WEDNESDAY EVENING, JULY 29

Reciprocity.

The discussion of the treaty proposals made by the Government of Canada to the Government of the United States is kept up on the merits of its reciprocal features. It seems to be forgotten that Canada agrees to pay an enormous price, by sacrificing a valuable claim and shouldering gigantic obligations, for the proposed small measure of reciprocity. If the question were one of reciprocity pure and simple we should discuss it on its merits, but such is not the case. The question is, Shall Canada pay the proposed price for the half-way reciprocity that is offered? We say No, no, the manufacturers say No, the commercial men who have spoken say No, everybody says No—except those who are paid for giving their assent and those who have a direct pecuniary interest in the adoption of the proposed reciprocity would be approved of by the country, even though the manufacturers might tremble and protest, if it were offered without the crushing and degrading conditions that are attached to the Grit scheme that now awaits the approval of the Senate of the United States.

Becher's Case.

The clouds thicken around the chief actors in the Tilton-Boecher drama. Tilton declares that both Boecher and Elizabeth confessed their criminal intimacy to him, Mrs. Elizabeth Cary Stanton says Mrs. Tilton confessed it to her, and it is stated that Tilton signed a document within a few days withdrawing all his charges, for the purpose of endeavoring to stop the investigation. Tilton has stated everything by turns, Mrs. Tilton has acted rather strongly, and Mr. Becher's letters are hard to reconcile with his partial explanations. Here is a specimen of the manner in which Tilton's chief charges—the improper access and the bedroom scene—were picked to pieces in his cross-examination:
Q.—There was nobody there but you two. Were you looking at engravings?
A.—Yes.
Q.—By Whinlow—Were you sitting on the floor?
A.—Not the whole of the time; I remember that the two were sitting down on the floor with the pictures; I am a restless sort of a man, and I do not know where I was; it was a long time.
Q.—Do you say that you saw it with your own eyes?
A.—With my own eyes.
Q.—Do you remember whether Mr. Becher looked at you first?
A.—No. He did not know that I had looked at the picture; I think I have to bring up the picture in my mind. I do not remember standing up, I was in a chair. I know that there was a kind of portfolio folded up on the table, and that I was looking down (indicating with the hands) she was sitting on the floor or on a stool, and I was looking at the picture.
Q.—If he had looked up at me, would he have seen you?
A.—Yes.
Q.—By Gen. Tracy—You were looking at some pictures in the room?—A.—Yes; these things were on her lap.
Q.—What part of her person did he touch?
A.—Her arm, her lower limbs. By Mr. Winslow—Not above the knee?
A.—No. If he had touched me, I would have been struck. It was a question in my mind whether a minister could consider a proper sort of contact.
Q.—Was it done softly?
A.—Yes, very softly. His right or left arm was under her dress.
Q.—By Gen. Tracy—How were they sitting?
A.—My impression is that she was sitting on some little stool, and he on the floor by her side, and that some pictures were, perhaps, put up against the chair and folded, and that he was by an accidental brushing up of her dress that I saw his hand on her ankle.
Q.—Could you know whether it was accidental or intentional?
A.—I spoke of it to her, and she would be very angry. I did not attach much importance to it after the explanation was given.
Q.—You were in doubt whether it was intentional or accidental?
A.—It was merely a suspicion.
Q.—How about the bed-chamber scene?
A.—That was a long time ago, and that was forgotten out of my mind.
Q.—When was it?
A.—I do not remember the year; it was a good while ago.
By Mr. Winslow—Before or after the ankle scene?
A.—I do not know.
Q.—How long?
A.—I do not know.
Q.—After you were in the living-room street?
A.—Yes; I remember the room. Again, I identify it by the picture. It was in the left hand room. I have two rooms. I knocked at the door and Elizabeth came. I was surprised that it was locked. She was surprised at finding me. Mr. Becher was sitting in a red plush rocking chair—a sort of ottoman chair—with his vest unbuttoned. His face colored like a rose when I saw him.
Q.—How long ago was that?
A.—I do not know.
Q.—How long had you lived in Livingston street at this time?
A.—I do not remember.
Q.—Had you lived there for two or three years?
A.—That I do not know. I should say I lived there perhaps two or three years.
Q.—Was it during the war?
A.—That I do not know.
Q.—Do you know whether it was before or after your visit to Fort Sumter?
A.—The explanation was satisfactory to you on that occasion?
A.—Entirely so.
Q.—So that you let it be, and attributed nothing to it?
A.—Yes, I attributed nothing to it. If the door had been simply shut I should not have thought anything of it; but the door being locked I wondered at it.
Q.—Was there more than one door leading to that room?
A.—One door comes in from the hall.
Q.—Was there any other door leading into the room from the other room?
A.—There is a middle door communicating between the two rooms.
Q.—Two sliding doors?
A.—Yes.
Q.—And was there a door leading from the hall to the other room?
A.—Yes, that is the plan of the house.
Q.—And the room that Mr. Becher leased locations along the road, and by the present time hundreds of thousands of dollars have been expended in lands and buildings along the Railway from St. John to Sussex. The local traffic consequently grows and has now become a lucrative one to the road; not a little of these great outlays and expenditures would have been made but for the urgent solicitations and inducements of the Local Government and their efficient and zealous commissioners; the system was considered a permanent one, has worked successfully and satisfactorily and had been in operation for the past 15 years when I, for you, a perfect stranger to all these transactions, acted with a sudden fit of economy, and acting on the advice of another stranger, an irresponsible railway agent (who, by the bye, has just been discharged from another railway on account of his extravagance and mismanagement), now rudely break up our customary arrangements, deprive our families of the accommodation they have enjoyed for so many years, and, by my largely increased fares. Such conduct on the part of the Local Government is, in my opinion, entirely unwarranted. Your humble servant,

SIR—Your new ordinance relative to family tickets between St. John and Sussex, on the Intercolonial Railway, is a mean repudiation of a long-existing arrangement between Government and people, and a swindle upon a large and influential number of business men and their friends.

The Government Railway Commissioners, with the approval of the Local Executive of that day, when the route was opened, exerted themselves both publicly and privately to induce the business class of St. John to provide themselves with locations along the Railway, offering them for so doing the inducement of reduced fares in the shape of family tickets; numbers of our citizens availed themselves from year to year of these invitations, some purchased and others

SIR—Your new ordinance relative to family tickets between St. John and Sussex, on the Intercolonial Railway, is a mean repudiation of a long-existing arrangement between Government and people, and a swindle upon a large and influential number of business men and their friends.

The Government Railway Commissioners, with the approval of the Local Executive of that day, when the route was opened, exerted themselves both publicly and privately to induce the business class of St. John to provide themselves with locations along the Railway, offering them for so doing the inducement of reduced fares in the shape of family tickets; numbers of our citizens availed themselves from year to year of these invitations, some purchased and others lost evening, about 8 o'clock, a fire broke out in the rear of Messrs. H. S. T. Finlay's harness shop, in Charlotte street. It was first discovered by a daughter of Mr. James McGill from the back window of their house, which is situated in an alley running at right angles from Charlotte street. The fire was well under way before being discovered, and there was a large quantity of combustible material in the shop. It spread towards Charlotte street, into the sales-room of the Messrs. Finlay, and to the adjoining building, occupied by Mrs. Allen as a millinery store and by J. L. Olive & Co. as a general dry goods store. The stock of both parties was removed as soon as possible, and, except by breakage, the loss will not be serious, as neither the fire nor water touched the stock. It was, of course, thrown round by some of the friends who assisted in carrying it out, as much as possible. The building used by Messrs. Finlay was also occupied by E. O. Hughes & Co. as a jewelry and fancy store; the middle flat by Mr. C. W. Mitchell, book agent; and the third flat by S. F. Simonsen, photographer. A considerable portion of Messrs. Finlay's made-up stock was saved from the sales-room, but the other occupants of the building saved comparatively little. The building belonged to Mr. Henry Jack, and the one adjoining was owned by Mr. William Dunlop. The fire increased in intensity, and it required the most strenuous efforts of the firemen to keep it confined to the two houses mentioned. One of the buildings had a flat roof and tar roof, and it was impossible to do more than keep a supply of water and prevent the adjoining building from burning. At one time Horton's building was in great danger, but it was fortunately saved. The rear of these buildings was one of the most dangerous places in the town, in case of fire. There was nothing but a lot of wooden sheds and rooferies that seemed specially prepared for a bonfire. Messrs. Finlay's workshop, which runs back a long distance, was only about four feet from Mr. McGil's house and several other tenement houses. Mr. McGill's house caught fire, and all the houses facing on the alley were threatened with destruction. Through the active exertions of the men of No. 2 Company, who stood on the top of the building until their ladder was almost burned to the pieces, the places were saved. Every fireman, however, seemed to do his best, and all the companies worked harmoniously. The furniture was removed from the buildings in the alley, and considerably injured. Mrs. McGill was sick in bed, and was carried out of her room to a place of safety. An immense number of people were present in the streets, and in the windows of adjoining houses to witness the conflagration, which threw its light high up into the air. Parties who crossed the Bay in the Express saw the bright light when some distance out, and a number of pleasure seekers returning from Digby and other places were trembling for fear their own homes would be found in ashes when they arrived.

The losses are serious to all concerned. About 600 feet of hose belonging to the corporation was consumed in Messrs. Finlay's establishment, where it had been sent for repairs. Messrs. Finlay were insured for $4,000 by the North British and Mercantile. Mr. Simonsen was insured in the Royal for $1000, and the Scotch Imperial for $800. Mr. Olive was insured for $1000 in the Queen.

Portland Police Court.
One victim, Bridget Connelly, confessed to drunkenness at the March Bridge. It was her first offence, and though she was charged with being an unrepentant Irish Tredget, she was let go with a caution.

The Civil Court was in session and disposed of a number of cases in a short time.

AYER'S AMERICAN ALMANAC has arrived, and is now ready for delivery to the public. It is well called for. Our readers may be surprised to know that this little pamphlet, which has become so much a favorite in our section, has quite the largest circulation of any one book in the world, except the Bible. It is printed in many languages, and scattered through many nations, as well as supplied to almost the entire population of our own vast domain. Every family should keep it, for it contains information which all are liable to require, when sickness overtakes them, and which may prove invaluable from being at hand in season. If you take our advice, you will call and get an AYER'S ALMANAC, and when got, keep it.

A BACHELOR'S CONSOLATION.

A Romance of the Needle.

In a small little cot, not a thousand miles off, lived a lonely, contented old "bachelor." Who cooked his own grub and dined by himself. And had no one to sew on a patch.

With his cat, and his dog, and his little pet mouse, he would fly to relieve his distress. But needles were sharp, and would frequently nick. So he oft went with holes in his clothing.

There no doubt were misses and maids quite near. Who would gladly relieve his distress. But he oft had declared he could never abide the appearance of needle and thread.

For some thought the "Wheeler & Wilson" the best. And others the "New Family Singer." The last one, I think, was a shaker.

And a few for the "Wheeler & Wilson" were ready to fight. While most liked the "New Family Singer." Another one said the "Wheeler & Wilson" was best. The last one, I think, was a shaker.

But our Bachelor friend was dissatisfied still. For the "Wheeler & Wilson" was too heavy, and the "New Family Singer" was too light. And he could never be wholly reconciled.

Then they told him another advantage they had. That few different stitches with it they could And from four he might save get the best.
