Notes and Suggestions of Practical Utility,

FOR THE FARM, FIELD, GARDEN AND DAIRY.

Cleanings of Interest for Our Country Readers.

Good harvest weather. The hay crop turned out better this year than was expected.

Every farmer should attend our exhibition Provincial exhibition Sept. 19 20 and 21. Get all you can out of life.

Live off the best your land produces. Do not be stingy with the bedding given hogs.

Breed for vigor, healthfulness and constitution. It is economical to keep pigs growing from birth.

The prime object of agricultural fairs is for the farmer. If cows have access to filthy water it will affect the milk.

The best corn and potato growers practice level culture. A creamery can't run profitably without plenty of cream.

Do not stint yourself for the sake of having more produce to sell. The milk can must be kept clean or the milk cannot be good.

Give the pigs good treatment and little medicine will be needed. Hogs grown under cleanly conditions make clean and wholesome pork.

It pays to have horses for farm work that are naturally good walkers. No creamery should start a creamery till assured of at least 300 cows.

In teaching the boy to milk, be sure to train to habits of cleanliness. Throwing out the feed is the smallest part of properly caring for the stock.

The product of the first cross are usually good feeders and good growers. The cows should have a shade to lay down in after they get their fill of grass.

For the early market medium-sized hogs in good condition bring the best prices. Cull the sheep to a profitable basis, even if it is necessary to sell half the flock.

Too frequent use of the lawn mower in dry hot weather will injure the grass. Education is as little wasted on the farm as in any of the learned professions.

The man who owns a farm and sticks to it is certain to profit by it in the future. By giving the farm boy an occasional holiday he will be taught to love the farm.

Plan to winter all the stock that your supply of feed will keep in thrifty condition. Blood is everything in breeding animals where merit is the object with the offspring.

A florist advises keeping the flowers picked off if abundant and constant bloom is desired. If necessary to keep the pigs confined at this season be sure they have plenty of green feed.

One advantage in wool growing is that it does not take fertility from the soil like grain growing. Gather up and burn all trimmings from the grape-vines or fruit trees. This will destroy many insects.

Few crops are capable of being so largely increased by better methods of cultivation as our corn crop. To avoid depleting the fertility of the farm, grow and sell such crops as will carry away the least plant food.

The exportation of hay, straw or fodder of any kind from Austria-Hungary has been prohibited by the government. The largest and the finest wool and the heaviest fleeces are grown on sheep that are kept steadily in good condition.

The difference in the length of time required to churn at different times is due generally to a difference in temperature. The simple announcement of a fair should mean an appeal to every farmer to lend a helping hand in making it a success.

Fairs have done much for the country, and they can be made to do much more good in the future if they are rightly managed. Level culture of all hued crops is rapidly becoming the rule, and each year sees more farmers adopting it in their operations.

Kind treatment and careful attention to the wants of the animals will go a long way towards making them safe and tractable. The best farmer and the one who makes the most money from farming is the one who studies and understands his business best.

Stock on poor grass will be apt to find the weak places in the fences, especially if there is tempting food on the other side. In selecting a young sow to keep as a breeder, one with a gentle and tractable disposition should be chosen, as nearly as at least as can be judged.

In feeding and especially when it is to fatten rapidly the animals should always be given a ration that they will consume the largest quantity.

One of the greatest leaks on the average farm is the unnecessary damage done to the farming implements through exposure to all kinds of weather.

When never allowed a day to fish or spend as he pleases, the boy is too apt to imagine that farming is harder and more confining than any other kind of business.

No matter how hard a farmer works nor how good crops he makes, there will not be much profit for him unless he produces very largely the things that are consumed at home.

The Dairy. Success in summer dairying depends a great deal on having pure air, cool temperature and being strictly clean. In addition to this, the cows must be made comfortable.

It is better to lessen the herd one-half or two-thirds in number, or reduce it to a single animal rather than fill it with cows that, however fed, will little more than pay their keep.

From the good cow, if properly bred to a thoroughbred bull of good milking strain, some improvement is possible. From the poor cows come only the calves that are not worth keeping longer than to fatten them.

An exchange tells of a man who was milking a large herd of average cows. He took five of the best and five of the poorest ones, and keeping an accurate account of the cost of feed and care, found that while the five good ones were paying a fine profit, the other five were actually costing him $7 per head annually over and above the value of the milk they yielded. Individual test is the only means of ascertaining the profit and loss in the dairy.

It is claimed by one who has tested it thoroughly that as much butter can be made by reducing the milk with cold water (half and half) at 50 degrees or lower, as by setting the milk in deep cans in ice water. The method described is to have tin tanks that will hold two or three pailsful, with glass in one hand, and a funnel to draw off the milk. This may do for the butter part of the business, but until the pigs and calves can be provided with condensers to handle this diluted milk, it will pay to use ice.

If the man who says 'salt has no direct effect on the butter or any other kind of fats further than on the water in the fat, and the antiseptic effect of it is only due to the solution of the salt in the water of the fat, thus surrounding the particles of the fat with a pellicle of brine, really believes thus, let him fry some salt pork and pour off the fat after the salt has had time to settle, and see if he can by any means relieve that fat from the taste of salt. Let him heat it so hot that he knows there can be no water left in it, or take any other method he pleases, and he will learn whether grease can be salted or not, and will probably conclude that the pellicle of water around the globule is imaginary.

The British board of health has been experimenting with the milk and flesh of tuberculous cattle for the purpose of testing the effect upon animals fed with such flesh and milk. The results have been, says American Dairyman, that the milk did not convey the infection to guinea pigs thus fed, but the flesh did. And even when the milk was taken from the cows whose udders were tuberculous it had no injurious results. This is so different from the general belief that it should not be taken as proof of anything or induce people to be less careful in the matter. The English people are usually very easily alarmed at any cattle disease, especially if it comes from this side of the water, but whether this will remove their fear or is an indication of expected outbreaks in their own country remains to be seen. The fact remains that a sick animal is not suitable for food and the well-known fact that the milk is easily affected by the physical condition should condemn the milk from a diseased cow.

Sweet cream is not the best for making butter, as it yields less than cream that is slightly sour, says a writer in the N. Y. Times. The best and most butter is made from cream that is slightly sour and which is taken from milk set in shallow pans in a room not over 60 degrees or 62 degrees for thirty-six hours, then skimmed and kept twenty-four hours at the same temperature before churning and churned at this same temperature. When cream is too sour or too warm it will foam in the churn and give out a large quantity of carbonic acid gas. This interferes with the making of the butter; it will not do otherwise. To bring the cream, when thus disturbed, into proper condition, add cold water to thin it, by which the gas evolved in the churning escapes and the foaming is reduced. Then the butter separates. This foaming is a common thing in summer, while in winter, owing to the cold, the cream granulates and appears to be 'sandy,' and the butter does not come. The remedy then is to add warm water to the cream, as it is too cold, and the fine grains of butter will not adhere together.

Telegraph Operator (reading message)—What's this! Will marry you whenever you wish!

RHEUMATISM AND EFFECTS OF LA GRIPPE BANISHED!

Mrs. Geo. Farrell, of Etna, Kings Co., N. S., 69 years old, had been troubled with RHEUMATISM for 30 years. In winter of '91 was taken very sick, with LA GRIPPE, and became much reduced, no Appetite, bad Cough, Pain all over the body, producing swelling of feet and legs. Neighbors thought she must die. Six Bottles—cure—of

A Few Hints.

Opening canned fruit an hour or two before using, that it may regain the excluded oxygen, improves the flavor. Newspapers wet thoroughly and crumpled up are excellent to sweep a carpet with, making it look bright and with far less trouble than it is to wipe it with a damp cloth.

The round point of a lead pencil is a good thing with which to remove a speck of any kind from the eye. If an artery is cut, compress it between the wound and the heart. If a vein is cut, compress beyond.

Tar or paint may be removed by first applying oil of some kind or lard. Then, after scraping off the loosened substances, apply a mixture of turpentine and benzine, and at the last use benzine alone.

If a foreign substance is swallowed which is sharp—a needle, for instance—do not give an emetic, but confine the diet to mashed potatoes for two days.

Wood ashes very finely sifted are good for scouring knives and tinware. Very hot water is better for bumps and bruises than cold water.

JINGLES OF HUMOR.

A Little Nonsense Gathered for Leisure Reading. Customer (at restaurant)—Bring me a piece of sticking plaster, please.

Waiter—Out your finger, boss! Customer—No; this stake is bleeding badly.

The Older One—The happiest time in my life was when I was approaching womanhood. The Other—Yes! But you always seem happiest when approaching manhood.

Excellent wrapping paper is now made from the stalk of the banana plant. The peel will go on making those who advertently step on it rap sidewalks.

We've got to economize, said Gargyle to his wife. Very well, dear, replied the good woman, cheerfully; you shave yourself and I'll cut your hair.

Detective (hurriedly)—Where did that fellow go to who just ran out of the hotel? Citizen (still rubbing the toe that the fugitive stepped on)—I don't know, but I hope he'll go where I told him to.

Little Lucy fell and hurt her knee badly, which her mother, when she went to bed in the dark, tried to bandage. Soon the little one was heard calling: Mamma, said she this bandage is not in the right place. I fell down higher up.

Mrs. Banks—I do hate to discharge my servant. Mrs. Rivers—I wish you had mine. You'd enjoy it.

What could you see when you were up in the balloon? That I was a fool for giving two dollars for it.

Dudley—You have a very bad cold. What caused it? Blakeley (dryly)—The stringency in the money market exposed me to drafts.

Willie Keep—Matrimony seems to me to be a matter requiring considerable thought. Ethel Knox—I've often wondered what it was that restrained you.

Hicks—One of the stores advertises a list of one thousand new names for girls. Mrs. Hicks—Stop in and get it; I've called 'em all I can think of.

The sensational performances of the year are yet to come.
Nelson must not be overlooked for the stallion championship.
The professional judge will follow the professional starter.
New York will have Nancy Hanks at its grand circuit meeting.
Belmont Park's meeting was not a financial success.
Nelson has eight in the 2.30 list, seven having entered this year.
Madge Wilkes by Victor Wilkes, has reduced her record to 2.23 1/2.
Bigby Park will make a bid for the Maine State Fair one of these days.
Seaside by Hector Wilkes, got a mark of 2.20 in the 2.40 class at Terre Haute.
A mark of 2.25 will probably be given Jubilee Wilkes before the season ends.
Tom Marsh pronounces the Maine Mile Track the best and fastest he ever saw.
Eighty new stall are being built at Providence for the Rhode Island State Fair.
Pitkey goes with an easy, linen-covered bit. She has always been a rank puller.
Director's Flower 2.21 1/2 stands at the head of the trotting two-year-old of '93.
Bowerman believes that Silcon will yet give the three-year-old record a close call.
Bachelor Wilkes by Victor Wilkes, has taken a three-year-old record of 2.32 1/2.
A Viking five-year-old was too much for the aged performers at Haverhill.
There will be some humming over the Maine Mile Track at its opening next October.
Walter Cox should get the biggest pumpkins at the fairs this fall with Rowdy Knox.
G. H. F., a brown gelding by Falcon, took a fourth heat record of 2.25 1/2 at Glens Falls.
Harrietta 2.11 1/2 looks to be a better mare than Martha Wilkes 2.08. Both are by Alcyone.
The chances are that Alcyone will have three mares in the 2.10 list before the close of 1893.
Sunday 2.50, two years, by Del Mar, a colt winner at Glens Falls is out of a Deucalion dam.
The time of the live stock exhibit at the World's Fair has been postponed until October.
Many a race has been lost by the horse being vexed irritated and maddened by an unpleasant bit.
Ladelle H., 2.12, by Scrotus, heads the four-year-old pacers of the year with Albert E., 2.12 1/2, by Penrose, second.
The names of about sixty horses in the index of the Year Book begin with silver. Nearly an equal number begin with gold.
Belle Medium, 2.30, who entered the list at San Francisco, had a foal by Stamboul, 2.07 1/2, in 1892, and is now in foal to Direct, 2.05 1/2.
Cocaine was tried on Alvan Swift's tender ankles at Grand Rapids, and he went straight, winning the race in a jog, best time 4.14 1/2.

Last year there were 112 tracks on which running races were given and 1,319 tracks at which trotting meetings were held in the "Pa." Hamlin has a wonderful three-year-old in Fantasy. His prediction of several years ago that Chimes would become a great sire was true.
The new mile track at Glen Falls is a success. At the recent breeders' meeting held there, every heat winner but two obtained new records.
Prima Donna, 2.11, trots as naturally as she paces. She is a light chestnut mare 15 hands, on the Lambert order, and is very high strung.
Time taken when there is no admission fee charged, and no purse, wager or consideration of any kind involved, is neither a record nor a bar.
The closer gentlemen of wealth and character make their connection with the racing interests, the higher will these interests stand in public esteem.
Fire occurred at the Village Farm stables during the progress of the races at Buffalo, destroying property valued at $15,000. No horses were burned.
California has produced three out of the five fastest sidewheelers in the world, while Tennessee sent out an old war horse that defeated the whole lot.
Daniel Lambert dams are the dams of winners this year. Prima Donna, 2.11, the unbeaten, is one of them. So is Baronet, 2.23 1/2, the fast Baron Wilkes, three-year-old.
The great race nags, Harrietta and Bellini are additional proof of the greatness of the daughters of Harry Clay, 2.29, as brood mares, as both are from mares by him.
September 5, 6 and 7 will be red-letter days for New Hampshire horse lovers. The breeders' meeting at Concord is an assured success with any sort of decent weather.
Highland L. found the crowd too hot for him in the 2.17 pace and trot at Glens Falls. After finishing fifth he was shut out. Ten-past won the race in 2.17 1/2, 2.18 1/2, 2.18.
No side-weighted shoes will ever true a horse's gait. Whatever change they do make in his previous way of going must be at the expense of trouble to the joints tendons.
Eastern Boy (sire of Rowdy Knox, 2.20 1/2) got a few foals only while in Maine. He is now owned by Dr. G. W. Ward of St. Johnsbury, Vt., and is as hale and hearty as a colt. Several more of his get should beat 2.30 this year.
Seedy toes, rimmed hoofs and shelly feet owe more of their conditions to hot-shoe fitting than is suspected. Better a horse with a natural foot, however ugly, than a foot frizzled and out to shape by an unscientific blacksmith.
The purse classes for the New Hampshire Breeders' Meeting are as follows: 2.50 trot, 2.25 pace and trot, 2.35 pace and trot, 2.20 trot, free-for-all pace and trot, 2.40 trot. The free-for-all has a purse of $500.
Ponce de Leon, 2.13, is only six years old yet he has a two-year-old son Perry Winkle which won the first heat in the two-year-old class at Terre Haute in 2.28 1/2. Perry Winkle is out of Ravensna, the dam of Dallas, 2.11 1/2.
As a general rule a common sized joint bit is the best to drive trotters with. A horse in a break will catch quicker with such a bit than a straight one. The bit should be made as pleasant to the horse as can be and have him safe.
No gamer horse ever stood on iron than Roy Wilkes. At Fort Wayne he broke the world's pacing stallion record by pacing a mile in a race in 2.06 1/2, and, though dead lame, he came back in 2.06 1/2.
As a matter of safety it is better to have a number of small buildings on a stock farm than two or three large buildings. The cost is greater, but protection against fire is largely increased.
Glenwood, by Nutwood, is a pacer. He goes in Bejax hobbles, viz., a three-quarter inch rope fastened to the knees and hocks. They look dangerous, but they keep a nag pacing all the way.
The Viking colt Stanbridge, bred by William Corey of Manchester out of a Mambrino Wilkes dam, won a maiden race at Newport, Vt., last week getting a record of 2.35 1/2 in the fourth heat.
The $500 free-for-all purse, pace and trot, will call together, at the New Hampshire Breeders' Meeting, the best field of horses ever seen start in one race over a new Hampshire track.
Robinson, the Bardstown man, who owned Nellie W., 2.14 1/2, and won $8,000 with her in 1891, and then sold her for $5,000, is now running a barge at a fair ground. Nellie W. has not won a race since the sale.
Aluminum becomes harder by hammering or rolling and can be made soft by annealing. It can be forged cold by any skillful Smith into a shoe and can be hardened by the hammering so hard as to be brittle.
Dr. J. A. Sherman, the millionaire physician of New York, has consigned all of his trotting stock, consisting of about one hundred head, to Tattersalls to be sold at public auction in Lexington next October.
Class makes race horses. A 2.10 horse that is a high-class race horse can make a 2.12 flashy performer look very cheap when they are stepping in 2.15. A high-class horse can outrush a flashy fellow any spot in the mile and it discourages.
Woolard & Shanklin will sell about sixty head for Polo Alto Stock Farm at Lexington next October. They have the largest catalogue they have ever offered, and the October sales of Lexington promise to be high class in the way of stock offered.
Edith H. 2.25 1/2, New Hampshire's unbeaten five-year-old trotter and the best money winner in her class in New England, will be shown at the New Hampshire Breeder's meeting. She is owned by the president of the association, Hon. Warren F. Daniel.

Holds may not have quite the turn of speed that has carried Nancy Hanks to the highest pinnacle of equine fame, but the majority of men who have gone down the circuit believe Hilda to be as good a race mare as has yet been produced.
Village Farm stable started in sixteen races at the Buffalo meeting, winning six firsts, one second, one third, two fourths and six races in which its representatives were unplaced. This stable also headed the list of winners at the meeting. They pulled off $11,475.
Dallas by Almost Boy, dam Ravensna, by Black Hawk, Traveler, broke the Homewood park, Pittsburg track record last week. A free-for-all pace for $200 was opened, which he won in 2.15, 2.14 and 2.11 1/2. He was shod with aluminum shoes.
Another New Hampshire sire has a dam in the Great Brood Mare list. Baronet 2.23 1/2 a three-year-old winner at Fort Wayne is an own brother to the bay stallion Jingles, 2.28 1/2 that has been in the stud this season at Riverside Stock Farm, Newmarket Junction.
Lucky Baldwin Matthews after winning the first heat of the 2.40 event at the late Glen Falls meeting with Duellion, by Deucalion getting a record for the horse of 2.28 had to draw the horse, the animal being taken with a bleeding spell before the second heat.
Vik and Kinglet the four and five-year-old Vikings offered for sale by C. G. Blanchard of Concord, were blue ribbon winners at the New Hampshire Breeders' Meeting last fall. Vik also won the four-year-old stakes at the same meeting, getting a record of 2.46.
Walter E. 2.10, the champion racing gelding of the world, is a son of Patchen Mambrino (by Mambrino), and his dam, Old Morgan, is said to be by a son of Wager, although nothing very definite seems to be known about her breeding.
Sea King the wonderful pony trotter, will not trot in any more races but will be used for exhibition purposes.
Few states can show a better lot of four-year-olds than will parade at Concord at the Breeders' meeting. Among the lot will be New Flower 2.25 1/2, Lord Brino, 2.26 1/2, Much Ado 2.31 1/2, Whirlwind 2.35 and Bonner Steele. The two former made their records as three-year-olds.
The yearling Peril 2.44 is entered in the New England Breeders' Meeting and is also matched to trot the last day of the meeting with a yearling owned by Col. H. S. Russell, by Edgemark 2.16, and another yearling by Col. John F. Thayer, which we think is by Alcantara 2.23.
At no time in the past history of the trot has such a lot of three-year-olds as Fantasy 2.13, Jay Hawker 2.14 1/2, Margrave 2.15, The Conqueror 2.17, Medio 2.17, Lady Robert 2.18, Elfrida 2.18, Double Cross 2.18, Baronmore 2.19 and Oricle 2.20 appeared so early in the season.
A gentleman who has seen Peril trot in his western races informs us that he is a remarkably handsome colt and his half-mile heat over the Glen Falls N. Y., track in 1.50 without a break and not wearing a boot or weight, surely stamps him as a great trotter.
Two of the get of Mambrino Wilkes entered the 2.30 list—Theif 2.29 1/2, and Homer Wilkes 2.30. The latter is for sale. He is a game horse and a good campaigner, but has been asked to go so many races this season that he has become stale.
The Lambert blood took quite a part in the races at Worcester. The winner of the 2.25 trot, J. Y. G., is by Harvest, son of Daniel Lambert. Fearless Ben which took second money, is by Ben Franklin 2.29, son of Daniel Lambert and Sea King winner of third money, is by Melbourne King, out of a daughter of Daniel Lambert.
Trotting horse men do not make their purchases at this season of the year. The racing months are not favorable for selling and never have been. Occasionally the great performer is sold on the track, but there are then no investments for purely breeding purposes. The horse men are busy with their stables and have little time to devote to anything else.
At Lyons, Neb., on Aug. 18, the fast pacer Ontario, by Shadefield Oward, reduced his record to 2.07 1/2. This colt has always been described as a four-year-old, and in the Year Book for 1892 he is stated to have been foaled in 1889. An investigation, however, has disclosed the fact that he was foaled late in the autumn of 1888, and he is, therefore, technically a five-year-old.
Out of all the trotters which have been owned in Shadefield, Me., there have only been five to get into the 2.30 list, and three of these five have made their records this year. The five are: Camors, by Drigo, record 2.24 1/2, obtained some 15 years ago; Frank F., record 2.26 1/2, made 10 or 12 years ago; Quartette, by Richwood, 2.21 1/2; Eva Wilkes, by Ethan Wilkes, 2.28 1/2; Blue John, by Young Rolfe, 2.30.
Belle Acton appears as good as a two-year-old, either sex, on a half mile track.
A strong effort is being made to secure the presence at the New Hampshire Breeders' Meeting of all of the representative stallions of the state, including Viking, Woodbrino, Glencoe Wilkes, Mambrino Wilkes, Beauvoir, Rex Nutwood, Erotich, Kentucky, Falcon, Falcon Jr., New Flower, Pensacok, Ivy Wilkes, Watson Royal King and others.

FORTUNES FOR HORSES.

Ormonde the $150,000 Stallion and other Costly Equines.

Meddler and Common Each Sold for $75,000, and St. Blaise Brought $100,000. The $100,000 Stallion Artell Leads the High Priced Harness Horses.

A horse! A horse! My kingdom for a horse!

When King Richard III made this extravagant bid on Bosworth Field, the high water mark in turf prices was reached, and it has never been surpassed since, but as no one took the royal bidder's offer and as he clung fast to his kingdom until Richmond ended his miserable life W O'Brien Macdonough of California must be regarded as the prince of all horse purchasers.

Horseflesh at $150,000 a head comes rather high, but it comes rather infrequently, too, for Ormonde, the English Derby winner, now in this country, is the only horse in the world that ever commanded such a price, and young Macdonough is the only man in the world's history that ever paid it. Ormonde's entire career, however, is punctuated by large sums of money. In the 10 races he ran under the colors of the Duke of Westminster, including the English Derby, Two Thousand Guineas, Doncaster St. Leger, Hardwicke stakes at Ascot, and Imperial gold cup at Newmarket, the grand stallion won about $150,000. The Duke of Westminster then sold him to Senor Jose Bocan for $70,000, and all England mourned when the unbeaten thoroughbred was carried away to the Argentine Republic.

Although Ormonde was said to be afflicted with roaring, English turfmen were so displeased with the loss of his services as a sire that a syndicate raised nearly $100,000 for the purpose of ending the great horse's exile and restoring him to the English turf. This seemed a vast sum of money to offer for a horse whose wind was said to be affected, but two enterprising Yankees were ready with even higher bids. Charles Reed, the Tennessee turfman who astonished the world in 1891 by paying $100,000 for St. Blaise, the English Derby winner the late August Belmont brought to America, seemed reluctant to lose the reputation of having paid the largest price ever given for a thoroughbred and went to Argentina with $135,000 in his inside pocket and offered that princely sum for Ormonde.

This bid seemed away beyond competition, but California possessed a young man with $7,000,000 and a turf ambition of the vaulting kind that hesitated at no obstacles. This young man was Macdonough, and he called an offer of $150,000 for a horse he had never seen and secured the coveted prize. Ormonde will be installed as sire at Mr. Macdonough's great farm at Menlo Park, Cal., adjoining the famous Palo Alto ranch of the late Leland Stanford Accompanying Ormonde are nine thoroughbred English mares, several of which are in foal by him. They are valued at $150,000 by Mr. Macdonough, and when Ormonde and the mares are added to this large stable at Menlo Park the establishment will be one of the most notable in America.

Macdonough is only 27 years old. He is slim and blue eyed and not at all "horsey" in appearance. His mother was a sister of William S. O'Brien of Comstock fame, who left $20,000,000, and his father, John Macdonough, is one of the rich men of the Pacific slope.

The value of a thoroughbred like Ormonde or St. Blaise rests upon his merit as a sire, but whether Charles Reed will ever sell enough of St. Blaise's get or win enough on their performances to get back his $100,000; or whether Mr. Macdonough will ever realize $150,000 on Ormonde's sons and daughters remains to be seen. Certain it is that blood usually tells, and that the get of a great horse are in a large percentage of cases great themselves. For example, St. Florian, Potomac, La Toaca and Chesapeake, four of St. Blaise's progeny, have won at least $130,000. St. Blaise only cost August Belmont $15,000 and netted his estate the magnificent sum of $100,000.

Nearly 13 years ago the Duke of Westminster paid $70,000 for Doncaster, grand sire of Ormonde, and it is interesting to note how the investment turned out. Doncaster won a fortune during his career and then sired Ben d'Or, sired Ormonde, who won $150,000 for the duke and was afterward sold for $70,000. Grime, one of Ormonde's sons, has already taken into camp a small fortune and is still in his heyday of usefulness. It is very apparent from this that the duke fairly coined money on his original investment of $70,000 and made his name world famous besides.

Another notable example of a high priced horse proving a very profitable investment, is that of Blair Athol, the most beautiful horse it is said, that ever raced in England. He became the property of the Cobdam stud for $62,500, but 16 seasons following he earned in stud fees the enormous sum of $315,000. What those of his get belonging to his owner sold for and what they earned for him on the turf has not been figured, but the total return on the $62,500 investment must have been a princely fortune.

Among the other high priced English horses were the $30,000 Priam, the $40,000 Flying Dutchman, the $35,000 Isomy and the $50,000 Melton. Scottish Chief and Robert the Devil each sold for $40,000 and the late William L. Scott secured Rayon d'Or for the same amount. Common, winner of the Derby and St. Leger of 1891 was sold to Blundell Maple for $75,000. Hampton sold for $50,000, Macaroni $35,000, and The Palmer, Silvio and Gladiator, the great French runner, each fetched $35,000.

The sport of kings in America is a much younger pastime and perhaps more of a business than in England and France, and while fewer horses have sold for sensational prices on this side enterprising American turfites have paid both the largest and next to the largest sums for thoroughbreds that ever changed hands and have equaled the third largest amount. Two of the prices referred to are those paid for Ormonde and St. Blaise and the third is the amount W. H. Forbes of Boston paid for Meddler only a short time ago.

Meddler belonged to the late Squire Abington and Mr. Forbes secured him for $75,000. Although the great horse is only three years old he has already won about $20,000. Whether Meddler will be raced again or retired to the stud permanently has not been decided. Of the celebrated stallions sold here, the great Lexington only fetched $15,000, Troquois $20,000, Luke Blackburn $30,000, Kentucky $40,000 and Tremont $35,000. John A. Morris paid $20,000 for the imported stallion Galore in 1888, but the horse broke down and never raced.

Numerous thoroughbreds have sold for large sums while still in their best racing form because many large stakes seemed at their mercy, but as a rule the sensational prices have been paid for stallions that were looked upon as sires of great promise. When such great winnings as Boundless, $50,000 American Derby, His Highness, $75,000 Futurity of 1891 and Morello's $70,000 Futurity of 1892 are considered, the reason is quite apparent why a great horse's racing value is high. Morello was sold for $100 as a yearling to Bernard Doswell, who parted with him not long thereafter to Frank Van Ness for $2,250. He has coined money for Van Ness and William M. Singler and is now considered king of the American turf. In all probability $75,000 would not buy to-day the horse that a few years ago sold for a paltry $100.

Compared with the thoroughbreds, but few harness horses have been sold for large sums. The reason for this is that the earning powers of a thoroughbred are vastly greater than those of a trotter or a pacer. When Robert Bonner paid $40,000 for Maud S nine years ago, the trotting world gasped with astonishment, and it was predicted that no such sum would ever be paid for a harness horse. This prediction proved erroneous, for not long after C. W. Williams sold the great trotting stallion Artell for a cool $100,000, the largest sum ever paid for a trotter with the possible exception of Arion. Sunol's price was $41,000, Nancy Hanks, the turf queen was old to Malcom Forbe for $1,000 and the same price was paid for Stamboul the stallion king.

A MODERN EPISODE.

she still clings to the Bell she had Taken Away With Her.

CHAPTER I.

Nancy, there's only one thing to be done with this child!

The voice of Mr. Lickladder had that strong, vibrant, masculine quality that frequently asserts itself when the official head of the family is addressing his wife.

We must send her away to school, continued Mr. Lickladder. A city like this is no place to bring up children.

I don't see that Gussie is so very much worse than other children, Silas, piped Mrs. Lickladder.

Oh, you don't! retorted Silas. You don't hear her whistling about the house a hundred times a day, don't you? You can't see that she talks in the dialect of the stockyards, walks with a John L. Sullivan swagger, spends the money we give her for Sunday school purposes in buying ice cream soda, and chews gum on the sly?

Where do you want to send her? To some first class eastern school for girls. I know one.

I'll go, mamma, sobbed Gussie. I'll go away off to that nasty, horrid school and I'll be a good girl if you'll only let me buy that nice great big doll I saw in Hunker & Spatt's window down town this morning!

What do you want of that doll? I want to take it along with me. I won't get so lonesome maybe. I'll dress it every morning just as careful! It'll seem like one of the family, and I shan't get homesick.

The doll was bought, packed in Gussie's trunk, and when the fateful day of her departure came 12-year-old Gussie, smiling through her tears, kissed mother, big brother and little sister goodby and went away with the paternal Lickladder on an east bound train.

How you have grown, Gussie! Have the three years been long ones, dear? Awfully, mamma! You don't know how strict they are with us. Watch us like hawks. Never let us go anywhere without some of them being along to take care of us. Study, study, study—that's the way it is all the time.

That's the way it ought to be, interposed Mr. Lickladder in the calm, assured manner of one whose judgment time has Standardized and Arranged for every-day Convenience.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 29.—Mr. Thompson, agent of the Ogilvie Milling Co., says the telegram sent by a commission firm in Winnipeg to parties east and published in the Star on August 23, reporting crops in Manitoba damaged by rain, is false and a libel on the country, being entirely at variance with the facts. The weather is brilliant and the average quality of crops was never better. Considerable stacking has already been done. There has been no rain in the crop districts to do any material harm as yet, and any damage from this source has yet to occur.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 29.—Forty persons are reported killed by a cyclone at Savannah Ga., and ten million dollars damage done. The wires are down and details meagre.

GLOVESVILLE N. Y., Aug. 29.—A severe storm struck Mayfield, six miles north of here on Monday, and demolished and damaged buildings to the extent of $15,000.

The Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company's workshops at Sorel were destroyed by fire at five o'clock the other morning. The engine room and forging shops, as well as a lot of valuable machinery and tools, were totally destroyed.

VANHOEN, Tex., Aug. 30.—Twelve Mexican outlaws took a white man and his son, bound them and tried to make them tell where their money was hidden. They cut off one arm of the father, then the other, then split his head open with a hatchet. The boy's throat was cut. Rangers have captured two of the brigands, and are after the others.

MONTREAL, Aug. 29.—Owen McDonnell, Jr. the well-known feed merchant of Wallington street, committed suicide Saturday by cutting his throat with a piece of glass. He was boarding at the St. Bonet infirmary asylum, Longe Point.

One of the clerks of the City and District Savings Bank, Montreal, who was employed in the East end branch as receiver and teller, absconded with about $2500 of the Bank's money. He immediately set out for the United States, and officers were placed on his track. He was arrested in Chicago and only ten dollars found in his possession. It was his brother in Chicago who notified the police. His father has settled the matter, and the young fellow will not be prosecuted.

WHITESHALL, N. Y., August 29. George H. Whitehead, of Port Henry, and five young companions were capsized from a yacht and drowned in Lake Champlain yesterday. The lads names were William Gilles, 15 years old; Wm. Bradner, 24; Eddie Jubert, 13; John Whitman, 12, of Port Henry, and Albert Brush, 15 years, of Brooklyn. The sixth Joseph Laberge, 11 years saved himself by swimming to the Vermont shore.

PULASKI, Tenn., Aug. 30. J. N. Bolles, a farmer, drew $1,000 from the bank a few days ago and hid it under the edge of a carpet. At midnight two masked men gained entrance into his house, covered Bolles and his wife with pistols, and demanded their money. Bolles refused to tell where it was. The robbers bound and gagged Bolles and his wife, and with a pair of pliers began to pull his toe nails out. After suffering the most horrible agony Bolles disclosed the hiding place. The robbers secured the money and escaped.

SHOT HIS MOTHER.

Horrible Accident at Woodlee—The Young Man Goes Insane.

WOODLEE, Ont., Aug. 29.—A horrible accident happened at Woodlee Wednesday morning at nine o'clock. A young man named William Walker was handling a revolver, when it discharged, the bullet striking his mother in the right eye, killing her instantly. Walker and his mother were over at the latter's parents, named Perkins, when the former got the revolver that was on the shelf. He kept pulling the trigger, never thinking that one of the chambers was loaded, his mother standing close by. The bullet passed clean through her head. The Walkers are very respectable people, the young man being a tailor by trade. He has become insane over the act, and has to be watched for fear of taking his own life.

fully vindicated. The way to train up a wild girl is to send her to some place where they know how to do that sort of thing.

You soon got tired of that doll, didn't you, Gussie?

Tried it? Indeed I didn't, mamma! I've got it yet. It's in my trunk. But it's old and all out of shape. I'll take it up stairs and put it away.

Hurriedly opening her trunk, she lifted out the precious doll. It slipped from her fingers and fell to the floor. Mr. Lickladder picked it up. Something in its appearance struck him as curious, and he proceeded to inspect. There was a flap on the back buttoned up. He unbuttoned it and examined the doll on the inside.

It was full of cigarettes.—Chicago Tribune.

THE CROWN LAND SALES.

The sale of expiring licenses of the Crown Lands of the Province during this week has been the most successful one ever held, and has attracted a very large number of lumbermen to the city. The licenses lately expired existed for a period of ten years past, so that the last sale must have taken place in 1883. The licenses granted this week are to extend for a period of twenty-five years, so that the next sale will be held in 1918, when many of those now living will be considerably older. The stampage dues amount to $100 per thousand; and there were other circumstances which conspired to render the late sale very advantageous to lumbermen. As a consequence there was a very large number of those interested in lumber business in the city during the week; which some compute as high as five hundred. The hotels were crowded to their utmost capacity, the sales were well attended, and as a consequence bidding upon some of the blocks went up pretty high. Altogether the government has realized about $80,000 from the sale. There was, of course, considerable interest attending the bidding upon some of the lots, and the price realized for the more valuable and coveted portions was enormous. One gentleman paid $221 per mile for one lot, and $173 for another, while the largest price received for any lot was $301 per mile. The result of the government's stampage resolutions of last winter has exceeded their expectations. The extension of the time of duration of the leases from ten to twenty-five years has increased the sum received by the government, and has placed the lumber interest of the province upon a more solid and advantageous footing, while at the same time the interests of the Crown have been properly guarded by the establishment of a provision in the licenses retaining in the government the power to increase the stampage at the end of every year.

THE NORMAL SCHOOL.

A very large number of students who arrived in the city to attend the ensuing term at the Normal School which opened yesterday, emphasize the great and increasing importance of this institution to the people of the province. They seem to realize more and more every year of what a practical nature are the benefits conferred upon them through its instrumentality. It not only fits young men and women for the teaching and training of the rising generations, but supplies them also with a means of earning a comfortable living. It gives them capital and education at one and the same time. Its chief recommendation is the comparative brevity and cheapness of the course required by its curriculum, considerations which place its advantages within the reach of the poor as well as the wealthy. But the great yearly increase in the numbers attending at its terms is becoming a matter of serious consideration to the government and the Board of Education. Should the increase continue at the present rate, it will not be long before increased accommodation will have to be provided, and there is some talk of building huge dormitories and living houses for the purpose of providing students with a place to live where they might be under the direct supervision of the principal.

PITTS.

Mr. Herman Hoodlum Hercules Pitts, the "bullet-headed editor of the Reporter," as Martin Butler calls him, is now called upon to explain how he came to lead his readers to believe that he was present and heard Rev. A. F. Thompson's ill-starred sermon in the Kirk. The Farmer says he was not there at all. And still he has the assurance to revile at his physical and mental superior, the scribe of the Herald, because as was not present. This is but another example of the Reporter man's falsehoods. Only in this instance it is a white lie he has told, and not one of his patent fast black diabolical, prevarications.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

In the House of Representatives at Washington, on Tuesday last, Mr. Wilson, of West Virginia, introduced a bill repealing the silver coinage clauses of the Sherman act, which was passed by the overwhelming majority of one hundred. This indicates that the feeling of the country is strongly in favor of the repeal of the Sherman act. Mr. Wilson's measure has gone to the Senate, where its fate is somewhat uncertain, as the Senate is not so strongly in favor of repeal as the House of Representatives. But there is very little doubt that the matter will be settled by the repeal of the Sherman act before much time has elapsed. The influence of the President will be exerted in this direction. The certainty that the Sherman act would be repealed had a good effect upon secretary circles, and this, with other causes, helped to an improved state of feeling. The New York bank statement on Monday morning showed an increase in reserve of $5,308,125. Loans decreased, $2,932,800; specie increased, $4,578,100, and legal tenders increased, $774,000. Deposits increased, $177,500, and there was an increase in circulation of $1,042,000. But the reserve is yet about $6,500,000 below the legal requirements. Bankers generally expressed themselves as well pleased with the statement which is quite an improvement over that of last week.

THE BEHRING SEA AWARD.

The following is a summary of the Behring Sea award, which will enable our readers to see for themselves how far it is unanimous:
The first question was: What exclusive rights did Russia assert and exercise in Behring Sea or the fisheries therein prior to the cession of Alaska? The United States counsel argued that Russia claimed and exercised exclusive jurisdiction. British counsel maintained the contrary. The court decided that Russia did in 1821 claim jurisdiction to the extent of 100 miles from shore, but that the claim of Russia was withdrawn in 1826, from which time until the cession of Alaska, nearly half a century ago, Russia asserted no jurisdiction beyond the ordinary three mile limit. Six of the seven arbitrators agree on this finding. Senator Morgan, one of the United States members of the court dissents.

The second question is, how far were Russian claims recognized by Great Britain? To this question, which is closely connected with the first, the court Mr. Morgan alone dissenting, answers that Great Britain recognized no claims of jurisdiction in Behring Sea.

The third point to be determined was whether the body of water now known as Behring sea was included in the phrase "Pacific ocean" used in the treaty of 1825 between Great Britain and Russia. Some of United States contentions raised in the correspondence assumed that the Behring sea was not included. The seven arbitrators decided that it was. This point also included the question whether since the cession of Alaska Russia held and exercised any exclusive jurisdiction in Behring sea. United States counsel claimed that Russia had done so, while British counsel argued the contrary. The court, Mr. Morgan dissenting, holds that Russia has not exercised such jurisdiction.

The fourth point to be determined was whether the claims of Russia in Behring sea and its seal fisheries passed unimpeded to the United States by the cession of Alaska. There was no dispute on this question. The United States counsel, who held that Russia had exclusive jurisdiction, maintained that the Russian rights passed to the United States.

The British counsel, who maintained that there were no such agreement, did not dispute that the United States had acquired them all. The court finds unanimously that whatever rights Russia had now belong to the United States.

Question five, whether the United States have any right of protection of property in the fur seals, when such seals are found outside the three mile limit, was the one which took up the most time in the argument. United States counsel argued at great length in the affirmative. British counsel contended that there could be no such property or right of protection in wild animals. The court decides that the United States has no such jurisdiction or right as the nation claims. On this point both United States arbitrators, Judge Harlan and Senator Morgan, give dissenting opinions. The British, Italian, French and Swedish arbitrators agree to the finding.

Having decided the points submitted, the court proceeded to frame regulations for future sealing operations. These rules as framed, are approved by four of the seven arbitrators namely, the members of the court from France, Italy and Sweden, and Lord Hannen from Great Britain. The two United States arbitrators and Sir John Thompson dissent.

The final decision and award is signed by the seven members of the court. It will be observed that the court is unanimous in three votes. In three votes Senator Morgan of the United States is the only dissenter. In two votes the two United States counsel are the only dissenters, while in one the dissenters are both United States men and Sir John Thompson of Canada.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION.

It gives us great pleasure to inform our readers that the latest information from the managers of the provincial exhibition to be held here on the 19th 20th and 21st instant, indicates that it is to be, without any doubt, a splendid success. The management was never before in so good a position to satisfy all demands made upon it for exhibiting space. The financial arrangements enable them to guarantee the best of satisfaction to their patrons. There is to be no exhibition this year in Woodstock, and the grant appropriated for that purpose by the government will in all probability be available for the needs of the exhibition here. Added to that is the fact that the date has been fixed early enough in the season to give some hope of fine weather, a blessing which has not attended the previous efforts of the society. There has been no lack of energetic effort put forward in the direction of pushing the affair towards a successful consummation. The management is in good hands. All the prominent men of the city are interested in the matter. It has been well advertised. And the programme as at present arranged gives promise to supplying plenty of interest and amusement to those who attend. When we remember that the previous annual exhibition have turned out successfully in the face of a great many disheartening circumstances, such as lack of funds, bad weather &c, we have no doubt that the coming show will eclipse them all. Already there have been large numbers of applications for space received. The races on the 20th and 21st will be exciting and well patronized, and the indications are that the crowd of visitors from other points in the province will be unusually large.

Gradually Coming.

The "Farmer" certainly appears to be gradually, but surely swinging into the liberal line. In this week's issue in an article referring to the establishment of Rankine & Son's St. John, he says: "Mr. Thomas Rankine the head of the firm, is a staunch liberal and was a candidate in the last Dominion election." He (Mr. Rankine) says, and the Farmer seems to be convinced of the fact, that if we had reciprocity the firm's business could be extended to great advantage. In another article the same paper says in referring to the vacancy on the supreme court bench at Ottawa: Perhaps Minister Foster will be able to tell what the McLeod's have done for this country that they should all be saddled on the taxpayers. We are pleased to see the genial proprietor of the Farmer is gradually getting on the right side.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

What the Gossips have to Remark about

The Trend of Matters' Political Parliamentary or Otherwise.

Some Touch-and-Go Notices of all Mentionable Matters of This.

The yield of wheat in Manitoba this season will amount to about 20,000,000 bushels.

The financial condition of the States is beginning to effect Canada, and already our banks are importing gold from England to meet the demand.

The first steel steamer built in Canada, the Mulgrave of New Glasgow N. S. made her trial trip Tuesday, easily making ten knots an hour which could have been increased to thirteen.

The examination in the Normal School opened yesterday, registration Monday, and class work Tuesday. The attendance will be large.

The Duke of Edinburgh has succeeded his uncle as Duke of Saxe Coburg and Gotha, and has taken the oath of allegiance to the German constitution. Should any trouble arise between England and Germany, the Duke will find himself in rather a peculiar and awkward predicament.

The bill presented by the contractors to the common council at St. John, for $44,000 extras, for the deep water wharf at that place, appears to have been somewhat of a surprise to the council, who are evidently not disposed to pay up. It will in all probability result in a law suit.

The healthy condition of Canadian finances and commerce is the subject of comment in England. Frequent references are being made to the prosperity of the Dominion as compared with the position of affairs in the United States and Australia. At a luncheon in the city of London, Thursday, attended by a number of prominent people, a tribute was paid to the strong position of Canada, and special reference was made to the soundness of Canadian banks.

Wm. I. Wilson, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, of the United States Congress, thinks it will be the policy of the House, after the vote on the repeal bill has been taken, to adjourn for three days at a time, pending action by the Senate, and be ready to adjourn sometime next month until the regular session.

In the interim the committee on Appropriations, Ways and Means and Banking and Currency can remain at work, and have a series of completed measures relating to tariff, finance and expenditures ready for the consideration of the House when it comes together again in December.

The suit of Messrs. Hall & Fairweather, Turnbull & Co., de-Forest & Co., W. H. Thorne & Co., Dearborn & Co., Eastern Oil Company, the St. Croix Manufacturing Company, Josiah Fowler, O. H. Warwick, Ganong Bros. and other creditors of G. W. Slipp, of Carleton county, to have a sale of certain goods purchased from plaintiffs in September last, declared fraud; and also to have a trust deed executed by Mr. Slipp to Messrs. White and Carvell, of Woodstock, in which trust deed he preferred certain creditors, set aside as being fraudulent and void, is now being tried before Judge Palmer sitting in Equity at Hampton. The plaintiffs' case occupied all this week and that of the defendants will probably occupy all the next week. The lawyers engaged in the case are Dr. Pugsley, Q. C., C. A. Palmer, Q. C., and A. H. Hanington for the plaintiffs, and Hon. A. G. Blair, Q. C. Solicitor General White, Mr. J. A. Vanwart, and D. McLeod Vince for the defendants.

The fishing returns show that whereas New Brunswick had a surplus of $800,000 last year, this season's catch reveals a decrease of $367,000. This is due to a falling off in smoked herring, sardines and smelts. Other kinds of fish held their own and showed an average return. In Northumberland Straits and Baie de Chaleurs a slight improvement is noticeable in almost every variety of fish except smelts and lobsters. Mackerel are becoming more plentiful on that part of the coast and the quantity of oysters raked exceeds that of the previous year. The lobster pack is not quite up to that of last year and there is great danger of over-fishing; the falling off is greatest on the southern part of the coast where factories are most abundant. Westmorland County reports show that fishing as a whole has been good, herring especially were exceedingly plentiful as also river fish such as bass, eels and trout.

The year-old trot at Fleetwood was won by Directum, who thrice broke the world's stallion race record of Lobasco—2.103, Directum captured the third heat in 2.10, the fourth 2.103 and the fifth in 2.099.

The races Wednesday at Bangor were highly satisfactory and the attendance large. The three minutes race was won by St. Ives, G. B. Edwards, Fairfield, with Nelson's Thorough second; Prince Almost third, and Orone Boy fourth. The time was 2.32, 2.32, 2.30, 2.29, 2.33.

The 2.37 race was won by Hallie, owned by E. M. Lowe of Fairfield, in straight heats with Speculation 2nd, Grover Cleveland 3rd, Elgin 4th; time, 2.24, 2.22, 2.24.

The yearling race was won by Mac Lear, time 1.29, 1.30; half-mile heats, two in three. The year old race was won by Royce in three straight heats; mile heats, two in three; time, 2.42, 2.39.

General Sporting Items.

The mare Dot is entered for the 2.29 and 2.25 class trots at the Worcester meeting next week, the purse being $400 in each race.

John Roberts, the English billiard champion, arrived in New York Sunday. He will shortly go to Chicago to play his match with Frank Ives, beginning September 18 and continuing a week.

Seward Smith will train his brother Solly for his championship battle with Dixon, scheduled to take place on September 25.

Charlie Mitchell will sail for America Sept. 14th. Mitchell has written from London that he will fight only in the arena of the Columbian Athletic club, and that he believes Corbett will also sign the Columbian club articles.

Walter Edgerton, the Kentucky Rosebud, has issued a challenge to Dixon. He wants to fight him to a finish. Failing to get on the match he will endeavor to meet Skelly, Pierce, Siddons, Murphy, Van Host, Napier, Griffin or any other 120 pound man. He says he is willing to battle for any kind of a purse.

Dep. Sheriff Wheeler Does Not Care to Live If He Cannot Have

HOOD'S

Sarsaparilla

It would be difficult to find a man better known in the vicinity of Burlington, Vt., than Mr. R. D. Wheeler of Winslow Falls, the efficient Deputy Sheriff of Burlington county. He says: "C. L. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass."

"Dear Sirs: If Hood's Sarsaparilla cost $10.00 a bottle I should still keep using it, as I have for the past ten years. With me the question as to whether life is worth living depends upon whether I can get Hood's Sarsaparilla. I don't think I could live without it now, certainly I should not wish to, and suffer as I used to. For over ten years I suffered the horrors of the damned with Sciatic Rheumatism for if ever a man suffers with anything in this world it is with that awful disease. It seems to me as if all other physical suffering were compressed into this one. I took about everything man ever tried for it but never got a dollar's worth of help until I began taking

Hood's Sarsaparilla

I have taken it now pretty regularly for ten years and have no more pain and can get around all right. I have advised a good many to try Hood's Sarsaparilla." R. D. WHEELER, Deputy Sheriff, Winslow Falls, Vt.

THE EAGLE FURNACE.

A Cut of the EAGLE FURNACE will appear in this space Next Issue.

FOR WOOD.
The Most Powerful Heater ever Invented.
EASY TO MANAGE AND DURABLE.

Warranted to give double the amount of Heat of any other Furnace from the same quantity of fuel.

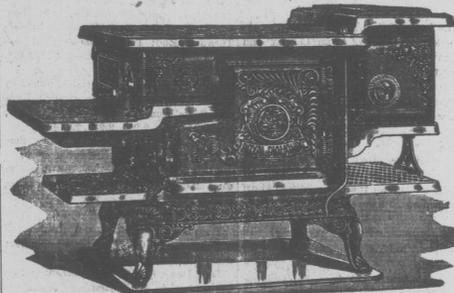

For Quickness of operation it is unsurpassed, there being no escape of heat into the cellar or chimney; neither gas nor smoke into the rooms above.

SATISFACTION IN EVERY RESPECT GUARANTEED TO ALL MAKING A TRIAL OF THE FURNACE.

FAVORITE DIAMOND.

FOR WOOD OR COAL.

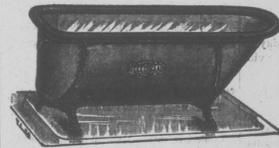

The fire box for Coal is oval, and is the heaviest and most durable made. The stove is supplied with either the Duplex Grate or the new patent Flat Shaking and Dumping Grate. When the fire box for coal is removed and the Fire Back and False Fire Bottom and front fender put in, they surpass all other cooking stoves for burning wood, as they have a large fire box, with the advantage of a central delivery of draft to the wood, making a quick, hot fire with a small amount of fuel. The reservoir is large and made of copper, and water can be boiled in it. The ornamentation is very beautiful, and the castings fittings, etc., are guaranteed to be of the best workmanship.

ROYAL DIAMOND, With Reservoir and Heating Shelf, FOR WOOD.

This Handsomely Finished Stove has a large and well ventilated oven, with an unusually large feed door and Fire Box, admitting very coarse wood. It is entirely new and First Class in finish, while every point of excellence is embraced in its Construction.

REASONS WHY

The STEEL CLAD is the Best.

It is open and accessible. No place for accumulation of impurities. Dampness cannot affect it. Nothing about it to shrink or decay. It cannot leak. It is light, but strong and durable. It is handsome in appearance.

It is THE CHEAPEST BATH IN THE MARKET.

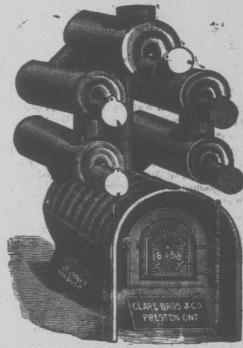

Hilborn's Hot Air Furnace

MADE IN 2 STYLES, 8 SIZES. BRICK SET OR PORTABLE.

The body is corrugated and made very heavy. The Furnace is arranged so that it can be operated from the rooms above, obviating the necessity of going to the furnace for regulating drafts.

The drums are of heavy sheet steel well riveted together.

It is the only wood burning furnace that can be easily cleaned out at all times. This very necessary arrangement is too often overlooked by parties buying furnaces, and as a result, they are forced to take them apart in order to clean them.

A BROTHER AND A SISTER

Became Husband and Wife and as Such Live Together for Eighteen Months.

BRANTFORD, Aug 20.—To-night's Expositor says: A brother and sister residing in this city as man and wife have accidentally discovered they are brother and sister and the paper gives the following particulars: Violet Buckingham, a young woman of 21 years of age was born in Ireland, and some years ago came to Canada and located permanently in London, Ontario, where she made her home with friends. A little more than 18 months ago she was introduced to a young man named Edward Vezzy, who had shortly before arrived in the Forest City from New Zealand, and who had been a soldier in the second Emmettilien Infantry stationed at Secunderabad. The friendship ripened into courtship, and the young man pressed the girl to marry him. The marriage took place in London in the usual way. After residing there for some time they removed to Brantford where Vezzy got employment with Messrs A. G. Montgomery & Company. After coming to reside in Brantford for some time, the young woman sent a photograph of her husband to an uncle, who is the superintendent of one of the largest public charities in the city of Dublin. The picture so strikingly resembled this gentleman's nephew and Violet's brother whom she had not seen since she was nine years of age, that a feeling of fearful horror struck him. Being in an influential position in Ireland, he had no difficulty in securing the government's assistance to locate the retired or time expired soldier, whose name was Leopold Buckingham, and who at the present time would be about 25 years of age. He was traced to Brantford and the young wife found that her husband was her brother. Vezzy's real name was of course Buckingham, but when he enlisted in the army he adopted the other name in order to hide his identity from his friends who would have been enraged at his enlistment. The couple have not lived very happily together, Vezzy being of a very passionate nature. The young woman, who is almost crazed with grief, has stated to her neighbors that she did have the most extraordinary suspicions that all was not right, particularly during the last few months, but never did she dream for a moment of her awful position. The matter has been placed in a lawyer's hands. Vezzy, or Buckingham as his real name appears to be, has suddenly left the town and cannot be found. The woman has closed her home and is living with friends. The case will be placed in the hands of the police, who will satisfy themselves that it is most extraordinary that these people should meet accidentally and be married, unconscious of their relation, or whether it is a villainous scheme of the man Vezzy.

However robust a person may be, plenty of out-door exercise will add to both physical and mental power, and next to life in the woods, with the stimulant of shooting and fishing to give proper tone to the nerves, writes Joseph Cairn Simpson, there is nothing like that which comes by association with fast horses. There is constant occupation for brain and muscle when the education of young trotters is attended to in person by the owner.

No trotter on the turf carries himself so proudly as Little Albert, and few have so great a flight of speed, and none are there more lasting than the lion-hearted grandson of Electioneer. One-half the "grief" that has fallen to Little Albert's lot would have killed the ordinary horse, but here we find him a patched-up trotter that was regarded as broken down and done for two years ago coming out again and giving the best on the turf an argument and now then a beating.

One of the most frequent causes of trouble with our trotting horses is the banging of the knees and arms. No humping use of iron will ever cure this trouble. The cause of the horse hitting his knee and arm is the wrong position of the feet—the feet too out. The only way that it is possible to cure this pernicious irregularity of gait is to trim the feet. Straighten the feet so they will point straight to the front and not too out. Do this and the action will be true, even and straight.

Gen. McClain was one of the best gaited horses I ever saw on a track, says a writer in The Horse Review. He could beat 2.20 and his action was about as near perfection as Ethan Allen's. Dirigo, another son, was fast and handsome and the fastest walking stallion I ever saw in harness. If these horses could have the advantages, care and training such horses get to-day, hitched to the bike, they would have made some of the stars step lively down the homestretch.

The get of Baron Wilkes are showing lots of extreme early speed this year. Two three-year-olds by him have beaten 2.30, one has gone in 2.15 1/2 and another in 2.23 1/2. A PRISONER ESCAPES.

From the Cells at Police Headquarters at Montreal.

The Missing Man Was Caught in the Act of Picking a Lady's Pocket on a Street Car.

For the second time within the past few weeks a prisoner has escaped from the cells at Police headquarters, Montreal. The second lucky person was a young pickpocket, who gave his name as Thomas Hall, his residence as the United States, his age nineteen, and his occupation a machinist. A Park avenue car was the scene of his exploits the other afternoon. He sat beside a lady, H. Butler of Boston, and with deft fingers he removed the purse from her pocket. He did not quietly put it into his own pocket but coolly emptied the contents into one hand and with the other returned the purse to the lady's pocket. But unnoticed by the thief Mr. Lewis Skafie, sitting on the opposite side of the car, watched the proceedings and told the lady she had robbed at the same time keeping his hand on the rascal's collar. By this time the car had reached St. Catherine street and Constable Payne was called to arrest the youth. The latter begged for mercy and offered the lady her money back if she would only let him go. He was taken to the Central Station in a cab and when the vehicle stopped at the door he made a desperate attempt to escape. The officer had alighted, leaving the prisoner sitting with his back to the horse.

Seizing His Opportunity.

He sprang right through the opening in the back of the cab and landed on his feet, but Payne was too quick for him. He caught him in a cast iron grasp and with both arms around the struggling young man literally carried him into the station where he was searched. Another lady's purse was found on him. It contained a chased gold ring and seventy-three cents in money. He was locked up in the cells and nothing more was heard of him at the office until the officers at nine o'clock in the morning, went to the cells for the prisoners for the Police Court, to have their photographs taken in the detective's office. Then the discovery of his escape was made. Every nook and corner was searched without avail. He had disappeared as completely as if the earth had opened and swallowed him up and no traces had been left behind. The division in which he had been placed was in the basement of the City Hall and consists of eight cells side by side with barred doors facing the east. The doors open into a corridor about six feet wide, which is paved with brick. At one end of this is another barred door leading to the main corridor of the Police Department, and at the other end is the stone, outside wall of the Notre Dame street side of the building. Light is admitted by a large window in this wall, the bottom of which is over eight feet from the flooring of the cells, and is protected by vertical iron bars, six inches apart, which had not been tampered with at all. This window is usually kept open in the summer-time to admit air.

Constable Paquin was the turnkey on duty and his version of the affair is that at the usual hour he made his rounds and everything was quiet. The cells were all locked and Hall was in a separate compartment alone. When the prisoners from other stations were brought in at daybreak the cell doors were opened and the prisoners as is usual, were allowed to mingle together in the corridor. At about a quarter to seven in the morning Paquin was relieved by Constable Martel, who who gave the prisoners their breakfast. He claimed that Hall was not there then.

Two of the prisoners, Picotte and Valois were questioned about the occurrence. They said that they were in the cell next to the one occupied by Hall, as if he heard him breathing heavily, as if he were sleeping. They were awakened about daybreak by hearing the window smashed. They jumped up, but could see nothing save the hole in the glass, which is about a foot square. When they were let out of the cells some time afterwards they declared that Hall was certainly in his cell. After this there was one man, who was in for protection, discharged.

The theory of Sub-Chief Kehoe is that he escaped through the bars of the Notre Dame street window, but where the officers tried they could not get a man or boy small enough to squeeze through. The case is a most mysterious one, and the police are very much annoyed at being outdone, particularly as they had such a clear case against Hall.

It is only a few weeks since a similar case occurred, when a boy, arrested for stealing pig-iron on the wharf, disappeared mysteriously from the same place. Every effort is being made to locate the missing youth.

Another Escape.

Last week Adolphe Mathon escaped from the cells at the Laval University building, where the Police Court is being temporarily held. Eight prisoners were in the cells and Mathon broke the iron railing, and using his braces as a rope, descended by them, and then jumped about twenty feet to the ground below. Mathon was awaiting trial on the charge of stabbing his wife, some three weeks ago.

AN OPEN LETTER.

Grand Lake Range, Queen's County, N. B.

March 10th, 1893.

THE GROSSER DYSPEPSIA CURE CO., Ltd.

GENTLEMEN:

I am 72 years of age and have had Dyspepsia for several years. I have employed numerous physicians and taken many patent medicines, but all were of no use in my case. I began to grow worse; everything I ate, even the lightest food caused me intense agony. My appetite was poor and I could not sleep. I was almost without hope when I saw a testimonial in the newspaper stating that Groder's Syrup had done for others. As a last effort to regain health, I thought that I would buy it. Just before Christmas last my son Fred went to St. John and brought me home a bottle of your remedy. I used with the following results:

I eat as I wish and have no distress from my food; my appetite is first-class, my food tastes good to me now, I sleep as sound as a child, I do all my own work without the aid of a servant, and can do a day's washing without feeling much tired, whereas I could not do it all before taking Groder's. I do feel grateful to you, gentlemen, for placing so valuable a remedy upon the market. I give all the credit for present state of good health to your medicine.

I am willing to answer any questions concerning the above, for I firmly believe your remedy will cure other sufferers as it has cured me. I conscientiously make this statement without any inducement or reward knowing it to be one of the best medicines in the market for Dyspepsia.

Respectfully yours,

ELEANOR BURKE

Story of a RIFLED Mail Bag.

BY BELLE CHRISHOLM.

I am an old man now, having passed my seventy-fifth milestone, yet I remember as if it were but yesterday every detail of a case—one of my first criminal cases, which I conducted more than fifty years ago.

It was in the month of March, eighteen forty-one, that I was called to Jackson, Mississippi, having been retained in the interest of a young man who had been accused of robbing the mail. I arrived early in the morning and at once sought my client and had a long conference with him. The rifled mail-bag had been recovered and the letters from which money had been extracted were given me by the prosecuting attorney for examination.

After satisfying myself with their contents so far as the interest of my client demanded I returned them and as I had nothing special to do during the afternoon I went into court for the purpose of getting a little insight into the methods of a Mississippi tribunal.

The first case on the docket was one of theft and the prisoner against whom this charge had been filed was a young girl—not over seventeen—named Katherine Hunter.

She was exceeding pretty and looked like one who had been tenderly reared. There was something very attractive about her—something so pure and innocent that it at once convinced me that she was not guilty of the crime catalogued against her. She looked troubled and her eyes were red with weeping, but when the case was called a multitude of faces turned sharply upon her, frightened her so as to make her for a time forget that she was actually on trial.

The complainant set forth in a positive way that the prisoner had stolen one hundred dollars from her mistress, the wealthy Mrs. Morgan, and although the girl protested her innocence in the wildest terms, the circumstances were all against her and her chances for escaping conviction seemed very slight indeed.

The one hundred dollars was in bank-notes and had been taken from Mrs. Morgan's trunk, which occupied a little closet off her sleeping-room and to which no one had access except this maid—Katherine Hunter.

While Mrs. Morgan was giving her testimony I felt some one clutch my arm lightly and glancing around quickly I encountered the tearful eyes of a young man fixed pleadingly upon me. He was a fine looking youth, with much intelligence in his face, and in a hoarse whisper said:

I see you are interested in the case in progress, and I have been informed that you are a first-class lawyer I wish you would do me the favor to undertake the young lady's defense.

Has she no offense? I inquired.

None worth speaking of, was the answer, and she is innocent—as innocent as the angels in heaven. Save her all I possess shall be yours.

Is she your sister? I asked.

No, sir, he replied, but—but—I am interested in her and she must be saved at any cost.

I was interested in the prisoner simply because I thought she was innocent, but not knowing the history of the case I feared I could not do her justice, and this I confided to the youth who, I was now fully persuaded, was her lover—perhaps her affianced husband. He continued to urge me to take the case, as the counsel employed was wholly unfit to manage it. I am not sure that I should have granted his petition even then had not at that moment caught the prisoner's eyes, and in that glance read a whole volume of humble entreaty. That look decided me at once and informing the young man that I was at his service he consented to give me the whole charge of her case.

I then informed the court that I was ready to undertake the defense, and asked for a few minutes cessation in the examination of witnesses that I might have an opportunity of speaking to my client. Retiring to a private room, in as few words as possible she repeated the story of the theft.

Her mistress first missed the money when she went to her room—just after dinner—and in a quiet way inquired of her if any one had been in the room during her absence, but she did not intimate that she mistrusted her until after Rachel Ross, the chamber-maid, had been questioned. The girl's story was that some time in the afternoon, while passing her mistress' door, she detected a slight noise, and peeping through the keyhole had seen the lady's maid rummaging through her trunk.

Katherine said she denied the charge indignantly and raised no objections when they proposed examining her trunk. Judge of her surprise, then, when twenty-five dollars of the missing money was found in the tray near the top, as if it had been hastily stowed away.

She had always thought Rachel honest, though she had never taken kindly to her, principally, she thought, because the girl had always shown a dislike for her. The person she pointed out to me as Rachel Ross was a bold-faced impudent-looking specimen scarcely up to the required of her class in intelligence and it required but the look of intense hatred which I saw in her little gray eyes, when she turned them on the prisoner to convince me that the rogue was before me.

Rachel Ross! Rachel Ross! I repeated, a new light breaking in upon me as something in the letters I had examined in the morning came back to me with peculiar force. I went to the prosecuting attorney and requested the loan of the rifled letters again. Selecting the one I wanted I returned the others and hurried back to my seat in the court-room.

Mrs. Morgan then resumed her testimony, which did not differ materially from the statement given me by my client. She identified the bills, two tens and a five, found in the prisoner's trunk, and swore positively that no one else except herself had access to the closet where the trunk was kept.

I asked her a few questions regarding the prisoner's former character and was assured that up to the date of the theft she had never given her the least occasion to mistrust her.

Rachel Ross was then put upon the stand and in a bold way told how in passing Mrs. Morgan's room she had heard a suppressed noise which aroused her suspicions and how in stooping down to look through the keyhole she had discovered the maid, Katherine, in the trunk-room beyond, tossing through the little hair-trunk which stood back from the door, in direct range with the keyhole through which she was stealthily peeping.

Finally she discovered the package of money in the girl's hands, which was immediately thrust into her pocket, a proceeding that so horrified her that she ran away without waiting to confront the culprit, as she should have done.

When she sat down, flushed with concealed triumph, I asked to have Mrs. Morgan recalled, and when she had again taken stand I inquired if it were impossible for this chambermaid to enter her trunk-room.

Certainly not, sir, the door was never locked between it and my chamber, was the answer. What I meant was that no one except my maid had any right there. Do you think that she could have had any knowledge concerning the money in the trunk? I asked.

She might, for I have frequently gone to the trunk in her presence for money to pay her wages, she replied, somewhat reluctantly.

Have you known of the prisoner having used more money than was her custom since the money was stolen? I questioned, watching her closely.

No, sir, I think not; I am sure she has not, returned Mrs. Morgan, decidedly.

Rachel Ross was then recalled and I asked her why she had not informed her mistress of her discovery before she had been compelled to do so and her answer was that she did not like to expose the poor girl, who seemed to be friendless.

How long have you been with Mrs. Morgan? I asked, disgusted with her professions of friendship.

Not quite a year, sir, she answered promptly.

How much does she pay you?

A dollar and seventy-five cents a week.

Have you been using your money as you earned it since you have been in her employ?

Certainly, sir, what I needed of it.

How much do you suppose? I urged.

I don't know, I am sure. How should I, spending it along as it was necessary, thinking it was nobody's business since I earned it myself? she replied, defiantly, glancing round the court room to see if her sarcasm was appreciated.

Then you have not laid by any considerable sum since you have been working for your present mistress? I insisted.

No, sir, she retorted, sharply.

And you had no money when you came here? I insisted.

No, sir, disdaintfully.

If you had really wished to injure the prisoner you could not have raised twenty-five dollars of your own to put in her trunk, then? I questioned.

Indeed I could not. I never had that much money at one time in my life, and I would not have been fool enough to throw it away in that fashion; even if I had, she answered sippantly. Besides the money found in the girl's trunk was identified by Mrs. Morgan, a fact you might have remembered if you had paid attention to her testimony.

Without being in the least crushed by what she evidently considered her sharpness, I said quickly:

Will you tell me if your home is in this state?

It is, sir.

Please name the town in which you reside? I continued.

She hesitated and the defendant look passed over her bold face, but finally she replied: I live in Lawrence on the Mississippi.

Do you take receipts from your servants when you pay them? I inquired, turning to Mrs. Morgan.

Always, she responded; the girl has told you the truth about the payments.

I don't doubt it in the least, I replied, but as particular proof is the thing the court demands I would be under some obligation if you would procure some bearing Miss Ross' signature, Madam.

The lady went out somewhat reluctantly I fancied but in a few minutes returned with four receipts which she had taken from the witness. The signature in each was the same—written in an odd, irregular hand that would be hard to counterfeited.

Now Rachel Ross, I exclaimed in a quick, startling tone, at the same time looking her sternly in the eye. Be kind enough to inform the court where you got that seventy-five dollars which you sent your sister at Lawrence.

The witness turned white to the lips and trembled so violently that I was sure she was going to faint, but she did not, and after a brief interval, to give the jury time to witness her emotions, I repeated the question.

I—never—sent any, she gasped, holding the rail to prevent falling.

You did, and you know it, I thundered for I was beginning to get excited too. She made me no answer, and turning to the court, I said: May it please your honor and gentlemen of the jury, I came here to defend a man charged with robbing the mail, and in the course of my preliminary examination I had access to the letters that had been rifled. When I entered upon the case and heard the name of the witness pronounced I went and got this letter which I now hold for I remember of having seen one bearing the signature of Rachel Ross. This letter was taken from the mail pouch and contained seventy-five dollars, and by examining the postmark you will see that it was mailed from the place on the day of the robbery.

With your permission I will read it to you. The court nodded assent and I read aloud:

Dear Sister Ruth, I enclose seventy-five dollars, which I want you to keep for me till I can come home, don't say one word about it to no one as I don't want the folks to know I've got so much money, now don't mention it to a livin' soul. I'm gettin' all right and enjoyin' myself, only I don't like that gude for nothin' Kate Hunter that is here, but never you mind she'll have to go one of these days or I miss my gear, your sister till deeth. RACHEL ROSS

—Passing the letter and receipts obtained from Mrs. Morgan to the Judge, I said: You will observe that one hand wrote the letter and signed the receipts. It is quite evident that the balance of the one hundred dollars—the twenty-five dollars found in the prisoner's trunk—was put there with the design of criminalizing her.

Without another word I leave my client's case in your hands, assured that you will do her justice. The jury had heard the witness testify that she had no money, and after satisfying themselves that she had written the letter they could do nothing but bring in a verdict of "not guilty."

The applause in the court room showed in what channel the sympathies of the people ran, and to answer the charge of that is here, but never you mind she'll have to go one of these days or I miss my gear, your sister till deeth. RACHEL ROSS

The applause in the court room showed in what channel the sympathies of the people ran, and to answer the charge of that is here, but never you mind she'll have to go one of these days or I miss my gear, your sister till deeth. RACHEL ROSS

—Passing the letter and receipts obtained from Mrs. Morgan to the Judge, I said: You will observe that one hand wrote the letter and signed the receipts. It is quite evident that the balance of the one hundred dollars—the twenty-five dollars found in the prisoner's trunk—was put there with the design of criminalizing her.

Without another word I leave my client's case in your hands, assured that you will do her justice. The jury had heard the witness testify that she had no money, and after satisfying themselves that she had written the letter they could do nothing but bring in a verdict of "not guilty."

"DUE NOTICE."

A man whose weight is scarcely five feet six and whose weight is not an ounce over one hundred and forty pounds. He has a milu blue eye, a frank face and his voice is pleasant to the ear. You'd pick him out in a crowd as a milk-mannered, tender-hearted man and yet he is "Dakota Jack" and has killed nine or ten men. He has been slashed and cut and shot and clubbed, but he seems to bear a charmed life.

It is high noon and the long straggling street of the frontier town is almost deserted by human life. Not because the sun beats down fiercely, nor that the civilized population is asleep, but because town marshal said to Dakota Jack last night at ten o'clock:

"If you are in this town at noon tomorrow I will hunt you down and kill you like a dog."

Well, twelve o'clock has come. The threat came from a man whose bravery is unquestioned and whose skill with the gun is marvellous. He had uttered similar warnings before. Some of the desperadoes had left for other fields; others had remained in defiance and fallen by his bullets. That he meant what he said in this case no man doubted and yet Dakota Jack remained. He did not bluster or threaten in return. He was taciturn and uncommunicative when his friend asked what he intended to do. At ten o'clock in the morning he was as usual. At eleven o'clock he entered the saloon in which a gunsmith was doing business and had his revolvers cleaned and reloaded. At a quarter to twelve he took his position in the center of the public square and waited. The men filed from the street and said to each other:

Now you will see some of the prettiest shooting ever done in this town! Dakota Jack is bound to see it out!

The town marshal sat in his office a block away. Word had come to him that Dakota Jack had refused to leave. At eleven o'clock he also cleaned and reloaded his guns. At a quarter to twelve, and he would not move sooner. He would even give Dakota Jack five minutes' grace.

The marshal knew where to find his man. They caught sight of each other when afar off—too far to risk a shot. Dakota Jack backed across the street to have the shelter of the awning-posts and telegraph-poles. Five hundred faces appeared at doors and windows, and spectators spoke to each other in whispers.

The marshal advanced to within thirty yards and then halted. The weapons of both men were still in their holsters. They glared at each other for a long minute without moving a hand or uttering a word. The spectators held their breath. The one was defiant, the other determined. Would Dakota Jack take water? Would the marshal crawl? If not, there would be a killing.

Jack, are you going?

I'll see you d—d first!

Men within ten feet of the marshal could not follow the movement as he pulled his guns. It was the same in the case of Dakota Jack. Both left cover for the open street and began firing. Pop, pop, pop! Both fired first and left handed. Both advanced as they fired.

Jack's hit!
Tom's hit!
That's elegant shooting!
That's something to be remembered.

The firing did not last over three minutes, but the time seemed to be a quarter of an hour to the spectators. They saw the marshal stagger to and fro and they cheered Dakota Jack. They saw the bad man lurch to the right and left and they cheered the marshal.
