Hooper, Nebraska.—"I am very glad to tell how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped me. For five years I suffered from female troubles so I was scarcely able to do my work. I took doctors' medicines and used local treatments but was not helped. I had such awful bearing down pains and my back was so weak I could hardly walk and could not ride. I often had to sit up nights to sleep and my friends thought I could not live long. At my request my husband got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I commenced to take it. By the time I had taken the seventh bottle my health had returned and I began doing my washing and was a well woman. At one time for three weeks I did all the work for eighteen boarders with no signs of my old trouble returning. Many have taken your medicine after seeing what it did for me. How Many of You Women Are in Trouble To-day?

All of you women whose husbands have told you, you have been spending too much money, please stand up-Great Scott! Every married woman in St. John's is on her feet.

All you who are earning your own living and spending as much as you earn please stand up.

Now we've got the rest of them. "Well," you say, "now that you've got us standing here what are you going to do about it?

I'm going to give you the first law of

Cut your expenses down first, and ward.

Every big Institution carries what it calls a "butcher."

When the expenses of that Institution begin to eat up the profits the "butcher" issues a sweeping order to ent down so many hundreds of dollars a day. He doesn't ask how it can be done. He knows it has to be done if his business is going to continue, and he leaves it to the people under him to

This cutting seldom if ever ruins a business. It simply sharpens the wits of those who are left.

Now fet's take your case. Instead of taking the money that you think you ought to have, suppose you take the money that you have actually got. In your case, being both "butcher" and buyer, you naturally have to sharpen

Therefore the first thing you begin to do each day (just as you are going to do now in a minute or two) is to open this paper and see what special inducement each store is offering in to buy. You look for the clothes, and the shoes, the children's dresses and suits, the underwear, the house needs, and all of the various necessities and luxuries demanded in your standard of

The next thing you do is to cut out all those snobbish, exclusive, little non-advertising concerns, who find it somehow beneath their dignity to in Turkey's reply to the joint note sell their goods at less than a profit of of the Powers, which will be handed several hundred per cent.

The third thing you do is to reckon

And the fourth thing you do is to stand amazed at the amount you have saved in spite of the amount you have

Now of course this is letting you in behind the scenes.

There isn't a buyer in any store who doesn't have to bring himself up with a jerk or get brought up with a was opened by a duplicate key. Nine jerk once in a while; and who doesn't other similar cases forming a consignalso stand amazed at what he has been ment of gold from Rio Janeiro, to amount of capital and a greater search of the ship proved without amount of energy and a little extra thimbleful of brains.

Now don't tell anybody you have been behind the scenes, but just dig into the advertising in this paper quietly for the next few day; cut out the "dropping-in-anywhere" method of shopping; make a business of your bousehold expenditures, and see if this little financial plan doesn't relieve your terrible money strain.

The Young Year.

The young vear is humping along; he's active and joyous and strong: he hasn't a voice to loudly rejoice with laughter a n d jubilant song. If he had a voice he would sing: "All kinds of fair chances bring; fair chances to rise from the mud to the skies; so seize them before they take wing." And all that the happiest year can give while it's journeying here is the chance to improve, to get out of your grove, and make for yourself a career. The new year inspires men to try, to let their old weaknesses die; to get a new start with a brave, buoyant heart, and a light of resolve in the eye. And that's why the new year is blest; it stirs up new hopes in each breast as we watch it cayort with a rippetysnort, the bright, cheerful annual guest. The new year is loping away, but gives us our chances to-day, so let us begin to achieve and to win, before it is ancient and gray. Let's all get to work with a vim, and put up a rollicking hymn, and wrestle and toil with the dog-gasted soil, ere the new year is weary of limb.

LONDON. To-day. The plan of the allied Governments so far as the plenipotentiaries are in formed, is to concentrate forces on Adrianople immediately after the expiration of the prescribed four days. If the surrender of the fortress doe. not occur, in the meantime, they be lieve a few days bombardment by the big stege batteries which now sur round Adrianople, will bring about a capitulation of the place. Balkan representatives declare all reports that Roumania would aid Bulgaria, agains Turkey, is unfounded. They gain ter ritorial claims by force. While the Bulgarian army engaged Turkey, Bulgaria would let her occupy what territory she demands. But as soon as the Bulgarian army has disposed of the Turks, the Bulgars would turn their attention to the Roumanian's attempt and make them pay dearly for racial disloyalty, which Bulgarians consider would be treason. WASHINGTON, To-day As a result of complaints against the recent order of the Quebec Provincial Government, purporting to remove all restrictions and export tax from timber in certain Crown Lands of the Province, President Taft personally will decide whether wood pulp and paper made from the timber affected will be entitled to free entry into the States. According to representations made to this Government, Quebec's action amounts to discrimination against American holders of Crown Lands. President Coaker at Scilly Cove

Special to Evening Telegram.

SCILLY COVE, To-day. President Coaker arrived here at 11 o'clock to-day. The town decorated with bunting and three splendid arches had been erected bearing the words "Welcome," "Long Live Coaker," "F.P.U. for ever," Auother had "We will Sink or Swim with Coaker:" another "God Bless our President." Volleys of musketry belched forth their welcome. Men women and children cheered as the President passed through. A big public meeting will be held in the S.U.F. Hall to-night. Scilly Cove is

A SAD CIRCUMSTANCE.

A peculiarly sad incident happened Tuesday afternoon, after Mr. Patrick Kelly, of Portugal Cove Road, died at the General Hospital, where he entered only a few days previously. The remains were coffined by Undertaken Myrick and brought home. When they reached the 'old homestead' Mrs Kelly, wife of the deceased, passed to the Great Unknown also. Both bodies now lie cold in death side by side. The scene is a pathetic one and gives truth to the maxim: "In life they were united and in death they were not senarated."

A Kettle Of Tin.

A most picturesque and vivid description of a visit to some Cornish works, to see "A Boil of Tin," is given by Mr. Harold Begbie, in the London Daily Chronicle.

"In one of the large sheds stands what the smelter calls a kettle of tin a vast, solid cauldron filled to the brim with a dirty fluid, perfectly quiescent, nearly 2,000 pounds weight of it. A child going by might very easily dip a finger into the kettle, never suspecting its tremendous heat. You are bidden to stand at a distance and to keep your eyes on the kettle. A smelter comes from the yard outside carrying an old apple-log in his arms; this log has been soaking in water, and drips as he carries it. Over the kettle, suspended by chains, hang two iron rings, which can be opened and closed. The smelter places the apple-log in these rings, fastens them, fills up the spaces with smaller pieces of wet wood, and then withdraws to a distance of some ten yards being protected on that side by a shield of iron which half circles the top of the kettle.

Purifying the Metal.

"You are told now to keep a sharp ook-out. The smelter begins pulling some chains. The dripping logs, with the bluish moss in their cracks and crevices, swing for a moment in heavy cloutish helplessness over the kettle. Then, with a quick rush they descend plump into the dirty, stagnant metal. On the instant there is an explosion. Splashes of glittering white specks splash upwards from the kettle and spurt to right and left. The metal bubbles and roars with a violent agitation. For a full five minutes what was quiescent becomes like miniature Niagara, and what was lirty dullness becomes a glorious. shining silver. And all the time, with a vindictive hiss, specks of tin are shooting hither and thither with force that would burn your eyes out. The Dross that Comes to the Top.

"For an hour that kettle boils. No: o violently as during the first five ninutes, but with a subdued and angry disapproval, the glittering sur face all of a bubbling quiver, the depths rumbling their wrath with a note of menace. And all the while impurities are rising to the top, and will presently be skimmed away, leav ng only the pure metal behind. smelter said to me, 'It's the dross that comes to the top with us, and that's ometimes the case outside in the vorld.' Another said, There are two hings that purify metal, and they're he same two things that purify the oul-fire and water, fire and water,' sked him how old was this process of the wet apple-log. He laughed and hook his head. 'I could not tell you hat,' he replied; 'it goes right back o the beginning; it's the oldest me hod of cleansing metal, and I reckon t's still the best. You can always rust it.'

The Colors of Paradise.

"No painter should ever visit the melting works: for they would surey make him fling away his parlette ly make him fling away his palette grevish-looking fluid standing on the coal-dust floor, and a grimy smelter tanding by its side with an unlovely shovel. He lifts the shovel by its long andle, and gently stirs the fluid mmediately the entire surface breaks nto such ravishing beauty as lights child's dream of Paradise and burst upon the vision of dying eyes-you see every color imaginable, every shade of gold, of amethyst, of green shining and scintillating, glowing and burn ing, a glory of the sun tempered to the uman eye. No painter that ever lived, and no musician, I think, can give such thoughts to the soul as the smelter with his shovel.

"The Cornish smelters, like th Cornish miners, have a reputation which reaches to the ends of the Mail matters here are now in deplorable condition. When the present Government got in power they promised us two mails a week. Now what do we find? Another Fire.

Between the hours of six and seven clock last evening, a fire which for a while threatened to be very disastrous, broke out in the cottage of Mrs. John Score, on Battery Road.

While the family were in the dining room, they heard wood smouldering in the kitchen, where the fire originated. but how, Mrs. Score does not know It must have been burning for some minutes before discovered and was making great headway. Immediately an alarm was sent in from box 12 and the Central and East End Brigades reached the scene quickly. The firemen, who were hampered in their work by the intense frost as well as having to wait to get a water supply from a frozen bydrant, started in to fight the flames. Exactly an hour had passed before they had the fire under control and not before hundreds of dollars worth was destroyed. The house, which is owned by Mrs. Score, was gutted and the furniture almost totally destroyed. The loss to the owner, who carried no insurance, is

That this is so is shown by the experience of the famous Russian General Dragomiroff, who once narrowly escaped losing both his legs. He commanded a division during the Russo-Turkish War, and fell in the fighting at the Shipka Pass, wounded in several places. He was carried unconscious, to a field hospital, and came to himself just as the doctors were about to amputate both legs.

Dragomiroff said he would rather take his chance of dying, but they persisted. Then he drew a revolver and swore he would blow out the brains of the first man who tried to use a lancet on him. He had his way, but for over a week he held that re volver tightly clenched in his hand, fearing that the surgeons would vet play a trick on him. At night he made his servant stand on guard armed with a rifle. He recovered after a manent ill-effect was a slight limp ed the army surgeon as one of the soldier's worst foes.

MAN AND THE SOIL.

Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo, author of the Common Sense Medical Adviser, says "why does not the farmer treat his own body as he treats the land he cultivates. He puts back in phosphate what he takes out in crops, or the land would grow poor. The farmer should put back into his body the vital elements exhausted by labor, or by ill-health induced by some chronic disease." Further, he says, "the great value of my Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is in its vitalizing power. It gives strength to the stomach and purity to the blood. It is like the phosphates which supply nature with the substances that build up the crops. The far-reaching action of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is due to its effect on the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition eases that begin in the stomach are cured through the stomach. A bilious spell is simply the result of an effort made by the liver to catch up when over-worked and exhausted. I have found the 'Discovery' to be unsurpassed as a liver reg-ulator and rich blood-maker."

Miss Lottle Knisely of Perth. Kansas, says: "I will here add my testimony of the effectiveness of your remedy upon myself. I was troubled with indigestion for two years or more. Doctored with three different doctors besides taking numerous kinds of so-called 'stomach cures' but received no permanent relief I was run down, could not sleep at night with the pain in my chest, caused by gas cathe stomach. Was weak, could eat scarcely anything although I was hungry no rily all the time. About one year and a half ago I began taking your 'Golden Met al Discovery,' and after having taken several bottles am nearly cured of stom ch trouble. Can now eat without distress and have gained fifteen pounds in weight.

I thank you for your remedy and wish you all success in your good work."
