PROROGRATION MIDDLE OF NEXT WEEK; THE PUBLIC WORKS ESTIMATES PASSED

Mr. Hyman Asks Postponement of Grand River Power Bill in Interests of Public=== More Reckless Assertions of Opposition---Another Foster Charge Fizzles Out.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa, July 5.-Prorogation will not be reached until Wednesday of next week. At least it looks like that today. When the House met this morning Sir Wilfrid moved that the reports of the committee to amend the rules of the House be taken into consideration on Monday.

Mr. Borden asked if the committee to which the matters of the Dominion electoral laws and the independence of Parliament Act had been intrusted would report this session. Mr. Aylesthere was no quorum. At the first meeting two members attended, at the second one and at the third one. There was so many committees meeting that It was impossible to attend them all, and therefore he did not see much chance for a report this session.

Moberley Not Employed.

Mr. Fisher answered a question put by Mr. Lake yesterday regarding H. J. Moherley said to be a census enumerator for a certain district in Saskatchewan, who was alleged to be a man who had been fined $100 for election irregularities. Mr. Fisher said there was no such person as Moberley in that district. The work was being done by two men, Alex. Macbeth and James Flett. "This is another instance of reckless assertion without any foundation," he added.

Mr. Foster made a general complaint that the department did not call for tenders in enough cases, and said there had been scandalous disregrard of public money under departmental auspices. Mr. Hyman asked for specific complaints of mismanagement.

Mr. Foster mentioned the case of railings in the Parliament grounds which are covered with spikes, on which members might be gashed to death if they stepped on them.

Ospreys Are Still Warm.

One is amazed to find how little the pronouncement of the Queen regarding the wearing of osprey feathers has influence the fashionable world. At the opera the other night there were scores of magnificently dressed women in the boxes and stalls, with upstanding osprey feathers in their coiffure, some of these feathers over a foot in length. The delicate shimmer of the fragile feathers certainly goes admirably well with the jewels which hold them in place, but no one who has read of the shocking slaughter and suffering of the beautiful birds can reconcile the fashion with humane instincts.

for the day was the prayer containing the paragraph, "Who didst put it into the heart of thy servant Victoria to lift up the Ionian Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, and to adorn it with high honor throughout her dominions.' One rather wondered if the idea originated with Queen Victoria or with her ministerial adviser, Lord Beaconsfield. It is said that imperial expansion and the de-sire to confer especial honor on her sub-jects beyond the seas was really the motive which inspired the foundation of this order. The robe and the ribbon are suposed to be of Saxon blue, with a scarlet stripe, and the motto, "Auspicium Melloris aevi" (A pledge of better times), "Auspicium uld suggest that the loyalty of the sub-of the sovereign over-seas was to sovereign over-seas was to a better feeling among the this country—for there was a Queen Victoria's reign when not as popular as it is now. a hundred G. The police are at a loss to account for her death.

Her watch had stopped at 11:45. It would probably run for a few moments after immersion, so that it is safe to assume that Miss Button was in the water around 11 o'clock. That she could throw herself or fall in from the wharf at 11 o'clock in the morning without being seen is unreasonable, for, rain or shine, at that hour there are scores of people around the wharf. At the same hour in the evening the wharf and the adjacent slips and yacht anchorages are lively, and the chances are that she would either have been seen or heard, unless, indeed, in the event of it being a case of suicide, she lowered herself quietly over the wharf edge and sank without an outcry.

Then, again, the fact that her body was found floating near the wharf at evidence that she was drowned there. She might have been drowned some distance away, and the body brought there by the waves.

If it is a case of suicide, Miss Button left behind no letters of explanation or satin, and the newest fashion, that is edging costly lace with either chiffon or silk, was to be observed on all the gowns. It gives additional richness to the lace and makes it hang in beautiful folds.

Learn to Use the Want Ads

Through the medium of a want ad. you can buy, sell or exchange any commodity in the world.

The little classified ads. are read and reread by people in all walks of life.

They pave the way for employment of labor and help, and bring together the employer and employe-in fact, they are indispensable to both.

In the business world the want ad. occupies a significant position. It is used in buying and selling commodities of all kinds, and carries a constant market for business opportunities. It is used extensively in all business channels because it brings quick and effective results.

The housewife looks to the want ad. for many of her household necessities. In the want column she secures her help, whether it be a washerwoman or a servant. The want ad. sells pieces of furniture or any dispensable article which may be in demand by some one else.

Thus the want ad. occupies a field which, while distinctively its own, facilitates a rapid, effective and economic transaction of business.

The more you use them the more you will profit.

THE LONDON ADVERTISER want columns are read carefully.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders. By order, Ward, the aged naturalist and collector of meteorites, who was killed by an automobile at Buffaio last night left Chicago on Monday for Rochester. The news of his death was kept from Professor Ward's wife. Mrs. Lydia Avery Coonly Ward, until today. She was visiting her son, John Stuart Coonly, here.

Professor Ward expected to go to Wyoming, N. Y., in a few days. Mrs. Ward was preparing to join her husband there, and then start on an extended trip down the St. Lawrence River. Their plan was to visit Montreal and Quebec, after which they expected to camp in the Canadian woods the rest of the summer. His collection of meteorites is excelled only by those of the German and Austrian Governments, with which he regularly exchanged specimens. In the United States the only collection which in any way approximates that of Professor Ward is the one owned by the Field Columbian

Our neighbors appear to have commemorated Independence Day with the Under the weeping willow tree usual noisy good humor. There is He leaves a wife and family gratifying evidence that their national celebration is losing its anti-British tone. It used to be a field day for oratorical tail-twisters, but the offensive spread-eagleism of the Daily Hornblower type, which Dickens satirized so effectively, was a juvenile failing, which is being corrected by age and national reponsibility. The young Americans of today are reading more truthful histories than those of a generation ago. They are learning that the revolution was not a war of the American people against the British people, but against the British court party. The greatest intellects of the mother country were opposed to the course of the sovereign and his parliamentary puppets, and the American patriots of today might well forget the name of George III. in the names of Chatham and Burke. The revolt was not the uprising of an oppressed people, for the hand of the mother country lay lightly on the thirteen colonies. It has been called the most unromantic revolution in history, and the letters of Washington show that he was in despair at times because of the reluctance of large bodies of his troops to continue in active service beyond the term of their enlistment. BREAKS UP SHOW

Official Snorted So at Hammerstein's That Curtain Was Rung Down.

New York, July 5.-The man whose laugh can break up a theatrical performance was found at Hammerstein's Roof Garden last night, and the episode was one of the most remarkable that ever occurred in a New York theater. I. N. Donald, a wealthy lumber dealer, and four friends, sat close to the stage. One of the party, Mr. Donald said, was Supt. Banghart, of the Queen's County tunnel being built under the East River at Forty-Second and Queen's County Railroad.

When Rice and Prevost, a team of comedy tumblers, appeared on the stage about 10 o'clock Mr. Banghart began to laugh. His curious caechination was of an indescribable quality. It sounded like a cross between an indrawn whistle and a snort, which rose in a steady crestelling a fib. His sobs having died cendo until it reached the top note, where it broke in a wheezy falsetto. The comedians had not reached the humorous part of their sketch, and no one else in the house saw anything funny in their actions. The laugh first irritated Rice; then it angered him, and he ordered the curtain rung down. At the same time a special officer and two attaches of the house asked Mr. Banghart what he meant by breaking up the show. Meanwhile the audience shouted for Rice and Prevost. Then Rice came before the curtain and asked to be excused, saying he couldn't go on with the performance under such circumstances. But the crowd kept on calling for the comedians, and there was a long wait, in which the stage manager tried to shove forward Machnow, the Russian giant. The audience would have none of him and began to stamp. In the meantime Mr. Banghart, indignant and chargined, was taken protesting into a corner where the special officer threatened to lock him up if he didn't behave. When it dawned upon Mr. Banghart that it was his laugh which had caused the rumpus he angrily exclaimed: "Good lord! man, that's the way l always laugh. I paid to get in here just to laugh!"

Then the abashed officer and the attaches apologized, and Mr. Rice, to whom the situation was explained, sent word that he was extremely sorry. After about ten minutes' wait the show went on.

Hyomei Cures Catarrh

Its Healing Balsams Kill All Catarrhal Germs.

There is no more common disease than catarrh, asd none that is more dangerous. It weakens and debilitates the whole system, if it is allowed to run, leads to serious, and sometimes fatal complications.

No dangerous drugs are taken into the stomach when Hyomei is used. Breathed through the small pocket inhaler that comes with every Hyomei outfit, its healing balsams penetrate to the most remote cells of the germs of catarrh, healing the irritated mucous membrane, and making complete and lasting cures.

The complete Hyomei outfit, consisting of an inhaler that can be carried in the purse or vest pocket, a medicine dropper, and a bottle of Hyomei, costs only $1. The inhaler will last a lifetime, while extra bottles of Hyomei can be procured whenever needed, for only 50 cents.

If you cannot obtain Hyomei of your dealer, it will be forwarded by Write today for consultation of and Leigh Hunt for certain. Here is London, July 3.-The largeness the number of persons who live in the old round dining table over which London is continually being demonstrated to anybody who is staying for with visions of Frederick, and but little and ingenuity are displayed. It bears universe. For instance, you determine to make an excursion somewherejust a private little outing in a quiet way. It is not a matter of excursion trains or steamboats; it is not on a public holiday. It is a simple taking of the regular train by a few friends who want to see the beauties of some park, or castle, or resort, "before the rush commences." You immediately find, on reaching the railway station, that scores, if not hundreds, of people have had precisely the same idea, and the number of luncheon baskets and babies that positively cram every carriage of the train must be seen to be believed. Or, you have perhaps been looking up some history at the British Museum, and you think you have got Oliver Cromwell. By piecing together various letters and documents, and consulting these by the aid of certain topographical references, you have come to think that he stopped for a night or perhaps two at a certain remote village and there received important secret dispatches and had an interview with a spy. The village lies off the track of railways, it is now a sleepy old world place to which nobody ever goes. The nearest station is five miles off. You determine to visit it. You pack a knapsack with a few things in order that you may not "get left." and in the early morning you take the train to the nearest point. But who are the six or seven suspicious-looking men who are also getting into the train at this unseasonable hour? You comfort yourself with the thought that they are commercial travelers. But they don't look like commercial travelers, and when the train stops at your destined station, everyone of them gets out, and as a matter of fact, it turns out that everyone of them is bound on the same errand as yourself. I think that if you were to make an appointment with a friend to meet him inside the ball that surmounts the dome of St. Paul's at 3 o'clock in the morning, you would find somebody already there when you arrived. There are so many people ining the entire population of Canada concentrated into one single countyand that not a large one of one of our provinces. In Canada our population is 1:7 to the square mile. In these BRYAN TALKS square mile. Of course these are averages. But in London itself the population is so enormous, and so much, so to speak, condensed, that the phenomena of which I have spoken are almost sure to occur. There are only a certain number of things to be done, and amid a population so large it is Appreciates the Boom, But Says difficult to knock out a scheme for yourself without somebody else thinking that he will do precisely the same thing at about the same time. WOODSTOCK MILITANT

Determined to Have Regiment Despite Expert Advice to Contrary.

Woodstock, July 4.-The feeling of the citizens of Woodstock, as expressed by the enthusiastic public meeting last night, is almost unanimously in favor of the organization of a city regiment The meeting was well attended, the discussion free, and the problem was debated with Col. Peters, D.O.C. The enthusiasm displayed has seldom been equaled outside of an election meeting in this city.

As a result of the discussion the following resolution was unanimously carried. "Moved by Major Ball, sec onded by Major Knight, and resolved, that it is the feeling of this meeting that steps be taken to organize a city regiment, and that the chairman be asked to communicate this resolution to the proper authorities." Sir Frederick Borden has already expressed his disapproval of the city corps, and at the meeting Col. Peters stated that from an entirely military standpoint he would certainly not recommend it for Woodstock. City regiments are all humbugs, he said.

He recommended that the Twentysecond be reorganized as a mounted corps of four squadrons. This he would strongly recommend. Col. Peters' attitude was strongly Pittsburg, after being held down for three years by the New York Giants, with the addition of a number of crack youngsters, has come into its own again, and just now it looks as though the team Chicago would have to beat in the race is the Pirates.

New York, however, is by no means out of the race. Despite the lamentations of baseball writers over the country, bewailing the early death of Christy Mathewson as a pitcher, the way the great twirler has performed in his last two or three games hints that that the dirges and epitaphs sung and written over his baseball grave were a bit too premature.
