THE CROPS.

THE HARVEST—AN ESTIMATE OF THE YIELD. The late rains have proved a Godsend to the speculators and monopolists who seek to bolster up prices by creating an alarm; but they will happily be disappointed, as we perceive from our various exchanges, that the damage done to the crops has been very slight, and that on the whole the harvest will be superabundant. Mr. George Peabody of London, is said, but surely falsely, to have lent himself to the alarmists by the assertion, that Europe will require the whole of our surplus produce notwithstanding the notoriety of the fact that the harvest there appears as plentiful as here.

"From reliable data we show that Illinois alone will produce this year sixteen millions of bushels of wheat, or nearly one-tenth of the whole crop of the country. Ohio, twenty millions; Indiana twelve millions; these three States producing more than one fourth of the whole."

An estimate is given of the growth of wheat in the different States and territories in 1855, as compared with 1847 and 1850, and with the following result:—Total 1847, 114,245,500 bushels; 1850, 1,047,150 bushels; and 1855, 175,200,000 bushels. These estimates indicate a product of 75 per cent. beyond that of 1850—or 175,000,000 in the aggregate. If we allow 3 1-2 bushels of wheat per head, or one hundred millions of bushels for home consumption, we shall then have on hand for export or for future stock about 75,000,000.

In certain States, the increase this year, from 1850, will not be less than 120 per cent. The deficiency in New England and some of the Southern States, who do not grow so much as they consume, is estimated at 12,456,000 bushels. In the other States the excess produced over the quantity consumed is estimated at 9,600,000 bushels. For seed and stock twenty millions is set apart, and we are then shown a surplus for export of 64,150,000 bushels. Texas and Oregon produce a much greater number of bushels to the acre than any of the other principal wheat growing States.—Boston Evening Traveller.

TESTIMONIALS TO NEALE DOW.

At the close of the late Maine State Conference of Congregationalists, at Portland, a grand Temperance Meeting was held in Rev. Dr. Dwight's Church. Hon. Neal Dow was called to preside. After several earnest speeches by different clergymen, it was announced that by the liberality of a gentleman of Portland, Hon. Neal Dow had been constituted a Life Member of the Women's Friend Society. The Agents of the American Tract Society then came forward, and announced that by similar generous donations, Mr. Dow had also been constituted a Life Member of their respective societies. The audience was agreeably entertained by the pleasant episode in the proceedings. It is cheering to observe that while Neal Dow has been malignantly assailed by venal pressmen and unscrupulous partisans, who have sought to destroy him, his good name has grown brighter.—American Temperance Union.

RENTS IN CALIFORNIA.—A letter writer from San Francisco, thus speaks of the fall in the prices of real estate in that city; and the consequent reduction in the incomes of its owners:—"The enormous incomes of some real estate holders have dwindled down at a most rapid and fearful rate, and, though already small, continue to become beautifully less." I am now moving into a house at $40 per month, which four months since readily brought $115 per month, and 'fancy rents' have declined at even a greater ratio. The United States' bonded warehouses, for which $6000 per month was originally paid, would not at this moment command one-fourth of that rate; and under a clause in the lease, which provides for a re-valuation of the rent every two years, by disinterested persons, will no doubt at the next biennial valuation, if proper attention is paid to the matter by the Government officials, be reduced accordingly.

KARL HARTMANN
A STORY OF THE CRIMEA.

The following day, the Sassy Gipsy dropped her anchor in Yalta roadstead; and after the brig had been hoisted and manœuvred by an inferior crew of officials, we were visited by a sort of amphibious officer, inasmuch as, although a seaman by profession, as he told us, he wore a soldier's uniform, and called himself Major Kriloff. A civil sort of person the major proved to be, after satisfying himself of the genuineness of our nationality, and the legitimacy of our purpose in visiting the Czar's dominions. That civility grew instantly to graciousness, when he was shown the letter to Prince Menschikoff, with the wax impressed by Mr Brown's official signet. There would, he said, be some difficulty in obtaining an interview with his excellency, who was just then incessantly occupied in marshalling the imperial forces for the signal chastisement of the scurrilous Allies of the Turk; but every consideration, consistent with the military and police regulations, would meanwhile be shown to a gentleman officially commended to the prince by the representative of a great, friendly power. 'The delay will not be very long,' added the major; 'for his excellency will quickly finish with the sedulous invaders should they, which I think doubtful, be mad enough to set foot upon Russian territory.'

Captain Brystone, who understood French very well, though he did not speak it, gave a sarcastic snuff at hearing this; and I assured the major there was little doubt that the Allies really meant landing in the Crimea, and shortly too. 'So much the better,' he briskly replied; 'they come to their graves!—though not in one sense, for we shall toss them like dead dogs into the sea.' 'I shall be glad to see you,' he said, 'in a bumper of champagne emblematically at the same time.' 'The French,' continued the major, 'kindling with the subject, 'the heroic children of the Czar chased before them like sheep in 1812; and a very intelligent countryman of yours assures me, that the English soldiers will be panic-stricken at the mere sight of our invincible veterans!'

'A countryman of ours?' 'Yes; that is, a naturalized American, though a German by descent—a most intelligent person, I assure you. He has given me a lively description of your famous battle of New Orleans, where he tells me, General Jackson, with only about fourteen hundred American militia, put to rout a whole host—upwards of twenty thousand English regulars—though posted behind walls of cotton bales! He himself was a very young drummer-boy at the time, and helped to beat the advance at the decisive bayonet-charge. His name is Karl Hartmann. Perhaps you know him.'

'Well!' exclaimed Brystone, as soon as he could fetch breath—'no was quite gone—and bringing his fist down upon the table with tremendous force—'well! if that don't bang Barnum, I'll be—'

The major, not understanding English, evidently mistook the captain's words and action for a vehement confirmation of Karl Hartmann's bulletins of the battle, for he immediately said: 'I am happy to find you can corroborate my friend's statement. One of the most agreeable, gentlemanlike men I have ever met with is Karl Hartmann, and an aid-de-camp of Russia and her glorious emperor. He has been confined to his hotel by a slight indisposition for the last five or six days, or I should have endeavoured to bring him with me; but as you, Mr Henderson, are going on shore with me, I shall have much pleasure in presenting you to each other.'

'Thank you, Major Kriloff, but Mr Hartmann and I are old acquaintances. I shall be very glad to see him, let me add.'

Karl Hartmann's indisposition, as I suspected, was a mere pretence, except in so far that an unexpected incident had in some slight degree shaken his steel-strung nerves. 'The truth is, my dear Mark,' said he, with an effort at familiar frankness, as soon as we had shaken hands—'for in future there must be no concealments between you and me—that I chanced to meet a fellow the other evening who, I thought, was a thousand miles away. Had he recognized me as I did him, and my revolver had not put in effectual ball for its owner, as I dare say it might have done, I should have been strung up in a tree to the nearest tree; or, had he chanced to be in a very gracious mood, have been despatched to the other world with military honours—viz., a close volley and a dozen bullets through my head.'

'Nonsense! This must be a reckless, extravagant jest, like your drummer-boy doings at the battle of New Orleans.'

He laughed out, the light merry laugh of a light-hearted merry boy. 'Krilloff has told you of that already, has he! Well, he is one in authority here; it was desirable to win his favour, and I have succeeded in doing so to admiration, by simply humouring his prejudices. But as to the rencontre I was speaking of, and its possible consequences, all that is true as doom.'

'What crime, then, have you committed, or been charged with?' 'None whatever! I mean no moral crime—none against the military code only. It thus fell out: You are aware that I once held the czar's commission?'

'No; but I have heard that Dalzell did.'

'I served in the same regiment with Dalzell, and he and I were not only boon-friends and brother-officers, but, in conjunction with one Basil Ypsilanti, a wealthy Greek, brother-contractors. We were stationed in Besarabia at the time, and both knowing something of military engineering, we, after much ado, obtained a contract for some extensive works connected with the defences of Ismail. The affair wound up disastrously, Ypsilanti, whose name did not appear in the business, having cheated us outrageously in the purchase of materials. This was very certain of us that we had life and breath, but legal proof thereof was difficult; and one of the consequences was, that General Korkusoff, meeting me one day about a mile outside of Ismail, called me, after asking a few questions, "an accroc." He was on horseback, and accompanied by an officer of his staff—the man I met the other evening. I also was on horseback. Now, in my mildest mood, I could hardly have tamely borne being called a cheat; but at that moment my brain was in a whirl of fiery excitement from wine and loss by play; and the offensive epithet had scarcely left the general's lips, when I answered it by a fi-ree stroke across his face with a stout riding-whip, followed by a shower of blows, which, aided by astonishment at the incredible audacity of such an attack, deprived him of all power of resistance. The aide-de-camp was at first equally stupefied and paralysed, but presently rallying his stunted senses, he drew his sword, and rode at me, shouting, as he did so, to an infantry picket not far off. I parried his thrust, and returned it by a blow on his head that must have set it ringing for some time, and to diverse tunes; then set spurs to my horse, and, being capably mounted, went off like the wind. I escaped, and found my way to America, where I read in the Journal de la Russie that, as usual with deserters, I had been tried in my absence by court-martial, and condemned to death, "most infamante," which in the vulgar is our per col. You think, no doubt," he added, "that I must be crazy to come here under such circumstances; and perhaps it was an act of madness; but something, I thought, might be trusted to the fact, that the corps to which I belonged is now stationed in Poland; to the change produced in my appearance by difference of years, dress, the absence of beard, moustaches, and so on. Besides, the inveterate gambler ever delights in le grand jeu, though the stake be his own life.'

'Yes, I can understand that, when the possibility is in some degree commensurate with the possible loss; but in the present case, you hazard your life for positively nothing—as regards yourself?'

'May be so; but the cards are dealt, and the game must be played out. And now to other and more pressing topics. Gabriel Derjwin, half-Tartar, half-Russian—Ypsilanti's executor and trustee—is, I find, a much greater rascal than I had supposed, and I allowed a wide margin too. He will give us plenty of trouble, if nothing worse. He is now, I believe, at Simferopol; and there or elsewhere we must seek, find, and try conclusions with him. Your aunt, Mrs Dalzell, and her daughter, are lately gone, he tells me, and by his advice, to reside for a time in Sebastopol.'

'Sebastopol! To a place about to be besieged—perhaps stormed!'

'An entirely absurd supposition, my good young man,' replied Hartmann, with an explosion of bitter mirth. 'A grand council of war has been held, at which the programme of the coming campaign has been definitively settled. It runs thus: The Allies are to be permitted to leave the safe security of their ships, to find their presumptuous march arrested before one of the formidable positions in the environs of Sebastopol, whence hurried back, disembowelled, overthrown, smothered by the Russian hosts, all those who escape the sword will be drowned in the sea; a modern illustration, according to a printed address, signed by the archimandrite of Odessa, of the catastrophe which in ancient times overtook swine possessed of devils. Of course, the unsavoury similitude offends your British olfactories—well, on the father's side at any rate, if not on the mother's; but it is not the less certain for all that—but dinner is served, and Major Kriloff impatient to fall in. Come along, Master Henderson.'

'What crime, then, have you committed, or been charged with?' 'None whatever! I mean no moral crime—none against the military code only. It thus fell out: You are aware that I once held the czar's commission?'

'No; but I have heard that Dalzell did.'

'I served in the same regiment with Dalzell, and he and I were not only boon-friends and brother-officers, but, in conjunction with one Basil Ypsilanti, a wealthy Greek, brother-contractors. Who is General Simpson?—General Simpson is a native of Roxburghshire, and was until lately, proprietor of the pretty little estate of Teviotbank, near Hawick, as also was his late father. His grandfather was minister of the parish of Wilton, and many will remember his uncle, the colleague of the late Dr. Branton, of the Tron Church, Edinburgh. He is married to a daughter of the late Robert Dundas of Dunera, and our member of Parliament.—Border Advertiser.

Mr. Macaulay has completed two more volumes of his 'History of England' which are announced for immediate publication by Messrs. Longman.

ROBBERIES IN ITALY.—A letter from Bologna of the 27th June, states, that so great is the number of robbers and desperadoes at present overrunning that part of Italy, that the Cardinal Bishop Balluffi never goes out on his ecclesiastical duties without being escorted by eight dragoons.

EXCUSES FOR DRINKING.—Of four men who recently, at the Manchester Police Court, England, were successfully convicted of drunkenness and disorderly conduct on Sunday, the first pleaded that he had been to a funeral, the second that he had been to a wedding, and the last two that they had been to a christening.

THE VICTIMS.—The Paris Moniteur announces officially, that the number of soldiers fallen on the field of battle, or who have died in the hospitals, amounts for the army of the East, from the 1st of June, 1854, to the 1st July, 1855, to only 14,205 men—rather few, since the English acknowledge a loss of 25,000 during the same period, with an army scarcely half as numerous as the French. The Austrians likewise acknowledge a loss of 20,000 men in Galicia, without war, and within the boundaries of the Empire. The Moniteur does not mention those who have been invalided, while the invalids are included in the English reports.

HURRA.—'Hurra' is a Slavic word, which may be heard from the shores of Dalmatia, to Behring's Straits, when men are called upon for any proof of courage or valour. The origin of the word is from the primitive idea, that every man who dies bravely for his country will go directly to heaven, (hurra—to paradise). Thus Allah—God—among the Turks, is always heard resounding; each one encouraging himself to forget earth and despise death, by the hope of an immediate reward.

AMERICAN ITEMS. A SCENE.—A "marriage romantic" is mentioned in the New Orleans Crescent, in which a stock-broker in that city took a beautiful young lady to church; a hundred young ladies, dressed like hours, acted as bridesmaids, and an equal number of gentlemen as groomsmen. They formed a procession along the streets, which was beautiful to behold, and entered the martial home from a street carpeted with flowers. A matrimony is contagious, a small epidemic of weddings was expected to rage soon.

A supposed diamond of extraordinary size has recently been found in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, and is deposited in Professor Phillips' office, Philadelphia. It is colorless, perfectly crystalline, resembling a drop of clear spring water, in the middle of which you will perceive a strong light, playing with a good deal of spirit. The geologist does not announce it to be of the first water, although there is not the least doubt of its being of considerable value. Offers of importance, it is said, have been declined for it. Nothing, it is supposed, like it, was ever discovered before in the United States.

GREAT RIOT IN LOUISVILLE. Rioting is going on in the first and eighth wards. Several have been killed and many are wounded. Two blocks have been fired and are still burning. The most intense excitement prevails, and there will probably be more fighting. The Irish fired from the windows and killed three Americans. One Irishman hung by the Americans; several were killed and others taken prisoners.

Nine o'clock, P. M.—The mob having fired several blocks in the 8th Ward, are now moving up town with cannon. There are rumours abroad that they are going to attack the Times and Courier offices. The returns received indicate the success of the K. N.'s throughout the state.

CORRESPONDENCE.

(For Haszard's Gazette.)

Sir,—It has been reported by interested parties, in order to deter the people from signing the Petition for a dissolution of the House of Assembly, that the Governor will not dissolve the House, as his Council are so very much opposed to it. I don't believe it at all, at all; on the contrary, I can fancy him at the Council Board saying to them,—“Gentlemen, I am sure, that you who profess so much liberality, will not, for one instant, on account of your own private interests, want to place your Governor in collision with the people whom he has been sent to govern; and more especially, as you say, that you retain the confidence of the country. If you do, I am sure you can have no valid objections to get it renewed; if you succeed, it will be all right with you, you will remain as you are, if you do not, I must only plain, constitutional path: that is, I must do as my predecessor did twice during his administration, and which I myself, as you well know, have done once since my arrival on the Island, choose my Council from the majority of the people's representatives, in whom they are pleased to put and continue confidence; and as they now say, they have lost all confidence in you, I can see no other safe way of quieting the minds of Her Majesty's subjects in this Island, but by opening the safety valve of the Constitution, that is, opening the Poll Books and letting them settle their accounts with their Representatives, in a constitutional manner, as they have an indisputable right to do it. Gentlemen, I cannot stand any longer in the gap between you and them. I have done it long enough already perhaps, for all the thanks I shall get for it, and I need not tell you, that it is far more expedient, that they should break your political necks, than that mine should be broken on your account, (a laugh and long fairs.) And you know the sound advice that Lord Brougham says Charles the Second gave to one of the Governors of the Old Colonies, now the United States, on his taking leave on the eve of his departure for the seat of his government, the King said to him, “Remember, don't make an enemy of any man, for you don't know how soon you may have to act with him.” and I don't know, how soon I may have to act with your opponents. If the advice was applicable at the time it was given, it is far more so in the responsible times in which we live. I trust you will not be defeated, but if you are, I hope you will make a virtue of necessity, and follow the example of your predecessors, and resign at once, and don't let it be again said, that you cling to office as you did in 1854, like a barnacle to the bottom of a ship, until you were knocked off by a vote of the Assembly, I hope and expect better from you.”

Yours, &c.,
A REFORMER.
P.S.—Pray can you inform us, why the financial Barometer for the Quarter ending 30th June ult., has not been published, with all the wonted boasting about comparative increase over former quarters at the same time of year? Have you neglected copying it from the Government organs, or is it, as someone beginning to suspect, a great falling off instead of increase, else we should have seen it ere this.

TO THE EDITOR OF HASZARD'S GAZETTE.
Dear Sir:

Certainly the statements of some persons are not considered to be worthy of much notice, while others whose remarks are for the most part considered authentic whether they are really so or not.

I have perused the School Visitor's Report of the Schools of the Island a few days ago. The account of my own school engaged somewhat more of my attention than any other, which is as follows: “Bungay, Lot 24, on the Register 45. Present 14. Reading 45, not at all creditable, no analysis. Spelling imperfect. Writing 23 specimens of average proficiency. Arithmetic, 15 very slow, highest in interest, Grammar 3 deficient, Geography 2 beginners. His remarks on the above, very low. Teacher and pupils appeared in a very disorderly condition; industry and diligence in the discharge of duties strongly recommended.”

Now, Sir, instead of the 45 scholars on the Register there were 72, instead of the 14 present there were 38, instead of 5 on Grammar and Geography there were 12, &c., “No analysis.” If Mr. Stark had done his duty, he should have first inquired whether such was taught in the school or not and then he would be better able to distinguish facts from mere ideas. If the school is so very low as it is represented to be, and the Teacher and Scholars are in such a disorderly condition, I imagine the school Report is not less so, after the Visitor penned the following remarks on the School Journal: “Examined this School this day and found 38 present and 72 on the Register. The progress exhibited is highly creditable to both Teacher and Scholars. The requirement of the Law is satisfactorily attended to.”

In conclusion I wish Mr. Stark every possible success in his present important situation, that he may display more wisdom in the discharge of his own duties and that his future Reports be attended with more accuracy.

I am,
Dear Sir,
Your obedient servant,
JOHN McDONALD,
Teacher of the Bungay School.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills, an infallible Remedy for Scrofulous Sores.—The eldest son of Anthony Barnett, aged 14, of Montreal, was afflicted with scrofulous sores on his limbs, the parents took him to several doctors, who did all in their power to alleviate him, but he only became worse. A sister of Mr. Barnett, who had been cured of a bad leg by Holloway's Ointment and Pills, took the child under her protection, stating she would try what effect a few weeks' residence with her would do, so sooner had she got him at her own house, than she tried Holloway's Ointment and Pills, they soon caused an improved appearance in the child, and after using them about ten weeks, every symptom of his disorder had vanished like snow before the sun,—such is the power of these wonderful medicines!! They will also cure all disorders of the skin.

The Corporation of Charlottetown is now in action, and much will depend upon the spirit in which the first set of municipal officers commence proceedings. In all changes of Government, whether municipal or otherwise, most men are apt to expect too much from those entrusted with power, while on the other hand, a dread of being considered as extravagant and wasteful, has the effect of introducing in the latter, a niggardliness, which is the reverse of good policy and sound economy. In public as in private expenditure, a liberal method of doing business, is ever the cheapest in the end. The attempt to get the best articles for less than they are worth, is always attended with loss and mortification. When Contractors are cut down to the lowest penny, it is their interest to slight their work, and those who are called in to judge of the efficiency of what has been performed, cannot help keeping an eye to the rate of remuneration, and are induced to pass work that has been improperly or inefficiently done, upon the maxim, that it is as good as could be afforded at the price. Hence it is, that public work is often slighted, executed so as to please the eye and insure to those concerned, the payment of the job, which is the principal thing looked to; when, after the lapse of a few years, the action of time develops the original defects of the work, and causes a double expenditure—the taking down what has been erected—often a very expensive process—and the rebuilding at a greater cost than could have first accomplished the edifice, in a much better style. We need not go out of Charlottetown to be convinced of this fact. What we would recommend to the municipal authorities is, that when public works are determined upon—and they should not be undertaken except after full consideration of their utility and necessity—they be erected and finished in the most substantial and scientific style. Every member should recollect, that though he is mortal, the Corporation, of which he is a part, is destined to immortality, and that the work ordered by the Corporation, should be in accordance with this difference, so that, though the original founders have mouldered in the dust the monuments of their good government and prudent administration will proudly rear their heads, and serve as an example to their successors, of the wisdom and propriety of erecting their edifices on solid foundations, and of imperishable materials.

The City Council met for the first time in the Colonial Building in the room appropriated to holding the superior Court of Judicature. His Worship the Mayor informed the Council that John Lawson, Esq., Barrister at Law had been elected Recorder had been presented to His Excellency the Lieut. Governor and was approved of and that he had been duly sworn faithfully to discharge the duties of his office by His Excellency. That Mr. W. B. Wells had been appointed Clerk and had given the requisite security and been sworn into office and that Mr. Michael O'Hara had been appointed City Marshal and had likewise given security and taken the oaths prescribed by Law. Such necessary preliminary business was then dispatched and several Committees appointed at the Council was adjourned until Friday next. There were some little business done in the Mayor's Court but of no particular interest.

Mrs. Daly was “at Home” last evening; the Government House to a large party of fashionable, who, after partaking with Col. Lambert, and the officers of H. M. S. Espiegle, in the gaieties of the dance and the festal pleasures of the table, left at a moderate early hour delighted with the kind attentions of the distinguished host and hostess. The appearance of the public reception rooms of the Government House is much improved by the introduction of splendid gasaliers into all the apartments.

The Steamer Lady Le Marchant arrived yesterday from Shediac. The only items of news we could glean will be found in this day's paper. The Steamer to-day brought no further news from Europe.

It is also expected that other distinguished persons will join the Commissioners for a short cruise in the Gulf. The Commissioners will remain on the northern fishing grounds as long as the season will permit.

It is said that all barrack stores are to be immediately removed from London, C. W. to Kingston and Montreal, or, perhaps, to the Crimea, with the persons stationed there.

Friend of the Prince Edward Islander. HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT. EXTRAORDINARY CURE OF ASTHMA!! OF AN OLD LADY SEVENTY FIVE YEARS OF AGE. Copy of a Letter from Mr. Thomas Weston, (Book Store,) Toronto, dated the 9th October, 1854. To Professor Holloway. Sir,—Gratitude compels me to make known to you the extraordinary benefit an aged parent has derived from the use of your Pills. My mother was afflicted for upwards of four and twenty years with asthma and spitting of blood; it was quite agony to see her suffer and hear her cough; I have often declared, that I would give all I possessed to have her cured; but I thought perhaps your Pills might benefit her; at all events I resolved to give them a trial, which I did; the result was marvellous: by slow degrees, my mother became better, and after persevering with your remedies for nine weeks, she was perfectly cured, and now enjoys the best of health, although seventy-five years old. I remain, Sir, Your obliged, THOMAS WESTON. (Signed)

REMARKABLE CURE OF DROPSY. AFTER BEING TAPPED THREE TIMES. Copy of a Letter from Anthony Smith, Esq Halifax, Nova Scotia, dated the 25th August, 1855 To Professor Holloway. Sir,—I desire to add my testimony to the value of your Pills, in cases of dropsy. For nine months I suffered the greatest torture with this distressing complaint; was tapped three times, and finally given up by the doctors; having become in appearance as a skeleton, and with no more strength in me than a child just born. It was then, that I thought of trying your Pills, and immediately sent for a quantity, and commenced using them. The result I can scarcely credit even now, although true it is. After using them for four weeks, I felt much better, and by persevering with them, at the expiration of two months, I was completely cured. I have since enjoyed the best of health. I am, Sir, Yours sincerely, ANTHONY SMITH. (Signed)

ASTONISHING CURE OF GENERAL DEBILITY AND LIVER COMPLAINT!! Copy of a Letter from William Reeves, of Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, dated 17th Nov. 1854.

To Professor Holloway. Sir,—I am happy to say, that your Pills have restored me to health after suffering for nine years from the most intense general debility and languor, my liver and bowels were also much deranged for the whole of that time. I tried many medicines, but they were of no good to me, until I had recourse to your Pills, by taking which, and following the printed directions for seven weeks I was cured, after every other means failed to the astonishment of my neighbours, acquaintances, and friends. I shall ever feel grateful to you for this astonishing restoration to health, and will recommend your Pills to all sufferers, feeling it my duty to do so. I remain, Sir, your humble servant, (Signed) WILLIAM REEVES.
