DIES TRAE

PATIENCE: a little more and then the Day which huris us 'gainst the Foe in deadly strife. We know the price our Fathers had to pay That bought for us, their sons, a larger life. And if we give our all we give no more than this. Through Sacrifice the path of Duty lies: The Sacrifice we willingly have made And yielded up our homes and all we prize To vindicate the right, and undimmed Fight, whilst aloft the British battle emblem flies. So let the Day come soon; we will not boast Nor shrink against the Foe-hysterical hate. In silence we pursue our hallowed course. Or search the wintry Northern Sea which Fate Hath given us to hold against the foreign host. Visions of gardens fair where once we trod, Whispers of voices now and ever dead, Haunt us too much perchance; we kiss the rod And murmur, as our Destiny draws near, This prayer: "Quit ye like men and leave the rest to God."

AN OLD MAID'S TRIUMPH

THIS day's great Miss Hurst had looked anxiously forward for no less than thirty years. It was just thirty years since time and fate had made her dependent for a living upon her own exertions, without the least hope of aid from love or duty. Till then—that is, up to her twenty-eighth year—she had supported herself, but with frequent hospitality of kindfolk to make the efforts lighter. Now, at eight-and-fifty, she had received from her pupils' parents, with all possible kindness of wording, the anticipatory notice that after next quarter her services would be no more in request. So it had come at last, and fervently she studied the prospect for the courage which enabled her to face it with so much composure. That there was no possibility of another engagement she took for granted; perhaps it was only out of delicate consideration that these good friends had kept her so long. She did not feel very old; was not conscious of mental decay; but probably others had observed some signs of it. At her own age as this which could expect to be retained as a governess to young people? Doubtless it would be an injustice to her pupils. Moreover, she was ready for the change; again, Heaven be thanked!

"What will the poor old thing do?" asked Mrs. Fletcher, her husband's 'Impossible, I fear, that she can have saved anything.' "Don't see how the deuce she can have done," Mr. Fletcher replied. "There are—Institutions, I believe. I wish we could do something; but you know the state of things. Of course, a rather larger cheque—say double the quarter's salary; but I'm afraid that's all I can pretend to do."

However, Miss Hurst had found it possible to save, though what the fact signified was known only to herself. To-night she made up her account with life, as it stood this. At eight-and-twenty she had owned a sum of nearly thirty pounds, which ever since had remained intact. For the thirty years that followed her average earnings had been twenty-nine pounds per annum, and out of this she had put aside what amounted to fifteen pounds a year—sometimes more, sometimes less. Very seldom, indeed, had she suffered from ill-health; only once had she spent six months unemployed. Accumulation of petty interest—the Bank and Government security were all she had ever dared to confide in—by this time made a sensible increment. With tremulous calculation she grasped the joyous certainty that a life of independence was assured to her. It must be by purchase of an annuity. She had never considered any one on her financial affairs; common sense, and a strictly retiring habit, had guided her safely thus far. For the last and all-important pecuniary transaction she felt thoroughly prepared, so long as she reflected upon it, and with such sedulous exactitude.

Beauty was never hers, nor much natural grace; nowadays she looked a very homely, but a very nice old lady, with something of austerity in her countenance which imposed respect. She spoke with a gentle firmness, smiling only when there was occasion for it. In education she knew herself much behind the teachers of to-day; her mental powers were not more than ordinary; but Nature had given her that spirit of refinement which is not otherwise to be acquired. Generally able to live the regard of well-conditioned children, she had always been looked upon as an excellent disciplinarian, which accounted in large measure for her professional success.

Her success! Never had she received the wages of a minding cook; yet the importance of her trust through life was such as cannot be exaggerated, and the duties laid upon her had been discharged with a competence, a conscientiousness, which no money could repay. Her success! At the age of fifty-eight she tremulously calculated her hope of being able to live out the rest of her life with not less than twenty shillings a week.

And the life history which explained this great achievement. Miss Hurst could not have written it; she possessed neither the faculty nor the self-esteem needed for such a work; but assuredly it deserved to be written. Reflect upon the simple assertion that from her twenty-eighth to her fifty-eighth year this woman had never unavailingly spent one shilling-piece. She with the instincts and desires of the educated class, had never allowed herself one single indulgence which cost more than a copper or so. Ah! the story of those holiday times which she was obliged to spend at her own cost, of the brief seasons when she was out of employment! Being a woman, she, of course, found it easier to practise this excessive parsimony than any man would have done; yet she was not, like so many women, naturally parsimonious. She longed for the delight of travel, she often hungered for books which a very slight outlay would have procured her; she reproached herself for limiting her charity to a mite at church collections. Mean lodgings were horrible

SENTENCES IN AMERICAN PASSPORT CASE

New York, March 10.—A representative of the German government in this country, who on account of his position is immune from arrest, was described in the federal court here today as the "arch conspirator" in the plot to obtain a false American passport for Richard P. Stegler, a German naval reservist. The accusation was made by Charles H. Griffiths, Stegler's counsel, in asking for a light sentence for his client, after he had pleaded guilty. Stegler got sixty days in jail. His two fellow conspirators, Richard Madden and Gustave Cook, who were yesterday convicted by a jury, largely on Stegler's testimony, were sentenced to six months each. Judge Cushman is sentencing Stegler said:

"Since at this time there is a large foreign-born population which still apparently shows allegiance to a foreign government, something should be done to discourage acts of this kind. It would not do to send him out from here so free, and let him pose as a hero."

ORONOCO MAN'S 107TH BIRTHDAY

Mr. Timothy Sullivan, of Oronoco, hale and hearty, celebrated his 107th birthday on Tuesday last, and was the recipient of congratulations from his many friends and acquaintances throughout Sunbury County. Mr. Sullivan was born in Ireland, March 16, 1808, and came to America when a young boy. He took up ship-building at St. John for some time, and then removed to Oronoco, where he has since resided. He has never had a doctor attend him in his life and has only had one picture of himself taken, and that a small one. Up to a year ago he was able to saw wood, and even now can do little odd jobs about the house to show that he has not outlived his usefulness. During the past year or so he has lived very quietly, his son, Timothy Sullivan, and his daughter, Miss Bessie Sullivan, attending to all the farm work.

He has eight children, 50 grandchildren and 44 great-grandchildren living now in the different cities of Maine and New Brunswick. Miss Evelyn Sullivan, of Brewer, Me., is the oldest grandchild. Mr. Sullivan's eight children living are: Mrs. Henry W. Casey, of East Millinocket, Me.; Mrs. Annie Durgan, of Portland, Me.; Miss Bessie and Timothy Sullivan, of Oronoco, N. B.; Mrs. Patrick Burns, John Sullivan, Florence Sullivan and Daniel Sullivan, of Lewiston, Me.; Mrs. Calvin Knudsen, Jr., Mrs. William Cummings and Miss Ida Sullivan, of Bangor, Me.; and Mrs. John McNeil, of East Millinocket, Me., are grandchildren.

A BILLION WHEAT DEFICIT

According to reliable statistics there are tied up at the present time about two billion bushels of wheat, the production of the countries at war. This is in the vicinity of half the world's total production of wheat. A recognized authority argues that granting that the warring nations produce a one-half crop in the coming year a deficit of one billion bushels will still be shown. The three countries upon which the filling of this deficit upon a billion bushels will rest are Canada, the United States and Argentina. The combined output of these three countries is only 1,240,000,000 bushels, their surplus surplus would, of course, be much less, so it can easily be seen that the question is not one to be easily solved, and it behooves Canada to increase her production as much as she possibly can; for when the war is over and trade begins to re-establish itself and the nations undergo a process of rehabilitation, the demand for all breadstuffs must be enormous.

CARRANZA AND VILLA'S TROOPS FIGHTING

Del Rio, Texas, March 18.—Reports reached here today that a battle between Villa and Carranza's troops has been in progress since yesterday afternoon about sixteen miles south of Del Rio, in Mexico. A body of 1,500 Carranza troops is said to have assembled at Margarita yesterday and was attacked by an equal or greater Villa force coming north from Alamo. Villa forces are reported to have field pieces and rapid fire guns, and it is said they are forcing the Carranza troops towards Las Vacas, opposite Del Rio. Firing could be heard from the Rio Grande near here this morning.

LANGUAGES OF THE EMPIRE

Mr. D. D. McKENZIE (North Cape Breton): While I was listening to the very eloquent address of the hon. member for Lislet (Mr. Paquet) thoughts were running through my mind of the different nationalities within the bounds of this magnificent Empire to which we belong. My hon. friend, in addressing the House, used the following sentences of his native tongue as a descendant of those whose names were on the beautiful plains and sunny hills of France, I who follow him as a descendant of those whose names were on the rocky hills and glens of Scotland. I find that my hon. friend as a descendant of those who dwell in foreign countries is free to arise in this such a work; but assuredly it deserved to be written. Reflect upon the simple assertion that from her twenty-eighth to her fifty-eighth year this woman had never unavailingly spent one shilling-piece. She with the instincts and desires of the educated class, had never allowed herself one single indulgence which cost more than a copper or so. Ah! the story of those holiday times which she was obliged to spend at her own cost, of the brief seasons when she was out of employment! Being a woman, she, of course, found it easier to practise this excessive parsimony than any man would have done; yet she was not, like so many women, naturally parsimonious. She longed for the delight of travel, she often hungered for books which a very slight outlay would have procured her; she reproached herself for limiting her charity to a mite at church collections. ART AND NATURAL HISTORY

Prof. L. W. Bailey, L. D., formerly of the University of New Brunswick, was the speaker at the monthly meeting of the Natural History Society last evening and he talked interestingly on the Infancy and Natural History of Art. In beginning he stated that art and natural history were very closely related, very dependent upon each other and in each case nature and its varied manifestations constituted the subject of study. "All true art represents, or tries to represent nature," declared the venerable professor. He was on to tell of the earliest form of art in different countries and dealt with the pre-historic forms on the North American continent. Speaking of the artist's tendency to disregard details and express things by suggestion, Prof. Bailey had some interesting things to say of the new school of art. "When for example we find a picture called 'The Nude Descending the Stairs,' then fail to find anything which suggests either the Nude or the Stairs, it certainly seems to call a halt. It may be very high

A SAILOR'S SONG

The shores are blind, the seas are mined
The wild sou-wester's blow;
And our posts on stormy coasts
We cruise and seek the foe.
Behind their forts in sheltered ports
Secure their ships may be;
But the sea was made for sailor men.
And sailors for the sea!
Through fields they sowed we cleared
A road,
In weather they don't feel:
Long walk we keep while they can sleep
Behind the beams of Kiel.
They lock us out, and wait in doubt
For orders from Berlin;
But on the sea we hold the keys,
The keys that lock them in.
For blows they deal beneath the belt,
For smites their whippings laid,
For things like these that spoil our seas
We're out until we're paid.
In safety they like captives stay,
In danger we go free.
For the sea was made for sailor men,
And sailors keep the sea!

COL. FARQUHAR, COMMANDER OF THE PRINCESS PATRICIAS, KILLED IN ACTION

Ottawa, March 21.—Colonel Francis Douglas Farquhar, D. S. C., commander of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, and late military secretary to His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, Governor General of Canada, has been killed in action at the front. A cable to the chief of staff of the Canadian Militia Department conveyed the news late to-night. The late Col. Farquhar came to Ottawa in October, 1913, as military secretary to His Royal Highness, and by his charming courtesy made himself a popular figure in official and social circles in the capital. He was a member of the organization of the Princess Patricia's was chosen commander, the appointment proving a most popular one. He had a most distinguished career as a soldier and was the distinguished service order in the South African campaign while serving with his regiment, the Coldstream Guards. He married in 1903, Lady Evelyn Hely-Hutchinson, daughter of the Earl of Donoughmore. Lady Farquhar is at present in London. Col. Farquhar's death makes the third officer connected with Government House to fall in the present war, the others being Captain Rivers-Bulkeley, Scots Guards, former controller of the Household, and Captain Newton, former A. I. C., who was the first officer of the Princess Patricia's to meet death in action. The message from the war office reads: "Colonel Farquhar, Princess Patricia's dead. Master of same regiment dead. Three killed, twenty wounded."

CAPTAIN OF "MONGOLIAN" KILLED AT HALIFAX

Halifax, N. S., March 17.—J. W. Hatherly, commander of the Allan Line Mongolian, was instantly killed when Mr. Turnbull, foreman at the dry dock narrowly escaped this morning. Captain Hatherly was in the fore of the ship which was undergoing repairs. Foreman Turnbull was standing close to him. The wire hoist was being raised from the hold when a strong back fell. It struck the captain on the head and he died twenty minutes later. He was struck on the back of the head and a strong back also grazed the shoulder and leg of Foreman Turnbull. Captain Hatherly was one of the most popular and oldest commanders running to this port in the service of the Allan Line. He was with the service for fifteen years. His wife and three children reside in Glasgow. He was born in Portsmouth and was forty-eight years of age.

CAMPAIN FOR FISH EATING

A. H. Brittain, general manager of Maritime Fish Corporations, Ltd., Montreal, was in the city yesterday for conference with maritime agents of his concern, and is at the Royal. Mr. Brittain told 'Telegraph' reporter last evening that fish generally was very plentiful on the Canadian market, and fairly cheap. It appears that the Canadian fishermen were producing more than the people could take care of, and he thought the government might very well undertake a campaign of education for the eating of fish along the same lines as the famous campaign which led to the cleaning up of the bumper alcohol crop last fall.

CANADIAN DIES RATHER THAN SURRENDER

Paris, March 20.—Jules Cassagne, of the Twenty-Third Infantry, a Canadian volunteer, is mentioned in the orders of the day. He made a rush upon a German trench and tried to break in the protecting roof. His bayonet and rifle were broken, but he refused to surrender, and was killed on the spot.

GANG OF ALLEGED JAPANESE FORGERS ON TRIAL

The trial has been opened in the Tokio Chiba Saibansho of sixty-eight painters and curio dealers, sculptors, etc., on charges of forgery of seals, fraud, and embezzlement. Taking advantage of the vogue of picture-collecting it is alleged the gang forged works which they attributed to old and modern famous painters and palmed them off on people who collected pictures for $500 to $1,000 each. Among the defendants is a woman who has exceptional artistic ability, especially in imitating "Buncho."—North China Herald, Feb. 18.

THE CASE OF WERNER HORN

Joseph P. O'Connell, attorney for Lieut. Werner Horn, has asked Dean Walt to act as interpreter for his client at the hearing before the United States Commission on Thursday morning. Dean Walt has consented to do this free of charge as it is said that the resources of Lieutenant Horn are very limited and that expenses have to be held down, as far as is compatible with justice to Mr. O'Connell's client.—Bangor Commercial, Mar. 16.

DEATH OF TWO GALLANT OFFICERS

Second Lieutenant Philip Maurice Ramsay Anderson, Royal Irish Regiment, who has died of wounds received in action on February 14, was the eldest son of Mr. R. A. Anderson, Sir Horace Plunkett's chief assistant in the work of the Irish Agricultural Organization Society. Lieutenant Anderson's younger brother, Second Lieutenant Alan Anderson, Royal Irish Regiment, was killed at Le Pelley at the beginning of December. His father Philip was immediately gazetted to the vacancy in the battalion. The two brothers were educated at Bedford, and were public school boxing champions. Their only surviving brother is now with the South Irish Horse.—The Times, London, Feb. 27.

SOLDIERS MOURNED AS DEAD

The parents of Gunner W. Towers, R. F. A., received an intimation from the War Office that their son's death early in November, and a letter dated November 1 from his commanding officer confirming the news, and giving such specific details that he was "doing gun laying" when killed. The date of his death was given as August 26 at Le Cateau. Towers was, however, not killed; he reached England last week as one of the exchanged prisoners of war. He had been badly wounded—his right leg was practically shattered and was afterwards amputated, his left leg had 16 shrapnel wounds, both arms were injured, and there were other wounds in the chest and face.

PROGRESS OF THE WAR

[March 16 to March 22]
In the week under review almost every phase of the tragedy of war has been presented in a most vivid form.

The western theatre of the hostilities on land the Allies have retained the ground gained in the previous week, and have advanced slightly at one or two points in northern France and western Flanders.

The House did not sit on Saturday; but met on Monday evening from 8.30 to 11. The most interesting feature of this sitting was the speech of Mr. J. K. Pinder, M. L. A. for York Co., who endeavored to justify himself in regard to railway matters that are now notorious.

A ST. ANDREWS MAN HEARD FROM

It will be of interest to Odd Fellows to learn of an unusual occurrence where the Initiatory and first degrees were conferred in New Brunswick and the second and third degrees in the United States.

Brother Colin Hewitt, of St. Andrews by initiation by Watts Lodge No. 95, of McAdam, N. B., received the first degree from St. Stephen Lodge. A serious accident prevented his going further at that time, and while convalescing he paid a visit to Past Grand Fred M. Graham, of Melrose, Mass., where arrangements were made to confer the remaining degrees. Brother Hewitt received the second degree from Melrose Lodge No. 157, of Melrose, Mass. and the third degree from Scotty Lodge No. 208, of Reading, Mass. Brother Hewitt thus holds the distinction of having received four degrees from four different lodges in two countries.

Brother Graham is an Odd Fellow of 28 years standing, and being an old St. Andrews boy is well known to many Brothers in New Brunswick. As Degree Master of Melrose Lodge he produces a degree that is second to none in the State, and it was his privilege to confer the degree not only upon Brother Hewitt who is his relative, but also upon two other Canadians the same evening, Brother W. R. Mills of Fredericton, N. B., and Brother S. C. Hiltz, Kings Co., N. S.

Brother Graham bears an enviable record in Odd Fellowship and is District Deputy Grand Master over lodges in Boston, Cambridge, Woburn and Reading, Mass.

HOW TO FILL UP A LEISURE HOUR (Punch) "Portsmouth, 20 Feb., '15. Dear Mother,—I was married yesterday. The weather is a bit too stormy for mine sweeping. Your affectionate son Jim."

MR. EDWARD MANNING The death took place on March 18 of Mrs. Georgiana Wilson, at the residence of Miss Armstrong, 73 Sewell street St. John. The deceased, who was in the 87th year of her age, was a native of that city. Her grandfather, Mr. James White, was a Loyalist, having gone to St. John with Hazen and Simonds in 1762, and was fast approaching manhood when the Loyalists arrived. He saw the foundations of the city laid, from the felling of the first tree. Mrs. Wilson had, therefore, naturally an intense love for the city of her forefathers, and her own birthplace and home for eighty-seven years. Her husband, Mr. Thomas Burton, Wilson, of Chamcook, brother of the late Mrs. Dr. William Bayart, predeceased her. She had seven children, three of whom survive. They are Mr. John Wilson, of Dartmouth, N. S., Mrs. Henry D. Likely and Mrs. A. C. Jardine, both of St. John.

MR. EDWARD MANNING The death took place on March 18, at his home in Digby of Mr. Edward Manning, M. A., one of the best known men in the educational world of the Maritimes. Mr. Manning had resided in Digby for several years past and for some time had been in very poor health. Older generation of school boys will remember him and entertain for him the kindest thoughts, for he was a good teacher, a kind and patient instructor and a genial companion.

The deceased was born in Ipswich, England, and was 82 years of age. In 1861 he married Miss Sarah, daughter of the late Mr. Hiram Betts, of St. John. He is survived by five children, Miss Sarah, of Digby, N. S.; Dr. James Manning, of St. John; Mrs. Grace, wife of Mr. George G. Hare, C. E., with the D. A. Railway at Digby; Edward B., of New York, and Charles M., at the head office of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Toronto.

Mr. Manning began teaching in the old Grammar School, St. John, in 1858, when Dr. Patterson was the principal. Dr. Hutchinson joined the staff at the same time. In 1872, when the School Act came into force, the teachers were Dr. Carter and Messrs. Manning and Wilkins. Mr. Manning resigned from the Grammar School after 18 years' service, in 1876, to accept the head mastership of the Female Academy at Charlottetown, P. E. Island. Afterwards he was superintendent of education in P. E. Island under Sir Louis Davies. In 1881 he was appointed secretary of the Board of School Trustees, St. John, and resigned in December, 1899. Mr. A. Gordon Leavitt succeeded Mr. Manning as secretary of the board. The deceased was the author of Manning's Speller, an excellent publication, which commended itself to many educators.

The late Mr. Manning discharged the various duties entrusted to his care with zeal and industry. Many older residents, former pupils, retain pleasant recollections of his kindly ways. As secretary to the School Board he won the esteem and respect of both teachers and trustees.
