London, Jan. 6.—The Times prints a dispatch from its Caracas correspondent saying that any further British communications to the Veneuelan Government will be referred to Washington before they are answered.

FLANKING THE ITALIANS. Rome, Jan. 6.-A dispatch from Massowah says that King Menelek of Abyssinia, with 30,000 followers, has arrived at Lake Acianghi. It is believed that he intends to make a flank movement, with the object of attempting to cut off General Baratieri's communication with Massowah.

THE DUKE'S PALACE.

London, Jan. 6.-In view of the numerous misstatements which have been made with reference to the improvements made at Blenheim castle, the official home of the Duke of Marlborough in the last decade, the Duke of Marlborough authorizes the publication of the report of the chartered accountant, showing that the entire improvements had been paid out of the proceeds of the sale of the Sunderland library and the portion of the Blenheim pictures, enamels and china, to which the present duke became entitled at his majority, his father being only entitled to the income of the RESERVES MAY BE CALLED OUT. touch with the Government, says there is reason to believe that Prime Minister Salisbury and his colleagues, owing to the hostile attitude of Germany, will consider the expediency of immediately strengthening the British forces in those parts of the Empire that are exposed to attack. Field Marshal Lord Wolseley, commander-inchief of the forces, has given it as his firm opinion that if the forces are sent abroad it will be necessary to reinforce the troops at home. It is therefore likely that the militia and army reserve will be called out to such an extent as to place at least one army corps at the disposal of the War Office for foreign service.

The Central News says that the Govern ment is determined not to permit Germany to give military assistance to the Transvaal.

GERMANY IS NOT IN IT. London, Jan. 6 .- In connection with the Transvaal trouble, the Times says that Mr. Chamberlain's statement that Great Britain would adhere to the convention of 1884 was concise and adequate, and will receive the hearty and undivided support of the people of Great Britain, who are prepared to defend their just claims and repel pretensions inconsistent therewith, no matter from how exalted a quarter they may come. Great Britain cannot for a moment admit that I Germany has any locus standi in the matter. The paper adds: "We are exhorted in the German press to secure our positions in the world by conciliating those who can do us most injury. When we need that kind of advice we shall probably seek it in a quarter possessing greater claims to our confidence and respect. Our approachment would not be with Germany, but with the powers which she regards not wholly without ap-

The Chronicle says that Mr. Chamberlain's courage and wisdom have completely disassociated the Government from any shadow of complicity with Dr. Jameson. A DEADLY INSULT.

London, Jan. 6 .- Mr. James Mackenzie Maclean, M. P. for the Cardiff district, and proprietor of the Cardiff Western Mail, has written an article for that paper in which he says: "Emperor William's message to Paul lain has been either culpably ig-Kruger is as deadly and as unprovoked an insult as was ever offered to the head of a great European power, and to a nation of equal rank. In face of these repea ed insults from foreign powers the time has come to use more effective means of retaliation than protests that are conspicious for prudence and moderation. The temper of the English people is rising. The murmurs and Governor Robinson will, it seems, among Lord Salisbury's friends in both certainly be proven to have been the Houses of Parliament are becoming louder and deeper daily. For six weeks past it has been curproclaiming the right of the Transvaal to receive assistance from Germany, has trampled upon international law and violated the convention of 1884. > Jameson and Other Leaders Prisoners at Pretoria-Small Loss Suffered by the Boers-A Russo-British Alliance Suggested.

London, Jan. 5.-The Colonial Office has just received the following telegram, sent by Hon. Sir Walter Francis Hely-Hutchinson, K.C.M.G., to Mr. Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, and dated Jan. 4, 1896: "Press accounts state that on the evening of Dec. 31, Dr. Jameson arrived in the vicinity of Krugersdorf. The ext morning he attacked the Boers, who were entrenched in a strong position. The Boers numbered 1,500. Dr. Jameson was repulsed, but tried to move by Randfontein to Roodeport, and was stopped at Dorinkop. On the afternoon of Jan. 2, heavy fighting took place and the State artillery came

THE INVADERS OUTNUMBERED. "Dr Jameson was outnumbered, and some of his men were nearly starved, many of them having been without food for three days. Their horses were exhausted, and they were forced to surrender. Dr. Jameson lost 80 men killed, besides the wounded. It is estimated that the total loss will reach 240. The loss of the Boers is reported as four killed and a few wounded. It is claimed that fifteen Boers were unhorsed by one volley fired by Dr. Jame-No officers were killed.

THE BOERS' STRONG POSITION. "The Boer position was a rightangled one, and Dr. Jameson attacked it at one point and in entering the angle had the fire of the Boers on his front and flanks. The Boers were much superior in number, and their position was unassailable.

"Dr. Jameson and 55 men were taken prisoners at Krugersdorf, and were afterwards sent to Pretonia. Dr. Jameson was not wounded. "The Cape Times states that 80 of the men of the British Chartered Company were killed.

"Johannesburg is quieting down and the people are disarming.' EIGHT HOURS' FIGHTING. Later in the day a dispatch was re-ceived at the Colonial Office from Cape RESERVES MAY BE CALLED OUT.

London, Jan. 6.—The People, which is in by Dr. Jameson and his followers, as gathered from the local press: is no doubt that Dr. Jameson yielded after he had lost at least 28 men. The battle lasted from 3 in the afternoon until 11 o'clock at night. Dr. Jameson led the three principal attacks, and his men distinguished themselves with great gallantry."

KRUGER WILLING TO MAKE CON-CESSIONS. A private and reliable telegram received here this afternoon from Pretoria says that President Kruger has declared that he is willing to make stisfactory concessions to the Uitlanders, or foreign population of the Transvaal, whose demands for representation, in view of the fact that they contribute practically the whole revenue of the Republic, led to the ill-feeling which resulted in Dr. Jameson's

PRESS SUGGESTIONS. The St. James' Gazette thinks that

Emperor William's message to President Kruger, like President Cleveland's message to Congress, is a warning which should not be disregarded, and furnishes evidence of a combination of the powers against Great Britain, Continuing, the Gazette urges the British Government to "drop the Armenian nonsense, make an alliance with Russia closing the understanding with the Driebund, and in any case push on the armaments with unsleeping energy The Globe says it is an "insult by Germany collectively, and not only from the Emperor alone." Continuing, Globe dwells upon the necessity of strengthening Creat Britain's defenses and remarks: "There is no war party here; but the entire Empire would so become were the words of President Cleveland and Emperor

CHAMBERLAIN RESPONSIBLE. London, Jan. 5.-Dr. Jameson's conduct, suggests that Mr. Chambernorant of impending devlopments in the Transvaal, or has purposely permitted himself to be duped by the assurances of Prime Minister and Governor Robinson, who must have known all the facts. Mr. Chamberlain's official denouncements of Dr. Jameson will not eventually exonerate him from blame, while Mr. Rhodes chief instigators of Dr. Jameson's raid rently reported in London that preparations were being made in Johannesburg for an insurrection the Boer Government. This alone ought to have put the Colonial Office on the alert, as it should not be without advices similar to those reaching England by every mail, that the British South Africa Company was ready to assist in the revolt. It was no secret that 'there received from Buluwayo, the capital of Matabeleland, on Nov. 1, announced that troops of the British South Africa Company were starting south with guns and many wagons, under secret orders, but it was known Cape Town, Jan. 6.—The news that that they were destined for the Transvaal. Other advices show that the mobilization of Dr. Jameson's forces began in October. The British South Africa Company had taken over all the Bechuanaland mounted police, who were doing duty north of Mafeking, mobilizing them and arming them with guns of newest patiern. PREPARATIONS BEGUN LONG AGO. The latest mail from the Cape throws further light on the subject, letters having been received stating that the preparations began six months ago.

The fact is, these preparations soon became known to the Boer Govern-ment, whose spies throughout the country kept it fully apprised of Dr. Jameson's movements. Now, it is asked whence came the money to pay the great expenses necessary to mobilize and equip Dr. Jameson's force? Could Mr. Rhodes and Governor Robinson have been ignorant of Dr. Jameson's plan of operations, which was partly organized and approved by Sir J. Willoughby, the chief commander of the British South African Company's forces, and who accompanied Dr. Jameson to the Transvaal frontier, and who was reported last night to be among the wounded? Is it possible that Dr. Jameson suddenly, of his own accord, and on his own responsibility, departed from his previous record as a staid and tactful official, and embarked upon the career of a fillibuster, accompanied by such aristocratic British officers as the Hon. Chas. Coventry, second son of the Earl of Coventry; the Hon. H. and Hon. R. White (brothers), Lord Annaly, and the Hon. Douglas Marshall, third son of the Earl of Romney? HARD TO BELIEVE. It will strain British credulity to believe that Gov. Robinson did not have full cognizance of Dr. Jameson's proceedings, and that Mr. Rhodes did not originate and supply the funds for the attack on the Transvaal. Dr. Jameson's friends, who are powerful, and his associates in war, will not allow him whether he is dead or alive, to become the scapegoat for Mr. Chamberlain's blundering (?) and Mr.

Rhodes' and Governor Robinson's perfidy. The latter owed his appointment as Government High Commissioner and Commander-in-Chief of Cape Colony to the insistence of Mr. Rhodes. The latter helped Governor Robinson to fortune, and found him always a pliant tool. Be-tween Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Rhodes there is no goodwill. On the contrary, there is rather much ill-feeling. Therefore it is likely that the former was duped.

BAD FOR THE COMPANY.
Mr. Chamberlain attempts to bring about the downfall of Mr. Rhodes, the first step will be to secure the cancellation of the charter of the British South Africa Comapny. Mr. Rhodes said long ago that he would declare the independence of the South African colonies, which would be followed by a union of South African States, which, he said, he hoped to see in the near future, covering all the country south of the Zambesi River. Such a union would include the Transvaal and the Orange Free State, both of which are under Boer government. Should he resort to a declaration of the independence of South Africa, he would have strong Afrikander support. So complex is the situation, with powerful foes within the Cape Colonies, and the foreign powers hostile to the expansion of British influence, that nothing can be drawn from the future favorable to Egypt. The vehement de-nouncement of England's policy in the German and French, and even in ain's isolation.

JAMESON'S HOPE. Dr. Jameson's friends rely on President Kruger, of the Transvaal, to pre- away. A mob from Valleyfield was vent his execution. Dr. Jameson, while at Kimberley, was summoned to Pretoria to attend President Kruger in a dangerous illness. Under the doctor's ministrations President Kruger was cured. This friendship may now stand Dr. Jameson in good stead. Speaking of the possibility charter of the British South African walked about three miles and got a C. P. Company being revoked calls to mind R, train to Montreal, They arrived there at the fact that the company controls a 8:30, and Shortis was lodged in the jail for vast expanse of territory. The charter was granted in 1889. It conferred upon are in a most indignant frame of mind overthe company large administrative powers in the region north of Cape Colony. The boundaries of the territory are, roughly speaking, Cape Colony and the Transvaal on the south and Portuguese East Africa and the British Central Africa protectorate of the east, the Congo Free State on the north, and German Southwest Africa and Angola on the west. Thus, British Central Mashonaland and Matabeleland all lie within the sphere of the company's operations, which cover a area of about 750,000 square miles. Mr. Rhodes is the head of the company in Africa. WAITING FOR NEWS. The British Colonial Office and the offices of the Chartered Company remain open night and day. Lord Salisbury, Mr. Chamberlain, Lord Selbourne and other members of the Government were in consultation at Hatfield House last night. The favorite popular solution of the Johannesburg difficulty is that Dr. Jameson, Sir leaders will be tried, sentenced to death and pardoned by President Kru

THE PRESIDENT'S REPLY. President Kruger, replying to Mr. Chamberlain's dispatch, cabled: "I have not ordered the free-booters who are prisoners to be shot. Their case will be decided strictly in accordance with the traditions of the Republic, and in sharp contrast to the unheard- Duluth. of acts of these free-booters. of our beloved republic.' The corespondents in Berlin of the London Morning Post and Daily News telegraph that Germans are now less unanimous in their approval of Emperor William's message, Montreal, Que., Jan. 6.—Sheriff Laber of Beauharnois, fooled the Valleyfield mob which wanted to get hold of Shortis and lynca him Saturday. MUNCEY.

At back settlement there was anothe great feast and jolly good time, with plenty to eat and speeches by the best men, led off by Mr. John Nicholas, a Muncey Indian, the tribe's secretary, followed by a selection from John Henry's family noted string band, to the great delight of lovers of instrumental music. Messrs. French. Henry and Whiteloan also spoke. About 8:30 p.m the grand feast came to a close, and all went home as happy as could be. Muncey, Jan. 1 .- New Year's Day on the Reserve was spent in feasting at Chippewa Council House near the institution by the young bucks of the Chippewa tribe of Indians. They brought their best cookery to satisfy the inner man. It was pork, beef, chicken and turkey, done up O. K. Mr. John Chicken was the chairman. He managed to get home safe, there being plenty of other chickens to gobble down. The young bucks are wise in selecting John Chicken as chairman. He may be rightly termed the G. O. M. He has been for 40 years exhorting his people to flee from the weath to come. Speeches were given by our beloved clergyman, Rev. A. G. Smith, who spoke on industry and right living as rational beings with good effect. Master N. H. Timothy, a Muncey lad, recited, to the great delight of the people, followed by a vocal selection from the Oneida choir, who were loudly cheered. Then Mr. N. H. Timothy spoke oriefly and to the point, followed by a selection from Jonas Seneca's family choir, rendered in good style. A few other of the best men gave addresses, which kept the singers quite busy. All present, old and young, seemed to enjoy themselves to the full, and at 8:30 p.m. the meeting was brought to a close and all went home happy.

Mrs. John B. Noah, of Moraviantown, is on a holiday visit, looking hale and hearty. On Jan, 2 a social was given at the L. M. M. Church for the Sunday school children, who turned out en masse and enjoyed them-selves. Mr. John Nicholas, presiding, opened the programme in a few well chosen words. Then Superintendant Nelles F. Timothy addressed the children, after which the the superintendent awarded the prizes to Sunday school winners in attendance and memory verses as follows: First, Mrs. Jessie Johns, for largest number of verses, a fancy lamp; second first prize for attendance, Samuel W. C. John, a fine shirt; second prize on attendance, Miss Sophia Noah, a neat present dress; third prize on attendance, Master Ardry, braces and tie; second prize on memory verses, Sophia Noah; third prize on memory verses, Miss Alvina Jones, a silk handerchief. Then followed a selection from Wm. Timothy and wife; a recitation from Rogers Nicholas, son of John Nicholas; selection from Timothy and wife, entitled, "Sainted Mother;" recitation by N. H.Timothy. S. John spoke briefly toall on full surrender to the Great Spirit on this new year. He was cheered Little Archy Johns recited "Jesus' Coming Brought Great Joy." Mr. Nelson Henry who has been away to the great North west, was called upon and spoke briefly on the manners of the Indians in the Northwest. Another recitation from young Timothy was followed by a violin solo by Mr. Nelson Henry, who was encored. Chairman Nicholas closed by a short speech of the ways of costumes of our forefathers as far back as 407 years. A vote of thanks to Mr. Nelson Henry was heartily given and another to Mr. M. F. Timothy and wife for appearing in costume.

England Alarmed at His Resignation-Will He Try to Cut African Colonies From the Empire?

London, Jan. 6.-Delayed dispatches from Johannesburg are arriving here today. They show that on Tuesday last there was intense excitement there, the people hurrying into the town from the mines and suburbs. The central committee constituted themselves a provisional government for the town, and announced that ample provision would be made to defend it against any body of Boers. The provisional government was established in the Consolidated Gold Fields building and three Maxim guns were placed advantageous positions about it. The new Government then sent an ultimatum to the Government of President Kruger, who proposed a conference at Pretoria on the following day, Wednesday. The committee hesitated to go to Pretoria without a safe con-

Dr. Jameson at that time was hourly expected at Johannesburg. Crowds of people surrounded the Consolidated Gold Fields building, and the work of requiting was in full swing. Numbers of people left the town during the night in bands of 50 each. Later the committee sent the following communication to Sir Hercules Robinson, the Governor of Cape Colony: "We have absolute information that a large body of Beers has been commanded to immediately attack Johannesburg and shoot on sight all who have been concerned in the agitation. Affairs are so critical that we ask you to intervene to protect the lives of citizens who have long agitated legally their rights."

FOUGHT HARD. Cape Town, Jan. 6.—It is learned that after Wednesday's fight Dr. Jameson's column, originally about 700 men, moved southwards, fighting hard all the way through the night, and eventually reached Vlakfontein, six miles from Johannesburg, on Thursday morning, when the column was completely surrounded by a force of 4,800 Boers. In spite of this, Dr. Jamseon's followers fought stubbornly until noon, when all their cartridges were exhausted. In addition they had not tasted food for 24 hours, and were worn out with fatigue. But the white flag was not hoisted by Dr. Jameson's orders. It is known that Dr. Jameson expected 2,000 Uitlanders to join him at Krugersdorf. The Dutch press is jubilant at this lowering of British prestige, and advocates the incorporation of "Rhodesia" with the Transvaal Republic.

RHODES' WONDERFUL CAREER.
London, Jan. 6.—Even his most bitter enemies admit that Cecil Rhodes is one of the great men of the century. He has been described as having the face of a Caesar, the ambition of a Loyola and the wealth of a Croesus. He is entirely the architect of his own fortunes. He is the fourth son of an English clergyman, and is 43 years old. At the age of 16 he left college because of ill-health and joined his elder brother, who was a planter in Natal. Then the rush to the Kimberly mines began, and in five years Cecil Rhodes amassed $5,000,000. He resumed his studies, returned to England, and re-He resumed his ceived his degree at Oxford. Then turning again to the country where he had found health and fortune, he became the leading spirit of the De Beers Mining Company, which in time absorbed all of the others. By this time Cecil Rhodes had doubled and doubled his fortune until it had become $8,000,000, and the company which he was the chief controlled the liamond industry of South Africa, while he had earned the sobriquet of not content him. He sought to control all the mineral wealth of Southern Africa, and to accomplish his purpose he organized the British South Africa Company, obtaining for it a royal charter, and inducing many of the mem-bers of royalty to take stock therein. Politically also he pushed his way to the front. Before he was 30 he en-tered the Cape House of Assembly; shortly afterwards he was made Treasurer-General of the Cape, and subsequently deputy commissioner of Bechuanland, and Premier of Cape Colony, succeeding Sir Gordon Sprigg in this latter post, which is second only the position of the Governor, Sir Hercules Robinson. Full rifteen years ago Cecil Rhodes drew his pen through the map of Africa, from ocean to ocean, near the Zambesi River, and proclaimed it his ambition that all this shouldbe British soil. During the period which has since elapsed he has and crowding on possesions of Ger

The Michigan Central carried but 8,532 tons.

Mr. George Olds, one of the most respected railway men in America has retired from the position of general traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, a position which he occupied with much credit to himself and the company. In a conversation recently he said that he felt the need of a rest after a long working day. He retires with the esteem of all with whom he came in contact during his connection with the company. The office has now been abolished, and Queer Facts About a Watch.

Open your watch and look at the little wheels, springs and screws, each an indispensable part of the whole wonderful machine. Notice the busy little balance wheel, as it flies to and fro unceasingly, day and night, year in and year out. Pain in the Side, TORPID LIVER. They This wonderful little machine is the result of hundreds of years of study and experiment. The watch carried by the average man is composed of ninety-eight pieces, and its manufacture embraces more than 2,000 distinct and separate operations. Some of the smallest screwe are so minute that the unaided eyes cannot distinguish them from steel filings or specks of dirk. Under a powerful magnifying glass a perfect screw is revealed. The slit in the head is two onethousandths of an inch wide. It takes 808,000 of these screws to weigh a pound, and a pound is worth $1,585. The hair-spring is a strip of the finest steel. about nine and one-half inches long, one and one-hundredth of an inch wide, and twenty-seven ten-thousandths of an inch thick. It is coiled up in spiral form, and finely tempered. The process of tempering these springs was long held as a secret by the few fortunate ones possessing it, and even now it is not generally known. Their manufacture requires great skill and care. The strip is gauged to twenty one-thousandths of on inch, but no measuring instrument has yet been devised capable of fine enough gauging to determine before-hand by the size of the strip what the strength of the finished spring will be. A twenty one-thousandth part of an inch difference in the thickness of the strip makes a difference in the running of a watch of about six minutes an hour.

The value of these springs, when finished and placed in watches, is enormous in proportion to the material from which they are made. A comparison will give a good idea: A ton of steel made up into hair springs, when in watches, is worth more than twelve and a half times the value of the same weight in pure gold.

What Destroys our Streets

Without doubt the heavy cartage and drayage of medern times have much to do with the perishableness of modern pavements. The bardest rock itself cannot long withstand the continuous grind of heavy loads supported upon narrow tires. To this foolish and destructive fashion of building carts and drays designed for the transportation of great weights, the failure in modern pavements is due. It must be remembered that the celebrated roads of antiquity were never subjected to similar tests, and that the smaller the surface called upon to sustain the great weight the less natural will be the resistance power offered, and the greater will be the pressure upon the point of contact. If anyone will take the trouble to ascertain the weight of an average load hauled by bundreds through all our chief cities daily, measure the width of the tire and then figure the pressure per square inch to which a pavement is exposed, based upon the fraction of a circle which touches a straight line, he will have a better idea of what road builders of the present day have to contend with. This width of cart wheels and tires should be regulated by law with a view to municipal economy, and each Commonwealth should endeaver by legislation to en-force honesty in the laying of foundations for every foot of pavement used .-Lippincott's Magazine.

An English journal tells a story, true or invented, to show the danger into which public speakers run when they indulge in untried object lessons.

The speaker in the present instance was a Tory, who was addressing a large audience in Scotland. In the course of his argument he took from his pocket a nut and held it up between his fingers.

"Now, my friends," he said, "this nut represents the whole church question. The shell is the Free Church, good in its way, but not the best of things. Now, crack the shell, and you get the Established Church."

The most inquisitive persons, says the Youths' Companion, often affect indifference regarding the affairs of others, and flattering themselves that they are keeping their curiosity, well in hand at the very time that they are giving full reign to it. Aunt Jane Jasper belonged to this class. It was her boast that she had "all she could do to 'tend to her own business, without meddling with the affairs of other folks," and that she "never bothered her head about things that did not concern her."

She was one day telling about a conversation she had "struck up" with a woman sitting beside her on a street

"She was a real nice-appearing woman," said Aunt Jane, "and I thought we might as well be talkin' together as settin' there mum and glum; so I spoke to her, and she answered back real pleasant, and we talked for three miles.

"I asked her name and where she lived, and if she was married, and what her husband did, and how many children she had; and I found out all about a family trouble that was worrying her a good deal.

"She was trying to break her mother's will, and sae wasn't on speaking terms with her own brothers and sisters, and her husband and her didn't get along very well together. "She had on a beautiful diamond ring that she told me cost $200, and she'd an elegant black slik that cost $3 a yard, for I asked her the price of it." , "Did you ask her where she had it made?" asked Aunt Jane's listener, whereupon the old lady bridled visibly, and said sharply:

Why, of course, I didn't! Did you s'pose I'd be that inquisitive?"

plume. Such a hard and glossy bit of picturesque ugliness looks well, seen as I saw it to-day surmounting a skirt of green cloth with white kid piping and a border of black astrackhan; a black astrakhan coat faced with the kid all down the long lapels, and a high-colored blouse underneath of shot green and a blue silk with an applique of fine lace down the front and a demurely pretty face above the bebowed and beribboned stock collar. The piping of white kid is carried through all the seams of the black jacket, and let me say it is, if an old device, still a good one.

When the beefeater survives, it is a

about the edges, not to be recognized for what it is save by one who has seen its decline and fall. It is prettier for the falling, when all is said, almost as flat as a tam, but much richer. Another popular hat is perfectly flat in the brim and piled high with billows of ostrich plumes.

Black Dresses in Favor. As black is to be so greatly in favor this winter, enterprising Broadway importers are now making a special and attractive exhibit of a very large invoice of stylish and elegant black materials, which include French mohairs with boucle figures, armures with bourette knots, whipcords, camels'-hair serges with satin-like stripes in glossy wool and silk weaves, crepons of every imaginable make in crinkles deep ordelicate, striped and dotted alpacas and brilliantines, satin, Fayettas, moires both plain and figured, Henriettas in silk warp, and sheer all-wool weaves, repped wools in fine and heavy cords. The mohairs and Henrietta cloths are represented in different qualities and prices, and possess a degree of durability that is unsurpassed by nearly any black material save English serge. which is less dressy in effect than these finer woolen fabrics. Other standard black textiles are displayed that are in ady demand as the outlook for the winter season indicates an even greater demand for handsome black fabrics than has already been experienced. - New York Evening Post.

Ways and Means. There are so many pretty ways in which a house bodice may be freshened up. Enormous sailor collars of insertion and ribbon will make a plain bodice look elaborate, strips of ribbon spangled with jet or iridescent beads give an air of elaboration, and one can use all the bits of lace, fur and passementerie that have been freshened, so that a good result is obtained. Very many women choose one color for the house and never wear any other, the fancy for identifying one tint with one's self is dainty and womanly, and it may be mentioned, it is also economical, inasmuch as what is left over from one year to another can always be utilized. Pure heliotrope, black, rose, pale blue, ecru, and, of course, white, are especially in vogue, and all either in silk or stuffs, may be artistically developed. In a well-heated house one dainty little woman wears for the afternoon, and evening gowns, all the winter through, soft white mull. Of course her bodice is lined and in that way made quite as warm as a stuffed one. Another one, who dresses while still another invariably wears pale blue. An all-white gown, truthfully spoken of as a picture frock, that was worn at a home dinner, had an air of ed in Dodd's Kidney Pills. elegance and yet was not expensive. The material was of smooth surfaced lightweight white cloth. The skirt was made rather full with a slight train, but did not flare. The bodice was a round draped one side of the belt just near the front. A pany, Toronto, Ont. large flaring collar, made of goldenbrewn velvet ribben, white lace insertion and having deep white lace for its frill, was the neck finish, and the white throat is permitted to show well above it in the modest way that delights a painter. The huge puffs that formed the sleeves cased at the elbow, and deep frills of ace fall on the lower part of the arm. Such a gown could be developed in black prepon, satin or velveteen, and have its olor made of black insertion and black velvet ribbon, while the waist ribbon could also be of black velvet. Don't Let Strangers Kiss the Baby. "Your baby is the most lovely that was ever born," writes Isabel A. Mallon in January Ladies' Home Journal, "but do not let strangers, in their desire to express their admiration of it, kiss the little ligs that cannot object or clasp tightly in their arms the little body that is, as yet, so tender. So many little ones are injured by promiscuous kissing that the wise mother tells the nurse that once she knows that outsiders are permitted to kiss the baby her discharge without a reference will promptly follow. Hardhearted? No. indeed. Nurse must consider, first of all, her charge, even if, to the rest of the world, she is unwiling to display she baby entrusted to her care."

Sleeves.

A new feature in sleeves is the introduction of groups of horizontal tucks around the fullest part of the sleeve. In another sleeve the entire fulness radiates from a group of overlaid pleats at the shoulder seam. The effect is very pretty.

In still another the full upper arm terminates at the elbow with deep points turned back ever the fulness, faced with guipure lace. Under this is a tight forearm of contrasting material. An odd and Hair Mattress Cleaning Factory.

Steady Progress of the Cuban Insurgents.

Their Forces Within Striking Distance of the Capital.

by the Spanish Authorities,

Havana, Jan. 5.-Unless all indications are misleading, the end of the Cuban insurrection is at hand and the result, it would seem, must be in favor of the insurgents, whose armies, under Maximo Gomez, Antonio Maceo and Quintin Bandera, are nearing this city from three different directions.

The above facts, so frequently denied during the past two weeks, are now generally admitted even in official circles, although all sorts of lame explanations of the triumphant advance of the Cubans are put forth in the hope of calming public excitement. It is no longer a cry of "On to Havana!" from the Cubans. They are here slowly but surely surrounding this capital after a triumphant march from the eastern end of Santiago de Cuba to the capital of this island, in spite of all the best troops of Spain could do to prevent them. Step by step Gen. Campos has been driven back before the advance of the victorious army, meal; Mrs. John O'Sullivan, 2 dozen until here preparations are being completed on both sides for the final and decisive struggle.

The main body of the second insurgent column under Gen. Gomez was reported yesterday morning to be at Duran, moving in the direction of Guira Melena, at the head of the railroad leading from the Province of Pinar del Rio into Havana. Other portions of Gomez's column by far the strongest of the three, and now said to number 8,000 men, sighted at Guivican and San Felipe, only slightly to the eastward and northward of Guira Melena.

The third insurgent column, under Gen. Maceo, is announced to have passof layers and 20 pounds of candy; Mr. ed Ceiba, Mocho, with Gomez, when D. who can be placed under arms has been called upon to shoulder a rifle, and the warships have landed every man and every gun available for the defense of the city.

In the face of these preparations to repel the enemy from without, the most vigorous plans have been laid out to battle with an enemy within. The authorites recognize the fact that when the insurgent guns are heard in the distance they may be the signal for a popular uprising here, which will divert attention from the enemy and enable the latter to make a dash into Havana, which is expected to end the war and enable Cuba to gain her independence.

As this dispatch is sent, however communication between Havana and Jaruco is known to have been cut off by the ememy. Jaruco is the first town of importance outside of Havana, in the direction of Matanzas. Key West, Fla., Jan. 4.—Late advices from Cuba confirm the reports that Gen. Gomez is now in the vicinity of Havana, at the head of a wing of the insurgent army. He is now reported near Guines, less than 30 miles from Havana, with 18,000 men. A band of insurgents arrived today at Santiago de Lebanos, and they captured 500 horses from the planta-tion of Mr. Vegas, at San Jose de los Loias. Yesterday 4,000 men under the command of Lacret, the insurgent leader, burned the Renion station, only twelve miles from Havana.

Boston, Jan. 4.—The Globe's staff correspondent in Cuba cables tonight as follows, via Vera Cruz: "A desperate battle has been fought today near Colon. The Spanish troops were routed and suffered heavy loss insurgents captured the Spanish artillery, and have gained a position commanding the overland entrance to Havana. Gen. Talk of Americans Forcing the Passage of the Dardanelles-Strained Feeling Between Germany and England-The War Spirit of the Briton Awakened-Chamberlain Blamed for the Jameson Raid.

London, Jan. 5 .- If any such proof was necessary, the events of the past week have once more tended to establish beyond a doubt the cold isolation of Great Britain in Europe and elsewhere. But the anti-British comments of the foreign press have been so bitter since the invasion of the Transvaal republic by the filibusterers under Dr. the leaders would have been forgotten. Jameson, with or without the knowledge of the British South Africa Company and the colonial authorities, that this feature of the situation has produced a decided sensation, which has culminated in an outburst of indigna-tion against Emperor, William for sending his dispatch of congratulation to President Kruger.

The expressions of wrath are not confined to the newspapers, but are the common talk of London and other cities. It is known that the Govern-ment officials generally, and it is reported that even royalty, denounces in unmeasured terms the German Emper-or's "deliberately unfriendly act," and there are suggestions flying about regarding recalling the British ambassador to Germany and making threatening changes in the disposition of the different squadrons of the British fleet.

William, it appears, first sent peremptory instructions to the German ambassador here to obtain an immediate explanation of the meaning of Dr. Jameson's expedition, which, by the way, the British Government had already repudlated. This having been explained to the German ambassador, the Marquis of Salisbury concluded that the matter had been settled, and he was disagreeably surprised when the news was received at the Foreign Office that the Emperor had sent a dispatch of congratulation to President

William is known to be a great stickler for all forms of diplomatic procedure, nobody doubts that his step was deliberately taken after consultaion with the Imperial Chancellor, Prince Hohenlohe. This having been admitted, there are people who are beginning to intimate that a triple alliance between Russia, France and Germany, previously hinted at, may after all be an accomplished fact; for It would hardly seem likely that Germany would care to risk an active dispute with Great Britain and a possible blockade of her coasts when she could make but little retaliation unless she was assured of active support from other powers. STRAINED RELATIONS.

The very bitter comments of the British press upon the action of Germany's Emperor are in marked contrast with moderate manner in which the newspapers here discussed the Venezuelan crisis. In fact, the latter dispute seems almost to have been lost sight of, especially since such a flood of discredit has been thrown upon the British side of the contention by the the correspondent of Washington Chronicle, of this city, in the publicaof correspondence apparently hitherto not carefully weighed on this side of the Atlantic. All the batteries of the British press seem to be turned upon Germany, and their fire is increasing in intensity as the action of the Emperor becomes more clearly under-stood. At first it was thought to be nothing more than one of his familiar eccentricities, but there seems to be much more of cold deliberation than eccentricity about the young war lord's dispatch to the President of the Transvaal Republic.

The Standard, which may be regarded as directly representing the British Government, speaks very plainly on the subject, and warns foreign nations in general, and Germany in particular, that Great Britain will tolerate no interference, and that in spite of the threats of the German official press to make things unpleasant for Great Britat Washington and Pekin, "we shall defend our own with all the means at our disposal, let our assailants he who they will or as many as they will."

This utterance upon the part of the Standard is a sample of the remarks on the subject made by the British press, and coming from does, there are clear indications that Great Britain and Germany have reached a state of extremely strained relations, and one which may further and more serious results unless the jingoes of both nations are curbed.

EFFECT OF JAMESON'S DEFEAT. The defeat of Dr. Jameson's freebooters by the Boers has produced a feeling of great humiliation here, and the greatest anxiety is felt regarding AMERICANS MAY FORCE THE fate of his companions, as there are among them the younger sons of of the best known families of Great Britain. This feeling of humilia tion adds to the degree of anger felt against Germany, and increases considerably the danger existing in the situation. Then again, the fact that so many distinguished young men were among the British Chartered Company's troopers is another element which may cause further trouble, as their families are certain to bring all the pressure they possibly can to bear upon the Government in their efforts to wipe out the humiliation inflicted upon all concerned by the Boers.

Among the persons who are behind the scenes, the general view taken of case is that Dr. Jameson's defeat moment, he was left in the lurch by the Uitlanders of Johannesburg, who were to have risen and aided him may set sail for the Mediterranan alwas brought about because, at the last against the Boers. It has been an open secret for weaks past that the chartered company's troops were preparing for some advance, and the people who have recently seen President Kruger and Cecil Rhodes, the Premier of Cape Colony, say they have no doubt that Dr. Jameson received orders from the latter that a grand coup was intended, that probably a new republic would have been established, and that in the brilliance of the results the faults of Berlin, Jan. 5.-The invasion of the Transvaal by Dr. Jameson and the forces of the British South Africa Company has brought up all the latent produced by President Cleveland's message in America. The general belief that the duplicity of British statesmen is deliberate and in pursuance of their policy of keeping Europe divided into understands that the Emperor's message to President Kruger was not due to mere impulse, but was decided upon and drafted after a grave council of Ministers, and it must, therefore, be regarded as an open pronunciamento of a change in German policy towards

Gret Britain. EMPEROR WILLIAM'S COURSE. On receiving the news of the invasion of the Transvaal, the Emperor summoned the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Baron von Bieberstein, and Dr. Kayser, Director of the Colonial Office, to Potsdam, and spoke to them in strong terms of the breach of international law. Later an official note was sent to the British Government asking curtly the meaning of Dr. Jameson's raid, what steps would be taken to neutralize Moreover, it is asserted, on good authority, that the intention to land German sailors at Delagoa Bay was only abandoned on the receipt of the news of Dr. Jameson's defeat. consent of Portugal had been asked for Another statement, made on good authority, is that Germany has already come to an agreement with France to arrest the British advance in South Africa, and that 1,500 German volunteers, well equipped, will start on board a North German Lloyd steamship during the coming week for Delagoa Bay order to assist the Boers.

At the New Year's reception at the palace, Emperor William was frigid in his treatment of the British ambassador, Sir Francis C. Lascelles. It was remarked that his Majesty barely addressed a few words to him, and eyed him sternly. On the other hand, the Emperor's reception of the United States ambassador, Theodore Runyon, was most cordial. Besides the usual congratulations, his Majesty took pains to manifest the undisturbed relations of intimacy between Germany and the United States, talking with Mr. Runyon most pleasantly and amicably for

The Foreign Office is reported to have made an exhaustive study of archives at the Hague and at Madrid, and to have secured a large amount of documentary evidence favoring its views of the controversy, but this relates mainly to the original Dutch claim, based upon imperfect geography. Its position is really undermined by the Chronicle's evidence that Lord Salisbury's unalterable frontier was Lord Aberdeen's tentative and alterable line, and that Lord Granville agreed to arbitrite the entire question, which Lord Salisbury declared could not be arbitrated under conditions. The Chronicle's good work in the interests of peace is followed up with a practical suggestion for bringing about an adjustment of the whole question by means of a dual or tripartite commis sion. It is unfortunate that public attention here has been diverted to South Africa, for the plan is worthy of more serious attention than that it Jameson's failure has extricated the Home Government from a difficult position. He is a prisoner, exposed to trial by courtmartial and condemnation to death. The whole movement, which has in-furiated the colonists, greatly excited the English people, and compelled the Covernment to go to the rescue of the Boers, is a disastrous failure.

THE TENSION OF PUBLIC FEEL-ING

Meanwhile, England has waited with could not be justified upon international grounds, yet who was a man of action, like Garibaldi, ready to draw his sword when the time-serving dilpomatists were timid and cautious. tension of public feeling was shown by two incidents on the night when the news of his defeat came. Hardly had they resumed their seats when a late-comer, who had brought with him the midnight edition of a paper containing the news that Jameson was a prisoner, handed it to the proposer of the toast.

SOME OF THE VICTIMS. The Carlton Club, the great Conser vative organization, which is usually deserted during the holiday period was thronged with members on the receipt of the news from the Transvaal. The scions of many families have gone to British South Africa to seek their fortunes. These took naturally to the only occupation they considered for them and joined the mounted police forces of the British South African Company. Capt. Forbes, Capt. Graham, Capt. Doyne and three lieutenants, Grenfell, Keith and Falconer, all of whom are well-known in London society, took part in the expedition that Capt. Jameson took into the Transvaal. Among those killed are a number who are related to the nobility; some of them are regretted, and a few will be missed.

JAMESON'S REAL MOTIVES in responding to the signal of the politcal reformers of Johannesburg are dinary fire-eating fillibusterer. A Scotchman, in his 43rd year, he has been in South Africa for seventeen years, and is the intimate friend of Rhodes, whose political agent he has been during the last ten years in securing successive enlargements of territory for the Chartered Company. His reputation for prudence and tact has been great. He has prevented the invasion of Bechuanaland by the Boers on one occasion, and organized a successful expedition against the Matabeles. His administration of the vast territory of the Chartered Company was efficient and brilliant. The sudden plunge of this canny Scot into the Transvaal as the leader of an ex-pedition of free-booters is inexplicable, unless the knowledge and consent of Rhodes are presupposed.

Seven Ministers Resign, With a String to It.

The Decapitation of Premier Bowell the Object.

Montague Now Confesses the High Tax Party Has Gone to Pieces.

He Pretests That Caren's Grave Accusations Against Him Are False.

RESIGNED WITH A STRING. Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 6.- The talk of the city today is the resignation of seven of the members of the Bowell Cabinet. Those who have tendered their resignations are as follows:

Foster, Minister of Finance; Ives, Minister of Trade and Commerce; Tupper, Minister of Justice: Montague, Minister of Agriculture: Haggart, Minister of Railways; Wood, Minister of Customs, and Dickey, Minister of Mil-

ter of the Interior. Coming so soon after the statement that Sir Mackenzie Bowell had resigned, this report, which appears to be well founded, has set everyone asking, 'What next?" There is utter demoralization in the ranks of the folowers of Sir Mackenzie Bowell, and this is only one of the symptoms of it. The report that Premier Bowell had resigned was circulated by Conservative kickers in and out of the Ministry, who, finding the party going to pieces, are willing to effect any change, in the hope that it may prolong, for even a short time, the life of the Administration. Some of them seem to think that the aged Tupper, who is loafing around here, though paid many thousands of dollars to represent Canada in Britain, would be able to rescue the high tax party in the crisis: but those who favor that course ignore the fact that no Tupper leadership can prevent that change of men and measures which recent bye-elections show that the country demands. The undermining and political assassination of Premier Bowell by the conspirators would only open up a new series of troubles. It is felt here that the resigned Ministers never intend to resign, but merely threaten their leader so that they may compel him to get out and give ambitious men a chance to try their hand. He charges treachery against some of his own principal supporters, and being a proud man, he is likely to die hard. price offered him to resign is the High

Comimssionership in England.
THE DIVIDED GOVERNMENT The Montague-Caron feud is one of the exciting topics here. The Citizen has an editorial entitled "The War of Ministers," which says: "Dr. Montague is accused by a colleague, Sir Adolphe Caron, of having treacherously at-tempted to ruin him by writing anonymous accusations against him to his Excellency the Governor-General. The charge was that Sir Adolphe was paid for promoting the passage of a private bill, a charge which he emphatically denies. The handwriting in the letters he believes he has conclusively established to be that of his fellow-Minister. The obvious result must be an investigation of the indictment laid against the Hon. Dr. Montague. Until this investigation is made it would be premature to form a judgment upon the merits of the case, but it is inevitable that one or other of the Ministers must resign." Caron's charges against Montague are sterling proofs of the demorafization that prevails among the high tax leaders.

The Citizen also says editorially: "The unsettled state of the political atmosphere for many months past has been aggravated recently by rumors of all kinds concerning dissensions in the Cabinet, prospective changes and suggested reorganization under a new leadership."

The opinion here is that the end of it all will be an early dissolution of Parliament. DR. MONTAGUE'S CONFESSIONS. In reply to a question Dr. Montague aid: "You may say that the whole thing is a tissue of falsehoods. is a lie from beginning to end, and no amount of expert evidence as to handwriting will prove the contrary. I had before the publication of this writ-ten to the Premier demanding that his Excellency should be informed of the mention of my name in connection with it. Why was this matter given to the press before I was called on to answer the charge? The whole object is that one or two men about to fall are trying to drag me down with them. The Conservative party is done for, fought hard to save it."

but they cannot say other than that I It is said by those who know that Premder Bowell and Sir Adolphe Caron are the men alluded to as those about to fail. In any event it is admitted here that the end not only of the Bowell Administration but of Conservative rule has arrived. ANOTHER RESIGNATION.

It is said here than Hon. T. M.
Daly, member for Marquette, Man. knowing he cannot be re-elected, clamoring for a judgeship. Mr. Daly is tired of politics, and is ready, it is said, to accept a position in the judi-clary of Manitoba. He wants the po-sition without delay, for, like many others, he fears that the Administration must soon fall.

WHAT OF THE BILL? It is said that Hon. John Haggart's opposition to the Goternment's bringing in of its coercive Manitoba bill is so strong that he has warned his leader that, at the caucus that is to be held next Thursday, he will make a speech against the proposed policy of the Administration. He will pic-ture defeat for the Government in Ontario if the bill is brought in.

SIR BOWELL IS YET KING.

As long as Sir Mackenzie Bowell views the matter from his present standpoint he is king of the situation. The Premier can dismiss all his Ministers at his own sweet will, but his colleagues have no control over him. To start with, Sir Charles, the older, has no constituency. Some of those who are wanting to see him Premier that he could be placed in the Senate. But who is to put Sir Charles in the Senate? Not Sir Mackenzie Bowell, by any means, for he has no use for the Tuppers.

MORE TO BE TOLD.

Dr. Montague's alleged plottings against his colleagues of the Cabinet has been in my possession for some time. The portion which was telegraphed to some of the papers last night, is probably the most sensational, but there is a great deal more to be told. Everyone in the Press Callery knows how Dr. in the Press Gallery knows how Dr. Montague has been cultivating the correspondence of some of the most bitter critics of the Government. It is not a secret where much of the informawas obtained, for Dr. Montague has been quietly booming himself at the expense of his colleagues ever since he entered the Ministry. The caucuses and cabals intended to destroy Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Sir Adolphe Caron, and Sir Hibbert Tupper can be traced almost without exception to the present Minister of Agriculture. Pending the investigation which is likely to be held, it would perhaps be unfair to say more. The like of the scandal which may be caused will have no counterpart in the history of Parliamentary Government in Canada." (Continued on Page 6.)

Preparing for a Siege.

Havana Surrounded by the Patriots Ready to Fight-Attempted Train Wrecking.

Havana, Jan. 6 .- Soon from all sides except oceanward the siege of Havana will have been begun. Though the city can hold out for a period against the enemy it puts DeCampos and his thousands of Spanish troops in the very foolish light of being trapped and cornered by untrained and ignorant rebels, whom they could not subdue in the open field. Besides there are fears of a seditious uprising in the city itself, or that the light or water supply of the city would be cut off by a sudden raid of the insurgent forces. The idea of the city being left in total dark ness, for the unseen working of plots and sedition, is itself enough to work a panic in the nervous condition of the public mind. Special preparations for the defense of the works that supply these have been made, and artillery has been placed to command them against all probable sources of attack. All possible recruits have been lenlisted for the defense of the city, and the available ground about the city has been filled with batteries of artillery, which are manned day and night. Madrid, Jan. 6 .- A dispatch received here from Havana says that the insurgents have attempted to wreck a train on the Neuvitas-Puerto Principe road, which was conveying 300 passengers and a large number of soldiers. A dynamite bomb, connected with an electric wire, was exploded close to the engine and wrecked it. The insurgents then attempted to capture the train, but were prevented from so doing by the arrival of a detachment of Spanish troops. Several of the passengers were wounded and the engineer of the train was Prospects That It May be Well Kept by Arbitration.

"Feelers" Sent From Great Britain to the States.

Britain May Buy the Whole of the Disputed Venezuela Territory.

Walter Wellman, the usually well-informed correspondent of the Chicago Times-Herald, says: What is likely to be the outcome of the Venezuelan affair? This is a question which I have heard discussed in high official circles. It is believed by men who are in admirable position to know what is going on that the end of the whole matter will be found in a treaty of arbitration between the United States and Great Britain. According to this treaty, if the project now talked of be worked out to completion, Great Britain will agree to submit to arbitration, not only of all the boundary disputes which she may have with this Gov-ernment, but all those arising between British colonies in the American hemisphere and other powers. I am not able to say that any proposition looking to this end has been made, either by Great Britain or the United States. In fact, I am sure that no such proposal has been formally made by either nation. But I am equally certain that in one of the many ways known to the art of diplomacy an in-timation has been received in Washington from London that ultimately Great Britain may propose such method of settling not only the Venezuelan dispute but all legitimate contentions concerning territory in this hemisphere. Whether these intimations are in the form of "feelers," and intended as a means of providing Lord Salisbury with a graceful means of retreat from his present predicament, or whether they are the outgrowth of a general belief that arbitration is becoming a part of the higher international law, and that application to it of all American disputes would work to the advantage of Great Britain by saving her annoyance and cost, is, of course, purely conjecture! If it shall turn out that this intimation foreshadows the method of settlement to be adopted in the Venezue lan case, the Administration and the American people will be able to view the proposal with serenity. I have warrant for saying that such a methwholly satisfactory to the President and to the State Department. This is so because Great Britain's agreement to arbitrate all boundary dis-putes in the Americas would of itself give recognition to the Monroe doctrine and secure to this country every advantage which it had been contending for. It would not, of course, give assent to the extrme form of the Monroe doctrine, which forbids any European power to acquire new territory in the Americas by peaceful means, but it would sanction, vivify and fully establish the rational, modified doctrine, as set forth by Mr. Olney, that resistance to acquisition by force is essential to our own preservation. By agreeing to submit all such questions

Nineteen of the vessel's crew line," behind which the principles of necluding the captain and his the balance of power in the Americas is to find force and make for world's peace. It is also pointed out here that a general arbitration treaty, such as that suggested in this dispatch, would afford the Marquis of Salisbury an opportunity for retreat without very much loss of dignity, and without casting any imputation upon the Brit-ish national honor. Though he has contended that the territory in dispute in Venezuela is British soil, and therefore not open to arbitration, the treaty need not mention this particular affair by name, and by merging the Venezuela case in the general scheme of American arbitration, an accusation that Lord Salisbury had marched up the hill and then down again, would not have much ground upon which to stand. At any rate, British public opinion would doubtless applaud him for so much of a retreat as might be necessary to establish the arbitration idea, which is popular in England, and which has received the indorsement of a nearly unanimous vote in the House of Commons. From both the American and the English point of view, therefore, a settlement such as this would be fortunate and honorable. Were the modern and rational form of the Monroe doctrine firmly estab lished by this treaty Great Britain would have no cause for regret. It should be remembered that Lord Salisbury in his note to Sir Julian Pauncefote did not scout the Monroe doc-trine as a whole, but denied its applicability to the Venezuela affair. also appears to have formed the idea that Mr. Olney had enlarged the doctrine, whereas more mature reflection must have convinced him that Mr. Olney has distinctly and in an import ant particular modified it. There are many reasons why Great Britain should selfishly wish to have modified Monroeism established in international law. The chief of this is that her possessions in the Americas are greater than those of all other European powers together. The principle of "no acquisition by force" would therefore preserve the status quo as respecting the vast British interests just as it preserved it in protection of the in-terests of the United States. It would, for instance, keep Russia's hands off these continents and give Great Britain assurance that no Russian rivalry, territorial or military, was to be planted next door to English possessions in the western hemisphere. All England wants in America, according to the protestations of her statesmen, is what she already has, and the Monroe doctrine will help her to preservation of these holdings better than a great navy, for, with the "safety line" once set up and clearly recognized we shall have the equivalent of a pledge of perpetual peace between all Europe and all America—a pledge which will do more than any other single action, within the view of international statesmen, to preserve the prestige of the British Empire.

Another possible method by which settlement of the Venezuela dispute may be reached I have heard suggested in official circles. It is that Lord Salisbury will endeavor to come to some understanding with the Vene-zuelan Government by which Great Britain is to purchase all or a large part of the tract in dispute either or without a previous effort by a joint boundary commission to arrive at a basis for negotiations. If Salisbury can get out of his predicament in this way no objections thereto will be urged in Washington.

LETTERS TO THE "ADVERTISER."

To the Editor of the "Advertiser": At the eleventh hour, and when I have no opportunity to defend myself, am attacked in the columns of the Industrial Banner by one who styles himself "A Lover of Work. Would that this cowardly flend had a little more love for justice than he unfortunately possesses, he would have brought these charges against me days and weeks ago, for it has been a well-known fact for that length of time that I was a candidate in No. 2 ward. I am charged with bringing outside labor, bricklayers and laborers from Strathroy and elsewhere to do work for me, when plenty, willing to do same, were to be had in London. I deny this charge. I have never yet turned my back on London workmen, and have through all my contracting given every preference to our own citizens, and this I always will do where competent and trustworthy workmen are to be had. "A Lover of Work" is probably one of the kind who requires the foreman's eye on him at all times to prove he loves work. In conclusion, I ask the workingmen to give me their support, and their in-terests will never suffer if I am their representative in No. 2 ward. H. M. DOUGLAS.

AN INDIAN TIGER STORY.

In This Case Quite True and Somewhat Out of the Common, Our Mysore correspondent writes: There was considerable excitement here recently. One of the Maharajah's tigers got loose and was not re-captured for over forty-eight hours. Allowing tigers and other wild animals to escape out of confinement seems a common event in Mysore. During the time of the late Maharajah, one got out of his cage in the menagerie, and also during his father's reign a tiger loafed all over the fort a whole day, going in and out of people's houses, but, strange to say, on none of these occasions has any one been injured. The tiger in the present instance is one which is kept in his Highness' dairy to keep away the 'evil eye' from the cattle. He was netted for Lord Lansdowne to shoot when his Excellency visited Mysore a few years ago, and is a splendid brute. The dairy is a very large yard, with open sheds all round in which the cattle are tied, the tiger's cage being close to one end and a fountain near the other. The tiger got out about 7 p.m. and calmly strolled around, the place being full of cattle and people at the time, but, fortunately, he had no desire whatever to taste stall-fed beef or Hindu either, although he passed within a few feet of the cows and men, and, after examining them all quietly, lay down by "By nine o'clock a couple of elephants

Everyone have been killed. Finally, however, a number of men went out and held the wretched animal down and removed the net. Hardly was this over when a splendid stud bull got over a part of the net which had fallen down, and, after careering about the yard just as the cow had done, rushed right up to the fountain and dipped his nose in the water. Evidently he had no idea the tiger was there, or he would never have gone up in the style he did. However, after drinking, he looked up, when the tiger, who could not have been more than a few feet away, 'woughed' in his face. and the way that bull went away after that did one's heart good to see. These were two grand opportunities for witnessing 'how the tiger seizes his prey,' particularly as there were several sportsmen about, but unfortunately it was not to

"After worrying the poor brute for two days and two nights, during which time he got into the net once, he quietly walked into his cage and was shut up. The cool and indifferent way in which Mr. Bassapali Urs' fossilized hunters, with their fearfully and wonderfully made bundooks, walked up and down past the tiger was most amusing. What they would have done in the event of the tiger making for one of them it is hard to tell. The claws have grown into the pads of the tiger, and the wretched animal seems to be suffering great pain. Had it not been for this, there would doubtless have been a very different tale to tell. CHICAGO.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Wheat was steady today. The cold wave was cited as a circumstance favoring better prices although it was difficult to determine just what it was, as the growing wheat is generally protected by snow. Corn firm. The advance was only fractional, but the bulls were grateful that a decline was averted. The main reason for firmness was the strength of wheat. Oats firm.

LOGAL BREVITIES.

-City Engineer Graydon has been elected in associate member of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

-The sergeants of the Seventh will have their annual dinner at the London House on Wednesday evening, Jan. 15.

-The fire brigade were called this morning to a small blaze at the residence of Mr. John Tanton, 379 Water-loo street. The fire caught from an ash barrel. The damage was trifling.

-All the rooms in the public schools, with the exception of those used for polling purposes, were reopened this morning after the two weeks holidays. The attendance of pupils was up to the average.

-The diamond street railway crossing at the C. P. R. on Richmond street, has arrived and is being placed in position. The horse's occupation at that point will soon be gone. Today cars are running only as far north as the track.

-Judge Edward Elliott this morning sentenced Edward Ellice, of Parkhill, to eleven months in the Central Prison. Ellice was convicted of assault at the December Sessions, but has been in jail ever since to give him a chance to make a settlement with the man whom he assaulted. He was unsuccessful in this. In passing sentence, Judge Elliott strongly denounced Ellice's conduct.

-Matilda Meader, a frequent visitor at Police Magistrate Parke's Carling street court, was removed to the city hospital on Saturday night, as she was suffering from a long wound on the head. During the evening it seems the woman had been drinking, and while under the influence of liquor had either got mixed up in a row or fell on the icy sidewalk, and received her injuries. She sought shelter in the Seventh Battalion headquarters on Richmond street. She claims to have been assaulted by a man, but the police have little faith in the yarn.

-Henry Thompson, who says he is traveling across the continent three times, and then around the world on wager of $10,000, called at the "Advertiser" reportorial rooms to be interviewed on Saturday afternoon, and to incidentally solicit alms. He is on his way to Boston, but for some reason or other, is traveling from east to west through Ontario. He claims to have started with the regulation, paper sult from San Francisco on May 30, 1894. This paper suit story differs from others, in that Thompson claims that shortly after he started a high wind stole his suit and left him for some hours in a state of nature in the "glorious climate of California." It is lucky for Mr. Thompson that he has more than a paper suit to his back just at this season. PINKHAM GETS THREE MONTHS.

Abraham Pinkham, a man with a record, was sentenced to three months in the Central Prison by Police Magtstrate Parke this morning. His offense was vagrancy. Abraham stoutly denied being a vag, and claimed to be resident of the city of London and a hard-working man when he could get work to do." One of his great objects of late, however, according to the police, has been to avoid employment, and in this he has been very successful. A week ago Saturday he was arrested while coming from a Cartwright street house with a parcel of bread, butter and meat under his coat so large that he tried to convince P. C. Robinson that it was a pair of shoes. Pinkham dropped the parcel as he was dumped into the patrol wagon. Chief Williams' knowledge of the prisoner dispelled from the magistrate's mind any idea that he was eager to work, The chief had only known Pinkham la few years, but in that time he has been convicted of stealing grain in London township, obtaining goods under false pretenses in the city, and was committed for want of sureties to keep the peace towards his wife. He also went to Aylmer a few months ago and telegraphed that he had died of typhoid fever. "He is a very lazy fellow and will not work," said Chief Williams. "That will do," said the court, as the sentence was recorded. Mrs. Harriet Williams was discharged. She got drunk a week ago, and when almost unable to walk gave herself up at the police station. If she is rearrested she will go to the Mercer. John Robinson, Fred Smith and Edward Harding, aged 10, 13 and 11 years respectively, were up for sleigh-riding on the Elizabeth street sidewalk. They were given a warning and allowed to

The Ottawa correspondent of the To ronto World says: The Caron-Montague episode is, however, a mere incident in the political situation. It is a fact that the Cabinet is divided into two wings, comprised in one of which are Messrs. Foster, Haggart, Montague and Ives. This wing has the support of a few Conservative members of the House who do not hesitate to avow their desire for an immediate change Tupper, sen. Within the past few days there have been several meet-ings of these Ministers and their supporters to discuss the situation. Mackenzie, not unnaturally thinks that it was in the highest sense disloyal on the part of these malcontents to entertain any proposals for change without first seeing him. Indeed, the World has good reason for stating that when the two Ontario Ministers waited on the First Minister yesterday he told them of the several meetings which had been held, who had attended them, and what had been said at them, and that he considered it not only disloyal, but un-grateful for them to act as they had done. Furthermore, Sir Mackenzie reminded them that they, just as muor as the Minister of Justice and himself. were panties to the remedial legislation policy, and must take the re-sponsibility for that policy equally with their other colleagues."

LATER. Ottawa, Jan. 6.-I learn from another source that Premier Bowell will, in any case, refuse the bribe of the High Commissionership in England offered him if he will give place to Tupper, sen. It would be a grave error to suppose that the Government's coercause. The smash has been predicted dence not only of the party but of the people, as displayed in the bye-elec-tions. Of course the ex-Ministers re-

THOSE WHO WANT TUPPER. The position of Sir Charles Tupper, the High Commissioner, is a peculiar one. He came over without invitation, terested' before their eyes. Tupper and the slick gang are to rule.

Prime Minister never suggests his successor unless asked by his Excellency to do so. The Governor-General would have a right to send for any Privy Councilor for advice, but the practice the Conservative caucus narrows itself is to send for someone of eminence in the dominant party. The Prime Minister's functions are supposel to be at an end when he resigns his office. Suppose Sir Charles Tupper should be Premier Bowell's successor, and he advised immediate dissolution? Remedial legislation was promised by the Government having a majority of 50 in the House. His Excellency might say to the new Premier: "I find in your Cabinet Mr. Foster, who advised that Parliament should be called for a certain purpose. He cannot very well join an administration with a policy of dissolution unless there is no evidence that that majorilty has disappeared.' Here are the facts: Parliament has been called at a crisis in the affairs of Canada and also in the empire, and the Government have made a certain declaration in the speech from the throne, which, unless public exigency called for it, should not have appeared there at all. In the face of the circumstances it is not easy to see how they could dissolve. If Premier Bowell is unable to get on with his colleagues there is no reason why his associates should be permitted under a new leader to adopt a wholly different postcy. It must be remembered that that policy is the policy of the Cabinet as a whole, and not of the Prime Minister only They have no right to escape responsibility for the advice they have given by dissolving Parliament. If Sir Mackenzie Bowell resigns. Lord Aberdeen would probably send for a member of Parliament, and not for a man who is a public servant like Sir Charles Tupper. While Sir Charles Tupper may be a man of importance to the Conservative party, the Governor-General is not undertaking to serve the Conservative party. He is looking for constitutional advisers, and will look for them in the Houses of Parilament. There is no instance on record in Fredend where a man was entrusted with the formation of a Cabinet who had not a seat in

When the Premier saw the names of Sir Hibbert Tupper and A. R. Dickie he must indeed be a poltroon if he makes way for a Tupper in view of the light which must have flashed on him that Sir Charles Tupper's trip across the sea was only a part of the conspiracy to overthrow him. At a special caucus summoned for tomorrow, Premier Bowell will probably take a vote on the question. If that is adverse to him there will be nothing for it but to resign. He declines to make any statement today. Whether Tupper, senior, will now gain control or whether Bowell will determine to wreck the wreckers by recommending his Excellency to call on Mr. Laurier are questions for the next two days.

WANT AN ADJOURNMENT. So great is the tension in the high tax ranks that it is suggested by members of the Government that the broken-down Ministry should ask Parliament to again adjourn in order to let the Ministers get new wind in their quarrel. "Most happily. I am sorry that I cannot invite you to my home to witness my felicity; but my wife would recognize you, and not for the world would I let her suppose the dead past could find its resurrection in her home. "Does no ghost from out those early years ever confront you, then?" asked The doctor the priest meaningly. The doctor laughed somewhat cynically, and re-

Well, yes. My boy is the image of my father, and I could not refrain from a bon mot in that connection, whose humor has hitherto been confined to my own breast. I have named the boy Lazarus, as one called from what I fancied a sealed tomb. "A ghastly jest, and not too reverent,

"And you are the gardener of this daring bit of transplantation?" asked

Le Baron sceptically. "Under God and my superiors in the church, yes; and already there is a fair and promising beginning. We own a house, and in that house is a chapel, and to that chapel resort a few of the faithful, whose numbers shall yet increase, and we have the germ of a chool and of a hospital supported by time to these good works."

It is true that I have learned toleration, even from this intolerant people, who could far less easily forgive my faith than I their heresy; but so far as my own belief goes, it has never swerved one line, one hair's breadth, from that which you yourself taught me in the first dawning of my reasoning powers."

CHAPTER XXXVII. If for some days after his evening visit to the Bunch of Grapes, Dr. Le Baron was a little more moody and silent than his wont, a little more given to late sitting over his books and papers in the office, or long rides over the sandy and desolate country roads Molly did not question him as to the cause, and only contrived to make the house and her own society the more attractive when he showed a desire to seek them. The baby boy, so quaint-ly named, occupied a good deal of his mother's time also; and Molly had learned to live her life without too much effort at understanding or controlling it, so that her husband found almost every day fresh cause for ad-miration and appreciation of the love that could let the beloved object alone, and the patience that was neither dullness nor sullenness. One day he came to her as she sat cooing and laughing to the child, who, fresh from his bath, was struggling manfully in her lap against the primal curse of clothing, hung over her for a moment, then, with one kiss upon her lips and another upon the cheek of little Lazarus, he said:

"Sweetheart, I am going to Boston, and shall not be home for three days. I have arranged with Hallowell about my patients, and sent forward one of the horses to the Half-way House, so I shall make the journey in one day each way, and be home on Monday evening. You are content?"

"Of course, Francois, as content as I can be when you are not beside me. You might have let me pack some clothes, though." "I have all I wish in my saddle-portmanteau; so good-bye, love, and have a care of young master." "I shall have nothing else to care for until his father comes home." Molly, hastily wrapping the child in a blanket and following her husband to the door, where his great black horse, called Centaur, stood pawing and neighing in his impatience to be off. The doctor mounted, and, turning in the saddle for a last good-bye, sat for a moment looking in loving admiration at the mother and child standing in the dark doorway, the morning sun-shine touching the red lights of her bronze hair into a golden aureole, and shining pleasantly upon her calm and matronly beauty, the pure and steady radiance of the eyes uplifted to her husband's face, and the unconscious grace of the stately figure; in her arms lay the noble boy, his baby face turned with grave attention upon horse and rider, and one hand masterfully clutching a stray lock of his mother's hair. A fair picture and a winsome one, thought Dr. Francois Le Baron, loosening the rein, and allowing the great black horse to launch powerfully forward; and as he rode through sun and shade, the picture journeyed with him over sandy plain, and fragrant pine forest, and long stretches of halfsettled country, until at noon he broke his fast and changed his horse at the ed on Saturday: little inn known for more than a century later as the Half-way House between Plymouth and Boston. At night he arrived at the latter town, and, having placed his horse in the stable of the old Exchange Coffee certain Christian ladies, not regular House, he set out on foot to find the place to which Father Despard had directed him. But this was not so easy a matter as it sounds to us today; for the streets were neither numbered nor known as the North End of Boston, that the visitor knocked at the door of a large house standing in its own garden a little way from the street, and danger, or counted the lives of her so dark and forlorn in appearance as servants more highly than the harvest to suggest the death or absence of every living creature within its walls. After a long delay the door was cau-tiously opened so flar as an inside chain would allow by a man who gruffly asked, in an Irish accent:

'What's your will, sir?" "Is Master Desmond within?" replied the visitor, using the alias assumed by his friend while dwelling in the camp of his enemies.

"I'll see, sir." And, leaving the door unlatched, but chained, the servant re-treated, and soon returned, followed by another dimly-seen figure, who civily asked:
"Do you wish to see me, sir? I

Cheece Makers Alleged to Use the Board as a Feeler

And Then Consummate Sales When the Board Adjourns - Some Vigorous Protests at the Board's Final Meeting.

The London Cheese Board held its final meeting of the season on Saturday afternoon. After the third call had been made the feeling which has been manifest several times during the season again made its appearance. It appears that a great many members of the board simply use the board as a means to feel the pulse of the market, using this information as a basis for sales after the board adjourns. The books show that twenty of the board's 70 members did not make a sale on the board all season, and yet got rid of their cheese. This is what a great many of the sellers vigorously object to. They want to see the Peterboro system of sales on the board, and on the board only, except by special permission, adopted. When only a few factories remain unsold the permission is usually granted. When, however, the majority do not sell they are obliged to hold their cheese until the next meeting. Mr. Geary was strongly in favor of the market continuing, if continued on thorough and fair principles. But if it was going to be carried on as it had been for several seasons back, the cheese men would have to go back to the old curbstone style of selling. President Pearce said that in Quebec the makers syndicated their cheese and as a result they were improving very rapidly and going ahead.

"I don't believe anything of the kind," said Mr. Leitch. "They are not selling their cheese as well there as in the markets of Western Ontario.' Mr. Geary suggested an agreement between buyer and seller, whereby everyone who violated the rules would forfeit a sum of money. "It is too big a task to reform the world," said Mr. Riley. "We tried that plan in Ingersoll. It would take as many detectives to watch as there are members of the board."

Mr. Geary reiterated his assertion, that if a salesman on the market next year he would not sell unless the proceedings were placed on a solid business basis.

At a meeting of the directors held afterwards a committee was formed, consisting of the president, vice-president and secretary, to formulate a scheme to remedy the evil and lay the matter before the board at its opening meeting on the second Saturday in May next.

THE MISSING MIOWERA.

Fears for Her Safety Intensified by Finding One of Her Buoys.

Port Townsend, Wash., Jan. 5.— Fears for the safety of the Australian steamer Miowera were greatly intensified today by the finding of a lifebuoy on Waddah Island, just inside of Cape Flattery. The buoy bore the mark of the Miowera, and had drifted in from the sea. Though a careful search was made along the beach for other indications of wreckage, nothing was found. A heavy storm and tremendous ocean surf forbid active search being made. A mile and a half from Cape Flattery, on the beach, the Indians found a boat belonging to the steamship Strathnevis. It was the boat in which Purser McDonald, the third officer, Bain, and three Japanese seamen left the steamer the night before Christmas for Destruction Island, The boat had a large hole stove in her bottom, and bore evidence of having had hard usage among the rocks. This dispels hope for the safety of the purser and his four mates. Had they landed on Destruction Island, which is twenty miles below Cape Flattery. they could easily have signalled messages to steamers that pass close to the island.

Nine Men Caught in a Cave-In-All Supposed to Be Dead,

Victor, Col., Jan. 5.-A terrible accident occurred about noon yesterday at the Anna Lee mine of the Portland Company on the Battle Mountain. Nine men were caught in a cave-in, and four who were on the cage when the ground gave way are all probably dead. Five others who were in the mine are also supposed to be dead. The names of the miners working in Lee shaft are: Superintendent Sheldon, Foreman Lewis, Jack Malloy, Mike McGuirk, Tom Malloy, - Cos Paddy Mee, Lund, Thomas Harmon and Sheldon were going down in the cage when the cave-in occurrd. were in the cage between the third and fourth levels when the shaft pinched. It is possible that they have been thrown into one of the drifts and are safe, but no tidings can be had from them.

The work of rescue was started at once, and great efforts are being made to reach the men. It is doubtful, however, if this can be done in time to save them, on account of the general character of the disaster.

The cave-in began 35 feet from the top of the shaft. It is believed that it will take a week or ten days to rescue the entombed miners, as the shaft on the Anna Lee is about 900 feet deep. About two weeks ago the shaft of the Lee shrank to such an extent near one of the stations about the middle of the shaft that the cage, on which there were three men at the time, would not pass down. The engineer reversed and brought the men up. This was the first indication that the workings were closing in, and efforts were made to remedy the trouble.

Mr. Stewart Vaughan, of Cottam, Ontario tried his physician, but his advice failing to cure his kidney trouble, he takes his friend's advice and now in gratitude wants the world to know the remedy that cured him. These are his own words: "About fifteen years ago I severely strained myself, which brought on an attack of kidney trouble. I could do nothing in the shape of work. I tried my family physician, and numerous remedies that I heard about, but all without any permanent effect. I commenced to think that I would always have to suffer, as nothing seemed to give me any lasting relief. In conversation with a friend who had been troubled similarly, he told me that Doan's Kidney Pills had cured him. I got some and commenced their use.

They relieved me immediately, and the trouble did not come back to me. This was about eight years ago, and I have only felt the old symptoms once or twice since that time, which a few doses of the pills instantly dispelled. Since using them myself I have heard of other cases where they were just as valuable as in my case." MR. JOHN MCKEE,

Druggist, Peterboro: Dear Sir-I have been troubled with Neuralgla more or less for 25 years. For the past to years my sufferings have been intense, until last winter, when you advised me to try a box of "Templeton's Pink Powders." After taking three or four powders all pain left. I continued them, however, until three boxes were taken, and have had no recurrence of the pain for about nine or ten months, and would strongly advise anyone suffering from that most painful of troubles to try "Templeton's Pink Powders." Yours truly, G. J. JOPLING, for Infants and Children.

CASTORIA

OTHERS, Do You Know that Paregorie

most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine? Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotic thout labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of Its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Knov that Cactoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest :

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

A FAREWELL CIRCULAR. Mr. L. J. Seargeant, late general manager of the G. T. R., has sent a farewell circular to the various employer of the road in this city. After referring to the fact that the new manager had assumed office, he continues: We have worked together for nearly 22 years, and I am honestly sorry to terminate the very pleasant and harmonious official relations which ever, a great satisfaction to know that my connection with the company does not end with this official retirement, and on the other side of the Atlantic I shall continue to take the greatest interest in Canada. I shall do this from the knowledge that a more loyal, well-disciplined and more trustworthy staff nowhere exists, and the surest recommendation to any one of apart from his personal merit, is that he has been a Grand Trunk employe. PURELY ACCIDENTAL

An inquest into the death of John Edwards, who was killed at the Clarence street crossing of the G. T. R., was held at Hinton & Rumball's morgue on Saturday afternoon by Coroner Dr. Flock and the following jury: Alex. Aikman (foreman), G. H. Boake, Alex. Alkman (toreman), G. H. Boake, W. Tackaberry, T. Spettigue, T. Blanshard, J. H. Thompson, Robert Webster, C. E. Keene, F. W. Heighway, P. J. Edmunds, S. Harris, John Sigsworth, Chauncey Smith, David Tripp and Pobert Chaulton. The oridence and Robert Charlton. The evidence given by a number of witnesses cor-roborated the account of the accident as given in the "Advertiser." The jury in their verdict exonerated the Grand Trunk and its employes from all blame as it was shown that the gates were down, that the engine was only moving at a rate of about two miles an hour, that deceased had been warned of his danger by both the crossing watchman and a switchman, and that he had his cap tightly drawn down over his ears. The switchman was of the opinion that Edwards could have ber of railroad men employed was 83,304 escaped death had he been a little
