FINE NEW THEATRE FOR CAMPBELLTON

S. W. Dimock's House is Rapidly Nearing Completion

WILL OPEN SEPT. 2

New Theatre Will be Away
the Best in Eastern Canada

Campbellton will shortly be able to boast of one of the most spacious and up-to-date play houses in the lower provinces. S. W. Dimock's new theatre at the corner of Adam and Roseberry streets is now receiving its finishing touches at the hands of the painters, decorators and carpenters. As a show house for a small town it is a model.

The main entrance is on Adams St. There is here one large double door. Immediately inside is a spacious lobby or rotunda from which there are three entrances to the auditorium and another to the balcony. On the left of the lobby is the ticket office.

The auditorium, down stairs, which is divided into sections, will probably seat about six hundred. There are no boxes as yet, but Mr Dimock has reserved space for them and will probably put in three or four at some future time. The balcony, which extends from right to left, is ten feet in height at the front. Its dimensions are 33 x 60 and it will seat between three and four hundred. It is Mr Dimock's intention to make the price of seats in the first three rows of the balcony as high as at any part of the house. The cheapest seats in the theatre will be those directly under the gallery.

In the auditorium, downstairs, there is a large fire escape or emergency exit, opening on Roseberry street. All the main entrance doors swing outward.

The floors of the auditorium are of hardwood and are shellacked and oiled. The entire interior is finished in white and light oak and presents a very pretty appearance. A large electric fixture with about sixty lights adorns the centre of the ceiling and besides there are lights in the balcony and on the sides. Altogether there will be about two hundred lights in the theatre.

The stage is one of the most spacious in the provinces being 27 x 60 feet. There is a height of forty three feet from the stage floor to the rigging loft. There is a fly floor at a height of twenty two feet from the floor of the stage from which the scenery is hoisted and lowered.

There is a switchboard on the stage to regulate the lights there and the electric bells in the dressing rooms and on the fly floor. There will be connections for lights of three different colors. Altogether there will be about seventy five lights on the stage including the footlights. There is another switchboard in the ticket office to regulate the lights in the auditorium and main entrance.

There are two spacious dressing rooms, one on the left and the other on the right of the stage. The entrance for the companies opens from Roseberry street directly on to the stage and members of companies will have no access whatever to the auditorium. There is a large door on the north side of the stage for taking scenery in and out of the theatre.

In the basement under the stage there is a large orchestra room; also additional dressing rooms. There is a door here through which the fuel will be brought. The house will be heated by two large hot air furnaces both of which are located in the basement beneath the auditorium. Mr Dimock has obtained about

City and Moncton.

A company is now being organized for the purpose of establishing a daily newspaper in Campbellton. The company will take over the plant and good will of "Events" and issue the daily from this office. "Events" will in all likelihood be continued as a weekly serving the remoter sections of the field.

The organizers of the company hope to have everything in readiness to bring out the daily early in October. It will be a morning paper devoted to the interests of the counties of Northumberland, Gloucester and Restigouche in New Brunswick and Bonaventure and Gaspé in Quebec. Train connections will enable the daily to reach the principal points in these counties at an early hour each morning.

In politics the new paper will be liberal, many of its stockholders.

A meeting of the directors of Interprovincial Navigation Company was held here on Friday. There were present: David Richards, president; Joseph Boudreau, John Guite, of Maria; Thomas Enwright of Port Daniel; C. Sutton Leboutillier of Gaspé and J. X. Lavoie of Percé.

After the usual amount of routine business had been transacted the resignation of David Richards as president and as a director of the company was received. Mr. Richards, resignation was due to his inability to devote the necessary time to the affairs of the company. William Glover was elected president in place of Mr. Richards, but the vacancy on the directorate has not yet been filled. John Guite was elected vice-president as the result of Mr Glover's elevation to the presidency.

The directors decided not to proceed any further with the COMPANY PUSHING WORK.

Manager Says it will be the Finest Panoramic Road in Canada.

The Atlantic, Quebec & Western Railway will open the first two sections of their line for traffic tomorrow. The road is now completed from New Carlisle to Port Daniel, some 23 miles. Active operations are going on from Port Daniel to Gaspé Basin, 80 miles in extent. At L'Anse au Gascon there are one hundred men and teams at work, while operations will be started in a few days at Grand River, Cape Cove, and Gaspé Basin.

Tenders will soon be invited for the supply of ties, rails and the construction of bridges, and while these contracts will be awarded this fall, the whole line will be under construction by spring. At Port Daniel the company will begin at once tunnelling through Hell's Cape, some four hundred feet.

Mr Alphonse Lemieux, the manager of the Atlantic, Quebec & Western Railway, says this line, when completed, will be the finest panoramic road in the Dominion.

BOARD OF TRADE SAYS PROHIBIT EXPORT OF PULPWOOD TO STATES

Maritime Body Urges Government to Take Steps to Stop Export to the United States

OPINIONS OF OTHERS ON THE SUBJECT.

That the business men of the Maritime Provinces are heartily in favor of the adoption of a law prohibiting the exportation of pulpwood was clearly demonstrated at last evening's session of the Maritime Board of Trade when the following resolution, moved by W. B. Snowball of Chatham, and seconded by Mr. Ward of Kentville, passed unanimously:—

"Whereas it has been the policy of the federal government to encourage and promote manufactures within the bounds of the Dominion by duties sufficiently high to keep out foreign manufacture and by bounties to encourage the use of home raw material; and

"Whereas the federal government has expended large amounts to promote agriculture and to boom the western country and to encourage immigration from the mother land and foreign countries; and

"Whereas we have within the bounds of our eastern Canada as a natural product spruce pulpwood, capable of providing employment for a large number of our present people and for many who may come to find homes here at profitable wages, instead of going west, and thus people our eastern provinces; and

"Whereas this wood is being raised in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Quebec and being shipped in that state to the United States to keep their pulp mills running;

"Therefore resolved, that this Maritime Board of Trade is of the opinion that the exportation of pulpwood should be prohibited by the federal government"

Undoubtedly the sentiment of this country is in favor of the adoption of some measure which will prohibit the export of pulpwood. The House of Commons has already authorized an export duty which can be brought into force at any time by order-in-council, but it is doubtful if the duty is sufficiently high to either restrict or prohibit the export. The situation would be better met, in our opinion, by an absolute prohibition of the export and in view of the strong sentiment in favor of such a measure it seems only reasonable to expect that at an early session of parliament one will be introduced and passed. The Montreal Star thinks that an aggressive policy at Ottawa might remove the paper-making industry bodily to Canada.

HON WILLIAM PUGSLEY

The exportation of our pulpwood to the United States is a subject to which I have given considerable thought of late. There is no doubt that enormous benefits would result from a law prohibiting the exportation of American manufacturers of pulp and paper who now depend upon Canada to supply them with raw material would doubtless be compelled to establish mills on this side of the border. To my mind the pulpwood industry has even a greater future than is commonly supposed. Manufacturers have already commenced to make from pulp an article which few persons can distinguish from silk. This article serves the same purpose as silk and is now being sold extensively. Being much cheaper than silk it is already in great demand.

HON. JOHN P. BURCHILL

South Nelson, Aug. 15-07
To the Editor of Events:—
Speaking from a provincial standpoint, lumber being the main asset, and its manufacture our chief industry, the province and its people are entitled to all there is to be got out of it, both in its cutting and manufacture. If an export duty in rossed pulpwood

A London cable says. The Marconi Company announces that wireless messages to and from Canada have been accurately transmitted at an average rate of twenty-four words a minute.

Mr. Henry Miller returned to New York from Europe, Tuesday and with Miss Margaret Anglin, who arrived last Saturday, will resume their production of "The Great Divide" in Daly's Theatre on August 31. Miss Anglin will go to Australia next spring.

Velvet ribbon is much seen on light gowns for both day and evening wear, and there are endless charming ways of bringing it into play. With the little Dutch necks which are greatly in vogue for semi-evening frocks the velvet band is almost invariably a feature, plain, studded with jewels, or tied in straight little bows with an ornamental strap.

According to the Daily Mail George Bernard Shaw has had a narrow escape from drowning. He was swimming off Llanbedd with a friend when the current carried them away and prevented them from returning to the shore. After a long time they were landed on a distant sand bank, whence they were rescued.

That Evelyn Nesbit and her mother, Mrs. Charles J. Holman, have been reconciled in spite of denials from young Mrs. Thaw is assured at Pittsburgh and it is announced that it was Howard Nesbit who closed the negotiations and once more worked his way into the favor of his beautiful young sister.

Two lives were lost and five persons were injured, three seriously, as a result of the fire which, swept through Old Orchard, Maine, Thursday night, causing a loss of from half a million to three quarters of a million dollars. The dead: Philip Partridge, of Kennebunk, killed by locomotive while crossing track on way to fire; unidentified man.

An emphatic denial has been made from the home of Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw that she intends to leave New York. Persistent rumors have been sent from many parts of the country saying Mrs. Thaw was spending the summer there, or that she had taken quarters there and would leave New York, Nova Scotia and Pittsburgh were both claiming her Friday.

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper,

I'll stop your pain free. To show you first—before you spend a penny—what my Pink Pain Tablets can do, I will mail you free, a Trial package of them—Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets. Neuralgia, Headache, Toothache, Period pains, etc., are, due alone to blood congestion. Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets simply kill pain by coaxing away the unnatural blood pressure. That is all. Address Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. Sold by A. McG. McDonald.

Von Buelow and Sir Charles Hardinge, also had a long and earnest conversation and it is the general opinion that the results of the visit will be far reaching, and place the relations of Great Britain and Germany upon a better footing.

About 8.30 o'clock Friday morning William H. O'Brien, of Bathurst, met with a shocking accident at Beresford, seven miles from Bathurst. Mr. O'Brien runs a rotary mill at Beresford and while removing some sawdust out of the trimmer shaft his right arm was completely severed from the shoulder. The accident happened a few minutes before the local express was due and the injured man was brought to Bathurst. Dr. McNeill happened to be at the station with his automobile and with Dr. Michaud hurried the injured man to the town. Mr. O'Brien is in a very precarious condition from the shock and hemorrhage, but some hope is entertained for his recovery.

The docks of the Dominion Lumber Company, of Blind River Ontario and the lumber piled thereon were destroyed by fire during the early hours of Friday morning. About three million feet in all were burned, mostly pine which was owned by several companies. The total loss will likely amount to $100,000 but no details can be secured as to the amount of insurance held by the firms interested. A portion of the 500 fire brigade left on a special train, taking an engine to help fight the flames. Rain fell in torrents after the fire was checked, greatly relieving the anxiety of other lumbering firms.

Don't Use Greasy Liniments.

A century ago they were popular. Today people want something easy to apply, certain in results, and above all a clean liniment. When Nervine is applied aches and pains disappear as the pores absorb its soothing healing properties. Nervine penetrates to the core of the pain, eases instantly, and leaves no oily and smelly memory behind. Good to take in, capital to rub on, and five times more powerful in destroying pain than any oily liniment. Don't fail to get a large 25¢ bottle.

Finding of portions of a woman's clothing, torn and blood-smeared, on the outer end of the Santa Fe, Cal docks Friday night, and a wisp of women's hair lying nearby, clotted with blood, point to a tragedy. A woman's garter and a black leather purse were also found, in the latter was a note reading: "Dear May: Meet me tonight, old place at 8 P. M. If you do not, I will fix him and you both. Believe me, I am in dead earnest. So let my little sweetheart come. D. K." A line of blood spots led from the place where evidently there had been a struggle to the edge of the wharf, and this confirmed the belief that a woman had been murdered and the body thrown into the water. The authorities are investigating.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. You are actually weak heart in a hundred ways. It is almost always a little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the heart must continue to fail and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is also directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds up strength; it offers real, genuine heart help. If you would have strong hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

WOMAN'S WORLD

A GAME OF CROQUET.

YOU HORRID ELEANOR:

There's no doubt about it, I hate you! What right have you to my babies? How dared you ask for them? And why, oh, why was I weak enough to let them go?

The blessed kiddies have just been with you three days, but, already, between unwillingness to let Jack do his "money-grubbing" (as you basely call it) alone and an awful hollow pain around my heart that tempts me to fly to my dear boy and girl, behold your poor sister reduced to the verge of idiocy.

As I can't be happy, at least I'll be amused. I'm filling the vacuum in my life (vainly trying it, rather) with a round of entertaining. Thus do I hope to delude myself that life is worth living to a child-bereft parent.

As it's too warm for bridge we indulge in the wild excitement of croquet. Our long twilights permit playing for several hours after dinner.

You, if I mistake not, once bracketed croquet and solitary friends as fit candidates for a straight-jacket. Really, though, I've grown quite enamored of its mild excitement.

Firstly, it's better than a course of sermons for one's morals. Chesting is so painfully easy, while bumpiness and disputatiousness are such assets in the game that to be an honest, good-tempered player is a spiritual triumph.

With the new rules and greater distances between wickets, croquet takes a nice skill, too, if you do not aspire to be white-washed every round.

Then, it's about the one outdoor sport that admits of decent clothes. My eye for the picturesque, if nothing else, would make me an advocate of the "curate's pastime." It's such a consolation to know that in your filmy gown against a leafy back ground you are looking your best instead of a red-faced fright.

Why, this evening, Sally Grayson, Jack and I had a beautiful exciting game in what little Eleanor calls our "bestest downs."

I wish you could have seen Sallie's. It certainly was "a

WILL KISSING BE PROHIBITED

The Osculatory Process Denounced by Scientists as Extremely Dangerous—How the Danger Can be Removed.

A keen discussion is being carried on by some of the best scientists as to the danger and "crime" of kissing, led by Dr. Somers, Health Officer of Atlantic City, and Dr. Nalpas, of the Medical Faculty of Paris. They charge the kiss with spreading grippe, scarlet fever, measles, mumps, whooping cough, typhoid fever, diphtheria, erysipelas, meningitis, tuberculosis, and many infectious diseases. They suggest legislation on the subject, and the posting of notices in railway stations, street cars and other public places, but they say it would be useless to post them on verandahs, in cozy corners, porches, shady nooks, or moonlit lawns. They also propose compulsory legislation for methods of disinfection of the mouth and purifying the breath, especially with a view to the protection of the innocent babies who are particularly subject to infection. The greatest and most effective purifier and germ destroyer known to medical science for the mouth, throat and breath, as well as for the blood, stomach and lungs, is PSYCHINE, that triumph of the medical world that is attracting almost universal attention because of the wonderful results attending its use. One of its recent triumphs is told as a matter of experience in the following brief statement:

Dr. Bloom Co. I am sending you photo and testimonial here, with your great remedy PSYCHINE. Your remedies did wonders for me. I was about 20 years of age when I took PSYCHINE. The doctors had given me up as an incurable consumptive. My lungs and every organ of the body were terribly diseased and wasted. Friends and neighbors thought I'd never get better. But PSYCHINE saved me. My lungs have never bothered me since, and PSYCHINE is a permanent cure.

dream," and "you would so become it, mum," to quote old Bridget. It was of piqueable fabric in the new D. lift line, and would make a stunning house gown for next winter.

The skirt fitted quite smoothly at the top, each side of the front gored up ping to the knees over a white silk slip crossed by buttoned straps.

The waist actually had novel bretelles—a shaped strapped arrangement worn over a double blouse effect of clumsy lace—and a yoke and sleeves of white mull. The latter had ruffles of lace, the last two fitting tight around the elbow, instead of having a separate cuff.

I wore my white mull, embroidered in blue corollas and trimmed with point venise insertion. It's a beauty, if I do say it myself; the coloring is so unusual. The narrow panelled front, ending in an embroidered sounce, has a curved band of plain blue around the bottom, it's scallops outlined with narrow white soutache loops. This band is bordered by insertion, which also edges the Dutch neck.

The blouse is fascinating with straps, shoulder lapes, belt and sleeve medallions in the blue embroidery.

I'm expecting great use of this frock for house wear and informal dinners in the fall, so I really must be careful not to trail it over the grass in many more croquet games.

If this is to go in tonight's mail you must be deprived of further dissertation on your bete-noire.

Do, do, do take good care of my babies. (I know you will, only I'm one of those fussers who Fra Libertas decrees "should be side-stepped"), and write me every day how they are.

The painful fact is, I know they are not missing their fond parents one wee bit; children are such soulless little animals. Well, give them both innumerable hugs from Their mournful mother, MADGE.

All shades of purple and lavender will be much used in the early fall millinery.

Guimpe and jumper dresses of gingham, plaid gingham, chambray and wool mixtures continue popular for school wear.

For afternoon gowns the daintily checked voiles in two-toned effects are exceptionally attractive when fashioned with a garniture of silk which gives them body.

Pretty sashes and bretelles for party dresses are made of narrow ribbons, alternating with insertion of the same width. They are edged with tiny ruches of lace.

Smocking is gradually returning to favor although it is not very practical for washable materials, but for such fabrics as may be dry-cleaned satisfactorily, it is always pretty.

Many of the sleeves show bewitching puffs above the elbows, with a cuff binding it just below. This in turn is supplemented by odd little lace cuffs, which reach quite half way down the forearm.

The fad for self-trimming continues and the smartest of the newest designs, not only in tailored, but in the more formal costumes show as much of a preference as ever for this style of trimming.

Walking suits are plain. Even the folds around the skirts are gradually disappearing on the newest designs. The new circular skirt seems to be adaptable to very little variety in walking costumes.

For street wear young girls will wear semi-fitting three-quarter-length coats with pleated and plain skirts. Heavy gloves in tan or gray, hats very simply trimmed, and perky bows are all the adjuncts needed for a correctly gowned schoolgirl.

The most exclusive of French modistes are narrowing the skirts around the bottom and, in fact, making them to cling more closely to the figure below the hips than they have been doing. The change is being made almost imperceptibly.

A SPLENDID ACHIEVEMENT

When Mr Robinson took the reins of government the opposition press of the province, prominent among which are the Moncton Times, Fredericton Gleaner and St John Globe made frantic efforts to convince the people that he had commenced to drive a played out old nag. In other words they argued in a style, peculiarly their own, that his predecessors in office had so mismanaged the affairs of the province as to leave it hopelessly bankrupt. The credit of the province was rotten, they said. Mr Robinson would find it impossible to obtain a loan at any price. Then in a very short time they got into their noddles that the premier had sought to negotiate a loan but had failed. Countless effusions of the I-told-you-so brand followed. Every day their readers were told that Mr Robinson was up against it good and hard. But the premier was wise and said nothing. He knew, however, that he would soon be able to give an effective answer to his captious critics. The opportunity for him to do so came on Monday when he completed negotiations with the Bank of Montreal to borrow from that institution $1,150,000 at a rate of interest which will be slightly less than five per cent. This is a splendid achievement in view of the fact that money is extremely tight. Cities and corporations with security quite as good as that of this province have been unable to obtain it at any price. We didn't really expect that Mr Robinson would be quite so successful. The province has been paying six per cent interest on its temporary loan and we fancied it was well nigh impossible to obtain money at the present time at a cheaper rate. Obviously the large banking institutions of the country have unbounded faith in the future of the province and in the gentlemen who are administering its affairs. This is the first opportunity the new premier has had to show what is in him and he has certainly covered himself with glory. One would naturally suppose that Mr Robinson's achievement would dismay the opposition press but it doesn't. They are using all sorts of fallacious arguments to show that the premier has made a frightfully bad bargain, so bad in fact that it will result in the ruination of the province. As falsifiers and distorters of facts, they take the bun. Nothing short of annihilation would face them.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Says the St. John Globe: "At a ball game at Diamond Park, Toronto, on Saturday afternoon there was an exhibition of rowdism which was discreditable. 'Did anyone ever hear of an exhibition of rowdism which was not discreditable?'"

The local paper should be found in every home. No child should grow up without becoming familiar with its columns. It is the stepping stone to intelligence in all matters not to be found in books. Give your children a foreign paper which contains not a word about any person, place or thing which they have ever seen or even heard of and how can you expect them to be interested. But let them have the home paper and read of people whom they meet and of places with which they are familiar and soon an interest is awakened which increases with every arrival of the local paper. Thus a habit of reading is formed which will not easily be broken. Boys and girls will grow up to be intelligent men and women, a credit to their ancestors and strong in a knowledge of the conditions around and about them.

It is a scandalous shame the way some of the St. John papers are treating the American consul at that port. The St. John Common Council, a body made notorious for its ignorance and inefficiency by the St. John press, gave a dinner the other day to Earl Grey, governor general of Canada. Shortly before the dinner was served the United States consul, who was one of the invited guests, inspected the seating arrangements at the tables. He discovered that the seat allotted to him was further from that of the guest of honor than should have been the seat of the representative of the United States and quite properly withdrew. That would have been the end of the matter had not the newspapers of St. John heard of it and published it under flaming headlines. Some of the newspapers not content with this attempted to heap ridicule and reproach upon the Consul in their editorial columns and make a monkey of him generally. It may safely be assumed that this boorish treatment of the United States Consul won't lose him any friends among the intelligent classes of St. John.

Cape Breton County has decided by a substantial majority to repeal the Scott Act. That the decision of the electors of the County of Cape Breton will have any effect on the amount of liquor consumed in that county in the future is absurd. Under a license system there will probably be about the same number of saloons in the County as at present. A license law isn't going to give Cape Breton any more opportunities to drink "booze" than they enjoy at present and always have enjoyed, for that matter. The Scott Act is a farce in Cape Breton, as it is in most counties. That is no reflection on the law, but rather on the people of the communities in which it is tried. The Scott Act is as good as any other law, if enforced. But the trouble is there are too many people who do not want to see it enforced, and no law can be carried out when a large percentage of the people encourage its violation. The only difference so far discernable between a license system and the Scott Act is that the former exacts a license fee while the latter imposes periodical fines.

TALES OF THE TOWN

A North Shore game warden was out walking in the woods the other day when he met a hunter with a gun.

The warden remarked that there ought to be pretty good shooting in that section.

"It certainly is," said the hunter proudly. "I killed one of the finest bucks today, I ever saw and he weighed over 200 pounds."

"Well, that is a fine one," said the warden, "and do you know who you are talking to?"

Being assured that he did not the officer said:

"Why I am the chief game warden in these parts."

The hunter was only taken back a moment when he said:

"And do you know who you are talking to?" The warden did not know.

"Well sir," said the hunter, apparently relieved, "you are talking to the biggest liar in the whole country."

Hugh Long arrested on a warrant for fighting on the I. C. R. track here was fined $8. by Magistrate Matheson.

There ought to be some rare sport at Bathurst on Labor Day. A fine field of horses has entered for the races and the contests will likely be close and exciting.

Three Sunday drunks were fined $6 each Monday morning. The Chief of Police has issued orders to his men to arrest all persons found intoxicated on the streets on Sunday.

The Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Ottawa preached last Sunday at the Parish Church, Riviere du Loup and was assisted in the service by the Rev. Prof. H. F. Hamilton, M. A. B. D., and the Rev. A. J. Vibert the incumbent.

Hon. Wm. Pugsley, Canada's next minister of railways enjoyed a few hours salmon fishing on the waters' out on Mr. Malcolm's International railway when he was up here last week. Mr. Pugsley caught three splendid salmon one of which weighed nineteen pounds.

Norris & Rowe's circus, which has been spending the greater part of this season on a successful tour of the Canadian Northwest, is to come to the province the last of this month, and will remain in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick until the middle of September.

Chief of Police Gray says the weather has a good deal to do with regulating the number of drunks in this town. Last month when it rained almost constantly the average was exceedingly high, but this month which is quite fine compared with last month the number of drunks is not nearly so great as that for the same period last month. He says the fine weather induces men to pursue other pleasures.

J. J. Wallace, who has been in the Canadian railway service for the past forty three years, during a large part of which he was general freight agent for the Intercolonial at Moncton, has retired from the service. Mr. Wallace will leave in a few days for the Far West, and intends to spend the leisure section of his life on a fruit farm at Summerland in the famous Okanagan Valley.

M. Vanbuskirk, proprietor of the Eureka Hotel, Harcourt, John Fearon, lumberman, of Bass River, John Robinson, merchant, Wm. Fahey, lumberman, and Geo. Robinson, hotel keeper, Bathurst have formed a company to develop a coal property in Gloucester county. A seam of three feet of solid coal was found fourteen feet below the surface and another seam about sixty feet deep. The seams were struck about seventy feet from the outcropping on the river. Mr. Fearon has been appointed foreman with instructions to hire men and develop the property. The company have no doubt but they have the coal and the indications give them good cause for their belief.

The pity of people at the I. C. R. depot at St. John was aroused one day last week by the manner in which an unfortunate lunatic, bound from Bathurst to the Provincial Asylum was treated by the two constables who had him in charge. The unfortunate man was young, and not at all violent. Nevertheless, his legs were bound together by a heavy rope, and his arms pinioned behind his back in the same way. From the bonds on his arms another long rope was attached, which one of the guards held constantly, and when the fettered lunatic crawled any distance above the floor, or station platform, he was roughly jerked back. As the man did not appear violent, Officer Perry ordered the men in charge to remove the ropes from his legs at any rate. At first the guards refused, but Officer Perry insisted, and his orders were finally obeyed. The young man was then allowed to walk around, and was quite inoffensive.

Referring to the affairs of the Sovereign Bank, Investor in Toronto Saturday Night says:—The general manager, Stewart, is summing up at Dalhousie. Those who imagine that he is in the down and out class have not guessed rightly. He will make the prediction that Mr. Stewart will again be at the head of a Canadian bank. He made mistakes; he made losses—but what banker has not? Stewart has not squandered. There is one big loss attributed to him that really is a baby of the directorate. It was born during Mr. Stewart's absence. Time, says a friend of Mr. Stewart, will justify his judgment, by proving the value of certain assets now written down to the loss account. It was not the mistakes and the losses that ended his career in the Sovereign; it was the inveterate opposition of the other bank managers. They hated his enterprise, his push, his democratic methods, his disregard of the etiquette that puts bankers in the "tens" class. Stewart, however, he remembered, has put banking methods in Canada on a new and more advanced plane.

A. J. Young and Ensign Fynn will give a stereopticon concert at Flatlands on the 26th. The subjects will be the same as those which made such a hit at Glenlivet. Two hours of profitable pleasure are in store for the people of Flatlands.

Henry B. Williams, the colored porter on the I. C. R., arrested the other day by Inspector Noble of Campbellton appeared for examination, Friday at Montreal. He was charged with having robbed passengers on an Intercolonial train on August 2, last. Although when arrested the detective found in his possession nineteen pawntickets, the prosecution for the Crown decided to make only three specific charges against him for stealing from Mrs. O'Leary $25, from Mrs. Fleming $5, and from Mr. Pope $7. The three witnesses declared that they had been robbed but they did not know by whom. Mrs. Chas. Allan, of 96 Ontario street, Montreal, with whom the accused boarded said that when the accused left her house on the evening of August 2, he owed her $4.50 for the rent of his room. He promised to pay the witness when he returned from his trip. Mr. E. Gagnon, stationmaster at Cacuna said the accused came to his wicket on August 3 and asked him to accept twenty $1 bills for the $20 bill. The witness did not have it but in exchange he gave him two new $10 bills. The accused pleaded not guilty and was remanded to Court of King's Bench for trial.

The little village of New Richmond was grief-stricken on Sunday when it became known that Miss S. Langwell, a visitor to the place, had lost her life as the result of a runaway. Miss Langwell was the guest of her sister Mrs. R. H. Montgomery. Early Sunday afternoon Mr. Montgomery started to drive his wife and Miss Langwell down to see a field of hay. They had gone but a short distance when the horse took fright and bolted. The occupants of the carriage were thrown and Mrs. Montgomery was only slightly bruised, but it was seen that Miss Langwell was seriously injured. She was removed to a neighboring house and a doctor summoned. Miss Langwell had received internal injuries, however and she lived only a few hours. The remains were brought to Campbellton Monday on the Lady Ellen and placed on board the Limited for Montreal. About a week ago Miss Langwell was the guest of Mrs. Wm. Montgomery, Dalhousie. She has spent many summers in this section and was highly esteemed. She belonged to one of the most prominent families of St. Jerome P. Q.

On the invitation of Max Mowat, a party numbering about twenty ladies and gentlemen spent several delightful hours, Tuesday evening on the Matapedia. The day was refreshingly cool with the breeze from the east. The party left here on the 7.30 train and landed at Assamagueish station. They dropped their canoes into the water a short distance below the station and paddled slowly to Kennedy's siding where an abundance of good eatables were placed before them. Some fishing was indulged in and a few beauties landed in time for dinner. After dinner the party paddled to Mann's Rock, a couple of miles above Matapedia where tea was served at 6 o'clock. The party left for home by train at 7 o'clock voting the day a most pleasant and profitable one and Mr. Mowat a splendid host. The river is rather high at the present time and as a consequence the canoeing is excellent. Still it is necessary to keep a sharp lookout for hidden rocks which may at any time bring one to grief. There was just sufficient excitement from this cause on Tuesday to add a little spice to the day's outing. The party had intended running the Assamagueish Falls, a couple of miles below Kennedy's siding, but they found them to be rather dangerous so they dropped their canoes over instead. To parties taking a similar trip it would not be advisable to go by the 7.30 train as they would be very apt to be stalled on the way for hours at a time and consequently not reach the water until an hour when they should be on their way home. The earlier train is the one to take. Those who enjoyed the outing on Tuesday were: Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Lingley, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McKenzie, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Mott, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. MacKendrick, Prof. and Mrs. Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Max Mowat, Mr. and Mrs. James Morton, Glen Mowat, James McDonald, Capt. Crossley, Will Mott, Fred Kerr, Mrs. Costello, Mrs. Benedict, and Mrs. Herdman.

The cinder sidewalk on Water Street should be filled in and properly graded. At present whenever it rains the water collects and has no chance to run off.

Two men, who were wanted by the police for fighting on Andrew St., on August 12th appeared Saturday before Magistrate Matheson, admitted their guilt and were fined $8 each.

A new plank sidewalk has been laid on Water street between Prince Wm and Queen streets. Sidewalks in other sections of the town also demand the attention of the civic authorities. In some sections they are positively dangerous.

A resident of Campbellton who spent Sunday at Escuminac states that the hay crop in that section is excellent. The farmers are now busy placing it in the barns. The grain and oat crops he says, are ahead of last year. This is somewhat surprising in view of the almost continuous wet weather.

Jack met his gaze. They were still wonderfully alike, these two men, though one was in his prime while the other was infirm. On each face there was the stamp of a long drawn silent pride. Each was a type of those haughty conquerors who stepped, mail clad, on England's shores 800 years ago. Form and feature, mind and heart, had been handed down from father to son, as great types are.

"One may have the right feeling and bestow it by mistake on the wrong person," said Jack.

Sir John's fingers were at his lips. "Yes," he said rather indistinctly, "while the right person is waiting for it."

Jack looked up sharply, as if he either had not heard or did not understand.

"While the right person is waiting for it," repeated Sir John deliberately.

"The right person?"

"Jocelyn Gordon," explained Sir John, "is the right person."

Jack shrugged his shoulders and leaned back so that the firelight did not shine upon his face. "So I found out eighteen months ago," he said, "when it was too late."

"There is no such thing as too late for that," said Sir John in his great wisdom. "Even if you were both quite old it would not be too late. I have known it longer than you. I found it out two years ago."

Jack looked across the room into the keen, worldly wise old face.

"How?" he inquired.

"From her. I found it out the moment she mentioned your name. I conducted the conversation in such a manner that she had frequently to say it, and whenever your name crossed her lips she gave herself away."

"Moreover," continued Sir John, "I maintain it is not too late."

There followed a silence. Both men seemed to be wrapped in thought, the same thoughts with a difference of forty years of life in the method of thinking them.

"I could not go to her with a lame story like that," said Jack. "I told her all about Millicent."

"It is just a lame story like that that women understand," answered Sir John. "When I was younger I thought as you do. I thought that a man must needs bring a clean slate to the woman he asks to be his wife. It is only his hands that must be clean. Women see deeper into these mistakes of ours than we do. They see the good of them where we only see the wound to our vanity. Sometimes one would almost be inclined to think that they prefer a few mistakes in the past because it makes the present surer. That romance is a different thing from ours. It is a better thing, deeper and less selfish. They can wipe the slate clean and never look at it again. And the best of them rather like the task."

Jack made no reply. Sir John Meredith's chin was resting on his vest necktie. He was looking with falling eyes into the fire. He spoke like one who was sure of himself—confident in his slowly accumulated store of that knowledge which is not written in books.

"Will you oblige me?" he asked.

Jack moved in his chair, but he made no answer. Sir John did not indeed expect it. He knew his son too well.

"Will you," he continued, "go out to Africa and take your lame story to Jocelyn—just as it is?"

There was a long silence. The old worn-out clock on the mantelpiece wheezed and struck 6.

"Yes," answered Jack at length, "I will go."

Sir John nodded his head with a sigh of relief. All, indeed, comes to him who waits.

"I have seen a good deal of life," he said suddenly, arousing himself and sitting upright in the stiff backed chair, "here and there in the world, and I have found that the happiest people are those who began by thinking that it was too late. The romance of youth is only fit to write about in books. It is too delicate a fabric for everyday use. It soon wears out or gets torn."

Jack did not seem to be listening.

"But," continued Sir John, "you must not waste time. If I may suggest it, you will do well to go at once."

"Yes," answered Jack. "I will go in a month or so. I should like to see you in a better state of health before I leave you."

Sir John pulled himself together. He threw back his shoulders and stiffened his neck.

"My health is excellent," he replied sturdily. "Of course I am, beginning to feel my years a little, but one must expect to do that after—er—sixty. Over it."

He made a little movement of the hands.

"No," he went on, "the sooner you go the better."

"I do not like leaving you," persisted Jack.

Sir John laughed rather testily.

"That is rather absurd," he said. "I am accustomed to being left. I have always lived alone. You will do me a favor if you will go now and take your passage out to Africa."

"Now—this evening?"

"Yes. At once. The offices close about half past 6, I believe. You will just have time to do it before dinner."

Jack rose and went toward the door. He went slowly, almost reluctantly.

"Do not trouble about me," said Sir John. "I am accustomed to being left."

He repeated it when the door had closed behind him.

The fire was low again. It was almost dying. The daylight was fading every moment. The cinders fell together with a crumbling sound, and a grayness crept into their glowing depths. The old man sitting there made no attempt to add fresh fuel.

"An accustomed," he said, with a half cynical smile, "to being left."

CHAPTER XXV.

THEY tell me, sir, that Miss Marie—that is, Miss Dur-nov—has gone back to her people at Sierra Leone."

Thus spoke Joseph to his master one afternoon in March, not so many years ago. They were on board the steamer Bogamayo, which good vessel was pounding down the west coast of Africa at her best speed. The captain reckoned that he would be anchored at Loango by half past 7 or 8 o'clock that evening. There were only seven passengers on board, and dinner had been ordered an hour earlier for the convenience of the crew.

Joseph was packing his master's clothes in the spacious cabin allotted to him. The owners of the steamer had thought it would be well to make the master of the steamer as comfortable as circumstances allowed. The noise of that great drug had directed toward the west coast of Africa that floating scene of no-did-well-on which is ever on the alert for some new land of promise.

"Who told you that?" asked Jack, drying his hands on a towel.

"One of the stewards, sir, a man that was laid up at Sierra Leone in the hospital."

Jack Meredith paused for a moment before going on deck. He looked out through the open porthole toward the blue shadow on the horizon, which was Africa, a country that he had never seen three years before and which had all along been destined to influence his whole life.

"It was the best thing she could do," he said. "It is to be hoped that she will be happy."

"Yes, sir, it is. She deserves it, if that goes for anything in the heavenly reckoning. She's a fine woman; a good woman, that, sir."

"Yes."

Joseph was folding a shirt very carefully.

"A bit dusky," he said, smoothing out the linen folds reflectively, "but I shouldn't have minded that if I had been a marryin' man, but I'm not."

He laid the shirt in the portmanteau and looked up. Jack Meredith had gone on deck.

While Maurice and Jocelyn Gordon were still at dinner that same evening a messenger came, announcing the arrival of the Bogamayo in the roads. This news had the effect of curtailing the meal. Maurice Gordon was liable to be called away at any moment thus by the arrival of a steamer. It was not long before he rose from the table and lighted a cigar preparatory to going down to his office, where the captain of the steamer was by this time probably awaiting him. It was a full moon, and the glorious golden light of the equatorial night shone through the high trees like a new dawn. Hardly a star was visible; even those of the southern hemisphere pale beside the southern moon.

Maurice Gordon crossed the open space of cultivated garden and plunged into the black shadow of the forest. His footsteps were inaudible. Suddenly he ran almost into the arms of a man.

"Who the devil is that?" he cried.

"Meredith," answered a voice.

"Meredith—Jack Meredith, is that you?"

"Yes."

"Well, I'm blowed," exclaimed

Maurice Gordon, shaking hands: "like-wise glad. What brought you out here again?"

"Oh, pleasure," replied Jack, with his face in the shade.

"Pleasure? You've come to the wrong place for that. However, I'll let you find that out for yourself. Go on to the bungalow. I'll be back in less than an hour. You'll find Jocelyn on the veranda."

When Maurice left her Jocelyn went out into the veranda. It was the beginning of the hot season. At midday the sun on his journey northward no longer cast a shadow. Jocelyn could not go out in the daytime at this period of the year. For fresh air she had to rely upon a long, dreamy evening in the veranda.

She sat down in her usual chair while the moonlight, red and glowing, made a pattern on the floor and on her white dress with the shadows of the creepers. The sea was very loud that night, rising and falling like the breath of some huge sleeping creature.

Jocelyn Gordon fell into a reverie. Life was very dull at Loango. There was too much time for thought and too little to think about. This girl had only the past, and her past was all comprised in a few months—the few months still known at Loango as the simian year. She had lapsed into a bad habit of thinking that her life was over, that the daylight of it had waned and that there was nothing left now but the gray remainder of the evening. She was wondering now why it had all come, why there had been any daylight at all. Above these thoughts she wondered why the feeling was still in her heart that Jack Meredith had not gone out of her life forever. There was no reason why she should ever meet him again. He was, so far as she knew, married to Millicent Chyne more than a year ago, although she had never seen the announcement of the wedding. He had drifted into Loango and into her life by the merest accident, and now

DAVID RICHARDS
Campbellton, Aug. 16, 07.

To the Editor of Events:—

I certainly think that a heavy export duty should be placed on all roused pulpwood shipped out of this country.

F. W. SUMNER
Moncton, Aug. 16, 07.

To the Editor of Events:—

Would say that at the present time I do not consider it wise to place an export duty on pulpwood, until the matter is more thoroughly considered. Later on it may be found better to prohibit the exportation on the basis that it should be manufactured here.

MAYOR MONTGOMERY, DALHOUSIE.

Dalhousie, Aug. 20.

To the Editor of Events:—

I certainly think that an export duty on pulpwood would have beneficial results for all the wooded sections of Canada and would bring a lot of American capital to these and other sections of Canada to build and operate pulp mills and give employment to thousands of Canadians as well as give the farmers a market at home for all the soft wood on their farms. There should also be some steps taken to offset the
