The copy filmed here has been reproduced thanks to the generosity of:

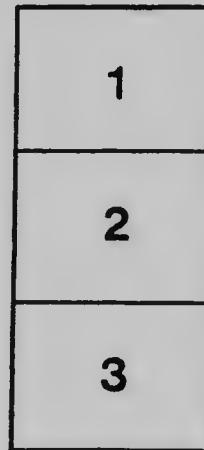

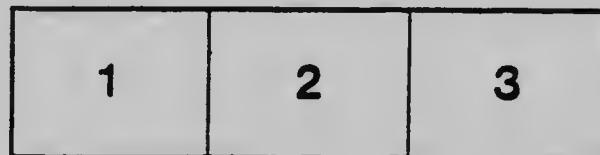

National Library of Canada

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol → (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol ▽ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

L'exemplaire filmé fut reproduit grâce à la générosité de:

Bibliothèque nationale du Canada

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plié et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plié, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole → signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ▽ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc.. peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

BULLETIN No. 138

GROUND CINNAMON.

W. J. GERALD, Esq.,

OTTAWA, July 16th, 1907.

Deputy Minister of Inland Revenue.

SIR.—I beg to hand you herewith a report upon thirty-three samples of Ground Cinnamon, collected in November and December, 1906.

Cinnamon and Cassia are the dry barks of trees which belong to the same botanical genus, Cinnamomum. Cinnamon is the bark of C. Zeylanicum, chiefly grown in Ceylon and the East Indies; Cassia is the bark of C. Cassia, chiefly grown in China and India. The former bark is thinner, lighter in colour and exists (commercially) in smaller rolls than Cassia bark. It is sufficiently easy to distinguish the two articles, in the unground state; and there is a considerable difference in price between whole cinnamon and whole cassia. The botanical elements of the two are, however, practically identical; and, in the finely ground state, it becomes a difficult, if not an impossible thing, to discriminate between them. The darker colour of Cassia is almost the only distinctive character that remains.

Whether cassia is inferior to cinnamon for flavouring purposes, in cookery, is an open question. The general impression is that cinnamon is preferable. Its higher price is doubtless due to this preference. At the same time it is certain that much, if not most, of the ground cinnamon of commerce, is really ground cassia.

Several grinders distinctly label their goods with the word Cassia; and it is probable that the same specimens put on the market a higher priced article under the name Cinnamon; but of this I have no conclusive proof. It is however quite certain that the spice in question is known to most domestic users as Cinnamon; while the term Cassia conveys a very vague meaning, or no meaning whatever. Throughout Quebec the article is known as Canelle, which means cinnamon as distinguished from cassia, to which belongs the term Casse, seldom mentioned except as a drug.

Under these circumstances, it will be seen that a discrimination between cinnamon and cassia, as spices, is difficult to maintain. It is open to question how far we may take the darker colour of cassia, as evidence of its presence. A sample of cinnamon, ground from the bark, was taken as the standard of colour; and among thirty-three samples, of spice bought as cinnamon, only two (2) were found to come up to the prepared standard. One of these was plainly labelled Cassia on the package. The sample in question contains no foreign starch, or other addition, which might account for its light colour; so that, unless bleaching has been resorted to, we must infer that some samples of cassia are as light in colour as normal cinnamon.

The difficulty of distinguishing between cinnamon and cassia, in the ground state, is recognized by the Committee of Standards at Washington, as shown by the following definitions, proclaimed as legal for the United States in June, 1906:

Cinnamon is the dried bark of any species of the genus Cinnamomum, from which the outer layers may or may not have been removed.

True Cinnamon is the dried inner bark of Cinnamomum Zeylanicum, Breyne.

Cassia is the dried bark of various species of Cinnamomum, other than Cinnamomum Zeylanicum, from which the outer layers may or may not have been removed.

Cassia buds are the dried, immature fruit of species of Cinnamomum.

Ground Cinnamon, Ground Cassia, is a powder consisting of Cinnamon, Cassia or Cassia buds, or a mixture of these spices, and contains not more than six (6) per cent of total ash, and not more than two (2) per cent of sand.

So far as admixture of Cassia is concerned, I do not think that the present state of our knowledge justifies me in pronouncing it an adulteration of the spice known as Ground Cinnamon. This aspect of the matter must be left open for the present.

With a single exception, no other foreign matters have been found; and in this sample (No. 26,045) the amount of (wheat) starch is so small, as to be negligible.

As regards ash, the limit of six (6) per cent fixed by American Standard, is exceeded in six cases. I shall, however, await further experience with cinnamon, as occurring on the Canadian market, before feeling warranted in accepting the standards quoted.

The work on this subject has been mainly done by Mr. Lemoine of this Laboratory. An explanatory note by him accompanies the Table.

I beg to recommend the publication of this report as Bulletin No. 138.

I have the honour to be, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

A. MCGILL,

Acting Chief Analyst.
