The "Enterprise Hot Blast" is a new stove on a new principle. A blast of hot air descends a tube from the top of the stove. This ignites the gases that arise from the fuel; hence one half more heat with two-thirds the usual amount of fuel.

The "Enterprise Hot Blast" has airtight drafts and dampers—one scuttle of coal will hold fire 24 hours.

Mr. Burns was formerly a stationery engineer and a leader among his fellow workmen.

NEW FALL CLOTHING.

We have added many new lines this week. Such as OVERCOATS, REEFERS, SUITS, PANTS, UNDERWEAR, TOP SHIRTS, etc. Space here will not allow us to tell you all we have in heavier clothing, and half page ads means higher prices, as the customers have to pay for all extravagant ideas. ## MONCTON.

More Changes in the I. C. R. Official Staff. (Special to the Star.) MONCTON, Sept. 20.—More changes in the I. C. R. official staff are reported. R. W. Simpson, formerly of the engineers' department, becomes assistant to General Manager Pottinger, William Rippey chief clerk to General Superintendent Price, and Colclough, formerly of Montreal, second chief clerk in the general manager's office, with special control of the French department.

LAST NIGHT'S FIRE. An alarm was rung in between twelve and one o'clock last night for a serious blaze in Leonard Bros' fish curing establishment on Britain street. The fire, which was discovered by deckhands on the steamer St. Croix, had gained considerable headway and for some time the department was in trouble. It originated in the smoke house and rapidly spread to the adjoining building used as a store house, in which the firm's offices are situated. Luckily the night was quite calm, and in about half an hour the firemen had the blaze under control, but not before the smoke house was destroyed and the office badly gutted. Adjoining Leonard's are the Magee coal shed and a building belonging to H. P. Robertson. The walls of these buildings were slightly scorched.

After an hour and a half's work the fire was subdued. Insurance is carried on all the properties insured. Leonard Bros. carry $3,410 insurance divided equally between the Actna, Hartford, and London & Lancashire companies. In the latter company there is an additional policy for $1,500 held by George W. and Keltie Jones in trust for Mrs. Edna Wilson, who owns the building. The damage to the building is roughly estimated at $1,500. Samuel Drury, representing the insurance people, and Edward Bates, who acts on behalf of Mrs. Wilson, have been appointed appraisers and are at work today.

P. Donohue, the Britain street druggist, entertained the members of the department to hot coffee at his residence. J. S. KNOWLES' INTERNATIONAL MAGAZINE. This month's issue of this popular magazine is out and the Star has pleasure in testifying to the excellence of its contents. Fernhill, The City of Sleep, by William K. Reynolds, is graphically described and is wonderfully interesting in historical references. The illustrations of this "Silent City" are numerous and evidence artistic taste in their selection. William McIntosh contributes a well-written article entitled The Floral Beauties of St. John, illustrated with views of Joseph Allison's beautiful grounds and conservatory, Col. H. H. McLean's fine lawn, Rockwood Park, etc. The many friends of Arthur W. Masters, a popular St. John boy who has achieved success in the United States, will be pleased to see his portrait, and read the characteristic sketch which accompanies it. There are poems of merit by Louis A. Robertson (a native of this city, who resides in San Francisco) and the Rev. Arthur Barry O'Neill of St. Joseph's College.

The many checker enthusiasts in the city will be pleased to hear that Dr. H. S. Bridges of the High School, has arranged to edit a "Checker" department and publishes two interesting problems in the current number. The continued work of Dr. J. H. Morrison's sketch and other interesting letter press and pictorial matter make up a number of the International, which should be found in every St. John home and richly deserves the patronage of every Canadian. It will be on sale at the bookstores.

IT IS NOT TRUE. The Telegraph this morning published what purports to be a statement of the results of the recent exhibition. The statement is not a correct one, and should never have been given to the public. Neither the manager nor the directors are in a position to state what the financial result will be until they have got all the returns in, and this will not be for some time. At a meeting last evening a preliminary statement was given, but not what the Telegraph says this morning. That paper has made some trouble for the directors, who had a right to expect fair treatment at its hands. Neither the manager nor any director authorized the story published.

BEEF IS CHEAPER. The local market today was one of the best attended for some time. A large amount of produce was brought in. A feature was the drop in price of country beef, which sells now at about five cents a pound, the lowest point it has reached in months. This is due to the fact that the cattle now are just being brought in from the grass. Lamb too is selling at a comparatively low rate of five to six and a half cents a pound.

VITAL STATISTICS. Fifteen burial certificates were issued this week. Death was due to the following causes: Cancer of tongue . . . . . 1 Premature birth . . . . . 1 Infantile . . . . . 1 Enteritis . . . . . 1 Ovarian cyst . . . . . 1 Senile decay . . . . . 1 Paralysis . . . . . 1 Pneumonia . . . . . 2 Cholera infantum . . . . . 3 Ascites . . . . . 1 Inflammation of bowels . . . . . 1 Cancer of stomach . . . . . 1

HIGGINS!

Sticks to the Story He Told Yesterday. Says Goodspeed and Not He Committed the Murder. Mr. McKeown Subjects Him to a Keen Cross-Examination This Morning—He Says He Never Stole Anything.

Higgins was again on the stand this morning, under cross-examination by Mr. McKeown. The story of the burglary in Brownville was again told and the witness repeated his assertion that he was not connected with it. He had, however, some little difficulty in explaining his possession of a two dollar and a half gold piece; but so far as the main points of his story are concerned Higgins has not wavered. His coolness has not deserted him for an instant.

On the stand fighting for his life stood Frank Higgins, the accused murderer of William Doherty, telling in a sing-song recitative a straightforward and unhesitating story of the crime which has aroused more living interest than any occurrence in the city's annals.

And that story fixed the whole blame of the crime killing upon Frank Goodspeed, the crown's chief witness, upon whose evidence the case against the prisoner has rested. Higgins' testimony was as emphatic and as clearly given as Goodspeed's had previously been and all of Mr. McKeown's trying cross-examination was unable to shake him in a single fact. If anything the witness was too glib. He talked in the sing-song impersonal tone of a school boy giving a recitation. He needed no urging questions, but went on from point to point with careful language as he described in copious detail the events of that fatal day. Cross-examined, he repeated various parts of the story without the variation of an accent. At Mr. McKeown's request he repeated his account of one occurrence five times upon the same occasion, and, about one half hour later, twice more without the change of a syllable. Little adjectives, unimportant qualifying words, he used in direct examination were repeated each time with glib carelessness. Had he been reading the evidence from a printed page he could not have been more minutely exact.

As it stands now, the jury have two stories exactly opposite in effect. Goodspeed as supported by several minor bits of testimony about Higgins owning the revolver and making threats against Doherty, and is depicted by more serious contradictions in the chief witness' own testimony. Higgins' evidence comes rather late and motives might be imputed for his giving it, but his story in itself is straight and so far he has been made to contradict himself in not the smallest detail. Unless the crown can show today certain discrepancies or falsities in it, the jury in deciding will be placed in an anxious position.

GOODSPEED CONTRADICTED. The difference between the two stories began when he told of the three sitting down on a hill about a half mile back of the Park, an occurrence which Goodspeed, in answer to repeated questions, had strenuously denied, insisting that there had been no rest of this kind. "We went up in the rear of Connell's," he said, "and about one half mile back of the Park, where we sat down on the side of a hill. Goodspeed asked me for the loan of the revolver, saying he wanted it to shoot crows out at Black Rock. I took it out of my pocket and gave it to him. He pointed it at me and at Doherty and asked Doherty: "What do you think of the things in there?"

"Goodspeed replied, smiling, sure, my father died eating them things." DOHERTY HAD THE REVOLVER. Then Doherty took the cartridges out of the revolver and pointed it at Goodspeed and pulled the trigger. Then he gave it to Goodspeed again and Goodspeed put it in his pocket. Then we started back toward the back of the park. I left Goodspeed and Doherty and told them to wait for me around Lovers' Lane.

CRYS FOR HELP. Then I went into the bushes and had been there only a few minutes when I heard four or five shots go off and heard Doherty cry "Help, Higgle, help!" Then I came out from the bushes and ran as fast as I could to the scene. I saw Goodspeed standing with the revolver in his hand, while Doherty was on his back on the ground with his chest heaving up and down.

GODSPEED SHOTS. I asked Goodspeed if he did the shooting and he said yes. I asked him how and he said "Doherty asked me for the revolver and I refused to give it to him. Doherty tried to take it and I pointed it at him, not intending to shoot, and he turned and ran away to get a rock to throw at me and I fired at him as he was running." I went to Doherty and spoke to him but got no answer. His chest and

AT GLACE BAY.

Malcolm Fraser Shot Dead by a Drunken Comrade. (Special to the Star.) GLACE BAY, Sept. 19.—Horace Charbaner, the murderer of his friend and constant companion, Malcolm Fraser, is confined and manacled in the town jail awaiting his preliminary examination, which will take place on Monday before Stipendiary Magistrate. The unfortunate man, grim and taciturn, does not seem to realize the full extent of the crime of which he is charged. In an adjoining cell is Thomas Gallant, who was with the two men in the shooting affray and who has been placed in custody as a witness. He gives the version of the tragedy: "Charbaner had been drinking heavily all day, poor Fraser and I were walking towards the Caledonia pit when Charbaner began to sing loudly and Fraser told him to make less noise or he would excite the police. This only made Horace worse. Finally Fraser caught him and protested, and accidentally upset him. He then started to run for his shack, which is a few feet away, when Horace sang out: "Stop, you coward," and drew his revolver and fired twice at him. Fraser reached his own door and picked up a stick. Horace now came and fired the third and fatal shot, which passed through poor Fraser's skull and he fell at his door. We picked him up and carried him inside, but before we lighted a lamp Officer McLean came up and took us."

The "Redona" and "Albatross" flannels are meeting with great favor. They are serviceable and very stylish. Shown in large quantities at Dykeman's.

THE PULITZER MURDER.

SALT LAKE, Sept. 20.—Hooper Young, suspected by the police as the murderer of Mrs. Pulitzer in New York is the son of John Young, a son of Brigham Young, and is a well known contractor, having become wealthy by his work in the construction of the Utah and Northern and Utah Central railways. At the time of Brigham Young's death, in 1877, John W. Young was one of the former councillors. He was tried under the Edmunds' law charged with polygamy, but was acquitted on a technicality. Hooper Young is well known in Salt Lake, having resided here up to a few years ago.

WASTING BULLETS. CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 20.—It is reported here that a riot took place at Berryburg, Thursday night, in which three Italians were killed and one badly wounded. The Italians are coal miners, working for the Southern Coal and Transportation Company, and the riot occurred in a speak-easy, adjoining the coal works. A number of the Italians were in the speak-easy and were drinking to excess, when one of them started a disturbance. A free-for-all fight took place, during which three were killed and one was wounded. It is said fifty shots were fired.

HENRY WATERSON. Gives New York's Four Hundred a Scorching. (Louisville Courier-Journal.) The term "smart set" was adopted by a bad society to save itself from a more odious description. The distinguishing trait of the "smart set" is its moral abandon. It makes a business of defying and overleaping conventional restraints upon its pleasures and amusements.

"The women of this 'smart set' no longer pretend to recognize virtue even as a feminine accomplishment. Innocence is a badge of delinquency, a sign of the crude and raw, a deformity, which, if tolerated at all, must carry some promise of amendments; for among these titled cyprines the only thing needful is to know it all. In London and in Paris—at Monte Carlo in the winter, at Trouville and Aix in the summer—they make life one unending debauch; their only literary pretender, when they read at all, the poems of d'Annunzio and Bourget; their Mecca, the roulette table and the race-course; their heaven, the modern yacht with its luxury and isolation. The ocean tells no tales; and as the 'smart set' knows no law, when in extremes it can go to sea.

The "Four Hundred" in America take their cue from the "smart set" in Europe. Behold them at the horse show in New York. Regard them at the swell resorts after the show. All their talk is about stocks and bonds, puts and calls, horses, scandals and dogs. Truly, we have come to a beautiful pass if the simpering Johnnies and the tough girls that make Sherry's and Delmonico's "hum" that irradiate the corridors of the Waldorf-Astoria with the exhalations of their unclean lives and thoughts, emulating the demimondaines of the third empire, are to be accepted even by inference as the "best society," while the good and virtuous of the land, even though quite able to pay their way at home and abroad, must be relegated to the "middle class" and dismissed as simple "bourgeoisie."

The "Four Hundred" are rotting through and through. They have not one redeeming feature. All their ends are achieved by money, and largely by the unholly use of money. Must these unclean birds of gaudy and therefore of conspicuous plumage fly from gilded bough to bough fouling the very air as they twitter their affectations of social supremacy, with no one to shy a brick and cry, "Scat, you devils!" The police have reported the following boys for playing ball and breaking trees on Pitt street in Israel D. Landy's garden:—Hazel and Ernest Thompson and Charles Dunbrack.

WHERE DID YOU GET THAT HAT? is a question that is always asked the wearer of our hats—they have the smartness and shape found only in the correct models for the fall of 1902. Besides, we let you down easy on the price.

His father held for many years the post of registrar at Smythesdale under the mining department at Victoria. At the University of Melbourne he took the degree of M. A. and C. E. He practiced in Australia as an engineer for some time and then transferred himself to London, where he became an author and journalist.

INDIVIDUALISM IN STUDY.

The Arbitrary Grading of Students in the Best Schools is Ceasing. (New York Sun.) There has been a very general change of sentiment within the last twenty years with respect to grading in the public schools.

The tendency now in many schools and particularly in many of the best private schools, is toward breaking down these rigid grade barriers and giving the student more latitude for expansion and growth in the lines in which his mental tendencies seem strongest.

Individualism in education demands a school large enough for the companionship essential to any teaching. It demands a place that includes not only the achievement of college preparation but the larger group fundamentals and collateral that training must feed on.

THE FRENCH NUNS. Think Canada is Far Behind the Times. (Rome Letter.) Rome is now full of nuns from many of the congregations whose schools have been closed in France. Much fear has been expressed that Italy might be over-run, as, of course, the nuns like to be as near the Vatican as possible; but such, it seems, is not the case this time; in fact, they usually ask to be sent to England or the United States.

THE LABORERS ARE FEW. (Winnipeg Telegram.) Employment agents say that never before in the history of the city has there been so scarce. TOOK ON THE COAST.

Favorable Comments on Mr. Borden's British Columbia Speeches. (Victoria Colonist.) We hope that the speech made by Mr. Borden on Monday night and published yesterday, will be read very carefully by all who were not present at the meeting, and re-studied by those who were there also.

There is a mine of wealth in his utterances in which lesser men might quarry for material, and upon one of his paragraphs alone, effective speeches of amplification and illustration might be based. (Vancouver News-Advertiser.) There is no doubt that the speech made by Mr. Borden at the meeting last evening impressed his hearers as the utterance of a man of sincerity; one who realized the responsibilities and importance of the position which, with the approval of one of the great political parties of the Dominion, he occupies, and who is thoroughly in earnest in his desire to give effect to the wishes of the people in the direction of initiating or supporting legislation designed to remedy grievances, to remove public burdens or inequalities, and to aid everything that will stimulate the progress and enhance the prosperity of the country.

In addition to the training provided in the past, the nurses will henceforth be taught invalid cooking. Miss Roberta Christie, who has been in charge of the domestic science school has been engaged for the work at the hospital and began the course of instruction a few days ago. Two afternoons each week are devoted to this work, the classes assembling either in the main kitchen or in one of the ward rooms, according to the work to be done. The nurses are much interested in this branch of the training, which has hitherto been somewhat neglected.

GOOD PROSPECTS. Registrar Jones reports that there were twenty marriages during the past week. There were thirty-three births, seventeen of the children being females. This is the largest number of either marriages or births recorded for quite a long time. The number of marriages recorded is partly due to the fact that a clergyman had neglected to send them in earlier.

SEAMEN'S MISSION. It is understood that a number of applications have been received by the management of the Seamen's Mission for the position made vacant by the resignation of Rev. H. H. Cosman, but that for the present no appointment will be made. Mr. Cosman and family leave for Nova Scotia in a few days and until a successor is appointed the mission will be in charge of Arthur Faes, who has been connected with it for some years.

PERSONAL. Mr. and Mrs. H. D. McLeod leave today for Charlottetown to visit Mrs. Young.

Mrs. D. D. Porter and daughter Violet left on the late train last evening for North Sydney.

James Wood, of S. Arcott & Co., left on last night's train for Halifax, where he will take ship for Trinidad, Port of Spain. He was accompanied by Mrs. Wood.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Golding and J. N. Golding, sr., left this morning by way of Yarmouth for a two weeks' trip to New York and Boston.

Samuel Adams of New York is in the city and intends leaving for his old home on the north shore this evening.

FIRST FOOTBALL GAME. The football team organized by the Rev. F. G. Scovill and composed of boys from St. Jude's church, Carleton, went to Rothesay at noon today to play against the Rothesay College boys. This is the first of a series of games which it is hoped will be held during the season.

CURRIE BUSINESS COLLEGE. John Currie has engaged the second and third floors of the old Progress building on Canterbury street, adjoining the Sun office, and is having them fitted up for us as a business college, which he will open in a few days.

Joan Miller lives on a beautiful ranch in Fruitville, Alameda county, Cal., and having a horror of celebrity bustlers, the post chalks on fences warnings for tourists to keep off. As fast as he paints them, the autograph collectors chip them off and carry them away.

HIGGINS!

GOODSPEED FRENZIED. Goodspeed said: "Take your damned revolver. If you had kept it this wouldn't have happened."

"I'll be hung for this." "My God, he's dead, and I'll be hung for this."

ROCKS ON THE DEAD FACE. Then he picked up two big stones and pegged them, one after the other, on Willie's head. I told him to stop, and then I helped him get sticks and brush and long grass to cover him up.

TO SET DOHERTY ON FIRE. After supper I saw Goodspeed about 7.30, coming down Union Alley, and he asked me to go out and set Doherty on fire.

THREW REVOLVER IN CREEK. Goodspeed asked me to walk to the creek with him and we went to Sandy Bank and down to the edge of the water, where he chucked the revolver in. We both came up along Eldon street, in along the track to the foot of Brunswick street, then up to Clarence street, where I left him and went home. He went on up the track.

TO GO TO BANGOR. When I went away with Holm and Doherty I intended to go to Bangor and stay there.

"I told you yesterday that we went away about the 20th or 21st of May with the intention of going through Maine that was what Holm and Doherty intended to do, but I didn't tell them where I was going.

"Why didn't you tell me yesterday you were going through Bangor?" "I said I was going through Maine and Bangor is in Maine. I went with them just to have company to Bangor, where I intended to get work at something. We hadn't the money to buy a ticket."

"When you came back you bought a revolver, didn't you?" "Yes sir."

"Where did you get this $2.50." "Out of a trunk home where I had put money I saved by doing odd jobs, putting in coal and other things. I had no money when I came back from Brownville. Then I started putting in coal. I put in some for Mrs. Hare on Orange Terrace, and Charlie Gamble put some in for a woman on Canterbury street."

"Wasn't this $2.50 part of the proceeds of the Brownville robbery?" "DIDN'T STEAL IT."

"No, sir. It was not. I earned it. I also put in coal for a woman on Exmouth street and lots of others, but I can't remember who. I worked four or five times."

"The most money I ever saved was $5."

"To the Judge:—I got the $10 I had when we ran away from my mother. She wanted me to go away decent. She knew why I was going away. She knew anything about the murder except that I had nothing to do with it."

"It was sometime in May when I got a $2.50 gold piece from the Bank of B. N. A. to put on my chain. I got a watch chain with a locket on it a day or two after I came back from Brownville, but I was going to get another chain to put the gold piece on. I intended to sell the chain that I had."

"I changed my mind and bought the revolver, because I wanted it to have shots with."

THAT GOLD PIECE. I got home May 26 and got the gold piece sometime during May.

"Did you earn that $2.50 between the 26th and the end of May. You said you had no money when you came home."

"I might have had the gold piece when I came home," faltered Higgins, "but I think I earned it after I came home."

"Then you earned that much between May 26 and the end of the month?" "It might have been in June when I got the gold piece at the bank. I'm pretty sure I earned the money by putting in wood and coal after I got back."

The day I got the revolver I got the gold piece changed at the bank again into a $2 bill and 50 cents in silver. I was a $2.50 American gold piece. When I first got it I gave the bank a $1 bill and the rest in quarters and a fifty cent piece.

"This was money I earned in May, but it might have been in April. I had it when I went away, but I left it home."

"Didn't you tell us you earned it after you came home?" "I'm not positive, but I might have had it before."

THE BROWNVILLE BURGLARY. "Now, Higgins," said the counsel, "wasn't this part of the proceeds of the Brownville burglary? Wasn't that where you got the gold piece?"

"No, sir, it was not. You can telegraph back to the man who was robbed and see if he had any gold pieces. I heard the boys say the man's name was Dougherty. I saw the stuff they stole. There was watches and chains, daggers and brooches and stuff like that. I don't know what became of it. One of them gave me a watch and chain. This was in a car in the yard when they were sharing the stuff."

I was there with them but I wasn't a partner in the transaction. Holm said I could have the watch and chain for being good enough to come home with Ding. Holm left us at Mattawamkeag station. We couldn't get away with these because we were watched. We hid under the station all night, but I don't remember any talk of an arrest."

Doherty and I walked 22 miles to another town. Holm took the revolver away with him. Doherty had no club, for he and Holm had thrown them

THE FUTURE OF CANADA. How the Question Impresses a Maine Editor.

(Bangor Correspondent.)

There can be little doubt that the future relations of Canada toward the United States will be governed eventually by purely commercial considerations and the interests of Canadian trade alone. The Canada of 50 years hence will not be the same inchoate, loosely-jointed agglomeration that we witness in this year of grace 1902, linked, it cannot be denied, by splendid traditions and praiseworthy loyalty to what is best in the mother country. It is certain that the United States cannot coerce the Canadian dominion into political incorporation with the union.

Like unto the eternal feminine, Miss Canada, being quite uncorrected, gets along with a semblance of contentedness; but any form of compulsion from whatever quarter would antagonize her at once against the course suggested. The United States needs no offensive nor defensive alliance with her northern neighbor—merely closer and fuller commercial relations unhampered by European influences and control. These would vastly enhance the financial prosperity and standing of The Lady of the Snows, inheritor of the enormous domain of the northern continent. Her population is bound to increase materially within the next few decades, far beyond any previous ratio. The northwest provinces contain room for millions of settlers, and the movement toward Alaska will tend to open up that vast and rich domain.

HIGH PRICED SINGERS. Jean De Reszke receives the highest salary paid to a man singer. His contract for sixteen appearances during his last American tour amounted to $35,000, an average of $2,250 for every time he appeared on the platform. Mme. Patti, however, can claim even a better record. For singing at Covent Garden in 1870 on 16 nights she received $43,000, or an average of $3,000 for each appearance. But the famous prima donna beat this record while on her American tour, for while in New Orleans in the eighties she received as much as $8,000 per night.

HOGG TWICE A MILLIONAIRE. Governor Hogg of Texas was a poor man when he left the governor's chair seven years ago. He went into oil and is now worth $2,000,000. He says he wouldn't be governor again for less than that amount.
