"Mr. Andrews." said, a clerk, as he threw of the door of the inner office one afternoon;

"Mr. Jesse Andrews."

"Good day, Ms. Andrews." was my prompt and civil greeting; "Lhave good news for you. Take a chair."

The good humored, rather intelligent, and somewhat clouded countenance of the new-comer brightened up at these words. "News from my consist. Archibald 2" he naked, as he seated him self.

self.

"Yes. He laments your late failure, and commiscrates the changed position and prospects of your wife and boy, little Archibald, his godon. You he has not much compassion for, inasmuch as he attributes your misfortunes entirely to mismanagement, and the want of common prudence."

"Candid, certainly," grambled out Mr. Jesse Andrews; "but an odd sort of good news!"

"His deeds are kinder than his words. He will allow, till Archibald attains his majority—Let me see: how old is that boy of yours now?"

"Ten. He was two years old when his godfather went to India."

"Ten. He was two years old when his goufather went to India."

"Well, then, you will receive two hundred pounds per annum, payable half-yearly, in advance, for the next ten years—this is, of course, if your son lives—in order to enable you to bring him up, and educate him properly. After that period has elapsed, your cousin intimates that he will place the young man advantageously; and, I do not doubt, will do something for you, should you not by that time have conquered a fair position for yourself."

tion for yourself."

"Is that all ?" said Mr. Andrews.

"All! Why, what did you expect ?"

"Two or three thousand pounds to set me affoat again. I know of a safe speculation, that, with, say three thousand pounds capital, would realize a handsome fortune in no time."

Mr. Jesse Andrews, I may observe, was one of that nur erous class of persons who are always on the threshold of realizing millions—the only and constant obstacle being the want of a sufficient constant obstacle being the want of a capital."

I condoled with him upon his disappointment; but as words, however civil, avail little in the way of "capital," Mr. Jesse Andrews, having pockeded the first half-yearly instalment of the annuity, made his exit in by no means a gracious or grateful frame of mind.

made his exit in by no means a gracious or grateful frame of mit.d.

Two other half-yearly payments were duly paid him. When he handed me the receipt on the last occasion, he said, in a sort of off-hand, careless way, "I suppose if Archy were to die, these payments would cease.

"Perhaps not," I replied unthinkingly. "At all events, not, I should say, till you and your wife were in some way provided for. But your son is not ill," I added.

"No, no; not at present," replied Andrews, coloring, and with a contusion of manner that sur prised me not a little. It flashed across my mind that the boy was dead, and that Andrews, in order not to risk the withdrawal or suspension of the annuity, had concealed the fact from us.

"Let me see," I reaumed: "we have your present address.—Norton Folgate, I think."

"Yes, certainly you have."

"I shall very likely call in a day or two to see Mrs. Andrews and your son."

I must first see Dr. Parkinson, "I onswered, "and convince myself that there is no legit mater reason for repudiating the policy."

"Certainly, certainly," he replied.

"I will write to you to-morrow," I said, rising to terminate the conference, "after I have seen Dr. Parkinson, and state whether we will or not like proceedings against the insurance company to terminate the conference, "atter I nave seen Dr. Parkinson, and state whether we will or not nike proceedings against the insurance company on your behalt."

He thanked me, and hui ried off.

Dr. Parkinson confirmed Mr. Jesse Ardin wa in every particular. He had attended the boy, a fine-light-haire lad of eleven or twelve years of age, from not long after his setzure till his death. He suffered dreadfully, and died immistakably of Aristic cholers, and of nothing else: of which same disease a servint and female todger in the same house had died just previously. "It is of course," Dr. Parkinson remarked in conclusion," as unfortunate for the company as it is strangely lucky for Andrews; but there is no valid reason for refusing payment."

Upon this representation we wrote the next day to the assurance people, threatening proceedings on behalf of Mr. Jesse Andrews.

Early on the morrow one of the managing directors called on us, to state the reason which in luced the company to besitate at recognizing the plaintiff's claim. In addition to the doubt suggested by the brief time which had elayed from the date of the policy to the death of the child, there were several other slight-circumstances of corroborative suspicion. The chief of these was, that it neighbor had declared he heard the tother indulging in observations mirth from the date of the policy to the death of the child, there were several other slight circumstances of corroborative suspicion. The chief of these was, that it neighbor had declared behaved the father indulgir; in obstrepulous mirth in a room adjoining that in which the corpse lay only about two hours after his son and expired. This unseemly, seandalous hilarity of her husband the wife appeared to faintly remonstrate against. The directors had consequently resolved son obstante Dr. Parkinson's declaration, who might, they argued, have been deceived, to have the body exhumed in order to a post-mortem examination as to the true cause of death, if the parents voluntarily agreed to this course, a judicial application to enforce it would be unnecessary, and all doubts on the matter could be quietly set at rest. I thought the proposal under the circumstances, reasonable, and called on Mr. and Mrs. Andrews, was, I thought, a good deal startled—shocked rather—a natural emotion perhaps.

"Who—who," he said after a few moments silent reflection—"who is to conduct this painful, sevolting inquiry. 197

"Who—who," he said after a few manests silent reflection—" who is to conduct this painful, revolting inquiry.?"

"Dr. Parkinson will be present, with Mr. Humphrey the surgeon, and Dr. Curtis the newly-appointed physician to the assurance office, in place of Dr. Morgan, who died, as you are aware, a short time since of cholers."

"True. Ah, well, theo," he answered almost with sharrity, "is it it sa they wish. Dr. Farkinson will see full play."

The examination was effected, and the result was a confirmation, beyond doubt as quithle, that death, as Dr. Parkinson had declared, had been solely occasioned by cholers. The assurance company still hesitated; but as this conduct could now be looked upon as perverse obstinacy, we served them with a writ at once. They gave in pand the môney was banded over to. Mr. Assa Andrews, whose joy at his sudden riches did not, I was forced to christ, appear to be in the slightest degree damped by any feeling of andress for these occurrences, and to request further instructions of these occurrences, and to request further instructions.

When the my of payment arrived the Cranell set as before, and the Majay Chief again made his appearance; but this time for came allone, his brother being absent on a pratical expedition. He had, in consequence of his violent affection for the girl, made every ettempt to raise the attipulated sum, but could not succeed. He brought all that he could collect, but it fell far short of the ann. which had been agreed upon, and he requested time to procure the remainder. The Council consolied a while, and these stipulated that the Chief, not having brought the sum agreed upon, should heave fin hat e.e. a linday off the rest should be facthcoming. The kis that the Chief wore was itself of great value, very handsomely armamented with precious stones. It had belonged to his ancestors, and was, as they always was highly prized; and they knew that it would, if possible, he reclaimed. The Chief, was most reflectant to part with it; but his love for his mistress overcame his actuples, and also his professes, for it left him unarmed amidst his impleable enemies. He pulled get his lare and laid it on the table upon the money, and was busy disengaging the sheath to add to it, when by a signal from the Rajah he was seized from behind. He started up, but it was too late: his trusty weapon, which had so often stood by him in his need, were no longer within his reach, and he was no a moment transfired with a dozen blooker, falling a victim to his love of the girl and the treachery of his foca.—Marryut's Borneo.

THE COURTER

MONTH COVEMBER 18, 1860.

Our attention has been drawn to a very absurd etter which appeared in the New York Herald of few days past, over the signature " Marcus," purporting to be dated from London, but which we strongly suspect to have been fabricated a little nearer the office of the journal in which it appearad. The writer of this letter, whoever he be seems to think that if a thorough-going Republiran journal was published in London, the whole dustrial population would become Republicare, and have established a Republic in hinety days! Then follows this most exquisitely ridiculous paragraph: -" If the brewers had killed Haynau, and a prosecution had been instituted by the Goeriment for the murder, the taste of blood, which the people have not yet had, would have, in all human probability, produced a total revolution !" Dues not this very imaginative gentleman know that, on the famous 10th of April, these very brewers who buffeted the woman-flogging parbarian, Haynau, were the first to offer their services to the Government, and come forward to be sworn in as special Constables, in case the deuded simpletons, called Chartists, had proceeded on that day to any excesses? Why, there was one body of special Constables, on that day, consisting entirely of coal-heavers, numbering some afteen hundred men !

But this, absurd as it is, is nothing to what ollows :- Mr. " Marcus" thinks that a " crisis is impending over the British oligarchy, next year, at the great Exposition." He pictures to himself the largest treasure of the world placed at the mercy of the covetous crowds who will throng from the four Continents into London, and add to the mighty pressure of the poor and discontented of its population; he thinks that the peril will be imminent, particularly at thousands of Americans will be in London, who, he intimates, may take the opportunity to advise the poor and discontented to change their condition ! He also says that the proprietors of property in London whose gold and silver, and other enormous wealth, there s no relative public force to protect, are execrating Prince Albert in their hearts for getting ap such a political crisis, masmuch as there will be a specified crisis, inasmuch as there will be a specified influx of three hundred thousandstrangers, against whom no City in the world can standt against the world can stand against the world can standt against the world can standt against the Austrian world against the world can standt against the world can stand against the sudden influx of three hundred thousand strangers,

The riotous destruction of property still con tinues in those parts of the country that are opuals have been arrested on charges of incendiarism, and one man has been sentenced to ten days' imprisonment, for refusing to give evidence, and for insolent behaviour to the Magistrates. A school-house at St. Francis, and another ing to Mr. Fourquin, had been attacked, but to tunately the preparations to set them on fire did not succeed.

SEDUCTION.-At the recent Assizes in the Home District the Jury gave a verdict of £700 damages against Lieutenant Monroe of the Royal Canadian Rifles, for seducing the daughter of Captain Hamilton, of the same Regiment; the affair took place on St. Helen's Island, and from the evidence it uppears that the fellow, Monroe, must have been a heartless scoundred. We hope he will be kicked out of the Army.

The three or four journals that still adhere to the Ministry are loudly calling on their support to the ministry are loudly calling on their support organize—organize—is the cry. A pretty suporganize—organize—graphon that the Ministerial party is in a shaky state; meanwhile several of the Ministers are feeling the pulses of their constituents." Mr. Hineks is in Oxford, and Mr. Price in his Riding Hincks is in Oxford, and Mr. Price in his of the County of York. The former gentleman will be opposed by Mr. Vansiturt, and Mr. Price by Mr. Gamble and Mr. Jackes, one representing the Liberal Connecratives, and the other the "Clear Grits." Mr. W. L. Mackenzie will oppose Mr. Baldwin, and it is even said that the latter gentleman will come forward for being afraid to stand for his own County.

we believe that it is now conceded on all hands that the burnel of dead hadies, in such situations that CANADIAN AFFAIRS. the minimum artising from their decomposition ingle with the air to be breathed by the living. OUR OWN CORRESPO When the Kent election will take place, is at has a most prejudical effect on the public health. We hope that as soon as the new Cemetery comes into operation, the Old English Burying-Ground when the Kent election will take place, is at present a matter of perfect uncertainty. Cameron's resignation is not yet in the hands of the Government, and it is not likely to pass from the hands of his old Election Committee, in whose custody it is, till they have agreed upon some candidate. The delay will, of course, give the Government time to do all that lies in their power to the course, the state of the course, the state of the course of the course, the state of the course of the c to influence the election, should a contest be got up. There will probably be no contest; but that is a matter yet underided. No mere Government nominee could be elected; nor is it at all likely that a candidate of the old Tory School could be elected, for two reasons. First, Cameron had a larger majority at the last election than any other nember; and, secondly, whatever change has taken place in the political sentiments of the consituency, is Democratic in its tendency. Some urnals have fallen into the error of stating that Mr. Cameron's resignation is at once a proof, and a consequence, of what they style the failure of the Clear Grit movement. The notion is altogether mistaken.

Of b.r. Hincks' reception in Oxford, I have been able to obtain very little reliable informs tion. One thing, however, is certain: his recep-tion has not been boasted in quarters to which it is safe to look for systematic fulfing on every possible occasion; and the natural conclusion is that there was not even a sufficiency of factitious icat to produce an echo.

The Americans have lately made an alteration in the practical operation of their bonding system.

Which, while it is not at all acceptable to Upper Canada importers, can scarcely fail to divert a portion of our import trade from the New York to see the St. Lawrence route. Formerly, importers of the British Provinces, were permitted to enter them at the Atlantic ports under bond, paying only one per cent. to reimburse the United States Customs Department the expense incured by the bonding system. Under the new regulation, the duty must be paid at,the Atlantic port: to be reduty must be paid at,the Atlantic port: to be reduty must be paid at,the Atlantic port: to be result finded on proof of transhipment to the British Provinces; and three per cent. on the duty is retained to cover the expense of the bonding system. When the Wing Administration of General Taylor came in, the Secretary recommended some such modification as this of the bonding system. To what extent these were gulations will influence to the course of Upper Canada finde, remains to be seen. It is possible that the advantages of the earlier navigation will influence to such importance as to outweigh the disadvantages of the importance as to outweigh The Americans have lately made an alteration in the practical operation of their honding eyetem, other times, the effect may be different. Any how, it seems a foolish sort of a movement for the Americans. It is difficult to see what object they expect to achieve by it. On Tuesday, the Court of Queen's Bench wa occupied with a case of seduction which excited considerable interest, from the respectability of the parties. The parties to the suit were both Officers in the Royal Canadian Rifles-Hamilton vs. Munro. The defendant had seduced plaintiff's daughter under promise of marriage, and the

The trial of Lay, for house-breaking, is to come on to-day. It excites a great deal of interest, and it is doubtful if there be sufficient evidence to convict him. No one, however, has a moral doub of his guilt; and it is quite possible that the strength of public prejudice may make up what is deficient in the thair of evidence. The Attorey-General and Solicitor-General have been trying to get Talbet, Lay's accomplice, to turn Queen's evidence, but it is doubtful if they have P. S.—I observe that Mr. Hincks has returned Dixmont, July 11, 1843.

Messra, Curtis & Perkins,—For two years past I have been entirely prostrated with the Rheumatism; both of my knees were swelled to twice their original size—a large barch came out on my breat bone, appearing like a part of the bone thrown out. Another bone was thrown out of my wrost. In short, I endaged the most excrucialing pains for hearly thee years, I obtained the best medical attendance the country afforded, and tried a great number of medicines and prescriptions, without the least number of medicines and prescriptions, without the least benefit or alleviation, when I had the good fortune to precure a bottle of Cramp and Pain Killer, prepared by Messes. Curtis & Perkins, of Banger. Soon after taking at I found I could get some rest ungits, and the pain because less violent. I have outnined to take it and apply it externally, until I have used eight bottles. I took nuch larger quantities than was recommended.—The swelling has all gone down, both in my limbs and breast, and I am entirely releived from pain. I have been able to do a good day's work at any time for the last three mouths, for a man of my age. No description of my case can convey the vast amount of benebit I have received from this article. I believe it is the best article in the world for Rheumatism. I have also used if for cholic and pain in the stom, ch, and always found immediate relief. PLANTAGENEX WATER.

Am one the objects of attraction at the late Industrial Fair, the celebrated Plantagenet Water lield a conspicuous position, and its exhibition was attended, we learn, with the most fivorable results. The demand at the Depot for this health-inspiring draught was so argent that it was with great difficulty atmagers and visitors to the city could be supplied. The celebrity of these Mineial Springs has been so thoroughly and substactorily established that testimony of the most calculate elaracter seems daily accumulating. The highly respectable certificates given in our paper of to-day will, if possible, increase their reputation, and sald its their value throughout the Province. The testimoty of the uncideal genits men is certainly highly favorable to the christer and quality of these Springs—Drs. Nelson and Gibb placing them above all other Mineral waters on this Continent:—

"I believe F was one of the first Practitioners of this city who recomme ded the use of the Plantagenet Spring Water, and succe that time k have prescribed it to a very a genumber of my patients with invariable advantage. "Two members of my family, of ficelise and deficate constitutions, have derived marked benefit from the use of the Water, One had nearly lost aid power in the right arm, the result of a severe ame protracted attack of Rhelumatism; the other was excessively debilitated from derangement of the digestive and atimentary organs.
