CHAPTER XIV.

Yes, that was how he would work it. She should be just an angel of light to him. He would go on loving her, but as the sailor loves the beacon star that lights him home through the storm; as the light that burns in the shrine of a saint. Inspired by that love, he would keep his life clean and sweet; he would devote it to her. He would be her slave, would do everything she wanted done for the place and the people.

"Yes, that is how it must be," he said, with a deep breath. "There is no hope for me. The child would never love me, even if I were only her own age and free. Very good. Let me accept that. I will with her or away from her. I will never let her suspect; I will keep a close guard on my secret, and she shall never know. It would only pain her, and, God knows, I would rather die a thousand deaths than she should suffer a moment's pain."

He laughed discordantly.

"What a pity one can not die when one likes," he said, bitterly. "It would be so easy a way out of it. But I've got to live—and I cannot live without her!"

The last words were uttered almost savagely. We all know how, at some time or other, we stand at bay with Fate and fight him tooth and nail. Gaunt was fighting Fate for all he knew.

The dinner-bell rang, and he went and dressed. Hobson looked at the haggard face anxiously and wondered what was amiss. He knew nothing of the great mistake but he suspected the existence of some hidden sorrow in his master's life, and he wondered whether it had cropped up again, for he had noticed the change of late for the better in Lord Gaunt's manner and appearance.

Gaunt went down to the elaborate dinner, but he could not eat, and presently he rose and went out into the air.

There was a faint moonlight; a nightingale was singing on one of the trees on the lawn. He saw Decima's face in the soft light, he heard her voice speaking through the bird's. Presently he got his hat, and, half

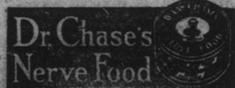

Could Not Sleep

Mr. Earnest Clark, Police Officer, 338 King St., Kingston, Ont., writes:

"For three years I suffered from nervousness and sleeplessness. I believe my condition was brought about by overwork. I had frequent headaches, neuralgic pains and twitching of nerves and muscles. I had indigestion, was short of breath and easily tired. I commenced a treatment of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and seven boxes of this medicine cured me of all my symptoms. I am now feeling one hundred per cent. better than I was, and have to thank Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for the good health I am now enjoying."

mechanically, went up the avenue and along the road to The Woodbines. As he reached the house and stood in the shadow of the trees on either side of the road, he heard the piano, and then her voice—the clear, sweet, girlish voice which echoed in his heart all day. She was singing one of the simple songs she used to sing to Lady Pauline, and every note, as it floated out to him, struck upon a chord in his heart and filled him with the pain of intense longing.

He went home again, with the sweet, girlish voice ringing in his ears. But he would not go into the house, and he paced under the trees in the plantation until the dawn began to gleam beyond the hills.

"I love her!" was the thought that ached in his heart. "I love her; but she shall never know. She shall never know."

In the morning some plans came down by post. He had promised to take them to her. Should he do so? He prayed, thirsted for a sight of her. Why should he not go? He would begin the watch over himself.

After breakfast he went, with the plans in his hand, up to The Woodbines. As he reached the gate he heard voices—Decima's and a man's—and then he saw her and Mr. Mershon in the garden. He had met the young man once or twice, and exchanged greetings with him; but it had so chanced that he had not seen him and Decima together. He looked over the gate, and there was Mr. Mershon holding a chrysanthemum while Decima tied it to its stick. Decima wore a sun-bonnet like—and yet how unlike—Mrs. Topper's, and, as she bent over the plant, she was laughing, evidently at Mr. Mershon's awkwardness. And the young man, with his hat on one side, was looking up at her with an intent expression in his small, sharp eyes.

A pang shot through Gaunt's heart. "My God! I am jealous!" he said, between his clinched teeth, and his face grew set and stern.

He tried to soften it as he pushed the gate open and entered, but Decima, as she looked up and uttered a faint cry of welcome, saw the look and opened her innocent eyes upon him.

"Oh, Lord Gaunt, is it you? And have you brought the plans—is that them in your hand?"

"Yes, I've brought them," he said, trying to smile. "But it doesn't matter. Don't let me interrupt you."

She looked at him with a faint reproach in her lovely eyes.

"Why, we are only tying up some of the chrysanthemums. As if they were of any consequence! Let me see them! I do so want to see them! But what is the matter?" she broke off, as she looked up at him with a sudden grave questioning.

"Nothing—nothing," he said, hastily for he felt Mr. Mershon's sharp eyes upon him.

That gentleman dropped the string and glanced at his watch. He disliked, and was a little afraid of Lord Gaunt, of Learmore.

"—I think I'll be going," he said, looking at Decima.

She had opened the plans and seemed quite absorbed in them.

"Oh, will you not stay? Well, goodbye, and thank you. We have tied up ever so many, haven't we?"

"Yes," said Mr. Mershon. "Good-morning, Lord Gaunt." As he went out of the gate, Gaunt looked after him.

"Do you see much of Mr. Mershon?" he asked, and cursed himself for asking.

Decima looked up from the plans absently.

"Yes, oh, yes. He is here nearly every day. He has business with father. I don't understand what it is; it is all a mystery to me—and, to father also, I expect. But what is the matter? You—you look so pale and tired."

She drew nearer to him, with child-like affection and confidence, and laid her hand upon his arm.

And the strong arm, lean and muscular, the arm which had known no quiver nor uncertainty even when it had been raised in the face of death itself, had hard work to keep itself steady under the fingers which touched him so innocently.

"I've—I've had a bad night," he said, forcing a smile. "I used to suffer from insomnia, and I got an attack of it last night."

"Oh, I am so sorry," she said. "Come and sit in my arbor and rest for a little while." Her hand closed on his arm, and she led him gently to a rustic summer-house in the worst state of repair. "Sit there and rest," she said. "You shall not talk, or even think. And I will look at the plans. Say!" she ran to one of the garden borders and picked some sprigs of lavender, "smell those! Are they not sweet?"

She held them up to him, and, unseen by her, he touched them with his lips. Then, with the innocence of a child, she sat close beside him and unfolded the plans again.

Her arm touched his—the summer-house was a very small affair—he could almost hear the beating of her heart; and his own heart throbbed in harmony.

"They are beautiful!" she said, nodding at the plans, as a child nods at a picture-book. "How clever a man must be to draw them like this! Look at that tower!" She opened out the plans so that they rested on her knees and his. "There's a bell in that tower, of course. Will it run, as Bobby would say, to a bell, Lord Gaunt?"

"Oh, yes; it will run to a bell," he said, mechanically, for her hand was touching his arm, and all his senses were throbbing.

"Will it? I am so glad! And that is the big school-room. What is the size? But I am worrying you, and I meant you to rest!" she exclaimed, remorsefully.

"It is not worrying me," he said. "There are the plans. If you like them, we'll pass them."

"Oh, I think they are beautiful!" she said. "And the school-house is too sweet for words! I should like to be school-mistress!"

"Yes!" he said; then the green jealousy gnawing at his heart forced him on. "Do you like Mr. Mershon?"

Decima opened her eyes upon him innocently.

"What has Mr. Mershon to do with the schools?" she said. "Like him? Oh, yes, I suppose so. I never thought, never asked myself the question. But now I come to do so, yes, I think I do. How foolish that sounds! Aunt Pauline used to say that I should never master syntax. He is very good-natured, you know; only this morning he promised me fifty pounds toward the boys' play-ground and gymnasium."

"Why did you ask him?" he said, almost roughly. "I would have given you all you wanted."

"I know you would," she said, simply; "and that is why I didn't ask you. You have done so much. Besides, it is only fair that Mr. Mershon should spend some of his money for the benefit of the people among whom he lives. He is very rich, you know."

"Is he?" he said. "I don't know anything about him." Then he got ashamed of his petulance, of his jealousy, for her eyes were seeking his with a rather pained surprise. She had never before heard his speak in this tone.

"Oh, I dare say he is a very nice young fellow. I'm—I'm rather boorish and ill-natured this morning. I always am when I don't sleep."

In an instant her face melted, so to speak, with a tender sympathy which smote him to the heart.

"I know. You could not be really unkind or unjust to any one, I think, Lord Gaunt."

"Oh, couldn't I?" he said, grimly.

"No. It was only because you are tired that you were hard upon Mr. Mershon—if you were hard. For, after all, what have you said? Lean back—see, you can just lean back—and rest, quite rest."

She leaned back to show him the way, and the branches of the ivy and clematis caught in her hair. She laughed as she tried to disentangle them.

"I forgot my hair; but you need not be afraid—yours is too short."

"Can't you get it undone?" he said. "Let me try, will you?"

"Thanks," she said at once. "Mind you do not bring it all down; it is apt to come down at a touch. You see, I've not had it up very long."

His hand shook as he attempted to free the soft, silky coil from the branch that clung to it lovingly. His breath came fast, and he brought about the catastrophe against which she had warned him.

HAS NO PAIN NOW

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Mrs. Peasey of London.

London, Ont.—"I suffered with periodic pains, was weak and run down, could not eat and had headaches. The worst symptoms were dragging down pains so bad I sometimes thought I would go crazy and I seemed to be smothering. I was in this condition for two or three years and could not seem to work. I tried all kinds of remedies and had been treated by physicians, but received no benefit. I found one of your booklets and felt inclined to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I received the best results from it, and now I keep house and go out to work and am like a new woman. I have recommended your Vegetable Compound to my friends, and if these facts will help some poor woman use them as you please."—Mrs. J. F. PEASEY, 200 Rectory Street, London Ont.

The reason women write such letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. and tell their friends how they are helped is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives. Freed from their illness they want to pass the good news along to other suffering women that they also may be relieved.

If there are any questions you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Big Smokes.

Tobacco worth $124,000 was destroyed the other day in less than an hour by fire at Bordeaux Chamber of Commerce depot; and three tons (valued at $2,300) were similarly destroyed while being smuggled across the Belgian frontier on a motor lorry. The French Customs post, about a mile outside the village of Berthen, was rushed by the smugglers, but the officers gave chase on motor cycles, and a running fight followed. The lorry burst into flames, but whether this was by design or by a police bullet penetrating the petrol tank is not known.

A SIMPLE DRESS FOR WORK OR LEISURE.

Pattern 3094 cut in 7 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 4, 44 and 46 inches bust measure is here shown. For comfort, convenience and attraction, this model has much to recommend it. The lines are simple, and the garment may be made for service, or as a "porch" or "afternoon" dress. Foulard, taffeta, serge, gabardine, crepe de chine, voile or poplin would be nice for a "dresy" dress. Developed as a work dress it would look well in gingham, chambray, linen, lawn or percale.

Size 38 requires 6 1/2 yards of 36 inch material. Width of Skirt at lower edge is about 2 1/4 yards.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c. in silver or stamps.

A POPULAR MODEL.

Pattern 3366 is portrayed here. It is cut in 7 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size will require 4 1/2 yards of 40 inch material.

Braided serge or duvetyne would be attractive for this style, or satin, taffeta, tricotine, and velveteen. The dress measures about 1 1/2 yard at the foot.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15 cents in silver or stamps.

NOTE:—Owing to the continual advance in price of paper, wages, etc., we are compelled to advance the price of patterns to 15c. each.

South Africans Vote For Secession.

Resolutions Favoring Breaking of Imperial Bonds Passed--Momen- tous Conference on Miners Strike--Monkey's Bite May be Fatal to Monarch.

NATIONALISTS PASS RESOLUTIONS.

CAPE TOWN, Oct. 24. The Free Nationalist Congress in session here adopted resolutions supplemental to the declaration of party principles proclaiming for the people of South Africa a right to self determination, their right to secede from Great Britain or break any existing bond between the Union and Great Britain and declaring opposition to a closer Imperial union.

NEGOTIATIONS STILL GOING ON.

LONDON, Oct. 24. The Lloyd George cabinet and representatives of the striking miners' convention conferred for hours in the premier's official residence in Downing Street to-day and after the miners' delegates had departed the cabinet members continued in session with Lloyd George, Frank Hodges, on leaving with other representatives of the miners, said the discussions would be continued. After the meeting with the government leaders the miners' executive body went into conference which lasted until four thirty and then adjourned until to-morrow afternoon. Conversations with Lloyd George and other members of the government will be resumed in Downing Street to-morrow morning it was announced. Hope seemed to prevail that there would be settlement of the coal strike as a result of the renewal of direct negotiations between the miners and the government. Meantime neither side has disclosed the nature of these negotiations, but according to unofficial reports Lloyd George suggested some new formula which would satisfy the government that if two shillings advance in wages was conceded it must be accompanied by an increased output. Nothing is known of the nature of this formula but there seems to be strong belief that the full Executive committee of the Miners' Federation will meet the government within a few days on a basis which can be submitted to the miners for acceptance or rejection.

STILL LIVES.

LONDON, Oct. 24. Lord Mayor MacSwiney spent a quiet night and this morning was still unconscious, says the bulletin issued by the Irish Self-Determination League.

AT FOUR TO-DAY, THE SEVENTY-THIRD DAY OF THE LORD MAYOR'S HUNGER STRIKE.

KING ALEXANDER'S CONDITION GRAVE.

ATHENS, Oct. 24. A bulletin issued last midnight stated the temperature of King Alexander, who is gravely ill from infection received from the bite of a monkey, was extremely agitated. King Alexander's condition continues grave the bulletin said, and his physicians remained at the palace throughout the night. Premier Venizelos, when interviewed to-day, said he hoped for King Alexander's recovery, but that it was necessary to be prepared.

SOLDIERS SEARCH WORSHIPPERS FOR ARMS.

DUBLIN, Oct. 24. While congregations were leaving the Catholic Church this morning soldiers posted on street corners searched suspected persons carefully for arms.

A CRAZY ACT.

WINSTED, Conn., Oct. 24. Placing his coffin on the railway to the cemetery here Friday, Kenneth Kennelly, aged sixty-seven, crept inside pulled the lid and shot himself through the heart. His body was found late Saturday by caretakers. He had been dead since Friday. On a marble headstone which he had carved was written in chalk "be good to your mother" and on the lid of the coffin. "I would rather die than see my wife." Two words had been rubbed out.

DISTINGUISHED PASSENGERS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. General William Bramwell Booth, head of the Salvation Army in England, and Viscount Astor arrived here Saturday on the steamer Mauretania which also brought two million pounds in British gold. Booth is on his way to Canada. Vice-Admiral Sir Wm. Paakenham, who succeeds Vice Admiral Sir Trevylyan Napier, who died in Hamilton, Bermuda, two months ago, as chief of the British North Atlantic and West Indies fleet, also arrived with his staff.

QUEEN'S GIFT TO CANADA.

LONDON, Oct. 24. Her Majesty the Queen has presented to the people of Canada the dress worn by her at the coronation festival and also that worn by her on their Majesties' drive through London on the day after the coronation and on the state entry into Delhi on December 7, 1911. These dresses are for the Royal Ontario Museum.

BALLOON RACE ON.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 24. The seven balloons entered in the international race for the Gordon Bennett trophy took the air from Birmingham late yesterday, and with light wind started a slow drift towards the north and west. The French entry, piloted by Captain Louis Hirstauer, was first off and in succession was followed by a United States army balloon, with Lieut. Thompson and Captain Harold Week, pilot. The Belgic a Belgian entry, with Lieuts. Ernest Demuyter and M. Labrousse; Audiens, first Italian entry, with Majors J. Valle and D. Leon; Kansas second; with H. J. Honeywell of St. Louis, who won United States elimination contest, and Dr. Jerome Lieut. A. Pirazolli in the Goodyear with Ralph Upson and W. T. Vanorman all of the seven along with the pilot balloon, Birmingham which was sent up lightly ballasted to lead the way, disappeared in the sunset haze from the sight of crowd, estimated at forty thousand, which gathered to watch the start.

Something Rotten in the State of Denmark

There is something particularly rotten about the general sugar situation, and this is brought to mind by the fact that at this writing refined sugar is selling in the United States at 11 cents per pound in wholesale lots, whereas the Cuban refiners' price is 19 1/2 cents. For a long period back there has been profiteering in sugars of the most flagrant nature, and in numerous cases raw sugars have been allowed to stand in warehouses and spoil rather than put it on the market with the risk of breaking down the price. Our friends the Cubans, at the moment the most important producers of the raw article, have made no bones of their profiteering. They have held sugar back, under a general agreement among the sugar planters, with the idea of boosting the price to unprecedented limits. That they have not succeeded is no fault of their own. Just what has happened all of a sudden to bring down the cost of the refined article in the United States it is at the moment impossible to authentically state, but if one may judge by the general situation, it would be safe to say that the banks have forced the issue by demanding that hoarders get rid of their sugar and pay back to the financial institutions the money which has been loaned to accumulate these stocks. In respect to this traffic in both raw and refined sugars it has not been at all an unusual occurrence to have specific shipments running into very large quantities change hands a half dozen times before it eventually got to the consumer, each seller getting his own little profit on the transaction. Is it any wonder under the circumstances that sugars shot to unprecedented height?

The Canadian refiners have appealed to Ottawa for protection under the anti-dumping provision of the Customs Act in order that they may be protected against this cheap United States sugar. They make the claim that their raw product, now on hand, has cost so much that, should this sugar be allowed free entry into the country, they would stand to lose large sums of money. This is possibly quite true, but sugar refiners like other people should learn to take their medicine. For years past they together with all or nearly all manufacturing industries have been buying raw materials on an advancing market, with the result that they could not well have lost money had they tried. This was true of the flour milling industry, cotton manufacturing, lumbering, woollen manufacturing and so on through to the wholesaler and finally to the retailer. It has been four years of plenty for all of them. Every day saw their stocks of raw materials worth more than the preceding day. Now the time has come for a change, and manufacturers should take their medicine in the form of retreating prices, just as the farmers will be obliged to do with their grain and other products. Prices are not only on the toboggan, but are away at a fast clip, and for a time at least the consumer should reap the benefit. —Saturday Night.

Belgium at Work.

Unlike some of the war-devastated countries of Europe, Belgium is fast returning to the conditions prevailing in 1913. The American Consul at Brussels writes that the nation is employing 93 per cent of the labour that was at work that year. This is a gratifying advance over the conditions prevailing last December, when a resumption percentage of seventy-six was reported. The statistics show conclusively that the Belgians are as resourceful and efficient in peace as they were brave in war.—Providence Journal.

The Health of a King.

Ordinarily, the health of so constitutional a monarch as young Alexander is not of vital concern to the nation over which he reigns, and such a mishap might have been regarded as only one of the ironies of circumstance. But the situation in Greece is different. Alexander's father and older brother were put out three years ago because of their leanings toward the wrong side in the war. The rest of the royal family went with them into exile. If Alexander dies, who is to succeed him? He lately married, morganatically, the daughter of a Colonel in the Greek Army, but there has been no issue of this marriage, and it has not been recognized by the Government.—New York Times.

Special Fall Display of Fashion's Newest Costumes

FROM Fashion's Centre, New York, we received last week a very striking selection of Ladies' Costumes for Fall and Winter wear. In fine Serges, and the new Llama Cloths, exquisitely trimmed and braided, these new Costumes are remarkable for beauty of line and design, and quality of material.

Here are all the smartest new shades, sizes to suit all buyers, and we make a special feature of REALLY never stocking any two Costumes alike.

When you are looking for your Fall Costume ask to see the new Pleated Straight-line Skirts in plaids and plain materials, they are the latest fad, and very graceful in wear.

This Week's Wisdom.

One stitch in time is worth two in the side. Love is blind to the interests of gas companies. A girl is never satisfied until she draws her beau into a knot. More men would marry only for love if they could afford it. One of the most unsatisfactory things of this world is a sensible love letter. When two women fall in love with the same man they cut each other by looking daggers. Young man, don't get discouraged if your best girl treats you like a dog. Perhaps she likes dogs. A husband is sometimes landed by a maiden effort—and sometimes by the effort of a maiden's mother.

In connection with our inquiry during last week for shares of St. George's Coal Fields at a stated figure, we would like to announce to all interested parties that it is not our mission in business to either knock or boost any particular company. Neither are we buying shares for our own account. We are acting as BROKERS only, in the purchase or sale of any securities, and although we personally believe St. George's to be WORTH ITS PAR, still we have a check and order on our desk from a client who instructs us to buy, if available, at the figure quoted, but considering that there is no available stock at this price we hereby withdraw our bid. We have had this order for months back but, refrained from advertising same while the company was doing its own financing, which we understood was now completed.

B. C. ELECTIONS.

VICTORIA, B.C., Oct. 24. The British Columbia Legislature was dissolved Saturday. Nomination day has been set for Wednesday Nov. 10, with elections on Wednesday December 1st.

NATIVE LABOR TROUBLES. PORT ELIZABETH.

Cape Colony, Oct. 24. Fourteen persons were killed, and about thirty wounded in clash between natives and troops on Saturday, following the arrest of Mr. Masalaba, President of the Native Workers Union. Fighting began when a crowd tried to rescue Masalaba from the police station and after two or three vain attacks the mob succeeded in entering the station, whereupon the police called for soldiers, who fired upon and dispersed the mob. Among the dead were two Europeans, while several Europeans were wounded.

SPANISH AND MOORISH TROOPS BATTLE.

LONDON, Oct. 25. An undated despatch, received by the London Times, reports a twenty-four hour battle between Spaniards and moors in Morocco, in which the Spaniards lost twenty-two men killed, and a hundred wounded, the majority of these being native troops. The Moors are said to have suffered severe losses. Spaniards were advancing southwards from Agheshuan, and encountered a strong force of Moors.

ITALIAN CRISIS.

LONDON, Oct. 25. The London Times correspondent at Milan sends a despatch in which he says that Italy, which two months ago seemed on the eve of a Bolshevik upheaval, now gives the impression of being on the brink of a military coup d'etat. The Nationalist press, he asserts, is calling for a military dictatorship as a remedy against rampant Bolshevism, and hails D'Annunzio as a suitable dictator. Avanti, a Socialist organ, however, alleges that D'Annunzio recently appealed to Moscow for military and moral aid, and was approved by Lenin as an instrument of the Soviet Government. All responsible papers are in accord in deprecating violence from any source.

ARMENIAN OFFENSIVE.

LONDON, Oct. 25. Armenian troops according to a London Times despatch, have begun a counter attack against Turks on their entire front.

SCHOONER NORDICA ABANDONED.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25. A crew of six men and two stow-aways, from the British schooner Nordica, from Oporto for Newfoundland, with salt and abandoned at sea, were brought to this port to-day by the steamer Willaroo. The men were picked up at sea on October 10th.

THEATRE DAMAGED.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25. The Winter Garden Theatre was damaged in a quarter million dollar fire, which occurred in the theatrical district yesterday.

ONE ONLY SUB.

LONDON, Oct. 25. Izvestia, of Moscow, comments ironically on Earl Curzon's threat that the British fleet would attack Bolshevik submarines encountered on the high seas, declaring that one solitary submarine was launched on the Black Sea, when the British fleet was cruising where it had no right to be.

LORD MAYOR DEAD.

Newfoundland Schooner

Would Outfoot Best in Canada or the United States.

The ocean-going racing schooner has struck North Sydney, and it would not be surprising if a race off North Sydney harbor between either Gloucester or Lunenburg fleets and some from Grand Bank, Newfoundland, would not follow in the near future.

In conversation with the well known yachtsman and general all round sportsman, Jack Barrington, of North Sydney, the North Sydney Herald was told that the former would gladly undertake to have the contest take place off this harbor and would take the responsibility of bringing the matter to a successful issue.

"To my way of thinking," said Mr. Barrington to the North Sydney Herald, "the doughty fishermen of Newfoundland are second to none as sailors, and would test the seamanship of their fleet against the world's best. At any rate it would be a contest that would be well worth seeing and would attract shipping interests from all parts. From another point of view there is no other place where a better course could be obtained than a start right in North Sydney's commodious harbor and straight out to sea."

It is Mr. Barrington's intention to co-operate in the movement in the hope that the contest, if carried to a successful termination, might take place immediately or shortly after the matched race between the Lunenburg winner of the recent ocean race, the Delawana, and the Gloucester schooner Esperanto, that has accepted the latter's challenge.—North Sydney Herald.

Schooner Ashore.

Deputy Minister of Customs received the following message on Saturday from Carbonar:—"Schooner D. B. Johnson is a schooner of 28 tons nett.

Police Court.

A laborer who has been on remand on a charge of stealing goods to the value of $80.00 was sentenced to 12 months in prison with hard labor. He had two six months' sentences recorded against him for similar offences, the last term being served out but a short while ago.

A seaman and a grocer charged with receiving goods stolen pleaded guilty, and were sentenced to fines of 100 and $50 each. The former respectively had a previous court record for larceny.

Theatre Suppers.

The Theatre Season, which is opening to-night by the popular Klark Urban Company, reminds one that Theatre suppers are also in season, and by reference to an advertisement which appears elsewhere in this issue, will be seen that the management of the Blue Butte, Rawlins Cross, intends catering to those patrons who wish to have supper after the Theatre, the usual lunches of hot Chocolate, Coffee, etc., will be served, and in addition to which special orders for suppers for any number will also be catered to. Oyster, Chicken and Partridge suppers served at a few hours notice. Do not forget when arranging for your Theatre Party, to bring your guests to the Blue Butte, Rawlins Cross, whose motto is "Better than the Best."

Parties desiring to reserve tables at the Blue Butte may do so any time during the day, and if a special after-theatre supper is desired (Chicken, Partridge, Oysters, etc.), we will serve it by getting a few hours' notice.—oct25,6f

Lower Coal Price Promised.

It is current talk that owing to a favorable agreement with the Steel Company at Sydney, householders may expect to get coal at a rate prevailing before the last rise of a few weeks ago, when it was $19.00 per ton. The amount of tax placed on Bell Island ore has not yet been made public.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

MIXING UP OUR DISLIKES.

A woman I know left a pleasant boarding place recently because another boarder was allowed to use a typewriter, and she said she simply could not bear the sound of it. It disturbed her if she tried to take a nap, and made her so nervous when she was awake that she couldn't settle down to read or sew or anything. I was in her room once when the typewriter started up. "There it goes," she said, "isn't it the most pleasant noise? It is simply intolerable! I mind it more and more. I don't think I can stand it another week."

I could hardly hear it. I had heard her complain before and expected some terrific racket. That was my astonishment to hear such a faint pecking that I had to strain my ears to identify it. The boarder who occupied a room two doors down the hall, was a young girl who was studying stenography and typing, and who was trying hard to practice in every leisure moment that she might get to earning as much as possible.

An hour or two later that same day a sewing machine started to chirp in the next room. "Don't you mind that?" I asked. (It was three notes as loud as the typewriter). "Not at all," she said. "I think that's a cheerful noise."

The nub of the whole matter, as I happened to know, was this: The woman is one of that vanishing type who think that for a woman to do any kind of work, except sewing or teaching, is demeaning. She has a particularly virulent objection to business women. A typewriter is to her one of the symbols of women in business; she therefore feels an intense dislike for the sound of one, no matter how faint it is, it causes and disturbs her, especially if a woman is operating it. I don't think she would have felt the same way if it had been a man at the keys.

She was the One Who Suffered.

Of course she has a perfect right to her likes and dislikes, but the result was that she did herself out of otherwise satisfactory boarding place, since the hostess—a woman of considerable fair-mindedness—could not see that the noise was loud

PLEASURES.
God intended us to smile. An' enjoy ourselves the while. He knew we'd come to sorrow. An' our eyes would fill with tears. He knew we'd get upset. An' find cares that make us fret. So He strewed the flowers o' pleasure Down the valley of the years.

Since He gave us different minds. He made pleasures of all kinds. And there's no one ever lived here But could find his special joy; This old world is crammed so full Of the glad an' beautiful. That whatever suits our fancy We can find it, man or boy.

Some of us it seems there are Who prefer to travel far. Seeking wonders an' excitement An' strange scenes. An' so they roam. But the world is just as bright. Just as full of true delight. An' there's just as much of gladness For the ones who stay at home.

I'm happier, I think. With the roses red an' pink An' my little patch o' pansies An' the vines along the wall. An' the youngsters at my side For the pleasures true an' tried. Than I would be sailin' oceans Followin' fancy's beck an' call.

Oh, I've had my share o' woe. An' the hurt of grief I know. But I thank the Lord above me When my sky shows bright and clear. For the pleasures I can find An' the rest an' peace o' mind That are always waitin' for me As I live my life right here.

Accidents.

When we look in our dictionaries for a definition of the word "accident" we find that an accident is "an unexpected event, a mishap." Accidents today are not accidents in that generally accepted meaning of the word. Accidents do not happen, they are caused, and caused largely by lack of care. Accidents are not "bound to happen;" they are often part of an established plan and can be prevented by the exercise of reasonable care and caution. The safety movement, like modern medicine, preaches prevention.

The pedestrian who crosses a busy thoroughfare, reading his daily paper, invites an injury. The motorist who drives recklessly and without consideration for others will some day injure someone. The street-car man who forgets he is operating a powerful piece of machinery is almost sure to injure himself and others. The worker in the factory, who takes a chance around moving machinery, is almost certain to be hurt and the factory manager who fails to provide adequate safeguards for his machines and employees is exposing both to a serious risk. Accident prevention is largely a habit of mind. Train your mind to "Think Safety."—Ex.

Disturbing.

"Thump-Rattley-Bang!" went the piano.
"What are you trying to play, Jane?" called out her father from the next room.
"It's an exercise from my new instruction book, 'First Steps in Music,'" she answered.
"Well, I know you were playing with your feet," he said grimly; "but don't step so heavily on the keys—it disturbs my thoughts."

Household Notes.

An attractive flower vase can be made out of a small can by crocketing a round-bottomed bag to cover it. Cream of vinegar chowder served with fruit muffins and baked apples makes a well-balanced luncheon.

To save time in the morning, muffins for breakfast may be baked the night before and reheated in the morning.

If using an electric iron, slip a piece of asbestos under the iron rest, and the ironing sheet will not be scorched.

Use old felt hats for making new soles for bedroom slippers. Thus you wear out old tops without buying new soles.

If vegetables or meats are scorched, drop in a small piece of charcoal, and the scorched taste will disappear.

If pins are driven in plaster without bending they will hold quite heavy pictures and do not leave marks when taken out.

That the crust of your custard pie may not be soggy, brush it, before baking, with the white of an egg lightly beaten.

Warm over baking powder biscuit, butter and pour over them a rich tomato sauce thickened and flavored with onion.

Pour left-over tomato soup over onions parboiled, drained and put with potatoes in layers in a pyrex dish. Bake thirty minutes.

A delicious cookie filling is made with chopped figs and walnuts, boiling water and sugar, thickened with flour and flavored with lemon juice.

Bake potatoes, cut in half and remove contents of shell. Mash with chopped tomato, seasoning and grated cheese. Beat and redill shells. Bake.

If sugar is in hard lumps, place in a roomy paper bag, and add the nose of the tea kettle to steam into the bag. In a short time it will be ready to sift.

Actress's Tragic End.

MURDERED FOR HER JEWELS.

A beautiful young actress, Mlle. Yvonne Schmitt, recently returned to Paris from a Mediterranean port, where she had been dancing for about a month, and, with Mme. Marchand, a wealthy friend, had an apartment in a prominent hotel in Paris. In a cafe recently she made the acquaintance of two young men, elegantly dressed and of exquisite manners, whom she invited to the apartment for supper. One of the men admired a pearl necklace which the actress wore, whereupon she invited him to inspect her collection of jewellery. They had scarcely left the dining-room when Mme. Marchand heard a shriek from Mlle. Schmitt.

As she turned to go to her friend's aid her companion drew a revolver and threatened to kill her if she moved or uttered a cry. Mme. Marchand, however, ran from the room, and, opening a window, called loudly for assistance. The two men dashed from the apartment and escaped.

When the police arrived on the scene they found that Mlle. Schmitt had been strangled and the murderers had made off with her jewel case containing gems valued at £4000.

A bag left behind by the men contained a full set of burglars' tools and false beards.

The Latest Suggestion.

The very latest "will you walk into my parlor" suggestion is now being made by those who support the operation of the Fish Regulations. It is indeed difficult at times to determine just what number of the exporters proper, particularly those in St. John's, hold a firm opinion on the benefits to be derived from the effect which the regulations themselves will ultimately have on the foreign markets. To-day most of them praise the enactments: yesterday they damned them in fluent language, more forcible than polite; to-morrow another change may result. Such a constantly veering policy cannot commend itself to those who are acquainted with the vacillations of the gentlemen in question, and it is openly said that expediency is the cause of their many changes of front. The Exporters' Association does not number among its members the whole body of the Fish Exporters of Newfoundland. Therefore its opinions and its operations do not represent those of the dominion at large. Cursing in one breath and flattering with the next does not make for consistency, nor yet for stability of purpose, and that is just what is happening.

In the latest defence of the Regulations, champions cry out "Let us give them a try-out and a test. If they eventually prove unworkable and militate against the fish trade abroad, we will withdraw them." Quite specious, what! The spider which issued the invitation to the fly to take a look around his best room had nothing on the men who make such an insidious request of those who are opposed to the Fish Regulations. The protagonists ask that everybody shall acquiesce and follow their lead. Such a demand is beyond reason. It would mean that a blind plunge would be made into an unknown situation and if the results did not work out to advantage—as they could not—who would be the loser? How long would it take to get back to normal again? The fish business would be irretrievably crippled and hundreds of thousands of quintals assuredly left in the hands of buyers who would be ruined beyond repair. There is too much of a sinister aspect attached to such a suggestion. Its object is to burke all criticism and prevent knowledge of conditions from reaching the fishermen, who in the final analysis stand to be the heaviest losers on account of the Fish Regulations. With honest criticism blanketed and discussion choked off by agreement, the affairs of the Exporters' Association would run smoothly for themselves, the members would be happy and the producer at end receive just that which would be coming to him by expert calculation.

Why Is This?

The Advocate says: "New York firms ship Newfoundland fish to European markets, and undersell that from here, thus causing a big loss on the bulk of our fish." The foregoing statement may be regarded as the most momentous and significant that has as yet been made about the fish market, and—admitting its truth for argument's sake only—we desire from the Advocate specific answers to the following questions, suggested by the above extract:

- (1) Do New York firms pay local current prices for our fish?
- (2) Are freights on fish less via New York to European markets, than direct from Newfoundland, and if so what is the proof?
- (3) If freights via New York are less, why not ship that way altogether?
- (4) If the New Yorker pays local current prices and as much or more, for freight, does he take smaller profits than the Water Street Exporter?
- (5) If the New Yorker is so hampered by the regulations as to be driven out of the local market, who will be the beneficiary—the producer, who will have fewer buyers to whom to sell, and consequently, less competition, or the local Water Street Exporter?
- (6) Is the main object of the Codfish Export Regulations, the creation of a local monopoly to so buy and sell codfish as to give the fishermen as little as possible, and the merchant exporter as much as he can grab?
- (7) Finally, why is it that Exporters are now supporting Coaker's Regulations—for their own profit or that of the fishermen? Are they profiteers or patriots?

Notes and Comments.

The Trade Review is authority for the statement that there was a lot doing in fish along the waterfront last week.

Forty barrels of whiskey are said to have been used up at the Democratic Convention at San Francisco. And people wondered why the meeting lasted so long.

Ireland is more than twice the size of Denmark and Switzerland together, and almost a third larger than Holland and Belgium combined. Her area is 32,531 square miles.

The Electrical Department of the Reid Nfld. Company complains of a shortage of water at the Petty Harbor Power Station. Where did all the rain that fell during the month, go?

Trade Review: "If fish prices can be kept at their present level, the fishermen will come out of their ventures fairly well, and will be able to secure themselves for the winter." Everybody sincerely hopes so.

"To drop the Fish Regulations now would be to court disaster," says the Advocate. This sounds like the story of the man who had the tiger by the tail. That's exactly Coaker's position—he dare not let go. But why did he take hold?

Unconvinced: "Why are your whiskers so thin on the right side of your face, Mr. Johnson?" asked little Winnie. "Oh, that's because I always sleep on my right side, and that rubs the hair away!" was the reply. "Well, but father doesn't stand on his head when he is asleep!" objected Winnie.

We hear that at the meeting of the Exporters' Association, at which that wonderful series of resolutions, denouncing the press was passed, a majority of the members entirely coincided with the much berated press, but were careful not to express their opinions in conclave. They did so, however, after the proceedings terminated. More power to such a courageous bunch.

Coaker's organ speaks of the Exporters' Association as that "Powerful Organisation," and commends their patriotism. These same Exporters are the "Graballs" of the days when Coaker was not sitting in the seats of the mighty. Now that he rides around in state, he hails the black sheep of former days as though they were converted men. The explanation is—Coaker to-day is a merchant and an exporter.

Once a year, at the annual dinner of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, the famous painting of the Irish patron saint, which is the proudest possession of the Friendly Sons' organization, is hung in the place of honor in the banquet-hall. The picture represents the mitred early churchman with long white beard. In the right hand is a sprig of shamrock, in the left a crosser, which rests on the head of a serpent.

The "Northern Lights."—Considerable study has been devoted to the cause of the Aurora Borealis, or "Northern Lights," but the only conclusion which has as yet been arrived at is that they must be ascribed to the agency of electricity in the upper regions of the atmosphere. In what way the phenomenon is produced remains unknown. That such is the case is certain from the fact that during brilliant auroral displays the magnetic needle is generally disturbed and sometimes violently agitated. The air at the same time is often observed to be so highly charged with electricity as to interfere materially with the working of telegraph lines.

Nfld. Teachers' Association.

QUARTERLY MEETING.

The regular quarterly meeting of the executive of the Teachers' Association was held in the Board of Trade Building on Saturday afternoon at 2.30. The following members were present:—R. Dwyer, Esq., J.P., President; Rev. Bros. J. R. Ryan, J. E. Ryan and P. V. Strapp; Miss E. Bradbury, Messrs. Wood, Griffin, Samson, Guilfoyle, King and Butt.

After the minutes of last meeting had been read and adopted, the secretary tabled the report of the Convention of the past summer. This showed that 315 teachers registered and the average attendance was about 275. That the Convention was an unqualified success is unquestionable. Many teachers had written the Secretary expressing their appreciation of the different lectures and intimating how they were endeavouring to put many of the suggestions and recommendations into practical effect. Of course the question of salary was the supreme issue, and this was dealt with by the Convention in the way that was thought to be the best for the teachers. As will be remembered, two resolutions were submitted to the Government: (1) For a general increase of 25% on the Grant to Boards; (2) to make the increase of 40% on the augmentation received by the teachers in June retroactive from the first of January. The Government very generously granted the second of these resolutions, which, considering the many urgent demands on their financial resources was quite satisfactory, especially as the Minister of Education assured the Convention that next year he hoped to be in a position to do even better than that asked for in the first resolution. The Secretary then stated that all bills had been sent to the Treasurer for payment.

The Treasurer reported that there would be a substantial balance left after all expenses had been met. All cheques had not, as yet, been returned, but a full report would be made at the next meeting.

The Secretary then read his quarterly report, which showed that although there was a vast improvement in the number of teachers joining, nevertheless teachers were not supporting the Association as they should. He hoped that before the next meeting the new circular would be issued and that this would be the means of causing an improvement in this respect. He also intimated that he hoped to establish branches of the N.T.A. in different parts of the country, where teachers could meet and discuss matters at least once a year. It behoves every teacher who reads this report, if not already a member, to join immediately, as the Association needs the support of every teacher if it is to be successful in the work it has undertaken.

The minutes of the Convention were then read and caused some discussion, especially the report of the committee on "Standardized Salaries." This report will be sent to every member of the executive and thoroughly discussed at the next meeting. A full account of this meeting and Convention, minutes and report will appear in the Journal.

Neglected War Trophies.

Some time ago a number of heavy guns were brought here from England as war trophies and landed opposite the Furness Withy premises. A whippet tank was later brought and left in the same place. Apparently they have been given no further attention by those whose duty it is to look after them. Daily boys may be seen monkeying with the mechanism of both the guns and tank, and it may be taken for granted that what the Germans could not destroy, small boys will, if given time enough.

Express Passengers.

S.S. Kyle arrived at Port aux Basques yesterday morning with the following passengers who are on the incoming express: J. M. Devine, J. T. Meaney, Miss E. G. Hunter, Capt. J. Ford, H. B. McCurdy, S. WANT PEOPLE'S MONEY TO BUY FISH.

The Daily News, this morning, says it was commonly reported on Saturday evening that at the meeting of the Exporters' Association held on the previous day, a resolution had been passed requesting the Government to advance four hundred thousand dollars to aid in the financing of the purchase of one hundred thousand quintals of Labrador fish. Assuming that the price was fixed at eight dollars a quintal this would mean that the exporters would be added to the extent of fifty per cent in their purchases. The report created considerable comment along the street where the idea was generally dubiously received.

Gower Street Sunday School.

At the close of the session of the Gower Street Sunday School yesterday afternoon a short service was held in respect to the memory of the late Mrs. Capt. Edgcombe, nee Miss Belle Butt, a long time worker in the Sunday School and for many years interested in every department of the work of the church. Mr. Albert Soper was the first speaker to pay his tribute to her memory. He spoke of others who had made great contributions to the building of the Kingdom of God by their untiring and faithful efforts in the work of the church. Then he went on to speak of Mrs. Edgcombe's service in the choir, the work of the Bible Society and the teaching of the primary department in the Sunday School. She was greatly interested in the training of the younger children, and the success of many a Sunday School anniversary was due to her faithful practices. Prof. King, at one time choir-master and organist in Gower Street, spoke of his associations with Mrs. Edgcombe as a member of the choir. He recalled her faithfulness in attending practices, her using of her utmost strength in the discharge of her obligations and her untiring cheerfulness in all the intercourse of life. He urged the girls and boys of the school on whom would fall in the future the carrying on of the work of the church, to emulate her in her fidelity and willingness to serve. The service concluded with the Dead March in Saul played by Prof. King, while the entire school stood with bowed heads.

The Men's Bible Class in the afternoon was largely attended, and listened with interest to the teacher, the Pastor of the church, as he gave some impressions of life in the old country received during his recent visit there. There were a large number of additions to the membership of the class. It was announced that the speaker at the regular class session next Sunday would be Rev. C. H. Johnson, who on Friday last gave a most interesting address before the prayer meeting on Missionary Work in the Canadian South West. A number of new teachers were present at this session of the Sunday School for the first time and the classes were re-arranged for the fall and winter season. The program of the coming Institute for the Sunday School teachers of the Methodist Churches was read, and for the Boys' Conference, which is to be held in the city next week. Altogether it was an interesting and profitable session of this old Sunday School, and one that augurs well for the work of the current year.

Took Fire at Sea.

One of the French trawlers arriving in port Sunday brought news of a thrilling experience at sea of the crew of the trawler Asia, one of the fleet operating out of Port de Boulogne, France. The Asia was on her way here Friday when in the awful gale that swept the Atlantic fire broke out in the galley. Tossed about by the fury of the storm the craft seemed doomed, and those on board felt as if their last voyage had been made. However, the hardy toilers of the deep fought valiantly while the commander headed the craft for St. Pierre. Down in the stoke-hole the firemen worked like trojans in the hope that this vessel would reach shore before sinking. Equally hard did those on deck work to extinguish the flames. In the meantime the S.O.S. signals were flashed out and in this manner the news reached here. Another message from the Asia told of the fire being extinguished just before the trawler reached St. Pierre. All the food supplies on board were destroyed, but thanks to the efforts of the fire fighters the damage to the vessel was only slight. However, before resuming her journey to North Sydney, repairs will be necessary in addition to replenishing her larder.—North Sydney Herald, Oct. 19.

Roof of Street Car Caught Fire.

Saturday night at 10 o'clock the roof of street car No. 5 caught fire at the corner of Adelaide and Water Streets, owing to some wires coming in contact with the woodwork. The conductor, with the aid of a bucket of water, quenched the blaze and beyond a small hole being burned in the roof very little damage was done.

New French Trawler.

One of the last trawlers to be launched in France this year (there were six new ones built) was the Mont Kemmel, which arrived in port this morning, says the North Sydney Herald of October 19. The new vessel is fitted with all modern improvements and is one of the larger class of trawlers, operating on the Banks. Owing to the delay in launching the Mont Kemmel, she had only a chance for a short try at the fish when compelled to run here to have her bunkers replenished. During her brief spell on the Banks the Mont Kemmel met with great success.

Combined Church Parade.

Yesterday morning the Gower St. Troop of Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs in a combined parade, attended service at the Congregational Church. The sermon was preached by Rev. C. H. Johnson, the pastor, and was particularly timely and suited to the occasion. A rally of the Sunday School of the Church was held at the same time. About 75 Scouts and Cubs were in the parade, and the procession was filmed by a representative of the Maritime Motion Picture Company now in the city. On Tuesday afternoon at 1.30 the Scouts and Cubs will parade on the grounds of the Methodist College, and will be again filmed in their signalling, drilling and ambulance work. These pictures will be exhibited later on in the city. The Scouts are looking forward with interest to an illustrated lecture to be given by Commander Fenn of H.M.S. Briton on the evolution of the British Navy.

American Sugar Quoted at 11 Cents.

Newfoundland Consumers are Paying 32 cents.

Willott and Gray's (New York) Daily Sugar Trade Journal of October 15th quotes the following, re sugar prices: "RAWS—There is nothing new to report in raws. The market is steady with some buying interest at current quotations of 8 cents duty paid. At noon the Americans entered the raw market for the first time in a long period and bought 12,000 bags prompt shipment Cubas at 7 c.i.f. (8.03 cents duty paid) and which buying gives a steadier tone to the market. "REFINED—Refined cane sugar is quoted all over the United States from Atlantic to Pacific at 11 cents less 2 per cent seaboard basis. Central Western beet sugars are quoted at 10.80 cents while far western beets are 10.80 cents, both less 2 per cent."

Fraternal Interchange.

A delegation from Wabana Lodge, I.O.O.F., will pay a fraternal visit to Atlantic Lodge, No. 1, to-night, and a big gathering of Oddfellows is looked for. There will also be an official visit from the D.D.G.M. During the evening the first and second degrees will be exemplified.

The "Nordica."

The Newfoundland schooner Nordica, reported in to-day's despatches as abandoned at sea, and crew of six men and two stowaways landed at New York, by s.s. Willfaro, was owned by Patten & Forsey, of Grand Bank, and was on her way to Grand Bank with a salt cargo, having discharged a cargo of fish at Oporto.

The ROYAL STORES, Ltd.

Klark-Urban Co.

OPEN AT THE CASINO TO-NIGHT.
The Klark-Urban Company open a limited engagement at the Casino Theatre to-night, with a delightful comedy success entitled "A Tailor Made Man." This is a play everybody will surely enjoy. It had one solid year's run in New York. Throughout the entire production is a rich vein of comedy coupled with a fair share of pathos, in which our old friend Harden Klark and Masie Cecil will appear in the leading roles assisted by an exceptionally strong supporting cast. The C.C.C. orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Arthur Bulley, will supply the music between the acts.

Ethel Dickinson Memorial.

To-morrow afternoon, at 3 o'clock, the ceremony of unveiling the monument to the memory of Ethel Dickinson will take place, in Cavendish Square. The unveiling will be made by Lady Harris. His Excellency the Governor and high officials of Church and State will be present. Mr. Justice Johnson, through whose untiring efforts coupled with those of Hon. Dr. Campbell, the memorial has been erected, will make the presentation to the city through His Excellency the Governor. It is very fitting that the unveiling should take place on the anniversary of the death of Miss Dickinson, and no doubt the community will show their respect for the brave young nurse by attending the service in large numbers.

Meeting Will Be Held.

It is not yet determined in local circles what action will be taken following the death of Lord Mayor MacSweeney of Cork, at Brixton Jail, but it will likely, however, take the form of a protest, and a meeting of the Irish Self-Determination League of Newfoundland will be held to decide what course to adopt.

Dissatisfaction Reported

Passengers who arrived by the Prospero report that conditions for the better have not appeared down North, and general dissatisfaction is manifested. The fishermen are not satisfied with the price being paid for Labrador fish. Last spring when they were outfitting for the voyage they were led to believe through Mr. Coaker that Labrador fish would fetch $12 this fall, and the men took full supplies accordingly. On the north east coast it is reported that the food supply is considerably short of what it should be.

New Steamship Service.

The Canadian Government Merchant Marine, of which Mr. J. W. N. Johnstone is local representative, intends giving a direct steamer service between here and Halifax during the winter and spring months, the Canadian Miner and Canadian Sealer taking up the route, making seven trips between December 17 and January 21. On the fall service the Canadian Sealer leaves Montreal Nov. 18th and Canadian Warrior leaves on Nov. 20th for this port direct. The Miner will also leave Charlottetown for here on Nov. 7th and 21st and also on Dec. 5th. Mr. Johnstone has opened an office in the Board of Trade Building where lists of sailings to all parts of the world may be had.

Light Suppers, Coffee, Sandwiches, Lemonade, Cakes, Toast, Biscuit, Tea, Chocolate will be served till 11.30 during the theatrical season at the Blue Puttee; also Ice Cream, Ice Cream Sodas, etc.—oct25,61

IN LOVING MEMORY
Of our dear son, Jack, who died October 27, 1918, beloved son of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Tucker.
The tie that earth has broken, And severed two years ago; Fond memories of you, my darling, Will eternal peace bestow.

But your chair stands alone and empty,
In the home you loved so well;
And how much we miss you, darling,
Only God alone can tell.

Group Insurance

For Employees of Reid Nfd. Co.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir.—Sometime ago I sent you for publication a letter on this subject, "Group Insurance."

Letter No. 1 from me was really a note of appreciation to the Reid Nfd. Company, thanking them for their thought and consideration to their employees in giving this "Group Insurance."

I have been watching with interest the development of this scheme, and in a newspaper one day this week I read this ad.:

NOTICE.

Reid Nfd. Company Group Insurance. Policies in the Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada are now being sent out to each individual employee who is covered by insurance.

The greatest care should be taken to securely keep these certificates, as they will be of value some day to the beneficiaries named in the policy.

As I am writing I hold in my hand an exact copy of the policy, which I am publishing at the end of this letter, and after reading carefully the contents of same, I am forced to write letter No. 2. This letter is written especially to the employees of the Reid Nfd. Co. and their wives, especially to the outport employees who may not just understand what this must mean.

Now, brother Unionists, this is a duty that you must not neglect. See to it that everyone of you have your policy without delay. Remember that in this case, "Procrastination is the thief of time," and then your wife and children will have something better than the wolf snarling them in the face. Money counts when the breadwinner is taken.

This to you I know seems something new and wonderful, to think a Company will open its heart wide enough to embrace its employees, to give to you free a policy, which will help your wife and children to be independent, if you should be taken away. Some of you may think this is too good a thing to be true, and will not bother about securing your policy. Brother Unionists, I have sifted this thing, and know everything is O.K., and appeal to you, as you love your families to go and secure your policy.

To the wives of the Reid Nfd. Co employees I say—"do not let another moment go by, without seeing that you have this policy in your grasp." Again I say, "well done Reid Nfd. Co. for showing such a spirit of brotherhood. What an example for others.

I think the public also should be aware of the kindness shown by the Reid Nfd. Co. to their employees, and I here give a correct copy of policy as given to each employee.

REID NEWFOUNDLAND CO. OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT.

St. John's, Nfd., June 22, 1920.

To our employees.—Believing that the interests of the employer and employees are so closely allied and interwoven that whatever helps one, helps the other, and desiring to further promote and increase the harmonious relationship between the Company and its employees, we have adopted as a reward for faithful service the "Group Life Insurance System," and have to-day covered with the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada the lives of our regular staff.

Under the policy of which you will get your own individual certificate, the employees are insured on a basis of length of continuous service.

Amount of Insurance	Group of Future continuous service.
$ 500	6 months and under 1 year
600	1 year and under 2 years
700	2 years and under 3 years
800	3 years and under 4 years
900	4 years and under 5 years
1,000	5 years and under 6 years
1,100	6 years and under 7 years
1,200	7 years and under 8 years
1,300	8 years and under 9 years
1,400	9 years and under 10 years
1,500	10 years and under 11 years
1,600	11 years and under 12 years
1,700	12 years and under 13 years
1,800	13 years and under 14 years
1,900	14 years and under 15 years
2,000	15 years and over.

For past services each employee will be given credit on the following basis:—

Twenty complete years or over of past service will count as ten years and entitles such employee to a policy commencing at $1,500.

Eighteen complete years will count as nine years, and entitles such employee to a policy commencing at $1,400; and so on, so that an employee with two complete years of past service would get credit for one year and his commencing amount would be $600.00.

The employees who were in our service before enlisting in the Military or naval forces, will be given credit on the same basis for the time spent in Military or Naval service.

The limit of the amount of insurance will be $2000.00 on those employees who entered the service over age 14, and under 50.

For those who entered the service over fifty and under fifty-five, $1000 and for those who entered the service over fifty-five the limit will be $500.00.

There is no cost to any employee and no medical examination is required. New employees hired after this date will be entitled to benefit under this insurance after six months continuous service.

The insurance becomes effective from this date and will remain in force as long as you remain in the employ of the Company.

Your leaving our employ automatically cancels the insurance.

The policy also includes a clause which provides for the whole payment of the policy in case of total and permanent disability from accident or disease before the age of sixty, while in the employ of the Company.

In the event of claim, the money will be paid by the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada to the beneficiary named by the employee.

Yours faithfully,

Reid Nfd. Co.

H. D. REID,

President.

Can you even grasp the amount of suffering that will be saved by this great act of the Reid Nfd. Co. Surely Heaven must bless such a system as this. I remain,

JULIA SALTER EARLE.

In Memoriam.

On the 18th inst., at the Convent of the Sisters of St. Joseph, Hartford, Conn., there passed to her eternal reward, Sr. Anne Joseph Devereaux, of Ferryland, eldest daughter of James and the late Mary Devereaux, and sister of the late lamented Fr. Tom Devereaux. The deceased young lady entered the Convent Nov. 25th, 1911, and enjoyed the best of health until about two years ago, when she contracted the dreaded influenza, from which she never fully recovered, in spite of the best medical aid and the attention of nurses of the Convent, who were always at her bedside, she at last breathed forth her sweet soul to Him who she loved and served so well. Left to mourn are her father, three sisters and one brother; also a very large circle of friends, who will be grieved to hear of the passing away of this estimable and much respected young lady.—Requiescat in pace.—Com.

A New Monopoly.

The Government, or nominally the Railway Commission, appointed by the Government of the Acting Premier, Hon. W. F. Coaker is Chairman, has now assumed charge of all railway connecting steamers. This is something far larger than the scope of the Commission intended, which was really the oversight of the expenditure of the Government loan of one and a half millions to the Reid Company.

The whole transportation system of the country is now in the hands of the Government nominally, actually in the hands of W. F. Coaker. The people of this country used to object to the Reid Monopoly; it remains to be seen how they will appreciate the Coaker-Reid Monopoly.—Twillingate Sun.

Food Control Board.

SHOULD BE SMOTHERED IN SUGAR.

The Government is banking on the fact that the public has a short memory, and hopes that the scandalous sugar business will be soon forgotten. There is no reason why the people of this country should forgive or forget that fact—for fact beyond dispute it is—that they were callously called upon to pay from fifty to one hundred per cent more for sugar than was necessary because of the fact that somebody—deliberately or not has yet to be unearthed—bungled.

Last spring, when the sugar question was being played ducks-and-drakes with, the public demanded protection against profiteering in food stuffs, but the public never for a moment thought that the Food Control Board was going into business, nor that the protection was going to be for a group of profiteers against the public.

The editor of the Advocate, who is himself also Chairman of the Food Control Board, makes a strenuous attempt to counter the charge by calling the SUN a liar. But he has not a solitary argument to advance that the price of sugar would not have been at around twenty cents or less at the present time but for the excellent bungling of him and his bungling crew of the F.C.B.; and there is no evidence from market quotations to show that sugar would ever have reached thirty cents in this country had the F.C.B. been satisfied with Controlling as their name implies, instead of going into the sugar business.

In the capacity of business men they were absolutely outgeneralled by sugar dealers, and the country has to pay!

Finding themselves beaten by the Hickman Company at law, they make use of an old 1918 Act, which was aimed at restricting imports from enemy countries, and use it to club the country into submission. Making use of powers that were never intended to be theirs they prevent any sugar being brought into the country until their high priced, rat-infested stuff is disposed of. Was there ever such a trick played on an unsuspecting people? Lawyers claim that this action of theirs will stand in law, so there seems no likelihood of redress, and while we watch the sugar market going down in Canada and the U. S., this country has to continue to pay over thirty cents for its sugar because the Food Control Board of the Squires-Coaker Government says so. Oh, Russia! Trotsky or Lenin never equalled this.

Newfoundland should not forget this too hurriedly.—Twillingate Sun.

Simonds Forms New London Company.

Simonds Canada Company, Limited, "The Saw Makers" of Montreal, Quebec, has just secured a charter and established a new company in Great Britain, to be known as Simonds Saws, Limited. An office and shop has been opened at 53 Bayham, Camdentown, London, N.W., where a full line of Simonds Saw Steel Products as is demanded in Great Britain will be carried. The shop will provide for maintenance and repairs of saws, machine knives, and other edge tools produced by the Simonds Company.

Guy A. Eaves, formerly connected with the Fitchburg, Mass. plant of the company has assumed the duties as office manager, and Leon E. Wilbur, a Simonds man, who has covered the Great Britain territory since his discharge from the army in France, will be associated with him.

The Simonds Company now maintains plants in Montreal, Quebec, Fitchburg, Mass., Chicago, Ill., and a steel mill at Lockport, N.W., where the steel used in the manufacture of Simonds Saw Steel Products is made. In addition to the new British branch the company maintains twelve branch houses, located throughout the United States and Canada.

Prospero Arrives.

S.S. Prospero, Capt. Field, arrived in port yesterday forenoon bringing the following passengers from the northward: Messrs. Dawe, Roberts, Hayes, Philpott, Anstey, Mursell, Starks, Tilley, Tetford, Guy, Ashbourne, Moores, Blanford (2), Wheeler, Rendell, Hynes, Elliott, Scammell, Sharp, Parsons, James; Messames Taylor, Davis, Broders, Tetford, Moore, Rideout, Wheeler, Harbin, Parsons, Burry, Carter, Misses Brothers, Cusick, Dunn, Joy, Howlett, Wiseman, Wheeler (2), Thistle, Benson, Layman, Parsons, Greene, Parsons, Murphy, Moody and 40 in stowage. The Prospero reports meeting very unfavorable weather practically since leaving St. John's on the outward trip. Coming south a number of fishing crews were picked up along the French Shore and landed in ports of Trinity and Conception Bays. The steamer brought a small freight.

Teachings of History Teach Us Nothing.

The end of the Lenin-Trotsky Bolshevik regime is in sight. It cannot be otherwise. Class rule, called for a better name, the "Dictatorship of the Proletariat," was bound to fall as are all dictatorships. One class cannot successfully rule to the exclusion of all other classes, and behind us lies Greece and Rome and France, under the Commune, and Russia under the Czar to prove it. John Spargo in his "Psychology of Bolshevism" — cynically observes, "Most men learn nothing from history" and the Lenins, Trotskys and Kuns hardly be said to have learned that little. If the leaders of the Bolshevik regime had got away from, in place of adhering to the tactics of the Paris Commune of 1871, then the uprising in Russia might have been another story. It was just a further glaring illustration of mental inability to profit by that history teaches. All of which records with Lenin's famous statement at the Third Soviet Conference, which was to this effect: "Among one hundred so-called Bolsheviks there is one real Bolshevik with thirty-nine criminals and sixty fools." This dreadful Russian fiasco, if one may call it by so pleasant a name, might have been avoided had the rulers of the Allied nations had sufficient vision, back at the time the Czar's Government was overthrown and Kerensky became the "man on horseback." All failed at the critical period to act democratically toward the budding republic. There was lack of frankness toward the Kerensky Government which was fatal to it. Agreements had been previously entered into between France, Britain, Italy, and the Czar's Government. That these agreements, with the Czar in confinement but still alive, should be looked upon with suspicion by the new Provisional Russian Government was to be expected. These treaties had been made by the Czar for the purpose of Czarism. Past experience has shown the Russian people that such had little in common with themselves. It was but natural that they asked for a new deal and a new deal, but the Allies lacked the vision and so missed their opportunity of backing up Kerensky. A little frankness might have turned the trick. As a consequence of the silence which followed Kerensky's appeal to the Allies, the faith of the Russian on the street and the soldier in the trenches began to fall him. They had been fooled so often. Was, after all, Kerensky their friend, or did he represent a capitalistic-imperialistic enterprise? Lenin and Trotsky, the first a semi-maniac and the latter a cheap but cute faker, saw their opportunity. They played upon the suspicion of soldier and civilian alike. Kerensky was eventually obliged to flee for his life and the Great Russian Tragedy entered upon its career.—Saturday Night.

Rights and Duties.

Governor Coolidge, in his speech at Worcester uttered some truths which are well worthy of consideration by men and women of all classes. He said: "We Americans talk a great deal about the rights of man. We talk, too, little about the duties of man. One man's rights are another man's duties. Unless duties are observed there can be no enjoyment of rights. There can be no freedom without corresponding restraint. There is no condition made or imposed by men. It is the result of the condition into which men are born."—Washington Post.

The Blessings of War.

Of the many evils of war the one that most often appears in the guise of a blessing is high prices. Those who profit by them are the last to welcome peace and first to respond to incitements to renewed strife. Enriched as many farmers have been by the exceptional conditions of the last five years, they have no more reason than any other element of the population to fear the consequences of a general and an orderly deflation.—New York World.

Cured by Accident.

An Ointment For Rheumatism Made Hair Grow, and a Snake Bite Cured Skin Trouble!

It was simply through the mistake of an assistant in filling a bottle with anisole instead of anise oil, that Professor Fraenkel discovered a preparation which absolutely destroys the insect which carries the germ of spotted fever or typhus.

This is by no means the only case of a remedy discovered purely by accident.

Visiting an elderly parishioner whom he had not seen for some time, the rector of a Norfolk parish was astonished to find that the old gentleman, who previously had possessed a pate as shiny as a billiard-ball, now displayed a fine crop of hair.

The rector very naturally inquired how this seeming miracle had come about, and was informed that it was the result of a certain ointment for rheumatism.

"You see, sir," said the old fellow, "I have rheumatism in my leg, and after I rubbed the ointment on my leg I wiped my hands on my bald head. Soon the hair began to grow, and now, after being bald for thirty years, I have a fine thatch again."

The remedy, it is said, has already been put upon the market under another name.

At Death's Door. The use of snake poison in certain skin diseases was first proclaimed to the medical world by a Brazilian scientist, Dr. de Moura.

Happening to visit an Indian village, he saw there a man who, by marks on his body, had evidently suffered from a peculiarly terrible form of skin disease, and was regarded as incurable. He made inquiries, and the sufferer told him that, a year previously, he had been dying from this disease when he was accidentally bitten by a pit viper.

This started Dr. Moura on experiments with snake venom, which have since proved to be of great value in many skin diseases, and which, it is said, will even arrest the progress of leprosy.

Professor Rontgen's X-Rays, one of the greatest benefits ever conferred on suffering man, afford still another instance of accidental discovery.

History "Howlers."

Scheelers' Notions of the Past More Picturesque Than Those of the Expert.

History, as it is written by school-boys, is much more interesting than the history written by experts. The boy who stated that "the Salic Law is that you must take everything with a grain of salt," was probably thinking of history in general, and the one who said that "Julius Caesar was renowned for his great strength. He threw a bridge across the Rhine," was only mixing mind and matter!

A small boy, who had been reading about Raleigh and the Virgin Queen, got the former mixed up with his Scripture-lesson, and said: "As Elijah went up to heaven, he dropped his mantle, and Queen Elizabeth walked over it." But he was much farther out in his dates than the boy who, when asked what Prince Harry did when he heard of the illness of his father, Henry IV, replied: "He sent a postcard to say he was coming at once."

Another small boy from East London must have been thinking of the water-but when he said, "the Feudal System is what we get our water out of," but was not more at sea than the youth who said, "Chivalry was when you feel cold," or the boy who said that "Queen Elizabeth was thin and pale, but a stout Protestant."

"Lollards were lazy people, who always wanted to rest against something," may be put side by side with what "Mr. Doctor Watts wrote about the voice of the Sluggard, which we have at home." But this is news about James the Second "Finally, James the Second gave birth to a son, and so the people turned him off the throne!"

"The Three Estates of the Realm are Buckingham Palace, Windsor, and Balmoral," asserted a fervent patriot but the boy who, in writing of the Middle Ages, said that "a man could not become a monk unless he had his tonsils out," got mixed between a tonsorial and surgical operation.

But the boy who "went farthest astray in his historical perspective was the one who wrote "Joan of Ark was Noah's missis."

Trees That Own Themselves.

In the United States of America there are two trees that own themselves and the ground on which they stand.

One of these famous trees is an oak in Georgia—where everything is peaches, by the way—and the other a sycamore in Kentucky. The former stood upon the land of a colonel named Jackson, who left the following paragraph in his will:

"I, W. H. Jackson, of the County of Clarke, State of Georgia, of the one part, and this oak-tree (giving location) of the other part, witness that the said W. H. Jackson in consideration of the great affection he bears said tree, and his desire to see it pro-

The sycamore is an even larger landowner, for thirty-six feet all round it were bequeathed to it by a certain Miss Lloyd, whose will contained the following:

"The said tree is conveyed, in consideration of the value of itself as a resting-place of the weary under its shade, itself, together with the terra-firma beneath, and said tree are to belong to themselves absolutely, and to each other, for all the purposes for which God and man intended them, among which is the purpose of the Produce and Provisions.

(From Saturday's Trade Review.)

CODFISH.—There are several cargoes of Labrador fish now due at Malaga for orders, but during the past few days there are many enquiries and we all hope it will be disposed of quickly.

This is the best news we have had for many days and with judicious control, the season's catch should be marketed at reasonable prices, but we must not forget that the markets are always eager for first arrivals and the first gleam of sunshine may not mean all that we expect. During this week about 50 schooners arrived from the northern outports with loads of fish, chiefly Labrador soft. There has been activity at the wharves since Thursday and the call of the fish is much more favorable to the fishermen. The general price for Labrador is $8.25 for what passes the culling board. There is very little thrown out as the fish on the whole is of excellent quality. About 100 more schooners are expected the early part of next week.

COD OIL.—There are several enquiries for Cod Oil lately, but there is no improvement in prices. Boston Oil men who supply the Tanners, write to Exporters here this week to the effect that they are getting a very suitable oil at 50 cents per gallon. We have our doubts whether there can be any quantity of this suitable oil at this price, but it shows how low some oils are being offered.

HERRING.—Except in Bay of Islands, there is very little interest being taken in herring this season so far. The herring business has been an unprofitable venture the past two years, and packers do not feel justified in continuing in the business of packing. There have been some enquiries for Scotch Pack from New York, but those who received them say they are not interested.

PORK.—The pork market continues weak. It is being influenced by the readjustment of values that has been going on in all other commodities. The fact that Wheat, Corn, and other commodities have broken from 50 to 75% from war prices, has been a feature in the provision market and has helped to bring about a readjustment in Hogs. Quotations show but little change since last week. There is a marked scarcity of Ham Butt in the American market, consequently local stocks are short of this grade. Present prices are, Ham Butt $56.00 for 50 lb. Family $52.00, Short Mess $50.00, Short Cut $44.00.

Beef.—The market is quiet, but firm

The difference between Beef from Cornfed Cattle and Beef from medium and lower grades of Steers and Cows has increased. The price of the choice beef has been strong, while the price of the medium grade has shown some decline. The total imports for St. John's to date are about 2,000 barrels ahead of last year, which shows that the demand was diverted to Beef owing to the much higher price of pork. The movement of Beef from merchants stores here so far has been very dull, owing to the depression in trade. If the demand for Winter supplies should be brisk next month, there will likely be a shortage by the end of the year, both of Beef and Pork.

FLOUR.—There was a jump of ten to fifteen cents per bushel on Wheat in Chicago the past week. Winnipeg also advanced to a considerable extent, but this Bull movement did not last long and there has been a reaction since. From reliable sources we find that stocks of flour in St. John's are not much over ten thousand barrels, whereas we should have at least one hundred and fifty thousand barrels here at this season. Nobody wants to purchase on a falling market, but it must be realized that there will be very few opportunities for importation after this week, as navigation to Montreal will close within a month. We quote highest grade of Manitoba patents at $17.00 per barrel to-day for stocks held, but new arrivals will be offered at $16.00.

SUGAR.—The demand for sugar in St. John's is remarkably slow, and at present rate of consumption, there appears to be sufficient in stock here till next March. Dealers here say that the Government should give some definite idea as to how long they intend to keep on the Regulations; such information would be more in the public interest than for the benefit of the Importers. A recent Cable announces a slight advance in the American Sugar market—the first for some months. It will be deplorable if the market advances again to high prices. In the meantime local importers are debarred from importing while prices are low. This will be a double blunder if the public are again shut off from low priced sugar even when the regulations are lifted. The prices in the local market are $28 1/2 and $32.00 per 100 pounds.

POTATOES.—Home-grown potatoes are now at their best in the local market, and householders were better pleased with the quality. The price is $3.50 to $4.00 per barrel in St. John's and about $1.00 less in the outports now, while the crop is being harvested. Once the potatoes are stored in the cellars they will likely be higher, so that now is about the best time to buy. F. E. I. potatoes, which will be about $5.00 a barrel, will not be arriving here in quantity till December.

MAN AND HIS JOB.

From Massachusetts comes the news, "The labor market's glutted;" and many workers have the blues who lately pawed and strutted. Then tilters were in such demand that they could name their wages; there never was a snap so grand in all the bygone ages. A silken shirt that cost much kale adorned the haughty tinner, and in a diamond studded pail he packed his princely dinner. The blacksmith's wife, in royal furs, went gadding here and yonder; a stately limousine was hers, which made the banker ponder. It couldn't last, this sort of thing, it jarred all sense and reason; a janitor may ape a king—but only for a season. And now the earnest student sees the signs of sense grow plainer; we're getting back by slow degrees to better times and saner. We've looked on labor with a frown, we've been so independent, as we went lolling through the town, in garments most resplendent. We've seen employers on their knees, beseeching and imploring, that we would help them put up cheese, their briny teardrops pouring. And now they're standing on their feet, and if we'd earn their money, we have to seek them, looking sweet, and cut out tantrums funny. To saner, wiser thimbobs we go, by easy stages; soon men will learn to guard their jobs, and prize their weekly wages.

Shoemaker Should Have Stuck to His Last.

Ottawa, Oct. 14.—William Beckman, a shoemaker of this city, was swindled out of $3,040 by a smooth game yesterday. A stranger who had visited his shop recently showed him what he termed "gold" of the type usually sold to jewellers. He said he wanted to sell it. Yesterday he returned and was met by another stranger, who posed as a jeweller, from Hull, Que. The "jeweller" looked over the metal and said it was worth $6,000, and agreed to take it at that price. He pretended great embarrassment when he found he had not enough money on him to complete the purchase, and Beckman was taken in to the extent of lending him the $3,040, keeping the "gold" as security until the "jeweller" would return. He never returned, and the police find that the metal is only brass, carefully prepared to look like gold.

It is believed that the strangers got away on one of the Montreal trains yesterday afternoon.

Lowering Prices.

Just as manufacturers in this country cannot continue to sell their goods at high prices in European countries handicapped by the exchange, so Americans are finding their foreign markets limited. The American public also, like the British, is exhausted after a long period of high prices, so that the manufacturer there, as here, can no longer find enough customers who are willing or able to pay at the rates that have recently prevailed.—London Daily Chronicle.

The Editorial Page.

(From the New York Herald.)
The editorial page of a newspaper is to-day its chief distinguishing feature. The news columns of newspapers that really compete are much the same; the editorial columns are entirely unlike. News is general. It is free to all. The editorial is individual. It is the soul of the newspaper. It is the differentiating utterance between newspapers; is the utterance that compels recognition; the utterance honestly and ably spoken that carries conviction, gives enlightenment and moulds public opinion.

The Herald of Mr. Bennett's ownership neglected this feature, shunning this responsibility. The Herald of to-day in which is entwined the strength of the Sun has its heart in the editorial page. It is here that it expresses its convictions, sets forth its conclusions and presents a wealth of discussion on many and various topics.

The editorial page should be a page of education, enlightenment, amusement, delight. In some measure this is the editorial page of the Herald of to-day; in large measure it will, I hope, be the editorial page of the future.—Frank A. Munsey.

Britain in Africa.

Addition of Tanganyika, formerly German East, to the British territories in East and Central Africa, coupled with the additional importance of this Continent as a producer of the raw materials of industry, has intensified in that part of the Empire that lies on either side of the equator. There are other happenings that have served to attract interest, and one is the growing political conscience of the settlers in the various colonies in the area mentioned. Recently popular demands in British East Africa have, to some extent at least, been met, and there are indications that the planters of Nyasaland are becoming restive under the present regime in that country.—Bulawayo Chronicle.

Fat Folks Read This Story

Recently, in the city of Chicago, a prominent man, burdened with excessive fat, went upon the operating table and had over sixty pounds of flesh carved from his huge, cumbersome body. Years ago the formula for fat reduction was "diet" and "exercise." Today it is "Take Marmola Prescription Tablets." Friends tell friends—doctors tell their patients, until thousands know and use this convenient, harmless method. They eat what they like, live as they like, and still lose their two, three or four pounds of fat a week. Simple, effective, harmless Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists—a good size box for one dollar. If you prefer, you may write direct to the Marmola Company, 58 Garfield Street, Detroit, Mich.

Some Famous "Fasts."

These fugitive from justice lived five months with neither food nor drink.

Shoulders bent, cheeks painfully sunken, forehead lined by deep furrows, his dark eyes as mournful as those of a beaten dog.

This is a quotation from a description of Sacco, the professional fast-man, who at the time had completed twenty-eight days' abstention from food. It was when, in 1907, he was trying to break the professional fasting record, which then stood at forty days.

All day long the public visiting sympathizers flattened their noses against the window of Sacco's hut, to gaze at the man who was dying by inches for their amusement and beastly spectacle, and of a type which, thank goodness! has since gone out of fashion except among freaks and fanatics.

In the previous year, 1908, this man, Sacco, had actually fasted in all during 187 days. At Worthing he had completed a thirty days' fast. He lost forty pounds weight, but regained it all in the next three weeks.

Year earlier the American Dr. Tanner, not to be confused with the Irish I.P. of the same name, had fasted for forty days. But Tanner, to do him justice, believed in fasting as a cure for most human ills, and acted on his belief. He lived to be nearly eighty.

Sacco The Wonder Man.

There are five sorts of fasting people. First, the professional faster out for money; second, hunger strikers, whose object is notoriety or strike, or the hope of escaping just punishment for their misdeeds; third, compulsory fasters unable to eat through illness, such as typhoid fever; fourth, some religious fasters, exemplified by certain Hindu yogis or mystics; and fifth, people forced to abstain from food simply because they can't get it—such as shipwrecked sailors and men shut up in mines or caves.

The length of time during which a human being can exist without food is very considerable. In the year 1813 Chester iron-worker named A. E. Fow, completed a fifty days' fast, and recovered. The record of Sacco, already mentioned, was forty-five days.

A woman, Madame Auguste Christian, is among the professionals. Some twenty years ago she completed thirty days' fast in public at the old Royal Aquarium. She only lost about Astonishing Change, States Mrs. Allen.

In Three Weeks Time Toronto Woman Gains Fifteen Pounds—Like New Person Since Taking Tanlac.

"In just three weeks' time Tanlac has relieved me of indigestion, nervousness and general weakness and added fifteen pounds to my weight," was the truly remarkable statement of Mrs. James Allen, of 66 West Ave., Toronto, the other day.

"About eight months before taking Tanlac I got into a badly run-down condition. My appetite was so poor I didn't eat enough to keep up my strength, and my stomach was so out of order even a little bit of food seemed to do me harm than good. I felt as if I was nothing but a bundle of nerves and all my clothes were too tight for me. My nervousness was so bad that when I went to bed at night it was next to impossible for me to get to sleep again. I almost out of the question to get my household work done, for I had to stop and rest again and again before I got through with anything I undertook.

Five weeks later some men, crossing the dunes, discovered there the prostrate and miserable body of the unfortunate girl. It appeared that she had not intended self-destruction, but when she came out of the sea and found the children gone she was afraid to return home, and had hidden in the dunes. During all those thirty-five days, her only food had been a few raw turnips and some blackberries. She was wasted to a skeleton when found—Answers.

The White Man's Burden

A despatch has been received at Washington which charges the United States marines have indulged in the "indiscriminate killing" of natives of Haiti. The report has come in the form of a confidential letter written by the commander of the corps. What the circumstances of the case may be, whether or not it is even true, there is as yet no means of knowing, but the matter most certainly demands the investigation which has been promised.

Newspapers catering to a certain class in the United States have let no opportunity go by to preach on the "horrors" of British rule in India, with special emphasis laid upon the Amritsar incident. British military authorities have been pictured as bloodthirsty monsters, worthy successors to Nana Sahib, in whose hands the life of no native is safe, and the affair at Amritsar, bad and all as it was, has been magnified by them as an example of the oppression to which India has been subjected.

Whatever may be the findings of the enquiry into the affair in Haiti, the people of this country and the people of Great Britain will never believe that "indiscriminate killings" of natives is any part of American foreign policy. They are quite prepared to agree that American occupation of Haiti—even though brought about with a complete disregard for the sacred principle of "self-determination," so dear to the hearts of candidates for office just before elections, and even without the sanction of Congress—is for the ultimate good of the people of the island. They know that the history of Haiti has been one long record of blood-stained oppression, misery and confusion, and that under American direction its wretched peoples are being given their first glimpse of order and security. They know—at least the people of Great Britain know, having had some experience in dealing with native populations—that very regrettable things sometimes happen, and that the man on the spot, particularly if he inherits the military tradition and be suddenly brought face to face with a crisis, does not always act with the restraint and suavity of the trained diplomat. Sometimes there is no time. Sometimes he believes that immediate sternness may prevent the spread of trouble and the necessity of greater and more widespread severity. Sometimes he is guilty of a plain blunder—a thing not wholly unknown to the best of us.

Whatever be the consequences, other nations are not going to accuse the United States of a policy of bloody oppression in Haiti. In any event, let us hope that the incident may tend to curb a little the poisonous activities of the anti-British propaganda in the United States.—Montreal Daily Star.

'Nuf Said.

An Irishman came home one night with a blackened eye, a broken nose, and a split lip.

"Tim Sullivan done it," he told his wife as he began to bathe the wounds.

"Shame on ye!" Bridget cried, "big feller like you to be licked by a hard-drinking cockroach like Tim Sullivan! Why, he—"

"Whist," said Pat, "don't spake evil of the dead."

Aeroplane Crash.

Pilot and Four Passengers Killed.

Five persons were killed and a sixth fatally injured through the crashing of a passenger aeroplane near the Northolt Aerodrome, Middlesex.

A two-engine aeroplane belonging to the Central Aircraft Company left Northolt Aerodrome with a pilot and five passengers—two men and three ladies—for a complimentary flying trip around the aerodrome. It had been in the air not more than five minutes when, from some unexplained cause, the machine got out of control and came crashing to earth over 1000ft. beneath, off Shavell Lane, Hayes. The pilot, two men, and two women were killed outright and the sixth passenger—who was quite a girl—was badly injured.

The names of the killed are officially given as follows:—

Captain F. P. Castleman (24), chief pilot of the Central Aircraft Construction Company, who had served in France as a bomber in D.H.Q. machines. He was afterwards R.A.F. instructor at Salisbury Plain.

Miss Isolda de Trafford (22), who had the distinction of being the first woman to pass the tests of the Air Ministry.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Wilkinson (45), wife of Mr. W. Wilkinson, caterer at Northolt.

Gladys Sybil Wilkinson (16), daughter of Mrs. Wilkinson.

Ex-Sergeant C. Rowlands (43), caretaker at Northolt Military Aerodrome.

Helen Rowlands (11), daughter of Sergeant Rowlands.
