FLOWER OF THE BRITISH ARMY NOW READY IN THE FIELD

Three Allied Armies Working Together; Best of England's Troops Have Landed on French Coast

News at Last Officially Given Out But Details of Numbers and Regiments Withheld

GREAT RECEPTION TO ENGLISH IN FRANCE

Not a Single Mishap in Getting British Forces Across Channel—Enthusiastic Welcome to Field Marshall French in Paris—See Happy Augury in His Name

London, Aug. 17.—(Midnight delayed by censor)—The most important revelation of the day has been that of the landing of a British expeditionary army on the shores of France. Everybody in England has known for two weeks that a large army was crossing the channel. The troops had been assembled at different bases, one of the largest contingents embarking at Dublin. Many other regiments sailed from Liverpool while still others took ship at Eastbourne, Southampton and other ports along the coast of the English Channel.

MARKED SECRECY

The transportation of the soldiers lasted several days, and during that time not a mention of the expedition was permitted to the newspapers here. Even now the strength of the expedition, the names of the regiments composing the contingents, and the ports where they landed are not allowed to be made public. It is known, however, that a large portion of the best troops of the British regular army are now on continental soil.

The reception of the British soldiers everywhere in France, was enthusiastic. The officers and men of the two armies fraternized warmly. It is pointed out in authoritative circles here that the withdrawal of the Belgian government from Brussels to Antwerp may mean that the fighting in Belgium is drawing nearer to the capital or it may be merely a precautionary measure. Now that the three allied armies are working together on a coherent campaign the policy of secrecy has been extended to Belgium and as a fountain of picturesque news that country has suddenly dried up.

The allied armies have decided for the present, to bar all war correspondents from accompanying the army but it is thought the ban may be raised later, when the military operations are well under way. The official news bureau says not a single casualty occurred during the embarkation, transportation and debarkation of the troops and of the stores of the expeditionary force and everything was carried through with the greatest precision.

FIELD MARSHAL FRENCH IN PARIS

Field Marshal Sir John French arrived in Paris soon after midnight on Saturday to convey the salutations of the British nation to France. The commander-in-chief of the British expeditionary army was welcomed by several distinguished officers of the French general staff, the British ambassador in Paris and several French cabinet ministers.

As Sir John French, dressed in his khaki uniform, stepped from the train in the French capital, a roar of cheering for England and France, rose from the great crowd which had assembled and the people then sang the national anthems of the two countries.

Sir John French drove to the British embassy, and his motor car all the way through the streets was the centre of a human whirlpool. Even the police were excited, and they were wholly unable to restrain the populace, which surged around the car, shouting clamorously: Hurrah for General French, Hurrah for England; Hurrah for France! Women held children above the crowd to see the famous English general, whose motor car was soon filled with small flags and cockades.

The coincident of the British commander-in-chief's name being French in regard to a happy augury for the allies.

After sleeping at the embassy, Sir John French paid a visit to the Palace of the Elysee, where he had a long conference with President Poincaré. When the death of General Grierson from heart trouble was announced today as having occurred while traveling on a train, everybody in official circles understood that the general had been stricken in France. His death will be deeply deplored by the nation.

BISHOP OF LONDON FIXES AUGUST 21 AS DAY OF INTERCESSION

New York, Aug. 18.—A London cable to the Tribune says: The Bishop of London has addressed the following letter to the clergy of his diocese:

"We are face to face with the greatest crisis which our country has known for nearly a century, and, thank God, as far as this particular quarrel is concerned we can encounter it with a good conscience. To have betrayed our friends, to have stood by with folded hands while the independence of the smaller states of Europe was crushed would have been a lasting disgrace to Great Britain. No one was less anxious for war than we were. No one strove harder for peace than our representatives. We can then pray with good conscience for victory and appeal to God, who knows everything, to decide between us and our enemies; and yet we must pray, as our Lord prayed, in perfect charity with all men.

"We have no quarrel with the German people as such; when the military despotism which for a time controls their policy is brushed away, it may lead to better relations with the German people than we ever had before.

"It is to secure such united intercession that Friday, August 21, will be observed as a special day of prayer and intercession."

Mexican Money Matters

Mexico City, Aug. 17.—The banks of the capital which closed on last Thursday probably will re-open tomorrow. The question of a circulating medium is causing some uneasiness in business circles. At present four distinct issues of bank notes are being passed in ordinary business transactions.

Eight Ottawa Scout-masters will go with the first Canadian contingent.

Phetis and Pledford WEATHER BULLETIN

Issued by authority of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, H. P. Stupart, director of meteorological service.

Synopsis—Heavy thunderstorms have been general in the peninsula of Ontario and they have occurred more locally in Quebec. In the west the weather has been fine.

Showers.

Maritime—Moderate southerly winds, fair today; showers and thunder storms tonight and on Wednesday.

FRENCH SAILORS AT RIFLE PRACTICE

The sailors on the French men-of-war are regarded as among the best marksmen in the world. While others of the powers have been adding to the numerical strength of their navies the French have been developing the greatest efficiency in marksmanship, not only with their cannon, but with rifles in case of land service.

GERMANS BURN VISE AND TOWN OF BRUZWEILER

People Driven Out of Former At Bayonet Point

REVENGE FOR SHOTS FIRED

Bruzweiler is Swiss Town — Invaders Said People Had Fired on German Patrol — Women Put to Work in Coal Mines

London, Aug. 18.—A despatch to the Times from the Hague says that the Germans have completed the destruction of Vise by burning what was left after the previous fire. The inhabitants were driven into Holland. Fourteen refugees died on the way to Maastricht.

A despatch to the Chronicle from Amsterdam also states that refugees from Vise arriving at Maastricht report that Vise was burned over a second time on Saturday night.

It is alleged that the Germans vowed the destruction of the city because the shots which killed several Germans were fired there, though the inhabitants insist that the firing was by accident on the part of the victors.

The correspondent says that the soldiers drove the people from the town at the point of the bayonet before setting the fires which wiped out all its factories. He says that most of the able-bodied men of the town have been arrested and sent to Aix-La-Chapelle for trial.

Outrage in Switzerland

London, Aug. 18.—The Times' correspondent at Berne, Switzerland, says:—

"The Germans have burned the town of Bruzweiler and blown up all its factories, the reason alleged being that the inhabitants fired on a German patrol. All the people of the town were required to register.

"Notwithstanding assurances that Germany is provided with plenty of coal. It is known here that women are being employed in the collieries in the province of Rhine and Westphalia."

Two More German Warships Crippled Says Shanghai Cable

Shanghai, China, Aug. 18.—Two German cruisers have been disabled and brought into Hong Kong. Confirmation of this fact was received here today. The deck works, the turbines and the barbettes of the two cruisers were demolished and their masts and funnels had been shot away. Their sides were stained with blood which had run through the scupper.

Owing to the rigid censorship established by the British authorities at Hong Kong, it is impossible to obtain the names of the two cruisers. Many German merchant vessels are lying in the harbor at Hong Kong.

AUSTRIAN DEFEAT PLEASES ITALIANS

Paris, Aug. 18.—A despatch to the Havas agency from Rome says that the news from Antivari that a Franco-British fleet had defeated an Austrian fleet aroused the keenest enthusiasm in Rome.

C. P. R. Lined Dodge Germans

Yokohama, Aug. 18.—The C. P. R. Empress of Russia, recently taken over by the British government and ordered delivered to the British naval authorities at Hong Kong, arrived from Vancouver today. The steamer dodged two German cruisers. She crossed the Pacific with her lights extinguished.

Russian Army Advances

General Forward March Begun on Sunday—General News From The War Zone

London, Aug. 18.—The general advance of the Russian army began on Sunday, according to the Times' St. Petersburg correspondent. He says:—

"I am permitted to state that the Russian armies began their general advance on Sunday.

GERMAN PLANS BEING BLOCKED

London, Aug. 18.—The Times correspondent says:—

According to news received in military circles, the French army may be considered reasonably to have already achieved a strategic victory. There is good reason to believe that the Germans' left flank has been turned, which, no doubt, will compel the Germans to desist from their turning movement around Liege.

Moreover the exertion of strong pressure on the Austro-Hungarian and German borders from this side at least a week earlier than was supposed possible, will undoubtedly, discouraged the enemy in their attack on France."

Paris, Aug. 18.—A despatch to the Times from Brussels says that the battle in the north is turning to the advantage of the Belgians. According to the Belgian minister of war, their forces have blocked the pivoting move southward, undertaken by three corps of the German army at Liege.

German Crown Prince Wounded?

Paris, Aug. 18.—An official announcement here says the rumor is persistent at the Hague that the German crown prince had been seriously wounded and is lying at Aix-La-Chapelle, whither the Emperor William has hastened to his side.

KAISER AGAIN FAILS TO INDUCE THE BELGIANS TO LET HIM THROUGH

London, Aug. 18.—According to the "Times," after the heavy casualties, which the Germans incurred before the Liege forts, the emperor approached King Albert of Belgium through the Queen of Holland and promised in recognition of Belgian valor, most considerate treatment of the Belgian population and full respect for Belgian territory if Belgium would abandon her resistance and allow the German troops right of way through Belgium.

These overtures, the "Times" says, were firmly rejected by Belgium.

VIVID DESCRIPTION OF WAR SCENES IN PARIS IN LETTER FROM W. C. CROSS

St. John Man Managed to Get to London on Last Day Before Barriers Were Put Up

WILDEST EXCITEMENT IN FRENCH CAPITAL

Stirring and Pathetic Incidents as Soldiers Entrained For Front—Battleships on all Hands as Channel is Crossed—Travelers Put to Great Inconvenience and Some Hardships

When the declaration of war between France and Germany was made at least one St. John man was in the midst of the activities of the hostile zone. W. C. Cross, of the firm of Hall & Fairweather, Prince William street, had been in Europe with Y. M. C. A. delegates on matters pertaining to that body in the world's convention and was in Paris when the trouble came to a head.

Although he is now on his way home in the steamer of the steamer Baltic, the best accommodation he could secure, Mr. Cross had some exciting adventures before getting to safety. Letters published herewith give a graphic description of events on the other side. At the time the letters were written, and even yet, in fact, Mr. Cross was unaware of the death of his little girl, efforts to reach him by cable having failed, so that he has another shock of a much more saddening nature awaiting him upon his arrival this week in St. John. He writes:—

Paris, Monday, Aug. 8, 1914. This has been a most eventful day to me and as it closes I am aboard a train to Boulogne with hundreds of others flying from the besieged city and in charge of the soldiers—barricaded or when.

I was awakened by a din enough to wake the dead and as soon as I had breakfasted on rolls and coffee I sallied forth to the Gare du Nord (Nord station) to see what was doing—everything was in charge of the soldiers—barricaded or when.

I went with the gentlemen to show him the way to the American Express Company to get some cash. On the way we bought an English paper stating that war had been declared and then I began to believe I might have trouble in getting out of France. (Continued on page 10, first column)

St. John Pastor Home After Exciting Trip Across Ocean

His Steamer, The Teutonic, Chased by German Cruiser and Only Escaped by Aid of The Darkness and Fog—Rev. Mr. Wentworth Tells of Conditions on Other Side

After being in England and on the continent for the last two months, Rev. F. H. Wentworth, pastor of Waterloo street Baptist church, accompanied by his wife and their two children, returned home this morning. They came via Montreal on the steamer Teutonic, after a most exciting voyage, in which they were nearly captured by a German cruiser and escaped only by the providential covering of fog. On Wednesday night of last week a German cruiser sighted them some miles away, and, flashing her searchlights on them to keep them in view, tried hard to catch up with them.

All possible steam was piled on the Teutonic's powerful engines, and she rushed through the darkness and fog with not a light showing. Thanks to the fog, she got safely away. It was not known what cruiser it was that had chased the steamer.

Mr. Wentworth said that the people of England had displayed remarkable calm in the face of the serious danger.

SERVIANS SAY AUSTRIANS BADLY BEATEN

Nish, Servia, Aug. 18.—The Austrians have been completely defeated near Sabac, twenty-seven miles west of Belgrade, according to government advices. They fled toward Lesnatz and Losnits, pursued by Servians, who up to three regiments and captured fourteen guns.

London, Aug. 18.—The Servian legation has received the following telegram from the Servian premier:—

"The Austrians were completely routed in the mountains near Sabac, and 1,500 annihilated. Four guns were captured. The Austrians are fleeing in great disorder to re-cross the rivers Save and Drina, hotly pursued by our troops."

THE LION'S BROOD

The world was full of darkness and of doubt; The stars were dim and the hunders were out; And the sea began to rumble and moan, And the Lion stood down by the shore, alone, And sent to the bounds of earth and sea The first low notes of thunder to be. Then one by one from the vastness dim The whelps of the Lion answered him.

St. John's Volunteers

An interesting place in these stirring days is the recruiting office of the 62nd St. John Fusiliers at 81 Prince William street. Of course every active man in these days is thinking about military training for home or foreign service, and his own responsibility in that connection. The battles of the Empire, and the hard work of the trenches, never would be carried on if everybody waited for his neighbor to undertake the glory and the hard work necessary to uphold the flag.

CANADIAN WAR NOTES

An Austrian reservist was arrested last night in Stratford, Ont., while endeavoring to buy a ticket home. He was taken to the wireless station at St. John's and held there until a despatch was received. Four sentries fired and pursued the attacker into the woods. No details are given.

PROBLEM MUST BE FACED WITH NO DELAY

Families of British Reservists Left in Very Poor Circumstances—Temporary Aid Provided. The problem of caring for the families of soldiers who go to the front is one of an extremely practical nature which must be faced by this city. The Canadian volunteers are better paid than the European soldiers and, with their pay, service allowance and, in the case of married men, a separation allowance, they will be able to contribute something towards their families' support although it will hardly be enough to meet the usual expenses of a family. The citizens' fund will supplement this.

KIDNEY TROUBLE AFFECTED HIS SPINE

Used 'Fruit-a-Lives' For Forty Years Until He Suffered For Forty Years Until He Used 'Fruit-a-Lives'. Bronte, Ont., Oct. 31st, 1913. For about forty years I was troubled with Kidney Trouble. I was never cured until I used 'Fruit-a-Lives' which never did me any good. Then I saw 'Fruit-a-Lives' advertised and decided to try them. They did me more good than any other remedy.

NOVA SCOTIA TAKES LEAD IN TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Two matches were played in the Maritime Tennis tournament on the local courts this morning. The men's singles resulted in a great struggle between A. C. Wiswell, of Nova Scotia, and J. Chisholm, of New Brunswick, resulting in the title being lifted by the Nova Scotian after five exciting sets.

RAISE FUNDS FOR DEPARTING MEN

(Continued from page 1). relief of those who would be deprived of their means of support by the departure of the soldiers. The matter of making the fund a provincial rather than a local one was debated and the decision was left in the hands of the committee. It was suggested that the fund be made local for the present and then, if any of the outside places desired to come in, arrangements could be made for them to do so.

Luckily she saw it coming and managed to dodge, but escaped by only the narrowest margin. Similar occurrences have been reported before.

THE MINTO COAL MINES

More than 2,000 tons of coal a week are being taken out of the mines at Minto. The Toronto Mail and Empire of Saturday said: "The first favorable turn in the flour market came yesterday when the big milling companies quoted lower prices. The Ogilvie Mills, which placed the value of first patents at $8.40 two days ago, were selling yesterday at $8.20. Second patents were lowered from $8.50 to $8.70.

MONKTON BUY DROWNED IN CREEK NEAR HOME

Monkton, Aug. 18—John Chapman, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Chapman, Waterloo street, was drowned about 9.30 o'clock this morning in a small creek running into the Pettoctidec River near Foundry street, a few hundred feet from the Chapman home. The body had been forbidden by his parents to swim in the creek but went into the water this morning with playmates. The father and mother of the drowned boy were among the first at the scene of the accident. The body was recovered after an hour and all attempts at resuscitation failed. Coroner James Kay viewed the remains this evening, said that an inquest was unnecessary.

ONTARIO GERMAN DENOUNCES KAISER Condemns Him as Leader of An "Insane Military Government" THE FOE OF EUROPE

Woodstock, Ont., Aug. 18—Professor F. V. Rietdhof, of the staff of Woodstock College, and a former German soldier, has written a remarkable letter denouncing the German Emperor, which was published in the Sentinel-Review of this city. After stating that the quarrel in the present war is not with the German people, Professor Rietdhof says: "We must deeply sympathize with the German people in the sufferings and dangers brought upon them by their ruling classes, by their oligarchic, insane, military government. It is the Germany of the clenched fist and drawn sword, of the shining armor and the sabre rattling in the scabbard that calls for no sympathy on our part. It is the Germany that has precipitated the monstrous world struggle of the day that fills us all with horror and indignation."

THE WAR NEWS

Today's London papers had news from the war zone which led them to believe that a great battle was in progress in Belgium, possibly not far from historic Waterloo. A Brussels report indicated that the Germans were nearing the city. The seat of government had been removed from Brussels to Antwerp. It is assumed that the allied Belgian and French armies would not permit the German occupation of Brussels without a battle, hence the belief that heavy fighting was in progress. There is as yet, however, no confirmation. The first great engagement will take place whenever the advancing German army has arrived at the point selected by the allies as their first great battle ground. Perhaps that point has been reached, but as both British and French army councils have refused to allow correspondents to accompany their forces, and as it is said that correspondents will be asked or have been asked to leave Belgium, the world must wait for definite and satisfactory news until it is given out by the war offices.

The latest reports from Alsace show that the French are still advancing and have not as yet suffered a single severe check. While their loss has been considerable it is claimed that they have inflicted greater loss upon their enemies. The news from Belgium last night, while it indicated that the Germans were advancing into that country, yet showed that wherever the Belgian and German outposts came into contact the latter as usual got the worst of the encounter.

News from Austria is to the effect that while some of her forces are engaged on the frontier of Montenegro and others on the Serbian frontier, where they have suffered another defeat, several army corps have crossed the Russian border. The movements of Russian armies are still veiled in secrecy, but unquestionably her forces are massing in steadily increasing numbers on both the German and Austrian frontiers, and this makes it all the more imperative that the German armies in the west should crush the allies, if possible, and release more of their forces for the march eastward, to meet the hosts of Russia.

News comes of loss inflicted upon the Austrian fleet in the Adriatic, and it is said that a German cruiser was sunk by a British warship off Canary Islands. The latter report, however, is not confirmed from London. It is officially announced that Japan's action against Germany will be confined to the China Seas, except in so far as may be necessary to protect Japanese ships. On the Atlantic trade routes more British cruisers are now on duty, and these routes are practically safe for shipping. Evidently the British Admiralty is satisfied that it has the German navy, with the exception of a few cruisers, bottled up in the North Sea. Today's cables tell of two captured German cruisers taken into Hong Kong.

There is much speculation as to the probable duration of the great battle or battles in Belgium and along the French frontier. The line of contact between the opposing forces is so long and the armies are so vast in numbers that the issue cannot finally be decided in a day or a week. One of today's cables expresses the view that the French have been successful in turning the left flank of the German armies operating in Luxemburg and Belgium. If this should be true, and if the allied forces are massed in great numbers on the German front, it would seem to indicate the complete failure of the German campaign in Belgium. It may be regarded as significant that Germany has called another 600,000 men to the colors. There is still no word of the British expeditionary force, further than the laconic statement that it has safely landed on French soil. It may be assumed, however, that the allies, with their splendid aeroplane service, are well informed as to the movements of the German armies and that they will not be taken by surprise at any point.

MORE CHERFUL OUTLOOK
 Food is cheap in London, Paris and Brussels. The Atlantic sea route is safe for commerce. Britain is also able to secure supplies by way of the North Sea from Scandinavia. An English cable says:

"Trade should soon be normal again, as the stoppage of trade from the continent is expected to be more than compensated for by the increased trade of North and South America and elsewhere overseas at Germany's expense, owing to the cessation of German commerce and shipping."

These are all reassuring statements, and give good ground for the plea that a spirit of confidence should prevail in business circles in Canada. An English authority, reviewing the fluctuations of wheat in war-time during the last fifty years, shows that invariably the nudden rise in price at the outbreak of the war was followed by a continuous decline until the former low figure was reached.

It is expected that the government will introduce legislation at Ottawa this week giving authority to the executive control food supplies and the price charged to consumers during the war.

AGRICULTURE
Why Stockraising is Permanently Profitable
 Saskatoon, Sask., Aug. 18.—On the 4th August, in the course of his remarks at the opening of the Saskatoon Industrial Exhibition, Hon. Walter Scott, premier of Saskatchewan, stated that there was a growing demand for meat and a corresponding decrease in the supply. Statistics showed in the past half dozen years the lessening of the number of cattle in the United States had been to the extent of sixteen million head. At the same time the population had increased by ten or eleven million.

The increase in the population of the Dominion of Canada had been thirty-five per cent but the increase in the meat supply only been twenty per cent.

"I cite these facts to illustrate the well known truth that the supply of meat produced is diminishing while on the other hand the demand is increasing," said the premier. "And I am satisfied that in the years to come, if it is given the same attention, the returns will be greater and there will be an even more advantageous condition of agriculture which is the basis of everything in this province."

On Well Appointed Tables
Butternut Bread Holds Sway
 Does it on YOURS?

The government will not be at all anxious to exercise this authority, and will only do so if it is found that advantage is taken of war conditions to unduly raise prices. No doubt the bill will be promptly adopted, and in any case of attempted extortion severe penalties imposed. It is understood the bill is modelled on legislation just passed by the British parliament.

Within less than ten days after Britain had formally entered on this war the Admiralty was able to announce that provision had been made by the British and French governments for the protection of Atlantic shipping under the flag of the two nations. As there appears to be no reasonable probability that the German fleet will be able to disturb the conditions, regular steamship sailings across the Atlantic should soon take place on almost as large a scale as before the war.

The appropriation by the Canadian parliament for war purposes may amount to $75,000,000, which it is thought would be sufficient to cover all possible drafts until parliament meets again in January.

The war session of the Canadian parliament opens this afternoon. The leader of the government and the leader of the opposition are in harmony, and the session will be short and non-controversial. An Ottawa despatch says the session will probably not last more than two weeks.

It is expected that the city of Toronto will insure each volunteer from that city for $1,000, and will also make provision to distribute a fund of $4,000 for the comfort and convenience of the men while in service. It is estimated that the total expense to the city will be nearly a quarter of a million dollars. Toronto does well.

In the gathering of funds for the families of those going to war it is noticeable that, while provision is made for wives and children of the married volunteers there seems to be no special thought of those mothers whose only sons, and thus their only support, are going away to fight the Emperor's battles. These also must be remembered.

The announcement that a town planning commission has been appointed will be received with pleasure by the citizens. It may be doubted, however, if the three members of the city council who are also members of the commission will be able to spare time from their other duties to give much attention to town planning.

Germany sneers at an alleged appeal by the Emperor of Russia to the Jews to volunteer to fight the Russian army. Commenting on the attitude of the Jews the professor of Hebrew in the Baron de Hirsch Institute in Montreal says: "It is true that the Jews have no love for Russia; however, the Jew is not unkindly of the fact that Germany is the home of anti-Semitism."

Sir Rider Haggard was right. The people of St. John do not realize as yet that we are England, and that we, as well as England, are in danger. The public meeting called at the Imperial Theatre yesterday afternoon by the mayor to consider some provision for the men and the families of the men who are going to the front had to be adjourned because only a mere handful of citizens attended. They do why? Better in other Canadian cities. Why?

Mr. H. G. Wells in one of his cables severely censures people who rush in to purchase large supplies of food for themselves with an utterly selfish disregard for the needs of the poor. The only way to protect the poor from the selfish rich and from any dealers who may be unscrupulous and grasping is public control of the supply and distribution of food; but it is hardly probable that such a drastic measure will be necessary. The fact that the government assumes the power to do so will do much to render it unnecessary.

"AFTER MIDNIGHT," AUGUST 5, 1914.
 (Agnes Maude Macfar, Fidelia.)
 In the silent midnight watches, while the world lies fast asleep,
 And silent broods o'er quiet fields and farms,
 The battalions of Britain speed forth upon the deep,
 To meet the bristling Titans and Teuton clash of arms;
 And Britain's troth to keep!

Not theirs to weigh the causes that stirred the cruel fray,
 Or measure out the guilt of evil thought or deed!
 'Tis Britain's voice has spoken! She bids them win the day,
 And each man will "do his duty" nor fall be at her need—
 They echo on—their way!

They guard a nation's honor—An Empire's glory holds
 Millions of hearts are praying for their prowess and their power,
 With human hopes full freighted for aye yet untold,
 Of peace and freedom wrested from Europe's fateful hour—
 They speed on—their way!

Lord of nations, who didst shatter a proud Armenia's might,
 Be their shield and unseen vanguard—with one voice a nation cries:
 "God and the Right!" their war cry—
 To win for Man and Freedom—
 Where'er their standard flies—
 The triumph of the Right!

THE KAISER.
 Curse not the man who bathes the world in blood!
 May God have pity on his blinded soul,
 But Oh! Thrice cursed his evil tendencies,
 His selfish pride, and love of foolish pomp,
 His utter disregard of who may die
 To feed his devilish lust of domination.
 Brave Belgium's fields are steeped in peaceful blood,
 To slake his thirst, and still the dreadful flood
 Rolls toward France and all the world
 Arm, Britons all! And like a well thrown lance
 Strike home, and rid the world of this disgrace.

COMPANIES GRANTING SOLDIERS' INSURANCE
 Many Insurance Firms Continue Risks on Recruits Without Extra Premiums

(Montreal Mail).

Without making any announcements of the fact, a number of insurance companies operating in Montreal and throughout Canada generally—both American and Canadian companies—have done a great deal toward encouraging recruiting by waiving their legal privileges in the matter of policies held by men who wish to join the Canadian contingent and by reservists of European armies.

A majority of the policies in force in this province, as well as in other provinces, contain a military clause under which rates may be raised, or policies temporarily cancelled while the holders are engaged on the battlefield. These companies are telling the insured not to worry, that the rates will not be raised on their policies because they have enlisted for active service. When applied for, they are giving permits guaranteeing the policies under all conditions.

One company, which does one of the biggest businesses in the province of Quebec has issued a notice to its policyholders to the effect that "all policies heretofore issued upon lives of Canadians by the company will be regarded as free from military restrictions." The same company has even granted policies up to a few days ago at the ordinary rates to those going abroad for service.

Not all the companies, however, are acting in this generous way. An official of a large company in Montreal said Friday morning that his company is raising the rate of risk on its policies by as much as $50 per thousand additional. The law allows them to do so, and the policies contain clauses so stating. This company is not issuing policies to those enlisting except at rates which the officials state would prevent anyone insuring.

TWO BANDITS HOLD UP AND ROB HOMESTEAD BANK

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 17.—Two men entered the Homestead National Bank today, covered officers with revolvers, took all available cash and fled, escaping in an automobile.

The robbers were overtaken in Mill-ford township by Constables Smith and Dixon. The constables opened fire on the robbers but the latter were abandoning the stolen automobile and getting into a high-powered machine, apparently in waiting, with a chauffeur. The robbers returned the fire, dropping Smith with a bullet in the leg and Dixon with a shot in the shoulder.

WAR EFFECT ON TRADE OF CANADA IS NOT SERIOUS SO FAR

Bradstreet's Montreal weekly trade report for last week says:

A great deal of caution is being exercised in wholesale trade circles. Orders coming in have been light and more of a sorting character. Imported merchandise of all classes, which are affected by the war, on which there is likely to be a shortage, or rapid advance in prices, have been most sought after.

The drug trade feel the effects of the war more than most lines, as most of their raw material, and manufactured goods, come from European cities, and prices, generally have advanced.

Foodstuffs generally have all gone up in price.

Manufacturers in all lines (except those who have orders from the government for war supplies), are exceedingly quiet, and are curtailing as much as possible.

A good many regular lines of ocean steamers and a number of tramp steamers, the latter loaded with grain, left port this week.

Ocean freight rates have advanced about fifty per cent, on all goods, with the exception of flour and grain.

A number of large building operations which were about to be commenced have been put off indefinitely. The retail trade has been on the quiet side.

Remittance and city collections have been very fair, under the present conditions.

Dun's Bulletin for last week says:

The interference with general trade, owing to the war conditions, is not very apparent as yet, though disturbing influences are coming to the surface daily. General groceries are in active demand in anticipation of material advances. Already one local refinery has advanced quotations of refined sugars 80 cents a cent, though the second company announces it will make no change for the present.

The dry goods trade has not as yet felt any serious inconvenience, having received the bulk of fall shipments from the continent before the declaration of war.

Large government orders have been placed with textile mills, as well as with manufacturers of military clothing for the equipment of the Canadian contingent for active service.

Some large orders have also been placed for boots, and the local factories in this line show more activity. Leather prices are very firmly held.

The drug trade is probably more seriously affected than any other line, Germany being the main source of supply for many lines of chemicals, dyes, etc. Prices are advancing rapidly, in some cases already to over 100 per cent.

Eleven district failures are reported for the week, with liabilities of about $68,000.

Hints for the Cook

Sugar Wafer.
One egg, one cup of sugar, two-thirds cup of butter, four tablespoons of milk, one tablespoon of vanilla, one and a half teaspoons of cream tartar, two-thirds teaspoon of soda, flour to roll very thin, cut in small fancy shapes.

Banana Pie.
Line a deep plate with a rich pie-crust and bake a delicate brown.
Filling—Take a scant cup of sugar in your saucepan and cream into a generous teaspoon of butter (not melted), beat in the yolks of two eggs and two tablespoons of flour, add a cup of boiling water and cook, stirring constantly until thick; add a little vanilla; after this cream is cool slice into the cool crust a layer of bananas, alternated with a layer of cream. There should be two layers of each. Beat the whites of the eggs with two teaspoons sugar and spread on top and brown slightly. Serve cold.

HOLY FATHER'S ORDE'S FOR PRAYERS FOR PEACE

Following is the text of the Holy Father's exhortation to the Catholics of the whole world to unite in prayers for peace as called by the Home Correspondent of the Catholic Press Association:

"While nearly all Europe is being drawn into the vortex of a disastrous war and all who consider the dangers and horrors of its consequences must be overcome with grief and terror we also must be deeply affected.

"Our soul is torn with the bitterest grief for the safety of the life of so many of our beloved children. We feel and know that this terrible and universal trouble demands of our paternal love and apostolic ministry that we cause men's minds to be lifted to Him from Whom alone help can come—Christ, the Prince of Peace, the most potent Mediator before God for mankind."

AFTER A GROWN-UP MODEL

A mother could search for the remainder of the season without finding a model that would give greater delight to her small girl than the one shown here. The skirt is made of French linen, while the shirt waist is of dainty blue and white striped cotton voile. Serge may be used for the skirt instead of linen, if preferred. White batiste with a blue edge finish as the collar and cuffs.

One and one-half yard of material 44 inches wide will be required to make the skirt and 1 yard of 36-inch voile for the waist.

First, fold the skirt material, the yoke of the skirt should be placed on the lengthwise fold; then the front gore and belt are arranged in place in the same way. The back gore is laid on a lengthwise fold of the goods.

In cutting the waist the voile is folded in the same way as the skirt material, the back and pocket being arranged on a lengthwise fold. If a light color is used this is also placed on the lengthwise fold. The front of the waist, sleeves and cuffs are on a lengthwise fold.

Close the under-arm and shoulder seams of the waist, and hem the front. Gather the lower edge; then sew the belt to it. Sew the batiste fitting to the neck edge with a seamless strip of material; then hem. Hem the pocket; then stitch it into place, matching the notches exactly. If short sleeves are used cut off at small "o" perforations, sew batiste to edge and hem.

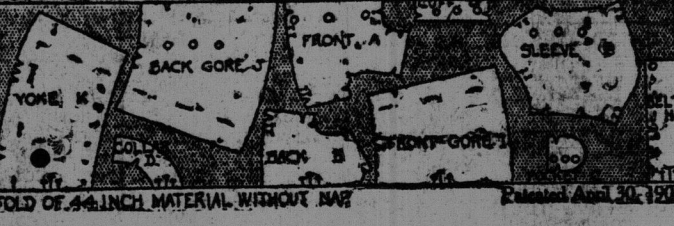

New Join the yoke of the skirt as noted; close center-back seams of gore and yoke. First, creasing in slot perforations; bring folded edges near center-backs to seam and remaining folded edges to line of small "o" perforations. Turn under lower edge of yoke on double "o" perforations and hem. Lap yokes on gore, notches center and edges underneath even; stitch yoke as illustrated. Turn hem at lower edge of gore on small "o" perforations.

The buttons used in the trimming may be made of silk or linen.

This unusual little dress consists of a skirt of heavy linen and waist of striped voile. The skirt has a center-back seam and is to be slipped over the head.

Manchester Robertson Allison, Limited

But it seems easy. London, Aug. 17.—While the phrase "a little bit" is so easy for native English speaking persons to pronounce that it would seem to make a weak test for other tongue twisters by Prof. Walter Rippman of the University of London for foreigners to practice on. Any one who can say "a little bit" correctly has nothing else to fear in pronouncing English. Professor Rippman has told the students from some eighteen foreign countries who are here to take the special summer course of lectures arranged for their benefit. The beginner in English usually gets no closer to "a little bit" than "a leel beet" or "a leet bid." But when he does master it, the classic "prunes, prisms and persimmons" and "picked peck of pickled peppers" come comparatively easy.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

Interest in England in Lord Zouche's Successor—The Arrest of a Prince and Princess

(Copyright, 1914, by the Brentwood Company)
Great Britain's perches in their own right have just received a notable accession through the death of Lord Zouche of Haryngworth, who is succeeded in his honors and estates by his sister, an elderly spinster, hitherto known as the Hon. Dares Curzon. She is in the neighborhood of sixty, and is the fifteenth owner of a Barony, which, although the very last in the roll of the peerage, alphabetically speaking, is nevertheless one of the first in point of seniority, having been created in 1297, by that Edward who, according to history was murdered in the most shocking fashion at Berkeley Castle in 1327, but who according to documentary evidence discovered within the last few years, in Italy and France, in archives of the fourteenth century, is shown to have escaped, first of all to Avignon, and afterwards, to northern Italy, where he survived, his alleged death for many years.

The country seat of the new Lady Zouche is in the fairest portion of Sussex, not far from the Duke of Norfolk's Arundel Castle. It is known as Parkin Park and comprises a grand old Elizabethan mansion, commanding a wonderful view of the Downs, and full of valuable books and MSS., old armor, old plate, sixteenth and seventeenth century furniture, and a magnificent gallery of paintings. The park is famous for its superb oaks and other trees, many hundreds of years old. It forms part of the ancient Weald of Sussex and contains a large herony, which has been established there since the reign of King James.

One of the finest pictures that formerly adorned the Parkin gallery, is the famous Gainsborough portrait of the Countess Ferrers, whose husband was caught at Tyburn with a silken rope, for murder, in 1760. The picture was sold for some $30,000, to the late Mrs. Morgan, and is now in the Metropolitan Art Museum, in New York. Another art treasure, the Louis de Zouche now in New York is the celebrated Chasse or Reliquary of St. Louis, which was for so many years in view in the Victoria and Albert Museum at South Kensington, and which is considered to be the finest piece of jewelry ever made in France, and in existence. It was made for St. Louis, the Crusader King of France, as a record of his being brought back from the Holy Land after his release from Saracen captivity, and is said to be the work of the goldsmith St. Denis, in Paris, until the time of the great French Revolution, when it was stolen and sold to Beckford, of "Vathek" fame. In 1828 it passed into the possession of the Lord Zouche of his day.

The late Lord Zouche married in 1875 Lord Salton's sister, who was for so many years a very unhappy one, and one who was very beautiful, and who, as Lady Zouche on being asked by her husband, as well as by her father, when she married Lord Zouche, and who, as a result of her marriage, married Lord Zouche and did not long afterwards.

On the demise of the new Lady Zouche, who after her brother's divorce made her home with him, her parents, as well as her father and the other estates will go to her cousin, the present Lady Frankland, who is the wife of Sir Frederick Frankland, who will be remembered on this side of the water as having been married, on premises near to Miss Charlotte di Zerega, of New York. The American Lady Frankland was a very beautiful woman, and aroused the warm interest of the late Queen Victoria in the South of France. The latter's attention had been attracted by Lady Frankland's delicate appearance during the last days of her life, and she had sent daily messages of inquiry and kindly sympathy, and on the very day of Lady Frankland's death called in her little donkey chair to ask for news of the invalid wife among the most beautiful women of the century was a wreath of white blossoms bearing the Queen's name, with an expression of the late Queen's sympathy for the young Princess. The latter has a little boy by her marriage to Sir Frederick Frankland, who will on his father's demise inherit the latter's Baroncy; while in due course of time he will succeed his mother, as Lord Zouche.

Sir Frederick is descended from Oliver Cromwell, the second owner of the Frankland Baroncy, having been a grandson of the first President of the British Republic. Indeed, among Sir Frederick's treasures is the original of the mask of Cromwell, which was taken after his death, and a copy of which exists in the British Museum.

In recording by cable the arrest of the Prince and Princess Yusouppoff at Berlin the other day, the Princess's vein appeal to the German Crown Prince, and their subsequent escape to Denmark, on board the special train bearing the widowed Carolina, the despatches made no mention of the fact that the Princess Yusouppoff in question was a member of the reigning house of Russia; indeed, a granddaughter of Empress Marie. Princess Yusouppoff bears the Christian name of Irene, and is the eldest child of that Grand Duke Alexander Michaelovitch who visited the United States last year, spending some time in Philadelphia, New York, and at Newport, where he was extensively entertained. Grand Duke Alexander's wife is the mother of young Princess Irene Yusouppoff, is Grand Duchess Xenia, eldest sister of Emperor Nicholas II., and was authorized by the Czar to assume his parents' princely name and title of Yusouppoff. The young couple have been spending the greater part of the season in London, almost daily guests of the Princess's aunt, Queen Alexandra, at Marlborough House. Of course the marriage does not figure in the current issue of the Almanach de Gotha, having taken place since the beginning of the year.

The Yusouppoffs are among the very richest nobles in Russia, much of their wealth being derived from almost inexhaustible turquoise mines. Strictly speaking, this very ancient family became extinct in the male line with the demise of Prince Nicholas Yusouppoff, who died in 1891, leaving an only daughter, Xenia, who married Count Ssumarokoff-Erlton, the latter receiving permission from the Czar to assume his wife's name and princely title. Their eldest son was killed in a duel, and their only surviving son, Felix, is the husband of Princess Irene, daughter of Grand Duchess Xenia.

I have been requested to deny the truth of the statement which has been widely published on both sides of the Atlantic, to the effect that the Belgian tribunal entrusted with the arbitration of the differences between the Duke and Duchess of Orleans, had rendered its judgment; the latter, so it was asserted, being against the Duke, who had been ordered to restore to the Duchess her dowry, and the annuity settled upon her at the time of her marriage.

The story is made up out of the whole cloth. There has been no tribunal, no arbitration, and no judgment, the representatives of the Duke and Duchess having come to an amicable arrangement in private. It was an arrangement which, while providing for the separation of the royal couple, did not call for any restoration of the Duchess's dowry and annuity, for the very simple reason that she has been in the enjoyment thereof for a long time past.

The arrangement for a definite separation has been very timely, since the Duke, a descendant of Henry IV., to whom he bears such a striking physical resemblance, is a patriotic Frenchman, whereas the Duchess is a member of the reigning House of Austria, a country now engaged in war with France.

CITY PLANNING COMMISSION

Police Vacancies Filled—$2,500 Worth of Hose Ordered—Leases Renewed

The excellent banking arrangement recently effected by the city place St. John in a much better position to finance expenditures during war times than most cities will enjoy. The matter of finance was discussed at the council meeting yesterday and reassuring statements regarding the city's position were made. There seemed to be little disposition to cut off necessary expenditures, and some of the commissioners advocated giving employment to as many men as possible in order to avoid hard times. An important step was taken by the city planning commission yesterday when a city plan commission was authorized under the New Brunswick act, and members of the commission appointed, as follows: Mayor Frink, Commissioner Wigmore and Potts, B. T. Hayes and W. F. Barditt. The commissioner of public safety moved that the chief of police be authorized to engage two additional patrolmen for the southern division to fill vacancies. This, he said, would bring the force up to its original strength, exclusive of the two extra men on the west side. He added that another vacancy had occurred recently, through a dismissal, and this would be filled also when reported. The recommendation was adopted. Com. McLellan also recommended that, owing to the unexpected breaking of a large quantity of fire hose, most of which had been in service for ten or twelve years, he be authorized to purchase immediately in his discretion $2,500 worth of hose for use in the fire department, towards the payment of which there is the sum of $1,000 in this year's assessment, and also that the other $1,500 be paid for at the end of the year out of the unexpended balance of his department. Carried. Leases Renewed. The commissioner of harbors, ferries and public lands reported recommending that renewal leases issue as follows: Lot No. 1065, Brooks ward, to William J. Smith for seven years, from May 1, 1913, at $9.00 per annum, an increase of 20 per cent on present rental. Lot No. 352, Prince ward, to George

INTERESTS OF PEOPLE DEMAND TAX REFORM
(Toronto Globe)
"All this goes to prove the contention that the one thing in which New Zealand has been successful in the interests of civilization has been in the taxation of land values. That is the one lesson we have learnt, and the one lesson the world may take from us—that in the interests of the people, as a whole, that value which the people should be taken and used for community purposes. You may rely upon it that until that is done all other experiments are vain and futile. You may reduce the cost of production, distribution and exchange to the vanishing point, and as long as a land-owner is left to gather in the economic value of those improvements, you will have trouble and distress in your country." In these striking words in an address which was penetrating, lucid, informative and comprehensive in its scope, Hon. George Fowlds, Auckland, New Zealand, last night commented on New Zealand's land policy at a dinner under the auspices of the Single Tax association of Ontario in the Korlova Tea Rooms. Referring to the war, Mr. Fowlds said that the unrest, as expressed by the growth of the Social Democratic movement in Germany, was becoming a menace to the rulers, and the outcome of that unrest was to be found, he believed, in the world wide struggle with which humanity was face to face. The struggle was probably the last great struggle between the principles of autocracy and democracy on a sound basis throughout the European continent. The terrible price that must be paid might be worth while.

THIS IS NO TIME FOR PESSIMISM

There is Much in the War Situation That Calls For Optimism in Canadian Trade Circles

(Montreal Financial Times)
This is no time for spoken pessimism in regard to Canada's future. Everybody knows and has known for some months that Canada has reached a point where personal and business extravagance must cease, and productive energy be more vigorously enforced. Two years ago, in the late autumn of 1912, to be precise, The Financial Times expressed itself in no uncertain terms regarding the absurd bull campaign on the Stock Exchange. It was a thankless task, and we deprecated the wild and woolly campaign which carried non-dividend stocks to a point that would have been too high on a five or six per cent dividend declaration. It would have been easy at the time to be carried away by the enthusiasm of the moment fostered by "tips" for the rise in almost every direction. But we condemned the wild hopes as exaggerated for the future, because they were out of all reason with the market prices prevailing on all securities listed or unlisted.

Today, however, with equal vehemence, the doleful plattitudes of those who do not believe in their own country. The time for pessimism is at the height of inflated markets and too-extended commercial credits, not when the country has suffered two years of readjustment, and when there is special need for fostering public confidence in the underlying strength of our great banking and insurance companies. Canada has had her lesson, and apart from war influences, is getting down to a position vastly superior to that of several European and South American states.

It is gratifying to know that the big bankers have the position well in hand and that they almost to a man are convinced of the inherent strength of the country's business enterprise. Those who may be over-enthusiastic can easily be checked in their ambitious desires, by the same bankers who hold the purse strings. Let us all get down to a better realization of our wonderful fortune, and practice the art of rebuilding, which can only be retarded by admissions of inferiority to do so.

AWAY WITH PESSIMISM

(Montreal Mail)
This is a fitting time to indulge in some optimistic talk, because there is much in the situation to justify it. Sir William Van Horne sees the business situation bright. He predicts that Canada's stimulated export of war supplies will bring a remarkable revival in trade to Canada. The war has brought with it a murderous contest raging in harvest time, will need all of our grain, provisions and other supplies to meet the demand. The sea today between Canada and England is practically open. The stagnation in money supplies will not or should not last long under that condition. If there is also stagnation in our industrial life, the same should be able to sell our cotton, our woolen, our leather goods, our clothing, our machinery in increased volume if our manufacturers are alert. Under these conditions local and regional dealers who have taken advantage of the situation to force prices up, and the resistance to the forces of pessimism which obstruct the normal flow of trade, are of strange conditions. The more trade Canada can develop in this time of crisis, the greater will be the influence which peace is again reached. There is much in the situation that calls for optimistic and constructive work, rather than a cessation of enterprise and a feeling of gloom.

Rabbits to Feed England

Germans find it hard to believe that any person of taste can eat rabbit, and the Englishman's tolerance of its constituents, in the opinion of Herr Mariano Hergeget, a safeguard in time of war. In a treatise published last year on the possibilities of a conflict between England and Germany, Herr Hergeget suggests that were our foreign food supplies cut off we could live upon rabbits. These animals litter every six weeks, and with a few dozen millions of them which the state could acquire in time of danger, England is safe.

SAYS THE CONSUMER IS RESPONSIBLE

Sir Henry Bate, Head of Big Grocery House, Declares People Lost Their Heads and Tried to Buy in Excessive Quantities

(Ottawa Journal)
Since the declaration of war, veal, fresh pork, creamery butter, flour, rolled oats, sugar, and many other necessities, have been advanced greatly in price and the cost of all articles which have been imported from England have been advanced at least five per cent, and in some cases as much as twenty cents on the dollar. Beans have been advanced forty cents per sixty pounds during the last few days, and owing to the fact that the major portion of the best beans used in Canada have been imported from Australia and the impossibility of Canadian wholesalers replenishing their supplies from this source during the war, a still further advance in the price seems likely expected. Blames the Consumer. Sir Henry Bate, president of Ottawa's largest wholesale importing grocery house, stated in The Journal, that the consumer is responsible for the increased prices of staple groceries in almost every instance. "When the declaration of war was made known the people became alarmed and were imbued with the idea that the prices of all groceries would advance to exorbitant figures immediately. The consequence was that the consumers flocked to the retailers and laid in excessive stocks of all lines of groceries, and the grocers in turn placed especially large orders with the wholesalers. Price is regulated by the law of supply and demand, and when the demand became abnormal the price naturally increased."

Rice had advanced one cent per pound and in the event of the German navy continuing to patrol the high seas menacing ocean ships the price of rice will experience a still further advance. Most of the rice consumed in Canada has been obtained from Holland, India and Japan and other low-lying countries. Many beans are grown in Western Ontario and the Ottawa Valley, but those are much inferior to those imported from Australia. No Advance in Fish. Fish prices have not advanced at all, and there is no scarcity of fish, as most of the fish used in Ontario is obtained from the Atlantic seaboard, and the fishermen there are protected from any possible attack by British cruisers. Sugar has been greatly increased in price. There is such a scarcity of sugar in Canada at the present time that the refiners are controlling the output and are selling to the wholesale houses only small amounts in proportion to what the Pacific, and as that traffic is practically suspended on account of the presence of German men-of-war in that vicinity, the problem of obtaining tea is going to be a serious one. A TIME FOR CALMNESS AND COOLNESS. (Montreal Mail). There is no excuse for a trade panic in Canada. With the exception of one or two articles—which on a pinch we could do without—and a few luxuries that we can—and shall—deny ourselves, the normal course of business in Canada should go on without interruption. Do not listen to panic mongers who may attempt to stampede the public. It is up to you, as the consumer, to help yourself, the retailers, the wholesalers, and the banks to keep things going along in the smooth way that we are used to. There is no need to worry—as long as England commands the sea—Canada and the rest of the Empire are safe. The Bank of England rate is almost normal—they should know. The British admiralty say: "Trade may proceed in safety on the high seas"—and they should know. So do your little best to keep things normal here—and you're helping the empire.

WORKS WILL GO ON

(Montreal Financial Times)
It is officially stated at Ottawa that there will be no curtailment of activity on Dominion public works on capital account, and that it will be the object of the government to afford employment to as large a body of workers as possible. In reply to the article published on the front page of the last issue, The Financial Times has received reassuring letters from a number of ministers of both the federal and various provincial cabinets, indicating thorough recognition of the situation. As regards the provinces they will to some extent be limited by their financial circumstances, as they do not possess the money-raising powers pertaining to the Dominion; but such funds as they have, along with their credit at the banks, will be freely used in the endeavor to contract the effects from the curtailment in other fields of employment. The Dominion, as shown by the financial statement elsewhere in this issue, is in excellent position, and there is every reason to believe that in spite of the curtailment of its ordinary revenues by the interruption to trade it will be able to maintain a large amount of its public works and provide employment for a great number of Canadians.

WHY SUGAR HAS RISEN

(Bradstreet's)
All the countries now at war, except Great Britain, are producers of beet sugar, Germany, Austria and Russia especially so. The following table shows the production of beet sugar in the countries at war, the total production of beet sugar in Europe, and the total production of all kinds of sugar in the world:

1913-14	Tons
Austria-Hungary	1,869,000
Belgium	376,000
France	881,000
Germany	2,658,000
Russia	1,200,000
Serbia	12,000
Total six countries	6,886,000
All Europe	7,508,000
All beet	8,488,000
Cane	9,845,000
Sugar crop	17,883,000

It will be seen that the six continental countries at war in Europe, in 1913-14, produced 87 per cent of Europe's total sugar production, 81 per cent of all the beet sugar of the world, and 38 per cent of all the sugar in the world. This year's yield of beet sugar was expected to be larger than for the year mentioned. With Europe in an armed camp, with millions of men withdrawn from agriculture, and with the beet sugar fields the scene of actual battles, the prospects of beet sugar production and prices are, to say the least, problematical.

of war the rush of the consumer to purchase large quantities of this necessity was so great that the retailers could not possibly keep a sufficient supply on hand, and the consequence was the curtailment of orders and the advance in the price. Much of the sugar used in Canada was obtained from Austria, but this source of supply, of course, is now completely cut off. During the course of the war Canada will have to depend upon sugar brought from the West Indies in American ships, at least until the Germans are driven out of the Caribbean Sea and from along the Atlantic seaboard. Increase in Butter. Creamery butter has been increased in price about 5 per cent, as New Zealand formerly supplied much butter to the Canadian markets, and the presence of German ships between Canada and New Zealand prevents traffic with any of the New Zealand ports at the present time. For the same reason, and on account of the high rate of war insurance, tea is exceptionally difficult to procure and has been advanced three cents per pound wholesale. Many of our luxuries were imported from France, and extra war insurance resulted in the raising of the price of these various articles approximately five per cent, and the prospects are that the cost of these goods will be still further increased if the war is prolonged. "Britain has taken two C. P. R. steamers off the Japanese Pacific route, and has also taken one of the Blue Funnel line tea steamers from the Vancouver-Yokohama route," said Sir Henry Bate this morning, "and as Great Britain had at least sixty per cent of the steamers engaged in freight conveyance on the Pacific, and as that traffic is practically suspended on account of the presence of German men-of-war in that vicinity, the

Germany Now Threaten Brussels and Capital is Moved to Antwerp—Defeat of Austrians at Sea is Confirmed

London, Aug. 18, 3.30 a.m.—The Daily Express says: "There is little doubt that a great battle is now occurring in Belgium between the Germans and the Belgian and French allies."
Our correspondent, in a cryptic despatch from Ghent, indicates that the Germans are advancing on the historic battleground of Waterloo and that events of the greatest importance are in progress.

Allies Practically Surround German and Austrian Forces and Great Britain Driving German Flag from the Seven Seas—Anticipate Heavy Losses in England, But Not Defeat.

(Special Cable from Resident Correspondent New York Herald.)

With the French army moving to support the gallant Belgians, it is only a question of hours when in the shock of a titanic battle near, if not on, the fatal field of Waterloo the mastery of Europe will be decided.

The French, with the strongest motive mankind has—the recovery of their brethren from a house of bondage—are full of confidence, intensified by the thoroughly unexpected victories of the Belgians inside the forts of Liege, which even at this moment are still being stormed by the Germans, and on the open battlefields, where the Belgians have proved in an amazed world that the Germans can not only be forced to retreat but to flee.

This is not meant as a reflection upon the courage of the Germans, who have fought with the courage of lions, as witness the case of one Urban, who slashed and stabbed at twenty French foes until he fell covered with wounds, only to be garlanded with flowers by his admiring enemies in recognition of his heroism.

It is understood that the correspondents will be asked to leave Belgium. Some have already returned.

Rio Janeiro, Aug. 17.—The Brazilian minister of foreign affairs, Dr. Lauro Muller, has instructed the Brazilian minister at Berlin to demand from the German government explanation and the punishment of those responsible for the attack by German soldiers on Bernardino Campos, ex-president of the State of Sao Paulo.

According to the reports received here, Senor Campos was assaulted and robbed while making his way across the Swiss frontier.

AMUSEMENTS

NAVY PICTURES AND FINE MUSIC

Imperial Theatre Did Capacity Business.

Crowds Became Wildly Enthusiastic Over Pictures of British Fleets.

Hundreds of people were unable to gain admission to Imperial Theatre last evening when the Our Navy motion pictures were the attraction. The main reason was "capacity" as well. No doubt the same sort of attendance will rule today and tomorrow as the film is to be shown these days. The pictures are truly a wonderfully inspiring and thorough depiction of the fleets of Great Britain, now so much in the minds and on the hearts of people loyal to King George.

There are six whole reels—the training of sailors, life on shipboard, training of guns and torpedoes, the play of the deck, Tars, land tactics, at sea amid the billows (until one's head swims); scenes in the dockyards and concluding with a most enthralling fight at sea with "The German Menace" and on land. Incidentally some pictures of the German North Sea fleet, yacht racing off Cowes and Kiel were shown. Then there were pictures of the unveiling of the Queen Victoria Memorial in Paris with British and French soldiers and sailors in the same procession; intimate movie views of the late King Edward and also of King George and Queen Mary. The representation of Queen Victoria as a mere slip of a girl being advised of her elevation to the throne was especially touching. On the whole it was a splendid patriotic and truthful pictorial and it certainly elicited the ever-ready expression of loyalty of the people of this city.

The Imperial musical features were excellent. Five pleasing ladies rendered a most delightful programme. It was refined, carried out with professional artistry and engaging stage presence. All the numbers were roundly applauded, though "no encores" was an order from the office due to the press of patronage. Later in the week the young ladies will respond to the demands for more. Their numbers were:

Irish song, Ellen Ashmore (in costume). Miss Lucy Folsom, with violin obligato by Miss Folsom herself.

Contralto solo, The Little Gray Home in the West, Miss Mabelle Frank.

Cello solo, Evening Star (from "Tannhauser"), Miss Mildred Eicher.

Violin solo—Scenes de Ballet (Le Periote), Miss Carolyn Weeks.

AUDIENCE PLEASED WITH MUSICAL PROGRAMME

Members of Company at Opera House Heard to Advantage Last Evening—Going to Amherst

Another sparkling musical programme was given to a highly pleased audience at the Opera House last evening by the members of Mack's Musical Revue. There will be but the two days' performance of this week's bill, ending tonight when the company will go to Amherst for an engagement. The programme given last night was a repetition of the features which introduced the Mack performers so pleasantly to local audiences a few weeks ago, and is regarded as one of the best in the repertoire of the company.

Several pretty numbers were heard, including a very quaint song number, "In the Days of Boys and Girls," and a fascinating rendition of "The Angelus," with fully veiled choir, in both of which Miss Alice Wallace took the solo part. Miss Margaret also scored a success in her song numbers. Miss Margaret Williams and Miss Vesta Gilbert were each applauded in their specialties, the former in "Come Take a Walk with Me," and the latter in "He's A Devil in His Own Home Town," with chorus in each case. "The Dixie Drum," sung by Miss Elvay Wallace was a catchy number.

THE FOLLIES OF THE DAY

"The Follies of the Day," a musical comedy sketch in which different members of the company were afforded opportunity to show their talents. The first named was given a hearty reception by the large audience. In this piece as well as in his monologue sketch, Frank Venette in costume sang a tuneful piece "Everybody Loves Soldiers," with pleasing effect, while James Carney scored a hit in "On the Board Walk," a bright song specialty, with chorus. Some clever dancing numbers were introduced in the "Follies," which she enacted the heaviest role, was again received with pleasure by the audience. Miss Wallace, Mr. Carney, and Mr. DeLuna supporting Miss Akerstrom. In the sketch, "Mr. DeLuna and Miss Adelle in a novelty sketch added to the enjoyment of the evening, and Messrs. Carney and Austin were popular in a song number, "I Wish I Was Back Home Again."

LUCILLE LOVE AGAIN

Picture Serial at Gem Theatre Proving Great Favorite—Comedy, Drama and Music Also

The adventures of "Lucille Love," the fascinating Girl of Mystery, occupied the stage at the Gem Theatre yesterday and the audiences were as fully delighted as on previous occasions when installments in this famous picture serial were given. The chapters shown yesterday were alive with action, and presented Lucille apparently at the mercy of her Nemesis and arch foe, who sought to get from her the documents she was supposed to possess. Lucille was convinced in further adventures of a highly exciting nature, and so enthusiastic were the audiences, that frequent applause was given the silent characters in the story.

MILLION DOLLAR MYSTERY GROWS IN STRENGTH

"The Top Floor Flat," the fourth episode of the Million Dollar Mystery, was shown at the Unique Theatre yesterday, and the general verdict was that by long odds this number was the best yet. Each chapter in fact seems to be away ahead of the former one, mystery and sensation abound in each, but in "The Top Floor Flat" may startle and almost weird scenes are introduced which has a tendency to make one forget the other three episodes entirely. The mystery grows deeper and deeper as the story proceeds. Just who has that million dollars?

THIRLLS AUDIENCE

A notable feature of this battle was that Commander DeWeese in fighting the enemy used her left hand with such success that King Oloom could actually be heard crying for mercy. The Germans were opposed by far superior forces, strongly entrenched. The German artillery fire was brilliant, they say, two shelling dangerous French batteries being quickly taken.

WOMEN'S WORK FOR WARRIORS

Will Provide Comforts For The Volunteers MEETINGS YESTERDAY

Call Issued to Members of Women's Institutes-Local and Canadian War Notes

Yesterday afternoon the advisory board of the St. John Women's Patriotic Society held a meeting and decided on certain procedure in their work. The St. John Women's Patriotic Society is an organization of which every woman belonging to the various women's organizations in St. John is a member by that very fact but as it is desired by the advisory committee an active worker.

Making "Housewives." At yesterday's meeting it was decided that the ladies of the three chapters of the Daughters of the Empire in the city would undertake the making of the "housewives" for the local men and will get to work immediately so as to have them ready by the time that the St. John boys go away.

The articles, their size and weight are: Cap, comforter ..... 0 lbs. 8 1/2; Hoddad (4 ozs.), containing lace (3/4 oz.), toothbrush (1 oz.), razor and case (3 ozs.), shaving brush (1 oz.) and comb (1 oz.) ..... 0 10 1/4; Greatcoat, with metal titles ..... 6 9 3/4; Housewife, fitted ..... 1 6 1/2; Ties, socks and cover ..... 0 4 1/4; Socks, worsted, 1 pair ..... 0 3 1/4; Soap, 1 piece ..... 0 9; Towel, hand ..... 0 9; Towel, bath ..... 0 9; Total ..... 10 0 1/4.

A list of articles which the women might make or purchase for the use of the soldiers was submitted and will be used as a guide in procuring supplies. The Soldiers Wives' League met last evening at Lady Tilley's apartments in the Prince William hotel to discuss future plans.

The Red Cross Society will meet in the same place this afternoon to effect organization.

Miss Hazel E. Winter, supervisor of the Women's Institutes in New Brunswick is issuing a call to all members to join in the work of providing comforts for the soldiers.

Report Denied. A despatch sent to the Portland Argus from Eastport saying that the fog horn in St. John harbor had been silenced and many of the boys returned on account of the war has been denied by J. C. Chesley. Instead of dismantling the horns in position new ones are being placed.

Major Blair Cochrane a carpenter doing business in Prince William street has written to Col. Sam Hughes whom he knows personally offering his services in whatever capacity he may be needed.

Montreal, Aug. 17.—Militia headquarters have so far received no intimation from Ottawa concerning their intention to send nurses to the front. The number of women who have offered their service in Montreal as nurses now stands at seventy-two and doctors at twenty-two. The number of volunteers for the voluntary aid detachments is also very large.

"Going Tourist" Is a Popular Way to Travel.

Tourist Sleepers—light and airy, with big comfortable berths, accommodating two adults, if desired—are carried from Montreal on Fast Transcontinental Express Trains for points in Western Canada, British Columbia and on the Pacific Coast.

Not as luxurious as the Palace Sleeper, but they meet the requirements of a superior class of patrons—and at half the cost.

W. C. Cross Writes Vividly of Wild Scenes in Paris

At Cook's office I could get no information as to when we could leave, three or four hundred people, mostly women, were there looking for direction and help to get home and everyone had some trying experience to tell but no one had any solution to offer. All sorts of stories were rumored—people worth lots of money could get little or nothing from their banks and no one could get cash sufficient to book a passage to New York. Only those who had gold were offered any hope. They were told to wait and see—the military department absolutely controlled the trains and no passengers other than soldiers could be carried.

At the American Express Company things were even worse—people were standing in line on the sidewalk waiting their turn to get checks cashed and my friend was two and one-half hours up to the time I left and he had not been waited on then. I was tired and faint from hunger and did not wait longer and have not seen him since.

After lunch I went to the station again passing several German soldiers who had been broken up by the crowds during the night. In a German crowsdy store, everything was smashed to bits.

Deafening Din.

The train service is demoralized, every omnibus in Paris has been seized by the military officials and private vans are being hurried about with provisions, men and accoutrements. Motor busses are going at break neck speed, tooting all the way. The racket is almost deafening and it is very dangerous to attempt to cross a street.

I did manage to get a few rides in the underground railway but this was closed before eight in the evening by orders from headquarters and thousands of people had to walk home. All lights in public places were ordered out at 8.30 p. m. I was practically turned out of the restaurant where I got my dinner before I had finished.

Everywhere one turns there are soldiers with all sorts of uniforms and men are driving wildly through the streets waving flags and shouting, yelling and kicking up no end of a row. It is awful.

From 2 to 4.30 I stood and sat on a cafe table with an Englishman, his sister and a French young lady friend of theirs just outside the barricade at the Gare du Nord waiting for an interpreter (a railway employe) to find out for us if any train would go to a point on the English Channel and at last we were told that at 9.20 there might be an opportunity to get to Boulogne. During the two and one-half hours we waited we saw things that kept the two girls wiping their eyes all the time and we men shed tears as well.

Every Frenchman who becomes twenty-one years old must serve two years in the army—rich and poor, low and high—there is no escaping from it,—no one can buy himself off; two years military training from ages of 21 to 28 for every Frenchman and when his time is served he gets his discharge and becomes a reserve. This means that every Frenchman is a trained soldier and until he is 48 years old he is liable to be called on at any minute to fight for his country. After he is 48 he does not have to go in the ranks but may, if he prefers, assist in the stores department or do any necessary work in connection with assisting in moving the army. Even the men in jails and prisons are being released to take their places with the other soldiers and in case of battle all prisoners are forced into the front ranks.

An Awful Scene.

All this I learned while waiting and there was a continual stream of men coming on foot, in taxis, in private cars, some with a swordstick, a wife or mother, in uniform and without, some followed by a whole family of small children, others accompanied by old people past the age limit for service, shouting, gesticulating, kissing, weeping, sobbing—oh, it was awful.

This is the first general mobilization for 48 years and it means that every Frenchman in France or out, over 24 and under 48 must report for active service; those in France within three days or before Tuesday afternoon and those in other countries as soon as they can get back home. By tomorrow night they expect to have two million men ready to fight. That shows how marvelously they are organized. They have been called out seven times before this because of Germany's attitude, in limited numbers, and now the feeling runs very high and they say it is light to finish and everybody at it. Not a motor car owned by a private individual can leave Paris today and there is no telephone service outside the city. All telephone lines are in the hands of the government and no private messages will be accepted under any conditions.

Among those who pressed to the barricade near the station were scores of mothers with infants, some a few weeks old in their arms, young girls apparently but just married, grandfathers who had served in other wars, and old women bringing whole families to say good-bye. I saw one man kiss his mother and his son about twelve years old and learned that he and four other sons were going to the front. Another left three girls and one boy crying as though their hearts would break; widowed mothers were there to see their sons off. One called out: "They killed my husband in the other war and now my son is going."

How brave the women were, some would hold the hand of their son or husband and not let them go until they were out of sight and then came the breakdown—others in the midst of the crowd and sobbing through their noses, hurrying them on to fight for their country—Men and women alike are ready to make the sacrifice.

At six o'clock I went to Cook's office and they knew nothing about the train we were told of at the station. Crowds of English and American tourists were there trying to get to the front and help each other and all with the same story of trouble in getting to Paris and procuring money. Many do not expect to be able to get out of Paris for a week. I visited more large buildings but could not get in any stores as nearly all the shops were closed because of the war. Iron shutters were down and notices posted saying that the places were being shut up. I was glad to get black coffee and two rolls without butter in a cafe (saloon) for lunch (it cost me four cents).

Lucky Return Ticket.

I met a Mr. Lavery from Boston in the subway when I was going home at 7.30 to the hotel and he showed me where to get dinner; in fact he translated the French menu for me and it was there we learned the lights were ordered out at 8.30. After dinner I went to get my return ticket and was stopped by this time to the station and a policeman told me a train was about to leave. I got my grip once by showing my return ticket to London I was allowed to go through the lines into the station as the train was about to leave. One man had been there, enough to fill a large train of fourteen cars. One man had been there, enough to fill a large train of fourteen cars.

Some local business offices are being crippled on account of employees enlisting for the war. Most of the employers, however, do not place any obstacle in the way of those willing to fight for the Empire and as a general thing the heaviest loss of absence to those anxious to go to the front has been in the case of a staff of twenty-five men, seven have enlisted in different regiments.

They are: A. H. Bartlett, C. F. Keegan, C. C. Ketchum, Frank W. Skinner, T. H. Stang and Louis Leland. The latter two were the latter two St. John boys. Most of the young men left their work in the bank yesterday and went on duty with various regiments this morning. All have been guaranteed their salaries for six months at least.

The delegates present from different lodges are—A. C. M. Lawson, Frederick H. Kirkpatrick, M. Kirkpatrick, Patterson Settlement; H. W. Roberts, Clarendon; Miss M. Watson, Carpenter's, Queen's; Mrs. J. E. Vanhook, Kirkpatrick; J. V. Jackson, G. H. Loeman, W. Abrams, J. E. Milton, A. Fungson, S. J. Nickerson, W. G. Alexander, L. Tower, A. Morrell, Mrs. A. Murran, Fredrick Junction; Frank McKenzie, Nerepis; Frank Neary, Fredrick Junction.

The grand lodge adjourned until 2 p. m. and also will hold a meeting tonight.

FAIRVILLE NEWS

The Bridge Work—Personal—Street Railway Service Improvement

The work on the new bridge continues to draw the attention of passers by from the Suspension Bridge and other vantage points. The spans are being rapidly placed and riveted. The latter occupation is very hazardous, at such a height and with the raging waters beneath.

Miss Lou Sims, now of Boston, arrived yesterday and will enjoy several weeks' vacation with her parents, residing in Manawagonish road.

Miss Lena Ferris, graduate nurse, of Hartford, Conn., and her sister, Miss Greta Ferris in training at Hartford Hospital, are spending a few weeks with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ferris, Milford.

A noticeable and very important feature of the street car service was inaugurated yesterday when car No. 102 appeared equipped with the new electric sign. Last evening much favorable comment was heard as persons crossing the bridge were able to see the destination of the car before they were actually within three feet of it. The car has also been newly painted and Tungsten lights installed.

CAR OFF TRACK About noon today passengers in a street car coming from North End towards the city were started when the car ran off the track when turning the corner of Main into Mill street. The car kept going for some distance. The motorman brought it to a stop soon, however, for it was not going fast. Traffic was blocked for a little while.

FISHING TRIP Dr. Thomas Tooley, Doctor Shea and T. McCarthy of Boston arrived in the city today. They will go to Bonny River on a fishing trip with local sportsmen. While in the city they are at the Royal.

felt much relieved and saw prospects of a more or less speedy journey to England. Our train did not get out for an hour and in the meantime several trainloads of soldiers came in from the west and east of France on their way to the frontier. When we did start there was a big sigh of relief and we quieted down as well as we could and stopped for the present recounting our various experiences. I can believe "War is Hell" if this is a taste of it.

In London, Tuesday Aug. 4, 14. I took twenty-one hours from Paris to London. When I went over on Saturday I did it in less than eight. We sat up all night and reached Boulogne at 3.30 in the morning, passing several trains with troops and two trains of French men and women from England to Paris who shouted from their windows to know how things were going on as we stopped at one of the stations. ## NOT IN FAVOR OF CANADA TAKING PART IN THE WAR

No Excuse For Great Britain Being Involved in it Either is Stand Taken by Some Local Women

While the men of Canada are enlisting for foreign service and for home defence, and the women of the country are actively engaged in work on behalf of those who are to fight the battle of the Empire, it may come as a surprise to many to learn that this spirit is not unanimous. Collectors for the women's relief fund were astonished when their request for a twenty-five cent contribution was refused by several ladies because of conscientious reasons.

When asked for the reason one of the ladies, a woman prominent in many lines of activity in the city, said that she could not contribute because she did not approve either of the war itself or of Canada's participation in it.

"There is no excuse for Great Britain being involved in this war and still less excuse for Canada taking part in it," she said. "The war started as a quarrel between Serbia and Austria and I can see no justification for our being mixed up in it. This talk of England and Canada being one and the demand that Canada shall fight England's battles is all jingoism. I am entirely opposed to it and I consider the whole international situation a mass of inequities."

RIVER FREIGHT. In order to provide better accommodation for the handling and protection of its freight, etc., the Victoria Steamship Company has completed the erection of a fine weatherproof warehouse on Nasse's wharf. Their steamer "Victoria" came in last evening with a heavy passenger list and a large cargo of freight.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS'

Local Knights of Pythias have been forced to make special plans for their Decoration Day ceremonies on the 27th of this month because of the large addition made to the membership of the three lodges during the last year. In the first place the length of the procession will necessitate two brass bands, consequently the St. Mary's and Carleton Cornet have been engaged. The loss of the Nickel building forces the order to make other arrangements for the preparation of some thousands of bouquets and the offer of the McLaughlin-Carleton Co. to allow the Knights the use of their carriage warehouses has been gratefully accepted.

Rev. Ralph Haughton, Past Supreme Prelate James Moulson and others will conduct the memorial exercises, Fernhill, Graves will also be decorated in the Church of England Burying ground Methodist burying ground, Cedar Hill and in various parts of the province to which points former members had removed and died.

ADOGRAM No. 6 If you want to shoot scenery use a shot gun. If you are after big game take a rifle and shoot straight.

When the national advertiser uses the newspapers—he is aiming rifle shots at a definite purchasing power. He is not scattering at a wide range of scenery hoping to hit a profit. He is making his shots tell.

National manufacturers interested in profitable merchandising are invited to address the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association, World Building, New York.
