GO! GET IT

What will the new year bring? That is the question that many a man has asked himself. It is one question we cannot answer. It is one no one can reply intelligently to. But whatever it may bring, there is one sure thing, we will have to work for it all we get. So, let us put our shoulder to the wheel of industry and make it roll around. Let us pull together in business and social life alike. Let us cast out our differences and get together in a real community way. Help one another up the hill of strife. Why should people carry one another? It doesn't seem right does it? Then, let us when we have anything to say, say something worth while, and when we have anything to do, let us do it with all our might. We live in one of the best communities in the world, but few of us realize that. Here we have most everything that goes to make up a real centre, so let us get the spirit and boost, then boost some more. "Go, get it!" That's what Kitchner said, and you know the result. It was got—no matter what. And we say unto you "go, get it!" Remember, action brings results. Let us act and keep on doing it until we put this part of the world in the place it belongs "at the head of everything." Concerted, united action, with pep, zip and anything else you want to put into it—then see what happens.

COURAGE AND CONFIDENCE

Quiet courage and unwavering confidence are the qualities that will best lead all business through present day conditions. We know the cause of our trouble, but so far we are not able to effect an immediate cure. But this does not necessarily mean that the malady is incurable. So let us renew our faith in the hope born in past experiences, and do our part in restoring the equilibrium as quickly as possible.

With this spirit let us approach the difficulties of this year. They may be real difficulties—and serious ones—but we are a people nurtured in the hard school of experience, and as a consequence we are equipped to stand at least a few of the rebuffs of these trying times. And it does not profit much to be too anxious about the immediate future. What is most necessary is to be on a temporary bolstering up of business, but rather an unselfish attitude on the part of all of us to make such sacrifices as may be necessary to restore a true and stable balance to business.

LAKE PLEASANT

We have had a fall of snow to the depth of ten inches which will make logging operations at their best.

Mr. J. F. Sharford and son of Halifax were at the Corner Store on the 16th making arrangements to purchase the wood and logs which will be manufactured at the mill during the coming summer. It is to be hoped this mill will be operated at a profit instead of a loss to its owners, the next cut.

Mr. Phillips of Halifax is still at the above named store looking after the business. He is proving himself an expert.

Mr. L. McNay spent several days gathering up clothing, bedding, dishes and cash for Mr. Dimmock Tutts and family, who had the misfortune to lose all they had by fire.

The kind friends responded nobly, about $100 being realized.

O daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Burton Veinot on the 13th inst. A number of this village are confined to their homes with bad colds. A son has been welcomed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Primrose Tutts.

OBITUARY

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Palmer of North Kingston, was saddened on Jan. 6th, when their little daughter, Doris Mabel, passed away at the King's Memorial Hospital, Berwick, at the age of 6 months.

Stricken with disease several weeks ago, everything that medical skill and loving care could do, was done to save the precious life, but at last gentle Jesus took the wee sufferer in His Loving Arms, to the Home that knows no suffering or death.

Keep In Touch With Your Dealers By Long Distance Telephone

"Oh, we hadn't a look in from your people for six months, and thought that perhaps you had given up working this territory; so we placed our order with another house in your lines. Now we're stocked up."

That's the answer a travelling salesman got the other day from a village storekeeper whom he was canvassing for an order.

Rather a nasty knock!

How different it would have been if the salesman's house had been in the habit of giving the dealer a periodical call over the Long Distance Telephone Lines!

Then the dealer would have known the house was doing business in the territory, and the house would not have lost an order and perhaps a customer.

I Am Photography

I DULL THE PANGS OF BEREAVEMENT AND BLUNT THE EDGES OF THE GRIM REAPER'S SCYTHE

What more precious legacy when a dear one has passed on than a photograph of the old familiar face as we knew it in days gone by? We are frequently called to photograph some one who has recently died, or the floral tributes at the funeral. Wouldn't a picture taken when life was all smiles and sunshine be more highly treasured and bring more pleasant memories? Surely that portrait of the father or mother who has left "Dull the Pangs of Bereavement." W. H. Dill, Middleton.

The plans and specifications which have already been made call for a ship 265 feet long, 265 staterooms with bath and toilets and every modern convenience, and many innovations which cannot yet be made public. The new ship will be of staunch construction, sufficient for her to make a round the world cruise if necessary. The specifications call for a speed of 18 knots. Immediately after contracts are placed work will be started and rushed through to completion in order to bring her out in the Spring of 1916. The cost of the new ship will be approximately $1,250,000.

HOLINESS

Holiness is an infinite compassion for others; greatness is to take the common things of life and walk truly among them; happiness is a great love and much serving.

N. S. FRUIT GROWERS IN ANNUAL SESSION

SIXTY-FIRST MEETING OPENS AT ANNAPOLIS—MANY PROBLEMS ARE DISCUSSED

Annapolis, January 20th.—The sixty-first annual session of the Nova Scotia Fruit Growers Association convened at the town hall this afternoon, with the president, A. FitzRandolph in the chair.

Major Cunningham, in an address of welcome, assured the members that there were no men he would rather welcome than the fruit growers, the backbone of the country. The exhibits of apples at Wembley, were not so good as they should have been owing, he said, to the packing. He hoped they would see that this year no apples would be sold in the local markets but those grown in Nova Scotia.

Rev. H. S. Shaw, of Berwick, reported on behalf of the members.

Then followed the president's address. Manning Ellis, referring to the new freight rates, said that a saving of more than $50,000 to the fruit growers. He urged that the entomological laboratories be upheld by the association.

Mr. Wyatt of Wilmet, asked for greater freedom in sending apples to England, including free run packed. Leslie Wiltshire, of Avonport, replied that the British market required apples by the pound. High class trade, like hotels, would pay any price for the best fruit. "The east and in London might buy a pack like that for their trade, but graded fruit was important, giving the buyers confidence."

The vice-president, A. S. Banks, moved that fruit storage be taken up at a later meeting. F. W. Bishop, of Paradise, seconded the resolution, which was passed.

Prof. J. J. Shaw, of the horticultural department, Truro, gave an address on apple stocks for grafting.

URGENT CARE

Inspector G. H. Vroom urged the members to be careful in packing and handling.

Ten per cent of the fruit was cut and bruised.

Let us save our reputation in putting up apples, cutting out number three for older, as they ruin the market. In Halifax they import apples from the U. S. A., he added. By care in packing apples the average loss could be reduced. The fruit growers must wake up and put less trash in market. New Brunswick packs were infinitely better and brought more money. Our people, he said, "are too sure that they are right and then do not conform to raise and regulations, although there is a wonderful improvement. We must be more careful."

Eric Leslie, of Woodville, read a paper the need for careful packing to do the country justice.

The president appointed as a resolution committee: H. S. Shaw, V. B. Leonard and Manning Ellis.

Prof. W. S. Blair congratulated the members on their papers and replied to Mr. Marriott, who discussed fruit in English markets.

F. W. Foster, secretary, suggested that they might send their number three to the evaporators.

A banquet was held this evening at the Masonic Hall. Hon. R. E. Finn, who was to have addressed the gathering, was not present.

WEDNESDAY SESSION

Annapolis Royal, Jan. 21.—At the second meeting of the Nova Scotia Fruit Growers Association, held this morning, a paper was read by B. Leslie Emile, of Toronto, on "Results from Orchard Fertilizer". He urged the necessity of using, before leaves grow, about eight pounds to the tree.

A Kelsall gave his views on applying insecticide before rain and before development of bud also on spraying with Bordeaux late in August for fungus or scab. Mr. Hickey, asked if plums were of sufficient importance to carry on black knot eradication. Hartley Foote said that one plum tree, not bearing for 10 years, after being sprayed had yielded 50 bushels."

the Wednesday evening session of the Fruit Growers Association was also largely attended, and opened with an interesting talk on "Bad Moth" and the spray used for it, by Arthur Kelsall, Head Entomologist of the local Laboratory. He was followed by Mr. Fulton, Assistant Fruit Commissioner, of Ottawa, who spoke of the care necessary in handling fruit.

Malcom B. Davis, of Ottawa, then gave a very comprehensive address on spraying, pruning, soil management and chemical fertilization—a letter from J. Elliot Smith on the apple question in England, was read by secretary, and the rest of the evening was taken up with a thorough discussion on these subjects.

THE SHIPPING ASSOCIATION WAS REUNIONED

signed by Captain W. S. Rawling, Secretary, which report was discussed at length.

The new President then took the chair, after which F. W. Bishop took up some questions left over from the meeting of the Horticultural Council, and M. K. Ellis gave notice that he would bring up the matter of an increase of membership fees at the next annual meeting.

The Chairman of the Resolution Committee, Rev. H. S. Shaw, then presented resolutions thanking the town of Annapolis Royal for the use of the new Town Hall; to Prof. W. S. Blair for the splendid exhibit of apples brought from the Experimental Farm at Kentville; and to the various speakers. Other resolutions related to financing the investigation or orchard pests and disseminating information regarding the same, and to the early importation of tender fruits into Canada.

The resolutions were widely discussed by M. K. Ellis, F. M. Chute, F. W. Bishop, C. Perry Foote, E. C. Johnson, and R. L. Palmer.

A resolution was then read by C. Perry Foote to request the Federal Government to regulate the sale and manufacture of insecticides and fungicides, to avoid fraudulent character and injurious effects upon the trees and plants; to be caused to be printed upon the packages a guaranteed analysis, showing percentage of ingredients; and further, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Horticultural Council and Minister of Agriculture. This was moved by H. Bartheaux, seconded by A. M. Gold, spoken to by A. Kelsall, V. B. Leonard, A. FitzRandolph.

The discussion on this paper was cut short by the rapid approach of the train time, and after it was moved by M. K. Ellis, seconded by E. C. Johnson, that G. J. Comeau be made an honorary member of the Association, as a mark of appreciation for his continued interest in the Annapolis Valley, the meeting adjourned.

"Best Thing in the World For Delicate Girls"
Mrs. John Bennett, Boggy Creek, Mass., writes: "My little girl had organic nervous trouble, could not sleep, had severe headaches and fainting spells. This went on for three years, and three doctors helped her very little. After reading of what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food had done for others, I got some for her. She is now so well that she is like a different child. She is fourteen years old and looks the picture of health."
"We have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for different members of the family, when recovering from 'flu' and scarlet fever, and it has always helped them."

New Lamp Burns 94% Air
BEATS ELECTRIC OR GAS
A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to all other oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent air and 6 per cent common kerosene (coal oil).
The inventor, J. M. Johnson, 246 Craig St., W. Montreal is offering to send a lamp on 10 days FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. NINE GONNERY AT UPPER GRANVILLE
The Christmas entertainment recently given by pupils of Chesley School under the direction of Miss Clara E. Armstrong, of Middleton, was pronounced the best ever held at Upper Granville. A very large audience greeted the performers. The room was most attractive with decorated Christmas Trees. The program made up of choruses, duets, solos, drills, monologues, dialogues, pageants, etc. were finely rendered and each of the thirty-six numbers was vigorously applauded. Those taking leading parts in the playlets showed great acting ability, and the one reading by Miss Evelyn Phinney was excellent. The musical numbers were most delightfully given showing great talent in that direction. Mrs. H. E. Phinney was organist. After the last splendid chorus Christmas Bells, Santa arrived and distributed from off the generously filled tree, candy, fruits and peanuts to each scholar.
Miss Armstrong was the recipient of a beautiful Christmas Tree. It was moved that Miss Armstrong be given a vote of thanks, which was responded to by all present. After which God Save the King was sung and all returned home well pleased with their teacher and the way in which she had trained the children. We wish her every success.

Little Bill
Little Bill is a source of annoyance and anxiety as well as expense to us. This should not be. It is you that should really be responsible for Little Bill. We refer to the Little Bill you forgot to pay. Perhaps when in town you wanted something else and forgot us altogether. Or again you did not want to leave your work, so phoned us and had the work or ad. charged, promising to send the money on first mail. Yet, though you may not have had an account with us, we charged it to oblige you. Remember we charged it to oblige you. Suppose the bill was only $1. If it was not paid in six months we lost 3c in interest. Also it cost us 5c to enter on our books. Now if we have to make out a bill it means another cost of 5c so you see where our profit goes. Some of our accounts are three years old.
We are always ready to oblige our customers, but we want them to do their part. We not only have a right to the money, but we certainly need it. Please do not forget again. Send or bring it to us today. Thank you.

MILLION RAZOR BLADES

A million razor blades a day will be turned out by a Sheffield manufacturer who hopes to capture the world's markets for safety razor blades. He intends manufacturing a new kind of blade to be made from a steel known as Cobalt steel, which is stainless and rustless, and possesses superior cutting qualities never before known in razors. The new blades will last at least three times as long as the ordinary safety blade. Old-style razors made of Cobalt steel have been used for four months without stopping.

Advertising is the sunlight of business. To all that is healthy and vital in business it means increased strength and growth; but advertising is a fierce heat which withers and consumes that which is unsound. A business which is not good business should not be advertised. A business which would not benefit from wide-spread appreciation of its ideals had better acquire a new set of ideals.

FAIRBANK RIDGE

January 22nd—Mrs. Edgar Glick has been quite ill.

Between chicken pox, which is bad enough, and gripe, which is much worse, our community has had rather a severe time of it. At time of writing, W. L. Sproule is suffering from an attack of intestinal congestion, caused by gripe; and several cases of "gastro flu" are reported. Having now no resident physician we dread these epidemics more than formerly.

The Rev. A. J. Prosser visited at T. F. Mason's last Sunday en route to Halifax.

Mr. Harold Stoddart, a former resident, has been visiting relatives here recently.

Mr. James Sproule, who is logging in New Albany, spent Sunday at home. His son, Master Frank, spent last week in camp with his father.

Among those who went to East Dalhousie on January 13th to attend the funeral services of the late George Taylor, of that place, were Mr. and Mrs. Wentzell, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Sproule, E. G. Mason and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Marshall. Many who would have otherwise gone were deterred by illness and inclement weather. The correspondent for Dalhousie will doubtless forward to the Outlook an obituary notice but we would add our own tribute to the great friend who has passed on. He was a peace maker, a christian gentleman of high ideals, and was respected and loved by all who knew him. Some eleven years ago his heart was made sad and lonely by the very sudden death of his wife, and since that loss, although he has been most lovingly and tenderly cared for by his only son, Herman, and wife, formerly Miss Gertrude Charlton of this place, he has felt as did Longfellow who after his wife's death wrote—

"Life to me is as a station.
Wherein I am a traveller stands,
One absent long from home and nation.
In other lands,
And I as he that waits and listens,
Amid the twilight chill and gloom,
To hear approach from the distance,
The train from home."

Recently Mr. Taylor's health failed and a few days before the end came his suffering was intense, until early in the morning of January 13th he was released. If we might presume to add a word of our own to those from Longfellow it would be this:—

As a bird set free from the thralling cage
Scouts exultantly to the heights,
With never an earthward look behind,
To hinder its homeward flight.

As a captive loosed from the dreary house of clay,
Has sped to its longed for abode,
O'er the Crest of the Hill, past the Plains of Peace,
In the Paradise of God.

Mrs. Jessie Miller had several tons of coal pressed by the Beals & Nelly Press, of Brookville, recently.

Surprise Birthday Parties seem to be the order of the day in this place. Two has been given this month. One on the evening of January 3rd to Miss Elizabeth Slocumb it being her 24th birthday, and the other one was given to Miss Vera Elliot on the evening of January 12th it being her 22nd birthday. A number of young folks attended both parties, and the evenings were spent very pleasantly in games and music.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. William R. Nelly, of Malden, Mass., on the birth of a daughter, January 8th, 1925.

Miss Isabelle Patterson and Miss Dorothy Baker, of Margarettville, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Elliot on the evening of January 12th.

The Mother Bros. are loading a car at Brickton with pressed hay.

We are glad to report that our pastor, Dr. M. W. Brown, is improving in health also that Mrs. J. W. Hines, of Cottage Cove, is able to be out again.

We understand that Mr. Stephen Neavey of Port Lorne has bought out the Ellis' Milling Co. of this place.

Mr. Rop Barteaux visited at the home of Mr. Joseph Bent of Outram recently.

Messrs. Gerald and William Hines have been chopping wood for Mr. James Slocumb of Outram.

Miss Sylvia Slocumb, of Outram, has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. G. B. Hines for the past two weeks.

Mrs. E. J. Elliot spent January 6th the guest of Mrs. Sydney Stephens, of Outram.

A number of the folks of this place gave Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Stephens, of Outram, a "House Warming" on the evening of January 13th. A very enjoyable evening was spent by all.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS TO THE ANNAPOLIS COUNTY FARMERS' ASSOCIATION

Gentlemen:—

It gives me much pleasure to meet so many of you here, at this the Twenty-first Annual Meeting of the Annapolis County Farmers' Association, now in session, convened.

In looking back over the past year we may note that there has been many things to be thankful for; while we are aware that most (if not all of us) have experienced very trying and discouraging things. Problems that we all individually have to solve and overcome as best we can under the circumstances severally confronting us (but I think that with the UNUSUAL optimism and courage that Farmers are supposed to have at their command), these have been banquished when encountered, and by now are perhaps forgotten, so I will not dwell, but pass on to note some of the things that tend to inspire and enliven us to make greater efforts along the lines that lead to the greater prosperity of the Farmers, in general, which means happiness and contentment to all. This association has the reputation of accomplishing what it sets out to do. Time would not allow me to mention very many, but this most excellent and suitable building in which we have met this afternoon, is placed at the disposal, and for the benefit of the farmers of Annapolis County in many ways, one of the ways I might mention it as being a contributing factor in securing (to this Community and County) the Extension Course, February 14th to March 14th, 1924. Of which so large a number of our youths availed themselves of this great privilege of studying the different subjects laid down for the Course in practical farming, under the very efficient Instructor and Manager, Mr. E. Boulton of Windsor, N. S., who no doubt will put into practice the knowledge acquired during this Course, which was supplemented by lectures (given by the best talent available) on the different phases of farming and forestry. These lectures being open for the public, many availed themselves of this privilege, at the end of the Course. As it was thought desirable to continue it another term, in 1925, a Special Meeting was called for the purpose of passing resolutions in favour of the same, which we trust will bear fruit if we do our very best to get the guaranteed number of 25 and as many more as can be accommodated, also the class of '24 will be given an opportunity to take the 2nd year studies.

CROPS: The crops in most instances have been fair. Hay nearly up to the average and of good quality. Grains very good, all of which was harvested in good condition. It is in my opinion opportune time to utilize a larger proportion of our hayland for the purpose of growing more grain and vegetables, in order that the herds may be increased, and at the same time feed better on smaller outlay for imported feeds. Along with the improvement in dairying, we may note also the establishing of an up-to-date Creamery by Mr. J. D. MacKenzie, centrally located at Middleton, which is a great help to the Dairy industry in this part of the county. It has been suggested by some writers who have studied conditions in the county that most Dairy Herds could be increased, and in a few instances doubled, as conditions would allow, this (with pigs to take the skim milk) would help to keep up the fertility of the soil to the benefit of crops of hay, grain and vegetables, and also the orchards which respond very readily to the dressing of barn yard fertilizer. This year's crop of apples have been harvested in very good condition, there being no heavy frosts to damage the fruit on the trees, and with the exception of a storm on the first of October, small damage was done by winds. Although the crop has not been as heavy as for the past two years, we are hoping that the extra price realized will more than make up the deficiency of the number this season. And as the price of other farm produce has been somewhat indifferent, the apples in some cases will help to balance accounts more satisfactory. I feel that I very inadequately express the sentiments of this association when I say that the Farmers of this County, feel it a great loss, and regret very much the death of one of the foremost Farmers and Stock Breeders, the late Howard Corning, of Yarmouth, N. S.

We do hereby tender an expression of appreciation to all who have in so many ways helped to carry out the work that we are trying to do from year to year through this organization. In closing I wish you all a very happy and prosperous year upon which you are about entering, and

Behind every package of MORSE'S TEAS there is over Fifty Years of Tea Blending Experience.

THE FANCY DRESS DANCE HELD LAST THURSDAY

The first carnival of the season in this town, was held in the form of a Fancy Dress, in the Middleton Arena under the direction of the M. A. A., who have taken over the management of the Rink for this season. The carnival was well patronized, there being a goodly number in costume as the attached list plainly shows and equally as many spectators looking on. The costumes were very pretty and in most cases original. The judges had no snap in picking out the winners, as so many of the contestants seemed worthy of the honor. However after much deliberation and consideration they finally decided on the winners whose names are preceded by a star (*) in the list. The management deserves much credit for the excellent manner in which the carnival was handled. They have been untiring in their efforts to give their patrons good fun, and had on the job, Thursday evening, for the carnival, "Moon" Landers and his famous orchestra, which supplied music that was most enjoyed by both skaters and spectators. Following is the list of those in costume with the winners indicated by the star:

LOOKING AND BEING

A wilted flower not only soon loses its fragrance, but its garb of beauty in color is all too soon forgotten. They carelessly said man may give no evidence of a former prosperity, excepting through some flash of light that his mind may utter.

The fact is that you are judged for what you are now, what you look like, and what you may do.

The man who lingers and waits for the Fairy of Fortune to pass his way dies a disappointed man on the spot. Whereas as who gets ready to receive that illusive wielder of the wand is he whom we call "lucky," or perhaps Fortune's pet.

You must look the thing you most desire. You must dress, act, work the thing that you may have to go into debt you may have to spend sleepless nights in sea of speculative plans, you may have to go hungry, lose jolly friends, be deprived of many of the pleasing things of the everyday—but some of these days you are sure to achieve that which you have so much desired and worked to gain.

Look happy even though you may not be so. Look prosperous. Buy your complaints, plow right through the mass of obstacles that look like a mountain in front of you. Dare a few big tasks.

You can't be the part until you have proved that you can look the part.

Success is a proud affair. It will harbor unworthy partners. It must travel with its own.

Your first concern should be to think, look and act that which you strive toward.

Girlhood Dangers

CAN BE AVOIDED, BY KEEPING THE BLOOD RICH AND PURE.

The anaemia of young girls may be inherited, or it may be caused by bad air, unsuitable food, hasty and irregular eating, insufficient outdoor exercise and not enough rest and sleep. It comes on gradually, beginning with languor, indisposition to exertion and a feeling of fatigue. Later comes pallor of the face and head-aches. In the majority of cases constipation is present, and the complexion takes on a greenish-yellow pallor. The treatment is quite easy and simple. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are just the tonic to remedy this wretched state of health. They act directly upon the blood, and as it becomes rich and pure, strength and activity returns, the glow of health comes to the cheeks, and soon the trouble will disappear and good health follow. Miss Freda McGill, R. R. No. 1, Redbank, Ont., has proved the value of this medicine, and her statement will point the way to health to all other weak girls. She says: "I was very ill with anaemia. I could not sleep at night; my appetite was poor; my face and lips were very pale and my eyes dull. I got so weak that I could not go upstairs without resting. I took dizziness and fainting spells, had no ambition whatever, and did not care to go about. I was in this condition for nearly a year. I had treatment from two doctors, but did not regain my strength, so my mother, who was very uneasy about me, decided I should try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After using the pills for a while I felt somewhat better, and continued taking them until I had used about a dozen boxes, when I was again well and strong. I can strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the treatment of any suffering from anaemia."

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at $1.00 a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LOYALTY

Of course this is a subject that each and everyone has heard many times but indeed we have not heard it too often for we need to practice loyalty every day of our life.

"Are we Loyal to God and Country?" Perhaps we are but we must apply his virtue to a further extent. "It is the little things in life that count." If we were truly loyal to our town how much more we could assist in its upkeep. But this is so often not the case. "Distance, that great enchantress," draws us to some other place on a shopping errand; in the "Movies" or some other haunt of amusement.

Now comes the point—if these little pleasure seekers would only stay at home and co-operate with the young people of their own community they would be doing their own place in a capable of providing entertainment for them and the merchants around. In fact, they are enough to enable them to buy the "up to date goods" that some people claim they have to secure in other places.

"In unity there is strength" therefore, let the population of each town or village unite together in one intention, to do everything to keep the line of progress going.

Not only will this improve our town but it will make it far more congenial. Jealousy, the green eyed monster, will be trampled upon in the great rush of people "up and going."

And when we all are working for one great end, people will forget the bright lights of some other place in the struggle to make their own town prosper. Loyalty is a virtue that should be a struggle to make their own town prosper. Loyalty is a virtue that should be a struggle to make their own town prosper.

TEMPERANCE IN LONDON

American moralists and others who have been quoting England as showing the sorrows of drink and tax burdens in strong drink have, in the argot of the street, another guess coming. London police records show that cases of drunkenness have diminished 62 per cent. in the past five years and that the people are growing more sober year by year. In many of the cities of Great Britain there are fewer public houses, corresponding to the former American saloon, and smaller stocks of drinkables.

Miss A.: "Will you attend the banquet?"
Miss T.: "Why certainly, I will like that kind of music."

PHYSICAL TRAINING

The value of physical education in extending life is after all, quite incidental. Its real merit is in making life worth living. A general extension of the period of life is of interest mainly to the actuary. More appealing to the average man or woman is the new zest in life that comes from physical training and health culture. It is less the desire to live longer than to live more fully that is increasing the ranks of the physical culturists.

A tale of youth and summer time and the Baxter family, especially William.
By BOOTH TAKINGTON.

William shielded her infinitesimally from the amorous sun. Poor William! Two youths entirely in William's condition of heart accompanied the glamorous girl, while Miss Parcher appeared dimly upon the outskirts of the group, the well known penalty for bossiness who entertain such radiance. Probably it serves them right. Miss Pratt's voice came clearly as the chiming of tiny bells, for the spoke whimsically to her little dog in that tinkling childlike fashion which was part of the spell she cast.

"Darlin' Flop!" she said, "wake up! Go tumbling tea party with all de drowed up. P'obus Flop, wake up!" His heart melting within him, William turned from the angelic sounds of the window. He ran out of the room and plunged down the front stairs. And the next moment the crash of breaking glass and the loud thump-bump of a heavily falling human body resounded.

Mrs. Baxter, alarmed, excused herself from the tea table, round which were gathered four of five young people, and hastened to the front hall, followed by Jane. Through the open door were seen Miss Pratt, Miss Parcher, Mr. Johnnie Watson and Mr. Joe Bullitt coming up the walk, laughing and unaware of the catastrophe which had occurred. And a little distance from the foot of the stairs William was seated upon the prostrate "Battle of Gettysburg."

"It slid," he said hoarsely. "I carried it upstairs with me"—he believed this—"and somebody brought it down and left it lying flat on the floor by the bottom step on purpose to trip me. I stepped on it, and it slid."

"Get up, Willie," Mrs. Baxter urged, and then she rubbed her eyes and looked down anywhere. William had dreamily seated himself upon a taboret in the library without noticing that Jane had left her open paint box there. Jane had just been painting sunsets. Naturally all the little blocks of color were wet, and the effect upon William's pale gray trousers was marvelous, far beyond the capacity of his coat to conceal.

Collar buttons and children's paint boxes—these are the trolls that lie in wait!

The gray clothes and the fannel trousers had been destined for the professional cleaner, and William, raising himself from a brief stupor, made a pitiful effort to substitute himself for that expert. He brought water, towels, lath soap and a rubber bath sponge to the bright light of his window, and there, with touching courage and persistence, he tried to scrub the paint out of the cloth. He obtained cloud studies and marines which would have interested a post-impressionist, but upon trousers they seemed out of place.

There came one seeking and calling him again. Raps sounded upon the door, which he had not forgotten to lock.

"Willie," said a serious voice, "mam-ma wants to know what in mercy's name is the matter! She wants to know if you know for mercy's name what time it is! She wants to know that in mercy's name you know they're all going to think! She says—"

"Go away!"

"Well, she said I had to find out what in mercy's name you're doing, Willie!"

"You tell her," he shouted hoarsely—"tell her I'm playin' dominoes! What's she think I'm doin'?"

"I guess"—Jane paused, evidently to complete the swallowing of something—"I guess she thinks you're goin' crazy. I don't like Miss Pratt, but she lets me play with that little dog. It's name's Flop!"

"You go 'way from that door and stop bothering me," said William. "I got enough on my mind!"

"Mamma looks at Miss Pratt," Jane remarked. "Miss Pratt puts cakes in that Mr. Bullitt's mouth and Johnnie Watson's mouth too. She's awful!"

William bellowed, "If you don't get away from that door!"

Jane was interested in the conversation, but felt that it would be better to return to the refreshment table. There she made use of her own conception of a whisper to place before her mother a report which was considered interesting and even curious by every one present, though, such was the courtesy of the little assembly, there was a general pretense of not hearing.

"I told him," thus whispered Jane, "an' he said, 'You g'way from that door or I'll do somethin'.' He didn't say what, mamma. He said: 'What you think I'm doin'? I'm playin' dominoes.' He didn't mean he was playin' dominoes, mamma. He just said he

Here was a calamity. Few things are more useless than a decapitated collar button, and William had no other. He had made sure that it was his last before he put it on that day; also he had ascertained that there was none in, on or about his father's dressing table. Finally, in the possession of neither William nor his father was there a shirt with an indigenous collar. At first he did not realize the extent of his misfortune. Of course William searched his dressing table and his father's, although he had been thoroughly over both once before that day. Next he went through most of his mother's and Jane's accessories to the toilet, through trinket boxes, glove boxes, hairpin boxes, handkerchief cases, even through sewing baskets. Utterly he convinced himself that ladies not only use no collar buttons, but also never pick them up and put them among their own belongings. Jane, arriving at his locked door upon an errand, was hidden by a thick, unnatural voice to depart.

"Mamma says, 'What in mercy's name is the matter?'" Jane called.

"She whispered to me, 'Go an' see what in mercy's name is the matter with Willie, an' if the glass cut him, after all, an' why don't he come down?' An' why don't you, Willie? We're all havin' the nicest time!"

"You g'way!" said the strange voice within the room. "G'way!"

"Well, did the glass cut you?"

"No! Keep quiet, G'way!"

"Well, are you ever comin' down to your party?"

"Yes, I am, G'way!"

Jane obeyed, and William somehow completed the task upon which he was engaged. Genius had burst forth from his despair. Necessity had become a mother again, and William's collar was in place. It was tied there. Under his necktie was a piece of string.

He had lost count of time, but he was miraculously aware of its passage. Agony was in the thought of so many rich moments frittered away upstairs while Joe Bullitt and Johnnie Watson made hay below. And there was another spur to haste in his fear that the behavior of Mrs. Baxter might not be all that the guest of honor would naturally expect of William's mother. As for Jane, his mind filled with dread, shivers passed over him at intervals.

It was a dismal thing to appear at a party, and that his own, in last summer's suit, but when he had hastily put it on and faced the mirror he felt a little better—for three or four seconds. Then he turned to see how the back of it looked—and collapsed in a chair, moaning.

He had worn these clothes on the previous Saturday, and, returning from a glorified walk with Miss Pratt, he had demonstrated a fact to which his near demolition of the wafters this afternoon was additional testimony. This fact, roughly stated, is that a person of seventeen in love is liable to sit down anywhere. William had dreamily seated himself upon a taboret in the library without noticing that Jane had left her open paint box there. Jane had just been painting sunsets. Naturally all the little blocks of color were wet, and the effect upon William's pale gray trousers was marvelous, far beyond the capacity of his coat to conceal.

William leaned upon the banister railing and thought thoughts about Jane. For several long, seething moments he thought of her exclusively. Then, spurred by the loud laughter of rivals and the agony of knowing that even in his own house they were monopolizing the attention of one of the noblest, he hastened into his own room and took account of his reverses.

Standing with his back to the mirror, he obtained over his shoulder a view of his trousers which caused him to break out in a fresh perspiration. Again he wiped his forehead with the handkerchief, and the result was instantly visible in the mirror.

William began a feverish examination of the garments hanging in his clothes closet. There were two pairs of fannel trousers which would probably again be white and possible with cleaned and pressed. Beside them hung last year's summer suit of light gray.

Feverishly he brought it forth, threw off his coat and then, deflected by another glance at the mirror, began to change his collar again. To quicken the process he decided to straighten the best collar button. Using a silver ornament as a lever, he succeeded in bringing the little cap or bead of the button into its proper plane, but his final effort dislodged the cap from the roll between it and the base, and it fell off into space.

PICKING A PERMANENT HUSBAND

"The greatest question in the minds of 3,000,000 girls on this continent is 'Who is he?'" They want to know which man is going to make them say yes. The game is all the more interesting because only a million of them will get the wrong man and a divorce. According to a Boston woman with a broad social experience and a way with girls, the million might just as well pick right. For some years she has been inducing the girls in a finishing school to observe these five rules in judging a man:

See him in his work—notice his attitude toward his associates.

See him when things go wrong.

See how he acts in a trying situation.

Determine his attitude toward his mother.

And remember—society manners are merely superficial.

DOCTOR SAYS IT WITH BOOTS

A strange fact about the medical men of England is that they don't care to be called by their professional titles, except on official occasions. An English medical man had rather you called him "mister than doctor."

A Harley Street specialist of great renown was going one morning when an acquaintance shouted to him cheerily across the links: "Good morning, doctor!"

"Good morning, wholesale dealer in boots and shoes" was the medical man's reply.

MISCELLANEOUS

TO PROSPECTIVE BUILDERS AND THOSE WHO HAVE UNSAFE CHIMNEYS

ATTENTION, PLEASE

For the last few years, I have been experimenting with cement chimney blocks. The blocks that I am making this winter will stand the test. They are made in the cellar where they set slowly, thus insuring denser and better blocks. Material is the best selected sand and beach gravel, and Portland cement. Material for blocks is mixed in concrete mixer, it is measured and the chimneys are insured by standard blocks. Can furnish any size flue up to certain point sizes 16 x 16, 16 x 20, 20 x 20, 20 x 24 and 16 x 24. 16 x 16 and 16 x 20 are in one piece, above that they are cut in half. Larger sizes furnished on request. Some advantages of cement blocks: will not deteriorate with time, will stand all changes of weather, where bricks if not first class would crumble; makes better looking job; will not burn out as they are smooth inside and out; safer flue than bricks as there is only one joint where there are many in a brick flue. Can be put up in cold weather in one-sixth the time that brick can be laid. In case of old flue being torn out block flue can be laid in space required to tear out the old one, thus avoiding tearing out partitions and extra expense. Old flue can be torn out and block flue built in one day—quite an item with the lady of the house. Much more can be said in favor of the blocks. In the last 15 years I have repaired 1500 brick flues. In actual when inspection is difficult have found many fine traps where bricks have crumbled and side of flue fallen out. With good up to date blocks this could not be. The season 1924 was the best I ever had. Feel that I can do better in 1925 because of the aid these blocks will give me, as they will appeal to those who build. As to price within certain radius of home can meet Brick Prices; farther away transportation would be added. Would be pleased to give any person definite price on prospective work. Would like to hear from parties wishing work done. All materials furnished and brought to job. Yours respectively J. B. BAKER, MELVERN SQUARE Jan 29, 1925 2tc

Jack Frost's Age

How old is Jack Frost? Why, I've known him

For ever so long, and I'm six!

And years before, mother had met him,

And grandmother, too, knew of his tricks.

He must be grown up, eYt in autumn,

He waits for the pumpkins to grip them,

And Chestnuts and leaves know he's coming

Straight up in the treetops to nip them.

He sets all your teeth in a

He pinches your fingers and toes,

Then skips, like a flash, round the corner

To tweak at somebody's nose.

He walks 'round our house, too, at midnight,

His footsteps go "crack!" and then "crack!"

A post-card he prints on my window

To say that he'll surely come back.

He froze the nice milk that I left there

And broke, too, my very best cup,

He may live for years half a million!

But Jack Frost will never grow up.

NINE POINTS ON CHURCH GOING BY THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

1. In this actual world, a church-least community, a community where men have abandoned and so-called or ignored their religious needs, is a community on the rapid down grade.

2. Church work and church attendance mean the cultivation of the habit and of feeling a true responsibility for others.

3. There are enough holidays for most of us Sunday after Sunday, but there are fifty-two of them every year—therefore on Sundays go to church.

4. Yes, I know all the excuses. I know that one can worship the Creator in the grove of trees, or by a running brook, or in a man's house just as well as in church. But I also know as a matter of cold fact that the average man does not thus worship.

5. He may not hear a good sermon at church. He will hear a sermon by a good man who with his good wife, is engaged all the week in making lives a little easier.

6. He will listen to and take part in reading some beautiful passages from the Bible and if he is not familiar with the Bible, he has suffered loss.

7. He will take part in singing some good hymns.

8. He will meet and nod or speak to good, quiet neighbors. He will come away feeling a little more charitable toward all the world, even toward those excessively foolish young men who regard churchgoing as a men's performance.

9. I advocate a man's joining in church work for the sake of showing his faith by his works.

WHAT DO YOU DO?

It is significant to observe how some men fail to know how to treat their wives and sisters when they meet them, says the Pacific Rural Press. It seems to them quite unnecessary to lift their hats, or to give their nearest and dearest the courtesy they would freely render to a woman on the street. The domestic circle. This should not be, and the sooner a revelation is accomplished the better. The ablest and most persuasive treatises on the etiquette of the home will not be able by itself to work the change, although it would be helpful toward the end. What is needed is the right training of boys and girls. Courteous behavior should be enforced by parents in the same way as other good qualities are taught. One of the most successful instructors of the young in our day bears this testimony: "People complain of the way children behave and lay the blame on their behavior in the day school; but if they would only make the children do at home as they ought to do in school, matters would be different. They laugh at the child when he lifts his hat or says 'Please' or 'Thank you' forgetting that others are trying to make up for their neglect of duty. The word in season should stir up parents to a sense of the importance of cultivating by precept and example the requirements of domestic etiquette."

SAFETY ALWAYS

The common shout of nowadays is always "Safety First." You'll hear the cry no matter where you go. It's just a short expression that has duly been rehearsed, and it's one that everyone ought to know. When little folks start off to school they'll hear their mother say: "Now watch your step when crossing the street. Play safety as to auto; 'cause they take the right-of-way and it's up to you to be the one discrete and then you'll find at crossings, where the railroad trains whiz by, a warning that you must understand. It's "Safety First," that greets you, where it's sure to catch the eye. It tells you of the danger near at hand.

The "Safety First" idea is a good one, I'll admit, but it is weak when figured down to the letter. It seems 'could be much stronger and 'could make a bigger impact. Don't you think that Safety ALWAYS would be better?

HOME INFLUENCE

Back of every home stand the people who make it. They—these people—create its atmosphere and are responsible for its influence. It is a glorious thing to have the opportunity to build a real home and to maintain it in all its helpfulness, purity and heartening possibilities. It is a tragic thing to fail. It is a pathetic thing beyond the power of words to describe to fail utterly to catch the vision of the power and glory of a Christian home, set like a beacon on a hill.

If those back of the home fail to make the product of the home fine and uplifting, and eager workers in the Kingdom, it is not the fault of the Kingdom or its gospel, but the failure of those who are back of the home, to be or to do!

PRIDE

"Where pride cometh, there cometh shame, but with the lowly is wisdom." Pride's companion is shame. But with the lowly wisdom ever walks, a sublime figure, protecting, guiding, ing, making sweet and fruitful every succeeding hour of the day's journey. No stroke of malice, no rebuff, no defiance, the lowly is none, for wisdom instructs their feet, orders their paths. Even their enemies are forced to dwell at peace with them, for wisdom's presence subdues them.

BE KIND TO YOUR MOTHER

Honor dear old mother. Time has scattered the snowy flakes on her brow, played deep furrows on her cheek—but is she not beautiful now? The lips are thin and shrunken but these are the lips that have kissed many a hot tear from childish cheeks and they are the sweetest lips in the world. The eye is dim, yet it glows with the soft radiance of holy love that can never fade. The sands of life are nearly run out, but feeble as she is, she will go farther and reach down lower for you than anyone else on earth. When the world shall despoise and forsake you, when it leaves you by the wayside to die, unnoticed, the dear old mother will gather you up in her feeble arms and carry you home and tell you of all your virtues until you almost forget that your soul is disfigured by vice. Love her dearly and cheer her declining years with tender devotion.

WHAT'S YOUR HURRY.

At a meeting to discuss the safety of pedestrians, a witness remarked: "In the old days if anybody missed a stage coach, he was contented to wait two or three days for the next. Now he lets out a squawk if he misses one section of a revolving door." It's the truth. We are in such a hurry that half the time we don't know where we are going. We would rather stub our toes than to take the time to pick up our feet. We dodge traffic in the middle of a block rather than spend thirty seconds in reaching a stop sign. Men go from Halifax to Vancouver and write back that they made the trip in three hours less than the last time. We jump on and off moving trains. We eat fast, ride fast, walk fast, dance fast, sleep fast—as the fast. What's the hurry? There are still twenty-four hours in a day, even with day. The shortest distance between two points according to mathematicians, but why confuse life with geometry? Wait a minute.
