TIRED AND LAUGUID

THE EXPERIENCE OF AN ESTIMABLE YOUNG LADY.

Her Blood was Poor and Watery—Suffered from Sick Headaches and Fainting Spells—How She Regained Health's Bloom.

The Recorder, Brockville.

On one of the finest farms in Wolford township, Granville county, resides Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Smith and family.

Mr. Smith is perhaps one of the best known men in the county, as in addition to being a practical farmer he represents several agricultural implement companies.

His family consists of two estimable daughters, the eldest being seventeen years of age.

To a correspondent of the Brockville Recorder who recently called at Mr. Smith's, Miss Minnie E. Smith, the eldest daughter related the following story:—"About two years ago I was taken quite ill. I became pale and languid, and if I undertook to do any work about the house, would easily become terribly fatigued.

I became subjected to terrible sick headaches, and my stomach became so weak that I loathed food.

My trouble was further aggravated by weak spells, and my feet, winter or summer, were so cold as to be almost numb.

In fact it seemed as if there was no feeling in them. I tried several kinds of medicine, but instead of helping me I was growing weaker.

One day in March, 1898, my father brought home a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I immediately discontinued the other medicine and began taking the pills.

I found that they helped me and four more boxes were procured and by the time I had finished them I was entirely well.

I have never had better health in my life than I am now enjoying. My appetite is now always good, and I have increased in weight.

All that is due to the efficacy of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I would advise any other young girl troubled as I was to use them, and they will certainly cure if the directions are followed."

The facts above related are important to parents, as there are many young girls just budding into womanhood whose condition is, to say the least, more critical than their parents imagine.

Their condition is pale and waxy in appearance, troubled with heart palpitation, head aches, shortness of breath on the slightest exercise, faintness and other distressing symptoms which invariably lead to a premature grave unless prompt steps are taken to bring about a natural condition of health.

In this emergency no remedy yet discovered can supply the place of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which build anew the blood, strengthen the nerves and restore the glow of health to pale and sickly cheeks.

They are certain cure for all troubles peculiar to the female system, young or old, these Pills also cure such diseases as rheumatism, neuralgia, partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, St. Vitus dance, nervous headache, nervous prostration, the after effects of grippe, influenza, and severe colds, diseases depending on humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc.

Do not be persuaded to accept any imitation, no matter what the dealer may say who offers it. Imitations never cured any one. See that the full name Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale people is on the wrapper around every box you buy.

ST. JOHN LETTER.

The life of Thackeray, though crowned with what we call success, was not a happy one.

His patrimony of several thousand pounds was swallowed up soon after he came of age in unfortunate ventures for which his supposed friends were more responsible than himself.

His marriage resulted in disaster, and before he became famous much that is now considered a part of his best work, was sold to the publishers for a pittance because they knew he needed the pittance, and therefore would pay him no more.

It is no wonder that he grew cynical, and was cynical to the end. Honored and respected as he was in the later years of his life, he was never able to shake off the idea that the world was full of hollowness and pretence.

There is something very pathetic in the closing paragraph of a letter that he wrote near the end of his life, which is reproduced by his daughter, Mrs. Ritchie, in a recent edition of his works:—"One passes up and down the shore yet awhile—and looks toward the unknown ocean, and thinks of the traveler whose boat sailed yesterday. Those we love can but walk down to the pier with us—the voyage we must make alone. Except for the young or very happy I can't say I am sorry for any one who dies."

Another bronze and iron fountain is being erected at Fernhill, the gift of Collector Ruel, president of the Cemetery Co.

It is said that Rhoades, Curry & Co., of Amherst, will build the sheds and elevator for the I. C. R. in this city.

A large sea dog was captured in the harbor a few days ago.

Six ocean steamers are in port. In a fight between some city toughs the other night one of the crowd was stabbed six times. Several arrests have been made.

The 5th of May has been set apart as Arbor Day in the city, but it is doubtful if its observance will consist of anything more than the closing of the schools.

It is said that another St. John man has drawn a prize of $8,000 in the Honduras lottery.

Crystallized and yellow sugars are 5 cents per 100 pounds lower than they were last week, but prices are very firm.

Roller oatmeal has advanced 10 cents per barrel and pork has declined 25 cents per barrel.

Choice P. R. haddises is quoted at 32 cents and extra choice at 33 cents. No Barbados sells at 30 cents.

Course salt is 48 cents and fine $1.10 per bag. Codfish, large and medium is firm at $4 and pollock at $2.25 per 100 pounds.

Of pickled fish there is none in the market. Eggs are becoming plentiful at 12 cents and choice butter is in fair demand at 16 cents.

George S. deForest & Sons received another direct shipment of Havana cigars last week, consisting of about twenty approved brands.

Three brothers named Lowry died at South Bay recently within a few days of each other. Their sister died last Thursday.

The sum of $400 was realized at a performance in the Mechanics' Institute last Thursday evening for the benefit of the children of Conductor Cassidy. The world is not utterly bad.

EDWARD EDWARDS, St. John, April 22.

Mr. Wannamaker's Advice.

Toukias. "Good morning, Mr. Wannamaker, I have called to see if you can give me a position in your establishment. I can turn my hand to almost anything."

Mr. W. "No, we are full in every department, and you are the twentieth man I have refused today. Why don't you take up a line in which there is less competition and better pay?"

Toukias. "I'd only be too thankful if you can put me on track of such a position."

Mr. W. "When I was 20 years of age, I was a stranger in a strange land, with neither work nor money, when a friend of mine, a lawyer, advised me to take a book agency saying he had advised himself by canvassing like-drawing men, grocers, etc. I took his advice, and in 3 years saved $5,000, and with this sum started my present business. It is just 50 years ago today that Mr. Bradley, the founder of the present firm of the Bradley-Garretson Company, Limited of Toronto, sent me my first book prospectus, and to his beautiful letters and good advice, I owe much of my present success. Yes, young man, if you have anything in you, there is just as good a chance for you today with this old established House as there was for me to write."

Toukias. "I have seen the advertisement of this firm, for agents, for years back, and have often thought of writing them, but have never done so. I will write today; and I am very thankful to you, Mr. Wannamaker, for your good advice."

Chipman.

* April 22.—The farmers of this section held another successful meeting last week in King's Hall, in reference to building a cheese factory.

The meeting was addressed by Mr. John Slipp, of Sussex, who gave much valuable information respecting the manufacture of cheese. He showed by facts and figures that it paid the farmers better to convert the milk into cheese and sell for cash fat wholesale than it did to manufacture it into butter and butter it away for goods to country merchants at a low figure.

At the close of the meeting a local company was formed with sufficient capital to erect a commodious building and procure the necessary plant for running a cheese factory. The company has already commenced building. The frame is up and boarded in and they expect to have the factory ready for business by the first of June.

The work on the Public Hall at Brigg's Corner is progressing finely under the supervision of Capt. Chase and other directors of the company. The building is double boarded and today the workmen will finish shingling the roof. The doors and windows are now being made in St. John, and in a short time the hall will be sufficiently advanced to hold public meetings during the summer months.

It is reported on what seems good authority that work on the Central Railway from Chipman to Fredericton will be commenced next Spring or early in the summer.

In making this connection the Central will have as feeders the Canada Eastern, the C. P. R. and the Woodstock branch which will greatly increase traffic along this section and we can supply all the railroads in N. B. with an abundance of coal in return.

Mr. William Morrison our local fur dealer, who had bestowed tenderly care all winter on his young bear, in supplying it with every comfort which philanthropy could suggest, has now taken up the yelp of "The white man's burden" as the bear did not take kindly to civilization, and one fine morning of late brain made a bound for greater liberty and his native woods.

Mr. Morrison set out his Winchester and a tempting luncheon for his favorite "Jack" now lost to view. Jack, in his pursuit of the ungrateful runaway, without avail. Jack had no dinner that day, but he had lots of freedom which he valued more than victuals, and the tempting luncheon was highly relished by Jack's own master, unless from some near setting sun.

A party started next morning with dogs and found Jack at Coal Creek, perched on a tree, but as Jack could not be entreated to come down, his pursuers dropped him to the ground with their deadly rifles.

The ice in the Salmon River has run out and the fresher which is even with the highest intervals is kept in check by cold winds and frosty nights.

Leslie McLain, the Champion Chipper of Chipman, who has just come out of the woods is ready to accept the challenge of King Crawford any moment the latter sees fit to meet him.

Leslie says he can chop 40 logs, 11 inches at small end in 2 hours, and he is not accustomed to chopping small poles like his friend Crawford down the Bay.

Rodney Kiplings are springing up like mushrooms in Queens and the trend as well as living are getting well picked and preserved in doggerel song by every town who has a weakness for poetry. Poetry seems to have been created with man; but is subject to certain rules of freedom which some of our local poets should acquaint themselves with before they undertake to write.

Up the Scholmaster like potato bogies in song.

TEMPERANCE COLUMN.

Contributed by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Hampstead, N. B.
Rise up ye Women that are at Ease

ILLINOIS HONORS MISS WILLARD.

In the national capitol at Washington in Statuary Hall, in which each state in the Union is entitled to place a statue of its two most illustrious citizens, by courtesy of Congress. One of the niches allotted to Illinois remains vacant, and a bill has just been presented to the state senate which calls for an appropriation of $9,000 for a bronze statue of Frances E. Willard, on a granite pedestal, to occupy this place of honor in the halls of the nation. The resolutions which accompany the bill give a list of the illustrious statesmen who have made Illinois famous and concludes as follows:

Whereas, The fame of none of those who were more heroically won or more richly deserved that that of one of our deceased citizens, distinguished for civic service in Europe and America in a new and unexplored field of Christian endeavor, the effect of whose efforts and achievements and the influence of whose spotless life and sublime example have been so marked that the world has wondered and admired the author, organizer and advocate of purity and temperance, Illinois' most illustrious deceased citizen, Frances E. Willard, the uncrowned queen of purity and temperance, whose ashes repose in peace on the shores of Lake Michigan, at Evanston, Ill. Her life, like that of her Redeemer, was devoted to the spiritual welfare of mankind, and the world at large has been materially benefited by her prayers and sacrifices. Her grand life is a beacon light to the good and true of all sects, races and creeds in the civilized world, and her wonderful achievements are lights and landmarks on the cliffs of fame, which will for all time illuminate the paths of millions of women wherever civilization has a foothold, which is where woman is duly appreciated; and

Whereas, The priceless heritage of such a life belongs of right to Illinois; and

Whereas, She glories in it and deems it worthy of national commemoration; therefore, to immortalize it and to show how exalted a sphere woman occupies in this great state, the following law is hereby placed on our statute books.

If the bill passes, which seems quite probable, Miss Willard will be the first woman so honored in America. White-ribbons are specially gratified that this movement should be made by the men of Illinois.

MISS WILLARD'S STATUE FOR STATUARY HALL.

Newspaper correspondents have been caught napping. This is one more shock to our historic faith in the infallibility of the press, but there is, nevertheless, great comfort in it this time. Had the correspondents of some of the Chicago dailies as well as those of Washington, D. C., and some other cities been correct, Miss Willard's statue could not go into the national Statuary Hall at Washington D. C., for they declared that the federal bill of 1864 expressly stipulated that statues shall be erected to "illustrious men," or words to that effect. They expatiated upon this "stumbling block" and exhorted those who were pushing the Illinois bill to "watch out" for the United States Congress was exceedingly jealous of its prerogative; but then they generally soothed the anxious fears of their readers by saying that the disability might be removed by amending the federal law to read "illustrious men or women." Some of the brethren are even yet a little scared over the word "unconstitutional" which continues to float about with a big question mark after it.

There was a sure cure for all of this had the quill driver's only thought of it. It was simply to take a small dose of the original federal bill of 1864. Two grains, "deceased persons," would have been sufficient to kill all the doubting microbes in the country. It was at hand, too, for all these public instructors had they used it, and those pushing the bill at Springfield sat down and laughed at the printed advice and quoted to themselves, old Hesiod, who said, "a man couldn't see over his own eyebrows." It is only another instance we conclude of one bell-sheep who went astray and all the others followed. But we are so happy over the fact that the bill is now passed and signed by the governor that we forgive everybody and everything, including the architect of the capitol at Washington who was so "surprised," and said it would be a violation of precedent to have a woman's statue there, and that it would have to be decided by Congress.

The most important section of the federal bill reads as follows, and puts to rest all talk of necessary amendment," etc.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted . . . . .

And the President is hereby authorized to invite each and all the states to provide and furnish statues, in marble or bronze, not exceeding two in number for each state, of deceased persons who have been citizens thereof, and illustrious for their historic renown or from distinguished civic or military services, such as each state shall determine to be worthy of this national commemoration, and when so furnished the same shall be placed in the old hall of the House of Representatives in the Capitol of the United States, which is hereby set apart, or as much thereof as may be necessary, as a national Statuary Hall, for the purposes herein indicated. (U. S. Statutes, Thirty-eighth Congress, July 2, 1864, p. 347.)

To be sure there is no precedent for putting in the statue of a woman, but Illinois has established one. There was need of such, the opportune time came, and Illinois declared Frances E. Willard worthy of the honor of having her statue in the national Statuary Hall at Washington, D. C., and it is sure to go there unless the great national government should put itself in the place of that notorious judge, who declared that a woman is not a person. We beg pardon for the offense of even naming the possibility of such an inane proceeding on the part of our republic.

What this statue means will continue to grow upon us. It will have something to do, not simply with the history of our great leader, with the progress of reform with the due recognition of woman's worth and work, but with the progress of the world. Every recognition of right principles, every recognition of a great character, every honor paid to one who exemplified the truest and best teachings of ancient philosophers and of the Divine One, is a great object lesson to humanity and serves to lift it higher.

It is right that Frances E. Willard should stand among statesmen, patriots, warriors, philanthropists, for she was all these. Her statue will be at home there even as her spirit is now at home with the spirit of all the great thinkers and sacrificers from Abraham, Moses and the prophets, down to Wilberforce, Bolivar, Toussaint L'Ouverture and Lincoln. Hail, to our great leader, the first woman to be given a place in our national group of statuary! Hail, but not farewell!

Sewing Clover Seed.

Very many more fields of clover are injured by heat and drought after the removal of the grain crop than by frosts in late spring immediately after the plants grow up. Late seeding to clover gives small and tender plants at the time the grain crop is removed; and while such a seeding gives most satisfactory results in a favorable season, it is less safe and sure than an early seeding. It is a rare thing that a good stand of plants is not carried through all spring frosts. The seed can be sowed while the ground is frozen, and preferably when the surface has been checked thoroughly by several frozes and thaws. It rolls into the small crevices, and usually sprouts before all spring frosts are past; but serious injury from them is rare. Start the clover early, so that it will be well rooted before dry weather.

Cook's Fertilizing Plasters.

A deep moist clay soil is the best for cauliflowers, although good crops can be grown on any good garden soil. I cover the ground two or three inches deep with stable manure and plow it in. Then harrow and furrow two and one-half feet apart. If I have well rotted manure, I scatter it in the furrow and mix it with the soil with the cultivator, or, if the manure is not at hand, I set the plants and in a few days apply around them a little commercial fertilizer that is rich in nitrogen. Vegetable, of which the leaves or stalks are the edible parts need plenty of nitrogen in an available form. The plants are transplanted at different times from May to June. Cauliflower plants from the hubbed should not be set too early unless they are well hardened, for they are more easily injured by frosts than cabbages.

In addition to the foregoing suggestions given in Vick's Magazine the writer says that to insure success one must have some means of irrigation. The plants should not stop growing at any time; hence the importance of irrigating them during a drought.

Queens County Gazette,
GAGETOWN, N. B., APRIL 26, 1899.

In The Local Legislature.

FREDERICTON, April 17.—Bills to amend chapter 31, 61st Victoria, so far as relates to the county of Gloucester; to exempt a pulp industry at Bathurst from certain taxation; to amend chapter 63 of 35th Victoria and chapter 89 of 38th Victoria; authorizing Northumberland county council to control and regulate peddling within Northumberland county; amending the act incorporating the Shear Boom Improvement Company; to better define the bounds of the parish of Springfield; authorizing the trustees of school district No. 16, Bathurst parish, Gloucester county, were agreed to with amendments.

Progress was reported on the bill amending chapter 53 of 59th Victoria, relating to collectors of rates and constables in Victoria county.

Mr. Carvell omitted the bill authorizing the town of Woodstock to take a vote of the ratepayers on the question of taking stock in a pulp mill or other industry to an amount not exceeding $30,000.

Mr. Emmerson sought the propriety of passing legislation enabling towns and cities to become partners in local industries, as this bill proposed, was very questionable.

Mr. Carvell said the town council was unanimous in favor of the bill. He (Carvell) must confess that he saw a great deal of force in the remarks of the premier, and would not be unwilling that the matter should stand over, so that he would have opportunity to confer with the town authorities.

Progress reported, with leave to sit again.

Mr. White introduced a bill changing the terms of the Sunbury county court; also in the absence of Mr. Dunn, a bill respecting the fisheries of New Brunswick.

FREDERICTON, April 18.—The event of the session was the presentation of formal charges to-day by Mr. Hazen in the matter of the alleged bridge scandals. Mr. Hazen first referred to the following bridges: Mill Cove bridge, Restigouche; Grand Manan bridge, Charlotte; Sanders Brook bridge, Queens; Dingee bridge, Queens; Lefebvre bridge, Westmorland; Blackville bridge, Northumberland; Campbell bridge, Kings; Truman's Point bridge, Westmorland; also to the sub-structure and superstructures of Petticoat bridge and Port Elgin bridge, Westmorland; of Mill Cove bridge, Restigouche. Then he charged that the Hon. Henry R. Emmerson, the chief commissioner of public works, wholly failed in his duty by giving the construction of many of these public works to his personal and political friends, with out public competition and tender, and for the purpose of assisting the parties constructing these public works, or supplying the material, knowingly and willfully, and in dereliction of his duty as chief commissioner and as a member of the executive government paid out of the public moneys of this province two prices, and in some cases even more, above market rates for the construction of said works. He further charged that the inspector of some of these works, appointed by the chief commissioner, was financially interested in the contractors, persons, or corporations, doing the work, or supplying the material, and that in consequence of this dereliction of duty on the part of the chief commissioner, he knowingly and improperly allowed these contractors to take from the public treasury many thousands of dollars to which they would not have been entitled had proper methods prevailed. He further declared that to enable such contractors, persons or corporations to improperly make large sums of money out of the province, the chief commissioner allowed alterations to be made in the plans and specifications of some of the above-named works after the contract was awarded, thereby lessening the cost of the work to them, but not to the province. He concluded by declaring that "with the knowledge of the said Hon. Henry R. Emmerson and through his said dereliction of duty and his desire to aid his personal and political friends, and to strengthen the government of which he is a member, the treasury of the province has been defrauded out of large sums of money."

Mr. Emmerson expressed his pleasure at Mr. Hazen taking a definite step at last. He gave the charges the most emphatic denial. The charges are not based on facts. He would ask the fullest inquiry and investigations into the charges.

Mr. Tweedie said that now that the leader of the opposition has made his charges, it seemed to him that he should have gone further and asked for a committee to investigate them. He would like to ask the leader of the opposition if he intended to ask for the appointment of a committee.

Mr. Hazen said it was for the department to say what course it intends to pursue. If steps be not taken for an investigation it was his intention to follow his statement by a further motion.

This discussion occurred at the afternoon session. In the evening Mr. Emmerson said: Although Mr. Hazen had not asked for a committee of inquiry, I feel it incumbent upon myself to ask for an immediate investigation of these charges. I court the fullest investigation into these charges. The question of the cost of our bridges is one of policy, and I have frequently stated that I was willing to be judged not only by my contemporaries, but by history with respect to whether the bridges we have erected were not in the best interests of the country.

The resolution was seconded by Hon. Mr. Labliss, and is as follows: Whereas, Mr. Hazen, one of the representatives of this house from the county of Sunbury, has from his place in this House this day formulated charges against the Hon. Henry R. Emmerson, Premier of the province and Chief Commissioner of the Board of Works, which said charges are: (Here follow the charges.)

And whereas, the said Hon. Henry R. Emmerson from his place in the House has demanded that the said Mr. Hazen should move for a committee and have the said charges, so formulated, investigated and tried out in the usual and constitutional manner, but the said Mr. Hazen has refused to ask for such committee.

And whereas, the Chief Commissioner has from his place in the House denied the truth of said charges, and has asked that the same may be investigated forthwith;

And whereas, this house regrets that the Hon. member for Sunbury should have delayed formulating his charges to so late a period in the session, it is nevertheless of opinion that the charges are of so grave a character that it is important in the public interest, notwithstanding the large additional expense which thereby will be entailed upon the province by the prolonging of the session, that they should immediately be fully investigated.

Be it therefore resolved, that a committee of the House consisting of seven members be forthwith nominated by Mr. Speaker to examine into the said charges and report whether they find that the said Henry R. Emmerson has in the construction of many of the public works set forth in said charges to his personal and political friends, without public competition and tender, etc., etc.

And the said committee have power to call for papers and documents and to summon and examine witnesses upon the said charges under oath; and

Further resolved, that said committee so proceed with such investigation as appears to them to be necessary, and their labors from day to day until they have fully investigated said charges and reported upon the same to this House.

what course to follow, and I most distinctly object to having it placed in that resolution that I refused to ask for a committee, and I ask the honorable gentleman to strike those words out.

After some remarks by Mr. Tweedie, the resolution was adopted without division.

The Speaker appointed as such committee Messrs. Carvell, Robinson, O'Brien, (Northumberland), Gibson, Veniot, Shaw and Glasier.

The house in committee further considered supply. Of the item of agricultural, additional, $500, being reached. Mr. Hazen asked what this was for.

Mr. Labliss said it was to increase the salaries of the two dairy superintendents, Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Tilley, $100 each, and the salary of Mr. Peters, deputy commissioner of agriculture, $200, and $100 to Mr. Alward on account of increased work in the department. Mr. Alward now receives $100; this will make it $200. Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Tilley receive $900 and will now receive $1,000. Mr. Peters has been receiving $1,000. This increase will restore the salary to that formerly enjoyed by Mr. Inches and Mr. Lagrin.

On the item of butter and cheese factory, increased grants $1,000 being reached. Mr. Labliss spoke at length on the affairs of his department. Gratifying progress had been made, he said.

Mr. Hazen said that in any intelligent and practical efforts put forward by the government to aid the cause of agriculture he could rely upon the hearty support of honorable members on his side of the House.

Mr. Smith said he believed that a brighter day had dawned for the farmers of the province since the present premier became the head of the government.

Mr. Carvell was satisfied that the government was pursuing the right course.

Mr. Robinson urged that a grant should be given for an exhibition at Sackville. He congratulated the government upon the great success that had attended its agricultural policy.

One-half the fine was to go to the plaintiff and the other half to the municipality in which the offence was committed. The conductor of the train or captain of the steamer is also liable under the first section for performing Sunday labor. This does not in any way apply to regularly operated ferries. Penalties for a violation of any of the provisions of the act are not less than $1 nor more than $20 and costs, in addition to all special penalties. The bill does not apply to Indians. Other Sabbath observance acts are incorporated with and made part of this act.

Local Happenings.

Items of Local Interest Carefully Prepared by the Gazette's "Man About Town."

SCHOOL BLANKS.—Mr. Angus Daigle, Chipman, has for sale District School Assessment Lists and School Tax Notices.

GASPEREAUX.—The local fishermen are supplying the residents with gaspereaux. The catch so far has been very light.

WATER RISING.—The water in the river is rising very fast, having risen about two feet during Sunday and Monday.

FIRST PLANTING.—Mr. Rousa Williams has his garden nearly seeded. This is very early for garden planting in Gagetown.

BROOKVILLE ELECTION.—The election in Brookville, Ont., on Thursday resulted in a Liberal victory by a majority of 249, the vote being Conestock, 1,732; White, 1,503.

LOST.—Fred Welton, of Waterborough, lost a pocket-book containing $5.00, Saturday the 19th inst. The finder will be kindly rewarded on returning the same.

DEATH OF A. A. MAREE.—Mr. A. A. Maree, mach and door manufacturer of St. John, died at his residence on Saturday morning, after a lingering illness of several months, from la grippe.

For weeks past six persons have been kept busy packing Union Blend Tea working from 7 a. m. to 12 midnight, and yet Messrs. Geo. S. deForest & Sons say they are still behind with their orders. It is good to hear that some firms are getting lots of business.

RATHER INCONVENIENT.—The repairing of the Dunn bridge makes it inconvenient for the young men of Clones. One young man in particular went out on Sunday to see his better half and had to stay until morning on account of the danger in walking the stringers after night.

RAILWAY EXTENSION.—It is reported on good authority, writes the Sun's correspondent at Cady's, Queens Co., that the Central Railway Co., which is now operating from Norton to Chipman will have the road extended through to Fredericton this summer. A preliminary survey has already been made of the line, and the final survey will be started in a week or two.

OUR STREETS.—As this is the proper time for cleaning our streets, the road commissioner should see that all obstructions are cleared off from the streets and all rubbish that has collected during the winter is removed. The habit of leaving farm machinery on the streets should be looked after, as in some cases machinery is left where people, during the dark nights, are in danger of receiving severe injuries by falling over the same. The commissioner should see that the streets are not obstructed.

NAVIGATION OPEN.—The ice moved in the Gagetown Creek on Wednesday last and the ice in the main river started to run on Thursday. The river is clear of ice between St. John and Fredericton. The Stmr. Hampstead arrived at Hampstead on Friday. There was a large run of ice every day last week and it is thought that the main body of the ice has passed this place. A number of tugs went up to Fredericton from St. John on Sunday and Monday. It is expected that the Stmr. May Queen will arrive here to-day (Wednesday) if the running ice does not interfere. The river boats no doubt will go on their regular route the latter part of this week.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.—War or no war I am still in the front rank in fitting trim, having lately secured the services of Mr. J. A. McKinnon, a late graduate of Mr. J. Mitchell's cutting school of New York. I am now fully prepared to give my numerous customers a first class fit, workmanship unexcelled, style perfect, and prices that will astonish you. I respectfully invite you to call and inspect my large stock, no trouble to show goods and give you quotations at Joseph Walker's, Merchant Tailor, second door above People's Bank, Queen Street, Fredericton, West End.

THE MARKET.—This week has been a very quiet one in the city market. There is an increased supply in country produce from up river, but the demand is not at all large. The prevailing prices at present are: Beef by the carcass 6c. to 7c. by the cut 12c. to 18c.; mutton by the carcass 7c. to 9c. by the cut 7c. to 10c.; veal by the carcass 5c. to 7c. by the cut 6c. to 12c.; pork by the carcass 6c. to 8c. by the cut 10c. to 14c.; fowls, 80c. to $1 per pair, turkey, 16c. to 18c.; fresh eggs, 16c. to 18c.; case eggs, 14c.; fresh butter, 18c. to 22c.; tub butter, 15c. to 17c.; potatoes, $1.25 to $1.50 per bbl.; beans, 80c.; carrots, 70c. to 90c.; turnips, 60c. to 75c.; cabbage, $1 per dozen heads.—Globe.

SUICIDE BY HANGING.—Michael Conway, of Chatham, a laborer about twenty two, son of William Conway, was found this morning at 9 o'clock hanging by the neck from a beam in the loft of his father's barn, his feet barely clearing the floor, and an overturned chair beside them. The corpse was cold. The rope used was a clothes line. It is said he left his room at daylight and that he had been drinking hard.

SUPREME COURT.—The following judgments relating to Queens County were delivered before the Supreme Court at Fredericton on Friday last:—Ex parte Weyman—Rule discharged for certiorari to remove Scott Act conviction. Queens v. Municipality of Queens, ex parte John Gale—J. R. Dunn moves for rule absolute to quash resolution appointing a Scott Act Inspector; rule absolute. Ex parte Edwin C. Lockett—J. R. Dunn moves for an attachment against Charles P. Weyman and Daniel Mott for disobeying order of chief justice, staying all proceedings under a resolution of Queens County council appointing a Scott Act Inspector; rule refused. Ex parte Edwin C. Lockett—J. R. Dunn moves for rules nisi for certiorari to remove Scott Act convictions; refused.

RECENT DEATHS.—Mrs. Hudson, wife of James Hudson, died at her home at Upper Mungersville Tuesday morning from the effects of child birth. She was a daughter of J. Kelly of Fredericton, and leaves a husband and four small children. Mr. Hudson, who is at present in New Hampshire, is a son of Judah Hudson, whose sudden death at Rusagornish is also reported in this paper. The Fredericton friends of the deceased lady among whom she was a great favorite, will regret to learn of her sad death. Mr. J. Hodgson arrived home at noon Thursday, from New Hampshire, to attend the funeral of his wife and infant child. The funeral took place at 2.30 that afternoon and was largely attended.

JUDAH HUDSON, a well known resident of Rusagornish, died at that place Monday from heart failure, aged 66 years. A family of five sons and four daughters survive him.

SAD ACCIDENT.—One of the saddest accidents that has happened in Cambridge for a number of years took place on Saturday afternoon at three o'clock, in which Mrs. Gilbert Thorne lost her life. It seems that Mrs. Thorne was cleaning the rubbish that had collected near the door during the winter and had started a fire to burn the same. The grass in the immediate vicinity being quite dry became ignited and spread for a considerable distance. Mrs. Thorne in company with Mr. Arthur and William Perry started to put the fire out. In some manner Mrs. Thorne's clothes became ignited and in a few minutes she was a mass of flames. The two men ran to her assistance but before the fire could be extinguished she was terribly burned about the body. Mrs. Thorne lived until Saturday night at eleven o'clock when death put an end to her sufferings. Mrs. Thorne was in her thirty-second year and leaves a husband and five small children. The former is in a coasting vessel and is on a trip between St. John and Boston. The sad accident has cast a gloom over the entire community.

MARRIED IN ST. JOHN.—A quiet little wedding took place on the 20th day of April at 11 Summer Street, when Mr. Harry T. Leak of St. John was united in marriage to Miss Minnie J. Emery, second daughter of David Emery of South Clones. The bride looked pretty in a gown of blue trimmed with pink silk. The bride received the following handsome and useful presents: a wicker rocker, Mr. and Mrs. G. Emery; toilet set of mats and a quilt, Miss Ethel Emery; picture oval and cushion, Mr. and Mrs. H. Smith; glass berry set, W. Emery; parlor lamp, Mr. Charles Cooper; glass water set, glass cake basket, glass cream stand, glass butter cooler and plates, glass cream pitcher, glass vases and mantle bell, Miss Maggie Emery; sister of the bride, glass butter dish and glass berry dish, Mrs. Sutherland; handsome dinner set, Mrs. W. Geroy; brass crumb tray and brush, carving knife and fork and several other useful articles, Mr. J. E. Wilson; smothering irons, Mr. F. Whipple; two pictures, bed room suite and $25, mother of the groom; pair of pillows and glass berry dish, Mrs. John Cooper; sister of the bride. The groom presents to the bride was gold locket set with chip diamonds.

SEEDS.—What are the prices this year? American Timothy is ten to fifteen cents per bushel lower on equal quality compared with prices last year. Canadian Timothy is scarce some of the largest Canadian Seedsmen having none to offer. Oats are about the same prices as at this date a year ago. Peas—Extra Early, American Wonder, Telephone and Field are unchanged, Stratagen a trifle higher. Turnip Seed.—Table varieties a few cents per pound higher, while the kinds for food growing somewhat below 1898. Sugar Beet and White Carrot, profitable for feeding are a little off in price, and seed for table Beets or Carrots is unchanged. Corn—Dent and Flint in White and Yellow are five to ten cents up. Sugar Corn is off in price and can be bought low enough to sow for feeding purposes and give good profit as green corn. Mammoth Sugar Corn is now advertised by F. Nave & Son, on the first page of GAZETTE.

FIRST PASSENGER STEAMER.—The Steer Springfield arrived here on Tuesday morning being the first passenger steamer to arrive here this year.

SAILED TO ST. JOHN.—The steamer Martello, which has during the winter been rebuilt, started on Monday to sail for St. John. Capt. Briggs rigged a temporary sail with which to sail to the city, at which place her engine is undergoing repairs. The Martello will be a first class steamer this year. She is about 25 feet longer than she was and over twenty inches higher. Mr. James Reece, of Mouth of Jenneze, with a crew of four men did the repairing on her. She has a very small part of the old hull and her accommodations for the crew greatly enlarged and improved. When the Martello has her engine on board and her repairs finished she will be second to none on the river.

THIS SHOULD NOT BE.—Mr. Wilson went to Cady's on Saturday and telephoned to a party in St. John concerning the death of Mrs. Thorne, and paid for a reply but could not get one. On Sunday he had to come all the way to Gagetown to telephone to the same party, who informed him the message from Cady's had not been received. This should be looked after as a system of that kind is of very little service in any place. The urgency of this case should have made the operators even more prompt than they would be with ordinary messages. Those managing the telephone should see that a better service was given the people.

Killed by a nail

DORCHESTER, April 18.—This morning at the recess hour, while the boys of the superior school were playing ball, a sad accident occurred. Willie Dobson, a boy of 12 years, who was conversing with another boy, a short distance from the home base, was struck on the back of the head by a batted ball. The boy uttered an exclamation, uttered a step or two and then fell. He was immediately carried to the drug store, where medical assistance was summoned. It was found the blow had been fatal, and the boy was dead.

The deceased was the second son of the late Walter Dobson, for many years custom officer here. He was an exceedingly clever lad.

Poetry.

BONIS NOOET' QUISQUIS PEP- EROBET MALIS.

One morn o'er Douglas Harbor's snow-clad plain;
Came wafted on the breeze a cry of pain;
And in a voice of anguish, sad and slow,
Broke on my startled ears this cry of woe:

"Oh! is there none who to my aid will fly?
None to relieve a 'Sufferer' ere he die?
With FUROR POETICUS, yes, and briny
tears,
I cry for pity, but ye stop your ears.

Oh, tollers! turn from selfish labor yet.
And ABBI SACRA FAMES e'us forget.
SINE, VIATOR! do not pass me by;
Here in EXTREMIS does a 'Sufferer lie!'"

Touched to my heart by such a plaintive plea,
I turned my footsteps toward the sound
to flee,
And presently before my wondering eyes
There came a sight which filled me with surprise:

Upon a crumbling rock, well-known as
"self-conceit,"
In wild confusion towered several feet
What seemed, at first, upon its surface
ridged,
A pile of Daniel Webster's unabridged.

But as I looked with wonder and amaze,
A stranger sight met now my puzzled
gaze:
There pined fast, with scarcely room
to breathe,
A prostrate figure grovelled down beneath.

In words like once they used in ancient Rome,
He bade me quick remove each ponderous
stone;
But something stirred me to a strong distrust,
And so I answered him, as needs I must—

"I first must know how came you in such plight,
And then I'll set you free, if I think right;
For I'm inclined to think, to set you free
Would to the world no wondrous blessing be."

Hearing my last remark with inward hate,
But heeding not, he did his tale relate.
That tale, though clothed in Latin guise,
Being translated, readeth in this wise:

"Behold before you in this humble state,
A man of wondrous gifts and genius great,
Who 'though the beauteous heavens downward fall
Let justice still be done' would call.

Not long ago, a voice with hoarse roll
Wakened the slumbering fires of my soul,
And called my wandering thoughts from far off Tiber—
It was the voice of that upstart 'Subscriber.'"

The same "Subscriber" filled me so with wrath,
I rose in haste to sweep him from my path;
And soon I planned to raise a tower complete,
To help me bring about my foe's defeat.

Upon a rock where oftentimes I go
To gaze upon my fellow-men below,
I build a wall of dictionaries strong,
And waited for my foe to come along.

Then, from my fortress strong with Webster's arts,
I stood prepared to fling my inky darts,
When something—twas the treacherous base perhaps—Caused the whole massive structure to collapse.

And now you would not have me lie here still,
While that "Subscriber" roams the world at will!
Oh, haste to lift from me this cumbrous weight,
That I may deal him out an awful fate."

And then I answered with sarcasm straight,
To this poor "fellow-man," ill-used by fate,—
"Why have I been so very fortunate That I should meet and talk with one so great?"

And now in turn I beg to introduce
The very subject of your late abuse;
And since "Subscriber" you so long to see,
Behold him now,—for I, dear sir, am he!

With boastful words you called the world to view
The fall of the "Subscriber" dealt by you—
That 'dreadful fate' upon your own head fall—
Receive your just reward—and now, farewell!"

Surprise and rage one moment held 'him fast,
But forthwith his speech returned at last,
And, when with mocking bow I turned to leave,
The words I heard would make old Webster grieve.

And still when I had left him far behind,
His ravings still came wafted on the wind;
Now cries for help, now threats the air that rent

Followed my ears as, laughing, on I went, Mingled with maledictions that, perchance,
Caesar's vocabulary did of old enhance,
Fainter and fainter did the echo come.
"TAT JUSTITIA REAT COELUM!"

THE POPULAR POET.

We rhymsters have full many,
Blest with little wit, (if any).
And talent, (?) Well, that blessing they keep hidden well from sight.
Still some sickening ignoramus
Fancies that he's really famous;
Well, come to think it over, he in one respect is right.

For he as a fool is noted,
On by fools he too is doted,
To them he is a Shakespeare, Burns, a Byron or a Pope.
They will quote his rapid sayings,
Empty as a donkey's brayings.

The "Fool Destroyer" marks them, they are doomed without a hope.
All scorn the springtime poet.
"He is lousy and don't know it,"
Of green fields does he babble, and of streamlets loused from chains.

He the birds has all set singing,
With their notes the woods are ringing;
And his sole reward is ("crazy") luckless fellow for his pains.

But the rhymster that's all glorious,
Is that poet so notorious For composing to the memory of some lored one gone before.

For his style is so pathetic
As to knock you paralytic
Oh, he is the fancy poet and the pious him adore.

The songs of Watts contorted,
Oh, how oft do we see sported
To the memory of defunct ones by this versifier dread,
Even Godly Cobby's—ditties—
Is it not a thousand pities!

Has he robbed of rhyme and metro, to the glory of the dead.
True, he spoils the works of others,
But that pleases wives and mothers Who by death has been afflicted, for it whiles away their grief;
And it gives them views of heaven,
So the knave must be forgiven.

Though he is, we must acknowledge, a cheap, literary thief.
But the "dear ones," could they hear him,
Like us mortals would not cheer him;
Within their graves with anguish they most certainly would turn.

Or for vengeance madly thirsting,
From the tomb you'd see them bursting.
That the dead are quite impotent from this plainly do we learn.

IN MEMORIAM.

In memory of Uncle William Wilson, who died Oct. 1st., 1898.
How sadly I remember, when,
With silent solemn tread,
We gathered round the couch
Of our dear beloved dead.

Brothers and sisters, do not weep
For the one you love so dear;
He has gained a better home,
Than to be with you here.

His trials they are ended,
His sufferings are all o'er,
For death's dark river he has crossed;
And is safe on the other shore.

He often spoke of Jesus,
And sang of his Heavenly home;
Spoke of the bright and glorious hope
He had beyond the tomb.

He knew he could see in the distance.
The scene of the great white throne.
And he heard the angels singing,
"The Lord but takes his own."

Then came like a glorious sunset,
The holy triumphant death;
And we sadly gathered round him
To lip to his dying breath.

Some wept loudly, others lowly,
As his spirit homeward fled—
While not one returned an answer
To the last good-bye he said.

The pain that he did suffer,
No one on earth could tell;
But he has tried the monster, Death,
And gone with Christ to dwell.

Seven brothers and one sister
Are left behind, to mourn:
May they prepare to meet him
On that resurrectin morn.

One sister she has gone before
To dwell with Christ above.
And he has gone to meet her
On that happy golden shore.

But may we all be ready,
When the Lord for us shall come,
To meet that loved one
And Christ who died for all.

Older brothers are still waiting
And wondering if it will be long,
Before the Lord will come and take them
To the home where William's gone.

Composed by Alma Wilson.
Chipman, April 14, 1899.

COOK'S NEW BLOOD PILLS.

SPRING.

Oh! welcome to the joyous Spring,
While round the earth your mantles
fling,
And wake the charms of nature's forms,
While winter leaves us with its storms.

Oh! gentle Spring, the crows return,
Brings us a messenger we spurn;
But glad we are his form to see
When he brings us good news of thee.

The wild geese haunts upon the marsh;
His voice upon the ear sounds harsh;
But we don't think of that you know,
When thy soft winds begin to blow.

The duck returns again to stream and lake,
His voice again the woodlands wake;
And sends a thrill of pleasure through
Most everyone; 'tis news to you.

The snow it melts upon the hill,
And fills each pond, and starts the mill.
But who now cares for wet and mud,
We all defy the flying scud.

The ice upon the river pales,
While water rushes through the vales;
Then with a sigh, a crash, a roar,
It leaves the waters blue once more.

A robin on the gate-post sings,
Then o'er the field his way he wings,
And picks a worm up from the ground.
Oh! gentle Spring thou art around.

The trees they clothe in garments green;
The grass they loving form hath seen.
All nature wakes without a sigh,
Her winter garments fling by.

The swallow comes from far away,
And other birds have come to stay.
The farmer tills the fertile soil,
And laughs and jokes while at his toil.

Oh, happy Spring! Oh, joyous Spring!
In every heart the joy bells ring.
Waks up the sparkle of the eye,
And from each soul keep back the sigh.

OUR JOHNNIE SLEEPS.

In loving remembrance of Johnnie Mc-Allister, who died April 5th, 1899.
Our Johnnie sleeps—his still, pale face
Against the snowy pillow pressed;
His little hands with childish grace
Were folded on the pulseless breast.

Our Johnnie sleeps—his form we've laid
Within the cold and silent tomb;
And trusting his spirit is with God—
There is a light within the gloom.

Our Johnnie sleeps—he prayed to God
For the forgiveness of his sin;
The gates of heaven opened wide,
And Jesus took our darling in.

Our Johnnie sleeps—life's conflict o'er
In seventeen years, the victory won
Through him who all life's sorrows bore,
And the immortal life begun.

Our Johnnie sleeps—beyond the tomb,
Where streams of living water flow;
And brightest flowers ever bloom
Beneath the sun's eternal glow.

Our Johnnie sleeps—his bright eyes now
Are softly closed in slumber deep;
To rest with Him in Paradise,
Who giveth his beloved sleep.

The Signs of The Times.

Every man in Canada is interested in the upholding of British fair play or should be. The common people can only judge the drift of public opinion by the utterances of our public men, in the discharge of their duties, and private utterances on public matters. My attention has been called to the utterance of the Hon. J. Israel Tarte in Parliament. He, Tarte, branded those Settlers, who resides at Fox Bay, Anticosti; as professional wreckers (murders of the worst class).

Now the public calls on Mr. Tarte either to substantiate his utterance, or to apologize or give a substantial reason for such a grave charge, coming as it has from a member of the Dominion Government.
Was that charge made because these unfortunate people happened to be Methodists and not French or Catholics? If so the people of Canada wants to know; and place the public in a position to form a correct judgment of the drift of the present administration at Ottawa. I noticed that Mr. Tarte made frequent reference to Catholics and Catholic influence etc., etc.

I consider such remarks uncalled for in a representative of British Parliament.
The great majority of the people of this country cares very little whether he, (Tarte) is a Catholic or a Pagan. We ask for even handed justice and no favors so far as our religious views are concerned; and we only hear the religious question brought up by a certain class of politicians that have unfortunately worked their way in the Parliament of Canada; and they imagine that the world was created for them and their church; as was proved at the Costigan Banquet in St. John, N. B.
Here see his remarks as given in the St.
John N. B. Telegraph of April 7th:

"He had been in the government and properly or not had been recognized as the representative of the Catholics in that government, the solicitor general now occupied a similar position." We never here such remarks coming from Methodists, Presbyterians, Episcopalians, Baptists, etc., etc; and perhaps these persons have as much interests in the morals of our country as Tarte, Fitzpatrick, Costigan & Co. But it is not the moral well-being of our country that these men have at heart; but there is an underlying principle, that over shadows all moral or social reform, that is cherished in the hearts of those gentlemen referred to above. We find a movement on foot among the Catholics of Canada asking to have the Coronation oath changed as you will find by referring to the Montreal Daily Witness of April seventh; the item referred to can be found on the eleventh page of said paper. It is by small straws we can tell which way the wind blows.

"A word to the wise is sufficient."

WHY WE OPPOSE THE RUM TRAFFIC.

The argument usually employed in favor of the sale and use of intoxicating liquors as a beverage may all be reduced, I think to these three, viz: First, the financial benefit which the traffic confers upon the country at large. Second, the benefit of alcoholic drinks to the consumer, when used in moderation and third, the right of man to do as he pleases. The first proposition in answer to this offense is that the country gains nothing in a financial point of view by the traffic in strong drink. In order to show that any business is a financial benefit to the country we should be prepared to show that it increases the amount of active capital, or else that it develops some branch of national industry. That a large amount of capital is invested in the business is undeniable; but a little consideration will convince any unprejudiced mind that the same money directed in other channels would be of far greater good to the country. It is time the government receives a large income but it is equally true that it expends a large sum on account of the rum traffic. On the credit side you may put the amounts received for licence and for excise and import duties, then on the debit side put the salaries paid for collecting those duties; the sums paid for the suppression of crime caused by the use of strong drink; the amounts paid by public and private charity for the support of paupers made so by the same means.
The value of the property which strong drink annually destroys—and you will have more figures than on the credit side.
And this is not all; for we have yet to estimate the loss which the industry of the country sustains through the drinking customs of the day. Let it be remembered that every day spent in illness by a working-man—say a mechanic—is not only so much lost to himself and his family but it is so much taken from the aggregate wealth of the country at large. If any one doubts this let him calculate what would be the result financially if all the laborers, farmers, mechanics etc., were to suspend labor entirely for one year. The result would be national bankruptcy and universal famine. Everyday, therefore, which is lost to productive labor tends so much to impoverish the country. The second proposition is that the use of intoxicating liquors as a beverage is never beneficial to the individual.
He is not benefited financially. Every year hundreds of men are reduced to poverty by drunkenness, but who ever heard of the drinking habit helping its victim to fortune.

He is not benefited physically. It has always been a strong point with our opponents that by the moderate use of alcoholic liquors a man can be made stronger and better fitted to endure fatigue and that the habit conduces to health and long life. Alcohol interferes with digestion in two ways, by impairing the action of the gastric juice and by injuring the coats of the stomach. Besides injuring the stomach alcohol hurts the action of every other organ of the body with which it comes in contact with.
Neither is he bettered in a moral and social point of view; for strong drink so blunts all his moral perceptions that the most solemn appeals are thrown away and it so destroys all of the finer feelings and sympathies of his nature, so that the once saved husband and affectionate father becomes a mere brute—may worse a fiend. Example upon example might be given to illustrate this point, but they are so frequently met by us all that I need not go farther. If these are some of the effects produced by strong drinks who will dare to say that a man is made better, physically, morally or socially by the use of them.

AGAINST WIND AND TIDE

People always shrugged their shoulders when Mark Lawson was mentioned, and usually the expressive gesture was followed by some depressing remark.

"Comes of bad stock," old Judge Lennox would say, in his pompous, dictatorial manner. "All the Lawsons were worthless, and Mrs. Lawson was a Hodge and everybody knows what they are."

The house in which Mark was born, and where he scribbled up to manhood, was a large farmhouse, tumbling to pieces inside, with a roof always being patched against leaking, doors without locks, and with shaking hinges, windows that rattled in every wind, ceilings that dropped whenever a heavy wind shook the upper rooms, and furniture in the last stage of shabbiness. His father and mother were slatternly in dress, shiftless in household management, and the handsome, bright boy was over indulged or neglected as their indolence suggested.

But Mark Lawson inherited none of the leading traits of his parents. Probably in some remote ancestor there was a mixture of energy, resolution and ability, of which the Marysville gossip had never heard, and for which they certainly gave Mark no credit. It was in vain that the principal of the Marysville High School declared that Mark had graduated with the best record he had ever given in the school. It was useless for the lad himself to keep his life free from blame and earnestly endeavor to do his duty. Marysville could not forget he was Lawson, and his mother was a Hodge—"bad stock!"

As he passed from boyhood to manhood, Mark began the unequal struggle against fate and circumstances, that was dictated by his own energy. His father had been unable to get bread from the farm by a lazy tillage that gave the bare necessities for the table; his mother had a very small income that gave the three clothing of the poorest description, and both were in open-mouthed wonder that Mark was not content as they had been, to dawdle through life, and "make out" with what they had.

And Mark, struggling to attain better things, with only a vague, undisciplined longing for improvement, met no encouragement at home or abroad. He tried to obtain a situation; but employers were shy about giving work to a Lawson; he met but a cool reception at the Marysville social gatherings, having no knowledge of how to repair his own linen or keep his poor clothing ever tidy. Boy-like, he imagined a new suit and gay necktie were all sufficient for a party, and did not heed the frayed cuffs and broken collars at which the Marysville belles turned up their noses.

But in spite of his father's lay comment, his mother's fearful reproaches, Mark Lawson, finding no employment outside, determined to see if the farm would not find him in work.

"Oh, yes; do as you please," his father said. "But there is no money for new-fangled fixings, and the land is about worn out. Plenty of it, to be sure, but 'tain't worth shooks."

So single-handed, Mark undertook the work of bringing up the old farm. Early and late he toiled repairing fences, weeding, picking stones, rooting out dead stumps, preparing his land, without one hand stretched out to help him, one voice to wish him success. Thomas, the only man his father employed, gave a surly refusal to aid, upon the ground that his regular routine of shiftless farming took all his time, and Mark patiently submitted.

He was twenty-one years old when in to his dull monotonous life came a new stimulus—a hope, bright as a vision and almost as baseless. He fell in love! He did not walk in cautiously, counting his steps and weighing his chances, but he fell in plump, sudden, hopelessly.

There had been a warm discussion at the Judges about inviting Mark to the party that was to celebrate Essie's eighteenth birthday and her final return from boarding-school. But the pet of the house had a will of her own and a lively recollection of Mark's handsome face and boyish gallantries, and insisted upon his being invited. Mark, carrying in his memory only a pretty little girl, found himself confronted by an undeniable beauty; a face to win homage in far more pretentious circles than Marysville boasted of, and a general grace of manner that none of the girls of his acquaintance had ever extended to him.

The touch of the soft little hand offered to greet him riveted the chains Essie's face had cast about Mark's heart, and made him her slave then and there. He had starved all his life for sympathy, and his first half-hour with Essie filled his longing heart with content. She remembered all his boyhood aspirations; she entered into all his hopes and ambitions. The party was the beginning of an intercourse that stimulated an every good resolution gave a new vigor to every hope of Mark's life.

There are women who carry in their own hearts an overflowing fund of sympathy, who can sink self utterly in the presence of another person's interest, and throw their own power into their neighbor's work without officiousness or offense. Essie Lennox was such a woman, young as she was. She could give her whole mind to every detail which she had carried to her, from the cutting of aprons for a neighbor's child to the gentle soothing of an invalid's terror of death; from her mother's pressing kettle to the comforting of a newly bereaved widow or orphan. Nothing was too deep or solemn, nothing too fanciful or trivial for the tender, ever-active interest and sympathy that made her the idol of Marysville as well as the comfort of her home.

As four with Essie sent him back to his uphill work full of new hope, every energy stimulated, every hope brightened. He had not dared to set before her in plain words the hope of winning her heart to answer his own, for there was all the humility of true passion in that young ardent heart, but he realized a new force, a new spur to ambition.

Essie never sneered at him as the neighbors had become accustomed to doing; Essie never threw cold water over his plans for improving the land; Essie was never sarcastic over the chasing of his poverty and ambition. As he saw her more frequently he ventured to tell her of wider, wilder hopes, of some day escaping from the drudgery before him and making his way to a city where his education might give him a start in more congenial occupation.

"Father and mother seem to need me now," he told Essie one day; "they are old and they have no other child. I think it is my duty to stay."

"I think it is," was the quick reply; "your mother could scarcely bear a separation."

And in her home she found no one whose claim seemed to her stronger than Mark's. The village was essentially democratic and the fact that Essie was the only child and heiress of the richest and most influential man in the place did not prevent her from visiting Mrs. Lawson upon terms of perfect equality. She was fond of the weak, amiable woman, strongly as she censured, in her youthful strength, an easy-going indolence that made her home such a scene of confusion and discomfort; and, in her gentle, pleasant way, she endeavored to brighten that home for Mark by suggestions and offers of help that fell to the ground. It was like fighting a feather bed to try to arouse Mrs. Lawson to any active improvement, and, rebuffed there, Essie could only help Mark by words of sympathy that were like wine of life to his love.

"And while I am here I must do the work that lies under my hand," he said, "hard as it is! But, Essie, and his face brightened, "do you know that already I have made the farm pay double what it has ever done? Next spring I can hire help out of money saved from the sale of last year's crop!"

Essie, all eager interest, entered into the discussion of the capabilities of such a lot for turnips, such a patch for wheat, the possibilities of a dairy, the best culture for fruit—essie if she had never studied music or filled her head with French or German verbs.

But the horror and wrath of Judge Lennox when, after two years of mild courtship, Mark took his fate in his hands and asked permission to marry Essie cannot be described.

"A Lawson!" he cried, when having dismissed Mark he returned to the bosom of his family. "A Lawson for Essie's hand! The fellow wants my money to spend after all his father and grandfather have squandered."

"Do you really and truly think Mark is a spendthrift, papa?" Essie asked quietly. Does he ever lounge about the stores or taverns as Harry Carter and James Raymond do?"

"I—well, no, I never saw him," was the reluctant admission.

"Did you ever hear that he drank or gambled, or even smoked?"

"No—I never did."

"Is he not regular at church?"

"Yes."

"But, oh, Essie!" struck in Mrs. Lennox, "what shabby, half-washed shirts he wears, and his fingers are all out of his gloves, and half the buttons of his coat gone."

"Poor Mark!" said Essie, gently. "He needs a wife."

"Well, he need not look here for one," growled the Judge.

"I heard Mr. Thompson say last week," said Essie, quietly, "that there is not a better farm in Green County than Lawson's."

"Such a palace of a house!" the Judge sneered.

"Mark is hoping to put a new house on the place next year. He has had builders over from B—, but they said the old house is beyond repair, and it would cost less to build a new one."

"And where is the money to come from?"

"Where the improved farm came from," said Essie, "from Mark's perseverance and energy, in the face of the hardest discouragements a young man ever had to fight."

work with him, good horses, good cattle, good poultry, and will have a good house. Papa, do you not think it will be a pity to leave the new house in the care of Mrs. Lawson to ruin as she has the old one? Out doors the management is all left to Mark, and see what he has done. But a man cannot make a home comfortable alone; he needs a wife."

"Well," said the Judge, "Let him have one, but not my child."

"Still he loves me," said Essie; and I love him."

"Pshaw!" said the Judge, and he marched out of the house.

But, proud as he was, he was just; he loved Essie. He had felt prejudice influence against Mark all his life; now he took pains to find out how much of his dislike was well-founded. Greatly enough was the verdict given in Mark's favor. Marysville did not willingly acknowledge it had been wrong in its estimate, and shouldered upon Mark all the faults of his ancestors. But the facts were strong, and Judge Lennox found himself confronted by them. Slowly, for he was not easily convinced, he took respect into the place of contempt, and after a month of patient investigation, sent for Mark.

The interview was a frank, manly one, the old gentleman not being given to half-hearted measures of any kind. He admitted his former prejudices, and heartily commended the young man who had struggled so nobly.

"When your new house is finished," said the Judge, "you will need a wife. A man who can make his life as you have made yours is a rare find in this part of the world. The Judge being a power in Marysville, public opinion veered around as the engagement was announced. The new house being completed, Essie became housekeeper, Mrs. Lawson gladly resigned her feeble reign it was wonderful to see how the old people smartened up. They had no chronic objection to cleanliness, if someone else did the necessary work; and with Mark and Essie to govern and direct, the Lawson farm and Lawson household lost its old name that you could scarcely find to-day in Marysville one voice to repeat the old saying, Mark Lawson came of bad stock."

Farming in the Maritime Provinces

Differs materially from farming in Ontario and the West. Conditions are different and our markets not the same. A product profitable in those sections would not pay the tillage here, and a suggestion valuable to a westerner, would prove disastrous if followed by our farmers. In subscribing for an agricultural publication it is well to bear this in mind. There's only one paper that treats of farming from a Maritime Province standpoint. It is the Correspondence.

Spiel News Items Gathered by Gazette Correspondent Waterborough.

A sanguinary antagonist entered the house of Robert Jeffrey, jr., while his wife was alone and brutally beat her. Is there no law for such an act? Word was sent to four of our mighty hunters that a bear was seen in its den near the Dan farm, a distance of ten miles from their homes. So on the first day of April the mighty nimrods went in pursuit. They reached there in a short time with Roy Bell—a goer. It proved to be a porcupine. A good April Fool was it not? Hal hal hal! Mrs. C. H. Fanjoy is quite low with lung trouble. Capt. John McCaw is to take charge of the Home Rule when navigation opens. Charles Stillwell who was burned out a spell ago has all the lumber on the spot for his new house. He intends to build a large one. James H. Ferris has the contract of requiring the roads for the cow-head men of this place—figures unknown.

Upper Queenstown.

April 17.—There has been no notes from this place for a long time and some of the people are beginning to think of coming to the funeral of your correspondent. It begins to look spring-like here, the streams are open and Mr. Lipsett is busting his drive toward the rafting ground, it is raining hard and prospects are good for lumber drivers. Jas. H. Gallagher who has been visiting his brother Mr. John Gallagher of Summersham Farm, intends visiting Petersville in a few days. Any person wanting young pigs can be supplied at Mr. John Gallagher's. Mr. C. E. Williams had a pleasant dance on Tuesday evening last. Mr. Williams says he never enjoyed himself more.

Spain's Greatest Need.

Mr. R. P. Olivia, of Barcelona, Spain, spends his winters at Aiken, S. C. Weak nerves had caused severe pains in the back of his head. On using Electric Bitters, America's greatest Blood and Nerve Remedy, all pain soon left him. He says this grand medicine is what his country needs. All America knows that it cures liver and kidney troubles, purifies the blood, tones up the stomach, strengthens the nerves, puts vim, vigor and new life into every muscle, nerve and organ of the body. If weak, tired or ailing you need it. Every bottle guaranteed, only 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

Coal Creek.

April 17.—R. H. Harding of this place has gone to Gagetown to be engineer on board the tug "Martello." Young men of this place are expecting to start for the stream in a few days. They are now patiently waiting for rain. Mr. Medley T. Perry has started from here last week for Kootenay, B. C. A bloom was cast over the settlement by the death of John McAllister, youngest son of David McAllister. He was 17 years of age and was loved and respected by all who knew him, and much sympathy is felt for his relatives. Mr. William Harding has made an addition to his house. Wild geese have put in their appearance lately and the sportsmen are following in their wake but no captures have yet been made. Miss Lunney of this place is just recovering from the effects of a cold.

Red Hot from the Gun

Was the ball that hit G. B. Stedman, of Newark, Mich., in the Civil War. It caused horrible ulcers that no treatment helped for 20 years. Then Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him. Cures Cuts, Bruises, Burns, Boils, Felons, Corns, Skin Eruptions. Best Pile cure on earth. 25 cents a box. Sold by all Druggists.

Elkin Mines.

April 7.—Mr. Peter Spooner of this vicinity has recently left for the gold regions of Cross Creek. His fellow miners deeply regret his departure. A very pleasant evening was spent by the young people of this place at the residence of Mr. Jacob Babineau. The principle amusement was dancing. Music was furnished by Mr. James Upton of Lakeville Corner. Mr. Edward Kelly of Newcastle has got the contract of sinking the new shaft for the Coal Company. He expects to begin operations in a few days. The sudden departure of George Stillwell has created a sensation among his friends at this place.

A Narrow Escape.

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E. Hart, of Grotton, S. D. "Was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs; cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Saviour determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles. It has cured me, and thank God, I am saved and am now a well and healthy woman." Sold by all druggists. 50 cts. and $1.00. Guaranteed or price refunded.

Greenwich.

April 17.—There is yet about six miles of ice in the "Reach" and will probably be a week before there is any passage. The Stur. "Springfield" did not arrive at Public Landing, Westfield, on Saturday as was expected, which is perhaps owing to the fact that she has not yet undergone the necessary inspection. Wild geese are quite plentiful and there is the usual excitement among local sportsmen, many of whom are armed with Snider-Enfields, and are prepared to shoot at any range. As may be expected the killed are few. The illegal shooting of wild geese at night, by the use of lights, is being carried on by some unscrupulous parties, much to the annoyance of our more conscientious hunters, who would like to see it stopped. A. M. Rowan and Brazil Unwatt, of St. John, arrived at their shooting lodge on the "Isle of Pines" on Saturday evening.

The many friends of Mrs. D. P. Belyea will be pleased to hear that she has recovered from her recent illness. The fertile brain of one of our would be prominent political men has so far "expanded" that many fear that it is materially "softened."

W. J. Cameron is negotiating with St. John parties for the sale of his steam launch "Crescent." This speedy little vessel was built entirely by Mr. Cameron our enterprising machinist.

Springfield, Mass.

April 10.—This is a very fine day and the young men are out on their bicycles today enjoying themselves. Mr. and Mrs. James Lowery and daughter arrived here on Tuesday from Gagetown and are well pleased with their new home. J. W. Reese, of Jemsex, arrived here on Wednesday and met with good success. He intends to stay out here this summer. Miss Alice Dougan of this place spent Wednesday 5th inst., with Mrs. Charles Pevill of Riverdale. Miss Katie Conners of this place spent Wednesday, 6th inst., with friends in Springfield. Miss Alice Dougan, Miss Katie Conners, Mr. James Dougan and Mr. Richard Brown made a quick trip to Springfield on Saturday night and returned. Otis Spaulding of this place intends putting an addition to his barn this spring. We hope to hear from the Hibernia correspondent through the columns of your paper, in the near future.

Cody's.

April 17.—The ice in the Washademoak at this place has commenced to run out. Mr. E. L. Perry has been quite sick for the past few days. He is able to be about his work again. Last week Miss Maggie Cody gave a party to her personal friends. Richard Hetherington, who bought the estate of the late Hazen Starkey, has moved on the property. Mr. and Mrs. Walker Perry have moved into the handsome tenement house of Mrs. E. M. Armstrong. The many friends of the Rev. L. J. King will be pleased to learn that the clerk of the Baptist Church, to which Mr. King has notified him that he is still a member in good standing in the church and that his license to preach is renewed. The clerk regrets that the information furnished him was illegal and has offered to publish the exact state of affairs if Mr. King is willing. Miss Maggie Armstrong and Mrs. Walker Perry were the guests of Mrs. Fred Leonard on Sunday. Miss Joseph Perry was the guest of Mrs. Samuel Moore on Sunday. Miss Bertie Perry who has been spending the past week with friends at Salmon Creek arrived home on Saturday. Your correspondent is informed that in a few weeks one of Cody's fairest "ladies" will be united in matrimony to a young gentleman of an adjoining locality. Mr. B. Dunham, our popular blacksmith, has been greatly rushed during the past week. He had his brother assisting him. John Armstrong, who is noted for having an excellent stock of horses, has a handsome colt. Your correspondent has heard several well informed men say that there is not another colt in the parish like it. Mr. S. K. Foster of St. John is visiting relatives here.

Working Night and Day.

The busiest and mightiest little thing that ever was made is Dr. King's New Life Pills. Every pill is a sugar-coated globe of health, that changes weakness into strength, listlessness into energy, brain-fog into mental power. They're wonderful in building up the health. Only 25 cents per box. Sold by all Druggists. Mouth of Jemsex. Mat hooking and splitting wood frolics seem to be the order of the day. There has been several around here lately. Harvey Chase and Whitfield Nevins were guests of Mr. George B. Nevins on Friday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Mason spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Clark. Messrs. Lockett and Gale passed through here on Saturday on their way to the shiretown—registered at Elm Grove Hotel. Mr. George F. Nevins is painting and white-washing his buildings which improves their looks very much. April 24.—Up to date there has been no note of the burning of Mr. Charles McAlpine's house which was consumed two weeks ago Saturday last. A spark from the chimney caught under the clapboards, the whole end of the building was in flames when discovered. Everything was lost upstairs including thirty dollars worth of notes. Great sympathy is expressed for Mr. McAlpine over the loss, there being no insurance. The water is rising very fast to-day; the low-water wharves are completely covered. The ice which has been running since Friday is about done, there being a few floating cakes in the river yet. We are anxiously looking for the noble steamers "Victoria," David Weston and May Queen, some of which may be here to-day. Some of the farmers have started this plough, others are making preparations to start work this week. Only the very dry ridges are in a fit state to plough. On Thursday last a number of the young people, thirty in number, gathered at the residence of the Misses Mary and Margaret Heustis, also in behalf of Mrs. Robert Jones, for the purpose of cutting wood. The ladies prepared everything that was necessary to make the table look nice, and I can assure you it was a satisfactory moment for those who looked upon it. Those who visited the busy scene of action during the afternoon were cordially invited to stop and partake of the luxurious treat provided. During the evening candy was made by Miss Emma White whom we have a right to thank for the efforts put forth in making it a success. A very pleasant evening was spent in playing games, singing and music.

Oakham.

April 20.—Spring has come, bringing with it renewed life and activity, and the long silent echoes, which have slumbered in the embrace of a dreary winter, are now once more awakened by the merry voice and tuneful song of the hardy farmer. Miss Dora Thorne who has been spending the past fortnight with her mother, returned by Monday's train to St. John. Mr. Bliss Thorne will be employed during the summer by Mr. Thos. Hetherington, Cody's Star. It is understood that in the near future Oakham will lose two of its most prominent citizens. Mr. Robert Henson after paying a E.

ing visit to his home, returned to the Millstream. R. B. Thorne has lately returned from Canada, where he has been spending the winter. His many friends are pleased to see him looking so well. He leaves today for Apohaqui. Mrs. Fred Perry who has been confined to her room, by a severe attack of rheumatism, is now rapidly recovering under the skillful nursing of her daughter Miss Arthureta Branscombe, of St. John. Temperance Workers and the Plebiscite. Mr. George A. Wilson seems greatly exercised over some of the plebiscite talk lately published in your paper. He deserves the undying gratitude of Mr. Pearce for coming up to his help "against the mighty." But he seems to have lost sight of the cause of all the trouble. The people of Queens County have, during the last ten years, become quite accustomed to hearing political speeches from active temperance workers, denouncing the late Conservative Government and its attitude toward prohibition. If I mistake not, one of the foremost of these orators was Mr. Pearce. The Royal Commission to investigate the Prohibition question, he and others took the high moral ground that intemperance was on the same plane as any other crime. We wanted no commissioners to decide whether or not murder or theft should be legislated against; we needed none to inquire into the advisability of enacting laws against the importation and sale of alcohol. Many will remember the fine speech to which these gentlemen held up the party who would waste twenty-six thousand dollars, (I think that was the sum), collecting evidence on a question that any child, who knew the difference between right and wrong, was competent to pronounce upon. In those "spying times," we heard nothing of inability to enforce prohibitory legislation. We have had a change of Government. We were allowed to enter the campaign in the belief that, in this, as in other cases, where there has been an appeal to the popular vote, the will of the majority would rule. If not this, what was the Plebiscite for? In the Province of Quebec we had three members of the government and one independent member working against us. One of these was J. Israel Tarte—the man who not long since caused the discharge of a teacher in an Industrial School out west, because he would not allow Mr. Tarte and his friends to bring liquor into the institution, when they were out there on a jantaking tour. In this same province there were shameful irregularities allowed in the voting in order to roll up a majority against prohibition. Despite all this, the temperance people beat the rum party by a majority large enough to constitute a good sized army. Then we were told that we had been expected to beat the rum party—dead men, stay-at-homes, residents, repeaters and what not—by getting a majority of all the recorded votes in the Dominion. No party ever did that, since North America was settled. The Premier deliberately admits he steered us up against what any child knows is an impossibility. But in this Plebiscite campaign the Government distributed a quarter of a million dollars amongst its devoted followers. In the parish of Cambridge two polling stations were opened in the same house and two sets of officers employed that a larger number of the faithful might participate in plebiscite dividends. Now where are those gentlemen who were so fiercely denunciatory when the Royal Commission was appointed? They are either silent, or making excuses for the Government. Their reference to 23 percent of the electorate as "a small percentage" is not very consistent when we remember that the great Government they support holds power by virtue of the votes of twenty nine per cent of the same. The moral aspect of the question has changed since '91. It is little wonder then that they dislike the mention of the word "Plebiscite"; and still less that those who now know for a certainty what the major part of their fiery oratory really meant, hesitate not to stir them up a little, by reminding them of their change of base. Of religious and temperance workers tampering with rum, in the recent Provincial election, I know nothing save by report. But I do know that on the day Mr. Blair was elected to the Dominion Parliament, two cases of liquor stood for some time on the piazza of a Queens county religious and temperance worker; that later they were transferred to his barn, from which, during the day, their contents were distributed to "Good Liberals," as well as thirty and, presumably, purchasable Conservatives. The writer also knows that a member of the church and Chief Templar of an I. O. G. T. Lodge, well known to Mr. Wilson, as well as several other "temperance workers" of the same stripe violated their pledge that day. He believes, with good reason, Mr. Wilson is cognizant of these facts. Therefore, the less he says about "religious and temperance workers," and the elections, the better—unless he is trying for a record in the chief characteristic of his wing of the temperance party—inconsistency. Neither can he, with a very good face, denounce the man who does not write over his own name. For, in the truth, were known, few men have had published more unigned correspondence in the GAZETTE than he. It makes all the difference imaginable whose ox is gored. He will not answer us if we don't publish our names! That's a terrible threat. Surely he'll think better of it. But, if he shouldn't we'll try to bear up with becoming fortitude. And, if he should, he cannot by means and means of letters, rub out one of the hard, ugly facts connecting the plebiscite and his beloved and immaculate party. As the writer is dealing in facts that are well known to a large number of the GAZETTE's readers, with thanks in advance for space, he craves the Editor's permission to call himself— AS OSLOOKEE. DISEASED KIDNEYS

Are Rebuilt and Restored by Dodd's Kidney Pills. No Kidney Diseases are Found Where Dodd's Kidney Pills are Used—New Brunswick Testimony—Cure of a Prominent Public Man.

OSLOOKEE, N. B., April 24.—Some little time ago, a report appeared in an Ontario newspaper, stating that Kidney Diseases, (including Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Dropsy, Rheumatism, Gout, Lumbago, Urinary and Bladder Troubles, Diseases of Women, and all Blood Impurities) were decreasing rapidly, in all sections in which Dodd's Kidney Pills were used. This statement was read by thousands of our people, and by some (who did not know the magical virtue of Dodd's Kidney Pills) it was doubted. The discussion grew warm, and it was decided to investigate, in some locality here, where the pills are in general use, to ascertain whether or not, similar results attended their use in this part of Canada.

A committee appointed to bear evidence concerning the point in dispute, got together a list of names of persons who had been afflicted with Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Dropsy, or other forms of Kidney Disease. These people were questioned and they all testified that they had been cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. One gentleman answering a question as to whether or not he knew anyone who had had Kidney Disease, and had not used Dodd's Kidney Pills, said, "I do not. They are all dead." The evidence of Commissioner G. J. Worden, of Wickham, who was cured of Kidney Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills after twenty-five years' suffering, carries conviction with it. It cannot be doubted. It is the solemn declaration of one of our most popular public men.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists at 50 cents a box, six boxes $2.50, or they will be sent on receipt of price, by The Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Cole's Island.

April 21.—The fine warm days of spring have come at last and the traveling on the roads is good. The ice has run and the river is clear. We expect to see the Stur. Star soon. Alfred West has sent his crew of 35 men for stream driving on the middle North Branch. Foreman Daniel Parks and C. B. Parker have started their crew of 20 men for steam driving. Joseph Wood had the misfortune to lose a valuable cow, also B. Northup lost a cow. Mrs. Charlotte Phillips, Mr. John Phillips and Miss Carey Vincent, have gone to Precedence, R. I., to visit friends. Misses Martha Elliott and Jean Keith were the guests of Miss Perry on Thursday evening. W. H. Green has gone to Fredericton for the summer. Miss Ina Cole who has been sick is improving. The school at this place is flourishing under the skillful management of Miss Jean Keith. Mrs. Elias Cole was the guest of Mrs. John A. Perry, on Wednesday last.
