior of everybody on board the Victoria, especially of the young officers who had been cut off at the opening of their careers, and concluded by expressing the deep grief of the survivors at the loss of Vice-Admiral Tryon.

Capt. Bourke added that when he was talking with Vice-Admiral Tryon just before the collision he told him that eight cable lengths would be a better distance to be observed by the two columns than six cable lengths. The vice-admiral did not consult him. He never consulted anyone during maneuvers. Capt. Bourke left the cabin, not knowing what was going to happen. He was apprehensive of the result of the order, but his faith in Vice-Admiral Tryon reassured him. The signal was specific, and its meaning could not have been mistaken. The vice-admiral himself ordered it to be hoisted. Continuing, Capt. Bourke said: "I urged the vice-admiral repeatedly when a collision appeared imminent to do something." At this point the captain was overcome by grief, and it was some time before he could proceed.

After the decision was rendered Capt. Bourke's sword was returned to him by Vice-Admiral Sir Michael Cule-Seymour, commander-in-chief of the Mediterranean squadron and president of the court, amid general congratulations. The court expressed regret that Rear Admiral Markham, who on the day of the disaster was on the Camperdown in command of the port column, did not carry out his original intention and ignore the signal displayed by the Victoria.

The verdict of the court martial is that the accident was entirely due to the order given by Vice-Admiral Tryon. Not only Capt. Bourke but all the other survivors were acquitted of all blame.

Siam—Contradictory Reports.

BERLIN, July 27.—The Tageblatt rejoices over the prospect that England, who scornfully holds aloof from the Dreibund, may become embroiled with France over the Siamese affairs. England, says the Tageblatt, will be taught a lesson, and she need not expect to receive German support. Other newspapers express similar sentiments, although in milder language.

PARIS, July 27.—There is some irritation in France at the half-way measure taken against Siam. The Government lets it be understood that it has taken coercive, not warlike action. The Siamese can stand action of this kind for an indefinite time. It is foreign trade that will suffer, and the blockade is in fact only hostile to England. The French sailors are playing an unheroic and very uncomfortable part. Admiral Humann left Saigon yesterday evening with his flagship Triomphante, and the gunboats Vipere and Aspic will join him shortly. These, with the cruiser Forfait and the dispatch boats Inconstant and Papin, will form the blockading force.

"Our sailors," says the Journal des Debats, "might have hoped for another mission than this degrading course of blockading the coast of Siam. Anchored there, at enormous distances from land, they will be exposed to the winds at exactly the season when the southwest monsoon brings its full force of heavy seas and violent storms. Why was this exterior blockade necessary? We were at Bangkok before the palace of the king, led there by an act of felony which merited another punishment. The right of entering Menam was guaranteed us by treaty. We were assailed without a declaration of war. A torpedo exploding almost under the bow of the Inconstante nearly disposed of her. Fortune favored our officers, and on the following day they had a chance to take the river defenses near by. It is regrettable that they did not take them. Our ships will descend the Shenam and the Siamese will not trouble them. They will anchor in the tormented waters of the Gulf of Siam, where the crews, diminished by climatic diseases, will lead a miserable existence. Why tell the Siamese that they should respect the defenses of Bangkok and Shenan? Was is not to lessen the force of the ultimatum? France learns with stupefaction of the instructions of the Government to consider the river neutral under the effective establishment of a blockade."

LONDON, July 27.—Lord Rosebery summoned Lord Roberts, recently commander-in-chief in India, to the Foreign Office yesterday to consult him on the position of affairs in Siam. A private telegram from Bangkok announces that the British gunboat Pigmy has replaced the Swift before Bangkok for the protection of British residents. England has an adequate fleet on the East India and China stations, numbering 28 vessels, including the Imperieuse cruiser of 7,390 tons. France can only muster 19 vessels, of which the largest is only 4,000 tons. It is believed that M. Develle hopes that his "pacific blockade" will induce Siam to surrender at discretion. Should Siam still resist and the blockade be made effective British interests would suffer severely. The London merchants interested in Siam in trade have forwarded a joint letter to Lord Rosebery representing the injury which will be inflicted by the blockade upon Singapore and Hong-Kong. These colonies would become dependent on Saigon for supplies of rice, and thus France will have an interest in benefiting Cochin China by a prolonged blockade which would produce a famine, perhaps a native revolt at Singapore.

Admiral Humann intends to occupy the Island of Kohsishang in the Gulf of Siam, an important strategic position. He must wait for supplies of coal and ammunition before he can take hostile action.

PARIS, July 27.—The police of this city, by order of the Government, are seizing cheap maps of Siam which are offered for sale on the boulevards and which represent the Siamese frontier in accordance with English ideas.

LONDON, July 27.—A Bangkok dispatch to the Daily News says that Capt. H. M. Jones, British Minister to Siam, acting under orders cabled from London, maintained a strictly non-committal attitude in the matter of the Franco-Siamese embroglio.

LONDON, July 27.—The Pall Mall Gazette this afternoon says: We learn from an authority that is deserving of the highest respect that the Franco-Siamese difficulty has been settled. France has agreed to accept Siam's proposals, and has abandoned her claims to the territory lying between the 18th and 23rd parallels of latitude.

PARIS, July 27.—The following semi-official statement was issued this afternoon: "It way be taken for granted that France intends in the first place to settle the questions of treaty violation and national dignity which have been created by Siam's attitude. France's rule of action will be not to allow any foreign interference in this matter."

Notice was given to-day of the blockade by the French fleet. Outgoing vessels have been warned that they must clear from Bangkok and Koh-si-Chang before Saturday or submit to detention. The blockade will extend along the entire north coast to the Gulf of Siam. The French fleet, with M. Pavie, French Minister resident, has gone to Koh-si-Chang. The general expectation is that early in August the French fleet will attrack Bangkok and land some 5,000 men. There is little doubt here that France's purpose is to make Siam a French colony.

The Siamese Government is exceedingly anxious to avoid open warfare. When the gunboat Lutin was at the Menam bar early this morning the Foreign Minister sent to M. Pavie a note to the effect that the king and his advisers were most anxious to maintain peace. All such efforts, however, are believed by the English residents to be in vain. Unless England intervenes to assist in a settlement of the dispute there can be little expectation or even hope that France will refrain from extreme measures.

LONDON, July 27.—In the House of Commons to-day Sir Edward Gray, in response to questions, stated that precise information as to the date on which the blockade of Siam would commence had not yet been given. The Government had given no advice to Siam unless it had been asked for. Great Britain regretted that France deemed a blockade necessary, in view of the British shipping interests involved. No full statement as to the situation was possible, but complete information would be given as soon as possible.

The Westminster Gazette, a Liberal organ, publishes an article on the Franco-Siamese dispute underneath the caption "Jingo Pharisees." The paper admits that the situation arising from the dispute is serious, but it deprecates the bluster that marks the articles on the subject in a section of the Tory press. It urges that confidence be placed in Lord Rosebery, the British Foreign Minister, whose hands, it says, may be best strengthened by a certain amount of reserve. Great Britain, it adds, ought not to forget that France may possibly have a case as good in French eyes as any British case is in British eyes.

PARIS, July 27.—The Petit Parisien publishes a dispatch from St. Petersburg stating that the Czar has ordered Vice-Admiral Tirtoff, commander of the Russian Pacific squadron, to proceed to Siam with all available speed. The dispatch adds that it is understood in St. Petersburg that Russia intends to observe an absolutely neutral attitude in the Franco-Siamese dispute.

LONDON, July 27.—Sir Charles Dilke said, in an interview this evening, he believed that Marquis of Dufferin and M. Develle had reached an agreement by which France would abandon her claims to the upper Mekong.

The Pekin correspondent of the Standard says China is determined to uphold her dominion on the Upper Mekong. If France encroaches above latitude 21° she will find China in her path.

The Standard's Paris correspondent says: "I gather that M. Develle and Lord Dufferin have agreed to a compromise on the frontier question. The newspapers have no inkling of this, and are as aggressive as ever."

The munificent gifts of the legatees of Sir Joseph Whitworth to Manchester are to be increasad by a sum of £50,000. The amount previously given by them to carry out the scheme of the Whitworth Institute were £105,000. It is estimated that on a review of the changes introduced into the scheme by the transfer of the Technical School and School of Art to the municipality, the Council of the Whitworth Institute are of opinion that it should find its chief future sphere of work in "the illustration of fine art." The legatees consider, however, that even their additional donation will need supplementing by the public if the institute is to attain its due importance.

Many pleasing stories are being told of the late Anthony J. Drexel of Philadelphia since his death, among them this: Some years ago he lent money to a business man in Philadelphia, who was unfortunate and finally failed. The man took to the banker an insurance policy on his life, saying it was all he had. Mr. Drexel afterward paid the premium until the man died, leaving an only daughter. One day Mr. Drexel asked a friend to take the policy to the daughter and give it to her, but on no account to let her know whence it came or the circumstances of the payments. The daughter had not known that her father's life was insured, and to-day she is living on the money, which is all she possesses. The story has become known since Mr. Drexel's death because the friend revealed it.

The Dynamo Gave Out.

Horrible Scene at a New York Execution.

Failure of the Apparatus at First to Do Its Dreadful Work.

The Victim Removed From the Death Chair, Doctored and Dosed, and Again Submitted to the Awful Ordeal —The Second Contact Causes Death.

AUBURN, N. Y., July 27.—William G. Taylor was electrocuted to-day for the murder of his shopmate, Solomon Johnson, Sept. 20, 1892.

The electrocution of Taylor was not a success. The armature had burned out so that it could not be used. The victim, who was gasping and groaning aloud, was unbound and placed upon a cot and carried into an adjoining room. His pulse grew stronger and he endeavored several times to rise from the cot.

The physicians said that he was unconscious after the first contact of 1,700 volts, precisely in the condition of a man stricken with apoplexy.

HE WOULD RECOVER,

they thought, and the only way to carry out the sentence of the law was to again place him in the chair.

Linemen quickly connected the prison apparatus with the electric light plant, and in an hour all was ready for

A SECOND ELECTROCUTION.

Taylor continued to grow stronger, and was given an injection of morphine; a small dose of chloroform was also administered. He was then carried bodily to the chair, which had been repaired, and was strapped into a sitting position. The current was then turned on, the body straightened up and for half a minute 1,240 volts coursed through Taylor's unconscious form, and he was

PRONOUNCED DEAD.

The stethoscope was applied to the heart to make sure, and Dr. Jenkins and others declared there was no pulsation. The first electrocution took place at 12:46, and the second at 1:55.

MYSTERY SURROUNDING THE MURDER.

Taylor was born in Rutland, Vt., 29 years ago next November. His only relations are a mother in feeble health and a young brother, who lives in Woodstock, Vt. When asked what motive prompted Taylor to kill Johnson, prisoner's counsel replied that he was utterly unable to say outside of an insane impulse. At the time of the murder and all through the trial he reiterated the declaration that he wanted to die in the electric chair, and he never recanted. His counsel has a theory that he killed Johnson simply as a means to suicide. No other adequate motive has ever been disclosed. He was once asked why he did not kill himself, but he replied that he was afraid he might not succeed, and he had a horror of hospitals. He had read that death in the chair was swift and certain, and it is not unreasonable to suppose that in his morbid condition of mind he took this means to encompass his own death. Taylor confessed his crime to a priest, and expressed sorrow for the terrible deed.

Taylor was serving a ten years' sentence for burglary. The murder was committed on Sept. 20, 1892. There were no eye-witnesses to the deed. Taylor told the hall-keeper through the grate window of the murder in these words: "If you fellows will go over and look under the broom shop you'll find a carcass there." He carried in his hand a keen edged knife still reeking with blood. The body proved to be that of Solomon Johnson, who was convicted of an assault in Summer Hill.

INTENSE EXCITEMENT AROUSED.

Not since the electrocution of Kemmler three years ago has any execution of the death penalty caused such widespread sensation as the double electrocution of Wm. G. Taylor. When the witnesses had been liberated, after two hours' enforced confinement, they began relating the harrowing scenes they had observed, and soon the entire city was discussing the failure of the executioners. The scene at the first attempt to electrocute the victim was fearful. The moment the full voltage was switched into his body, the rigidity of the muscles became so great that the front supports to the chair to which his legs were strapped were torn from their fastening and fell upon the floor with an ominous clatter, but the powerful current still held the body and the chair to which it was strapped in a firm embrace. The victim sat motionless in the chair, not even twitching hand or foot. But when the current was turned off the body sank back from its rigid position, and the chair without its front legs tipped forward, the body slipped perceptibly, and if the stout straps had not held it it would have pitched prone upon the floor. There was from the spectators, but not a man moved. Nobody had as yet realized that anything particularly horrible had taken place, as it was taken for granted the victim had died at the first contact, but in a moment more a shudder passed over the little throng. A strange noise was then heard. It was repeated, and was then recognized as a gasp for breath.

"HE'S ALIVE!"

was the awful thought that oppressed every spectator. Spasmodic gasping continued, soon succeeded by stentorian breathing. The warden ordered the electrician to renew the contact and the switch was again turned, but no current came. The victim's labored breathing continued and his chest rose and fell convulsively, and it seemed as though Taylor might revive at any moment. The body had assumed a reclining posture in the chair, with his legs stretched well out upon the floor. The man was breathing regularly but stentoriously, and those who did not know that he was unconscious expected to hear him cry out. Mr. Davis, who had gone to see what was the matter, returned with the information that the

ARMATURE HAD BEEN BURNED OUT.

It could be used no more that day. The spectators still wondered what was to be done with the rapidly-reviving victim. Finally the straps were removed, a cot was brought in, and he was lifted upon it and carried into the next room. He was now groaning aloud and moving his head from side to side. His eyes were closed, but his features were not distorted with pain. The witnesses were instructed not to leave. Taylor's pulse grew stronger and his breathing seemed less labored. He might recover. He was even now attempting to rise from his cot. It was necessary for the keepers to pinion his arms and legs. Dr. Conway gave him a hypodermic injection of morphine to quiet his struggles. He was asked if the patient would recover with sufficient time, and he replied, "Most assuredly." The three physicians present coincided in the opinion that from the first contact and they did not think he had suffered for a moment. In fifteen minutes more a small dose of chloroform was administered.

There was only one way to carry out the sentence of the law, and inhuman as it seemed the unconscious form must be strapped into the chair once more. Linemen strung wires from the city electric light plant through the grated windows of the death chamber, making connection with the switch board for the second attempt at Taylor's extinction. In one hour all was ready. The limp form of Taylor was carried to the death chair. The broken foot-rest had been repaired. He was held in position by the straps, and the current was turned on for half a minute and he was officially pronounced dead.

THE AUTOPSY.

The autopsy showed that the body was not marked and did not differ in appearance from any of the other victims of the chair who had suffered but a single electrocution. The doctor's certificate states that Taylor's muscular development was very marked. There was an absence of rigor mortis. Brain, heart, lungs and kidneys were normal. All the physicians agreed that Taylor was insensible to pain after the first contact.

CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE.

Electrician Davis explained the trouble as simply the burning out of the armature —something that could not be foreseen and yet was likely to happen to any dynamo. He would say, however, that all of the State's dynamos were crowded beyond their capacity at electrocutions. They were not intended to generate more than 1,000 volts ordinarily, but they were repeatedly run up to nearly twice that voltage. Before the execution this morning 1,820 volts were attained, and nearly that number was registered when the chair broke.

"Why did it not kill him outright?" was the next question. He thought that the giving way of the front foot rest might have impaired the contact with the electrode on the head, and Taylor could not have received the full force of the current for more than an instant. In some cases two or three shocks are given before death ensues. He considered it very fortunate that the officials emerged from the difficulty as well as they did.

Warden Stout said he would have a new chair of his own design ready for the next electrocution, and would make certain it would not come apart. "But," he could no help adding, "if the current had not given out the electrocution would have been successful."

Taylor's remains were buried in the prison grave yard this evening, first receiving a covering of quicklime as provided by law.

Call Again.

Some years before his death the Duke of Wellington was sitting at his library table when the door opened, and, without any announcement, in stalked a figure of singularly ill omen. "Who are you?" asked the duke, in his short and dry manner, looking up, without the slightest change of countenance, upon the intruder. "I am Apolyon; I am sent here to kill you." "Kill me? Very odd." "I am Apolyon, and must put you to death." "'Bliged to do it to-day?" "I am not told the day or hour, but I must do my mission." "Very inconvenient; very busy—great many letters to write. Call again, or write me word—I'll be ready for you;" and the duke went on with his correspondence. The maniac, appalled, probably by the stern, immovable old man, backed out of the room, and in half an hour was in an asylum.

PEACH YELLOWS.

Four Years of Investigation by the Agricultural Department in Vain.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The Agricultural Department has just issued a bulletin on the subject of peach yellows, prepared by Special Agent Erwin F. Smith. It embodies the results of four years' experiments with fertilizers to determine their value as preventives and cures of the disease. The experiments were made in the Middle States, and Dr. Smith says he is satisfied that peach yellows cannot be prevented or cured by fertilization of the soil. He therefore recommends that further experiments be abandoned.

The report by Special Agent Dodge on the leaf fibers of the United States has just been published by the Department of Agriculture. Mr. Dodge says that the United States annually imports $8,000,000 worth of leaf fibers, a large proportion of which should and could be grown in this country. The pineapple industry in the United States is increasing each year, and it is believed that if the fibre contained in the leaves of the plant can be successfully extracted after the fruit has been gathered it will add largely to the profitableness of the pineapple industry.

REMARKABLE REFORMATION

Of a Woman Many Years a Member of the Demi-Monde.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., July 27.—Last night a remarkable scene occurred at the Waterloo street mission.

This mission is managed by an earnest man named McMillan, who, with his wife, has worked long and faithfully among the lowly and the outcast. The mission is situated in the very heart of the worst part of the city. Its work has been pursued in season and out of season, and while the city press and a few devoted Christians have stood by McMillan and helped and encouraged him all they could, and many ministers have looked kindly in upon the work and lent him a hand at times, yet it is notorious that the practical encouragement that pays rent, buys clothing, and creates a fund for the help of the poor and the unfortunate has been vouchsafed to him in a very small degree.

Only yesterday it was known to a few of the newspaper workers that the fortunes of the mission were at the lowest ebb and that McMillan was discouraged for the first time in his life. A friend told him a remarkable story of the strange and powerful effect of his work in a certain life once wrecked, but now a power for good. He listened with streaming eyes and went out saying: "I will continue to work for Christ; help will come. God will help the work."

At the meeting last night occurred the scene above referred to, and the tide turned.

Mrs. Lou Morrison, one of the most notorious members of the demi-monde in this city, who keeps one house of ill-fame and owns several others which she rents for the business, gave up the fight, openly renounced her mode of life, promised to sell her property and devote the rest of her life to doing good.

She has been struggling toward this action for some time, and her determination is not the result of a sudden impulse or a wave of religious excitement. She has been an object of solicitude on the part of McMillan's mission for some time and has been deeply moved to reform. Her property is worth about $100,000.

The case vividly recalls that of Georgie Young, the Grand Rapids woman who some years ago abandoned a life of shame, established the Emerson Home for Fallen Women, and ever since has been engaged in reforming many of the fallen sisterhood in many of the leading cities of the land.

GRAND BEND.

Londoners Who Are Enjoying Themselves on the Shores of Lake Huron.

Grand Bend, that quiet little summer resort on the shores of Lake Huron, is rapidly coming into favor with Londoners as a camping ground and a place in which to spend a few weeks away from the turmoil and worry of city life. The hum of the carpenter's tools has been heard incessantly since the season commenced, and cottage after cottage has been reared to make room for the holiday seekers. The Government appropriation for harbor improvement is being made good use of, and a Port Huron dredge is busily engaged cutting a seven-foot channel through the harbor bar and up the Aux Sauble River. The old wooden bridge over the river at the Bend has been removed to make room for the dredge, and another improvement will be added to the list when the new bridge is completed. With a first-class harbor and communication by water with other ports the Bend will be even more popular than it is at present. The towns of Parkhill and Exeter are so very near that those places are almost deserted from Saturday until Monday and a great number of the residents of those towns make it their residing place throughout the whole season. Among the Londoners at present holidaying there are Mr. J. W. Broderick, Miss Eda Gould, William Ryan (turnkey county jail) and wife and family, Miss Ida Stirton, Miss Mabel McHarg, Rev. Mr. Henders, wife and family, Miss Josephine Hodgins, Miss Lynch, Mr. F. E. Lawson and family.

A jolly crowd of London boys struck the Bend at the beginning of the week, and they have already added such life to the place and created such amusement that the stalwart oaks will weep with the willows when the woods cease to hear their joyous laughter. They are located at "Kamp Misery," and their names are Messrs. T. E. Mara, W. Mara, G. Forsythe, Tony Tillmann, A. E. Brown, W. M. Vannatter and W. B. Gilhuly (all of T. A. Mara Company, London). Their tents are ornamented with placards, one over the door bearing the line from Dante, "All hope abandon ye who enter here." Another one heralds the fact that "Dr." Jerry Woods, surgeon dentist, is one of the crowd, that he makes painful extraction of teeth a specialty, and that he will inflict a lead filling while you wait. It further states that his office hours are from 12 p.m to 3 a.m., a fact which is no doubt greatly appreciated by camping neighbors. Another bulletin states that a housemaid is badly wanted, and that W. B. Gilhuly will run his practiced eye over all references. Applicants will please note that they will not be allowed out more than eight afternoons in the week, and must have no hangers-on and no friends on the police force of the Bend. Again you are informed that "Mic[illegible]" Forsythe, caterer, 1,005 Easy street, s[illegible]ny side, will supply meals at all hours. The boys are out for a good time and ha[illegible] expressed the firm determination tha[illegible]come what may they will not starve.

One of the best kn[illegible]and most eminent physicians on the [illegible] American continent speaks as fo[illegible]s about Lactated Food:

"I have used your [illegible]Lactated Food with children and in old [illegible]with very satisfactory results. It is p[illegible]nt to the taste and apparently easily [illegible]gested and assimilated. It has especi[illegible]y been useful for old people whose powers [illegible]digestion were weakened, furnishing th[illegible]m with a very pleasant and nutritious fo[illegible]d."

Lactated Food to-day sta[illegible]ds higher with the physicians of our land [illegible]than any others on the market. Mothers as[illegible]well as doctors are aware of the fact that [illegible]Lactated Food is the most nutritious and [illegible]strengthening. A MATTER OF EXPENSE.

Who Should Foot the Bill in That Street Railway Obstruction Squabble?

The question as to under what head the expense of tearing up the street railway company's tracks on Dundas street west should be charged occasioned a short-lived but animated discussion at last night's meeting of No. 2 committee. Ald. Dreaney objected to anything being taken from the appropriation of this committee for the purpose. Ald. Taylor said it was unfair and ought to be taken out of some other fund. If the contingent fund would not meet it the amount (nearly $100) should be taken from the sewer fund. It was decided to recommend the council to charge the amount to sewers, or to take a sufficient amount of the sewers account to meet it.

The engineer's report, presented by Mr. Ironsides, referred to the W. C. A.'s offer to pay one-third the cost of the proposed drain from the Aged Women's Home to the river, on the understanding that it would cost no more than $600. The document in question then went on to speak of the expense of the different routes, and suggested one through private property to the river as being the least expensive.

Ald. Taylor objected to building any more sewers to the river just now while the city might be compelled to change its whole system very soon. The whole matter was referred to the council.

The petition for a sewer on Dufferin avenue from T. A. Mara and others was not sufficiently signed, and was referred back.

Mr. C. E. Keene applied for free use of Queen's Park and a building for a labor demonstration on Sept. 4. The fair board usually takes the grounds over on the 1st, but the committee will grant the petition if at all possible.

Ald. Shaw reported on the walk on the west side of Waterloo between Dundas street and Queen's avenue, that it was in the best place now. Report adopted.

The paysheet, $279 33, was passed along with a number of other accounts.

Ald. Taylor drew the commissioner's attention to ehe necessity for having the street sweepers clean out the gutters, too.

Ald. Dreaney asked that something be done to remedy a low place on Dundas street east, opposite Fallahee's, where the water lodged.

The treasurer's statement showed a balance to credit of committee, exclusive of reserve for snow plowing, etc., of $19,246 99.

The engineer was instructed to examine and report on the bridges while the water in the river is low.

The members present were: Ald. Thomas Jones (acting chairman), Dreaney, Shaw, Taylor, Assistant Engineer Ironside, Secretary Bell and Commissioner Owen.

THE OPEN FORUM.

Sarnia Street Cars.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

I was one of the fortunate holders of a ticket for the ADVERTISER excursion to Sarnia on the 15th inst. I think it was a success in every respect. Everyone appeared to be satisfied with the management of affairs. The railroad officials were very courteous and obliging, and the trains made very good time. The trip down the river to Detroit was all that could be desired. But I am at a loss to understand why excursionists returning by the evening and late train should be made the victims of highway robbery by the Sarnia street car officials. All those who were not prepared to fight against the imposition were compelled to pay a 10-cent fare from Sarnia to the tunnel station. Others who contested the matter and positively refused were let off with a 5-cent fare. I asked the conductor what kind of game they were playing on the public. He said it was "by order of the manager." I asked the manager's name, and was told that it was Symington. I then said I would investigate the matter, as I was satisfied it was a dead-beat game on the part of conductor and driver. They also informed passengers for the evening train that they would have to go to the tunnel station to take the train. The passengers were then treated to a 10-cent ride on the street railway. The ordinary car fare is 5 cents—that is what we paid going from tunnel station to Sarnia. The car that I came to the tunnel station on was loaded with passengers, all of whom protested against the treatment and freely discussed the matter on the car in anything but a pleasing manner. Can they lawfully charge more than the ordinary fare whenever they feel inclined? If so the excursion trade should be diverted from the town of Sarnia. EXCURSIONIST.

London, July 22.

[NOTE.—This letter was handed in for publication on Monday evening. Since then the secretary of the picnic committee has written to Mr. J. S. Symington, president of the Sarnia street railway, and received the following reply: "The fare on the railway from 6 a.m. to 9:45 p.m. is 5 cents, but the company, as the result of an agitation, decided to run three night trips and make a charge of 10 cents for the service, which was fully advertised in the local papers, the trip spoken of being one of these. The town bylaw authorizes this rate. As to the two rates being charged, I had the manager see the conductor in charge that night, and he states most positively that the only exception was one lady who stated she had no money and paid nothing. The London people were rushed down to catch the second section of the Erie so they would not require to remain over until 2:15 a.m."

Mr. Symington here mentioned is president of the street railway and ex-mayor of the town, and his efforts in assisting the ADVERTISER picnic committee was one of the principal causes of their ability to offer so many attractions. He did all in his power to make the picnic a success, as it proved to be —EDITOR ADVERTISER.]

TRIED FIVE TIMES.

John Brills Finally Succeeded in Killing Himself.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 27.—Three years ago John Brills, living at Argentine and employed at the smelter there, laid down on the track in front of an approaching train, hoping to end his life. It was saved. Six months later he took a big doze of morphine, but was pumped out. A year and a half ago he jumped into the Kaw, but was fished out. Six months ago, he was arrested for disorderly conduct and tried to hang himself in his cell.

On Monday Brill loaded a shotgun nearly to the muzzle, tied a string to the trigger, lay down in bed and blew his heart out. He leaves a widow and eight children.

MONKEY IN A HOSPITAL.

He Went There With a Central American Family, and They Were All "Fixed Up."

NEW YORK, July 27.—For the first time in the history of that institution, a monkey has been admitted as a patient into Bellevue Hospital. The monkey went in Monday night sick unto death with hunger and thirst, but was discharged yesterday as happy and chirrupy as any man with extra joints in his vertebral column ought to be.

Jocko was the name of this pristine man as entered upon the register of the hospital, and he was admitted along with four other patients not of the monkey tribe, who, like Jocko, were all suffering from hunger and thirst. They were all sent to the hospital by Superintendent Blake, of the Department of Charities and Correction.

On Monday evening Emily Newell, with her three children, George, aged 13; Charles, 8; Josie, 2, and the monkey Jocko, age not given, applied to Superintendent Blake for assistance. Mrs. Newell looked like a woman accustomed to better things. She said that they, monkey and all, were natives of Central America, and were on their way to Canada, where they had friends. The whole party seemed to be sick and exhausted for lack of proper nourishment, and Superintendent Blake sent them to Bellevue. At the hospital the family were cared for. Jocko showed remarkable recuperative powers, and after he had broken his fast he seemed ready for anything to show his gratitude. He ran out on the lawn and began to give a free show for all. In a few minutes a crowd of patients, who were out for a morning airing, had gathered around him, and the windows were filled with those who could not get out. Jocko knew what was expected of him, and at once started off with a grand exhibition. He danced, chatted, grimaced and cut all kinds of antics for about a half-hour. Then he seemed to think that he had about paid for his night's lodging and meals, and, with a satisfied air, he marched off to 13-year-old George Newell, who seemed to be his especial favorite among the three children.

After the show the whole party were taken in an ambulance back to Superintendent Blake, who said he would arrange for them all to go on to Canada in search of their friends.

GIRL USHERS

To Be Employed in the Duryea Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn.

NEW YORK, July 27.—The Rev. John E. Fray, the new pastor of the Duryea Presbyterian Mission in Clermont avenue, near Atlantic avenue, in Brooklyn, has devised a plan to stir up more interest in the affairs of the church among the young men of the congregation.

A dozen or more young women have been selected by the pastor to act as ushers, and they are to make their first appearance in that capacity at a rally of the Christian Endeavorers at the church to-night. It is understood that they are all pretty as well as youthful, and that each has already distinguished herself for devotion to church work.

The Rev. Mr. Fray said: "We are going to try this experiment at the meeting tomorrow night. Our young men do not seem to take the interest in church work that they should, and I am trying to devise some method that will increase their attendance. My suggestion that some of our young women should act as ushers has met with much favor. We will give the idea a trial at all events. If nothing satisfactory is accomplished we will try something else."

LATEST RAILWAY NEWS.

The Chicago and Grand Trunk Company believe in treating their employes as fairly as possible. Last week, owing to dull times, it was found necessary to lay off over 50 men at Block 1 shops. This week the company gave to all of the men who desired them free passes to the World's Fair and return. It is said that the men will resume work on Sept. 1.—[Port Huron Times.

The Chicago and Grand Trunk Railway Company has issued a statement of the time made by six freight trains which conveyed the Italian exhibit to the World's Fair from Portland, Me., to Harvey, Ill., in April last. The six trains consisted of fifteen heavily-loaded cars each. The distance traveled was 1,110.38 miles. The first train made the trip in 60 hours, 15 minutes; the second in 53 hours, 15 minutes; the third in 50 hours, 40 minutes; the fourth in 51 hours, 35 minutes; the fifth in 49 hours, 22 minutes, and the sixth in 64 hours, 35 minutes. This is very remarkable time, one train averaging about 22½ miles an hour.

Affairs in Hawaii.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—A special letter says: The Provisional Government of Hawaii is doomed. Not a quarter of the people are with it, and the concensus of opinion is that the Queen must be restored. The question of government will eventually be put to a popular vote, and Liliukalani will win.

Lost His Life for a Hat.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Christian Mann, 48 years old, of 353 Summit avenue, Jersey City, was walking across the Summit avenue bridge over the Pennsylvania Railroad cut yesterday afternoon, when his straw hat blew off. In trying to recover it, Mann fell over the railing to the rocks, 80 feet below. He was alive when picked up, but died shortly after reaching the city hospital.

A Parkhill Youth Drowned.

EXETER, Ont., July 27.—A sad drowning accident happened at Grand Bend Park today about noon. W. P. Hippen, aged about 20 years, son of Mr. Hippen, of Parkhill, with two other young men, were in Lake Huron bathing, when young Hippen got beyond his depth and was caught by the undertow and drowned, although he was a good swimmer. The body was recovered this evening.

God's in His heaven,
All's right with the world.
—[BROWNING.

London, Friday, July 28.

THE number of Chinamen who came into Canada last year was 2,258.

MADAME LAURIER accompanied her husband during his late tour. She takes a great interest in public affairs.

THE Chicago Inter-Ocean is right when it says: "In these days a city that doesn't advertise is asleep and will get left."

THE New York World suggests that if the King of Siam had fewer wives and more warships at the present time he would be better off. A man who has to manage as many wives as his Majesty ought to be tolerably well prepared for a fight.

SOME of our contemporaries worry a good deal over Gladstone's future. He has only 700 of a majority in what was until recently a Conservative stronghold. In Canada a majority of 700 brings a constituency into the category of a "hive."

THE late Mr. Justice Patterson of the Supreme Court of Canada, whose death was this week chronicled in our telegraphic columns, was a good shorthander. He found shorthand to be a great assistance to him in his work as a barrister and on the bench. Judge Patterson was a Liberal.

THE chord struck by the ADVERTISER in favor of the open and above-board conduct of public business has met with a strong response from the general public. No member of the council who desires his conduct to be regarded as above suspicion will consent to go into the Star Chamber. Civic interests will not suffer through the fair publicity that is given by the press.

R. R. MCLENNAN, M. P. for Glengarry, indignantly denies that he has joined the Patrons of Industry. Mr. McLennan last session voted to sustain the burdensome taxes on necessaries of life against which the Patrons of Industry now war, but when it was reported that he had joined the Patrons it was thought that he had resolved to turn over a new leaf. His wrathy denial now shows that he is wedded to his idols.

THE latest argument of the advocates of high taxation is even thinner than those which have preceded it. They tell us that certain United States farmers are not as well off as they might be, therefore the Canadian agriculturist is in duty bound to submit to the rule of the monopolists and the treasury despoilers for all time to come. The intelligent Canadian, who demands that the taxes shall not be collected for the benefit of individuals, but as a means of getting the smallest revenue needful to economically govern, will scout any such proposition. Canadians have many natural advantages, but they are handicapped through artificial trade restrictions that enable a few to get very rich at the expense of the overwhelming majority. This gross inequality cannot be remedied by pointing to the condition of farmers who have been plundered by class laws in another land.

DIPHTHERIA suddenly broke out in Hightstown, New Jersey, this week, and created a panic by causing the death of a number of children and laying low many others. At first, it was supposed that the disease came from sewage or from street sprinkling, but the health officer voted either agency insufficient. At length it was resolved to follow a milk wagon trail. It was found that eighteen of the twenty cases were in families served from this wagon. The coincidence was too striking to be passed. Following the wagon to the home of the dairyman, it was found that his daughter had been very ill with diphtheria for several days. The physician's certificate showed that a boy in the service of the diaryman had applied last Friday to a doctor for treatment, and the doctor at once told him that he was very ill, and not wishing to frighten him wrote to his employer to keep him isolated, as he had diphtheria. That night the boy was sent to Philadelphia by a late train. The board and examiner think he was in the dairy long enough to contaminate the sensitive milk, which subsequently caused all the trouble. There is no better agent for distributing infectious diseases than milk.

Samuel Edison, father of the famous inventor, is a respected citizen of Port Huron. The other day he said: "I leave to-day for a visit with my son Al in New York. I am 30 years of age, and consequently somewhat stiff in my joints. All this will disappear when I reach Al's place. He will just turn on the electricity and never let up until I am as spry as a young man of 30 years. It always does me good to visit my son. I come home a new man and with a new lease of life. Just watch me when I come back."

CANADA'S PETER ABROAD.

Our flamboyant friend, Hon. Peter Mitchell, has been outcrowing the Yankees in an interview in the New York Herald.

The Honorable Peter would loom up in great form as an ambassador. An ambassador has been described as one who, abroad, elongates the truth for the good of his country.

You would think, to read the Honorable Peter, that the great republic—which, in a hundred years, has reached a position never attained by any other country in a thousand—was a mere pigmy to Canada, and that in political morality the United States was far behind the Dominion; while the truth is the corruption in Canada within the last ten or twenty years has not been paralleled—taking relative populations into account—in the history of mankind. Canada may be a corrupt country, but there is no reason why it needs to indulge in lofty snivel and hypocritical comparisons.

The Honorable Peter rightly urges the disadvantages of a President's Cabinet, the members of which are responsible, and yet who are not in the House to defend and explain their measures; but as to the President's fixity of tenure, that has advantages. It is altogether a better plan than that of the parliamentary system, under which, on some artfully-worded resolution, a government is suddenly upset. The Honorable Peter is much mistaken if he fancies that counsels of perfection have been reached in the system of parliamentary government.

The Honorable Peter's attitude throughout his interview is that of the self-satisfied fire-eating Chauvinist. Your Chauvinist is the man who does much to retard national reformation. Much truer service is rendered by those who, Hamlet-like, hold up a mirror in which the body politic can see itself as it is.

TOO MUCH MAGNIFICENCE.

Canada is too rich to be embarrassed by the private cars in which Governors-General and Ministers of the Crown disport themselves. At the same time this same country has no more need for private cars than it has for private balloons.

Outward magnificence is often a cloud for the movements of men conscious of inward unworthiness. Pomp and circumstance are among the vices of our rulers at Ottawa. The United States Government does not own a private car. The Canadian Government must own five or six gorgeous wheeled conveyances.

The President of the United States travels eight times out of ten in a parlor car with fellow-citizens who, like him, pay their way. A Cabinet Minister who proclaimed his greatness by the occupation of a private car would be laughed at.

Here in Canada members of the Government scarcely deign to travel even the shortest distance unless one of the company's private cars is coupled to the end of the regular train. Little partisans who, but for the accidents of politics, would be struggling hard to earn $2,000 per year, use private cars in their imperial journeyings as if they were monarchs or millionaires.

The expense to the country of all this magnificence must be serious enough to be an item worth saving. The expense is the smaller part of the evil. Our ultra magnificent public men spend the country's money in promoting their own glory. Their example inculcates the idea that plain living is a vice, when in truth a young country can have no surer aid to greatness than simplicity of manners and inexpensiveness of government.—[Toronto Telegram.

This prodigal outlay of public money is a direct result of the system that enables the Ministers at Ottawa to take far more money from the people, in the shape of taxes, than is necessary for the honest government of the country. In the days when Hon. Alex. Mackenzie was Premier there were no expensive private cars to junket around with, and no imperial tours through Canada by tenth-rate members of Parliament. Nowadays, however, as our Toronto contemporary points out, men who would find it hard work to scrape together a living in private life, are foisted into place at Ottawa, and immediately begin to make regal pilgrimages through the country. These private cars are paid for out of the people's taxes. They are fitted up and officered at the expense of the public. But the Ministers do not content themselves with using the wheeled palaces themselves. They farm them out to their friends, as is evidenced by the following dispatch from Brantford:

"Dr. Montague, M.P., and a party of friends passed through the city last night en route from Dunnville to Chicago, in the Governor-General's car."

By what right does Dr. Montague and his friends get possession of the Governor-General's car? It is true that the member for Haldimand has a lordly bearing, but there is no law and no precedent for the construction of a special car for the Governor-General, at the public expense, to be farmed out in his absence to any needy M. P. who may petition for it.

The whole system of supplying gorgeous private cars for the use of members of the Government and their hangers-on is wrong. It men like Mr. Bowell, Mr. Foster, Mr. Patterson Mr. Haggart and Sir Adolphe Caron think themselves above the common herd, and hold that a seat in a third class car is not good enough for them, they can hire a Pullman car, and pay for it out of the ample salaries and traveling expenses which the country gives them.

Even Queen Victoria does not regard herself as above paying her own traveling expenses. When she takes a journey by rail her Majesty insists that the cost of conveying herself and suite shall be paid to the railway company out of her private purse.

Under the present Ottawa regime royalty is discounted, and governmental extravagance seems to know no bounds.

PRESERVE NATURE'S HANDIWORK.

A Government Paper Protests Against the Sale in the Thousand Isles.

OTTAWA, July 27.—The Citizen, the Conservative organ, protests vigorously this morning against the Government sale of the Thousand Islands on Aug. 10. It says: "The sale cannot be called off a day too soon. It contemplates a great public wrong. The highest duty of a Government in relation to such rarities of nature's handiwork as the Thousand Islands of the St. Lawrence is to preserve them from the defiling touch of the speculator and the shoddy rich."

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN.

A man naturally desires to keep others from knowing how much he doesn't know. That is the only excuse for secret meetings.

Did it ever occur to you that the sun is blamed for many red noses that he doesn't redden?

I suppose some of the younger people are unaware of the beneficial tree-planting mania of a quarter of a century ago that has resulted in making London to-day one of the most tree-embowered cities on the continent. I notice that these trees, once saplings, have outspread their branches so much that in many cases they interfere with each other. In other cases, houses have too much shade for health. Is it not possible to devise some movement, with the general consent, for the systematic and scientific pruning, thinning out and management of our wealth of street shade trees?

I heard an interesting discussion the other day on the old question—Was Hamlet mad? It is contended by some that his aversion to the king was dissembled too well for a madman: and that his turns from the sanest talk with those he liked to the nonsense which bewildered old Polonius were a little too sudden not to be "put on." Hamlet's was a noble intellect, yet under stress of trouble and excessive emotion it had apparently become liable to unhingement at intervals and derangement in spots. I wonder what opinions on this question are held by Dr. Bucke, of London, or Dr. Daniel Clark, of Toronto—men who are at once ministers to minds diseased and adepts in literature.

The next generation are to have a right-royal time, depend upon it. And so should we if all the great inventors had been born a few centuries earlier. Take the phonograph, for instance. The greatest treat it has given us is to warble a few comic songs and ballads by merry mediocre singers in a show when by this time, if the phonograph had been invented several centuries since, and had improved as it ought, there should have been in existence an immense government phonographic hall, filled with phonographs. One could then have sauntered around and listened to good Queen Bess scolding at her ladies-in-waiting, or in turning over the catalogue our felicitous ears might have been filled with the sweet music of Lady Jane Grey's gentle voice. Oh, the famous speeches, the outbursts of melody, and passionate protests for liberty that have ravished the world, but only for the few brief moments in which they were uttered. Would we not all gladly give a good deal to be able to hear with our own ears the great Cardinal Wolsley declare "Had I but served my God with half the zeal I served my king, he would not, in mine age, have left me naked to mine enemies." The time is coming when the phonograph enthusiast will supersede the kodak fiend, who snaps us off in most ungarded moments, to our future shame and confusion.

AN UNDESERVED SNEER.

[Woodstock Sentinel-Review.]

The London Free Press calls Sir Oliver Mowat "The Hero of the Muskegs." This contemptuous expression is applied to the disputed territory which Mr. Mowat wrested from the Dominion Government. It is a district of great value. Still, because its party friends were not able to rob this Province of it and to divide it among the heelers, the Free Press chooses to regard it as a waste of muskegs. The Free Press is one of the journals which for years abused Mr. Blake for an expression about British Columbia which was really one used by Principal Grant. But among Sir Oliver's muskegs there is much greater proportion of good land than on our Pacific coast.

Blood Poisoning

Mrs. Mary E. O'Fallon, a very intelligent lady of Piqua, Ohio, was poisoned while assisting physicians at an autopsy 5 years ago, and soon terrible ulcers broke out on her head, arms, tongue and throat. Her hair all came out. Her husband spent hundreds of dollars without any benefit. She weighed but 78 pounds, and saw no prospect of help. At last she began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and at once improved; could soon get out of bed and walk. She says, "I became perfectly cured by

Mrs. M. E. O'Fallon.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

and am now a well woman. I weigh 128 pounds, eat well and do the work for a large family. My case seems a wonderful recovery and physicians look at me in astonishment, as almost like one raised from the dead."

HOOD'S PILLS should be in every family medicine chest. Once used, always preferred.

GUELPH DEFEATS THE ALERTS.

The Alerts went to Guelph yesterday and met foemen worthy of their willows. Guelph always was a sort of Jonah for the Forest City on the diamond. In the palmy days of the old Tecumsehs the Maple Leafs were the only nine that gave the local champions trouble, and they have kept it up ever since. The visitors defeated the Alerts here by one run in a splendid game Dominion Day, and yesterday the dose was repeated in the same quantity. It was a fine game, and was lost to the local nine through the loose playing of the old reliables, Player and Biscott. It was their off day. For the Alerts Handley pitched a steady if not brilliant game, and deserved better support. Bradford, of the Leafs, was knocked out of the box in the six inning and was replaced by McIlroy. The closeness of the finish made it very interesting, and the large well-behaved audience enjoyed the game immensely. The Maple Leafs will play two games here civic holiday. The score:

THE WHEEL.

RECORD-BREAKING.

It is a little early for the breaking of records, but three of them have had to go the way of all marks this spring. W. C. Sanger made a mile in 2:14 4-5 in a race at Hartford on July 4. John S. Johnson rode two miles in 4:47 2-5 at Pittsburg on June 24, and Frank Waller covered three miles in 7:31 at Indianapolis on July 5. None of these have yet been accepted, but they are the fastest records of America. George Smith holds the quarter-mile record of 0:31 1-5 at Hartford last fall, and Zimmerman the half in 1:01 4-5 made on the same track and at the same time. It will be seen that Bliss' mile in 2:17 is very close to the record, and the promising young rider writes from Chicago that he will not only be on hand, but will try to break the Michigan record and that of America, too, if possible.

A BICYCLE MEET.

The first annual meet of the London Bicycle Club, which takes place on Wednesday, Aug. 16, at Queen's Park, promises to be an interesting occasion. The programme of events has just been issued. It is composed thus: One mile novice, 1 mile city championship, 1 mile open, 2 mile 1893 city riders, ½-mile (1:20 class), 3 mile handicap, 2 mile (6:00 class), ½ mile open, 1 mile (2:50 class) and 5 mile team race (three men). The prizes offered are valued at $1,000. Some of the rules to be observed are indicated as follows: "C. W. A. rules to govern. Entrance fee, 50 cents; team race, $1. Position on track according to order of entry. Three starters for second prize. Entry list closes Aug. 12. The right to alter programme is reserved. Competitors for handicap event must send particulars of their last three performances." Entry blanks may be secured on application to J. McCormick, secretary race committee, London Bicycle Club, care of R. C. Struthers & Co., London, Ont.

A CYCLING TRIP.

A. Worth, lieutenant, and George H. Smith, of the Toronto Bicycle Club, are on a tour. They left home about ten days ago and wheeled north, visiting Orillia and Barrie; then west, taking in Collingwood, Owen Sound and Port Elgin; then south to Kincardine, Goderich and London; then west to Sarnia and Detroit. Thence they came east to St. Thomas, and will proceed home via Woodstock and Guelph. On Wednesday afternoon they took a run to Port Stanley before resuming their journey. They report the roads on the whole good, and much better in the western than in the northern section of Ontario through which they have wheeled.

CRICKET.

LONDON ASYLUM VS. AYLMER.

A cloudless sky and pleasant company made the game at Aylmer yesterday one of the most pleasant of the season. At 9:40 a.m. Dr. Sinclair and T. Tobias faced the bowling of Pope and Bacon. E. B. Monteith made 34, not out, by good cricket, and White, Hoag and Sinclair reached double figures. The inning closed at 11:30 for 105. For the Asylum, at the fall of the first wicket, Walker joined Terry, and runs came fast till 70 was telegraphed, when the latter was caught on a difficult fly by White. At 84 Walker was bowled for a fast 21. At 98 Bacon was caught for a steady 12, and H. Pope and Hadley played till lunch. At 2:30 the score ran from 98 to 165, when Pope's wicket fell for 37, and Hadley succumbed a few overs later for 34. England ran up 25 quickly, and Tillard and Flaherty, by good play, increased the inning to 234. Score:

FIVE POINTS A BONE OF CONTENTION.

DETROIT, July 27.—Eight horses brought here a week ago by George Leroy are now in Perkins' hotel barn in charge of Sheriff Collins. The horses are the trotting stallion Five Points, with a record of 2:18; the bay pacer Finnegan, 8 years old; the bay trotting mare Lucy McGregor, 5 years old; the bay trotter Steve Ensley, 7 years old; the black pacing stallion Loredo, 6 years old; the trotting stallion Aldongo, 2 years old, and the bay pacer Tom Smith, 6 years old. The horses were in Toronto two weeks ago, and Leroy gave to Charles Miller, the lawyer acting on behalf of G. R. Hogaboom, president of the Toronto Trotting Association, a bill of sale for the horses for the sum of $800. Leroy turned the animals over to Miller, but a week ago Monday night the driver went to the barn where the horses were kept, managed to get them out and shipped them to Detroit. Mr. Miller came to Detroit and placed the mortgage in the hands of Constable Watkins for foreclosure. The constable seized the horses and put them in Herkins' barn. When Mr. Miller arrived in Detroit, Leroy made himself scarce and has not since been seen.

On Saturday night James Vining, of London, Ont., came to Detroit and laid claim to a one-half interest in Five Points, Finnegan, Lucy, McGregor and Steve Ensley. Charles L. Smith also appeared and said he owned the pacer Tom Smith, and Alexander H. Robinson announced that Alledo, Loredo and Aldongo were his property. These men instituted replevin proceedings and got possession of the horses, but the Perkins Hotel people stepped in and detained the animals on account of the bill for their expenses the past week. Mr. Miller will take the matter into court.

THE DEATH OF O'DONOHUE.

The promising horse O'Donohue, winner of the Queen's Plate of 1892, died on Monday at Waterloo from inflammation of the lungs. O'Donohue was a very fine race horse, although he ran only once and that was a victory. The Queen's Plate was the only race which he has won. After the Guineas of last year, which he won on three legs, he was given a long rest. He was then 3 years old and was by Cromaboo, out of Milly. In the spring he was brought down by Trainer Walker with the Woodbine lot. Everyone admired his fine development from his 3-year-old form. He looked every inch a winner, but his feet were affected and he was placed in reserve. He was valued at $8,000.

GRAND CIRCUIT RACES.

CLEVELAND, O., July 27.—The crowd in attendance at the third day of the Grand Circuit races—the red letter day—was up to expectations. The time in the 2-year-old 2:40 class was the fastest made in that class this year. Little Albert dropped two heats of the free-for-all to Walter E., but won the race, the five heats being the fastest ever trotted consecutively in a race, Ellard, the favorite in the 2:18 class, won with ease. Local Market Quotations.

Reported by A. M. Hamilton & Son.

Thursday, July 27.

Wheat remained steady to-day. The amount coming forward is small, but seems to be equal to the demand: $1 04 to $1 06 was the price of red and $1 06 to $1 08 for white. There were better deliveries of oats than any day since harvesting commenced. Prices were considerably easier. $1 20 to $1 22 being closing values. Nothing new occurred in any other kind of grain. Butter was more plentiful and sold steady at 18c to 22c per lb, according to quantity and quality. Eggs steady; 11c to 13c per dozen. Potatoes, $1 20 to $1 30 for new; no old offered. Hay slow; receipts very heavy; sales, $7 to $7 50 per ton. General quotations are as follows:

Oats Take a Tumble.

Many farmers have a habit of holding back cereals for higher prices. Sometimes they hit it about right, but oftener they hold back until the market appears to be at flood-tide, and then all coming in at once the market is glutted, and prices take a tumble. This was the case with oats on the market on Thursday. There was probably more of that article on than there has been in all the six previous weeks put together. Prices were good up to this week. Last Saturday $1 35 a cental was realized, but this morning $1 15 was the ruling price. For the musty article only $1 10 could be had, and in some cases $1 20 and $1 25 was got. The farmers who have had their oats stored away since last season are now obliged to market them in order to make room for this season's crops, hence the fall in price.

Wanted—A Business Address.

The Toronto Telegram thus lays down a principle to be applied in selecting aldermen: One sure way of improving the city council is to vote next January for no man who has not a business address.

The mere fact that a man is at home when he is not at the city hall is a sufficient reason why the citizens should give him a chance to find some business of his own to attend to.

The statement that a man who has no business address is the worst sort of a man to attend to the city's business, does not apply to retired business men like Ald. Lamb and Ald. Murray.

Men whose lives are devoted to the pursuit of taking in decreasing rents and having increasing taxes taken out of them can generally be relied upon to take care of the citizens' money.

The question to be answered before a vote is given to any man, is, what does he do? If he has nothing to do but sleep, eat and drink outside the city hall, it is in the public interest that he should be deprived of every chance to be an alderman for a living.

The Street Railway Extension.

The street railway extension has been laid down the hill on Dundas street to the bridge. The hill has been improved if anything and the grade lessened by the removal of earth from the top to the bottom. Work has been commenced on another switch a little to the east of Ridout street and any stay alderman who ventures around is looked upon with suspicion. "We are in better fighting trim this time," said one of the navvies yesterday; "we have five of Pawnee Bill's men with us, and they are fighters from the word go." It appears that these men became somewhat exuberant and were discharged from the show shortly after leaving here. They found work on the extension, and handle the pick and shovel with an acquired grace.

Strathroy Notes.

The Olympic Club House—the Scatcherd property—on west Front street, is a sorry-looking sight. About 7 a.m. to-day fire was discovered. Men ran from bed and breakfast and began pulling out the furniture. Boys ran down street shouting "Fire!" The engine and reels were hurried out and soon the blaze was extinguished. But the upper part of the building is wrecked, the roof and stairway are burned through, the carpets downstairs are a mass of soot and water, and it will cost a round sum to restore the furnishings. Insurance on stock, $1,000; on house, $1,500. Cause supposed to be a lighted cigar dropped on the floor.

Miss Wyatt and Mr. James Miller, of London, are spending a short vacation in town.

At Port Stanley.

A large crowd took in the picnics of the Memorial and St. Matthew's Church Sunday schools at Port Stanley Wednesday. The weather though cool was delightful and all enjoyed themselves. The Memorial Church children had games which resulted as follows:

Wheelmen Enthusiastic for a Track.

The wheelmen of London are in earnest regarding the construction of a cinder race track. If the Western Fair Board, backed by the City Council, is consistent in its expressed general approval of the scheme, they will find no lack of hearty, substantial support on the part of the pedaling fraternity. At a meeting of the executive committee of the London Bicycle Club, held last evening, it was decided that the Western Fair Board should be waited upon again. In order to show that they were not in any way attempting to monopolize or control the scheme, Secretary Stanton was instructed to communicate with the officials of the other cycling organizations asking their co-operation. Representatives of the Meteor, London Wheelmen and Forest City Clubs will be asked to meet at the London Bicycle Club's rooms this evening at 7:30 o'clock to have a preliminary talk before approaching the executive of the Fair Board. It is to be hoped that the eight delegates—two from each of the four clubs—will be on hand. Some of the members of the London Bicycle Club present at the meeting did not see why the fair authorities should require any financial guarantee for the future, but if such was absolutely necessary they agreed that any reasonable amount which might be stated would be forthcoming.

CRICKET.

A game of cricket will be played here to-morrow between the Woodstock and London clubs. On Saturday the Banker's eleven will play the club of No. 1 Company, R. C. R. I.

HIS REPENTANCE.

Captain Davenal was married. He had fallen in love with a pretty girl in India, or she had fallen in love with him, and they were married. She was an only child, he wrote them word, and an heiress; her name Rose Reid, now Rose Davenal. Miss Davenal felt nearly sure it must be a niece of her old friend to whom she was that evening engaged. Lady Reid's late husband had a brother in the civil service at Bombay, reported to be a rich man, and it was probable that this was his daughter.

"It is just like Edward," she said tartly to Sara, as she watched for the carriage. "To think that he should marry after a month or two's acquaintance! He can't have known her much longer."

"But he says she is so pretty, aunt; so lovable!" was Sara's pleading answer. "And—if she is an heiress, I am very glad for Edward's sake."

"Ah," grimly returned Miss Bettine, having as usual heard all awry, "that is, no doubt, the money's sake. I don't forget a good old proverb, 'Marry in haste and repent at leisure!' Here comes the carriage!"

They went down to it. Neal, all perfection as usual, assisted them in and took his place by the side of the driver. They were nearly at their journey's end when in passing a row of houses, Sara, who happened to be looking out, saw Oswald Cray at one of the windows; and by his side a fair face half hidden by the crimson curtain; the face of Jane Allister.

A mist gathered over her eyes and her heart. She looked out still, mechanically; she saw the name written up as they left the houses behind them. "Bangalore Terrace;" she answered her aunt's remarks as before; but the change within her was as if sunshine had given place to night.

Why? could she still be cherishing those past hopes? No; never for an instant. She knew that all was over between her and Oswald Cray; that he was entirely lost to her. But she could not put away from her the old feelings and the old love; she could not see him thus in familiar companionship with another, without bitter pangs and wild emotion. Perhaps Jane Allister was to be his wife!

Neal left them at Lady Reid's, his orders being to return with the carriage at 10:45. When he reached home it was dusk; and Dorcas, attired in her bonnet and shawl, came to him in the passage.

"I am going out a bit," she said. "I want to buy a few things before the draper's shops are shut. You won't mind, Neal? I have laid your supper out, all ready."

"Go if you like," returned Neal. "What time shall you be back?"

"I'll be back by 9, if I can. It's past 7 now. The worst of this London is, when once you get out, the time passes, and you don't know how. It's a moral impossibility for us country-folks to get away from the shop winders."

"So it is," acquiesced Neal, complacently. "Stay out till 10, if you like; but you must not be later, for I have to go for the ladies."

"All right," said Dorcas. "I'll be sure to be in by 10."

She departed. Neal watched her fairly off, and then went indoors. He closed the shutters of the dining parlor, and went up to the drawing-room, where he set the candle on the table, and closed those shutters also. Then he took a leisurely survey of the room, apparently searching for something, and reading, en passant, a note or two left on the mantel-piece.

What he was searching for was not there—the desk of Miss Sara Davenal. "She has taken it into her room," he said, half aloud. "It was here this afternoon, and she was writing at it."

He went upstairs, higher yet, with his stealthy tread; he dared to penetrate into the chamber of his young mistress. The first thing he saw on entering was the desk on a side table. Neal seized it and retreated.

Carrying it down to the drawing-room, he bolted the door and took his seat before it. That little episode, the spoiled lock of the doctor's desk, had taught him caution; he would not make the same mistake with this. Neal was an adept at his work; and by the ingenious use of a penknife and a piece of wire the desk was opened. It may be a question how long Neal had waited for this opportunity. Such a one had not occurred for months; his ladies out, and the house wrapped in the silence of night, and not likely to be invaded.

And now, a word to my readers. Should there be any among you who may feel inclined to cavil at this description of Neal's treachery, deeming it improbable, let me tell you that it is the simple truth—a recital of an episode in real life. The reading of the letters, the opening of the desks, the ferreting propensities, the treachery altogether were practiced by a retainer in a certain family, and the mischief wrought was intolerable. It separated those in spirit who had never been separated before; it gave rise to all sorts of misconception and illfeeling; it caused animosity to prevail among relatives for years; and the worst was—the worst, the worst! that some of these relatives were never reconciled again in this world, for, before the truth came to light, death had been busy.

As Coleridge says:

"Whispering tongues can poison truth."

What Neal's motive was, I cannot tell you. What the motive of that other one was, was as little to be traced. There was nothing to be gained by it, so far as could be seen. It may have been that the prying propensities were innate in both natures the love of working mischief inherant in their hearts. Certainly it was the ruling passion of their lives. The most extraordinary inventions, the strangest stories were related by the one; you will find, before you have done with the other, that they were not abjured by him.

The first letter Neal came to in the desk—at least, the first he opened—happened to be one from Mr. Wheatley. By that he learned that 200 pounds had been lent to Sara in the summer, for the "completion of the payment she spoke of." Coupled with his previously acquired knowledge, Neal came to the conclusion that the trouble as regarded Captain Davenal was over, and the money paid. The precise nature of the trouble Neal had never succeeded in arriving at, but he did know that money had to be paid in secret on his account. The next letter he came upon, was the one received from the Captain that day; and if Neal had hoped to find groans and trouble and difficulty in it, he was completely disappointed. It was one of the sunniest letters he had ever read, it spoke of his girl wife and his own happiness; not a breath was there in it of care in any shape. Neal was nonplussed; and the letters did not afford him pleasure.

"The thing all settled!—the money paid!" he repeated to himself, revolving the items of news. "No wonder she has looked sprightly lately. Why, for months after the doctor's death, she seemed fit to hang herself! I thought some change had come to her. And he is married, is he?—and has picked up an heiress? I don't like that. Some folks do have the luck of it in this world. It's a great shame! And she had no right to be happy, for I know she hates me. I know she suspects me, that's more. I'll try —I'll try and deal out a little small coin in exchange. There's always that other thing, thank goodness: the break with Mr. Oswald Cray. I wonder if she saw him this evening at that window? I did; and I saw the young lady, too. I hope it's going to be a match, if only to serve out this one!"

With this charitable wish, Mr. Neal resumed his research of the desk. But nothing more of particular moment turned up, and he soon made it fast again in his own artistic manner, which defied detection.

And when Dorcas came in, she found Neal, his supper eaten, stretched comfortably by the kitchen fire, taking a doze.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

WAS SHE NEVER TO BE AT PEACE.

When you have two parts of a history to relate, it is rather difficult to know which to begin with. Here several people are demanding our attention at once. Events are thickening; and if the past few months are devoid of action, a great deal is crowded into the present one.

Perhaps it will be better to give the precedence to Miss Davenal and Sara. News of an unpleasant nature was on its road to them; but they sat at breakfast, unconscious of its nearness, waited upon by Neal the immaculate, in all confiding security, and entirely unsuspicious of that gentleman's desk researches of the previous evening. A letter came in; it was directed to Miss Davenal in the handwriting of Dr. Keen.

"What's agate now?" exclaimed Miss Davenal, as she opened it. For it was not very usual for the doctor to write in the middle of a quarter. It ran as follows:

Summer Weakness

And that tired feeling, loss of appetite and nervous prostration are driven away by Hood's Sarsaparilla like mist before the morning sun. To realize the benefit of this great medicine, give it a trial and you will join the army of enthusiastic admirers of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Sure, efficient, easy—Hood's Pills. They should be in every traveler's grip and every family medicine chest. 25 cents a box. c

There is a tied in the affairs of the men which, if taken at the knot, leads to strangulation.

The Best Advertisements.

Many thousands of unsolicited letters have reached the manufacturers of Scott's Emulsion from those cured through its use, of consumption and scrofulous diseases! None can speak so confidently of its merits as those who have tested it.

It ought to give promise of rest to a standing army to be ordered to the seat of war.

A mans' wife should always be the same especially to her husband; but if she is weak and nervous, and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they will make her "feel like a different person," at least so they all say, and their husbands say so too.

Charley—So Jim, you were extravagant enough to pay $20 a dozen for your handkerchiefs. Don't you think that was a good deal of money to blow in.

Carter's Little Liver Pills must not be confounded with common Cathartic or Purgative Pills as they are extremely unlike them in every respect. One trial will prove their superiority.

"What are you so busy about?" said one employe to another. "I'm at work on a fire-escape." "Going to patent it?" "No. It's my resignation."

It SOOTHES the CHILD, SOFTENS the GUMS, ALLAYS all PAIN; CURES WIND COLIC, and is the best remedy for DIARRHŒA. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Mrs. Crimsonbeak—My husband is a great inventor. Mrs. Yeast—Indeed! What does he invent? "Excuses."

Nothing impure or injurious contaminates the popular antidote to pain, throat and lung remedy and general corrective, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It may be used without the slightest apprehension of any other than salutary consequences. Coughs, rheumatism, earache, bruises, cuts and sores succumb to its action.

No matter whether the mosquito's music is good, bad or indifferent, he never forgets to present his little bill for it.

No one need fear cholera or any summer complaint if they have a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial ready for use. It corrects all looseness of the bowels promptly and causes a healthy and natural action. This is a medicine adapted for the young and old, rich and poor, and is rapidly becoming the most popular medicine for cholera, dysentery, etc., in the market.

Jobsons—Money is tight all the time now. Hobson—Yes that is why it should have the gold cure.

At Death's Door.—Dyspepsia Conquered.—A Great Medical Triumph. GENTLEMEN,—My medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live, when I commenced the use of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 pounds. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the VEGETABLE DISCOVERY consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat anything with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over 30 dozen VEGETABLE DISCOVERY since it cured me, as I am well-known, and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life, as I never expected to recover when I first commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to be able to contribute this testimonial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia. JEAN VALCOURT,

BRUCE

A horse, harness and cart were stolen from the stable of George Hart, of Brucefield, lately, and no tidings can be gotten of the animal.

The following are among the grants in Surrogate Court proceedings made for the month of June: Probate of the will of Geo. W. Malloch, of the village of Paisley, attorney-at-law, was granted to his widow, Charlotte Malloch; personal estate, $15,000; real estate, $900. Probate of the will of Wm. Danskine, of the township of Bruce, farmer, was granted to Walter Danskine, John L. McLaurin, Wm. J. Danskine and John A. Danskine; personal estate valued at $4,800, and real estate, $9,000. Probate of the will of Jane Sadler, of the village of Paisley, widow, was granted to John Marshall Hopper. The personal estate was valued at $3,980, and real estate at $1,000.

Rev. G. B. Greig, of Puyallup, Wash., has been tendered a call by the congregation of the West Presbyterian Church, New Westminster. He was formerly pastor of a congregation in Paisley, and since then of a church in Sydney, Australia, for a few years.

The Presbytery of Maitland met in Knox Church, Kincardine, July 25, Rev. A. Sutherland, moderator, pro tem. The ordination trials of Mr. Kenneth McLennan, B.A., B.D., were heard, and he was examined in Biblical Hebrew, theology, and church history. The ordination trials were sustained as very satisfactory. The Presbytery, at 7:30, met for the ordination services. There was a large congregation present. The moderator preached a suitable sermon on Mark, xvi., 15. Rev. Dr. McDonald, of Seaforth, representing the foreign mission committee of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, narrated, at the request of the moderator, the principal steps taken in calling Mr. K. McLennan, who is under appointment as missionary to Honan, China, to the foreign mission field. The questions appointed to be put to missionaries at their ordination were put to Mr. McLennan, to which satisfactory answers were given. The moderator, surrounded by the brethren, engaged in solemn prayer. Mr. McLennan kneeled and was, by the laying on of the hands of the Presbytery and earnest prayer, solemnly set apart to the office of the holy ministry and commended for guidance and success therein to the grace of God. The moderator gave to Mr. McLennan the right hand of fellowship, and in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, the only king and head of the church, and by the authority of the Presbytery of Maitland invited him to take part in the gospel ministry, and designated him as a missionary to Honan, China. Rev. John Ross addressed the newly-ordained missionary; Rev. J. Malcolm addressed the assembly present. Rev. Dr. McDonald, representing the foreign mission committee, addressed the congregation also, and in the name of the foreign mission committee and Presbyterian Church in Canada presented the newly-ordained missionary with a copy of the Word of God—a symbol of the power of Jehovah God—that which elevates the nations and evangelizes the world. The clerk was instructed to give the Rev. K. McLennan a certificate of license and also a certificate of ordination to be presented to the Presbytery of Honan, China.

IT WOULD.

Now, wouldn't it be very Nice to be with Col. Peary,
As he navigates through icebergs to the pole;
To spend the summer season
Where the weather's fair and freezin'
And you never hear the thunder growl and roll.

Now, wouldn't it be splendid
Just to sink to rest attended
By a furry and a frozen polar bear;
And when Morning's breath entices,
Strike a straight road where the ice is,
And slice the wind a-driving with your deer!

But "melt's" the word to usward,
And the weather, drifting eastward,
Seems to rage beyond all counsel and control;
O, to cross the great equator
In a fast refrigerator,
On the track of Col. Peary and the pole!

Every lady in the land says Duncombe's Dark Pills for Digestion and Dyspepsia are at their command.

It is well known to bakers of bread that flour made from Manitoba hard wheat will make from four to five pounds more bread to the hundred than flour made from Ontario wheat. Hunt Bros. use half of this grade of wheat in all their bakers' flour, and one-third in their celebrated "Diamond Patent," which is sold by all grocers. Users of flour should bear this in mind and ask their grocers for this brand. zxv

A Child Saved.

My little boy was taken very bad with diarrhea, he was very delicate and got so low we had no hope of his life; but a lady friend recommended Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and although he could only bear a few drops at a time he got well. It saved my child.

The mosquito gives you some music and then he takes up a collection.

We have no hesitation in saying that Dr. J. D. Kellegg's Dysentery Cordial is without doubt the best medicine ever introduced for dysentery, diarrhœa, cholera and all summer complaints, sea sickness, etc. It promptly gives relief and never fails to effect a positive cure. Mothers should never be without a bottle when their children are teething.

The latest whim for the owners of dogs is to make them wear shoes in the house for the purpose of protecting the polished floors. They are made of chamois, with leather soles.

Gentlemen,—I was thoroughly cured of indigestion by using only three bottles of B.B.B., and truthfully recommended it to all suffering from the same malady.

The longest fence in the word is in Australia—1,236 miles. It is made of wire netting and its object is to keep out rabbits.

It Saved His Life.

Gentlemen,—I can recommend Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, for it saved my life when I was about 6 months old. We have used it in our family when required ever since, and it never fails to cure all summer complaints. I am now 14 years of age.

FRANCIS WALSH, Dalkeith, Ont.

A bottle of Angostura Bitters to flavor your lemonade or any other cold drink will keep you free from Dyspepsia, Colic Diarrhea and all diseases originating from the digestive organs. Be sure to get the genuine Angostura, manufactured by Dr. J. G. B. Siegert & Sons.

A Needle in Her Hand.

Mrs. Charles Hall, of Thedford, was washing some clothes about six months ago when she suddenly felt a sharp twinge of pain in her hand. She could not account for it and although suffering considerable pain she continued her work. This week a hard substance was felt at the region of the old pain, and further investigations revealed about two thirds of a needle which had run into her hand and broken off. The steel was extracted and now the hand is free from pain. The flesh around where the needle entered had been hard ever since the accident, and the feeling benumbed.

Country Hotel-Keepers Fined.

The charges against Messrs. C. Tupholme and John McIntyre, two hotel-keepers in the township of Lobo, of selling liquor without licenses, were given a hearing before Squires Edwards and McIntyre Wednesday at Komoka.

Tupholme was sworn in his own defense. He denied having sold any intoxicants himself, and said that none had been sold in his house. He had only bought some beer for personal consumption. About a dozen witnesses were on hand to aid in the prosecution. Only two of these were called. The first stated that beer had been supplied him on several occasions at the defendant's hostlery, while the second had whetted his thirst a dozen times during the present month with forbidden liquids at the same place. The accused then decided to withdraw his plea of "not guilty." He was summarily fined $50 and costs or three months in jail. Tupholme, "for reasons best known to himself," had summonsed a number of temperance people, including several ladies, as witnesses. Their testimony was not required.

McIntyre pleaded guilty of the accusation against him, and a similar judgment to that in the preceding case was meeted out.

Mr. J. B. McKillop conducted the prosecution and R. H. Dignan acted as legal defendant.

Both the accused will be given time in which to pay their fines.

"The contention," observed Mr. McKillop, in conversation with an ADVERTISER reporter, "that the local option by-law is invalid in this instance is of no avail, as the prosecution was entered under the Liquor License Act."
