BOOK FIRST - BOY AND GIRL. (18. Instalment.)

Public spirit was not held in high esteem at St. Ogg's, and men who busied themselves with political suspicion, as dangerous characters: they were usually persons who had little or no business of their own to manage, or, if they had, were likely enough to become insolvent.

This was the general aspect of things at St. Ogg's in Mrs. Glegg's day, and at that particular period in-her family history when she had had her quarrel with Mr. Tulliver. It was a time when ignorance was much more comfortable than at present, and was received with all the honours in very good society, without being obliged to dress itself in an elaborate costume of knowledge; a time when cheap pericdicals were not, and when country surgeons never thought of asking their female patients if they were fond of reading, but simply took it for granted that they preferred gossip; a time when ladies in rich silk gowns wore large pockets, in which they earried a mutton-bone to secure them against cramp. Mrs. Glegg carried such a bone, which she had inherited from her grandmother with a brocaded gown that would stand up empty, like a suit of armour, and a silver-headed walking-stick; for the Dodson family had been re spectable for many generations.

Mrs. Glegg had both a front and a back parlour in her excellen house at St. Ogg's, so that she had two points of view from which she could observe the weakness of her fellow-beings, and reinfórce her thankfulness for her own excep tional strength of mind. From her front windows she could look down the Tefton Road, leading out of St. Ogg's, and note the growing tendency to "gadding about" in the wives of men not retired from business, together with a practice of wearing woven cotton stockings, which opened a dreary prospect for wages might perhaps have induced Mrs. Gleggs to wink at this folly, watered with true feeling over the male mind even to simulate respect for a healthy female mind even to simulate respect for a healthy female mind even to simulate respect for a healthy female mind even to simulate respect for a healthy female mind even to simulate respect for a healthy female mind even to simulate respect for a healthy female mind even to simulate respect for a healthy female mind even to simulate respect for a healthy female mind even to simulate respect for a healthy female mind even to simulate respect for a healthy female mind even to simulate respect for a healthy female mind even to simulate respect for a healthy female mind even to simulate respect for a healthy female mind even to simulate respect for a healthy female mind even to simulate respect to a five pound note from his side for a widow's furniture, which a five pound note from his side pocket would have prevented; but well known that this conjugal eomplacency belongs only to the weaker portion of the sex, who are scarcely always the health and even to simulate respect for a healthy female mind even to simulate respect to a five pounds to a pertain for a healthy female mind even to simulate respect to a five pound of a five pounds to a pertain for a healthy female may be a five pound of five pounds to a pertain for a healthy female may be an addition of five pounds to a pertain for a healthy female may be a five pound of five pounds to give the children's activities.

MODILIZATION ON LARGER SCALE STARTED NERVOUS DEMORILIZATION ON

Actual demobilization of the Frst Depot Battalion on a large scale has commenced on Monday and within a short time it is expected the 2,500 men on the strength of the unit will have been relieved from military duty and be returned to their former occupa- suff tions in the various parts of the province from which the men were called by the draft regulations. The men have been notified by circular letter to comply with the directions given, and outlined some time ago by the officers of the unit when warned to commence areangements for demobilization.

It will not be necessary for the men to come to Regina to be dissharged from the battalion.

The most of the demobilization will be affected through the mail, men who were called after July 1 will have to return their kit and aniform to Regina, those who reported prior to the above date are entitled to keep their uniform.

SEPARATE SCHOOL TRUSTEES' BOARD ELECTED OFFICERS

The Separate School Trustees board was in session at its inauguration meeting of 1919 recently and elected officers, committees and received reports. The officers for 1919 will be: chairman, A. E. Gorman; secretary-treasurer, J. J. Sidler; standing committees, finance, Gorman and Engel; management, Smith and Ehman; buildings and grounds, Ehman and Kusch; supplies, Kusch and Engel.

The resignation of Miss Toner from the staff was accepted and the trustees expressed their appre ciation of her services during the year she has taught in the separate schools of the city.

The estimates for 1919 were submitted and these provide for an expenditure a little in excess of last year. It is possible that during the year another teacher may be added to the staff.

Principal McLennan gave his report which showed a splendid record for the last term. The at-(endance at the separate schools for the beginning of the present eral other children of the same term shows a considerable increase over the figures of a year ago.
