It is probably due to the election oreliminaries that official France is dopting a somewhat haughty tone oward an unofficial suggestion from the United States that she ought to set about the payment of her debt to that country. While no member of the French Government has made a formal reply to this proposal some of the leading newspapers have reterated a previously expressed decnade to pay either Britain or the United States until Germany has aid France: The leading newspaprs in the latter country are subsided by the government for whom hey act as spokesmen in all matters of policy, more especially when these ave to do with foreign affairs. There is no doubt that a Typesetting Machine is an improvement on the old-fashioned equipment of a newspaper office, as it replaces the obsolete method of hand composition. The machine we purchased last fall was equip ped with a Gasolene Burner. We have proven this to be very unsatisfactory. We are now negotiating for an Electric Metal Pot and need $300.00 for this additional equipment. The appeal we made for assistance last fall met with fair response, but it did not by any means come up ic our expectations nor requirements. Hundreds of families residing in Bay Roberts and vicinity who could have responded to our appeal, with benefit to themselves as well as to us, failed to do so. If any one had ventured to tell Mr. Robert Audley that he could possibly feel a strong attachment to any creature breathing, that cyniat the preposterous notion. Yet here he was, flurried and anxious, bewildering his brain by all manner of conjectures about his missing friend; and false to every attribute of his nature, walking fast.

"I haven't walked fast since I was at Eton," he murmured, as he hurried across one of Sir Michael's meadows in the direction of the village; "and the worst of it is, that I haven't the most remote idea

There was no train expected for another half hour, and the clerk was taking his tea in an apartment on one side of the office on the door of which was inscribed in large, white letters, "Private."

But Mr. Audley was too much occupied with the one idea of looking for his friend to pay any attention to this warning. He strode at once against it, brought the clerk out of sanctum in a perspiration from not tea, and with his mouth full of bread and butter.

"Do you remember the gentleman that came down to Audley with me Smithers?" asked Robert.

Monday, Feb. 15th. Will Martin drove me over to North River to bury Mrs. Davis. Halfway across the run, a large team suddenly loomed up in haze, and in a few minutes I was almost shaking the hand of Dr. vice 9.0. Paddon right off from his wrist. I decided to return to Cartwright after the funeral, instead of going on round the bay as I had intended. The grave proved very hard to dig, the sand being frozen to a depth of five feet. It was late by the time I reached home again. The Doctor spent the night with me and we made the most of it as usual.

Tuesday, Feb. 18th.

The Doctor went to Goose Cove and did not return till about 1.0. By the time he was through here, it was getting late, so that we only went as far as Muddy Bay for the night. After the various bodily ailments had been dealt with, I had a short service. I have left Turk home to resuperate, so that he may be ready for the trip North, and am footing it round the bay. The Doctor giving me a lift for a couple days, until he outpaces me.

MASONIC BANQUET

Following the installation of R.W. Bro. Tasker K. Cook as District Grand Master of Scottish Freemason ry in Newfoundland in the Masonic Temple at St. John's on October 18, the brethren repaired to the Banquet Room where the Ladies' Auxil liary had provided a splendid repast, and the tables were tastefully arrang ed and decorated. During the time spent at the festive board a surprise was sprung that drew forth a sspon taneous outburst of applause. Just as the newly installeed District Grand Master rose to respond to the toast of his health the lights suddenly went out; then after a second's dark ness a curtain, which had escaped notice in the decorations was pulled aside, a switch was turned, and imhead the words "Our Grand Master," shone out in green, red and blue lights, the distinctive colors in Masonry.
