SHOOTINGS AND FIGHTS MARK IRISH ELECTION

Gunman Holds Up Port Stanley Lunch Counter Owner

SHOOTING MARKS START OF GENERAL ELECTION FOR IRISH PARLIAMENT

Candidates For Dail Eireann Suffer Slight Molestation on Voting Day.

COSGRAVE CONFIDENT

Republicans Declare Intention of Forming New Legislature If Victorious.

Associated Press Despatch.

Dublin, Aug. 27.—A lively outbreak of rifle and machine-gun fire occurred in Dublin early today, heralding the opening of the general elections. The shooting was not explained. Otherwise the balloting for the dail eann was proceeding quietly this noon with national troops patrolg the streets.

A motor car, carrying James Crow- and the minister of fisheries, Finian Lynch, both of whom are candidates of the government party for Kerry, was attacked by a hostile crowd while passing through Lixnaw yesterday. Shots were fired and one young man was seriously injured.

In today's election there is an electorate of more than 1,750,000 eligible to cast the ballots. Nearly 500,000 of this number are new voters, most of them being young people.

Day Is Holiday.

The day is a public holiday. This makes possible the closing of the polls at 7 o'clock this evening, thus enabling an earlier windup than formerly, when the workmen were accustomed to vote after their day's labors were over. This year, however, the workers have complained that they are forced to lose a day's pay by the enforced holiday. The Dublin sheriff does not expect to be able to announce any result before Tuesday evening, and possibly not even then unless all the candidates waive formal comparison of the number of votes cast with the voting papers issued. It is likely to be Wednesday evening before the returns for this city are tabulated, and the delay in the scattered country constituencies is expected to be even greater. It is customary to make public the names of the candidates obtaining a quota on the first count without awaiting further results, but no final estimate of the strength of the various parties in the dail would be possible until the full tickets are heard from.

The police work has been entrusted in Dublin to the old metropolitan force and in the country to the new civic guard, but as the latter has not yet reached full strength it has been necessary to supplement it with specially enrolled policemen.

The law provides new and drastic penalties for interference with the voting and no intimidation at the polls is expected.

Supporters of the government party have daily increased in confidence and it is now believed that this group will constitute the largest block in the new house. The republicans rely on the new voters to improve the showing made by them in the last election when they took 36 seats. Countess Merkievicz, then defeated in Dublin, is standing for the same seat today and expects to win.

Close With Oratory.

The election campaign was brought to a close yesterday amid a great outburst of oratory all over the country. The final pronouncement of the republicans, issued as a manifesto, bore the name of Eamonn de Valera, but is strongly suspected of having been the work of Mrs. Erskine Childers.

There had been no trace of disorder up to yesterday when several candidates were attacked in various parts of the country. The outburst of shooting here lasted about twenty minutes, ceasing shortly after 3:30 a.m. when the city resumed its normal quiet. There were reports that attacks had been made on Mountjoy Prison and various posts occupied by the national troops, but the authorities professed to have no knowledge of such attacks.

The eleventh hour appearances of some of the dail candidates were marked by rough tactics. While President Cosgrave was speaking

Bathing Queen Draws Interest

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

Nice, Aug. 27.—Queen Elizabeth of the Belgians, bathing at Porte Miami, a resort in Tuscany, attracted more attention than the most alluring of the swimming girl beauties on that famous strand. When the queen entered the water a crowd rushed toward her. There was a scramble for points of vantage from which the royal plunge might be observed. It was necessary for a police cordon to be thrown around the beach to hold back the throng of curious.

LORD ROBERTS' BOYS WIN IN GYMNASTICS.

This is how the boys of the Lord Roberts playground looked on Saturday making the gymnastic pyramid which won them first place in the contest. The Advertiser staff photographer caught them just before the pyramid resumed its component parts. All the work in the long program was carried out with a degree of energy that spoke well for the future Londoner and was a source of supreme gratification to Dr. G. A. Smith chief playground supervisor and to all the supervisors who have been in charge of the children all season.

BECK SAYS CIVIC ACTION IS ILLEGAL WITH RAILWAY CO.

Denies Right of Municipality To Make Paving Contract With Company.

SAYS CITY "IN MESS"

Hon. Sir Adam Beck, M. L. A. for London, brands as illegal the recent paving agreement between the municipality of London and the London street railway corporation.

The local transportation problems were informally discussed this morning by the member for London, following a special session of the London & Port Stanley Railway commission, when Sir Adam vouchsafed the opinion that the city "is making a mess of the affair."

"Why, look what they have done," he exclaimed. "They are going ahead now with an agreement that is illegal. Even City Solicitor Meredith told them that their action was illegal, but that did not appear to make any difference. What right had the city council to grant the street railway company permission to undertake these paving projects, spreading the pavement over a ten-year period??"

City In a Hole.

Commissioner Frank Harley suggested that in a way the company had the city at its mercy — it was either arbitrate, or their franchise would automatically extend for another five-year period.

"The company has it on the city," Sir Adam agreed. "If the city engineer does not insist upon a strict adherence to the provisions of the city's agreement with them, Bylaw 916, The engineer has the authority to say that such and such shall be done, and he is the one to insist that it shall be done."

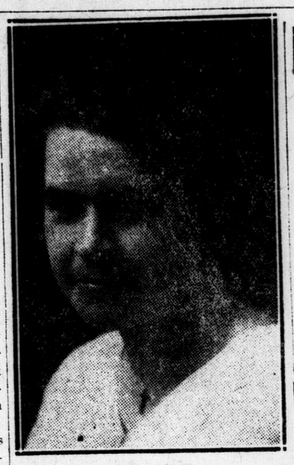

Sir Adam is quite willing to act as mediator with the street railway company to obtain a prospective purchase price, although he jocularly remarked this morning that "Mayor Wenige had already fixed a price of $600,000," and that there would be nothing much for him to do.

Will Meet Council.

The member for London promises, however, that he will meet the city council at an early date. It is his desire that he should consult with the mayor and aldermen before he approaches the company authorities, in order that he shall know definitely just what procedure he is to take, and no doubt to what length he may proceed.

"I will then go into the question thoroughly," he stated. "And we'll see that the city's interests are entirely safeguarded."

From his remarks today it could be safely gathered that Sir Adam does not view with any great enthusiasm the Richmond street paving job now in progress, and even intimates frankly that from information already in hand it may actually become necessary for the city to do over again a great deal of the work if the city ever purchases the line.

COMES TO LONDON POSTOFFICE.

Here is Miss Langford of the Thamesville postoffice, who has accepted a position in the London office. She is to report for duty September 1. She will be the first woman to work in the local mail handling department. Claiming that a returned man should be asked to fill the vacancy, the London G. W. V. A. threaten to take action to prevent her receiving a permanent appointment.

DEPOSITORS NOW FEAR HOME BANK LOSS IS TOTAL

Roman Catholic Institutions, However, Will Come Off Better Than First Thought.

THE BISHOP WRITES

Optimistic Home Bank depositors were plainly disappointed when they read in morning papers that "probably only a percentage of their savings would be redeemed."

A proportion of local depositors had steadfastly refused to believe they would incur a loss through the bank's failure. The double liability, the burden of which must be borne by shareholders of the suspended institution, would probably afford depositors ample protection, they believed. Yesterday's gloomy foreboding of I. E. Weldon, solicitor for Toronto depositors, in addition to some rather unfavorable references regarding the bank's affairs by the curator, have combined to destroy buoyant hopes held out by many involved in the bank's demise.

Businessmen who kept personal accounts with the Home Bank, however, expected all along that their holdings would be a total loss. As a percentage of depositors savings is almost certain to be returned, the pessimists will doubtless have a pleasant surprise in store for them. Only the optimists, which are in the minority, will be disappointed.

A Stroke of Luck.

Catholic shareholders thought it an extraordinary bit of good fortune that Catholic institutions in this district owed the bank $18,000. This assures Catholic depositors of receiving a good proportion of their savings.

"If the bank had failed when Catholic institutions had paid up their indebtedness in full, the depositors would now have no security of any kind," one citizen said. "Now, if depositors' money is declared a total loss we still have that $18,000. That's one instance when it was good business to owe a bank money. We only wish we owed it more."

If redemption of savings is deemed impossible after the curator's statement is issued, two local women will suffer heavily. Mrs. Francis Scott, who, being a shareholder, is subject to the double liability, depended on her savings to defray the two-fold obligation. Thus, if deposits are not redeemed she stands to lose the amount of her shares, plus her deposits, plus the extra liability. Another London woman will be similarly affected.

The letter written to Rev. Father J. C. Kelly by Bishop M. F. Fallon, summarizing the position of fourteen parishes of the Diocese of London with regard to the Home Bank, reveals that possible losses by Catholic institutions are not as high as previously estimated. No account is, of course, taken of the big losses suffered by Catholic shareholders.

The Bishop's Letter.

Bishop Fallon's letter as read to the congregations of the city's Roman Catholic churches yesterday was as follows:

"Dear Rev. Father,—The public have been given some baseless information regarding the position of the Diocese of London in connection with the regretable suspension of the Home Bank of Canada. I think it is due to the clergy and faithful of the diocese that they should know the facts. According to the returns made in answer to my request, fourteen parishes of the Diocese of London carried accounts in the Home Bank. At the time of its suspension these accounts aggregated $29,238.94. Against this amount we owe the Home Bank $18,133.81. The net indebtedness, therefore, of the Home Bank to us is $11,106.13, which represents our total possible loss on the impossible supposition that the Home Bank should pay its depositors nothing. Not a cent of the funds of St. Peter's Seminary has been on deposit in the Home Bank for over five years. These funds are either on loan to the parishes of the diocese or are invested in first mortgage securities.

(Signed) M. F. FALLON."

"FIGHTING FIRST" BATTALION PLANS TO HOLD REUNION

One Thousand Veterans Are Expected To Gather in London Armistice Day.

MEETING THURSDAY

At a special meeting in the armories Thursday night members of the "Fighting First" Canadian Battalion of Infantry will make definite arrangements for their big reunion in this city Armistice Day, at which gathering it is expected that at least 1,000 veterans will attend.

Major T. R. Coleman, D.S.O., M.C., of Toronto, at one time commander of the regiment, and easily one of the most popular officers of that unit, will be here Thursday to represent several hundred ex-members now residing in the Queen City and environs.

Major S. W. Wilkinson will represent the Windsor contingent, also reputed to be several hundred strong. In fact London, Windsor and Toronto will turn out the bigger delegations.

As Armistice Day falls on Sunday this year the convention will extend over three days, commencing early Saturday and lasting until late Monday, with a banquet in the armories. A church parade will be held on Sunday.

From every section of the Dominion it is expected that former members of the battalion will make London their headquarters for these three days.

Among the popular officers coming back will be Dr. Scott. Any member of the unit who ever arrived within hearing distance of the front line has heard of Dr. Scott, but it was only those who went into the danger zone who can recall with pleasure their first-hand acquaintance with him. Dr. Scott always had a good stock of "No. 9's" on hand and was more than generous with them, as all ex-members will recollect.

U.S. Is Canada's Best Customer

Canadian Press Despatch.

The United Kingdom came next, purchasing Canadian produce valued at $376,061,673. During the same period Canada bought from the United States to the amount of $595,414,601, and from the United Kingdom to the value of $153,002,578.

MIDDLESEX JAIL VERY FINE PLACE, SAYS INSPECTOR

In Every Way What Well Conducted Jail Should Be, Says Dunlop.

INMATES HEALTHY

Today Sheriff Donald M. Graham received from W. W. Dunlop, Ontario inspector of prisons and charities, a most favorable report on the latter's inspection of the Middlesex county jail on Aug. 11. It follows:

" found the general condition of the building as regards cleanliness exceptionally good. The beds and bedding were clean and free from vermin. The corridors and cells presented a cleanly appearance. The yards were well kept and free from debris. All closets were clean and in good condition. Drainage, ventilation and water supply are of the very best.

"The general health of the prisoners appeared to be good; all prisoners were properly clothed and the clothing appeared to have been recently washed and in good state of repair. Prisoners were classified as well as possible according to the crime committed. All prisoners are bathed regularly, there being provided bath and showers. Prisoners were provided with good, wholesome food in accordance with regulations, and no complaint was offered.

"There were in residence sixteen prisoners, fifteen males and one female. The prisoners were classified as follows: Theft, five men serving time; murder, one man awaiting trial; forgery, one man awaiting trial; insane, one man; vagrancy, one man serving time; vagrancy, two men awaiting trial; vagrancy, one woman for deportation; drunk, one man serving time; drunk, three men awaiting trial.

"All records of the jail were properly kept and all entries appeared to be up to date.

"The discipline and management of the jail is excellent. Governor Dawson has the work well in hand, and his staff support him to a man. I did not find any dissatisfaction among the staff, which speaks well for perfect co-operation."

During his visit, Inspector Dunlop coversed with Sidney Murrell. He declared his order prohibiting all visitors, even the prisoner's mother, from visiting the bandit, would stand, but primised that it would be withdrawn some time in the future.

GUNMAN HOLDS UP PROPRIETOR OF CAFE AT PORT

Robber, Discovered, Makes His Getaway by Menacing Captor With Gun.

SEEN ON BOAT

Special to The Advertiser. by a Staff Reporter.

Port Stanley, Aug. 27.—Pulling a gun and with the throat, "Stop, or I'll plug you," an unknown early morning prowler made a successful getaway Saturday when surprised after he had broken into Sam's Quick Lunch on the Board Walk, by James Kiley, an employee.

The visitor, who is described by Mr. Kiley as a foreigner between 18 and 20 years old, tall and slim, and wearing a gray sweater, evidently made two trips to the establishment, which is situated midway between the Cafeteria and the Casino, within the past four days.

On Friday morning it was found that someone had entered the booth through the side, but nothing was missing. That the man must have been hungry, however, was made evident by finding a partially eaten loaf of bread and a bottle of catsup at the back.

Mr. Kiley, who sleeps in the rear, woke up about 6:30 Saturday morning and felt rather than saw the presence of another in the room.

"I couldn't hear a sound," he told The Advertiser, "but somehow I knew there was somebody there. I glanced toward the far end of the room, and through the rungs of the chair I saw a pair of brown shoes."

Mr. Kiley lay still for a few minutes, he related, and then when the marauder began to move toward the back door he jumped up and went into the kitchen. No sooner had he stepped into the room than he was confronted by the young man with drawn revolver.

The man then disappeared through the back door and was lost among the booths, and although a thorough search was made of the locality he could not be found.

Later in the day a villager saw a man answering to the description on the Cleveland boat, but the steamer had sailed before the information could be utilized.

SECRETARY RAPS LACK OF INTEREST SHOWN IN REUNION

Edwin Smith Announces Citizens Gave But $830 to Old Boys' Week.

COST ABOUT $11,000

The citizens of London actually contributed some $830 to the Old Boys' week. That's all they gave toward the expenses of the week. It's a disgrace. Surely a city like London could have raised at least $2,000 or $3,000 for a worthy object like this," said Edwin Smith, the secretary of the Old Boys' Association this morning.

The accounts of the Old Boys' Associations will be presented at a meeting of the executive in the offices of Mr. Smith tomorrow. Mr. Smith, while not wishing to forestall any discussion that might be part of the meeting, gave a few of the items in the expense account today.

The executive work, including all the clerical work in connection with sending out the invitations, etc., cost the association $2,000, decorating the city streets, $1,700; printing 23,000 invitations, $380; provincial tax, $525; city tax, $300. The ambitious sports program put on by the association cost $1,306; silk badges for the guests $1,400. Besides this, there is a bill for $225 from the public utilities commission for lighting the streets.

Revenue came in from the sale of membership tickets, $1,100, and free-will offerings of interested Londoners, $825, the sum which has aroused the ire of Mr. Smith, and what was taken from the earnings of the side shows on the Midway.

The secretary figures that the Old Boys' week cost the association about $11,000. He would make no statement as to the final standing of the association until after the meeting tomorrow. James Bell, citytreasurer, is the treasurer of the association.

BUT LITTLE CHANGE IN TRAIN SERVICES

Railways' Fall Timetables Will Be Issued First of Month.

New passenger timetables will be introduced by both the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific Railways the first week in September but local passenger agents do not look for any changes of train schedule in the London division.

Harry McCallum, London C. P. R. agent stated today that the service maintained in this district is practically the same in the winter as in the summer and this division will not likely be affected by the new timetable.

On the Canadian National the Muskoka special running from Toronto will cease on September 1 and the boat trains running between Toronto and Point Edward and passing through London will be discontinued September 17.

SUBURBAN AREA COMMISSION.

The suburban area commission of Middlesex County will hold its regular meeting at the County Building tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. General routine business is scheduled.

OFFERS TURKEY BUZZARD TO SPRINGBANK PARK ZOO

A turkey buzzard is to be the latest addition to the Springbank Zoological Garden.

Mayor Wenige this morning received a communication from Harry Thomson, J.P., county clerk of Metcalfe, in which in behalf of his young son, Carlyle Thomson, he offers the city a full-grown turkey buzzard.

E. V. Buchanan, general manager of the Public Utilities Commission, was ready and willing to grant the turkey buzzard a welcome befitting its place in the animal, or rather fowl, kingdom; and so the installation of the turkey buzzard in its new quarters will be in order in a day or two.

POLICE SEIZE LIQUOR IN C.P.R. FREIGHT SHED

Four Packing Case Loads Are Added to Store at Headquarters.

Seized liquor is continuing to pile up at police headquarters.

This morning Provincial Constable T. Y. Stratton, License Inspector Walter Bolton and an outside operator brought three large packing cases and one small one, filled with whiskey, to the station. They had seized it at the C. P. R. freight sheds.

They had expected the shipment on Friday night, and waited all night for it, but it did not arrive.

The liquor is good old Scotch, and of the best brands. The shipment is reputed to be worth more than $4,000.

It was consigned ot Chatham.

This is the most recent of several seizures made lately by city and provincial police and license authorities.

During the past month district officers have captured about $25,000 worth of good liquor, in addition to several stills and hundreds of gallons of moonshine

Mother Has Lover Jailed So Juanita Hunger Strikes

By J. W. CRAYHON.
Special to The Advertiser.

Coffeyville, Kan., Aug. 27.—Beautiful Juanita Richards, 19 years old, is hunker-striking today, not for political ideals, but for love. Not since the Dalton boys staged their famous coup here many years ago has Coffeyville been so thrilled.

Juanita is trying to win her mother's consent to a marriage between Juanita and her Spanish suitor, Lament Ramirez, 22 years old. The girl for several years has been refusing food and making threats of suicide.

Mrs. Richards complained to the police last week that her daughter and Ramirez were at Parsons, a city 30 miles from here. Ramirez was arrested and lodged in jail. In police court a $30 fine was imposed on Ramirez. The girl went home and refused supper.

Now Mrs. Richards wants Ramirez released, for her daughter's actions frighten her. She has appealed to the county attorney at Parsons to get Ramirez out.

Mrs. Richards even went to the police judge who fined Ramirez. The judge told her Ramirez would be released on payment of $30 fine. "Hm! He's not worth it," said Mrs. Richards. She went home.

She will make another attempt to break up the affair between Juanita and Ramirez. And meanwhile Juanita continues her hunger strike.

Two Youths Tied To Tree Die As Result of Prank

Associated Press Despatch.

Belmar, N.J., Aug. 27.—A juvenile "Western drama" with "live Indians" tied to a stake ended in grim tragedy in Wall township here last night when two 16-year-old lads were fatally burned while tied to a tree by two companions in their play.

Charles Shindler and William Hubbard were the victims of the game that started when the four boys were wandering through an empty field. The two boys permitted their companions to tie them to a tree.

The others, Richard Foreman, 16, and Caleb Hubbard, 18, brother of the younger Hubbard boy, according to the police, bound the lads to a tree and lit a fire. The flames spread and before the nervous fingers of the boys could untie their companions' bonds, got beyond control. A passerby succeeded in freeing the boys who were taken to the hospital where they died shortly afterwards.

BECK OPPOSES SELLING HYDRO TO U.S. INDUSTRIES

OPPOSES SELLING OF HYDRO POWER TO U.S. INDUSTRIES

WAS FOR RAILROAD

Sir Adam Beck stands vigorously opposed to a diversion of water at Niagara for the purpose of supplying American industries with power. Interviewed today in connection with a report coming from Detroit that Henry Ford's engineers are negotiating with Sir Adam for a huge block of new power to run the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railroad, the hydro chairman declared he disapproved of selling Canadian power to all-American enterprises, Ford interests included.

Sir Adam's declaration of policy in this regard puts a permanent quietus to rumors that any of Canada's portion of Niagara's electric power will be diverted to United States sources.

According to an editorial in the Detroit Times, engineers representing the Ford interests have been after the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission for a block of Niagara power sufficient to take care of the requirements of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railroad, recently purchased by Mr. Ford. Sir Adam Beck denies this. Further, he says he will never reconcile himself to a proposition by which Canada will be separated from any part, however, insignificant, of her Niagara waters.

"The Detroit paper must have got mixed up," Sir Adam said. "Two years ago there was talk of diverting Canadian power for the benefit of Mr. Ford's industries, but I have received no communication of any kind from the Ford people suggesting that negotiations be entered into with a transference of power in view."

"Is there a possibility of Ontario selling a portion of her water powers to United States industries in the future?" he was asked.

"No. None whatever."

The report from Detroit said the chances were that Ford will not get electricity from two huge steam plants to run his railroad when sufficient water power at Niagara may be procured from Sir Adam Beck to keep the railroad going. Now that Sir Adam has declared himself against such a move it looks as if Mr. Ford will have to be content with running his line on steam.

CLAIMS ONTARIO NEEDS EMIGRATION FROM ENGLAND

W. C. Noxon Tells the City Rotarians of Immigration Activities.

PRAISES FARMERS

As a dominating feature in the relationship of the British Isles and the Dominion of Canada, immigration was discussed at today's meeting of the Rotary Club in the Tecumseh House by W. C. Nixon, general agent for the Province of Ontario in Old London, and who is in Canada on his annual visit in connection with the work of his post.

According to Mr. Noxon, the emigration of some of her people to Canada and the other dominions is needed by the home land, as greatly as Canada needs the re-charging of British blood and industry in the agricultural fields of both eastern and western Canada.

"'Fortunate Ontario' is the slogan which I habitually use in all my work and advertising," Mr. Noxon said, speaking particularly of conditions which prevail in the province which he represents.

Pioneers Leave Impress.

"It is not agricultural resources or natural wealth which make a country, but the people who live there. The pioneers who went before have left their impress upon this land. Today, Ontario is producing as good Englishman, Irishmen and Scotchmen as the British Isles. And in the Old Country, they realize this to the fullest.

"I don't think there is a single, active, logical business man in the country but would say that we need good British stock.

"From an old country viewpoint, our great handicap is 'Cold,' little as we realize it. Our great attractions are our proximity and our prospects. We are the nearest dominion to the Old Land which produces an excess of food.

"But a small proportion of English population is food-producing. The greatness of England is largely due to the faith of other nations in her commercial justice, her coal which is now, however, a fast-decreasing asset, the fact that, as the center of the financial world, she was provided with plenty of cheap money and her control of trade routes.

"Conditions in England now are not those which preceded the war. England is forced to look to emigration as a means of solving her domestic problems and to this end she is seeking the co-operation of Canada in the Overseas Settlement Act which has as its object the increase in number of emigrants.

"The best people of any country do not migrate. They are the backbone of their land. On the other hand, the poorest people do not migrate, as they are not able, either financially or physically, to do so. It is the average class, seized with an ambition to better themselves, which do not recognize the boundaries of a country as their limitation. The English are a race of adventurers. They would circle the globe, always with the intention of returning home, but it is a well-established fact that they do not all return. Local conditions and domestic discontent all lend to the instinct for migration.

Need Agriculturists.

"Canada's great need is agriculturists. There is no industry in this country where a man works longer or harder for his dollar than on the farm, and they are deserving of every assistance.

"It is the cost of transportation which is holding up, I believe, both emigration and the unification of the empire. As far as trade is concerned Great Britain is eager to buy from her dominions. The coming imperial conference will in all likelihood see imperial trade flowing in a greater volume. The unification of trade interest is engaging the attention of all thinking Britishers. If we could induce our railroads to cut their prices by two-thirds, so that personal contact might be obtained among all parts of the empire, we should soon see its unification."

COAL BINS FILLED; LONDON IS READY FOR COLD WINTER

Quantity of Coal Already in Householders' Bins Reaches 79,787 Tons.

FEAR NO SHORTAGE

Inconvenience and privation suffered in many communities last winter through failure to provide against a coal scarcity have apparently had a good effect on citizens all over Canada this year. Figures recently issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reveal that householders, fearing a repetition of last year's situation, filled their bins as early as April and May.

Up to June 1 as much as 41 per cent more coal than obtained in 1922 was imported from the United States. The total amount imported to London is considerably above this figure according to merchants, and 85 per cent of the public have sufficient fuel now in their cellars to keep them warm through the entire winter.

Fear No Shortage.

The remaining 15 per cent can be taken care of adequately, local dealers believe. If they delay ordering, however, until the cold weather sets in, permanently they will be compelled to wait as long as a month before orders are delivered. Thus, those who have not yet filed orders will probably be subjected to a certain amount of inconvenience through their own carelessness.

Of all cities in Ontario London believes less in "taking a chance." The quantity of coal already in local b[ins] is 79,787 tons which is 20,000 m[ore] than that used in the years 1920 a[nd] 1922. Bituminous imports are a[lso] greatly in excess of those of pa[st] years.

London merchants believe the situation in the United States will not affect London to any extent. If citizens had not exercised their good sense and ordered early, however, a cold, miserable winter would have prevailed.

Alberta Coal.

Perhaps the brightest feature of the report by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics is the extraordinary increase of exports enjoyed by the Province of Alberta. Apparently Alberta coal is given a distinct preference over American importations, for while every other coal producing province was behind in their yearly average, Alberta registered a gain over last year of 100,000 tons.

PAGEANT TO TRACE GROWTH OF CITY FROM EARLY DAYS

200 PEOPLE IN CAST

The monster pageant, tracing the development of London from the time it was founded, down through the years to the present day, and which will be the biggest feature of the 1923 Western Fair, is attracting greater interest every day. The first rehearsal will be held in Hyman Hall at 7:30 tonight. The pageant committee and the staff of the John B. Rogers Producing Company of Fostoria, Ohio, who are staging the spectacle, are confident that by fair week everything will be in readiness to produce the most elaborate and colorful historical display the city has ever seen.

It was in order to carry out the original educational purpose of London's annual exhibition that the Western Fair Association secured the pageant. All local talent will be used in the spectacle, and the directing will be in the hands of J. Merle Ward, whose genius for pageant producing is known throughout the United States. Mr. Ward is expected to be in the city tonight for the initial rehearsal.

Historic Sittings.

Andrew Jerpe, a member of the John B. Rogers Company, who is at present in the city looking after preliminary work, gives a brief sketch of the pageant which will be portrayed with symbolic dancing, unusual and historically accurate stage settings and scenery, and magnificent costumes and lighting effects.

Opening with a prologue, triumpeters will announce the arrival of "Miss London" and her attendants, who in turn greet "Miss Canada" and her attendants—the provinces. The citizens are then invited with all the oldtime elaborateness, to witness the events which have happened in the past, and which all had their share in the developing of the Forest City into the responsible position she enjoys today among Canadian communities.

Coming of Indians.

The first episode, "Creation," depicts in a highly symbolic and striking manner the creation of the universe. This is followed by the coming of the Indian. The audience then beholds a typical Indian village, with the primitive methods and occupations of the red man shown in detail.

In the third episode, "The Coming of the White Man," the pioneer is shown conquering the powers of the forest and persevering even though death, famine and disease threaten his progress. The scene then begins to take a definite and familiar form as the first white settler arrives in London. Great pains are being taken with this scene to give a fairly accurate portrayal of what conditions were like in the London district at that period of Canadian history.

Episode five is the "Covered Wagon Scene," while the last three episodes are historical settings of progress in Western Ontario.

The "Melting Pot."

The grand finale comes with the staging of "The Melting Pot of Nations," a spectacle that has received the warmest kind of praise wherever it has been shown, even from the most exacting critics. Its worth lies in its many rapid-fire scenes of brilliant offernigs. Throughout the scene more than 200 people appear in presentations of the dances of the nations across the sea, and each nation dovetails into building up of a mammoth living picture of blazing color and massive splendor.

Then, with a flare of music the scene breaks and the entire ensemble eecutes the climax of the finale. The "Melting Pot of Nations," led by Miss Canada, goes through a maze of intricate drills and stage groupings that invariably appeal to the trait of patriotism in every witness of the spectacle.

ALFRED SAW RED WHEN HIS LIQUOR WAS TAKEN AWAY

Ireson Makes Things Hum Over $8 Bottle of Moonshine.

COURT FINES $50

"One, two, three! If you don't open that door, I'll break it down." Thus spoke $8 moonshine through the medium of Alfred Ireson, at a west Queen's avenue boarding house Sunday afternoon.

Behind the door which Alfred threatened to demolish huddled two of the girls of the house, Alton Petch and another roomer.

The girls had locked the door, when they hid from Ireson, who had chased them from the ground floor of the house, Petch testified.

Rather than have Ireson carry out his "crash and carry" threat, Petch opened the door.

Ireson saw whiskey, at least he claimed he did. What was worse, he said, it was his whiskey. Petch and the other roomer were trying to hide it, so he declared war on all and sundry. No one could steal his liquor, he declared. What was more, it was perfectly good rye whiskey, which he had bought from a stranger, who handed it to him in front of the postoffice Saturday evening in exchange for $8.

Petch fell before the mighty onslaught. He remember being struck once or twice, and then darkness fell. He believed he had been hit with a bottle.

Ireson said that the "haymaker" was not delivered with a bottle, but was one of his famous straight-from-the-shoulder wallops.

The assault charge was proven.

When Ireson declared a man "about 45, with a gray suit and a fedora," had sold him two bottles on two different occasions at $8 each, he was convicted of purchasing liquor from a person other than a licensee. A fine of $50 and costs was imposed.

Magistrate Gladman stated he imposed the minimum fine because Ireson was new to the country, having come from England only four months ago. Sentence was suspended in the assault case.

SHOOTING MARKS START OF GENERAL ELECTION

yesterday at Waterford a procession of supporters of, Captain Redmond, Independent, came marching on the scene amid the blare of several bands which made the president's remarks inaudible.

This went on for a short time, when a few of the invaders began firing revolvers causing part of the crowd to stampede. Several persons are reported to have been injured. In the melee which followed, according to Redmond's supporters, the bands were attacked and their cornets and trombones were thrown into the river. President Cosgrave resumed his address as soon as quiet was restored.

At Longford, West Meath, Frank McGuinness and P. W. Shaw, government candidates, were attacked. They were not greatly harmed, but were prevented from speaking.

Polling Was Brisk.

The polling was brisk in all parts of Dublin city and county, both men and women turning out in large numbers to cast their ballots. From the time the polls opened until early this afternoon no untoward incident had been reported.

James Larkin, the Labor leader, addressing a meeting at Liberty Hall last night, denounced the action of the authorities in making election day a public holiday, declaring this would rob the workers of £50,000 in wages. He urged the men to march to their places of employment this morning and demand that operations go on as usual. There was no evidence today of his advice having been followed in any instance.

The campaign was quiet beyond precedent. With the exception of a few incidents there had been no trace of disorder up to today, the electoral war having been exclusively one of words.

To have complete control of parliament the government must return at least 80 of its 107 candidates, but even should it fail to do so it is admitted unhesitatingly that it can count on the support of sufficient independents to maintain itself in power.

Successful Republicans will not enter the new parliament. They have put forward a program which indicates that if in sufficient numbers they will set up a rival parliament and attempt to work it.

Behind all the problems of the election is the menace of serious harbor troubles. The strike at docks throughout Free State ports continues, and in connection with it a sympathetic strike such as the one with which in 1913 James Larkin held up many Dublin businesses, has been put in force and is daily being extended.

Meanwhile army contracts are held up and the work of repairing devastations by the irregulars is coming to a halt, because permission is refused for the transport of essential materials.

VOTERS APATHETIC.

Associated Press Despatch.

Belfast, Aug. 27.—Polling in the Dail elections in County Louth today was marked by the apathetic attitude of the voters in general. The Republicans showed the greatest activity, rallying their forces with the slogan "Aitken and Peace." Frank Aitken is now active head of the Republicans as "chief of staff" to Eamonn de Valera, who is held in detention by the Free State.

A peculiar aspect of the polling in Donegal was the employment of officials from the six-county area of Ulster.

READY FOR PROBE PROVIDING CITY PAYS ALL BILLS

London and Port Stanley Commission Willing To Receive Brittain's Reports.

MONTHLY REPORT

Members of the London & Port Stanley Railway Commission are quiet willing that Dr. Brittain and his staff survey that branch of the city's endeavors—conditionally. The city council is to authorize this procedure and shoulder all financial responsibilities.

In special session this morning, Sir Adam Beck and his colleagues ruled to this effect and the city council will be duly notified.

Mayor Wenige was not in attendance after 11:15 o'clock. The meeting was set for 11 o'clock and when Sir Adam Beck had not arrived at that time, the mayor departed with the announcement that he could wait no longer as he had other city business to perform and that they had better call the meetings for noon hereafter if Sir Adam could not arrange to be there on time.

Sir Adam came in one door as the mayor left by the other but the meeting proceeded without his worship, Commissioner Donald Wright was also unable to leave his business.

Outlines Survey.

A communication was submitted from Gordon Philip, secretary of the chamber of commerce, outlining the proposed "survey" of the road by Dr. Brittain and his associates, as requested by the city council.

"Have they included an honorarium for the commssioners?" asked Sir Adam, obviously in a happy mood.

"They will likely recommend that when they see what we have to do," assured Commissioner Harley.

"Well this is 1923," declared Sir Adam, employing the city's slogan for the current year. "Research is the order of the day."

"How about expenses?" was the question from General Manager Richards.

But the commissioners unanimously frowned upon expenses, ruling that while the books were ever at the disposal of the city council, any investigation expenditure must be borne by the council.

"We are conducting the L. & P. S. along sane lines," assured Sir Adam. "We are employing the best known practice. The city's auditor this year has said that our books and methods are very satisfactory. Our books are always open if the council authorizes any probe. We have nothing to hide. But the council will have to pay and the survey can go ahead providing it does not seriously interfere with the duties of the organization. Doesn't City Auditor Ashplant ever report?"

"He reports to us and to the city council at the end of each year,' explaind he manager.

"Well if there is anything wrong surely he won't wait until the end of the year to tell us," suggested Sir Adam. "We are ready for reports or suggested improvements at any time."

The L. & P. S. authorities are not seeking space in the new city hall. A communication to that effect will be sent to the city council.

"Our present quarters are much more convenient than they would be in the new hall," reported Manager Richards.

"Write and tell the city clerk that we have all the room that we require," directed Sir Adam.

The Monthly Report.

From the monthly report for June, submitted by General Manager Richards, it will be noted that the revenue from all sources exceeded the corresponding periods for both 1922 and 1921, while the gross operating expenses are but slightly increased and in proportion.

A notable increase for "passengers carried" is also noted over 1922, as many as 3,592.

The report follows in detail:

	1921.	1922.	1923.
Revenue.
Passenger	$29,824 42	$26,072 85	$26,049 96

Miscellaneous	14,465 05	8,200 35	9,456 91
Totals	$51,822 92	$48,513 18	$68,715 17
Operating expenses	$51,794 39	$46,859 43	$53,667 00
Gross income	$ 8,028 53	$ 1,653 75	$15,048 17

Passengers carried—1921, 118,390; 1922, 39,204; 1923, 96,612. December over 1922, 3,592.

L. & P. S. tonnage handled—1921, 21,775 tons; 1922, 5,287 tons; 1923, 48,152 tons. Gain, 42,865 tons.

PINCHOT SEEKS TO STAY STRIKE OF COAL MINERS

Pennsylvania Governor Starts Miners' and Operators' Conference at Harrisburg.

Associated Press Despatch.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 27.—A final attempt to prevent a suspension of anthracite mining got under way today, when Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania acting with the support of President Coolidge, met with miners' union officials and representatives of the operators of anthracite mines. Until the governor actually came to grips with his problem the closest secrecy surrounded plans and proposals which he had matured.

Four of the leaders from each party to the controversy, men who have faced each other a half dozen times in this year's deadlock between employer and employee in the industry, whose experience has been gained in previous years when similar breaks of negotiations precipitated strike or shut-down, again gathered at Governor Pinchot's summons.

Governor Pinchot came to his task armed with all information and assistance that federal and state authorities could lend. Newspaper correspondents were admitted to the opening session.

YOUNG ENGINEER EXPIRES IN WILDS OF BRITISH GUIANA

Laverne Stokes, of Sombra, Succumbs to Yellow Fever On Diamond Hunt.

Sombra, Aug. 27.—With the death of Laverne Stokes, civil engineer, aged 26, and son of William R. Stokes, well-known farmer of this locality, tragedy has struck at the adventurous party of Canadians who set out some weeks ago through little-explored territory of British Guiana in search of diamonds, said to have been located by natives in that region.

The death is believed to have occurred on Aug. 20, as the result of an attack of yellow fever, but word was received in Sombra only yesterday, due to the fact that the party was a journey of five days from any port or cable station. The cable received by the parents was dated at Georgetown, British Guiana.

Information has already been received by Mr. Stokes that it will be impossible to have the body of his son forwarded to the family home, as the expedition had already penetrated to too great a depth in the South American wilderness.

Twelve Canadians set out with the expedition, under the name of the British Guiana Diamond Venture, among them being Lester McGillivary of London. Dr. G. H. Joyce of Paris was one of the party, a fact believed to do away with the likelihood that young Stokes' death was in part due to insufficient medical attention.

Evidence of Diamonds.

With his companions, Mr. Stokes set sail on May 25 from Canada to Georgetown, prepared to sacrifice years of time and substantial private fortunes to confirm their belief that practically untouched stores of diamonds were located in an area of volcanic rock at the head of the Maxeruni River, hundreds of miles in the interior.

Members of the expedition based their conviction on reliable evidences that natives had already discovered the deposits, and with the meagre resources for mining at their command had wrested a quantity from the rocks and succeeded in finding ready market for them with European and American traders at the coast.

The country, with its scanty mapping, presents numerous difficulties, but all members of the expedition can contribute to the sum total of mining, engineering and geological knowledge.

Expresses Sympathy.

The leader of the party, W. G. Stewart of Paris, has spent considerable time in South America, and had a store of valuable experience to lay at the command of the expedition.

Friends of young Stokes in this vicinity showed the keenest interest in his venture. Word of his death was naturally a deep shock. Friends and neighbors who held the young engineer in great regard, are common in expressing sincere sympathy with his family.

WILL EXHIBIT SHEEP IMPORTED TO CANADA

Col. Robert McEwen Enters Highly-Prized Animals in Toronto Competition.

The finest group of Southdown sheep ever imported into Canada is being sent to the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto today by Col. Robert McEwen of Byron. There are 22 head in the lot, and they are all importations from some of the best-known flocks in Great Britain. Among the animals being shown are two yearling rams from the Duke of Richmond's estate in Sussex; one 2-year-old ram from the flock of Lady Ludlow in Berkshire, England; three yearlings from King George's Sandringham estates; two yearlings from Lady Ludlow's flock, and two yearling ewes from the estates of Jeremiah Coleman.

These are all imported sheep of outstanding merit, and Col. McEwen is expecting to "bring home the bacon" with some of them.

He is sending also twelve sheep bred on his farm at Byron. The sheep will be shown also at the Western Fair, and will in due course take their turn at all the larger American shows. Col. McEwen is well known all through Ontario and in every show ring in the States as a breeder of excellent sheep. He has been a steady prizewinner across the border for years.

He has always specialized in the Southdowns, being a believer in the use of that old English breed as the most suitable for use and profit in Canada. The Southdown is a medium-wooled sheep, presenting a wonderful carcase, and is popular with both the wool men and with the butcher.

WILL RUSH ADDITION TO TECHNICAL SCHOOL

Revised Plans Reach City and Work Will Be Rapidly Completed.

The new four-room addition to the Technical School, the contract for which was given to H. Hayman & Sons some weeks ago, has been held up for a time by alterations in the plans ordered by the provincial educational authorities in Toronto. The revised plans, together with the permission to go ahead with the building, have now arrived, and the work is marked on the contractors' dial as at "full speed ahead."

It is expected by them that the four rooms will be ready for occupation by Christmas. Arrangements were made by Principal Beal at the time that the new addition was being discussed by the advisory committee to take care of all the pupils until the end of September. Mr. Beal this morning stated that he will by reorganization be able to take care of this year's students until such time as the addition is ready. The Technical School is registering its students all this week, and Principal Beal will be in his office in the school every night from 7:30 to 9:30 to confer with parents and guardians as to the work and courses in the school.

The courses offered in the Technical include: Technical high school course for boys, high school economics course for girls, matriculation course, commercial course, general preparatory course for boys, general preparatory course for girls, part time course for adolescents, and several special courses, which include electrical work, machine shop practice, woodworking, millinery, draughting, dressmaking and art work.

ONE-LEGGED PILOT DIES WHEN PLANE CRASHES

Captain F. Fitzsimmons and Gunner Lindhl Killed Near Atlantic City.

Associated Press Despatch.

Atlantic City, Aug. 27.—Captain Frank Fitzsimmons, veteran of the French Foreign Legion, one-legged pilot in active service in the United States, and Gunner Lindhl, were drowned here yesterday before hundreds of persons along the Meadow Boulevard, when their seaplane took a nose dive in Lake's Bay, three miles from this city. Fitzsimmons shut off his motor while a thousand feet in the air, preparatory to making a landing. The ship started on its volplane, and banked into the northeast wind. As it ended the turn, the fatal dive came without warning, and the craft dropped straight into the bay, burying its nose in the soft mud bottom.

BITUMINOUS MINERS TO KEEP AGREEMENT

Workers in Pittsburg District Will Not Break Faith With Operators.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 27.—Strike action by the bituminous miners of this section as an expression of sympathy or aid to the anthracite workers was declared impossible today by officials of District No. 5 of the United Mine Workers of America. P. T. Fagat, president of the Pittsburg district, said workers would adhere to their agreement with the mine operators, which will not expire until April 1, 1924.

It is probable that the bituminous miners would be lavish in extending financial aid to the anthracite men in the event of a suspension of work in the anthracite fields, but they declare they will abide by their contracts.

ANOTHER PROBLEM VEXES THE POWERS AT CITY HALL

Now who is the "boss" up in city hall regions?

This is another little absorbing problem which has arisen to tax the ingenuity of municipal experts.

"Where is the boss this morning?" inquired Commissioner Frank Harley, as he arrived at the session of the Port Stanley Commission.

"He'll be here directly," assured General Manager Richards, realizing at once that Commissioner Harley was seeking information as to the whereabouts of Sir Adam Beck, chairman.

"What do you mean, boss?" was the prompt query, however, from Mayor Wenige, emerging from his survey of a "mass of correspondence."

"You're boss over in the city hall building," explained Commissioner Harley. "We are in the utilities building now, you know."

A debate was avoided by an impromptu discussion of the weather.

STEFANSSON TELLS OF MYSTIC LURE OF ARCTIC CIRCLE

Famous Explorer Urges British Government To Claim Wrangell Island.

HATES WORSHIP

By H. SOMERVILLE.
Copyright.

London, Aug. 25.—Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the Canadian Arctic explorer, has been in London since May. He was asked to come here by the Canadian government to urge the British government to claim Wrangell Island in the Arctic Ocean for the empire. I called upon the explorer to interview him on his mission. He has shown his flair for discovery in London by finding lodgings in the Middle Temple. H. G. Wells has written a story called "The Door in the Wall," of a boy walking along a London street, and seeing a white wall with a green door, which, moved by a strange impulse he opened, and then found himself in a magic garden, where the air exhilarated and gave a sense of lightness and well-being, and where panthers, two great spotted panthers, gambolled with a ball and came up to the boy to be caressed. The Middle Temple is something like that enchanted garden, though there are no panthers. From the roar and rush of Fleet street you enter through an old arched door, and you are in a dreamy haven of old-world courts and gardens.

Lord Beaverbrook has rooms there, and when I called on Mr. Stefansson I noticed that rooms on the same staircase belonged to Sir Reginald Blomfield, the eminent architect. Mr. Stefansson is occupying during the long vacation the chambers of the Hon. Stephen Coleridge.

Long Time for Answer.

Mr. Stefansson told me that when he first came to London he stayed at the Savoy Hotel. He found, however, that it took rather a long time to get any definite answer from the British cabinet about Wrangell Island. There was much time spent waiting for ministers to make appointments and for the cabinet to come to decisions, and Stefansson decided to employ the time in writing a new book. By good luck he obtained chambers at the Temple, and a more ideal environment for literary work could hardly be desired.

About Wrangell Island there is much to say which cannot be said, for the cabinet has requested secrecy. The secrecy is as to whether, when and how the British government will officially assert the claim to the island which, as Stefansson says, belongs to the empire by right of discovery and present occupation. It is not a secret that Stefansson is here on behalf of the government of Canada to urge the imperial government to take the necessary diplomatic action to secure Wrangell Island.

If the British government is dilatory in its dealings Mr. Stefansson has the satisfaction of knowing that the king takes a keen personal interest in the potentialities of the Polar regions. The explorer recently had a long interview with his majesty at Buckingham Palace. On the morning that I was in Mr. Stefansson's rooms a telephone message came from John Middleton, G. C. B., governor of the Falkland Islands, who, acting on a suggestion made to him by his majesty had asked Stefansson to give him an interview to discuss the introduction of the musk ox into the Falkland Islands. Following quickly on the telephone message came the governor himself just as my own interview with Mr. Stefansson was ending. The explorer took the opportunity of showing us both a bale of cloth woven from the wool of the musk ox. When this cloth appears on the market it will make the finest Harris tweeds look common in comparison. It is as smooth as silk and as warm as furs. I understand that the king is having a suit made from musk ox cloth.

Mr. Stefansson is himself one of the great line of Arctic explorers, but he absolutely hates praise of Arctic explorers. He calls it hero-worship, and he seems to regard hero-worship as a kind of superstition. His particular objection to the hero-worship of Arctic explorers is that it is derived from the popular ignorance which imagines the Arctic Circle to be a region of terrors where only heroes would venture. Stefansson is making it his life-work to demolish the myth of the frozen North. One of his books is entitled "The Friendly Arctic," another is called "The Northward Course of Empire." He keeps on saying that the future development of Canada northward will be as fruitful as was the opening-up of the Great West.

Object of Solicitude.

Wrangell Island is an object of his special solicitude just now because it is the one island in the Arctic Ocean on the north coast of Siberia to which the British Empire has a claim. Stefansson believes that the Polar Ocean is going to become a great route for commerce by air and submarines, and therefore Wrangell Island would be of strategic importance as a supply depot. "You have been taught to think of the Arctic Ocean as the end of the earth," said Stefansson, "but the truth is that it is the northern Mediterranean. It is the sea joining lands of the greatest importance."

Stefansson does not seem to expect anyone to believe what he says about the North on his mere evidence as one who has been there. He brings forward scientific explanations to show why it is what he has found it to be. Flying conditions, he declares, are better over the Arctic than almost any other part of the world. Hydrogen, which is used for dirigibles, expands when the morning sun's rays strike it after the coolness of night. It is therefore necessary to allow a certain amount of hydrogen to escape each day to keep the balloon from bursting. With less hydrogen in the cool of night it is necessary to throw out ballast to prevent the balloon from descending But these alterations of day and night are not a factor in the land of the midnight sun, so that there would not be the complications arising from the contracting and expanding hydrogen.

Furthermore, the Polar regions having in summer perpetual daylight, there are less chances of serious mishaps in the light than in darkness. If a forced landing is made there will be an even-money chance of descending, not on the sea, but on a substantial cake of ice which would serve as a raft until S. O. S. signals brought help. It is not too cold for flying over the Arctic seas in the summer, because, owing to the length of the days, there is more sun at midsummer at the North Pole than at the Equator. In fact, the summer heat at the pole would be unbearable but for the refrigerating effects of the cold "stored" in the Arctic Ocean during the long winter. The Arctic air route from London to Tokio is 3,000 miles shorter than any other route. The supplies for these Arctic depots can always be taken by submarines, which are easily navigable under ice.

Stefansson is an advocate of the domestication of the musk ox, which is a kind of cow with wool like that of sheep. Seven hundred miles within the Arctic Circle the Canadian expedition dwelt in houses made of musk ox hides, using the tallow for candle light, and eating the flesh for food. In all respects it is as good as beef. It is very easy to keep musk oxen in herds, for they do not move far or fast. Reindeer is the other source of meat supply which Stefansson believes should be developed. Unlike musk oxen, reindeer have been domesticated for thousands of years, not only by the Eskimos and the Russians, but by the Chinese and the Scandinavians. In towns like Stockholm, reindeer venison is as much a staple of diet as is beef. The Americans have already made a success of reindeer raising in Alaska, and the Hudson's Bay Company has now gone into the business for Northern Canada.

No Difficulty In Feeding.

There will be no difficulty about feeding the musk oxen or reindeer. Northernmost Canada, as Stefansson keeps repeating, is not a wilderness of ice. It is about the greatest grassland in the world. There are thousands of square miles of verdant prairies, where animals can forage in winter as well as summer. The winter temperature is about the same as that of Manitoba. The snowfall in Northern Alaska is lighter than that of such a great ranching region as the State of Montana.

Many shrewd commercial men agree with Stefansson's estimate of the polar north. One of his visitors was Mr. Brewer, managing director of the British Wright Company, the aeroplane firm which is interested in polar flying. It has just been announced that Mr. Brewer is treasurer of a relief fund started to finance the rescue party to Wrangell Island, where the young Torontonian, Allan Crawford, and other members of the expedition sent by Stefansson, are marooned. Stefansson has spent all his own money, as he told me, on that expedition, and he is anxious to end the isolation of its members. But he hates the use of the terms "relief funds" and "rescue," for to his mind they encourage the popular delusion that the polar north is a land of horror. Perhaps Stefansson in his love for "the friendly Arctic" rather under-estimates the loneliness of men who have been on an Arctic island for two years. It is more than time that Allan Crawford and his companions were brought back from Wrangell Island to their home land.

SHIPPING COARSE GRAIN IN LARGE QUANTITIES

Associated Press Despatch.

Fort William, Aug. 26.—Coarse grain shipments were the principal feature of the week movement. Out of a total shipment of two and a half million bushels, wheat only accounted for three quarters of a million. Rye was the most active, demand for export being stronger than it has been for some time. Only about two million bushels of wheat remain in store here now and the total stocks are considerably lower than they were a year ago.

New York, Aug. 26.—Sixty men, women and children in night attire climbed or were carried down fire escapes to the roofs of taxicabs and thence to safety during a fire, believed by police to have been set, which early today swept through a five story tenement on Upper Park avenue.

LOW TO PRACTICE STRICT ECONOMY

Minister of Trade and Commerce Outlines His Policy.

WILL TOUR WEST

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, Aug. 26.—Hon. L. A. Low, minister of trade and commerce, discussing with the Canadian Press his policy in his department, laid down three main lines of action which he proposes to follow:

1—Strict economy in departmental expenditures.

2—Aggressive efforts to carry out the policy of the former minister, Hon. J. A. Robb, in stimulation of foreign trade.

3—A close study of Western conditions as the basis of a wider development there.

Mr. Low stated that one of his first official acts would be a visit to important centres in the West to familiarize himself with Western problems from the Western point of view. He did not propose a formal trip, but a business trip, visiting the sections that warranted special study. He wanted particularly to have the opportunity of meeting and conferring with representative Canadians on the spot. The Peace River country, the dry farming belt, the fruit export possibilities of the lower Okanagan, and the development of Northern Manitoba was particularly cited by Mr. Low as matters of inquiry. He was also specially interested in the development of a large trade in the products of mixed farming to encourage the Western farmer in extensive experimental work along this line. For some months the question of rural credits as in operation in Canada, the U.S. and one or two other foreign countries, has been a subject of inquiry by the new minister, and he stated his intention of learning still more about the system.

SPANISH BATTLESHIP ESPANA IS AGROUND

Assistance Is Sent From Gibraltar To Melilla Coast.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Aug. 26. — The Spanish battleship Espana is aground off Melilla, Morocco, according to a Central News despatch from Gibraltar. Assistance has been sent from Gibraltar.

The Spanish dreadnought Espana, about a week ago, received orders to sail to the North African coast, and a few days later news came from the scene of the fighting between the Spaniards and the Moroccan tribesmen that the battleship had silenced the rebel guns at Alhucemas. In the operations against the Moors in the summer of 1921 the Espana also had a large part. The maximum displacement of the Espana, which was launched in 1912, is 15,700 tons.

ONE KLANSMAN KILLED IN ATTACK BY CITIZENS

People of Carnegie, Pa., Resent Action of Members After Parade Permit Denied.

Special to The Advertiser.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 27.—District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner moved today to prevent further disturbances like the riot in Carnegie late Saturday night, which resulted in the shooting to death of Thomas R. Abbott of Atlasburg, Washington County, a Ku Klux Klansman.

Gardner conferred with the chiefs of the Klan here and officials of Carnegie in an effort to learn what caused the mobs of citizens of Carnegie to attack the Klansmen with clubs and revolvers.

Chief Burgess Conley declared the mob attacked the Klansmen when the latter insisted upon holding a parade, a permit for which had been denied them.

Scores of arrests were made, but the majority of prisoners were released after paying small fines on charges of carrying revolvers.

HOLSTEIN-FRIESIANS ARE READY FOR EXHIBITION

Special to The Advertiser.

Woodstock, Aug. 26.—The fine Holstein-Friesian herd, the property of Fred Hilliker, proprietor of the Kirkhill stock farm, North Norwich township, is now in Toronto, ready for the Exhibition. Mr. Hilliker has been away most of the summer with the herd, twenty strong, and has probably scored more than any breeder in Ontario this year. On June 7 Mr. Hilliker took his cattle to Ormstown, Quebec, where he was very successful. After that Manitoba and the Northwest were visited, where they were exhibited at nine of the largest fairs in the west, against the cream of the Holstein-Friesian herds of Canada and the United States. Despite the strong opposition the Norwich herd captured the lion's share of the prizes, 60 firsts, 52 seconds, 42 thirds, 27 fourths, 16 fifths, 5 sixths, 5 sevenths, 26 championships, 3 diplomas, silver plate and championship over all dairy breed of all ages.

Poincare Tells Germany Not To Expect Leniency But To Get Busy and Pay

Associated Press Despatch.

Chassy-Beaupre, France, Aug. 26.—Premier Poincare, in an address here today, served notice on Germany that she must make an heroic effort to pay reparations just as France did in 1871. The address was delivered at the dedication of a monument to war dead. In it the premier told Germany not to look for any reduction in her reparations debt.

"What we did 53 years ago," said M. Poincare, they can try to do now. If they do not try to do it they will compel us to enforce against them the menace they made then, 'Pay us or we remain.'"

France, continued M. Poincare, had to pay 5 billion francs, which was an enormous sum then, but the people offered 43 billions. He told how the country had raised other billions to pay the expenses of the war simply by getting to work. He added that the French payments could be proved, while as for the German chancellor, Stresemann's assertion regarding Germany's payments, he declared "it is vain to pretend that Germany already has paid 43 billion gold marks, or even 25 billion, as was said by an economic institution of Washington."

M. Poincare came to Chassy, a village of 180 inhabitants, to show the government's sympathy to the smallest of France's war-stricken communities. His weekly reparations warning to Germany was delivered in front of the one-room city hall and facing a simple stone erected to ten of the village's fallen soldiers. His address was delivered in the presence of barely 400 persons.

The premier justified his concern for the future by recalling the past "Germany made no mystery of her intentions during the hostilities," he declared. "Several times she unmasked her war aims, and up to the day she felt her hopes vanish she always planned to crush us forever."

The other allies, continued M. Poincare, would not have fared better than France.

Great Britain would have been threatened across the Channel, Belgium would have lost Antwerp and her coast, Italy would have shrunk instead of being expanded.

"On the other side of the Atlantic," said the premier, "the U. S. momentarily, perhaps, would have been shielded from the consequences of a Germanic victory, but they could not long have remained indifferent to the creation of a colossal power which had become the real sovereign of Europe and ready to throw its tentacles around the globe."

FLYER DERAILED, BUT NO ONE HURT

International Limited Leaves Tracks Near Thamesville Depot Saturday Night.

TRAFFIC RESUMED

Special to The Advertiser.

Thamesville, Aug. 26.—The pride of the Canadian National Railway, the International Limited No. 115, westbound, came to grief 200 yards west of the local depot here last evening about 11:15 o'clock, the tender, baggage car and four coaches leaving the rails. No passengers were injured. Leaving London an hour late the flyer was traveling over 50 miles an hour when the engineer noticed something wrong.

It is supposed that part of the tender became loose and went down, bumping along the roadbed for 200 yards, then completely fell, derailing itself and the cars behind, which plowed into the roadbed, tearing the ties into matchwood. It is considered a miracle that no one was even slightly injured. The accident occurred in the yards and on level ground, pulling the heavy steel cars completely over.

A special train was despatched from London which carried the passengers to the border. The auxiliary from St. Thomas arrived at 3 o'clock and the roadbed was ready for through traffic before darkness tonight. Superintendent Mathews and Chief Despatcher Cassidy of St. Thomas accompanied the wrecking crew here. The flyer was in charge of Conductor Bailey and Engineer Mulholland of London.

BRITISH PAPERS RAP BIRKENHEAD'S SPEECH

Comment on Career of Woodrow Wilson Draws Sharp Criticism.

Special to The Advertiser.

London, Aug. 27. — Newspapers which are politically hostile to Viscount Birkenhead today attacked him for his comment on the career of Woodrow Wilson, which he made during his speech at Williamstown, Mass., Friday. In this speech the former lord chancellor said he doubted whether Mr. Wilson would have been successful in his idealistic campaign, even if he had not suffered a physical collapse.

Following the speech, Henry Breckenridge, a strong Wilson supporter, wrote to the American Bar Association, urging that Birkenhead be prevented from addressing its convention at Minneapolis.

The Asquithite Daily News said that Birkenhead "seems to find it increasingly difficult to open his mouth without putting his foot in it. American patriotism seems sufficiently sensitive to take the offensive when a well-known European visitor forgets the politeness due his hosts."

Lobsters have a great dread of thunder, and when peals are very loud will swim to deeper water.

FREE STATERS EXPECT TO WIN

President Cosgrave Is Confident of Clear Majority Over All..

OPPOSES COALITION

Associated Press Despatch.

Dublin, Aug. 26.—On the eve of tomorrow's polling uncertainty as to the result of the Irish Free State election continues, but it is agreed in governmental circles that within the past week the prospects of the government party have grown brighter. This belief is due to the intensive campaign made by the ministers, who personally have addressed numerous meetings, and partly to the effect of the celebrations of the anniversary of the death of Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins.

President Cosgrave has covered more ground and addressed more meetings during the past week than any previous leader ever did. While he is confident of retaining office, his repeated appeals for a majority outnumbering that of all the other parties tends to show his unwillingness to govern by a coalition if he can help it.

Farmers To Run Strong.

The farmers are expected to return the next strongest party, while the split in the Labor Party probably will prevent much of an increase in the existing labor representation. The independents and business candidates hope to return at least 20 representatives.

The seats of the individual ministers are considered safe. There have been numerous appeals to the electors to give them first preference in the voting so that their names may head the first polls and give them the quota for securing election before the remaining votes are proportionately distributed.

The Republicans, who started their campaign merely to make a demonstration, now say they can return more than half of the House of 153 members.

During the past three days the Republicans have issued a daily paper criticizing the government's actions and checking reports in the newspapers, all of which support the Free State. The most prominent headline in the Republican paper is a statement attributed to Archbishop Mannix of Australia, that every enemy of Ireland is supporting the government.

Will Elect De Valera.

It is true that nearly all the old Unionists have announced their intention to keep President Cosgrave in office, but there still are some Unionist "die-hards" who will abstain from voting. They object to the oath of members of the Dail as implying an oath of loyalty to the Free State, holding this would bar them form advocating a return of British power.

It is conceded that Eamon De Valera will be elected in County Clare and Mrs. Cathal Bruga, Mrs. Charles Burgess, widow of the noted Sinn Feiner who died of wounds received in the July 1922 fighting in Dublin, in Waterford. There is a keen fight in Mayo between Labor Minister McGrath and I. J. Rutledge, who is now acting as a De Valera deputy in the Dail.

All the parties have been hampered by the fact that the register of voters was only issued at the last minute.

ONE DIES, 3 HURT IN MOTOR SPILL

Fatal Accident Occurs Few Miles From Town of Tilbury.

CAR CATCHES FIRE

Special to The Advertiser.

Leamington, Aug. 26.—Four highly respected and prominent citizens of Leamington and vicinity, Russell Wigle, George W. Scratch, Gordon Hartford and Lance Mallott were victims of a very disastrous automobile accident Saturday afternoon while driving to Tilbury from Leamington.

They were on their way to Tilbury to get some gas regulators to use at a tobacco kiln. Wigle was driving Scratch's big touring car, and when near the 10th concession of Tilbury flames burst through the seat beside Wigle, which so startled him that he dropped his hold of the wheel and began to fight the fire with his hat. The car immediately swerved to the left into the ditch and turned completely over. It was all over in a minute. All members of the party were more or less injured, and were rushed to the Leamington Hospital for surgical assistance. Mr. Scratch only lived long enough to reach the hospital, for his injuries about the head made his chances for recovery impossible.

Mallott was found to be suffering internal injuries and a crushed breast. His condition is serious.

Hartford had his hip dislocated and crushed and also internal injuries. His condition is reported to be precarious.

Wigle was the only one that escaped serious injury, only showing a few scratches and suffering from shock and a bad shaking up.

Mr. Scratch was 51 years old. He was the local manager for the Beaver Oil and Gas Company here. He leaves a widow, two sons and one daughter, all married.

Wigle, Mallott and Hartford are large growers of tobacco near town.

SIX ARE KILLED.

Associated Press Despatch.

Binghampton, N.Y., Aug. 26.—Six dead and a seventh dying was the toll taken when an Erie train struck an automobile at Gray's Crossing early today. All of the dead were instantly killed. The seventh victim, a child six years old, was taken from the pilot of the engine a quarter of a mile from the scene of the crash and rushed to a hospital with little chance for life.

There were no witnesses to the accident, which took place in a dense fog. The car was en route to Endicott, the home of four of the victims. The train Erie No. 6, the Cleveland-New York flyer, was traveling at a 60-mile clip when it struck the car. The machine was completely demolished, and had to be pried from the tender of the locomotive when it was brought to a stop. The mangled forms of four of the victims were taken from the wreckage of the car, and the bodies of two others were found 200 feet from the crossing.

ALBERTA MORMONS OPEN FIRST CHURCH

Million-Dollar Temple At Cardston Is First Outside United States.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Cardston, Alta., Aug. 26.—The million dollar Mormon temple was dedicated today, Elder Heber J. Grant of Salt Lake City, prophet and president of the church, officiating in the presence of more than 500 general authorities of the church from Salt Lake and prominent officials of the church in Canada and their wives.

Great significance attaches to this dedication, marking as it does the formal opening for church ordinance work of this first temple to be built outside the United States.

The feature of the opening service held in the celestial and terrestial rooms of the temple, resplendent in their mural decorations, golden inlays, heavy imported carpets and rich purple drapings, was the dedicatory prayer pronounced by President Grant. It was a solemn moment when the head of the half million Mormon residents humbly knelt before the altar on which lay the Holy Bible and uttered the prayer that gave the edifice to God, that blessed and consecrated it to the worship of the Lord, and invoked divine blessing.

Distribute Aster Blooms To London's Institutions

An act of kindness which is well deserving of praise was that performed by the London Horticultural Society yesterday when they visited a number of local institutions and distributed 6,500 aster blooms of the first picking. The asters were intended for decorations during Old Boy's week, but bloomed too late to be of service then. Several live members of the society then took it upon themselves to cheer up many of the sick and infirm of the city.

The society distributed 225 bouquets to Victorial Hospital 135 to St. Joseph's; 50 to the Protestants' Old People's Home, 35 to the Victoria Home, Grand avenue, and 100 to Westminster Hospital. There are yet to be picked 100,000 blooms, and the local institutions not visited are assured by the society that they will receive their share of the choice specimens in the near future.

On Tuesday and Wednesday of next week at the flower show, which is to be held in the Dickinson and Nicholson building on Richmond street, the Horticultural Society are going to give to each person attending the show two roots of iris kindly donated by the past president, S. F. Wood.

OPENING DAY AT "EX" IS RECORD-BREAKER

Attendance Figures Show 76,500 People On Grounds For the First Day.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Aug. 26.—The Canadian National Exhibition got away yesterday for its annual two weeks' run and established an opening-day record for attendance, 76,500 paying admissions, which beat last year's figures by over 5,000.

The opening day was known as "Warriors' Day," and khaki mingled with civilian attire. The exhibition showed that it had not forgotten the years when Canada's sons went forth to do battle for the Empire.

Nearly 70,000 men, nearly every one of whom had worn the king's uniform, were the guests of the exhibition, the breasts conspicuous with glittering decorations. Col A. H. Borden, colonel commandant of Military District No. 2, took the salute from the fighting men of Toronto as they swung past the government building.

FALLS OFF BRIDGE, BOY MEETS DEATH

George Lasalle Dies From Injuries Received by Falling Into Grand River.

WAS NOT DROWNED

Special to The Advertiser.

Brantford, Aug. 26.—George Lasalle, the 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lasalle, Blakey avenue, West Brantford, died from injuries received when he fell off the T. H. and B. railway bridge into the Grand River at noon here today. The water at this point is only about two feet deep, and it is believed that in the drop of about 30 feet the child struck the rocky river bed.

Horace Allen and David Noble discovered the body floating at the Lake Erie and Northern Railway bridge, which is further south, and lifted it from the water. Taking it to the swimming pool check room efforts of resuscitation were made with a pulmotor by Dr. Fissette and Fireman Calbeck, who worked over the body for three-quarters of an hour, but their efforts were fruitless. Dr. Fissette states that death was due to the fall and not by drowning. No inquest will be held.

The boy is survived by his parents, one sister and three brothers.

MONDAY, AUGUST 27, 1923.

The Value of a Probe.

When Attorney-General Nickle states that the investigation of the Home Bank affair is a matter for the Dominion Government to handle he is undoubtedly right.

There are several interests that should press for an examination that will bare any and every defect that brought about the collapse of an institution that the people had enough confidence in to buy its stock and pass their savings through its wickets.

The financial world should press for such a probe. Financiers who have the reputation of Canadian banks at heart are jealous of their traditions, and their zeal should now find expression in demanding the fullest probe to bring out defects as well as to extol virtues.

The general public, which depends on the banks for security and leadership, is in need of definite assurance that our banking system is sound.

The probe into Home Bank affairs should be of such a nature as to give this assurance. It is a time for searching and not for apologies.

Ottawa's opportunity is before it, and the responsibility should not be passed to any other court.

The Sarnia Gravel Road.

Ontario faces the problem of what to do with its main roads. Sarnia gravel road furnishes an illustration.

The steady stream of traffic has made this once fine old road like a washboard. If left alone it will get worse.

The stream of cars throw the loose gravel to the side of the road. It is scraped up and put back, only to be thrown aside in a day or so.

The Nairn gravel road, running from Lobo village to Nairn, is the most consistently good road in the country. It has been a good thoroughfare for years in all kinds of weather, but it does not get the traffic that daily rolls over the Sarnia road.

Paving is one solution, but an expensive one. It is doubtful though, if anything else will stand up under the traffic that comes in from that corner.

The difficulty is in collecting the cash from those who reap the benefit.

They Have No Quarrel.

Distrust breeds fear—fear calls for armament and still more armament.

There are two nations today—Russia and France—that are armed away out of proportion.

Russia fears that the anti-bolshevist forces inside and outside will work for the overthrow of its present government.

France fears that Germany may rise from its bed of paper money and broken industry to again threaten her and defeat her.

So France piles up air equipment and puts new soldiers alongside old soldiers and new guns in front of old guns.

And Britain sees the extent of French preparation. She, too, fears to have a nation outstripping her in armament.

Fear and distrust have the world in their grip, and we are putting into effect little concerted effort to root out fear and banish distrust.

The world's court stands open for the nations to state their case plainly.

The interests that thrive on war, that wax fat on fear and distrust, do not want the world conference idea to succeed.

The success of the League of Nations would spell disaster to them in letters a foot high.

Therefore they are, under careful cover, determined to pile rubbish and trash around the League of Nations.

The world needs a new brand of diplomacy that will recognize that the common people of one country have no quarrel with the common people of another country.

Those Dangerous Detours.

Every motorist comes to the word "Detour." It means in nearly every case that he has to take a poor road or a dangerous one.

Those who engineer road-building have a responsibility for directing traffic.

For instance, on the road between Dashwood and Exeter a new culvert is being put in. The detour goes into the ditch, from there to a field, crosses a creek on some loose boards and then turns abruptly to the road.

It requires very careful driving in the daytime, and it would be a courageous driver who would attempt it at night.

That one is given as an illustration of many others. The parties responsible for putting up the sign "Detour" should have an eye for safety as well as for convenience.

A Better Job for the Chief.

Chief Deskayeh of the Six Nations Indians is in London Eng., and hopes to gain admission to the League of Nations.

The chief is not doing his people a good service in seeking to exaggerate their grievances.

Nor is the chief likely to get a seat in the League of Nations.

The government has made very fair and reasonable overtures to the Six Nations, and will meet them halfway any time.

It is quite apparent that outside influence is driving Deskayeh to an unreasonable course.

He would be much better employed in the harvest fields near Brantford at this season of the year.

Hardly a Fair Move.

One railroad has changed its running schedule, giving only two days' notice to the public.

This is not fair to the motorists who might be away and not hear of the change.

It would rob them of an equal chance to make a race for the level crossings.

Railroads have no right to take away or change the thrills of motoring on two days' notice.

A Poor Way to Meet.

The governor of New Jersey has asked the coal miners and operators to meet him today to talk over the coal situation.

The governor wants to avoid a strike if possible.

The miners and operators agree to meet the governor, but take care to make it clear that they will stick to their present position.

Sticking to their present position means only one thing—a strike.

Sticking to their present position means less coal at a higher price.

The most interested party, the consumer, has not even the option of sticking to his present position. He is stuck there.

Have You Big Feet?

The man with big feet comes into his own, and why not?

The people of Thedford are having a celebration on Labor Day, and one of the prizes is for the man on the ground who has the biggest feet.

And there is to be no trickery about it, either. A long pair of those pointed shoes will not be allowed to make a ten foot look like a twelve. Said feet are to be measured with a yard stick right there on the grounds.

In days gone past the man with the big feet has only had them stepped on and looked at.

The good folks of Thedford are going to change all this. They are glorifying big feet by staging a contest on their behalf.

Thus, on the day after Labor Day, some proud wife will be able to say boastfully, "My husband has the biggest feet in the county."

Well done, Thedford!

YIELD GRACEFULLY OR NOT AT ALL.

Now as touching the brother Apollos I besought him much to come to you with the brethren; and it was not at all his will to come now; but he will come when he shall have opportunity.—I. Corinthians xvi., 12.

St. Paul wanted Apollos to go on a mission to Corinth. But Apollos was not at all willing to go.

So Paul yielded gracefully about the immediate mission. And Apollos promised generously that he would go at the first opportunity.

Was not this a pretty way to settle, or rather to prevent, a quarrel rising from a clash of wills?

Observe, Paul says nothing about his reasons for wishing Apollos to go, or Apollos' reasons for wishing to stay.

He does not say that he was right and the other man wrong.

He does not revive the difference or repeat the controversy.

He merely says that he gave way, and adds that Apollos will come later, as if to assure the Corinthians that Apollos is not unfriendly.

In a dispute which can be settled only by one will yielding to another, do not make the concession grudgingly, for that will leave a grudge.

Do not repeat the discussion to your neighbors, for that may leave a feud.

Above all, if it turns out that you were right, do not say, I told you so.

Let the other man find that out for himself.

To yield gracefully is the only way to get the good of yielding.

TO THE EDITOR.

FROM A BRITISH VISITOR.

Editor Advertiser:—

Dear Sir,—By the courtesy of the editor of the "Western Mail," Cardiff, I have read the letter in your issue of July 17 dealing with an article which I wrote for the "Western Mail," and which I gather had reached you.

I must frankly confess that the short visit I paid to Canada does not entitle me to speak in any way authoritatively with regard to the important questions I raised in my article, and indeed I am under the impression, without having the article before me, that I recognized the disability under which any visitor to Canada labored whose stay there was as short as mine. It would seem from your leader that I conveyed, or intended to convey, that there was a large public sentiment in Canada favorable to some sort of union with the United States. This criticism I do not think is justified, as my argument was based upon the fact that in my judgment economic conditions would force Canada into some closer union with the U. S. A., unless the population of Canada over the next 10 or 15 years substantially increased. I argued that the burden of the public debt of Canada was very onerous seeing that there were only 8,000,000 backs to carry it, and until this burden could be spread over a very much larger population Canada would find it exceedingly difficult to meet the economic pressure which association with the United States involved. After all you have in America a population exceeding 100,000,000, exceedingly wealthy and very largely self-contained, and unless industries dealing with the natural resources of Canada were fostered in every possible way, and unless the necessary population to make those industries productive and profit-earning was available peaceful penetration of United States people and their capital would necessarily bring about the state of things I suggested as looming in the future. I was very careful not to make any suggestion that Canadian sentiment was favorable to this possibility. Indeed, any such suggestion from my own observation would have been grossly unfair, for in all ranks of society where I discussed the matter I found a strong sentiment against such a future and in addition it was borne in upon me that the silken thread which binds the great Dominion to the old country, though mainly one of sentiment, is something very real and very alive in the Canadian heart. Here and there, particularly perhaps as I journey toward the west, I found complete apathy as to whether Canada remained in the British Empire or entered into some sort of political or commercial union with the U. S. A., but substantially my observation completely confirms your statement that intelligent Canadians resent the suggestion that some day Canada will say "Let us be one nation and one people." I am more than glad that in your view even the economic conditions which I referred to would not bring about the result I fear, and I bow gracefully to the criticism you make upon my article.

I regret that more and more Canada is looking for capital to the United States, for its natural channel should be London, and I am full of hope that at the ensuing imperial conference when matters peculiarly affecting the Dominion will be frankly and fully discussed, when its problems will be weighed and considered with a real sympathy for the Canadian point of view, results may be obtained advantageous to Canada and ourselves, and which will make yet stronger the link between us.

You will, I am sure, Mr. Editor, appreciate that I wrote in no critical spirit. I was greatly impressed with all I saw of your wonderful country, and I am convinced that given the necessary increase in population a great future lies before Canada. I may add that everywhere I and my colleague were received with the greatest possible kindness, the memory of which I shall always preserve.

Yours faithfully,
GEO. F. FORSDIKE.

Your Health: Learn To Breathe Well If You'd Gain in Weight.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.

A few weeks ago I was out in the country where I was born. My boy urged me to go swimming with him. We went up the race to the dam, to the old "swimmin' hole." The place has changed but little since I was a boy. I knew all the currents, the deep place and the sandbar. Nothing was different. I even kept an eye on my clothes to make sure nobody tied knots in them.

Pretty soon along came an old school friend of mine. He had his boy with him, too. We bragged about our respective sons while the boys showed us all the latest swimming stunts.

I noticed that my friend's son was very skinny. He had a shallow chest, prominent collar bones and every rib could be seen. He told me he had tried in vain to get fat.

I proceeded to give the young man a lecture on breathing. What has that to do with fatness or leanness? This is what you will ask.

It has everything to do with it. You can never be plump and healthy until you breathe right.

You know perfectly well that a stove or a furnace will not work well unless there is plenty of draught. Without air the fire will not burn. There can be no heat without it.

The food you eat is of no value to your body unless it is burned. The oxygen of the air must come in contact with it, or it is as inert and useless as the vegetables are if left in the ground, or as the meat if left on the animal.

The red corpuscles are made to carry the oxygen to every part of the body to do this important work of converting the food into useful material capable of absorption by the tissues. But if you do not breathe as you should there are no cargoes for the corpuscles to pick up.

In the ordinary action of the lungs in breathing, not more than 10 per cent of the lung contents is changed at each breath. This is not enough for one who is thin and emaciated.

You must practice a lot and learn how to breathe. One of my favorite instructions to poor breathers is this:

Stand in front of a lace curtain or strip of paper suspended in a doorway. Fill the lungs and blow at the cloth or paper. Do not blow in a short, quick spurt, but do it slowly and deliberately.

When you see the thing you are blowing at move in the draft, step back and try again. Do not do too much the first day or two, because it will make you feel sore.

Of course, it is not the blowing that does the good. It is the deep breathing necessary to fill the lungs in order that you may blow.

Keep this up for several minutes twice a day and you will be surprised at your gain in weight.

Office Gossip

By ANNE CAMPBELL.

He didn't have a bit of use
For girls who bobbed their hair.
A woman was a silly goose
Who'd grace a barber's chair.

His favorite stenographer
He fired right off the bat,
Because, my word! The nerve of her!
She cut her hair like that!

And, too, his favored poetess
He wouldn't read, he said.
He met her once, and every tress
Was shorn right from her head!

Still, one by one the style so grew
In popularity
That every woman whom he knew
Was bobbed right to a T!

And yet he lost his faith in all
Who liked its easy grace.
For modern styles he'd never fall,
He preached it every place!

But lately he's been very dumb,
We never did know why,
Until the office saw her come,
A twinkle in her eye!

Her hair marcelled, but bobbed, no doubt,
And short? You bet your life!
And did we crow when she went out?
We did! It was his wife!

URGES LABORATORIES BE BUILT IN CANADA

Dr. Banting Praises Connaught Institution in Toronto in Speech at Exhibition.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Aug. 25.—Canada's greatest monument is the Connaught antitoxin laboratory of the University of Toronto and Canada needs more such monuments.

This was the statement of Dr. Frederick Grant Banting, the discoverer of insulin, in the address he delivered in declaring the Canadian National Exhibition officially open. He made a spirited appeal for Canada to place better facilities for scientific research at the disposal of her sons. "They have the ideas, the enthusiasm, the imagination," he said, referring to the graduates of Canadian colleges "but where are the facilities?"

"We are being steadily sapped of our most gifted scientists because Canada has not one single institution where a young man can go to work on his problems free from the routine of a university department," declared Dr. Banting. "The greatest need of Canadian medical science today is a fund from which adequate facilities can be supplied to young men who have ideas of their own and the unselfish enthusiasm to devote their energy whole heartedly to their problems."

"A true knowledge of God's creation dipels superstition, fear and disease," said the famous medical man, and he emphasized also the value of preventive medicine.

HOME BANK STATEMENT TO BE ISSUED SEPTEMBER 6

DISCLOSE STATE OF HOME BANK AFFAIRS SEPT. 6

Depositors Will Then Know What Can Be Saved From Institution's Wreck.

STRIKING BALANCE

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Aug. 26.—Depositors in the Home Bank of Canada, which closed its doors on the evening of August 18, will know definitely or approximately what they will get back from the financial institution by September 6 if the goal set by the experts at work on the books is attained. This is the date upon the application, for a winding-up order will be "mentioned" again in the bankruptcy court at Osgoode Hall, according with the arrangements by Mr. Justice Fisher last Wednesday.

The curator has until the middle of November by the terms of the bank act in which to learn the true state of affairs, but in the interests of all concerned an effort is being made to provide an interim report.

At the present time the experts are taking off a balance sheet for head office and the 78 branches of the bank. Information has to be gathered from as far west as Fernie in British Columbia, where a very large business was done. The examination of the bank's securities is a big undertaking. This work demands the placing of a market value on each and every item. When the balance is struck the experts hope to be able to communicate to the Canadian Bankers' Association and to the public the real state of affairs.

Bankers realize that the sooner this information is given to the public the better it will be for business and financial conditions in Canada, and they are pressing for speedy action consistent with accuracy.

When the Home Bank curator announces what the depositors will receive firms and institutions who had balances to their credit will be able to go to other banks and open an account and have a certain percentage of the amount to be paid by the Home Bank placed to their credit, and upon which the depositor may draw, if he or she so desires.

OPPOSE WINDING UP.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Aug. 26.—In a statement handed out tonight, I. E. Weldon of Lindsay, Cnt., who last week was selected secretary and solicitor for the Home Bank depositors at a meeting held in this city, urges his clients to oppose at this juncture any court proceedings to wind up the bank. He states that he has received a great deal of disinterested opinion that convinces him on that question.

"I have received many inquiries," the statement continues, "as to what the depositors will receive, etc. There is not a chance of this question being intelligently answered, even approximately, until after the curator or some one else has investigated the whole situation thoroughly."

He continued, however, that the best guess he could make was that "the depositors will not receive their deposits in full, yet that the matter is not a total loss."

The depositors at every branch of the Home Bank are urged to get organized, and suggests that depositors take steps to discourage any other bank from opening up branches in places where the Home Bank formerly had branches until "some disposition is made of the present state of affairs."

"When any other bank seeks to obtain the savings of the former depositors in the Home Bank," the statement goes on, "should not such bank be informed that we in Canada have been told for years that we have the greatest banking system in the world? Was there ever a more fitting opportunity to prove this? Would it not be well to draw this bank's attention to the fact that for many years the Canadian Bankers' Association have been stubbornly opposing government inspection of their banks? The bankers' association have taken the attitude that we are quite capable of looking after the morals of any of the members of our Canadian banking family.

"Until such time as this awful mess of the Home Bank is cleared up I have not the slightest hesitation in advising my clients, those depositors of the Home Bank who have asked me to act as their secretary, to invest their savings in the postoffice savings bank, the provincial savings bank, or in the bonds of the Dominion, the provinces or municipal debentures."

INSURANCE ON SCHOOLS LESS THAN HALF VALUE

Old Rates Still in Force On City Properties Worth $3,000,000.

The majority of the public schools in London are still insured for less than half their replacement value. Following the loss by fire of the old Central Collegiate building, an effort was made by the board of education to increase the amount of insurance carried by them on the public schools. The city council, however, did not see its way clear to increase the estimates allowed the board, and the old insurance rates are yet in force.

The city's school properties are worth $3,000,000, and are insured for $1,200,000. The new Central Collegiate is insured for $315,000 and the new Victoria School for $140,000. This is the largest amount for which any public school building is insured in London. The Egerton Street School, a one-room building, carries no insurance, but is protected from fire loss by a sum of $200. The figures for which the various schools are insured are as follows:

Aberdeen, $45,000; Alexandra, $50,000; Boyle, $45,000; Charles Street, $10,000; Chelsea Green, $8,000; Chesley Avenue, $50,000; Colborne, $5,000; Ealing, $45,000; Empress, $25,000; Knollwood, $20,000; Lord Roberts, $50,000; Lorne Avenue, $50,000; Pottersburg, $10,000; Riverview, $50,000; Ryerson, $45,000; Simcoe, $45,000; St. George's, $50,000; Talbot, $45,000; Tecumseh, $45,000; Victoria (old), $35,000; Wortley, $40,000; Technical School, $100,000; Collegiate, $315,000.

BOARD TO CONSIDER FAIR WEEK HOLIDAYS

One Member Urges Having Children's Day Later Than Monday.

At the next meeting of the board of education the question of granting two holidays to the children during fair week will be brought up. Last year the board granted the children Friday in fair week as the regular children's day on Monday. Educationists in the city feel that two days in the week is a heavy drain on the work of the children. Their attitude is that the fair board by making Monday children's day, tends to upset the week as far as the schools are concerned.

"If," said one of them this morning, "the children go on Monday they get a taste of the fair and are never satisfied until they have gone again, whereas if the children's day were arranged for some later day in the week the youngsters could be urged to put in a good weeks' work and have something to look forward to. Another thing is that on Monday the fair is very seldom in full swing. That means that the children want to return and see whatever they may have missed. It looks as if the fair board is merely keen on getting a big gate Monday, knowing that the parents always accompany the children and that the members are not so anxious about the school work."

Secretary A. M. Hunt of the Western Fair board said this morning: "Everything will be in position on the Monday of fair week this year by noon and the children will be able to see the whole fair from then on."

NEW AUXILIARY CLASSES FOR LONDON SCHOOLS

The growth of the auxiliary class work in the London public schools is shown by the creation of five new centers for such work in the city this year. The five centers and their teachers are, Lord Roberts, Miss Maude Hay; Wortley Road, Miss Edna McCallum; Simcoe Street, Miss Florence Fisher; Alexandra, Miss Florence O'Dell, and Trafalgar, Miss Eunice Freeland. In the five classes es there are 80 pupils enrolled. The very largely increased number of applications for children are an indication of the appreciation on the part of the parents of the benefits that are to be had from the special instruction received in these auxiliary classes.

BULLDOG DOES STUNTS IN NORMAL STREET CAR

Dragged Trolley Pole Off But Was Not Prepared For "Comeback."

Going over Niagara Falls in a barrel and breasting the English Channel are great athletic achievements, but the thrilling stunt of an intrepid Boston bulldog here on Saturday, makes all human sporting accomplishments fade by comparison.

Normal car No. 83 was rumbling along Ridout street when the bull dog, whose name is "Pat," saw it. The rope attached to the trolley was dangling ou the back window. The dog ran after it, seized it by the tail and hung on with the tenacity of its breed.

It tugged with such ferocity that the trolley came off the wire and sank almost on a level with the roof. Then the rebound came and the trolley went whizzing through the air carrying the bulldog with it. "Pat," hung on and was shot like a skyrocket over the top of the car. He slid on the front section of the roof, still clutching the shredded rope between his determined jaws. Then he let go and surveyed his handiwork with bulldog satisfaaction.

The conductor had not seen the dog. He thought the trolley had come off when the car went over a bump in the road-bed. So he fixed it in its customary place and the car continued its merry journey.

"Pat" panted with delight upon the roof. But his prank came to a rather ignominious end when the car swerved and the bull dog was thrown to the ground. He was unhurt, however, and watched the car disappear around a corner. Then he turned tail and started for home to tell the story of his escape to Mrs. Pat.

FROST DAMAGES CROPS IN NORTH ADIRONDACKS

Associated Press Despatch.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Reports of heavy damage to farm crops by frost during last week are reaching here from all sections of the northern Adirondacks. THREE SCHOONERS COMPETE FOR CUP GIVEN BY LIPTON

Open Fishermen's Race Is Feature of Tricentennial Celebration in Gloucester, Mass.

HEAVY FOG PREVAILS

Associated Press Despatch.

Gloucester, Mass., Aug. 27.—Three of the fleetest fishing schooners sailing out of Gloucester and Boston awaited the starting gun today to compete for the cup offered by Sir Thomas Lipton in the open fishermen's race held as the feature event of Gloucester's 300th anniversary celebration. The Henry Ford of Gloucester, Captain Clayton Morrissey, runner-up to the Canadian Bluenose in last year's international fishermen's series; the Elizabeth Howard of New York, Captain Ben Pine, defeated by the Ford in last year's elimination races to choose the United States challenger, and the Shamrock, of Boston, Captain Marty Welch, a brand new vessel with a skipper who has already won one international series—these are the entrants.

The course to be raced over today is 31 miles. From the starting line between the Eastern Point whistling buoy and the judges' boat, the coast guard cutter Modoc, there is a five-mile leg to the start of a triangle with seven miles to each leg, then the boats will return to the starting point.

Weather conditions were unfavorable at 9 o'clock, the time which had been set for the race to start. The fog was so dense in spite of a light off-shore breeze, that the committee ordered a postponement of the start for one hour.

Overhead the sky was clear, and the committee was hopeful that the sun would soon disperse the mist.

UNEARTHS $100,000 DIGGING IN DITCH AT SIDE OF ROAD

Believe Funds Were Cached by Bergdoll, Draft Dodger, Before Flight.

FINDER IS RETICENT

Special to The Advertiser.

Hagerston, Md., Aug. 27.—Penniless yesterday—the possessor of $100,000 today—Lee Houser, laborer, is going about his usual tasks, steadfastly refusing to tell where he has cached his money.

Houser, just like a story-book character, found some real buried treasure. He found it in a tin box by the roadside, while he was engaged in the prosaic task of digging with a pick.

At first he said the tin box contained only $1,000, later he said there was that sum in gold and $99,000 more in greenbacks. He refused to divulge where he had concealed his prize.

The belief here is that the box found by Houser is the one buried by Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, draft dodger, when he was making preparations to flee. Bergdoll escaped from custody when he obtained permission to come to Hagerstown and search for the treasure.

Conduct Inquiry.

Details of the activities of Bergdoll when he was here before escaping to Germany came to light today as inquiry proceeded into Houser's money-box discovery. Picture post cards that Bergdoll sent from Germany to O. D. Sherley, proprietor of the Hotel Vivian in Hagerstown, where Bergdoll and a number of his companions stayed were disclosed.

"We are doing fine over here." Regards to your wife and daughter. We sure did fool those poor simps. Hope to see you again when Harding gets in."

Intends to Keep Money.

"We are getting along in great shape," another card said. "Write me a letter at Eberbach, and tell me how things are going in dear old Hagerstown."

The department of justice and war department today were considering an investigation to determine definitely whether the gold is that buried by Bergdoll and what disposition should be made of it if it is the draft-dodgers treasure. Houser intends to keep the gold.

Alerts Find Horse Shoes Easy Prey in First Game

Baker Holds Borderites At His Mercy, While Locals Hang Up 11-3 Win—Windsor Errors Were Costly—London Hits Timely.

"Bus" Baker twirled the Alerts to an 11 to 3 victory over the Windsor Horse Shoes at Tecumseh Park Saturday in the first game of the home and home series in the second round of the intermediate O. B. A. A. playoff. He tossed a masterly game throughout the nine frames the Borderites faced him, allowing five bingles, scattered except in the fourth, when two singles inside the right foul line were the loud noises in Windsor's first run.

Horse Shoes contributed to Alerts' efforts in the scoring seven glaring fielding mistakes, but considering the long motor trip, in weather more fitted for football than baseball, and the fact that they were playing on a strange field it is easy to grant them an alibi that they didn't even mention. The Tecumseh Park infield is the fastest in Western Ontario, and to a strange team it is difficult to play with success.

Windsor could do nothing with Baker's shoots, most of their efforts being pops to the infielders. Three of their five hits were scratches—one in particular—Lou Parent's double in the 8th being nothing else but a Texas-league-self-defence stunt, which caught the infielders playing in and Hicks in left playing deep.

Alerts hit the ball hard and often, driving Ed. Parent from the mound in the 7th, and getting to L. Guilbeault in the 8th for a pair of singles and a run after two were gone.

Fast work retired the Windsor outfit in the first, in order, after it appeared that they were going to cause some worry. McDonald walked. With the count three and two on Leo Parent, Pirie caught McDonald napping off first. Parent was then hit, but Mulheison grounded into a double play, Baker to Sumner to Hodgins.

Baker opened the scoring in the second, when he tripled to deep center and scored on Pirie's single. In the third Alerts should not have had a run. Mulheison's error on Arthurs' easy grounder to start the inning paved the way, for the next two batters were outs. Then Fitchett rolled another grass-cutter Mulheison's way, and he booted that, allowing Arthurs to score, Hodgins got on on a scratch to third, and E. Parent spoiled Baker's choice to fill the sacks. Pirie, who had singled in Alerts' first run, again very kindly came through, this time with a double to left, scoring Fitchett and Hodgins, while Baker went to third to score a moment later on a passed ball.

In both the fifth and sixth Alerts scored single counters after two were out. Fitchett was hit in the fifth, and he stole. Hodgins singled him in. In the sixth, after Pirrie and Hicks had popped out, Maylott drew a pass, and went to third on Arthurs' sharp single into center. Then "Geordie" stole. Sumner poked a choice to third, Maylott scoring when Leo Parent dropped the perfect peg. Connors popped out with two more runs on the sacks.

Fitchett started things in the seventh with a drive over Lou Parent's head in left, an easy homer. Hodgins fouled out, but Baker beat out a hit to short. Bensette dropped the third strike on Pirie, and while he was being thrown out "Bus" strolled on to third. Hicks rolled to third, but Martin threw badly and he was safe at first. Maylott's triple to left scored both runners.

Fitchett's single and stolen base with two away in the eighth just ahead of Hodgins' poke to right tallied London's last run.

Windsor's second and third runs came separately in the seventh and eighth. L. Guilbeault singled to start the seventh, and went down on a ground-out. He advanced on Hicks' error on Bensette's drive, and scored on a passed ball. Leo Parent scored the last counter after Connors had fumbled his grounder long enough to let him beat the throw, when Lou Parent dropped his Texas-league bunt out of everybody's reach behind the infield.

SAINTS EXPECT STRUGGLE IN CRUCIAL GO WEDNESDAY

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Aug. 26.—The management of the St. Thomas O. B. A. A. Baseball Club are making extensive preparations to handle a huge crowd of fans at the crucial game here Wednesday afternoon in the first round of the senior championship series. Either Chatham or Dresden will meet the locals, the winner to be decided Monday. Either team should put up a great fight for the seniors, and play will be keen. About 600 bleacher seats are being installed at Finafore Park, and many benches will be placed around the entire field.

The Saints are counting much on winning the game. Manager Geo. Nethercott and Secretary W. Dake attended the game between Galt and Brantford at Galt Saturday afternoon, and will journey to Chatham Monday to witness the Kent County play-off. An effort will be made to charter a special train to Chatham or Dresden, where the second game of the first round will be played next Saturday. Several lists will be circulated among the fans here.

TO HOLD FIELD DAY.

St. Thomas, Aug. 26.—Arrangements have been completed for the big Kiwanis field day to be held here next Friday. Entries from the young kids of the city are pouring in and the event promises to be an outstanding one. The swimming and diving contests are being held in the "Y" pool on Thursday evening, the night before the big event. Every branch of sport will be seen in the big day's events.

An Advertiser photographer caught the above photo of the Alerts, champions of the Inter-Club League and L. A. A. A. entrants in the Intermediate O. B. A. A. championship playoff, before their game with Windsor Horse Shoes at Tecumseh Park Saturday afternoon. Alerts won, 11 to 3. In the photo are shown, from left to right: Top row—C. Pirie, C. Connor, H. Hicks, L. Maylott, C. C. McDougall (secretary-treasurer of Inter-Club League), G. Arthurs, R. Sumner, B. McLeod and G. Goodman. At the front are: E. Plastow, G. Fitchett, E. Balkwell, H. THE WINDSOR HORSE SHOES.

After an all-morning motor trip, Windsor stepped into the game at Tecumseh Park Saturday and lost, 11—3. Errors counted in several of the Alert runs, but strange surroundings and their chilly drive must have been partly responsible for misplays. Alerts have every respect for them as a ball team and are counting on a hard battle at Windsor tomorrow. In the photo, from left to right, are: Top row—W. Guilbeault, C. Beaune, E. Guilbeault, J. McDonald (captain), Lou Parent, J. Martin and Leo Parent. Lower row—E. Bensette, A. S. Lusk, Wallace Jarvis (Mascot), H. Mulheisen and Et. Parent.

'BURG BEAT ST. MARYS, BUT LOSE SEMI-FINAL

Saturday's Intermediate Lacrosse Playoff Resulted 4 to 3.

Special to The Advertiser.

Wallaceburg, Aug. 25.—Wallaceburg Intermediates were unable to overcome St. Marys' four-goal lead of last Wednesday, and although they won their return game today by a score of 4 to 3, St. Marys go into the next round of semi-finals.

Twelve hundred spectators witnessed the terrific battle between the two teams. The first period went to Wallaceburg, who played rings round their opponents. Frobel scored three and Wickins one. The home defence was unbeatable. Newman made some fine saves. Sherwood in home goal was never hard pressed. Play through this period was very clean, no penalties being awarded.

The second period opened, with Lavelle scoring for St. Marys, after which both sides struggled hard, but with no further score. Both defences were playing high-class lacrosse, and both goalkeepers made sensational saves. The third period was also fought out without further score. The Wallaceburg home made some fine play, but were unable to beat St. Marys' strong defence. The last period saw much roughness, and two fights occurred early in the period. Lou Lavelle scored two goals after which play was very evenly divided. Wallaceburg had hard luck on several occasions in not scoring.

The line-ups were as follows:

St. Marys—Newman, goal; Stewart, point; Yates, cover; Richardson, first defence; Alberts, second defence; Tuer, centre; Hobbs, first home; L. Levelle, second home; W. Lavelle, inside; Smith, outside; Mossipp, Riddell, spares.

Wallaceburg—Sherwood, goal; McKinley, point;; McGee, cover; Stonehouse, first defence; Matheson, second defence; O. McDougall, centre; McLean, first home; Wickens, second game; Frobel, inside; Lawson, outside; Murdock, Lockert, W. McDougall, spares.

Referees—Bunn Clark, Toronto, and C. Parkinson, Toronto.

Luis Trains To Jazz Strains

Special to The Advertiser.

Atlantic City, Aug. 25.—Followed by a large crowd, Luis Firpo, South American giant, was out today on the board walk for his morning meander of four miles.

Firpo was much interested in reports from the Dempsey training camp that Jack Burke, one of the champion's sparring partners, had been finding Dempsey wide open for right hand punches.

"I'll get him the same way," Firpo said with a large scowl. He added, "I'm good enough to take care of myself," when it was recalled that some critics said he would be wide open to Jack's punches.

The Firpo training camp is being swarmed by all kinds of vendors. The Angel has a player-piano and a talking machine, and he has been visited by several record salesmen. They could not do any business with him because they didn't have in stock "Yes, We Have No Bananas" and "The Firpo Waltz."

"That's all I will buy," Firpo said.

HAMILTON PUTS JR. ROVERS OUT OF ONTARIO CUP PLAY

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Aug. 26.—Playing below their usual form, the local junior Rover champions were defeated by the Hamilton C. N. R. team in the semi-finals for the Ontario Cup by the score of 2 to 1 here Saturday afternoon.

The home soccerites were not in form and lost their chance of winning the coveted provincial silverware before an immense crowd. Soccer fans surrounded the field, the visitors bringing a large number of followers. There were a number of squabbles during the contest, and it was charged that the Hamilton C. N. R. team brought along a number of senior players.

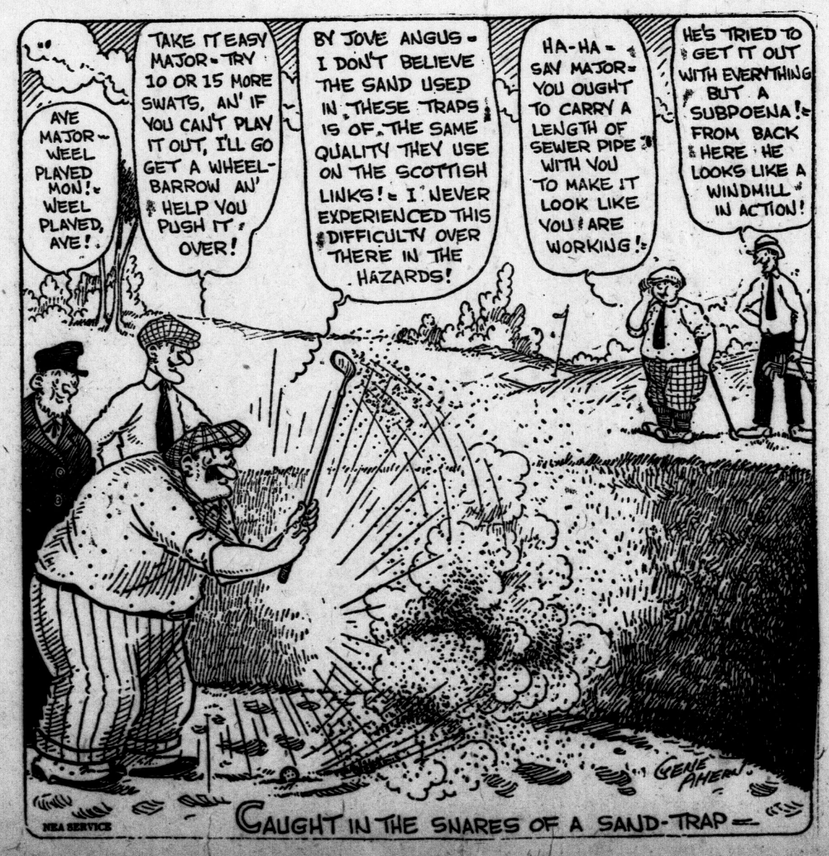

The loss sustained by the junior Rovers was their first defeat this year and their second in three years. The Rovers are champions of the L. and D. F. A. and runners-up for the Gurd challenge trophy. A referee from Toronto handled the game in fine style.

The line-up:

Hamilton—Jones, Johnson and Bridie; Worsley, Bell and Hurst; Drury, Arnott, Wylie, Allan and Shipperbottom.

St. Thomas—T. Worton, Bill Stacey, Bob Laing, P. Westrope, Andy Allen, Tom Rycroft, Pete Laing, C. Burman, Scotty Sharp, Alfred Westaway and Orlaf Searle.

RUTH HOLDS REAL BAT SUPREMACY

Leads Both Leagues With Average of .404—Heilman Next With .388.

HORNSBY LEADS NAT.

Associated Press Despatch.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Babe Ruth continues to make both the National and American League batting averages look somewhat like a one-man leager proposition. He leads all the batters in hitting with an average of .404, a gain of nine points during the week. He failed to add to his home run total since last Saturday, his mark remaining at 32, but was fairly successful in extra base hits for less than the circuit during the week, now topping all major league players by a wide margin. He leads in total bases for 300, a gain of 22 during the week, and in runs scored with 114, a gain of 7.

The nearest in hitting to him is Harry Heilmann, Detroit, with .388, and Speaker, of Cleveland, with .368. Eddie Collins of Chicago is the only leader in the league besides Ruth. Eddie is out ahead of all base stealers with 36 pilfered sacks to his credit and heads the sacrifice hitters with 35. The record of total bases include with Ruth's 32 nome runs, 9 triples and 31 doubles. Ruth's record includes 113 games, 384 times at bat, 114 runs, 115 hits, 3 sacrifice hits and 10 stolen bases.

Other leading batters: Sewell, Cleveland, .364; Jamieson, Cleveland, .363; Williams, St. Louis, .348; J. Harris, Boston, .347; Eddie Collins, Chicago, .345; Manush, Detroit, .337; Witt, New York, .334; Burns, Boston, .334; Cobb, Detroit, .333.

"Cy" Tied With Ruth.

Cy Williams, the Philadelphia slugger, scored three homers the last week and is again tied with Ruth at 32.

Rogers Hornsby, St. Louis, continues in his role of leading batter in the senior circuit with an average of .397, a drop from his .405 of last week, but still well ahead of Zack Wheat of Brooklyn, who has .378 and Bottomley of St. Louis, who has .370.

"Pep" Young of New York, however, heads the list of run-getters with 101, while Frisch, also of the Giants, leads the extra base column with 249, which includes 11 home runs, 9 three-baggers and 26 doubles. McInnis of Boston, broke the sacrifice hit tie with Duncan of Cincinnati during the week and leads with 25, while Duncan failed to sacrifice and has 23.

George Grantham of Chicago is out in front among the base-stealers, having 37, but is closely pursued by Carey of Pittsburg with 35, and Heathcote of Chicago with 31.

Other leading batters are: Fournier, Brooklyn, .367; Young, New York, .353; Traynor, Pittsburg, .350; Rousch, Cincinnati, .350; Hargrave, Cincinnati, .350; Frisch, New York, .348; Barnham, Pittsburg, .340.

Four Runs Off Coogan in the First Were Too Much To Get Back.

Grand Rapids, Aug. 25.—Coogan's wildness and ineffectiveness cost the Tecumsehs a perfectly good ball game here this afternoon by a 5 to 1 count.

The locals found everything that Coogan served up in the first frame well to their liking and five hits rattled from their bats before Beatty decided Coogan wasn't right and sent Haines in for relief. In the meantime, a triple, four single and a hit batsman had netted four tallies.

Haines went right to work and thereafter the Wellsmen were well in check. In the sixth he hesitated a little, walked Claire and then White singled, and Steggerda lifted a high fly. Only once did Haines allow more than one hit an inning, and then he tightened up, struck out one and made the others lift high ones.

Steggerda did the mound work for the locals, and was in old time form. He allowed just six hits. Two came in the sixth, when Getsie led off with a double and Schaefer pounded him home with a screeching liner into right.

Leo Payne was forced from the game in the second inning when struck on the leg by a ball that was relayed in from the outfield. His leg was badly bruised. He was struck in the arm by a wild one thrown by Coogan in the first inning.

THISTLES WIN NASH INJURED PLAYERS' CUP

Beat W. O. R. Juniors 3--0 in Final Game Saturday.

Thistles defeated W. O. R. Juniors Saturday evening at Carling Heights in the final of the John Nash Injured Players Cup by three goals to none. After the game the cup was presented to the winners by Mr Fred Powers, who deputized for the donor of the cup, who was unable to attend.

W. O. R. started off with ten men, and played pluckily from the outset. But the "Jags" soon showed their wares, and after twenty minutes Smith beat Norton, who had already saved some likely-looking shots. There was no more scoring in this period. The half ended with Thistles leading 1 to 0.

Thistles started off the second half with a great combination, Beasley forcing Norton to his knee to save. The pressure was bound to tell, and after fifteen minutes' continual pressure, Saunders scored a second goal for the "Jags." Right from the kick-off Thistles came back, and Beasley brought the total up to three.

Little Lessons In Golf

BY CHESTER G. HORTON, Nationally Known Golf Instructor.

In the back swing of the golf club the right arm must stay close to the body, though not so close that the pressure is noticeable.

To stop the trouble that can result from an incorrect position of the right arm at the top of the back swing, and to train your muscles to act automatically, place a golf ball in your right armpit and hold it there while making a stroke. It probably will drop out at the finish of your stroke. But holding the ball in place while you are making the stroke will train your sense to the right "feel" of the arm when it is in the right position. The player must learn to "feel" his way into rhythm and correct golf methods. In this game everything depends on two great factors, and they are feel and touch.

GUELPH OUTFITTERS BEAT TILLSONBURG

Take Second Game of Intermediate O. B. A. A. Series by 9--1 Score.

Special to The Advertiser.

Guelph, Aug. 25.—The Guelph Outfitters advanced to the second round of the O. B. A. A. intermediate play-offs here this afternoon, when they defeated Tillsonburg, winners of the Oxford-Elgin League, in the second game of the home-and-home series between the two teams. The score was 9 to 1 for the home club, and the visitors were outclassed in all departments.

In the first game, played in Tillsonburg the week previous, the Outfitters won out by a 15 to 5 count. Despite the cold nothwest wind, which brought with it frigid weather conditions, necessitating the wearing of overcoats and heavy wraps, fully 1,000 fans turned out for today's game, for whom an added attraction was music provided by the newly-organized Guelph Pipers' band.

Wood, the Tillsonburg hurler, was touched up for twelve hits, but with any kind of support his performance on the mound would have been a worthy one. Six costly errors behind him were taken full advantage of by the Outfitters, who ran wild on the bases. Wood struck out six and only gave two walks, and, in addition, he turned in a nice fielding performance.

Only four hits were made off Richardson, the local twirler, and he was given splendid support. Two of Tillsonburg's hits came in the ninth frame, when they shoved across their only counter. Ketchebaw, first up this inning, singled, but was forced at second by Eichenburg. Bowes followed with another single, sending Eichenburg to third, the latter scoring when Walsh was put out at first. Foster, last up, also died at first.

Two walks, a double and a single netted the Outfitters three runs in the second game, when they added another in the third on a single and wild throwing. The fourth brought the locals another run on two singles, and three more were added in the sixth on two singles and a brace of errors. The last counter for the locals came in the eighth on two clean singles and an error.

CITY TENNIS TITLES AT STAKE TOMORROW

Second Annual Tourney of Local Club Draws Big Entry.

Tomorrow the second annual tournament for the London city tennis championships commence. The tournament will be held on the courts of the London Tennis Club, and although last year's tournament was a great success, this year's play for the city championships is expected to be better owing to the large amount of talent in the city now, and the extra court accommodation at the new club.

Due to the cement courts at Thames Park playgrounds, many juniors have commenced the game, and some of them have already developed into good players. The tournament is open to the city. The program includes men's open singles and doubles, ladies' open singles and doubles, mixed doubles and junior singles. Two cups for the men's open doubles are to be given by The Advertiser, and trophies for the other events have been offered.

The entry list includes the best players in the city. Dr. J. V. Ross, 1921 Western Ontario champion, and winner of last year's doubles, has entered his name, and will take part in the tourney. B. I. Williams, who is a member of the University of Toronto tennis team, has entered in the men's singles and doubles, and George Harley, New Brunswick champion, is to play. E. V. Rechnitzer, last year's winner of the open singles, is entered in all of the men's events. A. R. Williams and C. Chubb, who have been prominent in tournaments in this district, are entered. Among other outstanding players who are to take part in the tournament are: William Duffield, Eric Reid, O. Rechnitzer, G. Taggart, F. W. Jolliffe, Ted Beltz, P. D. Mitchell, R. H. Cronyn and John Puddicombe.

The junior entry this year is expected to be large. Many players of the Thames Park courts are entered, among them are D. Goodge, G. Manuel and P. Rechnitzer. Other juniors entered are D. Millman, R. Reid, G. Buskard.

The finals in all events are to be played on Saturday afternoon.

An Advertiser photographer snapped the views shown above Saturday afternoon during the progress of the big annual Playgrounds' Festival. The festival, the biggest event in the playgrounds' year, in spite of Saturday's cool weather, was attended by more than 600 youngsters, who thronged Thames Park until early evening. That they made the most of their outing is told elsewhere on this page, but the above lay-out shows what words fail to do—some of the enthusiasm and spirit that prevailed among the record entry of contestants. In the top at the left is shown Wanless winning the running high jump. Second from the left pictures the finish of the intermediate 100 yard dash final. Burdell is breasting the tape for first place, while Mason and Jimmy Burns are finishing second and third, respectively. In the center of the top row is shown Gnatuk winning the final heat of the junior boys' 50 yard dash. He defeated Reynolds and Robertson in a close finish. The top right-hand corner depicts the start of the final heat of the junior girls' 50 yard dash. Directly underneath in two insets are shown the winners in the senior girls' running high jump and the winners in the junior girls' running broad jump. The senior girls are shown in the order in which they finished—first, second and third. They are: Miss Bolton, Riverview; Miss Bock, Lord Roberts, and Miss Taylor, Riverview. The action photo at the lower left corner shows Miss Taylor clearing the bar. The center photo, bottom row, shows the start of the procession from Federal Square. At the right-hand corner the cameraman has caught the head of the Thames Park section, under the leadership of Miss Frances Talbot, who is seen at the extreme right-hand corner of the photo.

Big Playground Festival Saturday a Huge Success

Estimated That 600 Children Took Part—Some Excellent Marks Made—Dodgeball and Girls' Baseball Finals Won by Thames Park.

Thames Park was alive with budding young athletes Saturday when the children of all the city playgrounds took part in the annual festival. Teams and individuals from all the parks competed in the various events, seeking individual glory, as well as glory for the particular playground they represented. It is estimated that more than six hundred children took part.

Supervisors of the parks will check over all the results of the events Monday and will award marks in order to determine the park leading the city in athletics. For special events on the program, marks will not be awarded.

The children paraded from the Federal Square at noon headed by a band. Sports were commenced at 2 o'clock and lasted well into the evening.

Although the weather was slightly cool it did not cool the ardor of the hundreds of children who took part in the events. All afternoon, at fever heat, although they were attired in flimsy sport togs, they hurried from one part of the park to another to take part in events just announced. Three and four events were run off simultaneously. And even then, the sports did not conclude until dusk gathered.

Credit to Supervisors.

For one hour from 6 to 7 o'clock, prize winners were calling at the check room of the bathhouse to get their rewards.

The work of the children speaks well for the work of the supervisors throughout the season.

Tiny tots and grownups alike took a keen interest in the sports. Worthy of special mention was the folk dancing of the smaller children.

Almost every park received a good number of points. Each event was hotly contested, and it was only with the greatest of difficulty that the judges were able to decide the winners in some cases.

The officials of the day were: E. V. Buchanan, referee; Dr. Geo. A. Smith, clerk of events; W. A. Martin, starter; Miss E. Holland, judge of dancing; S. Rankin, G. W. Blay, C. R. Rowntree, K. Hunter, K. McFarlane and P. Struthers, judges of track events; E. Ruse, S. Rankin, A. T. Taylor and W. Lawrence, timers; F. Baker and H. Butler, scorers; M. McLean, H. Fox, K. Lindsay and W. Lawrence, field judges; Miss Garrett and Miss Talbot, judges for girls' events; Miss Talbot, basketball scorer; Miss Foster, Miss Partridge and Miss McIntosh, judges for girls' track events; Miss Barbour, Miss Wilson, Miss Bickert and Miss Goodwin, judges for girls' field events.

"Pugs" Down To Real Business

Dempsey Works in Spite of Cold—Firpo Shows Power.

Associated Press Despatch.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Working out before a crowd of more than 2,000 spectators, Jack Dempsey went through an equivalent to ten rounds today. The cold from which he is suffering was reflected in his work. He complained of stiff muscles.

George Godfrey, the 235-pound negro, stuck a snaky left hand into Dempsey's face during their two rounds to keep the champion off balance, so he could not whip over a crushing right or left hook. Dempsey, however, managed to connect solidly a half dozen times on the negro's chin, rocking him to his heels.

Jack Burke tried to keep Jack at a safe distance with left jabs. Dempsey shook him up with rights to the head, but tried more frequently to land left hooks to the jaw and body. Jack Bernstein, world's junior lightweight champion, boxed the first two rounds with Dempsey to develop the champion's speed.

BEATS UP THREE.

Atlantic City, Aug. 26.—Unleashing some of the power in his massive shoulders during his daily workout at the Sound Racing Park, on the outskirts of the city, this afternoon Luis Angel Firpo administered sound thrashings to three sparring partners, and showed some improvement in his battle technique.

All three of the "punch-catchers" with whom he worked, Joe McKann, the strong Newark heavyweight, Jeff Clarke, the "black ghost" of Joplin, and Natty Natallo Pera, the Argentine Adonis, were badly shaken by Firpo's blows. He appeared to have solved the fighting styles of all three in earlier workouts, and prevented any of them from laying a glove on him today.

HOPPE TO DEFEND TITLE.

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Aug. 26.—Plans for an international professional billiard championship tournament, at which Willie Hoppe will defend his crown are rapidly being completed. The tournament probably will be held here in November, although Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston also have entered bids.

Chicago Were Leading 3--1 in Ninth, When Two Homers Ended It.

PIRATES EVEN SERIES

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Aug. 26.—A ninth-inning home run attack snatched victory from the jaws of defeat here today when the New York Nationals defeated Chicago in the first game of the series by a score of 4 to 3.

Chicago went into the ninth inning, leading by a score of 3 to 1, and Aldridge, Chicago's pitcher, apparently on his way to his ninth consecutive victory.

O'Connell hit a home run with one out, and Kelly fouled to Grimes for the second out. Jackson grounded to Friburg for what looked an easy out at first, but Friburg made a three-base wild throw. Bentley, batting for Snyder, then hit another home run into the stands, winning the game.

Then score:

It was the final game of the western series at home for the Dodgers, who won only four games out of 14 played. "Babe" Adams kept the few Brooklyn hits well scattered, while the Pirates pounded all three Dodger moundsmen, bunching nine off Reuther for seven runs.

Pittsburg	204 012 000—9	14	1

COCKSHUTT-BLUES WIN EXHIBITION SOCCER GAME

Special to The Advertiser.

Brantford, Aug. 26.—In one of the fastest soccer games of the season the Cockshutt Blues triumphed over a picked team from the Hamilton Veterans and Chipman's Holton on Saturday in an exhibition contest at Mohawk Park, by a 3 to 2 score. Cockshutts presented an improved line-up with the addition of R. Richardson and Baxter, the two players who were recently reinstated by the Brantford Association, and the combination of the plowmen was of a very high order. The Hamilton eleven was also good in this respect, but the fact that the players from the two clubs had not lined up as a unit before this season was a handicapping factor in their play.

Glasgow, Aug. 25. — The British yacht Coila today defeated the United States yacht Lea in the first of a series of five races for the Seawanhaka cup which the British won in United States waters last September. CIVIC EMPLOYEES RELAX FROM CARE

BEST PICNIC YET

Tax rates, pavements, sidewalks, and other affairs pertaining to the workings of a city were left behind when the employees of the municipality of London held their annual outing at Springbank Park. A lengthy and original sports program was carried through without a hitch and the girls and boys, for that is what they were, from the various offices and departments of the city, entered into the fun with a zest that would not be denied.

City Engineer W. P. Near was prominent, urging this person or that to do something that someone else had done.

The feature of the afternoon was undoubtedly the tug-of-war, which was without a rival in the annals of Springbank. The pulls were scheduled for 10 minutes, but during the final, this period elapsed and still there was no victor. It was 15 minutes before it was finally decided that the marker had crossed the spot required, and a winner was chosen.

Refreshments were handed out with a lavish hand and one and all had their share. At supper songs and jokes were heard and much laughter gave the lie to the supposition that civic employees know not how to be merry, for they do, and they showed it with a vengeance.

Today they will be back at their desks or other places of employment ready to figure out what the taxes on this piece of property are, where the road needs repairing, how to clean the streets, and many other things, but back of it all will be the remembrance that they had a real good time on Saturday afternoon.

The results of the races were as follows:

Boys' race, 6 years and under, 50 yards, W. Paradine, F. Hents, L. Hinto. Boys' race, 9 years and under, 50 yards, R. McKeon, T. Mezza, W. Belor. Boys' race, 12 years and under, 75 yards, C. BIBLE STUDENTS SAY WAR IS NEAR AT HAND

Speaker At Hyman Hall Declares Churches Not Awake To This Fact.

"Love for humanity and the desire to do them good are the motives that animate us to tell these things," said J. I. Gadd at Hyman Hall yesterday in addressing a large gathering of Bible Students on the subject: "All nations marching to Armageddon." Continuing, he said: "We are not desirous of seeing a reign of anarchy, believing that any government is better than none at all. Nevertheless the declaration of God's word is that such shall surely be, and it is the duty of those who claim to represent Him to give out the divine message even though it be an unpleasant task. The nations' leaders see these things coming and are honestly and plainly giving expression to their fears. Why do not the churches bring forward the solution, for the only one is found in the scriptures? This, the darkest period in the world's history, is that referred to in the scriptures as the Day of Jehovah, and the Day of Vengeance. When Jesus stood up in the synagogue and read the scripture from Isaiah, Chapter 61, he omitted the words which refer to the day of vengeance, otherwise he could not have truly said: "This day is the scripture fulfilled in your ears." The Christian's commission is to declare the day of vengeance, with the additional privilege to preach good tidings, bind up the broken-hearted, proclaim liberty to the captives (of sin) and the opening of the prison (of the grave) to them that are bound.

COLORED SCOUTS VISIT.

The 94th Cleveland troop of Boy Scouts passed through London Saturday in the course of the trip which they are at present making. They are all colored boys, including the Scoutmaster, and the trip takes in Detroit, Buffalo and other cities. They are a smart lot, and look well in their uniforms.

Three Thousand Enjoy Fun At the Big English Picnic

England was transplanted to Springbank Park on Saturday when more than three thousand persons from the old land journeyed there and picnicked under the auspices of St. George's Society.

Lancashire, Nottinghamshire, Essex, Kent, Cornwall, Devon, and practically every other county of England was represented and the program of the day was also typically English. From early morning until long after dark the people made merry in the most approved style and nothing was forgotten that would make the day a success.

Music was supplied during the afternoon by the Forest City band, a fife and drum organization, which enlivened the day with sprightly and martial airs.

A marquee had been erected on the grounds, and from this cones, candies, ginger beer and peanuts were dispensed with an open hand. Cheese and crackers were also much in evidence and no one could complain of being hungry.

At the supper hour, tea or coffee was supplied by the society, while the edibles were brought forth from various baskets carried by the picnickers. Songs enlivened the meal and much joking and bantering was passed back and forth across the long tables.

A pleasing incident of the afternoon was the presentation to Miss Jennie Chappelle and Mrs. Read, of umbrellas, in recognition of their services in connection with the float entered in the Old Boy's Reunion parade by the society. Miss Chappelle impersonated Britannia, while Mrs. Read portrayed the part of a nurse, she actually having served overseas in that capacity during the war.

J. B. Cox Wins Prize.

J. B. Cox, without any competition, was awarded the prize for the oldest member of the society on the grounds and, as he was given the prize, he proudly acknowledged having been born in Nottinghamshire 81 years ago. He hopes to live to see the century mark. His birthday is on February 16. He has been a resident of London since 1859, living at 519 Richmond street, and has been a member of St. George's Society since 1867.

With cries of "over," "bye," "come on," "boundary," and kindred other terms of the game, two teams, representing the north and south of England, indulged in a session of cricket. The north, captained by A. Widdicombe, beat the south, captained by H. Meade, 33 runs to 26 runs.

Another real old country game was that played by two teams of ladies The game is called "Rounders" and seems to be a form of baseball. The single ladies under the guidance of Miss C. Haynes, decisively defeated the married ladies, under Mrs. Jarvis, the score being 9—0.

A feature of the evening was the dancing on the green, when, under trees illuminated by Japanese lanterns, square dances, quadrilles, lancers and waltzes were performed, the music being supplied by an orchestra consisting of an accordion and banjo.

To the following men is the success of the picnic due, they having acted on the various committees: F. J. Chappelle, as chairman of the picnic committee as a whole, worked hard and long all day and was ably assisted by Secretary F. B. Schofield, W. Ball, George French, F. K. Nickols, H. Meads, E. Potter, H. Lee, A. E. Smith, J. Lewis, W. Streeter, R. E. Edwards, W. Nichols, C. Powell, George Potter, E. Ball, E. Lewarne, W. G. Hurrell, W. Sanham, H. J. Hunniset, M. Quinney, P. J. Collier, F. CARS HAVE MIX-UP ON GRAVEL ROAD

Serious Consequences Are Averted by Cautious Conduct of Drivers.

DANGEROUS CORNER

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Aug. 26.—A heavy roadster traveling north on the Gravel road and a touring car going west on the Sparta road, both reached the crossing of these two highways in Union at the same time, and a bad mix-up followed. Both cars were considerably damaged, but none of the occupants of either were hurt other than being severely shaken up by the experience.

The roadster, driven by G. Lombardo of the Lombardo orchestra, was coasting down the Union hill at a moderate speed at about two o'clock this afternoon. Just as Mr. Lombardo reached the foot of the hill the other car, driven by a Belmont man, came into view traveling west. According to eye-witnesses the Belmont driver saw the roadster coming towards him and stopped his car in the middle of the road. Mr. Lombardo swerved his car to the right to try to pass, but had not space enough to entirely miss it, and tore the rear end out of it before coming to a stop. The roadster was also damaged, the left front fender and the left front wheel being smashed and the front axle bent.

A lady riding in the lighter car was temporarily incapacitated by the shock, but later was able to leave the scene of the accident for St. Thomas. Mr. Lombardo was alone. The autos were left for repairs at Union.

That more serious consequences did not result from the accident is considered fortunate by many who are familiar with the intersection. The view to the east from the Gravel road is obstructed by the blacksmith shop on the southeast corner, and the fact that neither car was traveling at a fast speed is believed to be the only thing that prevented a serious collision.

ILDERTON BAPTISTS HOLD OUTING AT SPRINGBANK

Special to The Advertiser.

Ilderton, Aug. 26.—The East Williams Baptist Church held their annual picnic at Springbank on Friday, August 24. A splendid program of sports was run off. An interesting feature of the picnic was the presentation to their pastor, Rev. E. T. Clifton, and also Mrs. Clifton, who are leaving to take charge of the Baptist Church at Blenheim.

Miss May Daniel spoke on behalf of the church's appreciation of their pastor's work, and their regret at his leaving to go to another field.

John Currie and William Chapman then presented Mr. Clifton with a handsome club bag, and Mrs. Clifton with a silver pie dish. Master Lloyd also received a remembrance, which was presented by Miss Carlotte Currie. Rev. Mr. Clifton very gratefully expressed his thanks for the tribute which had been paid to them; also for the good fellowship, which had been apparent during his pastorate with them.

PREDICTS RUSSIA FIRST TO RECOVER

Sir Donald Mann Surprised To Find Country So Near Normalcy.

GRAIN CROPS GOOD

By HENRY SOMERVILLE.
Special Cable to The Advertiser by a Staff Correspondent. Copyright.

London, Aug. 25.—"I've not done any business in Russia," Sir Donald Mann told The Advertiser today.

"I went there hoping I might do business, but haven't done any. Whether any future business will rise out of my trip I cannot say. I traveled 2,500 miles by rail in Russia and found the railways in good shape. Roadbeds were excellent. Train service was not very fast, but it was punctual. Sleeping cars are quite as good as you get elsewhere on the continent. I also went by train down to the Black Sea ports. The service was very fair, the average speed of passenger trains being 27 to 45 miles an hour." The Advertiser asked what the prospects were for Russia's economic recovery. Sir Donald Mann's reply, uttered with characteristic deliberateness, was surprising.

Fertile Country.

"It is quite possible," he said, "that Russia will be the first European country engaged in the Great War to make a real recovery. It is a wonderfully rich country. I traveled by train about 1,000 miles through grain fields mostly sown with wheat. This country is just as fertile as the Canadian Northwest. There is a fair crop throughout Russia this year. In the north it has been very wet and much grain has been lost. In the south it was beautiful harvest weather.

"The wheat was all cut by the middle of July. When I was there it was being threshed and shipped. Whether it was being exported to foreign countries I did not inquire. All classes in Russia from the government down are working very hard and are very anxious to make good. They are putting their house in order. As regards political stability, everybody tells me it is no alternative government to the present one. When you speak of Russia being prosperous again, you must remember that every country during the war lost much. Canada knows that Russia had seven years of war. Half that time was civil war.

Moscow is Crowded.

"Cities become very dilipaded, but everywhere in Moscow now you will see buildings repaired and painted. You will notice whole blocks being repaired and made habitable. Moscow is very crowded with people.

"Russia is not working on the ordinary system of private property. Mines and factories are leased for terms of years and these are what they call mixed companies, part private and part government. Russia is doing very well at reconstruction. Four thousand three hundred large bridges are being repaired. This is a very big job. Forty thousand freight cars are being repaired and they are getting on with it very rapidly. I was surprised by what I saw, after all the newspaper reports I have read, Russia is already exporting all sorts of things—furs, wheat rye and lumber. She could do with importing machinery and agricultural implements, and no doubt will do so in time."

DECORATE THE GRAVES OF ENGLAND'S SONS

English Citizens Participate in Touching Ceremony At Woodland.

A similar service as that held last week at Mount Pleasant Cemetery by the Sons and Daughters of England in memory of the deceased English brethren was held yesterday afternoon at Woodland Cemetery.

A large number assembled at the lodge rooms and marched to the cemetery headed by the Salvation Army Band No. 3. On reaching the cemetery flowers were placed on a huge Union Jack, around which the procession gathered, and in touching words the president stated that it was the occasion when the Sons and Daughters of England placed upon the graves of their departed members a token that still holds them dear to their fellowmen.

Following the president the chaplain recited the prayers of the lodge, and later all joined in singing "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

At the grave of each departed brother the president read aloud his name, the lodge of which he was a member, and at the conclusion a small Union Jack and a red rose was placed on the grave.

The service concluded with a few remarks from the president in which he said that it was the duty of every member to be true and faithful to one another.

SCOTCH FARM EXPERT IS TOURING CANADA

Believes Northlands May Suit Scotchmen As Well As Western Plains.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, Aug. 26.—With a view of investigating the wooded sections of Canada as places for immigrants from Scotland to settle in as against the prairies, Professor Robert Wallace is in Canada on his tenth trip, arriving in Ottawa yesterday. Officially Professor Wallace has been sent out by the Scotch board of agriculture and a combination of Scotch dairy societies to represent them at the coming National Dairy Congress, which is to meet in Washington on October 2. In the meantime the professor is touring Canada.

Professor Wallace is one of the foremost agricultural authorities in the British Isles, and is of the opinion that Canada is the logical center for English-speaking people. He is also of the opinion that one of Canada's greatest developments will be the settling of the vast areas of land in the northern and comparatively unexplored sections of the country. In those far northern places the professor is of the opinion that the finest grains and the finest fruits the world has ever known will be grown.

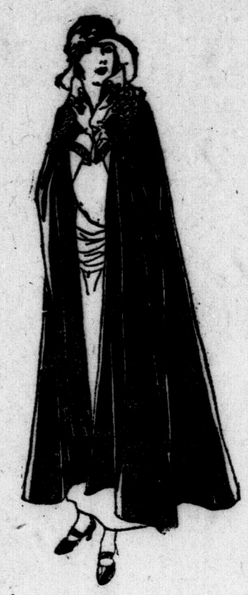

ESSEX FARMERS PIN FAITH IN THEIR TOBACCO CROP

Special to The Advertiser.

Windsor, Aug. 26.—Essex County farmers are pinning their faith this year to the tobacco crop. More acreage is being devoted to the weed, and in the majority of cases the prospects are good for an excellent yield. Here and there is observed a tendency toward yellowing in the leaf, but that is the exception rather than the rule. Prices have not yet been set, but the farmers are predicting an increase over last year's figure.

Most of the threshing is done, although a small percentage of the farmers are still at it. Wheat in this county averaged about 30 bushels to the acre and oats averaged from 50 to 70 bushels to the acre. This last figure is claimed by a farmer near Cottam.

ORANGE BAND BRINGS PLEASURE TO BYRON

Treat Boys At Sanatorium To Feast of Music, and Smokes To Follow.

Apart from being a wonderful day yesterday at which the patients at the Alexandra Sanatorium at Byron were naturally pleased, it was a red-letter day in that they were treated to an exceptionally fine concert in the afternoon by the London and district Orange brass band. Arriving at 3 o'clock the bandsmen played both before and after supper to the large crowd of men who were able to be outside, and just as much to those who had to be contented with "listening in" from their cots.

Sir Adam Beck, who appeared in his car during the performance, in a brief address, congratulated the band and the "boys" on their Sunday afternoon. A fitting conclusion to the concerts was the wonderful performance of "Abide With Me," which carried a special appeal to the "boys at the 'San.'" After the music the bandsmen distributed "smokes" among the patients, and in the twilight departed with the thanks of the inmates ringing in their ears and the knowledge that they had added another glad page to the annals of Byron.

SECOND SECTION

LONDON, ONTARIO, MONDAY, AUGUST 27, 1923.

SAYS NEW CITY HALL WORK WILL START OCT. 1

SURE CITY HALL WILL BE BUILT ON M'CORMICK SITE

Mayor Wenige and Ald. Burdick Make Definite Statements as to Progress.

START WORK OCT. 1

London's new city hall will be commenced on the McCormick site on or shortly after October 1.

This was the double announcement today from Mayor Wenige and Ald. George Burdick, chairman of the special city hall committee of the city council.

Plans by local architects must be submitted by September 15, following which a 10-day period must elapse before the construction contract can be awarded. This time is definitely set by law, and both Mayor Wenige and the chairman insists that this task can be accomplished at a special session of the council between September 25 and September 30.

"From present indications we shall be able to have the work actually commenced on October 1, or very soon afterwards," Ald. Burdick stated enthusiastically.

Ontario Judges.

Arrangements have already been made for the appointment of special judges to choose the most suitable plans and specifications from those submitted, but the names of these parties will be withheld from publication for obvious reasons. They will be outsiders, as would be naturally expected.

Ald. Burdick has just returned from New York City, but during his absence he visited Toronto and Hamilton, viewing certain big municipal construction undertakings. He secured the names of architects in these cities whom he believes would meet with the general approval of the councillors as judges.

No member of the 1923 city council is more desirous that a new city hall should be started this year than Ald. Burdick. And if plans are upset this year by the opposition in the council, he will again take this issue with him to the people of Ward 4 next December, he assured The Advertiser today.

Wants Early Start.

"I have not changed my mind," he explained. "I included this in my platform, and there is nothing else that would compel me to run again, other than the failure of our plans for an immediate start."

"I'll be satisfied if we only get the foundation built," Mayor Wenige stated. "Then the job can be completed next year."

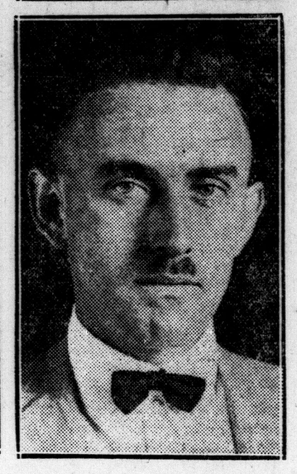

"In any event, the construction of a city hall is a two-year job," Ald. Burdick added.

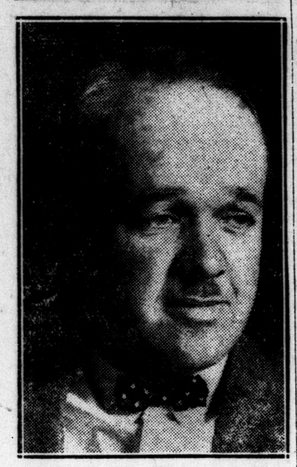

LONDON POSTOFFICE CLERKS WIN PROMOTION.

Six promotions marked the start of the reorganization of the postal service in the London district, the appointments all being made in the district superintendent's office. The members of the staff who were affected are: Top row, left to right—Walter Logan, promoted from postal clerk to senior postal clerk; Miss H. L. Trebilcock, who has been named senior clerk stenographer; W. H. Stallard, who has been appointed to fill the vacancy created by the appointment of Mr. Logan. Bottom row—W. J. May, who has been appointed inspector of postal service; A. S. Thompson, who has been raised to the position of principal postal clerk, and Thomas E. Murray, who has also been promoted to inspector of postal service.

EXPERTS LEAVE CITY, SURVEY NOT FINISHED

Dr. Horace Brittain and Staff Now "Summing Up" On Civic Probes.

Although they have all left the city, Mayor Wenige stated definitley that Dr. Horace L. Brittain and his staff have not completed their "survey" of the several municipal departments.

"They are now summing up" he explained, "But they will be back and go over the field again just to assure themselves that they have not missed anything."

His worship intimates that the visitors will conduct further careful "inquiries" in connection with the long expected fire and police department probes.

The survey of the city treasurer's department was completed about 10 days ago Mr. Bell explained today while R. L. Armstrong finished with the city engineer's department on Friday last.

It fact it was reported today semi-officially that Mr. Armstrong has gone back to his home in New Brunswick for a brief rest. During his sojourn there he will "take unto himself a wife" according to the report at the city hall.

The mayor expects, however, that a complete report will be submitted by Dr. Brittain at the second regular meeting of the council, about September 17.

Dear Jimmy,—Just a line to thank you for good time I had during my stay in London, Old Boys' Week. MUST GET BETTER SUPPLY OF WATER AT PORT STANLEY

Sir Adam Beck Declares Present System Is Far From Adequate.

CHANGE IS NEEDED

Sir Adam Beck, M.L.A., is deeply interested in the fresh water supply for Port Stanley.

Discussing this situation briefly today he expressed the opinion that this would be another question that should receive attention at an early date. Filtered lake water is in use but Sir Adam points out that the system employed is totally inadequate and that steps will have to be taken in the near future to insure plenty of good water for the inhabitants of the village, and the summer visitors.

General Manager Richards explains that about three years ago the L. & P. S. experts submitted a full report upon the Port Stanley water situation, and outlined what should be done, but the village authorities evidently considered the cost exorbitant and too great at that time.

Girl Rides 'Blind Baggage' From Chatham to London

After Losing Purse, Evelyn Wyllie Returns Home Behind the Locomotive Tender, Begrimed With Dust and Smoke.

Evelyn Wyllie is proud.

Pride, however, proved her undoing over the week-end.

Saturday she went to Chatham to visit her husband's parents. While there she lost her purse. Evelyn felt rather embarrassed. She had purchased a single ticket from London to Chatham, and did not have the money to pay for her return fare. She would not borrow from her husband's relatives—not Evelyn. Independence was one of her virtues, and she cherished this virtue and refused to relinquish it even under the most trying circumstances.

A girl chum, when told of her predicament, suggested the only solution—the blind baggage.

She dared the London girl to attempt it. Evelyn was not to be dared.

This morning at 4:50 the fast C. P. R. flyer for Montreal pulled into London.

From behind the tender, a neatly-dressed girl hopped to the ground, and started to strut away from the train, her chin tilted at a rakish angle. The black coal dust on her face and hands did not hurt her pride.

The C. P. R. constable on duty at the station was dumbfounded for a minute. But only for a minute. Then he hastened in pursuit of Evelyn and took her to the police station.

In court this morning, she had no excuse to offer. Her husband appeared. He had been investigating the case, and heard about the lost purse and her extreme pride. He told the court the story.

The husband had not heard of the case until he was on his way to work this morning. A friend had told him his wife had been arrested at the C. P. R. station. A hurried trip to the police station verified the story, which, to him, at first, was almost unbelievable.

When Magistrate Gladman spoke of punishment, Evelyn broke down and wept.

"I think the cold morning ride is sufficient punishment," the husband pleaded.

Magistrate Gladman agreed.

As the girl was leaving the courtroom the magistrate advised: "I think it would be better to swallow a little pride sometimes."

SAYS BOLSHEVISM THE ONLY SYSTEM TO SAVE RUSSIA

Alexis Mitchinir Indorses Sir Donald Mann's Story of Russian Progress.

PRAISES SOVIET

Stories of chaos in Russia and tales of Bolshevist anarchy and upheaval are without the slightest foundation, according to Alexis Mitchinir, a young Russian, who registered at the Tecumseh House today.

Mr. Mitchinir is an engineer on a trip through Ontario from Quebec, Que., where he has been working this summer. This morning he read the account of Sir Donald Mann's experiences in the country of the Moujik.

"That's the best and truest story of conditions in Russia I've ever seen in Canada," he declared. "It proves that all talk of Russia's economic and moral collapse is propaganda. Bolshevism is looked upon as an all-devouring monster, working for the destruction of the world. Almost every businessman is misinformed about Russia. Russia is today happier, more prosperous and better able to take care of herself than she has ever been."

Bolshevism, Mr. Mitchinir explained, was not anarchy or socialism. It was a combination of socialism and capitalism. The good points of both systems had been taken and merged in Bolshevism.

Lauds Lenine and Trotzky.

"Lenine and Trotzky are not the brutes people would have us believe," Mitchinir continued. "England recognizes this, but America is too prejudiced to see the light just yet. Nikolai Lenine is one of the cleverest men in the world today. He has brought calm and happiness out of misery and confusion. He wants no reward; neither does Trotzky, who is also a great man.

"There is no truth in the story that Trotzky used to be a pedlar in New York. He was a college professor for a time, but he only remained in America for a few months in his younger days. Lenine has never been near this country.

"I was too young to understand the misery of my people under the czar, but I know they must have suffered horribly. Now every man has an equal chance to make good. Education is not confined to the rich as formerly. Even the poorest peasant can send his son to university if he is able to pass the examinations. The big cities of Russia are flourishing, and Petrograd was never so prosperous.

"Bolshevism was the only system that could save Russia. To all intents and purposes it is the same as capitalism in this country—that is its effects are the same. I think our educational system is better, however. The idea that Russia has embraced atheism is groundless. Religion is free, but the government has made it plain they will not tolerate religious coercion or the church militant. A man may be a Christian, a Buddhist or a Mohammedan. Each teaches the principle of the golden rule, and that, after all is the only real religion.

Dénies Press Story.

"Nationalization of women is a story based on nothing but the imagination of newspaper correspondents. When Canadian troops were in Russia, the country was admittedly in a bad state and a false impression was gained. Things are different now. The peasant population are still slovenly and would be regarded as unclean in this country, but they are gradually being taught to live up to better standards. Whiskey and other intoxicants are prohibited in certain territories, and the time is coming when temperance will be universal.

"I can't understand why Americans should have such an awful impression of Russia. When the Bullit report of the situation there was issued it showed that Russia had done away with vicious practices of the czar, and was fast attaining wealth and happiness. This report was no sooner published when Bullit was accused of being a Bolshevist, and fired from his job. The people of this country refused to accept his statements as true. They prefer to regard the Soviet as a rotten, radical institution designed to wreck the country."

NATURE PROVIDES LAUNDRY FACILITIES.

To this natural hot spring near Reykjavik, Iceland, the women of the locality come on Monday mornings to do the family washing. An iron guard rail has been erected over the pool to prevent the workers from falling into the scalding water.

Declares Kipling Popular Among People of Iceland

Former London Girl Relates Experiences in Arctic Island Where Boiling Hot Springs Provide Free Laundry Facilities.

This is the third of a series of articles written for The Advertiser by Maurine Robb, a former London girl who is at present in Iceland. In this article Miss Robb describes her arrival.

LIKES TO BE VISITED.

By MAURINE ROBB.

Reykjavik! The name, even before our steamer drew close to the wharf, had a most pleasant sound. For one thing, friends in Winnipeg, Icelandic by birth, although Canadian by adoption, had told me much about Iceland's capital city. And after rather rough weather from the Faroes, the name of any port would have sounded attractive—although no other could have appealed quite as much as Reykjavik.

Our first expedition was to the library. It is a new building, white stone, fitted with reading-tables and electric lamps, precisely as the libraries in Canadian cities are furnished, except that I doubt if anywhere in Canada are the tables and books used as regularly as they are in Reykjavik. We had a most interesting chat with the old librarian.

"Kipling is by far the most popular English author," he gravely told us. "Next come H. G. Wells and Oscar Wilde. Shakespeare is read much, too, by the more advanced people. Of English books we have some 20,000; of Danish some 40,000; we have some few thousands in French, German, Italian, but the rest of the total of 100,000 are Icelandic."

The Hot Springs.

About forty-five minutes' walk from the center of Reykjavik are the hot springs, or Laugar. We were fortunate in making the trip there by horseback, our first experience with the famous Icelandic pony. We were fortunate, also, in having specially good ponies, for like the little girl with the curl, when they are bad—they are horrid! The ponies we had, however, were owned by one of Reykjavik's leading merchants, Mr. O. Johnston, to whom we had a letter of introduction, and who, like the rest of the population, did his best to make our stay a pleasant one.

At the Hot Springs.

We clattered out through the town in an easterly direction, following a good road, with the harbor on our left, mountains ahead of us, and mountains far away on the right. We passed close to the water in one place, and saw piles of fish lying on the stones to dry. In all too short a time, we came to a queer, galvanized iron fenced in inclosure. Calling to us to wait a moment, Mr. Johnston dismounted, opened a door, and entered. In a second he returned, and smilingly assisted us to dismount. We entered. And gasped! It was the hot springs of Reykjavik, where on certain evenings the girls are allowed to come for a hot dip or bath, and the men on certain other evenings. This was gentlemen's night, and round the tank we could see heads, sticking out of the water. Mr. Johnston's few words inside must have been the equivalent of 'Down, Fido!" No excuse for Reykjavik natives to be anything but clean, with free baths and hot water!

Some distance farther on, we dismounted at another group of buildings. Steam rose from another stream of water, this time boiling. This is the city's laundry. Women were bent over washing clothes in the stream vigorously, then carrying the cleansed garments into one of the buildings, where they were rinsed.

The springs are so hot that it was found necessary some time ago, for safety, to have an iron railing rounded over them, in order that the women stooping over might not slip into the basin and be scalded. We were told that these springs have been used as a laundry for years, but that in more recent times, the richer classes have ceased to send their clothes there, that practically only the poorer classes make use of the free hot water and facilities, and those who take in washing as a means of livelihood.

The University in Reykjavik.

Yes, Icelandic has its own university; its students no longer need to go to Copenhagen to obtain a degree. As yet, the lectures are given in the parliament buildings, or Althingishus, for it is difficult to obtain money in a country with such a small population, and so few means of raising money.

A boy or girl in Iceland cannot be confirmed until he can read and write. And since there is a state church, the Lutheran, one might almost say that both education and religion are compulsory! The usual confirmation age is 14 or 15. Children do not go to school until they are 10, but they have already learned a great deal at their homes before that time. After attending the common, or elementary, school, there is the high school, to call it by a term which we use in this country. There are three of these high schools in Iceland. By the time a student has qualified to enter the university in Reykjavik, such is the standard of the high schools and gymnasiums that he has taken the equivalent of two years in an American university.

Icelanders graduate from the university at a much older age than Americans. From 25 to 30 is the average age, which, allowing for six years in the university, makes the entrance age about twenty.

You Must Go to Thingvellir.

I cannot imagine anyone going to Iceland and not seeing the site of the world's first parliament. There is enough interesting material in the old books on Iceland, and in the sagas, about Thingvellir to wile away many a dull evening. And there is enough natural beauty, and almost supernatural rock formations to keep an artist's brush or a poet's pen employed for a lifetime.

MANY LONDONERS WILL CONTRIBUTE TO TORONTO'S DAY

Local Blooms To Feature "Wear a Flower" Day at National Exhibition.

EXPECT BIG SHOW

London florists, both professional and amateur growers, have volunteered to contribute blooms for the "Wear a Flower" day which is to form a spectacular part of the Toronto exhibition, Monday, Sept. 3.

E. B. Hamilton, connected with the local firm of the West Floral Company, has been made a member of the committee in charge of the "Wear a Flower" day, and leaves on Thursday of this week to assist with the preparations.

According to Mr. Hamilton there will be at least 250,000 blooms distributed among the crowds present at the exhibition on that day, in addition to the huge masses of flowers which will be used in the numerous floats, making up the parade which is anticipated to be easily a mile long.

Three hundred Boy Scouts will be on hand, and at the close of the spectacle a flower will be distributed to every person on the grounds, sufficient blooms being provided to supply even an unusually large crowd. Only those flowers which are at present seasonable in the gardens will be sent, but the display of these is expected to be magnificent, as horticulturists all over the country have promised the pick of their gardens.

The London Horticultural Society is preparing a splendid offering, and flowers will also be sent by T. H. Hill, Arthur Pearson, the Sanderson Bros., J. Gammage & Sons, the West Floral Company, John Pawlitzki and J. H. Taylor.

ALD. M'KAY DENIES MAYORALTY RUMOR

Will Not Be Candidate For That Office or Public Utilities Commission.

Ald. Frank McKay will not be a mayoralty candidate at the forthcoming municipal election. Nor will he seek office as a member of the Public Utilities Commission.

To The Advertiser today, Ald. McKay was of the opinion that, at this moment there was no suitable prospective Labor candidate in sight for the mayor's chair. "I can think of no member who would accept the nomination, even if the Labor party decides to enter the race," he said. "In any event, it will be for the members of the party to decide at the regular convention."

As a matter of fact, Ald. McKay explains that he is not at all sure that he will even seek re-election as a Labor representative in the city council from Ward 3. His supporters, however, who are not numbered alone in the ranks of the Labor party, are confident that he will again enter the field, as will Ald. John Colbert, the other Labor councillor from the same ward.

The Labor convention will be staged earlier this year than usual, the party being determined that a stern fight shall be waged in the coming civic contest. While there is a preponderance of opinion against a mayoralty struggle, under existing circumstances, every other municipal office will be sought.

Already members of the executive are preparing for the convention, and prospective candidates will be approached with as little delay as possible. A strong aldermanic slate is even now practically assured for every ward in the city.

SPECIAL DIPLOMAS FOR CITY TEACHERS

Five Obtain Certificates For Summer Courses in Agricultural Studies.

Included in a list published by the minister of education giving the names of teachers in the province who have taken special summer courses in agriculture are several London teachers, who have used their vacation to improve their standing in their profession. They are G. A. Wheable, junior public school inspector who secures an intermediate certificate, which is given as the result of several years of continuous work on the subject.

Joseph W. Firth, formerly of the Central Collegiate staff also secures an intermediate certificate, as does James W. Sexton, public school inspector at Stratford. Harold E. Eborn is listed among those who have been given the elementary certificate. He comes to the staff of the Chesley Avenue school this fall. John R. Littleproud who is the new male assistant at the Simcoe Street school this fall is named as having obtained the first year honor.

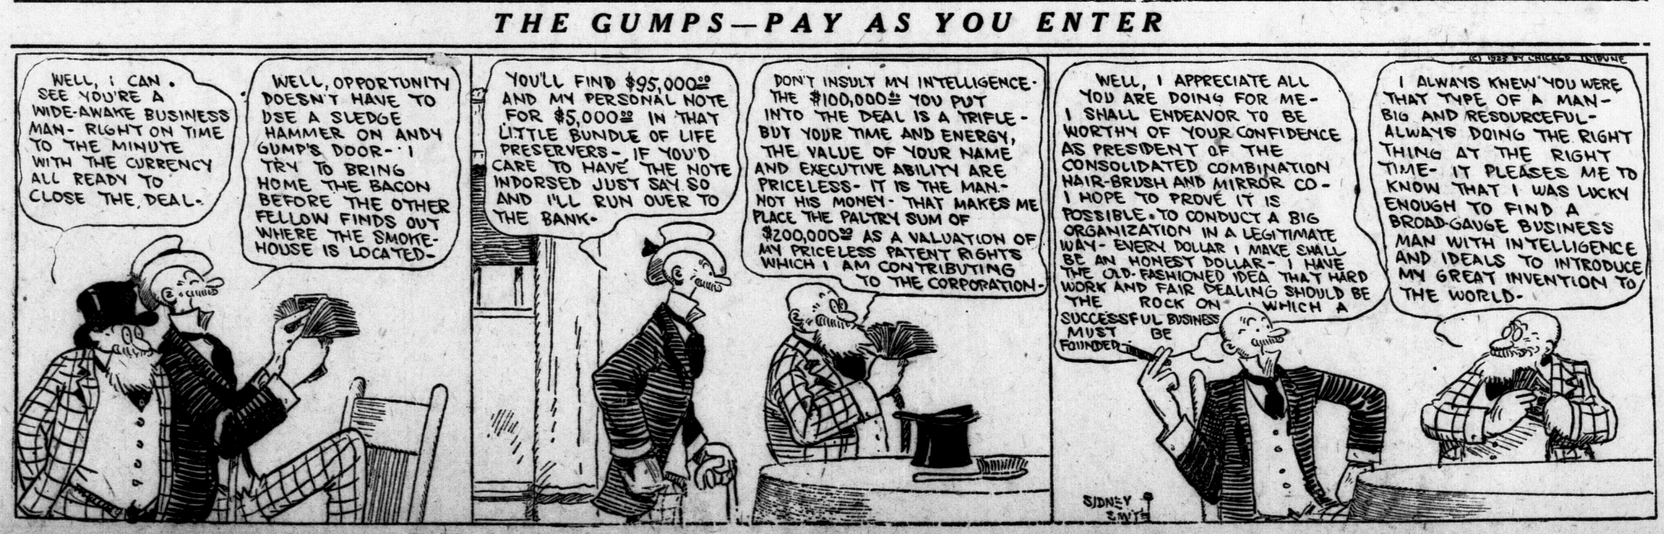

Inspector Greer in commenting on the large number of teachers who took advantage of summer courses in spite of the fact that the late government withdrew certain grants to encourage this work, stated that it indicated a fine spirit on the part of those taking the work in spite of the handicap under which they labored.

Miss Olive Rousom Weds A. M. Wellman of This City

Home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rousom, Marley Place, Is Scene of Pretty Nuptial Event Saturday Afternoon.

A happy event took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rousom, Marley Place, at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, when their daughter, Frances Olive, became the bride of Mr. Albert Malcom Wellman of this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wellman of Windsor, the Rev. J. T. Cosby Morris officiating.

The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion, the bridal party taking up its stand in the living-room before a great bank of palms and pink and white gladioli, in front of which a white kneeling bench had been placed. The bride was lovely in her nuptial robe of white georgette crepe, with accordion-pleated over-panels hanging below the hem of the skirt. A girdle of white and silver completed the gown, over which fell a veil of bridal net, crowned with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses, lilies of the valley and sweet peas, and wore the gift of the groom, a diamond barpin.

Accompanying her were two bridesmaids. Miss Myrtle Rousom, sister of the bride, was the chief attendant, gowned in a modish frock of grey canton crepe. Tucked from neck to hem in both back and front, it was caught by a wide girdle, long streamers hanging below the skirt on either side. A large grey velvet hat with feather trimming in grey and blue, and an arm bouquet of Columbia roses, completed the costume.

A Second Bridesmaid.

Miss Alice Wellman of Windsor, sister of the groom, was the second bridesmaid. She was likewise gowned in grey. A grey georgette frock with beaded trimming was accompanied by grey slippers and stockings, and a large grey picture hat with big blue plume. Her flowers were Columbia roses. Both bridesmaids wore their gifts from the groom, pearl rings.

Mr. Arnold Bennett acted as groomsman, the groom's gift to him being a diamond tiepin.

The wedding music was rendered by Mr. Charles Percy, and during the signing of the register, Miss Margaret McCullough sang beautifully, "Because." The groom's gift to the soloist was a cameo ring.

After the ceremony a reception and buffet luncheon was held. A silver basket of Ophelia roses centred the bride's table, while small corner vases held Sweetheart buds. Mrs. Rousom, mother of the bride, received with the bridal pair, wearing a smart gown of black taffeta, heavily beaded. Mrs. Wellman, mother of the groom, was becomingly gowned in black canton crepe with trimmings of accordion-pleaded georgette, and wore roses. Miss Iola Percy, Miss Margaret McCullough, and Miss Audrey Percy assisted.

Leave For Motor Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Wellman have left on their honeymoon, which will be spent motoring to Hamilton, Toronto, Niagara Falls, Buffalo, and New York. On their return they will reside on Windsor avenue. For going away, the bride donned a modish gown of navy and sand georgette. From a heavily-beaded yoke of sand georgette, long accordion-pleated panels of blue fell to below the skirt, both in the back and front of the gown. Smaller panels trimmed the sides. A small toque of sand duvetyne was trimmed with feathers in the same shade. A sand swagger coat and sand shoes and stockings completed the costume.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. William Rousom of North Bay, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rousom of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Edgecombe of Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Knapp of Ingersoll, Mr. and Mrs. Milligan of Windsor, Mr. and Mrs. Moncreiff of Windsor, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wellman of Windsor, Mr. and Mrs. Rousom of Springfield, the Misses Alice, Agnes, Carry, and Mary Wellman of Windsor, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Wellman of Saskatoon, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Rousom of Brockville, Mrs. Alma Percy, Mr. Orville Percy, and Miss Iola Percy of St. Thomas.

KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN, well-known and beloved American novelist, who died recently at Harrow, England.

A. G.

Dear Miss Grey,—Two years ago I made some cucumber pickles from a recipe found in your column, and they were delicious. I want to make some more, but find I have mislaid the recipe. No doubt you have it in your files. Would you please send it to me? All I remember about the recipe was that the cucumbers were large (but I don't believe they were ripe) and were quite sweet (I used brown sugar) when done. I suppose you have many cucumber pickle recipes but I do hope I can get the one I used.

Anxiously awaiting your reply, I am, sincerely yours, A. G.

I am sorry that I cannot find the recipe to which you refer, but I am sure this one which I am giving you will be just as good. It calls for small cucumbers, but you can use large ones, cutting them up into small bits. I have done that myself when I have not been able to secure the gherkins. But, of course, don't use the large seeds or soft parts. The recipe asks for 500 small cucumbers. You will be able to calculate from that about how many pieces of large cucumbers will be needed. Take three quarts of vinegar, add two ounces each of cinnamon, allspice and cloves, three pounds of light brown sugar and a few small red peppers. Let the pickles stand overnight in salt and water, then put them in the cold vinegar and let come to a boil and boil two or three minutes. If the vinegar is too strong, add one quart of water.

Marygold.

Dear Miss Grey,—I have never written you to thank you for C. G. pin, which is very nice. I haven't noticed any one with one on yet. I have a question to ask under discussion. Would like to see it in print and hope it is not asking too much.

Question.—Can first cousins be lawfully married in Ontario?

MARYGOLD.

There are no restrictions under British law in regard to first cousins marrying. To answer your question more directly—first cousins can be married lawfully in Ontario. There has been a prejudice against first cousins marrying, however, dating back to Biblical times.

It is strange that you have not met anyone wearing a C. G. pin, because we have had difficulty in keeping them in stock, so great had been the demand. But you are sure to meet some one, some day, and the pleasure is still in store, isn't it?

Your Home and You

By HELEN KENDALL.

BEFORE SCHOOL OPENS.

During this last week in August we all feel like holding fast to summer with both hands. The holiday has been so joyous, the stay at the seashore or in the mountains so carefree and restful, that we wish it could last a month longer, and we dread the thought of returning to the city and taking up the household burden again.

And so we stay on until the very last minute, knowing all the time that if we wait until the final Saturday the opening of school on the following Tuesday will find the children without enough clothes to carry them through the first week. Everything they have in the way of underclothing and frocks and little suits has been given hard wear throughout the summer months, and there will be no time to purchase a new supply before the day-after-day program sets in.

The really wise mother will do one of two things each year—either she will lay in a stock of fresh school clothes before she goes away for the summer, and so have them ready when she returns the first of September, or she will pack up and slip home early in the last week of August—hard as it may be to leave the mountains or the seashore—and replenish the piles of stockings and underwaists, panties and petticoats, blouses and dresses and guimpes.

The latter plan is a good one, for two reasons. By the end of the summer she will know better what the children's wardrobe requirements will be, and the prices on everything will be much lower than earlier in the season, as the shops will be clearing their shelves in preparation for the winter.

A few days stolen from the precious vacation period will be more than repaid by the comfortable feeling that the youngsters are ready to greet the opening of school with an ample equipment of fresh attractive clothes.

SMART CLOTHES FOR DRESSY WOMEN.

A tour of the shops these days reveals the most fascinating assortment of smart clothes for the discriminating woman. The glove counter is very attractive, showing many original designs, from the modest two-button for business and general wear, the popular gauntlet for sports to the smartest of long gloves for evening. Embroidery, which is so popular on all wearing apparel, has not spared gloves, and even inexpensive makes are adorned with it. Tiny pleated ruffles are another form of trimming much in vogue. The sports model shown to the left of the picture are tan gauntlets embroidered in brown.

The diaphanous evening gown shown in the center is developed in lavender chiffon. The skirt is made in flower petal form in irregular folds in different shades of lavender and is very graceful in effect. The blouse is perfectly plain and sleeveless and the wide, crush girdle ending in the bows and ends fastened at the left, is of soft silk.

At the right is another of those striking black and white combinations which are always in good taste and suitable for so many different occasions. It is made of canton crepe, the bodice of black trimmed with tiny white buttons, while the white skirt is elaborately embroidered in black silk. The model has wide, white sleeves, also embroidered and edged with black. The girdle is unique in this day of "different" waist adornments. It is made of strips of the black and white crepe braided, and a long flare of black hangs from the left side far below the skirt hem. While the description makes this frock sound elaborate, the effect is one of comparative simplicity.

"We're All Little Sparks of the Great Fire, Which Is God"—Terry

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY.

Teresa Desmond (Terry), lovely and unbelievably innocent, is impersonating her beautiful half-sister.

Juliet Divine—known as the Million Dollar Doll—whose sketchy career is unknown to Terry.

Miles Sheridan, Terry's "Dream Prince," furnished the money for her convent education when she was a child. His wife is making him wretched with her infidelity and in order to facilitate her obtaining a divorce, Miles offers the Million Dollar Doll $20,000 to take a yacht trip with him. Juliet is unable to take the trip herself, but, working on her little sister's gratitude to Miles, she persuades Terry, who is an exquisite counterpart of herself, to take her place.

Betty Sheridan, Miles' wife, is deeply in love with Paul di Salvano, a handsome Italian.

Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy Greek, who does not know of Terry's relationship to Juliet, is in love with the younger girl.

Mrs. Harkness, Miles' old servant, is Terry's maid on board the yacht. Her early disapproval of "The Million Dollar Doll" is swiftly disappearing under the influence of Terry's childlike charm. But Miles, "the Prince," is cold and hostile. He has no desire to be friendly with this notorious young person, in whom he does not recognize the little girl he befriended so long ago.

A storm comes up and Terry is frightened until Miles appears.

They talk for a few moments but Terry fears he is making fun of her.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

The Religion of a Million Dollar Doll.

"I'm not," said Sheridna, and suddenly it had become the truth that he spoke. "I do want to know. This is the sort of night—(though I'm pretty sure we're in no great danger)—that a man's mind turns beyond this world. It would really interest me to know what is the religion you thought out in the convent garden." (He didn't add, "the religion of a Million Dollar Doll.")

"Why—it's hard to tell you in a few words," the girl answered very shy, yet not wishing to be obstinate, and refuse. "I—well, I used to say to myself: 'this world seems so wonderful and beautiful that it must be—a thought of God, or perhaps, in a way, part of God.' God must be everything I used to think. There must be God in every leaf and flower—and so, of course, far more in all of us.

"We must be like beads on a string, I thought, with the same thread—that is God—running through us, every one. Or else God is the Great Fire, and we're little sparks of that fire."

Sheridan stared, frowning slightly; the girl was puzzling him a good deal. But he remembered Phillips' several warnings. She was evidently cleverer, and far more subtle in her playing of the game than most of the sisterhood.

"If we're all sparks of the great fire—that is, if we have an equal share of the God-flame in us—why are some of us so beastly, or so unfortunate, with no hope of bettering ourselves?" he tested her theories.

"Oh, I thought that, too," Terry went on, losing self-consciousness in her interest. "Of course, there's the life after this, where everything must come right, for those who've tried to be decent. But then, there's the trouble about the bad people! Of course there can't be a hell, like one reads about in the Bible.

"It can't mean forever, no matter what they've done to us; and God's so much kinder than we are. But it would seem to make things wonderfully just, if we came back to this world in a number of lives, to pay for what we've done wrong, or to go higher because we've done well! At last we'd be ready for a glorious heaven, wouldn't we, when we'd worked everything out here?"

"Where did you read all that?" Sheridan asked sharply.

"Nowhere, it was just in my thoughts."

"Thoughts in a convent garden! Well, they're not bad thoughts to have in any garden. I've no special religion myself. Not that I haven't had my thoughts—and some of them weren't unlike yours.

"If convent gardens brings thoughts of religion to young girls minds, I'm glad I sent the prettiest child I ever saw to a convent school. Yes, it must have been a good thing for her! I wonder what she's turned out to be? I've been reminded of her by—"

Terry's heart leaped. She had a moment of fright, but it quickly passed. She sat silent for a moment, listening to the roar of the sea and the straining of wood which her talk with Sheridan had made her almost forget.

"Where was your convent?" he flung at her suddenly, perhaps merely for the sake of something to say.

Now the girl was really alarmed. Could he suspect? Julia would be furious if he found out. Perhaps it might even injure Julia a great deal if the trick (trick, it was a trick) should be exposed.

"If you don't mind," she said softly, "I would rather not tell."

Sheridan chilled instantly. He guessed at once that the fair Juliet Divine had never been schooled in any convent at all. "Certainly, you needn't tell me unless you choose," he drily replied. "And I suppose I should be over-curious again if I asked how long ago you were there."

"Oh, I can tell you that!" Terry began eagerly, then checked herself with another of those blushes, which showed up so under the supposed paint and powder. "No," she went on, "I'm afraid I'd better not tell that either."

"Why should a lady give away her age?" laughed Sheridan.

The girl said nothing. She had been afraid to "give herself away" as 17 instead of 27, which was Julia's age.

"Well!" Sheridan exclaimed. "I've stopped below a good deal longer than I meant. I must go back on deck. We're one hand short owing to that accident today, and now and then there's something I can do. I had no idea of discussing religion when I came in here—except the religion of courage; but I've seen that you have that. There's nothing of the coward about you."

"I do hope not," responded Terry. "I can't bear cowards, even women. I don't like this storm, but if I'm brave, it's only because there's nothing else to be."

Sheridan laughed once more, and looked at her with approval in his eyes. She might be a little schemer—certainly was. And she might deviate almost absurdly from that high moral code which she had just enunciated, but there was something of the true sportswoman about the creature. She had brains, too. And she was pretty—damned pretty!

He wasn't sure whether it was conducive to the pleasure of the voyage, or necessary for dignity's sake, to continue sending such a girl to Coventry.

"If we weather this night all right, why—we'll see!" Sheridan said to himself. And aloud he added, "If there's any real danger, I'll come to you again. But I don't think there will be. So don't worry."

Then he was gone.

Terry didn't worry. And the memory of those last words was sweet. He would come for her.

In tomorrow's installment Terry's wardrobe undergoes a change.

Men are HANDICAPPED
Because they NEVER know
What a woman
Has up her SLEEVE;
And when a pretty girl
RETURNS a man's lead
He promptly LOSES his head;
Then he loses his HEART;
But a girl seldom
Loses ANYTHING,
Until she is certain
He has lost BOTH;
Then she AFFECTS to lose
Her presence of mind,
And lets him see
Her WEAKNESS—
That draws out his STRENGTH,
And he puts his cards

The Young Chuck Makes Friends With the Striped Chipmunk

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

When the young Chuck, who had gone out to see the Great World, found safety from Bowser the Hound in the old stone wall, Bowser wasted very little time. Bowser had chased too many people into that old stone wall to waste time trying to get at them or waiting for them to come out again. So he barked a few dreadful threats of what he would do to that young Chuck some day, and then went off.

The young Chuck remained right where he was for the longest time. He was so frightened that he didn't dare poke his nose out. And how he did wish that he was back home! He almost made up his mind that he would go straight home as soon as it seemed safe to start. But when he thought of the distance and the dangers his courage failed him. He probably would have remained right where he was the rest of that day had not a pair of bright eyes peeped in at that hole and discovered him.

"Hello, stranger," said a small voice. "What are you doing in here? It must be that it was you that Bowser the Hound was making all that fuss about. He isn't anywhere around now, so you don't have to stay in there unless you want to."

The young Chuck knew that this was a very small person talking, so he wasn't afraid. "Who are you?" he asked in his turn, as he poked his head out and discovered a small, very neat person with a pretty striped coat, and the brightest of bright eyes.

"I'm Striped Chipmunk. Goodness, you must be very young and innocent not to know who I am," was the prompt reply. "I live here in the old stone wall, and a very good place it is to live."

"Do you think that I could live here for awhile" inquired the young Chuck.

"There is no reason why you can't that I know of," replied Striped Chipmunk. "If you live here long enough you will learn a great deal of the ways of the Great World. It's the safest place I know of. You have run away from home, haven't you?" Striped Chipmunk's eyes twinkled as he asked this.

The young Chuck nodded. "Yes," said he rather sheepishly. "I wanted to see the Great World. Does—does that dreadful fellow that chased me in here come over here often?"

Striped Chipmunk nodded. "Quite often," said he. "But don't let that worry you. As long as you do not get too far away from the old stone wall that fellow will be perfectly harmless. I'm a great deal smaller than you, and I'm not in the least afraid of Bowser the Hound."

This comforted the young Chuck, and he began to feel better right away. He came wholly out. He peeped out through the bushes, and just beyond he saw the Green Meadows. He climbed up on the old stone wall, and the other side looked into the Old Orchard. It seemed to him that he never had seen such a beautiful place. "I think I'll stay," said he, "if I can find a good hiding place."

"There are plenty of them," said

"Do you think that I could live here for awhile?" inquired the young Chuck.

Striped Chipmunk. "I'll show you some of them."

Away scampered Striped Chipmunk along the top of the old stone wall. The young Chuck climbed down to the ground and followed.

THE DAILY SHORT STORY

SO MOTE IT BE.

By MARTHA McCULLOCH-WILLIAMS

"Poppy! Poppy!" Ought to be your name—you're so red at the top," Joyce commented cruelly, after a long appraising stare at the new member of the family. She felt justified, loving beauty as she did. The girl was uncomely, lathy in shape, with pale freckled skin and eyes red-rimmed till their color was uncertain. Her black frock, coarse and ill-fitting, emphasized the redness of her untidy mop of hair. She had swayed slightly at Joyce's speech, half turned to the open window, her eyes suddenly desperate, then checked herself, and said tremulously: "Please don't mind my looks—no more than I do. Please, also, tell me what I am to do!"

"Anything I say," Joyce flung back flippantly. "Father won't have it that you're to be my maid—but I have the last say—so you hear when I speak—and be quick in minding."

"I shall try," the newcomer said still more tremulously, turning so the hard north light fell full across her meager face. The meagerness struck a faint spark compassionate from the flint of Joyce.

"Why, you look as though you hadn't had enough to eat in a year!" she said. "Go down to the kitchen and tell Liza I say to feed you—well."

Dully the girl, Janet Leeds, obeyed. But she did not eat—she could not. The hot, richly scented kitchen sickened her—its aroma of luxurious plenty brought back her heartache keener than ever. If only some measure of its plenty could have been spared to her dead! She had not minded the pinching for herself—but to see her father turn away from the best she could provide, and know him craving better, had been a knife in her heart.

He had had no real claim on the rich Bells—his first wife, dead this twenty-odd years, had been Major Bell's sister, but the major had not approved the match, so quickly lost touch with the husband she had left. In a year he had married Janet's mother, through pity rather than love, yet had been reasonably happy with her because she gave him a child.

She also had died when Janet was coming to thirteen—after that father and daughter had been everything to each other, until the strength of his love for her had wrought their undoing.

It had led him to risk, at last to lose, the modest savings put by for a rainy day. On the heels of loss had come fatal, lingering illness. How she had kept him from starving in the course of it, was still a marvel to the girl. She had not had the least thought of asking help — certainly not from the Bells, but chance willed it otherwise. The doctor wrote to the major of how she was left, and the gallant fight she had made—so his conscience and a heart naturally good and generous had made him offer her a home.

In a daze she had accepted the offer—being too worn and spent just then for longer struggle. Scant remnants of insurance had paid for the funeral, the cheap, black frock, the fare to Bellwood.

She owed no living soul a penny—and had just $2 in her thin purse. But until she had heard Joyce's speech she had not understood what lay ahead. Servitude was not so galling—it was the crudeness, the the under-bredness of her prospective mistress.

The kitchen looked out on a thrifty garden full of sunlight, with hardy flowers bordering its plots. Janet crept into it — she craved sunshine more than food, after the hours she had spent in Madame Vine's workrooms, where sunlight was not admitted.

It confused color tones in the fine embroideries wrought there. But for her work, she could not have kept the poor home. It had told on her even as had grief and watching. Out in the blessed shining she stood stock still, letting the blaze illumine her glowing hair and accent her piteous pallor and shadowed eyes until she was the perfect symbol of grief. To artist eyes at least; a specially keen pair of them rested upon her with approval from a second-story window of a disused carriage house. Because of their money the Bells dared to be ultra-thrifty; they had rented the old coachman's quarters. The tenant called himself Smith—a name that meant as much as any other to the Bells.

They accepted him as a rather decent vagabond, gave him freely milk, fruit and occasional hot meals, if he chanced to be visible as they sat down to table. Further human touch they had none, though Joyce confessed to her mates a certain curiosity as to pictures, their making and their makers. Commonly Smith was away very early in a rented car that took him to the hills.

Sometimes he was back by noon, other times he straggled in by moonlight. He was affable enough, but evidently had no inclination for real acquaintance. Therefore, Joyce's curiosity was little in the way of being gratified.

Janet stood drinking in life and warmth, her eyes shut tight, her face lifting a little to the shining. She started violently when a voice beside her said: "You are new. Why are you here? And where do you come from?" She all but lost balance—a warm, painty hand steadied her as the voice went on: "I hope you need money badly enough to welcome a chance of making it. Will $100 tempt you to be my model for a week? Not here—among the hills. Of course there'll be somebody with us."

"Ask Joyce—Miss Bell," Janet answered shakenly. "I am her new maid. She has the say."

At that Smith whistled faintly, but smothered it to a smirk. "Call her, please. I want the matter settled right away," he said. When Joyce came it was settled out of hand—of course in the affirmative, since she herself was to chaperon her new maid in this great adventure.

It began next morning at dawn—and fascinated her completely. Smith showed himself a gentleman, also something of a diplomat. By private treaty with Liza there was a liberal lunch basket, a kettle of coffee, also cushions to rest on while one ate. Smith rode in the car alone. Joyce liked to show her skill at the wheel so drove her smart sedan. She was more charmed than ever when upon the second day a second man appeared on the scene—much, much younger and handsomer than Smith, also it appeared much keener in quest of beauty. Smith was all business—he sketched Janet in many poses against many backgrounds, always bareheaded, always in the coarse black frock—that somehow had learned a trick of emphasizing her classic lengths. Hourly it seemed she came to life in the sunshine—ate delicately but with relish. He came to lodge with Smith—room being plenty. Thus Joyce felt there could be nothing out of the way in asking them to dinner or supper at their convenience. She had meanfully to make Janet wait at table—but somehow the regard those outlanders bestowed upon her uncomeliness changed Miss Bell's mind. Besides—it wouldn't have been easy to get around her father—the major had a fine sense of hospitality. Having offered in good faith to care for this stray girl, she should be of the family.

Smith paid on the dot at the end of the week, saying half-pettishly, half-humorously: "I'd try chartering you for six months if you were not growing so confoundedly good-looking." Janet smiled—her first smile—it so transfigured her he fell back a step, amazed. "Why! You'd be magnificent—if only you were happy," he said, turning and all but running away.

Allan Kitredge, a little way off, watched his older friend with rarely compassionate eyes. He knew the shadow upon Smith—the wife to whom he was simply an endowment, a hand-tinted Venus exquisite as a work of art, but not as a human being. All along he had had a fear of what contact with this bleached, wan shade of young womanhood might come to mean. It died the death when half an hour later Smith said to him, holding his hands: "I'm quitting cold, Allan—you stay on — and marry Janet—you two deserve each other. And don't be sorry for me—I've had the job of painting her as her soul came back to life. Sordidly, I rejoice in it—the picture will make me—shall ask twenty thousand for it. Won't Mrs. Smith be pleased? Bring Janet to see it in the spring exhibition—it will make a pleasant incident of your honeymooning."

"It will," said Allan. "So mote it be."

WALL STREET RESISTS ATTACKS BY "SHORTS"

Buying Operations Confined to Small Number of Selected Stocks.

By STUART P. WEST.
Special to The Advertiser.

New York, Aug. 27.—The market today showed the same resistance to occasional professional sallies on the short sides that it had on Saturday, and, in fact, all last week.

On the other hand, interest so far as buying operations were concerned, was confident to a score or so of selected stocks. The advance continued in Davison Chemical, although there was nothing to add to the statement made at the close of last week that the potentialities of the Silica Jel process have not been realized by the public, and that another big contract with an oil company may be announced at any time. Other chemical and fertilizer stocks kept on with their recovery.

Wall Street now sees that it has been altogether too pessimistic about the farmers' position, and the ability of companies doing business with the farmers to collect their bills.

Industrial Alcohol was another strong feature, getting up to the best of the August recovery. It is reported that business both in the chemical and alcohol lines is extraordinarily large; in fact, that it has never been so good, as far as regards volume, in the history of the company. It is very sure that the company this year will considerably improve upon the showing of 1922, when it earned a little over $3 a share.

The rise was checked in the Erie issues and some reaction occurred. The only plausible basis for the recent advance lay in the report that some other road or banking interest was seeking control. Inasmuch as nothing has come of these rumors, traders who had profits in the Erie stocks thought they had better take them.

The selling pressure was lifted from the oil stocks. Mainly this was due to the fact that there was no further selling of Producers and Refiners on the announcement of the reduction from $4 to $2 in the dividend. The inference was that other oil stocks would be found to have adjusted themselves in their market prices to similarly unfavorable action. At all events enough was thought of this theory for speculative interests to do considerable covering in the oils. Barnsdall Corporation stocks had a rather notable jump. The explanation assigned was that some important announcement concerning the Russian contracts in the Baku oil field would soon be made.

MINING IN DOMINION RECOVERS FROM SLUMP

Production of Minerals For Six Months Amounts to $87,152,248.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, Aug. 27.—A report on the mineral production of Canada for the first six months of 1923 just issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics shows that the mining industry has recovered almost entirely from the slump of the last few years. The production of the mineral commodities covered amounts to $87,152,248 in value, as against $60,361,109 for the same period last year, an increase of 44 per cent.

In the metallic section, the outstanding increases were in the production of nickel and copper. The surplus stocks existing at the end of the war seem now to have been absorbed.

NOCTURNAL ROBBERS BREAK INTO AUTO CARS

St. Thomas Police Seek Men Who Entered C. P. R. Train on Siding.

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Aug. 27.—Seven loaded automobile cars were broken into some time last night on the local C. P. R. siding east of the old golf course, and today the county and city police are busy on a clue which it is believed will result in the apprehension of the thieves. The extent of the theft from the cars, six of which contained autos and their accessories, could not be determined by freight officials, as the contents were not checked here.

The cars were re-sealed and shipped through to Toronto, where a complete check will be made. The wholesale nature of the offence is considered most unusual and police are working on the assumption that a number of men worked together to carry ont the thieving.

VENT SPLEEN ON BICYCLE, ST. THOMAS BOYS IN COURT

St. Thomas, Aug. 27.—For venting their dislike of a local citizen on his bicycle, three local youths are summoned to appear before Magistrate Maxwell in police court on charges of wilfully damaging property. One of the lads this morning admitted the offence, but stated that he had not been the only offender, and as a result the charge was also laid against two of his companions.

BRITAIN TO DEFER REPLY TO U. S. NOTE ON LIQUOR

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Aug. 27.—Owing to the direct interest Great Britain's overseas dominions have in the shipment of alcohol to countries in North and South America, it seems likely that the long-deferred reply of the British government to the note of Secretary of State Hughes concerning smuggling of liquor into the United States will be postponed until after the imperial conference in London during October.

LIQUIDATION CONTINUES IN BRAZILIAN TRACTION

Price Forced Down to Year's Low Record at Montreal Exchange.

Reported for The Advertiser by Johnston & Ward.

Montreal, Aug. 27.—Brazilian Traction practically monopolized trading on the local market during the forenoon. A pronounced wave of liquidation set in following the opening of the foreign exchange market, when Brazilian exchange showed a further severe decline. Traders took advantage of the situation to hammer the stock, and the price was forced down until it touched 39⅞, a new low record for the present year.

Outside of Brazilian Traction very little activity was shown. Little attention was given the paper stocks. A few shares of Abitibi changed hands at 65½. Brompton, on a small turnover, registered a decline of ⅞, easing off to 41½.

Montreal Power was fairly steady, selling at 123½. Mackay was unchanged at 112, and Twin City at 69½. On broken lot transactions, British Empire, first preferred, sold at 64, and Can. Cement was firm at 83¾. Canadian Car, preferred, changed hands at 75, a loss of 1¼ points from the previous transaction.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Aug. 27.—Dull trading in the early session of the Toronto Stock Exchange today was featured by the activity in Brazilian, which lost 3¼ points from the closing on Saturday. Opening at 42¾, fairly heavy selling brought the price steadily to 40, but towards noon reaction regained 1¾. It failed to hold the recovery, however, and dropped to 40⅛. The remainder of the trading was uninteresting. Brompton was 1 point lower at 41¾. Cement was unchanged at 83, and Toronto Railway was up ½ at 76. Banks showed up better than usual, but prices were practically unchanged, with the exception of Royal, which was ½ higher at 219.

STANDARD MINING EXCHANGE.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Aug. 27.—Heavy trading marked this morning's session of the Standard Mining Exchange, 261,710 shares changing hands. The market was on the whole fairly steady, and fluctuations were slight. The highest gain recorded was that of Lorraine, in the silvers, being 3c higher at 19c. Teck-Hughes was a point higher at $1.08, and Nipissing 20c at $5.60. Dome Mines declined 25c to $34.50, while Hollinger lost 2c at $11.70. Heavy trading in Hattie brought it down to 11⅝c, for a los sof 2¼c. McIntyre was down to $16.35, 5c lower than on Friday, while New Ray and Lake Shore remained unchanged.

HEAVY TOMATO CROP.

Windsor, Aug. 26.—The tomato crop is excellent, the canning factories absorbing all offerings. The cool weather is responsible for slow ripening, and it is hoped that the frost will hold off a few days more. The Windsor price is 50c for an eleven-quart basket, or 5c a pound. Up to a week or so ago the price was steady at 20c, with a shortage. This was accounted for by the large shipments to Detroit, where the price was higher than in Windsor.

Everything the Farmer Trades In Local Market

During the first few days of last week hay receipts were heavy on the local market, the demand falling off and prices showing a decline of $1 a ton. This morning six loads were delivered and met with a brisk demand at $10 to $12.50 a ton.

Only one load of oats appeared on the square and, being of this season's crop, was sold for $1.15 per cwt.

No wheat was sent in, the price remaining at $1 per bushel for new.

Hog prices this week will be governed by the figures paid in Toronto, and it is believed in some quarters that there will be a slight reduction.

TODAY'S OPENING PRICES.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Wheat started with an irregular range today, the market being almost featureless during the early dealings. The September delivery was relatively easy on some local and commission house selling. Wet weather over most of the wheat crop belt caused a little support and firmness of cable news also brought out some buying. Opening prices were followed by a slight rise all around.

Corn was in fair demand for the deferred months but September was weak on local selling after starting ⅛ to ⅝ down, the corn market underwent a moderate general recovery. Further delay to threshing as a result of wet weather gave firmness to the oats market. After starting ¼ lower to ⅜c up values held close to the initial figures.

Futures opened:
Wheat—Sept, $1.03; Dec. 1.07⅝.
Corn—Sept. 82⅝c; Dec. 67⅝c.
Oats—Sept. 38⅝c; Dec. 40⅜c.

Ottawa and Hull

The distributing centre for the rich Ottawa River Valley, the home of the Canadian Parliament and a centre of the great lumber, pulp and paper industries.

These two cities with a combined population of 132,000 provide an excellent market for power. Within their borders are located 192 industrial plants, numerous government departments and the wholesale and retail establishments supplying the trade of the Ottawa Valley.

The Ottawa and Hull Power Company, Limited has two plants on the Ottawa River immediately adjacent to both cities, having a present combined capacity of 31,000 horse power.

The increasing demand for power has necessitated an additional installation of 9,000 horse power, giving the Company a total installed capacity of 40,000 horse power. In addition the Company controls at Bryson, Que., a power site capable of developing 60,000 horse power when required.

The proximity of the Company's plant to its market overcomes the necessity of lengthy transmission lines allowing of very economical installation and operation, the total of interest and dividend-bearing securities being only $100 per horse power, one of the lowest cost developments in Canada.

Among the more important customers of the Company are the Ottawa Hydro Electric Commission, Ottawa Electric Company, Hull Electric Company, the City of Hull, Canada Cement Company, Limited, British American Nickle Corporation, and E. B. Eddy & Company.

We recommend the purchase of the 7% Preferred stock of the Ottawa & Hull Power Company as an attractive investment at a price to yield over 7% carrying a bonus of Common stock.

UNION SERMON OUTLINES STAND

W. R. McIntosh Says the Churches Will Gain by Fusion.

NO REAL BARRIER

The last of the united church services to be held in the King Street Presbyterian Church between the congregations of the Centennial Methodist and the King Street Presbyterian was marked by an appropriate sermon by the minister, the Rev. W. R. McIntosh, on "Methodism plus Presbyterianism." From his text in Revelations xxxi., 12, he took the words, "The Holy City had twelve gates," as the subject of his address, and proceeded to show that the simile of the Holy City with twelve entrance gates and the United Church of Canada with its numerous openings by which entrance might be had was applicable and relevant.

"The material progress that has been made in the last few years," said Mr. McIntosh, "has been so great that there is a very real danger that we shall have too many material things in life and not enough spiritual things. In the story in the text of the Holy City we find that there were to be three gates on each side, so that all the various immigrants could come in from opposite sides, and this is just what will be the case in the fusion of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches into the United Church of Canada."

The minister then dealt with the contributions that each church would bring to the united church. "If the Methodists would allow us to read the Notes of John Wesley, and if we could let them study the "Institution of John Calvin" I think it would be a great and mutual help. Surely if the new church has the benefit of the long history of religious education that the Presbyterians possess, and also the Methodist theory of personal experience it will stand firmly enough to become the strong right arm of religion in Canada, which is so necessary today to combat the ever-growing power and license of all the material forces."

"On the program of the united church," said Mr. McIntosh, "are two features taken from each of the two churches which show the system that has been used in deciding on a fair and composite program that would comprise the best of both bodies. They are: A quarterly board, the contribution of the Methodists, something that in the Presbyterian Church we have long needed, and a "session" elected by the people, taken from the Presbyterians, which will give the new church an extra spiritual guide and force that the Methodist Church has somewhat lacked."

The question of the selection of the minister and pastors, which is one over which there has been some discussion, was fully explained by the minister. "In the new church," he declared, "it will be left to the choice of each individual congregation to decide whether they will 'call' their minister or not. If they don't wish to do this there is a settlement board which will fill all vacancies and look after all unemployed ministers, so that there will be no vacant pulpits and no 'stickit' ministers."

In a closing appeal to his united congregation for their aid and help in making the United Church a success Mr. McIntosh said: "Please understand that the new church has not been formed to drive people into its ranks. It has been constructed to meet the needs of the small congregations in the new districts of Canada, and of all those congregations which are in economic difficulties. It will not interfere with the strong churches which are going concerns. It is a supreme task that I believe to be in the best interests of God's kingdom, and for which we should be ready to sink our personal desires.'

Picking, curing and shipping a pound of cheap tea costs just as much as the same work on a pound of Red Rose Orange Pekoe Tea. The duty on each is also the same, 7 cents per pound.

That is why the cost of cheap tea has gone up out of all proportion to Red Rose Orange Pekoe. Cheap teas have advanced 50 to 100 per cent. Red Rose Orange Pekoe has advanced only 6 per cent.

Red Rose Orange Pekoe Tea costs less per cup than cheap tea.

Please ask for it by its full name. There are many teas called Orange Pekoe.

CARPENTERS SEE SPRINGBANK JOYS

Knights of Hammer and Saw Make Merry On the Green Sward.

LOST OLIVE BRANCH

That Springbank is the ideal picnic ground of Western Ontario was again proven on Saturday afternoon when nearly 100 carpenters and their families chose it for the annual picnic and held the most successful outing that the wielders of the hammer and saw of this city have experienced. From early afternoon till the final race was run off, mirth and laughter predominated.

A varied program, arranged by an energetic committee, gave both old and young an excellent chance to display their skill as athletes. Members of the committee responsible for the success of the outing are: Robert Martin, W. Hope, James Blackwell, Art Rumball, Bill Wrist, Don McKay, D. Elliott, Walter Ellis, and Sam Shed.

The results of the races were as follows: Boys, 14 and under, W. Gerry, Roy McBeth, Robert Kilbourn. Single ladies' race, May Burch, Eva Aldridge, Kathleen Barber. Single men's race, H. Martin, W. Gerry, R. Foster. Married men's race, C. Baker, J. Blackwell, F. Rumball. Married ladies' race, Mrs. Hending, Mrs. Blackwell, Mrs. Rudland. Three-legged race, Blackwell and Baker, Cook and Durwood, Foster and England. Boot and shoe race, F. Rumball, E. Cook, A. Thompkins. Men's race, 50 years and over, Archie Parks, M. Ellis, J. England. Hop, step and jump, C.Baker, J. Blackwell, F. Heddington. Oldest carpenter on grounds, Mr. Ellis, aged 86, J. Tanton 71. Contractors' race, Mr. A. Rudland, M. Smith, J. England. Ladies' throwing the ball contest, Miss C. Barber, Lillian Bruce, Miss E. Willis. Largest family on the ground, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lethbridge with a family of six.

One amusing incident of this event was when Mr. Bruce, a carpenter on the grounds, sounded the roll for his offspring. One was missing, and Mr. Bruce let ten pounds of choice roast beef pass through his hands, much to his disappointment.

SOON GREW TIRED OF HER HUSBAND

Former Simcoe Girl Not Kidnapped, But Just Left Home.

FOUND IN HOSPITAL

Special to The Advertiser.

Detroit, Aug. 26.—An aversion for her husband, formed a few hours after their marriage, and anger at her father because he would not help her obtain a divorce, are blamed by relatives for the disappearance of Mrs. Sadie Willis, 16. The girl made her whereabouts known Friday night.

She was at Wayne County Hospital, working as a nurse-helper, and returned to Detroit only on condition that husband and father be prevented from seeing her. She went to the home of an aunt, Mrs. Ida Berry, 3319 Sixteenth street, but early Saturday left with two patrolmen, who explained they had been detailed to "investigate her disappearance," the aunt said. The woman did not arrive at police headquarters.

William N. Willis, 2268 Harrison avenue, manager of a paint-shop at 1416 Michigan avenue, is the husband. He declared he is completely mystified by his wife's actions.

Arthur Berry, 2556 Sixteenth street, the father, and William Berry of Simcoe, Ont., an uncle, believe they hold the clue to the mystery, however.

"Sadie was too young to be married," the father said, "I set my foot down and told her she couldn't do it. She defied me. Finally I told her to use her own judgment. They were married June 18.

"My daughter came home the next day. She was crying and said that she had made up her mind she didn't like Willis. She wanted me to get a divorce or have the marriage annulled, but I told her she was 25 hours too late to think of such things. After ten days she left him and came home to live," he said.

The uncle agreed heartily to everything that was said.

"She was simply in love with the idea of being in love," he remarked. "She didn't care for Willis and found it out in a hurry. I don't think her subsequent actions are strange. I think she is doing the most reasonable thing possible."

ROCHESTER SUFFERS $100,000 LOSS BY FIRE

Associated Press Despatch.

Rochester, Aug. 26.—Flames sweeping through the amusement park at Sea Breeze on Irondequoit Bay at 1 o'clock this morning were threatening nearby residences and business buildings despite the efforts of the lakeside fire department and Rochester apparatus. The loss at that time was estimated at 100,000.

The fire started at 12:15 o'clock this morning in the "Old Mill," a riding device, and fanned by a stiff wind spread rapidly to other buildings.

142,170 WAR WIDOWS OF FRANCE RE-MARRY

WANT AD TIPS

INSIDE FACTS ABOUT THE OFFERED BUSINESS

When, offering your business for sale, you write a Want Ad, your cue is this: Use specific, inside facts. If your turnover has been six times in a trade where five or less is the rule, give your rate of turnover. If you have little competition, let the reader know it. Perhaps you are "old established," a very important condition, because it carries with it much public goodwill and the composite habit of many hundreds to trade at your store. Then say how long your business has been established, how large is the loyal following of customers.

You do a heavy volume on a low rent. Say what your sales amounted to in a recent period, together with the favorable terms of your lease.

A clean stock—no stale, shop-worn or obsolete stuff—always makes a business more attractive to buyers. Maybe this is a fact you can put in your Want Ad.

Local business conditions may forecast a rosy future for your business. Then indicate as much in your Want Ad.

Businessmen like to buy "coming" enterprises.

Think a moment, and you will realize just why such facts as the foregoing will make your message effective. What are the things a "business chance" inquirer, coming to you, will want to know about? The very things we have mentioned—your turnover, total volume, terms of lease, competition, condition of stock, future prospects. And the favorable facts on these points he learns will, if he buys, have "put over" the sale.

This obviously is true. What is also true—a principle skilled Want advertisers repeatedly capitalize—is that the facts which will finally persuade an inquirer to buy will, suggested in the Want Ad, bring the greatest number of inquiries. And in doing this, they will find the best buyer in the least time.

When you advertise a business chance, tell the reader favorable "inside facts" about the business.

LOCAL ANGLERS HOLD BIG PICNIC

Western Ont. Fish and Game Protective Assoc. At Pond Mills Saturday.

RUN OFF SPORTS

The annual picnic of the Western Ontario Fish and Game Protective Association was held at Pond Mills on Saturday afternoon. In spite of the somewhat cool and cloudy weather, a good turnout of members and their friends was on hand to enjoy the program of sports.

The earlier part of the afternoon was spent in taking all those who cared to go for a boat ride around the ponds. Several visitors from points near Detroit commented on the beauty of the scenery, and were surprised that a spot that lay so close to the city could be kept without any so-called "man-made improvements" to mar the natural beauties of the ponds.

The sport program started at 4 o'clock and resulted as follows:

Girls' race, 12 to 14—Mary Collyer, Grace Rennie.

Boys' race, 12 to 14—C. Axtell, Norman McLeod, C. Dowling.

Girls' race, 9 to 12—Irene Reeves, Phyllis Collyer, Helen Jackson.

Boys' race, 9 to 12—Albert Gillett, Fred. Purrott, Reg. Thomas.

Girls' race, 6 to 9—Ruth Collyer, Helen Jackson, Lydia Johnson, Bernice Rennie, Edna Johnson.

Handicap race, open—Ruth Collyer, Albert Gillett, Helen Jackson, Phyllis Collyer.

Mystery race—Reg. Thomas.

Single ladies' race—1, T. Copner, half dozen photos, donated by Hines Studio; 2, Margaret Smith, cut glass flower basket, donated by Hobbs Hardware; 3, Nellie Moore, vase, donated by H. R. Bourton.

Married ladies' race—1, Mrs. Johnson, glass dishes, donated by Wm. Smith; 2, Mrs. Sheridan.

Pear race—1, Mrs. Johnson, sterling spoon and fork, donated by Wm. Nutkins; 2, Margaret Smith.

A prize of a toy wheelbarrow, donated by Edward Jury, was awarded to Master Donald McLeod, 13 months old, for being the best looking boy on the grounds.

After the sports were over, supper was served on the long tables, and everyone enjoyed to their fullest capacity the good things that were provided. During the supper hour Mr. Chris Pink related several humorous stories that were heartily applauded. It was shortly after supper that the strains of an old-time song were heard coming from the direction of the dock and all went down to find out who the singer could be. It was Lew Stewart standing in a boat. Mr. Stewart sang several selections and his clear silver voice floating in from the twilight-lit water was a fitting climax to another happy gathering of the members of the association at Pond Mills.

ALERTS DRILL TONIGHT

Tonight, a real drill is in store for the Alerts, who captured Saturday's opening tilt with Windsor. Errors were conspicuously noticeable in several of Alerts runs Saturday, although heavy hitting did its work. On several occasions, however, an error on what should have been the third out, paved the way to additional Alert scores.

The management is taking no chances on Windsor's repeating their misplay tactics, and tonight's drill should prepare the squad to play ball all the way.

If Alerts win tomorrow at Windsor, they will likely meet Guelph in the first game Saturday or next Monday.

WIN EXHIBITION.

A picked team from the C. A. A. A. League defeated the Murray Shoe team at Sunshine Park on Saturday afternoon. As the Murray Shoemen's regular hurlers were unable to be present Curly Brennan was sent in the box, and only allowed two hits in the six innings he pitched.

Kelleher hurled for the winners and kept the hits well scattered, letting the Shoemen down with five hits. In the fifth inning Brennan was injured when sliding into third base, and he had to retire from the game. Fitzmaurice sprained his ankle in the last inning. The game was called in the seventh inning.

The score by innings: R. H. E.

A meeting of all rugby enthusiasts is called for tomorrow night at the chamber of commerce. Prospects are bright for local entry in Ontario competition, and efforts are being made to get the squad out, and general details well in hand real early this year.

In other years late starts have done considerable harm to London's chances. This year, if plans go right, the city will not be bothered by late starts. The rest remains with the players. All interested are asked to make it a point to be present tomorrow night.

GETS NEW PARTNERS.

Associated Press Despatch.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 25.—New sparring partners began arriving today in Jack Dempsey's training camp, assuring the world's champion of a capable staff to whip him into shape for his match with Luis Angel Firpo at the Polo Grounds Sept. 14.

Jack McAuliffe, the Detroit heavyweight, who helped condition Firpo for his fight with Jess Willard, is the latest addition to Dempsey's camp.

"Farmer" Lodge, a Minnesota heavyweight with a reputation for assimilating punishment, is expected in camp early next week.

HERE is a car to set your eyes, your mind, your heart upon. An automobile the folks next door will admire and want. With every luxurious appointment any motorist could wish, yet hundreds of dollars lower in price than anything of its type.

A larger, roomier body with lower, longer lines—its whole appearance clean and sprightly.

Finished in a rich shade of Mandalay maroon with beautifully-grained upholstery to match. Genuine English dust-proof top—smartly tailored.

Luggage rack at rear, equipped with nickel-trimmed maroon trunk.

Five senior cord tires, bumper, sun visor, windshield cleaner, plate glass wings, cowl lights and a back-up light.

The outstanding appearance of the Red Bird is further enhanced by disc wheels and glistening nickel radiator and trimmings.

Triplex Springs, of course, for buoyant riding ease. And—to cap it all—a bigger, more powerful engine.

The Overland Red Bird is more than a wonderful new model, it is a culmination of long years of Overland progress, brilliantly crystallized in one car. When you see this newest exclusive creation, you will marvel at such fineness of detail and completness of equipment at a price so remarkably low.
