sian determined not to permit Rus sian Occupation—Russia equally resolute that she shall.

The following very important cable telegrams were received at the STANDARD office on Thursday afternoon, and contain the very latest news from the seat of war. Losnos, Feb. 14.—A despatch from Constantinople announces the arrival there of the British fleet. The Porte has made a formal protest against the fleet having passed through the Dardanelles. Laying passed through the Dardanelles. Loynox, Feb. 14.—The Times says Russia incurred grave and needless re-sponsibility and will have to give guaran-tees to Austria às well as to England that she will quit Constantinople if she should fulfi her rash intention to occupy should fulfil her rash intention to occupy it. In the House of Commons this after-noon, Sir Stafford Northcote confirmed the statement that the British fleet had reached Constantinople. Chancellor Northcote also stated in the House of Commons that a despatch had been re-ceived from the Russian Government stating that the Car was considering the question of the occupation of Constanti-nople by armed force. To this England had replied that the cast no of Her Ma-jesty's Government does not justify Rus-sia occupying Constantinople. A Vienna correspondent says excite-ment here is daily increasing, and exoite-ment in Hungary even greater. . British fleet passed through the Dar-danelles on Wednesday at 30'clock p.m.

g ago was I weary of volces -se music my heart could not win, rago I was weary of noises fretted my soul with their din; g ago was I weary of places re I met but the human, and sin.

And I toiled on heart-tired of the Humn And I moaned 'mild the mages of men : Till I knelt long ago at an altar And heard a voice call me ; since then I walked down the valley of silence That lies far beyond mortal ken.

Do you ask what I found in the Valley? "Tis my trysting place with the Divice : And T fait the feet of the Holy, And about me a volce said : " Be mine. And their rose from the depths of my sp An echo, " My heart shall be thine."

Do you ask how I live in the valley? I weep, and dream, and I pray : But my tears are as we tas the dew drops That fall on the roses in May : And my prayer, like perfume from censor Ascendeth to God, might and day.

In the bush of the "Valley of Silence," I dream all the songs that I sing ; And the music floats down the dim valley, Till each finds a word for a wing. That to men, like the doves of the Deluge, The message of Peace they may bring.

But far on the deep there are billows That never shall break on the beach and I have heard songs in the silence That never shall float into speech; And I have had dreams in the Valley Too lofty for language to reach.

And I have seen thoughts in the Va Ah me, how my spirit was stirred ! And i how my spirit was stirred ! And i how may have walls on their f And i how may have a searcely be hear They pass through the valley, like V Too pure for the touch of a word.

Do you ask me the place of the valley ; Ye hearts that are harrowed by cate? It heth afar between mountains, And God and His angels are there— And one is the dark mound of sorrow. And one is the bright mountain of pray in moments of consciousness. The study c the phenomena, however, shows that dream are based either on thoughts that have occur red in moments of consciousness, arranged it may be, in a very unexpected manner, o are the products of a morbid mental or nerv oss state, and, in the latter case, are symp-toms which, as our contemporary points out should not be neglected by the physician Dreams, of course, sometimes "come true, and in those cases it is very difficult to shak the belief of the subject; but it is obvious that if a man dreams frequently, and sees in a mental vision those scones he has previ-ously depicted when awake, some of then will, in all probability, occur. It would therefore, be absurd to be alarmed, or regard with superstitions dread the possible occur that may have been clearly foreseen in mo-ments of consciousness.
