CHAPTER XII.

"Very, deliciously so!" said Austin, laughing. "And that is why I like it. Lovers should always be unwise and reckless. It is, as Doctor Watts observed, 'their nature to!' Miss Hale, I have one weak spot, amongst many, and you will discover it presently, I dare say. I am foolishly romantic. Anything in the shape of sentiment conquers me directly. I assure you that when Blair came and told me that he had met and lost his heart to the most beautiful young lady in the world, I felt as if I had lost mine, and I was as anxious—well, nearly as anxious, as he was to learn whether he was to be the happiest or the most miserable of men."

Blair laughed, Margaret smiled, but she was fighting against the strange repulsion which grew more distinct with every word the supple lips uttered.

"Yes," he went on. "And the idea of your going hand in hand to the altar and saying, 'My lord, we mean to be married. We don't care whether you like it or not, we defy you. You may leave us your immense wealth or you may bequeath it to the Home for Lost Dogs, we don't care. We love each other, and that is enough. My lord, good-morning!' Now, that is delightful! It is imprudent, it is reckless, and—and—well, yes—foolish; but it is so charming, so perfectly romantic, that I can't help admiring it."

Margaret's eyes grew more troubled. Blair smiled no longer.

"I say, Austin!" he expostulated. Austin Ambrose held up his finger. "No, no! I won't hear a word said against it. I have a distinct conviction that the whole romance—and what a charming romance it is!—would be completely spoiled by one word of wisdom, and I am very sorry that I ever uttered one! Here, in Miss Hale's presence, I make full recantation, and implore her forgiveness for ever having harbored one sordid thought concerning her. Let the earl's fortune go to the winds!" and he waved his hand dramatically. "With Miss Hale's love, my dear Blair, you will be the richest man in England, although you should be the poorest peer."

"You are right!" exclaimed Blair, pressing Margaret's hand. "Those are the truest words you ever spoke, old fellow! Eh, Margaret?" he whispered.

She sat silently looking at Austin Ambrose's face.

Though he had not said so in so many words, he had as good as told her that by marrying Lord Blair she would deprive him of his uncle's fortune.

The color came and went in her face, her eyes grew downcast, while both men looked at her; Blair with loving adoration, Austin Ambrose with a covert and concealed intention.

At last she looked up—at Blair, not at Austin Ambrose.

"It must not be known," she said in a low voice.

"Margaret!" exclaimed Blair, astonished; but Austin Ambrose, watching her eyes, gave a slight, a very slight, nod of approval.

"No," she said. "Mr. Ambrose is—right! You shall not make such a sacrifice for me, Blair." Her face flushed, her eyes shone with the fire of a woman's resolution to sacrifice herself rather than injure the man she loves. "We—we will not tell any one!"

Austin Ambrose raised his hat, and looked at her with a fine assumption of admiration.

"That was nobly spoken, Miss Hale," he said gravely, "nobly and wisely. I am too much Blair's friend, and yours, if you will permit me, to conceal my anxiety on your account. You would sacrifice not his future alone, but yours, for by doing anything rash. The earl is an eccentric old gentleman, and easily offended. It would be worse than folly to do so. You have made a wise decision, Miss Hale, and you have added respect to my admiration!" and he bowed.

"Well!" exclaimed Blair, half amused, half annoyed. "You two are beyond me! Why, half an hour ago, Madge, you were agast at our keeping our engagement secret, and now—"

"Miss Hale had not considered the matter in all its bearings," broke in Austin Ambrose, gently and smoothly. "Trust me, Blair, she has more sense in her little finger than you have in all your great, hulking body."

"I know that," said Blair, with a good-humored laugh. "You've found it out already, have you? Didn't I tell you that she was as clever as she was beautiful? My Margaret!"

"Your Margaret is far too clever to let you say such silly things!" murmured Margaret, blushing.

Austin Ambrose rose and smiled down upon them, and his cold eyes seemed to grow really benevolent, as if he were blessing them.

"I will go now," he said. "Miss Hale, this has been a happy day for me, as well as for Blair. He has found a sweetheart, and I have found, I trust, a friend. May I say that?"

He asked, as he held out his hand.

"Yes," said Margaret, trying to speak heartily.

He took her hand and raised it to his lips. "Then you must let me prove myself one. You are both young, and perfectly imprudent. You must promise to do nothing without coming to me first. This is all I ask. Is it too much?"

"Not a bit, old fellow!" said Blair, promptly, showing his delight at the impression Margaret had made upon the wise and critical Austin Ambrose. "We are a couple of spoons, you know, and not fit to be trusted to act alone, eh?"

"Honestly, I don't think you are," said Austin Ambrose, smilingly.

"All right!" said Blair. "We've taken your advice—at least Margaret has—and the least you can do, having accepted the responsibility, is to see us squarely through, eh?"

Austin Ambrose nodded.

"Yes," he said, simply. "I'll go and see if the dog-cart is ready, and drive it to the end of the lane. You will find me there. You have no idea the precautions we have taken, Miss Margaret," he added, with a smile.

"We just drew the line at coming down in disguise! Good-bye!" and with a wave of his hand he pushed through the underwood and left them.

He stopped at a distance of a hundred yards to get a cigarette, and was putting it to his mouth with a smile of cynical satisfaction, as he thought of the way in which he had gained his point, when his quick eyes saw something moving at a little distance between him and the spot where he had left the lovers.

He thought it was a rabbit at first, but looking intently he saw it was a man's fur cap.

"A cap doesn't move without a head in it," he murmured, and putting his cigarette in his pocket, he made a detour round some trees and crept close to the object.

As he did so he saw a man was lying full length in the long bracken, through which he had made a clearing just before his face, so that he could watch Blair and Margaret. Austin Ambrose grew interested, and crept a little nearer.

Poachers do not work in the daytime, and besides, this man had no gun, but a thick stick lay near his hand.

Austin Ambrose watched him thoughtfully, then a look of intelligence flashed into his face. Blair had described the man he had thrashed on Leyton Green; this was he, this was Jem Pyke! Amongst Austin Ambrose's great gifts was a faculty of never forgetting a face or a name.

Lowering himself noiselessly, he sat down just behind the man, and after waiting a minute or two, coughed slightly.

The man looked round with a start, then sprang to his feet and grasped his stick.

Mr. Ambrose looked him squarely in the face.

"Don't speak a word, my friend, or I shall call," he said.

Pyke looked uncertain, and then made ready for a spring; but the cold eyes—and they were like glittering steel now—held him fascinated.

"Not a word," said Austin, in a low, distinct voice, "unless you want another thrashing, Mr. Pyke."

Jem Pyke started, and he lowered his stick.

For a moment the two men looked into each other's faces, then, with a smile, Austin got up leisurely and sauntered off, beckoning him to follow.

Austin Ambrose led the way until they had gone out of hearing of Blair and Margaret, then he sat down on a fallen tree, and lighting a cigarette, coolly and critically surveyed the captive.

"I'm rather curious to know what you were doing just now, my man," he said, when he had finished his examination.

"I was watching for a rabbit," replied Pyke, promptly but sullenly, and without looking up.

Austin Ambrose smiled. "Oblige me by looking at me," he said.

Pyke raised his eyes slowly. "Thanks. Do I look like a fool?" demanded Austin Ambrose, politely.

"No," replied Pyke, reluctantly, and with an oath.

"Thanks again, though your language is unnecessarily emphatic. There, not being a fool, how do you expect me to believe you? Shall I tell you what you were doing?"

No reply, but Pyke shifted one leg uneasily.

"You were watching my friend Lord Blair. I am right, I think? Silence denotes assent. Thanks, snavely; and why were you watching him?"

Pyke tortured as much by the tone as the question, growled out an imprecation under his breath.

"Shall I tell you? Because you are anxious to get a little revenge for that beating he gave you. Am I right? Thanks again. I am good at guessing, you see. And as you can't pay him back in a fair stand-up fight, you are hoping later for an opportunity to give him one in the back. Y—es," slowly and snavely, "I think that is the whole case in a nutshell. Now, my friend, you are a fool."

Pyke raised his eyes and scowled evilly, and Austin Ambrose shook his head and smiled.

"No use scowling, my friend. I know what you are feeling, and I can sympathise with you; I can, indeed. It is so unpleasant to be caught, isn't it? And it is so tempting to see me sitting here without even a stick, and to know that you could dispose of me so easily, if my friend with the big fists that you felt so lately were not within call."

After washing dishes a rub with Old Dutch makes the sink as clean as the dishes

Pyke's face grew livid, and he grasped his stick till the veins started out like strings in his wiry sun-burnt hands.

"Curse you!" he snarled at last. "Who are you, and what do you want?"

"Gently," said his tormentor. "One question at a time, and though you don't put them politely, I'll give you a true answer. My name is Ambrose—Austin Ambrose. Say it over to yourself once or twice, and you won't forget it. And what do I want? Well, I want a strong, active young ruffian like you, a man who has pluck enough to remember an injury and burns to pay it back. And that's your case again, isn't it?"

He lit his cigarette, and blew a ring in the air, and watched it until it had faded away.

"And now I'll explain why you are a fool. You are a fool because you lay in wait with a big stick to bang your enemy about the head. No one but a fool would do that, my dear Pyke; firstly, because he might not hurt his enemy—"

Jem Pyke scowled fearfully.

"Well, yes, you might hurt him, but—and that brings me to my second—you couldn't do it without its being traced to you. There might be a struggle, there would be blood and other unpleasant traces, and, all Lombard Street to a china orange, the police would have you by the heels before an hour was passed, and then—!" The speaker wound up the sentence by a playful gesture indicative of strangulation.

Pyke's face was a study. At first, from hate and the desire to crush his tormentor it displayed the emotion of murder, and then a reluctant admiration; and at last he stood, the stick hanging loosely in his hand, his small, evil eyes fixed with a fascinated stare on his companion's face.

"I am right, you see," said Austin Ambrose. "Now, if I owed a man a grudge—I don't, I am happy to say, for I have not an enemy in the world, my dear Pyke—but if I owed a man a grudge, I shouldn't dog him and knock him about the head just outside my own door, because I should feel assured that the police would track me down. No; I should wait until he had got some distance off—to London, for instance, or another part of the country—and then, some dull evening, I should bring him down with a gun or a pistol from a safe distance, and then quietly—he blew a cloud of smoke into the air, and pointed to it—"vanish!"

The man stood and listened with every sense on the alert, absorbed and rapt.

Then he drew a long breath.

"That's what you'd do, guv'nor, is it?" he said at last, hoarsely.

Austin Ambrose nodded.

"Yes. And if I had a friend who could point out to me the best way of doing it, and help me to choose the time and place, why, I should feel very grateful to that friend."

Pyke looked somewhat mystified for a moment, then he started, and a look of cunning flashed from his eyes.

"Why, you hate him, too, guv'nor!" he exclaimed, hoarsely, with an oath, and Austin Ambrose looked at him and smiled.

Your Boys and Girls.

When my baby was small it was such a task for me to bathe him on my lap, that my husband made me a small table about four and a half feet high four feet long and three wide. This we padded and covered with rubber sheeting and put a heavy Turkish towel on top of this. It was a great help.

Little linen suits with bloomers to match make cool, neat travelling clothes for little people, and suits of this kind will keep their freshness much longer than finer, prettier dresses.

When travelling with the baby it is a good idea to have a brown linen case which will hold two small pillows in clean white slips. This case can be strapped to the outside of a suit case.

Save the tea from the tea pot. When you have a good quantity, pour boiling water over it and after the water cools use it for wiping up the hardwood floors. This is an old English idea.

THE PRINCE OF WALES AND FREEMASONRY.

An absolute contradiction can be given to a report which has appeared in various shapes during the past two days to the effect that the Prince of Wales has been initiated into Freemasonry. The error is understood to have arisen from a misapprehension as to what young Royal Prince was who not long ago became a member of the craft. Prince Arthur of Connaught, the only son of the Grand Master of English Freemasons, being the one who was meant. It would not be surprising if in the near future the Prince of Wales joined, following the example of not only his grandfather, the late King Edward VII, but George IV, when each was Heir-Apparent. The close connection between Princes of Wales and Freemasonry goes, indeed, much farther back than either, for one of the earliest official publications of the Grand Lodge of England was dedicated in 1738 to Frederick Prince of Wales, eldest son of George II, "a Master Mason and Master of a Lodge," and a direct ancestor of our present Sovereign, George V.

NORTH SEA REMOIRS.
Regarding the rumours of naval encounters, which are abroad nearly every week just now, I may mention that many wagers have been laid to the effect that the German ships will come out and fight before the 22nd of March. The basis for the belief is an approaching sea fight in the reports from the Swedish shipping trade.

ST. DAVID'S DAY.
On March 1st London realized St. David's Day more thoroughly than any time since the Battle of Agincourt, after which the then Archbishop of Canterbury constituted St. David's Day a public holiday in the whole province of Canterbury. The result of the war has been to draw together Welshmen of all political views, and on the night of March 1st Lord Haldane, head of one of the Welsh Tory Houses, presided at a patriotic rally of Welshmen who are mainly Liberals and Nonconformists. Gentlemen:— I was taken ill during the attack, which I moved to my room, and became very weak. I was unable to walk across the floor. The pain was so severe that I could not get up.

LONDON GOSSIP.

LONDON, March 6th, 1916.
THE PRINCE OF WALES AND FREEMASONRY.

An absolute contradiction can be given to a report which has appeared in various shapes during the past two days to the effect that the Prince of Wales has been initiated into Freemasonry. The error is understood to have arisen from a misapprehension as to what young Royal Prince it was who not long ago became a member of the craft, Prince Arthur of Connaught, the only son of the Grand Master of English Freemasons, being the one who was meant. It would not be surprising if in the near future the Prince of Wales joined, following the example of not only his grandfather, the late King Edward VII, but George IV, when each was heir-apparent. The close connection between Princes of Wales and Freemasonry goes, indeed, much farther back than either for one of the earliest official publications of the Grand Lodge of England was dedicated in 1738 to Frederick, Prince of Wales, eldest son of George II, "a Master Mason and Master of a Lodge," and a direct ancestor of our present Sovereign.

AMERICA AND INDIAN TRADE.

A commercial development of which little is yet being heard here is in progress along the Pacific Coast of North America. Travellers are already engaged, with the co-operation of the American Consulates, in exploiting the possibilities of United States trade with India and the Far East. The argument is that additional ocean lines will be established, with their Eastern end based upon San Francisco and Vancouver, and their westernmost ports of call in the Suez Canal. In other words, they will seek to utilize the whole breadth of the territory that lies between Panama and Suez, and by avoiding the payment of canal dues at either end will reap an advantage in comparison with those liners which habitually traverse the one canal or the other. Even Seattle is looking for developments in the field of export, the hope of that northern outpost of the Pacific States being that it will stop the present utilisation by American manufacturers of Vancouver as a port of departure, and at the same time tap some Canadian trade at the expense of our own port. The number of bulk articles that can be handled in this way in competition with the Atlantic States and with European industrial centres is steadily growing.

NORTH SEA RUMOURS.

Regarding the rumours of naval encounters, which are abroad nearly every week just now, I may mention that many wagers have been laid in Sweden that the German ships will come out and fight before the 22nd of March. The basis for the belief in an approaching sea fight is the reports from the Swedish shipping trade.

ST. DAVID'S BAY.

On March 1st London realized St. David's Day more thoroughly than at any time since the Battle of Agincourt for which the then Archbishop of Canterbury constituted St. David's day a public holiday in the whole province of Canterbury. The result of the war has been to draw together Welshmen of all political views, and on the night of March 1st Lord Harlech, head of one of the Welsh Turf houses, presided at a patriotic rally of Welshmen who are mainly Liberals and Nonconformists. The great religious service held for so many years at St. Paul's was this year held at St. Bride's. The Welsh flag-day on the streets was a big success. A NEW WAR HISTORY.

Almost since the war began Sir Arthur Conan Doyle has been gathering material for a history of it. He has been successful in gathering a great deal of entirely fresh information of first-rate interest. Working on that, he is writing a history of the part the British army has played and is playing in the great struggle in France. He has completed so much of it that his narrative will begin to appear serially in April, and later it will be published in book form here and in America.

THE FUNERAL OF HENRY JAMES.

It was a rainy London afternoon, the smoke blowing over the wide river, and the stained old tower of Chelsea Parish Church stood without its shadow as the motor cars and carriages edged themselves down the narrow little street and the people thronged into the church. It was a crowd exclusive as his books. One would have said that it was too fashionable for a philosophical society gathering and too important for a fashionable event. The men were mostly elderly men, statesmen, men of affairs, diplomats, lawyers, artists, and men of letters. Among them were Lord Bryce, Lord Courtney, Rudyard Kipling, the American Ambassador, Mr. Birrell, Sir Arthur Pinero, Edmund Gosse, John Sargent, D. S. MacColl, Sir Frederick Pollock and Max Beerbohm. It was notable that more than half of the congregation were ladies, some of them "great ladies" of the world he knew so well. It was almost as though the people from his own books had come to his obsequies. The little church was very crowded. It was such a church, such a piece of Old England, as he especially liked. It is a place where Old England is much at home in the comfortable dust of her ages. From the chained Bible which still lies there Dr. Donne had preached, and Elizabeth Walton had listened to him, and under the curious timbered, barrel roof of the choir Sir Thomas Moore had sung as a chorister. The old walls are encrusted with memorial tablets to the height of the windows, and the monumental tombs of the dead crowd out the congregation of the living in the aisles. In all this a quiet, close mass of English life and history seemed to loom over and around his life like a leafy tree, and Henry James, that great analyst and lover of the fineness of England, had been brought here and laid at its foot for a last obeisance and good-bye.

50,000 More Anzacs.

A stirring appeal by the Australian Premier, Mr. Hughes, Australian Prime Minister, issued the following appeal (says Reuter) to Australia:—"To wage this war with less than our full strength is to commit national suicide by slowly bleeding to death. Had our forces been doubled many brave lives would have been spared. The Australian armies would long ago have been camping in Constantinople, and the world-war would have been practically over. The more men Australia sends to the front the less danger will be to each man. Not only victory but safety belongs to the 'big battalions.' We want more men: 50,000 additional troops are to be raised to form new units of the expeditionary force. 16,000 are required each month for reinforcements at the front. Australia—the freest and best country on God's earth—calls to her sons for aid."

All His Troubles From One Cause.

AND HE FOUND A CURE FOR ALL HIS DOBBS' KIDNEY PILLS. Benjamin Draper Tells Why He is Recommending Dodd's Kidney Pills to Every Man Who Has Kidney Trouble. Sedley, Sask., Mar. 31st. (Special.)—"I would not be without Dodd's Kidney Pills." These are the words of Mr. Benjamin Draper, an old and esteemed resident of this place. And Mr. Draper is always ready to tell just why he swears by the good old Canadian kidney remedy. "My trouble came from hard work when I was young," Mr. Draper says. "My joints got stiff, my muscles cramped, and I suffered terribly from a sore back. "I had a bitter taste in my mouth, especially in the morning, and I was depressed and low spirited. I was always thirsty and had flashes of light before my eyes. I had rheumatism and heart flutterings. My appetite was nifal, my memory was failing me, and I was troubled with shortness of breath. "I was in bad shape all round when I started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Four boxes of them made me a different man. I hope every man that has any trouble will use Dodd's Kidney Pills."

RED PAINT.

Red paint is picked as being as pretty as pickets; of rich red paint let the poets sing! Red paint is good for the rustic seats, and excellent for the garden swing. We put red paint on the barn a n d fence, and know full well it will hold them down; red paint is good—but there is no sense in using it on the sleeping town. Red paint is wholesome and safe and sane, I sing its worth on the stage and stump; it's a splendid thing for the weathervane, and as fine as silk for the cistern pump. It can be used when you'd decorate the stable roof or the kitchen floor; oh, put three coats on the wicket gate, and spread it thick on the henhouse door. It's earned the praises of tongue and pen it is far better than green or brown; it is a boon to the sons of men—but it's no good for the sleeping town.

Army Mascot's Exploit.

Men of the Army Service Corps stationed in a London suburb are chuckling over the latest exploit of "Joffre," their Great Dane mascot. The dog recently disappeared from the depot and many hours later an urgent telephone message was received from a recruiting office several miles away asking that someone should be sent to fetch the animal because he had taken possession of the office and refused to move. The company-sergeant-major, who has charge of the mascot, explained the animal's conduct with the remark: "I expect he wanted to get to the front."

Everyday Etiquette.

"Is it necessary to send a present when one has been invited to a church wedding and not the reception?" inquired Marie. "It is not necessary to send a gift unless you have been invited to the reception," said her mother.

GIN PILLS FOR THE KIDNEYS

Saved Hamilton Man's Life
Whole Country Amazed at Wonderful Cure of Mr. John Herman

573 St. James Street North Hamilton, Ont.

Gentlemen— I was taken down with Inflammation of the Bladder. During the attacks, which occurred more and more frequently, the agony was unbearable, and the doctors could do nothing to relieve or cure me. My wife sent for a box of GIN PILLS to try and see if they would help me. From the first that they did me good—the pain was relieved at once, and the attacks began to come at longer intervals. I continued taking the pills for six weeks, and then, to my surprise and delight, the stone I sent you came from me and my pain stopped. I have had no return of the trouble, and I have not lost a day's work on account of it since. There is not the slightest doubt that GIN PILLS saved my life. Yours gratefully, JOHN HERMAN

If you have pains in the back, suspect stone in the bladder, suffer from suppression or incontinence of the urine, or your hands and wrists and ankles are swelling, your kidneys require quite attention and you need GIN PILLS. If your dealer does not handle GIN PILLS do not take substitutes, but order direct from us, enclosing the regular full price—50c. for one box or $2.50 for six boxes. Money cheerfully refunded if GIN PILLS do not do all that we claim for them. Sample free if you mention this paper.

The Municipal Bill.

In addition to the sources of revenue mentioned in our review yesterday, there are set forth those which the Municipality receives from the Government. The Minister of Finance pays $8,000 a year towards the lighting and sanitation of the city, the city's share of the road grant, and the coal duties. The city pays the Exchequer the interest on past loans and on future loans obtained from the Colony. The city must also pay $13,000 a year towards the expenses of the Fire Department.

GENERAL EXPENDITURE.

The city is called upon to make an estimate of expenditure by January 31st for the year, to publish it, and has no power to exceed it except with the authority of the Governor in Council, unless there is a revenue available in excess of the appropriations.

In case of contracts or orders above $50, tenders shall be called for.

Provision is made for the appointment of a commission of three persons by the Governor in Council to investigate finances and administrative upon a petition by the Mayor, by the Council, or by ratepayers alleging there is need for it.

Sections 302. With the authorization of the Governor in Council, the Council may borrow for the acquisition of land or buildings for any lawful municipal purpose, for the construction of streets and sidewalks, for the extension and improvement of the water and sewerage systems, for the creation of bridges, and for any other purpose authorized by this Act.

Section 303.—The maximum length of time which money may be borrowed for land, buildings, water and sewerage extension, iron or masonry bridges, shall be forty years; for streets and sidewalks of tar macadam, ten years; of concrete, whitestone or granite blocks, thirty years.

Section 34.—All loans hereafter issued shall be payable in annual instalments so divided that an equal part of the principal shall fall due each year; or in such manner that the total payment for principal and interest shall be approximately the same for each year, and the first payment shall be due twelve months after the issue of the loan.

Story of a Pair of Socks

A little story entitled "Mary, of Sweet Apple Cove" and read at a recent session of the Ladies' Reading Room, has just been published in pamphlet form at the request of the W.P.A. The narrative shows how Mary received happiness out of a pair of socks she knitted and forwarded to soldiers at the front. The publication is interesting, dealing with the romance of the war and carries the reader from Sweet Apple Cove to Sur-la-Bay and is well worth perusal. The pamphlet is on sale at Gray & Goodland's and at the work room at Government House for ten cents, a copy, and we predict for it a ready sale.

Measles on Prospero

The Bowring coaster Prospero, which left here yesterday morning for western ports, put back this morning to land one of her crew who had contracted measles. The patient's name is Roland Courage, who was a steward on board. When the steamer reached Trepassey the man was examined by Dr. Giovanetti and pronounced to be suffering from measles and too ill to continue the voyage. It was ordered that he be landed for fear of further infection. This arrangement could not be carried out at Trepassey and it was decided to return here. On arrival the ship anchored on the quarantine ground and was visited by Dr. Campbell. The sick man was landed and removed to the fever hospital after which the work of fumigating the ship began. The Prospero will be ready to resume her voyage this afternoon. Steward Courage, it is thought by medical men, contracted the ailment on the St. W. coast as the malady is prevalent in Fortunate Bay.

"Heroes of Newfoundland."

On Wednesday, the 26th inst., during Easter week, Mr. Harry Shortis will lecture at St. Joseph's School Room, Hoylston. The theme of his discourse will be "Heroes of Newfoundland." It is unnecessary to mention that the lecture will be interesting and well worth listening to, suffice to say that Mr. Shortis's well-known devotion to Newfoundland research and has a thorough knowledge of the subject he is to deal with.

Amusements.

AT THE CRESCENT.

The Crescent Picture Palace was largely attended yesterday and last night and patrons thoroughly enjoyed the fine show presented. "The Kick Out," a Kickerbocker star feature in 3 parts, was splendidly produced by some of the best Broadway artists. "The Claim of Honor" is a splendid drama by the Biograph Company, whilst Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew provided plenty of comedy in "Mr. Blink and Bohemia." Patrons are reminded that to-day is the last chance to see this really fine show and all should attend.

DELIGHTFUL SHOW AT NICKEL THEATRE.

The Nickel Theatre presented a most attractive show last evening which delighted the large audiences. The pictures were all by well known artists and the acting and photography was all that could be desired. "The Sky Hunters" proved to be one of the prettiest stories ever shown at the Nickel. The "Welcome to Bohemia" was most attractive, the acting of Wally Van and Clasy Fitzgerald being perfect. The other subjects were exceptionally good. This evening the programme will be repeated and no doubt there will be large attendances, as there usually are on Saturday nights.

It is better to have special dishes for putting food away in the refrigerator.
A pleasing dessert is made by adding a few chopped walnuts to stewed apples and serving them with whipped cream.
Cakes will stick to a pan that is greased with butter. The salt and water in the butter causes the trouble. To avoid the sticking, melt the butter, allow it to cool and then grease the pans.
A good boiled pudding is started just like a rice pudding. After the rice is boiled soft add one or two eggs; some raisins and bread crumbs and cook in a double boiler for four hours.

ANOTHER ZEPPELIN RAID.

LONDON, To-day. Five Zeppelin airships raided the eastern counties of England last night, according to an official announcement just issued. Thus far it has been ascertained that about 50 bombs were dropped by the invaders.

BUDGET OF WAR NEWS.

NEW YORK, To-day. Having captured the village of Malincourt, the Germans have now shifted their offensive eastward to the sector around the famous Le Mort Homme. With heavy forces the Germans have attacked the French line between Hill 265 and Le mort Homme and succeeded in entering the French first line of trenches. Vigorous counter attacks by the French, however, almost immediately expelled the invaders. Another attack by the Germans delivered a little later, is declared by Paris to have been put down completely. The Germans have made no attempt to debauch from Malincourt since their occupation of the village. The heavy bombardment of the preceding days in the region north-west of Verdun have greatly slackened. There also has been only moderate activity by big guns north and east of the fortress. Paris reports the failure of a German infantry attack against the French to the south of Somme River near Compiere and the shelling by the French of German troops on the march on Argonne forest and the battering of German positions in the forest of Apremont. Violent artillery duels have been in progress between the Belgians and Germans in the region of Dinande. There has been a noticeable decrease of infantry fighting on the Russian front, probably owing to the soggy ground due to the spring thaw. Artillery on both sides, however, have been carrying out bombardments at various points from the region of Riga southward. Bad weather is also hampering fighting between the Austrians and Italians. A German torpedo boat or submarine has sunk in the Black Sea the Russian hospital ship Portugal, according to the French Official Press Bureau. The vessel is said to have had a large number of wounded men aboard.

REQUISITIONING FODDER.

LONDON, To-day. An Army Council notice issued last night says that all hay or oats or wheat straw threshed or unthreshed now standing on farm or other premises in bulk in Britain is requisitioned by the War Department. Farmers and stock dealers are authorized to use a normal quantity of straw for their live stock. The amount allotted for private consumption is to be restricted to the monthly average of the preceding three months.

CHIVO REFLOATED.

LONDON, To-day. A dispatch from Hong Kong to Reuters' Telegram Co., says the Chivo Maru was refloated after she stranded on one of the Lema Islands, and will be surveyed.

THE KING GREETS GENERAL TOWNSHEND.

LONDON, To-day. An official says the following message was despatched on March 14th by King George to General Townshend, in command of British troops at Kut of Amara: "I, together with all your fellow countrymen continue to follow with admiration the gallant fighting of the troops under your command against great odds. Every possible effort is being made to support your splendid resistance."

GERMAN SHIPPING MERGE.

HAMBURG, To-day. The ownership of the Woomann Line has passed into the hands of a syndicate, composed of Hugo Stinnes, North German Lloyd and Hamburg-American Line. The latest shipping records give Woomann a fleet of 42 vessels. Hugo Stinnes is the owner of a steamship line with headquarters at Hamburg.

RAIDED NORTH EAST COAST.

LONDON, To-day. The official statement regarding the raid, says the air raid took place last night over the eastern counties in which five Zeppelins are believed to have taken part. All the raiders crossed the coast at different places and times, and steered different courses. At present about 30 bombs are reported to have been dropped in various localities in the east counties. The result is not known. It is further reported that the hostile aircraft visited the northeast coast but no details has yet been received.

ENEMY ATTACK BROKE DOWN.

LONDON, To-day. A British official this morning says: Yesterday there was much aerial activity on both sides and a great deal of successful work was carried out by our airmen. Three of our machines are missing. On Thursday night the enemy exploded a mine near Neuville St. Vaast, and endeavored to attack by infantry, but was easily repulsed by our bombers. We exploded a very strong mine near Holzollern road, wrecking the hostile posts on two old craters. On Friday there was continued artillery activity north and south of Angres, south of Hulluch, north of Ploegsteert wood and about Pilkem, south of St. Eloi. The enemy attack on Friday morning broke down under our fire.

DENIES TORPEDOING SILIUS.

LONDON, To-day. Foreign Minister Von Jagow, of Germany, has notified Norway that the barque Silius was not sunk by a German submarine, says a despatch to Reuters' Telegram Company, from its Christiania correspondent.

ROME WELCOMES ASQUITH.

ROME, To-day. Premier Asquith, of England, arrived here to-day and was met at the station by Premier Salandra, Foreign Minister Sonnino and other members of the Cabinet, and the British Embassy staff. He was cheered loudly by crowds as he drove to the Ambascy. Among the spectators were several hundred British soldiers, passing through Rome. The British Premier was obliged to come out on the balcony and bow acknowledgments to the crowd. The press attaches great importance to Premier Asquith's visit, seeing in it further confirmation of the unchangeable decision of the Entente Allies to carry the war to a victorious conclusion.

STRIKES COLLAPSING.

LONDON, To-day. Last night there were excellent prospects for the collapse of both the Clyde and Liverpool strikes. The demonstrations by strikers, held in Glasgow yesterday afternoon, were boycotted and jeered by the populace. The day was made a sort of holiday, but so many strikers returned to work, that the conference which, Andrew Henderson, President of the Board of Education, and other Government representatives were to attend on Sunday afternoon, has been postponed and probably will be unnecessary. In Liverpool 3,000 strikers returned to work yesterday. It is expected the remainder of the men will resume work to-morrow, leaving the adjustment of their claims to be negotiated afterward.

GOVERNOR ASSASSINATED.

SAN FRANCISCO, To-day. A cablegram from Hong Kong received last night said the Governor of Canton province has been assassinated by the troops of that province who declared their independence of the Central Government.

ALL PASSENGERS SAVED.

TOKIO, To-day. Kabushiki Kaisha confirms the report that all passengers on board the steamer Chio Maru which grounded off Hong Kong on Friday morning during a fog were saved by a British warship. The vessel carried 229 passengers, mostly Americans, among whom was a party of Boston tourists.

EXPORTS TO AMERICA INCREASING.

LONDON, To-day. Robert P. Skinner, American Consul General in London, is authority for the statement that the total exports from London to American ports during the first three months of the year were $45,186,037. The exports during the corresponding period of last year were $32,262,700.

ITALIANS CAPTURE FORTIFICATIONS.

ROME, Mar. 31 (Via London, To-day). The following official statement was issued to-day by the War Department: In Duomo Valley during the encounter between small detachments of our troops and the Italian forces, our artillery dispersed a supply column marching from Calderanica toward Caldassasso. Our artillery has done some good work in the upper Cordovole against the barracks at the head of Salvaia Brook and in the upper Berte against enemy camps near Sompanses, northwest of Podestagno. On the sonzo front intermittent artillery actions were hampered by driving rain. Late advice regarding the success won by our troops at east of Sels emphasized the excellent work of the Aquila Brigade. On Monday this brigade by vigorous offensive operations took by assault about 150 metres of enemy fortifications. After repulsing violent counter attacks our soldiers resolved at any cost to take the whole fortifications, and they succeeded in doing this. On Wednesday afternoon, after three days of continuous conflict, they captured many prisoners and important booty.

ITALIAN DUKE DEAD.

ROME via Paris, To-day. The Duke of Avarna, who was Italian Ambassador to Austria-Hungary when Italy declared war on Austria, has died.

STEAMER ASHORE.

LONDON, To-day. The large British steamship Rangatar, from London to New Zealand, is ashore on Robben Island in a heavy fog and efforts are being made to get her off, says a Reuter despatch from Cape Town. The Rangatar is owned by Shaw, Seville and Albion Co. of Southampton. She is of 10,118 gross tons, is 478 feet long and 61 feet beam, and was built in 1910 at Belfast. Robben Island is an isle off the Cape of

ZEPPELIN BROUGHT DOWN.

It is reported that one of five Zeppelins which raided the eastern counties of England has been brought down by the British Royal Flying Corps. The approach of the raiders was first noticed about 8 o'clock last night. They arrived from different directions and took individual routes across the country. It is rumored that they were quickly forced by anti-aircraft guns to turn about although no formal warning was issued to the population. The usual signs of approaching air raids were manifested in London by the calling out of special constables, by the darkening of the streets and by the stopping of the train service above ground. Even omnibuses and street cars in many sections either discontinued service or ran in a limited way. Thousands of persons were unable to reach their homes and for the greater part of the night police stations were crowded with wayfarers seeking shelter. An exceptional feature of last night's raid was the fact that the weather was fine and clear, there was no moon, but stars were bright. Toward midnight a slight haze came on, but it was not sufficient to obscure the landscape from the view of the aviators or anti-aircraft gunners. It is believed as experts thought would oblige airships to keep at very high altitude if they hoped to escape detection. The hanging of precautionary measures in London worked more smoothly than ever before, showing that the machinery for the protection of the metropolis was in efficient shape. Small crowds in the streets watched the skies in a quiet expectant manner. At 8.30 p.m. one Zeppelin was reported seen over London travelling slowly at a great height, and a telegram from a correspondent in the north said that a Zeppelin was seen soon after 9 o'clock sailing in a northeasterly direction.

ZEPPELIN SURRENDERS.

LONDON, To-day. It is officially announced that one of the Zeppelins that raided the eastern counties last night came down off the Thames Estuary. On being approached by one of our patrol vessels she surrendered. The crew was taken off her and she was taken in tow, but she subsequently broke up and sank.

THE SINKING OF HOSPITAL SHIP.

PETROGRAD, via London, To-day. The sinking of the Russian hospital ship Portugal in the Black Sea is described in news from M. Golubonoff, Delegate General of the Red Cross at Petrograd, in the evening near Slatk, on board ship Portugal, which was sunk by an enemy submarine west of the island of Crete, a distance of 60 yards. After the second torpedo which struck the engine room of the hospital ship, the vessel was abandoned. The crew, including the French Commander Duvent, two doctors, one nurse, and 120 members of the Russian Medical corps, and 13 men of the French crew. The missing included: Count Taitshoff, Delegate of the Red Cross, a doctor, the senior Sister of Charity, Baroness Meyerdorff and 14 other Sisters of Charity, 50 men of the crew, and 25 members of the medical corps. The survivors were rescued by the British warship, the vessel carried 229 passengers, mostly Americans, among whom was a party of Boston tourists.

The Municipal Bill

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—In to-day's issue of your paper appears a letter from "Workington" in reference to the so-called City Charter. I think his idea a good one. First, let me point out an error in the title "The St. John's City Charter, 1916." This title alone would be sufficient reason for the King to veto the Bill. A charter is a document in which the King grants certain powers and privileges. When Parliament wishes to grant such it passes an Act of Incorporation, not a charter. In England charters were granted by the King before there was a Parliament. Magna Charta, or the Great Charter, was one of these. Among others were the charters whereby the City of London and other cities were given the right to choose Mayor and Aldermen, to levy rates, administer justice and generally rule themselves.

During the present century our Legislature passed a Bill to incorporate "The Chartered Accountants' Association," in reference to its being called a charter this Bill was vetoed by the King after the Governor had signed it. It had to be re-passed the following year with the title corrected. If the Legislature should pass the present proposed Bill with the title as it now stands, and this on a day when the King is on the throne, we might see the whole thing held up for another twelve months. Parliament may not grant a charter, though it can grant ever greater powers than can be given by charter; but it must do so by an Act of Incorporation. This is not quibbling. It would be safer and easier to alter the title now. There is at least one matter in which "Workington" is not interested. When you are making your promised comments on the proposed Bill, will you kindly explain how the permission given owners "to add or rent two-thirds of the city tax they are called upon to pay" affects the present law, and what difference it would make, at the present rates of taxation, in the amounts paid, respectively, by landlord, lessee and tenant.

Yours truly,
WARWICK SMITH.

Arithmetic, Not Magic.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"There was, I thought suddenly in one of those moments of bitter truth we tell ourselves, nothing in her face, nothing perhaps but discontent. I had been able to put nothing into it and I could draw nothing out." — Alice Brown.

I was talking with a farmer the other day about his apple trees. He has a wonderful orchard—the admiration and envy of the neighbourhood.

"What makes your trees do so wonderfully well?" I asked him. "Have you some magic formula?"

He fed His Trees Properly

His eyes twinkled. "My only formula," he said, "is to feed them properly. I give them the best mixture there is and they respond to it. The trouble with a good many of these farmers who talk about my 'luck' is they want to get something for nothing. I take out more because I put in more—that's my magic formula. And it's more like arithmetic than magic."

There are a great many of us in this world besides the farmers who want to get something for nothing.

It's that illogical hope that lies behind all the foolish speculating.

It is that that makes people the easy prey of get-rich-quick swindlers and fake advertisements.

And it's this same unreasoning hope that makes people expect to get a great deal more out of life than they put into it.

You can't get success in any business unless you put good hard work or special preparation into it.

They called it "His Luck" But it Wasn't Luck

I once knew a young man whose success in business was as striking as the farmer's with his apples. His schoolmates spoke of "his luck." Nothing made him more indignant, and with reason. He had spent tollsome evenings at the evening school improving his handwriting and his knowledge of business methods, he had painstakingly taught himself excellent manners and built up a pleasing personality, he had thrown his whole heart into the business. There was no luck in the fact that he took out more than they who put in less. It was arithmetic, not magic.

You cannot get social success out of life unless you put into it a cultivation of the social usages.

You cannot get character unless you put in patient, painful strivings toward worth while ideals.

You cannot get Real Friendship unless you give Real Friendship.

You cannot get real friendship unless you give real friendship. "The only way to have a friend is to be one." Don't think to cheat by giving artificial, surface, self-seeking friendship, for in the end that is what you will get in return.

Sometimes we do not seem to take out as much as we put in, and again we seem to be taking out more than we have put in, and congratulate ourselves that we have cheated the balances.

But it is not so. Things will even themselves up eventually in one way or another. We may receive more love than we give yet be the ultimate losers because we lose in the capacity for loving. The compensations of life are more delicately adjusted than we with our crude perceptions can ever know.

At the House.

FRIDAY, March 31, 1916.

Mr. Stone asked that the extension of the railroad on the south side of Trinity Bay be considered. The matter was referred to the Colonial Secretary's Department.

The Colonial Secretary tabled the annual report of the Agricultural Board; the Hospital returns and the Postmaster General's report.

Mr. Abbott asked for a mail service between Plate Cove and Tickle Cove.

Mr. Lloyd asked the Finance Minister for a copy of the Bank of Montreal statement showing the various accounts of the Government on March 31st, 1916.

Mr. Coaker asked for information concerning amounts paid by the Government to the Reid Nfld. Co. and Nfld. Produce Co.

The Prime Minister gave notice to introduce several Bills.

The House went into Committee on Supply and discussion on the Estimates was continued.

Mr. Lloyd asked for the report of the Postal Telegraph enquiry and was informed by the Colonial Secretary that the Commissioner was ill and was unable to say definitely when the report would be ready, suggested that the vote for that department be left stand over until such time as it was ready.

Mr. Jennings noticed cases in which the figures given in the Estimates did not correspond with the amounts in the regular public accounts. The amount paid for couriers for 1915 was $64,677 as shown in the public accounts, against $59,879 in the Estimates, a difference of $4,798. These figures were continued for 1916 and 1917 and he asked for an explanation.

One instance he cited was at Farmer's Arm where $68 was in the Estimates for the courier and $140 given in the public accounts.

The Finance Minister said he had no explanation to offer and would have the matter "enquired into."

Mr. Lloyd asked what was the arrangement and if any correspondence thereto between the Reid Nfld. Co. and the Government with reference to the taking of the Cabot Strait service the steamers Bruce and Lintrose.

The Finance Minister said permission was given to sell these ships. Arrangements were made for a special steamer to bring freight from Sydney to St. John's. He did not know of any other arrangement.

The Prime Minister said there was correspondence about the matter and he would have it tabled.

Mr. Clapp asked what boat was going to ply between Bay of Islands and Labrador this summer. He was promised an answer by the Prime Minister in a day or two.

Mr. Lloyd asked if there was any proposed change in relation to the mail service in Trinity Bay; also what was the reason the Bay de Verde branch railway, completed two years ago, had not been opened.

The Colonial Secretary said the line was not ready for operation.

Mr. Lloyd asked what was done in reference to clearance of shipping after 3 or 4 o'clock in the day after the Custom House closed.

The Minister of Finance said that it was customary for a vessel when ready to clear to give notice and the official attended.

Custom House and which should be filled if amounts were to be voted for them. He said it was the duty of the House to see that they were filled. He also referred to the vacancies at the Supreme and District Courts and insisted that something definite should be known about these appointments.

The Finance Minister gave it as his opinion that they could get along without making the Customs appointments and that ended it.

The Leader of the Opposition (Mr. Lloyd) said that it was due to the House to know about the Government's intentions as to filling these vacancies. He commented on the lengthy delay in connection with the filling of the Court vacancies.

The Prime Minister said he appreciated the position. He assured the House that at a very early date the positions at the Courts would be filled, but so far there were no applications for either appointment.

Mr. Halfyard asked the Finance Minister if it was true that he had lent one of his officials to the Reid Nfld. Co. for a month and if such was the case he considered it very irregular.

The Finance Minister replied yes, but he saw nothing irregular about it.

Mr. Coaker ironically remarked that it was the first time he had heard the Custom House was an employment bureau. He believed it undignified for the Minister of Finance and Customs to lend officials from his department and vigorously protested against any individual or private concern taking officials from the Custom House for their convenience. He referred to Capt. Marshall being lent to the Nfld. Produce Co. and Capt. Snow to the Reid Nfld. Co.

The Finance Minister did not consider it improper. When two captains were needed, Messrs. Marshall and Snow were the only men procurable in the city with master's certificates. Under similar circumstances, he said, he would do the same again while he was in charge of the department and was not going to listen to be dictated to either.

Mr. Coaker repeated that it was improper and unfair to the House which was the master of the Finance Minister and the Government. He added that it was not within the province of the Opposition to dictate to the Minister but it certainly had right to criticize.

Mr. Clapp asked as to whether there was a Tidewater acting at Baie Verte, but got an unintelligible answer from the Finance Minister.

Mr. Lloyd referred to the duty on coal which was handicapping our industries. He impressed upon the Government the desirability of removing these duties as the principle of the tax was wrong. It handicapped manufacture. Coal he said was an exceedingly costly article in Newfoundland. He never agreed with the policy of taxation on coal.

The Prime Minister said the question of coal taxes was wholly a matter for the Municipal Council as it was one of their main sources of income. Last year the amount of coal taxes collected was $70,000 which he doubted could be done without at present, though he would lay the matter before the Commissioners for consideration. He agreed with the Leader of the Opposition that coal duty was a handicap on industries where coal was the motor power.

Mr. Lloyd suggested that the matter be dealt with immediately when the city Council meets the Government as the City Charter might perhaps perpetuate the old system for an indefinite period. The coal taxes, he continued, was largely a means of taxing heavily the poorest people in the community and in addition to that it was a handicap to industries, it was a hardship on the whole community. He showed how all the biggest manufacturing establishments throughout Great Britain owe their existence to the fact that they could get cheap coal and it was essential to get coal here at the cheapest possible price.

Mr. Coaker referred to large amounts of money owed to the Government by individuals on bonds and the Crown Lands Office for licenses to hold properties on the Labrador and asked if any effort was made to collect these amounts. He specially dwelt on the $20,000 due the Colony the past three years on bonds in connection with the failure of the Smythe business. He suggested that those who signed the bonds be made pony up if there was nothing in Smythe's estate.

The Finance Minister said the matters referred to by Mr. Coaker were in the hands of the Attorney General.

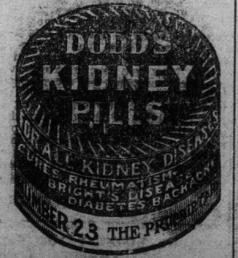

Mr. Lloyd again emphasized the necessity of enlarging the contingencies vote in accordance with the suggestions of the Attorney General as it is always largely overdrawn.

The Educational Consolidation Bill was then discussed in Committee and passed with the exception of a few clauses held over for enquiry at the instance of Mr. Lloyd.

The Statutes Consolidation Bill was deferred owing to the removal of certain sections at the suggestion of Mr. Lloyd.

The Bill relating to passenger accommodation on steamers, etc., was read a second time. The object of the Bill is to regulate the carrying of passengers by motor boats. The House then adjourned till Monday afternoon.

"GOOD CLOTHES."

We all like to wear what we call "Good Clothes." Now good clothes are costly—not dear—but they become dear if they have to be discarded practically unworn. The French Dry Cleaning Process meets the difficulty. We can afford to buy the best and most beautiful fabrics without being extravagant, because of their quality we can rely on being able to have them restored by this process to their original beauty quite often enough to enable them to be eventually discarded without a lament.

TO JOIN THE COLORS ON MAY 5.

LONDON, March 31. Nine groups of married men, who attested for service under the Derby plan, are to join the colors on May 5th. The groups concerned are numbers 33 to 41, consisting of men from 27 to 35 years of age. It is the calling out of these men before all eligible single men have joined the army, that has caused so much agitation throughout the country. In consequence of this feeling, the earlier summons issued to these men was cancelled.

LIVES LOST DURING BLIZZARD.

LONDON, March 31. During the blizzard on Tuesday night last, between forty and forty-five bluejackets belonging to the British light cruiser Conquest, lost their lives while attempting to return to their ship. The men were being towed out in a large cutter, when a hawser broke. The cutter drifted away, and presumably capsized.

GERMANS DELIVER FIERCE ATTACK ON MALANCOURT.

PARIS, March 31. The Germans delivered a fierce night attack on three sides of the village of Malancourt, says a French official statement, issued to-day, and the French retired from the village proper, which was in ruins, but continue to hold its outskirts. Fierce infantry fighting lasted for the entire night before the French withdrew from the untenable position in the village of Malancourt. The Germans tried again to carry by assault the position which the French had won back in Avocourt wood, but they were repulsed. East of the Meuse the night was calm.

MINISTER OF FINANCE RIBOT IN THE SENATE.

PARIS, March 31. "We are neglecting no means of overcoming the difficulties which lie in the way, and we shall overcome them, because we have the inflexible will to do so," said Alexander Ribot, Minister of Finance, in speaking in the Senate yesterday, in favor of votes of credit for the second quarter of 1916, already approved by the Chamber of Deputies. "At the conference of the Allies which has just been held here," the Minister continued, "the fullest confidence was expressed by all that victory is certain. We shall arrive at a peace which will restore right and justice, and will deliver the world from a nightmare which too long has burdened it." The credits were passed by the unanimous vote of the Senate.

ACTION AT ST. ELOI DESCRIBED.

LONDON, March 31. A correspondent of the Daily Mail at the British Headquarters in France describes the action at St. Eloi on March 27th, as having been more important than is superficially apparent. A valuable position was gained, he said, consisting of rising ground which overlooked the British communication trenches. The British loss was small, and the German loss was very heavy, the latter's being due mainly to artillery and bomb-throwing. It is a remarkable fact that during the whole of the fight not a single aeroplane was allowed to approach. The correspondent writes enthusiastically of the dash and individual zest of the men. "The men complained," he said, "that the Germans, in some positions, would not half fight, but surrendered too soon." Nevertheless, there was much hard fighting. Some of the German bombers held their ground well for hours, and the German artillery was good. The correspondent records several incidents of the fighting. In one of these a section of the British advancing was critically menaced by a German machine gun. A British subaltern and one soldier rushed forward, and attacked with bombs, wrecking the gun and killing the gunners. At another point of the fighting two men were astray in a German diagonal trench, which was almost unoccupied, but which led them far back into one of the principal communicating trenches, where they met a number of Germans. One of the British officers threw bombs, while the other fired his revolver over the former's shoulder. A majority of the Germans ran back, a few surrendered, and the trenches were cleared. Only one Briton was wounded. At another point an officer found two Northumberland Fusiliers, their rifles thrown on the ground, stammering for possession of a German prisoner whom both claimed. The prisoner was watching with amazement.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

PARIS, March 31. In the Argonne district we have repulsed two attacks with hand grenades directed against our positions to the north of Avocourt. To the west of the River Meuse, the bombardment of Malancourt has gone on with redoubled violence. Last night the Germans delivered a series of attacks in massed formation. They advanced from three sides at a time upon the village, which formed the advanced salient of our line, and which sheltered one of our battalions. After furious fighting all night long, which entailed considerable sacrifices on the part of the enemy, our troops evacuated the ruined village, but we still hold all the outskirts. To the east of the River Meuse the night passed quietly. In the Woivre district the Germans endeavored on three separate occasions to capture from us the works to the east of Haudromont, but all their advances were repulsed. There has been no occurrence of importance on the remainder of the front.

FIRE IN POWDER FACTORY.

LONDON, March 31. A Reuter despatch filed at Olden Zael, Holland, on Wednesday, says that many persons lost their lives in a fire in a powder factory at Troisdorf near Cologne.

ADMIRALTY DENIAL.

LONDON, March 31. The attempt to fix responsibility for the sinking of the Dutch steamer Tubantia, led to another official statement to-day concerning the controversy between Berlin and London. The British Admiralty denied that fragments of metal found in the Tubantia's lifeboats could have been parts of a British torpedo.

REQUEST FOR INFORMATION.

BERLIN, March 31. James Gerard, American Ambassador, has presented the Foreign Office a request for information as to whether any German submarine had torpedoed the cross-Channel steamer Sussex, or the British horse ship Englehorn. The answer, according to the Overseas News Agency, will be delayed for some time, in order to allow the naval authorities to make necessary investigations.

EVIDENCE DISCUSSED.

WASHINGTON, March 31. President Wilson and the Cabinet to-day discussed the evidence thus far received by the State Department, in the cases of the recent disasters to merchant ships carrying American citizens. In the absence of conclusive proof of submarine attacks, no action was taken.

HOSPITAL SHIP SUNK.

PARIS, March 31. The hospital ship Portugal has been sunk in the Black Sea, by a German torpedo boat or submarine, with a large number of wounded aboard, according to an announcement by the Official Press Bureau to-night. It is said that the Portugal had Red Cross signs conspicuously displayed.

HUN PRISONERS.

BERLIN, March 31. A representative of the Government outlined in the Reichstag to-day as regards German prisoners of war, that in Russia and Japan the activities of a delegation representing Red Cross Commissions of neutral countries, had resulted in greatly improving the conditions for prisoners. He voiced appreciation of the important services thus rendered. As regards conditions in England, the situation of war prisoners was not unfavorable, the Reichstag was told; while in France conditions were rather the reverse, in many cases, there being complaints of insufficient food supplies in several places where prisoners were kept.

CREW OF DUTCHMAN ON STRIKE.

NEW YORK, March 31. The crew of the Holland-American liner Ryman, which was injured by a mine when she started from here last (trip has gone on strike, delaying the sailing of the steamer from Rotterdam, according to cable advices received at the company's offices here to-day. The ship had been undergoing repairs at Rotterdam and was to have sailed last Wednesday.

INVASION OF U.S. DISCUSSED.

WASHINGTON, March 31. While the army increase bill was under consideration in the Senate to-day, Senator Thomas of Colorado, discussed the insistence of militarists that the United States is in danger of invasion. No such invasion, he contended, was to be feared from Italy, Austria, Russia or France. "Is it England or Germany?" he was asked. Not England, even. Roosevelt says we need not fear England. Every man, if he will admit it, when he thinks of invasion of the States, pictures in his imagination the advancing helmets of Germany's soldiers. Germany is the only nation that possibly could land an army of 750,000 trained troops on our shores, so when invasion of the U. S. is mentioned by militarists, Germany is the one nation that they have in mind. The Senator said he did not wish to be understood as entertaining any such fears himself, but he thought if there was any such danger it would be greater after the European War was over, when Germany's surviving soldiers, he said, would form the most compact and best equipped fighting force ever known.

GERMAN STOWAWAY TAKEN TO NEW YORK.

LEWIS, Del., March 31. Ernest Schiller, the German stowaway, was taken from jail here to-night by detectives and hurried across country to Garrington in an automobile. From there, it was said, he would be taken by train to New York. Detectives said they had received information that attempts would be made to rescue Schiller, and with consent of the local authorities they decided to take him to New York.

VILLA ESCAPES WOUNDED.

EL PASO, Tex., March 31. Four hundred American cavalrymen, under command of Colonel Dodd galloping down from the granite slopes of the great continental divide, have fallen on the main body of Francisco Villa's bandits at San Geronimo ranch, scattering them in many directions and driving the bandit chief, wounded and crippled, to seek a hiding place in the mountains. Villa was hurried from danger in a carriage. The fight opened at six o'clock on the evening of March 29th, and lasted several hours. Colonel Dodd, with picked troops of the Seventh and Tenth Cavalry, fell upon the unsuspecting Villa camp, where 500 bandits had effected a massacre of 17 Carranza soldiers two days previously at Guerrero. Villa, shot through the leg, with one hip shattered, hurried from the scene barely in time to escape the onslaught of the Americans, and the bandits made a brief but fruitless stand before Colonel Dodd and his troopers. They broke and fled, leaving 31 men killed on the field, including Commander General Hernandez. Two machine guns, and a number of horses, rifles, ammunition and equipment fell into the hands of the Americans.

SALONIKA.

ATHENS, March 31. "I do not believe the Austro-Germans seriously intend attacking Salonika," said an Entente General to an Associated Press correspondent to-day. "They have an excellent intelligence service in Macedonia and are fully aware of the great strength of our positions. I do not think they will throw away men needlessly by trying to take it, especially after their Verdun experience. In respect to a possible offensive by the Entente Allies it is impossible to say anything. I believe Salonika to be absolutely impregnable."

GROUNDING IN A FOG.

SHANGHAI, March 31. The big trans-Pacific passenger steamer Chyo Maru grounded in a fog at 4:25 this a.m., on one of the Loois Islands, south of Hong Kong. Nine tug boats, and launches from a British destroyer have gone to her assistance.

AURORA GETTING TOWARDS SNARES ISLAND.

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Via London, March 31. A wireless despatch just received from the Aurora, says: "We are getting towards Snares Island, under the influence of wind and sea. We are unable to manoeuvre the ship owing to damage to the jury rudder. The authorities are sending a tug to the assistance of the Aurora. Snares Island lies in the South Pacific Ocean, south of New Zealand's easternmost point, being in latitude 48 degrees south, longitude 66.3 east. A wireless despatch from the Aurora, auxiliary ship of the Shackleton Antarctic Expedition, dated March 30th, reported the vessel 250 miles southwest of Port Chalmers.

PARCEL POST PARTIALLY DESTROYED.

NEW YORK, March 31. Fire which broke out in the main room of the Holland-American Line steamship Veendyke, while the ship was lying in the Downs on March 14, partially destroyed and damaged 59 bags of parcel post destined for Canada and Japan. This was learned to-day from officers of the ship, which arrived here late yesterday from Rotterdam.

HENRY BLAIR'S

LIGHT, HEAT, COMFORT!

The proprietor of one of the best known multiple shopping systems is credited with saying, "Give me any old shop, in any old street, and I'll guarantee to make it in twelve months the most widely known and best frequented shop in the district." He was asked to explain. Holding up three fingers he said, "I believe in the trinity of LIGHT, WARMTH, COMFORT. I should dazzle the moths until the candle drew them, I should bring them into a warm, comfortable shop, filled with a soft, pleasing radiance, and the rest is—well, mere child's play."

Mixed metaphors, perhaps, but expressive. Now we can more than imagine the kind of shop this well-known individual would open, for we pass it in almost every town—always a landmark to the street. No one fails to notice it. There is an indefinable air of welcome and invitation as one stands for a moment on the pathway and lets one's gaze travel inside it. The subdued, restful lighting effect, that so charms because of its very unobtrusiveness, the absence of dark corners, the intangible feeling that if one would step inside one would be sure of experiencing a delicious sense of warmth and comfort and cheerfulness—all these are part of its appeal. Truly a shop with an individuality.

We cordially invite all progressive business men to visit our showroom and see our latest Lighting and Heating Appliances, by the adoption of which the ideal outline in the above extract from a London paper may be easily secured. Our new RADIO X-Lamp and GASTREAM Radiators fill all light and heat requirements.

Moran Stayed the Limit.

Willard Was Never in Danger, Experts Unanimous in His Favor—Champion Suffered Slight Fracture of Finger Joint in Third Round.

New York March 25.—Jess Willard, champion heavyweight of the world, easily outpointed Frank Moran in a ten round bout here tonight. Willard had the better on points in every round; except the third, which went to Moran by a narrow margin, and the eighth, and ninth, which were even. The conqueror of Jack Johnson claimed to have broken all the bones in the back of his right hand during a smashing rally in the third, and it was noticeable that he did not use his right to any extent in the later rounds. Occasionally he appeared to Moran's body or jaw with that hand, but it lacked the punishing power shown in his training work.

The chief feature of Moran's battle with Willard was his gameness. Although he could make no impression on Willard with his hardest swings, he fought steadily and courageously under a fusillade of left jabs and hooks which battered his face and almost closed his left eye toward the end of the bout. Several times Moran was dazed by the champion's smashes, but Willard, fighting with his usual lack of aggressiveness, did not appear to try particularly for a knockout. The champion never was in danger from Moran's blows, although a number landed with crashing force on his jaw and body. Most of them, however, either were blocked or avoided by the Kansas cowboy.

An Amazing Cure For Neuralgia Magical Relief For Headache

The Most Effective Remedy Known is "Nerviline."

The reason Nerviline is infallibly a remedy for neuralgia resides in two very remarkable properties Nerviline possesses.

The first is its wonderful power of penetrating deeply into the tissue which enables it to reach the very source of congestion.

Nerviline possesses another and not less important action—it equalizes the circulation in the painful parts, and who took full advantage of his great height and extraordinary reach.

The Fight by Rounds.

Round One—Willard jabbed Moran in the face with a left, and the latter retaliated with three blows to the body which Willard blocked. Moran hooked a left to Willard's jaw and took three lefts to the face in return. Moran swung right and left to Willard's neck and received a hard right in the body. Moran missed a right and went into a clinch, and Willard tore loose and landed a right and left to the head. Willard smashed him a terrific left in the face, dazing the challenger. Moran swung wildly with right and left, but Willard laughed as he blocked carefully. Willard's round.

Round Two—Willard took the aggressive, Moran coming back, the pair exchanging blow for blow. Moran broke and backed away. Willard followed Moran slowly around the ring and drove a right hook to Moran's eye, and battered him in the body. Moran was helpless against Willard in the clinches. The champion staggered Moran with a left to the face as the bell rang. Willard's round.

Round Four—Willard jabbed Moran in the face with two lefts, uppercut Moran in the body with a right and a left. Moran hooked left to the body and left to Willard's jaw. Willard kept jabbing Moran with his long thus affords a sure barrier to the re-establishment of congestion.

You see the relief you get from Nerviline is permanent.

It doesn't matter whether the cause is spasms, congestion, external or internal; if it is pain—equally with its curative action upon neuralgia—Nerviline will relieve and quickly cure rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, strains, swellings or enlarged joints, and all other muscular aches.

Nerviline is a guaranteed remedy. Get the large 50 cent family size bottle; it is far more economical than the 25 cent trial size.

Round Seven—Willard started after Moran like a wild man, and beat him all over the ring. Under the fusillade of blows Moran was helpless, clinging to Willard blindly as the blood poured down his chest. Willard fought coolly, picking his openings. White warned Moran against fouling. Moran swung wildly, and catching Willard on the jaw dazed him for a moment. The pair were fighting like wild men at the bell. Willard's round.

Round Eight—Willard kept jabbing Moran in the face with his left and the latter was bleeding from a number of cuts. Moran swung two rights to Willard's jaw and the champion appeared winded as he went to his corner. Honors even in this round.

Round Nine—Moran rushed from his corner, landing right and left on Willard's neck. Willard used his left steadily. Moran scored two swings to the jaw and repeated. Willard jabbed again and hooked a right to Moran's ribs. A left uppercut lifted the challenger off his feet. Moran swung to the jaw and Willard uppercut. They were clinched at the bell. Even round.

Unanimous for Willard.

The awarding of the bout to Willard on points was virtually unanimous among the experts about the ring-side, although a few gave Moran credit for his gameness and continual efforts to land a punch on the champion that would bring down his gigantic opponent.

Promoter Tex Rickard announced that the gate receipts amounted to $151,254. Of this amount the State received seven and a half per cent. of the gross receipts, which amounted to $11,344.05. Willard's share was $47,500, and Moran's, $23,750.

Combined with the percentage taken by the State and the $7,005 paid for the rental of the Garden, the expenses totaled $90,094.05. To this must be added other expenses, which probably will bring the total up to about $100,000, so that Tex Rickard and his partner in the enterprise, Sam McTracken, will clear close to $50,000 on the bout.

H. J. B. WOODS, P.M.G.

Household Notes

When you find a brand of flour that is good, it is better to stick to it, because you are familiar with it and know its qualities.

Do not carry the heavy winter diet into the spring. The family craves and needs green things, when the cold winds stop blowing.

Black walnut furniture or any furniture made of dark wood should be rubbed frequently with a soft rag dipped in paraffine oil, then polished with another soft rag.

To draw threads for hemstitching wet a small brush, draw it over the cake of soap until a lather is produced, then lightly scrub the threads, you wish to draw.

Raisins are a good food and when added to a plain diet make it interesting and at the same time nourishing. Brown bread, for instance, is delicious if raisins are added.

After boiling a ham set the water away to cool. When it is cool skim off the fat that hardens on the top. This fat is very good for frying purposes.

If you are going to brown the potatoes under the roast, it is better to parboil them first. If this is done the potatoes will not have such a hard shell.

A CHARMING MODEL.

Waist 1641—Skirt 1640. Comprising Ladies' Waist Pattern 1641 and Ladies' Skirt Pattern 1640. As here shown blue batiste embroidered in white was used. The style would be lovely for embroidered lawn, crepe or voile, for silk and lace combined, or for plain and figured material. The waist pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. The skirt pattern is also cut in 6 sizes: 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 inches waist measure. It would require 9 1/2 yards of 44-inch material to make the entire dress for a 36-inch size. The skirt measures about 3 1/2 yards at the lower edge. This illustration calls for TWO separate patterns which will be mailed to any address on receipt of ten cents FOR EACH pattern, in silver or stamps.

1639—A DAIRY DRESS FOR PARTY OR BEST WEAR.

Blue batiste embroidered with white dots is here illustrated. The model is exceedingly becoming and effective. The waist portions are in Empire style, with the skirt portions gathered or plaited. This bolero is shaped in attractive outline. The sleeves may be in wrist length, finished with a band cuff, or in shaped kimono style at elbow length. For low neck effect, the waist could be cut out on a line with the bolero. The Pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. Size 6 requires 3 1/2 yards of 44 inch material, with 1/2 yard of 27-inch material for the bolero and collar. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cts. in silver or stamps.

THE THOUGHTS OF THEOBALD.

THE NEW LEADER.

Dr. Lloyd is undoubtedly the strong mind of the House of Assembly today. Not one discordant note in regard to his ability has yet appeared. He offends only in being "an indifferent politician." I am glad of it. In so much does his pathway lie towards being a statement. Statesmen are not politicians in the narrow, cute meaning that we give the word "politician" here. So it is the herald of a new day in the history of our country when we have at last a party led by a man who has no reputation as a "politician." Dr. Lloyd is not spectacular. He is not sensational. But when action is needed, he has sound advice at once to offer and does so without any indirectness or hesitancy. His editorials have more than once shaped the present Government's actions, and made them move more warily than they otherwise would have done. The Liberal-Union Party is a strong combination and it has secured a strong man as its leader; one whose views are broad, yet not too broad; one whose independence of character is bulwarked by honest and honourable endeavour. We must all hope that when the opportunity comes Dr. Lloyd will show how a Government can be run in the direct interest of the people.

THE PLAIND DEALER'S ERROR.

The Plaindealer has retracted and made due apologies for its reference to me in its issue of two weeks ago, which I hereby accept.

THE NEW CHARTER.

As the Government have decided to take the public into their confidence before the New Charter is dealt with in the House, it becomes the duty of every citizen to look after his own business and be present at the public meeting. If everyone of us did so, there would be no hall large enough to contain the crowd.

I should think that, perhaps before this meeting, and certainly at the meeting, there would be a printed outline of the Charter, showing its principal provisions. No doubt the principal speakers at the meeting will be some of the Commissioners who will explain the general tenor of the Bill. At any rate, even if the two or three hours of this meeting are insufficient to settle the matter, the public will have an opportunity of commenting on it, and asking for a plebiscite if they think it is necessary. The main thing is to get all the citizens interested. Not alone property owners, but also those who occupy dwellings and provide the rent for the landlord. Everyone who burns a bit of coal is a taxpayer. The City is our big business and we are all shareholders and partners in it. Let it be shown that the proverbial apathy has changed into an active interest. We citizens may not have a "say" in the business by which we get a living, but in the City's business you have a "say."

Have we any slums? Any unsanitary or unsuitable houses? We are responsible. Are our streets dirty and ill-kept? We are responsible. There is work to be done, therefore use your opportunities to further the welfare of the City, a welfare that embraces the man in a back street, with no conveniences of water and sewerage, as well as the man who gives his employment, a welfare that knows no distinctions, and treats every man alike.

THE NEW CHARTER.

I had written the above, not expecting so soon to have the actual Charter in my hands this week. And while it is impossible to fully digest its sections at one or two sittings, yet I should like to give some impressions that I have gathered from a first reading.

Left Arm Became Powerless Saved From Paralytic Stroke

By the Timely Use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food—Has Built Up Nervous System

Paralysis is not a pleasant thing to contemplate. Even nervous prostration and locomotor ataxia are among the most dreaded conditions. It is always better to avoid these results of neglected nervous troubles by keeping the nerves in health and vigor. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done wonders for people suffering from the more severe forms of nervous diseases, but we prefer to recommend it as a means of preventing such conditions. This letter from Mrs. Nichols well represents what we mean, for she was undoubtedly on the verge of more serious trouble when she heard of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and sought its aid. It is best to be warned by nervous headaches, sleeplessness, nervousness and irritability and to apply the remedy in time. Mrs. Merritt Nichols, R. R. No. 3, Dundalk, Ont., writes: "I take pleasure in writing to tell you the great benefit I have derived from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I was so nervous I could not sleep and found it hard to get my work done at all, but having no help at the time, had to do the best I could. Finally my left arm became powerless and cold and this continued to get worse until my whole side was affected, head and all. I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and the first box helped me so much that I used several and believe that this treatment saved me from having a paralytic stroke. It has built me up wonderfully, and I can recommend it most heartily, believing that there would be much less sickness. There is no lack of evidence as to the great work of restoration being carried on by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. The sales of this great nerve tonic are rapidly increasing, as its virtues are being found out. But this will not help you unless you put it to the test in your own particular case. It is well worth trying and will not disappoint you. Fifty cents a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

ing. It is contained in a hundred pages, so that I can easily understand how impossible it was to have it published in the daily press. It undoubtedly has occupied much time and meant much research for the Commissioners. It represents their ideas, but I am sorry that they have not proceeded upon the lines which are followed in other countries and which would have meant a satisfactory Charter. In other cities, the framers of a New Charter call in the advice of many committees, drawn from the ranks of clergymen, doctors, workmen, lawyers, business men, employers of labour, teachers, not forgetting the ladies, and thus seeking the views of all classes are able to frame a Charter that embodies the interests of all people. This, to my mind, was the initial mistake of the Commission. There are many excellent provisions in the Charter. I am very, very glad to find that the waters at Mobile are to be used to provide electric power and light for the City. I have mentioned it before, and I hope that the work will start without delay. It ought to mean cheaper light for street lighting and for household uses. Municipal electric plants elsewhere are able to supply light at 3 cents a kilowatt hour. If we can do it even at twice that amount it will be preferable to paying as we do now, 15 cents per kilowatt. Hail to the Municipal Electric Plant! Another wise provision is the inspection of school-children's teeth and examination of eye, ear, nose and throat. The Public Library is a good move. And doubtless there are other excellent provisions that do not occur to me at the moment. But of course the main business now is to find the weak points of the Charter, and the Commissioners should understand that such criticism is necessary, and I trust that they will be willing to take any ideas that are good and use them. First I should like to point out to the citizens that in the incorporation of the City of St. John's, the inhabitants of the City constitute the body politic and corporate. That means, I take it, that every man and woman here is a shareholder in this Big Company. Let us then take an interest in our business. The first objectionable feature appears in the qualifications of a voter at Municipal elections. Those who are indebted to the Council for arrears of taxes cannot vote. Now I understand fully what trouble there is in collecting taxes from some individuals, but surely the rule can be made a little lighter—say those who are in arrears for two years cannot vote. A man may get out of work and be in bad circumstances for a while. If he has a bit of money he naturally will want to buy food before thinking of taxes. Surely the law is too drastic if it disfranchises a man in these circumstances. Besides, further on in the Act, an automatic arrangement is made whereby when taxes are in arrears, the bailiff comes in and seizes a man's household goods. This rule of course does not come into effect at this summer's election. Another questionable feature is the plural voting which is introduced by this Charter, by which incorporated companies are entitled to vote. This gives a man who is heavily interested in many companies so many votes more than his less rich neighbour. I think that should be eliminated from the Charter. Let it be one man, one vote. Section 24 says that the Mayor and Councilors shall perform their duties without pay or remuneration of any description. This is altered as far as the Mayor is concerned by a later section which allows him to receive payment when on arbitrations on behalf of the Council. Now it is praiseworthy to work for the City's interest without pay, not even the "beggary $150.00" that Mr. Gosling

Girls.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Swash."

This essay will treat of girls before they have put down their dolls, and put up their hair, and have become haughty young princesses who prefer men to sidewalks for walking purposes.

Little girls are not as exciting as little boys, nor as fatal to furniture or cats. A little girl with two pig-tails and her dresses still ending at her knees is nicer to have around the house than a pianola. Compared with a little boy a little girl is a wasteful statue in the midst of a riot, or an evening hymn in an early Kansas cyclone.

Little girls are not as exciting as eyes, or start bonfires in the attic, or let the wind out of stray automobiles, or pour water in the graphophone, or put frogs in the bread box, or fall off the porch roof and dent the nice new cement walk, or shoot holes in other people's windows, or dig coal mines in the garden, or peel willow twigs with a razor, or the roller skates to the Scotch collier's feet, or spend three hours and a half in bringing home a loaf of bread for breakfast, or play football in new trousers, or seine for minnows with their straw hats, or come to dinner with yesterday's dirt on their faces, or explode fire-crackers in the washing machine, or raise garter snakes in the cellar and pigeons in the attic.

Perhaps you may think this essay is devoted too much to the things that little girls do not do. But this is their most lovable trait. The little girl is adorable because of the things she doesn't do, but would have done if she had been a boy. Fathers of little girls are distinguished by their smiling faces and smoothly ironed brows.

What little girls do do is neither important nor exciting. They raise large families of dolls, and learn many useful household tricks which most of them forget later on. Large numbers of them are encouraged to annoy the piano, but their parents must be blamed for that. Little girls are chiefly useful to make little boys ashamed when they see their clean hands and faces, and listen to their good grammar. Little girls are usually afraid of boys, but get over this very pluckily and successfully later in life.
