KERENSKY SWAYS PEOPLE OF RUSSIA.

Minister of War and Marine Has Confidence of Government and Workmen's Council—Led Revolt Against Czar—Had Been Marked for Arrest and Exile to Siberia When Revolution Overturned His Foes.

Alexander Feodorovitch Kerensky, the Russian Minister of War and Marine, is a man of the masses who rose to power over the people by service to them, and he is capable—because of the strength of his mind and character, of guiding the Russian nation through the war, in the opinion of Ossip Dymow, the American correspondent of the Russian Will, one of the largest papers in Russia, and the President of the Press Representatives of Russia in America.

Mr. Dymow, who came to America shortly before the outbreak of the war, is a personal friend of M. Kerensky, and had opportunity of intimate association with him in Petrograd.

"About five years ago," he said recently, "I was spending the summer in Veso, a little town near Revel, on the Baltic Sea, amid a colony of writers, authors and literary folk generally. One day I noticed a woman who was a new arrival, and upon inquiry learned that she was Mrs. Olga L. Kerensky, of whom I had heard something. Within a short time my family and Mrs. Kerensky became very friendly, and she told us that her husband was then in Sarajov, running for election to the Duma on the Socialist Labor ticket.

"At that time M. Kerensky was about 30 years old and had won the confidence of the workmen of Russia by his championship of their cause. He was born in Tashkent, a Russian town in middle Asia, and, although his family had little means, he succeeded in obtaining a good education and becoming a lawyer. As a lawyer he spent most of his time defending the cases of peasants accused of political crimes by the Czar's Government, and his fame spread through Russia in 1912, when he represented the workmen in an investigation following the massacre of some sixty strikers by the police in the Siberian gold fields along the River Lena.

"He was not, of course, able to obtain the punishment of the police officers responsible for this outrage, but he proved to the satisfaction of all disinterested persons that the police were to blame for the shooting, and his activities fixed his place in the hearts of the people.

"Shortly after my return to Petrograd from the Baltic, at the end of the summer, I met Mme. Kerensky again and she told me that her husband had been elected to the Duma. Within a few days I met him, and as the headquarters of the Socialist Labor Party in the house where I lived I saw him frequently. He and his wife exchanged many visits with my family and we all became warm friends. He was soon recognized as the leader of the Socialist Labor Party in the Duma, and at once his life and liberty were in jeopardy. The police were afraid to touch him because of his membership in the Duma, but he was constantly watched by spies. Whenever he entered the party headquarters detectives waited outside, where I often saw them.

"At this time M. Kerensky was a slender, moderately tall man, with blonde hair, blue eyes, and the general appearance of an Englishman rather than a Russian. He was a magnetic, convincing speaker, but not an orator, as Americans popularly conceive such. He used few gestures, never indulged in flights of rhetoric, and was always logical and accurate in his statements. But he spoke with such feeling and so directly that all who heard him were compelled to listen. He employed terse sentences, chopping off what he had to say in an emphatic way that made it often unforgettable. He was then, and is now, I believe, the best public speaker in Russia.

"And his popularity grew while he was a member of the Duma. He always stood up for the cause of the peasants, and never consented to any compromise with the Czar. He spoke the truth without fear and was rapidly becoming the particular object of the hostility of the Government when the revolution came. I have received reliable advice that, if the revolution had been delayed two weeks, M. Kerensky would have been arrested and sent to Siberia.

"M. Protopopoff, the last Prime Minister under the Czar, sent a copy of a speech M. Kerensky was reported to have delivered in the Duma to M. Rodzianko, the President of the Duma, and asked to know whether M. Kerensky had been correctly quoted. He stated that he considered the remarks of a nature to warrant M. Kerensky's arrest. As M. Kerensky had delivered the speech, he would have been a prisoner within a short time—but the revolution began the day after the Prime Minister's letter reached M. Rodzianko.

"While Petrograd was in the disorder that preceded the establishment of the Provisional Government, the Czar ordered the dissolution of the Duma, but M. Kerensky rose in his place and said: 'We will not go. We will stay here!' That was the first voice of the Duma on the revolution, and after declaring his position, M. Kerensky began energetically to work for the overthrow of the Czar and the establishment of the Provisional Government, in which he became the Minister of Justice.

"One of M. Kerensky's qualities is tact, and he is a master in bringing about harmony among disputing factions. When the various elements in Russia began to threaten the success of the revolution it was he, I have been informed, who did more than any one else to restore stability. As he had proved his capabilities and character to the members of the Provisional Government he had their confidence, and he was recognized as a leader by the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, so he was in a position of power. What has been accomplished shows that he used his power wisely and for the best interests of his country.

"Of course, no one can predict what will happen in Russia, but I will say this: As long as M. Kerensky is in the Government I shall have faith in his success. If he resigns from the Government, or is forced out, I shall expect to see Russia collapse. He will not resign because of dangers and difficulties. He will fight to the last ditch, and as long as he fights there is hope. Because of his popularity among the workmen, I believe he has the power to keep them in support of the Government. As for the present Russian Army is composed of former workmen I am confident that his journey to the front will have the effect of putting new spirit into the fighting forces.

"I may add that M. Kerensky is not in any degree a pro-German. As he has said, he wants a general peace, not a separate peace. He is working for Russia, and to him Russia is the people, the masses, of the country.

"I would like to add a word about Mrs. Kerensky. She is one of the finest women I have ever known. Since the revolution she and Vera Figner, the famous revolutionist who spent years in Siberia, have been at the head of a committee for the relief of returning political exiles. Without solicitation from her, people all over Russia have sent Mrs. Kerensky 1,500,000 rubles for this work—which shows the confidence in which she is held. I do not think I am exaggerating when I say that M. Kerensky and his wife are two of the most loved people in Russia, and deserve the position they enjoy."

Mr. Dymow, who, incidentally, is the author of the Russian play, "Nju," which was produced at the Beldobox Theatre recently, was more optimistic concerning the future of Russia than other Russians in this country have been.—N. Y. Times.

The Gas Range!

The Gas Range means comfort for the housewife; shorter kitchen hours for her, and a saner kitchen. It is a great mistake to think that cooking with gas is expensive.

Whenever a woman becomes used to gas for cooking, thoughts of a coal or wood stove fill her with gloom. A Gas range is so much easier to operate, so efficient for all kinds of cooking, and so much cleaner, that the idea of going back to the old style methods is decidedly unpleasant. Yet in winter many housewives think they must use a coal or wood stove, because there is no other way of heating the kitchen. THERE IS ANOTHER WAY AND IT IS FAR BETTER THAN THE OLD. THE CLOW GAS STEAM RADIATOR WAY. may23,17

REDUCED PRICES.

To enable all to see this masterpiece, and it would be a shame for all not to make an effort to see it, Mr. Rossley has reduced the price of admission to ten and twenty cents. It gives one a better idea than all one could read of the war in a year. This wonderful picture comes as a great change from the dusty love scenes. Let us see the actual daily happenings of what the gallant lads have to go through. It's a real picture, not a fake. There is coming to Rossley's a one-legged performer who lost his leg in the Ypres battle, and a veteran of several battles including Ladysmith. He sings, dances and drills and relates thrilling stories of life at the front.

CHILDREN SUMMONED.—A resident of Hoyles town had two five-year-old boys summoned to court to-day for breaking a pane of glass in his shop window. The parents of the children appeared and they were ordered to make good the glass and pay the costs of the proceedings.

The American Way.

The figures are not yet available of the total reached in yesterday's registration. Through-out the country there was, of course, but the steady streams of applicants, the orderly but enthusiastic spirit that was everywhere manifested, the entire absence of disorder and the late hours to which many booths were kept open, all demonstrate a splendid response which is certain to come up to expectations. In theory was, of course, compulsory; in actual fact it was plainly voluntary. The United States is adding surprise to surprise. It comes late into the conflict it comes as a giant, endowed with a giant's strength. The world never dreamed of conscription in America; it followed close on the heels of the declaration of war. The world looked for pro-German disturbances, rioting, rebellion, dynamic plots and outrages, all of which the whole country has been more orderly than Quebec. Pacifists and anti-conscriptivists have been allowed generous latitude to which to agitate and inflame themselves, and they have sputtered out like a damp squib. The country turns out to be a solid unit which the world had thought a mere conglomeration. It is time to give over sneers and gibes at America, if there remain any foolish enough to utter them. It is time to exchange half-expressed contempt for open admiration, to follow where we had professed to show the way.

It is time, too, for us to change our whole outlook on the war. From the beginning the majority among the Allies have made the mistake of looking always to an end of it all, not realising that the longer it lasted the better it must be for them and for the world. Now that the submarine danger is well in hand and may be said to be averted the last thing we should hope for is peace this year. It is hardly conceivable that it could come in that time through a defeat by arms of Germany crushing enough to impose upon her the terms which are absolutely essential to the continued peace of the world. It could therefore come only through the machinations of socialists, the secession of Russia or some similar cause. It would be certain to leave Germany where she is, or at least in possession and control of her Middle Europe. And on those terms it would be a German peace and represent a German victory. The war must last until Germany is knocked out, and that virtually means until the States can take the field. France is bleeding profusely, taking drop for drop, it is true, but still she is holding her own. She has won a glorious victory on the Aisne and routed the Germans out of their strongholds there. But they had to do it with their infantry (their guns could not reach the German burrows) and it cost them dear. France has not pressed her victory to a complete triumph simply because she has not the men. America can furnish them and will. When her army assumes the major part of France's burden it will be at hand. We can await that time with perfect confidence and must be patient until it comes.

Game of Bridge Ends in Court.

An assault case with somewhat unusual surrounding circumstances was heard in the Magistrate's Court today. It emanated from a game of bridge that was being played in the club rooms of a certain well known society recently. Four men were playing, and after a "declaration" had been made of the cards, a non-player or "bake," who was sitting close to the players and looking on, waded in his unsolicited opinion, which was resented by one of the players, who, after the exchange of some incisive remarks, lost his patience and struck the non-player. The latter demanded an apology but was refused. Then he took legal proceedings. The defendant was today before Judge Morris, who intimated that he could understand a man at cards being over-come by his temper on account of an on-looker butting in, especially when trumps are running against him, but the assault was not justifiable and he fined the defendant $5 or 10 days.

A Minister's Evidence.

That Piles, or Hemorrhoids, Can be Quickly Cured—A Justice of the Peace Cured Many Years Ago.
Toronto, Ont., June 6th.—There has come to use recently these few letters from prominent men who bear unquestionable testimony in regard to Dr. Chase's Ointment as a prompt and lasting cure for piles.
These men give their evidence freely because they know what it means to suffer from the tortures of piles and then be cured. They feel it a duty and a pleasure to let others know how they too may be cured.
Rev. Frank N. Jones, Methodist Minister, Priceville, Ont., writes: "In the winter of 1912, I was stationed in Cobalt. I went for a snowshoe tramp one day, and sat only for a few minutes on a cold stump waiting for some comrades to catch up to me. From sitting on the damp stump I contracted piles, and suffered so severely that it caused me great pain to walk. A friend recommended Dr. Chase's Ointment, and I immediately purchased a small box which very rapidly effected a cure. I always keep a box on hand and find it excellent for any kind of wound or sore."
Mr. W. B. Thoren, J. P., Alderside, Alta., writes: "It was twenty-eight years ago that I became acquainted with the merits of Dr. Chase's Ointment and would not be without it on any account as it never fails to do its work. I was first induced to try it for piles. Less than one box cured me and I have never been troubled since. That was twenty-eight years ago, so I think the cure is permanent. It is good for sore lips and hands, chafing and in fact, all sorts of sores. You are at liberty to use this statement for the benefit of others."

You can put Dr. Chase's Ointment to the test in any case of piles with the utmost assurance that you will obtain relief from suffering and ultimately lasting cure. 50 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanon, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

A Disgraceful Scene.

THE LAW DEFIED—THE FLAG INSULTED.
We learn from passengers who recently arrived from Twillingate that a most disgraceful and unpatriotic act was perpetrated, as that settlement a short while ago which may yet terminate, (providing the law is carried out) in the arrest of a large number of persons. The facts are that a large number of people, acting under the advice of certain parties in St. John's, took for their own use a considerable quantity of pit-props that were piled along the water front awaiting shipment to the Old Country, but which, owing to the lack of tonnage, cannot be shipped. The agent of the owners of the pit-props, on missing the wood, reported the matter to headquarters at St. John's, with the result that Head Constable Dawe was sent out to investigate the matter, and shortly after reaching the scene arrested a fisherman on a charge of stealing the wood. This was the means of arousing the feelings of a large number of persons in sympathy with the prisoner, and on the day set down for his trial before Magistrate Scott, they assembled at the Court House and in the strongest language threatened to tear down the jail should the accused be convicted. So infuriated were the mob that shouts of an Anti-British nature were commonly heard, some persons going so far as to haul down the British Ensign, tear it to pieces and trample it under their feet. In the height of what may be termed a temporary revolution, Magistrate Scott by means of persuasive arguments somewhat subdued the crowd who shortly after returned to their homes.

MASTER-COOPERS MEET.—At a meeting of the Master-Coopers Union held last night, trade conditions brought about by the increase of wages and high cost of material were fully discussed. It looks as if the price of fish and oil packages will be at a high figure this season. Owing to there being little or no demand for fish drums at present a large number of coopers are now out of employment.

TO-DAY'S Messages.

10.00 A. M.

THE AIR RAID.

LONDON, To-day.
 Sixteen German planes came over the North Sea this evening and dropped many bombs on small towns and villages in Essex and to the west. Only fourteen of them returned home, for two of them were brought down by British guns. So far late reports show only two persons killed and 29 injured in the bombarded districts. The raiders met with a lively reception. Extra precautions were taken by the British authorities after the recent very serious raid on the south coast of England, in which 250 persons were killed or wounded. The Germans were attacked by British aviators before they had an opportunity to carry out their raiding intentions to any great extent. British anti-aircraft guns were very effective. According to local reports the pilot and observer of one of the air raiders brought down were rescued at sea and were made prisoners. Warning sirens were sounded at some places prior to the raid and most people took shelter. The small number of casualties is attributed to this.

U. S. REGISTRATION A GREAT SUCCESS.

WASHINGTON, To-day.
 More than ten million young Americans enrolled to-day for war service. Registration day with but a few weeks of preparation saw the first military census ever taken in the States completed without a single untoward event. As a consequence the manhood of the nation obeyed the President's call and volunteered en masse, setting at naught all the schemes and plots of German sympathizers and a few cranks who have agitated against registration. It remains but to select the men who are to go to the front. From virtually every State reassuring messages came to-night to Brigadier-General Crowder, Provost Marshal General and Federal Supervising Officer of the great enterprise. While no complete returns from any state were transmitted up to a late hour, the governors were unanimous in reporting that complete quiet prevailed throughout the day and that full registration was indicated. In some precincts late comers forced the officials to keep the polls open until long after 9 p.m., the closing hour set by the regulations. General Crowder authorized them to keep open as long as the men wished to enroll themselves. Early reports showing a full turnout all over the country indicated that the estimates of the census bureau as to the number of men within the specified age limit would be verified by the count. Wherever partial figures were available the estimates were checked closely. A typical message received was that from Idaho. Registration will be 100 per cent, it is said, spontaneous and without a murmur or incident, the situation was so clear, the response so ready throughout the country. The governors of forty-six out of the forty-eight states sent similar assurances long before registration closed, and the other two were close on their heels.

MADRID, To-day.
 Despatches from Algiers declare that the Gibraltar batteries during target practice on June 2, mistakingly directed shells into the city, which fortunately did little damage and killed no one, but caused a temporary panic. It is said in political circles the incident has no importance and that the Spanish Government already has received satisfactory explanations. Nevertheless the Spanish Government is seeking a detailed report from the Military Governor of Algiers prior to entering into a discussion with London. Premier Marquies Garcia Prieto to-day conferred lengthily on the matter with former Premier Romanones, Dato and Maura.

DETAILS OF THE AIR RAID.

LONDON, To-day.
 Persons arriving in London from the raided area state that ample warning was given and that British airmen were patrolling before the enemy reached the coast. The weather favored the invaders, who, flying at a great height, tried to penetrate inland under cover of small cloud banks. They were quickly detected and engaged by airplanes and land batteries, whose defence was so effective that they penetrated only a few miles inland, and after dropping bombs sped away. An eyewitness says that at one of the raided places the people were entertaining wounded soldiers on trips in sailing boats and the shore was crowded with women and children. The gunfire of the shore batteries caused no great excitement at the outset, it being supposed that they were being used in practice, but suddenly the enemy planes came into full view, and apparently within range of the guns. A few minutes later one of them was seen sunersailing from the clouds and amid a storm of cheering it dropped into the sea. A number of motor-boats and other craft manned by soldiers immediately began running toward the plane. The pilot who was in his seat apparently hurt was seen struggling to free himself from the derelict. When the first boat reached the scene, however, the pilot had disappeared and is supposed to have been drowned.

PETROGRAD COUNCIL CONDEMNNS KRONSTADT.

PETROGRAD, To-day.
 Ten representatives of the so-called Kronstadt Republic, headed by the Vice-President of the Republic, a private soldier named Liabovitch, held a conference in the Marinsky Theatre last night with the Petrograd Council of Workmen and Soldiers' Delegates, which is the only authority of the Kronstadt Republic, has recognized since it recently declared the deposition of the Provisional Government and expelled its Commissary. The proceedings during which the socialist Ministers Kerensky, Threlkelt, Skobeleff and Tcherneff spoke revealed the fact that the Petrograd Council supports the Cabinet in condemning Kronstadt. The Council proposed a resolution which paid a compliment to Kronstadt's devotion to the revolution, but declared that Kronstadt's step conflicted with the general interests of democracy and threatened to lead to disorganization and dissolution of the Empire. The resolution summoned Kronstadt to return immediately to the ranks of the revolutionary democracy. Voting on the resolution was postponed until Friday, but Vice-President Liabovitch declared to the Associated Press that the resolution would certainly be passed. He denounced the Petrograd Council for what he termed its slavish submission to its minister members. Kronstadt, said Liabovitch, will persist in its independent policy even if it is denounced by the Petrograd Council.

About Potatoes.

St. John's, June 4, 1917.
 Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—I read an article in this morning's issue of the Morning News from the pen of one who did not have the spirit of his convictions, if he had he would have signed his name to his letter. I emphatically state, that I do not agree with him, and I have as much interest in the country and more in its people than he has. Probably he may have sown a few more potatoes than he usually does, and to ensure a good price for them. He would like to prohibit the Prince Edward Island potatoes from coming here altogether which would be a hardship on our people.

Would to God the gift he give us. To see ourselves as others see us. It would from many a blunder free us. And foolish notions. —Burns.

Thanking you for space, I remain Yours respectfully,
 GEORGE J. KEOUGH.

Brutal Assault.

An aged woman, whose face showed the marks of much violence, had summoned to court to-day an able-bodied stoker for assault. Following a controversy between the defendant's wife and the plaintiff, the stoker dealt the latter a severe blow of his fist between the eyes, cutting and bruising the flesh terribly. The aged woman became unconscious and medical and spiritual aid had to be summoned, and she is still under the doctor's care. Judge Morris, who presided, admonished strongly on the brutal conduct of the defendant and fined him $5 or 14 days.

PLAGIARISED AND OTHERWISE.

THE JARGON OF THE DIAMOND.

(By John M. Miller.)

The diamond has a language all its own:
 If a player makes an error, it's a "bone";
 If he attempts the "squeeze"
 And strikes out, it's a "breeze"
 A play at which the fans bleeze forth a groan.

A safe drive to the field is called a "single";
 If good for one base only, it's a "single";
 If the hurler throws a "cripple"
 The whole village is a "triple";
 The swat will put the nerves of fans a-tingle.

When a runner's left on base, 'tis said he "died";
 If he goes out on a high fly, he has "skied";
 A one-hand stop's a "stab";
 The pitcher's mound, the "slab";
 Successful plays are certainly 'inside'.

When a player's making good his work is "grand";
 But let him boot just one and then he's "panned";
 If he comes up in a "pinch"
 And he "whiffs"—well, it's a cinch,
 The fickle fans will yell, "He should be canned."

THE BASEBALL GAME.

The game opened with Malasses at the stick and Smallpox catching. Cigar was in the box with plenty of smoke. Horn played first base; and Fiddle on second base, backed by Corn in the field, made it hot for the umpire, Apple, who was rotten. Axe came to bat and chopped. Cigars let Brick walk and Sawdust filled the bases. Song made a hit and Twenty scored. Cigar went out and Balloon started to pitch, but rapidly went up in the air. The Cherry tried, but he went wild. Old Ice kept cool in the game until he was hit by a pitched ball, then you should have heard Ice Cream. Cabbage had a good head and kept quiet. Cross covered lots of ground and you should have heard the crowd cheer when Spider caught a fly. Bread loafed on third base and bumped Organ, who played a fast game, put out Lightning. In the fifth inning Wind began to blow about what he could do. Hammer began to knock and Trees began to leave. The way they roasted Peanuts was a fright. Knife was put out for cutting first base. Lightning finished pitching and struck out six men. In the ninth Apple told Fiddle to take first base and then Song made a hit. Trombone made a slide and was put out at the plate. There was a lot of betting on the game and it is reported that Soap cleaned up a lot. The score was 3 to 0. Door said if he had pitched he would have shut them out.

A DREAM.

I'd like to see the world so full of such prosperity
 That not a single baseball team
 Would need our charity.
 And every mortal being in
 Our little baseball zone
 Should have his weekly chance to win.
 And winning, hold his own.

Some pitchers try to get hops on their fast ones by drinking hot beer.

An umpire's life is just one sweet and long
 And mild and calm celestial song.
 No matter what decision he may make
 He always seems to get himself in wrong.

Fred, Roberts, the new centerfielder for the Cubs, is showing lots of speed in the outer gardens, and grabs the hard ones with unflinching regularity.

Mgr. McGrath and his Irish "en-fants-touties" have not yet donned their tops. His crew are impatient but "Mac" (like Joffre) is going to adopt the "mibbling process" as a change in tactics from other seasons.

Birthday Honours.

LORD LEVERHULME.

Among the Birthday Honours published yesterday is the elevation of Sir William H. Lever, Bart., to the Peerage, as Lord Leverhulme.

The honour is one which will meet with wide appreciation and approval in England, particularly by those who have a knowledge of the remarkable achievements of the new Peer in his schemes for the improvement of relations between Capital and Labour, and the betterment of the lot of the working classes.

Lord Leverhulme is the founder and principal of the firm of Lever Brothers, Limited, of Port Sunlight, a firm well known to Newfoundlanders by many of its products, chief amongst which is Sunlight Soap. The growth of this business within a period of thirty years from a small factory to a stupendous world-business constitutes one of the most striking commercial successes of our times. Previous to the war, the products of this firm found their place in the households of all countries of the globe, including the Central European Powers.

One of the main factors in Lord Leverhulme's success has undoubtedly been his enlightened and far-sighted views on the question of the relations between Capital and Labour. These views he applied boldly and unreservedly to his own huge army of employees, and they are of so important and progressive a nature as to ensure for him a notable position in the history of the progress of British Labour during the Twentieth Century.

Space will only permit of a bare indication of the lines on which he has worked, but chief amongst these may be mentioned the Garden City in which the employees live, and the Profit Sharing or "Co-Partnership" Scheme.

On the very borders of the village of Port Sunlight the usual deplorable conditions of life, common to the working classes in many large towns in England, can be seen in abundance. Row upon row of stereotyped workmen's houses, unrelieved by any open space or green flat, poor sanitary conditions and consequently unclean houses. There is no encouragement here for a woman to take a pride in her home, although its interior is the cradle of a very large percentage of the youth of the nation; the children run about the streets, dirty, poorly clothed, and often underfed.

The contrast between such conditions, and the conditions under which the people of Port Sunlight live, is most striking. In Port Sunlight every cottage has its bath-room and up-to-date sanitary arrangements, in front of every house is a carefully kept lawn, the streets are wide and clean and bordered with trees. The model home conditions are supplemented by institutions such as fine airy schools, a gymnasium, swimming baths, tennis-lawns, bowling green, clubs, library, in fact everything necessary for education and recreation. The whole village is a realization of the most perfect conditions that thought and care could provide, and the result is a very low death rate, a remarkable improvement in the standard of living, a pride in the home, and immense pride in the children, who are well cared for and show it in their bright and healthy appearance.

The Co-Partnership Scheme provides for the allotment of a certain number of special "Co-Partnership" shares to every adult employed each year, commencing on the completion of five years service in the firm. Dividends varying according to the success of the company during the last year, are paid annually on these "Co-Partnership" shares. The value of "Co-Partnership" shares issued to date is over £200,000, and the amount paid to employees for profit-sharing last year, consisting largely of dividends on these shares, was £70,269. The number of Co-Partners in the firm is now 4,312.

By these means, employees are directly interested in the success of the Company, and the interest grows every year as their holdings in Co-Partnership shares increase. The scheme has long passed out of the experimental stages, and is an established success. One notable result of this enlightened policy was that, in the few years preceding the war when many manufacturers in England were faced with serious labor unrest, and strikes abounded, the workers of Port Sunlight continued contentedly at work.

A further innovation which Lord Leverhulme has recently advocated is the establishment of a six-hour working day. We give below an extract from a recent speech made by him, which deals with the necessity of improving the standard of education among the working classes, by increasing leisure hours to permit of time for study.

"If we are to rise after the war to our pre-eminence in competition with the whole world we must have a more extended system of education. Our workers will have to be educated in a way in which they have never been educated in the past and I venture to say that under the 8-hour system we work in our factories to-day, this is impossible. We have tried improving among the working classes, by increasing leisure hours to permit of time for study."

What Some Women Do.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

Some weeks ago I wrote you about the women who in asking unreasonable privileges trade on a shop's desire to keep their custom. I mean the women who demand adjustments on gowns that are fairly and squarely worn out; who have Persian rugs sent out on approval and return them after they have served their purpose of dressing up the house for a function; or do the same with cut glass punch bowls and even send them back unwashed. A letter friend called my attention to the fact that the women I described were all women of means, and objected to my implying that the lack of business honor thus shown was a feminine trait.

"It's The Upper Class Women" She Says.

"The middle class women don't do that sort of thing," she wrote, "They are the ones who pay the costs. Don't add insult to injury by putting the blame on them instead of where it belongs."

I agree with my letter friend,—part way.

The middle class woman doesn't order Persian rugs and cut glass punch bowls sent on approval for her functions. Nor does she ask adjustments on worn out gowns,—she wouldn't get the adjustment anyway because her account wouldn't be worth that to the shop, and she knows it.

But listen.

"They're Afraid They'd Lose My Custom."

I heard a "neighbour of mine call up the grocer on the telephone at quarter of six the other night. She wanted a head of lettuce, had just thought of it. The team had been put up, there was some colliey, then she came away from the phone triumphant.

"Will they send it?" said someone.

"Oh, yes," said she, "they're afraid they lose my custom if they didn't."

The cost of that delivery would probably have been rated at about fifteen cents. And the cost of the lettuce was eleven.

She Gets What She Can.

The middle class woman may not get such large concessions because she has not the power to force them, but she gets what she can.

Her weapon is not so large but what of that if she uses it just as unscrupulously?

Because you can get by with a thing is not a reason for doing it.

To use the fear of losing your custom as a bludgeon to hold over a merchant and enforce privileges you do not deserve is plain unscrupulousness.

THE PIANO.

The piano is a durable musical instrument which is used to entertain visitors who are not aware of what is coming. It is also used with great success as a parlor ornament, and when thus employed, collects dust and discards in large quantities. The dust is removed at stated periods from an oil mop, but the discards are not detected until somebody tries to render the Blue Danube waltz, only to have some fascinated listener inquire which one of the Chopin mazurkas that was.

Music is produced from the piano by leaning heavily against the keys with both hands and stepping on the loud pedal accelerator at the same time. When this is done for several hours in succession, the tendency is to cause the people in the flat above to regret having left a comfortable home in the country, two miles from the nearest neighbour. A determined piano student, who is not hampered by familiarity with the bass clef, can make life in a five-room apartment about as soothing as sleeping under a tin roof in a hail storm.

A piano tuner finds that $5 worth of harmony has leaked out during the summer.

Whenever a piano begins to develop ripe, fruity discards that can be told the first time over by those who are unable to escape, it is turned over to a blasé mechanic called a piano tuner, who finds that $5 worth of harmony has leaked out during the summer. This harmony is discovered and put back by striking the same key a few hundred times and listening intently with the left ear. Some piano tuners have what is called positive pitch and do not have to use either ear, but it is better to trust to one who learns carelessly over the instrument at right angles with the piano stool.

Pianos are played by people who are equipped with enthusiasm and high-tension technique. Some people have more enthusiasm than technique, and can be heard on a quiet, moonlit night by neighbours who would rather listen to a good band. Technique is obtained by careful study with somebody who secured a surplus while in Europe and has returned home to sell it at $4 per kilowatt. When a student has absorbed enough technique so that he can play Gottschalk's "Last Hope" without contracting writer's cramp, he is allowed to practice his profession upon the Chautauqua circuit.

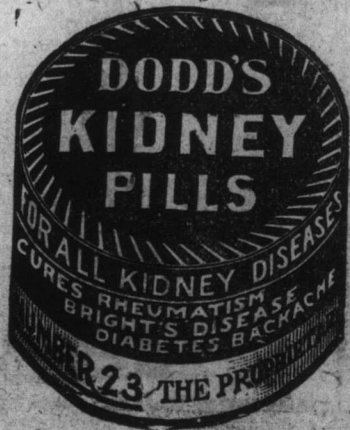

The piano would stand higher in the community if it were played with more technique and less physique.

WALT MASON

War is indeed a frightful thing, and any decent, thoughtful chap would gladly help to lynch the king who is the first to start a scrap. I hope this war may be the last that ever this old world shall know, that armies never more will blast the sacred stuffing from the foe. And yet I'm glad I've lived to see the captain and his pawing nag, to see our people, proud and free, once more uphold the starchy flag. For in our days of peace and ease, they told me loyalty had died, that nothing but a stack of 'V's would serve to stir the nation's pride. All o'er the world the story went, that coin's become our only god, our dreams are all of ten per cent, and nothing matters but a wad. So often had I heard this tale, that I began to think it so, and said, "The land that worships kale must sound the lower depths of woe." I saw it headed for the dump, its institutions all deranged; and then the captain blew his trumpet, and everything around was changed. Still lives the spirit of our sires, they lie who say our hearts are ice; still for our altar and our fires will make the last sad sacrifice.

GERMAN DESTROYER SUNK.

LONDON, June 5. A German destroyer has been sunk and another damaged in a running fight between six German destroyers and Commodore Tyrwhitt's squadron of the Admiralty. According to an Evening News correspondent, when Commodore Tyrwhitt's squadron first sighted the Germans they were five miles distant. They had apparently put to sea in fear of the bombardment from air and water. When they tried to regain port the British squadron divided into two lines. A British destroyer opened the engagement, and her fire damaged S-21 almost immediately. Then a British cruiser joined in the engagement, and S-21 soon began to sink. A destroyer rescued seven survivors during the chase of the remaining five German destroyers. This continued until the Germans reached the mined waters off the Belgian coast.

AIR RAID.

LONDON, June 5. An official announcement issued this evening says: An airplane raid is now in progress over an estuary of the River Thames. The enemy dropped bombs over an adjoining district in Essex and Kent. No further details are yet at hand. Up to the present one hostile machine is reported brought down. Between eight and twelve German taubes were the raiding aircraft. They were hotly engaged by British aircraft and guns. The aviators were driven back. A German machine is reported brought down and is said to have tumbled headlong into the sea. Still another machine is reported hit.

The official announcement of the air-raid says: An airplane raid this evening was carried out by a squadron of about 16 airplanes. They crossed the Essex coast about 6.15 and dropped some bombs in the country on small towns in Essex. They then proceeded to attack the naval establishments in the Medway. A considerable number of bombs were dropped, and a certain amount of damage done to houses and property, but the damage to the naval and military establishments was practically negligible. The raiding airplanes were engaged by gun fire and pursued by aircraft. After having lost two machines they made off seawards. The casualties so far reported are two killed, two dangerously wounded, and 27 wounded. This is the third raid on England in the past fortnight by German airplanes, which apparently have been substituted for Zeppelins by the Germans in making their attacks on the British Isles. For six months before the last three raids no attacks of this nature were made, the last efforts of the Zeppelins having proved disastrous to them. On May 23 four or five German aircraft flew over the Eastern English Counties and dropped bombs, killing one man. On May 25 a squadron of about sixteen airplanes passed over the southeast of England, dropping bombs which killed 76 persons and wounded 174, the largest casualty list from an attack by air since Germany began these raids on the unprotected towns of England. The principal damage in this raid was done in Folkestone.

ZEEBRIGGÉ BOMBARDED.

LONDON, June 5. A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. from Flushing, says: According to a frontier correspondent the bombardment of Zebrugge last night was the most formidable since the war began. It was carried out by the fleet with heavy guns and lasted for one hundred minutes. The damage must have been severe, says the despatch, for explosions were heard continuously until 8 this a.m. Several fires were seen. The German batteries replied furiously, but owing to mist, found it difficult to locate the positions of the British ships. It is not believed they got a single hit. This morning German soldiers were busy cleaning up the debris and removing the dead and wounded.

POWER HOUSE CAPTURED.

LONDON, June 5. The British official communication issued to-night reads: We gained ground slightly during the night south of the Souchez River. The electric power station in that neighborhood, for the possession of which fierce fighting took place on Sunday, is now in our hands. A successful raid was carried out by our troops today south of Ypres, in which we captured 75 prisoners, including an officer. There was great activity in the air again to-day. Bombing continued day and night with good results. Twelve German airplanes were brought down in the fighting, one of which fell within our lines. Six other hostile machines were driven down out of control. Five of our airplanes are missing.

AUSTRIAN TORPEDO BOAT SUNK.

VIENNA, June 5. An Austrian torpedo boat was torpedoed and sunk by a hostile submarine on Sunday night in the Northern Adriatic, it was officially announced to-day.

TURKS WILL DEFEND JERUSALEM.

STOCKHOLM, June 5. The Turks have changed their minds concerning the defence of Jerusalem, according to information to the Associated Press, from a most trustworthy source. Less than a fortnight ago the Turks decided to evacuate Jerusalem without battle, provided the city was seriously menaced. It has been learned this decision has been changed at the instance of the Germans, and that the city will be defended.

GENERAL GOUTOR.

PETROGRAD, June 5. General Goutor, who has been Commander of the 11th Army, has been appointed to succeed General Brusiloff in command of the South Western front.

BIG FRENCH STEAMER SUNK.

PARIS, June 5. An announcement was made to-day that the French steamship Yara, 4,163 tons gross, was torpedoed and sunk in the Mediterranean on May 29th. Six hundred and ninety persons were on board, thirty-five of whom are missing, including eight Arabian Brethren.

WILL HAVE NOTHING TO DO WITH HOLLWEGG.

LONDON, June 5. A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. from Amsterdam, says: According to the Rundschau, the recent visit to Brussels of Dr. Von Bethmann Hollwegg, the German Chancellor, to discuss with General Faulkenhausen, Governor-General of Belgium, a plan for the partition of Belgium, revealed the absolute refusal of all Belgian officials to have anything to do with it. The plan, therefore, will most necessarily have to be postponed.

NORWEGIAN STEAMER SUNK.

GALVESTON, Texas, June 5. Capt. Haugland and his crew of 20 men, of the Norwegian steamer Grosholm, have arrived here and report the sinking of their ship on May 15th by a German submarine, 200 miles west of the Irish coast, as she was bound for an American port in ballast. The attacking submarine opened fire without warning. Captain Haugland hoisted signals, including the Norwegian flag, and laid to. The shell fire continued and the ship's bows were lowered. The Grosholm was finally torpedoed. The crew was picked up on May 16th.

IMPORTANT RESOLUTIONS.

OTTAWA, June 5. Important resolutions were submitted by the Great War Veterans' Association to-day to the Parliamentary Committee on Returned Soldiers. Among the recommendations of the Veterans were the combing of the civil service for eligible single men and married men without children from 18 to 45 years, who have been avoiding service; their immediate training for overseas; that all fit officers and men on home service who have had reasonable training, be sent overseas at once as drafts to fill the gaps of the Canadian ranks; that all eligible men in non-essential industries be released and replaced by returned soldiers and ineligible men and women, if need be, and put into training for overseas; and conscription of all aliens for the best service they can afford the State.

LAURIE CONSIDERING.

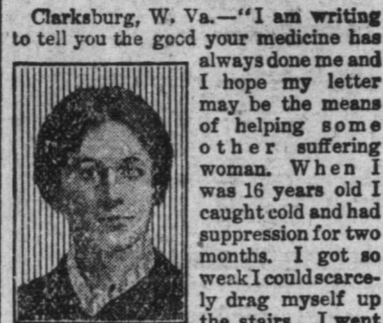

OTTAWA, June 5. Parliament is expected to receive news of the decision in the political impasse some time to-day. Intimation that it would be forthcoming depended upon what stand Sir Wilfred would take on the coalition proposal which he has been considering with his lieutenants. All opinions that Sir Wilfred sought are now in his hands, and he was giving them, it is understood, large consideration to-day. He is expected to deliver his decision to Sir Robert Borden orally this morning. The movements of the leader of the opposition were carefully watched, but he remained in his office in the Parliament buildings until past noon. The atmosphere around the Commons is one of suppressed excitement. Little speculation is going on this morning on the situation, as practically every phase has been thrashed out over and over again, and the subject is no longer fruitful of anything fresh. This does not relieve the tense feeling, though it must soon be relieved.

the dismissal of the President's advisers, the reinstatement as Premier of Tuan Chi Jul and war against Germany. Compliance with the first demands is considered most difficult, but both factions, according to indications here, are confident that a satisfactory compromise will be reached.

P.M.G.'S STATEMENT.

LONDON, June 5. Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.—In the House of Commons to-day the Postmaster General said the number of British prisoners of war in Germany was 42,831 compared with 30,710 last year. The number of German prisoners in the United Kingdom was 48,133 compared with 40,821 last year. Since the beginning of the war the number of post office applications for war loan exchequer bonds and war savings certificates totalled 191,000,000. This had not affected the savings bank deposits, which were now £185,400,000, compared with £180,000,000. This, he said, was a remarkable tribute to the financial strength of the country. The announcement was received with cheers.

ARTILLERY ACTIVITY.

NEW YORK, June 5. The British and Germans near Wytchaete, Belgium, are still engaged in a violent artillery duel which probably is the forerunner of a great infantry action at an early date. Already, according to Berlin, the British after having hurled great quantities of steel against the German defences, advanced to see the result of the work of their guns, but were forced by the German fire to retire to their positions, where their rain of shells was again resumed. There has been no resumption on the part of the line where the French are facing the Germans. The intense battles of Saturday and Monday and the artillery duels there have died down in volume. Apparently the Austrians on the front from Gorizia to the sea are still the aggressors against the Italians, but, according to the Rome war office, their attacks have all been repulsed except in the south.

ENGLISHMEN RECRUITING IN U.S.

NEW YORK, June 5. On the eve of the first drive for recruits among British residents in the United States, the headquarters here of the British recruiting commission in charge of Brigadier General W. A. White, to-day was visited by scores of loyal Englishmen seeking information. First recruits will be accepted to-morrow morning.

BIG REGISTRATIONS.

NEW YORK, June 5. Without a semblance of disorder and with every evidence of willingness to serve, approximately 600,000 of New York's sons went to 2,123 registration places to-day to inscribe their names upon the nation's roll of honor. The entire city seemed to have sensed the significance of to-day. Pacifists, anti-conscriptionists, "conscientious objectors" and plain "slackers" kept their sentiments well concealed and attempted no disturbance.

ELECTED BY ACCLAMATION.

VANCOUVER, B.C., June 5. Hon. J. W. Deb Farris, Attorney General and Minister of Labor, was declared elected by acclamation in the Vancouver bye-elections.

HOME RULE CONVENTION.

LONDON, June 5. The Government completed last week its proposal as to the composition of the Irish Convention. Andrew Bonar Law in the Commons told the members of the Lower Chamber to-

SUFFRAGETTES FOR RUSSIA.

LONDON, June 5. The Government promised facilities to a deputation from the Women's Social and Political Union, headed by Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, militant suffragette, to proceed to Russia and explain their views on the war. Mrs. Pankhurst last week requested passports from Premier Lloyd George for her party. In her letter she said, if the Government permitted, Mrs. Ramsay MacDonald, the labor leader, and his party to go to Russia to preach "their unpatriotic doctrine," there could be no excuse for "hindering patriotic women from going."

CHINESE COMPROMISE EXPECTED.

AMOY, China, June 5. Five demands have been made upon the Pekin Government by the secession provinces of China. These are, the dismissal of the National Assembly, a revision of the Constitution, day the Cabinet was now awaiting the decision of some parties interested who are holding a meeting to consider it. Their decision is expected in the course of the next few days.

A RACE VOTE.

MONTREAL, June 5. The City Council this afternoon passed an anti-conscription resolution by a vote of 12 to 5. The gist of the resolution was that it is the duty of members of the Council to oppose conscription under any form so long as it has not been endorsed by the people of Canada by a plebiscite. The vote was a line-up of French aldermen against English.

THE GERMAN WAY.

LONDON, June 5. The mate of the Danish steamer Odens is quoted by the Exchange Telegraph Co.'s correspondent at Copenhagen as declaring that while she was en route to Denmark, the steamer was halted by a German submarine which, notwithstanding compliance with the order to stop, continued to fire on the defenceless crew. Two members of the crew were killed, he reports.

AT THE HOUSE.

Practically all yesterday afternoon's session of the House of Assembly was occupied in a lengthy debate on the Daylight Bill, and, in marked contrast with the previous day's sitting, there was a total absence of acrimony during the discussion, although Mr. Coaker saw no reason why the Government should waste so much valuable time at this particular juncture legislating on such a trivial and insignificant matter, and which the people of the country at large were so little concerned about, while the high prices of the necessities of life and food production, were passed over unnoticed.

Several petitions were presented, including one from the Agricultural Society of Bay Roberts advocating an increased bonus for clearing land. Many members from both sides of the House spoke in favour of the encouragement of agriculture and cattle raising as well. The House then went into Committee on the Daylight Saving Bill. The Colonial Secretary, who godfathered the Bill, dwelt briefly on its benefits, pointing out that if found impracticable at the end of the season, its reinforcement need not be permitted next summer.

Mr. Clift supported the measure. He had seen it in operation in the Old Country where everybody was in favour of it and nobody against it. He made an amendment that the term "Colonial Time" be replaced by the words "Newfoundland Time." Mr. Coaker opposed the Bill because it was not wanted in the Outports where the people work from daylight till dark anyhow and it would be of no value to them. Anyway, he said, the outports had not been consulted about it and it should not be sprung upon them at such short notice. As the Bill applied to St. John's he did not see that legislation was necessary, adding that the alteration in the time could be done by the Importers Association. He said that if it was the intention of the Government to spend so much time over such facts and disregard other important matters such as the high cost of foodstuffs then he was sorry he was a member of the House.

The Premier, Mr. Piddock, Mr. Moulton, Mr. Jennings, Mr. Grimes, Mr. Targett and Mr. Halfyard spoke for or against the measure. The Leader of the Opposition in giving his dissent remarked that as the Bill was to come into effect next Sunday the outports had now to accommodate themselves to something they knew nothing at all about. He considered this absurd and unfair. He moved as an amendment that the enforcement of the Bill be extended to July 1st so as to give the outports notice. This amendment as well as Mr. Coaker's to have the Bill apply to St. John's only was lost, but Mr. Clift's amendment to have the words "Newfoundland Time" replace "Colonial Time" was carried and adopted. The new Bill will receive its third reading this afternoon and come into effect on Sunday next.

Three Bills introduced by the Prime Minister at the request of the Imperial Government were given their second reading as were also a Bill compelling Fire Insurance Companies to send a statement of their losses, etc., and the Bill to amend the Death Duties Act, exempting from tax the estates of Sailors and Soldiers who die on active service.

Cochrane St. Church.

Rev. Dr. Bond presided over the adjourned congregational meeting of Cochrane Street Church last night. The various Treasurers presented the reports of the Poor, Stewards' Missionary, Trustee Board and capital accounts, which were discussed. Several Chinese pictures were shown at the close.

St. Margaret's Guild.

At the closing sociable of St. Margaret's Guild, which was held at Cannon Wood Hall last night, the President, Mrs. F. Stirling, and Captain A. Clayton, C.F., were each presented with an address. The addresses are: ADDRESS TO MRS. STIRLING. Dear Mrs. Stirling,—Please accept this little token of our regard for you, and for all you have done for St. Margaret's Guild.

There is not one of us but fully realizes that the Guild has to thank you for what it is to-day. We cannot say how sorry we are to lose you, and it is our earnest hope that you will remain with the Guild for many years to come.

Wishing you every success in all your undertakings, and hoping that your successor will also take such an interest in us, as you have always done. We remain, Yours faithfully,

THE MEMBERS OF ST. MARGARET'S GUILD.

REV. ARTHUR CLAYTON, L. TH., Senior Curate, St. Thomas's Church and Chaplain H. M. Forces.

Dear Mr. Clayton,—On behalf of St. Margaret's Guild, we take this opportunity of extending to you a most hearty and sincere welcome upon your safe return home after your period of active service as Chaplain to the forces at the front.

We realize that you, labors amongst the sick and wounded have often been attended with much personal risk, and we are thankful that Divine Providence has shielded you from danger, and permitted you to return in safety to your family and our Parish. As the sisters and relatives of many of the boys of the First Newfoundland Regiment, we wish to record our appreciation of your noble and self-sacrificing labours amongst our dear ones on the field of battle, during the time when it was their privilege to have you with them, and we feel sure that their deep affection for you is largely the result of your loving and tender ministrations in their behalf and for their comfort.

As a slight token of our esteem and regard, we ask your acceptance of the accompanying Purse of Gold, and would suggest that the same be used in the purchase of something which, in after years, will serve as a memento of your period of service as a Chaplain with the 29th Division, and particularly with the First Newfoundland Regiment in the great war.

On behalf of St. Margaret's Guild, we are, dear Mr. Clayton, Yours sincerely, Gertrude Stirling, President; Edith S. Bremner, Secretary; Elsie Ellis, Edith Wellman, Alice Hunt, and members of Executive.

A Wonderful Help in Keeping the Complexion Youthful and Clear.
Perhaps you wonder how so many women manage to have a complexion that is always fresh and clear, and how you can make your complexion better. Here's the secret:—

This is the Vanishing Cream that softens the skin and gives it that soft, velvety radiance that we all desire.
Nyal's Face Cream is not oily or greasy, and it is readily absorbed by the skin, vanishing without leaving any tell tale gloss on skin. The skin welcomes this pleasant, soothing, cooling cream. It makes dry, tight skin soft and pliable. It makes rough skin firm and smooth, and gradually gives to coarse rough skin a finer, more delicate texture.
