LONDON PAPER'S WARNING NOTE OF VERACITY

Says Canada Must Preserve Rigid Probity in Public Administration.

MONTREAL, Oct. 5--(Special)--The Standard cordially supports the Canadian plea that leaving England to undertake the charge of the general defence, Canada will better fulfil her duty towards the empire by digging deep the foundations of true national prosperity than by any cash contributions towards imperial defence and concludes in words which may well be remembered by Ramsay MacDonald's comment on the faithful struggle quietly proceeding in Canada between British and American ideals of public life.

"Then, what say you to a voyage of reconnaissance in the village whilst I wait here against the coming night? You might come across Percy's track and thus save valuable time. If you find him, tell him to beware--his bitterest enemy is on his heels!"

"But this is such a villainous hole for you to wait in. 'Say, that I do not mind--But you might get out early host if he could let me wait in another room, where I could be safer from the prying eyes of any chance traveler. Offer him some ready money so that he should not fail to give me word the moment the tall Englishman returns'"

"She spoke quite calmly, even cheerfully now, thinking out her plans, ready for the worst if need be; she would show no more weakness, she would prove herself worthy of him, who was about to give his life for the sake of the fellow-men."

"Sir Andrew eyed her without further comment. Instinctively he felt that here now was the stranger, and he was willing to give himself over to her guidance, to become the hand, whilst she was the directing head."

and looked up at the left. Through the ragged curtains Marguerite's sweet face was peeping down at him, and the young man rejoiced to see that it looked serene, and even gently smiling. With a final nod of farewell to her, he walked out into the night.

CHAPTER XXIV The Death-Trap The next quarter of an hour went by swiftly and noiselessly. In the room downstairs, Brogard had for a while busied himself with clearing the table, and rearranging it for another guest.

It was because she watched these preparations, that Marguerite found the time slipping by more pleasantly. It was for Percy that this semblance of supper was being got ready. Evidently Brogard had a certain amount of respect for the tall Englishman, as he seemed to take some trouble in making the place look a trifle less uninviting, than it had done before.

He even produced, from some hidden recess in the old dresser, what actually looked like a tablecloth; and when he spread it out, and saw it was full of holes, he shook his head dubiously for a while, then was at much pains so to spread it over the table, as to hide most of its blemishes.

Then he got out a serviette, also old and ragged, but possessing some measure of cleanliness, and with this he carefully wiped the glasses, spoons and plates, which he put on the table. Marguerite could not help smiling to herself as she watched all these operations, which Brogard accomplished to an accompaniment of muttered oaths. Clearly the great height and bulk of the Englishman, or perhaps the weight of his feet had overpowered this free-born citizen.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

A condition exists in civic affairs that must make the average citizen rub his eyes in amazement. At the board of works meeting yesterday Director Cushing reiterated the statement that the city drainage could complete the work at Sand Point. He said that No. 2 and 3 berths were now practically ready, that there was still some work to be done on No. 4, and that No. 1 berth would then be attended to. He said, further, that it was not even necessary to operate the dredge day and night.

Why, then, all this bother? Why hurry delegations to Ottawa and Boston? Why worry the members of the government and the Shipping Federation of Montreal? Why hold emergency meetings and agitate the public mind?

There can be only one explanation of such a course. The mayor and aldermen do not believe the statement of Director Cushing.

Now who is right? And if the city cannot rely on its officials what course should be pursued? These questions should receive some consideration at today's meeting of the city council, for the city must pay the bills.

SHOULD KNOW BETTER

The Times has received a map of North America, issued by an American fish and game association, which purports to indicate exactly the kind of game to be got in each state, province and territory, from the Gulf of Mexico to Hudson Bay, New Brunswick, of course, appears on this map, and the hunter learns that here he can get beaver, otter, fox, marten, lynx and wild-cat. The adjoining state of Maine is shown to offer bear, moose and deer, and even Nova Scotia has bear and deer, but this province is out of the race for big game hunters.

If the gentleman who drew this map will come to St. John the citizens will undertake to regale him to the limits of his capacity on moose steak, bear meat and venison, and if he is fond of exercise there are many moose in these parts that would like no better fun than to convince him of their existence and potential qualities. In the meantime the provincial department having to do with game should see that every fish and game association in the United States is made acquainted with the sporting resources of New Brunswick.

SEEKING IMMIGRANTS

A delegation from the Nova Scotia Press Association waited on Premier Murray this week to urge the establishment under government control of a provincial department of publicity, industry and immigration. They urged that the premier "use his influence with the federal authorities to have Nova Scotia included within the advertising efforts of the federal government now largely devoted to the west, and that efforts by the province be also made on its own behalf."

Premier Murray expressed sympathy, and said he was ready to do anything practicable to aid in so important a work. The Herald reports as follows:

"He asked the delegation to formulate some scheme they thought might prove effective, and promised that it would be carefully considered by the government. Hon. Mr. Murray went on to speak of efforts that had been made with varying success to bring immigrants to the eastern provinces, pointing to some failures and to some successes. He spoke particularly of the excellent system and successful efforts of the Salvation Army. A definite, intelligent plan should be mapped out and applied, always profiting by the lessons of experience and remembering our local conditions. Efforts on behalf of advertising this province as a tourist resort were also touched on by the delegation and the premier on what turned out to be more or less a conference as to the best means for accomplishing results."

The Herald states that the Press Association will now consider definite proposals to submit to the government. But why should not the government formulate a policy? Surely the matter is of sufficient importance.

TRADE WITH WEST INDIES

Better trade relations with the West Indies were the subject of a very interesting discussion at the Halifax Board of Trade rooms on Thursday. The most interesting speaker was Sir Daniel Morris, K. C. M. G., Imperial Commissioner to the British West Indies, who has done a remarkable work in the line of development of island resources, especially in agriculture.

After a reference to the West Indies exhibit at the fair, and the falling off in trade between Canada and the West Indies some years ago, he said that during the time Messrs. Pickford and Black have been operating a line of steamers between Halifax and the West Indies the business has increased wonderfully; in fact it has tripled in the last three years. He quoted from the Chronicle's report:

"Sir Daniel referred to his own department—agriculture—showing that improved and scientific methods were giving the planters larger and better returns. He spoke of the West Indies being very old and had contributed largely to the wealth of the Empire, they were not played out. The fact that they were able to take up and successfully develop the cotton industry was an evidence of this. He wished to particularly impress the people of Canada with the fact that the West Indies were capable of great things—the soil is rich and the people enterprising. He spoke of the enormous area of British Guiana and its great resources, and then took up the islands, explaining the varied products of each. Taking the whole of the West Indies, Canada takes about one-fourth, or nine million dollars' worth, the principal articles being sugar, molasses and rum. The increase in these articles is enormous. Cocoanuts, hickies, oranges, bananas, lime, etc., are largely imported. The exports from Canada amount to about four millions, embracing flour, fish, butter, potatoes, cordage, etc. All this could be greatly increased. If the people of Canada would put up flour in the manner in which the people want it the business would be greatly increased. Sir Daniel enumerated the various articles exported from Canada to the West Indies and pointed out the possibilities of increasing trade. He spoke of the desire of the British government to bring Canada and the West Indies as close together as possible. Regarding political affairs he was not prepared to speak, but he felt confident trade between the two countries could be materially bettered. He suggested that next winter Canada should send two representative men to visit the islands and meet the business people and talk matters over."

"Hon. Darnell Davis, of British Guiana, was warmly received. He told of the great increase in the amount of sugar shipped to Canada, partly due to the preference and partly to the excellent line of steamers plying between Halifax and the West Indies. He approved of the suggestion of Sir Daniel that a delegation from Canada visit the West Indies. He was strongly convinced that there were great possibilities for expansion of trade between the two countries."

A LUMBERING VENTURE

The shipment of lumber by water from Mosquito Harbor, Vancouver Island, B. C., to New York is about to be done on a large scale. This will be an interesting development in the lumber trade. A letter from Nanaimo, describing the enterprise, states that a new mill, one of the best equipped on the Pacific coast, has begun operations, and when running to its full capacity will employ 400 men. The letter says: "The present capacity of the new mill is 74,000 feet per day, but will be almost doubled. In the shingle mill 200,000 per day are now being cut and the management state that before the end of September 400,000 will be the daily output. The company has recently installed a machine that with an expert operator will cut 200,000 shingles per day. The capacity of the mill will not be taxed for some time, as the company must depend on sailing vessels for carriers and a single day's work in cutting shingles, if the mill were worked at full capacity, would load a small sailing vessel. The bulk of the output is to be shipped to New York city via Cape Horn. The company has one of the finest cedar tracts on Vancouver Island, comprising many thousand acres."

An Ottawa despatch states that the federal government is considering the question of federal aid to technical education. This is in line with the resolutions passed by the Maritime Board of Trade and the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and would meet with universal approbation.

The statement is made by an expert that the St. John company can provide cheaper and better gas. That is a perfectly safe statement to make. It is a fact of common knowledge. The cheaper and better gas itself is what is wanted.

Of ninety-six thousand immigrants landing at Quebec this season eighty-five per cent were British. This is a magnificent showing. British settlers, when Canadianized, are the best. And more are coming.

The two policemen against whom a very serious charge was made have been fully exonerated. But this can scarcely be the end of the matter, in view of the charges and of all the statements made about the saloon in question.

The city will not permit the street railway to traverse Pond street and the company will not double track Paradise Row because in one place it is too narrow. Therefore the present unsatisfactory service will continue.

The exhibition in Halifax is reported to have been a success in point of attendance and finances. The city is to be congratulated. The weather was exceptionally favorable throughout.

MIGHT HAVE BEEN

(By Edith M. Thomas.)
I have lived my life, and I face the end— But that other life I might have led! Where lay the road, and who was its friend? And was that goal, when the years were fled? Where lay the road? Did I miss the turn? The friend unknown? Our greetings unsent? And the goal unthought? Shall I never learn? What was that life I might have led? As the spring's last look, for one dear day From its own responsibility on earth may bend, So I live me that other life— but, may! I have lived my life, and I face the end.

AN IMPOSTOR.
A proud young father telegraphed the news of his responsibility to his brother in this fashion:
"A handsome boy has come to my house and claims to be your nephew. We are arranging our best to give him a proper welcome."
The brother, however, failed to see the point, and replied: "I have not got a nephew. The young man is an impostor."

NEVER NOTICED
Wearing of his successful suit, and bent with age, the veteran editor at last laid aside his pen.
"What's the use!" he exclaimed. For more than forty years I have carefully and conscientiously refrained from beginning any headline, editorial, or paragraph with the word "the," and not a soul on earth has ever noticed it!"

EXCELLENT REASON
An English tourist, exploring a very rural part of Ireland, came across a very pretty little village which bore the unappealing name of Skibbereen. The name struck him as so peculiar that he asked a villager why the town was so called. "Sure," the villager replied, "I thought 'ere an Englishman could have seen the reason for that. It's called Skibbereen to distinguish it from other places of the same name."

VERACITY BY WIRE
A bright young man was engaged in a desultory conversation with a prominent financier of a most economical disposition when the great man suddenly invited attention to the suit of clothes he was then wearing.
"I have never believed," said he "in paying fancy prices for cut-to-measure garments. Now, here's a suit for which I paid eight dollars and fifty cents. Appearance any very deceptive. If I told you I purchased it for thirty dollars, you'd probably believe that to be the truth."
"I would if you told me by telephone," replied the young man.—Success Magazine.

LAKE OF THE WOODS MILLING COMPANY
Net Profits for Year Amounted to $375,152, a Favorable Increase.

The annual general meeting of the shareholders of the Lake of the Woods Milling Company, Limited, was held on Wednesday at the head office of the company in Montreal.

The report of the directors for the fiscal year ending Aug. 31, 1906, with statements, were placed before the meeting, the net profits for the year being $375,152.13.

The profit and loss account for the year shows that an amount of $185,000 has been paid in dividends on the preferred and common stock, and $80,000 interest on the six per cent bonds, leaving a surplus of $160,000, which, added to the sum of $377,851 brought forward, makes an amount of $537,851 to be carried forward to the credit of profit and loss account. After fixed charges and preferred dividend obligations of 7 per cent were met the company earned on the common stock outstanding 10.50 per cent. It would, therefore, be only reasonable to expect that the 6 per cent dividend payments on the common stock will be maintained for some time to come.

Under the conditions existing in the milling business during the last twelve months the result of the operation is considered very satisfactory. The same conservative policy that has been so consistently adhered to by the management for the last 17 years, was strictly carried out in so far as continuing their business entirely to milling.

RELATIONS OF CHURCH TO THE WORKINGMEN

Striking Address by a Minister Who Was Formerly a Mechanic in New York City but Now Represents the Department of Church and Labor in the Presbyterian Church.

"Some day God shall raise up a prophet who shall lead the masses of the toilers to Himself. That day will reveal whether the Church will capture the labor movement, or whether the labor movement will capture the Church. Much will depend upon whether that prophet shall come out of the organized Church, or, as it happened 2000 years ago, he shall come from the ranks of the common people—designated Nazareth."

With these words of prophecy did Rev. Charles Steele, of Chicago, conclude an impressive address upon "The Church and Labor" at a session of Knox College Alumni in Toronto last week.

Steele represents the Department of Church and Labor of the Workingmen's Presbyterian Church of the United States. He was at one time a machanic in New York, and his life has been devoted to the promotion of a better understanding between Church and Labor.

"I hope you will feel perfectly free to ask questions," observed Mr. Steele at the outset of his address to about 150 Presbyterian ministers, upon his introduction by Rev. Dr. Gilroy.

NOT DEPENDENT ON UNIONS. "When I first began this work, I always gave the largest liberty in the matter of asking questions, and my hearers have never refrained. While I do not promise to answer all, I will at least look at them. I think I have gotten down to the bottom of the criticisms and the misapprehension of the Church."

RESPONSIVE TO THE CHURCH. "Rarely has there been a time when the workingman was so responsive to the appeal of the church," said Rev. Mr. Steele, who referred in this connection to the action of the Federation of Labor at Pittsburg, representing five and a half million workmen, endorsing the department of church and labor.

THE CHURCHES ARE NOT CHRISTIAN. "The great need of Christendom today is Christianity—not the Christianity of the church, but of the man," said Rev. C. W. Cason at the Church of Our Father last night, in the course of a sermon on "Do Christians take Jesus seriously?"

ABSOLUTE SINCERITY. "The church must have absolute sincerity," the workingman has been betrayed so often by those posing as his friends, that he has grown sceptical of the sincerity of the church."

ASIDE WITH THEOLOGY. "The minister of the Gospel must throw aside theology. The questions of child labor, of unsanitary conditions in the mill, of the neglect of their homes, are not those of the theologian, but of the people."

SAFES

THE EVENING TIMES, ST. JOHN, N. B., SATURDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1906.

Soldiers and Sailors Who Sailed from New York for Cuba.

2ND BATTALION ENGINEERS COMPANY, U.S. ARMY, WASHINGTON WHO SAILED ON THE TRANSPORT, SUNDAY, FOR CUBA.

Havana, Oct. 5.—While the disarmament of the rebels will not be completed Saturday night, it is now confidently expected that the entire operation will be finished by Monday, with the exception of Puerto Principe province, which has been less affected than any other province by the rebellion, but which is now a favorite region for marauding bands, which should more correctly be called bandits than rebels.

GROUP OWING TO BOARD THE TRANSPORT.

A great majority of the rebel rifles are old and poor and many ill-kept. The rebel commanders have all given their followers to understand that it was expected and that the laying down of their arms was a matter of duty.

Scenes in the International Shoot at Creedmoor Range

SCENE AT THE INTERNATIONAL SHOOTING CONTEST.

CORPORAL W. W. TAYLOR, COL. K. AND SERGEANT W. D. SHOOTING CO. OF THE REGIMENT, TRAIL.

Creedmoor, N. Y., Oct. 4.—When the first day's shooting in the international rifle match for the Sir Howard Vincent International Challenge Shield between teams from the Queen's Westminster Volunteers and the Seventh regiment, N. G. N. Y., was completed on the State range the New York riflemen were thirty-four points ahead. Although this is considered a good lead it does not indicate victory, for on the long ranges the Englishmen have always done their best work.

WALL STREET AND HEARST CAMPAIGN

Wall Street has ever the possibilities of politics before its eyes. The holding of a political convention, the progress of a campaign, the results of an election, and the assembling of legislators or of congress, always awaken the feeling that something unlooked for or undesired may be pending. This feeling has no specific prescription for its cure other than that of a renewal of one's faith in government by the people and for the people. The popular American mind can be trusted to decide any issue right, in nine cases out of ten. It has had a chance to understand it. In deed, it might with almost equal confidence be said that an essentially sound decision would be reached in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, were the issues presented on their merits.

Public opinion cannot arrive at a just conclusion unless it is informed. If the large corporate interests insist on concealing the facts as to themselves and their relations to the public, then public opinion may readily take the wrong track in dealing with business questions. But where intelligent insight into conditions first puts the question in its simplest form so that the voter can answer it fully by a yes or no vote, the chances are overwhelmingly in favor of a right as against a wrong decision.

The present state of politics in New York requires that public opinion get down to first principles and to rational methods. The suffrages of the people cannot permanently be stormed by partisan yells in the interest of any individual machine, or clique. Men and methods must run the gauntlet of sober judgment. No wave of excitement can win against a campaign of education in the elements of common sense on questions of business.

Moncton, Oct. 5.—Lewistown Baptist church will make an effort to secure as pastor Rev. Frederick S. Bamford, recently resigned from the Baptist church, Carleton. A business meeting will be held next Wednesday night when the matter of a call to Rev. Bamford will be considered. The church is decided upon a call and will offer a salary of $1,000 a year and parsonage.

PRETTY CARRIE ORSBORN KEPT HER VOW OF SILENCE

She Had Spoken to No Man or Looked On No Man's Face for Twenty-Five Years—Her Life Blighted by an Angry Father's Hasty Action.

WATERBURY, Conn., Oct. 5.—The vow taken by the beautiful Caroline Orsborn, twenty-five years ago, when a stern father forbade her marriage to her betrothed, that she would never look upon or speak to man again, has been kept so religiously all these years that the few remaining people of the once prosperous village of Bakerville, in the Litchfield hills, near Waterbury, no longer regard her with curiosity. They have come to respect the sad consistency of the reclus, whose beauty has slowly withered under the blighting influence of her great disappointment.

They say in Bakerville that "Ollie" Orsborn, as she is known, will go to the grave without taking the slightest notice of the existence of the father whose opposition to her marriage sealed her soul and caused her to renounce the world. He passed from her life the fatal Christmas eve a quarter of a century ago when in avarice he ordered her sweet heart, Walter Lumpkin, from the door and told him never to seek his daughter again.

THE WORLD OF LABOR

The 20th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor will be held at Normans Hall in Minneapolis, Minn., beginning at ten o'clock Monday morning, Nov. 12, 1906, and will continue in session from day to day until business of the convention has been completed.

Chinese residents at Panama have called to the Imperial government, making vigorous protest against allowing coolie labor to be brought to the canal. They represent the climatic conditions are such that a heavy death toll is sure.

Every political party in California has declared the strict maintenance of the Chinese exclusion act, without modification of any kind, and for the extension of the act so as to exclude any Japanese or Koreans.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, in session at Milwaukee, Wis., appropriated $1,000 for the benefit of the Western Federation of Miners.

The recent strikes in France have led to a serious attempt to bring about legislation to settle disputes of that kind. M. Miller, an ex-minister of commerce and industry, is pushing a bill in the chamber of deputies which has for its object the "organization of a regime that will prevent conditions between masters and workmen."

A resolution congratulating the International Typographical Union of America on having won the fight for the eight-hour day, was unanimously and enthusiastically carried at a recent meeting of the Melbourne, (Victoria) Typographical Society.

Representatives of the organized workers in Great Britain, accompanied by the labor members, interviewed the premier and post-master general, to object to the proposed bill to time-expired soldiers and sailors in employment in the postal and other departments to the prejudice of the ordinary labor market.

The Cuban congress, at its recent session, appropriated $1,000,000 to be used for the purpose of inducing immigrants to come to Cuba from Europe and Canary Islands. It is proposed to use the money to subsidize the passage of each of the immigrants from their home countries to be brought from Sweden, Norway, Denmark, and northern Italy.

One thousand one hundred lithographers are still on strike. Fifteen thousand and ninety Postal Telegraph Co. employees may strike.

The Wabash Railway has a merit system for its employees which is satisfactory to them.

The situation in the German labor market, from the standpoint of the employer, has not been so favorable as now since 1892.

The French railways will grant the Sunday rest day to the employees, though not bound by the new law to do so.

Striking shirtmakers in Trenton, N. J., have decided to start a shirt company, with a capital stock of $25,000.

Moulders Union, No. 5, whose members have been on strike at the Holyoke, Mass. foundry for 20 months has settled with the company.

Of the total number of persons engaged in remunerative occupations in France, 46 per cent. are engaged in agriculture.

How will your cold be tonight? Worse, probably. How about tomorrow? The trouble is, colds always tend downward. Stop this downward tendency with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Your doctor will tell you why it can do this. Ask him all about it. Ask him if he has anything better for coughs and colds. Then we have no secret. We publish it. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. VARIOUS VIEWS ON IRISH HOME RULE

Ulster Unionists Sound Note of Alarm—T. P. O'Connor and Timothy Healy Disagree.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Lord Londonderry, in a letter to the Ulster Unionist Council, says—"I think no time should be lost in bringing before the country the danger that threatens the union of Great Britain and Ireland either by devolution or separation, either of which in my mind would be of the greatest danger to Ireland, as well as England. In my opinion the duty of every Unionist is to make the maintenance of the union the foremost plank in his political platform and rouse the country to the impending danger. At every bye-election the Unionist candidates should force to the front the issue of home rule, compared with which, I have always maintained, all the other political questions were of minor importance."

These words fit in closely with the message delivered in Philadelphia by T. P. O'Connor, in which, according to the called reports he assailed the American Irish that the fruition of their hopes of independence for their nation and country was only a few hours removed. It looks as though the best ground for doubting that Mr. O'Connor's assurance will be made good is the belief that the House of Lords will stand against the union in spite of all threats made against it by Radical members of the lower House.

(Montreal Witness.) Timothy Healy, M. P., member for North Louth in the Imperial Parliament, has been making a trip across Canada, and last evening he arrived in Montreal on his homeward journey. In reply to a reporter, he said that the present House of Commons is perhaps more intensely Protestant than any since the days of Cromwell. That, however, does not affect the members' attitude on the Irish question, and he thinks that while home rule will not be obtained during the life of the present parliament, good progress will be made towards that end. He had, he declared, that a great deal more could have been obtained from the Tory party in England, if the Irish party had not as good as refused to look in that direction for relief. But the withdrawal of the Nationalist party had prevented any rapprochement between Mr. Redmond and the English Tories. Mr. Healy explained that he had been contending for years that, with their splendid discipline and powerful influence in the House of Lords, the Tory party is in a better position than the Liberals to secure reforms for Ireland. He also stated that, as far as he could judge, the Tory party of Great Britain is quite as friendly to Irish interests as the Liberals.

Asked if he were not a separatist, he said he did not know. He said he had changed his views. The union was a curse both for England and Ireland, and as she would never be independent, it was useless to discuss what might be done if she were.

TWO GO BACK ONE RESIGNS

Policemen Perry and Sullivan Reinstated—Policeman W. H. White Leaves Force.

Patrolmen Ira D. Perry and Thomas Sullivan are again on duty as members of the police force, having been entirely exonerated by Chief Clark as a result of the investigation held by him and which was concluded yesterday. As already announced, they were charged by William Pyne, manager of the J. Cronin liquor business, with entering his store last Tuesday evening by means of a key. The chief says that the charge has not been sustained. Both men resumed duty as members of the force last evening and went on the King square beat. Policeman William White has severed his connection with the force, having handed in his resignation yesterday afternoon. He was charged with having been asleep at his post. His place will be filled soon. He joined the force on April 28, 1898. When Mr. Pyne was seen at his home last night he said that as far as he is concerned the Cronin incident is closed. "If I saw something which I reported to the chief of police, who held an investigation and exonerated the men, and there the matter ends as far as I am concerned."

A PLEASANT FUNCTION

Thirtieth Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Rogers.

On Thursday evening the 4th inst., at the residence of Captain and Mrs. G. F. Barlow, 300 Rockland street, on the return of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Rogers from Montreal, their friends arranged for the celebration of their thirtieth wedding anniversary at Mrs. Rogers' sister's residence. A very pleasing part of the affair was the presence of Captain G. F. Barlow, who had not been home for some years, and who gave some interesting reminiscences of his visit to the Panama canal, illustrating the same by a number of views. After a bounteous supper, music and social intercourse was indulged in. Everyone wished Mr. and Mrs. Rogers many more years of wedded happiness.

Pete the Peddler or A Boy's Start in Life

CHAPTER VIII. When Pete had given the jailor's wife his brief history she was very indignant and called her husband and said:

"This boy has been committed to jail on the complaint of that idiotic Constable Lukens. You could have told by one look at him that he was not a bad boy. Why did you put him among those miserable tramps?"

"HE HEARD THE JAILER'S WIFE SCOLDING."

you to hear that he dreamed of the trunk. He dreamed that he went to the curve in the railroad and looked into the ditch and among the bushes for hours and hours, but failed to find it.

say a good word for me to the boy." It was not yet 12 o'clock when Pete was informed that he was at liberty. She then brought around his tin box. The boy was for setting off at once, but the jailor's wife, who had taken a great liking to him, said:

"You'd better stay with us another night and rest up. It isn't every boy who gets into jail one day and gets out the next, and you ought to have time to get over your surprise. I once had a boy about your age, and he looked a good deal like you, but he fell sick and died."

"What other place have we got?" asked the jailor, who seemed a bit afraid of his better half. "If there is no other place then he must come into the house with us. I tell you I won't have him herding in with such human beings. He has neither father nor mother, and the Constable ought to be here in his place. It may be three or four days yet before his case is called. Pete, if I take you out of the jail part will you give me your word that you won't run away?"

"Yes'm," was the prompt reply. "But if he does run away then we'll have to look for him."

JANE'S BALL.

A GRANDMOTHER STORY.

Grandma sat on the wide veranda knitting a rainbow shawl, Phyllis and Margaret and Emma lay on their stomachs before her waiting for the story; and directly, with a tender little twinkle in her beautiful blue eyes, Grandma began:

She Took The Make-Believe Prince By The Hand And Began To Kneel Around With Her.

knowledge of the art of knitting had made in the rain. You see, each of her bairns wondered if the story-child had been Grandma herself. Each also wondered if the lecture was to be for them, or if Grandma had stories, hidden like a solid little pebble under rose leaves, there was always a tiny, excellent lesson of some sort.

THE LAND PIRACY OF CAPTAIN JEREMY STAYBOLT

BY CAPTAIN A. B. HAWSER.

Captain Jeremy Staybolt was a sailor man who loved piracy partially for its own sake, but mostly for the money. He had cruised along the rich coasts of Hoboken and Harlem in his craft, which had been built low and rakish after the most approved model, and as he could show his heels to all the government boats he robbed and destroyed with impunity.

There was nothing left for Captain Jeremy Staybolt to set out of the business, for good, reliable pirates who were willing to work day and night were scarce and, besides, the pirates of the Flying Salt Horse formed a Pirates' Union as soon as they had resigned and served notice on everybody that they would let no one work aboard the Flying Salt Horse.

called to herself the Prince. He was only a little child like herself, but he wore a crown and a long ermine trimmed robe, such as princes always wear in fairy stories.

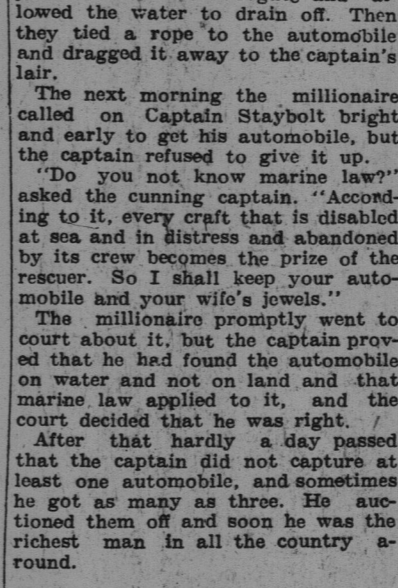

She Took The Make-Believe Prince By The Hand And Began To Kneel Around With Her.

Now, when you've got hold of every make-believe partner that you have to teach, it is the most difficult thing in the world. Jane and the make-believe Prince bumped into each other, and tumbled over chairs. At last Jane kicked out her foot — for everything seemed very real by now — and pushed the make-believe prince out of the way, as she had seen the young lady's awkward partner do at the ball. But she had forgotten that make-believe garments are very transparent things; and so, alas, alas, through this one her toes went — straight into the gold-framed mirror — the crash was terrific and when she got to her feet, for the kick sent her sprawling, there was a great scolding.

The very day it was finished a millionaire came along at ninety-one miles an hour, with his wife and his wife's sister and his wife's mother and his wife's butler and his wife's French maid and his wife's jewel box. He did not observe one of the pirates sitting in a tree with his brass telescope, nor did he see the glittering eyes of the other pirate who he lay concealed by the floodgate.

There was nothing left for Captain Jeremy Staybolt to set out of the business, for good, reliable pirates who were willing to work day and night were scarce and, besides, the pirates of the Flying Salt Horse formed a Pirates' Union as soon as they had resigned and served notice on everybody that they would let no one work aboard the Flying Salt Horse.

the other pirate opened the floodgate. In rushed the sea! Fast though the automobile went, the water came faster, and soon it was over the hubs of the wheels and the automobile had to stop.

She Took The Make-Believe Prince By The Hand And Began To Kneel Around With Her.

Gooseberries were ripe. Now that meant more to the six little Amaloras than you or I can imagine. They had been waiting for this delectable season all Summer, for there was nothing they loved better than a ripe gooseberry. The way it is done is this:

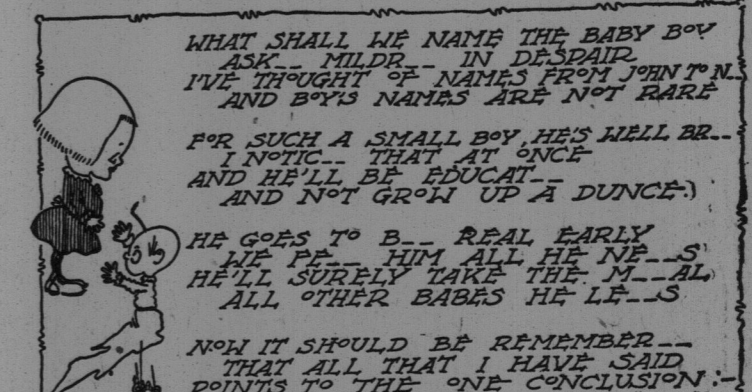

"I WILL GIVE YOU EACH A THRASHING," SAID OLD PALTIVIGIA.

on a maple twig and looked longingly over a stone wall to where the gooseberry tree hung thick with prickly crimson globes. For you must understand that old Farmer Paltivigia owned the fruit of the Amaloras' hearts' desire, and he was as miserly an insect as ever wore six legs.

"We cannot go after them in the night," said Bing, the eldest Amalora, "for in the night we cannot fly." "Nor see," said Wuz, "because we are asleep," said Ting. "Then we must go by day," said Buzz. "We certainly must," said Wuzz. "But if we do, old Paltivigia will see us," said Fuzz, the youngest of all.

MISSING NAME PUZZLE.

Supply in each of the blank spaces the name of a boy, the same name in each space.

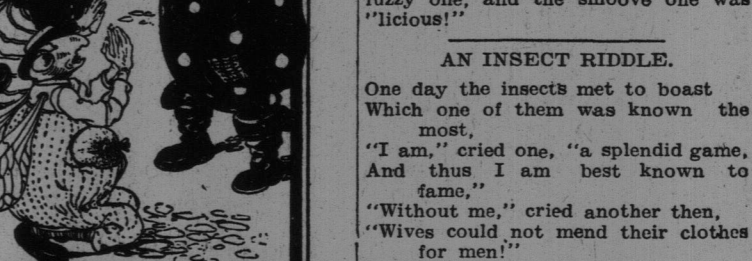

He never lacked for victims, because, as is well known, automobilists are in too much of a hurry to read the newspapers or even to converse with each other. So he prospered exceedingly and became so much respected for his business success that there was talk of electing him to the Senate.

But on an unfortunate day he captured the automobile of a clever man who loved to invent things. And this man, when he discovered the trickery of the cruel pirate, went straight home and began to invent like mad, until he had invented an automobile that looked very innocent, but was not so at all.

IN THE GOOSEBERRY SEASON.

BY SARAH NOBLE-IVES.

Slowly, stealthily, up the gooseberry tree he mounted. It was half-past noon by the old sundial in the garden when he had broken the stems of five gooseberries. The others kept watch as he started on the sixth and largest—his own. Just then old Paltivigia yawned and stretched himself.

"I WILL GIVE YOU EACH A THRASHING," SAID OLD PALTIVIGIA.

Wing jumped and grasped his hands, while Ting clutched at Wing's feet and pulled. "Help me down," he whispered, reaching eager arms.

BOASTING MR. BIRD.

"I WILL GIVE YOU EACH A THRASHING," SAID OLD PALTIVIGIA.

To young Miss Thrush said Mr. Wren: "I will marry me, why then I will give you for your abode. This mansion you see down the road!"

PERFECT SANITY A RARE QUALITY

Lord Rosebery Discusses Increase in Lunacy Cases—Remedy Less Restlessness.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Lord Rosebery, in a speech opening a new insane asylum for Edinburgh, discussed remedies for the ever-growing number of cases of insanity. He said he believed the idealists' plan for checking hereditary insanity by preventing the marriage of members of families tainted with the malady would be excellent if it were practical.

People ought to be taught that their homes are better and wiser of cultivating and inhabiting than any other places visited under unwholesome conditions. This would do much to repress the stain on the nerves, which is one of the greatest causes of insanity.

DEATH OF "MEL" BURGESS

C. P. R. Conductor Melbourne Burgess, one of the best known in the service of the road, died yesterday in the private hospital, after an illness of about three weeks' duration with typhoid fever, followed by appendicitis.

The announcement of his death was received with keenest regret among the trainmen, as among his comrades "Mel" Burgess was a universal favorite. It was while on his train, the Atlantic express, about three weeks ago that Conductor Burgess was taken ill, and on his arrival in the city he was taken to his home. A few days later, as he grew rapidly worse, it was thought advisable that he should be removed to the private hospital. He had somewhat recovered from the disease when complications set in.

Conductor Burgess has seen more than twenty-five years of service in the employ of the C. P. R., and fifteen years of that time he had been a first class conductor. He was always known as a hard and conscientious worker. He had been a brakeman only for about five years when he was promoted to conductor, taking freight and passenger trains. About five years later he was given his next promotion as first class conductor.

The deceased was forty-eight years old, and is survived by one daughter, Miss Grace, at home, and two brothers—Harry and Albert, of this city. The funeral will take place Sunday at 2:30 o'clock, from his late residence, 120 Waterloo street, and interment will be in Fernhill. The order of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen will be in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Connolly, of Ottawa, are the guests of Miss O'Neill, Main street.
