

Nicholas the Second

"The Czar Is Dead—Long Live the Czar!"

The Late Autocrat's Son Already Proclaims Himself Emperor.

Commands His Subjects to Take the Oath of Allegiance.

Allusions to His Approaching Marriage—Pre-arrangements of the Late Czar—Mourning in Europe—President Cleveland Notified.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 1.—It is announced that the last public message issued by the Czar was a telegram sent by his Majesty to the troops of the district of Moscow, who, on the anniversary of the Czar's escape from death in the railway disaster at Borki, wired to the Emperor their congratulations and good wishes. In response the Czar expressed his thanks for their sentiments in connection with an event so memorable as was that of his miraculous escape from threatened danger.

THE NEWS IN PARIS.
PARIS, Nov. 1.—The news of the Czar's death created a sensation here and aroused a general feeling of sorrow. The first news came in an official dispatch to the Foreign Office. President Casimir-Perier read it, and after a long silence said: "He was France's strong and loyal friend." Signs of mourning have multiplied ever since. La Presse, Le Jour and Le Soleil issued special editions with black borders. Le Soleil's comment was: "All French patriots will be grieved by this sad news. The mourning will extend throughout France. The Czar was a sincere partisan of peace and a devoted friend of our country. Our sorrow is unutterably deep, but there is no reason for despair, as the heir of Alexander III. will recognize the close bond uniting France and Russia. The sorrow of France will be the most convincing evidence to the son and sovereign that the union of nations, which for years has assured peace, must remain and guarantee the peace in the future."

President Casimir-Perier sent messages of condolence this afternoon to St. Petersburg and Livadia. All the Ministers inscribed their names in the callers' book at the foreign embassy. Flags on all the Government buildings are at half-mast, and many of the buildings are draped with mourning.

IN LONDON.
LONDON, Nov. 1.—The Foreign Office received a dispatch from the British embassy at St. Petersburg stating that the Czar's death occurred at 2:20. The announcement was officially communicated by wire from Livadia to Marlborough House, the residence of the Prince of Wales. The Prince and Princess of Wales, who are on their way to Livadia, were at the last station this side of Vienna, when they received the dispatch announcing the Czar's death.

The news did not reach Balmoral until 7 o'clock this evening. The Queen was not surprised, as she had been informed of every phase of the Czar's illness. Nevertheless, she was deeply moved when she learned that the Czar had died. She sent a long telegram to the Czarina and issued to the court officials the usual instructions as to mourning, which are to be published in an extra Gazette. The Russian embassy received its official news of the Czar's death from Lord Kimberley, Secretary of Foreign Affairs. Several Ministers called at the Russian embassy this afternoon.

STETTIN, Nov. 1.—The Kaiser received news of the death of the Czar while dining with officers of the Grenadiers at Stettin. His Majesty immediately wired a message of condolence to the Czarowitch at Livadia.

IN ST. PETERSBURG.
ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 1.—The churches in Moscow and St. Petersburg have been thronged this afternoon and evening with men and women praying for the Czar's soul. The streets are unusually full, and everybody seems to be depressed. Near the churches many groups of weeping women have been gathering since nightfall. The crowds are quiet and mournful.

An official dispatch received by the Russian embassy this evening says that the Czar died at 2:15 o'clock. Press dispatches from St. Petersburg speak of the deep mourning throughout the city and great throngs in and around the churches. St. Isaac's Cathedral was draped before 8 o'clock this evening.

IN ITALY.
ROME, Nov. 1.—Premier Crispi and Baron Blanc, Minister of Foreign Affairs, called at the Russian embassy this afternoon to express their sorrow over the death of the Czar. The Pope has sent a message of condolence to Livadia.

IN DENMARK.
COPENHAGEN, Nov. 1.—Expressions of deep sorrow have come from all classes since the announcement of the Czar's death. A memorial service will be held tomorrow morning in the Russian church. All the members of the royal family will be present.

IN HOLLAND.
THE HAGUE, Nov. 1.—The news of the Czar's death had a quieting effect upon the whole city. The Queen and Queen Regent have sent messages of condolence to Livadia, and will send a delegation to the funeral.

AT WASHINGTON.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Cable advices from the United States legation at St. Petersburg reached the State Department this evening announcing the death of the Czar. The official announcement will be met without delay by a message from the President conveying to the Czarina the sympathy of the nation's condolence, with other official recognition of the great event.

THE Czar's CLOSING HOURS.
YALTA, Nov. 1.—The Czar was told on Tuesday that he could live only a few days more. He listened composedly. During the rest of the day he passed his time in disposing of his personal and family affairs. Then he calmly awaited the end with his consciousness broken only occasionally with short periods of coma. Yesterday morning he looked for the last time from the windows of the palace. He was long silent; then he said it was pleasant to feel that he could pass his last hours on Russian soil. Last night he had no sleep. He was racked constantly by violent coughing and hemorrhage. His heart grew so weak that it often seemed to have stopped beating. These distressing symptoms became more accentuated at 10 o'clock this morning, but shortly afterward the Czar rallied slightly. He was fully conscious. He wished the sacrament to be given him in the presence of the family, and he received the viaticum with grateful fervor. An hour and a half later he was seized with violent spasms. It seemed as if death had come, but he rallied again, and at 12:30 he appeared to be free from pain. But the weakening heart beats and breathing told his physicians that the end was coming fast. He was conscious almost to the last moment. At 2:15 his eyes closed slowly and he ceased breathing.

THE REMAINS.
The body will be embalmed in Livadia tonight, and will be exposed in the palace chapel for a day or two. According to the tentative arrangements made tonight the body will be conveyed aboard the imperial yacht Star to Odessa. It will be escorted by the whole Black Sea fleet, which has orders to assemble at once of Yalta. From Odessa the body will be taken on a special train to St. Petersburg, and will be placed in the Cathedral of Sts. Peter and Paul. The final ceremonies will be held probably in about two weeks.

NICHOLAS II.
It is understood that Czar Nicholas II. will be proclaimed tomorrow, that the Grand Duke George Alexander the Third's second son, now ill in the Caucasus, will be declared heir, and that the troops and state officials will take the oath of loyalty and allegiance on Saturday. State mourning is expected to begin on Saturday.

THE NEWS IN VIENNA.
VIENNA, Nov. 1.—The news made a deep depression here, and the saddest scene all the greater as the streets and restaurants were crowded with people returning from the cemeteries after the All Saints' services. The Grand Duke Sergius and Alexander crossed the Austrian frontier and continued their journey to Algeria, where the Grand Duke Alexander passes the winter on account of pulmonary phthisis.

CONSCIOUS AT THE LAST.
LONDON, Nov. 1.—The Daily News correspondent at Yalta says the Czar was fully conscious. When he felt that his last hour was approaching he asked for extreme unction. This was administered by Father Ivan, who afterwards conversed with the dying man for some time. The Czar asked that his family should gather around him. He spoke with each member separately, but at the greatest length with the Czarina. He then gave all his blessing, bade all farewell, and soon afterwards he passed quietly away.

THE IMPERIAL WEDDING MUST WAIT—Details of the Wreck of the Wairarapa—117 People Saved by a Breeches Buoy—Pathetic Scenes.

Distasteful to the Vatican.
LONDON, Nov. 1.—The Standard's Rome correspondent says: "The Vatican views with disfavor the nomination of Prince Hohenzollern to the German Chancellorship because he opposed the doctrine of infallibility and the temporal power of the Pope, nevertheless its diplomatic reserve will be maintained."

Plot to Assassinate the Czarowitch.
LONDON, Nov. 1.—According to a special dispatch received here from St. Petersburg a conspiracy against the life of the Czarowitch has been discovered there. It is added that for several days past the police have been actively engaged in arresting nihilists. Among those arrested are several students. The police have also obtained possession of incriminating letters.

Nicholas' Preference.
LONDON, Nov. 1.—Dispatches from Odessa appear to cast serious doubts on Nicholas' fondness for France. He is reported to be more Anglophile than Gallophile, although inclined to continue the same understanding with France. The friendly relations between the emperor and the French are likely to be maintained, but everything in the shape of a written treaty deprecated.

The Wedding Must Wait.
LONDON, Nov. 1.—The sudden death of the Russian Emperor will, it is understood, postpone the marriage of the Crown Prince to Princess Alix for at least one year, which will constitute the household period of mourning. The coronation of the new Emperor will not, it is understood, occur before the next twelve months; it may be delayed a year longer. The late Emperor was not crowned until years after his father's death, and the latter also waited a similar period after his accession to the throne.

In the Flowery Kingdom.
LONDON, Nov. 1.—A Central News dispatch from Tien Tsin says the Japanese have placed three bridges across the Yalu River and 15,000 Japanese soldiers are reported to be in China.

A dispatch from Chee Foo says that Admiral Fremantle, commanding the British fleet, has returned from Tien Tsin, where he paid a visit to Li Hung Chang. The Viceroy gravely offered to buy the Centurion and three other warships of the British squadron. When the admiral explained that the sale of the vessels would be impossible the Viceroy persisted in his offer. The Chinese imagine that Admiral Fremantle is holding out for a higher price. The Chinese fleet left Wei Hai Wei on Oct. 23, and a naval engagement is expected at any time. There are only four foreigners among the officers and men who man the Chinese fleet.

Almost Sure to be Shot.
PARIS, Nov. 1.—The chase of Capt. Albert Dreyfus, charged with high treason in having sold information in regard to plans of frontier fortifications to agents of the Italian Government, and also having divulged the plans for mobilizing the French army in the event of war, was considered today by a Cabinet council. It is the general opinion that Capt. Dreyfus will be shot after the formality of a court martial has been gone through with. It is also charged that he has sold to German agents information similar to that applied to the Italian Government. The captain was attached to the organization and mobilizing department of the general staff, and in this capacity held access to diers at Stettin last night, cheers were given for Emperor Nicholas II. and the bands played the Russian Hymn.

A LONELY LIFE.
BERLIN, Nov. 2.—The Kreuz Zeitung says: "The first of the Polish National Alliance of America, said: 'Millions of men cannot help but rejoice at the death of this despot. As one who was the cause of sending thousands of human beings to a fate worse than death in that hell upon earth, Siberia, every lover of freedom all the world over must rejoice. It may be that his death means only a change from one despot to another, but every such change must be in the direction of lessening the chain that bears heavily on the people.'"

MOURNING IN LONDON.
LONDON, Nov. 2.—St. James and Buckingham Palaces and Marlborough House present a sombre appearance, the blinds of all three being drawn. Prayers were said in the Russian embassy at 9 this morning. Telegrams of condolence are flowing into the embassy from all parts of the country.

BERLIN, Nov. 2.—It is stated that the Kaiser will attend the funeral of the late Czar in person.

CLEVELAND NOTIFIED.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—President Cleveland has received a personal message from the new Emperor, announcing the death of his father and his succession to the throne.

REJOICING OVER HIS DEATH.
CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—S. F. Adalia Satael-licki, president of the Polish National Alliance of America, said: "Millions of men cannot help but rejoice at the death of this despot. As one who was the cause of sending thousands of human beings to a fate worse than death in that hell upon earth, Siberia, every lover of freedom all the world over must rejoice. It may be that his death means only a change from one despot to another, but every such change must be in the direction of lessening the chain that bears heavily on the people."

City Night Schools.

A Good Chance to Catch Up With the Times.

Easy for Workers to Get a Good Education in Spare Moments.

A Visit to One of the Evening Schools and What Was Seen There.

The educational system of the city of London is now recognized as being among the best in the Province of Ontario. This is the view held by professional men, tourists, and men and women interested in the welfare of the rising generation.

The Board of Education has again shown its determination to keep pace with the needs of the times by opening public night schools for the winter months.

Night schools are now looked upon as an absolute necessity by the majority of people. In these prevailing hard times hundreds of men are out of employment, and therefore nothing remains but that the children should be deprived of complete education and sent to work in a factory or store of some description at an early age.

These are the people for whose special benefit the schools have been opened.

An ADVERTISER representative paid a visit to the Colborne street school the other evening, and there found two large classes, the senior under Mr. W. F. May, the new principal at Park street, and the junior under Mr. S. T. Latta, lately appointed on the permanent teaching staff of the city.

Each of these classes has on the roll upwards of 90 names, and the average attendance in each is about 70. The ages of the scholars are anywhere from 10 to 25. Some of the boys are so small that they can hardly reach the desk; while there are big fellows whose chin are getting dark and rough and who have added to the burdens of life that of raising a young mustache.

The majority of the boys are neat and tidy and all seem of respectable parentage. It is commendable in them that they should wish to better themselves as best they can under the circumstances. Some of them have passed the highest school entrance some can read or write; some are boisterous at times and some are quiet. As a rule, however, they are attentive in their studies and make good progress.

The principal subjects for the lower form are reading, writing and arithmetic—the simpler forms in the latter, merely to rub the rust off and prepare the pupils for the higher grade. There the subjects mostly taken up are bookkeeping, business arithmetic, business composition, writing and shorthand. The methods adopted for teaching are similar to those of the ordinary school. The first half hour is consumed in arithmetic. The problems are written on the blackboard, and sufficient time is given for their solution. The teacher then marks them out, and in most cases the scholars can work out the answer—if they don't they make a desperate effort to succeed. The bookkeeping is dealt with in the same way, and the result is a good practical business education is imparted.

The pursuits are of great variety. The parcel and messenger boys are in the majority, drygoods and law clerks are plentiful, and there are soapmakers, boot and shoe makers, laborers, a barrel worker, a pattern maker, a hatter, upholsterer, cigar maker, lithographers, carriage painter, printers, a brewer, a member of the Military School, an Italian fruit vendor—the latter devoting his whole time to learning English.

The teachers are satisfied that the scholars will be greatly benefited by the schools, and that in time they will improve their positions.

The Westwood Home Broken Up.

TORONTO, Nov. 1.—The house and furniture of Benjamin Westwood, father of young Westwood, who was so mysteriously assassinated a week ago, were sold by auction this morning. The family being anxious to move away from the scene of the murder. An enormous crowd was on the premises. The house is one of the largest and handsomest in the west end.

Imposing Funeral Foreshadowed.

MONTREAL, Nov. 1.—The funeral of Mr. Mercier tomorrow promises to be the largest seen here since that of Cartier. It is computed that 20,000 people will participate. The cortege will include political clubs of the city and Province, bands, college cadets and students, bench and bar, Zouaves, St. Jean Baptiste Association and a dozen other societies. The members of the Opposition at Quebec have sent a huge floral tribute. The mayor and city council and the councils of several municipalities will be in line. The pallbearers will be ex-Mayor McShane, Hon. Pierre Garneau, Hon. Mr. Joly de Lotbiniere, Hon. F. G. Marchand, Mayor Desautels, of St. Hyacinthe, Hon. W. Laurier, Sir Alexander Lacoste, Judge Bourgeois, Robert MacKay G. O. David, president of St. Jean Baptiste Association.

WITH A GUN-TRAP.

How a Staten Islander Killed His Son-in-Law.

NEWROCK, S. I., Nov. 1.—Thomas S. Burke, who killed his son-in-law, Frederick Bergmann, Aug. 16, by means of a gun set as a trap in his hut at South Beach, pleaded guilty of manslaughter in the second degree. He was sentenced to ten years in Sing Sing Prison, which term may be commuted to six years and six months for good behavior.

It had been expected that Burke would insist on a trial, and a panel of 150 talesmen were ready when Justice Edgar M. Cullen opened the Richmond County Court of Oyer and Terminer. Burke held a consultation with counsel, and then his plea was announced.

Burke is 75 years old. He and his son-in-law, Bergmann, lived in an old hut at South Beach. Bergmann's child died, and while it was lying in the hut Burke began hammering in his apartment. Bergmann went to remonstrate with him, and was killed in front of his door, the pushing in of which exploded the gun that had been set as a trap. Bergmann and his father-in-law had never been friends.

TRADE IN CANADA.

As Shown by Dun & Co.'s Weekly Statement.

Lack of Confidence Restricts Business—Fifty Failures in a Week.

TORONTO, Nov. 1.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly statement of business affairs in Canada says:

Although there is some improvement in the business outlook confidence is by no means restored, and it is owing to this fact that the accumulation of money in the banks is so large.

The weather has been mild and farmers have taken advantage of it, in plowing and in the prosecution of other farm work.

The marketing of produce in consequence has been somewhat restricted, and the retail trade in the country has suffered.

Wholesalers are receiving only small orders from travelers. Stocks in the country are generally acknowledged to be small, and with return of confidence some activity is anticipated.

The movement of sugars has been limited this week and prices are easier, granulated selling at 44 cents per pound.

The receipts of Mediterranean fruits are increasing and prices are unchanged.

Wheat at Ontario points is undergoing no change. There is a small business to millers at 40 cents to 50 cents for red and white. Stocks of spring wheat are unusually small, the crop of 1894 being the smallest for many years, and holders consequently look for better prices.

The decline in hogs has been followed by lower prices for cured meats. Meat pork is 50 cents to $1 lower than a week ago.

The failure for the week are 50, as against 25 for the corresponding week last year.

FOR LAW-MAKERS.

Here is a Subject Worth Their Serious Consideration.

It Affects the Public Health, and What-ever Affects Health Should be Investigated—Cold Facts Bluntly and Truthfully Stated—Let the Truth be Known No Matter Where It Hits.

To the close observer it often seems as though the days of the secret and worthless compounds are numbered. Every time the worthlessness of a secret mixture is exposed by the medical profession there is a public reaction in favor of the honest and open preparation which will be known to the public.

It is also gradually awakening to the possibilities, not only of fraud, but of actual harm in many preparations whose proprietors hide behind the inability of the chemist to trace the elements in their nostrums. The result is that people are becoming more cautious about buying new preparations or old ones that are enshrouded in mystery.

If the truth were known, there are surprising new remedies in the market that would stand legislative investigation. This is made apparent, even to a layman, whenever it is proposed to require all proprietors to give information as to the ingredients of their formulae, and to allow to offer them for sale.

This suggestion, although prompted by public welfare, is as a bomb thrown in the midst of many remedies. This fact shows only one thing, which anybody can understand.

The public has a right to demand thorough investigation of everything sold to benefit health. If there is any reason why a preparation should be kept secret, let the proprietor's prescription, for the sake of public health, this fact should be made known. If, on the other hand, a preparation is utterly worthless and will not do what is claimed for it, the public should not be allowed to be deceived.

One fact will surely stand. The proprietors who are afraid to have public investigation of their preparations by a national health board, are afraid to have the truth known to the public.

When the time comes for the public to demand action in this matter, there is one preparation which will come out with flying colors. This preparation is Scott's Emulsion. For twenty years Scott's Emulsion has had the highest endorsement of the medical world. The formula for making it has been published for years in the medical journals, and as for there being anything secret about its ingredients, that is impossible, for any expert chemist can find out by an analysis everything that is in it.

Scott's Emulsion is both nourishment and medicine. It presents the medicinal properties of Cod Liver Oil in a form that is easy on the most delicate stomach and sweet to the taste. Scott's Emulsion is good for a dyspeptic person, for it aids the digestion of other foods, and to all persons who suffer from any wasting condition Scott's Emulsion offers the most effective cure.

For all affections of Throat and Lungs, like Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis and Consumption, Scott's Emulsion is invaluable. It soothes the Throat, cures Coughs and Colds, relieves inflammation, restores a healthy action of the vital organs and nourishes a weakened system back to health and strength. All drugs sold by Scott's Emulsion at 50 cents and $1. The only genuine Scott's Emulsion is put up in salmon-colored wrapper and has our trade mark of a man carrying a fish on his back. Refuse inferior substitutes.

Big Storm in Quebec.

THREE RIVERS, Que., Nov. 1.—A big storm raged here and in this vicinity last night. Five canal boats loaded with lumber moored at the mouth of Nicolet River broke loose last night. Three of them sunk and the other two are aground opposite here. The lumber is strewn all over the river.

Discovery of an Ancient City.

PANAMA, Nov. 1.—Advices from Honduras report the discovery of the remains of an ancient Toltec city in the center of a mahogany swamp near Rio Grande. They comprise hundreds of large, well-built dwellings and three temples, each 100 feet long, 50 feet wide and 35 feet high. The streets are paved. These ruins are now covered with nine inches of soil.

Found Only Her Bones.

CAYUGA, Ont., Nov. 1.—Mrs. J. Lint, wife of Mr. J. Lint, sen., strayed away from her home in the village of Kohler on May 7. The entire neighborhood searched the woods and dragged the river in the attempt to find her, but in vain. This morning three young men who were out hunting in Mr. Leggett's bush, about a mile from Kohler, found the body of Mrs. Lint. There was nothing but the remains left, but the dry bones and the clothes that she wore on leaving home.

PRISON REFORM IN CANADA.

The Work of the Prisoners' Aid Association.

The Prisoners' Aid Association of Canada has been engaged in its noble work of prison reform and rescue work for the last 23 years, although the prison reform movement proper dates back to only about four years ago. The objects of this Association, as stated in their constitution, are: "The reformation of offenders, their welfare when discharged, the prevention of crime and prison reform." Among the most zealous members of this Association was the late ex-Mayor W. H. Howland. The Hon. S. H. Blake, Q. C., has been the President for a number of years, while Hamilton Cassels, Esq., Barrister, has been connected with the Central Prison Sunday School also for several years.

Dr. A. M. Roseburgh, the well-known specialist, has during the last two or three years, been actively connected with the Association, firstly as Treasurer, but laterally as Corresponding Secretary and Honorary Secretary. Among the following well-known gentlemen, viz.: J. G. Hodgins, LL.D.; E. A. Meredith, LL.D., for ten years one of the Board of Inspectors of Asylums and Prisons in Canada, and for several years Chairman of the Board and John Hoskin, Q. C.

Among the means employed for carrying out the objects of the Association may be mentioned the following, viz.:

1. A Sunday School mission in the Central Prison.

2. A Sunday School mission in the Reformatory for Women.

3. A Sunday School mission in the County Jail.

4. A Night School for secular education in the Central Prison.

5. The employment of an agent and a Bible woman for the welfare of discharged prisoners.

6. The distribution of prison reform literature, and the use of other means for awakening a more general interest in the cause of prison reform.

7. The maintenance of a central office in the City, at 150 Simcoe Street, as a place of call and temporary shelter for prisoners after their discharge.

8. Assisting with tools, and making temporary loans to discharged prisoners.

9. A preaching service weekly, in the Central Prison and Female Reformatory, by members of the Toronto Ministerial Association.

It was through the influence of this Association that the Ontario Prison Reform Commission was appointed in 1891, and it was through these combined agencies that the "Act for the Better Protection of Children" was passed, and also the establishment of Asylums and Prisons for young men by the Dominion Government.

The Association also aims at the general adoption of the County House of Refuge or Poor-House system, as also the introduction of a more efficient system of separation of the prisoners in the county jails.

ESTABLISHING HER IDENTITY.

He Heard Her to the End and Was Satisfied.

"I have no doubt, madam," said the cashier, "that you are Mrs. Jykes, the person named on this draft, but the rules of the bank require that you must be identified by somebody known to us before I can cash the paper for you."

"I suppose I could go and hunt up some acquaintance," replied the lady, "but I took it for granted you were sufficiently familiar with my face to make such a formality unnecessary. It has been in the public prints often enough. I am known to you by name, I presume, as a public speaker and lecturer on social and political subjects."

"I repeat, madam, that so far as I am personally concerned, I have no doubt that you are Mrs. Jykes, the well known public speaker, but in business matters, as you must be aware, a banking house must be guided by established business principles."

"When business principles are contrary to established rules of common sense," interrupted the caller, impatiently, "what is the use of being guided by them? Bank drafts are drawn, sir, to facilitate the transaction of business. The theory is that banks are organized to serve as a means of promoting the rapid interchange of commodities, or, rather, the converting o commodities into the circulating medium of the country, to the end that toil may meet its due reward without undue delay, but banks, sir, are conducted for the real purpose of enriching their proprietors. They are swift to take money in and slow to pay it out. They form but another link in the chain with which plutocracy is fattening the limbs of labor, another spadehead of earth on the mountain that crushes down into the ground the common people! Banks, sir, are simply a part of the scheme through the operation of which the rich are growing richer and the poor are growing poorer. The monopolists control the means of exchange and dictate to the workers the terms on which the workers may live. Like a hideous vampire, the money power fattens on the lifeblood of the people and—

"Madam," said the cashier feebly, "here's your money."—[Chicago Tribune.

London, Friday, Nov. 2.

NOT TWO OF A KIND.

The registration of voter for the bye election for the Legislature in this city or Nov. 20 is proceeding smoothly and satisfactorily. Though there yet remains tonight and tomorrow upon which citizens so entitled may register and secure their right to vote, the results have already more than justified the putting in force of the new law, despite the opposition of the friends of Mr. Esery, who preferred the old, incomplete, and therefore unfair list. The system of registration on the eve of an election is infinitely superior to the old Ontario law, while the Dominion Franchise Act, with its inquisitorial provisions, and its discrimination in favor of the rich and against the poor, is in so marked contrast with the new law that surely no Londoner will ever again be found advocating that measure.

It is evident to the experts in these matters who are in attendance at the polling places, or who in committee examine the lists of those registering, that the friends of Mr. Hobbs are making large gains in consequence of these additions to lists, but we trust that a knowledge of this fact will not restrain any friend of the Government recently returned to power for another four years from making all efforts necessary to have every qualified elector put in a position to vote. The intention of the law is that every man who is 21 years of age shall have a voice in the government of his Province, and that he shall obtain it without any badgering, loss of time or expense, such as are incident to the operation of the law which the opponents of Mr. Hobbs insist shall govern elections for the Dominion. What is needed is a persistent effort now and until the last hour for registration to have registered every qualified elector, whether tenant or owner 1 ft. of the voters' list while being compiled, newcomer to the city, or simply a man of 21 years of age. All such are eligible, but they cannot vote on Nov. 20 unless they register before 10 o'clock tomorrow night.

OUTLOOK FOR CHEESE AND BUTTER.

Though the majority of the cheese factories in Canada shut down on Oct. 31, the open weather has moved not a few in the older dairy districts of this Province to continue running, and it is probable that they will be operated for another month. The summer dairy season generally continues from May 1 to Oct. 1, but some of the larger factories run for nearly eight months.

Now that the dairy season of 1894 is over a brief review of the results from the pen of Mr. J. W. Wheaton, the energetic secretary of the Western Ontario Dairy-men's Association, will interest many of our readers. Mr. Wheaton points out that our dairymen have had a very successful season as regards the price for cheese, starting with from 10 to 10½ cents for April and early May goods, and continuing through June and July at from 9½ to 10½ cents. The exceedingly dry weather of July and August caused the milk supply to fall off from one-third to one-half in the factories, covering a district as far east as Kingston, consequently the price of August goods ran up to a very high pitch about the middle of September—the highest known for many years. The buyers were freely offering 10½ cents for Augusts, while some select factories sold as high as 11, 11½ and 11½ cents. The factories were greatly elated and saw 12 cents looming in the distance. But, alas! it was only in their imaginations. After a week or two the market went down almost as quickly as it had risen, causing many of the factories to sell at ½ and ½ less than they were offered. It is hoped that our factory salesmen will profit by this little experience, and see the advantage of selling whenever their goods are ready for shipping. By doing so there will be less shrinkage in weight and the patrons will be better satisfied in getting the money regularly. Too many of our factorymen measure everything by their own local conditions and fail to recognize, especially in reference to a drought, the vast cheese producing area in Canada and elsewhere, which is not under the same conditions.

The good things that can be said of the cheese season of 1894 cannot be said of the butter trade. The market for creamy butter has been very dull this season, making it difficult for our butter men to compete successfully with the cheese factory. Special efforts are being put forth to improve the selling of our creamy butter. It has been largely the practice, heretofore, to hold the early butter on this side till the fall, when prices are higher. It is then sent across to come into competition on the British market with the fresh-made butter from Denmark and other European countries. The consequence is that our butter has been placed at a disadvantage, and has not had full justice done it. The manufacturer and shipper alike are to blame in this matter. The former has been loth to sell his early summer butter at a price that would make it profitable for dealers to handle—while the shipper has bought it, perhaps, at too high a figure, and has been forced to hold it for better prices, which were not forthcoming. What is needed is the prompt marketing of all our butter on this side of the Atlantic, and its shipment within a few days to the markets of the old world. Under no other conditions can we have prime butter, or get a good price for that which is marketed.

Cheese is king at present in Canada, however, and Mr. Wheaton says the outlook for successful dairying here is cheese-making in summer and butter-making in winter. This system, he asserts, will pay, despite the opinion of prominent dairymen in the United States to the contrary. There will be an increase in the number of cheese factories that will be converted into creameries this winter. But in Western Ontario the severe drought, which caused a falling off in the milk supply and resulted in the feeding of winter feed to the stock, has deterred not a few dairymen from launching into winter butter-making.

The three winter dairy stations, operated by the Dominion Dairy Commissioner in Western Ontario for three years back, will not be continued this winter. Prof. Robertson will confine his work in this direction to the Eastern Provinces. Winter dairy stations will be managed by his department at Wellman's Corners, in Eastern Ontario; Lennoxville, Quebec; New Perth, Prince Edward Island; Nappan, Nova Scotia, and one in New Brunswick. But the education of dairymen will be looked after with increased interest this winter by the Ontario Government. There will be two dairy schools in operation in Ontario. The successful Provincial Dairy School at Guelph will begin its third term on Jan. 15. Reports indicate that nearly enough applications are already in to supply all the students the school will accommodate.

A dairy school will be established at Kingston in connection with the School of Agriculture and Mining, and at St. Hyacinthe, Que., another school will be conducted by Dairy Commissioner Robertson's department.

Our Dairymen's Associations and kindred organizations are making active preparations for their annual conventions, which will be held during January as follows: Eastern Dairymen's Association at Gananoque, Ont., on Jan. 3 and 4; Ontario Creameries Association at Chesley on Jan. 9, 10, and 11, and the Dairymen's Association of Western Ontario at Stratford, on Jan. 15, 16, and 17. The programmes are not definitely arranged yet. One of the speakers, however, who will be present at all three meetings is Mr. John Gould, of Ohio. He rendered such valuable services at Ingersoll last year that our dairymen felt that it would be almost impossible to hold a good dairy meeting without him. The principal topics for discussion at these meetings will be the butter fat system of paying for milk, winter dairying, butter and cheese making, while considerable attention will be given at one or two of them to the hog in connection with the dairy, and such subjects as will be particularly beneficial to the patron.

The butter fat system of paying for milk has arrived at a somewhat critical stage. It has been in operation long enough for people to discuss intelligently its merits and demerits. Experiments recently carried on have tended to unsettle the minds of many of our factorymen as to the best methods of carrying on the system. There is no doubt that the system is a decided improvement on the old "pooling" system, but many are in favor of changing the present basis of making up the accounts.

A CONUNDRUM.

(Montreal Star.)

Meredith was long a Martyr, and now it remains to be seen whether Martyr will be a Meredith.

A FIELD FOR THEM.

(Hamilton Times.)

Mr. Marter and Dr. Ryerson might do some missionary work in Kansas. It costs that State $155 49 per capita to support its insane. What a time fly-foot-dusting economists might have rooting around manny shelves and sink closets if Mowat made a showing like that!

A TRIBUTE TO SIR OLIVER MOWAT.

(Galt Reflector.)

It is not easy to see how another can hope to succeed where Mr. Meredith failed. Mr. Meredith had everything in his favor. He was a public man of unusual ability and standing, a gentleman in politics as well as in private life, a man against whose personal integrity no one could say a word. No greater tribute could be paid to the Mowat Government's excellent administration of affairs than its repeated triumphs over a party led by such a man as this.

THE "BEAUTIES" OF IT.

(Ridgeway Herald.)

The beautiful operation of the Dominion Franchise Act is shown by the following facts. The total number of names on the list of 1891, for Ridgeway, which is still in force is 1,011. The names proposed to be removed are 486, and those to be added are 309. It appears that, if an election should occur immediately, we should have to use a list, nearly one-half of the names on which ought to be removed, while 300 qualified electors would have no vote. In other words, a list containing only about 1,000 names is wrong to the extent of about 800.

Chattelle Will Be Defended.

TORONTO, Nov. 2.—Chattelle's friends in St. Hyacinthe have written a letter to a former resident in that vicinity who now resides in Toronto. They request that good legal counsel shall be engaged at once to defend the confessed murderer of little Jessie Keith at Listowel. The writer of the letter states that Chattelle is insane, and that he should be put in prison as a dangerous lunatic and not tried for a crime for which he is by nature not responsible. H. M. East, a Toronto barrister, has been asked to undertake the defense.

Registration Curiosities.

A Brewer's Teamster Who Has His Home in London West,

Trying to Get on the City Lists as a Sleeper Here.

Big Gains on the Registration for Mr. Hobbs—A Veteran of Nearly 100 Years Registers—The Returns Up Till This Afternoon.

Like the under dog in a fight the Press started early to shout "Registration is not fair" when the registration started. It was plain to be seen from the well known attitude of the vast majority of young men registering that the friends of Mr. Hobbs were making decided gains, and as if to accentuate their own defeat the opponents of Mr. Hobbs took the initiative in throwing out dark hints of "perjury" and "false registration" and such like. While the supporters of Mr. Hobbs have been working hard and piling up votes for him more than one instance of misrepresentation in the registration booths on the other side has come to their notice, and the suspected cases have been quietly marked, and, without undue advertising, action will be taken with them at the proper time. As instancing the anxiety of the Opposition to place apparent outsiders on the list, mention might be made of a teamster at Cardina's brewery who took the oath that he lived in the city and claims he slept there. He claimed that he had a room in the brewery reserved for his own use. He is a widower with a family. Residents of London West are prepared to swear that he slept at home all last summer. Another employee of this brewery, who also lives in London West, worked a similar scheme at last election and voted for Meredith. The case will be carried to the courts.

BIG GAINS FOR MR. HOBBS.

The friends of Mr. Hobbs, who have made a careful supervision of the registration, find decisive gains in several wards. At last election it was found that by some means or another many supporters of Mr. Hobbs had been omitted from the voters' list. Not one of those will be without votes this time. It is the duty of everyone who is qualified to get on the voters' list, but unfortunately at last election at least from 125 to 150 good votes were lost to Mr. Hobbs because their names had been dropped from the list in some way.

The probability is that in the revision now in progress the friends of Mr. Hobbs will increase the number in his favor by at least 150 more than would have been possible without registration. This fact accounts for the strenuous effort that was made on behalf of friends of the Opposition candidate to prevent registration at this time, and shows why they grumbled so loudly when it was announced that registration would take place, and that every qualified man would be registered without trouble or expense.

A VETERAN REGISTERS.

Patrick Delaney, 93 years of age, registered in No. 6 ward yesterday. He came from Cork, Ireland, about 70 years ago, and has lived in London and Westminster for about twenty years past. He now resides with Mr. Wm. D. Regan, over Clarke's bridge. Mr. Delaney is a fine specimen of robust manhood. He is straight as an arrow, with agility such as might be expected of a man half his age, and faculties unimpaired. He is a supporter of Mr. Hobbs.

TODAY'S REGISTRATION.

Registrars and clerks at the half dozen booths were not rushed this morning, but still the showing was good. The returns from each ward up to noon are: No. 1, 23; No. 2, 21; No. 3, 37; No. 4, 28; No. 5, 17; No. 6, 7.

A SHODDY TRICK.

Citizens Victimized by Transient Cloth-Traders.

Found Their Fine Goods Were Shoddy—Interesting Action in the Division Court.

Engineers George A. Dowling and John Plaxton, of the C. P. R., were called upon some months ago by a young man named J. J. Bain, who was very slick-tongued and wanted to sell them some cloth. The goods were really fine in appearance, and the engineers, thinking it was as good as it looked, purchased a quantity, giving their note for $27 50. Bain was willing to do almost anything for them, and after the sale told the purchasers that in case they desired the goods they could do so in Toronto, where the company which he represented had a large warehouse. He gave the street and number of the place, and the engineers on their next visit to the Queen City called at the address, but found no warehouse. They became suspicious, and on finding that they had purchased shoddy goods had a warrant taken for Bain's arrest. It was too late, however, Bain had got wind of the action, boarded a west-bound train, and was soon safe in Detroit. Before going he had disposed of the notes to Frank E. Sogling, a liverman. They soon fell due and Dowling and Plaxton refused to pay. Action was entered in the Division Court, and this morning Judge Robinson gave a verdict for the plaintiffs. Mr. Sogling said he had purchased twelve of these notes from Bain, at a discount of 10 per cent. He had no idea what they were given for, or what business Bain was conducting. Moral: Buy from merchants who advertise.

Patterson & Jolly, wagon makers, city, brought action against a London townshipp farmer named Sproule. They had sold a wagon to Sproule, and he had lien upon it. The defendant sold the rig before settling with the company, and afterwards refused to pay off the lien. Sproule appeared on a judgment summons, and Judge Robinson ordered him committed to jail for 49 days. An endeavor is being made to settle.

Ocean Passage in 84 Hours.

MONTREAL, Nov. 1.—Boston and Quebec capitalists talk of building a railroad from Quebec city to the coast of Labrador to connect with a line of steamers to Liverpool. The ocean passage can be made in three and a half days by this route. A survey is being made.

You Must Register.

The Short and the Long of the Registration in Every Ward on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

All men who are not assessed as resident owners or tenants in the assessment of 1893 must register during the last four days of this week if they desire to vote at the election on November 20.

Remember that the affidavits taken up a few weeks ago have nothing to do with this election. You must register if you want a vote.

REDFORD, N. Y., Nov. 2.—Wm. Gipp, of 558 Fulton street, aged 20, shot and killed his mother this morning and put two bullets in his father. He escaped. The cause of this action is unknown.

Is She Lost?

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 2.—What appears to be probable news of the loss of the ship Ivanhoe, the vessel which sailed out of this harbor Sept. 27, cool laden, for San Francisco, was brought to Port Blakey last night by Capt. Peterson, of the bark Fanny Duttard. Capt. Peterson tells the following story: On Sept. 30 while off Cape Flattery Capt. Peterson sighted a vessel four miles to windward lurching heavily and evidently in distress, though no signs were flying. About an hour later he was called by the mate who told him the vessel had disappeared. There is no doubt it was the Ivanhoe. Among the passengers on board the Ivanhoe was Fred Grant, managing editor of the Post-Intelligencer, of this city, and ex-Minister to Bolivia under President Harrison. Mrs. Marie L. Bara, an Irish woman, of Chicago, and a student of navigation named Felger.

FRIDAY, BARGAIN DAY
NOVEMBER 2.

This Store, as most people know, instituted "Bargain Day" in this city. Our success has caused other merchants to copy the idea. In many cases it is a farce. In some cases the people derive a benefit. In no case has there been such a growing popularity as at this store. We tell in plain English about the lines there are to sell. You never find us resorting to subterfuge and ambiguity, as many do, in order to bring you to the store somehow. The store is a free and easy place to trade in. Walk around. Look around. Buy or not, just as you see fit. The Price Tickets do all the talking. We've got no time to "coax" or "cower" people to invest. The only trouble will be on Friday. Every clerk will have to do the work of two, making out the checks as quickly as the people pick up the merchandise.

Health Built Up

I had a very bad cold which settled on my lungs. I was under doctor's care and was not able to get out of the house for eight weeks. I did not gain strength very fast and other remedies failing to help me or improve my case, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I have taken several bottles and my health is improved very much. Since I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla I feel

Mr. Joseph Neely very much stronger than for a long time past. I have recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla to others, for it truly has been of great benefit to me." JOSEPH NEELY, North Kingston, Nova Scotia.

POSTPONED.

The deciding game in the intermediate championship series between London and Queen's (Kingston) has been postponed till Nov. 10. It will be played either in Hamilton or Toronto.

AS SHE IS PLAYED.

The first innovation which strikes the spectator at a game is the abolition of the old form of opening play. The rules now demand an actual kick-off from the center of the field, with a further stipulation that the ball shall be kicked a distance of at least ten yards into opponents' territory, unless stopped by opponents. There are already rumors in the air of all sorts of eccentric kicks and ingenious tactics in connection with this opening of the game; but thus far nothing new has been exhibited, and the rule has proved rather a disappointment than otherwise. We may later in the season have some interesting features in connection with the kick-off; it is certainly to be hoped that we shall, for otherwise this change in the rules will surely prove unsatisfactory to many spectators. The certainty that a kick must be made, and the very prescribed method by which it must be made, eliminate much of the uncertainty and consequent interest as to the result.—[Lorin F. Deland, Oshing for November.]

ATHLETICS.

DALY VS SLAVIN.

BEFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 1.—Jim Daly, of Buffalo, and Jack Slavin, of Australia, met this evening in a fifteen-round boxing contest at the Buffalo Athletic Club, under the management of Billy Madden. It had been arranged that the victor would be given a chance against Joe Caoyanski, Jim Hall, Joe Bauer and others. The men fought under the Marquis of Queensberry rules, for a purse of $1,000 to the winner, the loser to receive his training expenses. Slavin was in the best of condition and appeared the better man, though Daly took the aggressive part, the early part of the match. In round seven, just before the bell rang Slavin clinched to avoid punishment, and when ordered to break the Australian delivered a stinging blow on Daly's neck. It was so palpably a foul that the referee did not hesitate to give the decision to Daly. There were howls of derision from those who had come to see a finish fight, and before the crowd dispersed Manager Madden announced that this would be the last fight he would have anything to do with under the Marquis of Queensberry rules. Daly and Slavin will undoubtedly meet again in a short time.

THE OUTLAW QUEEN.

A Handsome, Dashing, Reckless Little Woman.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The Herald's special from Fort Smith, Ark., says: From the Territory lately there have been coming stories of "Dolly," the Queen of the Outlaws, who has become fully identified with the Cook gang. She accompanies them on their pillaging expeditions, and is said to be a handsome, dashing young woman who possesses courage unlimited, and whose daredevil recklessness exceeds that of the noted Belle Starr. She wears a six-shooter and a big bowie knife and carries a rifle. With a rifle she is a dead shot, and is cool and collected in time of danger. The gang was camped not far from Salishaw, two stations west of Fort Smith, long ago, when she went into town accompanied by two of the boys as far as the outskirts.

Attired in a short dress, close-fitting jacket and felt hat, she boldly walked into the postoffice and inquired for mail, after which she visited several stores and did some trading. Near the edge of the town she held up three men, taking from one a gold watch and from the other a small sum of money, then coolly walked up the railroad track, where she was joined by the outlaws. Dolly is 22 years old. Her true name is unknown, and she guards the secret of her identity well.

THE STOCKING LEG WAS LEFT.

A Drive Around Guelph That Cost $1,500.

Stanley Woodburn's Story of His Excursion Last Sunday Evening.

GUELPH, Nov. 1.—The police court investigation into the charge against William and Nelson Barclay of robbing J. Stanley Woodburn of $1,500 on Oct. 28, brought forth the complainant's statement that he got acquainted with the Barclays on Sunday evening. He hired a rig and the three drove around town. He did not pay for it, as he did not want to pull his money out in the stable. He said he had

$1,500 in a STOCKING LEG in his pants pocket when he left the stable and was sober. They drove out to Marden, singing and playing mouth organs. Nelson Barclay gave him a bottle of whisky and he took a drink, but he did not know whether they drank any liquor. He had two or three more drinks out of the bottle. After a short stay at Marden the prisoner got him in between them, and they drove three miles above Marden, where Nelson Barclay got out and William and he drove back to Guelph. They went to McAlery's hotel, but he did not get to bed at all that night on account of being drugged with whisky. When he woke up after a short nap

HIS MONEY WAS GONE. He had but the stocking leg was there. He had carried the money vice-president of the Dominion Bank. At the instigation of Hugh McMillan, the prisoner's counsel, the case was adjourned until Saturday.

PRE-RAPHAELITES.

Algeron Charles Swinburne and His Associates.

Back, perhaps twenty years ago, two young men, with very radical ideas about art, went one day to paint some frescoes at Oxford. One of them bore the strange name of Dante Gabriel Rossetti. The other was Burne-Jones. While they were at work a young man with a shock of fiery red hair, a broad, pale brow and a diminutive frame came to watch them. He was a young poet with the soul of a Greek. He had not then published "Laus Veneris." This was the beginning of the famous pre-Raphaelite school. The three young men, Rossetti, Burne-Jones and Swinburne, were afterward joined by Rossetti's brother and sister, by William Morris, George Meredith and Millais, and together they revolutionized English ideas about art, and perhaps, literature as well. Dante Rossetti is now dead. During his life the school almost entirely confined its energies to art and literature. Later, after his death, it developed radical political tendencies. Its present leaders are Morris and William Rossetti.

England never saw a stranger apparition in literature than when the star of Algeron Charles Swinburne first swung into its ken. With a long line of aristocratic ancestors, Swinburne had the least of hereditary influence in making him into the born revolutionary that he was. His father was the Admiral Swinburne known to history. If not rich, his estates were ample, and he had leisure to travel and study as he liked. He left Oxford before he had taken his degree, owing to some disagreement with the authorities of the college. He had already written some poetry, and he sought Walter Savage Landor in the latter's retirement in Italy. It was not likely that at the feet of this great and much misunderstood poet, who had quitted England because he could not live in a country which had so little appreciation of beauty, that young Swinburne was apt to have his radical notions curbed.

But it is through his thrilling "Songs Before Sunrise" that Swinburne revealed the ardent revolutionary spirit which possessed him. It is a dead soul who can read these stirring poems with an unmoved pulse. They throb and quiver with a revolt against tyranny, a passionate thirst for freedom and a hatred of oppression which rank them with the finest specimens of revolutionary verse in the language. Swinburne was in his youth strongly tempted to become a radical in politics as he was in verse, and he at one time contemplated standing for Parliament as an ultra-liberal. As matters then stood he would unquestionably have been elected. But it is

TANGLED THREADS

To this Arthur Bohun answered candidly enough. He did like Ellen Adair; if circumstances permitted he should only be too glad to make her his wife; but, as Mrs. Cumberland knew, he had hitherto been very poor. As he pleased, Mrs. Cumberland remarked: the matter was entirely for his own consideration; she did not attempt to press it, one way or the other; if he saw no chance of his circumstances improving, he should freely say so, and terminate his visits; and upon that, Arthur begged to have the night for reflection; he would see Mrs. Cumberland in the morning, and give her his decision.

So it was left. When Ellen returned to the room—unconscious of what had been said during her brief absence from it—Captain Bohun took his departure. Arrived at the hotel where he had put up, he devoted himself to the consideration of the grave question, weighing it in all its bearings as fairly as his love for Ellen allowed him to do. Of course that biased him.

He had sufficient to marry upon now. By the death of the relative for whom he was mourning, he had, on his own income, eight hundred a-year. With his own income, that made twelve. Quite sufficient to begin upon, though he was a Bohun. But—there were deterring considerations. In some way or other, he suspected, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Adair, had contrived to instill a suspicion in the mind of Sir Nash, that Arthur, unless he were closely controlled, might be making a mess of his life. He could help himself, but he could not help his family. He should never succeed in the estate, nor, to the title if he could help it, if James died, he, Sir Nash, would marry first, and leave direct heirs.

This, it was, that now interfered with Arthur's decision. One fact was known to him—that James Bohun, since this illness set in, had joined his father in cutting off the entail, so that the thread of leaving the estates away from Arthur (even though he succeeded to the title) could be easily accomplished. What was to be done? Part with the entail? He could not. On, it might only make her his wife without the world knowing it; the world abroad, and the world at home! Might this be very silly? Arthur Bohun arrived at a conclusion—that the only plan, if Mrs. Cumberland and Ellen would accede to it, was to have a private marriage.

Arguments are so easy when inclination goes with them. The future looks very much as we ourselves paint it. They might be married at once, here at Eastsea. If James Bohun recovered and lived, why, there could be no question about the entail; the estates lapsing to Arthur, and he might enjoy his marriage as soon as he pleased. If James died, he should not, as he really believed, have to conceal it long, for he thought Sir Nash's illness, perhaps a few weeks, and he might be able to tell the world that Ellen was his wife. He felt an inclination to whisper it beforehand to his good friend and aunt, Miss Bonham. But, he must first of all ascertain from Mrs. Cumberland what was the social standing of Mr. Adair. Unless he was undeniably a gentleman, Ellen could be no wife for a Bohun. Arthur, swayed by his love, had been content to take this fact for granted; now he saw the necessity of ascertaining it more certainly. It was not that he had any real doubt, but it was only right to make sure.

M. Adair held some post under the British Government, formerly in India, for a long time now in Australia. His wife having died young; his only child, a girl, had been sent to a private school in England for her education. Upon its completion, Mr. Adair had begged Mrs. Cumberland to receive her; he had some thought of returning home himself, so that he might wish Ellen to go out to him. An impression was abroad that Ellen Adair would inherit a fortune; also that Mrs. Cumberland received liberal remuneration for the expenses of the young lady.

Bohun already knew; but he knew no more. He said the promised visit to Mrs. Cumberland in the morning. Ellen was on the beach with the maid; there was no interruption, and the prospect of her coming to see him, and her father's blessing, will rest on the marriage," remarked Mrs. Cumberland; "but for that fact, I could not have consented to a private one."

This gave Arthur the opportunity to ask about the position of Mr. Adair, which in the heat of argument, he had been forgetting. Certainly he was a gentleman, Mrs. Cumberland answered, and of very good Scotch family. Major Bohun, Mr. Adair, and her own husband, George Cumberland, had been firm friends in India at the time of Major Bohun's death. She could not help thinking, she added in conclusion, that it was the remembrance of that early friendship which induced Mr. Adair to give so ready and cordial consent to his daughter's union with Major Bohun's son.

And so there the matter ended, all colour-decor: Arthur believing that there could be no possible objection to his marrying Ellen Adair; that the way had been most markedly paved for it through this letter of Mr. Adair's; Mrs. Cumberland deeming that she was not indiscreet in permitting the marriage to be a private one. Both were unsuspecting as the day. He, that there existed any real objection; she, that Mr. Adair's consent applied to a very different man from Arthur Bohun.

Captain Bohun went out from Mrs. Cumberland in search of Ellen, with the light of love flushing his cheeks. He found her in the same sheltered spot, hedged in from the gaze of the world. Again alone. The servant had gone to the shops, to buy ribbon. Their salutations hitherto had been nothing but decorum and formality, as witness that of the previous day. "Good-morning," said Ellen, rising and holding out her hand. "Instead of taking it, he took herself. Took her in his arms with a cry of long-repressed emotion, and laid her sweet face upon his breast, kissing it with impassioned kisses. Ellen, utterly astonished, could not escape. "Do not shrink from me, Ellen. You are to be my wife."

CHAPTER X.

Affairs grew more unsatisfactory at Dailory as the weeks went on. The strike continued; the men utterly refusing to return to work except on their own terms, or rather, the Trades' Union refusing to allow them to do so. Supplies became more scanty. If not actual famine, something near it began to reign. North Inlet, once so prosperous, looked like a half-starved dog at elbows. Oh, what senseless folly it was! What would it end in? Mrs. Gass had grown tired of going amongst the men to reason with them and try to bring them to their senses; but Miss Dailory still went. Miss Dailory could make no impression whatever. The men were moody, miserable, almost starved. They would gladly have gone back to work again almost any day at all, only as a rule to the present idleness; but they belonged to the famous Trades' Union now, and must obey its dictates. Mary Dailory grew angry sometimes, and asked whether they were men, or cravens, that they had no pity for their poor helpless children.

In southern climes or northern lands. One undisputed fact fast stands. It is this, that woman's woe and woe Make up the hub of things below; For in the softer sex 'tis given To put the man in or out of heaven.

Let the wife and mother be sickly, and as a result querulous and fidgety, and the whole household is disturbed. To cure this state of things, the aforesaid wife and mother has only to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. The cause will disappear promptly. The "Prescription" is a powerful and restorative tonic of wonderful efficacy and made for the alleviation of diseases peculiar to women. For nursing mothers and debilitated "run-down" women generally, it is the best restorative tonic and soothing nerve known. For those about to become mothers it is indeed a priceless boon. It lessens the pains and perils of childbirth, shortens parturition, promotes the secretion of an abundance of nourishment for the child and shortens the period of confinement.

The largest electric locomotive in the world, 2,000 horse-power, was built at Zurich, Switzerland, in 1892.

Rheumatism Can Be Cured. Hayward's Yellow Oil has cured chronic rheumatism, stiff joints and swellings of the muscles, and all other means had failed. In all forms of inflammatory and muscular pain it is a specific cure.

A newspaper (the Oklahoman) in Oklahoma City has changed hands twelve times in six months.

A bottle of Angostura Bitters to flavor your lemonade or any other cold drink will keep you free from dyspepsia. But, be sure of all diseases originating from the digestive organs. Be sure to get the genuine Angostura, manufactured by Dr. J. G. B. Siegert & Sons.

Napoleon's first plaything was a toy cannon. Late in life he said: "The whole course of my life was determined by that cannon."

"Remarkable Cure of Dropsy and Dyspepsia."—Mr. Samuel T. C. G. Belleville, writes: "In the spring of 1884 I began to be troubled with dyspepsia, which gradually became more and more distressing. I used various domestic remedies and applied to my family physician, but received no benefit. By this time my trouble assumed the form of dropsy. I was unable to use any food whatever except boiled milk and bread; my limbs were swollen to twice their natural size; all hopes of my recovery were given up, and I quite expected death within a few weeks. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery having been recommended to me, I tried a bottle with but little hope of relief; and now, after using eight bottles, my dyspepsia and dropsy are cured. Although now 73 years of age I can enjoy my meals as well as ever, and my general health is good. I am well-known in this section of Canada, having lived here 57 years; and you have liberty to use my name in recommendation of your Vegetable Discovery, which has done such wonders in my case."

Platinum has been drawn into smooth wire so fine that it could not be distinguished by the naked eye, even when stretched across a piece of white cardboard.

The leading athlete that all soreness, stiffness or swelling is prevented or almost instantaneously removed if, after exercising, the muscles are thoroughly rubbed with Pond's Extract. By its use the muscles are made quick and firm, and one is enabled to take his required amount of exercise each day, when without using Pond's Extract he would be prevented from work by lameness or stiffness. Invaluable to amateur athletes and men in training.

It is a remarkable fact that deep-sea parts of the sea are in all cases very near the land.

Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is earache. The young are especially subject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, to which the young are especially subject.

Fatal Results of Delay.

Sickness generally follows in the path of neglect. Don't be reckless! but prudently take a few doses of Scott's Emulsion immediately following exposure to cold. It will save you many painful days and sleepless nights.

Wasps rank next to the higher classes of ants in point of insect intelligence.

Worms cause reveries, moaning and restlessness during sleep. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is pleasant, sure and effectual. If your druggist has none in stock, get him to procure it for you.

Russian railways have ladies' smoking carriages.

It is very important to know where to find fine bedroom sets at low prices. When buying call at Trafford's and you will find them. 95 and 97 King street.

MIDDLESEX MATTERS.

The anniversary services of the Shetland Church, Florence, were held Sunday and Monday, Oct. 28 and 29, and were eminently successful. On Sunday Rev. Dr. Carman, general superintendent of the Methodist Church, preached morning and evening and addressed an open meeting of the Sunday school in the afternoon. Large congregations assembled at each service. Monday night Dr. Carman, lectured to a full house on "Trade and Get Rich." All were delighted and inspired. The pastor, Rev. J. E. Holmes, presided.

As Mrs. W. Garrett, of London township, with her son and daughter, were driving into Granton to church Sunday evening, and when opposite Douglas Westman's farm, their horse shied at some object, and, sharply turning to the side of the road, her son Fred was thrown out. The horse backed up and went forward, each time stepping on Mrs. Garrett, and the wheels of the vehicle passed over her. She sustained a fracture of two ribs and a broken collar bone.

LUCKNOW.

(Agent for the Advertiser, W. H. Smith.) Messrs. G. A. Siddall, P. A. Malcolmson and Wm. Leachbatter are on a shooting expedition to Muskoka.

On Tuesday last Mr. James Williamson, for over twenty years cabinetmaker and undertaker of this town, passed away at the ripe old age of 84 years. His remains were taken to Woodstock on Wednesday for interment.

The other day Mr. Jas. Hoey met with a very painful accident which might have resulted fatally. While he was taking out gravel the pit in which he was working caved in and covered him so that he had to be assisted out. As a result "Jim" has to walk with the aid of a stick.

Three Italian men from London came to town with harp and violin, and the young men of the town engaged them and had an impromptu hop in the Caledonian Pavilion, to the tune of 25 couples responded. A very pleasant time was spent by all.

Miss Marza Mathieson, who has been the guest of her cousin, Miss Grace Boyd, left for her home in London on Thursday morning.

THE CIRCUS KING.

Bailey Has Bought Barnum's "Greatest Show on Earth."

New York, Nov. 1.—After several months of negotiation between the heirs and executors of the estate of the late P. T. Barnum and J. A. Bailey, an arrangement has been effected by which the latter becomes the absolute owner of all the interests embraced in the Barnum circuses, with its title, trademarks, outfit of railroad cars, shops, buildings and all its extensive property.

Mr. Bailey is now the exclusive owner of the largest two shows in the world, having bought the Adam Forepaugh show upon the death of its former owner.

Still in a Tremor.

New York, Nov. 1.—A special from Buenos Ayres says reports of the widespread effects of the earthquake in that city are confirmed. Slight shocks continue.

Fox Asleep With a Light.

Monterey, N. B., Nov. 1.—Peter McNaughton, aged 25 years, proprietor of the Park Hotel, Telegraph street, last night lay in bed reading by a paraffin lamp and fell asleep. A fire resulted and his night clothes were ignited. He was injured both internally and externally and died in great agony.

Hypnotized by a Tailor's Agent.

Rockford, Ill., Nov. 1.—A novel suit was tried in a local justice court on Tuesday. Thomas Ryan, a single man, Edward Collins and wife, of Durand, for $68 for clothing purchased of him last spring. The clothing was never removed from the package, and the defense set up was that Ryan's agent used hypnotic influences to induce Mrs. Collins to purchase. The jury gave the defendants a verdict.

Out of His Line.

Ada—Flo was just going down for the third time when Dr. Watson dived off a yacht and saved her.

Grace—Saved her life! Wonderful!

Ada—Yes, for a doctor.

So He Spares the Calves.

Old Wheeler—But why do you walk up this steep hill and push your bike? Mr. Newman—Because the merciful man is merciful to his beast.

The Family Scapegoat.

"Everything that is done in this house is always blamed onto me," sniffed the small boy. "an' I'm just gittin' tired of it. I'll run away, that's what I'll do. I don't mean to be the Li Hung Chang of this family any longer."

Ringed Noises.

In the ears, sometimes a roaring, buzzing sound, are caused by catarrh, that exceedingly disagreeable and very common disease. Loss of hearing or hearing also resulting from catarrh. Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier, is a peculiarly successful remedy for this disease, which it cures by purifying the blood.

Hood's Pills are the best after dinner pills, assist digestion, prevent constipation.

New Orleans has a first class orchestra composed entirely of women, and their services are in great demand for entertainments and parties.

Gibbons' Toothache Gum is easily applied, cures instantly and is sold by druggists for 15 cents.

In converting redwood into railroad ties it is stated that for every tie produced, which is worth 35 cents, timber to the value of $1.87 is wasted.

Like a New Person.

GENTLEMEN.—I find your B. B. B. an excellent remedy for headache and dizziness. I had tried several remedies, but to no effect. I have taken three bottles of B. B. B. and feel entirely cured. In fact I feel like a different person. Miss E. L. TAYLOR, Holland, Man.

In Australia horses and cattle are now being branded by electricity from storage batteries. The temperature is uniform and the brand safe and artistic.

Plain Facts.

As a prompt, pleasant and perfect cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, and sore throat, pain in the chest, asthma, bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, quinsy, influenza and all throat and lung troubles, Norway Pine Syrup is the best remedy known.

Cape Colony exports annually £28,000 worth of dried flowers.

The first barrel of coal oil was commercially used in 1826. In 1883 38,820,306 barrels of that product were consumed.

Why will you allow a cough to lacerate your throat or lungs and run the risk of filling a consumptive's grave, when by the timely use of Eick's Anti-Consumptive syrup the pain can be allayed and the danger avoided? This Syrup is pleasant to the taste, and unsurpassed for relieving, healing and curing all affections of the throat and lungs, coughs, colds, bronchitis, etc.

The often discussed accident happened in the case of Ebenezer White, of St. John's, Mich., recently. He was asleep under a tree when a chipmunk ran into his open mouth and interfered with his snoring.

It was evening, it was moonlight, it was late and it was fair.
I was courting. I was happy, I was brave, for she was there.
She was pretty, she was blushing, she was willing to be wooed.
He arrived and he objected. He was papa, so I fled.
I returned. He was repentant. She was coaxing her mamma.
He repented, and I thanked him and forgave him—dear papa!
Then he blessed us. I was happy, while she blushed a rosy red.
He was willing. She was willing. I was willing. We were wed.

—Yesterday was pay day with the Middlesex county officials.

Halloween was quietly celebrated in London. West, said a number of residents awake to find that their gates had been carried away and used as a decoration for a tree or their fences torn down. Scores of outbuildings were overturned.

—Voters should be sure and register in the ward where they live. See the list of places in another column.

—Mr. George Biddlecomb, an employee of Tumbling & Jones, received a cable from Cornwall, England, yesterday announcing that his father, a railway conductor, had been badly injured and his mother was seriously ill. Mr. Biddlecomb left at once for England.

—The Board of Works did not meet last night. Ald. Thos. Jones (chairman), Shaw and Taylor were on time, but the latter left before Ald. Garratt arrived at 8:30, thus preventing a quorum. City Engineer Graydon, Secretary Bell and Commissioner Owen were the officials in attendance.

—Let it be remembered that today and tomorrow are the last two days for registration. After that every man not on the lists will be without a vote. Go to the Liberal rooms, Oddfellows' Hall, and see for yourself whether you are or are not on the lists.

—Mrs. Ann Clay, who died in Mount Drydges recently, left considerable property in that village to be divided between a son and daughter. Mrs. Clay's bank account had rapidly lessened before her death, and the executor is of the opinion that the cash was loaned and no security given.

—Do not fail to register today, if you have not already done so. It is not safe to postpone this important duty. Young men, if you do not register are from vote. The hours of registration are from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m., with recesses from 1 to 2 and from 6 to 7 p.m. Register, and remind your friends to register.

—The St. Thomas Street Railway Company (in which several London people are interested) have applied to the Yarmouth Township Council for right to extend their track on the boundary line, between the city and Yarmouth on the east and south sides of the city, and also along the first sidewalk east of the L. and P. S. gravel road to Port Stanley.

—Mr. Higginbotham, of London, the Grand Trunk auditor, who has been in Hamilton for several weeks looking into the accounts of Fred Filgiana, the defaulting cashier of the G. T. R. freight department, returned to Montreal last evening. He would give no information as to the exact amount of the shortage, but intimated that it was under $20,000. Filgiana's whereabouts has not been ascertained by the railway company, but the guarantee company have detectives at work.

—Mr. Gustave Frohman announces his strongest attraction in his William Morris "Lost Paradise" Company, which comes to the Grand Opera House tomorrow—matinee and night. Mr. Morris has already become a successful star, and his powerful portrayal of the character of Reuben Warner in "The Lost Paradise" has received the most favorable recognition from critics everywhere. This play is by the late H. C. De Mille, and the greatest triumph of that most successful playwright. Mr. Morris is supported by a very strong company, including Miss Etta Hawkins as "Gladys." The production is a pretty staged and the ladies' costumes are said to be magnificent.

Be Sure to Register.

Register today or tomorrow. If you do not you cannot vote. These are the last days of registration, and after tomorrow all who have neglected to register will lose their votes on Nov. 20. It is important that everybody entitled to vote should register. It is a duty every loyal Londoner owes to himself and his Province.

Symphony Concert.

The London Symphony concert to be given by the orchestra under the leadership of Rosalie Pococke, on Tuesday evening next, at the Grand Opera House, promises to excel all the previous successes of this organization. Marie Louise Bailey, a famous pianiste, will take part in the programme. The following criticism of her playing was given by Prof. Schenckel, of Weisbaden: "Miss Bailey is a finished artist, a genius of the rarest quality, one who must be criticised from the highest point of musical professional criticism. Miss Bailey is not a piano player; she is more, she is a true musician, not one of the thousands, but one of the select few whose names may almost be counted on the fingers of one hand. Only two of these brilliant star pianistes have preceded Miss Bailey to America—Aus der Oie and Mme. Bloomfield-Zeisler. In technique Miss Bailey is perfect, clear, distinct and powerful; but she rises superior to technique, she is inspired with the divine spark that calls into life the hidden possibilities of the pianoforte, and in the compasses which she interprets with such wonderful skill she carries her own personality. She holds in her hand the mystic key of genius, at whose touch all the secret beauties of which music is capable lay revealed and become service to her will. Miss Bailey has a physical strength which enables her to execute all the feats. Her command of the piano and

"Williams' Royal Crown Remedy Saved John Weir's Life."

May be seen in large letters on the covers of the homes that precede the handsome Royal Crown Remedy wagon at Toronto and Western Fairs. To a Globe reporter, Mr. Weir said: "This is a most marvelous cure. I became pale as a corpse; my blood seemed to be turned to water. I had dizziness and a ringing noise in my head; my hands and feet were cold all the time, and my limbs were completely swollen up to the body. Some doctors called it consumption of the blood. I got so weak that I could not walk, and finally took to my bed." Mrs. Weir says: "All M. Weir has told you is true. At times he lay for days unconscious and unable to take nourishment of any kind, and was reduced to a mere skeleton of 84 pounds; and I fully believe that if we had been one day later in getting Williams' Royal Crown Remedy he would be in his grave to-day. So it may well be said 'Williams' Royal Crown Remedy saved John Weir's life. The best druggists keep Royal Crown Remedy, but if your druggist does not, remit direct to Isaac Williams Company, London, and they will send it to you by first express. The price at which Williams' Royal Crown Remedy is sold makes a course of treatment comparatively inexpensive as compared with any other medical treatment. 6 bottles for $5, from Isaac Williams Co., London, Ont. Clip this out and send to sick friends.

orchestra was complete. She played without the slightest manifestation of effort, and with a nervous strength that was amazing.

Marriage of Judge MacMahon's Son.

The marriage of Mr. D'Arcy Hugh MacMahon, son of Mr. Justice MacMahon, formerly of this city, and Miss Josie Mackey, youngest daughter of Mr. Wm. Mackey, lumber merchant, of Ottawa, took place at St. Patrick's Church, Ottawa, on Wednesday morning in the presence of a large number of friends and spectators. Archbishop Walsh performed the ceremony. The bride, dressed in white surah silk, en train, trimmed with old point lace, with a wreath and long veil to match, and carrying a bouquet of cream roses, was escorted up the aisle by her father. The bridesmaids were Miss B. Hanbach, of Montreal, and Miss L. Miall, of Ottawa. The groomsmen were Capt. E. Streetfield and Mr. J. W. Pugsley. A dejeuner followed. Among the guests were: Major-General Herbert, Sir James and Lady Grant, Sheriff Sweetland, Judge and Mrs. MacMahon and his Grace the Archbishop.
