EMPIRE DAY WILL BE OBSERVED FRIDAY

Entertainment in Assembly Hall Will be Given by Scholars.—Patriotic Speeches

Tomorrow, Friday the 21st, will be fittingly observed as Empire Day in the schools. In the afternoon at 2.30, an entertainment will be given in the Assembly Hall, to which the public and the parents and guardians of the pupils are invited to be present. Patriotic speeches will be given by prominent citizens of the town, and the school children will be heard in a program of choruses, etc. It is hoped that a large gathering may be present, since the idea is widely impressed on them, especially at this grave period in the history of our country. A part of the day's program will consist in the children marching through the streets of the town. Lieut. C. F. Archer is busy putting them through their paces and given good weather this part of the Empire Day program should be very interesting.

Lord Kitchener wants three hundred thousand men for a new army. Canada can furnish him at least one-third of the number. Let recruiting begin in every section of the Dominion.

WAR STRIKES DOWN A CHATHAM SOLDIER

Fred C. Gunn Member of the 8th Battery of Artillery Succumbs to Wounds (Chatham Gazette)

Very deep sympathy is extended by the community to Mr. and Mrs. Chas. A. Gunn in the death of their son, Frederick Charles, who gave up his life on the battle ground of Europe on behalf of his country and Empire.

The sad news was received here Saturday morning and reached Mr. Gunn in the form of the usual message from the adjutant general at Ottawa. No particulars were given, the message simply stating that Mr. Gunn had died of wounds. As no previous announcement had been received of his being wounded it is presumed that he was injured on Sunday week when many of his battery were wounded and some killed. These particulars will probably follow in due course.

Fred Gunn was 29 years of age and had spent almost all his life in Chatham, where he was known far and wide and universally liked for his fine manly spirit. He had been in Moncton a little more than a year when the war broke out and he joined the 8th Battery of Artillery which was raised there for the first contingent and which was attached to the 2nd Battalion. His position was that of Artificer as his training in the local machine shops made him a peculiarly valuable man in that respect. An Artificer also helps man the guns in action and it has been while he was at the latter work, no doubt, that his wounds were received.

Fred possessed a good voice and in church choirs he was always in demand, and when with the boys he would form one of a quartette whose selections were all listened to with great delight. All will regret to know he is never to come back to his home town and all will sympathize deeply with the afflicted family.

Besides his parents, Artificer Gunn is survived by one sister, Mrs. F. H. McKean of Bathurst.

AN APPEAL

Rev. Capt. H. E. Thomas, Chaplain of the 55th Battalion has, through the St. John newspapers asked for a supply of illustrated Journals, magazines, games, etc., to place at the disposal of the men of the 55th now at camp at Sussex. Many people here are anxious to help in this work, but the expense of forwarding in small quantities would be considerable. In order to facilitate this worthy work, The Graphic will receive donations of the above, pack them for shipment, and pay the carriage on same to Sussex. The boys in training appreciate very much these attentions and we trust that Campbellton citizens will respond promptly and generously to this appeal. Send all magazines, etc., to the Graphic business office.

GREAT RECRUITING CAMPAIGN INAUGURATED IN NEW BRUNSWICK

Large Public Meeting Will Be Held To-Night in the Recruiting Offices, Murray Building, When Organization Will Be Effectuated.

SUNDAY TO BE SOLDIERS DAY

The call has gone out for more men first, and it is hoped by this means that the need of more men and yet more will be brought very close to every person who is able to volunteer. Your King and Country need you. Never was there a time when the country's call came so clear to every true-hearted son of Britain. "We are fighting for our lives," says Lord Haldane, fighting a desperate and brutal foe, whose every movement is foul and loathsome. An opponent fighting clean and fair is honorably recognised, but an enemy who kills defenceless women and non-combatants, ruthlessly slaughters children and unborn babes, is a blackguard and reeks with the stench of Hell.

Who among us but feels his blood boil at the insensate cruelty practised on all occasions by an enemy which has become so debased as even to glory in his shame at the untimely death of innocent women and children, sunk beneath the cold waters of the broad Atlantic. "Vengeance is Mine," No more is heard the boast of the twentieth century Herod "God is with us." No—another and a louder call is heard, the blood of the slain victims of the mad dog of Europe calls upward from the ground, "Who will avenge innocent blood," and the response from every quarter of the globe will be heard in clarion tones "I will go" VOX POPULI VOX DEI.

TO OPEN CAMPAIGN FOR RECRUITING

Men Urgently Wanted to Complete the Strength of 55th Battalion

On Sunday next a general recruiting campaign for the 55th N. B. Regiment will be inaugurated throughout the province. Lieutenant Governor Wood on the suggestion of Premier Clarke, will issue a proclamation setting aside May 23rd as Patriotic Sunday, on which day it is desired that special services be held in all New Brunswick churches dealing with this phase of New Brunswick's participation in the war.

Commencing on Monday morning the officers in charge of the regiment will commence an energetic recruiting campaign. It is their intention to organize local committees in all the more important centres, which committees will under one general plan arrange a series of meetings and carry on whatever other activities may be considered advisable. Addresses will be given on behalf of men, and recruiting officers will tour the province in so far as is possible, taking the names of all prospective recruits. These parties will supplement the work which is now being performed by the permanent recruiting officers. The men will undergo a preliminary examination at the organization centres and there be enrolled. They will be given transportation to Sussex, at which place they will report as promptly as possible for final medical examination and be placed on the regular strength of the regiment. Pay begins from time of enrollment.

The 55th Regiment so far has secured a total of about seven hundred and fifty men, of whom forty have been transferred to the 26th to complete its strength and a further detachment of two hundred and fifty have been selected for immediate overseas service. This leaves between six and seven hundred men still to be secured to bring the 55th to full war strength, and it is with a view of obtaining these six or seven hundred that the present

A NON-PARTISAN CABINET FORMED

Statement Made by Premier Asquith in House of Commons Confirming Report

(Special to Graphic)
 London, May 20.—The formation of a non-partisan cabinet for the War period is an established fact in Britain. Premier Asquith in reply to a question by Mr. Bonar Law made a statement confirming the report. The British steamer Dumfries, 4121 tons register was torpedoed on Wednesday morning. Crew saved. Aberdeen, May 20th.—The trawler Lucerne was sunk by a German submarine 40 miles off Rattray Head on Wednesday. The crew were landed here.

Statement Made by Premier Asquith in House of Commons

(Special to Graphic)
 London, May 20.—The Mail's Amsterdam correspondent cables that the Germans have held the allies in check just beyond the East Bank of Yser canal by bringing up large reserves of men and artillery. The correspondent also says all the big guns on the Belgian coast except aircraft pieces, have been transferred to the Yser, while the Landstrum at Bruges equipped with new rifles, have gone with them. The Times military correspondent who has been at the front, expresses disappointment that better preparations were not made to meet the Austro-German blow against Russians in Galicia, which was expected a month before it occurred. No German offensive in France will be practicable on a large scale before the end of July. The Times expert believes it is the duty of the allies to exploit this delay by sending every available man to France to prosecute an energetic offensive.

MATAPEDIA

For a village of its size, Matapedia certainly has a fine recruiting record. There are now seven boys and one nurse enlisted from this little place. Not all were born in the village proper, but all call Matapedia their native place. They are Benjamin Englehart, Angus McDonald, Tom McCallum and James McDavid with the 26th Battalion in St. John, Frank McDonald with the Mounted Rifles, Winnipeg, Harvey Adams and Harold Englehart, now training with the 55th Battalion, and Miss Gillis, a nurse with the McGill Contingent, now in England. Many towns of many times the size have done no better than this. May we add many more to the list before the war is over.

55TH BATTALION AT CAMP SUSSEX

Fine Body of Men Now in Training.—Full List of the Officers

Sussex, N. B., May 15.—Special trains on Monday brought the 55th Battalion to Sussex from the different centres where recruiting had taken place, and at sundown between seven and eight hundred men were comfortably stowed away in their new home in the tented city on the military camp grounds, says The Record.

Thanks to the advance party everything was in readiness for them, all the arrangements for sleeping and cooking being complete. Notwithstanding the heavy rains of the week the camp grounds, which is noted for quickly drying up, was in good condition and no inconvenience was caused the men getting to camp under most favorable conditions.

Bell waterproof tents are all provided with new floors, and the men are greatly pleased with the accommodations provided them and seemed delighted to get away from the towns where they have been training, and tenting out on the historic Sussex camp grounds, which is one of the most beautiful spots without any exception in the Maritime Provinces or in fact any part of Canada.

The following are the staff officers of the 55th, all of whom are certainly the right men in the right place, being efficient and brainy officers and under their care the 55th Battalion will surely be a crack corps in the very near future.

STAFF OFFICERS Lt.-Col. J. R. Kirkpatrick. Major H. S. Jones. Major C. Donald. Adjutant (Major) S. S. Wetmore. Paymaster, Capt. J. D. McNaughton. Quartermaster, Lt. F. A. Kirkpatrick. Chaplain—Capt. (Rev.) H. E. Thomas.

White the soldier boys are working pretty hard at the present they find lots of time for recreation football and baseball clubs are being formed and various other modes of amusement will be introduced later on. That they are putting in pretty busy days at present may be gleaned by a glance at the following sample bill of fare of a day's routine work which was carried out on Wednesday:

6.45-7.30 a.m.—Physical drill (without arms). 9.00-9.50 a.m.—Squad drill (without arms). 10-10.50 a.m.—Squad drill. 11-12.00 noon.—Musketry. 2-2.50 p. m.—Squad drill.

WOMAN'S BEST MEDICINE

Mrs. Kelly Advises all Women to Take "Fruit-a-Tives"

HAGERSVILLE, ONT., AUG. 26th. 1913. "I can highly recommend 'Fruit-a-Tives' because they did me an awful lot of good and I cannot speak too highly about them. About four years ago, I commenced taking 'Fruit-a-Tives' for a general break-down and they did me a world of good. We bought a good many dollars' worth, but it was money well spent because their action is so pleasant, compared with other laxatives, that I found only pleasure, as well as health, in taking them. They seemed to me to be particularly suited to women, on account of their mild and gentle action, and I trust that some other women may start taking 'Fruit-a-Tives' after reading my letter, and if they do, I am satisfied the results will be the same as in my own case."

Mrs. W. N. KELLY "Fruit-a-Tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-Tives Limited, Ottawa.

3-3.50 p.m.—Musketry. 4-4.50 p.m.—Squad drill. 5.30-6.00 p.m. Lecture—Interior Economy.

In the evenings the boys who do not engage in games on the grounds take a stroll around town, and take in the motion pictures and other sights. They are a fine mainly crowd of men and the citizens of Sussex are extending to them all the hospitality possible, and will try to make their stay here as pleasant as possible in anticipation of a bigger camp and with the idea of having discipline on the military grounds rigidly enforced if necessary. A guard house is under course of construction, 27 feet long by 20 feet in width, which will be provided with cells, and other appliances for taking care of the unruly, be he either soldier or civilian as the case may be. Col. Kirkpatrick and Major H. S. Jones, who is second in command, and all the officers are determined that nothing will occur at camp Sussex that will mar the good name of the 55th. If the recruits to come in are of the quality of those now in camp, the guard house will not be very well patronized, as the men appear to enter into the spirit displayed by their officers of desiring efficiency, and a good name for the Battalion.

A draft of 45 men from the 55th left Camp Sussex on Wednesday for St. John to complete the strength of the 26th Battalion. The Citizens played them from the camp grounds to depot. A detachment of 80 men from the 6th Mounted Rifles arrived on Wednesday to train as infantrymen.

ALL FOOL'S DAY

"All Fool's Day was not allowed to pass without a practical joke being played on the enemy," wrote the British eyewitness in his latest despatch. "An aviator flying over the Lille aerodrome dropped a football. It fell slowly through the air and the Germans could be seen hurrying from all directions to take cover from what they evidently thought was a bomb. That it bounded to an enormous height from the ground without exploding was probably taken to be due to a 'delay action' fuse, for it was not till the ball finally came to rest that they emerged from their shelters to examine it. On it was written: 'April Fool—Gott strafe England!'"

Fighting foul necessitates fighting to a finish.

I. C. R. BOOKLETS OF GREAT INTEREST

Some of the Latest of the Railway's Publications

Copies of the latest issue of I. C. R. publications have just been received and mark another step forward in the measures which the Government Railways are taking to advertise the beauty of the Eastern part of the Dominion. These booklets are being widely distributed in the United States and Canada and should produce marked results in the tourist business attracted to the Maritime Provinces. The publications include "Abegweit," "Braz d'Or Lakes," "Le Baie de Chaleur," "Summer Excursion Folders" and the regular folder of the railway. All of the booklets are profusely illustrated and attractively printed and finished. A number of the plates are printed in colors and the books contain considerable material of interest to the tourist, including information regarding the railways historical matter, etc.

The advertising which will thus be given to the Eastern part of Canada should be of the greatest benefit and the circulation of these publications by the I. C. R. is a further evidence of the progressive methods which the "People's Railway" has adopted to bring the natural advantages of Canada before the eyes of the world.

KNITTING FOR THE BELGIANS.

(By Juliana Cuyler, in The Living Church.)

Little Joan had learned to knit to help the "Beljums." All the pity that six years is capable of, all the energy which seems impossible to have been generated in only six years, was given to them with that singleness of purpose characteristic of six years. The only thing the stiff little fingers could essay was a scarf; but before it was set up on the fat, wooden needles it had become, in her imagination, a finished product, something which could be thrown as a refuge from the horrors of war all over Europe's "far-fung battle line." It was a wizard's wand. By its magical touch it could change the whole aspect of things; it was that long-sought-for balm which, poured out as oil, could still the troubled waters of men's souls; it was that vague something suggested to our administration which would compel men to lay down the arms, to the making of which many had given the energy and brains of the most efficient year of their life.

Truly its mission was great, this flimsy, woolenscarf on the fat, wooden needles.

I watched little Joan as she sat there knitting, her short legs dangling half way to the floor, her whole soul concentrated on her work. Outside, the other children were playing with shouts of joy, and occasionally she lifted her head to look at them with wistful eyes, drawing her breath in a little, quivering sigh.

When I kissed the tired face "good-night," there were fourteen rows to the good in the gray woolen scarf.

As I sat reading by the lamp in the evening, my English governess came into the room holding in her hand Joan's knitting. It had been unravelled out down to a few remaining rows. "Joan made a mistake way down here," she said, "and I thought as she was learning to knit it is important that she should do it properly, so I pulled it out."

"Oh, couldn't you have knitted the stitch up?" I asked in dismay as I thought of the indomitable spirit which had gone into the knitting of those fourteen rows.

"It wasn't a dropped stitch," she said. "She had muddled it a bit, and I thought it had best come out. American children are never taught to do anything thoroughly."

I knew she was right, theoretically, and yet as I looked at all that was left of it it seemed so pitifully small and inadequate, a labor of Sisypheus, a few stitches its only foundations of fact, its accomplishment a thing of faith! And, after all, it had not been given the child as a task; it was a voluntary offering of her best labor, unskilled though that labor might be. By her act of service little Joan had enrolled herself in that great army of pity the stream of whose self-sacrificing love is being poured forth for the healing of the nations. Against the horror and misery of war that other army stands, its patient devotion helping to prepare the way for that Love which must eventually conquer all things. And on through the dim vista of the future years the young recruits, of whom little Joan is one, are coming, a vast unnumbered multitude of whose rebirths is set as a seal, the vision of Peace.

Before I went to bed I had knitted all the crinkly, unravelled-out part of the worsted in again. Then I took it upstairs and laid it at the feet of little, sleeping Joan.

I knew that with the first light of the coming day she would sit up in bed and with all the pity six years is capable of and all the energy which had been generated in six years, she would knit, with her stiff little fingers, for the "Beljums."

Truly its destiny is great—the flimsy gray scarf on the fat wooden needles!

WHAT A READER SAYS. Rio Vista, May 9, 1915. Graphic Limited, Campbellton, N. B.

Dear Sirs:— Enclosed you will find check for $2.50. Credit my account as far as it will go. I am reading the Graphic pretty carefully these times to see the names of the Restigouche and Gloucester boys who enlist for the war. And I must say that the way the boys have stood up to the Germans makes me feel proud of them. Although I have lived here 20 years it is hard to forget the land of birth and school makes. I am sorry to see that Mr. S. Laughlin has passed away. I knew him once upon a time very well.

Yours very truly, THOS. McCORMACK.

PUBLIC NOTICE The attention of the public is called to the following section (10) of the building by-laws of the town.

10. No person shall set on fire, or burn in the open air within the Town, any wood, brush, straw, chips, shavings, refuse or rubbish, or carry fire from place to place in an open vessel within the town; provided, however, that this Section shall not apply to fires necessarily required by plumbers, blacksmiths, mechanics, and other persons, in the lawful pursuit of their business, or calling, or where otherwise allowed under certain restrictions, by any law or the By-laws of the Town, or by special authority of the Council, all such fires must, however, be sufficiently protected, watched and guarded to prevent danger to surrounding property.

The battle may be expected to extend as the German masses arrive.

MAGNIFICENT CONDUCT OF CANADIANS. Gallantry Saves the Situation. War Office, Saturday.

The fight for the ground into which the Germans penetrated between Steenstraete and Langemarck (north-east of Ypres) still continues. The loss of this part of the line laid bare the left of the Canadian Division, which was forced to fall back in order to keep in touch with the right of the neighbouring troops. In the rear of the latter had been four Canadian 4.7 guns, which thus passed into the hands of the enemy. But some hours later the Canadians made a most brilliant and successful advance, re-capturing these guns and taking a considerable number of German prisoners, including a colonel.

The Canadians had many casualties, but their gallantry and determination undoubtedly saved the situation.

Their conduct has been magnificent throughout. VETERINARY OFFICER Dr. J. A. Roy of this town has just received word of his appointment as Veterinary officer to the 8th Mounted Rifles. Dr. Roy will leave immediately to take up his duties in Amherst.

WOMAN IN TERRIBLE STATE

Finds Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cape Wolfe, Canada.—"Last March I was a complete wreck. I had given up all hope of getting better or living any length of time, as I was such a sufferer from female troubles. But I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today I am in good health and have a pair of twin boys two months old and growing finely. I surprised doctors and neighbors for they all know what a wreck I was.

"Now I am healthy, happy and hearty, and owe it all to Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies. You may publish this letter if you like. I think if more women used your remedies they would have better health."—Mrs. J. T. Cook, Lot No. 7, Cape Wolfe, P.E.I., Canada.

Because your case is a difficult one, and doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has remedied many cases of female ailments such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and it may be exactly what you need.

The Pinkham record is a proud and peerless one. It is a record of constant victory over the obstinate ills of women—ills that deal out despair. It is an established fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored health to thousands of such suffering women. Why don't you try it if you need such a medicine?

TEN TO ONE

The blood of the breed holds good. All the modernist piffle about the enervation of ultra-civilized folk, all the militarist doubtings over the efficiency of colonial irregulars, vanishes like a fog in the sunlight of Langemack's glory. Head this again, from the official story of that great day:—

"With the Canadian Highlanders extended to double their normal trench front, one-half of it in the open, and assisted by the Tenth battalion from southern Alberta, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, they not only held ten times their own number in check, but they actually retook the guns from the enemy and maintained their position, but the loss, as must have been expected, was appalling."

And this:—
"About sixty thousand Germans, got in the rear of the Highlanders, thus cutting them off, but they refused to surrender, and the firing was heard far into the night, the Germans, being in front, on the left flank, and on the rear."

Ten to one, and not only holding their ground, but pressing forward! Surrounded, cut off, hopeless of reinforcements but fighting on with the old flag flying until the last bullet is gone! Why, Drake's men never did better than that; nor they who fought at Minden; nor the gallant gallopers at Balaklava; nor Nelson's heroes; nor the thin red line at Waterloo! Never throughout the splendid history of British warfare have sons of Britain fought better or died better.

And these are our own boys. Not trained soldiers; not even bred in a military atmosphere. Just ordinary folk like the rest of us—lads from desk and counter, from farm and ranch, and lumber camp, brought up far from the sound or rumor of war. Peaceful, and no hatred in their hearts; but with the same spirit thank God that filled their fathers who in their turn fought and died for their vision of liberty and for Britain's honor.

So, though we mourn, our sorrow is ennobled by an uplifting pride, that they whom we have lost have died in the old British way with their faces toward an overwhelming foe, and their flag flying.

When shall this world see again
Such a breed of mighty men
As come forward, one to ten,
To the song on bugles blown—
England—
To the skies on your bugles blown!
—Montreal Star.

MANITOBA'S CHANGE

Resignation of the government of Manitoba as the result of disclosure in connection with the construction of the new Parliament buildings, probably created little surprise in the western province. An election a few months ago put the parties nearly on an equality and made evident the growing desire of the people for this change which experience has demonstrated it is desirable to make in Canadian governments after a few years of office. The government's determined opposition to a Royal commission investigation in connection with the Parliament buildings scandal, charges intensified public dissatisfaction, while other questions of local concern, not the least important being the school question, occasioned, it is apparent from the letter of Premier Roblin, the loss of friends and sympathizers to such an extent that the government realized the hopelessness of longer continuing a struggle which was bound to end in the light of day being let in on transactions the government was so determinedly fighting to cover up and hide. Beyond doubt, there is a big story to come out in connection with this Parliament buildings inquiry, but the letter of Premier Roblin raises a suspicion of doubt as to what will happen next. With a majority of seven in a House of forty-nine members, and with three years of rule assured them, the Premier and his cabinet have adopted the most unusual course of resigning and handing the reins of government over to the opposition. To give the new government an assured majority in the House, several supporters of Premier Roblin are resigning and it is announced the new cabinet and the new Liberal members are to go back by acclamation, while Premier Roblin, only sixty-two years of age, and the members of his cabinet, instead of remaining in the House to defend and justify their administration, retire from politics. The new Premier and the late Premier have been in consultation for some days, and the arrangement arrived at is manifestly the result of some understanding and agreement. Is the investigation, which of course must be held, to be a whitewash? A significant sentence in Premier Roblin's speech of farewell, admitting the necessity of adjustments between the government and the contractors, says: "The government also realizes that constitutionally they were responsible for the acts of their officials in matters of this kind." It will be well to keep that sentence in mind for the suggestion it contains of the probable finding of whatever committee investigates the Manitoba scandal. Satisfaction the Liberals of Manitoba and of Canada naturally feel over the accession to power of their party, but Liberals and Conservatives alike must be deeply chagrined at another evidence of political corruption on a large scale. It will occasion no surprise if this Manitoba development determines the Federal government to postpone indefinitely the much talked of general election.—St. John Globe.

WHAT DEPENDS ON US.

London Chronicle.—Everybody now in the prime of life has to remember this country, which now calls on him in its emergency of life or death, as a past and a future far beyond his individual lifetime: a past enriched and ennobled by the industry, fortitude and honesty of those who went before, to which he owes an incalculable debt; a future which it is our duty, so far as in each of us lies, to hand down intact to the heritage that we have received. What is at stake in the present is not merely the handiwork of our forefathers, but the work of men who lived centuries ago; and the issue of the great conflict will affect not merely the participants, but our children's children for untold generations. We are the trust-ees for fortunes much bigger than our own.

WHY THE DELAY.

Why, when every report from France and England says more men are needed, are good and brave men kept impatient in Canadian barracks? Why not move them on and then drill more Canadians? There are thousands waiting to answer the call of King and country, but as men are kept in barracks it is difficult to make others realize the need of more men. Many a brave Canadian lad is ready to go to the front and fight, but unwilling—and who can blame him?—to spend month after month parading the streets of some Canadian town or village, apparently getting no nearer taking his part in the great work patting with enthusiasm for. Men kept at home in Canada when they enlisted for service in France are growing impatient of delay. They are losing interest. They are becoming sick at heart, and some are taking means to end an existence which to them has grown intolerable. Good men are being spoiled and the army, sadly in need of brave hearts and stout arms, is losing the services of some who in the post of danger would do and die, but who are unable to withstand what is worse to them than death. Let Canada lend to the front the men who months ago offered their services, and recruits will rapidly fill the ranks of new corps. But so long as men of the Second Contingent remain apparently unneeded, it must prove difficult to make others understand that a real need for men exists.—Globe.

NON-PRODUCING

The "War Budget," brought down by the Hon. Mr. White went into effect so far as tariff matters generally were concerned on February 12th last. The stamp tax, however, was not levied until April 15th. Thus the last fifteen days of April was the first real test of Mr. White's Pretended "War Taxes" as a Revenue Producer.

Instead of an increased Revenue as was predicted by Mr. White it has fallen off over two million dollars over the preceding month.
Here are the figures:
1915
February $10,523,344
March 11,641,970
April 9,627,787
Was Sir Wilfrid Laurier right when he stated in his Budget Speech that these new taxes would produce little or no additional Revenue?

Montreal Journal of Commerce.—Reports from the West received by The Journal of Commerce are most optimistic. From a score of widely scattered centres reports have come in showing that seeding is in some cases three weeks earlier than usual, that the increase in the acreage is very much higher, that the prospects are excellent. Increased acreage and a good crop will mean much, not only to the West, but to the whole of Canada.

Andrew Robinson, a La Cross, Wis., farmer, had made arrangements to have his old horse, Babe, sent to a farm 18 miles away to spend her remaining days when Robinson would die. Last week she was sent to the farm, but no sooner had she been left alone than she leaped a fence and reached the Robinson home in time to attend her old master's funeral, following the hearse without even a halter.

Queen Alexandra has purchased or rather begged for, the gift of a crucifix made by a Belgian soldier. This soldier, who is lying wounded in a British hospital, is a young seminarist and has been carving beautiful crucifixes out of the odd bits of wood and cigar boxes he could find. Queen Alexandra, hearing of his skill wrote asking for one of the crucifixes. A beautiful one was sent, and in return came a handsome leather bag, packed with every kind of requisite for a soldier's comfort. The Queen Mother also sent her autograph portrait, on which she had written a quotation in Latin.

The Marine Importations constituted a new high record of 101,254,000 gallons for many months that blockade does not work.

Canadian railways are taking a constant increasing interest in forest fire prevention along their lines. Both the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Pacific railways have provided public notices in smoking compartments, warning against the throwing of lighted matches, cigarettes and cigars from the train. The Canadian Pacific has printed fire warnings on the menu cards. The Canadian Pacific, Canadian Northern and Algoma Central railways print fire prevention matter in their advertising literature, particularly in the circulars intended for campers, tourists, etc. A large percentage of the fire loss is preventable, and there is a steady increasing realization of the fact that most of the loss can be avoided through the creation of an intelligent public sentiment along this line.

Lumber unprotected from the weather cracks and checks, and a building that should be good for a century, if properly painted, goes to rack and ruin in a quarter of that time.
The use of good paint is an economy. It protects lumber, iron and other materials from the wear and tear of the elements, and decay and rust. Paint vastly improves the appearance of property and two per cent. of the value of the building spent in paint adds ten or fifteen per cent. to its market value.

Interesting Items of News Regarding Canadians From Old
Country Newspaper

The following clippings from an old country newspaper have been forwarded to us from Gunner R. D. Young of this town. The items deal with the doings of the Canadian troops and are therefore of more than passing interest.

The new battle which is in progress
for Calais reaches its fifth day this morning. Ever since the beginning of April the Germans have been hurrying reinforcements to the Flanders end of the line. They have large new levies available—the number of which was estimated a few weeks ago at 800,000.
Of these, 300,000 seem to have been sent to the Carpathians and the other 500,000 to the west and to Flanders.

On April 17 the British took the initiative
by exploding mines under Hill 60, south-east of Ypres, and carrying the German positions on it in a swift, splendid assault. The Germans responded with local counter-attacks,
while they prepared a far more extensive move, which opened on Thursday last, immediately to the north and north-east of Ypres. On that day the Allied positions were deluged with shells and pined with asphyxiating bombs.

Covered by a curtain of this poisonous vapour and aided by a wind which blew the fumes in the face of the Allies, the Germans rapidly advanced, crossed the Yser canal at two distinct points, and began the new battle, as was pointed out exclusively in The Daily Mail on Saturday. The Germans claimed on Friday evening to have taken thirty guns, among them four heavy British guns, and to have made a considerable advance along a front of about six miles. The claim was unquestionably true in part. It presently appeared that four heavy British guns had been taken.

It was now that the Canadians showed their mettle. The thrust of the Germans had uncovered their left and compelled them to drop back, so as not to be outflanked. The Germans had directed the attack not against them but against the troops to the north of them who had the support of the Canadian heavy guns. These were lost and the Canadians were ordered to retreat—apparently on Friday.

They "undoubtedly saved the situation"
and comported themselves "magnificently."
This is high praise which is dealt out, but it is deserved. Troops which after less than eight months'
training can deliver such a counter-attack as this in the teeth of the terrific fire of the German artillery and machine guns are second to none.

On Saturday, the third day of the battle, the Germans still held much of the ground which they had gained.
According to the French Staff they brought two army corps, or about 80, 000 men, into action on a very confident front, which would indicate an ex-

THAT "BOILED" SHIRT
Mrs. Mary P. Sayers, Martin, Mich.
"Who wears the boiled shirt?" The speaker paused a moment and looked over the vast assembly. He leaned forward and stretched forth his right arm, with one finger of the hand pointing straight at a mild-featured little man who sat in the front row of seats.
"I'll tell you!" he thundered, in convincing tones, "I'll tell you! It's the saloon-keeper! Who eats the porter-house steak?" He paused again, straightened up and stepped backward
to the pulpit in the middle of the platform. He lifted his handkerchief and wiped the perspiration from his brow.
Then, walking swiftly to the front of the platform, he once more leaned forward and shook his finger at the little man in front. Presently he straightened himself again, took a step backward, and then assumed a calm, dignified attitude. "I'll tell you!" he said,
in a tone that was almost monotonous.
"It's the saloon-keeper!"

The little man in front shouted,
"Amen!" and the speaker continued
his exhortation.
The old Van Buren street mission was crowded to overflowing with the riffraff of the underworld that inhabited its sordid locality. "I am not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance," was blazoned in large, shining letters over the platform from which the gospel was preached every night in far greater purity than it was wont to be delivered from the most crowded pulpits of many of the city's splendid churches. And from the front, back of the speaker, came music that stirred the weary, sin-burdened soul to its inner depths with a power that could not be easily shaken off.

Back by the door sat Mr. Washington, negro and Peter J. well. It was Bill's first visit to the mission. He had been lured therein by the sweet strains of the violin music which had penetrated beyond the distracting noise of the busy thoroughfare. Music always had a power over Bill's soul. But violin music had never been associated in Bill's mind with anything save dance-halls and playhouses. Now, however, there was a sacred, lingering cadence that recalled the days when his good, old, black grandmother had told him to "put on yo' boiled shirt" and go to the church. Disoriented debauchee as he knew himself to be,
he could not bring himself to leave the mission and seek his hilarious companions in one of the many saloons that infested that region. As the preacher's words rang clear and true
throughout that big audience room, Bill's eyes became riveted upon his every motion and gesture.

"And what do you wear—you, who sell all day in the sweatshops and spend your hard earned dollars in the saloons at night? Oh, you wear a blue shirt, a coarse one, and very often a ragged, dirty one! Don't I know?" continued the preacher earnestly and beseechingly. "Don't I know," he repeated, "when I've been among you day after day urging you to give up your wickedness and put on a clean shirt? Why, you eat the lean cuts of meat and spend the surplus in the saloons of the men who deal out our whiskey! Ah, my brethren, they can give large sums to public charity, they can buy shoes and stockings at Christmas for the chil-

O my brothers," he finished, when he had talked for a few moments longer.
"Come to God and let Him save you from this miserable debauchery. Get right with God! Get right with God!"
He sat down, and a deep stillness fell upon the room. Before Bill could respond from the magnetic effects of the preacher's words a man stepped out to the front, and to the accompaniment of the violin, sang that old, inspiring
hymn of the days of our forebears,
"Almost Persuaded." Bill groaned.
He saw himself the miserable being that he was. He leaned his head in his hands and wept.

When the song was ended the testi-monially fierce onslaught. They also attacked at many other points of the Allied line.
The German Headquarters report puts forward very serious claims. It asserts that the ground captured on Friday was retained and fresh progress was made—that the Germans
advanced victoriously towards Ypres.
Difficulty in determining the truthfulness of this claim arises from the curious fact that certain of the positions
mentioned by the Germans (Kersselaere and Grafenstafel) cannot be located in any known map.

The reports asserts that a British counter-attack west of St. Julien (three miles north-east of Ypres) was repulsed yesterday morning with "very heavy losses" to our troops, that a British attack west of Wiltje (two miles north-east of Ypres) was shattered by the German artillery, and that another 1,000 British prisoners, with seven guns, have been taken.

Until more definite reports are forthcoming from the British and French headquarters these claims cannot be summarily rejected. Our Rotterdam correspondent, Mr. Dunn, however, whose accuracy has been remarkable and whose sources of information are of the best, telegraphs that he has received reports of a severe check to the Germans north of Ypres but that each side is hurrying up masses of fresh troops.

monies began. As one after another was given, interspersed now and again with a verse of sympathetic song; as speaker after speaker testified to the saving power of the blessed Lord, Bill listened intently. Wretched, miserable and well nigh forsaken by mankind,
many of these people had been raised from the slough of despondency into the bright light of fellowship with those who are pure and good. Bill began to realize his condition. Creeping into his heart came a desire to be like those who are clean and wholesome. As his thoughts dwelt on the almost immeasurable distance between himself and God's people, his attention was arrested by a voice at the opposite end of the hall. It sounded familiar.

"Bruders and sisters," it said. Bill
craned his neck. "De Lord sabe us, it's Mandy!" he muttered under his liquor-soaked breath. "Use askin' you to pray for my poah no 'count husban'."
He's berry bad man. He's drunk mos'
all de time, and I's et poah stuff so long dat I'se 'bout tiahed ob dis ol' sinful yarth. Ef 'twant fer de good ord's mercy I'd been daid long ago!
Pray fer me!" Mandy's poor, strained mulatto face was wet with tears. Never had Bill felt so sinky in his life.
Mandy sat slowly down, and the whole choir struck up the hymn, "He'll know
the way was dreary, when Jesus comes."

This was too much for Bill. He slunk out of the hall in an agony of remorse. It had never occurred to him before that he had been helping to pay for the saloonkeeper's "boiled shirt" and "porter-house steak." Bill was capable of earning good wages as plumber, which had meant a fair measure of prosperity, but he had also been something of a dandy, and dandyism had led to debauchery and debauchery to laziness.

GASPE

Messrs. W. Harquail and J. L. Harbin, representatives for Greenfields Limited, and Whitman & Turner, were in town last week on business. The Schr. Langevin arrived here Thursday, May 13th, and is the first sailing vessel to enter the harbor; she was loaded with freight from Montreal and Quebec, and the greater portion was for the business houses of this town. Upon interviewing Capt. Carre, he informed us the journey from Montreal had been exceedingly rough. Mr. P. M. Luce, Manager for William Fruing & Co., Ltd., Gaspé, arrived here on Friday, per S. S. Lady of Gaspé; after having been transferred from the steamer to the wharf, by gasoline boat; he was heartily welcomed by Fruing's staff, and others too numerous to mention. He informed us he had enjoyed a very pleasant holiday in England, and had experienced an exciting time crossing the Atlantic Ocean. He was a passenger on the ill-fated Cunard liner "Lusitania", when she made her final trip to New York.

The S. S. Lady of Gaspé, in entering the harbor Friday morning, pursued the wrong course; the usual steamship course, is to pass on the Southern side of the red light, but the Lady of Gaspé tried to pass on the Northern side, and she naturally grounded. This incident happened at about 5:45 a.m. At 3:30 p.m. the Government steamer "Princess", which was lying at anchor in the inner harbor, went to her assistance; a hawser was fastened to the Lady of Gaspé's bow, and the Princess tried her utmost to tow her. All attempts to dislodge the Lady of Gaspé, from her undignified position proved futile. After having remained aground all night, the Lady of Gaspé, aided by the Princess and an extra high tide, managed to get off the shoal. She afterwards steamed into harbor, and unloaded her large cargo of freight.

Lieut. Col. Garverau, Recruiting officer, arrived in town on Saturday; he left Monday after having been successful in enlisting a number of new recruits.

Messrs. John F. Davis, E. P. Suddard and John McPhee, left Monday

Mr. McLann of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Campbellton, arrived here last week to take the place of Mr. L. L. Dawson, who is leaving shortly on a vacation.

Mr. Leonard Bertram of Robin, Jones & Whitman here, left on the 15th for Natashquan, where he will remain for the summer. Mr. Bertram was a general favorite and will be greatly missed by his numerous friends, who all hope to welcome him back at some future date.

MAPLE LEAF.

PERCE We regret to say Mr. Henry Turz, who went to the Jeffrey Hale's Hospital passed away on May 7th. The body was brought home and the funeral took place Sunday P. M. The casket was covered with beautiful flowers. His family has our deepest sympathy.

We are pleased to hear both Mrs. Walters and Mrs. Bisson are improving after their operations.

Mr. and Mrs. Tardif, Mr. and Mrs. Tuzo and Mrs. H. P. Renout went to Cape Cove Friday to attend the funeral of Mrs. D. Dumaresq.

Mr. F. Bower and family have moved to Perce, and are occupying Miss LeBreton's house, which has been closed for some time.

We see Miss Suddard is teaching in the school again, after holding her classes in private houses during the winter. We are sorry to hear that Mr. Matot, one of the Perce boys who went to the front has been wounded. The lobster fishing is in full swing and we think there will be a good catch this season.

ONE DAY LOST

Ottawa, May 11, 1915. The Census and Statistics Office issued to-day, in the form of a press bulletin, the first crop report of the present season. It deals with the area and condition of the fall wheat crop, the condition of hay and clover meadows at the close of the winter and the progress of spring seeding up to the end of April.

Area and Condition of Fall Wheat. Owing to the mild winter and the favorable conditions which prevailed during the critical months of March and April, the fall wheat crop is reported as being exceptionally good on April 30. In Ontario, where 1,043,000 acres were sown as estimated last fall, not more than 6.8 p.c. is reported as winter killed, and in Alberta, with 230,000 acres estimated as sown, the proportion winter killed is only 6.2 p.c. These proportions are lower than in any year since 1908-09 for Ontario and lower than in any previous year on record for Alberta.

Last year the percentage winter killed was 19 in Ontario and 15.6 in Alberta. In Ontario the area winter killed amounts this year to 71,000 acres, and in Alberta to 14,300 acres. These figures, deducted from the acres sown, leave 972,000 acres in Ontario and 215,700 acres in Alberta as the areas under fall wheat to be harvested this year.

With 10,900 acres in Manitoba, 4,100 acres in Saskatchewan and 6,000 acres in British Columbia, the total area under fall wheat to be harvested this year amounts to 1,208,700 acres, as compared with 973,800 acres, the area harvested in 1914. Whilst therefore, as previously reported, the area sown to wheat last year and in 1915, the increased area to be harvested, owing to the small area winter killed, amounts to 24 p.c. Not less satisfactory is the general condition on April 30, which compares with the standard of 100, as representing a full crop, 93 in Ontario, as compared with 81 last year, and 83 in Alberta, as compared with 87. For Ontario the figure is higher than in any year since 1910 when 95½ was recorded; for Alberta this year's condition was only exceeded last year and in 1911. The condition for the whole of Canada on April 30 was 91 which, converted into a standard of 100 as representing the average condition at the same period for the six years 1909-1914, indicates a condition of 112, or an anticipated yield per acre of 121 bushels.

Progress of Spring Seeding. It is as yet too soon to report on the Maritime provinces, but excellent progress in the seeding of spring grains is reported from all the other six provinces. The spring is early, and as a general rule the conditions for seeding have been most favourable. About double the amount of seeding was accomplished this year on April 30 than was completed on May 6 in 1914. Of spring wheat 55 p.c. of the total was finished in Quebec as against 5 p.c. last year; in Ontario 73 p.c. against 24 p.c.; in the three western provinces 93 p.c. was completed in Manitoba, 94 p.c. in Saskatchewan and 91 p.c. in Alberta, these proportions being higher than in any year since 1910. In British Columbia the percentage is 89. For all six provinces the proportion of seeding reported as effected on April 30 was 84 p.c. for wheat, 45 p.c. for oats, 38 p.c. for barley and 63 p.c. for all crops.

FIREPROOF CLOTHES. Dr. William H. Perkin, the English chemist, has found a method of making clothes absolutely fireproof, so that they will not burn even when held in a gas-flame. One fireproof garment was undamaged by being burned, and another which had been worn for two years and washed every week. Neither could be burned, though the latter was worn almost to rags. This fireproof cloth costs about a penny a yard more than untreated cloth. Not only will this fireproof material be found suitable for the manufacture of clothes for firemen, but it may also be used by women for the finest party dresses, the most delicate of fabrics being unharmed by the process and even given a softer appearance. For children's clothes it should be particularly desirable since it is likely to prevent many

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR FALLEN HEROES

Memorable Scene in St. Pauls Cathedral, London.—Great Crowds in Church

Ottawa, May 14.—Rudyard Kipling's graphic account of the Canadian soldiers' memorial service in London this week has been cabled to the government. The text in part is as follows: They pass, O God, ad all Our grief, our tears, Achieve not their recall, Nor reach their ears. Our lamentations leave But one thing sure, They perish and we grieve. And we endure.

Yesterday evening the Dominion of Canada came for an hour to St. Paul's Cathedral to mourn over and to rejoice in her dead; and the English whose kin have fallen in the same fields came reverently and proudly with her. The soul-searching simplicity of the gathering was beyond any words. There was no parade nor preparation; except the Union Jack and Dominion flags hung above the altar. The doors were set open in the bright light of a May evening, and the people entered as members of one family grieving together. Some had waited in their seats since the close of the afternoon service, a couple of hours before. The great Cathedral settling into shadow at the day's end took no count of them, nor of the quiet-footed thousands that followed.

At first the crowd lined the streets outside and watched the officers and men in khaki and the women in black dresses in the cabs and buses, then they themselves entered in little knots and detachments—soldiers of all arms, and civilians of all trades as though they had been held back till then by the natural desire to give precedence to the nearer mourners; the flow increased and the Cathedral took them all.

The Canadian officers and men were gathered in the choir, a blur of khaki facing the red and gold of the band. With them were their women in black, many meeting for the first time since their childhood; and wounded men in blue hospital dress, and behind and around all these, from end to end and side to side of the vast space, were the multitude of the people of London.

AT THE CANADIANS.
A woman asked, timidly, if a ticket were wanted, "No, why should it be?" was the answer, and she and her child in black went forward with the rest—the nameless folk concerned in the war. She had her tale to tell her acquaintances of the moment. It concerned a nephew in a regiment, and the child, staring towards the flags, was his child, you see.

Another woman had a son also at the front and "doing well of far," she wished for a closer view of the Canadians, on the ground that her boy had fought alongside them.

"You can't. They are all sitting up in the choir," some one said, half reprovingly.

"Of course. I know that," the mother replied, "I only wanted to see 'em all together. They say they look splendid all together."

The confidences were exchanged along the benches between the further pillars, or up and down the aisles, as the people quietly, always quietly, looked for a place. Now and then a nurse in charge of wounded, who have great gifts for getting lost, made a little stir as she ushered her flock, or a knot of soldiers moved aside, as drilled men know how to move, that some women might have a better view.

But the people in the nave spoke, for the most part, of Canada; of their own relatives there in remote townships, and what sort of folk these Canadians were who had endured so much, beginning with the Salisbury camps. The words were as simple and neighborly as ever one would hear at a village funeral—with little descriptive touches of Canadians who had made purchases in their shops or whom they had met in trains; how they spoke and how they looked at the time. So do people recall the last words and gestures of their own dead suddenly taken from life. The daylight faded.

There was one startling interlude, when the great west door was opened wide against the last of the evening glow, and a vista of silver gray buildings and the Lord Mayor's procession came up the nave in a river of scarlet and gold. The black and khaki swallowed him and all his gorgeous attendants, and the memorial service began with a hymn that all knew and none had realized till that hour; one could hear the feeling thrill through the voices and the music at the words and Now we watch and struggle

And now we live in hope, Zion in her anguish, With Babylon must cope.

Then the Psalms with every known and unconsidered word alive and blood red; the Anthem there called for a moment a peace that has to be won; the lesson; and "the Saints of God".

It was dark by then and a great space near the west door, behind the last of the benches, had filled with men, close-packed, standing together in silence. They knelt on the stones at the prayers and shoulder-badges glimmered, for many of them were soldiers on evening passes; they, too, knew the hymns well enough to sing without the help of the leaflets.

"Oh, army of the living God To His command we bow; Part of the host have crossed the flood And part are crossing now."

The Bishop of London spoke to Canada, as a man who had seen the business of the war and knew the souls of men. Occasionally some man back from the front nodded his head, or bit his lips, as the preacher named some comrade or commander dead; and once or twice a nurse put out a steady hand towards a wounded man. The obscure mass in the nave and the standing crowd behind them scarcely moved.

We knelt for the last hymn, Now the Laborer's Task is O'er, and it was then that the cathedral of our race which is so old in grief came to its own and possessed us. All the things that had gone before had prepared it for him—that it should see a new people baptized by blood into the strict fellowship of the civilized nations now at war with heathendom; that it should witness the burial of a world irretrievably discarded and the birth of a new. The still air and the silence precluded the change, and when the Dead March in Saul wailed against death and triumph over the grave the mystery and the wonder of the change accomplished itself as simply as the greatest things must.

People moved out slowly after the national anthems had been sung, for every one was among friends; and there were wounded to be sorted out also, very white and exhausted, and trying to deny it.

CLEAN UP!

Now let us give the war a rest, the rout, the siege, the rally, and the gayly shed our coat and vest and go and clean the alley! Let's gather up the dogs and cats which have this life departed, and let tin cans and bricks and hats, off to the dump be carted. In Winter you may voice your views, which you believe important and have long sermons on the news but in the spring you ortn't. Then every able-bodied man should whoop the "Clean Up" slogan and chase the old tomato can, the castoff hat and brogan. So let us clear our bulging brows, of trifling things so narrow, and gather up the old dead cows and work the rake and harrow. The rubbish left by careless men, and lazy human cheeses will bring a host of germs again, and they all bring punk diseases. And forty billion flies will come, as many microbes bearing and round our weary heads they'll hum and keep us busy swearing Clean Up! Clean Up! On every block let all the workers rally! No man should stand around and talk until he's cleaned his alley.

France has stopped speculation in wheat. Canada may be forced to take similar action before long. There is a good deal of gambling in wheat futures going on.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:
In view of the fact that the casualty lists are now bringing names that are very near home, and also since this little town is so well represented at the front, I think more attention should be called to the fact that white is the mourning color approved by the Minister of Militia for those wearing with a white sleeve band on a dark coat, as suggested by the Minister. After all, white is a mourning color more appropriate to our Christian faith.

A SOLDIER'S SISTER.

LA BAIE DE CHALEUR.
Associated with the early history and discovery of Canada the name of Jacques Cartier will ever hold a commanding and unique position. It was he, who, nearly five hundred years ago, or to be exact July 19, 1534, sailed into this magnificent haven. An exceptionally hot day inspired the name, and it has borne that name ever since. La Baie de Chaleur—the bay of heat. Ninety miles long and from fifteen to twenty miles wide, this arm of the Gulf of St. Lawrence divides the Gaspé Peninsula from the Province of New Brunswick and the depth is sufficient to ensure a safe passage for the largest ships afloat. As the bay narrows into the estuary of the Restigouche, the scenery becomes bolder and more majestic, presenting one of the most superb and fascinating panoramic views in America. The whole region is mountainous, and almost precipitous enough to be Alpine; but its grandeur is derived less from cliffs, chasms and peaks, than from far-reaching sweeps of outline and continually rising dunes that mingle with the clouds. On the Gaspé side, precipitous cliffs of brick-red sandstone flank the shore, so lofty that they seem to cast their gloomy shadows half-way across the bay, and yawn with rifts and gullies, through which fretful torrents tumble into the sea. Behind them the mountains rise and fall in long undulations of ultramarine, and towering above them all is the famous peak of Tracadigouche, flashing in the sunlight like a pale blue amethyst.
Around the shores of La Baie de

Chaleur the land is settled for many miles and the picturesque hamlets and green pastures add to the beauty of the scene. The swell from the ocean breaks rhythmically upon smooth sandy beaches that tempt the bather. There are many coves and harbours where the boating is alluring and shorn of its risks. Sheltered at its mouth by the islands of Miscou and Shippegan, and restless as may be the sea beyond, the yachtsman may guide his craft over the whitecaps when a stiff breeze is blowing, while there are often summer days when the bay is so placid that the small motor boat may safely venture into the open. The New Brunswick shore is followed by the line of the Intercolonial Railway from Campbellton to Bathurst and for a number of miles is in full view of the broad and beautiful expanse of water with the lofty and imposing mountains of Gaspé beyond.
Campbellton, Charlo, Bathurst, Dalhousie are all convenient centres with excellent accommodation for the summer visitor.
