FIGHTING ON MANCHURIAN BORDER.
SHANGHAI, Sept. 14. Two messages from Mukden given today by Secretary Loh of the Chinese Defense Headquarters here, reported that fighting began last night at Shanghaikwan, Chihli Province at the Manchurian border, and in Jehol district in heart of Chihli, 125 north-west of Shanghaikwan and about 100 miles northeast of Peking. A second message reported the capture of the Yang near Jehol.

THE BATTLE IN CHINA.
SHANGHAI, Sept. 13. The Kiangsu Military Governor was reported to be rushing reinforcements to Chanshow, 110 miles east of Shanghai, that town against the advancing Chekiang troops, who took it yesterday, according to a Chinese observer who arrived here today for Chekiang, 145 miles west of Shanghai. The observer was one of three Chinese messengers, dispatched from Anting, 20 miles west of here, to view the operations of the Kiangsu forces. He succeeded in reaching Shanghai by steamer after avoiding the invading Kiangsu army from behind its lines. The observer described the assertion of the Chekiang forces that they were victorious in the vicinity of Hwangtu during the past three days. He said the Kiangsu forces were fully confident and well organized. The observer said he had witnessed night battles in the outskirts of Hwangtu in which both sides used artillery. In the battle, the witness said, the Kwangsu artillery forced the fighting and advanced into the outskirts of Kwangtu. On the last front, 100 miles west of here, the Chinese saw the rival forces in action, and the Kiangsu leaders said there were more than 1000 wounded among the hospital and university students at Seckow, 53 miles west of Shanghai. A Japanese newspaper here received a report this morning from Peking saying that the Mukden Railway line taken as an indication of impending warfare between Gen. Chang Tso Lin, Manchurian dictator, and Wu Pei Fu, military ruler of the Peking Government. The equipment of the Kiangsu troops was said by the observer to be superior to that of the Chekiang forces. He added that the Chekiang field guns and ammunition were faulty. An examination of a number of shells, he asserted, revealed a great proportion of duds.

SUN YET SEN ON THE MOVE.
CANTON, Sept. 14. Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the head of the South China Govt., accompanied by a regiment of his troops, has departed for Shaschau in the northern part of Kwangtung Province, the greater part of which is under his control.

FIGHTING IN RAIN.
SHANGHAI, Sept. 13. (By Associated Press)—The rival forces of the warring Chinese military governors, battling for possession of Shanghai, disregarded their traditional rule against fighting in the rain to-day, when firing was resumed at Hwangtu, 15 miles west of here, while that area was being soaked by a new storm.

PRINCE TO LEAVE FOR CANADA THURSDAY.
SYOSSET, Sept. 14. The Prince of Wales probably will make his delayed departure for Canada next Thursday night, it was said to-day at James Burden's Home.

NOTED WRITER KILLED.
KINEO, Maine, Sept. 14. Princess Radizawell, Polish writer and novelist, who has lived in this country for several years, was killed yesterday when she fell more than one hundred feet over a cliff on the north slope of Mount Kineo. Her body lodged in trees part way down and was recovered with difficulty. The princess, who had spent the summer here with her family, had lost a valuable ring on the mountain, and with her brother was searching for it when the earth gave way on the edge of the cliff.

POLITICAL UPHEAVAL IN CHILE.
SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 14. Chile's political institutions have ceased to exist; their duties being taken over late yesterday by a military government council. This state of affairs is the outcome of a series of political happenings which culminated in the overthrow of the Government of President Alessandri some days ago.

What Do You Think of a Fluid

That will draw roaches and ants out of every hole, crack or crevice before they get in and not poison food?
That will kill bugs instantly and not leave an unpleasant odor?
That will knock flies off the wall and not harm paint or paper?
That will keep the bedroom, kitchen, or verandah clear of flies, mosquitoes, etc., for several hours after a few sprays?
That will take fleas off a dog and not harm the dog?
That will destroy chicken lice without any injury to your stock?
That applied in small quantities to the exposed parts of the body will insure you from Mosquito bites?
That as a general disinfectant is stronger than the ordinary carbolic solution.

THAT FLUID IS SAN-O-SPRAY.

No insect can live where San-O-Spray is used. Yet San-O-Spray is non-poisonous to human beings and can be used with perfect safety in pantry, kitchen, dining room, and cellars, moreover San-O-Spray has an agreeable and delightful odor, removing all fetid or unpleasant odors. In addition San-O-Spray is a disinfectant and germicide. Keeps the home sanitary and free from infectious diseases.

STRENUOUS WORK.
GENEVA, Sept. 14. No Sunday relaxation lightened the weariness of Dr. Benes, Czechoslovakia's strenuous Foreign Minister, who has been charged with the stupendous task of framing the draft pact of arbitration and security by his fellow delegates to the League of Nations Assembly. Throughout the day Dr. Benes slaved at his desk trying to fashion a draft convention as the basis for a later general discussion which would meet all objection and answer all needs. Everybody in Geneva is beginning to show signs of the tense strain from the laborious endeavours of the past fortnight to solve the problem of outlawing war. One distinct result stands out prominently as the achievement of the past week and that is the decision that the compulsory arbitration clauses of the World Court of Justice need not be remodelled. Ramsay MacDonald, the British Premier, told the Assembly that this clause did not seem to be precise and he wanted it examined and brought up to date before Great Britain would sign it, but no changes will be made in its phraseology. The goal of precision will be attained by allowing all countries to make reservation when signing it.

MACEDONIAN ASSASSINATED.
SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 14. The assassination of two Macedonian autonomist leaders, Aleke Bialoke Vassilof, and Georger Atanchof, at Diamia, has been reported to the Ministry of the Interior. Macedonian circles here are greatly excited over the report.

CONVICT SETTLEMENT TO BE ABOLISHED.
PARIS, Sept. 14. France's convict settlement in French Guiana is to be abolished, says the Petit Parisien, largely in consequence of that newspaper's exposure last year of alleged physical and moral brutalities of another age practiced there. The prisoners, the report says, will be brought to a central penitentiary in France yet to be established.

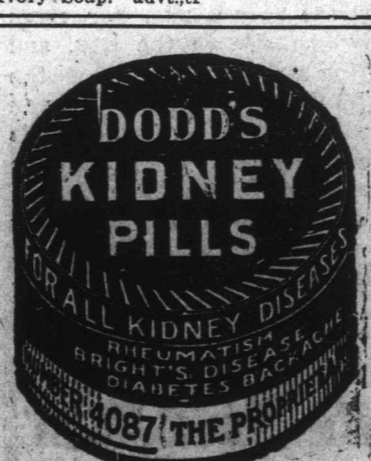

CHURCHES TO GET OUT THE VOTE.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 14. A nation wide get-out-the-vote campaign was announced to-day by Dr. North Tippey, Secretary of the Federal Council of Churches Commission. Every pastor in the country will be asked to preach election sermons on Christian citizenship on the Sunday preceding registration days. In several States, the announcement said, this will be between Sept. 14, and Oct. 12. In most States particular attention will be given to getting the women to cast their votes.

KEEPING THE LETTER OF THE LAW.
LYNN, Mass., Sept. 13. Claiming the State Board Peace Agreement calls for 45 hours the first five days of the week and, therefore, they should only work three hours more on Saturday morning to conform to the State 48 hour law for women, several thousand women stitchers and packing room girls, employed in the Lynn Agreement factories quit work at 10 a.m. to-day.

MISSING CHEQUE FOUND.
TORONTO, Sept. 13. The Toronto Globe this morning says G. P. Clarkson, Liquidator of Home Bank, has discovered the missing cheque for fifty thousand dollars, the stub of which was marked payable to Peter Smith, former Provincial Treasurer. The document was found in the safety deposit box of the late J. Cooper Mason, General Manager of the Bank.

A Marine Mystery
MAGNETIC DISTURBANCES WHICH AFFECT COMPASSES.
Mysterious magnetic disturbances in the Marvey, by which compasses are affected and ships endangered, are puzzling marine engineers and meteorologists in the North. Mariners have been officially warned by the manager of the Docks Board to be cautious in passing over the Marvey Bar in this area, which is circular and has a radius of 100 yards. "The disturbances are probably due to a piece of old steel wreckage or a piece of cable dropped by a ship, which, though lying north and south, has become magnetised," stated Captain Hart, of the Marine Surveyor's Department. "We were two days locating the exact

Immense Film at the Nickel To-Night
What is said to be the most thrilling and tensely dramatic duel scene ever staged before a motion picture camera is that fought by John Charles Thomas and Captain Henry C. G. Mills who won fame with the Dragon Guards of Australia during the war. In "Under the Red Robe" Thomas, who is making his motion picture debut in the new Cosmopolitan feature and who with Robert B. Mantell and Alma Rubens, is featured, impersonates Gil de Berault. Captain Mills appears as a trooper.
The duel, which is made doubly dramatic in that it is fought on horseback as well as on foot, was filmed at the 104 Field Artillery Armory, Sixty-eighth Street and Broadway, New York City. Here one of the biggest scenes in the film was made. This scene, from "Under the Red Robe," the $1,500,000 picture, which opens at the Nickel Theatre to-night, depicting part of a French village in the time of Louis XIII, necessitated the construction of one of the largest sets ever built and one that cost $25,000. In this scene, Thomas, as Berault, is making an escape through the village when he encounters the King's troopers. He evades all but the first trooper (Mills) and the two engage in a sword tilt on horseback that was fought with such realism that even Director Alan Crossland and other members of the company gasped. Thomas finally slides from his horse, rushes to the rooftop of a dwelling and when cornered there makes a daredevil swing on a rope straight through the window of a house on the opposite side of the street.
Watch for "Plastigrams," the greatest motion picture novelty ever seen. The figures "come off the screen" and approach you so realistically you want

People everywhere are giving up Floor Canvas and are buying Congoleum Art Rugs. There are many good reasons for this. Here are some of them—

1st—Congoleum Art Rugs are more fashionable, more refined, more stylish, they look better and wear better.

2nd—Congoleum Art Rugs are without seams, no joints in the middle of your room to catch dust and to eventually become shabby.

3rd—No cutting or matching necessary, therefore no waste. No tacking to be done, the Rugs lie flat and can be taken up easily at home cleaning time, therefore they are more healthy.

4th—Their charming patterns and colors display the good taste of the "woman of the house." Congoleum Art Rugs are really beautiful.

5th—Their low price, about quarter the cost of a carpet square, though they are better than carpet, in so far as they are dust-proof, waterproof and insect proof.

You really should see Congoleum Art Rugs. Come in when you are down town and let us show them to you!

Congoleum Art Rugs are sold under a Gold Seal guarantee, which means "unless they give you satisfaction your money will be refunded."

Look for the Gold Seal on each Rug.

"The French Doll"

MAE MURRAY'S GREATEST SUCCESS
SHOWING $100,000 WORTH OF DAZZLING GOWNS.

Mae Murray in The French Doll

AT THE MAJESTIC.

Miss Murray whirls through scenes of unparalleled splendor in the French capital, in New York and Palm Beach. She wears $100,000 worth of gowns, $500,000 worth of jewelry and does the most sensational dancing of her career. See how the dazzling little butterfly, through intense adventure, becomes a real flesh and blood woman.

"The French Doll" is the drama of a woman's soul, awakened by love from a mad dance of reckless frivolity amid the society of Paris, New York and Palm Beach.

It was adapted from the famous play which made a sensational success on Broadway and on the road. It is well known throughout the country. New York critics were unanimous in praise of the play as delightful entertainment, and the picture has far exceeded the play in rapid movement, color and power. This story will hold your audiences fascinated.

Settings? Just wait 'til you see them. There has never been anything like them on the screen, even in Mae Murray's previous pictures, and you know what they were. "The French Doll" has them all beat for beauty, lavishness and cost.

Rolling Across Europe

EXTRAORDINARY JOURNEYS TO WIN WAGERS.

A few weeks ago a man started on a journey from Amsterdam to Mac-selle, by a strange method of rolling on his head, hands, and knees. He must make more than a million somersaults to reach his destination by January 12th, 1925; and his speed is three miles a day.

In early days, Kemp, a friend of Shakespeare and himself an actor, danced all the way from London to Norwich. He was several weeks upon the journey, but the actual time spent on the road was less than nine days.

There are several cases of people who wagered that they would cover a certain distance without clothing. An amusing instance is that of the man who bought a cab and cut the bottom out of it. Inside the vehicle he took off his clothes and stepped through the hole he had made on to the road; thus he walked through London unclothed and yet concealed from the public gaze.

Across the Thames in a Butcher's Tray.

About 150 years ago a man undertook to cross the Thames in a butcher's tray, using nothing but his hands to propel the strange craft. He accomplished his trip in safety. More recently a South African made a 750-mile journey pulling a passenger in a rickshaw.

As a result of a lost bet, an American had to wheel a perambulator from Albany to New York; while another man was wheeled through Boston, also in a perambulator, dressed as a baby and holding an enormous feeding-bottle.

In the last century a naval officer undertook to ride a blind horse over a given distance without touching the reins with either hand. He did this by cutting the reins in half and attaching them to his feet.

Saving Niagara Falls

The Falls of Niagara are threatened with extinction. Chicago's drainage and power canal diverts 16,000 cubic feet of water a second. Yet the power developed is inadequate, and, faced by the prospect of a power famine, engineers and financiers are trying to obtain authority to divert additional water above the Falls.

To see Niagara at its best one must visit it on a Sunday. During the week industry is in full swing. Hundreds of housewives in New York and Ontario have their electric irons at work. Great stretches of rock on the crest of the Falls are uncovered, and the waterfall has retreated a considerable distance from the shore line. By a treaty with Canada in 1909 a limit to diversion of water for power purposes was set at 56,000 cubic feet a second. This amount is one-fourth of the total average flow.

The 56,000 cubic feet now being diverted is not equally divided; Canada gets 36,000 cubic feet and the United States 20,000. The War Department of the United States, which has jurisdiction over the matter on the American side, has arranged that so long as the diversion every twenty-four hours does not exceed 20,000 cubic feet a second on the average, more may be taken during limited times.

The construction is proposed, some twenty-one miles above Niagara, of a dam which would be a submerged weir half a mile long with a series of sluiceways. It is estimated that this would raise the level of Lake Erie by 2 feet, Lake Huron by 1 foot, and bring about an increase of 20 per cent. in the low-water flow over Niagara Falls.

Statistics That Startle

RECORDS OF TYPISTS AND TALKERS.

At the recent Fur Exhibition in London was shown a coat in the making of which twenty miles of thread had been used.

This is, of course, a record, but it brings to mind the fact that there is a great deal more work in the ordinary things that surround us—our clothes, houses, ornaments, pictures, and so on—than is generally imagined.

Take a pair of knitted socks such as most men wear for at least a part of the year. There 100 rows to each 7 inches in length and 102 stitches to each row at its widest part. Roughly speaking, two such cylinders each 7 inches long, compose a sock, so we are faced by the startling fact that there are something like 40,000 stitches in a pair of hand-knitted socks.

The Court train of Irish lace which Queen Mary wore at the Coronation Durbar was made by the Presentation Sisters of Youghal, and contained five and a quarter millions of stitches.

A Painter's 20,000 Strokes.

Have you the least idea how many times a painter touches the canvas with his brush in the painting of a picture? A man who had his portrait painted by two different artists took the trouble to count the number of strokes made, and found that in each case the number was about 20,000.

A woman typist has worked at a speed which, by counting the letters, proved that she tapped the keys at the rate of 756 times in one minute; while a well known barrister once talked at the rate of over 9,000 words an hour for thirteen hours. The actual length of his speech was 124,800 words.

An engineer has discovered by the aid of a pedometer that a cook takes on an average 2,093 steps in preparing three plain meals daily: breakfast, 446 steps; lunch, 651 steps; dinner, 996 steps.

A Substitute for Sugar

If you find that you have to order sugar more frequently than you like, buy a pound of alphaant-dioxine or perilla-dehyde. This single pound will go as far as a ton of common sugar. It is made from the oil of a plant known to the Japanese as "Shico" and to the botanist as "Perilla," and is two thousand times sweeter than sugar.

It is not in the least like any of the natural sugars in structure, although it is composed of the same elements—carbon, hydrogen, and oxygen. Yet if the same number of atoms of the same elements, attached to one another in the same way, are arranged in a slightly different position, the resulting compound is not sweet at all.

Safety First

The steamer was crossing the Channel. One of the stewards noticed an old lady looking very pale and leaning against the rails.

"Come below, mother," he said kindly; "your teeth are chattering with cold."

The old lady looked at him sternly and replied, "Don't tell her, laddie; my teeth are in my pocket!"

For Three Days Only--The $1,500,000 Film Sensation

HISTORY has never known a period richer in romance than the bold, riotously extravagant days when Cardinal Richelieu's red robe of power encompassed all of France. To bring this age to life on the screen has cost more than $1,500,000. Such magnificence has never before been attempted. The result is a film that will remain for years the most ambitious, the most sumptuous, the most thrilling of all picture creations.

Once when Mr. Tim Healy, Governor-General of the Irish Free State, was in Spain, he met Kipling, who, according to Mr. Healy, does not like him for political reasons. What happened at the meeting is told by the great Irishman himself:—

"Kipling, I said, 'I suppose we can shake hands on neutral soil, although I would shake hands with you anywhere.'"

"Haven't they shot you yet?" asked Kipling.
"No, but when they do shoot me," I replied, "I would like you to write a dirge about me."
"I'll be delighted," said Kipling.

Justice for the Poor

GOING TO LAW WITHOUT EXPENSE.

It is possible for any person, no matter how poor, to bring or defend actions or other proceedings (other than criminal or bankruptcy) in the High Court of Justice. To ensure that his case is put properly before the court there is machinery for providing the poor person with legal aid for which he has to pay nothing.

This free legal aid covers every form of dispute. It may, for instance, be a suit brought by a person who has been knocked down and injured by a motor-car; or it may be that a person has been wrongfully dealt with by his employer, or that there is some family trouble over the meaning of a will or the disposal of some property under it.

What is a "Poor Person"?
The privilege does not, however, extend to proceedings in the County Court, so that where a poor person is proceeding as plaintiff, his case will be heard either in the High Court of Justice, London, or at the Assize town in his county. If he is sued, he will be able to obtain assistance only in cases where the proceedings are in the High Court.

All that a person is required to do is to satisfy the court or a judge that he has reasonable grounds for bringing or defending or otherwise being a party to the proceedings, and that he is not worth £50 after excluding his wearing apparel, the tools of his trade, and the subject matter of the dispute. The judge has a further discretion to grant legal aid in cases where the applicant is worth more than £50 but less than £100.

How to Apply.
A person must make application on a form provided for the purpose. This form is to be obtained free of charge from, and when completed by the applicant should be returned to, the officer appointed to deal with these matters. In the case of matters intended to be dealt with in London, the proper officer is the Secretary, London Prescribed Officers (Poor Persons), Royal Courts of Justice, and in matters intended to be dealt with in the country, the District Registrar.

The applicant must state his means, the names of the parties or proposed parties to the proceedings, and the nature of his case. He must also give the name and addresses of two people to whom reference can be made. These should not be witnesses or relatives. In cases where application is made on behalf of a person under twenty-one years of age, the form should be filled up and signed by the guardian or "next friend," who must be a poor person within the above definition.

When Payment is Required.
The application is examined by solicitors or counsel, who report upon the merits of the case and, after inquiry, upon the question whether or not the applicant should be admitted as a poor person. In the case of matrimonial causes the applicant is required at this stage to pay into court usually the sum of £5. It suits to declare a marriage void this sum is increased to £15. In all other cases no payment is required.

If the application is successful the poor person is assigned a solicitor and counsel. Lists of solicitors and counsel who are willing to assist poor people in this way are kept at the offices to which the application is made in the first place.

The case then proceeds through the ordinary stages. At no time during conduct of the case does the litigant have to pay anything for the advice or help he receives; neither does he have to find any court fees or fees on the taxation costs. In the event of his falling in his case he does not have to pay the costs of the other party or parties to the proceedings unless the judge specially orders that he shall do so.

Keeping You Alive Forever

OUR MEDICAL CORRESPONDENT ON THE MAGICAL WORK OF A WIZARD SURGEON.

It may sound extravagant to describe any man as the pioneer of earthly immortality, but that description is applied to Dr. Alexis Carrel, of the Rockefeller Institute, of New York, is by no means far-fetched. He appears to have solved the secret of immortality, for he has kept portions of the human body, which have been removed from living beings, alive, and well for many years.

This eminent biologist and dexterous surgeon, the man who saved some thousands of lives during the war by his discovery of a cure for gangrene, has added to his laurels by demonstrating that the living heart, taken from a hen, can be kept beating and growing for years—for twelve years so far—and there seems no reason why it should not live forever.

Alive After Ten Years' Death.
There has been no cruelty to the hen in this case, because the heart in question was that of a chick in the eighth stage of development. It has been kept alive in a nourishing medium of clotted lymph, which it absorbs as required. Obviously a human heart would also keep going in similar circumstances.

Since, however, it is impossible to experiment in this way with the hearts of men and women, Dr. Carrel has had to have recourse to portions of the human brain wherewith to carry on his studies in the immortality of the various organs of the human body. He has now in his laboratory the connective tissue of the brain of a man who has been dead for ten and a half years. These fragments are at the present moment alive and growing.

These living specimens of a man's brain, separated from his body for more than ten years have probably some feeling. They grow and become embryonic and so far as can be told they show every prospect of continued growth.

It is recognized now that even nerve cells and fibres will continue to grow and develop apart from the body if placed repeatedly in a fresh nutritive medium. The surface of this nerve tissue, unfortunately, does not keep pace in growth with the bulk of it, and therefore the centre parts cannot obtain sufficient nourishment. The centre deteriorates as the surface grows, and real growth is accordingly slight.

Dr. Carrel has proved by actual laboratory demonstrations that the cells of which the human body is built need not necessarily die—that death when it occurs, is accidental, not incidental. The loss of vitality and the incipient decay which affect cells when they have reached a certain age is, in his view, due to some mysterious self-produced poison that has so far eluded the most persistent search.

When signs of age begin to appear in the cells of his cultures, Dr. Carrel bathes them in a chemical solution and they are once again rejuvenated. Naturally the question arises: If the body cell itself behaves as though it were immortal when rejuvenated with poison-destroying solutions, can the sum-total of all the various cells that constitute the human being ever be subjected to the revivifying effect of similar treatment? In Dr. Carrel's opinion that the day will come when the life of man will be prolonged just as the life of his individual cell has been prolonged in the laboratory—that is, indefinitely.

Hitherto Dr. Carrel's chief claim to fame as a surgeon has been his work in promoting the union of severed arteries and veins, and in the transplanting of whole organs from one animal to another.

Baby Week

This week a great deal of consideration is to be shown to the most important citizen in the community, the Baby, and we feel certain that the active interest which is being taken in the movement will have a beneficial effect in more ways than are anticipated. The appeal which has been made for funds and for supplies to equip the emergency hospital is meeting a ready response because the object is one that every person has closely at heart, and because the need for such an institution is generally recognized.

To-day Baby Week proceedings will be opened in the Star Hall by Vice-Admiral Sir Frederick Field at 3 o'clock, and Lady Allardice will deliver an address. Exhibitions and demonstrations have been arranged for each day, and those who attend will find much that is both interesting and instructive.

The work of equipping Waterford Hall is proceeding apace, but as yet is far from complete. We have been asked to-day to make an appeal for four additional cots which are urgently required, and we feel certain that the generosity of our citizens will readily respond to the request.

The movement for raising the standard of the health of the children is a matter which concerns not only the private individual, but the authorities, both Government and Municipal, and we are glad to learn that the latter are taking steps to make the streets "fit for the children to play in." The responsibilities of the Government embrace a wider field, but one of their first considerations should be the means of providing the people with the essential foods at prices which are far less prohibitive than they are at present. Child Welfare workers and the doctors will continue their struggle in vain unless and until the poorest can purchase the necessities of life at a reasonable figure. The high cost of living to-day not only prevents the householder from purchasing supplies, but the drain on his resources makes any outlay on the upkeep of his property, which is equally essential to health, a practical impossibility.

Sunday Visitors to the Squadron

A considerable number of people went out to Topsail yesterday in spite of the weather to visit H. M. S. Hood. There was also several special parties, including the Nfld. Highlanders, under Lieut.-Col. W. H. Herder; the C. C. C. under Lieut. L. Hickey; the Girl Guide Rangers, under Mrs. John Campbell; 1st, 4th and 6th St. John's Troops of Boy Scouts, under Scoutmaster E. H. D. Willis, H. Crocker and R. H. Ayre; 1st Nfld. Sea Scouts, under S. M. Furlong, and 1st St. John's Pack Wolf Cubs, under Miss Stead. The blustery wind made the passage over the bay somewhat unpleasant, and the downpour of rain did not add to the comfort of the visitors, but they made light of such circumstances and were delighted with all they saw and the kindnesses which they received.

The Rev. Dr. Campbell Morgan

AT GOWER STREET CHURCH.
 (L.C.M.)

The visit to our city of a preacher of the Rev. Dr. Campbell Morgan's ability is worthy of more than passing note, hence we devote full space to his opening services which were conducted at Gower Street Church yesterday.

That the interest was deep, was manifested by the large congregations which attended, and by the intense eagerness, and close attention which was to be observed on every face. The services began well, and the congregation at once caught the inspiration of the hour. Hearty singing and earnest prayer formed the keynote all through, and it may be safely assumed that the spirit of last night will continue right through the week.

The Rev. Dr. Robinson, who is in charge of Dr. Morgan's tour, opened the regular service of 6.30 p.m. Dr. Robinson is well adapted to conduct such services, and as a preacher he has excellent talent. He is a gentleman of high ideals, and of sympathetic touch in his language, and his message last night will not soon be forgotten.

But it is Dr. Morgan that the public want to learn of, for he is the centre of attraction. First and last, Dr. Morgan is a master mind, and in all his utterances he carries conviction. He is truly an expositor of ability, and has at his finger's end the great facts of sacred history, and is also in touch with the real conditions of the day, and to all that he says, he applies his deductions. He puts his finger upon the danger-spots of society, and recognises the weakness of national and international life, and in language firm, clear, and emphatic, states his case. His message is for the hour, and well would it be for the church as well as for the nation, and for the nations, if such principles as he maintains were adopted. The world needs such a message as Dr. Morgan has, and it would seem that such a man is raised up to be heard. The old prophets were men of heart and they cried halt to the people when they forgot their duty. The world is not yet beyond the need of such men as the prophets, and there is no doubt whatever that if Dr. Morgan were rated in his true role, he would rank as a prophet of the twentieth century. Such men have been raised up in every age of the Christian era, and at different times and under special conditions, they have declared their message. Those men were heard, Kings, potentates, and powers bowed to them. All history teaches that. It would be great thing for the world, if its leaders, could hear the voice of such men and if they would listen to them. The remedy for the world's ills lies not in contention, nor in war, nor in compromise, but in the adoption of the teachings laid down by the Son of God Himself and contained in the Golden Rule. These principles shone out in all that Dr. Morgan said.

For his first discourse he took that beautiful text of the Old Testament as recorded in Zechariah where it speaks of the boys and girls playing in the streets of the city. Upon the beautiful ideal Dr. Morgan built a structure chaste and Christ-like. His words were fitting to the week upon which we are entering, in an special manner, inasmuch as he paid high tribute to the rights of the child, and movement. His words applied with equal timeliness to civic life, and to the congested conditions of large cities. The streets should be fit for the children, and the children should be fit for the streets. The prophet's figure was in reference to the time when the world shall be renewed, and when mankind will be as God meant they should be. The address was full of great thoughts, and scintillated with ideals at once worthy the loveliness of child-life, and worthy the good man who uttered them.

The evening discourse was of a wider scope than that of the afternoon. The subject was based upon the command of God to the Israelites at the Red Sea, that "they go forward." The story was reviewed in detail. The situation was vividly depicted. The impossible appeared—that is as far as human agency went. But there was a higher power than the human. There was the power of God. By this power the people were delivered. The impossible seems to be facing the world to-day. Only one power can avert a crisis. The same power which saved Israel of old. But we cannot write further. Suffice it to say that the opening of Dr. Morgan's mission was truly helpful, and that a great week is in store for the people.

Four Cots Required

In connection with the equipment for the Emergency Hospital for Children the Child Welfare Association have issued an appeal for four additional cots. There are many cases which require immediate hospital treatment and as the accommodation is not yet available it is impossible to admit the patients at present. The appeal, we feel certain, will not be made in vain.

Obituary

MARY ANN HERALD.
 There passed away, this morning, at 2 o'clock, after a short illness, Mary Ann, beloved wife of Capt. George Herald of H.M.C. Deceased had been in failing health for some time, but was not taken seriously ill until Tuesday last. Hope was held out for her recovery up to the last, but God willed otherwise, and the Angel of Death hovered around and took the soul of a loving wife and a devoted mother, whose loss will be keenly felt. Left to mourn are a husband, two sons and three daughters, Mrs. H. H. Cock and William residing in Boston, and at home Capt. Norman, Mrs. Arch LeMessurier, and Mrs. W. H. Bartlett, to whom deep sympathy is extended. Funeral takes place on to-morrow, Tuesday, at 2.30 p.m. from late residence, 93 Bond Street.

Personal

Amongst the passengers by S.S. Susu from the northward this morning there arrived Miss Madeline Bryan of Tilting. This young lady has been for the past fourteen months, an employee of Messrs. Barle Sons & Co., and has lately resigned her position to take up a course of studies at St. Bride's College, Littledean.

A Distinguished Lady Doctor

Amongst the recent visitors from abroad to this city is Doctor Theodosia Spring-Rice of New York, U.S.A. This lady has a very extensive practice in a wealthy residential section of New York City. Dr. Spring-Rice is the niece of William Little, Esq., an eminent and well known citizen of Montreal, Canada, and who for many years has been closely identified with the forestry of Canada and the United States, and is an honorary President of the Forestry Associations of both countries. Mr. Little has contributed many articles and much valuable information to leading magazines on the forestry of Canada, the States and Newfoundland. We wish Dr. Spring-Rice an enjoyable stay in the city and trust she will return to her home with favourable impressions of Newfoundland.

Susu in Port

S. S. Susu, Capt. Kean, arrived in port at 4.30 this morning from the northward. The ship left here last Tuesday on the Fogo mail service and made all ports of call. Capt. Kean reports the fishery in the vicinity of the outer grounds, and boats are securing from ten to fifteen quills daily. The weather for the past week has been favourable, with the result that operations have not been hampered. North of these places the fishing is practically over. The Susu brought a full cargo consisting principally of fish and oil. The following passengers also arrived: Capt. W. C. Winsor, Messrs. Dwyer, Miller, Perry, Higgins, Martin, Lathorne, Brown; Messames Burke, Roberts, Miller; Misses Coffin, Bryan, Roebathan, Normore, Perry, Winsor, Smith, Butt, Abbott.

Horse and Cart Stolen

A horse and cart owned by Mr. Thomas Butler, Portugal Cove Road, was stolen on Saturday night from in front of T. & M. Winter's premises, Duckworth Street. The owner left the animal standing by the curb whilst he went to a nearby grocery store to make some purchases. Mr. Butler spent all Saturday night looking for his outfit and up to this morning has found no trace of it. The matter has been reported to the police.

Importers Association

MEETING THIS AFTERNOON.
 A concert by the massed bands of the visiting Squadron forms part of the programme arranged for this week, but unless a half holiday is granted by the Importers Association the opportunity of enjoying this musical treat will be lost. There is a considerable feeling that the Importers who are it is understood meeting this afternoon, should accede to the wishes of the many and proclaim a half day.

Knocked Down by Runaway Horse

Whilst proceeding home to dinner to-day Miss Edna Hennebury of Cookstown Road was somewhat badly injured by a runaway horse owned by truckman Harry Boyles. The young lady received a nasty cut over the left eye in addition to other injuries to her head and legs. She was taken to a house on William's Lane where Dr. Grievie was called in attendance. The horse was captured near Barter's Hill after colliding with a building.

Dr. Murphy's Condition

The condition of Dr. John Murphy, whose serious illness from Infantile Paralysis was reported on Saturday, showed slight signs of improvement during last night. There was a slight relapse, however, this morning, but the physicians who are in constant attendance trust that they will be able to pull their patient through safely.

AMERICAN WOOLEN CO.

Passive of Common Dividend Due Solely to Textile Depression.

Boston.—Despite the surmises of one or two New York newspapers as to possible motives there is absolutely no significance to the action of American Woolen directors in passing the common dividend at this time...

American Woolen Co. has outstanding $50,000,000 7% preferred and is the guarantor of $11,000,000 notes of its subsidiary of the development state.

The political factor is too ridiculous for mention, inasmuch as every effort would have been made had it been a factor to maintain the $7 rate before election for the prestige of the political party that has always stood for some degree of tariff protection.

Mystery of Sound Board

The sound board of a piano, although it is actually a thin sheet of fir wood, is a wonder not fully understood in its effects. Most people know that every note has a complete and very elaborate set of vibrations which give it its pitch and character, and all these separate sets are reproduced in the soundboard quite independently. Even in comparatively simple music there are frequently thousands of vibrations going on in that piece of thin brittle wood; which we can hear but cannot see; and with all the crossing and recrossing of the vibration lines which must take place there is never any confusion, and it is possible to select any group of vibrations as the one to which we can pay the most attention. Perhaps even still more wonderful is the fact that the piano-maker can make the board susceptible to different kinds of vibration without knowing how he does it.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

A MUCH SURPRISED WOMAN.

It is a wonderful thing to be articulate and fluent and facile of speech. It gives you a great advantage over those who are inarticulate, who know what they mean in their hearts but cannot get it into words.

And then again it is a dangerous thing to be articulate. Dangerous with a hidden danger that you may not even guess at until perhaps it is too late.

She Had No Idea.

A man I know is planning to get a separation or divorce from his wife. Everyone is greatly surprised, including the lady herself. She knows that things have not been right between them for years. But she never thought Jim would do a thing like that. It is utterly incredible. She knew he objected to some of the things she did.

But always when they talked the more he seemed to understand her. He never even hinted at such a thing before. . . . And now he is adamant.

The point is this. The wife is articulate and Jim is not. . . . For the past ten years certain things have been a bone of contention between them. She wanted to do things that he did not approve of.

She wanted to send the children to expensive private schools for one thing. For another, she insisted on going away to a smart summer hotel when Jim would have liked some simple summer place where the family could have lived outdoors in their old clothes. She wanted to spend more money than he felt they ought to spend. . . . She wanted sometimes to go around with people that he did not approve of.

But He Felt A Lot.

Over and over again such things as these caused friction between them. But when they talked them over Amy could always state her case so plausibly that Jim was silenced. There didn't seem anything left for him to say. So he said nothing. But he felt a lot.

He felt a great deal more than Amy had the vaguest idea of.

And to-day Amy is feeling the force of all that stored up resentment. And she is incredulous and aghast. She even says, indignantly, that she doesn't think it was fair for him not to tell her before she felt so strong.

As if he hadn't tried to tell her over and over again. But she was too articulate for him, too glib.

Beware Your Own Articulation.

It is a splendid thing to be articulate. But it is also a dangerous thing. There are a great many Amys and Jims in the world, I think. Of course in many cases the roles are reversed and it is the man who is plausible and the woman who knows she cannot always be as utterly wrong as he proves her.

It is a good thing for all who are inarticulate to beware of their own facility unless they want to build up reservoirs of resentment that may some day burst their bounds and change the whole face of a familiar landscape.

Homecoming of Two Sky Men

Here are two striking descriptions of the return of two aviators from their most adventurous adventures in the air—one a Briton, the other a Frenchman.

The Most Popular Man In France.

"Captain Pelletier d'Oisy and his mechanic, Sgt.-Major Besin, the heroes of the recent remarkable flight from Paris to Shanghai, who are now on their way home from Japan on the liner Porthos, reached Port Said on Friday, where the Captain was met by the special correspondents of several of the Paris newspapers who had gone out to greet him," says the Morning Post Paris correspondent.

"The outstanding feature of the aviators' arrival at the Red Sea port, however, was the meeting on board the liner of the pilot and his wife. The presence of the latter, so far from Paris, was unknown to Captain d'Oisy until she came off in the tender accompanied by the French Consul at Port Said and climbed the companion-way to the liner's deck. Husband and wife rushed into each other's arms and both burst into uncontrollable tears of joy.

"It is no exaggeration to say that Pelletier d'Oisy is at present probably the most popular man in Paris, with his mechanic as a good second."

McLaren in Canada.
"With the battered bulk of the Vickers-Napier Vulture amphibian lashed to the deck, of the Canadian trawler Thiepval, with Squadron-Leader MacLaren and his companions in the attempt to fly round the world, entered Prince Rupert Harbour at 2.30 last Saturday.

"In spite of the hour and the driving rain, an outburst of cheers greeted the vessel from the company gathered at the dock to welcome Squadron-Leader MacLaren on British soil. The Mayor of the city, with councillors, the president of the Veterans' Association, and prominent citizens, were present to pay a tribute to the gallantry and sportsmanship of the aviator. The round of entertainments prepared for the aviator include an official dinner and a dance. At the request of Messrs. Vickers, the bulk of the amphibian is being taken to the Canadian Air Force station at Vancouver for reshipment to England with the Napier engine. The party are in good health, except Sergeant Andrews, who has been unwell since his arrival in Japan, though he is now improving.

"Squadron-Leader's story of the final stage of the flight from Tokio to Nikolaki is the record of a gallant attempt to overcome appalling weather conditions. His opinion may be summed up thus: "In my opinion, it was a foolhardy business to attempt to cross the Pacific via the Kuriles and Aleutians without at least two ships as an escort."

An American psychologist, Dr. Henry E. Garrett, asserts that the best brain worker is the man with long arms and legs and a small body. Men with short arms and legs and big bodies, he declares, are more suited for some manual trade, or at least a line of work requiring steadiness and accuracy rather than quickness of mind.

This theory was recently tested by Dr. Garrett and Dr. Sante Naccarati, a New York specialist in nervous and mental diseases, on 300 students at Columbia University. The results tended to show that there is a very definite relationship between bodily structure and intelligence.

Dr. Garrett states that of the men examined, 76 per cent. of the small bodied, long-legged men, 40 per cent. of the normal men, and 15 per cent. of the large-bodied, short-legged men showed high intelligence.

Henry Ford, John D. Rockefeller, General Pershing, Booth Tarkington, and David Warf Griffith, all outstanding for their brains in their particular fields, are long-legged men with short bodies. George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, and President Wilson were of the small type.

Real Westerner Films "Virginian"

TOM FORMAN, FORMER COWBOY, ACHIEVES AMBITION TO DIRECT WESTER NOVEL.

Tom Forman, erstwhile Texas cowboy, realized a lifetime ambition when he completed the screening of Owen Wister's classic, "The Virginian," admittedly the greatest story ever written of the West, which comes to the Star Theatre to-day. Through a remarkable chain of circumstances every detail of the production was in the hands of men born and bred to the life led by the novelist's picturesque hero.

Beginning with Forman as director, the picture had the services of two other men familiar with the western cattle country. Louis D. Lighton, scenarist, was a cowpuncher at one time while Col. William Hawley, a personal friend of Wister's and the man who staked out Casper Wyoming, where the novel was written, contributed historical accuracy to the picture.

Forman, who had the final decision in all matters pertaining to its production was born on a big Texas cattle ranch and was a full-fledged cowpuncher, working for his father, before he had reached the age of fifteen. In fact, Tom, when he wasn't going to the little prairie school-house in the long, cold winters, was riding his "strings" with the best of Lone Star State riders, before he was twelve. At that age Owen Wister's novel was his textbook and the black-haired Virginian his beloved hero.

"I carried Wister's novel in my saddlebag when I was a kid and when the herds were quietly feeding, laid on my stomach in the prairie grass, reading the book until I knew it by heart," said Forman.

Our Montreal Letter

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
"Who are the thoughtless ones, that spend their time in running their health in every clinic. And yet they imagine they're feeling fine?"
The Dope Fiends."

People often wonder where all the "dope" that is in this big city, comes from. The solution of such a question has puzzled police detectives, R. C.M.P. officers, and other "wise ones" for some years back. The Montreal Herald seems to have one answer to the solution. It was obtained from the Chief Stoker of one of the best known trans-Atlantic liners sailing from Montreal. And the man's statements were confirmed by a little careful observation. Smuggling it in in large or small quantities, by those least suspected, is the chief key to the work.

Morphine, cocaine, and heroin are brought into Montreal and transferred to the dope-peddler, thence to the addict, by the stokers and crews of the liners docking in the harbor.

"If I had kept at the smuggling for six months I would have made more money than I ever will at this job," the stoker said. "I could have retired and taken things easy."

Which what happens when a liner docks, immediately a number of stokers scramble ashore while the passengers are still disembarking. Passing from the dock they are met in the street, beyond by two or three incognito individuals. There is a few moments of conversation. Possibly a package changes hands. Then they enter a bar nearby and in the back room drinks are bought and the business arrangements concluded. The parties part company."

Transferred from hand to hand the precious cargo has been brought from some far-flung foreign port. Hidden in the clothing of the carrier it easily eludes the inspection of the immigration and custom officials. The strange citizen would be astonished if he knew the monetary value of the contraband drugs that thus easily enter Montreal.

Again when a ship is docked there is little to prevent a small craft slipping up the harbor to its side and there receiving its cargo. This trade is successfully carried on at every Atlantic port. Montreal harbor having 70 police boats is particularly open to this form of the traffic. According to the chief stoker, there is scarcely a boat that enters the harbor from a foreign port that does not bring its contribution of banned narcotics for distribution by the regular peddlars.

Much of the drug leaves the city, going to other points in eastern Canada. The manner of its sale on certain districts of the city is widely known. The peddlars, usually addicts themselves, display great skill in the handling and disposal of their dangerous stock-in-trade and it requires sharp work on the part of the narcotic squad to catch one with the goods on him.

ECHOES OF THE POSTAL-STRIKE.

The final verdict in the postal strike of last June is about to be given in Montreal on Sept. 15th, and a part of it has been given at Toronto. In this city the postmen were taken back unconditionally at $85 a month. All the men with few exceptions returned to work. In conversation with a postman attached to the Station at the corner of St. Catherine and Bishop Streets and who, by the way, is a Newfoundlander, a former resident of Water Street, he told me that at one time they were receiving $125 a month. Married men with large families find it very hard to live on $85 a month. My friend cited a case of a married man with five children and who was paying $28 a month for house rent. Even at $125 a month he went behind in his rent. He owed the grocer and the butcher. The strike followed, and things went from bad to worse for him with eleven days of idleness and no pay. The landlord appealed for his rent, but like the debtor mentioned in the Gospel, the man besought him to have mercy and he would pay him all he owed him. But the landlord showed him no mercy, but ordered him to depart from his property as quickly as possible. The man had to go down below Dominion Park, near Logue Point, some distance from his work, and rent a shack for $12 a month, and receive a cut of $40 a month in his wages.

In Toronto when the semi-monthly pay of four days in June was given out, 150 of the regular staff resigned. When the semi-monthly pay for August was handed out, fifty of them got a surprise when they received a special notice of rules and regulations drawn up by a sub-committee and accordingly they were notified that their services were no longer required after September 30th. They have the option of receiving a month's salary in lieu of a month's notice before leaving. The men are indignant at the treatment, and claim that they are victims of a breach of faith by the Hon. James Murdock, Minister of Labor, who, as they claim, gave them to understand that each man was to be continued at his old post.

How the axe will fall on September 15th here remains to be seen. It is said that the 800 men who filled the place of the strikers, and who have been retained up to the present, will be let go after September 15th.

THE MONTREAL TELEPHONE SYSTEM.

The assistant manager of the Bell Telephone Company in an address here lately gave statistics of the system. The city was said to have 117,760 telephones at present. Business places have 46,477, while residence phones number 71,283. They require over 2,000 girls to operate them and answer the 1,000,000 calls that come in every day.

SHOULD GREATLY BENEFIT CANADA.

The Boston Post, under the caption of "Canada's New Emigrants," says editorially:
"The new immigration agreement between England and Canada should accomplish much because it does not attempt too much. Various efforts to quicken the tide of emigration from crowded England to the open spaces of Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and Canada have failed because they attempted too much. But the present plan, to spend $5,000,000 in equipping and transporting 3000 families, is eminently sane. These families will presumably be chosen not because they want to get out of English slums but because they have hardihood for pioneer work. The men and women needed by the British dominions are not those who have been enervated by years of city life. What the dominions need are families who will rejoice in loneliness and be rejuvenated by a new freedom and by hard work. The new policy should benefit Canada inestimably."

CATHOLIC SCHOOLS SHOW INCREASE.

This year the Catholic School Commission had to provide 93 extra classes to accommodate 3,720 more children than last year. The Commission is spending over $2,000,000 in the erection of new schools. In Notre de Grace a new school of 14 classes is being built for the English-speaking Catholics of St. Augustine's Church, while 8 classes are being added to St. Aloysius School at Hochelaga. Both schools are in charge of the Presentation Brothers.

R. J. LOUIS CUDDIHY.

"The 'beam' wireless method, of whose advantages Senator Marconi gave so remarkable an account, is the most important invention since that of the thermionic valve," says the Manchester Guardian. "The thermionic valve made wireless transmission possible over great distances but hitherto the waves that spread through the ether were diffused indiscriminately in all directions. Under the 'beam' system they are directed like a searchlight to a given point."

The March of Wireless

"With one-fortieth of the power which is necessary for one of the super-stations of what we must now call the older type—some of which are still only in the stage of plans—communication can be carried on at a high speed; secrecy is greater; atmospheric interruption is less; capital costs and operating charges are smaller; and, as an actual forerunner of what is to come, the Post Office and the Marconi Company have already agreed on a reduction of one-third on the existing cable rates. It looks as though before long the 'beam' system will have brought about the drastic cheapening of communication with the Dominions which has for many years now been the concern of Dominion Premiers and Imperial Conferences."

"The world moves so fast, and the distances between the different parts of the Empire are so great, that the mailed letter is too often out of date before it reaches its destination. The aeroplane and the air-ship may do much in time, but their time has not yet fully come. For the Dominions and the mother country to keep fully and easily in touch with each other, a rapid and cheap telegraphic system is essential, otherwise there is always the likelihood of imperfect understanding. We shall not always be able to agree together even in the light of full knowledge, but at all events we shall avoid the dangers that spring from partial or obscure information.

"There are other remarkable results, in the field of telephony, that the 'beam' system may before long bring to us. In the meantime, by cheapness of transmission alone, it may achieve a political result of the greatest importance."—ex.

THE UNBELIEVER.

"I sometimes tire of Dingbat Dow, who is a windy loon; I hear him say, 'I can't allow that tale of cat and spoon; I don't believe that any cow jumped over any moon.' I've had much faith in Mother Goose since I was a child; to those who scoff her and traduce I am not reconciled; their arguments have little use, their folly makes me wild. Why should a neighbor meanly strive to undermine my trust, a trust that I have kept alive when others gathered rust? Why talk that vagrant doubts may thrive, and my foundations bust? Since I have faith in Mother Goose, he makes my spirit ache, who comes with jeering and abuse to prove she is a fake; why jar a neighbor's landmarks loose, and all his crutches break? 'I don't believe in Old King Cole,' this Dingbat says to me, what time I sit beside the bole of my large citron tree; 'He never was a merry soul, he had no fiddlers three. I've read up Darwin, Huxley, Hume, whose works are full of juice; their noble writings spell the doom of poor old Mother Goose; her graft is leader than the tomb in which her bones lie loose.' No matter what a man believes, some simp will come along, and say, 'My brooding soul it grieves, to see you headed wrong; beguiled by talkers with the heaves, your errors show up strong. If you would learn to smile and sing, you'll cast belief away; I don't believe in anything, nor care what prophets say, and so I'm happy as a king'—and

What Roosevelt Said

"When President Roosevelt visited Egypt and the Sudan in 1910 he bore emphatic testimony to the excellence of our work. He doubted, he said at Khartoum, whether in any region of the earth there was a more striking instance than there was of genuine progress achieved by the substitution of civilization for savagery," and at Wady Halfa he expressed his profound conviction of the benefits of British rule. He saw no young people over twelve in the Sudan; Mahdism had been fatal to children. Now the population has largely increased, and its satisfaction with the existing system has been plainly shown by its attitude during these manufactured riots. "We hold that we have a trust for these peoples. The Prime Minister declared before Parliament rose that 'we should be worse than cowards' not to fulfil it. He has now shown by action, far more effective in the East than any words, that he means to fulfil it. We cannot, he said, either withdraw or hand over the government of the Sudan to any other Government. "There are those in Egypt, and there are others in different countries, who would not be sorry to make trouble for King Fuad and for England. The whole subject of this movement of troops and this alleged conspiracy remains for the present ob-secure. The action we have taken has delivered the Sudanese from the fear that we should desert them. As an incidental result our military movements and the presence of a battleship at Alexandria will serve as a general warning not to presume too far upon our patience."

Young Bride's Vigil

SANG TO DYING HUSBAND AS HE HUNG OVER PRECIPICE.

While her injured husband was hanging from a rope over an Alpine precipice, a young bride kept a terrible vigil. Married three weeks ago at Budapest, Herr Hettler and his wife elect to spend their honeymoon in climbing the Otzaler peaks in the Tyrol. Roped together they reached the top of a peak, but during the descent the young husband slipped and fell over a precipice, striking his head, but the wife had not sufficient strength to pull her husband to the top. She talked with him for some time, but as night came on his answers ceased. She continued to talk, however, and even sang in an endeavor to keep his courage up. Next morning the man and woman were found by a party of climbers, the wife unconscious and the husband hanging dead at the end of the rope. The young widow was taken to a hospital at Innsbruck for medical care.

Popular Actor Speaks Well of Newfoundland

H. WILMOT YOUNG GREATLY IMPRESSED BY ST. JOHN'S.

In a recent issue of Massena Observer (New York), Mr. H. Wilmot Young, owner and manager of the Young-Adams Co., in an interview gives a lengthy account of his theatrical career and in the following clipping states his impressions of Newfoundland and its people:—

"Our most eastern point is St. John's, Newfoundland, where we usually stay five or six weeks. Capacity business is the general rule. Public, press and clergy of that city are very kind to us. They like plays that are clean and wholesome, free from vulgarity. In fact, they will not tolerate anything else."

"They have a wonderful way of telling you just how long your engagement will last. The first week they will tell you how much they like your show and you can generally judge by the advance sales that they do. But it is during the third week, when they will come to you on the street and say, 'Well, Mr. Young, about one more week, eh?' But, if your show and the members of your company have made a most favorable impression you will be invited to stay the fifth and perhaps the sixth week and they themselves will select from your previous productions what plays you will present."

"This is one of the most pleasant engagements that we play. On leaving St. John's we have been presented with many kind remembrances and always look forward to our return. In fact, this present season we will open there for a four weeks' run and I hope that our good friends in that colony will invite us to stay the fifth." R.A.Y.

ARCTIC EXPLORER IN COMMUNICATION BY RADIO.
WISCASSETT, Maine, Sept. 14.
Communication established by station IMO to the first time with the Bowdoin, on which Dr. Donald MacMillan and his seven companions are returning from the Arctic regions, were solved early to-day. The mystery of the silence of WNP radio station board the little craft during June, July and August. At the same time IMO which is an American radio relay league plant learned from operator Donald Mix of Bristol, Conn., in charge of the Bowdoin's equipment that the MacMillan party will not reach Wiscasset next Saturday as originally planned because of being driven back to Bonne Bay, on the western coast of Newfoundland, by a storm while coming from the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Previous to communicating with the Bowdoin for a period of two hours, IMO picked up a French amateur station which sent to Dr. MacMillan the congratulations of the French amateur operators. A desire to conserve oil aboard the ship was the reason given by Operator Mix for the failure of the Bowdoin to respond to calls during the three months mentioned, and in his messages to local station he described interestingly the radio conditions encountered during the stay in the far north.

An Explanation of What Chiropractic Is

FOR THOSE WHO DO NOT UNDERSTAND ITS TRUE MEANING.

By WM. H. MACPHERSON.

A fall occurs in many ways. The fall is a small thing. It happens to thousands. A tumble down a stairway is a small thing, it happens to thousands. A slip on the icy roadway in winter is a small thing, it happens to thousands. A strain or wrench occurs in various ways. The strain or wrench is a small thing, it happens to thousands.

The fall or tumble, the slip, the strain or wrench produces a sub-luxation. The sub-luxation is a small thing. The sub-luxation produces a pressure on a nerve, the pressure cuts off the flow of mental impulses (life force). That is a small thing. That decreased flowing of the life force produces a diseased body and brain. That is a big thing to that man.

WHAT WELL MEN MEAN.

Multiply that sick man by hundreds and you control the physical and mental welfare of a city. Multiply that man by thousands and you shape the physical and mental destiny of a country. Multiply that one vertebral (spinal) column by all of them in the world, the slip, the strain or wrench, the sub-luxation, pressure flow of mental impulses and disease is big enough to control thoughts and actions of a world.

Every man, woman and child living has a backbone. Every backbone has subluxations. Every subluxation is producing a disease, so the fall or tumble, the slip, the strain or wrench, the sub-luxation, pressure flow of mental impulses and disease is big enough to control thoughts and actions of a world.

Now comes a man—and any one man is a small thing. This man gives an adjustment, and the adjustment is a small thing. The adjustment replaces the subluxation, and that is a small way. The adjusted subluxation replaces pressure upon nerves, and that is a small thing. The released pressure restores health to a man, and that is a big thing to that man.

Multiply that well man by hundreds and you step up the physical and mental welfare of a city. Multiply that well man by thousands and you increase the efficiency of a country, and you have produced a healthy and better race for posterity. Multiply one Chiropractor by a sufficient number to adjust all the subluxations and you have made sane all the insane; made well all the sick.

CRYING FOR ADJUSTMENTS.

Every disease is crying out for an adjustment. Every adjustment demands the Chiropractor. It makes no difference whether that subluxation occurs in, and the adjustment is given to a male or female, young or old, white or black, on the mountain top or in the valley, in the desert or on a ship, at the North Pole or the Equator.

The Chiropractic message is for the body what the God given message is for the soul. A gospel for the multitudes, for all people, for all colors, for all countries, for all conditions. It brings life easier, it makes life easier. It adds years to life and life to years.

NEEDS OF CHIROPRACTIC.

Chiropractic needs followers who have the vision to see the rebuilding and reconstruction of the human race, the right of the sick to get well unretarded and with the exercise of his own rights. The right of Chiropractic to be handed down throughout the generations in its purity for posterity, that the adjustment of a subluxated vertebra, multiplied means a far more efficient race.

Corner Stone of New Church Laid in Torbay

Yesterday witnessed the first step towards the erection of a new Church which the Church of England people of Torbay have been working towards for a long time, when the corner stone was laid with all due ceremony by Sir Joseph Outerbridge.

His Lordship the Bishop, attended by Rev. Canon Holt, Rev. A. W. Tulk of Portugal Cove, Rev. Andrew Tulk of French Cove was present and among the many visitors were Sir Michael and Lady Cashin and Mr. H. Saunders. The service opened with the hymn "O Lord of Hosts whose glory fills" and was followed by the scripture lessons. The stone having been laid, a stirring address was delivered by Bishop White. During the singing of the hymn "Christ is our Corner Stone," offerings for the building fund were laid on the stone by those assembled. The ceremony was closed by the Bishop with the Blessing.

Famous Recipes for Home Cooking

BLUEBERRY MUFFINS. (Delightfully light and fluffy—with the berries whole.)

¾ cupful Crisco
¾ cupful sugar
1 egg
2½ cupfuls flour
4 teaspoonfuls baking powder
1 teaspoonful salt
1 cupful milk
1 cupful blueberries

Cream Crisco with sugar. Add beaten egg and milk. Sift dry ingredients, reserving one-fourth cupful flour for berries. Add alternately with the milk. To keep the berries perfectly whole roll first in the sugar then in the flour, stir in last with a fork. Bake in well-Criscoded muffin tins in hot oven twenty to twenty-five minutes.

Who Made the First Paper?

The credit for making the first paper is due to a Chinese named Ts'ai-lun. In A.D. 75 he made the first hand sheet of paper from the bark of a mulberry tree.

Before this leaves of trees and various barks used in crude form had been good enough for the Egyptians, Romans, and other nations. The Chinese, however, did not use the crude inner bark of the tree as the final material on which to make his records. He used the bark merely as a raw material upon which he produced a finished sheet of paper by a series of processes which, primitive as they seem to us now, were the forerunners of paper manufacture to-day.

China monopolized the art of paper-making for about 800 years, until the secret was learned from her by the Arabs, who improved upon the Chinese process by using linen or cotton rags instead of mulberry bark.

Soon after 1800 the first paper to be made with wood pulp came into the market. Nowadays, to meet the enormous demands of the press and commerce generally, over 400 varieties of wood and grasses have been called into requisition. Linen and cotton rags are used only in the making of the finest notepaper.

Of the paper now manufactured, 99 per cent is machine made.

Guaranteed Products!

Buy Upholstered Furniture that stays upholstered. Don't experiment with Chesterfields and Chairs that have nothing to recommend them but attractive prices. We make all our own frames from the best selected hardwoods and insure a solid foundation to build upon. The springs are manufactured of the best oil tempered Premier Spring Wire. Nothing but the best quality of stuffing materials are used and all work is carefully inspected before it leaves our factory.
