the Editor of the ADVERTISER I have a number of complaints in connection with the management of the different departments of the Western Fair, and take this opportunity to say a few words in praise of the management of the horse department. Lord Aberdeen's House. Haddo House, Aberdeenshire, the well known family seat of the Earl of Aberdeen, has been let, along with about 40,000 acres of shooting, to Mr. F. C. Laurance, the late tenant of Glenmuick, which is now rented by Sir Algernon Borthwick. Haddo House is a plain modern mansion, about four miles from Aberdeen. It is built upon the ruins of the old castle of Gight, and occupies a picturesque position amid steep wooded hills, overlooking the Ythan. In 1644 the old castle was taken and plundered by the Covenanters. Lest Cattle Traced in a Queer Way. Last June some extensive depredations by cattle thieves occurred in the western part of Wentworth and in Brant county. A farmer named Skelly in South Dumfries lost ten head of very fine animals. Another farmer lost six, and others lost smaller bunches. Nothing was heard of the animals until recently, when what looked like the hides of Skelly's cattle were found in the Hamilton market, being offered for sale. The hides were traced to a local slaughter house, where the animals had been killed. As the cattle were valuable animals, Mr. Skelly had had each one tagged on the ear, the same as at the Agricultural Farm, the tag showing the date of birth and other notes regarding the pedigree of the animal. In this way the hides were identified. The ears had been cut off and buried with other slaughter house refuse, but when a search was instiof Pope Leo, Archbishop Satolli, the Apostuted at the place the tagged ears were tolic delegate, yesterday conferred an found. Final Session of the Methodist Parliament.

> Moneys to be Raised for the General Conference-Deaconesses May Wear a Distinctive Dress-An Address for the Women to Church Courts Ruled Out- proposition to abolish quarterly church The Closing Scene.

Monday A ternoch. The first clause of the principles contained in the report of the temperance committee led to some discussion. "The liquor traffic cannot be licensed without unearth enough important ecclesiastical sin," the clause read. "Are we going to brand every license commissioner in this country a sinner," asked Mr. John Moore. "Is it the sin of the person who is put Clause 5 set out to give notice that the Methodist Church would do its utmost to be put-on an equality with man," condestroy the partnership between the people | cluded the judge. of Canada and dealers in alcoholic liquors and their sympathizers.

"That will separate families," said one delegate. "Why, we have been giving that notice for this twenty years," said Dr. Griffin, referring to the clause. Rev. J. W. Annis-It's a mere piece of rhetoric. It means nothing. What is the therefore fitting that Dr. Carman's last use of giving notice that we are going to official blow from the gavel should shield do something dreadful in this case. We that much abused book from another have been doing all we can and intend to attack. Yet this was the case, for when do all we can.

This clause was also obliterated. Part of item 6 of the declaration asked that Methodist electors attend the primaries of both parties to see that none but "We must have a third party before this thing can be settled satisfactorily," said Dr. Brethonr. "You will get mighty little

Rev. S. F. Huestis wanted the question of the formation of a third, or prohibition, party discussed then and there. Dr. Carman-Oh, we have not time. Then the portion was stricken out and the following amendment of Dr. Kettlewell's inserted: "That the candidate of no mated at $118,000. It is expected some political party who refuses to publicly arrangement will be made whereby the old commit himself to the destruction of the fiquor traffic at the earliest possible moment can have the support of the members of the Methodist Church." Dr. Stone-If both candidates refuse to pledge themselves, what then? Will we nominate a third? Several delegates murmured "Yes," but the conference adopted the amendment without officially answering the question. Finally the report recommended that no appointments be made of Sabbath school superintendents unless abstainers from tobacco. This, like other references to tobacco earlier in the session, raised a mild furore. Some thought it unnecessary and others inconsistent. One delegate wanted the principle first applied to district superintendents, and so provide a good example. Finally the item was voted out. In connection with the adoption of the report as amended Rev. A. C. Courtice moved that the following question be tion: added to those applied to applicants for church membership: "Are you a total abstainer, and will you continue so?" The general questions covered the point, he admitted, but not fully. Rev. J. W. Annis-We have rules which if enforced would exclude every member of the Methodist Church from membership. Why add to the rules? Give us some principles somewhere, and don't fence us around with a multitude of rules that mean nothing."

The amendment was lost and the report apopted. The advisability of holding the next General Conference in Winnipeg was discussed and finally referred to committee. Some delegates objected to the expense. It would cost $14,000, Rev. S. F. Huest is said. Others were anxious to see the meeting held in Winnipeg, and some, notably Dr. Shaw, even went so far as to offer to pay a portion of their own expenses. The final report of the committee on Sabbath observance appointed Rev. G. M. McRitchie and Rev. J. Scanlon and other Methodist ministers of Ottawa a standing committee to act with the Lord's Day Alliance during the coming quadrennium. Rev. Dr. Potts, Dr. Lavell and E. Coatsworth, M.P., were appointed to take charge of the petition to the Government to prevent the granting of clearance papers to vessels with Sabbath excursion parties on board, or to allow the same to report at Canadian ports.

The committee on General Conference fund asks the different conferences to raise annually the following sum during the quadrennium: Toronto, $1,485; London, $1,128; Hamilton, $1,435; Bay of Quinte, $991; Montreal, $1,400; Manitoba, $350; British Columbia, $150; Nova Scotia, $400; New Brunswick and Prince Edward's Island, $300; Newfoundland, $225.

Dr. Burwash and Dr. Shaw were appointed representative delegates to the Presbyterian General Assembly; Rev. T. W. Joliffe, to the African Methodist Conference, and W. H. Russell, D.D., to the British Methodist Episcopal Church. It was ordained that deaconesses be allowed to wear a distinctive dress.

Dr. Carman, Dr. Shaw, Dr. Ryckman and Hon. Senator Sanford were empowered on behalf of the conference to prepare an address on behalf of the conference to be presented to the Governor-General. Rev. Dr. Shaw, Judge Chesley and Dr. Ross will edit the Journal. At 5:20 Dr. Shaw announced that the table was clear. The announcement was greeted with applause, and the conference adjourned to meet finally in the evening. Monday Evening. The Parliament of Methodism prorogued last night and today the church wherein so much legislation has been accomplished during the nearly three weeks' duration of the conference knows the delegates no longer. secretaries, Dr. Shaw, Judge Chesley and Dr. Ross. The attendance of delegates was 64, in contrast with 250 at the commencement. Less than a dozen visitors were in the building when the end came. The conference died hard. Many delegates tried to argue motions through that had been dealt with in committee and thrown out. But while the patience of the leaders was tried, nothing came of the arguments, and the conference in its eleventh hour recorded no radical act. Dr. Ross suggested an amendment to the laws governing the court of appeal. He wanted the conference to adopt a resolution that would give those bodies power to decide whether or not a case was important enough to be referred to it, but the resolution was voted Governor - General-Motion to Admit down. Another long debate arose over a membership tickets and inaugurate annual ones. This proposition, too, went by the board. Several delegates said they had important matters to bring forward. Dr. Shaw raised a ripple of laughter by hinting that the marvelous minds of the delegates. at the rate they were proceeding, would questions to keep the conference in session for another week. Then Dr. Aylesworth propounded this query: "Who pays the taxes ?"

Dr. Carman-So far as I know it is the hospitable people of London who are paying for the gas we are wasting.

Dr. Aylsworth explained that he meant parsonage taxes, and he was referred to his trustees.

Dr. Antliff had commenced a hearty vote of thanks to the friends in London for their generous hospitality, when Judge Chesley had something to say. He was not a Knight of Dames, he proceeded to explain, Clause 3 stated, among other things, that but he had waited long for the present opportunity. Then he went on to move that everywhere in the discipline where "layman" and "lay delegates" were mentioned the words be held to mean women as well as men. It would give them a right to sit on church courts, but it would be many thousands of years before women followed suit, being considered unneces- would sit on such courts in equal numbers with men.

"Put them where God intended them to

The majority voted in favor of the question, but it lacked the necessary three-fourths vote and was lost. "It would be astounding to settle a thing of this character at this late hour with a depleted conference," said Dr. Carman. The number of suggested amendments to the discipline is a standing joke. It was Rev. John Kay arose to move a change in the baptismal ritual the superintendent gently but firmly ruled him out, and remarked: "Let us have a vote of thanks, or something." The votes of thanks followed. The ladies were mentioned and Dr. Dewart's faithful services memorialized. The press was duly thanked, the railroads were remembered and Rev. J. W. Annis and his associates were also thanked for the excellent work oi billeting the delegates.

Then the last scene of all. The welltrained voices sing: Help us to help each other, Lord;

Each others' cross to bear. Let each his friendly aid afford, And feel each other's care. Warm words of prayer are uttered by Rev. Mr. Van Wyck and Dr. Stewart and 'Old Hundred" is sung. A general shaking of hands follows, hats and coats are donned, and in a few minutes the place is deserted save for the janitor on his rounds extinguishing the lights. All that is left to tell the tale is the silent temporary platform, the platform from which orators from Great Britain told the story of the growth of Methodism there; where silvertongued men from the great nation to the south of us, told their tale; where the representatives of the African branch were hailed with delight, and from which was detailed the history of the growth of Methodism in the far-off Orient. But the delegates all had gone and the pages find themselves free to go to school once more. The following was composed by a delegate. It is understood that he spent all Shorten, and let us off this week. Artifical Silk.

Trade is about to be enlivened with a genuine novelty, silk without the intervenion of silk worms. Dr. Lehner, an analytical chemist, German by birth. Swiss by adoption, is the inventor, wood pulp, waste of jute or of cotton, is the raw material. Nitric acid and alcohol digest the pulp and a mechanical silk worm does the rest. The change in the market will not be as great as that caused by supplementing human spinners and weavers with machines that for a time nearly threw industrial England into revolution. But as the new textile equals, according to all accounts, the best China silks, it is certain to become a cheap and popular favorite. The machine is the second step in an industry first promoted in England by the introduction of mulberry trees and silk worms by Henry VI., 400 years ago. As the machine can be operated with perfect success in all climates we shall probably hear of its introduction speedily in the United States, where the unsuccessful culture of the silk worm, dating back to revolutionary days, has afforded a small but persistent coterie a plausible excuse for seeking bounties for an always feeble infant industry.

TORONTO'S UNEMPLOYED Hold an Open Air Meeting-City Hall

Compared to Tammany. TORONTO, Sept. 24.-About 200 unemployed men gathered outside the city hall this morning. F. Attwood presided, while a number of speeches were made. John Dunlop, president of the General Laborers' Union, made a very violent speech, declaring that the city hall was Toronto's Tammany, and that the chairman of the board of works, Ald. Shaw, was the equivalent of Boss Tweed. He declared Sir Oliver Mowat should spend $1,000,000 of the Ontarie surplus at once in alleviating the wants of the unemployed. In a recently published medical work the author asserts that nine-tenths of the women of America are subject to uterine and kindred diseases, and in consequence maternity becomes to them a dreaded burden. How very small is the proportion of ladies who reach middle age wearing the bright glow of health which was their maidenly attraction, and of which they have been robbed by functional disorders and nervous weakness! We take pleasure in recommending to all thus afflicted the use of Dc. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, a tried remedy, safe and sure in all cases. Its discoverer merits the gratitude of the them. Necessity for Running Slow in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Why the Allans Declined the Contract-Railway Rates in Winter an Obstacle.

The following letter appeared in the London Times recently:

Sir,-The Canadian Government have now definitely voted the subsidy of $750,-000, which a few years ago they had provisionally offered to the late Mr. Bryce Douglas, of the Barrow Shipbuilding Company, for a twenty-knot weekly service between this country and Canada (Quebec in summer, Halifax in winter), and they have made a provisional contract with Mr. James Huddart to provide the service, allowing him three months to raise the necessary capital. The subsidy is to be given for a period of ten years, after which it is to be reduced by one-third for a like period. The Finance Minister estimated the cost of running the boats at $60,000 per round voyage, or $3,120,000 per annum. In the discussion of the vote in the House Sir Richard Cartwright and the leader of the Opposition, Mr. Laurier, are reported to have dwelt upon the dangers attending the navigation of the Gulf and River St. Lawrence, and the impossibility because of these to maintain with safety the required speed; and, as the success of the service financially depended upon speed and safety, and as the payment of the subsidy was contingent upon speed and continuity of service, they predicted for it failure.

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, on the other hand, maintained that the St. Lawrence was one of the finest and safest waters in the world, and added that in twenty years not a single mail steamer had been lost in the river or gulf. Had Sir Charles stopped here, or confined himself to justifying his opinions by reference to authorities engaged in the navigation, we might have remained silent on the subject; but he went out of his way to blame parties for circulating reports about the safety of the St. Lawrence, and pointed his aliusion to the Allan Line by deprecating "the conduct all the more as it proceeded from those who feared their private interests would now be affected, and who from the very outset had been aided by Government subsidies." Representatives in this country of the Allan Line, we feel aggrieved to be thus held up as opposing for personal reasons a scheme which is so generally desired by misrepresenting the true character of the navigation, and we venture to ask the favor of a place in your columns to make their position in this matter clear.

When the Government sought to establish a service that would vie with those running to New York they naturally looked in the first place to the Allans to supply it. The Allans' knowledge of the business, their experience of the St. Lawrence navigation and their personal interests all indicated them as the parties to provide it, if ning of the mail service in 1845 they had provided it. Losses in the prosecution of the service, due to the dangers of the navigation, did not deter them from continuing t in earlier years, and their loyalty to the Dominion has made them cleave to it in later, long after it has ceased to be remunerative. When they could not undertake the more ambitious scheme on which the Government had set their heart, believing that it would fail finencially and disappoint the expectations of the Government, the Alians, without pressing it upon them, offered at less cost to the Dominion to provide the highest class of service which in their view is suited to the St. Lawrence. it was, therefore, unfair for anyone to say that the Allans opposed the scheme in other hands because they feared that their private interests would be affected. It was well known that they had an opportunity if they wished, to share the new service. both Mr. Bryce Douglas and the present contractor having sought their co-operation. Why could not the Allans, it may be asked, take part in it; is not the navigation all that Sir Charles Tupper describes it? It is true that the navigation has been improved by buoys and lights and beacons. which have in bounteous measure been provided by the Ministry of Marine. It is also true that in twenty years not a mail steamer has been lost in the river or gulf; but it is nevertheless the case that, barring mail steamers, every line trading for any length of time to the St. Lawrence has had serious marine disasters, and a new crop springs up every season.

What was the Allan history? In the earlier years of their contract, although the speed was not half that now required it had to be maintained under penalties, and in trying to fulfill its term they lost between 1860 and 1864 six mail steamers. In 1864, when the contract was renewed, they got the following clause introduced:

"That the steamers are never to approach Cape Race when the weather is so foggy or tempestuous as to make it dangerous to do so; and when the presence of fog or ice makes it dangerous to run the vesseis at full sex for the blessing he has conferred upon speed, it shall be the duty of the captain either to slacken the speed or to stop the vessel as occasion may require, and the time lost by doing so, if proved to the satisfaction of the Postmaster-General, shall be allowed to the contractor in addition to the time specified for the length of the voyage. When that proviso became operative the good record of the mail service began. The immunity from disaster is due to the fact that speed is now subordinated to safety. But speed under the new contract cannot be intermitted if the steamers are to compete with Campanias and Lucanias.

When the warmth of summer brings down Arctic ice into the ocean track the New York steamer can with little increase of mileage choose a southern route and career at speed through fog, fearless of ice or land, until she reaches off her port. But low can a vessel that must enter the St. Lawrence do this where the gateways are near Cape Race or the Straits of Belie Isle? It is impossible. And how can she safely go at twenty knots through fog when within land-bound waters? If it be contended that navigation is now made safer than formerly we answer it is mainly due to increased watchfulness, for no beacons or lights can turn aside the dangers of ice and of fogs in land-locked seas. What has our own experience been this very season, now not half over? One of our cargo steamers has been in contact with an iceberg, and had her bow stove in, escaping loss solely by her moderated speed—31 knots. Another has had her bottom injured and nearly ripped from stem to stern by being brought too near the headland of int by an experienced pilot, and this against our express injunction to give headlands a wide berth. Two others com-ing out of the Straits of Belle Isle after or passed through icefields, only midsumm escaping injury by going slow. The St. Lawrence route, river and gulf, are not waters where a twenty-knot speed can safely be maintained, and if speed be required to develop the passenger tradethat is, to provide the bulk of the earnings to meet Mr. Foster's estimated $3,120,000 expendituse and yield a return of capital it must be admitted that the outlook is not

But this is only one branch of the difficulty the proposed service has to contend with.

Unlike New York, which is in itself an enormous center of population and commerce, with the whole railway system of the United States converging on it, Halifax, the winter terminus of the proposed line, and Quebec the summer, have no local trade worth considering. Everything must be railway borns-in winter over the Intercolonial Railway, and in summer over one or other of the two trunk Canadian lines. These railways are independent enter-prises, with interests of their own to look to. Railway rates must be a first charge on all through earnings. The normal condition of things among railways is that they work at uniform rates under a combined agreement. When keen competitions arise among ocean carriers-which is, unhappily, the normal state of things with them, and would certainly await the advent of a new competitor-a fall in through rates has to be wholly berne by the ocean carrier. It was not, therefore, a cheerful look-out for a line that has to develop a great trade that it should be dependent practically upon the co-operation and good-will of railways, who, however friendly they were, had no stake in the undertaking.

Steamers of immense power and cost to build and run, and whose cargo-carrying capacity is in the inverse ratio of their speed, and whose speed cannot by reason of the character of the navigation be fully utilized, and which are to be run under the disadvantages we have indicated, are surely not hopefully circumstanced, and we appeal to you that the Allans should not be decried because they could not countenance the scheme. We are, yours truly,

A PAIN REMEDY.

For nearly 50 years this wonderful remedy has proved itself the best, quickest, safest and surest antidote for pain in the world. THE TRUE RELIEF RADWAY'S READY RELIEF is safe, re-liable and effectual because of the stimulating action which it exerts over the nerves and vital powers of the body, adding tone to the one and inciting to renewed and increased one and inciting to renewed and increased vigor the slumbering vitality of the physical structure, and through this healthful stimulation and increased action the cause of the PAIN is driven away and a natural condition restored. It is thus that the KEADY RELIEF is so admirably adapted for the CURE OF PAIN and without the risk of injury which is sure to result from the use of many of the so-called pain remedies of the day.

In using medicines to stop pain we should avoid such as inflict injury on the system. Opium, Morphine, Ether, Cocaine and Chloral stop pain by destroying the sense of percention.

Opium, Morphine, Ether, Cocaine and Chloral stop pain by destroying the sense of perception, when the patient loses the power of feeling, This is the most destructive practice: it masks the syptoms, shuts ur, and instead offremoving trouble, breaks down the stomach, liver and bowels, and, if continued for a length of time, kills the nerves and produces local or general paralysis.

There is no necessity for using these uncertain agents when a positive remedy like RAD-WAY'S READY RELIEF will stop the most excruciating pain quicker, without entailing the least difficulty in either infant or adult. A CURE FOR ALL

-If the Canadian people refrained from buying whisky, beer and other intoxicants, and used the millions of moneys now expended on these luxuries to purchase other goods, the Winnipeg Nor'Wester professes to believe that the Government would find it hard work to make ends meet. Our contemporary is needlessly alarmed. John Bright said, "Give me a sober people and I will have no difficulty in raising a revenue." The great English tribune was right. The revenue question need trouble no honest statesman who has faith in the country and in that which is right.

-The revision of the Dominion voters' lists will cost the country over $250,000. If a general election will not be held before next fall why is a revision, with all its trouble and expense, ordered now? We long for a common sense method of compiling the lists only on the eve of an election, whether Dominion or Provincial. For cities, we will in future have that in Ontario Provincial elections; but for reasons that cannot be justified the Dominion authorities insist on retaining the present infamous measure. We trust its opponents will see to it that not a name of those opposed to its continuance is left off the lists. It is time we had a radical improvement.

-Lord Brassey, the distinguished British statesman, who is on a visit to Montreal, expresses the belief that a result of the war between China and Japan will be an enormous demand on the part of China for railways and other adjuncts of civilization. China is getting the worst of Ottawa: it in the contest with her smaller neighbor because she has no modern means for bringing forward her forces. If she had she would have overwhelmed the Japanese troops ere now. When this fact is forced home upon the Chinese by further defeats, which Lord Brassey believes are in store for her. China will be so arcused as to cause an overwhelming demand for modern aids to civilized life. China's wants will be the opportunity for western manufacturers.

And above all, who is there in that vast audience to which he spoke that did not believe that he was a man of honor, actuated only by true regard for that Canada he loves so well? It might be noted that the meeting was the greatest ever held in Victoria; 4,000 is the estimated figure with numbers turned away. The visitors expressed themselves as surprised beyond measure at the heartiness of their reception, as they had been led to expect the cold shoulder at Victoria, but people who told them that forgot to take into account first, that the party was no ordinary party, and second, that Western Canadians are as sick of Protection as Eastern Canadians."

OUR "CURIOUSLY INTERESTING PLATFORM AND ITS MON-TREAL CRITIC.

The Montreal Gazette, chief among the Conservative newspapers of Quebec, is the first journal to take up and criticise the platform of the ADVERTISER. It says that the result of our platform building "is a curiously interesting one," and continues:

"The ADVERTISER has put Canada first and in the right place, and is a free trader for the whole world, which is understandable. So also are its demands for the prohibition of the traffic in intoxicants, for the abolition of tax exemptions, for manhood suffrage and one-man-one-vote, and the franchise for women.

But the Gazette does not like some of -The Methodist General Conference our planks. It does not think that our scheme of reafforesting is practical. We have contended that for every acre of forest that the Governments cut down another should be planted. This view is combatted by our Montreal contemporary

> "The advantage and profit of the forest is not likely now to be disputed, but there are many sections of the Dominion where the woods could with advantage be replaced by wheat fields or pastures, and the country does not yet want the settler's axe relegated to the antiquary's collection

Gazette misapprehends our meaning. We agree with it that there are sections of the Dominion where the woods could with advantage be replaced by wheat fields or is the case, there are many sections in every Province practically incapable of general cultivation which are admirably adapted for the growth of trees. Though we hold that the forest wealth of the country should be turned to account for the advantage of the present generation, those now profiting from the sale of our timber lands should spend alittle, and keep spending it all the time, to provide forest wealth for the generations that are to succeed us. Let the Governments cut down as much of the forests as they deem wise in the public interest, but let them see to it that the many waste places of the country, which are admirably adapted for tree culture, are turned to account for the benefit of posterity. By this means not only will a timber famine be put out of the question, but the distribution of rainfall, so necessary to successful agriculture, will in a large measure be guaranteed, and the recurrence of droughts, so far as man can provide, will be averted. Surely the expenditure needed for so laudable an object will not be grudged by any of the Governments affected. To our mind it is the most necessary reform that any government upon this continent can take up. May we not hope to get our contemporary's aid in forward.

"The Advertiser platform also has a bodies in the Dominion for common purposes, leaving present individual organizations intact.' This will be the most puzzling of the list, and it is respectfully submitted that the author is not definite enough. It looks much as if the P. P. A. had gotten hold of the writer. Are the Protestants of the Dominion to federate politically for the purpose of helping Mr. Madill and Mr. McCarthy to keep the Catholic minority in its place, or is the common purpose' connected with the Liberal efforts to down Sir John Thompson? The ADVERTISER'S platform will stand some explaining.

There is nothing very puzzling about the Catholic Church is a unit. We hold that neither make nor mar the prospects of Sir John Thompson. Anyone who has read -Dr. R. M. The complaint has mainly been made with reference to animals fed in Essex and Kent, where hogs have in the past been permitted to feed on new grass or clover, during the summer months. They, as a consequence, become soft in flesh, and are held by packers to be inferior in quality. One firm of packers, indeed, notified an Essex shipper not to ship him hogs during the later part of this summer because sides made from hogs so fed sold at from 6 shillings to 12 shillings per 100 pounds less than prime quality, thus causing loss to them. Hogs so shipped soon get very soft, and when slaughtered are found to be very greasy and greatly shrunken. Our western farmers should aim to produce the very best of everything, and to market it in prime condition. It pays. There is a market for hogs the year through, instead of only in winter, as was at one time thought. Farmers should strive to have a crop of pigs coming along all the time, and should feed them in such a way as to meet the demands of the packers. If they do so, we will soon have a greatly increased export of hog products from this country, for Canadian pork, cured in prime condition, already stands very high in the world's

MR. GOLDWIN SMITH ON MR. STEAD Mr. Goldwin Smith contributes to the September Contemporary a temperate review of Mr. Stead's book, 'If Christ Came to Chicago.' He thinks that it is possible to form an exaggerated notion of the political corruption in America. The public service of the Federal Government he believes to be pure, but he admits that corrupt voting is inseparable from the system of Government. Mr. Smith, who has recently been in England, and has used his eyes and ears, does not differ from Mr. Stead on the great question . He says, "England has been converted by the turf into a vast gambling table, as any one who takes up a local newspaper may see. Many bet who know nothing of a horse, and perhaps did not see the race. A greater moral curse has seldom fallen upon the nation. The infection spreads to the United States, to the British Colonies, and every country over which British society has influence. Mr. Stead would be a real benefactor if he could get up a crusade against the turf." He advises those who really wish to know America to spend a few years in the country town, and in intercourse with its inhabitants and the farmers of its neighborhood. They will no longer regard Chicago and New York as an adequate measure of the habits of American people, or of the sinews and safeguards of the American commonwealth. On the question underlying Mr. Stead's book, Mr. Smith says, "Is revealed Christianity true or is it not? If it is, the functions of a church are Christian communior, teaching and worship. If it is false, let not the churches be kept in existence as relief associations of an equivocal kind, as donkey engines to the trade union, or as targets for the moral atirist. Let them be abolished, and let the city council be recognized in accordance with Mr. Stead's theory as the true

THAT PET DOG

Is the Subject of a Police Court Session-His Character at Stake.

The police magistrate's time was taken up chiefly today with a dog case. Mrs. Elizabeth Woolston and Mrs. Martha Richman, Emery street, South London, were the defendant and complainant respective-

y. They are neighbors. Mrs. Richman's 6-year-old boy appeared in court with two badly swollen lips, bearing the tooth marks of Mrs. Woolston's pet log. Mrs. Woolston vehemently defended the reputation of her pet. The children were always annoying it, she said.

"This dog bears a good character," said Lawyer F. Love, gravely. "It was eating meat in its own yard when the child commenced to beat it. What dog wouldn't get angry under the circumstances?'

The magistrate declined to discuss this phase of canine nature. Mrs. Richman then summoned her neighoor, Mr. Palmer, and her sister, Mrs. Adams, to throw light on the dog's temper. Mr. Palmer said it had growled at him. Mrs. Adams had actually jumped the fence to get out of its way. Mrs. Woolston said she could get evidence to prove that it was a mild dog, whereupon Mrs. Richman volunteered to procure more testimony damaging to loggie's character. The magistrate adourned the case until Thursday to give er this opportunity. The breach of the fire limits cases against Mr. B. Woodhouse and Mrs. Elizabeth Kent were postponed until Oct. 5 to see whether the council wishes its laws enforced or not.

The Springfield Robbery Case Before Judge Elliot.

Wm. Baker, of this City, Fighting Extradition.

How the Money Was Taken-Johnston's Remarkable Story-Says He Saw Baker With the Cash-Not Very Intelligent.

The fight over the extradition of Wm. H. Baker, the alleged Springfield, Ill., railroad robber, and a native of this city, was resumed in Judge Wm. Elliot's chambers this morning. The hearing was begun shortly after 11 o'clock, but an hour before that time Baker's wife, with baby in arms and crying, was on hand. She was accompanied by the prisoner's Pork packers have again been warning father and brother, both respectable citisens of the East End, the former being a member of the Salvation Army. Mrs. Baker and the witnesses in the case were excluded from the room. Baker was brought up, handcuffed to Detective Thos. Nickle. He was deeply interested in the evidence, and frequently talked with his > lawyer. In opening the case Mr. McKillop stated that another information had been laid, charging the prisoner with breaking into the premises of the company.

Mr. Meredith objected to proceed under both informations. Mr. McKillop-Well, I will submit. If the counsel for the prisoner objects, it means the going over of the evidence twice. I will ask that evidence in both charges be taken at the same time. Judge Elliot consented, but Mr. Meredith asked his objection to be noted. The case was then proceeded with.

HOW THE ROBBERY OCCURRED. Rolla C. Fleming, a young man of about 21, said he was assistant ticket agent on the Wabash Railroad at Springfield, Ill. He went to lunch at noon on Sept 3, leaving the safe locked with the day combina. tion. There was about $1,500 in the safe. The windows had iron bars over them, but when Fleming came back at 12:40 he found the wooden shutters on one window pried open and the bars bent back. The general appearance of the office indicated a robbery. The safe was broken open and $1,183 28 was missing besides two pay checks. The cheeks and a cash box were returned about one hour and a half afterwards.

Mr. Meredith cross-questioned young Fleming principally in regard to the custom of the railway people—how the eash was recorded, whether any person else had access to the ticket office, whether a policeman was on duty or not. When Fleming discovered the robbery he reported it to police headquarters. Two officers came down. They were shown the window. the bars of which had been forced apart about eight inches. "Were you blamed at all for the loss?"

asked Mr. Meredith. "Not as I know of," said Fleming.

"Well, do you think Baker could get through it?" asked prisoner's counsel. To give Fleming a fair chance to answer the question, Baker stood up. He is rather portly, but Fleming thought he might by a "Could you get through the opening?"

asked Mr. Meredith. "Yes. I tried it," said Fleming.

"Before or after the robbery?" (Laughter.) "After," said the witness.

A REMARKABLE STORY. John S. Johnston, another resident of Springfield, was called. He was sitting in worth 38c. a lumber yard behind the station at noon on the day of the robbery. He saw a man in a blue suit come along through the yard. He was walking very rapidly. "I saw the man again," said Johnston.

"Was he free or in prison?" asked Mr. McKillop. "He was in prison, and his name is Ken-

"Did you see any person else?"

"Yes, I did." "Who was he?"

pointed to Baker, who was directly across the table from him. "Where did he go?"

"Up the same road in the lumber yard as Kennedy took." "Did Baker have anything with him?"

"Yes, sir; he had this box, and he was carrying it partly under his coat and emptying the contents into his pockets." "What kind of clothes did he have on?"

"The very same as at present, with the exception of the hat. When the two men met, Kennedy called upon Baker to come ahead, and they went away together. I followed them and came across the empty box with the papers in it. Have no doubt about Kennedy and Baker being the persons I saw in the lumber yard.' Johnston's appearance was peculiar, but he gave his evidence in a very straightforward manner.

Mr. Meredith took him in hand and several times got Johnston in some tight corners, but every time the witness would crawl out of it and blame his stupidity as mother, who was a washer-woman. He and 10c. had a sister, too, who was separated from her husband, and she was now living on Clark street, Chicago, but whom he did not know. Witness had been idle for about elever months-excepting two weeks. "Were you ever arrested before?" asked Mr. Meredith.

"Yes," said Johnston, "I was arrested for breaking into a tailor's shop." "And you went to prison for it?"

"Yes, to Joliet for two years. Ever since I have been released I have been looking for work. "How did you come to be in the lumber yard on the day of the robbery?" "I went the rounds looking for work, and on failing to run across a job I went there. It was a very warm day." "You were with your chum, Willie Siemens, too?"

"Yes, sir. "And Willie and you were arrested about Sept. 1 for breaking into a paper

"On suspicion only. We were only in jail three days." "What month is this?"

"Why, September, of course. Any person would know that." "What was last month and the month before that ?"

"Last month was August," said John ston, "but I do not know the month previous." "Yet you can remember the date of the robbery. How do you do that?" "My mother told me. I think this is about the 2nd-no, the 22nd."

"You and your pal did not commit this robbery, did you ?" "Oh, no," said Johnston, with a very innocent look.

Prisoner's counsel then tried to targle Johnston with a score of questions as to the hour of his leaving the lumber yard for his dinner, and the time of his return. Johnston, though, remembered when he refresh pastry on hand every day. All sorts turned, because he had his dinner an hour

A Well-Known Horseman Suffers Heavy Loss-Two Incendiary Fires at Til-

This forenoon fire destroyed every one of his buildings, including the dwelling, etc., Loss between $5,000 and $6,000. Mr. Stewart lost his stables and many valuable horses only a short time ago.

TILSONBURG, Sept. 24 .- Two fire alarms vesterday morning, and the subsequent arrest of a well-known and hitherto re- are, yours faithfully, spected citizen, was the cause of the great- "(Signed) R. G. Steacy, Lynn; W. G. spected citizen, was the cause of the greatest excitement that the town has experienced in years. The first fire was discovered in the barn of E. Nickle, opposite the Royal Hotel stables, and was soon extinguished. A search was instituted, when a paper saturated with turpentine was found in the manger.

The crowd had not dispersed from the streets when the alarm again sounded, fire having started in Mr. John Smith's planing mill shed. The blaze was extinguished before any damage was done, but a lady living near the mill said she had seen a man go into the shed and come out again, and saw flames and smoke immediately after his departure. As a result Mr. C. F. Clarke, a well-known lawyer, who has resided in town for over twenty years, was arrested and placed in the lockup. He has been on a spree for over five weeks. MONCTON, N. B., Sept. 24. - Moncton had a severe scotching by fire this afternoon. It was several hours before fire was rang out. It started near the corner of Mechanics and Main streets, in the central business portion, about 3 o'clock, by some boys who played with lighted matches in the upper loft of J. Duffy's livery stable. The loss is $17,000.

THE PORT STANLEY FIRE The fire that destroyed the Batt House at Port Stanley broke out about 3 o'clock Sunday morning, starting in the lower hall, in or near a closet, where a lighted lamp was kept, and where was a can containing four or five gallons of coal oil. The hall being in the center of the house, the fire elimbed quickly up the staircase, reaching every part of the building in a very short time. To make matters worse, the coal can exploded. There were six people sleeping in the house at the time. Downs stairs were Mr. and Mrs. Fraser, and upstairs were a young woman, a relation of thers, and two young men and a boy. When Mr. and Mrs. Fraser were awakened they had barely time to escape and give the alarm to the people upstairs. About the same time Arch, McIutyre, who slept staircase, was awakened by the explosion instantly filled with fire and smoke. Partly dressed, without hat or shoes, he jumped having thrown out the mattress and bed clothes. The young woman, with great difficulty, escaped down a back stair, dressed only in her night clothing, and the other young man got out of the window of his room on to the roof of the kitchen, but the boy, Johnny Dennehy, perished in the flames. Deceased was a manly little fellow of 17 years, and had been around the hotel Thomas. The stables contained a number cattle. by hard fighting and heavy rain. The principal losses are: Mr. and Mrs. Fraser, on furniture, about $1,500; insured in Phœnix for $1,400. Mr. Payne's house. $800; insured for $400. Alex. Brown's

INDIVIDUAL CUPS

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 24.-Individual communion cups were used in the First Methodist Episcopal Church on North Fitzhugh street yesterday for the first time, the sacrament being administered to 250 communicants. The matter of securing individual cups was, when proposed some time ago, placed in the hands of a commit-tee, who reported favorably on the matter and were instructed to secure the cups.

Five hundred and twelve cups of glass similar in shape to those used in other churches were purchased, together with sixteen circular shaped mahogany trays, from which the wine is served. Fifteen to twenty persons approached the altar together yesterday morning and the cups were passed to them by the pastor, who was assisted by Rev. Dr. J. T. Gracey, Rev. A. S. Baker, Rev, George Gasbinder and Rev. A. H. Shurtlett.

Dr. Gracey, at the close of the communion, spoke in commendation of the change and said that the day before he had received a paper from Central Asia, which contained a description of the individual communion cups which had originated in Rochester and the church in distant nations urged no objection to the innovation. A BIG CHANGE.

For Some Years Back John Riley Didn't Work on His Farm-He Does Now -The Reason Why.

MILVERTON, Sept. 24 .- John Riley a farmer living near here, is able to do his farm work right along now, something he 147, 149 and 151 DUNDAS could not do for years. The reason was he had a bad form of kidney disease which set in about ten years ago and gradually grew worse, Latterly Mr. Riley was at times unable to lie in bed or stoop to the ground because of his kidney troubles. Now he can make hav in the meadows, follow a plow or handle a reaper with any man in the country. The cause of the wonderful change is nothing more than Dodd's Kidney Pills. Four bottles effected a complete cure of Mr. Riley's kidney disease. These

Speaking from over twenty years' experience, I can sum up in a few words some of the results of the indiscriminate use of glasses. In the case of odd eyes-gradual loss of sight in the weaker eye, ending in blindness of that eye, strabismus (or squint), diplopia (or double vision), and a gradual weekening of the good eye and making it much more susceptible to disease, glaucoma, iritis, etc. In cases of astigmatism. unsuitable glasses will cause neuralgic pains in the eyes, frontal headache, nausea, paralysis of the accommodation, resulting in permanently impaired vision which no skill can restore. The time will comeand I hope soon - when sight-testing opticians will be placed on the same footing as dentists and chemists, and have to pass an examination before being allowed to practice. I will be at Anderson & Nelles' (Druggists)

We throw in such things as satisfaction, wear, fit, etc., etc. The kinds that don't fit don't give satisfaction, and those that don't give satisfaction are not worth having,

He lingered till early this morning, when death ended his sufferings.

Mr. Barker was 48 years of age. Prior to living in Lobo he had worked a farm in London township. He had two sons, one of whom is Mr. Barker, a patternmaker at McClary's, and residing at 468 Maitland street. The other son is a Methodist minister, suppose to be Rev. Wm. R. Barker, of Collingwood. The afair has cast a gloom over the neighborhood. Mr. Barker was universally respected. He was of a somewhat reserved temperament, but no cause can be assigned for his deed.

The sight of the lilac dress caused him to arn aside. Ellen rose and stood waiting; her whole being was thrilling with the rap-ture the meeting brought. He took her hand in his, his face lighting.

"Is it indeed you, Ellen! I should as soon 'have expected to see a fairy here.' Mrs. Cumberland has gone to call on Mr.

North. She told me to wait for her." I have been with Dick to take my uncle and James to the station," spoke Captain Bohun, pitching upon it as something to say, for his tongue was never too fluent when slone with her. "He has been asking me to go and stay with him." Sir Nash has?'

"Yes. Jimmy invites no one; he is taken up with his missionaries, and that.'

Shall you go?" Their eyes met as she put the question. Go! away from her! "I think not," he quietly answered. "Not at present. Miss Bohun's turn must come first; she has been writing for me this long "That's your aunt."

My aunt. And a good old soul she is. She took the arm he held out, and they paced the covered walks, almost in silence. The May birds were singing, the budding leaves were green. Eloquent enough for them; and each might have detected the beating of the other's heart. Madam had her ear glued to that closet door, and so missed the sight. A sight that would have made her hair stand on end.

Minutes, for lovers, fly on swift wings. When Mrs. Cumberland appeared, it seemed that she had been away no time. Ellen went forward to meet her; and Captain Bohun said he had just come home from the station. Mrs. Cumberland, absorbed in her own cares, complaining of fatigue, tooklittle or no notice of him; he strolled by their side up the Ham. Standing at Mrs. Cumberand's gate for a moment in parting, Oliver Rane came so hastily out of his house that he ran against them. "Don't knock me down, Rane," spoke Arthur Bohun in his lazy but very pleasing "I beg your pardon. When I am in a hurry

1 believe I am apt to drive on in a blindfold "Is any one ill Oliver?" questioned his At Mrs. Gass's. I fear it is herself. The man who brought the message did not know. You ought to keep a horse," spoke tain Bohun, as the doctor recommenced his course. "So much running about must wear out a man's legs."

'Oughts go for a great deal, don't they?" replied the doctor, looking back. "I ought to be rich enough to keep one, but I'm not." Captain Bohun wished them good day, and ey went indoors. Ellen wondered at hearg that Mrs. Cumberland was going out Feeling uneasy—as she said—about he sudden illness, she took her way to the ouse of Mrs. Gass, in spite of the fatigue she had been complaining of. Allong walk for her at any time. Arrived there she found that lady in perfect health; it was one of her servants to whom Oliver had been summoned. The young woman had scalded her

"I was at the Hall this morning, and Mr. North showed me the anonymous letter: Mrs. Cumberland took occasion to say: evidently comes from a stranger; a stranger to us. The handwriting is quite strange. "So much the better, ma'am," heartily spoke Mrs. Gass. "It would be too bad to think it was wrote by a friend." "Oliver thinks it was madam," pursued Mrs. Cumberland, lowering her voice. "At least-he has not gone so far as to say he hinks it, but that Mr. Alexunder does. 'That's just what he said to me, ma'am.

Alexander thought it, he said, but that he himself didn't know what to think, one way or the oth t. As well, perhaps, for us not lotalk of it: least said is soonest mended." "Of course. But I connot help recalling a remark once innocently made by Arthur Bohun in my hearing; that he did not know any one who could imitate different handwritings so well as his mother. Did you"-Mrs. Cumberland looked cautiously round "observed the girl, Molly Green, take her handkerehief from her pocket whilst she "I didn't see her with any handkerchief," was the answer, given after a slight pause. "Shouldn't think the girl has one. She put her basket on the sideboard there, to come forward to my geraniums, and stood stock still while she looked at 'em. I don't say she didn't go to her pocket; but I never saw her

"It might have been so. These little actions often pass unnoticed. And it is so easy for any other article to slip out unseen when a handkerchief is drawn from a pocket,' · concluded Mrs. Cumberland in a suppressed, almost eager tone. Which Mrs. dass noticed, and did not quite like.

But there is still something to relate of Dallory Hall. When madam followed her nusband through the glass doors into his parlor, an unusually unpleasant scene ensued. For once Mr. North held out resolutely. He had no other resource, for he had not the money to give her, and did not know where to get it. That it was for Sidney, he well believed; and for that reason only would have denied it to the utmost of his iseble strength. Madam flounced out in one of her worst moods. Mis. Cumberland's visit and the startling ight of Ellen Adair had brought to her unusual annoyance. As ill uck would have it, she encountered Bessy in the ball, and upon her vented her emper. The short scene was a violent one. When it was over, the poor girl went hivering and trembling into her father's parlor. He had been standing with the door ajar, shrinking almost as much as Bessy, and tterly powerless to interfere.

'Ob, child! if I could only save you from this!" he murmured, as they stood together efore the window, and he fondly stroked buying call at Trafford's and y he head that lay on his breast. "It's one of them. 95 and 97 King street.

he troubles that are wearing me out, Bessy; wearing me out before my time." Bessy North was patient, meek, enduring; but meekness and patience can both be tried beyond their strength. Oliver Rane wants you; you know that, Bessy. If he could see his way to keeping you, you should go to him tomorrow. Ay! though your poor brother has just been put into his grave."

Bessy lifted her head. In these moments of emotion, the heart speaks out without re-

"Papa, I would go to Oliver as he is now and risk it," she said through her blinding tears. "I should not be afraid of our getting on; we would make shift together, until better times came. He spoke a word of this to me not long ago, but his lips were sealed, he said, and he could not press it.'

"He thought he had not enough for you?" "He thought you would not consider it so. I should, papa. And I think those who bravely set out to struggle on together, have as much happiness in their makeshifts and economies as others who begin with a for-

"We'll see: we'll see, Bessy. I should like you to try it, if you are not afraid. I'll talk to Dick. But—mind!—not a word here," he added, giancing round to indicate the precincts of Mrs. North. "We shall have to keep it to ourselves if we would not have it frustrated. I wonder how much

Oliver makes a year. "Not much; buthe is advancing slowly. He has taked to me about it. What keeps one will keep two, papa."

"He comes into about two hundred a year when his mother dies. And I fear she won't live long, from what she tells me. Poor Fanny! Not that I'd counsel any one to reckon on dead men's shoes, child. Life's uncertain, he might die before her.

"He would not reckon on anything but his own exertions, papa. He told me a secret—that he is engaged on a medical quite certain to become a standard work, he says, and bring him good returns. Oh! says, and bring him good returns. Oh! papa, there will be no doubt about our getting on. Let us risk it!"

She spoke in a bright, hopeful tone—her mild eyes shining. Mr. North caught a little of the glad spirit, and resolved—Dick being willing; sensible Dick-that they should risk it.

No man ever yet fell so low that some woman was not willing to help him rise. Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is earache. The young are espesubject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, to which the young are specially subject.

Two negatives may make an affirmative, but yes twice never stands for no.

A Wonderful Cure.-Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's VEGE-TABLE DISCOVERY. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DIScovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little affect. But since using three bottles of the VEGETABLE DISCOVERY the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know." 3

There are babies that seem to mothers to take hardly enough of nourishment to keep them alive. When this is the case, depend upon it baby's diet is objectionable and repulsive to the week stomach.

Thousands of babies are now being fed on life-giving Lactated Food (after a starying course on common prepared foods), and the little ones take it with a genuine relish. In every case Lactated Food pleases the

Col. Lindsay in Command. The sound of the bugle and the march of bold soldier boys were once more heard in the Seventh's headquarters last night, when the men assembled to receive their clothing and accoutrements preparatory to the opening of the winter's drill. The new commander, Col. Lindsay, formally took charge, and after being introduced to the officers was very busy getting everything into good working shape. The turnout of men was exceptionally large for the first night, and if the battalion is not soon to the front it will not be for lack of good hard work. Drill will be commenced immediately, with Major Hayes second in command. Col. Lindsay is a short, thick-set man, and has a decidedly military bearing. He has been a resident of Elgin county for nearly two score years, and it was in 1865, when the Fenian raid was in progress, that he first entered the service. An independent company of rifles was formed in Eigin at that time, and the colonel was one of the first to enlist. This company is now No. 1 of the Twenty-fifth. Five years after entering the service Col. Lindsay retired, having obtained the rank of colorsergeant. Eight years later he again fell in line, taking command of his former company, Thereafter he gradually climbed the ladder, until on June 14, 1889, he was appointed colonel of the Elgin battalion.

It was a surging, shifting crowd that thronged the main building of the Western Fair last week, but there was at least one spot in which it became stationary for a time. The attention of all was immediaately arrested by the magnificent display of Westlake, the photographer-the only one in this line in the Palace. The exhibit was remarkable for its variety as well as its quality. It was uniform in exquisite workmanship, tone and finish, but diversified into many branches of the ever evolving art of the camera. It ranged from the popular cabinet to the large size photo is which the features and expression were life itself. It included those delightful children's pictures for which Westlake is famous; his fine figure posing on plain grounds; striking likenesses of prominent citizens including Mayor Beatty, W. J. Reid and many others; and some very fine title pictures, showing an artistic conception perfectly executed. Not the least interesting features were the flash light interiors of many exhibits in the building which were beautifully clear and minute. Being the only exhibition Mr. Westlake was given the sole privilege of photographing the displays in the palace and received orders from nearly every firm, many of which were puplicated when the result of his work was so satisfactory.

All Mr. Westlake's pictures are printed on the celebrated Aristo paper, which is unexcelled for brilliancy of polish and richness of tone and no picture is allowed to leave unless free of flaws. He has a great advantage in having the only gallery in the city wholly on the ground floor-one that enables him to handle mercantile work with such readiness. Goods may be delivered from the wagon at the door of the operating room. The nighest award at the Western Fair, a handsome silver medal, was presented to Mr. Westlake by the judges, who were loud in their praise of his work.
