Jarrott had a miraculous escape from death, and now lies with a broken collar-bone and a badly bruised body. His chaffeur also has a fractured collar-bone and a broken leg. Both, however, are doing well. The accident occurred through the steering gear of the favorite English car getting out of order when going at full speed. Instead of turning a corner, the autemobile ran into a bank at the side of the road, and was smashed. How the occupants escaped death is more than they themselves can explain. The poor showing of the American competitors is generally attributed to the excessive lightness of their cars. Brussels, July 3. - The debate in the hamber of Deputies on the interpellaion of M. Von der Velde, the Socialist leader, on the administration of the Congo Free State, was resumed yesterday. Baron de Favereau, Minister of Foreign Affairs, continued his defense of the administration. He said that the Free State's penal system was excellent. Few states had done as much in behalf of natives as the Congo State had done. Public opinion abroad regarding the treatment of the natives had been strangely misled, but the Kingston, Ont., July 3.-Mrs. Scott, world would eventually recognize the immense material and moral good that Minister Woeste said that bloody crimes had been committed in Europe, and, he asked, how could disorders be avoided in a country 82 times the size of Belgium? London, Friday, July 3. A Bold Policy.

By far the most important news for Canadians today is the announcement that the Dominion Government will in 1900,

The project was not considered to be within practical reach until a few weeks ago. It was thought by the public to be as good as settled that the Grand Trunk would undertake the enterprise, and that the Government would give a reasonable measure of assistance. The majority of the members of the Cabinet were doubtless of the same mind, but they have been converted by their ministerial colleagues and many private members who have from the first favored the

By many persons it will be regarded with sincere misgivings, but no one can deny that it is a bold and courageous move, and that the Government has shown an honest desire to rise to a great situation, to meet a crisis in the history of the country, with an eye single to public and national interests. No doubt it has in some degree disappointed the expectations of the promoters of the Grand Trunk Pacific, but it has at least shown itself independent of a powerful are with the French cars, all of which in argument is really her strength in

For the second five years the company will pay to the Government the net surplus of receipts over working expenses, and this surplus may amount to more or less than the interest. For the succeeding forty years, as we have seen, the Government will receive 3 per cent on :ts outlay. At the end of fifty years the agreement can be revised in accordance with the conditions of that day, which no one can foresee, though in all probability the road will be a vastly more valuable public asset than at present.

The carrying out of this great enterprise will put the Administration to a supreme test. Our National Holiday.

Dominion Day appears to have been celebrated throughout the country with unusual eclat. Since the Queen's death, the 24th of May naturally does not appeal as strongly to public sentiment. Dominion Day has become the great holiday of the year, as the national holiday ought to be. The reasons for celebrating it were never so valid as in this year of progress and plenty, and with the swelling of national aspirations, the note of patriotism should be sounded more loudly with each recurring anniversary of the birth of the Dominion. We laugh at the spread-eagleism of the Fourth of July, but the "Glorious Fourth" is a big factor in molding the patriotism of young America. Why not a "Glorious First" on this side of the line? It is the only purely be proud of their country, "the young giant of the north," who will claim a place among the great nations of the earth before the twentieth century is Fast Walking Horses.

The walk of a young horse is largely influenced by her driver. If you put a horse into the care of a slow, idle man, or if a young horse is driven by a slow, careless man, the animal will acquire a habit of slow motion that it will be difficult to overcome. In a majority of cases a slow, trailing gait makes really harder work for the horse. A moderately quick walk, with at least all ordinary farm work, exhausts the animal less than a slow gait. Another point that should al-ways be considered is that when a horse is allowed to get into the habit of mov-ing slowly, he becomes aged and in-capacitated before his natural time; his joints and sinews become stiff and contracted, and he is less valuable, not only to his owner for use, but must be sold at a much lower price if placed upon the

So far as conditions will permit, a young horse that is being trained for work should be worked with an older animal that has been trained to move fairly quickly, as he will not only be a more valuable animal, but prove more profitable to his owner.-Massachusetts Plow-

Number of Patrons of the Public Library Constantly Increasing.

The regular monthly meeting of the Public Library Board was held last evening, and at the conclusion an adjournment was made until the first Thursday in September, the board deciding not to meet during the month of August. There were present Chairman Egan, and Trustees George C. Gunn, J. C. Hazard, O.Labelle, E. Manigault and Talbot Macbeth, besides the librarian.

There was very little business to transact, the reports of the finance committee and the librarian being adopted. Accounts amounting to $102 51 were passed. The circulation for the past four weeks was shown to be as follows: Fiction 3,150, juveniles 683, miscellaneous 1,089, magazines 685; total 5,607; the average circulation being per day, of books 205 and of magazines 29. The receipts for June amounted to $58 97. Forty cards had been issued, making a total now of 10,237. Librarian Blackwell spoke of his at-tendance at the convention in Niagara Falls, briefly outlining the business of it, as previously given in this paper He spoke particularly of the prominence given to young people's departments, which aroused a short discussion. The chairman was of the opinion that the separate room for the ladies could be dispensed with. As a matter of conthe exclusive use of ladies into a young people's department would mean ar outlay of money, and as a report will be presented by the librarian on the matter, nothing at all was decided upon. The meeting was a very short one.
